City Landmark Soon To Be Thing Of Past

Wreckers Find Old Hotel Long A Toppling Structure

(By JOHN McLAREN, Jr.)
A page from the not too distant past is easily uncovered if one is even slightly adventure conscious, and merely by guiding oneself through the now doomed old Plymouth hotel. Though built before the Civil War, the building principles are not radically changed even today. Safety features are completely missing from this old structure. The bricks with which the walls were built, were all hand made; a process long ago discarded in favor of the quicker and more efficient modern methods. And even though nearly 100 years old, the greater part of the bricks are still in good condition.

But, as in all else, time takes its toll, even in making it necessary to tear down one of the city's last landmarks. There was a time, not so many years ago, when the hotel would boast a fire at least two or three times a year, and many persons with apparently no sentiment for old buildings would gather round and cheer—for the fire to win. And today, Plymouth's old hotel is the hero of the townspeople; their sentiments are with it 100 percent. But that, too, will soon disappear, for modernness does something that even time can't arrest.

As one walks in and out of the rooms of the old hotel, over cracked and creaky boards, past sagging doors and windows, up the stairs that have for nearly a century been the stepping stones to success or failure, the thought of time avenging itself at the expense of the human race becomes more than a reality. It becomes nearly a super-thing. The walls of the building are in exceedingly dangerous conditions. The back wall of the hotel is pushed out at the bottom and is leaning in toward the top. It was because of this condition that its owner, Ralph Lorenz, decided to remove it and erect on the site, a modern, up-to-date structure. Many of the walls inside have been re-lathed over the original lath and plaster.

Paper nearly as old as the building itself are to be found clinging precariously to the original walls. Over this second thickness of lath and plaster has been put a thin coating of tin, leaving from three to four inches of good "fire encouragement". The plaster is, in almost every case, completely decayed and decomposed. One feature employed in the construction of this building is the 24-foot joists which were used. They are made entirely of wood as contrasted to the steel ones commonly used today.

Practically all the lath were in such good condition that the company which is tearing the building down has re-bundled them and will sell them. Of all the window frames left in the structure only one boasted of weather stripping, and that very

Two-Way Atlantic Flight Takes 45 Hours

Henry T. (Dick) Merrill, inset, and the Lockheed Electra plane in which the flyer and his co-pilot John S. (Jack) Lambie completed the first commercial round trip flight across the Atlantic and the fastest two-way journey ever completed over that ocean. The total flying time was 45 hours and 24 minutes from New York to London and return. The eastward passage took 21 hours and two minutes and the westward flight took 24 hours and 22 minutes. The flyers visited London for the coronation and brought back photographs and films of the coronation ceremonies. The flyers landed in New York 35 seconds less than five days after they took off from Floyd Bennett field on the eastward flight.

crude, and undoubtedly done by the occupant of the room. Evidence of many fires was found when the workmen tore the wall boards off a number of third story rooms. The main beams supporting the roof of the third floor were burned nearly in two. The last bit of material evidence of antiquity was an old-fashioned telephone. Remember the kind you had to crank? This one "modern" convenience probably belonged to one of the "steady" guests. Yet all he could possibly do with it was crank it and hear the bell ring, and probably annoy his neighbors because it was not connected. But there it was, a relic from the ages. It, too, would soon be displaced by a modern "phone with honest-to-goodness connections, installed in a modern building which will, for the present, win the age-old battle with time, and then—as now—a wrecking crew and the same story repeated.

Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Kelly of Aitken, Minnesota, who were in attendance at the one hundredth anniversary of the University of Michigan, entertained last Saturday morning at the Michigan League building in Ann Arbor in honor of Miss Ruth Meurin. Guests from Plymouth were Mrs. Ezra Rotnour, Miss Phyllis Rotnour and Mrs. Caroline Dayton. Dr. Kelly was a classmate of Dr. Nell Gates of Ann Arbor who is well known in Plymouth.

Kenneth Kleinschmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kleinschmidt was operated on for appendicitis. Tuesday at the Plymouth hospital.

City officials are finding it a real problem to know what to do with the city's refuse. They have had two or three dumps in recent months and in each case have been forced to abandon their use. City Manager Elliott hopes within the next few days to have a permanent place for use of the community.

Mrs. Caroline Dayton entertained at breakfast last Thursday morning Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Kelly and Mrs. Helen Smith, who were on their way to Saginaw. Dr. Kelly's former home, where they were to visit friends and relatives, returning to their home in Minnesota, by way of Mackinac Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Stremich left Thursday for northern Michigan where they will spend a brief vacation with Miss Neva Lovewell, one of the Plymouth public school teachers. Miss Lovewell has for years owned a cottage on a small island out in Lake Superior where the fishing is always good. During some of her visits to the Hillside Barbecue, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Stremich, Miss Lovewell has induced them to try some of the ideal fishing she always has near her northern cabin. Upon their return home, there will probably be plenty heard about fishing out at the Hillside. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin Crumble will also be members of their party.

City's Garbage Collection Service Begins This Week

First Collection Made Thursday And Friday

Plymouth's first municipal garbage collection service was inaugurated Thursday when city trucks made collections at all homes lying in the second and third precincts. Residences in the first and fourth precincts were visited Friday for the first time.

City Manager Clarence Elliott announced that the regular schedule for the rest of the summer would be for collections in precincts two and three on each Monday and Thursday while in precincts one and four on each Tuesday and Friday.

Elliott asks the co-operation of all householders to make the city garbage collection successful from the start. Each householder must furnish his own garbage can and it should be placed in a conspicuous place in the back yard on collection days. No paper, glass, tin cans or other foreign matter should be included in the garbage.

The free garbage collection was provided for in the 1937-38 city budget by the inclusion of a $2-100 item although no increase in the tax was necessary.

George Bowers and Charles Johnson will be in charge of the collection service.

City Finds Need For Another Policeman

Because of the exceptional increase in work experienced during recent months by the Plymouth police department due to rapidly increasing traffic congestion and the growth of the city, the city commission, at a meeting Wednesday evening, decided to ask City Manager Clarence Elliott to seek applications for the appointment of a new policeman. The commission has also purchased a new police car.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH. Hardenburg and North Holbrook street. "All Scripture is God-breathed, and is profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly fitted for all good works." II Timothy 3:16, 17. The question has been asked: "Is Bible study worth while?" "What benefits are derived from such a practice?" First of all, the Bible is God's love-letter to this world. Who of us is not interested in a message from one who loves us. Furthermore, the end of all Bible study is inspiration as well as information. It gives a clear testimony, a fullness of experience and an effective life of service. The Bible is a revelation of God's will for us. In this revelation of grace and truth, we find assurance of salvation, and strength to perform His bidding. Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock, God permitting, Evangelist J. C. Beattie will present a chart study entitled: "The Two Ways and the Two Destinies." Don't fail to hear this first of a series of messages on this profound Bible truth. Note the change in time—one-half hour earlier—at 7 p.m. The Rev. Mr. Stover Helmer, of Detroit will be the speaker at both preaching services Sunday. Morning worship at 10 o'clock; evening evangelistic message at 7:30. Bible school at 11:30 a.m. Bring up a child in Bible school, and he will not depart from it. Calvary Welcomes You! (A.E.B.)

The bird may be roasted in any flat pan. The broiler pan may be used if no other pan is at hand. Brush the bird with an oil or unsalted fat before putting it into the oven. A moderate temperature of 300° to 350° throughout the cooking period gives the best results. If the bird is very large, use 300° temperature and a longer cooking period. Seasoning is not necessary. Above is a time chart prepared by poultry industries, using a temperature of 300° F.

Break into pieces and put into the biscuit mixture. Grease pan, fit rolled out biscuit dough into it. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with cheese or maple sugar. Bake at 350° to 375° minutes.

Fishermen Make Record Catches

Plymouth fishermen have been making first page news, radio broadcasts and creating a world of envy among the fireside Isaac Waltonians since the season opened last Saturday.

Manny Blunk went over to Maxfield lake, located almost in the backyard of Plymouth, and landed a 10-pound pike, another five pounder and about as many bass as the law allows. Lucky for him, Gus Lundquist was along to help do some of the landing of the big one.

Dr. Paul Butz and Dr. Brick Champe went over to a lake near the old home town in northern "Indiana" and caught so many big perch and bluegills that the radio station at Fort Wayne broadcast to the world the good luck that these two Michigan fishermen had had on the opening day.

Letters, telegrams, postcards and broadsides from Alpena have informed the public that William Pettigill and Harry Lush, fishing less than half an hour in Long lake, near Alpena, caught a pike weighing over 15 pounds.

Ben Dinkgrave is back from a northern fishing trip and pictures tell a story of such good luck that one wonders even if the pictures might not be like those one can secure on the docks down at Miami.

There is going to be a general exodus from Plymouth and vicinity over the week-end. Matt Powell and Bert McKinney were among the first to go, all dressed up in palm beach suits with cane fish poles awaiting them somewhere in a northern woodshed upon their arrival. They are going to try out for goggle-eyes and sun fish.

Big Ones Are Biting This Fishing Season

Two fine fish such as these are enough to account for a happy smile on any fisherman's face. Lakes and streams are yielding bigger catches than in recent years, sportsmen report, and fishermen find their angling made easier when a little outboard motor eliminates the backbreaking effort of getting to the spot where the big ones are biting.

Miss Charlotte Dennis Is Bride Of John McFarlane

Charlotte, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colburn Dennis, and John McFarlane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McFarlane, were married Friday, June 18, at Angola, Indiana.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winkler, sister of the bride. The bride wore satin striped white georgette and carried sweet peas and valley lilies. The bridesmaid wore white crepe and carried tansman roses. After the ceremony the young couple left for a motor trip to Canada.

On Monday evening a shower was given at Bartlett school by Mrs. Jack Travis and Mrs. Arthur Winkler, honoring Mrs. McFarlane. The many lovely gifts were placed under a pale pink and blue parasol. Lieutenant Gekovick and his gypsy band gave a fine musical program, and Miss Dorothy Mitchell of Wayne played accordion solos and Beverly Hauke told the history of the bride in song and costume. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Guests from away were Mrs. George Horden and Donald, Mrs. Jack Allison of Pontiac, Mrs. William Morgenthau and Catherine of Buchanan, Indiana, Mrs. Margaret Fortune of Rochester, and Mrs. Robert Miller of Detroit.

Confederate Vets Recall Days of '61

Gen. Homer Atkinson of Richmond, Va., and Gen. Harry Rene Lee of Nashville, Tenn., talk over the days of 61-65 at the annual Confederate reunion held at Jackson, Miss., recently. Many interesting characters of the South attended the reunion. It marked the forty-seventh time the boys in gray have held a reunion.

Miss Irene Humphries Honored By Friends

Irene Humphries has been the inspiration for several lovely parties the past week, the first of these being the breakfast and miscellaneous shower given, Saturday, by Miss Neva Lovewell, at her home in South Lyon, with covers laid for 12. Green and amber crystal and beautiful flowers made a lovely table setting.

The guests were Miss Humphries, Mrs. Charles Humphries, Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. John Cranwell, Mrs. Edwin Campbell, Mrs. Milton Laible, Mrs. Fred Thomas, Miss Willard Gear, Dr. Victoria Lovewell, of Northville, Mrs. L. W. Lovewell of South Lyon and Miss Bertha Van Zile, of Detroit.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Milton Laible entertained 25 ladies at a linen shower for the bride-to-be, at her home on North Harvey street. The hostess had planned a mock wedding for the entertainment of her guests which resulted in putting them in a very happy mood. Many bowls and baskets of beautiful garden flowers, placed about the rooms, added greatly to the pleasure of the guests.

Miss Humphries was the recipient of many lovely gifts at both affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rambo were hosts at a dinner-bridge for 14 guests, Thursday, complimenting Miss Humphries and her fiancé, Elvin Taylor, and on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas will entertain informally at a supper party honoring the young couple. Their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Humphries, of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Jenkins and daughter, Janet, Mrs. Allah Lutz and daughter, Diane, and Esther Field, of Detroit.

Miss Velma Stitt And Derward Jewell Wed Last Saturday

The marriage uniting Velma Stitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stitt, of Plymouth, and Derward George Jewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jewell, also of this city, was quietly performed, Saturday afternoon, by Rev. Walter Nichol, at the Presbyterian manse.

The bride wore a gown of blue and white net with white accessories. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom, on Ann Arbor road, followed by a theatre party in Detroit.

A new home will be built immediately on the Ann Arbor road which the young couple will occupy as soon as finished. They have many friends in and around Plymouth who extend best wishes to them.

The annual reunion of the Plymouth high school last Friday evening was a great success, over 100 being present. A fine musical program was given. The serving of refreshments added to the interest of the occasion and which was interrupted by the alarm of fire.

The musical at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening last by the pupils of Miss Bertha Beals, gave great pleasure to the large and appreciative audience. The class composed of 22 members, from the little tot to the more advanced pupils, acquitted themselves admirably. Miss Beals was assisted by Harold Melville of California, who is a welcome addition to the musical circles of Plymouth. His fine voice and personality, suggests a promising future for him. She was also assisted by Miss Hazel Conner, who charmed as she always does. The duet rendered by Miss Conner and Mr. Melville was especially pleasing, as well as the solos of each. It is needless to say that the violin selection by Lester Var... was skillfully executed and warrants his friends in predicting for him a successful career in musical lines.

Who Killed Civil Service?

eraux of Kent county, all were included in the blasts of condemnation that were issued by Democratic leaders within the lower house.

To place responsibility directly where it belongs for the defeat of the civil service bill, one must review briefly its history before the legislature.

It was the first bill introduced into the state senate during the present session and became the No. 1 measure of the upper house.

It was passed by the senate during February, with few minor changes being made from its original form. It had the support of both Democratic and Republican members of the senate.

Then it went to the house for consideration, where it was referred to the state affairs committee, of which Chester Fitzgerald of Detroit is chairman. Mr. Fitzgerald is one of the Democratic floor leaders of the house.

There the bill remained for nearly two months without consideration.

Just before the state election in early April, William Lovett, secretary of the Detroit Civic League, an organization devoted to the promotion of good government, fearful that unless some action was forced that the bill would never come before the house for consideration, made an effort to secure consideration of the bill by the state affairs committee.

Chairman Fitzgerald arose on the floor of the house, berated Mr. Lovett in a vicious statement as was ever made on the floor and declared without any hesitation whatsoever that when Senate bill No. 1 was reported from his committee that it would be a bill drafted to suit the committee. He made it emphatic that the original senate bill which had been prepared by Professor James Pollock of the University of Michigan and a number of others, was not acceptable to the committee.

From what Mr. Fitzgerald said, it was generally believed that a new bill would be reported out a few days after the spring election.

But nothing came from the committee. Weeks kept rolling along and still there was nothing heard of the civil service bill in the house.

Date for final adjournment had been fixed and still no civil service bill from the house committee had been reported.

Then just a few days before it was time for the legislators to quit and go home, there was reported from Chairman Fitzgerald's committee the senate bill No. 1 with some 74 or 75 changes that had been made in committee.

Supporters of civil service in the house, after a careful study of it, discovered that it had been so changed that its original purpose, which sought to end the spoils system, had been entirely eliminated.

During the debate on the floor of the house, Representative Nelson Miles, a clean-cut youthful lawyer from Holland, who wrote into the legislative session one of the best records of any man in the house, attempted to amend Fitzgerald's civil service bill by substituting the original civil service bill as it came from the senate.

What happened to Mr. Miles' effort to restore the original civil service bill?

It was overwhelmingly defeated in the house, with both Republican and Democratic votes.

But two Democratic members of the house voted for the Miles amendment. They were George L. Teasout of Flint and Alfonso Magnotta of Albion. Such Republican house leaders as Vernon J. Brown of Mason and Carl DeLano of Kalamazoo voted consistently with the Democrats against the original civil service bill.

During the debate on the question in the house, Peter R. Legg of Escanaba, veteran Democratic member of the legislature, but arch enemy of civil service, declared on the floor that he knew Governor Frank Murphy did not favor the original civil service bill as it came from the senate.

The writer questioned Mr. Legg during the debate about the statement he had made quoting the Governor as being opposed to the original senate bill.

"I heard him make the statement myself. He said the senate bill needed a lot of changing and that he was not for it as it had been passed by the senate," said Representative Legg. "The governor said the house should change the bill," he added.

(It will be recalled that Governor Murphy in his message to the legislature had referred to the Pollock bill, which was senate bill No. 1, as a MODEL civil service bill and that he had urged the legislature to pass it without change.)

The statement of Representative Legg pertaining to the Governor's shifting attitude about civil service was not challenged by any one from the floor of the house.

Later in private conversation with Representative Legg, he advised the writer that Governor Murphy had made the statement favoring a complete change in the civil service bill at a Democratic caucus held a few nights before the measure was considered.

What about Chairman Chester Fitzgerald of the state affairs committee that held the civil service bill in committee for months?

Was he for civil service or against it?

The writer was a member of the social aid and welfare committee of the house. The same Chester Fitzgerald, who was chairman of the state affairs committee was chairman of the welfare committee.

In the numerous welfare reorganization bills that came to the social aid and welfare committee were provisions for civil service.

It was Chairman Fitzgerald who ordered all of these civil service provisions stricken out of the welfare bills.

What about Governor Murphy and the civil service in the welfare bills?

Senate bill 112 was one of the notorious welfare bills. It had been held in the welfare committee until a few short days before final adjournment. Governor Murphy and Chairman Fitzgerald knew that one or two members of the welfare committee were anxious to place amendments on this bill.

Its consideration had been stalled for weeks and months in committee.

Finally one day the committee was summoned to meet. Chairman Fitzgerald said the bill had to go out without amendments, except one—and that amendment was to strike out the civil service provision in the bill.

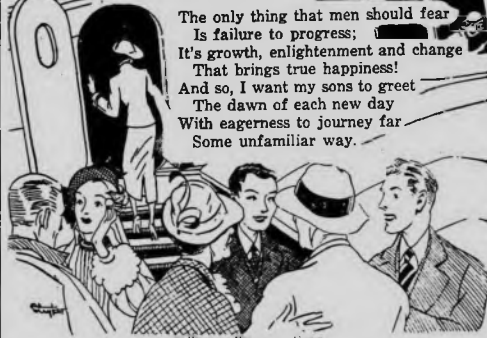

DON'T BE AFRAID OF CHANGE

I give my sons this brief advice:
"Don't be afraid of change!
Don't close your minds to anything
Because it's new or strange!"
And I believe that most of us
Could well afford to be
More tolerant of purposes
With which we don't agree.

of CHANGE
by
LAWRENCE
HAWTHORNE

The time we waste in arguments
And bickering and strife,
Attempting to advance our own
Philosophies of life,
Could so much better be employed
In learning what is true—
And who can say a plan is wrong
Because it may be new!

The only thing that men should fear
Is failure to progress;
It's growth, enlightenment and change
That brings true happiness!
And so, I want my sons to greet
The dawn of each new day
With eagerness to journey far
Some unfamiliar way.

Who ordered the bill reported out so suddenly without amendment, except the one taking out civil service?

No other person than Governor Murphy. That fact became known a short time after welfare bill 112 had been reported out. Did the Governor know that ALL civil service provisions in the welfare bills were being stricken?

Sure he did. It was impossible for him not to know it.

On the night of final adjournment, it was along about 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning when the badly amended civil service bill went to a conference committee selected from both house and senate.

There it was that the members of the committee from the senate demanded that all of the provisions of the bill that had been cut out by the Fitzgerald committee be restored. This the house conferees refused to do.

During the hours of consideration that followed, the Democrats insisted that all employees of the state be "blanketed in" when the bill became effective. That meant that all Democratic employees now holding state jobs and yet to be selected before January 1, could retain their positions without competitive examinations.

This was the execution block that had been raised by the house conferees for the slaughter of civil service. They knew and the Governor knew, that it was the impossible barrier to civil service success.

It proved to be just that.

Lieutenant Governor Leo Nowicki, Democrat advocate of honest civil service, knew just what was being done. He knew the designs of the house leadership.

Therefore when the senate adjourned to end the farce being played over civil service, Speaker George Schroder of the house of representatives, Chairman Chester Fitzgerald of the house committee that had prevented consideration of the civil service bill for months, Representative Joseph Murphy, Democratic floor leader, and John Hamilton, one of the strong Democratic leaders of the house, all turned their tirade against the Republican senators and the Democratic senate leaders who had voted almost unanimously in favor of the original civil service bill.

They would have the public believe that it was the senate that executed civil service.

If the public does not take time to recall all the stormy details of civil service consideration through the legislative session, some may believe that that is true. If they will review the facts, the public will know that at no time did real civil service have a chance of passing the strongly controlled Democratic house of representatives.

This, in brief, is the story of who killed "Cock Robin".

Governor Murphy, soon after knowing of the demise of civil service, declared that this had been a "very good session of the legislature".

He left a few hours later for a trip to New York and upon his return he will go to Mackinac Island "incognito" for a stay of some weeks. It will be his fourth vacation since election and his third since assuming office. He spent nearly all of his time in Florida after the results of the November election became known until he came to Lansing to deliver his inaugural address in January. Within a month he again returned to Florida and was there for several weeks resting after his sessions with strike committees. He returned to Lansing for a brief stay, then went to White Sulphur Springs, Virginia for another stay. Governor Murphy has gained the distinction of having been in Lansing less during a legislative session than any other governor Michigan ever had.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

INCREASED TO $14 BILLION.

Now, despite the better times our tax debt has increased a billion and a half in the last few weeks. It stands now at $36,633,907,802.00. None of us have any conception what all that means. If there are 125,000,000 people including men, women, children and babies it means that each owes the government of the United States $290. This has nothing to do with state or local taxes. When the interest is added on to that we will find some bill. Five years ago it stood at $179 per capita.—Frank Bryce in the Grand Ledge Independent.

MORE MONEY FOR THE SELF-STARTERS' SWEETHEARTS

This week the House killed the Civil Service bill. Most of the members of the legislature are self-starters. That is, they get into the political game because they crave the job, the honor (?) and the various patronage advantages. The primary system makes self-starters possible. Generally there are enough self-starters so that the winner gets a minority of the votes. Once in, however, they become immensely important and very, very jealous of their prerogatives.

What is a prerogative? We heard former Governor Brucker explain it once. In this incident it was his "right to appoint a Republican steward" at the Howell sanatorium—as if it was necessary the man be a Republican to manage the business affairs concerning people sick with tuberculosis.

Civil service was designed to end that sort of thing. The House members killed the measure. They demand the right to continue to have the taxpayers pay salaries for their sons, their daughters, their sweethearts and their neighbor's daughter Anne. The matter of ability and fitness for the jobs is incidental. To the victor belongs the spoils. The people of Michigan will continue to support that sort of thing.

The legislature's action on this measure explains a lot of other things that have happened, and haven't happened, in this session.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

WHAT ABOUT THE PUBLIC?

It would seem that the present attitude of Governor Murphy with relation to strikes and strikers, is sufficiently clear to try out the issue in the next state election. The governor makes no "civic rights" of the strikers but never a sentence, at least by way of enforcement, of the broader and equally defined rights of the public. Some have gone so far as to say, notably the Grand Rapids Herald, that the governor's disregard for the public side of these disputes merits impeachment. Inasmuch as the issue is entirely one of judgment the governor's attitude is hardly a matter for impeachment but he will no doubt agree that his pro-sympathy policy for the strikers and their highly questionable legal conduct, makes for a sharp division of opinion in methods and practices of administration. The governor's policy has become, automatically, a political question not so much a party problem as a desire of citizens generally to register their own attitude toward this present state of countenanced lawlessness. Governor Murphy has made the issue for the 1938 state campaign. The major issue is law and order; the Murphy brand, which obviously has the approval of the Roosevelt administration, or the type of enforcement that aims at a universal respect for our legally constituted authority. Speaking of law enforcement we usually point in the direc-

Banker Attends Island Pow-Wow

"A great place for a convention" was the way Russell Danne described Mackinac Island, which last week was the scene of the Michigan Bankers association's annual convention. This is the second consecutive year that the meeting has been held on the auto-less island.

More than 350 delegates attended the convention, many of them from Chicago and New York, whose greatest banks were represented by large delegations. The entire meeting dealt with banking, financial and general business problems, with considerable emphasis on round table discussions on many questions which were raised during the convention.

Of interest to residents of towns near and around Ann Arbor, is the fact that William L. Walz, vice-president of the Ann Arbor Savings and Commercial bank was elected president of the association for the forthcoming year. Grand Hotel, the scene of the convention, is an ideal one, with its spacious lawns, great scenic beauties, and many recreational facilities, reported Mr. Danne.

tion of Canada. Ten strokes of the lash and 30 days at hard labor faced Albert Strickler, 24, married, and the father of one child, following conviction in a Windsor court of assault upon a 13-year-old girl. Magistrate W. A. Smith told Strickler:

IS IT A DANGER?

Boake Carter, America's foremost commentator, is fearful lest the newspaper guild, now a CIO affiliate, will rob the Americans of their much cherished freedom of the press. He rightfully argues that if the Guild is successful in telling the managing editor what shall and what shall not be published, the Guild can become a most effective weapon for class legislation. Much like the Soviet plan of carrying out a factory blue print. Soviet workers "tell" the office whether they will build according to the designed plan or reject it because they are not "sold" on the mechanics of the projected job and would refuse to work until the designers changed the plan to suit the worker's whims.—J. John Pope in The Grandville Star.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Governor Murphy, speaking at Ann Arbor last week, said "We are on an unknown sea." We do not believe it, but, Governor, if it is true it is because you and your President-Captain have steered our course far from old and sure landmarks, lost your bearings and don't know the way back to where vision is clear and have become so confused that neither captain nor mate can think clearly. The mutiny of part of your crew under the leadership of John L. Lewis threatens the welfare of the ship with all on board, but you haven't the intestinal fortitude to protect the rest of the crew and save the ship by dealing with that crowd according to the established customs of the sea.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

A MESS IN DETROIT.

Contractors cannot be blamed for dodging government contracts when in danger of hi-jacking labor racketeers. Take the case of the Western high school. It was scheduled to be completed and ready for occupancy last September; will be lucky to take over next fall. One strike after another, union demands dictating materials and supplies, wages and hours, alone to blame. The city has paid out already $50,000 to meet exorbitant demands and the contractors will lose another $50,000. Is it any wonder that legitimate business concerns shy away from such a situation.—Milton Carmichael in The Detroit Legal Courier.

Recital By Pupils Of Miss Strasen

The piano recital given on Monday evening in the Crystal room of the Mayflower hotel by pupils of Hanna Strasen was very much enjoyed by the 100 or more people present. The entire program was interesting. Generous applause followed each number and it was well deserved by those taking part.

The opening number was somewhat novel in that three small girls played at one piano. It meant careful attention and real effort on their part to keep together but they managed to play the closing chords at the same time and did so with great fervor. Later in the program a group of ten girls sang a Bohemian folk song and an old English cradle song in two parts. Margaret Jean Nichol was the accompanist.

The following pupils were unable to be present: Marian Matheson, Gertrude Steele, Alan Kidston, Alfred Cutler and Charles Weiss.

No Strikers In Australia Says Visitor

Rotarians Told Of Accomplishments Of Island Continent

Free from strikes and labor disputes was the way in which Charles P. Gartside of Australia described conditions as they exist there. Mr. Gartside, here on a tour through the United States, speaking before members of the Rotary club, devoted most of his speech to the way in which business and industrial disputes are settled by the government and to the way in which the provinces are governed.

Australia is free from labor troubles because as soon as differences arise they are immediately taken before an arbitration board for settlement, he declared. This board is composed of exceptionally efficient members, and its authority is that of a court. All decisions are final, with no opportunity for appealing any decision handed down by the board. In speaking of the many strikes which have been taking place in this country, he cited the case of the men on the west coast, Bridges, who was the leader of the shipping strike there a short time ago. Bridges was deported from Australia, and unfortunately for America, decided to make his home here.

Many comparisons were made by Mr. Gartside between America's system of government and that of his country. When the present form of government was established there, it was done on the basis of a long and careful study made in the United States by a commission of selected men. At the completion of the study, the commission returned home and founded their system of government on what they thought to be the essential features of our constitutional form of government.

While here, Mr. Gartside was advised by cable, that he had been elected senator to the upper house in Victoria. He is a member of the Rotary club of Dingley, which is located in the province of Victoria.

Another rather outstanding feature of Australia, as a country, is the almost complete absence of colored people. With the exception of a few remaining descendants of the original settlers, the colored element of the island is confined to the less populated portions of the island.

Chinese, Japanese, negroes and many other colored races are excluded from Australia by strict immigration laws. White persons of high moral character and physical fitness are welcomed, in the hope that they will eventually become citizens, he said. In years to come, it is predicted that Australia will be peopled by a superior type of people, because of the selective system of immigration.

A large part of the country is so situated by virtue of location and latitude, that the number of degrees of variation from the hottest to the coldest days, is very small. There are 4000 miles of railroad, with a great number of autos. Some idea of the cost of goods there can be gathered when it is learned that an auto costing $1000 here, would cost $2300 there.

Three School Teachers Wed

Of interest to many residents in and around Plymouth are the following weddings of three teachers of the Plymouth schools. Wanita Frantz, who was married June 26 and Luella Mae Kees and Hilda Hauf, who were married on June 30.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Frantz, in Big Rapids was the scene, Saturday morning, June 26, at 10 o'clock, of the wedding of their daughter, Wanita, and Gerald Disbrow, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Disbrow, of Ewart, with the Rev. G. E. Wright, of Ewart, officiating. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Mrs. E. Stephenson, while the wedding party took their places before an altar of ferns, peonies and delphiniums. Baskets of daisies and roses were also used in the decorations. "Because" was sung by Phyllis Frantz, sister of the bride.

The bride was lovely in a wedding gown of mousseline de soie and lace with which she wore her mother's wedding veil of tulle. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and gypsophila.

Ruth Frantz, sister of the bride, who was bridesmaid, was becomingly gowned in blue figured organdy over pink silk. Her flowers were pink roses and blue larkspur. George Mears, of Detroit, attended the bridegroom. The wedding was attended by about 40 relatives and friends of the young couple.

In the Little Church Around the Corner, that historical old church in New York City, Luella Mae Kees, of Plymouth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Kees, of Kingston, spoke her marriage vows to D. Kingsley Miller, of Lincoln Park, Michigan, son of Mrs. Mabel Miller, of Muskegon. Wednesday noon, June 30, Rev. Randolph Day, of New York City, performing the ceremony.

The bride was charming in a coral triple sheer chiffon wedding gown, floor length, trimmed in horse hair braid, of the same color, around the neck and bottom of the dress. She wore a shoulder length veil and matching sandals and carried an arm bouquet of tallisman roses and forget-me-nots.

Miss Kees was attended by Hilda Hauf of Maybee, who was lovely in a gown of pink lace with matching sandals and an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and gardenias. Norman Jennings, of Monroe, attended the bridegroom.

A reception and luncheon followed the ceremony with a small group of friends and relatives present. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are spending three weeks motoring through the New England states, Gaspe peninsula and Canada. For traveling the bride chose a black and white sheer two-piece ensemble with white accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. Miller is a mortician at Lincoln Park.

Hilda Catherine Hauf, of Plymouth, daughter of Mrs. John Hauf, of Maybee, was united in marriage to John Norman Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings, of Monroe, at noon Wednesday, June 30, in the Little Church Around the Corner, in New York City, the Rev. Randolph Ray, of New York City, officiating.

The bride wore a lovely wedding gown of pink lace, shoulder length veil and sandals of the same color. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and gardenias.

The bride and bridegroom were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. D. Kingsley Miller (Luella Kees). Mrs. Miller wore a dress of coral chiffon and carried roses and forget-me-nots.

A small group of friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony and attended the reception and luncheon immediately following.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings are spending a week in New York City and will go on a motor trip from there to Yellowstone Park and the Grand Canyon in Colorado. Mrs. Jennings wore a brown and white sheer ensemble with white accessories for traveling.

They will reside in their new home at 7816 High street, Maybee, Michigan, where Mr. Jennings is cashier in the Peoples' State bank.

The three brides have taught in the Plymouth schools for the past several years and during the time have made many friends who extend best wishes to them for a long, contented wedded life.

Meteorology is world-wide in its scope. A storm occurring on one continent will affect the weather on another.

Church Wedding At Salem For Miss Dorothy Rose Hobbins

The altar of the Salem Federated church was banked with red and white roses and ferns and lighted with white candles for the wedding of Dorothy Rose Hobbins, and Warren P. Bassett, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Cora Pennell read the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Irwin Hobbins, wore white lace over white satin, princess style, with a train and queen Elizabeth collar. Her three-quarter length veil fell from a lace cap trimmed with orange blossoms on one side, and she carried white Canterbury bells.

Edna Hobbins, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a gown of peach chiffon, and carried a bouquet of blue canterbury bells.

Minnie Bassett, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of aqua marine blue, and carried pink canterbury bells.

Lester Bassett served his brother as best man, while Edward Bassett was his brother's attendant.

Little June and Marjorie Bassett, lovely in blue and pink, strewn flowers in the path of the bride while Beverly Hobbins, in yellow, carried the ring in a calla lily.

The usher's were Harold Granger, Elmer Bennett, James Pennell, and Junior Mankin.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Anthony Krieger sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly", while

Mrs. Harmon Gale played the wedding march.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to the immediate family at the home of the bride.

The bride's table was decorated in pink and white and had a three layer cake in the center.

In the evening a reception for about 150 relatives and friends was held at St. Michael's hall, Rosedale Gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassett are well known young people of Newburg and Plymouth. Mrs. Bassett graduated from Plymouth high school with the class of '35, while Mr. Bassett graduated in the class of '34.

After a wedding trip through northern Michigan, they will be at home to their friends on Roe street, Plymouth.

Indian Totem Pole
This Indian totem pole at Vancouver Island is typical of those found on the northwest coast of America. Each tribe possessed one of these totems—supposed to be a protecting spirit. The symbols on the pole represented the sign of an imaginary ancestor common to the clan, such as a wolf, bear or eagle. Perfection Wins Close Game

A three run rally in the eighth inning by Plymouth Perfection was the deciding factor which enabled Plymouth to eke out a 9 to 8 decision over Garden City. The defeat dropped Garden City to fourth place in the Michigan Inter-County league. Ray Pyle started on the mound for Garden City, but numerous errors intermingled with two walks in the third inning gave Plymouth four runs. Lovell Hill relieved Pyle and held Plymouth until the eighth inning. Hill's wildness got him into trouble in the eighth when he hit the first man to face him. Richards doubled and Panosian singled. Zielasko's grounder got through. Higgins, two runners scoring with the tying runs. Ray Levandowski's long fly admitted Panosian with the winning run. Garden City outbit Plymouth 12 to 8 hits, but were unable to overcome their fielding mistakes. Charles Wolfram led the hitters of both teams with three hits. J. Higgins, M. Tatro, and Bud Johnson each collected two hits. O'Brien, Pyle, and Hill each collected a hit apiece.

Schraders' Win Over Belleville

Three hits and a walk in the 15th inning of the game between Plymouth Schraders and Belleville Merchants proved to be the margin of victory for the Plymouth nine Sunday. Their three-run rally gave them a 9 to 6 victory. Going into the 15th, the local nine was tied 6-6 with its opponent, but its last minute spurt spelled defeat for the Merchants.

The game was marked by good pitching by both teams. Harold Pankow, who started the game for the Plymouth team, was relieved in the 15th by Gohs, who set Belleville down in order to end the longest game of the season. Pankow, pitching 14 innings, allowed six runs, gave three walks and struck out 12 batters.

Harold Williams, playing his first game at third base for the Schrader team, gave a fine exhibition of fielding, and led both teams in batting, getting three singles and two doubles. A ninth-inning rally by the Schrader team netted them one run and made the extra innings necessary. Jaska opened the ninth, batting for Blondell, and walked. Sinta was sent in to run for Jaska and went to second on a wild pitch. Westphall advanced to third and scored when Pankow beat out an infield hit to third.
