Local Boy Wins Four Firsts in T. V. A. A. Meet

Harold Wagenschutz Breaks Three of League Records

Harold Wagenschutz, Plymouth high school athletic star, was the outstanding performer at the Twin Valley Activity association track meet held Saturday on the Michigan State Normal track, in Ypsilanti. He took first places in the four events he entered, breaking records in three of them.

While his teammates were helping him to win 33 points for Plymouth, to place third, Wagenschutz was winning the high and low hurdles, broad jump and high jump. The meet was taken by River Rouge with 68 1/2 points, Dearborn running second with 38 points. Other schools entered were Ecorse, Ypsilanti Central and Wayne.

In the 120-yard high hurdles Wagenschutz won in 13.2 seconds to better the old T.V.A.A. record of 16 seconds, and the state record of 15.6. His time in the 200-yard low hurdles was 23.2 seconds as compared with the old league mark of 24.1 and the state record of 23.5. In the high jump he cleared the bar at 6 ft. 1 1/2 inches the old record for both the T.V.A.A. and the state being 5 ft. 10 in. His mark in the running broad jump which won the event although breaking no records, was 21 ft. 1 1/4 in.

A teammate, Jack Kinsey, established a new record in the shot put for the league, also bettering the state mark. He set the shot at 49 ft. 6 1/2 in., the old record being 42 ft. 2 in., and the state mark 48 ft. 10 in. Kinsey has been undefeated in the shot put in competition this year.

Both Kinsey and Wagenschutz will enter the regional meet this week in Ypsilanti where, according to Coach K. J. Matheson, they stand a good chance of qualifying for the state championship meet May 23 in Grand Rapids. Several other local boys also will enter the Ypsilanti meet.

Swanson Badly Hurt In Crash

Auto Sales Official To Lose Portion Of Right Ear

Despite the efforts of physicians, Herbert Swanson of the Plymouth Motor Sales company is going to lose a portion of his right ear as the result of an automobile accident in Dearborn last week. When Mr. Swanson attempted to avoid hitting a driver who ran his machine at high speed into Michigan avenue from a cross street without stopping, his car was forced into the side of a street car and completely demolished.

In the crash, his right ear was crushed and he was knocked unconscious. He was in the hospital for nearly an hour before he was revived. His back, neck and shoulders were badly strained and he suffered numerous severe bruises. The car was completely demolished.

The name of the driver who caused the accident could not be secured as he did not stop his machine when the crash took place, but hurried on down Michigan avenue and was quickly lost in traffic.

Mr. Swanson has been able to be at his office at the Plymouth Motor Sales company since the week he was on his way back to Plymouth from the Ford Motor company's plant at Dearborn when the accident happened.

More Than 50 Families Live In Small Community of Garden Homes

Form Neighborhood At Corner of Plymouth And Wayne Roads

Out on the corner of Wayne and Plymouth roads there is a rapidly growing little community of homes many of them with small garden plots owned by people whose livelihood for the most part is to be found in the city but who wish to live out where the air is a little purer and the grass a little greener than is possible in downtown districts.

On May 15, 1935 there wasn't a home on this particular plot of land. Now there are 57, and about 50 more are contemplated this season. They are built by the people who will live in them in families in moderate circumstances who must do the best they can with what they have, so for the most part the houses are small, constructed so that a room or wing can be added when needed.

"It is a community to be proud of," state Mr. and Mrs. Dan Olson, who have been in charge of real estate sales. Mrs. Olson adds "These people have the ambition and foresight of their forefathers in pioneer days, they are really interested in creating real homes for themselves and their families.

Much enthusiasm and a large attendance at the free group lessons in golf being given at the Plymouth Country club is reported, over 50 men and boys turning out for their first lesson, and women and girls enrolling. The final lessons will be May 19 for the men and May 21 for the women.

The lessons are being given at all courses of the Michigan Golf association. Each woman, girl, man and boy in the classes here will display the best knowledge of the fundamentals of golf and best form at the conclusion of the three lessons will be given a free membership in the Plymouth Country club and in addition will take part in the Detroit Metropolitan contest for form where six of the world's leading professionals will name four winners. Bill Fishlock, professional at the Plymouth club is instructing the classes here.

In the team play Sunday Plymouth in the first match of the season held at Sylvan Glen was defeated by a strong Sylvan Glen quartet 10 1/2 to 1 1/2. The Sylvan Glen players were in top form and played brilliant golf while the local team seemed unable to hit their accustomed stride. Larry O'Palka, of Sylvan Glen, shot a brilliant 72, one under par, to defeat Norm Copland who turned in a score of 80. Ed Ervasti shot a 75 to John Powers' 79. John Taylor scored 73 to take part in the local match with 81. The outcome of other contests in the district was as follows: Hawthorne Valley, 7, Warren Valley, 5, North Hills, 8, Bob O'Connell, 4, Redford, 6, Bonnie Brook by default, and West Shores, 9, and Idyl Wyld, 3. In the standings the four winning teams have each acquired 2 points as compared with no points for the other four.

With today's entry list of nearly 75 in Saturday's kicker's handicap tournament, seven players won prizes. C. Schwab, R. J. Woodeman, Jack Sullivan and R. Gabel were tied for first place, and K. O. Brown, M. E. Phillips and A. A. Gregory were second. A similar tournament is held every Saturday, and is open to both men and women.

On Sunday a sweepstakes tournament was held, with P. Richardson and Herb Cushing taking first place, and Bob Johnson and Bill Calkins taking second. The placing second, Choffin and Johnson, son also were among the winners the previous Sunday.

A flag tournament will be held Saturday May 30. Memorial day, the first of its kind to be held on the local course. Each player participating must have an established handicap which is added to the course par, 70, to determine how many strokes he will be allowed in the tournament. When he has completed that number of strokes he must stick a flag bearing his name in the ground at the point where the ball lies. The person whose flag is advanced the farthest is declared the winner.

Pioneer Minister Writes of How Baptists Got First Meeting House

Early Work in Church At Plymouth Is Recounted

Installation Three (Editor's Note: This installment of William B. Grow's book "Eighty-Five Years of Life and Labor," continues his story of his work in Plymouth as pastor of the Baptist church when it was organized in 1845.)

Shortly after the organization of the society we organized both a Sunday school and a prayer meeting, which proved to be most valuable additions to our work. No church organization was effected for about two years. Local conditions made it advisable to defer this for a time. Many years before there had been organized what was known as the Plymouth Baptist church, which had erected a meeting house at Shutch Corners, about three miles distant from the village. Being purely a rural community, it happened there, as always, that as the children grew up they went to the villages and cities, and with the death of the older inhabitants there came a natural decline. During the first year of my pastorate an Elder Clarke visited the field and attempted to revive the interest, but he found the case like the boy who, boasting of his knowledge of the catechism, declared that he was "away beyond redemption."

After he had abandoned the work I went there frequently, but with no more success. It became plain that the wise thing was to draw the nucleus of the new church from the old, and this was accomplished during the first two years of my pastorate. Eleven of the members of the old church formed the new church under the name of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth village. Soon there were several additions from among the Baptist families already mentioned as living in the neighborhood. Then followed my ordination, and then additions by baptism were frequent, so that within a short time the work had grown to very creditable proportions. It being the settled conviction of the church that I should be ordained, a council was convened for that purpose on the first day of November, 1848. Six of the neighboring churches were asked to send their pastor and two delegates. Among the ministers who sat in the council were Revs. M. Allen, E. Carpenter, A. W. Baker, E. Curtis, Jones, and G. D. Simmons, all of whom were men well and favorably known among the Baptists of the state. Rev. G. D. Simmons preached the sermon, using the well known and appropriate text "Go ye unto all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." The occasion was of course, one of most solemn import to me, and with the laying on of hands, there was laid upon my heart a new sense of awful obligation and responsibility. The service was held in the school-house, the only house of worship that we had thus far known, and all available room was fully occupied, while many with their families seated in their wagons, drove close up to the windows, and gave their reverent attention to what was going on within.

Progress was the watchword. With an ordained minister, the church began to feel that they should own a meeting-house of their own, and Providence seemed to order all things for our welfare. At Plymouth Corners, a mile from the village, the Presbyterians who were much earlier in their settlement, and who numbered among them the leading merchants and farmers, being abundantly able to do so, had erected a new and substantial brick building, which still stands and serves them as a place of worship. The old church building they removed to the rear of the church lot, and after a little while they sold it to a gentleman by the name of Holbrook, who, by the way was a brother of the squire who had first suggested to the people my call to the work. The price paid by Mr. Holbrook was one hundred dollars. I had the feeling if that could be purchased, I might revive the ingenuity of earlier years, and at small expense to the congregation, fit it up as a meeting house. Having ascertained that the building could be bought for one hundred and ten dollars, and that Mr. George A. Starkweather would donate a desirable half-acre lot, centrally located in the village, I recommended to the church the purchase, and they at once voted to make it. The cattle of the neighborhood were brought into service, and within a single afternoon we had moved the building a half mile and within a few rods of our lot. There was among the Presbyterians a good Elder Landon (whose wife was a member with us) who, being a blacksmith, volunteered to mend all the chains which were broken in the moving, and this proved to be no small item. There will be more about this good elder later on. Instead of calling out all the teams of the neighborhood the following day I restored to skids and a steelyard purchase, and within half a day, but on a yoke of oxen, we moved the building to its permanent location. Then, laboring with my own hands as did the Apostle Paul, I laid the wall, did the carpentry work and painted the building, and within a little while the people found themselves comfortably housed on their own lot, and all at an expense of about three hundred dollars.

It was a day of no small joy to our hearts when we entered this little church home. I doubt if greater joy could be experienced by a church taking possession of a million-dollar edifice. It was their first church home. I was their first pastor, and they were my first people. Small as the cost had been, it called for some sacrifices on the part of a people, who were poor in this world's goods, and who were battling with the rugged conditions of a new country, in the effort to establish homes for themselves. It called likewise for some sacrifices on the part of the young pastor, but it was all for Him whose love for us was expressed by the sacrifice of His life.

I promised you more about Elder Landon. He was one of God's noblemen, and one of the most inspiring and helpful men in the Lord's work it has ever been my privilege to know.

The salaries of these early churches made other sources of income necessary, and so I continued to follow my former and other occupations. For these purposes I kept a team, and this made me a frequent visitor at the elder's shop, and it often happened that we spent some time in the shop in genuine visiting. He being a thoroughly religious man and active in the Presbyterian work of the community, and I the pastor of a sister church, our conversation naturally drifted to religious subjects and finally to the discussion of our points of difference in doctrine. The subject of baptism crept in one day, and this good man, true to his training, assured me with all devoutness that baptism was produced under the exact dispensation as the exact counterpart of circumcision under the old. Ordinarily I would give no consideration to so ridiculous a statement as this with proper seriousness, and after assuring him that I had no desire to make him a Baptist, I said, "You surely would not, as a student of the Bible, attempt to prove your theory by the citation of Scripture." He as promptly replied that he could and would, and that if he could not point out Scripture which in its own plain statement settled this matter, he would become a Baptist. My work being done, I went home, feeling sure that, as Landon was a man of his word, I would surely have him for a deacon in my church. It is curious how such honest searching for things supposed to be in the Bible, makes Baptists. I have baptized in my ministry many people who believed so fully that baptism was in the Bible, that they diligently and confidently searched there for it, and of course came out of such searching with believer's baptism instead. One hundred and fifty such candidates have accompanied me into the water. I purposely avoided the elder's blacksmith shop for several days, for I did not want to seem to be proselytizing. Passing the shop after about ten days, he called to me, and said, "I want to ask you a question." "Well," I said, "brother, we are both Yankees, and you know how easily one Yankee can puzzle another with his questions." But he assured me that it was a simple question, and one I could easily answer. "Well," I said, "what is it?" "Haven't you been praying that the Lord would make me a Baptist?" I said, "Yes sir, in this way." I have been praying that the Lord might make the meaning of His word plain to you, and give you grace to follow that word above all else." His next word was "Well, brother, I am ready to go into the water as soon as you are ready to lead me in." This I did, within a few days and with great joy. He was the first candidate that I had the privilege of baptizing. It is not difficult to lead people into the New Testament church, when the teachings of the New Testament become the sole and paramount authority to them in all things religious. The Book, and the church that rests wholly upon it, must be closely related in the life of the person who studies the one and unites with the other. This good Elder Landon came soon to be known as Deacon Landon, and in addition to bearing honorably the diaconate, he served as superintendent of our Sunday school and chorister of our choir during his lifetime. This good man entered into his rest before the end of my pastorate, and his funeral was made an occasion of the highest expression of love to a worthy man. The Presbyterian people, though feeling sore at his loss, never ceased to respect him for what he continued to be after uniting with us, and when the arrangements for the funeral were being made they requested that the funeral be held from their church, with me, as his pastor, in charge and as the preacher of the sermon. We could but respond to such a Christian spirit, and so the large edifice was filled with mourners from near and far, the good man's death being a sorrow to Baptists and Presbyterians alike.

Buick Sales Go To High Record

Having concluded a sales program for March and April, in which a goal of 31,000 cars was substantially surpassed, Buick regional and zone managers and distributors from throughout the country assembled in Flint yesterday to map the company's sales course for the next two months.

Details of the program were outlined by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, in a business meeting at the factory. The outlook for May, he said, is exceedingly bright and the Buick retail organization is looking to an increase over April sales which totaled close to 19,000 cars, the biggest Buick month in many years.

Mr. Hufstader discussed current aspects of the retail automobile market, presenting an encouraging outlook for Buick dealers not only in May and June but for the remainder of the year. He asserted that 1936 thus far has proved the best year since 1928, pointing out that the company again is reaching a volume comparable to the best period in its history, nearly 10 years ago, when a quarter of a million Buick cars were produced and sold annually.

The executive reviewed the progress of the past seven months since the introduction of the 1936 models, during which time, he said, both production and sales have more than doubled that of a year ago. He announced that on May 7, Buick's 1936 model production had exceeded the total output for the combined model years 1934 and 1935.

At present, he said, unfilled orders at the factory are at a new high for this year, notwithstanding the fact that April domestic deliveries were 18,762 cars, exceeding the combined domestic and export production for that month.

Wayne Village Budget Lower Than Last Year

Following a meeting of the Wayne village commission last week, the budget for 1936 to be raised by taxes was announced as $62,276.41, an amount of $15-

724.55 lower than that of last year. The reduction was made possible largely in the water department where the budget calls for $14,418.43 as compared with $22,968.43 last year, when a delinquent water bill of nearly $5,000 had to be met.

A BEAUTIFUL CHURCH

The Plymouth Mail cannot help but extend to the members of the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth its congratulations over the beautiful design of the new house of worship they hope to build in this city during the coming year to take the place of the historic structure destroyed by fire a few months ago. Not only do we wish to commend those in charge of the building details for the decision to erect a church in keeping with the fine city it leads spiritually, but the proposed location of the new edifice could not be better. It will make much more beautiful the entrance to the church and it will provide a setting for the inspiring house of worship that cannot be excelled. The large beautiful trees surrounding the old church and not damaged by the fire will be saved. Surely the entire city of Plymouth should unite in an expression of gratitude for the splendid judgment being shown in the kind of church to be erected and in its changed location.

OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT

Up at East Tawas the good citizens of that once prosperous lumbering city have in the last year or so started to capitalize upon the excellent perch fishing that prevails in Tawas bay during the early spring months. The residents of East Tawas as well as Tawas City, which are so closely united that one hardly knows when passing from one community to the other, realize that there is much business to be brought to that locality as the result of capitalizing upon the natural resources that appeal to sportsmen and tourists. These good people have been much wiser than the residents along our lake shores in other parts of the state as they have saved for the use of their visitors the entire lake front. They too have the right idea as to the treatment of those who come to fish or spend a brief vacation in their midst.

They know that the average person out on a fishing trip or on a northern vacation finds it necessary to economize these days like everybody else and so one who visits East Tawas or Tawas City is not made to pay a ransom price for his requirements.

As an example of this fine community spirit which is doing much to make fishermen and tourists enthusiastic boosters for the Tawas bay locality, Earl Williams and his fine family conduct a fishing boat service. One can secure a good fishing boat, minnows and all of his fishing equipment if necessary at an exceedingly reasonable price. Not only are the rates low but during the day one of his assistants will visit you out in the lake and check up on your minnow supply, offering to fill again without additional cost your minnow pail. What Mr. Williams does, all the others do and as a result when one starts homeward from that locality it is with a fine feeling towards the place and the people you have contacted there. The same spirit prevails in the stores and the hotels and restaurants. In no place does a person feel as though he is being "gypped" because he happens to be a tourist or a visiting fisherman.

If the people of the Tawas bay locality keep up this fine spirit, it will remain forever as one of the most popular places in the country in which to visit. Some of the other northern resort communities would do well to follow the friendly and co-operative attitude that is so manifest around Tawas bay.

AN ASSET TO HUMANITY

One of Plymouth's well known physicians while in the office of The Plymouth Mail the other day commenting about the recovery of a patient who had been taken to the University of Michigan hospital stated that Michigan people are probably the most fortunate in America as they have at their immediate services one of the best and greatest hospitals in all the world. Rarely a day goes by but what some one from Plymouth or vicinity seriously ill or frightfully injured is hurried to the University hospital for treatment. There at the command of highly specialized physicians for immediate use is everything known to medical science. The saving of human lives by University Hospital doctors where others thought there wasn't a chance for recovery has been amazing not only to the public but to practicing physicians. Rich and poor alike have access to the best that medical skill can offer at the University hospital.

This brief comment recalls a speech made some ten or eleven years ago before the Kiwanis club in the city of Lansing. The speaker declared the building of this hospital by former Governor Alex J. Groesbeck was one of the "great mistakes" of his administration. He damned the hospital as a playhouse for doctors that had been constructed so poorly that "it will fall down in less than half a dozen years." We deem it advisable not to mention the speaker's name, who was then a candidate for Governor, because of the fact he has not lived to realize how greatly in error he was and what a benefit to humanity the hospital has become. We simply recall the incident to point out the wild and crazy statements candidates for office who hope to get somewhere by tearing some one else down will make to further their aims.

ONE OF THE CHOSEN

In glancing through the always interesting pages of The Linden Leader it was noted in the last issue that its editor and publisher, J. E. McMullen, had just celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary. Due to a recent serious fall, Editor McMullen is confined to bed with a fractured hip, but that did not keep him from expressing to his hundreds of friends who called to see him that always optimistic view of life he possesses. His birthday has passed by many days, but that does not prevent The Plymouth Mail from extending to one of the finest GENTLEMEN that ever lived its sincerest congratulations. This land would be a paradise on earth if all men were like him.

ONE MINUTE BIOGRAPHIES of MICHIGAN GOVERNORS and their ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By Elton R. Eaton

No. 3 JOHN S. BARRY

John Stewart Barry, a farmer's son, who became governor of Michigan, wiped out Michigan's first debt. He retired from office leaving a balance in the state treasury. Born in New Hampshire in 1813, he remained in the east with his parents until the age of 21 years old. In 1824 he was married and went to Vermont, where he taught school for two years. For a time he practiced law in Vermont, also being a captain of a company of militia and aide to the governor of that state.

Catching the "western fever," he moved to White Pigeon, Michigan in 1834. Four years later he went to Constantine to make his home. He was later elected justice of the peace, this office being the first one held in Michigan by him. Later he was elected a member of the constitutional convention and aided in drafting the constitution upon which Michigan was admitted into the union.

Soon after Barry was chosen state senator. His associates regarded him as the leader of the Democratic forces in the senate, and at the next convention of his party, he was made their candidate for governor. He was elected in 1840 and again in 1842. Barry was given credit for straightening out the financial difficulties of the state, which had been quite involved.

During his term, the University of Michigan was opened to students, two railroads were built into the state, a state land office was opened in Marshall and public schools were started in various places. The state constitution at that time forbade a governor from holding office for more than two consecutive terms and Governor Barry was forced to retire at the end of his second term, but he was again elected governor in 1850. This is the only instance in the history of Michigan where a governor was called upon to serve the third term under the old state constitution. During his third term, the Ypsilanti Normal was opened. After serving his final term, he went back to Constantine and resumed his mercantile business. A year following his wife's death, he died, in 1869 at his home in Constantine.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

CITY ON THE SPOT

The City of Dearborn has the greatest opportunity of its six and one half year's existence if it will only make the best of it. We mean handling its own welfare department without all the red tape of county and state administration. One before this same opportunity was at hand but pampered politicians wishing to set themselves up as benefactors to the panic-stricken, depression jobless had to interfere. The result was a state investigation of the welfare department and the setting up of county-controlled system.

Some of these same politicians are in office, others are out because they discovered that all that they attempted to do for the people was not appreciated since it was not motivated by a humanitarian viewpoint. But workers who are left and their new co-workers have often said that they want nothing to do with welfare. They go so far as to state that they don't even want to have anything to do with securing jobs but would rather that it all be handled from a single bureau.

Dearborn councilmen now have a chance to show their sincerity. Let them keep their hands out of the whole affair and let the Mayor and the welfare head do the work.

Of the Mayor and Louis Hutchinson, welfare director, we ask: Are all of the folks on direct relief in this city so incapacitated that they are unable to do some kind of work? Can't any of these indigent sweep floors, clean windows, work on the streets at light jobs, even be water boys? Can't they do something? During this 30-day period the motto of the department should be: Work for all and all must work.

Dearborn, candidly speaking, is on the spot. Not only in the county and state but in the nation. New Dealers will cast eager eyes to this city for they know that its No. 1 citizen and arch foe of the administration, can come in for a good deal of razzing if the experiment fails.

And to those welfare recipients who seemed to have been dogged by Old Man Ill Luck for the past few years we say: "Wake up and show them you're not so helpless as that card in the file in the office would indicate. Prove that you want to be good citizens not whining parasites who are content to eke out a living at the expense of others."

LET'S ALL SHOW A LITTLE SPUNK AND MAKE THE NEW DEAL CYNICS LIKE IT!—William Klamzer in The Dearborn Press.

A COMMON SENSE VIEW POINT

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg is in a peculiar political spot. He stands a chance of getting a hold on the tail of the political bear. If he does, he won't be allowed to let go, and how he'll hate to hang on. In other words, there is a possibility he may become the republican candidate—something, we are sure, he would rather avoid in 1936.

But 1940! That's something different. By that time we suspect that the smouldering wrath of the people will be directed against the spending of this and the next administration. (We are assuming that Roosevelt will be re-elected.) It will be then that the most able critic of the New Deal will naturally be the most popular candidate of the opposition—and Vandenberg is that "most able critic."

Taxes ostensibly directed at big business, big industry and big fortunes always find their way back to we common folks. You and I will be paying the national debt, just as common folks always have since the world began. Anyone with a grain of sense and most people have several grains, knows that we cannot constantly and continually spend more than our income. That doesn't make sense. Just now, with the rancor of a depression still in our minds, we are rather indifferent. But that will change. It always has. There has always come a reaction to such things.

So we hope that our Man from Michigan, Senator Vandenberg, is allowed to continue his effective criticism in the U. S. Senate. It is needed. We hate to see Michigan's chance for a president forfeited by throwing him to slaughter this year.—Schuyler Marshall in The St. Johns Republican-News.

METHODIST CHURCHES

For many years there has been a Methodist Church north and a Methodist Church south. These two sections of the Methodist denomination were split a good many years ago over a question of the doctrine and have operated as two separate denominations since. It now looks as if these organizations would again get together and function as one religious entity. Those in the Methodist organization and those on the outside will be glad to see this rapprochement and hope that the strength and power of the organization will be much increased by their working together, instead of separately.—Frank Bryce in The Grand Ledger Independent.

Great interest is being shown everywhere in the spraying of orchards and here and there farmers are planning to spray the trees while in bloom. This should never be done for several good reasons, says L. R. Taft, state inspector of orchards. First, there is a state law which prescribes a fine of ten to one hundred dollars or imprisonment from ten to 90 days if trees are sprayed when in blossom. Second, the reason for the law, when trees are sprayed with poisonous solution, the bees are destroyed, thus causing a great loss to the owners of the fruit trees, since the bees are required to fertilize the flowers. Third, spraying while trees are in blossom often injures the flowers so that the fruit will not set. Fourth, the person who sprays at this time thinks he will be better able to destroy the apple worm than later on. This is not the case.

ROCKS ARE SHUT OUT BY EAST DETROIT 2-0

The Rocks received their second shut-out defeat of the season when East Detroit high blanked them 2-0 in a game which featured pitcher's battle, Tuesday, May 5, on the East Detroit diamond. Although Plymouth out-hit the Detroiters by one hit they were unable to score. Trombley pitched fine ball, allowing only four hits while Waltz, who also exhibited a fine game of pitching, yielded five hits.

After Zelasko had opened the first inning with a double to left field, the Rocks were unable to score. East Detroit was able to collect one of their two runs in the first inning. Randall received a free-kick to first base after having four consecutive balls pitched to him and then scored on Foley's line smash to left field. Foley was stranded on second after Coffins and Leitz both flied out to center field. East Detroit's second run was scored in the fifth inning. Coffins reached first on Trinka's error and then scored on Leitz's double between center and left field.

The Rocks had a chance to score in the second inning when there was only one out and Trinka on third. On an attempted bunt, Trombley failed to hit the ball and Trinka who was half thrown was trapped between home plate and third and was tagged out by Leitz. Williams, East Detroit's catcher, was hurt on this play and the game was delayed several minutes.

FORDSON BEAT ROCKS FOR SECOND TIME

As a result of pounding out 15 hits off two Rock hurlers, the hard-hitting Fordson team registered their second victory of the season over the Rocks, 14-4, Friday, May 8, at Riverside park. Leading the Fordson hitting attack was Rovek and Henry who incidentally is a freshman, pitched brilliant ball, yielding only two hits which the Rocks collected in the third inning when they scored all of their runs. Leading the Fordson hitting attack was Rovek and Henry who collected four hits out of five trips to the plate.

The Fordson hitting spree started in the first inning. Harrison, the first batter to face Trombley, was safe on Zelasko's error. Dickie singled between second and short stop. Raak forced Dickie at second and went to third on Harrison's single. Rovek singled to left, scoring Raak. Harrison advanced to third. On Henry's double, Harrison and Rovek scored.

Fordson got two more runs in the third. Mayhew was safe when Trombley threw wild to first, and he scored when Jensen drove a terrific smash between Roginski and Blackmore for a home run.

The Rocks collected their four runs in the third. After one out Eckles singled along the third base line. Zelasko walked. Roginski was safe on Zink's error, and Eckles scored on the play. Gordon smashed a single to right field scoring both Zelasko and Roginski. Gordon was able to score on a wild pitch. That was the only inning the Rocks were able to score.

In the fourth inning Fordson got two more runs and two hits. They got two more in the fifth and three more in the seventh. Harrison started the inning by hitting a single and then scored on Rovek's double. Henry collected his fourth hit of the game when he hit a four-bagger scoring Rovek.

The Musicals

The students who participated in the high school musicale last Friday evening and the teachers who directed them are deserving of the most sincere congratulations. The student body is able to give them. Our school is more than fortunate in having such capable and likeable directors as Miss Henry and Mr. Evans. It is a wise education system which provides our school with a music department that is able to present such features as the band, the novel Russian Cossack dance and the huge mixed chorus of last Friday. Just as we may enjoy a book without knowing the technicalities of its writing and enjoy a motion picture without knowing the fundamentals of acting, the annual musicale demonstrates that students who have little training in the detailed principles of music are able to get a vast enjoyment from good music.

It is interesting to notice that at the time of the musicale Northville high school was advertising a student produced version of Gilbert and Sullivan's novel opera "H.M.S. Pinafore." By this conjunction of music and drama Northville students have unified their musicale, achieving through the introduction of plot a student interest which is even greater than is achieved through the conventional recital type of concert. If next year's musicale could be woven into a story, either by use of a standard opera or by working familiar songs into an original story as has been done in the motion picture, the result should vitalize interest in music and the musicale.

DR. SLOSSON URGES ACADEMIC FREEDOM

Several members of the Pilgrim Prints staff attended the annual convention of the Michigan Interscholastic Press association in Ann Arbor last Friday. Principal speakers were Dr. Preston Slosson of the history department of the University of Michigan and Dr. Lowell Carr of the sociology department. Dr. Slosson, speaking at the morning session of the conference, described his attitude toward freedom of schools to discuss controversial economic and political topics. He suggested that in order to present students with balanced view points, teachers should periodically exchange classes, and that in especially important problems such as the protective tariff, teachers with conflicting view points should debate the question before the class. On problems such as socialism and disarmament, he recommended that speakers represent opposite view points should address the students, as extra-curricular activity. Professor Slosson went to Europe with President Wilson to assist in drawing up the terms of peace at Versailles.

Dr. Carr, speaking in the afternoon, discussed the problem of juvenile delinquency. He emphasized that the criminals of tomorrow are being formed in under privileged and misguided children of today. He cited many examples to show how psychologists are able to trace the causes of misbehavior and prescribe a workable cure. He urged the delegates to the press conference to use their influence to bring about a census of problem children in every school and to secure the services of a psychiatrist to correct these conditions where possible.

Bingo Brown, dean of men at Michigan State normal college at Ypsilanti and well known sports authority, addressed the session of sports writers. He told interesting stories of personalities in the sports world and gave something of his philosophy of life, advising youth to shoot high and to act in the square way.

LINKS TEAM DEFEATS NORTHVILLE

The Northville golf team composed of Snow, Latta, Young and McGee, again met the links team from Plymouth and went down to defeat. The loss was once more suffered by a wide margin, Plymouth winning by 56 strokes. The match on Thursday, May 7, was played at Meadowbrook Country club, an extremely difficult course as shown by the score of Lionel Coffin, low man, who had an exceptionally high score of 86. Ross, Michaels, and Miller were the other members of the winning squad.

However, the day before, Wednesday, was not so favorable and the Rocks lost to a strong team from East Lansing by the narrow difference of three strokes. Coffin once more was low man, this time shooting 76 but the other regulars did not follow up this advantage and consequently the team lost the match.

AUDIENCE ENJOYS HIGH SCHOOL MUSICALS

A large audience filled the high school auditorium last Friday night, May 8, to the ninth annual musicale, planned and directed by Miss Henry and Mr. Evans. Judging from their applause, the listeners especially enjoyed the violin duet given by Roland Rhead and Robert Van Meter, Dancila's "Little Symphony II" and the Russian dance, "Karaminskaja," executed by Edith Mettetal, Pat McKinnon, Mary Holdsworth, Florence Norton, Patricia Cassidy, and Barbara Hubbell. Several members of the band were included in a woodwind ensemble and in a brass sextet, and 10 girls from junior shorts sang together as the new junior ensemble. The entertainment was concluded with "Land-sighting," by Grieg. The Student Council cleared approximately $30.00.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

The kindergarten children are making pictures in preparation for the exhibit. They have also made a reading chart about Peter Rabbit, printing it and making up the story themselves. Having already learned ten words in reading, the children are ready to start the Elson Primers.

The children of Miss Stader's room have painted different articles such as houses, horses and carts, and trucks, which they made during their social studies period.

There are six names left on the list of second grade children that haven't as yet prepared their Palmer Method papers.

Number 2 class of the 2A have finished "Good Times on the Farm" and is making pictures showing different phases of the book.

The fourth grade geography class has finished studying Norway and is beginning the study of China. The fifth grade has finished the Netherlands and is studying Norway and Sweden. Billy Fulton was absent last week with poison ivy infection. The sixth grade children have finished their bird book covers, history picture maps, and geography posters to use on display at the exhibit.

The fourth grade children are getting ready for the exhibit by preparing posters.

ROCKS DIVIDE WITH YPSI NETTERS

The Plymouth tennis team won one match and lost one to the Ypsilanti net squad in matches played last week. On Monday, May 4, the local boys played Ypsi Central and lost close match by a three-to-two score. Moe won his single match but Smith and Anderson each lost in singles. In doubles the schools split; Passage and Norman won while McClain and McClain were losing. On Thursday of the same week Plymouth displayed the best tennis they have played this year and defeated Ypsi Roosevelt, 5-0 in the regular games and also took four out of five reserve matches. Moe, Smith, Anderson, Passage and Norman, Hewitt and McAllister won for the first team. Of the reserves J. McClain, Norman, Towle, Lyke and Cowan won while R. McClain and Packard lost.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Robert VanMeter, red-headed and jolly son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest VanMeter, was born in Detroit on August 6, 1918. From this institution of learning, he has attended Bartlett, Roberts, Clarksville, and Roosevelt schools (not simultaneously).

Active in musical events, "Speed" VanMeter (perhaps so named because of his proficiency in typing, is a prominent member of the school orchestra and aims in the Glee club. He has participated in class sports and played on the baseball team.

It is the ambition of Mr. Van Meter to eventually lead his own orchestra, and Plymouth-Northville students will hear his magic violin or gesturing before his adoring musicians. After graduation he intends to attend a business college, preferably Cleary, stating that he can talk back as well as play a violin. If he fails to attain his first objective.

Elizabeth Whipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Whipple of Reservoir road, was born in Detroit on May 27, 1918. Before coming to Plymouth in the sixth grade, she attended Brady and McCulloch schools in Detroit. She is taking a college course and is planning to enter Antioch college on May 27, 1936. She will take a literature course and specialize in the field of department store buying. Her favorite subject is English, and the thing she gets most enjoyment from in school is the speaking program. Her favorite sport is swimming. She spends a great deal of time reading and likes especially the works of James Hilton, the young author of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Lost Horizon." She also enjoys magazines such as the Atlantic Monthly. Aside from reading, her hobby is having a good time with her two best friends, Pat McKinnon and Lib Hegge. She has participated in all of girls' sports, she has been a Girl Reserve and a member of Leaders' club and she has worked on the Pilgrim Prints staff and in Drama club. She likes Drama club the best and says that aside from buying for department stores, her secret ambition is to produce plays on the radio. Her theater favorites are Katherine Hepburn, Clark Gable, and George Arliss. Her favorite food is summer sausage and her favorite colors are red and blue.

Bessie Irene Wileden, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wileden, was born in Detroit, Michigan, March 10, 1918. When she was two years old she moved to Plymouth and has been a home town girl ever since, attending both our Central and high schools.

Bessie is a quiet, petite, blue-eyed, brown-haired senior. During her high school career she has done the work required in the general course and has also found time to join the Home Economics club, the Girls Glee club, and take part in two musicales. Her favorite subject is sewing, her favorite food is steak fried in thick open air, and her favorite color is pink. Her hobbies include sewing, cooking, hair waving, and keeping scrapbooks. She dislikes dirt pickles very much but likes picnics, joy-riding, traveling, and camping. So far, she has camped at Joslin lake and on summer week-ends has occasionally camped at Silver lake. Her travels include Put-In-Bay, Bob-Lo, the Cascades at Jackson, the capitol at Lansing, and Mason. This summer she hopes to go up north with her parents.

Jack Edward Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams out Phoenix way, was born in Detroit on June 16, 1918, moving to Plymouth at an extremely early age. In person a big fellow, Jack has been his fate to attend Plymouth schools throughout life so far. He has never been out of the state of Michigan, but enjoyed a trip to Big Star lake in the northern portion of the last summer.

As to Mr. Williams' activities, he has belonged to Torch Club, Glee club, played on the basketball team, been captain of the cross-country team, is a member of Hi-Y and Varsity clubs, and Jack maintains a high scholastic average. He does not expect to enter a college immediately after graduation, but if he ever continues his formal education he intends to attend the University of Michigan. Questioned as to his highest ambition, he replied after grave reflection that the only one he could think of at the moment was to win the next track meet.

Laconic but decisive when called upon to recite in class, Jack maintains a high scholastic average. He does not expect to enter a college immediately after graduation, but if he ever continues his formal education he intends to attend the University of Michigan. Questioned as to his highest ambition, he replied after grave reflection that the only one he could think of at the moment was to win the next track meet.

Alice Emeline Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, was born January 14, 1919 on a farm about four miles west of Plymouth and is still living there. She attended a little red schoolhouse in the Kenyon woods and entered high school at a freshman level as a member of the Glee club when a junior and also took part in the musicale that year. This year she is a member of the Librarian club and Pilgrim Prints.

Alice likes a variety of things. Three of them are reading, keeping track of the Tigers and cats (four-legged ones). She dislikes mice and two-legged cats. Her favorite food is strawberry shortcake with lots of strawberries; her pet color is blue; and English and economics are her favorite subjects. For further identification she has blue gray eyes, brown hair, and a ready smile. She is very good-natured and likes to talk, especially in English and economics. She is seen practically everywhere with Dorothy George, who is one of her many friends. She has traveled quite extensively already having visited Niagara Falls, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, and Canada. Some day she intends to travel and see other parts of the world. Alice is taking a college preparatory course in high school and intends to go to Michigan State next year. She wants to take a course in journalism and after she finishes she wants to work for a good paper like the Free Press. We all certainly wish her luck.

G-Man Vanquishes Vaughan Smith In Liquid Helium War

Practice for gang wars of the twenty-fifth century may be a little premature, but Chief of Police Vaughan Smith, with his usual forehandness, does not think so. At the recent meeting of the Southwestern Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, held at the Mayflower hotel with Chief Smith as host, he provided each of his guests with one of the new Buck Rogers liquid helium water pistols, made here by the Daisy Manufacturing company. Practice was somewhat disorganized for a few minutes, as the dignified upholders of the law became just a trifle playful, but G-Man Harold H. Reinecke, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Detroit, soon took matters in hand. Reinecke was deluged by some of the "boys," so he went into a conference with Deputy Sheriff Mickey Farrell who disappeared to replenish the G-Man's ammunition. Reinecke then got to work systematically. Chief Smith and some of his cohorts decided that the quickest way to effect a truce would be to disregard the attack, so they sat calmly and "took it," until one of them made a startling discovery which caused a sudden surrender. The "liquid helium" which Reinecke was blasting them with proved to be perfume. Another "War of the Roses" came to an end. Strangely enough, the speaker of the day, Judge Henry Sweeney, gave a forceful talk on law enforcement.

The three Girl Reserve groups of Plymouth high school are making preparations for a "White Elephant" sale to be held in the old postoffice building Saturday, May 23. This sale will be open to the public all day. Various articles donated by the Girl Reserves will be sold. If any one has ornaments, clothes, house furnishings or anything saleable that he does not want, some one else may have use for them so contributions are being sought. It will help the Girl Reserves in their attempt to meet expenses if the public aids them with donations.

 "But ye shall receive Power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Acts 1:8.

 These are the words of Jesus to his disciples just before His ascension. The parting words of the Master to his Disciples, emphasizing the great necessity of receiving the Holy Spirit before attempting to carry out the great task of the church. The probability is that many today are struggling along in their religious tasks without this Holy Spirit Power in their lives. Reader have you received the Holy Spirit since you believed, if not then yield you all to Him and receive Him in all of his fullness.

STEEL MAKERS say—"Ford buys the best steel." Other suppliers of materials and parts will tell you—"Nobody checks up as closely on quality and price as Ford."

This means a great deal to you as a motorist. It is our way of safeguarding the interests of every purchaser and it leads to this—"The mechanical depreciation on a Ford is less than most cars, especially after the first year."

This is one sign of the extra value in the Ford V-8. Accuracy in manufacturing is another. (The Ford is made to unusually close precision limits.) And there is a long list of fine-car features that are exclusive with Ford in the popular field.

Have you a V-8 engine in your car? You pay $1645 for it in any other car but Ford.

Does your car have Center-Poise Riding? Ford gives you this modern feature—"a front-seat ride for back-seat passengers."

Does your car have fool-proof Super-Safety Mechanical Brakes? The Ford V-8 gives you this proved design, with 186 square inches of braking surface.

Does your car have a genuine steel body structure? Does it have Safety Glass all around? Ford is the only low-price car that gives you this extra protection without extra cost.

You get these fine-car features in the Ford V-8 because of Ford manufacturing methods and low-profit policy.

711 Starkweather Ave. Plymouth, Mich. May 11, 1936

To the Editor:

Well, it's all over! The Michigan State Championship Debate for 1936 has come and gone. And although more than a week has passed since that eventful and exciting evening at Hill Auditorium, the repercussions and reverberations are continuing still. From the sidelines, and about the excellent though less-than-perfectly-organized debating squad, many interesting stories could be told. The dissemination of such details, however, is not the particular purpose of this message.

These words come from a parent of one member of the final defeated Plymouth High school debating squad—in fact, it may be said, from the father of the only girl member of the entire Michigan State Championship debate. On May first Plymouth moved over to Ann Arbor to win the title. The Plymouth squad and its supporters went over there determined to win. It fully expected to win, and thereby to bring back new laurels for the old home town. The fact that Plymouth did not win is now history. The three judges gave Kalamazoo two votes and Plymouth one.

If there are some regrets, there is at least no bitterness. Plymouth did bring back a large and beautiful bronze cup as runner-up, and each member of the squad received individually engraved and elegant gold wrist watches. These, and other tokens, will keep fond memories forever green. The watches will become everlasting treasures, and no doubt their destiny will be that they be family heirlooms. But after the battle is over, reflections on the past are natural. After all the hatchets are buried, Plymouth salutes the affirmative, i. e., Resolved: That the several nations should make government monopolies of the manufacture and sale of all combat instruments of war.

It is true to say that fighting for something not desired is working under a disadvantage. It was under such a disadvantage that Plymouth conducted its debate with Kalamazoo. The Plymouth squad was heart and soul for the affirmative side of the question. While it is true that Plymouth had won all debates up to the time of the championship decision, including even when on the negative side, it was the affirmative side which the local squad really believed in. Had Plymouth been on the affirmative side this last and final time, the decision might have been different. The flip of a coin in Dr. Halstead's office sealed Plymouth's fate. That was a bitter pill to take, but Plymouth accepted gamely.

It must not be understood that Plymouth did not do its level best to win at Ann Arbor, and even though on the negative side, the negative squad therefore exerted every possible means to see the negative side, to forget their own personal desires on the question, and in fact to play up the negative argument for all that it was worth. Nevertheless, as has just been said, had Plymouth been on the other side, the decision might have been different. Indeed, it would have been different.

Considering, however, that Plymouth was destined to lose, it was glad to have lost to the affirmative, rather than to have lost the other way round. The coach and all Plymouth members admit that they lost on the right side to lose. Had it been the other way had Plymouth lost to the negative, then indeed the situation would have been mortifying. While it might not have been mortifying to some of the Plymouth public at large, it certainly would have been that to the local coach, and to the individual members participating.

After an important event has passed on down into the lane of memory, the "ifs" and "whys" and the "wherefore's" of results always and inevitably seem to come up for private discussion. Thus if certain things had occurred, other than some of the things which did occur, then the same Plymouth debating squad might have scored over these same however worthy Kalamazoo opponents, on the same subject which was debated, and even on the same side of the subject where fate had so unconcernedly placed them. For instance, if the home debaters had had more support through the weeks preceding the season again might have been different.

To be sure, Plymouth turned out royally for the Ann Arbor debate. When final victory seemed to be in the offing, the business places closed up early, the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce organized a big parade, and many Plymouth residents who had never presented themselves at a local debate through all the season, or perhaps not in years, or perhaps even never before, did find their way to Ann Arbor and to Hill Auditorium on May first. The Plymouth Mail too, provided plenty of front page publicity during the various stages of the tournament. For all these things the home town squad, and their efficient coach, are truly grateful. It was perhaps the one cheering feature, the one redeeming element of the whole season's effort.

But where was the audience, where were all the people, during the many lively debates which took place in Plymouth High School Auditorium. During the months leading up to the championship event in Ann Arbor? The lesser debates were all good, the people would have been interested and instructed in hearing them, but there was rarely more than a handful present. Each time the young debaters and their coach worked hard to put up a "good show." They often sacrificed the ordinary pleasures to study and practice for the "next debate," but when the time arrived that a handful of teachers, and maybe one or two others. No representative of the press was there, no member of the Chamber of Commerce, no member of the school board, no business men, no professional life of Plymouth, and in fact there was nothing much but rows of empty seats. It was a regularly scheduled debate. And at no other time has the situation been so very much improved.

Some one was heard to say that the reason for the pronounced non-attendance at Plymouth debates was because the town was "intellectually dumb" that while the town was "sport minded" it could not stand the "dry talk" and "big words" used at debates. This writer, of course, cannot concur in such opinion. General intelligence in Plymouth will rank well with the intelligence found in any other community of like size anywhere, and set there must be some reason why Plymouth people do not attend debates in numbers.

It is well understood that it is not inspiring to talk to rows of empty seats. Even young speakers, after a little experience, are inspired and encouraged by a large and enthusiastic audience. It is even conceivable that the size of the audience might spell the difference between the success or defeat of a debating team. So much stress might not need be placed on the matter if all towns were alike in this respect. But they are not alike. When the Plymouth team has appeared in other towns, there has been frequent audiences of up to 500 people. Why can it not be so in Plymouth? It is humiliating to the few season-through Plymouth supporters to have worthy opponents come from surrounding towns, and then for them to find here no audience worthy of the name.

But the Plymouth High School is still on the debating map. It is probable that some of the same debaters who helped Plymouth nearly win the state championship this year, will continue on the squad next year. It would appear that Plymouth has an equally good chance at the championship next year, as had this year. And some splendid new recruits are coming along. In fact, if the present debating coach Mr. James Latture, now well known throughout the

Townsend Club Caravan On Way

Members of The Plymouth Townsend club are watching with interest the giant caravan of autos that left Los Angeles on May 5 and will reach Washington tomorrow. The parade has been joined with hundreds of other machines since it left the Pacific coast and is carrying to Washington over 12,000 pounds of Townsend petitions to be presented to congress.

According to newspaper reports several enormous mass meetings have been held along the way. In some of the states various Townsend club organizations have met the caravan and provided escorts across the states. The petitions are being taken to Washington as the result of a subpoena having been served upon one of the officials of the Townsend club out in California in which the request was made for each name of every person who had in any way endorsed the Townsend movement.

Officials of the Plymouth club have been advised that the petitions bearing the signatures of people throughout the country favoring the Townsend plan have over six tons and when they are presented in Washington, it will without doubt be one of the largest number of signatures ever presented to a legislative body.

Occupational Diseases Increase

The tremendous development of American industry has been accompanied by a similar growth in the number of occupational diseases. For example, 30 years ago there were not more than a dozen substances that caused skin diseases. Today there are approximately 700 or more of these skin irritants and sensitizers.—Cutler's Weekly.

state, can be continued in Plymouth, and if the Plymouth club can be cajoled into inspiring local speakers with their presence then Plymouth will be heard from in a debate way for a long time to come.

Armless Golfer To Play Brae Burn

Golf devotees will have an opportunity to view the most remarkable the most unusual and by far the most unique golfer in the entire world on June 7th, at the Brae Burn Golf club at Plymouth, in an exhibition starting at 3 p.m. All the theories regarding arm, wrist and body action will be cast into discard when "Tommy" McAuliffe, the world's champion armless golfer tees off—to which the public is invited to watch. "Mac" plays mighty good golf on any course. Words can't describe this unusual athlete—you must see him to appreciate and even then you go away wondering what two arms are for.

He not only plays a great game but has written golf for many years for magazines and daily papers—he founded the Western New York Golf Association and served as secretary for eleven consecutive years.

"Tommy" laughs at bunkers and traps as bad lies. His scores are better than 85 per cent of players at any course.

In 1922 in traveling throughout the United States and Canada he played 262 rounds of golf on 262 different courses and had an average score of 90 1/2 strokes per round.

He lost both arms in a railroad accident in 1901. He went through his grammar school, then to high school and spent rest of his active school career at Michigan State College. Learned to write by holding pencil or pen between right shoulder and face—writes today with implement held in teeth and lips. Learned to golf as a caddy and won two caddy championships. He was in vaudeville from 1928 to 1932 inclusive which took him around the world.

Uses ordinary clubs and his only grip is right shoulder and cheek; he carries thirteen iron clubs and four woods—yes, he uses every one. His drives average 160 to 170 yards which are straight down the fairway. He is a master showman and gifted with a likeable personality. Throughout Australia, Tasmania and New Zealand the press used these words, "The Man Who Out-Kirkwoods—Kirkwood, is Tommy McAuliffe—Armless Golfer From America." To see him in action is a liberal education and an inspiration to any man's golf game. It's uncanny.

Following the exhibition golf round McAuliffe will exhibit his array of trick and fancy golf shots. He does practically all the trick shots which Joe Kirkwood does with two arms. He will drive a ball from a human forehead. Brae Burn Golf Club is located, Five Mile Road at House of Correction Farm. The exhibition date is Sunday afternoon, June 7th at 3 p.m. The public is cordially invited to see this armless golfer shoot the course in a few strokes over par.

Choral Union To Present Famous Stars Next Year

Mme. Flagstad, Eddy and Heifetz on Program For 1936 - 1937

Headliners for the 1936-37 Choral Union concert series at Hill auditorium in Ann Arbor, announced recently by Dr. Chas. A. Sink, president of the University school of music, are Kir-slen Flagstad, distinguished Norwegian operatic soprano, Jascha Heifetz, violin virtuoso, and Nelson Eddy, concert, radio and motion picture baritone who has won such fame in recent years.

The series of 10 concerts will open October 19 with a recital by Mme. Flagstad. The Chicago Symphony orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting, will be heard November 2, and the Moscow Cathedral choir of 24 singers, directed by Nicholas Af-fonsky will present a program of Russian music November 16.

Heifetz, recognized as one of the outstanding violinists of the day, is scheduled for November 30, and the Boston Symphony orchestra, with Serge Koussevitzky conducting, will make its sixth annual appearance December 10. Josef Hofmann, world renowned pianist who has not been heard in Ann Arbor in almost a decade, will appear in recital December 14.

On January 15 Bernardino Molinari will again appear as guest conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, to be followed on January 25 by Gregor Piatigorsky, well known Russian violoncellist, who appeared in recital four years ago. Arthur Schnabel, pianist, will present a program on February 23, and Mr. Eddy will close the pre-Festival concerts on March 24.

Style Silhouettes

Every hostess strives for something different in the way of table decorations, favors and prizes for her dinner parties and afternoon bridge affairs. So a word to the wise and a hint as to what is new will not be out of place. There are endless novelties, as well as all sorts of ideas which utilize bits of crepe paper, colored cardboard, candies and nuts.

You can often have favors which are both attractive and edible as well without being in the least expensive. For a child's party it is a relatively simple task to make gumdrop figures, with large gumdrops for the bodies, small ones for heads and long ones for arms and legs, all put together with toothpicks. Or you might use marshmallows for the bodies, and make some of them feminine figures by the addition of a crepe paper skirt.

Colored candies help a great deal in carrying out your color scheme. Ordinary opera sticks may be tied together, say three in a group, and stood up tripod fashion as place card holders. Fourth of July red and white peppermint candy sticks tied with blue ribbon would be appropriate and attractive.

Of course at this time of year spring flowers make the loveliest centerpieces—low bowls of snapdragons and daffodils and jonquils. If you are setting a large table, forsythia will make a

Rosedale Gardens

Editor's Note: This week The Plymouth Mail inaugurates a column of news about Rosedale Gardens which will continue as a regular weekly feature.

Organization of the Rosedale Gardens Civic association, which was started in February, has been completed and officers elected as follows: Lawrence Mack, president; Robert Porteous, vice-president; Mrs. William J. Trepagnier, secretary; Paul Harsha, treasurer; and Stanley James, Fred Weinert and Mrs. G. C. Butt, additional members of the executive board.

The association meets the second Friday of every month. It has taken over the Community house, which is being constructed on Pembroke avenue, and plans are going forward for the furnishing and operation of this recreation center. The association has as its aims the improvement and beautification of the community, and at the present time is seeking to enforce speed regulations. It plans to work also for eventual fire and police protection.

The annual Mother and Daughter banquet of the Presbyterian church, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary, will be given this evening at the church. The program will open with a welcome by Mrs. William Taylor, president of the auxiliary, which will be followed by the invocation and community singing led by Mrs. F. Waters. The toast to the mothers will be given by Margaret Brandt, and that to the daughters by Mrs. Jack Van Coevering. A piano duet will be played by Mrs. Brista and Jean Ames. Patsy Nisly will offer a recitation. Mrs. Glens Coville will give a group of musical readings and Miss Nada Radish will present a story. Mrs. Paul Harsha, assisted by Mrs. Roy Miller and Mrs. Frank Ames, arranged the program.

Perhaps you are interested in a nautical theme for your dinner table—particularly if you are serving fish caught by the Izaak Walton enthusiasts in your family. Tiny ship models, with sails aslant, floating on a blue mirror sea, are always effective, particularly if you can carry out a blue and white color scheme in your linens and china. Then there are clever little white bowls in the form of open-mouthed fish which may be used to hold flowers, candies, nuts and mints. Fish, of course, will be your main course for such a meal, but a gelatin salad molded in the form of a fish, either a large one or individual molds, would be a good addition to your meal, and ice cream can be had in the form of fish or ships of various kinds. Tiny ships for favors or place card holders would complete your table.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wolf-ram and family were dinner guests, of Mr. and Mrs. John Baze, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Westfall Sunday.

Grandma Baze is visiting for a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. James Brown, in Pontiac.

Timber Destroyed
Forest destruction has meant much to the state of Michigan. The original stand of lumber in that state was 380,000,000,000 board feet. A little less than ten years ago there was left only 27.5 billion board feet. Consequently, Michigan, once a large lumber exporter, now imports about 90 per cent of its lumber, due to waste of its natural wood resources. What is true of Michigan is true also of other lumber states.

More than 100 pupils of the Rosedale Gardens school took part in the Wayne county rural school music festival held Thursday evening, May 7, at the Wayne County Training school.

Members of St. Michael's parish enjoyed a dance Saturday evening in the basement of the church.

Timber Destroyed
Forest destruction has meant much to the state of Michigan. The original stand of lumber in that state was 380,000,000,000 board feet. A little less than ten years ago there was left only 27.5 billion board feet. Consequently, Michigan, once a large lumber exporter, now imports about 90 per cent of its lumber, due to waste of its natural wood resources. What is true of Michigan is true also of other lumber states.

Unemployed Can Register May 18

Unemployed residents of this vicinity may register with the National Re-employment Service in the Plymouth and Northville city hall on May 18, according to Major Howard Starret, State director.

A schedule, extending the itinerant service out of the Wayne County district office at Detroit, was announced today by Major Starret.

"Our offices register men and women over 16 years of age who are seeking jobs and refer them to employers who have jobs to fill," Major Starret said. "References are made to both private industry and public works openings which are available."

"We established this itinerant service, because we know many workers cannot afford the trip to Detroit and are otherwise inconvenienced. This is part of our effort to give the best of service."

Weekly registrations are taken on Tuesdays in the Dearborn township clerk's office and the Safety Commission Building on Maple street, Dearborn; and Thursdays in the Wyandotte city hall.

Other dates set are May 11, 25, June 8, and 22 at the Livonia township clerk's office and the Redford township hall; and May 14 and 28 at the River Rouge city hall.

May 15 at Lezotte's store in Rockwood, May 15 and 29 in the Trenton township hall; May 19 and June 16 at the Garden City Square D club hall; May 22 and June 19 at the New Boston and Flat Rock township hall; May 28 at Grosse Ile township hall; June 2 at the Nankin township hall; and June 5 at the Belleville and Romulus township hall.

The Escape of Benedict Arnold
Benedict Arnold, though at the beginning of the Revolution a great hero for the Americans, turned traitor. Commander of the American fort of West Point, Arnold contrived that the English should capture it so that they could control the Hudson. The plot was found out by the Americans, but Arnold fled from the fort and escaped.
