

Speed Limits Are Clearly Outlined In New Ordinance

Second Part Of Traffic Law Published This Week

Regulations as to legal driving speeds, traffic signal lights, various rules of the road with regard to making turns, signaling, passing other vehicles and crossing intersections, and giving right of way to police and fire department vehicles, as well as funeral processions, are outlined in detail in the section of the new traffic ordinance for the city which appears in this week's issue of The Plymouth Mail.

The new ordinance was passed August 24 by the city commission and becomes effective 21 days after that date. It will be strictly enforced by the Plymouth police department, according to Chief of Police Vaughan R. Smith.

Chief Smith is calling particular attention to the section which provides that the speed limit on all streets in the business district shall be 20 miles per hour, and in residential and public parks districts, 25 miles per hour. Furthermore, no operator will be allowed to drive in any alley or turn a corner when going at a rate of speed greater than 10 miles per hour.

In addition "any person driving a vehicle on a highway shall drive the same at a careful and prudent speed not greater than nor less than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway and of any other conditions then existing, and no person shall drive any vehicle upon a highway at a speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

Subject to these limitations, it is recognized as lawful for the driver of a vehicle to drive the same at a speed not exceeding the limits set, but in any case when any speed is unsafe, it will be considered unlawful.

Another section of the ordinance which Chief Smith is stressing is that which provides that when a police car or fire truck approaches on emergency call, sounding bell or siren, all other vehicles must pull as far to the right as possible to give them the right of way. Furthermore, no car is allowed to follow either police car or fire truck until it is 500 feet ahead or has come to a stop.

No vehicle other than those of the police and fire departments are allowed to approach within 600 feet of any fire apparatus after the apparatus has reached the scene of the fire, unless so directed by the officer in charge.

Chief Smith points out that these regulations are designed both to protect drivers and to facilitate speed and efficiency on the part of the police and fire departments in answering emergency calls.

Members of the Plymouth parade committee wish to thank every one for their excellent cooperation in making the parade to the Northville-Wayne County Fair this year the biggest and best ever held.

Especially do we wish to thank Capt. Denniston of the Detroit House of Correction for his interest in the parade and for his part in helping to make it so successful, as well as the city officials of Plymouth.

The committee feels that we have done our own community a world of good by this display of good will. Again we want to thank every one for their assistance.

Year's Work Is Summarized For American Legion

Guthrie Gives Report At Meeting Held Tuesday Night

An interesting and comprehensive summary of the year's work accomplished by the Myron H. Beals post No. 32 of the American Legion was given at the meeting of the post Tuesday evening by the retiring commander, Melvin C. Guthrie.

Under the chairmanship of William Kiefer, the total membership of the post reached 150 and, according to Commander Guthrie, "with the wide open door of opportunity for the Legion to earn the priceless honor of being the greatest peace time service organization our country has ever known, it is reasonable to expect this will be the average number of members for the next few years to come."

Tribute was paid to those who passed on during the year, Dr. A. E. Patterson, Irwin Pierce, Henry Elderman, Ward Dronhill, Dr. Freeman Horver, Joseph Urbanak, David Flick, Arthur Genrich and James Edwards.

Don Ryder, ably assisted by Harold Anderson, had charge of the service and welfare work for the year. Among the services they rendered was the assistance they gave veterans in obtaining and filling out certificates for the bonus payments. In addition a Christmas party was given for underprivileged children, the money for this project being raised by a successful party which netted over $300.

The poppy committee, headed by Harold Anderson, raised approximately $90 to help carry on the welfare work of the post.

The Americanism phase of the work included the providing of speakers for Constitution day and Armistice day at Plymouth high school. The Memorial day services were conducted in co-operation with the Ex-Service Men's club and consisted of decorating the graves of veterans with flags and arranging a brief ceremony at which City Manager C. H. Elliott delivered the principal address.

The post sponsored a Boy Scout troop under the leadership of Scoutmaster Allen Strong, with a membership of 20 boys. Mr. Strong reported the troop is planning a full winter program.

The junior baseball team completed a full schedule under the direction of Seth Virgo and William Keifer. Ray Laster, chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by other members of the post, provided many and varied entertainments which made a profit of $143 for the post.

In concluding his report, Mr. Guthrie extended his thanks to officers and comrades of the post, as well as other persons who aided with the Legion work. The new officers, headed by Commander Harold Anderson, were then inducted into office.

Speaking on the present Spanish situation, Col. Henry Miller, of the University of Michigan college of engineering, addressed the Rotary club at its regular meeting Friday noon at the Mayflower hotel.

One of the main points which Col. Miller brought out was that the Spanish conflict is nothing new—that it has been going on for hundreds of years. It is impossible for the people to develop a real national consciousness, he said, because there are such poor means of communication. Three very different languages and many different dialects are spoken in Spain, which is about four times the size of Michigan, he explained, adding, moreover, that it is difficult to travel in Spain because the roads are in such poor condition. He stressed especially the need of a common language.

The people in Spain, like those in many other parts of the world, are struggling for those very principles of freedom, the right to think and act for themselves and to own private property, which we have had in the United States from the very beginning the speaker asserted. They will achieve in the end, by horrible suffering, that which we have long enjoyed, he said in conclusion.

The program was in charge of the international service committee, composed of William Towle, chairman, Elton Eaton, E. C. Hough and Edward Gayde.

No meeting will be held this noon, but the annual party at Harry Ayers' farm will be held this evening, with a large crowd of Rotarians and their wives expected. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock under the direction of Clair Maben.

All members are requested to appear in overalls for the occasion and their wives in house frocks. The committee in charge includes Lynn Felton, Harold Anderson and Roy Woodworth.

Plans are under way for entertaining the district governor, George Averill of Birmingham, when he pays his official visit to the local club a week from today.

Members of the Plymouth parade committee wish to thank every one for their excellent cooperation in making the parade to the Northville-Wayne County Fair this year the biggest and best ever held.

Especially do we wish to thank Capt. Denniston of the Detroit House of Correction for his interest in the parade and for his part in helping to make it so successful, as well as the city officials of Plymouth.

The committee feels that we have done our own community a world of good by this display of good will. Again we want to thank every one for their assistance.

Northville Fair President Thanks Plymouth For Three Mile Parade

Nearby Neighboring City Most Appreciative Of Aid That Came From Plymouth During Fair

"It was great, and we certainly want to thank the people of Plymouth and vicinity for turning out in the way they did," stated Elmer Smith, president of the Northville-Wayne County Fair Association when discussing Plymouth day at the fair while he was in Plymouth yesterday.

"We always have good crowds on Plymouth day, but little did we expect to see a parade of nearly three miles of automobiles crowding into the Northville fair grounds last Thursday noon. I guess it was the biggest crowd that Plymouth ever turned out to the fair. Some day there will be something doing in Plymouth and we will show you when that happens that we will more than return the splendid cooperation you have given us," he said.

Mr. Smith was enthusiastic over the fair this year. He stated that if it had not been for the cold, rainy Friday, one of the days that is always a big one at the fair, that the association would have gone way over the top this year.

Just how the fair came out financially will not be known for some little time as Secretary Floyd Northrop will not be able to check on all the premium payments to fruit, stock, poultry and vegetable exhibitors for some little time. Then too there are numerous other items that bills have not yet been received for, he explained, which will prevent an immediate balance of accounts, but he stated that it looked as though the fair association will be able to more than pay expenses this year.

If such a thing is possible, it will be the first time in a number of years and it will enable the association to somewhat reduce its grandstand obligation.

President Smith was elated at the many favorable comments he heard about the fair not only while in Plymouth yesterday, but everywhere he has been since the fair closed.

"It seems that every one had a good time. They thoroughly enjoyed the exhibits, the horse show, the dandy ball games that the Plymouth teams put up—in fact, they enjoyed everything pertaining to the fair. We hope to make it better next year. Again thank all the folks in Plymouth and vicinity for their splendid cooperation," said President Smith.

"Another thing," said President Smith, "Plymouth is certainly to be commended for its fine band. You have one of the best bands that has ever played at the fair. Everybody praised its playing. It was certainly a fine spirit our neighbors showed."

Schools To Open Fall Term Here Tuesday Morning

Buildings In Readiness For Beginning Of New Semester

Schools will open the first semester of the 1936-37 year on Tuesday, September 8, at 8 o'clock in the morning. A full day's schedule is planned, as old students were classified in June and new students were registered and classified last week. Teachers will meet for instructions and assignments on Monday.

The school buildings have been cleaned and repaired in readiness for another year of use. Pupils at Starkweather will be delighted to see their new playground, just recently completed by the board of education in co-operation with the WPA. Work is progressing on the new addition to the Central grade school, with the footings in place and materials on hand for the super-structure.

In addition to the regular courses on the school curriculum, pupils over 16 years of age will be allowed to take for credit a special course in ground aviation to be offered under the direction of Edward Holleran, an instructor from Cass Technical high school in Detroit.

As in the past two years, the Central P. T. A. will take charge of the exchange of second-hand books. In this way many pupils are able to exchange the books they used last year for those which they will need during the coming semester. Mrs. Paul Weidman, president of the association, and her committee, composed of Mrs. Mark Chaffee, Mrs. William Freyman, Mrs. William Downing, Mrs. Seth Virgo, Mrs. Carl Martin and Mrs. Milton Laible, will be in charge of the exchange, which will be located in the high school auditorium Saturday morning.

The board of education has left nothing undone which would add to the comfort, pleasure and efficiency of teachers or pupils, and are looking forward to another happy and successful year.

Fred D. Schrader, Parade Chairman and committee.

Members of the Plymouth parade committee wish to thank every one for their excellent cooperation in making the parade to the Northville-Wayne County Fair this year the biggest and best ever held.

Especially do we wish to thank Capt. Denniston of the Detroit House of Correction for his interest in the parade and for his part in helping to make it so successful, as well as the city officials of Plymouth.

The committee feels that we have done our own community a world of good by this display of good will. Again we want to thank every one for their assistance.

SOME COMMON SENSE

Right now, when so much is being said by rattle-brained politicians and office holders about the unemployment situation and the inability of "industry" to absorb the millions of unemployed, it is a bit refreshing to turn back the pages to a few months ago and read something about industry and employment that is worth while.

We have reference to one of the Sunday evening talks by William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company. Some of the common sense doctrines he preaches during the winter months is pretty good information to spread at the present time.

We do not know of a better editorial for this week's paper than the talk made during last December by Mr. Cameron on the subject, "What is Industry?"

It follows in full: "Industry does not support people; people support industry." Many of you read that motto in the rotunda of the Ford Exhibit at the Century of Progress. Today it has a new significance because government officials are demanding that industry employ at once the 11,000,000 persons whom Washington says are unemployed, or take the consequences. If this demand is based on truth, certainly the motto is not; both cannot be correct.

The general impression is that this nation earns its living in industry. The facts make quite a different picture. Of all the people who work for pay in this country, ten million are attached to agriculture. Another ten million are employed in public and personal service—teachers, lawyers, doctors, nurses, public officials, entertainers, cooks, waiters, hired housekeepers, and so forth. Wholesale and retail trade engages between eight and ten million more—among them two million sales clerks and four million in other clerical positions. Four million people earn their living in transportation and communication, and another four million in construction of buildings, streets and highways. A million and a half engage in forestry, fishing and mining. These lines of business are not classified by the government as industry, although with other smaller groups they account for about 40 million of our normal 48 million jobs. And no official has suggested that these employ the alleged eleven million unemployed. That is left for industry proper, which at its highest peak, in its busiest time, never employed (in round numbers) more than 8,800,000 persons—the highest industrial employment in our history. These figures for industry are given in Table No. 737 of the Statistical Abstract of the United States published in 1934 under authority of the Secretary of Commerce. In this report industry is comprised under the 16 main branches of production which supply the nation's basic commodity requirements, ranging from food and wood and textile products, to the iron, steel and transportation equipment industries, including the automobile. Having at no time employed as many as 9,000,000 persons, these 16 branches are asked to employ immediately an additional 11,000,000 persons, "or else."

Two things are clear: first, that any group which normally employs less than nine million persons, of whom probably seven million are now at work, cannot possibly be said to have eleven million of its people out of work. It never had that many people. And second, any group whose highest peak of business was never sufficient to employ more than nine million persons cannot, even at government command, arbitrarily increase that number to 20,000,000. There never has been that much purely industrial work to be done.

This misconception of the comparative place of industry in the national fabric has lasted a long time—like the mischievous statement that the rich two per cent of the people own between 80 and 95 per cent of the wealth, when as a matter of fact 72 per cent of the wealth and 88 per cent of the income are owned by people who have less than $5,000 a year. It is true that industry is important and that it affects all other lines of work, just as all other lines of work affect it, but four-fifths of American workers always have been employed at something else. The nation could hardly exist otherwise.

Industry earns its living by making the tools and utensils which the rest of the people use in earning their living—shovels for diggers; plows and trucks and cream separators for farmers; ovens for bakers; hammers and saws and nails and lumber for carpenters; leather for shoemakers; motor cars and electric cars and railway cars and locomotives for transportation; machines for all sorts of mechanical work; cloth and sewing machines for clothiers; paper and ink and presses for printers, and so on. Industry has never supported all the workers and never can—it can only equip workers with the things they use to support themselves in the infinitely diversified forms of daily work.

Industry alone has led in efforts to start the wheels of employment turning. In one year it has spent above its income more than the enormous emergency expenditures of the government itself. Its efforts have succeeded to a remarkable degree. This morning's newspaper carries a Washington complaint that employment is not increasing as fast as production. Here is the same old error again—measuring the entire employment situation against one-sixth of the nation's work. Industrial employment has kept pace with production. If industry could give work to those 11,000,000 unemployed (if there are that many) it would have done so long ago in its own interest without being asked. But these are in very small part the workers of industry. They belong mostly to the other groups that perform five-sixths of the nation's work. And all of these groups depend on full employment for their existence.

The matter is too serious to permit misleading statements to pass, and we submit these facts in the interest of straight thinking and common sense.

ONE MINUTE BIOGRAPHIES of MICHIGAN GOVERNORS and their ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By Elton R. Eaton

RUSSELL A. ALGER

No. 18

Determination to secure an education and win a place for himself in the world caused Russell A. Alger, governor of Michigan from 1885 to 1887 to get a job when a mere boy of 11 summers. Left an orphan at that age, he started work on a farm in Ohio and not only provided his home with living necessities, but saved enough to pay his way in the Richfield Academy, in Ohio. Alger was born in Medina county, Ohio, in 1836. Under great odds he secured his education. Teaching school in the winter and working on a farm in the summer, he found not to be just the career he desired to pursue, so in 1857 he decided to study law. Within two years he was admitted to the bar by the Ohio Supreme court, removing to Cleveland where he remained several months. Constant study and over work had nearly wrecked his health and it was necessary for him to give up office work. Leaving Ohio, he went to Grand Rapids, where he started in the lumber business. When Michigan was called to furnish soldiers for the war, Alger was one of the first to enlist, entering the Second Michigan cavalry. He was mustered out as captain. His war record won for him more than ordinary distinction. After the close of the war he returned to Michigan, locating in Detroit. He soon became wealthy through his lumber operations and devoted much of his time to public affairs.

He was elected governor by the Republicans in 1885, and when William McKinley was elected President, Alger was made secretary of war. His one term as governor was in keeping with the practice of other governors of his time, not to change materially the operations of any of the various state departments or institutions. He resigned this post in August 1889 and in 1902 was appointed United States senator from this state to fill out the unexpired term of Senator James McMillan, who died early in 1902. He died in 1907 while serving as a member of the senate.

CHECK GENERAL STATEMENTS

The politician delights in general, sweeping assertions. Many are made in the course of any campaign. The broad, inclusive generalization makes a decided impression and the politician realizes that few voters will take the time to check up and see if he is telling the truth.

Yet, the candidate who is seeking office can be accurate if he wishes to. He can secure proper figures and the proof of what he says if he has the energy and the desire. He wouldn't make such general statements except that he is willing to fool as many voters as he can.

Voters will have to learn when to accept such wild guesses and when to recognize them as unfounded in fact, if we are going to have intelligent and honest government.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

FRY MAKES STATEMENT

State Treasurer, Theodore I. Fry, who published some figures which did not verify the Governor's statement that Michigan had balanced her budget and had over $5,500,000 to the good, has now published figures showing the Governor to have been correct. This is a complete vindication of Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald and the information which he has been handing out in his talks on the radio and otherwise.—Frank Bryce in The Grand Ledge Independent.

THE POOR FOOL WHO LAUGHS AT PUBLIC DEBT

We were talking with two men the other day about the cost of public projects. One of them said, "Why should I worry? The government is paying the shoe." It does no good to tell such a man he is a "poor fool" and probably always will be. The best one can do is to try to reduce public debt to per capita figures and try and make him see that he is going to pay his share, one way or another.

Few of us realize that there is today a score or more of taxes on every loaf of bread we eat. True, all amount to only about 2c, but multiply that 2c by the millions and millions of loaves eaten each day. This tax and hundreds of others are not "soak the rich" taxes—they are soak-the-poor taxes. There would be a rebellion in this country if the entire public debt—federal, state, county, city and other subdivisions—amounting to over fifty billions of dollars, were to be collected by direct levy.

What these careless fools apparently do not know is that public debt today amounts to more than $2,000 for every family. In the face of this fact, there are dozens of organizations andisms trying to invent ways and means of further raiding the public treasury and increase this debt. They seem to think it doesn't matter what the cost if they "get theirs".

But we can pay that $2,000 a family. Great as is this debt, and cruel as will be the sacrifices made by needy men, women, and children as they pay the hidden taxes on everything they buy, the total national debt is not the greatest mortgage that has been and is being placed on America. It is the growing belief by an increasing number of people that they can grab a living without working for it; a belief that it is no longer necessary to plan or save that has made great inroads on our national economic system and today represents the most baffling problem.

No, we are not thinking of the unfortunate, the aged nor the mentally incompetent. Our pet peeve is against those healthy, able-bodied, lazy sons-of-pups who believe that the seats of their pants are something to sit on and for their tired wife to patch.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

Miss Tegge Bride Of Glenn J. Smith

The wedding of Miss Amelia Tegge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tegge, and Glenn J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Smith, was quietly performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, August 29, by the Rev. Loya Sutherland, in the First Baptist church of Plymouth, before an embankment of palms and baskets of gladiolus and delphinium. Mrs. Sutherland played the wedding march.

The bride was lovely in a fitted gown of white satin, having a three foot train and a long fitted jacket of lace and satin. A long veil of tulle, which was held in place by a lace cap and tiara of pearls, was worn with the gown, also silver slippers. She carried a shower bouquet of rosebuds, lilies of the valley and gypsophila.

Miss Marie Fear of Detroit, the bridesmaid, wore a long form fitting gown of aquamarine blue silk moire taffeta having long puffed sleeves, with which she wore accessories of silver. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and gypsophila.

Lynn J. Smith, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Tegge, the bride's mother, was becomingly attired in a gown of printed silk crepe, while the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Smith, wore black lace and crepe, each wearing white accessories and corsages of tallman rosebuds and gypsophila.

A reception followed on the lawn at the home of the bride at 8236 Canton Center road, the lights and Japanese lanterns. A beautiful wedding cake centered the table with lighted tapers being placed at either end. Bon bon dishes in apricot and white, containing candies and nuts, carried out the color scheme.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Sauer, Miss Edna Pearce, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Young, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Young, Harry Young, Mr. and Mrs. Young, Miss Jessie Massey, Mr. and Mrs. John McSweeney, Mrs. Albert Smith, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith and Mrs. Ann Fear of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, Miss Elsie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Massey, Miss Marjorie Smith, Miss Betty Smith, Mrs. Paul Houchins and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. John Cherry of Pine Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and Miss Florence Riggs of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left immediately after the reception on a two week's trip to Florida and the Atlantic coast. Mrs. Smith chose a white suit with blue orandy blouse for her going away costume and wore accessories of white.

Mrs. Raymond Ryder and son, Ray, motored from Chicago Thursday leaving Friday morning for home. Mr. E. Ryder, who had spent the week with his mother, returned with them.

George Matheson, of Denver, Colorado, who spent a week with his sister, Mrs. L. Clemens, returned home Saturday.

Sevier's Warning of Approaching Indians

John Sevier stands out as a prominent and picturesque figure in early Tennessee history. He was called "the greatest of Indian fighters" by his countrymen who were constantly being menaced by savage Indians. Sevier's bravery, and sterling character won for him the admiration of all the settlers throughout the territory.

There is a quiet charm about our services that comes from understanding and experience.

"Come, ye thankful people, come. Raise the song of Harvest Home; All is safely gathered in, Ere the winter's storms begin. God our Maker doth provide For our wants to be supplied: Come, ye thankful people, come. Raise the song of Harvest Home!"
"Thou shalt put it in a basket, and go unto the place of the Lord. . . . And the priest shall take the basket out of thine hand and set it down before the altar of the Lord thy God" will be carried out verbatim Sunday when the ushers bring forth the most beautiful baskets, one of fruit, the other of vegetables, and offer it to the pastor to set down before the altar of the Lord, during the reading of this memorable passage of the Scripture.
The purpose of all this pageantry is the same as it was originally: we would bear testimony, even in a year of drought, to the fact that the Lord "forgets not His own. He remembers His children." Nor shall our gratitude end in mere words; we will take this occasion to render tangible thanks to our God for His benefits.
Then we will also realize the blessing which the Lord attaches to these instructions: "And thou shalt rejoice in every good thing which the Lord thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine house."
Instead of all the elaborate, complicated, and mostly abortive plans and projects which men have devised to restore national well-being and prosperity,—would to God the nation could be brought back to the simple, thankful appreciation of the daily bread and blessings which a beneficent Creator and Preserver is still showering over us in abundance! Our we would be gone and our need would be supplied.
We invite all of our members and fellow-citizens to join us in this day of Thanksgiving for the harvest!

The attitude in which you come up to this service is dependent entirely upon yourself. Shall it be in the full recognition of what Christ has done for you and in consecration of what you will do for Him?

PITIFUL POE

Edgar Allan Poe—1809-1849
Edgar Poe was born in Boston in 1809, the second son of second rate strolling players. He became an orphan when three and was adopted, though not legally by a rich merchant, John Allan of Richmond, Virginia. He was a beautiful and precocious child; and his foster parents delighted in showing him off. It was not unusual, after dinner, in this elegant and hospitable home, to place young Edgar on the table to drink a toast to the guests or to give a short declamation for which he had inherited considerable talent. He was fondled and indulged in until he became disagreeable and opionated. He adored his foster mother but as he grew up he had a hard time getting on with "Pa".

Poe seemed destined to sorrow and tragedy which visited him very early in life and which did not in any way help to toughen an already too thin skin. He was forever romantically attached to some woman. His first love affair at fifteen, was prematurely blighted when the object of his affection died insane. She was a married woman of thirty-one and probably knew nothing of this devotion. His poem "To Helen" was written in memory of her.

At the age of seventeen he was sent to the University of Virginia where he learned to drink liquor but not how to hold it. Oftentimes one glass would make him wildly intoxicated. This weakness together with his passion for gambling brought "Pa" to Charlottesville to inquire into his habits. What he learned displeased him so that he took young Edgar out of school though he had been there less than one year, and placed him in his own counting room, where the dull routine was intolerably irksome to the young poet. Following a violent quarrel with "Pa" he left forever in a righteous dudgeon, which however did not prevent him from "darkening the door" of his foster parents many times afterwards when in need though he seldom received help especially after the death of Mrs. Allan.

He went to Boston and while there published a volume of poems but the returns were small and he was soon in such dire need that he decided to join the Army where he served creditably for two years after which he worked himself into an appointment to West Point. He stood well in his classes but hated the restricting life and after six months of it brought about his own dismissal through the simple expedient of refusing to obey orders.

From there he drifted to Baltimore where he was taken in by his aunt, Mrs. Clemm. One biographer says that Mrs. Clemm knew on which side her bread was buttered even if it was just a crust but we hardly agree that this simple hearted woman felt anything but a maternal interest in him. Poe immediately set out to make a living at writing and though the cupboard was oftentimes practically bare he did help the family considerably and the problem of the household was further relieved when he married the thirteen year old daughter, Virginia, however it is generally supposed that the marriage was never legally consummated.

The rest of Poe's life was spent in brief journalistic experiences in Baltimore, Richmond, New York, and Philadelphia. As an editor, short story writer and literary critic he won a national name for himself. His poverty together with the death of his young wife, to whom he was tenderly devoted told heavily upon him and his last years were spent in intemperance, despair and misery. His correspondence at this time reveals a hopeless and broken man. In his loneliness and sorrow he took more and more to the use of stimulants until finally he was taken sick in Baltimore and died from the effects of drinking October 7, 1849.

Poe's writing is completely detached from the current of his times. He might belong to any age and any country. He never attempts to teach a lesson and he is remarkable also for the total absence of the religious and moralizing element. His poems are lyrical hence short and they show a powerful imagination. He is supreme among our poets in melody and harmony. Poe defined poetry not as truth or passion but as music, and in this music of words some of his own poems are unrivaled. "The Raven", "The Bells", "Annabel Lee", and "Ulalume" show his power at its height. By reason of these few poems he ranks highest among the poets of America.

Hervey Allen's "Israfel" (Farar and Rinehart) $3.50 is generally regarded as an impartial and authentic account of the life of Poe.

der the direction of Leslie G. Lee. The cast is made up of the same people who, as high school students, staged "Sun Up" two years ago. The leading roles will be played by Miss Marion Tansull and Maurice Giles, and others to take part will be Mrs. Alec F. Milne, Henry Hoffman, Cecil Giles, James Hotchkins, John Stubenvoll, Thomas R. Carrington and Miss Mary Louise Boyden. Rehearsals started August 19.

Practice for the Northville high school football squad will start next week, according to an announcement made by the new coach, Elliott Barr, who comes to Northville from Shepherd. The schedule as it now stands provides for six games away and two on the home field, with the place for the Farmington game not as yet decided upon.

In a ceremony performed Saturday, August 22, in Angola, Indiana, Miss Peggy Anne Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Blake, became the bride of Alec F. Milne, son of George Milne. The young couple will reside at 385 Eaton drive.

Mrs. Rose Shafer and James E. Orton were married Tuesday evening of last week at the Orton residence, with the Rev. K. S. North of the Baptist church officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Orton will be at home at 519 Horton avenue.

The King's Daughters met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. C. Bryan, 351 South Wing street. This was the initial meeting of the fall season.

Behind The Walls

Commissary News
This department has started making grocery deliveries of its own and is not dependent on the efforts of the drivers or the availability of trucks. Pete G. has charge of this activity. During the past week it has been necessary for a box of berries to be delivered to one of the residences and Pete offered to take the situation in hand. He did not take the berries in hand however. One of the other men carried the box and the delivery job was successfully completed under Pete's supervision. It is fortunate that there was only one box to be sent or Pete would have commanded a parade of Commissary huskies each carrying a single container.
He certainly makes an impressive leader in everything except work. Charles N. has arrived at this station and with his serious manner and new mustache should go far. He tells me that he has gained twelve pounds while out on the Farm.
This department is like Caesar and likes to have "men about us who are fat".
C. M. C. is rassing with the Chief Clerk's job, having pushed R. M. T. into the capacity of general utility office boy with no job in particular but several in general. There seems to be some sort of a conspiracy between C. M. C. and John D. as to something or "something". Somehow it is hard to believe that the Commissary will get the best of it if those two get their heads together. Perhaps C. M. C. thinks that D. has had more experience in the matters under discussion.

With the Canning Factory open we have our hands full as we must continue the labor on our yard and garden and we certainly are being repaid for our labor by the many compliments we have received on how nice the garden looks. Just a suggestion to those who always have an excuse say they won't have to hoe the garden. We didn't have enough hoes either girls, so Florence and Jean picked up a couple of rakes that lay close by and hoed the garden in just half the time it takes with a hoe. The answer to this—when all the hoes are busy—pick up a rake.
We wish to thank the board and everyone responsible for our wonderful treat—the talking pictures. Everyone enjoys the pictures and it gives us something to look forward to every two weeks.

Guess we had better make this sweet and short as I have my charges calling and everything must be dropped, so until next month, "Goom-bye," now. PAT

Hello Folksies:
Well, I guess we at the poultry division have decided to come in to the lime-light at last. Although this is our first write-up it will not be our last so watch for our news in the future.
Our two thousand baby chicks we received two months ago are about to be put on "the block" and "woe is me" we received another one thousand to-day, so that means more work for me. Yes, folks, I'm the baby chick's mother, poor fowl.
