

Road Program Of State Proving Of Vast Assistance

State Official Points Out Aid It Brings To The State

Members of the Plymouth Rotary club last Friday noon had the pleasure of hearing State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner talk of the excellent progress being made in highway development by the state at the present time and of the plans for future expansion of the system.

Chairman Fred D. Schrader of the club who had in charge last Friday's meeting, expressed the thanks of the community to Mr. Van Wagoner for his insistence that the region office be left in this city. At the time Mr. Van Wagoner assumed his present position there was a determined effort made to have the office moved to Pontiac, but Mr. Van Wagoner emphatically said no to the plan.

In part he said: From a public viewpoint the most interesting phase of State Highway Administration is construction. We have other programs such as Maintenance, Research, Right-of-Way, and legal difficulties, and business management of all them important. But the people are mainly interested in how many miles of concrete pavement we plan to build and all the other details of construction.

In the two and a half years that I have been in Michigan I have been fortunate that it could continue to think of the State Highway system in terms of construction. Soon after I took Office it began to appear that my job would resolve itself into being a "caretaker of Roads" already built.

All of this may confuse you business men who are too busy with your own affairs to give thorough consideration to the affairs of your State Highway Department. You of course know that you pay a gasoline tax and a weight tax and you estimate revenues from these two sources at about $35,000,000 or $37,000,000 a year. And some of you, at least, remember the days when Michigan spent as much as $25,000,000 a year in State Funds on road building.

The depression, however, ended that era. Hundreds of communities became bankrupt or hovered on the very verge of it. Michigan tax became an unpayable burden upon the people. Michigan looked to the Legislature for relief. And the first place the Legislature looked as a source of relief was the income of the State Highway Department.

Accordingly today we find that three-fifths of all State Highway revenues are returned directly to the counties. I accept responsibility myself for part of this whittling process because I recommended that the state tax on automobiles be reduced 36 per cent. That, I believe, was a good idea. The Legislature further decreed that the State Highway Department make up part of the complete loss by turning over $2,550,000 from the gasoline tax to the Counties.

It has been our policy to meet these obligations to the Counties on time. We have just closed the books on 1935 revenues and we have over $2,500,000 in arrears of a total of more than $21,000,000 to the Counties, including more than $6,000,000 to Wayne county.

In addition to these obligations, however, the State Highway Department must pay out $4,000,000 a year for the retirement of the $50,000,000 Highway Bond issued in 1919. We must spend at least $5,000,000 a year to maintain our roads. The Detroit street widening agreement calls for a maximum expenditure of $3,228,000 a year, although we have been unable to meet this obligation fully. I would remind you, however, that this agreement was negotiated in 1930 and yet the first tangible construction move came two months after I went into office when we started work on Woodward Avenue.

At any rate, for the last two and a half years your State Highway Department has had less than $3,000,000 a year in State Funds for construction, matching Federal Aid Funds. Betterments, Right-of-Way, and other costs incidental to construction.

We were not long in the depression, however, until Federal authorities realized that roads were an ideal agency to absorb Relief Labor. Accordingly, Road-Relief Programs were launched throughout the nation.

Early last Spring when President Roosevelt made it apparent that he would seek a four billion dollar Public Works Appropriation, your State Highway Department started work on a road program to take advantage of any benefits that might come its way. We enlarged our drafting forces at the expense of some political criticism, but our reward was not long in coming.

Last June President Roosevelt approved a $30,000,000 Highway (Continued on page five)

Complete Details For President's Ball To Aid Unfortunates

The One To Feel Sorry For

The fellow we feel sorry for is the chap who has made every sacrifice to keep off the welfare rolls while his wife is handicapped under the present federal spending employment program. Walking home with a neighbor the other day he said he had been cutting wood for some time, walking eight miles a day to and from his work and making about $9 a week, hard but useful work. Now what does he find? Welfare workers paid $12 for a limited week of more or less unnecessary employment. In other words the indigent and indigent are being pampered in the proportion that the thrifty and energetic are handicapped. Today's relief set-up. The forgotten man is the person who has been penalized through his own sacrifice. We appreciate it is a tough problem and this is not a criticism of the official who has done his best but is told merely to draw attention to one of the tragic mal-adjustments of the whole relief program.—Muri H. DeFoe in the Charlotte Republican-Tribune

Birthday Ball Next Thursday

The committee for the Birthday Ball for the President has completed all plans for the approaching event and indications are that it will eclipse in all ways the one held last year. Advance ticket sales are large and the interest in the party this season is far greater than that of last.

Patterson's eight piece orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music for the affair and the entertainment committee has secured the services of Ernie Minchella, well known Detroit accordionist, and two other prominent entertainers to enliven the evenings.

Tickets priced at 50 cents have found more favor than those originally at $1.00. The reduction in price will bring many who will pass a pleasant evening at bridge also arranged for those who do not care to dance. The recreation room facilities of the Training school auditorium are available to the people in attendance at the party.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 30TH, 9 P.M., WAYNE COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL AUDITORIUM, ADMISSION 50 CENTS PER PERSON. EVERYONE INVITED. COME AND BRING YOUR FRIENDS.

Start Drilling For Oil Near Here

Drilling for oil out on the Murray Spicer farm at the corner of Warren and Maple roads has started and the pipe is now down a considerable distance.

Jerry Lewis, 15782 Idaho avenue, Detroit, who has been busy for sometime past securing oil leases from farmers in this locality, is one of the many who believe that there is as much oil in this part of the state as there is up around Mt. Pleasant.

It is understood that the prospectors represented by Mr. Lewis have almost sufficient funds to complete the drilling of this well. It is known that other efforts have been made in this part of the state to locate oil, but where wells have been driven, they have been capped up and the results have not always been made known.

Mrs. Carl Kester of East Lansing visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Eckles several days this week at their home on Eagerly Highway.

City Attorney Is Advanced In Military Rank

Unusual Distinction For Arlo Emery Of This City

In recognition of the unusual honors that have just come to Arlo Emery, city attorney of Plymouth and well known resident of Plymouth—a group of United States army officers last Saturday night gave a luncheon in his honor at the For. Shelby hotel in Detroit.

Emery was recently advised of his advancement to the rank of colonel in the Reserve Corps of the regular army and Saturday night's affair was in recognition of this distinct honor that has come to him in Michigan.

The full title which Mr. Emery now wears is Lieut. Colonel in the Judge Advocate General's Department of the Reserve Corps of the United States Army. The Colonel is now the ranking officer of this department in Michigan.

He entered upon his military career by an enlistment in the United States army during the early period of the world war and served his country in France for two years. He returned to the United States as a first lieutenant in command of Evacuation Hospital number 8, which he demobilized. He has been active in the American Legion and is a past commander of Cadillac post number 333 in Detroit.

During the time he was active in the Legion he also was making a name for himself in Masonic circles in Detroit and is a past master of Ashler lodge, number 91.

Col. Emery was born in Ohio in 1889 and came to Michigan to receive his A.B. and Law Degrees, the latter at the Detroit College of Law. He was deputy county clerk in Wayne county for two years and served as attorney for Dearborn in 1914, 15, and 16. He first moved to Plymouth in 1930 and has been a resident here since except for one year he was back in Detroit.

Woman's Club Hears Dr. Sadi

On the evening of January 17th a group of men and women gathered in the Crystal dining room of the Hotel Mayflower to hear an address by Dr. Lutfi M. Sadi. The club members were pleased with his response to their general invitation.

Mrs. Albert E. Curry presided over the program first introducing Dr. Lutfi M. Sadi who spoke on the subject "Our New Knowledge of Glandular Treatment." Dr. Sadi confined his lecture almost entirely to a discussion of the ductless glands. Through slides he was able to stress the consequences on the human form and mentality of the malfunctioning of these glands. He emphasized the importance of the thyroid and pituitary glands upon the growth of the individual. In fact he called the thyroid the real brain or "brain motor" of the body.

He pointed out the fact that science is constantly tying up glandular disturbances with social maladjustments and even with the future our new knowledge of glands and their functions may affect the granting of auto licenses or at least condition the treatment of drivers who too often fall asleep at their wheels. He showed other evidences that basically their glands may be responsible for their high accident rate.

The relationship between our personality and our glands is a close one, and Dr. Sadi said in the future medical science may play a larger share than formerly in creating better personalities by adjusting the quantities of glandular secretions that affect for good or bad a person's physical and mental make-up.

Dr. Sadi's reiteration of the various symptoms pointing to the malfunctioning of these ductless glands aimed at acquainting his audience with the signs and symptoms of these glands and their functions. He said that the speaker brought with him many slides with which to demonstrate his talk and he presented the club with one of the most interesting 45 minutes they had ever had.

Eastern Blizzard Real One States Orndoff

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Orndoff have returned from a trip to New York city, where they were caught in the blizzard that temporarily tied up traffic in that part of the country. Mr. Orndoff declares that never in his life did he experience such a storm as swept that city. Michigan's storms are nothing as compared to it. They attended the memorial exercises held in honor of Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Orndoff called in at Jack Dempsey's place and met the former boxing champion.

Back From Maskegon Norge Convention
Edward White and J. C. Rutherford have returned from Muskegon where they attended the annual convention last week of Norge refrigerator dealers. Both report that it was one of the largest events of the kind they had ever attended. They returned home most enthusiastic over prospects for business during 1936. The Norge company is not only producing refrigerators, but a general line of home air-conditioning appliances.

Plymouth Scout Troops Plan For Valley Forge Day

Historic Event To Be Commemorated In This District

Monday evening a representative group of scout leaders of the Plymouth district met with W. G. Hodson, Jr. District Commissioner, and Amos Sheldis, Scout Executive of the Detroit Area Council at John Jacob's house. Plans were started for a "Valley Forge" camp to be held on Saturday, February 22nd. Troops will hike under sealed orders from their various headquarters to a central point to be revealed only as the orders are opened and the several routes allowed. Lunch will be cooked and games played. All in all, it will prove to be a full day.

Other Plymouth District activities in the future, now being planned, include the annual anniversary church service, when the District Troops will be the guests of the Plymouth Presbyterian Church at the Masonic Temple. This will be at 10:00 a. m. Sunday, February 9th. A competitive rally is coming up for the District of Honor early in April and another Court before the close of school in June.

A number of troops in the district are all set to present demonstrations of certain merit badges at a "Boy Scout Exhibition" to be held some time this spring, probably during the spring school vacation. Anniversary Week in Plymouth will see a number of windows decorated in honor of the twenty-six years of Scouting in America. There will also be a Scout program at the school assembly on February 12th. Wouldn't it be wonderful if the sight of the boys of this vicinity at work on this program of citizenship training which is so wide spread and so universally approved would so wake up the interest of the men of the community that the great need of more qualified leaders could be at least partly met.

Next Monday evening is the time and the Plymouth high school is the place. 7:30 o'clock is the hour. The program of the State Conservation Department is the attraction. Under the auspices of the Central Parent-Teacher Association, Mr. Hastings will speak on Michigan Conservation. He will show a number of reels of Michigan nature pictures, some of them in natural color, which he has taken for the State. Mr. Hastings is no stranger in Plymouth and Northville, and those who have heard him before and know of his work will be glad to take this opportunity to see the pictures and hear more about this very interesting work. Just recently Mr. Hastings has acted as a speaker at the State Department and regulations for the third annual Detroit News bird house contest.

Conservation of natural resources is becoming more and more important, and any chance to obtain authentic first hand information about this work in our state should appeal to all of us. It is hoped that there will be a large audience at the high school Monday evening to meet and hear Mr. Hastings.

Civic Theatre Guild Elects New President

At a regular meeting of the Plymouth Civic Theatre Guild held Monday evening, Jan. 20, Mr. Willie was elected president. The following members were elected to act on the board of directors: Mrs. John Birchall, Mrs. William Morgan and Miss Neva Lovewell.

The next regular meeting will be held Monday evening, Jan. 27 at 7:30 o'clock in the City Hall. Members and friends are urged to attend.

DR. FREEMAN B. HOVER DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Outstanding As A Civic Leader In Plymouth

Funeral To Be Held Today, Friday at 2 o'clock, Burial Taking Place In Riverside Cemetery.

Dr. Freeman B. Hover, former mayor of Plymouth, one time president of the Kiwanis club and outstanding as a civic leader, died suddenly early Wednesday morning following an illness of less than a week from pneumonia. Apparently death came as he slept. It was so peaceful that even the attending nurse did not know of his passing until she entered his room to take a temperature reading.

Dr. Hover had been at his office until last Thursday. The following day he was not feeling well and was confined to his bed Friday. At no time during his illness was his condition regarded as critical and even on the evening before his death, attending physicians and nurses stated that his condition was most favorable for a speedy recovery. Apparently sometime early Wednesday morning his condition took a sudden turn for the worse and at 5 o'clock it was found that he had expired.

The unexpected news of his death seemed to startle his host of friends and associates. Few knew of his illness and those that did had no idea that it was of a serious nature, because of this that his death proved such a shock to the entire community.

Dr. Hover was born in Harrod, Ohio on December 8, 1899, the youngest of ten children. His parents were William H. and Mary B. Hover.

He attended public school at Lima Ohio and early in his school career decided that he wanted to become a member of the dental profession. Once having made up his mind as to his career, he bent every energy to not only master every detail of the profession but to become one of the best in the business. That he accomplished his purpose can be vouched for in the fact that he had one of the largest dental practices in this city.

He graduated from the University of Michigan dental school in 1922. During the war he had served in France in the medical corps of the army and it was after his return from France that he was able to complete his University training. For one year after his graduation he was an assistant in the dental clinic of the school. He was always proud of his membership in both the Michigan State Dental Society as well as his school fraternity, the Psi Omega Dental Fraternity. He was a member of the Masonic lodge of Plymouth and active in Kiwanis club affairs.

He had the distinction of being the only man in the city to be a member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

Naturally one so interested in the upbuilding and development of the city of his adoption should be interested in civic affairs and it was this interest that led to his election as a member of the city commission as well as his election as mayor of Plymouth.

Mr. Hover never served his fellow-citizens more selflessly and more loyally than did Mayor Hover, say every one who have any knowledge of his administration of public affairs. It was because he desired to give more time to his profession that he refused to become a candidate for re-election two years ago.

He was married in 1922 at Ann Arbor to Miss Jeanette Orlin. They have three children, Mrs. J. R. Hoover and two sons, Noel L. and Freeman B. Jr., survive.

The following brothers and sisters survive: Mrs. E. C. Jones, Manhattan, Kansas; Mrs. G. A. Bachmeyer, Columbus, Ohio; Ora Blaine Hover, Harrod, Ohio; Mrs. Carl Meyer, Waynesfield, Ohio; Dean J. Milton Hover, Ypsilanti, Michigan; William Arthur Hover, Minneapolis, Minnesota; Dr. E. V. Hover, Lima, Ohio; and Mrs. J. B. Scogin, Waynesfield, Ohio.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock today, Friday, from the Willie funeral home, Riverside street, shortly after the noon hour last Friday. Sparks from the chimney had ignited the roof and a small hole was burned before the flames were extinguished.

Neighbors had attached a hose to the Lee Sacker's home and had the fire well under control when the firemen arrived, so the damage was comparatively small.

1899-1936

DR. FREEMAN B. HOVER

To Close One Hour

In tribute to the memory of Dr. Freeman B. Hover, all business places in the city will be closed, today, Friday, between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock, the time of the funeral. The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has advised each business place of the suggestion and the city commission also voted to close the doors of the city hall during the same period.

D.A.R. Celebrates Ninth Birthday

Some fifty members and guests of the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter, D.A.R., assembled in the Hotel Mayflower Monday at twelve-thirty Jan. 20, to observe the ninth birthday of the chapter. After the guests had assembled at the beautifully appointed tables Mrs. Donald P. Yerkes, the Chaplain of the Chapter pronounced grace and led the salute to the flag. Just before the dessert was served, the Plymouth high school girls quartette accompanied by Miss Carol Campbell sang very delightfully a group of three songs.

After the luncheon, Mrs. Carl H. Bryan of Northville, the Chapter's Regent, in a few well chosen words, welcomed the honored guests, each of whom responded briefly. The guests were: Mrs. James McDonald of Ypsilanti, Vice Regent; General from Michigan and the guest speaker, Mrs. Emma Fox, the beloved parliamentarian, Mrs. O. D. Heaverich, State Recording Secretary, Detroit; Mrs. R. W. Tenhave, State Consulting Registrar, Royal Oak; Mrs. Wm. Catlen, National Director of D.A.R., Detroit; Mrs. F. W. Wilbur, Regent and Mrs. C. Ford, a former Regent of Ypsilanti. Mrs. J. L. Carey a former Regent of Captain Joshua Howard Chapter of Dearborn.

In her greeting, Mrs. Conolly of Fort Ponchartrain outlined the work of the four hostess Chapters of which Sarah Ann Cochran is one, in the forthcoming State Conference which this year is to be held in Detroit in March.

Mrs. A. A. Stutsman charmed the audience by reading a group of delightful love poems, starting with selections from the translation of an ancient Greek poem, followed by one from Elizabeth Barrett (Continued on page seven)

Guild Room To Be Open Jan-30

The Needlework Guild room at the Starweather school will be open Thursday, January 30, from 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 4:30 o'clock for the purpose of distributing garments. The Guild is in great need of coats and overcoats, so if you have any clean garments, it is suggested you call Mrs. Frank Burrows, phone 24, or Mrs. Otto Beyer, phone 833.

Little Damage Done By Blaze On Roof

Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Lilly Karker, 827 Forest street, shortly after the noon hour last Friday. Sparks from the chimney had ignited the roof and a small hole was burned before the flames were extinguished. Neighbors had attached a hose to the Lee Sacker's home and had the fire well under control when the firemen arrived, so the damage was comparatively small.

Park Swimming Pool To Be Built Just East of The Northville Road

Site Selected One Of Best In County — Will Use PWA Funds

Directly east of the Jewell Dr. Cleaning plant and about part way between the Plymouth-Northville road and the new Ford dam at the Wilcox road, a swimming pool soon be located one of the finest outdoor swimming pools ever built in the state.

That is the selection of the site by the members of the Wayne county road commission and providing funds for the pool will be during the coming year.

Plans for the big pool have been completed. While it will be nowhere near as large as the Detroit owned pool on Plymouth road, it is convenient and within a few minutes of the city. It will provide swimming accommodations for several hundreds during summer days.

Those who know of the selection of the site for the pool declare that no finer spot could be selected in all of Wayne county. It is convenient and within a few minutes of the city. The landscaping will be outstanding because of the natural surroundings.

It is another "break" for the north side of Plymouth. Time and again it has been pointed out in The Mail that the highway development along the east and north side of this city is adding hundreds of thousands of dollars to the real estate values of that locality, in fact, to the entire city.

Everyone hopes that nothing will happen to prevent the completion and building of the pool. It is but a short distance from the outdoor amphitheatre being built back of the Starweather school by the school board.

Cold Wave Hits City Wednesday

The mercury in thermometers about town took a pretty quick tumble Wednesday afternoon when it dropped from above freezing about noon to below zero early in the evening. Whipped by a high wind, snow and the cold wave came out of the west early Wednesday afternoon and the mercury dropped steadily until it went to two or three below. Thursday morning it warmed up considerably, the wind dying down to a bright sun adding to more favorable conditions.

Old Glory Council Observes Birthday

The Old Glory Council No. 25 Daughters of America was organized in the city of Plymouth one year ago the 21st of December, 1935, but the event could not be celebrated until last Friday evening.

The occasion was observed with a dinner served to national and state officers as well as the local council and an interesting program followed after which the regular meeting was held.

The dining room and council rooms were decorated in red, white and blue and a birthday cake 19 by 24 inches with a flag and name of the organization across the top done in colored frosting centered the table.

It was a very happy birthday indeed for the baby council of Michigan. Old Glory thanks all that took part in making it a success.

Carlsons Back From Trip To Southlands

Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson of 882 Simpson street, have recently returned to Plymouth after having spent several weeks touring in Florida and the southland. They enjoyed the pleasant summer weather until on their return trip when they experienced some hazardous driving through a Kentucky snowstorm, and a Georgia sleet storm. One especially beautiful sight which they never will forget was the sun shining on the pine forests in Georgia laden with an inch coating of ice.

While in Sarasota, Florida they visited Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rogers, former residents of Northville, at their home on Indian Beach.

Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple gave a talk to the Northwestern Women's club at the Lee Plaza by Detroit on Monday afternoon, on the subject, "Where Are We Going on Relief."

AN INVESTMENT

Because of such frequent requests at the offices of The Plymouth Mail for information pertaining to small apartments, furnished or unfurnished, for rent, The Mail wishes to pass along to some of its readers an idea whereby a fair monthly income might be provided from some of the larger houses of this city. In the olden days when most of the present houses in this city were erected, they were built fairly large. As families grow up, the necessity of large homes and large rooms disappears, and as a result in many of the homes of Plymouth there are three, four and maybe five or six rooms that are not in use. The Mail would like to suggest that possibly a fairly good income could be secured each month from some of these larger and older houses, if some apartments could be built out of a part of the rooms. In some cases the amount of money necessary to make the change would be small. It is not advisable to invest too large a sum for this purpose because of the fact it might require a pretty long time in which to get the money back. But surely a few hundred dollars expended in making two apartments out of some of the larger homes would, without question, be returned to the owner in an exceedingly brief time. Thereafter it would be a profitable investment. The Mail would like to suggest this to some of the owners as a matter for consideration. There is no question but what you could get desirable tenants, as Plymouth is GROWING.

BOONDOGGING

The "boondoggling" craze has not yet hit this part of the world. The reason for it apparently is the fact that Plymouth residents and those near here are too busy trying to do something to be interested in one of the new schemes put forth by the Leisure League of America. It seems that the Leisure League is one of the outgrowths of the New Deal to provide people with activities outside of productive work, or in other words, making something useful out of nothing, like for instance turning an empty tomato can into a shining house plant or flower.

Some of the New Dealers and others think this is a sure way out of the depression. Boondoggling is a creation of the New York Work Relief administration and it is just now getting a start in this part of the country. It was instituted to show persons with leisure what to do with their leisure and is really a very old custom. For years people have called it "hobbies." The league still calls it hobbies. Recently the league showed people how to boondoggle on their own hook. It has rounded up all the boondoggling media it can find and headed it "hobby roundup" — and there are lots of ideas.

You can, for instance, get a crate of coconuts and carve heads out of them. One man at the "roundup" goes farther. He'll carve out your caricature—for a sum—and make a humidor of the inside.

You can save old tin cans and make center pieces of them—merely cut the sides to the seam then attach artificial posies to the flowing tin ends and sit it all on a mirror. Looks like the real thing—but keep it away from the kiddies.

Or perhaps you itch to collect. There are all sorts of collections of miniature houses and furniture, scaled-to-size models of bathing beaches and swimming pools, old street car transfers, bullets, boomerangs, swords and whatnots, stamps included, of course. One collector it was noted, had a yen for sending letters with outgoing explorers and filing them when they came back, and saving envelopes marked "damaged in plane crash," "carried by dog," or "carrier pigeon dynamite," and so on.

Another collector had an impulse to save old convention badges, another old tobacco tugs—these from 35 to 65 years old, and another every kind of telegraph blank ever printed.

Then there are whole families, like the Dr. Sigmund Spaeths: Dorothy dances, J. Duncan, a professor, writes; Carola draws, Marie paints, and the doctor himself, well known lecturer, composer and author—and musical director of the "roundup" dips into jazz composition by way of relaxation.

Vera Van, the radio songstress, had an exhibit, too. She makes those little floppy dogs you see sitting around coyly in boudoirs and living rooms. And Elaine Melchior, the radio actress, collects first editions and valuable manuscripts, some of which also are on display. She is particularly proud of her "hobby prize winner, a Swinburne manuscript insured for $3,000.

Then of course, there are dumb bell letters, leather work, marionettes and puppets (there's a difference, we learned; the marionettes are on strings, and the puppets you just wiggle over your hand), silhouettes, greeting cards worked out in cancelled stamps, antiques, biology, airplane and boat models, wood carvings, miniature carpenter shops and all kinds of mechanical outfits for that creative urge. And if you want to indulge in a bit of boondoggling on the premises to get the feel of it, you can grab a paddle and get into a game of badminton.

Usually boondoggling is regarded merely as a sort of emotional or physical safeguard. If you've too much to do, it's a safe letdown—and if you've too little to do, it will keep you busy. Occasionally it becomes remunerative, however. Witness the woman who liked both astronomy and jig-saw puzzles and combined the two. Its easy to become a boondoggler if you want to be one.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

BROTHER, YOU ARE RIGHT!

One way to keep on the "unemployable" list is to get on the WAP list and then refuse all other jobs. The sad of "recovery" is not yet—James Haskins in The Howard City Record.

TAXATION IS OUR BUIN

Mr. Roosevelt's "sermon" is a natural climax of the administration's spending policy, much of which was justified. Today there are thousands of people who never again will be interested in the old order when a certain conscious dignity was associated with labor, however menial. The taste of government aid has broken down the morale of the people and more than anything else explains the sensational growth of the Townsend clubs. We do not mean that Townsend club members have been on welfare lists but the psychology worked both ways. Those already on saw a prospect for greater benefits while the wholesale spending served as an argument for a pension plan in lieu of staggering sums for relief. The President and politicians of both parties recognize the condition and the power of this class appeal. In the recent special election in this district, every home received a copy of the most withering argument against the Townsend Plan. What happened? The Townsend Plan was overwhelmingly approved which represents the national state of mind. And why not? Reliable statistics introduced at the Townsend Plan hearing in Washington a few months ago show that 70 per cent of the people of the United States have incomes providing them with the bare necessities of life. These figures emphasize the ultimate responsibility of the social order toward this group. Industry has been so circumscribed by regulation and taxation that the prospect for improving the unemployment situation to any marked degree is almost hopeless. There is no politics in this statement, merely an economic fact which time will amplify rather than prove.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

UNSANITARY CONDITIONS

Patrons of beer gardens would receive a severe shock in the knowledge of unsanitary conditions in the handling of mugs and glasses disclosed in a recent survey.

An exhibit of culture swabbed from a single glass in which a count of 54,000 disease bacteria was found is enough to alarm any patron of the drinking establishments.

Visions of bacteria of trench mouth, tuberculosis and other maladies including one of the worst social diseases are enough to make the brew of hops and malt unpalatable.

The public would be given a service if the Health Department made public the names of places where dangerous unsanitary care of drinking glasses exists. Establishments which are endeavoring to operate under sanitary conditions and the few which have been given a clean bill of health are entitled to that consideration. The public has a right to be given a warning against the others. Unless conditions show a decided improvement this will occur.

It is no minor matter when only a small percentage of the establishments now operating can be rated as excellent and good in sanitary conditions. It calls for prompt and effective action. Establishments which fail to observe the rules of sanitation as to cleaning of glasses in strong germ-killing solutions may find the revocation of their licenses recommended to the State Liquor Control Commission.

Those who serve the public whether it be with drinks or with meals are under an obligation to observe the strictest rules of sanitation. Society suffers too much from disease to have it spread about by carelessness or disregard of the ordinary rules of precaution.—Charles Sead in The Rochester Clarion.

GMC ROUTS BUREAUCRAT PROPHECIES

Just about two years ago the editor of this newspaper accompanied two township officials to Detroit—to the Fisher building—to be exact, where new offices of the PWA under the supervision of A. R. Glancy were set up.

Mr. Glancy was up to the time of this federal appointment connected with the federal banking department.

Mr. Glancy, a resident of Wayne county, was sent to Grand Rapids in his own words "many a time" to investigate local banks, closed under federal edict.

Mr. Glancy didn't think much about Grand Rapids. He told us that IF HE HAD HIS WAY HE WOULD ABANDON GRAND RAPIDS AND MOVE ITS CITIZENS ELSEWHERE.

Mr. Glancy was not joking. He was in earnest. He could not see a future for Grand Rapids. He argued that THE FURNITURE INDUSTRY OF THE CITY IS GONE and this city DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE.

He could see no good reason why the federal government should spend several million dollars in bringing back a city which was SLIPPING.

At that time we were pleading for the Galewood-Urbandale sewer for which we wanted his approval for a PWA grant. He was not impressed with our plea.

His attitude towards Grand Rapids and vicinity was identical to that of abandoning the Upper Peninsula areas where mining had disappeared, where farming was unprofitable, where the federal government asked the farmers to migrate to MANTUSKO VALLEY, up in cold Alaska.

We wonder what Mr. Glancy NOW THINKS OF GRAND RAPIDS. Here was a federal bureaucrat who believed that this city of nearly 200,000 was doomed and that an effort to revive the city industrially was useless.

He didn't want to spend a cent of government money here, except to lure the citizens of this most beautiful city in the state to abandon their homes.

Mr. Glancy undoubtedly has since read of the COMING OF THE GENERAL MOTORS TO THIS AREA. He has undoubtedly read of the reorganization of the Berkey & Gay, the Luze and Stickley plants.

He must since have learned of the expansion program of the Kelvinator; of the re-employment of several hundreds of railroad employees of the Pere Marquette; of the reorganization of the Winters & Crampton and now running full steam ahead, of the increased business and renewed activity; of the apparent contentment of the citizens of this home-owning, home-loving area; of the enthusiasm displayed by the entire Kent county citizenry who are cheered to a high pitch over the entry of the Fisher Brothers $7,000,000 corporation.

If any city, any area, has justifiable reason for shouting with glee from the housetop it is West Michigan's metropolis; while still retaining the title of the "Furniture Capital of the World," it's new GMC product here will add to the city's luster and fame and henceforth bear the label of Grand Rapids, to every quarter of the globe, wherever General Motors cars are sold.—J. John Pope in The Grandville Star.

GEORGE RECTOR* Says:

*MR. RECTOR IS A MEMBER OF THE

KITCHEN STAFF

"There used to be a slogan (maybe there still is)—'Let George do it,' and I suppose that is how I got into this business of converting meats and vegetables from their natural state into a semblance of a well-cooked meal. But now that we're on the subject, let's settle once and for all the age-old question—'What is the best way of cooking: electrically or otherwise?'"

"I've always maintained that a good cook can turn out a masterpiece with nothing more to aid him—or her—than a primitive wood fire. But there's no denying the helpfulness of the electric cook stove, especially in its state of perfection today. * * * I think it is perfectly obvious that no man or woman is going to march out in the woods and build a fire, labor with crude cooking utensils and struggle along under other handicaps just to show that he can do it—at least, not every day in the week.

"I like my civilized comforts and conveniences as much as anybody. And also—to get colloquial—I can take it," as the saying goes regarding punishment. But cooking—to my way of thinking—should be a pleasure. And electric cooking, in view of the present advanced state of the art, multiplies that pleasure a hundredfold. Please understand, this is merely my own preference. Others may have their own pet cooking method, and that is all right with me!"

GOODBY

Goodby is the salutation. Of the loving friends that part, Goodby is the word that's spoken. When tears from the eye-lids start.

Goodby, my son, God bless you. Be a man of a mother, too. Goodby 'tis the word of parting. That makes the son hold true.

Goodby from the youthful lover At the parting of the ways: Goodby till reunited. In the dawn of better days.

When the thread of life is broken And the tear drops fill the eye. With the hand-clasp and the token.

We'll speak the last goodby. But the words no ties can sever. When the morning breaks once more.

For goodbys will be forgotten. When we reach the other shore.—Harry Brokaw.

SMILIN' THROUGH

While two eyes o' blue Come smilin' through. At me!

There's a gray lock or two in the brown of the hair; There's some silver in mine, too. I see;

But in all the long years, When the clouds brought their tears, Those two eyes o' blue Kept smilin' through. At me!

A PRAYER

Eternal God, in whose loving arms we dwell and in whom are gathered our hopes and aspirations, hear us in this sacred moment. Be pleased to strengthen and bless us with the rapture of mutual confidence. Gracious Father, allow nothing to corrode the sanctities of friendship. We recall our personal frailties; the remembrance of them is grievous unto us. How clear becomes our vision of the helplessness of man and the necessity of divine grace. We rejoice that there is a loving Father on the throne of the universe; we beseech Thee to come and condescend to our need. Let not the successes of life exalt us, its ambitions dazzle us, its cares agitate us, nor its sorrows crush us. Be a guest in any home whose cup has been broken at the fountain and at whose hearthstone there may be heartaching folk. In the name of Jesus, Amen.

THE STORY OF HATTIE
1-Hattie came of a long line of traveling folks.
2-Many of her ancestors were globe trotters.
3-They liked to think there was gypsy blood in their veins.
4-Hattie's great-grandfather had been with Stanley in Africa and she had two grandfathers who perished on Arctic expeditions.
5-Her father, Phineas, had flown over the South Pole in a blimp and attempted a voyage to the North Pole by submarine.
6-Mrs was quite a tourist, too. She always said she was as much at home in Paris, Omsk, Vienna or Beijing as she was in Wappinger Falls.
7-Naturally they raised their girl to be a globe trotter. They wanted her to carry on the family tradition.
8-Hattie was raised on a Baedeker and as a little child she knew all the Cook tours by heart.
9-"Mother wants you to grow up and be a cosmopolite," Hattie's ma used to say. "You must see the world, penetrating the far places and exploring the far-away spots."
10-But one day when Hattie was about seventeen she ran away and married a hometown feller.
11-It broke her parents' hearts.
12-He was one of those men who own a motor cycle with side-car attached!
MORAL-It all depends on what you mean by travel.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THESE SENTENCES?
1-"It is impossible to get a booking on the boat," said the transatlantic steamship agent. "We are all filled up for the rest of the summer."
2-When company came the family with the smart bulldog made no attempt to get it to do any tricks.
3-"I think his speeches were fine," said Al Smith, referring to President Roosevelt before the convention. "He's a great statesman!"
4-The United States senate and house lost no time in balancing the budget.
5-"I never could go to the bathing beach like this," said the girl. "Let me borrow a fur coat or something."

What is that? This is a ladies' bathing suit. Is it for a midget? No, it is for a full grown normal adult. Will a lady wear it? Yes, strange as it may seem: a lady will wear it. Right out in public where she can be seen? Absolutely. Will the lady wear it to settle an election bet? No. She will not wear it to settle an election bet. Then what will be her excuse? She will have no excuse. She will wear it because it is the style. When the lady appears on the beach in the suit, what will the police do? Nothing except lose their eye sight. Can a lady appear in a suit like that and escape arrest? Yes. If the gals are wearing suits like that this summer, what will they wear a year from now? Shush! The children might hear us!

Farmers Going To Raise More Hogs

Michigan hog producers increased their 1935 fall pig crop markedly over that for the last half of 1934 and are planning a further expansion in their 1936 spring farrowings, according to the December 1 Pig Survey Report based upon returns from approximately 4,000 Michigan farms collected through the rural mail carriers of the Post Office Department. The 1935 fall pig crop for the entire state is estimated at 356,000 head which is 34 per cent more than the 265,000 head farrowed from June to December, 1934. The number of sows farrowed this fall is estimated at 55,000 head as against 40,000 for 1934 while the average number of pigs saved per litter was 6.47 as against 6.62 a year ago. The increase in fall farrowings, this year over last, practically offsets the 23 per cent reduction in the 1935 spring pig crop compared with that of 1934. Combining the spring and fall pig crop estimates gives a total 1935 pig crop of 702,000 head which compares with 714,000 for 1934, 1,076,000 for 1933 and 1,077,000 for 1932.

The number of sows to farrow in Michigan during the spring of 1936 is indicated at 73,000 head. This represents an increase of 40 per cent over the 52,000 head that farrowed in the spring of 1935 and compares with estimates of 69,000 sows farrowed in the spring of 1934 and 89,000 for the spring seasons of both 1932 and 1933. In this connection it should be noted that under the 1936 Corn Hog Adjustment Program, contract signers are allowed to produce, without penalty as many pigs as they desire in 1936. The estimate of 1936 spring farrowings is based upon an interpretation of December 1 breeding intentions reports, and assumes that the relationship between breeding intentions and subsequent farrowings will be about the same as in recent years prior to 1934.

Much of the increase in 1936 spring farrowings will come from gilts from the small 1935 spring pig crop. This fact together with the delayed marketing of the 1935 crop will result in a larger December, 1935 reports which show that for the state as a whole, the decrease in number of hogs over six months old, this year compared with last is only about 8 per cent, whereas the reduction in the 1935 spring pig crop compared with that of 1934 was 23 per cent. Reports from Michigan producers also show that, compared with other recent years, a larger percentage of the 1935 fall pig crop was farrowed during the months of June and July with corresponding reductions in August and September farrowings.

For the United States the December 1935 Pig Survey Report shows an increase of 31 per cent in the 1935 fall pig crop over that of 1934, a decrease of 5 per cent in the combined spring and fall pig crops of 1935 compared with the previous year, and a prospective increase of 24 per cent in 1936 spring farrowings compared with the same fall farrowing in the spring of 1935. Although the 1935 United States fall pig crop of 20,272,000 head is 4,750,000 head larger than the number of pigs saved in the autumn of 1934, it represents a decrease of about 42 per cent from the average fall farrowings for the 5 years, 1929-33. Relatively, the greatest increase, 1935 compared with 1934, was in the Western Corn Belt states where the gain amounted to about 42 per cent. The percentage increases for the other areas were: North Atlantic, 18 per cent; South Atlantic, 6 per cent; South Central, 8 per cent; Western, 31 per cent. Combining the spring and fall pig crop estimates for the country as a whole gives a total of 50,674,000 head which is 5 per cent less than the combined crop of 1934. In the corn belt states the total 1935 pig crop was approximately 7 per cent less than that of 1934, nearly all of the decrease being in the states west of the Mississippi river.

The number of sows to farrow in the spring season of 1936 is estimated at 6,220,000 head which is 24 per cent larger than the very small number that farrowed in the spring of 1935 but still 29 per cent below the average spring farrowings for the two years 1932 and 1933. Increases in spring farrowings are indicated for all states, although the largest gain is shown in the West North-Central states where the 1934 drought drastically reduced hog production in 1935 and where the largest reductions were made under the Corn-Hog Adjustment programs.

Crowe Tells Of Phone Rate Cut

Extension to all day Sunday of the same reduced rates which have been in effect on long distance calls after 7 o'clock each night, and the establishment of reduced rates every night and Sunday on person-to-person calls, become effective January 15. These changes will mean a large annual saving to Michigan telephone users, according to R. E. Crowe, manager here for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. This additional discount in rates, which affects most calls between points on which the present station-to-station day rate is more than 35 cents, is the sixth major long distance telephone rate reduction offered by the Bell System since October, 1926.

This also is the first time that discounted rates have been offered on station-to-station day long distance calls on Sunday and the first that discounts ever have been established for person-to-person calls for any period. A person to person long distance call is one on which the operator is requested to locate a particular person at the distant telephone, while a station-to-station call is one made to a telephone by number rather than to some person in particular. A station-to-station call requires less time for making the connection than does a person-to-person call and therefore the rate is considerably less.

As an instance of the savings made possible under the new schedule Manager R. E. Crowe says that the day person-to-person rate from Plymouth to Grand Rapids heretofore has been $1.05 at all times. Now the same call can be made nights and Sundays for 75c a saving of 30c.

The week-end discount period on both types of long distance calls will extend from 7 o'clock Saturday nights until 4:30 o'clock Monday mornings. Don't complain about keeping up poor kin. Think of Uncle Sam. Pipe smokers are said to have better dispositions than other men. Perhaps it seems that way because a man with a pipe in his mouth finds it difficult to argue himself into a fighting frame of mind.

Finds Turtle On Road In Parkway

Maybe most folks think this is real winter, the coldest and stormiest weather of the entire year, but old man Mud Turtle doesn't think so. Generally mud turtles like Mr. Bull Frog burrow deep down in the mud and stay there until the first warm days of spring. The other day while going through Plymouth-Riverside park William Mathias found a crawling across the paving. It was cold, a bitter cold day, but Mr. Turtle was hustling along just as any mud turtle would that has cold feet. Mr. Mathias took the turtle up to Sam Spicer's farm where it has been for the past few days trying to keep warm out in the barn.

Miss Frances Gilbert Is Writing For Well Known Florida Paper

The many Plymouth friends of Miss Frances Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gilbert, who are spending the winter at Daytona Beach, Florida, will be interested in knowing that she has recently been given a position as a book critic and a writer on the Daytona Beach News-Journal. This newspaper is one of the leading publications of the southland. Readers of The Mail will be interested in two of the recent reviews written by Miss Gilbert as published in the News-Journal. They follow: Mabel Dodge Luthan's "European Experiences." This is the second volume of a series of brief biographies entitled "Intimate Memories." It is an intimate revelation startling in its frankness. Here is a skillful analysis of such celebrities as Duse, Gordon Craig, Gertrude Stein, Janet Scudder, Muriel Draper, The Dutchess of Devonshire. The author's feeling for backgrounds inanimate details, subtle undertones colors the book and dramatizes her intense vibrant personality. It brings to the reader an experience not easily forgotten.

Hemingway's latest, "The Green Hills of Africa." With gusto and abandon Hemingway has been living the life of an African hunter. This volume seems to take you into the heart of the real Africa. You see it, live it, and breathe it as you never supposed you could. You learn the subtle strategy of tracking, the trickiness of weather portents, and most of all, how to pull a trigger. You cover Africa by motor and by foot in the jolly company of the author, his wife, two English friends, and their native bearers. In this royal caravan you can safely run the gamut of a fearless hunter's experiences. The book is in the traditional Hemingway style. The fluent dialogue is always natural and yet unexpected. The background is fused together in a startling almost impressionistic picture. It probably contains some of the best prose he has ever written. The two dark portraits of McCola and Garrick are masterful.

All the same officers have been re-elected with the exception of the Chaplain which office will be filled by Lady Julia Thorne, Assistant Great Commander Dora Nicholson of Detroit has consented to act as supreme Installing Officer. The installation will be private and the officers are not requested to wear white as is the usual custom. At the last meeting the members voted to give a generous donation to the Presbyterian church toward their rebuilding fund. Perhaps some of the older members will recall that a similar act was extended to the Methodist church when that church burned some twenty years ago. It is interesting to note that at that time the commander was Lady Reta Smith an active worker in the Methodist church and at the present time the commander is Lady Elsa Campbell a very active member of the Presbyterian church.

Plan Nutrition Discussion Here

The third of a series of Nutrition demonstrations will be given next week for the home Economics Extension Groups by Miss Emma DuBord, County Home Demonstration Agent. "Planning Wholesome Desserts for the Family" will be the subject of the demonstration. Frequently the desserts are just repetitions, week in and week out, of elaborate pastries which may prove disastrous to figures and complexions. The demonstration will allow variations of desserts using fruits, milk, honey, gelatine, and whole grain cereals in various ways. The finishing touch in a well-planned meal as a dessert that is not too elaborate yet supplies the satisfying flavor and sweetness which is desired by most people. The dessert should be planned as a definite part of the meal and in relation to other foods selected for the day. The time element must also be considered for desserts that can be made in advance are often welcomed by the busy housewife. The public is invited to attend these demonstrations, in the following communities:

- Tuesday, January 28, 2:00, Flat Rock High School.
- Wednesday, January 29, 2:00, Belleville High School.
- Thursday, January 30, 2:00, Schoolcraft Community Hall, Stout St. and Schoolcraft Road.
- Friday, January 31, 2:00, Plymouth High School.

Many Present At Meeting Of P.T.A.

A very large audience attended the regular meeting of the Starkweather P.T.A. Monday evening and enjoyed the fine program which the committee had arranged. Mr. Evans, director of the P.H.S. band directed six clarinet and piccolo players from Plymouth high school in three very pleasing numbers. Mr. Evans then presented the newly formed junior band of Starkweather school in several numbers. The boys and girls did remarkably well for the short time they have been practicing and much credit is due Mr. Evans. Prof. Chas. Fisher of the U. of M. School of Education was to be the speaker but was unable to be present because of the tragic accident to his young son and his son-in-law. Mr. Miller of the U. of M. School of Education, who proved to be a very interesting speaker and those that were privileged to hear him gained quite a little knowledge of the work of the various P.T.A.'s and the effort of parents to give their children the advantage of higher education. It is the hope of the P.T.A. that Mr. Miller will again visit us and be our speaker.

Is there anything more disgusting to hear than the fellow without any real complaint eternally howling? But how refreshing, when you hear the person you think has every reason to be downhearted always presenting the brightest side of life. Which do you think gets the most out of life?

Newburg

Miss Joy McNabb of Concord was home for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LeVan of Oscoda called on Mrs. Emma Ryder Tuesday. Plans were made to sponsor a Father and Son banquet, February 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Damm and family last Saturday and Hamburg visited Marlin Simmons Sunday.

Road Program Of State Proving Of Vast Assistance

State Official Points Out Aid It Brings To The State

Relief Program for Michigan, the first to be approved in the entire country. Michigan contributed only $3,800,000 of this entire program.

The program was launched August 1st as the first to get under way in the United States. The last comparative report we had showed that Michigan is still far ahead of any other state in the progress made upon its relief program. A comparison as of November 16th showed that Michigan had 70 per cent of its program under contract on that date compared with a national average of 25 per cent. Since that time we have contracted for much of the remaining program.

This program included $6,700,000 worth of grade separations at railroad crossings, the largest grade separation program in the history of the state. You, of Plymouth, have visible evidence of this program in the construction of the new $128,300 Grade Separation south of here on US-12 at the Pere Marquette tracks. This is one of eleven separations on a $3,000,000 program in Wayne County.

When the Works Progress Administration sought projects to provide useful employment, we entered into a cooperative program of surfacing 225 miles of gravel trunk-lines in the State with a dust-proof oil aggregate surface. We are also cooperating on a $6,500,000 Tourist and Shoreline Program.

The State Administrative Board Tuesday approved a new Federal Aid program of $7,000,000 for Michigan covering the fiscal year beginning next July. Half of this sum must be furnished by the State Highway Department.

It is significant to the people of Michigan who believe strongly on good roads that this new program provides for the construction of 201 miles of concrete pavement and concrete pavement widening at a total cost of $6,174,000. There are 33 miles of bituminous concrete paving on the program.

When this new program is finished we will have a minimum three-lane highway all the way from Lansing to Detroit over US-16. We will have an all hard-surfaced highway from the State line to the Straits of Mackinac over US-27, one of the great tourist arteries in the country. US-12, except for a short gap near Chelsea, will be a 31-foot pavement between Jackson and Ann Arbor. US-23 will be the same width for eleven miles north of Bay City to Lynwood. The pavement on US-25 will be extended as far north as the State line at Fort Sanilac in Sanilac County. Tourists will be able to travel through the Manistee National Forest from Manistee to Cadillac over a bituminous concrete pavement on M-55. The program will put thirty-three more miles of concrete pavement on US-41 and twenty-seven miles on US-2, the two great tourist arteries of the Upper Peninsula.

Here in Wayne County we will widen more than a mile on Grand Avenue between Mack and East Grand Boulevard to a width of 90 feet, an operation similar to that on Greater Woodward Avenue. We will also reconstruct and widen a mile on Van Dyke Avenue between the 7 and 8 mile Roads. A new $100,000 bridge will be erected over the Rouge River at Dearborn.

Of more than passing interest to you in Plymouth is the inclusion of concrete pavement on the Pontiac east beltline to by-pass that city and connect with M-24 to the north. The program will also include the construction of sidewalks along trunkline highways near Flint, Kalamazoo, Pontiac, and Grand Rapids. I am not so sure that sidewalk construction will have to be expanded considerably before we make our highways completely safe for the public.

I do not anticipate that this new program will meet with the approval of every person in the State. Projects will go forward in 41 counties. Perhaps some areas will feel slighted. I do believe, however, that the people will accord us the compliment that the program represents a very definite plan of highway development that should contribute greatly to the ever-increasing greatness of Michigan.

In formulating out construction programs we have had in mind that Michigan is a great industrial state, the leading automotive state in the country. We know that we must build industrial roads. We also realize that Michigan is a leading agricultural state and

Interesting New Library Books

The following new books have been received in the Plymouth Library:

"Chronicles of Barabas," by G. H. Doran.—A spicy potpourri of the author's publishing experiences and connections in the United States and England, his contacts and friendships with authors, editors, presidents and ambassadors. Aside from the publishing scene through fifty years, the most entertaining feature of these reminiscences is the frank portrayal of both the living and the dead, from Arnold Bennett to Mary Roberts Rinehart.

"Facing Two Ways," by Baroness Oshimoto. Born into a samurai family of Tokyo, the author tells of her early home life and her training to become a "good and beautiful bride." Her marriage, however, to a man of liberal ideas made it possible for her to launch forth on an independent career. Through her personal efforts on behalf of the birth-control movement and feminism, she revealed the struggle of the more modern Japanese woman to break away from feudalistic subjection.

"Gilbert and Sullivan," by Hesketh Pearson. This is a sparkling biography which is a source of "innocent merriment." It is an acute and interesting character analysis, and also a picturesque biography of the men who have done more than any other librettist and composer to lighten the cares of two continents.

"My Country and My People," by Yutang Lin. There is a good deal of mellow humor in this volume written in English by a Chinese. He sees clearly the value and the short-comings of his own civilization in contrast to Western culture and he describes it with-out apology.

"Dwight Morrow," by Harold Nicolson. A sympathetic, understanding biography of the late Senator Morrow by an English writer.

"Mark Hopkins," by J. H. Denison. A well-written life of the famous president of Williams College.

"Unmaking of a Russian," by Nicholas R. Wreden. A straightforward, simple style encases a wealth of interesting information in this autobiographical narrative.

Better Check Up On Your License

Most automobile drivers of the state require only a personal reminder that their operators' licenses may have expired, to cause them to investigate and apply for one if necessary.

This is the inescapable conclusion reached by officials of the Department of State as the result of the flow of applications for these licenses during the past two months. Late in 1935, it became publicly known that application blanks for 1936 automobile licenses would contain the result of the flow of applications for these licenses during the past two months. Late in 1935, it became publicly known that application blanks for 1936 automobile licenses would contain the result of the flow of applications for these licenses during the past two months.

The thousands of plate applications flowing across the country from the department in the capital and at branch offices throughout the state, clearly the explanation for the recent increase in applications for operators' licenses. Hundreds of applicants for plates give a date late in 1935 as the expiration of their operator's licenses, showing that they secured them when they realized they would be asked questions about them as they purchased their 1936 plates.

While there are still thousands of operators whose licenses have expired, the fact remains that more than 1,000 applications are being received every day, this rate having been average for the past two months, with some 40,000 in December, 1935, alone. Chauffeur's licenses took a giant stride more than 35,000 being issued in those two months, as compared with some 13,000 for the corresponding months a year ago.

On and Off The Record

Judicial Circuit No. 3, which is located in Wayne County, is composed of eighteen (18) permanent circuit judges, who are frequently aided by visiting judges. Other circuits in Michigan include as many as six counties with one judge to serve them all. The constitution of the State of Michigan requires the Sheriff's Office to have officers at each session of the Circuit Court to serve the courts. They summon jurors, serve process papers, and serve all writs of attachment. The Sheriff of Wayne has 77 employees for these and other duties, required not only by the Constitution, but required by all theory of law enforcement.

It is plain that these salaries have nothing to do with the running of the Wayne County Jail. They cannot be figured in the cost of keeping a criminal. Recent statistics issued seemed to conclude this, but a check up has revealed that Wayne, spending a little over 16 dollars for a prisoner is one of the lowest county rates in the country. The Sheriff's office itself is self-sustaining in this county. The total amount of revenues received by this Sheriff's Office last year was over $67,000.00. These should be credited items from process serving, etc., but are listed by state reports as debits. It looks like a bad case of accounting somewhere.

Here is a list of legal papers served in Wayne during the past year which are not served in as large number in any other county in Michigan:

Process Writs served, 10,905; Out of Town Writs Served, 911; Jurors Summoned, 3,269; Alimony Attachments Arrests, 102; Arrests on Capias, 16; Arrests on Body Executions 12; Arrests on Circuit Court Warrants, 16; Probate Court Warrants, 4; Sheriff's Deeds, 16-338; Writs of Attachment, 58; Writs of Replevin, 52; Out of Town Body Attachments, 5.

When we discuss going away with the Sheriff's Office, we must think of a substitute that will be more efficient and economical. Considering the above facts this would be far from easy.

There is a difference between a politician and a government official. An incident in Harold Stoll's Office seems self-explanatory.

A political organization sent a candidate to Stoll, recommended him as efficient worker, and pleaded for a job. Stoll interviewed him and having a place open, put him to work. A month later it was apparent that the man lacked characteristics of an able employee and that he thought because he was backed by this particular political group he would be kept on whether he produced or not. The man was fired immediately and the recommendations of that group are completely blackballed in the Register Stoll's office.

Office holders and office seekers are already in the midst of next fall's campaign. Meetings are being made every night in all parts of the county, and the politician is selling his wares. In many ways this is a good thing. It educates the people to government and gives them a real chance to meet the candidates and find out what they are worth.

Take it from another angle. A man is elected to office. He spends the better part of a year getting to know his office thoroughly and to rid that office of mal-supervision of his predecessor. He then inaugurates his own methods of reform and before he has much of a chance to get them in working order there is another campaign on his hands. He has to spend time campaigning whether he wants to or not. If he doesn't he might just as well keep his name off the ballot.

There is one solution. Longer terms of office. If a man is elected this year, he certainly won't change much in four years and the people won't change their mind. If he proves to be an unusual bad officer of the law we have provisions in the constitution to recall him. Longer terms would mean less elections and that would mean less cost to the taxpayer. It would mean more efficiency in office and that would be another reduction in the taxpayer's living expenses.

The Wayne Circuit Judges are a good example. They have a six year term. They have at least five full years where they can administer justice without the thought of elections. They can spend their time for the purpose for which they are elected. On the other hand, the Governor of the State of Michigan, the County Clerk, the Register of Deeds, the Treasurer of Wayne County and other officers are always in the midst of a Campaign.

Seventy-one per cent of a selected group of the largest general automotive newspaper advertisers will increase advertising appropriations in 1936 over 1935. Be critical—of yourself.

THE VANISHING COIN

MAKING a coin vanish would seem to be a feat of difficult legerdemain. It can be accomplished, however, in a very simple manner, without resort to long practice or the need of expert skill.

The magician begins by showing a few coins on the palm of his left hand. He picks up a small one—say a dime—with his right hand, letting the larger coins lie open in his left.

The right fingers perform a rubbing motion. The small coin melts completely from view. The magician, not caring to lose more money, puts the remaining coins in his pocket.

The magician does not pick up the small coin from the left hand. He only pretends to do so. Actually, he slides a larger coin over the small one. People, seeing the little coin gone, think the right hand has it, but the small coin went into the pocket with the others.

The rubbing motion with the right fingers was only an illusion. WNU Service.

Rebuke for Explorer

Matthew Flinders (1774-1814) English sea explorer, circumnavigated Australia and secured it for Britain just as the French were about to annex it. His reward consisted only in being censured by the government for having been absent so long, and told he had lost his chance of promotion. Flinders died of a broken heart, and nothing was done for his wife and child until the government of Australia came into existence.

We agree with the judge who ruled that a wooden leg does not bar a man from operating an automobile. It's wooden heads that cause most of the trouble.—McPherson Kansas, Republican.

Daniels Buys A Cream Freezer

The Daniels Sweet Shop has recently installed a new Sani-Speed ice cream freezer which in the future will make all of the ice cream sold by that store. The new freezing unit is one of the first of its kind sold in the country and has a freezing capacity of 50 pounds. The machine is now in operation and according to Mr. Daniels produces a very rich, smooth cream. The store will carry all flavors of ice cream and will in the future make all of their own ices and sherbets. Mr. Daniels placed the freezer in the window so that the whole process of making the cream can be seen from the street and has extended the public a general invitation to inspect the unit at any time they are near his store.

Miss Bernice Clark To Wed Casler Stevens

A delightful supper party was given Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark on Union street when the engagement of their daughter, Bernice Elizabeth, to Casler F. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens of North Harvey street, was announced to a small group of friends. The dining table was beautifully set in white crystal with a centerpiece of white mums and lighted tapers on either side. At each guests place silver bells tied with silver ribbon carried the names of the engaged couple. This was a complete surprise to those present as they had been invited to celebrate his birthday. The wedding date has not been decided upon. Miss Clark, who is president of the Pi Kappa Sigma sorority at the Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti, will receive her Bachelor of Science degree in June of this year.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Milton Partridge, Janet Elickstaff, Zephora Blunk, Frank Allison, William Kirkpatrick of Plymouth, Arline Richardson and Eldon Biery of Northville.

Browning and closing with an amusing effort by a sixteen year old girl poet.

Mrs. James McDonald then addressed the Daughters. Her reputation as a forceful and interesting speaker was fully maintained. She spoke reminiscently of the three years she was State Regent, recalling the fact that the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter was one of the four girls born during her administration, and that two others were represented at the luncheon by their regents. She was proud of these nine year old girls who had assumed the responsibility of moulding public opinion and influencing constructive legislation.

She most earnestly urged those present to take an intelligent interest in legislation, especially that pertaining to immigration. The quota should never go beyond the country's ability to digest the same. A new bill, known as the Kerr bill is pending in Congress. It should be studied, and receive support. It will increase the power to deport the proven undesirable alien, and offers discretionary powers to the Department of State and Department of Justice when occasion seems to warrant. As a case in point she told of an alien, a German who had married a French woman, moved to Canada, had two children, then entered the United States, and had four more children. When reported the family found itself in a distressing situation. Each country was willing to accept only those members of the family that lawfully belonged. Canada would have neither of the parents or the children born here. Germany would have none of the children, nor the wife and France refused the husband and the children and so on. Yet this man was otherwise law-abiding and supporting his family. The Kerr law aims to provide a solution for such a situation.

She spoke of the change in sentiment which the Daughters receive in the publicity of today over former years, the adverse criticism replaced by appreciation of their high and worthy aims. She closed her fine address with this quotation from Shakespeare, suggesting it as a motto:

"Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace
To silence envious tongues
Be just and fear not
Let all the ends thou aim'st at
Be thy countries
Thy God's and truth's
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

ROCKS DOWN DEARBORN 34-30

The Rocks chalked up their second league game of the season when they downed the Dearborn quintet 34-30 Friday, January 17 at Dearborn. The game proceeded slowly, but after it had been in progress a few minutes, the spark that sets things on fire made its appearance. Wagenschutz proved to be the main cog in the Rocks' offense. The lanky center seemed to find his stride in this game, and he was popping baskets from all places on the court; he personally accounted for fourteen of the Rocks' score.

After the game had been a few minutes old McEvoy registered the first counter of the game. After Aldrich had sunk a basket, Wagenschutz made the Rocks' first counter; while making the shot he was fouled by Corder and the charity shot was converted. Short shots were pushed in by Gates and Kinsey, followed by Kinsey to follow the example of the last three individuals, sunk a short shot. Gordon had a chance to make a charity shot after being fouled by McEvoy but he failed on the attempt. Wagenschutz again showed in another short shot just as the first quarter came to a close.

It looked as if Dearborn were going to put on an early rally when Aldrich zipped the strings twice, but soon afterwards, Gates and Williams equalled the count when they sunk one. Kinsey's basket was made from a nice pass from Kinsey. Williams fouled Aldrich, but he failed on the lone attempt. Gates setting himself, popped one from the red line and Kinsey followed with two points, resulting from a short shot. Elston, who had been substituted for Ketchum, fouled Gordon, but the shot was wasted. Wagenschutz jumping high in the air, received the ball off the backboard and pushed in a basket. McLean, who had been playing a fine defensive game, made a pair of baskets. Gates hacked McLean, chalking up his first foul of the evening; McLean fouled on the "sit" toss.

The Rocks certainly had played a fine brand of ball during the first half, and it marked the first occasion which the Rocks had been ahead at the half. At the end of the half they were on the upper end of a 19-18 score. The Plymouth team followed the lead it had in this game and the tip-off play was working great. Williams started the third quarter by making a technical foul. Wagenschutz fouled Aldrich, but Aldrich failed on a basket. McLean made one out of two charity shots after he was fouled by Williams. Wagenschutz guarding Corder close, pushed him and Corder made the charity toss given to him. Gates and Kinsey were given chances to make baskets; Kinsey tallied on his one, and Gates failed on his one. Wagenschutz jumping very high in the air pushed in another two points. Wagenschutz was certainly having an excellent evening; he popped another basket from deep in the corner. At this point of the game the Rocks took time out. After play had resumed, Ketchum replaced Elsworth. McLean was hacked by Kinsey, but his attempt rebounded off the rim of the basket. Gordon, who was camped under the basket, hooped a counter after receiving a nice pass from Kinsey. Wagenschutz dribbling down the side of the court hooped a one-handed shot.

The last quarter was packed with thrills and plenty of excitement. The quarter began with Aldrich being fouled by Williams; Aldrich took advantage of the gift toss and sunk it. Ketchum had an opportunity to gain on the Rocks' score when he was fouled by Gates, but both of his attempts failed. Gordon, who had been increasing the Rocks' score now and then, swished the basket strings with a nice side shot. Williams again registered a foul for himself when he charged McLean. A rally of Dearborn baskets brought the Dearborn fans to a roar. Aldrich made a nice rear pivot and then dribbled in towards the basket and hooped, one in. Corder, playing in the pivot position, flicked one in from the foul line. Corder weaved his way down the middle of the court and pushed in another Dearborn basket. Gordon again was camped under the basket and receiving the ball from Wagenschutz shoveled in two points. McLean made a charity shot, after having been pushed by Kinsey. Boy who had replaced McLean fouled Gordon, but his attempt failed. When Corder fouled Wagenschutz, he was banished from the game, for that marked his fourth foul. Elloff replaced Gates with only seconds remaining in the game.

Miss Lovell entertained our excellent debating squad at an excellent chicken dinner last Saturday night. Those who enjoyed the feast were Jewel Starkweather, Edith Mettetal, Florence North, Dorothy Hearn, Tom Brock, Harry Fischer, Jack Sessions and Russell Kirk. Mr. Latture, the man who is partly responsible for our having such a good team, was there with Mrs. Latture and their little daughter. We should all be debaters.

Miss Fry, Miss Waldorf, and Miss Henry attended the opera, "Ruddigore" at the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater in Ann Arbor Saturday afternoon.

Myrilla Savery entertained some Detroit friends last Sunday afternoon by taking them on a ride in the bob-sleds. We hope they are all still alive and well; Myrilla is alive but suffering from a stiff neck received when she bob-sled overturned. Better luck next time.

Ethel Reitzke with three Northville friends went to Detroit last Saturday where they all saw Colleen Moore's doll-house at Hudson's.

EDITORIAL Students Advocate Swimming Pool

By Franklin Coward, 9B Eng.

The students of Plymouth high school need want a swimming pool. They believe that a swimming pool would not only teach them to take care of themselves in the water but would help keep them off the streets. It would be a very good recreation too. The cost would be small compared with profit reaped in the health, happiness, and contentment of the entire community. Adults as well as the youth of the community would have access to the swimming pool. Doctors agree that there is no better exercise than swimming. The Training School has very kindly offered the Boy and Girl Scouts the privilege of swimming in their pool once every two weeks. This is often enough for anyone to become efficient in swimming. Even at this all persons are not Boy or Girl Scouts. The students wish that the taxpayers would become enough interested to put this on their budget for next year.

DELEGATES ELECTED TO CONFERENCE

At a special meeting held last Tuesday the Senior Girl Reserves elected two delegates and two alternates to attend the Annual State Convention for Girl Reserves to be held in Detroit beginning January 31 and lasting until February 2. The two delegates elected to attend the conference from Plymouth were Gwendolyn Dunlop, president, and Jewel Starkweather, secretary. The elected alternates were Elizabeth Whipple, vice-president, and Barbara Hubbell, treasurer.

Detroit homes will be provided for all delegates living outside of this city. A very interesting and program has been planned for the week-end. The girls will meet together for the first time Friday evening where there will be a program. Saturday afternoon a trip through the Detroit Village has been arranged with a banquet at night. Sunday the girls will have the privilege of hearing Doctor Fischer.

NEW COURSE IN AUTO MECHANICS

A new course called Auto Mechanics will be added to the vocational work in the Plymouth high school at the opening of the second semester. It is a branch of applied science and will cover the parts of motors.

The Plymouth Motor Sales has very generously given a Ford motor and the school soon hopes to have a Chevrolet motor in order to study the two popular types of priced cars. These motors can be taken down and the parts examined and studied closely.

GIRL SCOUTS TO VISIT DOLL HOUSE

The Girl Scouts of Troop 1 are making plans to visit on Friday, January 26, Colleen Moore's $435,000 Doll House which is on exhibition at Hudson's.

At the regular meeting of the Scouts held January 15 two new members, Yvonne Taylor and Marie Ann Miller, were introduced into their troop. On Monday night at the Training School pool the girls have been taking tests in various types of swimming. Jane Kork acts as instructor and is teaching the girls to tread water and float.

D.R. HEARS DOUBLE QUARTET

Members of the high school girls' double quartet made their last appearance of the semester when they sang at a meeting of the D.R. held at the Mayflower last Monday afternoon, January 20. At this time they sang "Morning" by Oley Speaks; "Hail Street Song" from Victor Herbert's opera, "Naughty Marietta"; and "My Johann," a Norwegian folk song.

SENIORS WHO'S WHO

As a token of peace Gwendolyn Belle Dunlop was born November 9, 1918 in Detroit (she hated to leave the city too). While there she attended Brady and Noble Schools for four years. She then moved to Rosedale Gardens, attended Rosedale School, and then Plymouth High as a freshman. She has been a member of the Girl Reserves three years, acting as president when a sophomore and senior, and as secretary when a junior. She has been the secretary of the senior class for the last two years. She is a very brilliant scholar and the honor roll has not been without her name one month. Her favorite subjects are French and English, and her hobbies are reading and collecting China dogs.

Gwendolyn has two slogans. They are "Variety is the spice of life" and "Eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow you may die." She certainly lives up to the first one every day. She changes her mind every year as to what she wants to be when she finishes her education. This year journalism has her choice. She will take a course in journalism at the University of Michigan if she does not change her mind. She likes all colors, but the writer is justified in thinking she likes blue best, because she once said she would paint her barge blue if she felt like it. How is that for variety? Jean Koediger leads her large number of friends. Now for the other slogan, Gwendolyn claims she could eat, drink, and sleep hockey (we wonder!) and as favorite sports, football and close second, dancing does not interest her like the likes hockey. Before settling down she wants to travel all over the United States. However, she does not want to go to Europe as she despises ancient things, and she still wants to remain forever young.

Wellman Clarence Fillmore, sizeable senior, prominent in musical events of Plymouth High, was born in Detroit on December 16, 1918. He attended Plymouth high schools from the first year out, and is now taking a general course. Mr. Fillmore plays the snare drums in the bands, and the sax drums in the orchestra. He hopes to engage in a musical profession after being graduated, and you saw him pling during the Plymouth Civic Band during the summer. Wellman's hobby is the collection of souvenirs.

Harry Clifford Fischer also known as Fish has been an integral part of Plymouth since he was born here. With the lock of black hair which flops across his forehead after the manner of a fish, Harry has received all of his education here in Plymouth. Harry has several interests. He has gone out for four years. He is fond of sailing and butterflies. He is a member of the Plythean staff, enjoys his giving long talks on being practical. He is a modern art and architecture. When he graduates Harry plans to go to the University of Michigan. After some deliberation he has decided to take up chemical engineering rather than fruit farming.

Mary Kathleen Ford, or Kathleen Ford as she is better known to her many friends, was born in Plymouth on August 19, 1919. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ford. Her kindergarten education was obtained in Mt. Pleasant before she started at Plymouth High. She followed through her first nine years here with the exception of one year which she spent at country schools. The ninth grade Kathleen was unfortunate in having to move to the Maybury Sanatorium because of poor health. Nature does insist on compensations, so they say, and in giving Kathleen poor health it also gave her a great deal of courage, stick-to-it-iveness, and grit. After spending three years at the Sanatorium she came back to Plymouth last year and has completed three years' work in two years time, carrying an extremely heavy schedule and many food marks. For this reason, Kathleen works for an hour and a half in the lunch room making change, and doing it accurately. Tom Kathleen is a pretty, tall, serious but good-natured girl with curly dark brown hair and dark brown eyes. She likes all sorts of people, least most of them and chop suey. About the only thing she dislikes is limburger cheese. She has taken a commercial course and her favorite commercial course is stenography. She says she is a good stenographer but she claims that she can not say what she will do after graduating this spring. We can only guess that for one thing she will run her hobby of sewing fast and furiously. But whatever she does, if she

SEVENTH GRADERS SEE DRY CLEANING

Miss Gray's 7B Clothing class made a field trip to the Perfection Laundry and Dry Cleaning establishment. The following accounts were written by the seventh graders members of the class.

The Adventures of a Dress
Your best silk dress is dirty. What do you do? Why that's easy, you'll say; send it to the dry-cleaners of course. When it comes back it is clean. Certainly that's what you sent it away for. But did you ever stop to think what happened in the interim between the time that it left your hands to the time it came back into your possession? No! most likely not. So let us listen to the dress as it tells us of its adventures at the dry cleaners.

"As I go inside," the dress tells us, "I'm tagged; this means a number pinned on my collar or cuff. Two clips are written as to what I belong to and my number on both sides are for them to keep. I am also tagged as to what day I am to be delivered."

"From here I go into other hands and taken to the dry-cleaning room. Here I am dumped into a large tub with many other clothes. Before I go into it I get a glimpse as to what kind of a room I'm in."

"There are no motors in this room as the fluid used is likely to catch fire. Even the lights are incased in glass and wire cages as a precaution against fire. There are several large machines of which I shall later learn the uses. Before I can see anything else the lid of one machine is shut down and I am placed in it. The process of dry cleaning is a very interesting one. It is heated by steam, and the steam is forced into the clothes. Next I am packed and when I see the light I am in your hands. The Clean one more."

When you first go in they have a place where they tag the clothes. The person on the floor is a number on the bottom of the garment. They have a slip with the day the garment is supposed to be done. They put the number on that slip and put it with the garment. The next thing is the spotting board. That is where they take off the spots which are on the dress or garments. The board is a tin like and on the side is where they keep all the chemicals to take out the spots. The people who clean the clothes are on the most what kind of spot it is. The next place is a small building placed away from the other buildings. It is like that because they keep all the gas there and they don't want it near the other buildings because the gas might explode and cause a fire. They clean the dresses with a solution they call Stodard Solvent. They use this Stodard Solvent over and over. When it gets dirty they clean it with sand which comes from Florida. They clean the clothes in a tub which goes ten times around one way and then ten times the other way. Most of the fluid is taken out of the garment in another tub.

When they have finished cleaning the clothes they have to dry them. To dry them they hang them on small hangers on the bar which is inside a large tub. The tub is covered with a screen and it goes around and around with a warm air that dries them.

The next step is the pressing. The dress is pressed by steam. They take buttons off the dress or garment. When they press they put the dress between two padded top pad and a bottom pad. Steam comes through the dress from the top pad and out down through the bottom pad. When the dress has puffed sleeves they press them with a puffer. They put the puffer inside the sleeve and it comes out from the top.

They have a very kind of iron which is manufactured in Michigan. It has a stand and the stand is heated instead of the iron.

The last thing that is done, the dress is put in a paper bag and delivered to the place it came from.

Mary Ellen Dahmer.

ACHIEVEMENT TESTS GIVEN SOPHOMORES

For the second year, Plymouth's sophomore class has taken a newly-originated achievement test. Each student was given this test on an intelligence test. The results were sent to the University of Michigan where Plymouth will be rated along with other schools of the same class which took the test. Plymouth is a class "B" school and there were thirty schools in this class which took last year's test. This year's tests have not been compared on an interschool basis, but last year Plymouth ranked among the highest schools of its particular class. The test is not an intelligence test, but merely records the student's reaction to certain problems in vocabulary and mathematical ability. A possibility of two hundred and twenty-five problems was answered correctly. The American Council on Education which is preparing this test will work out the number of responses which average, poor, or brilliant students should have right in a manner similar to the I. Q. ratings obtained from intelligence tests. As yet there have not been enough students tested to prepare an accurate rating scale.

NEW ENGLISH TEACHER JOIN PHS FACULTY

Plymouth high school is to have a new teacher of English, Miss Ethel Killham of East Lansing. Miss Killham formerly taught in Grand Marais, Michigan and has had a year and a half of experience as teacher of English. She is a graduate from Michigan State College. Miss Killham will teach three classes of eighth grade English, one of ninth, and one of tenth.

THE PATHS OF GLORY LEAD TO THE GRAVE

The TVAA Debate League champions from Plymouth were the guests Saturday evening at a chicken dinner given by Miss Lovell, one of the school's most enthusiastic fans. Early in the season Miss Lovell told the team that they could have a chicken dinner if they won the league championship, and soon after the championship was secured in December, she began making arrangements for the victory dinner. Several of her choice poultry were marked in advance for the coming occasion. A dinner of chicken, biscuits, mashed potatoes, apple pie and accessories was served at Miss Lovell's home in South Lyon. After the dinner Mr. Latture entertained the guests with a "piano solo" and Edith Mettetal sang the merry-go-round song, "The Music Goes Round and Round." Jack Sessions and Harry Fischer threatened to sing the theme song of the debate team, the Volga Boatman Song, everybody decided that it must be time to go home.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Christ Blesses Little Children.—"And they brought unto Him also infants, that He would touch them: but when His disciples saw it, they rebuked them. But Jesus called them unto Him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."—Luke 18:15-17.

The Sunstroke
In general it may be said that fatal sunstroke is considerably more common in the southern part of the East than in the southern. The thirty-ninth parallel of north latitude near which Washington is situated may roughly be said to divide the eastern states into North and South. The people of the South are more accustomed to extreme heat in summer and exert themselves less during the heat of the day than northerners. In addition, the North is more subject to extreme heat waves which always cause prostrations.
