Sewage Problem Of The City Solved

County Plans Big Sewer Line For This Section

Plymouth and Northville To Get Service - Will Dispose of City Sewage Plant in Riverside Park

Solution of Plymouth's sewage disposal problem has been worked out by the Wayne County Road Commission, Engineer-Manager LeRoy Smith advised The Plymouth Mail when in Plymouth Wednesday with a number of other engineers from the Detroit office. Probably sometime within another year construction of an immense trunk line sewer, serving the William H. Maybury Sanitarium, The Detroit House of Correction, The Wayne County Training School, the village of Northville and city of Plymouth will be started.

The Wayne County Road Commission has already secured an appropriation from the county out of a reserve fund set aside for purposes of this kind for the county's share of the expense and there is now before PWA officials a request for $900,000 of government funds as its portion of the project, which will be carried forward under the PWA.

"We plan to have the trunk line sewer of sufficient size so that it will carry for four or five times as many people as live in this part of Wayne county at present. The sewer in this locality will probably be about three feet in diameter and something like six feet when it reaches the disposal plant to be located somewhere in the Triton area," stated Mr. Smith.

The early part of the project will be for the three big county and city institutions and Plymouth and Northville, as well as the parkway system rest rooms down at Newburg.

Somewhere in the vicinity of Newburg will be erected a temporary disposal plant to take care of the sewage until the county can secure the remainder of the property along the Rouge river between Newburg and River Rouge park, located just within the city limits of Detroit. When this is secured the trunk line sewer will be built down the valley to the Detroit river.

The big sewer will parallel the roadway in the park from Northville to Plymouth and Newburg and provision will be made so that both Northville and Plymouth can easily run their main line sewers into the big county line, Plymouth - Riverside park visitors will be glad to know that the smell that prevails near the ball park is going to be eliminated.

"The plan that the commission has in mind provides for the complete elimination of the sewage disposal plant at Northville and in the Plymouth-Riverside park.

It is proposed that eventually communities like Newburg and Rosedale Gardens can have use of the sewer line. Our plan provides that Wayne, the big Eloise institution and even Belleville will be able to use the sewer.

"There remains a vast amount of detailed work in connection with preparing plans and other arrangements for the project. We have tentatively worked out the system as it should be and we have been allotted a portion of the money that will be needed and with final government approval which we have a right to expect, we hope to be able to start work sometime in 1937 on one of the most needed public improvements in Wayne county," added Mr. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stroutz announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Mae, to Merle Hurst, of Garden city. The ceremony was performed Saturday, July 11, in Bowling Green, Ohio, with Miss Muriel Nichols attending the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst are making their home in Plymouth.

Coroner's Office Grabs Body

Removes Remains Of Northville Business Man To Detroit—Grief Stricken Family Forced To Wait Hours For Release Of Auto Crash Victim

Growing bitterness in this locality against the cold-hearted methods employed by the coroner's office was intensified to such an extent during the past week that there has been some discussion of calling a mass meeting of Plymouth and Northville residents to discuss the advisability of filing a protest with state officials.

Following almost immediately the fatal accident on the Ann Arbor trail near here where a body was permitted to lie for hours on the paving in the hot, boiling sun, came the fatal crash just this side of the Seven Mile road that ended the life of Alex Johnson, well known Northville business man and contractor.

Johnson had started for Plymouth last Thursday evening. Indications pointed to the fact that he was crowded from the roadway and his machine crashed into the end of a concrete bridge.

When he was picked up he was alive. He was rushed to Sessions hospital but doctors said he had died in the ambulance from internal injuries. Some three hours later after the body had been removed to the Schrader undertaking parlors in Northville, employees of the coroner's office came to Northville and demanded the body, declaring that it had to be taken to the morgue in Detroit for an autopsy to determine the cause of death. Protests of friends and relatives over the needlessness of it all availed nothing.

But the brutal, cold-hearted part of the whole proceeding came the following day when the family tried to secure a release of the body at the morgue. The undertaker was required to wait for hours while attaches of the morgue sat about reading papers and refusing to permit the body to be taken back to Northville, and offering no excuse for their delay in permitting the removal of the body.

So intense is becoming the feeling in this part of Wayne county over the operations of the coroner that hints have been heard of a general defiance of his office and a possible request for removal.

Historic G. A. R. Flag Given To City By Ex-Service Men's Club

Patriotic Services Held In Square Last Night

In impressive ceremonies held last night in the Main street square at Kellogg park, the historic old battle flag of the Eddy post, Grand Army of the Republic, was presented to the city of Plymouth by the Ex-Service men's club, its custodian since the deaths of the last two members of the post, Will Stewart and Arthur Stevens.

Thronging of people crowded the square and park to view the colorful tableaux which attended the presentation and hear the address given by Judge Joseph A. Movin, chairman of the city. The speakers stood for notables, guests and officials was placed on the park side of the street in the middle of the block, while directly in front of it was the camp fire of the Civil war veterans, to the south that of Spanish-American war veterans, and to the north the fire of World war veterans. Assisting members of the Ex-Service Men's club were the Veterans of Foreign Wars drum and bugle corps, the Spanish-American fire and drum corps, the Plymouth Civic band, and Boy and Girl Scout troops.

After the tableaux groups had taken their places, Arlo A. Emory, master of ceremonies, introduced Prof. Harold M. Dorr of the University of Michigan faculty, who spoke briefly on the history of the Eddy post and its flag. As he finished, two buglers, stationed on top of the Blunk building, sounded "Taps," and the eight men representing Civil war soldiers arose one by one and walked slowly off the square, hand in salute position, until lost in the crowd.

The buglers then blew "Assembly" as Commander Harry Hunter, of the Ex-Service Men's club, stepped forward and presented the flag to Mayor Henry Hendorp. As he advanced, the veterans' groups moved into position at the right and left of the stand and stood at attention during Commander Hunter's speech and the mayor's acceptance. Appropriate musical selections followed.

Commissioner Ruth Huston-Whipple then introduced the dignitaries present and read letters from others who found it impossible to attend.

Reports Given On Townsend Meeting

Delegates from the Plymouth Townsend club No. 1 to the national convention held in Cleveland from July 15 to 19 inclusive, made their reports at the meeting held Monday evening in the Grange hall.

The voting delegates were Harry Irwin and Roy Woodworth, while others attending from here were Mrs. Harry Irwin, August Pankow, Fred Lute, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pankow and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fenton. The reports took up the work of the convention in detail, and all spoke of the enthusiasm shown by the delegates from all over the country who participated in the convention.

Start Long Delayed Bridge Improvement

Complaints on the part of citizens over the long continued closing of Garfield avenue to traffic has resulted in the city finally placing men at work on building a new culvert to take the place of the bridge that was broken early last spring by trucks hauling earth for a fill along Pennington avenue. The street was closed to traffic at that time and has remained closed during these many months. "A concrete culvert is being constructed to take the place of the bridge. The rotten planking was broken down by gravel trucks and no temporary repairs were ever made so that the street could be used. It will be open to traffic as soon as the concrete work now started has been completed, which will probably be within the next few days.

Rock To Start Business Here

C. C. Rock of Lindsay avenue, Detroit, announced this week that he had purchased the building at 111 Mill street, formerly occupied by the Sturgis Motor Sales, and will go into business there in the very near future.

In addition to general automotive repair work, Mr. Rock will manufacture articles which he is now getting ready to put on the market. He is a successful inventor, with several interesting things now in the process of being perfected, and others which he has in mind for future development.

Mr. Rock will make some changes in the building he has bought, and is considering an addition. He plans to move to Plymouth with his family very soon to make his home.

Book Machines Are Available For Blind

Word has been sent out that the blind department of the Wayne County library has some talking book machines which can be loaned for the summer free of charge to blind persons. Records will be supplied.

Those knowing of people who would like to have one of these machines, are asked to notify the Plymouth branch of the Wayne County library.

Over 3,000 At Highway Picnic

More than 3,000 people attended the third annual picnic of the Michigan State Highway department held Sunday at Cass lake, under the auspices of the Plymouth office. Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner flew over 400 miles to act as host for the occasion.

Nearly every county in the lower peninsula was represented, with large delegations from Van Buren, Kent, Travers, Wexford and Alpena, as well as the counties in this district. About 100 were present from Plymouth and vicinity, and several of the local delegation came back with prizes.

There were races and contests for young and old, softball games, and plenty of food, according to reports. The affair lasted from about 10 o'clock in the morning until dark.

Department Called To Put Out Grass Blaze

The fire department was called out shortly before noon Sunday to extinguish a grass fire on Theodore street, in back of the Super Service station on North Main street.

Ask Bids For Water Main Plan

City May Be Ready To Start Work For Better Water Supply In Early Winter Say Officials

Another step in Plymouth's long delayed action in improving its water system and supply was taken Monday evening at the meeting of the city commission when City Engineer Herald Hamill and Commissioner Ruth Huston-Whipple urged immediate action in advertising for bids to provide plans for a new well and enlargement of water mains in the business section of the north side of town and the downtown portion of the city.

It will be recalled that the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the city government some two years ago conducted a canvass of the community in an effort to find out from the citizens what they regarded as the most important civic problems for the city to give its attention and that the business men and others at that time decided that the water supply of Plymouth was the city's biggest problem calling for immediate attention.

It was then that the city submitted a plan to CWA officials for funds to improve the city's water supply, but it was rejected because of so-called excessive "material costs."

A little later Engineer Hamill prepared plans for the replacement of certain portions of the water mains in the business section.

He pointed out that in many places six inch water pipes feed into four inch water pipes and that this condition prevails in several sections of the business district.

The matter has dragged along during these two years until three weeks ago when Commissioner Whipple urged that the city ask the government for a loan instead of a grant to make improvements in the water system.

Following the appearance of Engineer Hamill before the commission Monday night it was decided to immediately advertise for bids for plans of an improved water system as well as for a new well.

The plan proposed by the citizens some two years ago was for a new well first, then replacement of the downtown four inch water mains and as a final part of the water improvement program the installation of water mains in the Riverside cemetery.

It is believed that under the present arrangements and if the steps are carried out as urged Monday evening there is a possibility of work being started on the water project before the first of the year.

It was announced at the city hall this week that there is an improvement in the water supply and that the reservoir now has over eight feet of water in it and the downtown pressure tank is again full.

School Balance Larger This Year

Receipts for the Plymouth school district for the fiscal year from July 1, 1935 to July 1, 1936 aggregated $139,444.20, as compared with expenditures totaling $131,493.80, the annual financial statement shows. This makes balance as of July 1, of $7,950.40, the balance July 1, 1935 came to $7,181.56.

The receipts for the year were divided as follows: Taxes—delinquent, $24,184.27, and 1935, $50,424.55, making a total of $74,608.82; state aid—library, $124.84; primary, $15,993.81, and primary supplementary, $30,080, making a total of $46,200.65; tuition—Thatcher-Saur, $8,747.00 and current and delinquent, $925.02, or a total of $9,672.02; Smith-Hughes, $588.90; and miscellaneous, $1,192.45.

Expenditures were: Administration, $6,582.94; instruction, $69,387.21; operation of plant, $12,468.97; maintenance of plant, $3,075.04; insurance, $1,155.11; depreciation, $35,880.80; capital outlay, $20.92; and auxiliary agencies, $2,943.71.

New Racket

Look out, Mr. Farmer! Here's a new racket.

If some fellow comes out to your farm some day and asks for a job and you hire him, and then he tells you he'll come back in the morning after he has had his shoes re-soled, look out.

He'll ask you for a couple of dollars to have his shoes fixed up and then leave for town—and the unknown.

Some kindly disposed farmers in this locality have been stung because of their willingness to aid fellows who are apparently in need of help—only to find out that they have been taken for a loss of two or three dollars by a new type of country grafter. Several farmers in this vicinity have reported losses.

First Concert By Band On Saturday

Opening its summer series of concerts, the Plymouth Civic band will offer a program Saturday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock in Kellogg park.

The band has a personnel of 26, and is under the direction of Ivan Gray, with Joseph Ribar as manager. It took part in the ceremonies Thursday evening when the G. A. R. flag was presented to the city, and offered a concert Tuesday evening in Salem. Practices have been held once a week for the past six weeks.

The program to be played Saturday is as follows:

Flames Destroy Big Horton Barn

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the big barn on the Allen A. Horton farm Tuesday night. The blaze was discovered about 9 o'clock by Hugh Horton, the only member of the family at home at the time, and he called the Plymouth fire department which responded promptly but was unable to do anything to check the flames.

Attracted by the red flare in the western sky and the shrill summons of the fire siren, crowds of people drove out the Territorial road where the Horton home is located about two miles west of town. Horses that had been kept in the barn had been taken to safety, but quantities of grain and straw stored there went up in flames, together with several saddles and bridles. As the crowd increased, firemen stood helplessly; while the big structure was reduced to a heap of ashes which still smoldered Wednesday morning.

According to Hugh Horton, he noticed the fire first toward the top of the barn but the flames had made such headway it was impossible to extinguish them. The amount of the loss has not been determined definitely, but it is not covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster Davis attended the Davis reunion held Sunday at Wampler's lake. There were about fifty guests present.

More Activities At Play Centers After Hot Spell

Games, Tournaments and Handicraft Are Resumed

During the past week the playgrounds have taken on new life following the intensely hot weather. Games and tournaments were resumed, as well as handicraft classes. The attendance for the week aggregated 1,658.

Two new games were introduced, one called tether ball, and the other box hockey. Tether ball, according to Director K. J. Matheson, is a game of skill in hitting a ball hung on a rope from a pole 12 feet long. The game is to bat the ball, trying to wrap the rope around the post while an opponent attempts to do the same thing from the opposite direction.

Box hockey is a game played in a box 12 feet by four feet, which is divided into three four-foot sections. It is played by two people, using hockey sticks and a three-inch wooden puck. The goals are four inches wide, and there are four passage ways the same size as the goals through which the players must knock the puck before reaching the goal. It is a very noisy game, but one which affords plenty of fun. Mr. Matheson reports.

A checker tournament for girls was held at both playgrounds, with Nancy Dunham winning at Starkweather and Ruth Weiland at Central. In the play-off the championship went to Nancy who won two out of three games. A dart baseball tournament for the boys was started but has not as yet been completed.

In handicraft, the making of plaster of Paris plaques occupied most of the time. These wall plaques are made by placing a tree leaf on a vaseline covered dish in which the plaster of Paris is poured. A paper clip is placed in the plaster to act as a hook. After the plaster dries, the leaf is removed and the plaque painted.

Many baskets and leather purses also have been completed by the children within the past few weeks. From 30 to 40 children have taken part in the work every day.

Next Tuesday, July 28, a picture will be taken of all the handicraft work done so far this season. Those who have completed articles during the summer are urged to bring them for the display.

The street showers were cancelled temporarily during the water shortage, which followed the hot spell, but have been resumed at both playgrounds on hot days.

Last Rites Are Held For Mrs. Susie Hall

Mrs. Susie Ellen Hall, formerly of Romulus, Michigan, who had resided for the past year with her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Maxwell, in Skiatook, Oklahoma, died Friday evening, July 17, after a short illness. She was 81 years old.

The body was brought to the Schrader Brothers Funeral home, and later taken to Romulus, where funeral services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday, at 2 o'clock. Interment was in the Romulus cemetery.

Warn Drivers Of Sticker Deadline

Despite the fact that the use of half-year automobile sticker permits will be illegal after midnight of July 31, very few persons in and near Plymouth have obtained their license plates so far. Leonard Murphy, manager of the Plymouth branch of the secretary of state's office, reports.

There will be absolutely no extension of time on the stickers. Mr. Murphy states, so all persons who expect to operate their cars after July 31 must equip them with 1936 plates before that time, with notice from Orville A. Atwood, secretary of state, points out that he is not permitted any latitude, discretion or power of extension, and that only the express authorization of the state legislature, which is not now in session, could delay or change this deadline.

Approximately 1,700 persons have purchased stickers through the Plymouth office, but only about 100 have obtained their 1936 plates. Up to July 15 of this year, a total of 448,084 stickers had been sold in the state of Michigan and, according to the reports of other cities, people are just as slow in buying plates at other places as they are in Plymouth.

Mr. Murphy is reminding purchasers that sticker certificates must be turned in at the time application is made for plates. The Plymouth branch of the secretary of state's office is located in the Mayflower hotel.

Rotarians Are Finger Printed

It's just too bad! There will be no use in any Plymouth Rotarian trying to get away from the law in the future, for there is on record in Plymouth, the county building in Detroit, and at the federal identification bureau in Washington, the fingerprints of every Rotarian in this city.

Robert E. Moore, superintendent of identification for the sheriff's office, and an authority on fingerprint work, was the speaker at last Friday's Rotary meeting. He told of the importance of everyone having his fingerprints made and filed.

Incidentally he gave Chief of Police Vaughn Smith of Plymouth and the members of his force the highest kind of praise, declaring that Plymouth had, without question, the best and most active police force in Wayne county. It is one of the few smaller cities where a fingerprint system is maintained as a part of police work. He declared that Mr. Smith was not only a good officer, but that the county had found him to be an executive of an outstanding type, and a public official who ranks far above the average.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Felton are taking a trip through the upper peninsula, spending some time in the "copper country" at the end of Trail U. S. 41.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Archer and Walter Harrod, of Pontiac, were visitors Wednesday, at the home of the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Terry.

WHAT A FORMER GOVERNOR SAYS

"I have read your editorial, 'Hidden Gold.' It is indeed work for Michigan. No one can state the matter better than you have."—Hon. Chase S. Osborn.

JUST SUPPOSE

Suppose your house was dark and you needed light exceedingly bad, and suppose the manager of the Detroit Edison company should call you by telephone and tell you that because of the shortage of electric power, you could have your lights on only certain hours during the day, instead of the night, and then not to use any more light or power than absolutely necessary.

Suppose you were getting dinner for your family and the manager of the Consumers Power company should call you up and advise you that you had better shut off your stove and cook only one meal a day, because the gas supply was running short!

What would you do? Just naturally you would rave about the poor service of the Edison company and the Consumers company. Of course, this does not happen.

This editorial is about water—and it is no criticism of anyone—just what happens year after year, that's all.

When Plymouth constructed its water plant years ago, the pioneers did a wonderful job. They provided the community with as good a water supply as any town in the state could boast. We had something like a thousand people living here at the time these progressive citizens built the water system. They provided well for the number of people who lived here, and they gave them ample water. In fact, they provided for twice their numbers.

But, meanwhile, Plymouth has grown. Its commercial development has out-stepped civic progress by leaps and bounds, and a water system that was built to provide for a thousand or more people, has been called upon to serve a city of more than 5,000 people.

True, one or two more wells have been put down, but the reservoir is no larger than it was the day it was built. Much of the old water main laid in the early days still serves. As the city has grown we have tried to provide everyone in town with water, but each summer for years back, has come a request not to use any more water than necessary, to cut down its use to the smallest possible amount. In fact, during the time of the year when water is our greatest need, we never have anywhere near the amount required to properly serve the city.

The city of Plymouth makes money every time a water connection is put into a house. It charges more for water than it costs to provide that water.

During all of these years of growth, we have not increased our storage capacity a square foot. Once we went out into the country and drove a few test wells, but nothing ever came of it. We have talked about more water, but it has been talk only.

Suppose the utilities that provide us with light, power and cooking fuel should year after year tell the citizens of Plymouth we couldn't have all the light, power and gas we needed? What would be the result?

Wisely they provide for extra "loads." We have made no such provision in our water supply.

Plymouth should AT ONCE take steps to enlarge its own water supply or make arrangements with the city of Detroit to connect the new Detroit main that crosses the Plymouth water main just this side of the Training school some two miles north of the city, so that when summer time comes and our demands for water are at the peak, we can tell everyone that they can use all the water they need at a time when the need for water is the greatest.

The time has come for the city to be as alert and as progressive as the utilities that serve us. And the time has come to stop talking and do something.

WHY MICHIGAN IS A DOUBTFUL STATE

In every national political poll one reads these days, Michigan is classed as a "doubtful" state. In fact some of the polls indicate that this once Republican stronghold is more Democratic than it is Republican.

To one who has frequently reviewed the political history of Michigan, and noted in past years the ever increasing strength of the Republican party since its organization "Under the Oaks" in Jackson, its defeat in recent years is not difficult to explain.

Way back in 1854, when the youthful party was just sprouting its wings, Kingsley Bingham was elected the Republican governor by a majority of over 17,000 out of less than a hundred thousand votes in the state.

Steadily the Republican majorities mounted with each state election, 20,500; 29,000; 36,000; 47,000, and so on until Democrats put up a ticket just to keep their party intact and with not the slightest idea of winning a state office. True, once in a while the Republican majorities would go down a bit, but always the Republicans were safe, and in national elections from long before the Civil war, Michigan was counted upon as a state where its electoral vote for the Republican party was as good as in the bag, so to speak.

In the past half dozen years or more, Michigan has elected a Democratic governor. It has gone Democratic in the national election, and it has elected many Democratic congressmen. Two of its last legislatures have been controlled by the Democrats.

Why? The answer is an easy one. The downfall of the Republican party in Michigan started the day that the present party clique brought about the defeat of Governor Alex J. Groesbeck by trickery and deceit. He brought honor to his state and the Republican party by the kind of administration he gave to the state. What he did was not for the benefit of a bunch of politicians who regarded public office as a place of personal gain and not of public service.

From the day Groesbeck stepped out of the governor's chair, state affairs have gone from bad to worse. First, there was Green, as good a fellow as ever walked the streets of Ionia or any other city. But he was just a good fellow, and that was all—and he believed in and did run the governor's office as a good fellow might be expected to run it. He was not a bad governor, but somehow his administration just did not appeal to the masses.

Then came Brucker, who, like Alice in Wonderland, was dazzled by the high hung draperies, the gilded walls and the massive furniture of the governor's office, and it went to a head that was filled with emptiness when it came to a knowledge of public affairs. The shriek of the big power whistles of the state police cars as the governor dashed along the highways with state police always at his side, their whistle alarms going full blast, to him was the height of public service. Wasn't he the governor, and wasn't he the commander of the state police and the state military forces?

It was big stuff! (To him.) But the voters of Michigan—and the vast majority of the voters were Republicans—just didn't like to see a lot of horseplay with such an important office as that of governor.

They thought that the governor should at least be trying to do something towards solving the problems of state and not spending his time running around crowning queens at every crossroads, orating at every corner grocery store, and parading his military career on every pretext. They just didn't like it, that was all, and when they came to vote for his re-election, he got the smallest number of votes of any man on the Republican ticket, and a Democrat became governor of Michigan.

True, we have had a turn-over in the governorship, and there is now a Republican in office, with the Democrats holding almost the balance of power in legislative circles and filling more important state offices than the party ever before possessed.

And still the voters do not seem to be satisfied. We can tell you what caused the political turn-over in Michigan, but in all frankness, it is difficult to find a reason for the present disturbed mind of the taxpayers of the state. They are not satisfied, apparently, even with the almost equal division of power between the two great parties. Notwithstanding the efforts of Gov. Fitzgerald to do what he believed the voters desire, and notwithstanding the efforts of Gov. Comstock to do the same thing, there is still dissatisfaction.

Does it all mean that the voters want to turn back to one party control, either by Republicans or Democrats, or do they want to have an entirely new set-up in state affairs, with an entirely new administration from top to bottom? This is a question only time can answer.

HENRY P. BALDWIN
The present state capitol building at Lansing, stands out as one of the chief accomplishments of the administration of Henry P. Baldwin, who was governor of Michigan from 1869 to 1873.

Left an orphan when 12 years old, he secured work as a clerk in a store where he worked a number of years. In 1837 when he moved from Rhode Island, his native state, he located in Detroit, establishing a mercantile house he successfully conducted it during his entire life. Active in church affairs and all matters which might be of public interest, he accomplished much good in Detroit. He gave the lot on which St. John's Episcopal church was erected in Detroit, and was one of the original movers in establishment of St. Luke's hospital in that city.

He was elected to the state senate from Detroit in 1860 and won the governorship in 1869, serving two terms. During his administration, considerable was done towards the betterment of penal, charitable and reformatory institutions.

The school for dependent children at Coldwater was established, and the first steps towards the building of the Eastern Asylum for the Insane and the State House of Correction, were taken during his term as governor. Appropriations for the present capitol were made during his administrations, and contracts let for the erection of the building in Detroit, and was one

KANSAS VS. MICHIGAN TAXES

The treasurer of Kansas announced that the state would close its fiscal year on June 30 with a balanced budget. The general fund will have an unencumbered cash balance of $1,572,481 compared with a balance in the fund last year of $689,591.

No doubt the Republicans will quote the Kansas treasurer's report during the campaign this summer as showing what a good business man the party has nominated for the presidency.

Kansas Democrats cannot meet this situation in such a fine way as can the Democrats of Michigan who know full well that Michigan has a fine financial showing through the efforts of Governor William A. Comstock and his administration who passed the sales tax which has not only brought down the purchase of "red ink" in Michigan but has also brought into the state treasury much more money than was even anticipated by the most sanguine. Another campaign indicator for the Democrats is the unfavorable situation of Michigan having the largest budget in history—and who pays the "freight"—the tax payer.—T. O. Huckle in The Cadillac Evening News.

YET TO BE LEARNED

We have proven that the federal government cannot control morals and appetites; we are now in the process of learning it cannot successfully control business.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican News.

GETTING A SHANTY-TOWN

The decision of the board of education to give a couple more portables to Redford High school will not make much of a hit with the residents. Folks hereabout have been rather patient. Funds for a new and enlarged Redford High School was authorized six years ago by the board. But the new addition has never gone beyond the architectural drawings.

The reason given for this situation has been lack of funds. But our government seems always to be able to find plenty of funds to waste in trivialities. We venture to assert that there have been sufficient money spent in the Redford area sweeping streets, cleaning up leaves and manuring ditches to build two high schools.

It would seem timely to suggest that perhaps the Board of Education, the City Council, the WPA and other alphabetical organizations get together and determine whether or not some means cannot be found to give the taxpayer something for the money that is being taken from him by the federal and state governments and wasted in various boondoggling enterprises.

Surely this district of Detroit needs something better than cowsheds for the children to use as a secondary education home. In fact, we know of some cowsheds in Oakland county that are superior architecturally to the "temporary" makeshifts that now disgrace the community. If these wooden firetraps were to be used but a year, one would not be moved to such a vigorous protest. But it can be stated here and now there is no prospect or plan for doing anything but leaving these ugly buildings in Redford for years.—Floyd McGriff in The Redford Record.

Speed Barns At Milford Burned

Plymouth residents who visit the Oakland County fair at Milford each year will be interested to learn that the speed barns at the fair grounds were destroyed by fire July 12, and one horse, David Seymour, owned by George Moore of Romulus, burned to death in the blaze.

The flames broke out shortly after the fire department extinguished a grass fire nearby and departed. Firemen report that the grass around the building was well soaked when they left, and no one is certain how the blaze started, although spectators agree it seemed to be the worst in the small barn where the horses were stabled. Three horses were removed to safety, but trainers were unable to enter the building to save the fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Langfield returned last week from an eastern trip. In the course of which Mr. Langfield attended the convention of Rotary International in Atlantic City.

REDUCED... TELEPHONE RATES.....

Effective on the Dates Shown Below

By order of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, dated July 1, reductions are made in certain telephone rates and charges in the Plymouth exchange.

On rural lines the charge for the upright or desk type telephone is reduced from 25 cents a month to 10 cents, and will be eliminated entirely after the customer has had that type of telephone in service continuously for 18 months.

The charge for the hand telephone is reduced from 25 cents a month to 15 cents, except on rural lines where it remains at 25 cents, and will be eliminated entirely, as at present, after the customer has had that type of telephone in service continuously for 18 months.

The above reductions will be effective in the case of present customers on July 26.

Reductions also are made in the charges for installing and moving telephones, and for changing the type of telephone instrument. For instance, the charge for installing a business telephone where there is no instrument already in place, is $3.00; for a residence telephone where there is no instrument already in place, it is $1.50. Those reductions became effective Saturday, July 11.

Effective July 26 charges for rural multiparty service beyond six miles from the base rate area are reduced. Monthly rates for other residential and business service are unchanged.

Telephone service now represents greater value than ever before. To place an order, or to obtain further information, call, visit, or write the Telephone Business Office. Installation will be made promptly.

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 26.

Among the Bible citations in this passage (John 8: 31, 32): "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 183): "Truth casts out all evils and materialistic methods with the actual spiritual law—the law which gives sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, voice to the dumb, feet to the lame."

Varied Program Is Planned Next Week At Theater

Air Story, Romance and Comedy Are Being Scheduled

Will you have air adventures, romance or comedy as your film fare next week? The Penniman-Alten theater offers all three, beginning Sunday with "Devil's Squadron," followed on Wednesday by "The Princess Comes Across" and on Friday by "Early to Bed."

The first stars Richard Dix, virile hero of many a screen drama, both silent and "talkie," with lovely Karen Morley. Advance reports state the picture is packed with thrills and romance, one of the high-spots being the "9 G power dive," said to be the most dangerous of aviation stunts.

Light-hearted romance is found in "The Princess Comes Across," in which Carole Lombard and Fred Mac Murray play the leading roles. It is said to be a gay tale, with a new twist and plenty of amusing complications.

The inimitable Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles are co-starred again in "Early to Bed," the hilarious story of a bashful Romeo (Ruggles) and his flut-tery, somewhat plump Juliet (Miss

Lenore Rathburn and Elwood Gates Marry

The marriage of Miss Lenore Jane Rathburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rathburn, and Elwood David Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Gates, was quietly performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening by Rev. Walter S. Nichol in the Presbyterian manse.

The bride and bridegroom were attended by her sister, Rhea, and Alva Elzerman. The bride was attractively gowned in blue lace over taffeta with pale pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and gardenias. The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in pink silk crepe, having brown accessories and a corsage of white roses and blue delphinium.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Sutherland avenue with about 35 relatives present. The home was attractively decorated in pink and white, with gladioli, snapdragons and roses being used. The dining table was centered with a tiered wedding cake flanked by lighted tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gates left later for a brief wedding trip through Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, and will be at home to their friends after July 24, at 191 East Ann Arbor trail.

R. and W. Romps To Easy Victory Over K. P. Nine

Holds League Lead As Daisy Bows To Wilsons

The Red and White nine romped to an easy victory last week, over the last place K. of P. team, winning 23 to 1, to hold first place in the Recreation Softball league. Schryer, the R. and W. catcher, hit two home runs, and Straub contributed one. W. Bassett and K. Gates led the attack of 24 hits, each getting four out of five.

Wilson's beat Schraders in a home run battle, 8 to 7. Each team scored three home runs, and at the end of the sixth inning the score stood at 4-all. In their turn at bat, Wilsons scored four runs on four hits and a base on balls before being retired, and Schraders put on a desperate rally that ended one run short of a tie.

Home runs were scored by Wagenschutz and Cyril Rodman, for Schraders, the latter getting two, while Vaughan Smith collected two for Wilsons, also getting two singles, and Dettle hit two doubles and a single, scoring three runs.

Frigidaire gained revenge for the defeat handed them by the Varsity, when they were leading the league some weeks ago and, using all their available players, drubbed Varsity 21 to 14. Varsity, however, threw a scare into the victors when they came to bat for the last time, and scored eight runs, to knock Fisher, Frigidaire pitcher, out of the box. Fisher led the batters in hitting, with four out of five. Olsen drew four bases on balls.

Wilson's sluggers extended their winning streak by pounding Rorabacher of the Daisy for 20 hits to take the game 19 to 12. The 20 hits included three home runs, a triple and three doubles. Daisy tried hard to match this, but fell behind five hits and seven runs. Dethloff led the outstanding fielding play, when he ran a country mile to make a bare-handed catch of H. Stevens' foul fly. R. Williams led the hitters with a perfect day at the plate, getting five out of five. Close behind Williams were McClellan and Dethloff, who had four out of five each. The defeat dropped Daisy from a first place tie with R. and W.

Rotarians last week heard an interesting talk by Charles E. Rogers on the 4,000-mile trip which he and Mrs. Rogers took last week through the southern and eastern part of the United States. At the close of the program President W. E. Forney called upon Floyd Northrop to tell about a recent fishing trip taken by a group of Northville men.

Under the auspices of the Nazarene church, the former residence of Mrs. Blanche Forsythe on South Center street will be opened as a home for unmarried expectant mothers, it was announced last week by attorneys for the church, A. sible to attend, after which Judge Moynihan gave his address. The program was concluded as the veterans, Scouts, fraternal organizations and bands formed a parade to escort the flag to the city hall, where it was placed in the case especially constructed for it, under the framed charter of the Eddy post, given to the city by the state department of the G. A. R.

Among the guests at the ceremony, in addition to Judge Moynihan and Professor Dorr, were Col. Ralph M. Parker, of Detroit, district commander of the Michigan Reserve district; Major Wharton G. Ingram, of Detroit; James M. Adams, of Jackson, commander of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, and Mrs. Adams; and Miss Leah H. Simpson, of Detroit, counselor of the Woman's Relief corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R.

The following letters from A. C. Estabrook of Grand Rapids, senior vice-commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., Ruth W. Shoemaker of Flint, department president of the Sons of Union Veterans auxiliary, and Ella J. Ramsdell, of Big Rapids, department president of the Woman's Relief corps, were read:

4861 Buchanan Ave. S. W., Grand Rapids, Mich., July 15, 1936.

Joint Committee, Ex-Service Men and City Officials, Plymouth, Mich. Comrades and Fellow Citizens:

This is in grateful acknowledgment of your cordial invitation to be present on the occasion of the presentation of the Eddy Post flag to the City of Plymouth. But owing to a prior engagement, I will have to forego the pleasure of accepting, which I sincerely regret.

The Allegan and Van Buren County Soldiers and Sailors association meets at Allegan on the twenty-third and I, having the honor of being the commander, it would seem out of place were I to be absent.

The old soldiers are all appreciative of the interest displayed by the younger veterans in patriotic work and the citizens of Plymouth are entitled to the highest commendation for the interest manifested in this matter.

As we approach the sunset of life and are soon to let the mantle fall upon younger shoulders, to carry on the work so earnestly wrought by the Grand Army for the past seventy years, we have an abiding faith that you will be faithful to your trust.

The Grand Army has written a book whose pages can never be effaced, not only for our own country, but for all mankind.

An organization with the primary object of renewing old comradeship coupled with a desire to foster and uphold the principles for which we contended for four years on bloody fields in the south land, an organization unique, distinct, clothed in its own individuality, recognized leader in the most practical object lesson in patriotic consecration, a giant in swaying the minds of legislators, it became in its first quarter of a century the impelling force in our country's onward march to the highest goal of national material achievement, and is yet a strong factor in American civics. Among the social institutions established and maintained for the welfare of this country, none have attained a closer place in the hearts of the people than has the Grand Army of the Republic. Its original purpose as I have said before, was to cherish the friendships, born in toil and danger, and to perpetuate the memory of those comrades who have passed beyond the land of shadows and who are now awaiting the last of the long columns as they approach the ramparts of the celestial encampment.

This sounds like a funeral sermon. I am not a preacher. I believe in giving credit where credit is due. It is impossible to over-estimate the consecrated work of women for all the armies of the United States. Hundreds of thousands of women have given their leisure time and all the money they could save, to the soldiers engaged in war. Amid discouragements and fearful delays, they never flagged, but to the last increased their devotion.

All the auxiliaries to the patriotic organizations are entitled to the highest praise for their helpfulness in their different capacities. They have been instrumental in teaching the young respect for the flag, and have contributed their best efforts to the exemplification of all that is true Americanism. And last, but not least, they have been a blessing to the ex-service men beyond expression. May the reward for love and helpfulness during the past be a life of sunshine and happiness.

Wishing you a joyous and profitable gathering, I am sincerely yours, in fraternity, charity and loyalty.

A. C. ESTABROOK, Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief Grand Army of the Republic

1469 Poplar Street, Flint, Mich., July 20, 1936

Mr. C. H. Elliott, Plymouth, Michigan.

Dear Sir: Wish to take this means to thank you for your kind invitation to attend the ceremonies relative to the presentation of the G. A. R. flag, charter, etc., to the City of Plymouth.

Due to a very full calendar for this month, it will be impossible for me to attend Thursday evening, much to my regret.

However, as Dept. President of Michigan Auxiliary to Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, I wish to send greetings to you from my department on this splendid thing you are doing. It is such deeds as these which will keep alive the memory of those men who gave their all if need be that this nation should forever have within its border but one flag, the stars and stripes. I trust that we who are left, after the last veteran has answered the final roll call, will cherish and reverence those things which they prized as highly as their lives.

Let me pledge anew, the loyal support of every Auxiliary member, and say we are ever ready to carry on the work, so nobly begun by those brave Boys of '61-'65.

In closing, may I wish you success in every patriotic work you may undertake, and if I can assist you at any time, I stand ever ready to do so.

Thank you again for your kind invitations, and best wishes to such true citizens.

Loyalty in the cause, RUTH W. SHOEMAKER, Dept. President, Sons of Union Veterans Auxiliary.

519 Linden St., Big Rapids, Mich., July 17, 1936.

Ex-Service Men's Club, C. H. Elliott, Dear Sir:

Greetings and best wishes to the Ex-Service Men's Club from the Department of Michigan Woman's Relief Corps.

Thank you kindly for your invitation to meet with you at the presentation of the G. A. R. Flag to your city. We regret that owing to other duties we are unable to attend. I know your city will be proud to have this special flag that means so much.

I know of nothing better to say at this time than to repeat a little selection written by Franklin K. Lane in 1914.

I AM WHAT YOU MAKE ME

"The Flag! I am whatever you make me, nothing more."

I am your belief in yourself, your dream of what people may become.

I live a changing life, a life of moods and passions, of heart-breaks and tired muscles.

Sometimes I am strong with pride, when workmen do an honest piece of work, fitting the rails together truly.

Sometimes I droop, for then purpose has gone from me, and cynically I play the coward.

But always I am all that you hope to be, and have the courage to try for.

I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope.

I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring.

I am what you make me, nothing more.

I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color—A symbol of yourself!

A pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation.

My stars and stripes are your dream and your labors.

They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith because you have made them so out of your hearts."

And may this consecrated G. A. R. Flag stand for all that to your city and its inhabitants.

Sincerely and Patriotically yours, ELLA J. RAMSDPELL, Dept. Pres.

Dept. Sec. Esther Braendle, Dept. Treas. Minnie Hill

Furniture is one of the most important things to consider in the home and yet too many of us know surprisingly little about it—what styles really are "in" at the moment, what types can be used together with harmonious effect, and what advances have been made in the way of added comfort and more beautiful designs.

With the dealer's shows in the important centers of the country just about over, the stores will soon be showing the newest styles. According to advance word, modern and eighteenth century patterns are leading in popularity. Whatever we thought about modernistic styles when they first were shown, we must admit now that they are here to stay. In the "period" designs, the eighteenth century is closely followed by early American colonial and federal. French and early English.

More mahogany is being shown this season than for some time, although walnut still retains a wide margin of popularity. This year a new light finish—"blonde"—is being shown, while brown seems to be out in front for upholstered furniture. Materials used include mohair, brocatelles, velours, tapestries and other fabrics.

Getting down to more specific items, we find that at last the manufacturers have taken pity on the short woman and put out pull-up chairs designed for their comfort and convenience.

As for occasional tables, the "cocktail" table, which is lower and larger, continues to gain in popularity over the coffee table, probably because the former is newer, not because the nation is consuming more cocktails and less coffee.

Knee-hole desks are in ascendancy as far as desks are concerned, both modern and period types being represented and the oval shape coming to the foreground. For convenience sake, as well as because higher priced furniture is selling better this season, tops 50 and 52 inches long are being shown. As for lamps, wood bases of walnut or mahogany appear to be gaining in popularity, with a wide selection of metals offered for variety. Silk remains, of course, the favorite material for shades.

Studio couches, which came in with apartment life, are now used quite generally because of their attractive appearance, comfort and convenience. Now we have the "bed-height" couch with an easily operated mechanical device to convert it into a bed. In styling, the studio couch has come to look more than ever like a modernistic davenport.

In chiffoniers the trend is quite emphatically toward more masculine convenience. No longer do we have five or six drawers, all the same size, but a more practical arrangement in which some of the drawers remain while the other space is used for hat compartments, and smaller drawers for handkerchiefs, collar buttons and odds and ends. The new arrangements provide a much more interesting exterior appearance also.

Where the children are concerned, nautical motifs seem to be number one in the style book. Sea designs are found in bedroom sets and play room sets of all kinds. Then, too, the trick of duplicating adult furniture down to the last detail is being widely practiced.

In the kitchen the "principal aim seems to be to have bright, gay colors and a maximum of utility, especially in the new kitchen cabinets. The latest idea in breakfast sets, for kitchen or breakfast room, is to provide chairs of greater comfort than the time honored "kitchen chair" offered. There are even sets of porcelain-topped table and upholstered chairs! Stove manufacturers have gone 100 per cent modern, with "table top" models all the thing.

A Democrat Goes On Fishing Trip-He Gives Interesting Details About It To The Fish Editor

Eugene Orndorf runs a big choo-choo engine for the Pere Marquette.

Howard Sly, better known to the world as "Butch," shovels the bituminous which provides the heat that makes the steam to make the wheels go round and round and causes the engine to go choo-choo.

A while back these daring navigators of steel and steam, packed up their old cane poles, gathered unto themselves a big batch of night crawlers and started for northern Canada to do some fishing.

Last week the library closed each evening at 8 o'clock because of the hot weather, but the present schedule calls for hours of 12 to 9 p.m. on all days except Saturday, and 10 to 9 p.m. Saturdays.

We wish The Mail's fish column editor wouldn't ask us any more questions about our Hudson Bay fishing trip.

We're going way up where the big ones are, and we are not going to stop at any place where we think a Republican has ever fished," said Mr. Eugene Orndorf, a long time resident of Plymouth, but still at heart a Kentucky Democrat.

"We're going to do some real fishing and when we come home we are going to tell the youthful, slender and handsome editor of The Plymouth Mail's fishing column about our luck," injected Mr. Howard Sly.

There're back home—these two daring navigators of steel.

It would be better to tell the story in Mr. Eugene Jefferson Jackson Cleveland Roosevelt Orndorf's own words, to-wit:

"We landed just this side of Hearst, not many hundreds of miles south of Hudson Bay. We forgot our snow shoes so we took the train and back-tracked a hundred miles or so nearer to lake Superior. At the break of dawn we unloaded our night crawlers and prepared for a day on the widest lake known to man up along the Algoma.

"As you know, I always eat catlois for breakfast and after we had our carrots, we started out on the lake to fish.

"Soon a black cloud appeared in the western sky. Butch says to me, 'Gene, it's a dust storm coming over from the states.' I says right back to Butch that it wasn't a dust storm. I bet it was a flock of wild Republicans or a swarm of hungry deer flies sent up there by some Republican politician to spoil our fishing. Well, that's the way we argued back and forth until the big, black cloud was right over the lake.

"Then it began settling down towards us. The cloud wasn't Republicans after all. We could see that they had wings and I never knew a Republican to have wings on earth or in the hereafter.

"It wasn't long before we really knew what they were. Instead of Butch and myself feeding night crawlers to hungry trout, we became bait for the maddest and hungriest bunch of deer flies that ever swarmed over man or moose. Say, they were so thick and hungry that they'd even gnaw holes in our mosquito netting so they could get a good bite of some tender Democratic meat at night time. That's why we haven't any fish story to tell, and this why

We have been talking Coolerator to you the past two years. Honestly we think you should own one.

Why? Because,

- 1st.—Only Coolerator has the patented air-conditioned chamber where the air is kept in constant circulation, uniformly cold, with just the proper amount of moisture, keeping foods fresher and more natural tasting.
- 2nd.—Food odors are picked up by a continuous directed flow of air and passed through the patented air-conditioning chamber where they are absorbed by the water from the melting ice and washed down the drain pipe where they do no harm.
- 3rd.—The ice melts chiefly from the bottom up, and because only the greatly increased bottom surface of ice is used for refrigeration, you always have the same constant cold temperature in the entire food compartment, whether the ice chamber is full or nearly empty.
- 4th.—It requires re-icing only every four to seven days.
- 5th.—It costs only one-third to one-half as much as a mechanical refrigerator. There are no repairs to be made. No up-keep. Your ice will cost From $1.50 to $2.50 Per Month.
- 6th.—Our ice is made from the same water you drink every day. It is even purer, because we use a special water filter, that removes all sediment. With our air system and core pumping process most of the lime is removed from the water.
- 7th.—From this crystal clear, pure ice you can make ice cubes with the Coolerator Cuber in five minutes. All you want.
- 8th.—With the Ice-Chef you can make delicious Ice Cream, Ices and Desserts, simply, easily and quickly.

Murphy At State C. of C. Meeting

Leonard Murphy, secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, attended a state meeting of Chamber of Commerce secretaries held Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday in St. Joseph.

One of the problems discussed, said Mr. Murphy, was protection for business men against solicitation and rackets. It was found that in practically every city where there is a Chamber of Commerce, business men have a strict ruling against any members donating to any organization or subscribing to any form of soliciting unless the same has been approved by the Chamber of Commerce.

The question of membership campaigns also was discussed thoroughly, and it was decided that "home talent" drives for new members are more successful and lasting than those conducted by professional promoters.

Another matter brought before the meeting was the advisability of "buying" conventions and industries for a town and it was found that some communities make an attempt to induce industries to locate by granting certain concessions, such as tax refunds.

This practice is frowned upon by Chamber of Commerce officials, because it is illegal. Mr. Murphy stated, other inducements may be offered, it was agreed, but the general consensus of opinion seemed to be that persuasion by means of granting special privileges usually proves rather unsatisfactory.

In only one instance was it reported that an industry obtained for a city by this method proved of value to the community.

Friday's meetings were held at the Whitcomb hotel, and the Saturday sessions at the Tabor farm, a summer resort about 10 miles south of the city, with the joint Chambers of Commerce of St. Joseph and Benton Harbor as hosts.

Local Resident Describes Drouth In North Dakota

John Wahn Says Most Of Grain Crops There Are Ruined

"Just terribly hot and dry" is the way in which John Wahn of Plymouth describes North Dakota and other parts of the central west region he saw on his recent trip. "The crops are practically gone."

Mr. Wahn, with his wife, sister, Mrs. Peter Delvo, and two nephews, left here July 3, going to Langdon, North Dakota, to visit friends and relatives and staying there until July 16. The period of intense heat in the Dakotas began about July 5, according to Mr. Wahn, and temperatures ranged from 104 to 110 degrees.

"It was not only the heat, but the wind which made it so bad," he declared. "Wind coming over the fields felt like a blast out of a furnace. Most of the farmers in that country raise small grains, but the wheat, oats and barley are almost a total loss, while most of the fall rye has been plowed under because the drouth has ruined it."

"Over toward Bismarck, people reported that all the crops are gone, and cattle are being shipped out of that region to keep them from starving. One of my cousins told me that there had been no really decent crops in the past four years. Last year there was a big straw crop, but nothing else because the rust had ruined most of the grain."

"People everywhere in the Dakotas are disheartened and discouraged, according to Mr. Wahn, who explained that they feel helpless and unable to do anything about conditions. Most of them own their land and are unable just to leave it, he said, adding that there is absolutely no possibility of selling it. For the last two years there has been a great deal of government money going into that area under the federal crop reduction and soil conservation programs, he stated. Many of the farmers with whom he talked, have planted their land to clover, receiving a dollar for each acre so planted from the government.

"I lived and farmed in North Dakota for 18 years myself, and I never saw conditions like they are this year," Mr. Wahn asserted. "It was pretty dry in '17 and '18, but even then we had a fair crop. This is terrible."

As for Michigan, the consensus of opinion seems to be that crop conditions are not too bad, and will, in fact, be fairly good if there is rain in the near future. According to one Plymouth resident, who is in a position to know, crops around here are not badly damaged and higher market prices are a reflection of conditions to the west, rather than any local drouth. Despite the recent hot weather and the lack of rain, farmers are threshing their wheat and no shortages of grains and foodstuffs have been reported in this vicinity.
