DOWN ALONG MAIN STREET!

For some reason the city government of Plymouth has never deemed it advisable to give the control of Main street over to the county road commission. As a result of this situation, the maintenance of Main street falls entirely under the control of the city of Plymouth. This brief editorial paragraph is not intended to be a criticism or to be critical, but we do want to point out the fact that a goodly portion of the paving of Main street is in about the poorest condition of any street in the city. This is not due to the way the paving was laid. It is due to the fact that where the paving has been torn up in past years for the laying of street car tracks, the placing of sewer and water lines and for other sorts of improvements, the paving repairs have absolutely gone to pieces. While other cities throughout the state have had miles and miles of street car tracks removed, our street car tracks remain just where they did when the street cars stopped operating some dozen of years ago. Probably in no other city or town in the state of Michigan can there be found such a deplorable piece of paving condition as exists on Main street between Penningman avenue and Fralick avenue. And the worst of it is, that this frightful section of paving that has gone to pieces has existed in its present condition, constantly getting worse, over a period of many years and nothing has ever been done to remedy the situation. The time has arrived for some consideration to be given to this paving situation. In view of the fact that the county has no control over the street, we can expect no county funds to help pay for the improvement. If the street had been turned over to the county, the street car tracks would have been out long ago and the deplorable situation as it prevails today would never have existed. But this not having been done on a street that is the continuation of a trunk line road, it will be up to the city of Plymouth to fix it. So let's do it, especially in view of the fact that we now have state money with which to do the work.

OUR HOUSING PROBLEM.

The time has arrived for the citizens of Plymouth to give some serious thought to the housing problem in this city. For nearly two years the situation has been growing exceedingly serious, and notwithstanding the fact that several times during these last twenty-four months The Plymouth Mail has called attention to the house shortage of the community, there has so far been no organized steps taken to relieve the situation. It is true that the secretary of The Chamber of Commerce has on several occasions made an effort to enlist the aid of outsiders in a house building campaign in this city. Some local citizens have given the matter consideration, but to date nothing has come from these various efforts. On one day last week there were 38 inquiries made at the office of The Plymouth Mail pertaining to houses or apartments for rent. Can't we do something about it? There are hundreds of good vacant lots scattered throughout the city in good locations, where all city improvements are to be found. Cannot we induce the construction of new homes on these lots? We should not make the mistake of trying to build too expensive a class of homes, but homes that are sold for $4500 to $7500 should be erected. The Plymouth Mail stands ready and willing to do all within its power to

Senior Class To Present Play Next Week

Production of "Little Women" To Be Offered On March 18 and 19

Next Thursday and Friday, March 18 and 19, mark the dates of the senior play, to be held in the high school auditorium, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. This year the seniors are presenting a play taken from a book which thousands of children, as well as adults, have read and loved for many years—Louisa Mae Alcott's "Little Women." The play follows the original story as closely as possible, recalling many of the favorite scenes.

Come and see the four March sisters celebrate Christmas by presenting a play of their own making; come and live over again the tender scenes between Jo and Beth and Jo and Laurie. Laugh again at Laurie's antics, Amy's attempted sophistication, and Aunt March's crossness. Renew your acquaintances with all the old beloved characters as they come to life on the stage.

The cast of characters, numbering seventeen, has been practicing continually for eight weeks, under the able direction of Miss Winnifred Ford. Barbara Hubbard and Patricia Cassidy play the part of Jo, while Beth is portrayed by Norma Jean Roe and Madolyn Weller. Elizabeth Heege and Weltha Elizabeth share honors in the role of Meg, and Barbara Nutting and Ellen Mulry double as the fourth sister, Amy. The rest of the cast consists of George Kenyon, as both Mr. March and Professor Bhaer; Irene Cieslak and Mary Holdsworth as Mrs. March, or Marmee; Ireta McLeod, Aunt March; Hal Horton, Laurie; Winnifred Smith and Jessica Goebel, Hannah; and Henry Worden and Marvin Wilson, who each play the two parts of John Brooks and Mr. Laurence.

Entertainment between acts will be given by the high school orchestra, directed by Miss Gallimore; the senior girls' trio, consisting of Edith Mettetal, Florence Norton, and Jeannette Brown; and a group of fifth, sixth, and seventh grade boys.

Pythian Lodge Now Most Active

These are busy days for members of the Plymouth Knights of Pythias lodge, several interesting meetings having been held during recent weeks and several more good meetings are in prospect. On March 3, the Ann Arbor lodge members came to Plymouth and conferred the rank of Knight on several candidates. On Thursday night, March 18, the Ypsilanti lodge will come to Plymouth and exemplify the Lesson of Friendship degree on a class of candidates. Then on March 23 a class of 22 will receive the Knight rank at a big meeting to be held at Manchester, with the Ann Arbor team conducting the work. There will be a dinner previous to the meeting at 6:30 o'clock and all Pythians in this district are urged to attend.

Warns Against Dumping Paper

City officials have issued a warning against people dumping paper and other inflammable material on the new city dump on the Beck road just south of Penningman avenue. During the past few days there has been considerable paper and other refuse of this kind dumped at the place. Some of it blows over the countryside and threatens to become a real fire hazard. Unless the practice of dumping paper refuse is stopped at once, the city will have no dump to use.

J. Merle Bennett To Talk To P.T.A. Members

J. M. Bennett, Wayne county forester and park superintendent, will speak and show pictures of the parks and roadside developments at Starkweather Parent Teachers association meeting, 7:30 Monday evening, March 15. Mr. Bennett is recognized as an outstanding authority in his field in this country and his work in this vicinity is known to all. His talk should be of special interest to property owners. The dancing ball at Northville will furnish a program of tap dancing.

More Business Makes Expansion

"He's going right to town"—that's what one has a perfect right to think as he walks into the busy courteous Penningman market conducted by Ben Dinkgrave and his able assistant, "Bill" Gayde.

Workmen, during the past few days, have just completed a surplus stock room for the store and by the end of another few days there will be hundreds of feet of new shelving for the additional display of goods in the front of the store.

"We just had to do something to take care of our big stock we find necessary to carry these days. You see over here we even had to put in a new cheese counter. Our next step will be to enlarge our fresh vegetable and fresh fruit department," declared Mr. Dinkgrave as he busily supervised the placing of a new shipment of goods that had just reached the store.

Ben Dinkgrave is another one of those progressive merchants who hasn't missed having an advertisement in The Plymouth Mail a single issue since he opened his store.

Natural Gas May Be Used In This District

Consumers Power Co. Says Its Use Has Long Been Considered

While Plymouth's city commission has voted $80 to study the question of whether this city should favor the use of natural gas from the Texas gas fields, if the Consumers Power company should decide to use Texas gas, it has become known that the Consumers Power company has for more than three years been taking preliminary steps to use natural gas rather than manufactured gas in this locality.

These facts were revealed in a statement issued by B. G. Campbell of Pontiac, division manager of the Consumers Power company, in answer to an inquiry by W. P. Edmondson of Pontiac, representing the Michigan Division of the Cities Alliance, a group organized to bring about the use of natural gas in this district.

In view of the fact that all Texas natural gas is owned and sold by big gas corporations and the fact that the gas is piped to this part of the country through privately owned and maintained gas pipe lines, there has been no information revealed to date as to just what, if any, connection there might be between the Texas natural gas owners, the pipe line owners and the so-called Cities Alliance. Its representatives state that their only interest is in securing lower gas rates for consumers, and that there is no source of income to them through the promotion of the sale and use of Texas natural gas in Michigan. The same denial is made of any connection with any pipe line corporations.

Plymouth is one of the 33 cities and towns served by the Consumers Power company, which have been asked to join the Cities Alliance, the purpose of which is to secure natural gas for the people of the area and so bring about a reduction in rates.

Following are the questions submitted to Mr. Campbell and his answers.

Question 1. Is Consumers Power company opposed to reducing gas rates in the Pontiac district (which includes Plymouth, Northville and Wayne) through the distribution of straight natural gas?

Answer: No.

A statement of the policy of Consumers Power company since 1930 will better amplify the answer to this question. In July of 1930 when only two gas wells in the Broomfield area of Isabella county, a geologist was employed by Consumers Power company to make a complete survey and study of the field. By the close of 1930, when this report was completed, five additional wells had been completed making a total of seven wells at this time. An option was then entered into by the Consumers Power company and the Isabella Oil Development company for the purchase of gas from this field. In 1931 an eight inch line was built from the field to Midland and during the summer of 1932 gas was used under a boiler as a fuel for a period of four months, for the purpose of testing the field. At the completion

Why Worry About State Business These Days?

Especially If The Sun Is Shining Brightly Somewhere?

(By Elton R. Easton)

LANSING—The writer of this column was exceedingly familiar with state business and affairs twelve and fifteen years ago. For two or three years he served as a Lansing newspaper correspondent for a Detroit newspaper. Then for nearly four years it was a privilege to serve as executive secretary to the Governor.

To go back to Lansing as a member of the state legislature after an absence of some twelve years or more from the seat of government and observe the difference in the way affairs of state were conducted then and now reveals a most amazing change.

The governor's office was then the busiest place in the state of Michigan, yes, it was one of the busiest offices in the entire country.

The governor would reach his office each Monday, never later than early afternoon. From that time until midnight, one o'clock two o'clock and sometimes even three o'clock in the morning, there were conferences with state department heads. Members of various state boards and commissions, members of the legislature, state auditors, officials and others summoned to confer with the governor, discussed state affairs and state problems.

Day after day and night after night, these conferences continued, all during legislative sessions.

If there was a bill before the legislature pertaining to one of the departments or one of the institutions, the legislative committee members, the heads of that department or institution, and members of the ways and means committee of the legislature that controls the legislative appropriations, would meet with the governor. They would discuss the needs of the department or institution. They would know just every problem and when that bill

New Car Damaged By Big Trailer

When a big truck-trailer swung around the corner from Main street onto Penningman avenue Saturday night, the end of the trailer cut across the corner of the sidewalk and a new automobile belonging to David Bolton, which was parked west of the corner, was damaged to some extent. The trailer was so long that the driver could not successfully make the turn. It belonged to the Hollywood Trucking company of Detroit.

Schrader Is Repairing Block

Fred D. Schrader has given the contract to Paul B. Wood for repairing his block on Penningman avenue that was badly damaged by fire two weeks ago. The entire interior of the store on the first floor will have to be rebuilt and a new front put in. The work will probably require two or three weeks to finish.

Motion Pictures Of Fire Shown

Members of the Plymouth Rotary club last Friday noon had the opportunity of seeing some remarkably good motion pictures of the fire that destroyed the D & C store. The pictures were taken by Dr. Paul Butz, who has become an expert in taking motion pictures. Plymouth has a number of amateur motion picture operators and the fact is increasing rapidly. Those who witnessed the fire were taken by Dr. Butz declared they were some of the best they had ever seen taken on a small machine.

Rocks To Play Adrian Tonight

The Plymouth basketball team, second ringers in the T. V. A. A. race, will encounter the equally proficient five representing Adrian Friday, March 12 on the Ypsilanti floor at 8:30 in one of the most crucial games thus far on the Rock list. By recently crushing Howell with a 33-8 decision the Home Towners became the district champions, the reward being a splendid silver trophy on which the names of the players will be engraved, and eligibility for the regional meets. If the Blue and White come through this crisis they will meet the winner of the Ypsilanti-Redford Union tiff (both teams incidentally have been previously beaten by the Plymouth five) to decide the regional champions for which a gold trophy, similar to the one now on display in the school, will be given. The support on the last game by the town was lacking and Coach Matheson hopes for a much larger turnout to see the district champions in action. Tickets for this Friday game are 25 cents for students and 35 cents for adults and the

Wolf Store To Open At 8 In The Morning

Effective immediately, the Wolf store and market on Penningman avenue, will open at 8 o'clock each day except Saturdays. The store formerly opened at 7:30 in the mornings. HATE MARCHES ON.

David Lawrence, editor of The United States News, regarded as one of the best posted writers on American public affairs of today, in one of the last issues of his paper wrote an editorial entitled "The March of The Devils".

Of such an outstanding nature is the editorial that The Plymouth Mail is presenting it in full so that the readers of this newspaper can have the benefit of Mr. Lawrence's views:

If those of us who disagree with the President on his proposal to enlarge the Supreme Court are to bring to bear in the crisis that faces the nation today the pressure of a persuasive opinion, we must be ready to examine objectively the circumstances that prompted Mr. Roosevelt to proceed as he did and to endeavor to point out to him that the very cause of liberalism which he so ardently espouses faces an even greater threat because of his mistaken methods.

Mr. Roosevelt wants social and economic reform because he feels government is in a peculiar sense today responsible for the welfare of the average man, to the point of individual aid and sustenance. His theory is that the Supreme Court by its conservative decisions stands in the way, that amendments to the Constitution take too much time, and that because the end justifies the means, an act of Congress which seeks to force, even by sheer humiliation the retirement of justices, is a more direct solution.

The President smiles at suggestions that he wishes to acquire unprecedented power. He ridicules the intimations from his critics that he wants to make himself a dictator.

And anybody who thinks that Franklin Delano Roosevelt has embarked on his present course because he consciously looks toward dictatorship or because he deliberately wants to break down the American system has as much misconceived Mr. Roosevelt's intent as the President himself has misread the temper of the American people.

One must start with the assumption that the President sincerely believes he is doing for the people that which in the long run is for their maximum advantage. Any other premise is misleading and illogical. Mr. Roosevelt is entitled to the benefit of any doubt which may arise as to the significance of his latest proposal to enlarge the Supreme Court. He may be a bad tactician but he is by no means, therefore, a bad American.

The tragedy of what is happening is that Mr. Roosevelt has become too much enveloped in the atmosphere of partisan passion. He has lived these last four years in the midst of so much class conflict that neither he nor his advisers really can see what havoc they themselves have wrought.

Consider then the march of the "devils". The term "devil" is used in the sense that Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, used it in his book, "The New Frontiers", published in 1934, in which he said that "one of the greatest handicaps to a smoothly functioning, intelligent democracy, is the belief in personal devils." He referred to the railroad devil, the Wall Street devil, the money trust devil and the array of devils from middleman to speculator. Wrote Mr. Wallace:

"When we treat the money power as a devil and try to put him in jail and torture him, we all too often hurt ourselves tenfold. The evils in our faulty money system have caused us great harm. But in order to get rid of the evils we must go on to a definite careful measured understanding of our problem. It will not do us a particle of good to assume that the bankers and speculators are trying to suck our life blood and that therefore we should destroy them and their works."

In this direction lies either futility or revolution which will destroy many, but which will eventually build up another system with probably even greater abuses."

But we have witnessed in the last few years a parade of "devils" with a sequence of events that may involve the gravest consequences for the American system. It may, as Mr. Wallace prophesies, bring a dreaded civil war in America as it has in other countries of the world. For the clash is too fundamental to be brushed aside as alien. What has happened abroad can happen here for the simple reason that some of it is already happening here!

Back in 1932 and 1933, the American people were taught to believe that a few bad men in the banks and investment houses brought on a panic which caused the loss of billions of dollars and ruined the lives of millions of individuals.

The Senate investigating committees by the deft handling of testimony marshalled the forces of hate and pointed to scapegoats in the financial world. Not a word of blame for the millions of individuals who speculated, who sought something for nothing. Not a word of blame for the public officers, Democrats and Republicans, in the state governments who, though possessed of ample constitutional power, never moved an inch to break down the fraudulent sale of securities and the misuse of trust funds before their very eyes.

Instead the men who managed our banking institutions were held up as a class to the worst abuse ever heaped on a group of men in America. Today the masses in America distrust all bankers, commercial and investment. It takes only a reading of Mr. Roosevelt's own inaugural address of March 4, 1933, to find therein a bitter theme on the "money changers"—the First Devil used to arouse the passions of American citizens. . . . And Hate marches on!

Came the Second Devil—the business men of America. They were derided as "economic royalists", as the forces of "entrenched greed", as the diabolical genii of a world in which nobody before had ever uttered an honest word or done an unselfish thing except the persons elevated to public office under the New Deal. To the masses big business, in fact all business, became the anathema of their newspaper days and their radio nights.

No less a person than the President of the United States stirred the masses on this issue, mistakenly to be sure, in the belief that this was the way to reform or to greater political power and mastery and that by destroying business prestige and business influence a spirit of cooperation would be infused into business men, awakening in them a new sense of justice when in truth they felt themselves the unhappy victims of tragic injustice. . . . And Hate marches on!

Came the Third Devil, the Congress of the United States. If a member of the House or Senate dared to express his convictions, he was a tool of the interests, a hireling of ill-gotten wealth, a companion of lobbyists, and his patronage and his WPA projects were taken from him, again in the mistaken belief that this was a legitimate form of discipline in a legitimate game of politics.

The impression was thus created that Congress was really a "rubber stamp" with no independent mind of its own and subservient only to the will of the Executive. Faith in Congress as an institution has been for a decade or more breaking down. It needed only the whip of New Deal concentration of funds in the hands of the Chief Executive to make many millions of persons feel ready to do away with Congress altogether so that power and authority might be left to one man—the President. . . . And Hate marches on!

Came the Fourth Devil. The Supreme Court stood in the way of the merger of the executive and legislative branches of the government into one control, sought to declare the supreme law of the land as John Marshall had proclaimed it, as a long line of distinguished jurists, trained in the fairness of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence, had understood it. But, no, the fires of hate and passion were turned on the nine justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

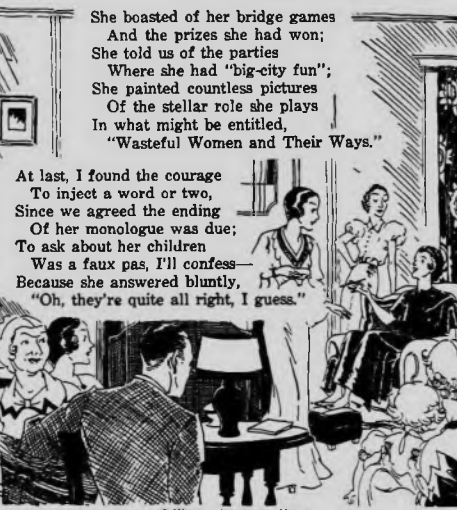

First came the President's comments in the press about the "horse and buggy" age. Then the Court was subsequently accused by a Cabinet officer of "legalizing a steal" when it ordered the processing taxes returned.

Attacks on the Supreme Court have been repeatedly inspired by Administration spokesmen in public addresses. Finally, not content to uphold the justices for their written opinions, scurrilous attacks

A Guest from the Big City

by LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

We listened all the evening While she bragged about such things As motor cars and money And fur coats and diamond rings. She talked of gowns and affairs, And she raved about her home— She listed all its contents, From the basement to the dome!

She boasted of her bridge games And the prizes she had won; She told us of the parties Where she had "big-city fun"; She painted countless pictures Of the stellar role she plays In what might be entitled, "Wasteful Women and Their Ways."

At last, I found the courage To inject a word or two, Since we agreed the ending Of her monologue was due; To ask about her children Was a faux pas, I'll confess— Because she answered bluntly, "Oh, they're quite all right, I guess."

on the personal life of the individual justices were permitted to be circulated with full advertisement by henchmen of the Administration itself. . . . And Hate marches on!

Though admitting the matter was somewhat indelicate, Mr. Roosevelt himself gave the country to understand in a formal message to both houses of Congress, that the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States had reached such an advanced age as to be mentally infirm or, in effect, incapacitated.

But it was not so much the individual justices who were undermined. It was the institution—the Supreme Court of the United States—which was made the target of political hate and passion. Thus have the people little by little been led to believe that the Supreme Court was their enemy and not their friend.

What more patent than the President's dissatisfaction with the decisions of the judges? Had he plainly based his plea for the removal of the justices on the ground that they were not liberal or enlightened, he could not have presented a more direct assault on the independence of the judiciary or conveyed more significantly his belief in the theory that Supreme Court justices must bow to the political concepts of the Administration in office.

Mr. Roosevelt has chosen the wrong way. The "devils" he has one after the other paraded before the American people have put their fangs in American public opinion. There were 27,750,000 persons in the last election who, it is being suggested, wanted Mr. Roosevelt to have supreme powers. Of that number many received financial benefits and subsidies from the Administration. But there were millions of other citizens who voted for Mr. Roosevelt out of a conscientious belief and conviction that he would be more conservative in his second term than in his first, that all the things the Republicans charged could not possibly be true, and finally that it was unwise to change Presidents in the middle of the stream of economic recovery.

Supposing half the 27,750,000 were in the latter group just described. If so, it is upon them the responsibility rests today to speak out and say whether they want the judiciary to become subservient to the executive branch of the government.

Republicans as a party would do well to maintain silence. The Republican members of state legislatures who have pressed resolutions of opposition to the President's plan have not helped their cause.

The plain truth of the matter is that if the millions of intelligent Democrats who voted for Mr. Roosevelt do not see any threat to our constitutional system in the "packing" of the Supreme Court, the cause of American liberty in the future as in the past must be defended in other ways by the maximum sacrifices of which true lovers of liberty are always capable.

Hate has been marching on for several years until today every important institution throughout the world hangs in the balance. In America already Finance has been discredited. Business has been discredited. Congress has been discredited. The Supreme Court is being discredited. And what next?

Some day when the masses no longer are given bread, when the purchasing power of their wages diminishes because confidence in the dollar has been swept aside by government extravagance and unbalanced budgets, and when the President can no longer keep on handing out doles and subsidies without bankrupting the Treasury, the masses will turn on the Presidency and discredit it, too.

When that time comes, anarchy comes. The last "devil" in the parade will be the office of Chief Executive against which mob rule may bring to bear the fires of its hate and anger. . . . And Hate marches on with the last "devil"—Destruction—at its side.

It will not be Mr. Roosevelt aspiring to be dictator who will rule. No, dictators come out of the gutters of life. They come to lead the mob when all institutions of democracy have perished through the folly of those who believed they were truly reaching for effective reform.

If the Supreme Court goes, all other American institutions begin to crumble one by one. This is not the wreckage of a day or a month or a year. The sabotage continues over a generation as the cycle of discredited democracy brings fascism seemingly as the only alternative.

Every guardian of liberty—the church, the college, community leadership of all kinds—cannot sit by today and let Mr. Roosevelt make the awful error of believing he has merely met another political opposition that can be treated with the usual innuendoes in the press or with the customary weapons of ridicule.

The President should be petitioned to withdraw his proposal and recommend instead a constitutional amendment to limit the tenure of justices to 75 years of age. Failing an acceptance by him of this compromise, the American people should insist that the members of Congress defeat the President's plan to "pack" the Court.

May God grant that we shall turn back in America the march of the "devils"—the parade that means the destruction of religious freedom, political freedom, economic freedom and individual freedom.

The subject will be "Women as Cigarette Smokers? Is the Habit Growing?" There will be a discussion upon the question followed by current events. We all hope this cold March weather will yield to warmer by that time, so that there will be a good attendance.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

CREDIT WHERE AND WHEN DUE.

If Governor Murphy is sincere in his avowed intention to wipe out the $6,000,000-a-year slot machine racket in Michigan, and is successful, he will have accomplished something that preceding Governors have failed in. If and when he does it, we will take off our hats to Mr. Murphy.

If we seem a bit skeptical it is through no fault of Mr. Murphy's. But we have heard this line of talk before, coming both from Governors and Mr. Olander. In fact, slot machines have usually disappeared temporarily from some sections following such statements only to reappear in a few weeks or months.

There are a few honest sheriffs and prosecutors in Michigan with plain "guts" enough to refuse all bribes and keep them out of their counties. Gratiot is one such county.

Speaking of Mr. Olander—just what is the position of the state police in this wholesale racket running into the millions?—Gratiot County Herald.

POOR! WORK ON A FARM FOR $25 A MONTH?

A Clinton county man was driving on M-21 one day last week. He spied a hitch-hiker, a clean looking lad, and picked him up. "Where do you live, son?" he asked by way of starting a conversation. The lad said he lived in this county, his father was a farmer, and that he was engaged in working for the federal government—the NYA.

The man asked the boy if it were not possible for him to get a job on a farm and not depend upon the government emergency employment. "Sure," replied the young man, "but who wants to work on a farm for $20 or $25 a month when he can get a job working three days a week for $28 a month, $14 every two weeks?"

Here is a boy who is actually paid more cash per month than the average farmer would be willing to pay him—and he works three days a week. That leaves him four days to loaf around. The farmer would furnish him bed, three meals a day, but HE WOULD HAVE TO WORK. The federal government provides a congenial way out. He sneered at the suggestion that he be independent. If he ever had any pride, it is gone—and he is only a kid.

Consider along with this incident—which is multiplied thousands of times throughout the United States—the fact that farmers are coming into the Republican-News office every day inquiring for help. They spend their money trying to find help. We realize that we must get tiresome in this column continually harping on some phase of this subject.

Yet, we shall keep it up. Serious as may be the actual cost in dollars and cents to the taxpayers, that dwindles into insignificance when one considers the seed of irresponsibility that is being sown. It is not the boy alone in whom we are concerned—it is the dozens of his acquaintances and friends—again, multiplied by thousands—who are coming to accept this sort of thing placidly.

It is high time that various forms of work relief be put under the supervision of responsible local men who would separate the worthy and the aged from the able-bodied lazy.

This sort of thing will not be stopped until congress stops it.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

Order of services: Preaching service, Sunday at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, praise and prayer worship, 7:30 p.m. Friday, young peoples' fellowship, 7:30 p.m. Just before the betrayal of the Lord Jesus Christ. He spoke these words: "A new commandment I give unto you that ye love one another". John 13: 34; I Cor. 13: 13. During the last days of the Apostle John. He gathered together his disciples for a parting message. As he looked into their faces with all the tenderness of the parting moment, he said to them: "Little children, love one another". But they said, "Father, we have heard that message before. You have been telling us that from the beginning. Give us a new word." Again he said, "Little children, that which ye have heard from the beginning that speak I unto you, that ye love one another." "But," they replied, "you have been giving us that message ever since we have known you. Now that you are going away we want some parting word by which to remember you. Give us some new commandment tonight." Then for the last time he said, "Little children, dear little children, a new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another." He could give no other commandment; he had no other to give.

All of the commandments were wrapped up in that single bundle of love and obedience, that we love not ourselves, but love others, as Jesus our Lord has loved us. Behold the love of God! "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3: 16). We have love. But it flees away when ill treated or neglected. God is love; His love is unceasingly upon all, in divine regardlessness of their neglect of Him. God loves men because they need love. "Love suffereth long and is kind". I Cor. 13: 4. (A.E.B.)

Select Early Pioneer Name For New Plymouth Patriotic Group

Mrs. Chas. J. Horr, Jr. Organizes Children's D.A.R. Society

In selecting a name for the newly organized Plymouth branch of the Children of The American Revolution, Mrs. Charles W. Horr, Jr., the organizing president, delved deep into the earliest days of Plymouth to find a suitable name for this patriotic group. In fact, Mrs. Horr and her assistants turned the pages back so far in their search for an appropriate name that it was with some difficulty historical proof could be directly established for the name.

But through old maps, historical collections and The Plymouth

Mail, this was done to the satisfaction of high officials of the Daughters of The American Revolution.

So this city now has The Plymouth Corners Society Children of The American Revolution, thanks to the determined efforts of its organizers.

The organization meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Horr, Jr., 1676 Boston Boulevard, West in Detroit. The family recently moved from Plymouth to this address.

The meeting was called to order by the organizing president, Mrs. Charles W. Horr, Jr. Mrs. Donald P. Yerkes, the chaplain of Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, D. A. R. officiated as chaplain. Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, the regent of the Plymouth chapter, led in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

As organizing president, Mrs. Horr welcomed all present and presented the members of the newly-formed Plymouth Corners Society to the state director, Mrs. Robert L. Kerr, who installed Mrs. Horr and welcomed each child into C. A. R. Each child received a small flag from the hands of the state director as they came before her.

Mrs. Kerr gave a short talk about the purpose and aims of the Children of the American Revolution Society. She said that the Children of the American Revolution Society was the child of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution Societies and that very naturally the parents cared for, vouched for and took unflinching interest in its activities.

Betty Mastick, as junior president, presided at the short business meeting and then Mrs. Horr, briefly, outlined the plans and her hopes for Plymouth Corners Society. She announced the next meeting April 3, at the Detroit Historical Museum, Barium Tower, Detroit. Miss M. Agnes Burton will be presented in "My Trip Around the World".

Mrs. Horr introduced the guests present: Mrs. Robert L. Kerr, state director of C. A. R., Detroit; Mrs. W. E. Carlin, Detroit, state treasurer; Mrs. Eldon B. Flu, Royal Oak, state registrar; Mrs. George Moran, Marshall, state historian; Mrs. William F. Catlin, past-state director of C. A. R. and vice regent of Fort Ponchartrain chapter, D. A. R., Detroit; Mrs. Childs, senior-president of the Royal Oak society; Mrs. Harvey Maxwell, Detroit, senior-president of John Paul Jones society; Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, regent of Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, D. A. R., and member of the committee of D. A. R. for C. A. R.

The other members of the committee present were: Mrs. Donald P. Yerkes, Northville, Mrs. Earl S. Mastick, and Mrs. Walter Nichol of Plymouth; Mrs. John Litsenberger, Sarah Ann Cochrane, from Northville; Mrs. Belle H. Schaaf, of General Richardson chapter, D. A. R., Pontiac and Miss Wilcox from Marshall.

Messages from Mrs. James H. McDonald, national vice president general of Ypsilanti, Mrs. George D. Schermerhorn, state regent of Reading, Mrs. Frederick Lendrum, of Hudson, who was organizing regent of Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter in Plymouth and Northville, also from Mrs. C. A. Swann Sinclair, of Washington, D. C. brought greetings and cordial welcomes to the new society.

Mrs. Horr thanked the committee for their loyal support and especially Mrs. Dwight T. Randall, whose loyalty to Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter and her unflinching interest and support for all D. A. R. projects is much appreciated; Mrs. W. E. Carlin for providing the music for the national anthem; and to the John Paul Jones society for their generous act in loaning their beautiful flags for the organizing services.

In choosing a name for our proposed Society of the Children of the American Revolution, the committee strongly favor and much prefer the name, "Plymouth Corners Society". The society will be located in the city of Plymouth, Michigan.

The pioneers who settled here in the early 1820's, were industrious, God-fearing and strongly patriotic. Several of the early pioneers were patriots, who had seen service in the War of the Revolution.

The postoffice established in 1827 was known as Plymouth Corners postoffice, located on the busy corner where Main street and Penniman now cross. Quoting from a recent letter, dated November 5, 1936, from Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, regent of Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter: "The first postoffice was called Plymouth Corners and was established in 1827. A photostat of a map (in the possession of Sidney D. Strong, who was former city manager of the city of Plymouth), made by Douglas Houghton for a senate report of 1840 shows this section known as Plymouth Corners."

From The Plymouth Mail, published in Plymouth, Michigan, dated Friday, November 13, 1936; headline "New Settlers Came in 1837". "Early Days of Plymouth Corners Recalled by Old Article." (Editor's note: This is the sixth installment of the story of pioneer life in Plymouth told by one of the first settlers, A. B. Markham, at the annual meeting of the State Pioneer Society on February 6, 1877.)

In a letter from the editor of The Plymouth Mail, dated November 9, 1936: "You will find in the history, 'City of Detroit', by C. M. Burton, Vol. II, Page 1590, reference made to a postoffice at 'Plymouth Corners'." Quoting from "City of Detroit", Vol. II, Page 1590—by C. M. Burton: "A postoffice called Plymouth Corners was established here in the early '30's with Gideon P. Benton as postmaster. Gideon P. Benton died in 1835 and his estate was the first one probated in the state of Michigan."

The committee especially likes the name "Plymouth Corners Society".

(1) because of the local interest.

(2) because it is a name easily remembered and pronounced by even very young member.

One Slightly Hurt In Street Crash

Gerald Ford, who lives at 542 Starkweather, was slightly cut and bruised last Saturday noon when an automobile in which he was riding with Harold Leslie of 609 West Ann Arbor, turned over on Main street in front of Blunk Bros. store. Leslie was driving south on Main street and in attempting to avoid a rear-end collision with a machine driven by Carl Cowgill, he turned suddenly towards the middle of the street, hitting the rear bumper of the other car. The turn and the slight bump was sufficient to turn him over. A crowd quickly gathered and helped Leslie and Ford from the car. Ford was cut by broken glass from the window. His injuries were treated by Dr. Paul Butz. Leslie was able to drive his car from the street after it had been righted.

Society News

On Saturday evening William Bauman and family were given a very pleasant surprise at the home of Louis Sallow, on Newburg road, when 60 neighbors gathered there as a farewell to them. Mr. Bauman and family moved the latter part of the week to the house he recently purchased of James Gallimore, on Spring street. Progressive luncheon was the main diversion for the evening with refreshments being served later. The guests of honor were presented with a beautiful floor lamp from those present, a gift in remembrance of the high esteem Mr. Bauman and family are held in that neighborhood.

The Home Economics club of the high school held a meeting attended by 37 women and girls on the evening of March 1. Miss Kelly of the home economics department of Michigan State college at Lansing spoke on a topic entitled "Fashions". Preceding Miss Kelly's address was a short program in which the club girls participated. Ruth Drews rendered a piano solo; Adeline Plant, a vocal solo accompanied by Carol Campbell; Wanda Goodmen, a violin solo; Jessica Gobel, a vocal solo; and Carol Campbell a piano solo.

The Get-Together club was entertained in Beyer's hall in Plymouth by Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. Myron Taylor, Mrs. Howard Hunt and Frazer Smith. Progressive pedro was the entertainment for the evening. High honors went to Mrs. Charles Waterman and John Wahn, and second honors to Mrs. John Waterman and Myron Taylor. The next meeting will be in the same place, Thursday, March 18.

Mrs. Arthur McGory has had two lovely parties given her recently, one by Mrs. Edna Drews, of Northville, and Relva Schilling, of Plymouth, at the home of Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. Roscoe Cramb and Mrs. Harvey Rutherford at Mrs. McGory's home. Games were played throughout the evening at both affairs and Mrs. McGory was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Dainty refreshments were served on both occasions.

Mrs. James Stevens and Mrs. James Bentley will be hostesses to the members of the Friday evening bridge club, at the home of the former on North Harvey street, this evening. It's farther between filling stations in the Ford "60"

The 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was first developed for Europe, where fuel costs are high. Two years' usage there proved its unusual economy.

When the "60" came to this country this year, the Ford Motor Company made no mileage claims—waited for facts, written on American roads by American drivers.

Now Ford "60" owners are reporting averages of 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. That makes it the most economical Ford car ever built!

Best of all, the Ford "60" is just as big and roomy—just as handsome, sturdy and safe—as the famous 85-horsepower Ford V-8. And it sells at the lowest Ford price in years.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can drive with pride and profit—see the thrifty "60" soon!

Why Worry About

 went before the legislature for final enactment, it was a bill that had been given most careful consideration and one could be sure it applied directly to the exact needs of the department or institution it pertained to. There was no stalling on the part of the legislature. There was always work for it to do. Its committee members meeting nightly, often seeking the advice and assistance of the governor, kept the legislative calendar grinding as it should.

The governor serving the state at that time was known to have asked for a personal meeting in the committee room with one committee that had been reported as hostile to some legislative suggestions. When the meeting was over, every single misunderstanding had been cleared away and the work of its members went ahead without delay or confusion.

Natural Gas May Be Used Here

 tion of this test, the company was of the opinion that there was sufficient gas available to supply the cities of Saginaw and Bay City and their environs. Negotiations were started with these cities and contracts later signed, resulting in straight natural gas being supplied to Bay City on August 13, 1933 and to Saginaw on September 4, 1933.

It has always been our policy to cooperate with the producers and the various communities to the end that natural gas has been made available to the public as soon as a sufficient supply of natural gas has been proven to warrant the extension of natural gas mains to additional markets.

Question 2: Has the company made genuine efforts to obtain and place under contract an adequate, dependable natural gas supply for the Pontiac district?
 Answer: Yes.

In our opinion, which is based upon studies and estimates of geologists, sufficient Michigan gas has not been available to supply Pontiac and its environs. A survey and report of the Michigan Bureau of Mines and it concurs in this opinion. Conditions are also such that it seems that there is a rather remote possibility of an adequate supply of Michigan natural gas being discovered to serve this territory.

Knowing that the citizens of these communities are anxious to use natural gas, and perhaps unwilling to wait for Michigan gas, since 1935 we have repeatedly attempted to obtain gas for this territory from the Texas fields. Before Texas gas was brought in to Michigan, attempts were made to obtain gas from this line and we were advised that the entire capacity of the line was under contract. Later other groups became interested to bring gas from Texas into Michigan and we have cooperated with them and supplied information as to the possible demands and uses for gas, in order to make possible natural gas to communities now being served with manufactured gas. These negotiations are active at present.

Question 3: What are the Company's views with respect to distributing Michigan and or South-western natural gas in the Pontiac district?

Answer: The Michigan natural gas business is a local industry and we believe in the development of local business to the fullest extent. Our policy since the first discovery of natural gas in Michigan has been to cooperate in the development of local resources. Michigan gas is not available in sufficient quantities to serve all the cities in the state desirous of natural gas in place of manufactured gas, and if these communities are to be supplied gas would, of necessity, have to be obtained elsewhere. The company has assumed that Pontiac and the surrounding territory would be unwilling to wait for the development of the Michigan fields to determine if there would be a sufficient supply of gas for them.

Malted milk was invented in 1883. It is mainly a whole milk combination, with the liquid separated from a mash of ground barley and wheat flour. Heated to 125 degrees in vacuum pans, it is then dried, sifted and ground.

Only plums that will dry without fermenting are used in making prunes.

Plymouth Quintet Wins District Title

The Rock team scored an easy triumph over Howell Saturday, March 6 to win the district championship, the first won by the Plymouth teams since 1924.

Gordon Moe, the Rock's white-haired forward, led his teammates in scoring with a total of eight points. The most spectacular play of the game was enacted by Moe and Ross in which the latter made a beautiful backhand pass to Moe who easily made the goal.

The Rock quintet drew first blood as Martin swished one through to start the game moving. Both teams played cautiously, and because of this fact the score at the end of the first quarter was tied 6 all. This tie was very quickly broken by the Blue and White squad as Moe hooped two and Innis one. Martin, who succeeded in making his two charity tosses, pushed the total up to 14 points, giving the Rocks an eight point lead. The Howell group failing to make a single conversion.

After the limited rest the Plymouth quintet added to their lead with two goals by Trinka and also with a goal by Moe in which Ross's pass was very helpful. The latter member also succeeded in sinking three free shots. The lone point of the Howell five came in the form of a charity toss by Pasinski. With such a convenient lead the home towners could have afforded to coast a little but instead they applied more pressure and shot the score higher to a final 33. Prough, a newcomer on the Rock first team, sunk two field goals along with those of Sackett and Egloff. The Plymouth team seemed to miss their gift tosses quite regularly in this quarter but they made up for them in field goals. The Howell group made their final point to make the score 33-8 giving Plymouth a new trophy for their display.

GAB ABOUT GARB

Knitted outfits are awfully popular this year around Plymouth high school. Mary Jane Olsaver has several knitted suits that set off her red hair to the best advantage. Her sister's angora wool sweaters are as different and attractive as can be. Pat McKinnon's aqua knitted dress is the best looking thing we've seen in ages. The demure lines are very becoming to Pat. Carol Campbell has a very cleverly knitted green dress which is just the thing to play the piano for the girl's double quartet. The Hegge sisters have knitted sweaters of all styles and colors. The light blue sweater of Marion Shoebright's is very becoming with her blond hair. Something new in sweater vests is being worn by Jean Scooter. It is white with a grey red and green border around the neck while green laces run up the side. Lorraine Welch has a brown sweater that goes very nicely with her smart brown checked suit. Richard Wilkie carries a very antiquated mixture of a clock and a watch with him to all his classes. Anyway it keeps good time. Dorothy Cates had on a very "chic" dress at the Youth Federation dance Saturday night. Some of the boys school sweaters are even being hand knitted. Junior certainly must be hard on his elbows. Anyway the elbow pads worn on all the blue and white school sweaters are a good idea.

HI-Y AND GIRL RESERVES HOLD JOINT DISCUSSION

Both the senior and junior Girl Reserves gave themselves informal quizzes during their meetings last Thursday. The senior club held another joint meeting with the Hi-Y boys in which they continued their interesting discussion of questions on social usage. John Moore, president of the Hi-Y, took charge of the meeting. The junior girls rated themselves according to questions on character and personality, and then gave their papers to their neighbors to judge.

STARKWEATHER NOTES

In the spelling contest between the pupils in Miss Sparring's room, Clair McGarry's team is ahead, having won all downs. The winners on this team are Clair McGarry, Evelyn Phillips, Bernard Jarsky, Michael Svejcar, and Donald Room.

Miss Manulva's pupils made health posters to illustrate the things which they have learned from the book "Journey to Health Land." They learned the poem "Willow Cats." Mrs. Gray visited their room Wednesday.

Miss Stuke's 1B students are reading new primers. They are making furniture for the living room of a play house. In making this furniture, the small house-builders are bringing pennies to school to pay for the paint and cloth they will use.

The kindergarteners washed and ironed the dolls' clothes. The birds are eating out of the bird feeder which has been placed on the window-ledge. The B's were weighed and measured for the first time on Thursday, March 4.

Miss Rathburn's students have a colonial exhibit which displays quilts, rugs and samples. They have a portion of the furniture made and have completed their colonial scrapbooks. They are beginning the study of transportation and methods of carrying.

Martin Kreger and Kathleen Bloxom were the only students in Miss Stader's room to receive all A's on their report card. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday this room presented a perfect attendance record. The Mouse House contest, which was devised for the purpose of teaching good citizenship, has many nice safe inside the house. The students wrote a story about the kite which they made of paper cuttings, these are to be placed in booklets. Last Wednesday every one in 2B received an A in spelling.

Miss Farrand's handicraft class is making paper flowers to decorate the room. Mary Ann Teller and William Wood have won three spell downs each. The geography class has completed its study of the Middle Atlantic states. They made block designs of red printer's ink.

Miss Brock's 4A geography class is starting a Mediterranean cruise; the 5B class is studying the Mountain states.

Plymouth, one of sixteen schools remaining in the fight for the state debate championship, will debate Dundee high school's affirmative team at Dundee on Tuesday, March 16 at 7:30 o'clock. In the last round of the Plymouth debaters, Jewel Starkweather, Edith Mettetal, and Tom Brock, defeated Northville and Dundee eliminated Adrian high school. These two contestants will meet for the first time in the third elimination round. So far this year Dundee has won from Tecumseh, Milan, Petersburg, Blissfield, Deerfield, and Adrian. Plymouth, in league contests, has won from Flint Central, Detroit Visitation, Ypsilanti Central, Ann Arbor, East Detroit, and Northville. However, in including league and non-league tilts the Rock squad has won 20 and lost three debates.

Other debates in the third round are: Elsie negative at Bad Axe; Britton affirmative at Howell; Flint Northern at Cheboygan; Comstock negative at Marshall; Coopersville negative at Ionia; Detroit MacKenzie and the Upper Peninsula representative will not debate until the quarter-finals. In looking back at last year's third round, it is interesting to note that Plymouth, Flint Northern, and Britton are the only schools that reached the round of sixteen in both years. Last year the schools remaining at this time were Britton, Redford, Detroit St. Theresa, Ferris, East Lansing, Flint Northern, Gladstone, Kalamazoo Central, Mt. Morris, North Muskegon, Paw Paw, Plymouth, Vassar, Walden, and Wakefield.

The strong contenders already defeated this year are Flint Central, East Lansing, Muskegon, Pontiac, and the old rival of Plymouth—Kalamazoo Central. This year's contest has truly been one of upsets. Today only two Class A schools are still debating. All other teams are representing small towns and villages.

STUDENTS CONDUCT HISTORY CLASS

Miss Ford, teacher of modern history in Plymouth high school, allows the students to conduct their own class. In September she made the astounding announcement that throughout the year the majority of the class activities would be controlled by the students; she has practiced that theory. Soon Miss Ford made another statement, "Starting next week, I am going to let one student be a teacher. Who will volunteer?" Naturally, every one was bashful, but Jeannette Schwartz decided to have first try. After her attempt, students were more willing to try their teaching abilities. During this process, it was discovered that everyday games which are so much fun to play could make history interesting. A type of baseball which was adaptable to history class was developed; all types of questions and answer contests were developed; incidents were dramatized and pantomimed. A very interesting type of work was planned for the first marking period of the second semester. The class was divided into six committees, each of which had a colony which was a possession of Great Britain's to report on. Marion Lutermoser's committee, which reported on India, was voted as having the most interesting and original piece of work. The people who assisted her were Elizabeth Stevens, Donald Schmidt, and Herbert Campbell. An amusing radio broadcast was the method used in presenting the material. Betty Flaherty's group presented a radio broadcast on the country of Ireland and Marilyn Holton's committee pretended that they were a group of Australian high school students who were visiting schools in the United States and telling interesting details of their country Australia.

COLUMNATOR

Hi pals! Here I am again, thought that I had better get busy before Spring Fever sets in or you might not hear from me again.

A lot of wealth has been displayed around Alma Mater lately. Well, quite a lot anyway because almost anyone will match pennies with you, but getting down to brass tacks (I found one the other day, it was in a tire) Phares Patrick once refused a whole dollar bill for his signature. There's your chance, Gold Diggers, he must have a bank account with four or five digits in it to turn down offers like that. It's as bad as Dick Innis' tale of the man who went bankrupt because he couldn't sell five dollar bills for $2.98.

Walter Winchell has a habit of presenting people with orchids; I think Phares deserves something seeing he didn't get the dollar but I haven't any orchids so it will have to be a water lily. (I haven't one of those either, but then...)

Have you heard the scandal about how Howard Walbridge thinks Doris Buzzard is? Well, you certainly are missing something but I won't be the one to tell you. Here's something I will tell though: Miss Wells is preparing for a vacation in case that she ever leaves P. H. S. without a means for support. I'm sure you have seen the box of paper flowers on her desk and the odd pieces of crepe paper in her waste basket. She makes them in her spare time and each one is better than the last so when she has enough finished to donate them to the seniors for the stage setting of "Little Women" she will be quite expert at it and be able to make a living that way. Clever idea, don't you think?

Northville Falls To Plymouth Team

Miss Marian's kindergarteners are keeping a weather calendar and have decorated their room with bird house drawings and free hand drawings of pussy willows. They are going to make pussy willow posters and have made pictures of a child walking in the rain carrying an umbrella.

The Rainbow reading class of Miss DeWaele's room has read about the rainbow in its "Art Stories" book and drawn free hand illustrations of the rainbow using correct coloring. The kiddies have tulips as their window decoration.

Miss Landon's 1B students are working in art class on a project called "How We Ride". Their drawings depict travel by train, airplane, automobile, and boat.

In music Miss Prantz's pupils have learned a French song entitled "Freje Jacques". In spelling Sally Gustafson and Emil Tarvin won the contest last week.

Miss Weatherhead's third graders took a standard spelling test last week. The Bluebirds have started their "Peter and Polly Readers".

The poem, "March Wind, Why Are You Shouting?" is being learned by the children in Miss Benz and Mrs. Bird's room. Class two has finished the "Child Library Readers" and is now using the "Good Companion Reader".

Miss Carr's pupils are still diligently making linoleum book prints. The 5A hygiene students have finished the chapter on Safety First and made posters illustrating it. In geography they are now learning about the mountain states, having just concluded the study of the Pacific states. The 5A pupils are making book reports for outside work.

Mr. Berridge's pupils are studying the beginning of writing books. They have started to work for their penmanship pins, and about 14 of them are working for their finals. The 6B boys and girls are working on decimals in arithmetic and are studying Australia in geography. Those in the 6A are studying France.

The pupils in Miss Hornbeck's room are writing for their penmanship awards, also. The 5B students are studying the mountain states, and are very interested in the salt lakes, while those in 5A are studying the middle Atlantic states and Niagara Falls.

They have brought many pictures from home of the falls when they are frozen.

CLASS NOTES

Students in Miss Fiegel's American history classes have handed in bibliographies for their term papers, which may be written on any topic concerned with the history of our country. About 10 seniors have entered the essay contest being sponsored by the D. A. R. They have been assigned to write about the development of natural resources in Michigan and must finish their papers by April 30.

Miss Allen's 11B English students are now finishing Dicken's "Tale of Two Cities", and will take up the autobiography of Franklin as a new type of literature.

Loretta Hauk, Marilyn Martin, and Pollyanna Wright led the advanced typing students in words per minute. Loretta has 69 and Marilyn and Pollyanna are tied with 52 each. The three semester students are led by Ferdinand Bodner and Ruth Campbell with 40 and 39 words, respectively. The beginners class is led by Irene Granger with 40 words, while Laurabelle Wiledeen follows with 39.

Five people, Barbara Nutting treating the Spanish Civil War, Jessica Gobel attacking the evils of kidnapping, Betty Flaherty pointing out the inefficiency of the parole system, Richard Giles investigating the horrors of the dope problem, and Stanton Burton asking the people to be more careful drivers, in the fifth hour speech class are writing orations.

Commissioner Van Wagoner Has Record Of Real Accomplishment

His Record Is Far Superior To That Of Chief Executive

When Michigan Democrats go to the polls this spring they will have reason to be proud of the candidate they are offering to the voters for the state highway commissionership. Murray D. Van Wagoner, who has filled the position so acceptably during the past four years is by far the outstanding state official of Michigan.

MURRAY D. VAN WAGONER

While Democracy has no reason to be proud of the accomplishments of its governor, who has proven to be anything but what his advance "press agents" said he would be, not so with Commissioner Van Wagoner.

During the time that Mr. Van Wagoner has been in charge of the state highway development, he has given the job his strict attention and he has done much to make the state's highway system one of the best in the country.

Plymouth is probably more interested in Commissioner Van Wagoner than any of the other candidates because he comes from the neighboring county of Oakland and this part of Wayne county and Oakland county have much in common. Their interests are the same and because of this fact they have always gotten along nicely together. Then too, it has given Plymouth a closer acquaintanceship with Commissioner Van Wagoner than most other localities enjoy. He has frequently visited Plymouth and has many personal friends in and about this city.

The Democrats are fortunate in being able to offer one so outstanding as Commissioner Van Wagoner to the voters at the forthcoming election. His record goes a long way in making up the deficiencies of the governorship.

Club Votes On The Supreme Court Issue

As a part of its program last Friday, the Rotary club program committee took a straw vote as to the sentiments of the members pertaining to the supreme court issue before the country at the present time. Only three members of the club favored the recommendations that the court be enlarged. There were 32 votes against changing the present arrangement.

No Celebration On The Tonquish

Spring is going to officially arrive in Plymouth next week Saturday, March 20. According to the official spokesman of the family table down at the Mayflower hotel, Clair Maben, who is sporting a new robin's egg blue colored neck-tie, in keeping with the season, there is going to be nothing done about it this year.

Matthew Jeremiah Powell for a time in favor of holding some sort of a celebration down on the banks of Tonquish creek near where the Harvey street sewer joins up with the babbling blue waters (made blue by wash water bluing) but for fear some one might fall into the creek and be carried away with the rest of the sewage, Matthew thought better than to recommend such a celebration just at this time.

Then Harold Finlan, another outspoken advocate of Tonquish creek open air development, suggested one day that a spring bathing party might be arranged by the play committee, but it seems that there were half a dozen who poured cold water on the idea. An effort was made to find whether the cold water came from Tonquish creek, but no one could be found who knew the facts.

Mr. Finlan does think, however, that with the advent of spring next Saturday it would be a good time to hold a torch light parade up and down the banks of the stream so that the beauties of the babbling creek might be paraded to the multitude.

"You know if folks only knew what a beautiful sight it was at night time, we could pack them in by the thousands," he said.

But Abe Goldstein proved the kill-joy of this idea. It seems that with the advent of spring, Abe recalls the beautiful aroma that flows on the breezes through the back windows of his store each spring, summer and fall.

"Boys, you know I'm always willing to do my part, but this is just too much. I've got to ask that you leave me off the parade committee. I'm afraid if we have a parade it would stir things up too much down there. Let's let it run off just as peacefully as it may," pleaded Abe. That ended the parade idea.

Walter Harms had a thought that it might be well to plant some early spring daisies along the banks. But that idea didn't go over so good, so at a joint meeting of the play committee with the full joint board the last day of-joins were served, it was decided by each and every one that the best thing to do would be to permit Tonquish creek to babble along with its sewage and foul smells towards the Great Lakes, then over the Niagara Falls and down the St. Lawrence to the sea. No, there will be no spring day celebration along the Tonquish.

Creamed Carrots A La Orndorf

Eugene Orndorf, well known Pere Marquette locomotive engineer and Democracy's left hand in Michigan, came to the office of The Plymouth Mail a few days ago, to discuss some of the burning issues of the day.

Having disposed of the supreme court question, the Michigan governorship upon which there was considerable agreement, taxation, ship subsidy and the growth of Republicanism in the south on which there was no agreement, the champion fisherman of all mogul engineers thought it might be well for the fish editor of The Mail to start publishing some news about something worthwhile, for instance fishing. (Note—For the benefit of our readers the fish column will soon be conducted by some one else rather than the fish editor. Maybe it will be under another name or something like that, but there's going to be a change in it anyway, soon.)

Said Mr. Orndorf: "You know I can't see why more fishermen when they go fishing on long trips that require a few days in the woods, do not properly prepare themselves. I have reference, of course, to food. There is no necessity of taking anything along except all the carrots you can carry, and some canned milk. If you think you are not going to be near where you can find a cow, Carrots provide all the nourishment one needs."

"There is just one way to fix them. First you pare them. No, it is not essential that they be washed after being pared. Of course if there is some finicky fisherman along, it might be well to emerse the carrots under water for a second or two. Next you slice them, using for convenience the same knife you used to clean your fish with. Then you put the carrots in a big kettle, using half water and half milk. Of course if you have a lot of milk you can get from some cow, it's better to use all milk. Cover carrots. Make that clear—cover carrots with water and milk.

"Next you place carrots on a hot stove. Be sure and place cover over top of kettle, then stir as they boil. The more stirring, the better the creamed carrots. Cook until finished. The way to tell when they are finished is to try and bite one of the sliced carrots in two. If one can chew the carrot up with no difficulty so it resembles pulp wood just before it goes into a paper machine, then the carrots, can be called done and ready to serve.

"One should add a pinch of pepper and a handful of salt in the final boiling stages. Only good judgment on the part of the cook enables one to tell when to add salt and pepper. Now that's what I call a good meal for any good fisherman," declared Plymouth's fishing chef who rivals the famous George Rector when it comes to fixing up tidbits for hungry fishermen.

GUNPOWDER IN OLD JUAREZ

This story was written by Marjorie Wightman, a 10B English student after studying the story "Three to One" written by H. B. Bushby. It was told to her by a person who actually witnessed the scene. The action was witnessed by the narrator in the tower of the Union Station, El Paso, Texas. The distance between El Paso and Juarez is one quarter of a mile. The towns are divided by the Rio Grande river. Unlike most events in Mexico which start off with a bang, the battle of Juarez started off with a single rifle shot. At 9 o'clock, May 10, 1911, a Federal soldier entrenched in an irrigation ditch, shot a young "Insurrecto" who had wandered too far away from his comrades. That one rifle shot started a three day building-to-building fight which killed innumerable Rebels and Federals. One incident, which amused me most, happened on the first day of the battle. A young Rebel dandy in a pink shirt climbed along a stone barricade which shielded him from the Federals in the ditch. When he got to his objective, he opened fire on those poor Federals. Naturally they started to run and our pink-shirt hero "picked them off" like birds. I can still see the "Insurrectos" rounding the town hills and surrounding the town. They started a tense, desperate, bloody hand-to-hand fight which lasted three days. As soon as the Rebels captured the city, they burned the customs house and other main buildings. From there they pushed to the barracks and captured the last of General Trempo's Federals.

The battle lasted from Monday to Wednesday. On Thursday we got a military pass and went over to inspect the city. The awfulness and futility of it all hit me then with full force. The survivors piled bodies as high as houses, poured gasoline on them and set them on fire. The bodies lay in parks and streets and were three feet high by the sun. Buildings were torn apart and the whole town was in ruins. The Federal generals and their troops were fighting for Porto via Diaz who had long been dictator of Mexico. (He now lives in exile in Spain.)

Pancho Villa, Pascual Orozco, Red Lopez, and Garibaldi were all bandits who fought for Provisional President Madero. "Senor Madero was a man of education and high ideals. He tried to modernize Mexico, a task that cannot be accomplished in one generation because of the lack of education. Unfortunately, the strength nor fortitude to carry on such a task. He was an imaginative dreamer, not a grim realist.

SHINN AND DELY WIN SPELLING BEE

Friday, March 5, was an exciting day for the seventh and eighth grade junior high school students of Plymouth. The biggest event of the year took place—the Detroit News Spelling Bee. The zero hour approached. Some were nervous, some were confident and some just did not care whether they won or lost. Steve Dely battled his way to victory in the seventh grade, Annabell Becker, the runner-up, stumbled on "curiosity". Doris Shinn was the winner of the eighth grade bee. Ardith Rowland was the runner-up and was defeated on "deficiency".

In the Central school room Harold Schultz won the fifth grade bout on "Till". Thelma Stevens was the runner-up. Jean Crandall won the sixth grade championship by correctly spelling "intermittent". Her Iris Dene Hill missed it. Paula Hoenecke captured the fifth grade beat at Starkweather by defeating Carl Johansson on "selections". Claire McGarry was proclaimed winner in the sixth grade after defeating Shirrell Kilgore with the winning word "title".

DECLAMATIONS CUT TO FOUR FOR FINALS

The declamation semi-final on Wednesday, March 3, was such a closely-contested battle that a tie resulted, so that four instead of the intended three will speak in the finals March 17. Six contestants, three each from Miss Killham's and Miss Walkdorff's groups, spoke. Richard Willkie was the chairman, and the judges were Miss Lovewell, Mr. Latture, and Miss Tyler. This contest was held in the Ag. room.

Sheila Daoust after having given a good account of herself with "The Union Soldier", was followed by Shirley Sorenson. Miss Sorenson's theme was "A Call to Action" by Carrie Catt. Four more spoke after these two, so well that the judges were puzzled as to which was best. They finally decided upon Carol Campbell with "The Dozer"; Dorothy Roe with "Welding"; Wilson's "Speech at Gettysburg"; Bruce Towle with Webster's "Supposed Speech of John Adams". But upon reconsideration the judges decided that four would have to be allowed to remain. Thus Leo Schmitz with Cretcher's "Valley of Bones" is also a survivor.

These four will meet in an assembly March 17 wherein the school championship will be decided. To clean and remove stains from enamel, rub well with rough salt, moistened with vinegar.
