Local Dentists Complete School Tests

Find Improvement In Condition Of Children's Teeth

Local dentists, consisting of Drs. Champs, Olsever, Thams, and Todd, have rendered without charge to the pupils of school very valuable service in examining their teeth.

This regular, annual examination of teeth has been carried on in the Plymouth grades for a period of ten years. Over this period they have had the following results:

1927	12% O.K.	1932	33% O.K.
1928	26% O.K.	1933	25% O.K.
1929	33% O.K.	1934	39% O.K.
1930	32% O.K.	1935	32% O.K.
1931	41% O.K.	1936	45% O.K.

The marked improvement in the dental work of 1931 was the direct result of having the Children's Fund dentist located in Plymouth schools during the summer.

The falling of the percentage in 1933 was due to the depression, people not having sufficient funds with which to care for their children's teeth. The high percentage in 1936 is very gratifying for two reasons: first, it shows the interest that the parents have in working toward perfect teeth in their children, and second, that the depression has lifted sufficiently in order that they have money with which to have the dental care given to their children.

The percentage of perfect teeth in the junior high school (7-9 grades) was 37% which, while not as good as the average in the lower grades, is well above the averages for the past several years.

Letters have been sent to all parents, either congratulating them on the perfect teeth which their boy or girl was found to possess, or else telling them of the minor defects which were found and offering the cooperation of the school in helping them to find the solution for these remedial defects.

The examining of the pupils' teeth by our local dentists is a service which cannot be over-estimated, because to do good mental work, a pupil needs to be in the best possible physical condition, and any service which aids the parents in detecting remedial defects is particularly worthwhile and valuable.

Two Are Hurt In Auto Crash

Attorney and Mrs. Fred Cochran of Northville were injured in an automobile accident late Wednesday evening at the corner of the Eight mile and Farmington roads. Mrs. Cochran was so seriously injured that it was necessary to take her to the Receiving hospital in Detroit for treatment. Mr. Cochran's injuries were not serious. Both are well known in Plymouth where they have many friends.

Sends Quilt Top To Mrs. Landon

Even though Gov. Alf M. Landon didn't win the presidency, Mrs. Landon is going to receive in the next day or so from Plymouth a beautiful quilt top that had been made especially for her by Mrs. Louis Holloway of Harvey street.

Mrs. Holloway started work on the quilt top some weeks ago, in fact, just after the Kansas governor had received the Republican nomination for president.

It was mailed to Mrs. Landon on election day. Mrs. Holloway believes that its receipt will bring a little sunlight into the Landon home, even though the Kansas sunflowers may be all through blooming for the present season.

Parents Urged To Attend Night School

Classes To Be Conducted So Elders Can Know More of Work

In order to show the parents how classes are conducted, and to meet the students' teachers, the Student Council of Plymouth high school is sponsoring night school, Tuesday evening, November 10. The doors will be open at 7:30, running three classes of one half hour each.

Approximately three hundred parents and friends attended night school during the past two years and this year a larger attendance is hoped for.

American Education Week is observed throughout the United States and last year over two million parents attended the classes of their children, met the teachers and observed how the classes were conducted. The program for American Education Week, to be carried on throughout the United States is as follows:

- Monday, November 9—The Story of the Schools.
- Tuesday, November 10—The Changing Curriculum.
- Wednesday, November 11—New Services to the Community.
- Thursday, November 12—The Business of Education.
- Friday, November 13—Financing America's Schools.
- Saturday, November 14—Education for Physical Fitness.
- Sunday, November 15—Education for Character.

OUR GRATITUDE.

It is with the sincerest gratitude that the editor of The Plymouth Mail expresses to the voters of this city and the remainder of the Fifth legislative district our appreciation for the remarkable display of confidence manifested in the election on Tuesday.

To secure such a vote on the Republican ticket in the face of the greatest Democratic landslide since the beginning of political parties is indeed, something one has a perfect right to be proud of. As election board workers checked over the ballots and found that not only hundreds, but thousands, had split their tickets in order to assist in the election of at least one Republican on the ticket, and to know that this splitting of tickets was most predominant in localities where the publisher of The Mail is best known, one cannot help but feel most grateful for such an expression of good will.

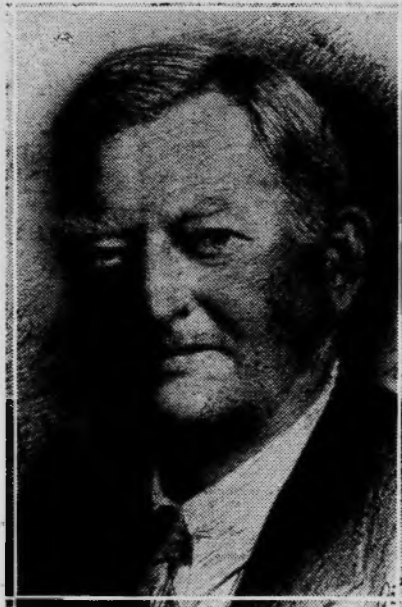

Our views and ideas on public questions and problems have been expressed freely and frequently in the editorial columns of The Plymouth Mail. Apparently the voting public approves thoroughly of our opinions on problems of the day.

The citizens of this district and Michigan may be assured that every effort will be put forth to retain the good will that was made so manifest in Tuesday's election. It is a priceless possession that every effort will be put forth to keep.

ELTON R. EATON.

IT'S OVER

Every one, seemingly, is pleased to know that one of the longest and hardest fought political campaigns ever conducted in this country is over. Naturally, in all elections, there are those that are pleased and those that are not. To the victors we offer our sincere congratulations. To those who made strong bids for public favor and lost, we offer our sympathy with the admonition that, in their defeat, they can show their real manhood. A good loser frequently can win more public esteem than the victor. Now, that election day is behind us, let each citizen work for the benefit of his state and country, for after all, THIS IS OUR COUNTRY and not that of the office holder.

COMMON SENSE.

According to an announcement that has just come through from the state conservation commission, the limit on steelhead trout one can take from Michigan lakes has been reduced from fifteen to five. This is a right step, only it should have been taken long ago. If there is any fishing to be left in Michigan for future years, the time has arrived for the commission to start CONSERVING. Meanwhile, fish hogs are rapidly depleting the lakes of all game fish.

WHAT A RELIEF!

For nearly three months as one has turned the radio on, hoping to hear good music or other entertainment over the air, there has roared from the instrument a lot of blah-blah from office seeking politicians or others about our country and how it is on the way to the bow-wows if we did not vote for this or that fellow. Since election night there hasn't been a word of it and every one is pleased. Maybe, by the time the next campaign rolls around, something will happen to end all of this harangue preceding elections.

TIME TO CHANGE.

At nearly every state election Michigan has had in recent years there have been submitted from one to half a dozen proposed amendments to the state constitution. Some of them have possibly been good, but the most of them have possessed little merit. In fact, some of them have been outright dangerous proposals. As the law now stands, it is not a difficult matter to submit to the voters proposed amendments to the constitution. Wouldn't it be well to tighten up the constitution a bit by making it more difficult for some of these cracked ideas to get before the voters in the form of constitutional amendments? Changing the basic law of the state is serious business, and it should not be made an easy thing to do.

HE WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD.

The other day Edward C. Langfield of Northville died after an exceedingly brief illness. His funeral was held from the home Monday afternoon. It rained for several hours previous to the funeral. In fact, there was a regular downpour for an hour or so just before the final rites were to be held. Human nature is odd. People ordinarily do not like to be discomforted.

As the rain fell, increasingly heavy, seemingly almost the entire populace of Northville turned towards the Langfield home—and when the services started, men and women, unable to get within the packed doors, stood about on the lawn in the downpour to pay last and final tribute to one who had spent his life going about doing good.

Ed Langfield, as he was best known, was a friend of every one. He never had a disagreeable word to say and he was happy indeed, if he could find something to do for the good of some one. There in the big crowd were the forty or fifty boys and girls who are members of the school community band he organized. They had come from school to pay their youthful respects to a departed friend, who gloried in the success of the musical organization he had brought about when president of the school board.

Death has struck some terrific blows at our good little neighboring community within the past two or three years. MEN like our good friend Ed are hard to replace, and when they answer to the final roll call a community void has been created that is difficult indeed, to fill again. Sometimes it is hard to understand why one apparently in good health and able and willing to do so much for humanity, must be taken from us. However unfortunate it is, it seemingly, is one thing humanity cannot control and so it is that men like Ed Langfield are taken from us long before the days of usefulness have been spent.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

LET'S GO DOWN CELLAR

The conservation officials, in the exercise of what they laughingly refer to as their best judgment, have decided that all lower peninsula counties north of a line drawn, roughly, from Muskegon to Bay City, are to be opened to deer hunters this season. This means that such populous districts as Muskegon county, Newaygo, and even the northern part of Kent county, to mention only a few nearby localities, are to be open to sportsmen.

"Sportsmen" is a shade too optimistic; mixed in with the bonafide sportsman who knows what it's all about will be a large proportion of ignorant but untrifled persons who, although they have never before handled anything more lethal than a pea-shooter, will buy or borrow a high caliber rifle with a muzzle velocity of about half a mile a second and with an effective range of a mile or two, and set out to reduce the deer population. They'll reduce the population, all right: deer and human.

Considering that last year during the hunting season in this country two small boys were killed by a man who mistook them for a coyote, it is apparent that anything can and does happen when the tyro takes to the woods. Why the conservation commission should feel called upon to stimulate business for the funeral directors by opening up more counties for hunting is a question not easily answered. When the casualty reports start coming in they will probably include the confession of a hunter who shot a deer by mistake, thinking it was a politician—George Welsh in The Grand Rapids Chronicle.

STICKING TO ONE THING

The average American can make good money at his own trade but usually loses it when he begins monkeying with something else.—Charles Seed in The Rochester Clarion.

WHY THE BALLOT IS SECRET

The right of the individual citizen in a free country to mark his ballot as he sees fit is his strongest guarantee against tyranny and oppression.

The "secret ballot" was introduced in the United States, and innumerable laws for safeguarding the freedom of elections have been enacted, solely to protect the citizen in the exercise of that right.

Any attempt to coerce citizens into voting against their better judgment, not only seeks to deprive them of the right to vote as they see fit, but also strikes at the very foundation of our system of government, which is based upon the will of the majority freely expressed at the polls.

The right of free speech implies the right of every citizen, whether he be employer or employee, to argue for the election of men, or the adoption of policies, which he honestly believes to be in the public interest.

There his right of persuasion ends.

Any employer who tries to influence the votes of his employees by threatening to discharge them or by other threats, commits a crime against them, as citizens, and against the nation.

And it makes no difference whether this coercion is attempted by a private employer, or by the WPA or any other governmental agency or department, with the power to hire and fire.

Coercion of voters from any source whatever is the beginning of dictatorship.

We want none of it in Michigan.—Malcolm Bingay in The Detroit Free Press.

COLLEGE PROFESSORS IN GOVERNMENT

Why is it that people resent interference from government? Is it because they are engaged in nefarious undertakings and, like criminals, resent intrusion and interruption? Is it a crime to successfully operate a business, a farm, a factory or a school?

That brings us to college professors.

We have known a few—just a few. Some of them are mighty fine fellows. All of them are very interesting. A few of them are practical. Most of them are visionary—and this is understandable, for all of them are students of the academic type. They get a great deal of their learning out of books and a very small amount from mingling with people.

Government has to do with all people.

When a college professor gets into a position of government, it is a challenge to his supposedly superior intelligence. Long he has scoffed at the home-made type of public official. He has had little patience with the cut-and-dried system which has been and—we predict—always will be in vogue. Governmental problems, he reasons, must be worked out according to a formula, just as are problems in algebra or geometry—"X" equals the unknown quantity.

He reckons not with human nature.

Why should a professor consider human nature? He has encountered it only in the class room. There the students are like little soldiers. They bow to his superior knowledge of the subject he teaches. He is supreme. Too often he is intolerant. He has to be if he is to convert a few score of immature minds to his interpretation of his subject. That's a job. So he bears down. As he grows older he becomes a specialist immersed in his speciality. School is his life. It has been since his mama first wiped his nose and started him in the kindergarten.

He has a contempt for self-made men.

We once heard a university president say: "Self-made men certainly do worship their maker." That was a neat phrase. Yet this man was so out of tune with his faculty, his student body, the state officials and the general public that he lost his job. He was a brilliant man. As a scientist he ranked high in the world. Yet, he didn't have the ordinary brand of everyday common sense that is required of the average township supervisor or city traffic cop.

We do not dislike professors.

In fact, we marvel at their ability—in their own spheres. Also, we marvel at their lack of ability in most undertakings that have to do with the public. We have a theory of our own—just as the professors do—that every professor should be removed from the class room every fourth year and required to work and mingle with the average run of people. We believe it would make him a better teacher. We suggested this once to a group of professors—

—Did we get the horse-laugh from them? We did.

Many of the alphabetical undertakings of the federal government in this administration are the brain-children of professors. The intent was the best. No one with sense has a quarrel with a government which wants to help its people to the "more abundant life." Some of the schemes that have been tried are not accomplishing that. We fear that they are heading people for the "more abundant poverty."—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

In Plymouth and Vicinity—Interesting News of Days Gone By Taken From The Plymouth Mail Files

THE FIRST DAY

'Twas the first day of the season A bright and sunny one, It found the boys all running With their hound dogs and their guns.

To be in the woods at sunrise Was their one and only thought. To shoot the first game they saw And start the season's slaughter.

And the cunning little creatures Not wishing to be within aim, Would scurry into hiding But would soon be out again.

For the dogs, that is their duty. To keep them on the run, To keep them out in the open. In the sights of the masters' gun.

What a day for thrills and excitement! With many a disappointing shot. Did every one get his quota? Well, maybe, or maybe not.

And, so the dogs, like their masters, Are glad the day is done. For they come home, barely walking, Much too tired to run.

ONE MINUTE BIOGRAPHIES of MICHIGAN GOVERNORS and their ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By Elton R. Eaton

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS No. 26

The second Democratic governor of Michigan elected since the organization of the Republican party "under the oaks" in 1854 was Woodbridge N. Ferris.

The Republicans for 22 years previously controlled the executive office.

Like many of the earlier governors of Michigan, he was a school teacher. The Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, one of the best known educational institutions in the state was owned and directed by him until after his retirement from the executive office.

He was born January 6, 1853 in Tioga county, New York. His early career was anything but a leisurely one. His father, a poor struggling farmer, could not read nor write and the lad was forced to aid in the maintenance of the family at an early age.

Determined that his boy should not face the hardships he had in life, the father sent young Ferris to a district school. The boy did not take kindly to education at first, and it was not until he was 12 or 13 years old that he determined to secure a good education. From one school to another he went seeking knowledge. Then he became a teacher, and it was while teaching that he met another teacher, who became Mrs. Woodbridge N. Ferris. For a time the two taught schools in New York. Not satisfied with the system which they taught, the two decided to start a school of their own, and the Ferris Institute was established in Big Rapids, Michigan. The first year there were 15 pupils.

Republicans controlled the legislature during his administration and as a result most of the state patronage was under the direction of the opposition. Governor Ferris took especial pride in the various proclamations written by him while governor, and some are of exceptional merit. Following his retirement from the executive office he was elected United States senator.

The Busk-Ivanhoe highway tunnel near Leadville, Colo., is one of the longest in the world; it was intended originally for railroad use.

The invention of photography is not credited to any individuals, but is the development of discoveries by several men, among them Daguerre, Nicephore, Niepce, and Talbot.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Kimble start for California next Monday.

There was a slight fall of snow Wednesday night—first of the season.

Dr. J. J. Travis and brother of Milford visited their sister in Toledo Sunday.

Frank Gottschalk shipped a car load of potatoes to Dayton, Ohio, this week.

A neat-lettered sign—Penniman Allen Park, has been hung on the band stand of the park so named.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClumpha and son of Pittsburg, Pa., visited Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hough the latter part of the week.

The members of the Eastern Star will give a ten cent social and card party Tuesday evening, November 7, at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Nancy Bradner and Mrs. H. Peck entertained the Lady Maccabees Wednesday afternoon at the home of the former.

Buckney's Pharmacy will begin next Monday serving light lunches consisting of hot coffee, bouillon, hot chocolate, sandwiches, pie, etc.

One of the pleasant social events of the season occurred Friday evening, October 27, when the New Idea club entertained the gentlemen at the home of Mrs. John Nash, Ann Arbor street.

On Monday evening, Mrs. H. S. Doerr and Mrs. W. H. Wakely of Detroit entertained at a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Doerr, 51 Calumet Ave. Two ghostly figures were at the door to receive the 20 guests, who were entertained with coronet and piano music, singing, games and fortunes. An appropriate buffet lunch was served during the evening. The house was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

P. W. Voorhies has been appointed assistant prosecuting attorney and will begin his duties next Monday. The appointment came unsolicited and without wire pulling. As an attorney Mr. Voorhies stands very high in court and legal circles of the county.

surprised last Sunday when Presiding Elder Allen announced to them that the churches would be separated, and that Newburg would be supplied from the city. The new side track on the Pere Marquette is very convenient for some of the train crews, who can leave their trains and help themselves to a stock of winter vegetables, nuts, etc. from the neighboring farmers, but is not much of a blessing to the farmers. One day this week a member of the crew took a basket from the caoose and climbed over into a fine thrifty field of rape and after pulling up quite a quantity and examining the roots, gave up in disgust. He had been expecting to get a supply of turnips. Mrs. John Rattenbury entertained the 7th and 8th grade and teachers of the Elm school at Stark one night last week in honor of her son's 16th birthday. Molasses candy was made and a good sticky time was had. The Gleaners of Newburg will give a shadow social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hake Tuesday evening, November 7. Ladies will please bring box with lunch for two.

Students Vote As Did Nation

All eyes were on the voters in the mock election held in Plymouth high school on November 3.

The students chose Roosevelt as president by the very slight margin of two votes, giving him 250 to Landon's 248. In election of state officials the Republican candidates were victorious over their Democratic opponents in almost every case. In voting on state constitutional amendments, the young voters accepted the first and second proposals, but rejected the third and fourth.

This project was managed by the senior American History classes under the supervision of Miss Gertrude Fiegel. The committees in charge spent nearly a month in preparation so that this election could resemble actual voting as closely as possible. As a result of home room education, only two ballots had to be discarded.

Polls were open continuously from 8:30 to 4:00 and voting remained spirited throughout the day. Approximately 75 per cent of the entire student body cast their votes. The seniors believe their efforts, in conducting this poll, have been worthwhile because they have promoted good citizenship and have aroused in the students an interest in current affairs.

township. The villages of Wayne, Inkster, Romulus and Belleville locate in these townships, all helped to add to the total majority the Plymouth candidate received.

Eaton's majority, which will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 2500, will be more than twice the majority received by Representative Edward Fisher in the 1932 election. He had 1146 votes over his Democratic opponent and in 1934 when the Republicans were making headway in an off year election, he had a majority of 2241.

Congressman George A. Dondero carried this part of Wayne county with a good vote, but his lead was cut down within the city of Pontiac.

All of the Republican candidates for county offices went down in defeat, although this part of Wayne county gave most of them a slight lead over their Democratic rivals.

The Lemke vote in Plymouth was 57, somewhat larger than backers of the Third party had expected it would be. Most of the votes came from the 2nd precinct, located at the Starkweather school, although there were other votes scattered in the other three precincts.

Most of the election boards worked until early morning hours to complete the count.

"Saving Time" Here Next Week

"Swing Time," the most lavish of the Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers musical comedy extravaganzas, comes to the Penniman-Allyn theatre on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, November 8, 9, and 10. In this picture Fred and Ginger score a new triumph, dancing to the exciting rhythm of Jerome Kern's music and the lyrics by Dorothy Fields. The strikingly effective "The Waltz in Swing Time" seems to be the dance hit of the picture. Everyone should see this latest triumph by the dancing partners.

What Editors Do When Election Boards Are Counting The Ballots

What are candidates for high political offices doing when election boards are counting the votes to see what the verdict of the voters might be, following a hot political campaign?

There happened to be a newspaper publisher in Plymouth on the Republican ticket and another newspaper publisher in Watervliet on the Democratic ticket, who had been selected by his party for a much more important office than that sought by the Plymouth publisher.

Both publishers have sons who help in the conduct of their papers, that's why they have a little time to give to politics.

When the campaign came to an end Monday night, Leon Case, the Democratic candidate for secretary of state, returned to his home town of Watervliet and went to work on his newspaper, wondering all the time what the voters might be doing.

It was late in the day after the election when one publisher became anxious to know how another publisher came out in the election.

"I've been so busy all day getting my paper to press, I haven't heard anything definite over here," said the newly elected secretary of state.

Advised that almost complete returns compiled in Wayne county showed that he had been elected by an exceedingly safe majority, Editor Case declared: "Well, that's good news. I'll have to write something for my paper about my own election, and maybe something about a Republican being elected to the legislature over in Wayne county where everything else went for my party."

So you see even though editors do win political offices, they have to work just like every one else.

Methodists To Honor Bishops

Methodists of Plymouth today received word of a special nationwide radio broadcast through the Columbia chain and WJR in honor of the Board of Bishops of the denomination which will hold its autumn meeting in Scranton, Pa., beginning Tuesday, November 10.

The broadcast will take place Tuesday, November 10, at 10:48 to 11:00 Eastern Standard time. It will come to us through the courtesy of General Mills, Inc., and will be centered in Jo Emerson's noted, "Hymns of all Churches" program. Hymns for the day will have been selected by the Methodist Bishops who will, at Scranton, formally launch the new Million Unit Fellowship among Methodists. This movement seeks to inspire and renew personal religious devotion in the Methodist Episcopal church, and to obtain a better understanding for its world missions and benevolences.

Big Plane Back On Sunday

Because of bad weather last Saturday and Sunday, Captain Ray Loomis will bring his giant trimotored Ford airplane back to Triangle airport this Sunday. Many people visited the airport last Saturday and took advantage of the low rates offered for short flights over this area and because of the popularity of the flights Pilot Loomis thought it advisable to return Sunday. Elsewhere in The Mail is a schedule of flight rates available this Sunday.

Why Plymouth Was Given Name Of Plymouth

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth installment of the story of pioneer life in Plymouth told by one of the first settlers, A. B. Markham, at the annual meeting of the State Pioneer society on February 6, 1877.)

I had now been here a year and a half. I had on hand 600 bushels of ears of corn, 80 bushels of potatoes, besides corn stalks, turnips, pumpkins, etc. I sold my corn for twenty-five cents a bushel, potatoes at fifty cents per bushel, pumpkins, $1.25 a load. I sold over $125.00 worth of produce in one year from the time I began to chop.

It shows what a young man can do if he will try, without a single dollar or axe, or anything to eat, or a house to live in, or a bed to sleep on and nothing but their hands, a disposition, and will to work. Now, for the benefit of young men, I will sum up in a few words the affair of the first year's settlement. In the first place, I had nothing but my hands to begin with; in the second place, I had good health; in the third place, I had good land and a good country; and in the fourth and last place, I had a will, a determination and a perseverance.

In one year I had seven acres cleared and fenced with a good eight-rail fence, and four more acres chopped. I also had a good double logged house, a good log stable, a good well of water, stoned and arranged with curb sweep and pole, all in superb old fashioned style, good corn crib, full of ears of corn, one cow, a yoke of steers, a calf and fodder enough to keep them over winter; a sow and seven pigs and plenty of corn for them, half a dozen hens and provisions for a small family for a year, axes, etc. All paid and owing no one a cent. More than this I had $50.00 in my pocket.

I now went to Detroit with my neighbor Benton, to buy some things necessary for farming. Here I found Mr. Lyon, Mr. Allen, Allen Tibbitts and some others. In February 1827, a meeting was called at the house of John Tibbitts. John Tibbitts was called to the chair and A. B. Markham was secretary.

At this meeting we agreed that the name of the town should be Plymouth. The name was proposed by William Bartow, then a member of the legislature appointed by Gov. Cass. The name Le Roy was the first choice of the people but if this name had been appropriated by any other town, then Plymouth was to be the name.

The legislative council passed an act which was approved by the governor on April 12, 1827 to wit: "Be it enacted by the legislative council of the territory of Michigan that all that part of the county of Wayne included in surveyed townships one and two south range eight east shall compose the townships of Plymouth and the first township meeting shall be held at the home of John Tibbitts in said township."

On the 28th of May, 1827, a meeting was held at the home of John Tibbitts. William Bartow was elected Moderator and A. B. Markham, clerk. At this meeting, the following township officers were elected to wit: Supervisor, William Bartow; town clerk, Allen Tibbitts; A. B. Markham, collector; Roswell Root, Erastus W. Starkweather, and Henry Lyon, assessors; Rufus Thayer and Luther Lincoln, poor masters. I think highway commissioners were also elected Judge Witherell, who at that time was justice of the peace, was present and administered the oaths of office of those elected.

Luther Lincoln built the grist mill this year—the first in the town. The Ramsdells built a saw mill this year at Waterford, now called Mead's Mills.

The first field trials for English Springer Spaniels ever held in the state and one of the few in the central states will be held Saturday and Sunday, November 7 and 8, near Ann Arbor.

The Saturday trials for novice stakes, puppy stakes, brace stakes, shooting dog stakes, and members all age stakes will be held in the grounds of the Nichols Arboretum adjoining the Ann Arbor city limits. The trials will start at 9 a.m. and run through to 4:30 p.m. with a short intermission of a half hour at 1 p.m. for lunch. To reach the Arboretum turn at the square in Ann Arbor and follow the signs to the field.

On Sunday the non-winners stake and the open all age stakes will be run. The water trials will complete the program which starts at 9 a.m. and continue through the day. The Sunday trials for older and more experienced dogs will be run in tougher cover adjacent to Geddes Road, 2 miles east of Ann Arbor city limits. The Sunday route will also be posted.

The large number of entries already made insure success of the event. Edward Dana Knight of Charleston, W. Va. and Herbert Routley of Peterboro, Ontario will place the awards. George B. Blake and Charles Van Studdiford are both well known crack shots and will act as gunners.

The trials are sanctioned by the American Kennel club and will be run under their rules, and the dogs will be tested on live pheasants and ducks.

The fields have been selected with a view of offering the best possible location of advantage for the gallery.

There will be no admission charges or fees of any kind solicited of visitors. A most cordial invitation to attend either one day or both and witness famous Springers as they work in the fields is extended to Plymouth residents.

A Noble Enterprise

If business men would so conduct The program of their lives That they could be more helpful to Their children and their wives, Oh, what a splendid record of Contentment we should find, And what a priceless benefit Would come to all mankind!

A truly noble enterprise Is that of bringing cheer And peace of mind and happiness To those a man holds dear; And marriage is a partnership That he should place above All other obligations, for Its covenant is love.

Yes, home-life should receive the best Attention men can give. They ought to counsel with and help Their partners while they live; And surely they should ever guard Against that doubtful day When circumstances unforeseen May summon them away!

Markham Will Fight Proves To Be Sensation Out in Los Angeles

Fight Over Property Of Former Plymouth Manufacturer Creates Intense Interest In California

Rarely a day goes by but what there comes through the post-office to The Plymouth Mail clippings from Los Angeles newspapers sent to The Mail by former residents of this city, that tell interesting details of the sensational fight being made over the Markham will.

Older residents will recall that it was in Plymouth that his fortune was started and that it was here that the romance developed which has led into one of most interesting cases ever filed in Los Angeles courts. The case was involved in politics because of the fact that Attorney Palmer who drew the Markham will, is accused of having fixed it in such a way that the bulk of the estate goes to his children.

One newspaper clipping follows: New and sensational charges against Harlan G. Palmer, Hollywood publisher and candidate for District Attorney, in connection with the Markham will case, were contained in a Federal complaint in equity filed yesterday.

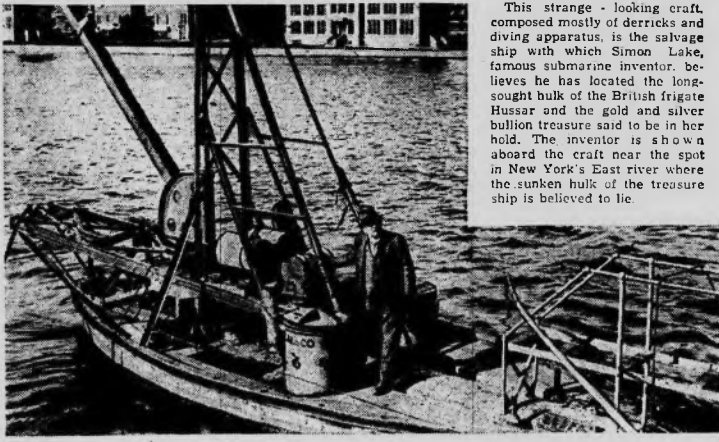

The document, asserted that Palmer and Mrs. Blanche C. Markham, widow of William F. Markham, capitalist, in order to obtain Markham's signature to a will "practically disinheriting his children," told him his kin really were step-children, or adopted children, "and that they, and each of them, bitterly hated Mr. Markham."

This allegation was based on "information and belief" of the complainant, Mrs. Maude Lillian O'Brien, who, through her attorney, Col. William H. Neblett, brought the suit.

Mrs. O'Brien, in a Superior Court petition, already seeks to break the will by which her father left the bulk of his nearly two million dollar estate to Mrs. Markham in trust for life, with the remainder to go to Palmer's children upon her death.

Named defendants in yesterday's suit, in addition to Palmer, were Mrs. Markham, as executrix of the estate, and as an individual: Ethelene Hunkins Palmer, the publisher's wife; their children, Harlan Guyan Palmer Jr., Byron Hunkins Palmer, Ralph Judson Palmer and Margaret

Odd Craft Devised for Treasure Hunting

This strange-looking craft, composed mostly of derricks and diving apparatus, is the salvage ship with which Simon Lake, famous submarine inventor, believes he has located the long-sought hulk of the British frigate Hussar and the gold and silver bullion treasure said to be in her hold. The inventor is shown aboard the craft near the spot in New York's East river where the sunken hulk of the treasure ship is believed to lie.

Dora Palmer; Ben S. Sprague, Edward Jenkins, Palmer Building Corporation, Citizens Properties, Inc., Hollywood Citizen and Citizen-News Company.

Mrs. O'Brien, who was left $250 a month for life and now seeks a third of the estate, charged that the estate, appraised at $1,826,051.42, according to the complaint, has been pending in Superior Court for six and a half years and remains undistributed.

The complaint stated: "Complainant alleges on information and belief that when William F. Markham signed his will on March 4, 1930, he was approximately 80 years old, in an advanced stage of senility and utterly incompetent to understand the purport of the will to which Blanche C. Markham and Harlan G. Palmer procured his signature."

"With full knowledge of Mr. Markham's mental condition, and knowing that he was in his last illness rapidly approaching his death, Blanche C. Markham and Harlan G. Palmer agreed and conspired together to obtain from him a will which would give to Blanche C. Markham practically all of the estate during her life, with ultimate remainder of it all to Harlan G. Palmer's family. In order to obtain Mr. Markham's signature to this will, practically disinheriting his children, Blanche C. Markham and Harlan G. Palmer falsely represented to him that Maude Lillian O'Brien and Leigh H. Markham were in fact not his children by blood, but were merely step-children, and that they, and each of them, bitterly hated Mr. Markham."

The complaint asserted Palmer and Mrs. Markham conspired three years before Markham's death "at which time he failed mentally an was from that time on until he died unable to comprehend the meaning of any business transaction."

It was charged that during that period one of the pair always was near Markham and deprived him of benefit of independent advice.

Another clipping telling of another feature of the case follows: Adding a sensational anti-climax to the latest twist in the Markham will case, the Rev. R. P. "Bob" Shuler last night confessed he had been "in error" in charging that Mrs. Maude L. O'Brien is not a daughter of the late capitalist whose estate she is suing.

The minister's admission was made in a full retraction of a sensational statement, made in a letter, that William F. Markham left no children.

Shuler, who is a supporter of Harlan G. Palmer, Hollywood publisher, for District Attorney, said he "was sorry" for "the error." Mrs. O'Brien's suit charges that Palmer, Markham's attorney, conspired with Mrs. Blanche C. Markham to have the capitalist make a will leaving the bulk of his estate to his wife for life, then reverting to Palmer's children.

The pastor's confession of mistake was in answer to a demand from Mrs. O'Brien that he retract his statement and give the source of the information upon which it was based. Mrs. O'Brien is represented by Col. William H. Neblett in seeking to obtain one-third of the Markham estate instead of $250 a month for life, as provided in his will.

The Shuler letter containing the assertion which he retracted yesterday, was addressed to Mrs. Laura E. Newhouse, 202 North Cedar street, Glendale. It stated in part:

"There is no question in my mind at all but that Judge Harlan Palmer made a great mistake in drawing the will of Mr. Markham. He was, however, Mr. Markham's lawyer and had drawn his legal papers for years. . . . However, I still think that Judge Palmer should have been wise enough to have said to Mr. Markham that he must go to some other attorney for the drawing of the will."

Then again I understand that the children who are reported to have been left only $250 a month by Mr. Markham, are not Mr. Markham's children at all, and are no blood relation at all to Mr. Markham. Mr. Markham has no children, and one of these is the child of his third wife, and the other is an adopted son, also the son of one of his wives by other marriages. . . .

In demanding a retraction, Mrs. O'Brien wrote Shuler: "It is not true that my father ever had a third wife or that he ever adopted any child. His first wife was my mother, Carrie A. Shepard. My father and mother had three children. The eldest child, Harry, died at the age of 21. I am the second child. My brother Leigh, is the third."

"Within a short time after my mother died, my father married Carrie B. Shortman, who is now known as Mrs. Blanche C. Markham. . . . All of these facts you could have ascertained from the record in the Estate of Markham, No. 111,423, in the County Clerk's office, at Los Angeles."

Colonel Neblett said he also had in his possession a duplicate of the letter to Mrs. Newhouse. He said the duplicate had been sent to another person and that the reverse side of the missive bore mimeographed data dealing with a plea for increased power for a radio station.

In a letter to Mrs. O'Brien, written after receipt of her communication last evening, Shuler stated:

"I have your letter in which you quote the words of a letter which I dictated to Mrs. Laura E. Newhouse on September 12, a copy of which I placed in my files at the time, and which copy has since that time been stolen from my files. However, my secretary had kept her notes, and the quotation which you give is correct."

"I am very sorry to have unintentionally made this error in referring to you and your brother," Shuler's letter continued. "The information was given me by a gentleman whose name I do not care at this time to disclose, and he states to me this afternoon when I called him about it that the information came to him that your brother was an adopted son and that he was perfectly honest in making the statement to me that he did make. However, he claims that I misunderstood him with reference to yourself—that what he said was that you were a child of a first wife. . . .

"However, it was clearly my error, though unintentional, and I am very sorry that I made it."

Shuler's letter also stated: "The letter I wrote to Mrs. Newhouse was written in answer to questions from her concerning the matter. The three copies that went out were mailed by my secretary, and not by me, and were mailed without my knowledge; in answer to similar questions to those sent by Mrs. Newhouse, and because she believed they would be worth something to the people in answering their questions."

When Mrs. Lillie Karker, 71 years of age, went down to vote Tuesday, it was for the first time in her life that she had taken advantage of the right of suffrage granted to women nearly a quarter of a century ago. "You know I have always felt more or less that voting was a man's job, but I have changed my mind in the last few months, so I registered and went down and voted Tuesday," said Mrs. Karker, one of the oldest residents of Plymouth.

What Lost Deer Hunter Should Do

State Advises Right Steps To Take If Lost in North Woods

Two things for Plymouth deer hunters to watch out for, besides avoiding gun accidents, getting lost in the woods, carrying loaded guns in the car, and killing illegal game, are included by staff men of the department of conservation in their annual word of advice to those who go north to bag a buck.

1. Report any evidences of over-browsing observed in your hunting area. Browse-lines in early or well-advanced stages are indications that deer food supplies are being depleted.

2. Report the shooting of buck deer that have an aluminum tag in one ear. All these reports may be made to the conservation officer, district or regional headquarters in the area or directly to the Lansing office.

Game men of the department want all available information on over-browsed deer yards this winter and reports of heavy browsing in any yard will be checked and will prove helpful to the department. The numbered tags in the ears of buck deer, several scores of which have been tagged, help show how far the deer have moved away from the yards by the hunting season.

Conservation men here advise hunters to "take it easy" if they get lost in the woods. The early sensations of fear or panic should be suppressed as quickly as possible, they say. If the hunter is hopelessly mixed up in the woods with night falling and a gun shot fails to bring an answering signal, it would be better for the individual to bed down where he is under a lean-to with a campfire, than to strike out in the dark. Searching groups may come out in time and no one can be lost long if he stays in one place and ends up a smoke.

If there is plenty of daylight left, the lost hunter should try to reckon his position as best he can and then start out in a leisurely gait to conserve his energies. He may find a fire tower, a telephone line or a fire-line truck trail which will lead him in time to other hunters or a hunting camp.

City men not as experienced in the woods as resident hunters, commonly get panicky when lost, especially late in the day. The lost hunter who puts down the early sensations of alarm and fright, is already on the way to solving his predicament. Aimless crashing through brush and heavy cover may be a futile waste of time and energy.

Being lost in the woods, agree conservation men, should mean no more than a few hours or a night away from camp, since modern conservation organization has the facilities of well-trained officers, radio and even an airplane to help in grave emergencies, when searching groups of other hunters fail to do the job.

While hazards to human life are lower in ratio to the number of hunters afield than during the small game season, authorities again warn hunters to be careful with firearms and when shooting. Last year three hunters were killed in shooting accidents.

Death Claims A Civic Leader

Edward C. Langfield of Northville Expires After Brief Illness

Many from Plymouth went to Northville Monday afternoon to attend the funeral of Edward C. Langfield, president and manager of the Northville Laboratories, Inc., and one of the best known citizens of this entire locality.

Mr. Langfield's death proved a great surprise as he had apparently been in excellent health and had not complained of feeling ill. He had gone to Detroit to attend the funeral of a friend and serve as a pall bearer. On the way to the cemetery it was necessary for him to leave the funeral procession and he started for his home in Northville, but he had gone only a short ways when his condition became so serious it was necessary for him to be taken to Highland Park General hospital. A heart ailment caused his death.

Mr. Langfield, born 67 years ago in Germany, came to Detroit when a young man and had resided either in Detroit or Northville during all of that time. It was in 1914 when he established the very successful business that he has conducted with his son, Conrad, who has been associated with him.

He was an intensely civic minded citizen and took an active part in everything that was for the good of Northville. He had served as president of the Northville school board and was a charter member of the Northville Rotary club, of which he had also been president. He organized the Northville School Community band that during the time he had charge of it became one of the best school bands in the state. At nearly every International convention of Rotary held in recent years he was the official delegate of the Northville club. During recent winters, Mr. and Mrs. Langfield had gone to West Palm Beach, Florida where he had become known as an enthusiastic fisherman. They were planning to leave for the south immediately after election. Mrs. Langfield, who has been in ill health for the past two years, has been confined to her bed since the death of her husband.

The funeral was one of the largest held in Northville in many months, burial taking place in Grandlawn cemetery.

It would be necessary to build 240,000 additional homes in London, if every family were to be provided with a separate abode.

"Make It Snappy," Says Maudie

Maudie, the giraffe (upper left), looks very anxious as she watches the keeper at the London zoo feed Joan, the hippo, her cabbage a leaf at a time. Inasmuch as Maudie's turn to be fed is next, she seems to be saying, "Throw that whole cabbage in, and make it snappy."

Shrine Party Is Big Success

Members of the Suburban Shrine club held their biggest dinner party since the series started. Last Thursday night when the Crystal and Palm rooms of the Hotel Mayflower were packed to overflowing. Not only did local members turn out in great numbers but notables from the Detroit Shrine were here also. The meeting, under the direction of Club President Fred D. Schrader, proved to be an interesting one and after a brief program several door prizes were distributed. Dancing and bridge followed the dinner and program. The hotel was decorated in bright Halloween colors and guests were greeted in the lobby with a huge turkey which provided the main trophy of the evening.

During the brief business session President Schrader appointed a committee headed by Mrs. Ernest Allison to conduct a bridge tea. The date was set for Thursday, November 5, at 2 p.m. in the Mayflower. Proceeds will go to further Shrine crippled children's fund to which the local organization has been a big contributor.

Plymouth Honors Two Officials

Citizens' Banquet For Governor and Congressman Is Overflow Affair

Plymouth hospitality overflowed last Saturday evening when Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald and Congressman George A. Dondero came here as guests of the citizens of the community who wanted to show to these two outstanding officials, their gratitude and appreciation for the good work they have been doing in behalf of the people of Michigan.

In fact, the committee in charge of the affair, held at the Mayflower hotel, was swamped when more than twice as many as had been expected came to pay their respects to the two popular public officials.

Manager Clair Maben of the hotel did a masterful job in serving at a banquet nearly 200 more people than had been planned for.

It was late Saturday afternoon when Leonard Murphy, manager of the Plymouth branch office of the secretary of state, in making a check of the ticket sale, came to the conclusion that there was in prospect an overflow crowd. So many requests also came direct to Manager Maben for tickets that he too, became aware of the fact that a big crowd could be expected. But no one had any idea that it would be necessary to set banquet guests in the hotel lobby, the coffee shoppe and every other bit of space that could be found. The banquet hall was filled to overflowing nearly an hour before it was time for the banquet to start.

When the Governor arrived, the hotel was so filled with people that he found it difficult to make his way through the lobby. In addition to Governor Fitzgerald and Congressman Dondero in whose honor the banquet was given, there were present Secretary of State Orville Atwood, who has a host of friends in Plymouth, Auditor General John J. O'Hara, Edward Warner of Farmington, Senator John W. Reid of Highland Park, and Representative Edward Fisher of Dearborn. Former Attorney General Paul W. Voorhies also was present.

An effort had been made to have present former Governor Chase S. Osborn, who is well over 75 years of age, and who happened to be in Detroit the night of the banquet in honor of one of his successors, but he decided at the last minute he should not try to make the trip out to Plymouth. He sent a most cordial telegram, which was read at the banquet.

Orlo Owen of Northville led in a brief community singing program. There was a large delegation from Northville present at the banquet. Members of the Northville-Wayne County Fair board came in a body to show their appreciation to the Governor. Judge Ford Brooks acted as chairman of the reception committee and Fred D. Schrader was chairman of the banquet committee.

The banquet was the largest, without question, ever held in Plymouth; but in spite of the exceptional number who were present, the employes of the hotel did a remarkably good job in serving them so well and promptly—and the crowd appeared most appreciative of conditions. Addresses were made by both Governor Fitzgerald and Congressman Dondero.

Home Furnishings To Be Discussed At Extension Meeting

Miss Emma DuBord, county home extension agent, will give the second discussion in a series of discussions on home furnishing, sponsored by the extension department of Michigan State college at the Wayne library on Thursday, November 12 and Friday, November 13 from 10:00 to 3:30 to the women of Wayne county. Twenty-two groups have already enrolled.

The new work will have to do with the making of slip-covers. Each of the two leaders of the 22 communities will bring some material and an old chair to be covered. Many old and some new fabrics will be used and attractive slip-covers will probably be made from such things as denim, percale, and dyed feed sacks. It is not necessary to replace some old couch or chair if it can be dressed in a slip-cover to look like a new piece. Slip-covers may be used to unify a collection of odd shapes and kinds of chairs to make them seem to blend together. Slip-covers often aid in working out a color harmony for a room. A demonstration will be given on cutting a slip-cover properly, fitting it carefully and finishing it neatly to give a smart tailored appearance.

In this way, at very little cost, old chairs that need a new finish or new upholstery will be made useful again and they will add comfort and beauty to the various homes from which they will come.

Rocks Tie Ecorse 6-6

The Rock team, playing a much better game than was witnessed in the Ypsilanti scramble, held the stronger Ecorse team to a tie in a game which was spectacular, for the Rocks advanced by successive passes. This game marked the closing of the League season for Plymouth and the Rock team will have a two weeks vacation before they encounter their closest rivals—Northville. A good crowd turned out Friday, October 30 to witness this encounter held in very good football weather.

The Ecorse team was much heavier in both the backfield and on the line and had a very swift runner, LaBlane, who was quite hard to get hold of once he was clear of the Rocks field. The Plymouth team in spite of these handicaps gave a good exhibition of football, especially in the numerous passes which set the stage for the Rock touchdown. The next game for the Plymouth team will be held on Northville's field, November 13.

Ecorse started the game by a very short placement kick and recovered it. They made a first down by sweeping end runs gaining ground very rapidly and Weber of Ecorse scored a touchdown, but the kick was blocked. Ecorse kicked to Plymouth, setting them back to the thirty. Plymouth then tried a pass but it was incomplete. On the next play Innis with a spectacular end run brought the ball to midfield. Plymouth called time out at the end of her four downs. Ecorse threw a long pass deep into Plymouth territory but Plymouth intercepted and again returned it to midfield. The quarter ended with the score Ecorse 6, Plymouth 0.

In the second quarter Plymouth started off on an aerial offense. Innis to Trinka gained 20 yards. Innis to Martin gained 10 yards. Martin on an end run lateraled to Innis which lost 15 yards but Ecorse was penalized and they went back that 15 yards. The half ended in a punting duel with the ball in midfield and the score still 6-0 favor of Ecorse.

The last half was by far the most exciting, being filled with fumbles, fine passing, line plunges and long runs. It started out with neither team having the edge, but before long Trombley took the ball to the thirty-yard line and on a penalty the ball was placed within six yards of the goal. But the Plymouth hopes were squelched because a long punt put the ball in safe territory on the 50-yard line. Things quieted down after this bit of excitement until Trombley fumbled a punt and Innis fumbled on the 40-yard mark. Then LaBlane of Ecorse took the ball 20 yards on an end run. With their backs to the wall, the boys in blue turned on the heat and on the next two plays set the invaders back both times. Trinka then intercepted a pass and Plymouth kicked to the Ecorse 42-yard line. The next time Plymouth got the ball, Egloff fumbled, but recovered it on the 15-yard line. After Ecorse had taken the ball and downs, things really began to happen. First Rudick intercepted a pass and ran to the 40-yard line. Then Trinka out-jumped two Ecorse men to take a pass but they downed him where he caught it. Two more completed passes by Ross and Martin brought the ball to the five-yard line and then Egloff, running through a large hole in the line, scored the tying touchdown. But Lady Luck had done all her smiling for the afternoon and Plymouth failed to make the extra point. Shortly after this the game ended with Ecorse on her own 10-yard line and the score 6-6.

The debate team has gone "socialite" on us. After having a full schedule all week, part of the squad tripped off again to Detroit October 29 with Mr. Latture. This time the occasion was a debate contest between the men and women of Wayne University in the Wayne auditorium. About 300 high school debaters and their coaches attended the interesting battle of the sexes. It was merely an exhibition contest on the electric utility question and no decision was given. A forum discussion was held at which Dr. William Halstead of the University of Michigan presided.

DEBATERS HEAR WAYNE SPEAKERS

The Plymouth representatives—Edith Mettetal, Jeannette Brown, Jewel Starkweather, Tom Brock, and Mr. Latture—ate together and then went to the Detroit Public library where Mr. Latture is taking an extension course. Our society aspirations came home to roost late in the evening tired and happy over their latest venture in social work.

"DIGGER DIRT"

In answer to our worthy competitor's statement we must say that the title "School Daze" is just a trifle too much like an insult. Although the school is in a daze, especially after receiving their report cards, they very much regret having this fact called to their attention.

And now the employees of the Digger Dirt Scandal company bring you choice bits of happenings in the dear old Plymouth high school.

Our competitor's column mentioned the fact that Orlan Egloff had purchased a new pair of football shoes. We wonder if these shoes are the cause of Orlan's good playing in the Ecorse game Friday or whether it was the encouragement that he might have received from some one. Maybe our erstwhile competitor knows the answer.

It took the combined efforts of several big strong males from the dear old high school to hold the Selle lass from running onto the field of battle during the game Friday. The reason was Old Jeremiah Krumm had been hurt. Maybe, if she had gone to him in his minute of need and he had firmly believed that she was thinking of him only, it would have helped him to stay in the game. But we wonder if she could keep her mind on him ONLY.

The Junior play furnishes us with choice bits of gossip! We have heard that Althea Shoemaker has suddenly become very bashful. This is hard to believe, but it must be true. A little robin told me so! It said that while practicing after school one night, recently, she forgot her lines while fondly embracing with Gerry Bordine. Now we all know that this Bordine boy is good-looking but others whom she might have embraced were also good looking. Can it be true that she is really becoming very bashful?

Flash! The two little lovebirds are together again as sweethearts in the Junior play. Who are they? Why Schmidt and McClain of course. Their "Lonesome Club" is really a very good idea. You might want to try it some time after you have seen how well it works out in the play.

We heard from reliable source that certain boys attempted to raid the "All Girls Party." Shame! Can't you let the girls have even one night to themselves?

Hall to the sophomores! They didn't know it, but they have had an American Nightingale right in their midst in the person of Joyce Shoemaker. How do you do it, Joyce?

In closing, we say to our most gracious competitor that her column is improving greatly. Maybe she has an inspiration too.

MRS. WITWER AIDS SCOUTS
Mrs. J. R. Witwer, the assistant captain of troop 1, has been planning a different type of evening meeting from the former ones. Every other week the older girls meet with her to learn such things as bridge, and other card games, table manners, correct introductions, how to conduct themselves in public, different types of dancing including tap, and ballet, and many other interesting games such as archery, rifle shooting, badminton, and fencing. Mrs. Witwer chose Betty Mastick, Rose Neldespal, and Mary Kathryn Moon to help her in planning these meetings.

G. R.'s HAVE PARTY WITH HI-Y BOYS

A fairly good representation of Senior Girl Reserves and HI-Y boys and Miss Fiegel, Miss Wells, and Mr. Dykhouse met in the school cafeteria following the game Friday, October 30 and consumed more food in the shortest time this reporter has ever known. Perhaps this was that the boys outnumbered the girls, for they certainly ate by far the bulk of that they doubly enjoyed it since the opposite sex furnished it, at any rate the supper was good, but short.

A hay ride following this pot-luck supper had been planned previously, but at the last minute the boys were notified that the man who was to furnish the group was left town. Mr. Kenyon came to the rescue by letting the group use the roller skating rink in the Methodist church. Those who did not skate were allowed to use the recreation room in the basement. After the skating most of them attended the Youth Federation Dance.

CENTRAL GRADE NOTES

Miss Landon's pupils enjoyed a Halloween costume party last Friday. The pupils in Miss Weatherhead's room also enjoyed a Halloween party last Friday. Freeman Hover is leaving this week for Arizona where he will spend the winter. Robert Schroeder has entered the second grade from Starkweather. Hazel Wells won last week's spell-down.

Mrs. Bird and Miss Maunula's pupils are learning about the sulphur butterfly. Last week the children wrote Halloween stories. Marilyn Omsniuk has transferred to a Detroit school. Leon Schroeder has been transferred from Starkweather school to Miss Sly's room. The pupils made Halloween booklets last week.

In 4B geography Miss Widmayer's pupils are now in Chicago visiting the stock yards and other places of interest. They traveled through the corn belt states on the way. The 4A pupils have left Italy and are now in Athens, Greece where they are finding the ancient ruins very interesting. Norma Lee is back in school after a long illness. In language the pupils learned two poems last week entitled "Halloween and Autumn Gold." Last Friday they presented a Halloween Program. As a class project in the 4B the students are making a large booklet of stories of girls and boys of the other lands. Robert Reinas is writing "Alice in Jungleland" for the booklet. Rosamond Busby is writing "Monsieur Busby" for the booklet. Alice Steel is writing about "Tomino, the French Boy," and Betty Ellsworth about "Ting Fang, the Chinese Boy." Beverly Files is making the cover and the others are making pictures to illustrate the booklet. Rosamond Busby's team is still in the lead in 4B spelling as is Richard Reamen's in the 4A group.

For reading Miss Carr's pupils made booklets of bird migrations. They have finished the study of the Pacific states and have had a test over it. The 5A pupils have made some very nice safety first posters. Irene Nieldespal and Lila Mumby's teams are leading in spelling in the 5B and 5A groups respectively.

In the amateur music contest held last week in Mr. Berridge's room Jennie Bousner won first place by singing "The Little Chinaman." Second place was won by Mildred Allen's rendition of "Is it True that They Say About Dixie?" The third place was a tie between Tommy Chaffee and a trio composed of Patricia Hudson, Ester Maynard, and Marleeta Martin. The pupils made Halloween posters last week-end, and many volunteered to memorize a Halloween poem.

Mrs. Holliday's pupils wrote Halloween stories last week. Mary Jane Schroeder has entered from Starkweather. Ione Stuart's team is ahead in spelling.

DEBATERS HAVE COACHES ON SPOT

After three years of hearing how debating should be done, the Plymouth high debaters heard how it could be done Tuesday, October 27. The occasion for the excitement Tuesday was a widely heralded coaches' debate at the Union Building, Michigan State college. Dorothy Hearn, Jewel Starkweather, Edith Mettetal, Florence Norton, Jeannette Brown, and Tom Brock accompanied Mr. Latture to his fate. The entire afternoon and evening were devoted to a meeting of high school debaters and their coaches. At 3 o'clock Michigan State college debated Wayne University on the question, "Resolved, that all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated." Nearly 400 students heard this non-judged contest. A forum discussion was held after the debate. College students conducted a tour of the beautiful campus for an hour before a banquet at which President Shaw, Dean of Women Dye, and several other faculty members spoke.

In the evening, the coaches of last year's semi-final teams participated in a debate also on this question of utilities. Mr. Latture of Plymouth and Mr. Carney Smith of Flint Northern upheld the negative and Mr. Clarence Peters of Kalamazoo Central upheld the affirmative with Mr. W. H. Bainter, formerly of Gladstone and now of Sterling. The contest was marked by frequent bursts of laughter from the audience at the subtle (?) wit of the contestants. Undoubtedly all the debaters carried home increased knowledge of the question after the day of debating, climaxed by the coaches debate.

CHINESE PLAY PRESENTED BY SENIOR DRAMA CLUB

Chinese plays are very unique in their presentation. Usually the scenery consists of tables and chairs; the properties are handed on the stage to the actors and actresses by a property man; gongs are used instead of curtains; a chorus explains the action. Such a play, "The Lost Princess" was presented by the Senior Drama club in assembly, Wednesday, October 28. The cast included Elizabeth Hegge, Weltha Selle, Pat McKinnon, James Marshall, Hal Horton, Dorothy Cates, Belva Barnes, James Stevens, Lois Schaufele, Mary Holdsworth, Mary Kathryn Moon, Don Hewitt, Bud Mathis, Celia Lewis, Mar Lou Wright, Marvin Wilson, Isabelle Luike, and Jacquelyn Schoof.

CLASS NOTES

"La Marseillaise," the national anthem of France, was learned by one of Miss Killham's French classes. These classes are very much interested in the spell-downs he is conducting. The English 11B classes, instructed by Miss Allen, are studying a group of poems by the American poets Bryant, Whittier, and Longfellow. A feature of the 11A classes is the discussion of a pamphlet entitled "The Driver," issued by the American Automobile Association. It is one of a series of six aimed at public education as to the use of the automobile. The twelfth grade English class is listening once a week to fifteen minutes of Prof. Denmore's broadcast of pronunciation.

Miss Waldorf's speech classes are studying speeches of introduction, presentation and acceptance.

Miss Bauch of the Home Economics department of Michigan State Normal visited the 7-B Clothing and 8A Food classes Wednesday.

THREE ROCK RUNNERS QUALIFY FOR STATE MEET

Plymouth has qualified three men to run in the State Cross Country Meet to be held at Ypsilanti on November 7. Arthur Willis, a freshman, who has been running at either first or second place all season, has moved to Royal Oak, and so he will be unable to run in a Plymouth uniform. The three that placed for the meet were little "Freck" Archer, John Patt, and George Tames.

Average length of life of the wren is 3 years; robin, 12 years; blackbird, 12; pigeon 20; quail, 15; sparrow, 40; goose, 50; parrot, 60; crow, swan and eagle, 100.

PONTIAC DEBATES ROCK SPEAKERS

A new school was added to the long list of teams Plymouth has met when Pontiac debated two home teams Wednesday, October 28. In Plymouth's initial contest with this squad, Edith Mettetal, Florence Norton, and Tom Brock composed the affirmative, while another veteran team—Jeannette Brown, Dorothy Hearn, and Jewel Starkweather—was the negative. The debate was a non-league contest and therefore was not judged. However, both teams exchanged ideas and proof which may help them on future decision tilts. Mr. Latture, Rock coach, is depending on these practice debates to help him in choosing a team for the first league debate which will be in the middle of November.

STARKWEATHER NOTES

Miss Sparling's students have organized two spelling teams of which Clair McGarry and Dorothy Marie Fisher are captains. Dorothy Marie's team won the first spell-down held earlier in the week. Mary Jane Schroeder has been transferred to the Central school.

Miss Stader's second graders enjoyed an autumn hike to the Riverside Park entrance. As they had just finished the study of the poem "Come Little Leaves" they were able to enjoy the dancing and whirling of the leaves more fully. Last Monday was an exceptional day—everyone was present and no one was tardy! Last Tuesday all but one of the 2B pupils received an "A" in spelling. Friday afternoon was the scene of a merry Halloween party. Everyone was dressed in costume and enjoyed refreshments.

Miss Parmalee's 3B students celebrated Halloween with a costume and refreshment party Friday afternoon. Appropriate posters, poetry, and songs were learned for this occasion.

Miss Bock's pupils have finished their flower booklets and travel posters. They are now making posters about Venice, George Newton of Detroit has joined forces with the 4A class. Donald Schroeder has been transferred to Central school. The health classes have made models of various foods and are planning balanced meals. They enjoyed a Halloween party Friday.

Miss Rathbun's art class made masks for their Halloween party Friday. They also made Halloween spelling booklets in which they intend to keep their best spelling papers. The class as a whole is collecting pictures concerning China and Japan for a class scrapbook. Donald Rock has been absent for several weeks because of illness.

Miss Farnal's 5B pupils made their first hygiene posters and are also making maps of the Pacific states. They are drawing scenes and people of the United States, starting at the Atlantic coast and going westward to the Pacific. Some of the more ambitious students are drawing and painting maps of the United States. James Martin visited school Tuesday. Donald Room's spelling team and Dorothy Fisher's arithmetic team are leading in these two contests. The geography class enjoyed lantern slides of the Pacific states. Friday afternoon, everyone had a good time at their Halloween party.

G. R.'s HOSTS AT ALL GIRLS PARTY

Little girls, pirates, Chinamen, tramps, mountain boys, old fashioned girls, and even an Empire State building, bumped elbows at the All Girls party, held in the high school gymnasium, Wednesday evening, October 28. No decorations were needed for this annual party, because the girls themselves, were the decorations. Prizes were awarded to Doris Buzzard for the prettiest costume, Dorothy Hammond, who was the Empire State building, for the cleverest, and to Phyllis Stewart, Alice Gottschalk and Jean Dunham, who were the Three Stooges, won the prize as the funniest.

Prizes were also given for the best stunts presented by the classes. First prize went to the Juniors, who presented the Seven Stages of Love, using well known couples around school to illustrate it. The judges were Mrs. Gottschalk, Miss Cary, and Miss Lickly.

SCRAPS

Timid David Hale has been telling some pretty tall ones lately. Good thing we have Pete Moore along as truthifier (if I may coin a phrase.) If it weren't for Pete, we would be believing Dave climbed Mt. Everest this summer. We like Pete (even though he is a Democrat). Incidentally Dave is going to be a great actor—some day. After we had amusedly heard his decision, we found him up in the library pouring his tale of woe to Jenny Swartz. He was too bashful to approach Marion.

We admire Mr. Latture for his perseverance and patience. We think he's got a sense of humor too, especially when he can laugh over this! And now, to sum up the hour's discussion, who is president when both the President and Vice President die? "Secretary of State." "Very good. Any questions?" "Yes, what state does he come from?" "They had to tell Pat Cassidy in double quartet that the word was 'Amen' not 'Yeamen.' Will you ever forget the time when Pete Moore told Miss Wells that A equals B because it was just horse sense?"

Good by, Democrat across the way. Don't forget your "red" handkerchief—Communist. Big Doris is once more little Doris, playing the little sister role in the Junior play. She's Patsy, you know. Also (this comes from reliable source) little Doris has a boy friend! (Her first one and she's all a twitter.) I haven't got his name yet, but she calls him "Ebbey dear."

Lights In Yards Keep Thieves Out

Desire for better lighting in the farm home and other farm buildings is the principal motive which actuates farmers to secure electric service. This better lighting however is too often confined to the interior of the buildings only. On many of the so-called electrified farms the kerosene lantern still serves as the only source of light in the yard.

Yard lighting is desirable on every farm, says D. G. Ebinger, agricultural engineering department at Michigan State college. Light makes it possible to do the farm chores after dark with ease, in less time and with greater safety to the worker. It sometimes becomes necessary to guard against thieves and other night prowlers. Properly located yard light helps serve this purpose. The cost of these lights is often paid back several times by a noticeable decrease in theft. Wherever they are installed they should flood the barnyard with light.

"The proper number and location of yard lights will depend largely on the farm layout," Ebinger suggests. "They should be placed as high as is practical and may be mounted either on a pole or on the side of the house or barn and should be fitted with a shallow dome or angle type reflector to obtain the most satisfactory illumination. Lamps of 150 to 200 watts are recommended. The yard lights should be controlled by three point or four point switches. One of these switches may be located at the rear door of the house and the others at the garage, barn, poultry house or wherever needed.

"Some farmers are now using, and others are contemplating the installation of burglar alarm systems. It is possible and practical to have the circuits so arranged that when the alarm is given by the opening of protected doors or windows, the yards at the same time will be automatically flooded with light."

Inquiries regarding the installation of yard lights either separately or in combination with a burglar alarm system, should be sent to the Agricultural Engineering Department, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

Stark Women Discuss Clothes And New Fall Fashions

Seventeen members of the Stark clothing project of the Michigan State college home economics extension service in Wayne county met at the home of Mrs. D. Olson, Wednesday, October 28.

Mrs. Emma Du Bord, home demonstration agent of Wayne county, outlined the topics for the year, and presented the first lesson of the year on fall fashions and fashion trends, which proved to be very interesting.

Patterns for hats and collars were also presented at the meeting, which all the members gratefully accepted.

Father of Mrs. Hoover Expires

Fate has struck hard during recent months at the heartstrings of Mrs. Marjorie Hoover of this city. News came to her home last week of the sudden passing of her father, Keith Otto of Grand Lodge. He had apparently been in good health, but became ill during the night and died early the following morning. His death marks the passing of Mrs. Hoover's husband, mother and father, all within a few months.

Mrs. Hoover and her children left for her old home in Grand Lodge to attend the funeral services and remain for a time with other surviving relatives.

Mr. Otto was 86 years of age and for years previous to moving into Grand Lodge had been a well known farmer near that community. He was prominent in Odd Fellow circles and well known throughout Eaton county where he had spent most of his life. Mrs. Hoover, another sister and three brothers survive.
