Cars Crash Head On, Resulting In Injuries To Six

Four Plymouth Youths Involved; Two Are Seriously Hurt

Sanford Nelson, better known to his many Plymouth friends as "Sandy", died from his injuries in Eloise hospital at 8:45 Wednesday evening. Funeral plans have not yet been arranged.

Two cars crashed head-on on the Plymouth road near Middlebelt shortly after midnight Saturday night, injuring six people, two of them seriously.

Those involved in the accident were Warren W. Schepp, Steven Ribar, Robert O'Neill and Sanford Nelson, of Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Nichol, of Rosedale Gardens. According to reports, Schepp, Ribar, O'Neill and Nelson, in Schepp's car, passed another car at a high rate of speed and failed to get back to the right side of the road in time to avoid colliding with the Nichol automobile, a heavy sedan.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichol were taken to their home where their physician cared for them. Both were badly shaken up, and Mrs. Nichol sustained a concussion and cuts on one knee.

The four young men were removed to Eloise hospital where it was found that Nelson, who was unconscious, had a bad head injury and O'Neill internal injuries. Schepp suffered a broken jaw and Ribar several cracked ribs. The latter two were transferred to the Plymouth hospital Monday, but the condition of Nelson and O'Neill were too serious to allow them to be moved.

A. and P. Store To Be Remodeled

In order to give better service to their customers, the A. and P. store here is enlarging, painting and decorating, putting in new meat cases and light fixtures and, in short, remodeling and improving the shop in several ways.

The new store will be organized on what is known as a semi-self-service plan, which allows the customer to wait upon himself or have clerk service, just as he wishes. This plan reduces the cost of operation and the saving will be passed on to the customer in lower prices.

The fresh fruit and vegetable department is to be enlarged to include the entire window, as well as a large inside display.

In order to clear the way for all this improvement, the store is having a Remodeling Sale this week, during which many unusual values will be offered. These values are listed on page five of this issue of the paper.

Markham Will Is Political Issue Out In California

Lawyer Who Drafted Its Provisions Said To Be Under Fire

According to Los Angeles newspapers received in Plymouth, the will of W. F. Markham, one time resident of Plymouth and chief owner of the old Markham factory who moved to California just 25 years ago and made a vast fortune in Hollywood real estate, is playing an important part in the political campaign of various candidates for prosecuting attorney in that city.

According to these newspapers the attorney who drafted the Markham will just before his death some two years ago, after taking care of numerous requests made by Mr. Markham, named his own children as beneficiaries for the balance of the estate. This attorney is now one of the candidates for prosecutor in Los Angeles.

Plymouth residents will be interested in some provisions of the will that have been made public as a result of the political campaign.

The Markham estate at the time of his death was estimated to be worth $1,800,051. Its income from Los Angeles and Hollywood real estate and other sources during the one year that the estate settlement was pending in California courts was said to have been $559,196.

California newspapers point out that Mrs. Markham under the will drawn up by Mr. Markham's attorney, was left only $250 per month as long as she lives, that Louise Markham, a sister who is now past 90 years of age, only gets $100 per month, that Ben Sprague who went to California from Plymouth with Mr. Markham, and had been close to him during all of these years, was left $250 per month for the remainder of his life. Plymouth residents will recall that Sprague was employed as a finisher in the old Markham factory.

Another bequest was to Earnest Roe of Plymouth, who was left $150 per month for the remainder of his life. Mr. Roe was for years employed as one of the foremen in the Markham factory. Lee, a son of the Markhams, gets $250 a month as long as he lives.

California newspapers claim that the greatest portion of the estate will go to the family of the attorney who drafted the will and because of this fact, the matter has been made one of the big political issues of the present campaign in that city.

Readers of the 25 year ago column of the Plymouth Mail have recently noted various items which told of the disposal of the Markham property in Plymouth preparatory to the family's removal to California, where he made such a vast fortune by building and selling houses and in other real estate transactions.

Mrs. Thomas W. Moss, Mrs. Ralph Lorenz and Mrs. Jack Neale visited friends in Detroit Wednesday.

Gasoline And Oil Dealers Meet To Discuss Problems

Local Group Votes To Join With Detroit Association

Members of the Plymouth-Northville Gasoline Dealers association met Friday evening and voted to join the Detroit association. William Petz served as delegate from the local group to the board meeting of the Detroit organization Monday night, and reported back to dealers here Tuesday evening.

Northville representatives were D. W. Richmond, White Star dealer; William Hartman, Sinclair distributor; and D. E. Warner, Texaco station.

Mr. Hartmann, who is vice-president of the Detroit association and a director of the National Association of Gasoline Dealers, told how the major oil companies have taken over the cut-rate stations in Detroit, so that they are no longer a problem. He explained that a posted price is not necessary in Michigan, but that it is illegal for a major oil company to fix prices in Michigan; they must be according to supply and demand or as business competition permits.

The wholesale price by the major companies must be the same throughout the state, with the exception of slight variations in freight rates. Mr. Hartmann pointed out, asserting that the dealers or they will muddle their affairs so that the oil companies will step in to take over the station at a great discount.

After Mr. Hartmann had extended an invitation to join the association, Mr. Miller stated that this area is really a part of Detroit—that the problems of the metropolitan dealers are the same here. He said that both Northville and Plymouth are affected by changes in Detroit prices and moved that local dealers join the Detroit association. The motion was carried.

William Petz served as chairman for the meeting.

Check Shows 695 In High School

A final check on the enrollment of Plymouth high school shows that there are 695 pupils attending, just 11 more than there were last year.

With the exception of the eighth and tenth grades, all of the classes are smaller this semester, the seventh grade having the smallest enrollment, 98, and the sophomores the largest, with 165. Last year the eighth grade was less with 91 and the freshman class the largest with 160 students.

The senior class, with 99 members, is six less than last year's twelfth grade, while the juniors have 102 this year as compared with 111 in 1935-36. There are 195 rural students in the junior and senior high school. For those in grades nine through 12 the state pays the school a tuition fee of $65 each. Those in the seventh and eighth grades are required to pay their own tuition unless it is taken care of by the townships in which they reside.

Debaters Prepare For Competition In State League

Two Remain From Last Year's Team Which Went To Finals

Following a most successful season of competition last year in which the varsity debating team won its way into the state finals where it lost to Kalamazoo Central by a close decision, Plymouth high forensic students are preparing for this year's series of debates.

The Twin Valley Activity association, of which Plymouth is a member, has dropped debating from the list of inter-school competitions which it sponsors, so the local school will once more go back into the Michigan High School Forensic association sponsored by the University of Michigan. Preliminary to the opening of the season, Plymouth debaters held a tournament Wednesday with five teams of two members each taking part.

The object of this tournament, according to James Lature, debate coach, was to acquaint members of the class with the material, formulate a plan for the cases which will be used in regular debates, and to get some line on possibilities for this year's varsity team.

The squad which last year went into the state finals was composed of Jewel Starkweather, Tom Brock and Jack Sessions. The latter was graduated in June, but the other two remain to form a nucleus for the 1936-37 squad which includes also Lynton Ball, Billy Aulua, Edith Mettetal, Marilyn Holton, Florence Norton, Jeanette Brown, Dorothy Hearn and Helen Weage.

The subject for debate this year for schools in the Michigan association concerns government ownership and operation of all electrical utilities. Last year Plymouth and Kalamazoo debated on "Nationalization of Munitions" before an audience of nearly 5,000 in Hill auditorium, Ann Arbor.

William P. Halstead, manager of the Michigan High School Forensic association, reports that judging from the many enrollments already pouring in, a record for membership may be set this season. The increased enrollment in the past few years seems indicative of the ever-growing interest in public speaking training in the schools.

Much interest also has been aroused in the question chosen for all association debates this season, as it is one which has been argued much and often during the last year. Material on the subject is being sent to all participating schools through the courtesy of the library extension service of the University of Michigan.

The debates will be conducted in two series, with the first debate of a preliminary series on November 27. Following the preliminaries, an elimination series will be conducted with the qualifying schools in the preliminaries participating. The elimination series will culminate on April 30, with the twentieth annual state championship debate to be held in Hill auditorium, Ann Arbor, between the two remaining schools. Gold watches are presented to each contestant in this contest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Dykhouse entertained the following guests at a chop suey supper Monday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Matheson, Mr. and Mrs. James Lature, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. Carvel Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Balcan, Lewis Evans, Riley Lynch, Carl Stolpe and Earnest Berridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray O'Neill moved this week to the Hayball house on Williams street.

Police To Offer 24-Hour Service In Plymouth Now

New Schedule Adopted So There Is Always An Officer On Duty

In order to give residents of the city full 24-hour service, instead of 20-hour service as in the past, the Plymouth police department is inaugurating a new schedule which has been worked out by Chief of Police Vaughn Smith and City Manager C. H. Elliott.

Under this schedule Chief Smith will be on duty daily from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m., while Captain Charles Thumme will come on at noon and remain until 9 p. m. Officers Carl G. Greenlee and Lee R. Sackett will alternate each week, one of them coming on duty at 7 p. m. and remaining until 5 a. m., and the other coming on at 10 p. m. and going off at 8 a. m.

This change is the result of several months of study, and means that Chief Smith and Capt. Thumme will be on duty during those hours when most of the calls come in, daytime and early evening. Each officer is entitled to a day off every 10 days, but on such days the schedule will be arranged so that there will always be someone on duty. Chief Smith stated this week.

The Plymouth police department is supported by the taxpayers of Plymouth and so is not subject to calls outside the city limits. However, explained Chief Smith, the department does belong to the people of Plymouth, who should feel free to call when necessary, and to visit the offices in the city hall if they are interested in seeing what the police routine is like.

If a resident makes a call when the man on duty happens to be out of the office on another call, all that is necessary is to ask the telephone operator to turn on the lights in the city which inform the police that they are needed. The officers watch these lights carefully, and call in immediately when they see one lighted.

"It is a good idea for people to know just what the powers and duties of the police department are," asserted Chief Smith. "The department is charged with the repression of anti-social conduct as defined by law, and with the protection of life and property, the care of the injured or distressed, the abatement of nuisances and unsanitary conditions, the control of traffic, and the issuance of licenses. Police power is limited to law enforcement and the preservation of the public peace."

Many improvements have been instituted in the police department here, culminating in the new full-time schedule. A private office has been provided for the chief and a new desk and files installed. Recently a new glass for reading finger prints was purchased, as well as a new police car and new gun. Chief Smith and City Manager Elliott feel that the department is now equipped to handle its duties very efficiently. A program of first aid classes will be inaugurated in the near future, under the direction of the Red Cross office in Detroit. Arrangements for these classes are being made at the present time.

Harold Coolman To Start Building On D.U.R. Lot

Will Have Automobile Sales Display Room as Well As Complete Plant To Serve Cars

One of the most modern and complete service stations and automobile sales agencies in Plymouth will be erected and equipped by Harold B. Coolman and Earl Fluelling on South Main street, just off Penniman avenue.

The new station, 80x75 feet, will be located south of the Plymouth Mail building on the old D. U. R. property where Wendell Lent has conducted the Plymouth Used Car market for some time. Present plans are that the new building will be located on the south side of the property, with pumps, service racks and driveway to the north.

According to Mr. Coolman, the exterior in front will be either of glazed brick or glass, in smart modernistic design, with the remainder of the building constructed of cinder block. There will be two electric hoists, two sales offices, a big showroom, an office for the service station, and a complete parts department and lubrication. Full repair service will be offered.

Work on the new building is expected to start in the near future. Mr. Coolman will handle Oldsmobile cars and Hi-Speed gasoline and oil products. Both Mr. Coolman and Mr. Fluelling are well known in Plymouth, having been in business here for many years.

MAYBE WE ARE CRAZY

The other day an insurance agent from Lansing called into The Plymouth Mail office and wanted to sell The Mail some fire insurance. He said he could cut our insurance costs considerably over a quarter of what we are paying. Maybe he was correct and maybe he was not. Maybe his companies would pay a fire loss as quickly as insurance companies represented by Plymouth agents. And maybe they would not. He simply stressed one point—and that point was that if The Plymouth Mail bought its insurance from this agency located in another city, it would save us considerable money.

Well, The Plymouth Mail hasn't any more money than it needs. Sometimes it's sort of tough going, but that's our own troubles and no one else should be bothered about it. We haven't any money to waste on insurance or anything else.

But we quite emphatically told the courteous young insurance man that we were not at all interested in buying insurance from any one outside of Plymouth, even though there might be a chance of saving a dollar or two.

We asked him if he thought there would be any insurance in Plymouth to sell anybody if every one in town bought everything they needed outside of Plymouth.

We have insurance agents in Plymouth who live here, who pay taxes on property here, who do as much of their business as they can right in Plymouth. These insurance agents, ALL OF THEM, take an active part in affairs of Plymouth and they do what they can to help boost the town along. They pay rent for office space and they contribute as much as their income permits to Plymouth churches, Plymouth charity funds and to everything that in any way helps Plymouth.

Did any one ever hear of any insurance agency or any business concern outside of Plymouth ever giving a penny to a Plymouth church, doing anything for the school boys and girls of Plymouth, helping any one who needed help in Plymouth, or doing anything to help build Plymouth into a bigger and better city?

No, of course not. Then why should we help support them? Our contention is that every dollar spent in Plymouth both directly and indirectly helps the person that spends it. A dollar spent in Lansing, Detroit or elsewhere doesn't do a person living in Plymouth one iota of good.

We are not at all sure that we could save a penny by buying insurance outside of Plymouth. They tell us that, but how much benefit to us would these outside concerns be if we had a real fire loss? Would not the "trimming" we might take on a big fire loss probably cost us hundreds, possibly thousands of more dollars than the alleged meager savings we might make on premium payments?

We do not know. All we do know is that an insurance agent living in some other city and an insurance agency located in Lansing, Kalamazoo or Podunk and spending their money where they live, does the city of Plymouth absolutely NO GOOD.

No, we are not at all interested in any claimed savings that some outside insurance agent says he can make in our insurance costs if we buy our insurance outside of Plymouth. We live here. We like the people among whom we live. We like our pastors, our school teachers, our public officials and the people of our city. So why under Heaven should we not do all within our power to help the people we know and enjoy knowing, even if it comes to spending a penny or two more for something we have to buy from them?

Prosperous cities are built by its residents helping each other. Plymouth is a prosperous city. It could be a hundred times more so if everybody followed this rule as closely as possible.

POOR PRIMARY LAW

Editor William Klamser of The Dearborn Press in the last issue of his excellent newspaper published the following editorial under the above heading:

"The poor vote in the recent primary election was an indication that something should be done to revise the law that it may be possible for an elector to vote his party without having his action made public. Politics has become so interwoven with business that the average worker is fearful of making known his party choice. Jobs have been known to be lost because a worker expressed himself the wrong way on the ballot. This is not Americanism.

"Rumors have been consistent that a close check was made on all WPA employees to see that they voted the right ticket in the primary. If that is so, it is a fine illustration of coercion at the primaries. But there must be something to it for it has been reported that voters actually walked out of the polls when they learned that their party choice would become a matter of record. Of course the WPA supervisors are not the only ones who can be accused of political pressure. It also exists in private industry.

"Regardless of who may employ big stick methods in primary voting all this cannot be changed without revising the primary law to make it possible for the voter to keep his party politics to himself. If this is not done unqualified candidates will continue to go into office on the strength of their party affiliations. One has only to recall the Michigan legislature of four years ago to remind him of what can happen when a party landslide results. Once again we say that the present primary law in Michigan is not American."

We agree with all that Editor Klamser has to say on this subject. We know of good men in both Plymouth and Northville who have been discharged from jobs they had long held because of the fact that under the present day system of racketeering politics, no man is immune from the spleen and greed of political bosses.

That is one thing the forthcoming session of the state legislature can and should do—it can safeguard the primary ballot of the voter.

If it does not, we might just as well abolish our present system of nominating candidates for office. There are many good citizens of Plymouth who remained away from the polls on the last primary election simply because they were fearful of political retaliation if they called for the ballot of the party they desired to vote for.

When the primary law was first enacted no one ever dreamed that it would be used as a means of political snooping to find out how a man voted and to punish him if he didn't vote the way some one else wanted him to vote.

But times have changed and it is a law that needs changing if the secret vote of the citizens of Michigan is to be protected.

Re-Elect Heads Of W. C. T. U. Here

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday afternoon, September 24, at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary Starkweather.

Following the business meeting, the annual election of officers was held with all incumbents being re-elected as follows: Mrs. Starkweather, president; Mrs. E. C. Vealey, recording secretary; Mrs. Sophia Lauffer, treasurer; and Mrs. Mary K. Hillmer, corresponding secretary.

The next meeting will be held October 22 at the home of Mrs. Lauffer on Penniman avenue.

From the Christian Science Monitor: "When his automobile hit two pedestrians in the early morning hours of Sunday, a driver told the police that, in the preceding twelve hours, he had taken four drinks. Four drinks—two fatalities. Coroners' inquests, medical testimony and police evidence pile up proof on proof that the smallest quantities of alcohol imbibed in any form tend to nicotine the driver and play hob with the driving."

"To such an extent is this generally recognized that few persons will not knowingly ride with a drinking driver. Unhappily the pedestrian and the non-drinking motorist everywhere are exposed to the recklessness which intoxicants induce."

"Four drinks—two victims."

Be Happy Today

Tain't alone the daily pleasures
 That makes livin' woth'th the while.
 Tain't jus' fun that makes us happy
 An' shows people how to smile.

 An' we prize good fortune better
 If we've had a share o' pain.

 That we all must learn is helpul!

ONE DEATH, ANOTHER MAY DIE AND SLOT MACHINES

One Chesaning young man, on the threshold of life, died within a few hours when a bullet pierced his body after he and two companions had hi-jacked a slot machine; a pal may die, likely crippled for life—another Chesaning boy will likely do a long stretch of time in some state institution—all the result of greed for easy money, via the slot machine existence.

"If I could grab off a few more slot machines I would give up my job in Chesaning and live on Easy street," young Peterson is supposed to have said in his confession alluding to one of the men and why the hijacking job was undertaken.

Slot machines are against the law but they breed wherever people will play them and the desire in the human breast for easy money is typically American.

Chesaning had become a miniature slot machine center the last few months—many have played them—somebody got the rake-off the high percentage of reward which the machines give to their owners and the proprietors in whose places they are allowed to operate. They disappeared, as if by magic, the night of the shooting.

Chesaning boys—one dead, another dying, saw how easy it was to make a living that way; they started out on a hijacking existence. They saw no reason why they could not steal machines that were illegally operated.

As long as there are slot machines there will be hijackings, murders, crime—gangsters will be with us.

It is not the best advertising for big city papers to blazon across front pages, "Chesaning slot machine hijackers, one dead."

This is a serious indictment of our little town—it should be an object lesson for the future. Many young boys are coming up; we think we want no more slot machines—whether the price be a murder, a shooting, or ill gotten gain at the hands of some local folks.

For a year or two there have been rumors about slot machines, of alleged tie-ups between officials—of easy money here and there; now a young man is dead, a family grieves—three lives have been placed in jeopardy.

The price of life must rest rather uneasy on some folks' heads.

The law enforcement officers of the county must feel a bit uneasy. The quickest way for certain types of saloon operators to bring about a dry regime is to let slot machines creep in—the law's breakdown here should be a lesson for all Saginaw county and particularly for the head of the law enforcement division if he is to blame.

A county-wide raid, with all the flare of publicity, was bound to come a few weeks before the November election—it always does.

Last week DEATH STEPPED IN AND CONDUCTED ITS OWN RAID.

Quite a grim commentary on the slot machine racket—Chesner Howell in The Chesaning Argus.

EVERY MAN HAS THE RIGHT TO BE WRONG

We were talking to an automobile mechanic one day recently. He was sweating and cursing under his breath while he attempted to correct a car which had been tampered with. "The owner of this car is going to pay plenty for trying to do something he didn't know how to do," the man remarked. It appeared that the owner had tinkered with his car and got it badly out of kilter.

It was his car, however. He had the right to be wrong.

"We once heard a doctor tell of trying to correct the ills of a patient who had prescribed for himself for months until a chronic condition had been greatly aggravated. Not so long ago a lawyer told us of a case where he had just been trying to get a renter a settlement with the owner of a farm. In order to save $5.00 the renter had some notary public or justice of the peace make out a contract. It was faulty and resulted in the law suit.

The tenant farmer had a right to hire who he pleased, but in the end he paid a lawyer several times what it would have cost to have the contract drawn properly in the first place.

There are still some people in business who try to "keep books in their head." This used to be a common practice when business was simpler and the state and federal governments did not demand an accounting. Anybody has a right to try it today—it is wrong, but it is anyone's privilege.

Yes, everyone has a right to be wrong, but frequently it is mighty expensive.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

SIX DEGREES OF LIGHT

A single lamp bulb furnishes three different degrees of light—100, 200 and 300 watts. Together with the three candles (available on many styles of this lamp) this makes six possible levels of light. You can choose the exact degree of light you wish.

DIFFUSING BOWL THROWS PART OF LIGHT TO CEILING

A diffusing bowl under the shade throws part of the light upward to the ceiling. It is reflected back and spread over a large area, eliminating harsh shadows and providing roomwide light that is soft and restful, without glare.

Crown Point, New York
Crown Point, New York, was an important trading post between the Indians and English until 1761 when the French took it over and held it until 1759. NEW LAMPS FOR OLD

One of the prime rules of the Science of Seeing demands "enough light sources, that is, an adequate number of floor and table lamps." For convenience and comfort, and to insure adequate light for safe seeing, keep your sockets filled with Mazda lamps of the correct size. When lamps burn out, bring them to the Edison office, present your most recent electric bill (to identify you as a customer of The Detroit Edison Company) and we will gladly give you new lamps of the right sizes in exchange for your BURNED-OUT lamps.

The Company's rule requiring you to present your electric bill is partly for your protection—to keep others who are not customers of The Detroit Edison Company from getting lamps which you pay for in your rate for electric service. In addition, this practice discourages wasteful renewals, and helps the Company to keep accurate records of lamps passed out.

Note: Lamps are removed without extra charge only for residential and commercial customers paying lighting rates and in the following sizes: 25W, 40W, 60W, 100W, 150W, 200W, 300W, 500W, and 3-lamp 100-200-300W.

Pioneering In Plymouth Was Work, But Life a Happy One

Early Settler Tells Of Building His Log Cabin

Editor's Note: This is the second installment of a paper by A. B. Markham, one of the early settlers of Plymouth, which was read at the annual meeting of the State Historical society on February 6, 1877.

I arrived at Detroit tired and muddy and went to the bank to get a certificate of a hundred dollars which was at that time the only lawful tender for lands at all land offices in the territory. The bank was closed for the night. He said I must wait until morning. I told him I had run all day through thick and thin to get there before the bank closed and I had not money enough beyond the fare to pay for the land to pay my bill over night. He then asked what money I had. I handed him five twenty dollar bills on the Bank of Ontario. He gave me a duplicate of the west half of the southwest quarter of section ten in town one south of range eight east. I felt better. I was now a landholder.

Before I left town I found my friend Torrey and told him of my good luck and what a fine lot I had entered. He then said, "You are now a citizen of this territory." I held up my head although my face was scratched by going through the brush and my pants were covered with mud. I had less than a dollar in my pocket. I was now a landholder.

The next thing to do was to clear it of trees but I must first have a cabin to shelter me from the weather, the bears and the wolves. The first thing was to clear a place for the hut. I was careful not to place it where I would want to place my house at some future date. In two days I was ready for a log cabin raising. I therefore invited all the neighbors who lived within two and a half miles and they all came—every one of them. There was David Phillips, G. P. Benton and myself. That was all. We went to work and by night we had the building up ready for the roof and the next day the shakes were out and ready for laying. These shakes are used for shingles. They are thin pieces of ash, oak or other timber about three feet long. They are laid on poles which serve the place of ribs.

Having finished the roof I went at the inside. The floor is made of logs split through the middle, laid flat side up onto the poles for sleepers and made smooth with an adze. The chimney is built of sticks then plastered on the inside with clay mortar one or one and a half feet thick. This is the way all log cabins are made for the first two or three years of the settlements in this town. My cabin was a good one, 12x14 feet finished off in good comfortable style without a board, nail or glass. My cabin made, I went to work to make a bedstead. I bored into one of the logs at the side of the building and making one leg only, then laying on shakes for a bottom, then another set of poles over that making probably the first sofa bed in this town.

I then went to Farmington where they had raised some wheat the year before and begged some straw from my friend, Ezekiah B. Smith, who had preceded me to this country by nearly if not quite two years. I bound the straw with bark. It was a pile of straw six feet long and two feet thick. I raised it on my back and started for the cabin in the woods.

I arrived home before night, filled my bedstead, made a good fire and turned in about nine o'clock a happy, free-hold settler in one of the best towns in the territory. This was the first night I ever slept in my own bed or in my own house or on my own premises. A more happy or satisfied settler could not be found in the whole country.

The next thing to do was to obtain something to eat and things to cook with. Mr. Benton, a single man living with Mr. Phillips was going to Detroit to get supplies for himself and Mr. Phillips. I prevailed upon him to get some supplies for me and I would chop for him to pay the amount advanced for me. He was willing to do so. He had plenty of money and wanted some chopping done. I had no money and worked from sunrise to sundown for fifty cents a day. In a few days he started off with the oxen and a sled leaving me chopping so that his cattle that were left home could have the browse to feed on for he had no other feed for them. He had four oxen and three cows and they all came through the winter in good condition. I was to meet him at Mr. Holsington's near to where the Hon. Jonathan Shearer now resides, at a distance of two and a half miles.

On the fourth night, for it took about four days at that time to go to Detroit and back again with oxen through the woods—I started in season to get through by sunset with the best rifle he had on my back, thinking to kill some game. I got about half way and there stood before me five wolves—two of them large and the others smaller. They were only ten or twelve rods from me and nothing in the way. They had not discovered me. I got behind a cluster of basswood trees and as the bounty was twenty-five dollars for each I was almost sure of two of them on the first shot. My imagination led me to see myself with two wolf skins on my back plodding to the city to claim the bounty.
I got a fair sight on the two largest, pulled the trigger, and "clip" went the faithful gun, stopping as we say at half-bent. I hauled back and got another sight when "clip" went the old thing again. By this time the wolves were "going west" for safety and I was minus my anticipated bounty. I went through to Mr. Holsington's, stayed over night and got home the next morning and resumed my work, heading everlasting contempt on the old rifle. Mr. Benton arrived on the fifth day bringing me a lot of shanty equipage and some pork and flour. I was now in full rig for keeping shanty. I had three stools, one bench, one table and a shelf to put my dishes on. The table and bench were made of split logs laid on pins at the side of the house. They were immovable. The seats were of the same material but movable. Now a few more days work for Mr. Benton and I am out of debt—a landholder, a housekeeper and a citizen of a noble town.
Of course I was unaccustomed to this work and my hands began to crack. I likely had handled some poison ivy and I had to stop. During this time I rambled and saw many wild animals, deer, bear, wolves, etc., and at one time a herd of forty deer, a very beautiful sight for me at that time. We saw turkey and other wild game in abundance. There was no danger in starving for meat.
My land was heavily timbered so I laid off seven acres to chop, log and fence and plant and work out for team hire, seed corn, potatoes, etc. I soon found I could chop one acre in six or seven days fit for logging. I finished my pleasant winter's work, then worked out for such things as I needed or to pay for such things as I had.
I got of Mr. H. B. Smith of Farmington eight bushels of potatoes, for which I split one thousand six hundred rails, then paid Mr. Benton two days work for drawing it eight miles. That was all right but one third of them got froze before he got home so I had only six bushels to eat and plant. Well, I ate them all and planted the rest, that is I cut off the seed end of each and then cut this piece in two and kept these potatoes in a trough until June. In the fall I had eighty bushels of the best potatoes I ever raised.
I was now looking for a good time to burn the brush. I made a fire such as had never been known in the region. I was now ready for logging. I had to work for Mr. Benton two days and Mr. Phillips one, then they would log for me one day. Mr. Benton had his oxen and my chains. In this way I got my logging done for I had no oxen. I was determined to have a good rail fence and I did my best every day, rain or shine.

Following some agitation at the village council meeting last week, Commissioner William T. Gregory's motion to permit angle parking on one side of Main street failed for want of a second. Other members of the council felt that there was no need to amend the ordinance, as the village had fixed up two parking lots. Petitions are being circulated now asking that angle parking be permitted, and these petitions will be presented at the council meeting October 5, it is reported.

A three-weeks drive to raise funds with which to pay outstanding bills on the Boy Scout building was begun last week by the building committee, composed of members of the Rotary and Exchange clubs and the American Legion. The cooler weather has encouraged some of the men of the church to resume the work of clearing away the wreckage of the old building. A group worked Wednesday afternoon. Much has been done; but much remains to do. There is work for every one who cares to help.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Richard W. Neale, pastor
If you are a newcomer in Plymouth make sure that you visit Calvary this Sunday. You will find friendly, singing folks who meet to study the Bible as God's Word.

Our pastor's sermon topics are tentatively given as follows: 10 a. m., "Are We a Missionary Church?" 7:30 p. m., "Shall We Pray For the Dead?" Bring your Bible if you have one. One of our slogans is: "Every sermon, a Bible message, in which Christ, the Savior, is revealed."

On Wednesday our guest speaker at the one-day Bible conference is Rev. W. Spurgeon Ross, pastor of South Baptist church, Lansing. He represents the Moody Bible Institute, and will speak intimately of the life and work of that peer among evangelists, D. L. Moody, founder of the Institute, which today trains thousands of Christians in day and evening schools, by radio and in correspondence courses. In addition to the sessions of this conference at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. there will be seasons of prayer at the church at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. All interested friends are invited to make next Wednesday, October 7, a day of fellowship at Calvary church.

The Young People's fellowship welcomes all young folks to meet with them each Friday at 7:30 p. m.

Our Sunday school wants you to make their classes your classes starting this next Sunday at 11:30 a. m.

"Living without Christ means dying without hope," Spurgeon well said; so come to Calvary, where Christ is preached, 455 South Main street.

We plan to begin evening services on October 18.

The so-called thorn of the rose is only a skin structure, a hardened hair. It breaks off neatly from the main stem when pressed sideways.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Lova Sutherland, minister
RALLY DAY ALL DAY. A combined service of the Sunday school and the church beginning at 10 o'clock. Please all take note, there will be no regular Sunday school session at 11:15, and all are asked to be on hand at 10 o'clock. A most beautiful and helpful service has been worked out about the theme, "The Sunday School Gate." Pupils of the school will have a part in this program, while five minute talks will be given by four of our adults, and this to be followed by the pastor's message. The adult, girls' and cherub choirs will sing.

At 6 o'clock our B. Y. P. U. begin a series of studies and discussions on "Understanding ourselves in the light of Christ and the Bible." Well, there is going to be something doing. Come and see!

At 7 o'clock the entire church and friends are being called to an evening Communion service. Does anybody question the fact that these are days of crises for the church? This day calls for loyalty, and we shall either be Christian or not Christian. Strange as it might seem to some, this Rally day all day will determine very seriously the future days of our church.

Beginning next Sunday the hour of our Sunday evening services is set ahead one-half hour. Prayer and midweek service on Wednesday evening at 7:30. Our study will be the Book of Judges.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

Sunday morning service, 10:30. Sunday school at 10:30. Pupils received up to the age of twenty years.

Wednesday evening testimony service, 8:00.

"Unreality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 4.

Among the Bible citations is the following (1 Cor. 2:14): "But the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with the Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 353): "The Christianly scientific real is the sensuous unreal. Sin, disease, whatever seems real to material sense, is unreal in divine Science."

Rev. F. C. Lefevre
Sundays — Mass at 8:00 and 10:00. Confessions Saturday nights at 7:30, and before each mass.

Societies—The Holy Name Society for all men and young men. Communion the second Sunday of the month. The Ladies' Altar Society receives Holy Communion the third Sunday of each month. All the ladies of the parish are to belong to this society.

Instructions in religion conducted each Saturday morning at 9:30 by the Dominican Sisters. All children that have not completed their 8th grade, are obliged to attend these religious instructions.

NAZARENE CHURCH

Robert North, pastor
Bible school—10:00; morning worship—11:15; young people—6:30; evening service—7:30; prayer meeting—Wednesday, 7:30.

The pastor's Sunday morning subject will be "The Need of the Christian—Prayer." Many Christians have lost their grip on God through lack of prayer. It takes prayer to be saved and it takes prayer to keep saved.

The evening message will be "Sins Wages." Sin pays wages both in this life and in the life to come. Beware of the false prophet who tries to hide the real results of sin. Satan himself deceived Eve at this point when he told her that she would not die. The sinner is being paid wages every day that he does not want after he gets them and will in the life to come reap the wages of eternal death.

You will receive a warm welcome at all the services where the full gospel is preached—280 N. Main street.

Moody Evangelist Will Speak Here
Rev. W. Spurgeon Ross, pastor of the South Baptist church of Lansing, will be in Plymouth for a one-day Bible conference Wednesday, October 7, at the Calvary Baptist church, 455 South Main street. The public is invited to attend all sessions of the conference. A "Moody and Sankey" song service will begin at 2:30 p.m., during which many of the sacred songs which were favorites in the Moody and Sankey evangelistic campaigns during the eighties and nineties will be sung. After a devotional message by Richard W. Neale, pastor of Calvary church, Rev. Ross will speak on "D. L. Moody's Bible and Mine." This address will begin at 3:45 o'clock so that students may attend after school. Another festival of old time hymn favorites will begin at 7:30 p.m., with Mr. Ross speaking on "D. L. Moody Lives." This Bible conference is one of many being held to celebrate the centenary of D. L. Moody's Birth and the jubilee of the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, which the famous evangelist founded just 50 years ago. Today it is known as the "West Point of Christian Service," having trained thousands of young people for Christian work all over the world. On Monday evening Townsend club No. 1, of Plymouth, will meet in the Orange hall. The speaker of the evening will be B. G. Tharp of Detroit. Everyone is invited to attend.

West Plymouth
Mrs. Genevieve Smith Genevieve Alsbro, daughter of Huson and Percilla Herrick Alsbro, lived all the years of her life in Salem township, where she was born on October 22, 1855. She gave her heart to Christ when a girl, and united with the West Salem church. When a girl of 20, she married John H. Smith on January 26, 1876 and they joined the Lapham Methodist church. Both were among the members who voted to unite the Lapham Methodist and Salem Baptist churches forming the Salem Federated church in 1920. Throughout the years, she has given outstanding service in the latter church, especially in the Aid society and younger women's Bible class. She loved the mid-week prayer meeting. Genevieve Smith was the mother of four children: William Clyde, who died in infancy and John Alsbro, who died at the age of eight, and those who survive their mother, Mrs. Nellie E. Bird of Plymouth and Mrs. Cora B. Gale of Salem township. Others who most deeply mourn her departure are, her brother, Ellsworth Alsbro of Lansing and her sister, Mrs. W. H. Corbin of Grand Rapids and three grandchildren, Russell and Marian Gale and Mrs. Ione Faber, and one little great granddaughter, Doris Genevieve Faber.

Salvation Army Commander Here

Brigadier and Mrs. James Murphy, who have recently been appointed to the command of the Michigan division of the Salvation Army, are paying their first visit to the Plymouth corps today. The brigadier and wife have just completed a most successful term as commanders of the Indiana division and come to Michigan looking forward to it as a new field of opportunity. The brigadier is greatly interested in the smaller corps of the state and is ready to co-operate to the fullest extent for their well-being. This has already been proven to citizens of Plymouth, as the divisional headquarters in Detroit have contributed the down payment for the new Army property at 281 Union street which is housed and owned by the local corps. At 8 o'clock tonight the new hall will be the scene of a rousing Salvation meeting. Uniting with the Plymouth corps will be delegations from the Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Brightmoor and Grandale corps. There will be good music, singing and a stirring gospel message delivered by the new state commander. This occasion will give the people of Plymouth an opportunity to inspect the new Army building and also to meet with and hear Brigadier Murphy, a man who has given over 30 years of valued service as a Salvation Army officer both in this country and abroad. A large crowd is expected and Captain Conlin, the local officer in charge, suggests that interested persons come early to be assured of a seat.
