City's New Postoffice, Modern In Every Detail of Construction and Equipment, Soon Will Be Open

Final Work Is Being Completed

Building Has Every Facility for Efficient Postal Service

As soon as new equipment can be unpacked and installed, Plymouth's new postoffice will be ready to open to the public. Lyle Bristow, construction engineer from the United States treasury department in charge of the project, said this week.

With the exception of a few exterior details, such as lamp standards, and the grading of the yard, work on the building has been completed. The cost of construction came to $44,000. Mr. Bristow stated: work was started July 15, 1935.

Only the finest of materials have been used, according to Mr. Bristow, and the result is an up-to-date building which is both attractive in appearance and suited to the most efficient work. Every possible requirement of this type of building has been met.

Entrance to the lobby is through a small, glassed-in vestibule. The lobby itself, which runs the whole length of the street side of the building, has floors of terrazzo and a wainscoting of two kinds of marble, royal blue and Tennessee. The latter a mottled gray in appearance. The five windows, parcel post, stamp, general delivery, money order and registry, face the lobby, while the boxes, 380 in number, are placed in the east corridor. These boxes are to be opened with keys rather than combination locks such as are used in the old office.

To the left as one enters the lobby is the private office of the postmaster, which is finished in red mahogany and wainscoting. In back is a large place with white plastered walls and a wainscoting of yellow pine, varnished. It is well-lighted, both by means of windows and a skylight which affords a maximum amount of daylight to enter, and by electricity. The windows of the registry and money order departments are separated from the others by a cage of wire, inside which also is the door to the vault containing two huge safes. Restrooms are finished in white lace tile wainscoting and terrazzo floors.

In the basement there is one room which will be used as a lounge by the carriers when they are not on duty, a special room where stamped envelopes will be kept, a general storage room, an office for the postal inspector, a boiler room, and an unfinished space beneath the front part of the building which can be completed quickly when additional space is needed. All the basement windows are protected by heavy wire guards, and an intricate burglar alarm system has been installed by the federal government according to its own secret specifications.

Equipment in the boiler room includes a one-pipe heating system, low pressure boiler and a heater to be used for water in the summer time. Next year's supply of coal is on hand in the coal bin. There is also a pump used in forcing waste water into the city sewage system which is on a higher level than the basement of the building.

Lovejoy Is Elected Milford President

W. S. Lovejoy was elected president of the village of Milford at the recent spring election, being unopposed for that office.

Charles B. McNulty defeated Harry Harrington for the post of clerk. Irene Gordon won the treasurership from Ruth Mitchell, Albert W. Johnson and William A. Wilson were named trustees, and Clyde Shriftuff defeated Charles P. Gamble for the office of assessor.

Michigan has a total area of approximately 37,000,000 acres or approximately 57,000 square miles.

Brother Kiwanians to Send Local Club Smelt from Escanaba

An offer from the Kiwanis club of Escanaba to send a box of smelt for the meeting of April 7 as a souvenir of the Smelt Jamboree has been accepted by the local Kiwanis club.

This will be the second annual jamboree, in celebration of one of the outstanding fishing events in the upper peninsula, to be held in Escanaba. The dipping of thousands of pounds of shiny, wriggling smelt by hundreds of sportsmen during the annual spring jamboree, which marked high tide in the smelt invasion of the upper Lake Michigan waters. At spawning time last April, 200 tons of the silvery-bellied fish were shipped commercially from Escanaba, and eight tons were sent to sportsmen and service clubs in the middle west as souvenirs.

The whole affair is the most remarkable phenomenon of the animal world, and entire communities of fishermen, spectators and participants in the dipnetting of the smelt. The King and Queen of Smeltiana is formally crowned at the Smelt Jamboree, following a colorful parade of fishermen, marching with dipnets and torchlights. After the coronation ceremonies, the celebrators will go to a nearby river, where they will participate in the dipnetting. It is expected that the spawning runs will continue for at least two weeks later. Dipnetting for the smelt goes on nightly, with hundreds of sportsmen taking part in this unique pastime.

In one of the most unique statements ever made to the public, and probably the only one of its kind, the Plymouth United Savings bank presents in this week's issue of The Plymouth Mail an account of its progress in the last year, including a complete financial report and an outline of the personnel and management of the institution.

The statement shows that the bank serves 1,614 residents of Plymouth, or approximately 40 per cent of the entire population. Officials are inviting their friends and patrons to comment upon their new procedure in publishing a comprehensive break-down of their business. The statement appears on page 12 of this issue.

Man Found Dead Saturday Night

Charles Kent, 75, was found dead Saturday night on the sidewalk at the driveway of Thomas Thompson, 954 North Mill street. The body was discovered by Mr. Thompson as he drove into his yard, and he went immediately to the Hotel Andrine from where Andrew Sambone, proprietor, called the police department.

Upon investigation Capt. Chas. J. Downe and Officer Sackett found that Mr. Kent had just left Beyer's drug store where he had gone to purchase a Sunday paper. There was $56.83 and a gold watch in his pockets.

Dr. Arthur Peck, who was called to the scene, pronounced the man dead. A Wayne county coroner later gave permission for the body to be removed to Schrader Brothers Funeral Home. There were no marks on the body with the exception of the fact that the original plan, but it has fallen through. New Plan for Distributing Funds For Welfare in County Advocated

Mrs. Whipple Asks More Equitable Division of Sales Tax

Status of the relief situation in the out-county communities and municipalities of Wayne county was discussed at a meeting of the Out-County Supervisors and Municipal Officials association, called Thursday of last week in the Dearborn city hall by William Von Moll, president, and attended by Mrs. Ruth E. Huston-Whipple, one of the three members of the Wayne County Emergency Relief commission and a member of the Plymouth city commission.

The purpose of the meeting, reported Mrs. Whipple in an interview this week, and the primary discussion at meetings of the relief commission for the past several weeks, was to reach some solution to the problem of allotting the sales tax money received in Wayne county to the various communities. It was the consensus of opinion among the out-county officials attending the Dearborn meeting that their communities have been paying out the administration of Detroit's welfare work long enough, and they are asking a fair distribution of sales tax funds. Mrs. Whipple explained.

Four different plans for making this distribution have been proposed, she said, pointing out that the final choice of a basis will be very important because it will in all probability be a permanent basis until July 1, 1937, and will have a direct bearing on the budgets now being prepared by township and municipalities. Furthermore, she stated, if a fair allotment can be obtained from the relief commission, it will be easier to insist that local units bear the difference in cost, and they will be willing to do so.

Four suggestions have been made for the division of the sales tax in Wayne county. Mrs. Whipple said. The first calls for a percentage basis in which the state pays 60 per cent and the local communities 40 per cent of the relief costs. This was the original plan, but it has fallen through. In addition there were five-minute talks by the presidents of the clubs represented, those of Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Dearborn, Ecorse, Monroe, River Rouge, Wayne and Wyandotte.

Aims of Townsend Clubs Ape Listed

Members of the Plymouth Townsend club heard a talk by Walter M. Nelson, of Detroit, at the meeting of the Farmers Union of Michigan. A large crowd was in attendance at the Grange Hall.

The Townsend plan proposes to pay every American citizen of good record who is over 60 years of age $200 per month. The aim of the plan is to provide security for people over 60 years of age, to remove from competitive labor enough aged persons to afford work for all employables, to take the several nations of the world and to consume, to further the development of higher standards of living, to reduce crime, to furnish opportunity for young people to use their talents, to safeguard the American home as a unit of modern civilization.

Detford Man Victim of Bandits Near Here

Eddie Glover, of 660 East Philadelphia avenue, Detroit, was held up by two men Saturday night at Miller road and Michigan avenue where he had stopped for a red light. The bandits, who were armed with pistols, got in the car and drove to Beck road near Plymouth, where they forced Glover out of the car after taking $10 and his operator's license, and drove away.

Glover reported to Plymouth police, who turned the matter over to the Wayne county sheriff's office. He stated he thought the men drove back to Detroit. The car which they stole is a black Ford Tudor with red wheels, 1934 model, and a 1936 Lincoln 36666. The men were described by Glover as follows: One was about 19 years old, dark, five feet five inches tall, weighed about 135 pounds and wore a grey overcoat, light hat. The other was of slender build, about 20 years old, six feet tall, weighed about 155 pounds, and wore a grey overcoat and a light cap.

Local Ping Pong Tournery Finished

In the ping pong tournament conducted locally as part of a novice competition sponsored by a Detroit newspaper, Dorothy Hearn won the women's singles championship and Ralph Taylor was the winner in the men's singles division.

There were 91 entries, 59 men and 32 women, in the tournament, reports Coach K. J. Matheson, who was in charge. Games were played off first at the high school and the Plymouth Ping Pong club, with Miss Hearn defeating Betty Mastie 21-17, 21-14, and 21-15, after playing 11 games and losing one, while Mr. Taylor defeated George Stastni 21-15, 21-17 and 22-20. Mr. Taylor won 14 games and lost one.

The winners and the runners-up went to Detroit Wednesday evening where they were paired with about 80 winners of other district tournaments in the metropolitan competition at the Griswold Table Tennis Center. Over 6,000 entries were received from metropolitan Detroit.

Miss Hearn, who is a junior in Plymouth high school, is an all-around girl who has maintained a "B" or better school average, taken part in all girls' sports and who during a health contest sponsored by the 4-H clubs of Wayne county was judged the second healthiest girl entered, her sister being first runner-up. She also is a left-handed player.

Editor Stranded in Eastern Flood Zone

Editor Elton R. Eaton and Mrs. Eaton, on their way home to Plymouth from a trip to Florida and Washington, D. C., are marooned in the floods which are sweeping the eastern states.

They telephoned the Mail office yesterday from Hagerstown, Md., where they are "stranded" in the hotel, unable to leave because all the surrounding roads are under water. They hope to be home this week-end, if the water recedes.

All Pipe Laid for Water Main

Pipe for the eight-inch water main which the city ordered for West Ann Arbor Trail, between Jener and Morland avenues, about 1,900 feet in all, has been laid and work is nearly completed. City Manager C. H. Elliott reported to the city commission this week.

The cost of laying the main so far comes to $5,316.87. Mr. Elliott stated, with about $500 more needed for completing clean-up work and pavement repair. Mr. Elliott estimates that approximately $300 was saved on the job by removing three hydrants and salvaging lead pipe.

The main was ordered by the commission following two bad breaks in the old main during the zero weather in February. Work was started on February 26 and in two and a half weeks later all houses to be serviced by the new main were receiving water.

Conlon Tells Rotary Sales Tax Money Handles 60 Per Cent of All Demands on State General Fund

Addresses Rotary

Says New Levy Met Emergency

Former State Senator Declines Expense of the State Prisons

Ernest T. Conlon, assistant attorney general with the state board of tax administration and former state senator from Kent county, spoke on the sales tax at a meeting of the Rotary club Friday noon.

Mr. Conlon, who was for four years state senator from Kent county. Twenty-four states now have a sales tax and one city, New York, employs it. It properly puts every citizen on the tax roll and requires each to pay according to his ability to purchase. It has an emergency clause which threatened to close the public schools of the state.

He stated that approximately 45 millions of dollars would be raised this year by the sales tax and that the tax in itself today amounts to 80 per cent of the state's total revenue. He described the demands made on the general fund and stated that three quarters of a million dollars were needed each month for welfare, 22 million dollars a year for the old age pension, five millions for hospitals, two million 800 thousand dollars for penal and corrective institutions and one and a half millions for crippled children. These and many other items are supported from the general fund of the state. He again emphasized the fact that 60 per cent of this fund is raised by the three per cent sales tax now in existence.

"But remember," cautioned the speaker, "this is not all new tax money. There are 100 million dollars in state bonds which are being sold for state purposes. Of the 44,000,000 which will be collected in sales tax this year, about $20,000,000 is additional money. The last year of the state real estate tax, Michigan required $24,000,000 from property owners.

"It is true that Michigan is out of the red and has a surplus at this time," Mr. Conlon said. "However, Michigan is meeting its obligations. It is educating its children. It is providing for its unfortunate. This state of yours and mine is meeting its bonded obligations promptly. There has been no default. It has been the sales tax which has stepped into a breach and made possible this fine record. The people of Michigan should, and I believe they are proud of these facts."

Michigan has 128,000 licensed retailers according to the speaker, of which 90,000 are making regular monthly returns to the state. The department handling this vast amount of detail has but 350 employees and the cost of collection and administration is but one-tenth of one per cent of the amount collected, he said.

Senator Conlon also stated that it would be impossible to take the sales tax off food and leave it on other items sold to the public today. Unfortunately, he said there was no possible way to distribute the sales tax subject to sales taxes.

In closing the speaker told of the unnecessary expense of housing the criminals in Michigan penal institutions. He stated it cost the state $100,000 per year in Marquette, $350 per inmate in Jackson and $300 per inmate in Ionia. In many instances these expenditures are unnecessary and the passage of the capital punishment bill introduced in the state senate four years ago would have eliminated a great deal of the penal expense burden now carried by the state, he said.

City Joins in Fight Against Road Accidents

Letter Telling of Increase in Fatalities Sent to Commission

Following the reading of a letter from the board of Wayne county road commissioners calling attention to the increased number of accidents in the county, the first two months of this year as compared to 1935, the city commission at its meeting Monday evening voted to send a formal request to the road commission asking for a light at the junction of Rouge parkway and Northfield road, and the installation of a railing at the outer edge and on the south side of Wilcox road.

In line with the request of the road commission, citizens of Plymouth who have suggestion for improving the safety of county highways are asked to bring them to the attention of City Manager C. E. Elliott or to write directly to the road board at 3800 Barlum Tower, Detroit.

The letter received by the commission read as follows: Hon. Mayor and Common Council, City of Plymouth, Michigan, Gentlemen:

For your information we are sending you herewith a map of Wayne county showing the location and location of traffic accidents which occurred on Wayne county roads during 1935.

In the months of January and February, 1935, there were eight fatal accidents, 134 injury accidents, and 254 non-injury accidents. In these same two months during 1936, the number of fatal accidents has increased to 13. The injury accidents in this period number 126 and the non-injury accidents 304.

The National Safety Council has started a year upon a five-year campaign, nation wide in scope, to reduce traffic fatalities 35 per cent by the end of 1940.

We earnestly solicit your cooperation in reducing the toll of life on Wayne county roads in 1936 by your placing special emphasis upon proper enforcement of traffic laws by your police department; by your carrying on educational programs in schools, civic organizations, etc., where practicable, and by bringing to the attention of this board any suggestions you may have from time to time for improving the safety of the county highways.

Hoping that the cooperation of all responsible agencies may end in the achievement of a better 1936 accident record, we remain,

Very truly yours,
Board of Wayne County Road Commissioners,
Michael O'Brien, Chairman,
Peter M. Schoenherr, Com.

Gas Flames Are Easily Regulated

Even in the best regulated household, breakfast time is often a mad scramble. The man of the house eats with one eye on the clock. The children call for help as they dress hurriedly for school, and the baby clamors for his orange juice and porridge. Every minute counts.

At such a time the instant heat of gas is invaluable. The kettle boils in a moment or two. Bacon and eggs are on the table in a twinkling. And from the oven hot muffins appear as if by magic. There are no delays and no waiting with today's gas range.

After the morning excitement is over, the gas range calmly takes up the important duty of cooking a savory dish for the next meal—perhaps a stew or a special soup which must simmer gently for many hours. Just as readily as it supplies instant heat, gas provides the slow even temperature that brings out the full goodness of your favorite recipe.

In between the gentle simmer and the full flame, gas makes available an infinite number of cooking speeds. It can be regulated to the exact point that gives best results for every food. If the housewife makes a brief trip to the corner store, the flame can be turned low. The instant she returns, cooking goes ahead at full speed once more.

All through the day, gas accommodates itself to the varying needs of the household. No other fuel provides heat so quickly and no other fuel can be so precisely regulated to the hundreds of different cooking speeds that are needed for best results in cooking, according to heating experts. For so-called waterless cooking, foods can be prepared on the gas range with less water than with any other type of equipment.

For baking, broiling and frying gas has proved itself economical and efficient, meeting each special need with the correct gradation of heat that the housewife has found by experience to be most satisfactory.

Many Features in Newest of Ranges

Long ago, gas banished drudgery from the kitchen. Even the gas ranges of the past generation made cooking simpler, easier, and more economical. But these earlier ranges have been outmoded by the new gas ranges, just as the early horseless carriages have given way to the trim streamlined automobiles of the present.

Gas ranges, however, have always been so sturdily built that many of the earlier types are still in use. It is quite possible that you may be using one of them yourself and may have had no occasion to inspect today's gas ranges. The new gas ranges, now being shown will, in that case, be a revelation to you, with their smart appearance and efficiency.

Guesswork in cooking is eliminated in the new gas ranges. Oven heat can be controlled to the exact degree you wish, thus assuring the success of your favorite recipes. Time control also is available so that cooking can be started and stopped automatically.

Full insulation is another important development. It keeps the heat where it belongs, in the oven and not in the kitchen. It cuts down gas consumption. The automatic lighter is another notable convenience. Equally important is the complete redesigning of gas ranges. They are just the right height for the average woman, and many extra conveniences are built into them. Table top and console models, utility drawers, work shelves, and improved broilers are just a few of the features.

Oven Canning Called Most Scientific Way

Today, oven canning is recommended as the most scientific method. And it is the easiest method to employ if you have one of the new gas ranges. In oven canning, the jars of food are partially sealed and placed on the oven rack. Then the oven is quickly heated to the proper temperature for canning. This method of oven canning prevents out-side air from reaching the food, and there is no chance for any of the juice or flavor to escape. As a result, oven-canned foods retain the appearance and flavor of foods fresh from the garden or orchard.

The oven temperature regulator of a present-day gas range makes it easy to follow instructions for best results. The oven does not have to be constantly watched. The regulator assures that an unvarying temperature will be maintained, removing the danger of burning or of not having sufficient heat to penetrate the pans completely.

In preserving, too, the quick, dependable heat of gas and the convenient arrangement of the top burners, lighten your work and assure perfect results.

Healthful Broiled Dinners Are Easily Prepared with Gas Range

Broiling Is Thrifty Way to Make Really Savory Dishes

With the new gas ranges, broiling instead of being a neglected form of cooking, becomes the easiest, quickest, and most economical way of preparing foods. It is the most healthful way too. Special diets recommended by physicians almost invariably specify that the foods are not to be fried but broiled.

It is very easy to serve a meal in a hurry. For breakfast, you can serve crisp, crackling bacon, and toast browned to perfection under the direct flame of the gas broiler. For luncheon or dinner, you can prepare a mixed grill of broiled chops, sausages with halves of tomatoes, mushroom caps, pineapple slices, or barbecued potatoes—all broiled at one time. Hundreds of other appetizing courses are just as easily prepared in the gas broiler. The burner is placed conveniently between the baking oven and the broiling oven, enabling you to use the gas more efficiently and economically. While tempting foods are cooking under the flexible direct flame in the broiler, the oven above is also heated. Part of the broiled foods can be placed there to keep warm, or you can bake at the same time you are broiling. For instance, with a broiled breakfast, you could serve hot muffins or rolls; for luncheon, a casserole or some warmed up leftovers; and for dinner baked potatoes or an oven essert. A whole new interesting field of cookery is opened up by the efficient broilers of the new gas ranges. You will be delighted with the novelty and variety that broiled foods add to the family menu and the stimulating effect that they have on jaded appetites. Many of the most famous dishes served by the chef of world-renowned hotels are broiled. With an efficient new gas range, you can easily prepare them and enjoy these healthful broiled foods in your home. Here are several savory dishes which can be concocted with the aid of your broiler:

Porterhouse Steak
 Ingredients:
 Slice of Porterhouse Steak 2 inches thick
 1 tablespoon mustard
 1 tablespoon paprika
 1/2 teaspoonful salt
 1 tablespoon butter, creamed
 1 tablespoonful olive oil
 1 tablespoonful Worcestershire Sauce

Preparation:
 Mix mustard, paprika, and salt into the butter which has been creamed. Rub well into the meat. Place on greased broiler and set under the flame with heat control at 550° F. Keep the oven door open. Sear the meat on both sides, turning about every 15 seconds. Reduce heat to 450° F. and cook with oven door open for 45 minutes.

Barbecued Tomatoes and Onions
 Ingredients:
 1 medium-sized ripe tomato
 1 medium-size onion
 Batter
 Buttered crumbs

Preparation:
 Wash tomato and slice 3/8 inch thick. Peel, wash and slice onion 3/8 inch thick. Dip the onion in the batter, roll in crumbs, and place in the broiler with the pointer set at 450° F. Turn once or twice, cooking from 20 to 25 minutes. Dip the tomatoes in the batter, roll in butter crumbs, and place in the broiler with the pointer set at 450° F. Turn once or twice, cooking from 10 to 15 minutes. Arrange around meat on a platter.

Cooking With Gas Proves Both Efficient and Most Economical

Gas Gives Clean, Quick Heat at Minimum Cost to User

In use for more than a hundred years, gas now serves a greater number of homes than ever before. Today, it stands almost in the same class with water and air—a benefit we accept without question—an efficient servant so unobtrusive that its merits are often forgotten or overlooked. There are many reasons why gas has held its place in the forefront of the modern age. For one thing, it has been steadily developed. Gas, as used in the home today, is far more efficient than when it was first put to work for man. The method of using gas have shown the same advancement. Modern gas equipment ranks with the finest mechanical marvels of the age.

But the basic reason why the use of gas continues to increase year after year is economy. There is no other fuel that gives such complete satisfaction at such low cost. And there is no other equipment that requires so little care or maintenance. The first cost is the least. After installing gas equipment you can practically forget it, so far as upkeep is concerned. In cooking, quick, clean gas heat accomplishes results in a minimum of time, and automatic devices have been developed which by starting and shutting off the supply at a prescribed time make economy a science. In refrigeration, gas so simplifies operation that a few pennies a day represent the entire cost. No other fuel makes possible an abundant supply of hot water day and night at such low cost. The modern gas heater is entirely automatic and reduces fuel requirements to a minimum.

Here are a few of the reasons why gas cooking proves so economical: Less food shrinkage with gas: Cooking with gas effects a big saving in food bills, because there is less shrinkage. Quick gas heat with its perfect temperature control, cooks foods in minimum time, thus reducing the losses that are bound to occur with other cooking methods. Foods, instead of being dried out, retain the moisture and juices that make them healthful and appetizing. Waste is virtually eliminated. This is true of an up-to-date gas range, whether you are preparing food in the oven or on the cooking top. In each case, gas provides the constant, unvarying heat that quickly accomplishes the desired results. The saving in food shrinkage is only one of the many economies that make gas the most satisfactory of all fuels for cooking.

The new gas ranges cost less. Manufacturers of gas equipment were among the first to adopt systems of quantity production with the result that modern gas ranges and other gas equipment, although superior to earlier models, are surprisingly low priced. Accustomed to high prices for other types of household equipment, most people are amazed when they discover how much they can get for their money in gas equipment. Attractive time payment plans make purchasing still easier.

Installation costs little or nothing. In most cases, no charge is made for the installation of gas equipment. Sometimes, exceptional conditions require a small charge, but this is always very reasonable. Installations are made by experienced men who look after every detail. Few pieces of equipment are so easily put to work in the home as a gas range, a gas water heater, a gas-operated refrigerator, or other gas appliances.

Meals for a fraction of a cent per person. A nation-wide survey has revealed that the cost of cooking meals with gas is only a fraction of a cent per person on a national average. The economy of gas, so clearly revealed by this survey, helps to explain why gas is the leader of modern fuels.

From the Kitchen

New ways of preparing foods occupy the thoughts and efforts of so many women, that recipes are always welcome. Here are some favorites of famous chefs at internationally known hotels, which you may prepare easily on your gas range:

Rockefeller Oysters
 Antoine's Restaurant, New Orleans, La.

Take large selected oysters. Open them and leave them on the half shell. Fill the shells containing the oysters on a bed of rock salt in a pie pan. The sauce for the oysters is compounded as follows:

Take the tail and tips of special green onions, celery, chervil, tarragon leaves, cream of stable bread, tabasco sauce, the best of butter obtainable and pound all these into a mixture in a mortar, so that all the fragrant flavorings are blended. Then force the mixture through a sieve. Place one spoonful on each oyster as it rests on its own shell and in its own juice on the crushed rock salt, the purpose of which is to keep the oyster piping hot. Then place them in an oven with overhead heat (broiling oven) and cook until brown. Serve immediately.

Stuffed Crown Roast of Baby Lamb, California
 Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal.

Have meat cutter prepare a crown roast from a rack of baby lamb. Fill center with celery dressing, put into roasting pan, and sear well in hot oven (temperature 480° F.) for 20 minutes. Then reduce temperature to 350° F., and add a cut up onion and carrots, or branches of celery, if necessary. Add a little water and continue cooking for one hour longer.

Cover ends of ribs with brown paper so they will not burn, basting also if desired. When done, take out of roast pan and add a little water or lamb stock. Let simmer for about five minutes. Then skim off fat and strain through a puree strainer. Put crown in center of platter and garnish with small new peas, carrots, and potatoes. Cut with an olive cutter small stuffed tomatoes, julienne of string beans, and fresh asparagus tips or broccoli. Arrange vegetables uniformly around the rack and put a cauliflower and Brussels sprouts in center of the crown. Sprinkle with brown butter and serve hot. Will serve six.

Eggs a la King
 This recipe makes four servings

 3 tablespoonfuls butter
 2 tablespoonfuls flour
 1 cupful milk
 1/2 teaspoonful salt
 1/8 teaspoonful mustard
 1/4 teaspoonful paprika
 1 tablespoonful lemon juice
 1 egg yolk
 1/2 cupful mushroom caps and liquor
 3 tablespoonfuls pimentoes cut in strips
 1 cupful sliced hard-cooked eggs
 1/2 cupful drained peas

Preparation:
 Melt 2 tablespoonfuls butter in the top of the double boiler. Stir in the flour, then the milk, slowly, stirring until thickened. Pan fry the drained mushroom caps until a golden brown in 1 tablespoon of butter. Add liquor to the mushrooms. Beat the egg yolk and blend well with the sauce. Add mushrooms and liquor, peas, and chopped eggs. Cook over water for about ten minutes until yolk is cooked. Place hot on toast with server.

Baked Lobster, Touraine
 Hotel Touraine, Boston, Massachusetts

1 Boil lobster for fifteen minutes.
 2 Split lobster and make a special stuffing consisting of:
 (a) parsley
 (b) onion
 (c) fresh mushrooms
 (d) red pepper

History of Plymouth---

Children of Pioneers Stood Up to Eat—Deer Tallow Provided Light—Methodist Circuit Rider Starts Church Here.

(Chapter VIII)
A short history of one of the pioneer families is typical of the others. Jared Fairman and family came from New York in the spring of 1825 and took up 160 acres of land at $1.25 per acre in Canton township, two south as it was known till April 1827 when it was called South Plymouth till separately organized on March 7, 1834 under the name of Canton. The government deed of this land was signed by President John Quincy Adams. The family consisted of the father, mother, six children and grandmother. The youngest child, six months old, later became Mrs. Carmen Root's mother.

They came by boat from Buffalo to Detroit, being two weeks en route. In Detroit they bought an ox team and wagon and drove the rest of the way. The roads were frightful and the wheels often had to be pried out of the ruts and mud. It took three days to come from Detroit to their destination. Then they had no home till one could be built. They were taken in by a family man and wife and six children who lived in a one room log house. That means there were 12 children and five grown people in one room, till the trees were cut and made into logs and logs laid into the four walls when they moved. It was two weeks before the roof was on, but luckily no rain fell during that time.

Among household goods were three chairs, one for the grandmother and one each for the father and mother. The mother's was a straight backed rocker which also served as a cradle. The children stood at the table to eat but there was a bench made for them to sit on in front of the fireplace. The fire lighted the room very well and although they had candles made from deer tallow, they were not plentiful so they used them sparingly. They made maple syrup in the spring and the maple sugar was about the only sugar they had. The sugar made in the spring had to last them through the year. They raised and spun flax and wove it into the necessary cloth for bedding, table linen, etc. They also spun and wove their wool into cloth for all the warm clothing they had. The families were large and in the school the older children of the families answered the roll call for the number of children of his family that were present. The teacher would call the family as: Cady, answer 5; Root, answer 6; and so on.

The settlers of Plymouth were mostly New Englanders or of New England descent, who had enjoyed the advantages of and fully appreciated common school education. As soon as the first rudiments of life were provided for, a school was established. The school was a rough log cabin the same as the settlers dwellings. Seats with hewn slabs with pegs for legs and without backs.
The story of Plymouth Methodist goes back to the early days when Plymouth was but a little hamlet of half a dozen log houses, surrounded by dense forests known only to the Indians and wild animals that roamed at will over a vast territory extending west from Detroit. Over a century ago in 1825, when the first log house was built on the site that has become the Plymouth of today, the settlement became a part of the Detroit district of the Methodist church. At the session of the Ohio Conference held at Chillicothe, September 18, 1828, Huron Circuit, including all the territory lying west of Detroit was separated from the Detroit district, and Rev. Benjamin Cooper appointed preacher. This circuit, which included Plymouth extended for forty miles west from Detroit through an almost unbroken wilderness. At the Ohio Conference, held at Circleville, August 30, 1834, Plymouth was made a circuit of the Detroit district with Marcus Swift and Lorenzo Davis as preachers in charge. The circuit at that time consisted of ten preaching places, and 411 members. August, 1834, was the one hundredth anniversary of the coming of the first resident pastor to this church.
Early Methodist preaching services in Plymouth were held in the Waterford school house, later in private residences in Plymouth.

When in the Plymouth school house. The lot on which the first church building was erected was purchased from E. J. Penniman in 1848, and is the same lot on which the present building stands. In 1874 this building was remodelled. Again in 1914 it was remodelled at a cost of $9000. Rev. Joseph Dutton was pastor at that time. The membership was still in debt in the amount of $300 when fire destroyed the building in 1916. Worship was then continued in a tabernacle in the park across from the church, and in the village hall until Easter 1917, when under the leadership of Rev. F. M. Field a new church was dedicated at a cost of $20,000. By Easter 1924 the pipe organ and mortgage had been paid and a victory celebration was the result. At the same time it was realized that the needs of the church had outgrown the building, and the present Community House unit was added at a cost of $35,000 more.

BOOK SHELF

"The Gay Reformer," by Mauritz Hallgren.
Books reviewed in this column may be obtained at the Plymouth library.

Despite the flippancy of the title, Mauritz Hallgren's "Gay Reformer" is a serious, sometimes even omniscient study of President Roosevelt's accomplishments during the past three years. The disparity between the aims and achievements of any president must in view of the many checks upon his power, be great. But Mr. Hallgren's picture presents such a wide divergence as to make us pause to think.
At the outset Roosevelt is described as a man who is naturally a leader who must be a leader in order to satisfy a driving inner urge, but who is most pitifully lacking in a fundamental knowledge of the economic disturbances through which he has sought to lead the country since he entered office. A humanitarian, a man of action, but of considerable action, a man personal nomination through a consideration of "nobles oblige," but with no very clear notion of what his noble obligation is—such is Mr. Hallgren's presentation of our president.

You can take it or leave it, and some of it can well be left, but there are certain uncontrollable facts in the book, well backed by a careful bibliography, and these certainly cannot be overlooked.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

CAN'T SHOVEL SNOW HERE

In Detroit welfare workers cannot be compelled to shovel snow. It is not in the Code. In New York City the mayor has a list of 20,000 men on relief and each one has instructions just where to report if it snows. They are not even called. Those who fail to report find their relief checks stopped. They are paid 25 cents an hour.—Milton Carmichael in The Detroit Courier.

If the town fizzles, fail-ures and flops are knocking you, then you're succeeding.—Joe Haas in The Holy Herald.

WHEN LOVE GROWS COLD

If the Literary Digest poll shows Michigan sentiment swinging away from the New Deal at a rate only exceeded by three States in rock-ribbed republican New England, there can be but small wonder. Michigan's share from the Washington grab bag has been meagre compared to the enormous tax roll annually exacted from our citizens by the federal government. And what is actually being spent here is accompanied with the usual bureaucratic ineptitude. In Detroit funds are being forced on the city for a slum clearance project it does not want. The State Highway Department, citadel of democratic hopes, finds no difficulty in securing nearly a million dollars to conduct a traffic survey which will grow musty in state files, but when a republican governor pleads with the overloads of the national pocket-book to assist in an institutional building program to house mental and tubercular patients his pleas fall upon deaf ears. Michigan will proceed with its plans to relieve human misery without federal assistance, but when we witness the spectacle of billions of dollars being wasted on useless projects in states more friendly to the New Deal the oft repeated statement there must be no politics in PWA allotments causes most thinking people to reach over and take a healthy pinch of salt from the proverbial jar. If there is any truth in the charge that the New Deal is out to buy votes with government paid projects, perhaps we should be less critical if we find them shying away from a spot on the national map that promises so little in return.—George Neal in The Orion Review.

ON THE WAY OUT

There's little hope for the man who is forever blaming his trouble on somebody else. But when he begins to fight himself and his foolish habits you can begin to look for a man emerging out of the shadows of doubt and despair.—J. E. McMullen in The Linden Leader.

CIVIL SERVICE FOR RELATIVES

Our very good and conscientious governor has fixed as his A-1 plank in his 1936 platform for re-election "Civil Service." We have a lot of very nice examples of Civil Service right here in Detroit and just how it work. A few weeks ago a new crop of Records Court Judges (recently re-elected for six years), fired a bunch of veteran city employees to take care of their own relatives. One judge in Detroit very recently had relatives on the public payroll drawing more than $50,000 a year. He explained that when they took the Civil Service examination that they were very efficient.—Milton Carmichael in The Detroit Courier.

Mr. Pierce, proprietor of the railroad restaurant, was very seriously burned on the hands while filling a gasoline burner and is, at present writing, confined to his bed.

C. S. Merrill and Mrs. Knapp of Saginaw have purchased the remaining vacant lots on Penniman avenue, east of Dr. Caster's home, lately purchased by Mrs. Knapp.

Emil Schilling and Miss Ida Krumm were married at the Baptist parsonage by Rev. W. W. DesAutels, Tuesday, March 14th. Best wishes go with the young couple.

Married at the residence of Robt. H. Warner on Liberty street, by Rev. DesAutels, pastor of the Baptist church, Saturday evening March 14th, Harry C. Lawson and Mary E. Porter.

The Presbyterian society sometime ago purchased a lot north of Baker's gallery and fronting their church property, and they are now getting ready to build a parsonage thereon—a modern manse. Plans will be matured in a few days.

Twenty fine young maple trees are being planted on the triangle park, Church street and Penniman avenue, owned by Mrs. Allen. They will add much to the appearance of the park in a few years, when they will have acquired growth.

Archie Collins, delivery man for Parlett & Rattenbury, "tickled the ribs" of his horse Tuesday which had such a pleasant effect on the animal that he wanted to return the compliment by "tickling" Archie's right ear with his left hind foot. He made a miss, however, but caught Archie's right finger instead and the young man now carries a broken digit in a sling.

New Building Begun by Automobile Plant

Construction has already started on the new engineering building to be erected by Olds Motor Works, according to C. L. McCuen, president and general manager of Oldsmobile.

This latest addition to the Oldsmobile plant will be located on Olds avenue directly behind the parts warehouse building. The building, designed by Albert Kahn of Detroit, will be a three story building, 131 feet by 410 feet, and will add 153,000 square feet to the Oldsmobile factory. Steel, concrete and brick construction will be used throughout. The brick exterior will harmonize in appearance with the other buildings at the Oldsmobile plant.

With the addition of this building, new and larger quarters will be provided for the engineering department. In addition to the engineering department, this new building will also house the service department. The greatly increased Oldsmobile production has necessitated an expansion of this department.

The engineering and service departments will occupy the first and second floors. The third floor will be devoted to special facilities for car displays and a department for building exhibits for display at automobile shows.

Newburg P. T. A. to Sponsor Carnival

Under the auspices of the Newburg Parent-Teachers association a carnival will be held this evening at the Newburg school. There will be dancing and refreshments, a fortune teller and refreshments. Shader's orchestra will furnish the music.

The Passing Months

Opening Day for Trout Fishing Changed from Traditional May 1

An anglers' tradition of many years standing will be shattered when trout fishing season opens in Michigan this spring. It used to be that May 1 signified the opening of the trout season and the date was acknowledged by tens of thousands of sportsmen as their special holiday. But beginning this year trout season officially opens on the last Saturday in April and the first of May is just another date on the fishing calendar.

The change was made by an act of the last state legislature and as a result the trout fishermen will have six extra days of fishing in addition to a weekend on which to celebrate the opening of the season.

Beginning of the trout season on the last Saturday in April will allow the many northern Michigan communities a better opportunity to stage their annual trout festivals and celebrations, state authorities point out. In a number of these communities the opening of the trout season has developed a holiday or carnival spirit. Men left their places of business and in some instances so many pupils were absent from school that authorities had to suspend school sessions on an opening day whenever it occurred during the school week.

In effect the new law, changing the opening date from May 1 to the last Saturday in April, gives the office worker and shop laborer an even chance with the man of more leisure to be on his favorite stream to observe the opening of the season. Fisheries men assent.

Although the opening date is about 50 days off, authorities are speculating. The innovation may or may not be favorable to fishing; it is too early to make a guess on that matter, they say. It is possible however, that the angler

Porcupine Mountains to Be Made Accessible

People of Michigan as well as non-resident visitors probably will have their first opportunity by early summer to enjoy an auto tour in the Porcupine mountain region.

This wilderness area in the western end of the upper peninsula is rapidly being made accessible by the construction of a state road from Silver City, in Ontonagon county, west. Heretofore the area with its lofty hills and scenic lakes has been known chiefly from accounts of campers and hikers who have been hardy enough to penetrate it afoot.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner has expressed the belief that the state as far as the west end of Lake of the Clouds might be open and ready for public use by the first of August.

Construction of a scenic "loop" drive around Lake of the Clouds from the end of the scenic state highway is said to be under consideration by Ontonagon county authorities.

State Motorists "Find" Half of "Lost" Titles

Some 3,000 motorists in Michigan who thought they had lost the titles to their cars, or who didn't think anything at all about titles until they needed them, have "found" them in the past two months.

The number of titles in the "lost title" files of the department of state has been reduced from about 6,000 to near 3,000 since the first of the year. The cause for the reduction is that many motorists, unable to locate their titles in order to buy 1936 plates, have appealed to the department, only to discover the missing titles held there for want of information as to their owner's addresses.

Owners of about 75 titles are revealing themselves daily, about 50 per cent more than the daily crop of "lost" titles. These new titles are being returned daily, undeliverable by postal authorities, because of incorrect addresses filed with the state by car purchasers.

Failure to notify postmasters of changed addresses, and carelessness when originally recording addresses with the department of state, are the two principal causes for "lost" titles.

In everyone's life there's more prose than poetry.

91 Drilling Permits Issued in Michigan

The new year got away to a fine start toward setting a new record in the number of oil drilling permits issued in Michigan. State petroleum geologists state that 72 permits to drill for oil or gas were issued in January and 19 in February.

This is better than the aggregate record for January and February last year. The record number of permits issued in any one year, 700, was made in 1935.

How Many Friends Have You?

It HAS been said that the number of friends you have depends almost wholly upon you; for friendship is like many other precious possessions in that it does not thrive on neglect.

Most expressions of friendship, in this modern age, involve the use of the telephone. Direct, personal, inexpensive, it has come to be the recognized means of arranging nearly all informal social gatherings.

It has greatly simplified the rôle of the hostess, relieving her of bothersome complications once inseparable from entertaining. By telephone the woman of today can obtain acceptances or regrets without delay; she can make a last-minute addition to her guests, can quickly summon a fourth for bridge.

Modern telephone service is a special boon to those who have been parted by distance. It gives them, despite their separation, the opportunity for "voice reunions"—for a kind of personal contact which only the telephone can provide. Over it they can send greetings of the season, condolences, congratulations—all the various remembrances that arise from genuine friendship—and prove that absence need not necessarily mean forgetfulness.

Quick, dependable, the telephone service provided by this Company has won a definite part in the social life of the people of Michigan, and daily fulfills an important function in the many occasions which both promote and preserve the treasure of friendship.

A PRAYER
O divine Father, we believe Thy hand has been in the founding and fortunes of this great Nation. We thank Thee for its ideals, principles, and the glorious company of its apostles of truth, its noble army of martyrs for liberty and justice. We pray that this land of ours may be the scene of unceasing activity and the instrument of Thy holy purposes. Let the clouds that hinder us be dispelled by the brilliance of the shining of the sun of righteousness and peace.

Lord, defend our land from the secret, subtle power and the open shame of great national sins, from all dishonesty and corruption from vainglory and selfish luxury, from all cruelty and the spirit of violence, from all contentions which is idolatry, from impurities which defile, and from intemperance which is the mother of many crimes and sorrow. Good Lord, deliver and save us and our children, in the land which Thou hast blessed with the light of pure religion through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

LIFE'S SYMPHONY
To be thankful for each new day and to put into it and get out of it all the good it can.
To give expecting nothing in return, to help to bear the burdens of others without burdening them with mine, to know enough of sorrow to be able to sympathize, to know enough of sin to direct others into right paths, to be blessed with enough of the world's goods to be satisfied with what I have, to look to Nature for my spiritual lessons and my daily sermons, to take care of the present and to let the past and future take care of themselves.
In other words, to live each day as though it were my last.—Jenny.

Style Silhouettes

While the March wind doth blow, the debaral dash of the new spring suits is most appropriate. Everything is very sporty this season, and your suits will either be quite collegiate swaggar affairs, with short flaring coats of three-quarters or fingertip length, or tailored in a mannish style with hip-length fitted jackets.

Materials, like the styles, are decidedly sports in character. There are recklessly bold plaids for many of the swaggar suits, and masculine tweeds and stripes for others. And with what, you may ask, do you wear one of those quaint little straw bonnets bedecked with feathers and a veil. The answer is a dress coat, ensemble, or afternoon tea frock. For street wear one must adhere to the rule of simplicity, almost severity, to achieve smartness. Hats for these costumes, both springs, felts and straws, are blocked on mannish lines. Some have dipping brims, others are straight, and still others turn up Breton sailor style.

Of course one can't attempt even a limited survey of spring fashions without a word about the current rage for "London tan" or "luggage tan," as it is called. It is used for shoes, gloves, purses and other accessories to accent the general effect of one's costume, whether it be brown, blue or gray. Hosiery of the same shade is necessary if one's outfit is to be quite "a la mode."

Most of us begin by declaring the new ten outrageous and garish, but will end up by wearing it. However, for those who absolutely refuse, let us say that navy blue or gray ensembles will be quite in fashion.

Color, color and more color. Nothing is so out of step with modern trends as an outfit which is sombre black, brown or blue without a splash of a brighter shade or two somewhere. Plain materials are being combined with gay prints in many dresses. For instance, you may choose a redingote model, with print frock and coat of navy blue. Or there are many pocket dresses and slacks in navy or black with print blouses.

Flocks of print materials are, of course, very good right now because they can be worn under winter coats and with winter accessories as long as the cold weather lasts, yet are new and spring-like in appearance. Some are florals, others are geometric patterns, but all are bright colors. Vivid shades of American beauty and a deep pansy blue are being used together, as are navy and bright green, and, for contrast, black and white.

And by the way, although it is early for a spring garden you can wear flowers, or if you prefer, vegetables! It is quite the thing to brighten up your dark coats and dresses with artificial nosegays—some of them quaint old-fashioned flowers in pastel colors, others more exotic blooms in bright shades, and, for novelty, bunches of tiny carrots, peppers, beans and what have you. They really look less edible and more decorative than they sound.

A Glimpse Into Their Yesterdays

There was a young fellow who went to the public schools in Detroit. He was such an excellent student in English, literature and allied subjects that he never had to take an examination.

When it came to arithmetic, algebra and similar subjects, he flunked nearly every examination. In order to get by with his mathematics, it was necessary to sit up nights and study, and then his teachers in figures passed him because, apparently, they felt sorry for him.

And would you believe that this same young fellow is today making a living by adding long columns of figures, computing compound interest, and handling ledger pages from morning until night, without anything besides figures upon them?

Well it is true--this youngster in school who had difficulty in adding two and two and making four come out as the answer is none other than Jack E. Taylor, cashier of the First National bank--and one of those exacting kind of cashiers who sees to it that every column of figures is added correctly.

Cashier Taylor was born in Detroit in 1905. He attended Pingree school and Southeastern High. Then he came out to Plymouth and graduated from the high school in this city with the class of 1923.

It was soon after he had finished his school career at the college when Harry Lee, who was then president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce which had just been organized, offered the young man a job as secretary of the business group. He accepted the position.

It was along about this time that an effort was being made to put Plymouth on the map so that every one in this part of the world would know about the place.

The Chamber of Commerce erected over in the park a small information booth and from early morn until late at night Mr. Jack E. Taylor sat at the window passing out printed matter about Plymouth and shouting its advantages to every one who came within sound of his voice.

So well did he do this job that the following year, in 1925, he was offered a position in the People's State bank which is now the First National bank, as a clerk. About two years ago he was made cashier of the institution and he finds banking a greater delight than Irving Cobb and his kind do in pounding out pipe dreams on a typewriter.

It was in 1929 that he married Miss Wilma Briggs, a classmate during his school days in the Plymouth high school. He is one of Plymouth's most devoted followers of Isaac Walton and worships at his shrine as devoutly as does a Chink before a Pagan god. He counts the days from one fishing season to another.

He is intensely interested in the work of the Masonic lodge, has served as Worshipful Master of Plymouth Rock lodge and he is at present High Priest of the Plymouth-Northville Chapter. He counts his friendships by the legion.

LIKE THE PLAYING OF THE IMMORTAL Paganini* COOKING, TOO, IS A FINE ART! At the Autumn Salon of 1927 of l'Institut de France, the art of cooking was officially recognized along with painting, literature and sculpture as one of the Fine Arts. Paganini won worldwide acclaim for his music. Choosing the finest instrument available for the interpretation of his art--a treasured Stradivarius--or a Joseph Gaumerius--he held audiences spellbound. . . . So today, in a humbler form, women who are unaging artists of the kitchen weave a spell with the magic of cookery. Using their innate talent to fashion tempting, nourishing dishes from simple foods, they are content to win a lesser form of recognition. Rarely regarded as artists--modest housewives and homemakers, most of them--they find joy in the creative endeavor that results in that prime essential . . . a good meal. Their reward is the pleasure they bring their families--and the satisfaction of knowing that a good cook never lacks appreciation. . . . For their equipment, they may choose (as is the privilege of all great artists) the finest available. There is no penalty of price attached to this ownership. The Stradivarius of cook stoves is the electric range. Today, even a family in moderate circumstances may own one . . . and a good cook will cherish it. For the electric cook stove reduces difficulties and multiplies achievements. It is the common denominator of women everywhere who pride themselves on their cooking. . . . AND THE STRADIVARIUS OF COOK STOVES IS THE ELECTRIC RANGE! . . . *NICOLÒ PAGANINI, Italian virtuoso on the violin, whose flying fingers related new heights in the mastery of difficult technical passages, was a musician--composer extraordinary. Born in Gerson in 1781, he was giving concert recitals while a boy of nine. A few years later, he was astounding the world with his pyrotechnic brilliance. Legend has it that contemporary violinists, seeing the scores of many of his compositions, were agast at the difficulty of their execution, and declared it was physically impossible to play them. Paganini played them in a passionate and impressive style that moved his audience to tears. He performed prodigious feats on the fourth string alone; and his years of force were so astonishing that a Viennese amateur declared he had seen the devil assisting him. Leftovers (You can clean out the ice box with this one) On the evening you don't particularly care for an imposing roast or stuffed fowl or tenderloin steak, here is an inexpensive dish that will just fill the bill. It's a good recipe for the day after the night before--try it! LEFTOVERS AU GRATIN 3 cups leftover vegetables 1 cup diced onion 1/2 cup diced cheese 1/2 cup bread or cracker crumbs Mix vegetables together and place alternate layers of vegetables and cheese in buttered casserole. (Three or four vegetables and two of cheese.) Pour two cups of white sauce over all. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake thirty minutes at 375 degree.

Firestone Costs So Little To Protect Lives Worth So Much

Last year unsafe tires and improperly adjusted brakes caused more than 50,000 accidents--casualties that could largely have been avoided. Why not equip your car with Firestone High Speed Tires and Sealte Tubes and have your brakes relined with Firestone Aquapruf Brake Lining? You will have the safest driving equipment money can buy.

Performance records prove that Firestone High Speed Tires give greatest blowout protection, and tests by a leading university show they will stop your car 15% to 25% quicker. Why risk your life and the lives of others by driving on tires that slip and slide--that give little or no protection against blowouts--and with brakes that fail to hold? It costs so little to protect lives worth so much! Take no chances--call

Highway Projects to Be Increased

A triple increase in employment on state highway projects within the next month, according to plans of Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner.

At the commissioner's call, state and federal authorities conferred over labor regulations and conditions governing Michigan highway program.

The commissioner revealed that 1,962 men are now at work on the current highway relief program. He estimated that 5,370 men will be needed by April 15 for this program and 6,854 by June 1.

His announcement pointed out that more than $18,000,000 of the current $20,600,000 program has been placed under contract including $4,500,000 worth of completed projects.

Auto Sales Up After Break in Cold Spell

A week of mild weather at the end of February started the wave of automobile buying that was predicted would follow the severe cold of the preceding month.

Figures given out by Pontiac Motor company indicate that almost as many cars were delivered during the last nine days of February as in all of the rest of the month combined.

Total Pontiac retail deliveries in February were 9,515, of which 3,809 were delivered in the last nine days.

"The quickness with which retail sales came back as soon as there was a break in the weather bears out the contention that there would be no business lost due to the cold weather," said C. P. Simpson, general sales manager of Pontiac.

"It should be remembered that one year ago as in other years there was added incentive of auto shows which had just closed or were in progress to account for a healthy volume of sales in mid-winter. In the immediate future we expect sales in our own company to benefit from the General Motors shows of 1936 now in progress in nearly 50 important centers, and from the heavy newspaper advertising campaign which we launched March 1 and which will continue weekly.

Opportunity for distinction lies in doing ordinary things well and not in erratically striving to perform grandstand plays.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalms 33:6-9): "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made, and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. For He spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 263): "The fading forms of matter, the mortal body and material earth, are the fleeting concepts of the human mind. They have their day before the permanent facts and their perfection in Spirit appear."

Every Year Windstorms Bring Heavy Property Losses

Property losses during 1935, paid by this company alone, amounted to $261,000, and 1935 was not a year of very severe windstorms. It costs so little to carry adequate windstorm protection in this big company that no property owner can afford to remain unprotected. Over 50 years of honest and satisfactory adjustment of claims and prompt payment of losses mark the enviable record of this company.

Matheson, coach of the high school basketball team, has received notice from the Twin Valley League that Harold Wagenschutz was chosen all-star center on the second team and Jack Kinsey, Dave Gates, and Jack Williams all received honorable mention. DUNLOP PICKED FOR CLASS VALEDICTORIAN

Gwendolyn Dunlop, with an all "A" average of 97 per cent, was selected recently for the valedictorian of the senior class of 1936. Jean Roediger, who had an average of 95.5 per cent with one "B", will be the class salutatorian.

Gwendolyn came to Plymouth High school from Rosedale Gardens in her freshman year. She has never had a final mark lower than "A" on any high school subject and has participated in many forms of athletics. She has been an energetic member of her class and has served as its secretary for the last two years. She is now president of Girl Reserves.

10-year-old Roediger who lives on Warren road also came to school here when she was a freshman. She previously attended a school near Wayne. She has always been on the honor roll, active in her school and has participated in many forms of athletics. She has a school letter, Jean and Gwendolyn are the closest of friends.

When the marks of the class were figured there were 25 seniors with an average of 90 or higher. There are in order of their standing: Gwendolyn Dunlop, Jean Roediger, Jeanette Bauman, Harry Fischer, Roland Rhead, Jack Kinsey, Kathleen Ford, Robert Van Meter, Audrey Moore, Jack Sessions, Mildred Postiff, Elizabeth Whipple, Helen Thall, Russell Kirk, Helen George, Mary Jane Gamble, Alice Williams, Iola Curtis, Joe Merritt, Kenneth Thumme, Neil Pierce, and Jean Brocklehurst.

THE SEVEN HUNDRED

To prove that there is an element of the unusual in the most selected of places, I am going to write a bit about the romance of the sea. It is a romance which has been going on for a long time. It was the influence of spring which got into his bones, of which he had been something else, but now it was the butterfly net. It was one of the latest models with a reversing attachment which he can pull and make the whole net turn wide side out. He was disappointed the whole class however by catching some electrical charges instead of some butterflies. Here's hoping it holds electrical charges. That serves to remind me of once when Harry Fischer was quite interested in butterfly collections. It seems that someone told him that one of his girl friends was an enthusiastic butterfly collector. He was already to give her a tomato worm when the story broke over his head, and he found out that she had been the victim of a classic gag. He didn't find out how ever until he had read two technical volumes on butterflies.

Getting back to Mr. Evans, the first thing that he brought to a class was a magic wand. It was a long ebony stick with which he stroked the fur of the left hind foot of a rabbit and then went about tapping all sorts of things with the wand. Mysteriously, he waved it through the air and it tapped an empty glass bottle, and waited expectantly. To really make a good column out of it, I conclude by saying that a little "bunny rabbit" jumped out into his lap. But it didn't work.

Then Don Thall thought that the kinds of electric cells were "the dry cell, the Daniel's cell, the voltaic cell, and the padded cell."

TUBERCULIN TEST TIGER SENIORS

For the first time since 1933 the tuberculin test has been given to the senior class members. It had until three years ago been an annual feature of the health department in the state, but because of financial conditions these tests had been discontinued. Now with the return of more moderate conditions these very worth while tests have been reinstated in the work of the department. More than one-half of the entire senior class had written permission to take the test, which is a scientific method of detecting any symptoms of the dread disease which annually has taken a great toll of the youth of the nation. Those who have not as yet taken the test are advised by the health department to have the test given them by their family doctor. In these tests given to the senior class members reports will not be available for another week because of the nature of the test and the time required for a reaction. Those who have a positive reaction at that time will be given x-rays to determine the degree of seriousness to be attached to the case.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

The kindergarten children invited their mothers and friends to their first complete party on Thursday, March 12. The children entertained their visitors with songs, rhythms, and band numbers. The kindergarten children were presented with a new doll last week.

The second grade pupils made a movie on wrapping paper, summing up the story of the Three Little Pigs. They have made March posters showing kites being blown by the wind. Miss S. R. Fessler, Miss Slader's sister from Wayne, visited the second grade room Friday, March 6.

The children in the fourth grade room have made pictures of Venice for art. The 5B Hygiene students have made booklets about teeth, telling the names and functions of each part. The sixth grade pupils are going to print a newspaper for language. The 6A's are studying different countries.

The mural in the sixth grade room has been completed. This grew out of a special study in literature and the characters were decided upon by the children. Each member was given an opportunity to draw what he wanted to and the best were selected and mounted on the mural by different artists in the class. They depicted upon a reading table full of books as the center and the characters chosen for the best of the mural. They are: Robin Hood, Heidi, and the Affie Child, Daniel Boone, Mrs. Wags of the Cabbage Patch, Rip Van Winkle, Lady, Sir Roland, Black Beauty, John Silver, Tom Sawyer, Hans Brinker, and the Columbus River. They were painted on wrapping paper with enamel paints.

G. R.'S. PRESENT BEAUTIFUL ASSEMBLY

A very beautiful and impressive assembly was given Wednesday, March 11 by three groups of Girl Reserves, the intermediate, junior, and senior groups. The assembly began with 13 junior and senior girls singing "Aladdin" and "Everyday Always." As they were rendering the latter, Dorothy Roe, as "The Spirit of the Girl Reserves," slowly walked to center stage carrying a white candle. She spoke a few words, then 12 intermediate girls dressed in white tunics came in, and the chorus sang "Candles That Burn" as they took their places. Each girl carried a candle, a different color from that of her neighbors, and wore a tie to match it. As they walked over to the Spirit of Girl Reserves' light their candles, each told her why she wished her candle to be lit. In every girl's wish was a line from the Girl Reserve code, for each girl was a part of the code spelling out the words Girl Reserves. The chorus concluded the ceremony by singing the Girl Reserve song "Follow the Gleam" as the 12 girls followed their leader, the "Spirit," down the center aisle of the auditorium and into the hall, all singing the song.

The rest of the period was spent by every one present singing Girl Reserve songs.

SENIOR'S WHO'S WHO

Neil Oren Pierce was born on 1411 Street, Detroit, December 19, 1918. He went to school at some kindergarten in the city, the name of which he has forgotten, and then to the Durfee Intermediate school. He then went to school at the Model school in Pontiac, Michigan, and then to the Durfee Intermediate school. He is taking a college preparatory course, but he says that that doesn't necessarily mean anything. He plays the tuba in the school band and is also an expert at the piano and guitar which he likes the best. His favorite diversion is reading; he likes to read and collect books about history, literature, and science. He hopes some day to start a collection of books. If he can get the present his collection is nothing of the ordinary. His favorite subject is English. When he graduates in June, he wants to get a job and save money to go to an electrical school. He can't get the job, he wants to join C.C.C. camp. Neil lives with his parents on Road in the district known as Tryonville.

Mildred Estelle Postiff is another home town product, and one of whom we are justly proud. She was born on a farm on Lilley road near Plymouth on June 31, 1918 and all her schooling has been obtained here. Her central and high school record is excellent and she has been good in all subjects. She has been a member of the senior averages were figured a few days ago. Mildred's average was only three points below that of our valedictorian. Besides excelling in school work, Mildred is a very active girl, especially basketball and has taken part in interclass sports contests all four years. She is a member of the Leaders' club and this year is the manager of the senior girls sports teams. Already she is a member of the Y.M.C.A. and is now earning a 400 point letter.

Mildred is not at all fussy and likes almost everything. Some of her favorites are: color, white; sport, basketball; occupation, sewing; and subject, geometry. Her hobbies are reading, collecting, and she is a member of the Y.M.C.A. and is now earning a 400 point letter.

Miss Frantz's pupils are working hard on their penmanship so they may obtain their pins or certificates. They decorated the windows with tulips, which makes the room look very spring like. Everyone is very interested in their spelling chart and they are working hard to improve their records.

Miss Frantz's pupils are working hard for their gold star pins in writing. They are drawing pictures of birds and learned a poem entitled "The Robin." Mrs. Bird's pupils are studying "True Dwellers and Cavemen." They are making Easter decorations. They have a new classmate, Annabelle Fischer, who is composed of Robert Kirkpatrick, the sixth grade champion who won on the word "defeat," Steve Dely, the runner-up, Evelyn Elliott, William Donovan, Jane Stewart, Elizabeth Wheeler, Fred and Virgo, Nancy McLaren, Joan Steinhilber, and Yvonne Taylor. The next bee will be held on April 3, to determine the school champion.

Three of Miss Detwiler's pupils are the fifth or sixth grade spelling team. The Palmer Method papers are being turned in rapidly and are very well done. Miss Deweese's 1A pupils have made covers for their community helper books in which they have included pictures and stories about the postman, milkman, fireman, and policeman. They also composed short poems about each one. In art they made windmills. The art books in which they have included pictures and stories about the postman, milkman, fireman, and policeman. They also composed short poems about each one. In art they made windmills.

The mural in the sixth grade room has been completed. This grew out of a special study in literature and the characters were decided upon by the children. They were painted on wrapping paper with enamel paints.

THE TAYLOR CORNER

The seniors this year are a versatile lot for they hope and ambition mean anything. Roland Rhead is going to be a member of the bar association. We trust he won't have to defend Miller and Coffin in court for strictly legal "bar" enterprise. Harry Fischer might grow tomatoes on his old home farm just grasp the picture of Harry down on his knees, and in a whedding voice, entreating the little tomatoes to grow quickly into big tomatoes. So he, Harry, can quickly become a capitalist. When Don Thall says his name on a commercial drawing—one of those names, you know, one can never read—present circumstances indicate it might be Mr. Peggy Tuck. And this mixing up of the genders of names brings up something else. Gwendolyn Dunlop was mis-compared to John instead of Joan Bennett last week. This is not as ridiculous as it seems, for she earnestly asked this columnist to make an analogy between Robert Taylor and herself. Gwendolyn evidently holds Mr. Taylor much closer to her heart than any other masculine acquaintance. David Gates is the only one in school she has ever turned a favorable eye on. Then he wishes that she would spend his day following the beautiful day when the gates of the cold cruel world are thrown open to him in June. It will be astonishing as well as sufficient to state while the life of a sailor mumps, but he absolutely refrain from the holy bonds of matrimony; this is his statement so to gain further knowledge on the matter I refer you to him.

THIS AD TELLS THE STORY--

HERE ARE THE FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR BANK

When anyone comes into this bank to borrow money we ask many pertinent questions. Before we trust him with the funds of the bank we want to know who he is, how he operates his business, if he makes a profit, what he owes, and how much he owes. Before the money is loaned we are entitled to this information.

In summary form the list is as follows:

| No. | Issues Classification | Total | Amount |
|-----|-----------------------|-------|-------------|
| 11 | Municipals | 18 | $1,330,633 |
| 12 | Rails | 22 | $2,438,007 |
| 13 | Foreigns | 4 | 10,250,000 |
| 14 | Industrials | 5 | 15,042,500 |
| 15 | Utilities | 44 | 123,986,977 |
| 16 | Others | 7 | 19,611,088 |
| 74 | | 100 | 282,653,206 |

Practically speaking, the depositor coming into the bank with his funds, is loaning the bank the use of the money until such time as he may need it. The bank's responsibility is to operate safely and conservatively to keep these funds invested but readily available to meet the requirements of depositors. Therefore, the depositor has the right to know who we are, do we make a profit, how we operate our business, what we have, and how much we owe.

Mortgages: 105 items, average each $236.09. 215,378.31 274,722.41

With this fairness to our friends and depositors in mind we present at this time all of the facts. To our knowledge this is the first time that such a procedure has been adopted and we will be interested in knowing if it meets with your approval.

The above includes $7701.33 insured under the F.H.A. readily convertible into cash on a moment's notice. As you will note from the comparison of figures these mortgages are on a reduction and liquidating basis, many of them being repaid in regular monthly installments and of course the value of the properties securing them far exceeds the mortgage loan.

HOW DO WE RUN OUR BUSINESS?

We are engaged solely in the BANKING BUSINESS. WE HAVE NO SIDELINES. The officers are in constant touch with every detail of the Bank. During the past year much has been done toward making what will eventually be, a bigger and a better bank. The methods and policies followed by the bank have met with the approval of the public at large. We know many of you heartily approve because you have told us so. The statement of the bank also reflects this confidence indicating an increase in deposits from $82,904.30 on March 30, 1935 to $964,252.16 on March 4, 1936. Changes effected in operation and methods have been FOR THE BETTERMENT OF THE BANK AND HAVE THE ENDORSEMENT AND APPROVAL OF THE SUPERVISING AUTHORITIES CHARGED WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF PROTECTING THE INTERESTS OF DEPOSITORS AS A GROUP. This bank is being operated as a BANK, no differently than any other having the interests of the depositor uppermost in mind. We shall continue to be progressive, replacing the old with the new, whenever it will be for the best interest of the depositors.

OUR APPRECIATION:

To you—our customers and friends—we are grateful for the support you have given us. We are mindful that your confidence is all important. The thought uppermost in our minds is to operate this bank for your safety and best interests to meet your continued faith and trust.

GENERAL COMMENT:

Something about our local lending policy: This bank has and makes no business of small loans to qualified individuals. This will dispel the assertion that money can not be borrowed from the local bank and that it is to follow is not being taken care of.

Our bank, like the average bank, has many requests for loans which cannot be granted. To properly protect depositors it is essential a careful selection of borrowers be made and that loans are granted to only those who have a satisfactory credit history and sufficient income to meet the obligation as agreed. One cannot look entirely to the banks or real estate holdings in granting a loan since only INCOME will provide the borrower with the funds to retire the obligation. Notwithstanding the experience of the depression, there are persons who are still careless in creating obligations and in observing rules of credit. There are still those who live beyond their incomes as long as credit lasts. Lessons of the depression have taught some to be more careful, others to lose pride, and still others to abuse confidence until they become hopelessly bogged down. Nevertheless, we invite loan applications from CREDIT WORTHY PEOPLE and assure each applicant that each case will be given our careful and sincere consideration.

We are anxious to obtain our present clientele and to add to it as rapidly as circumstances create the need for bank services and we solicit your business.
