Archbishop Mooney Will Officiate At Dedication Of The Villa St. Felix At Colorful Ceremony On Labor Day

Mother General of Felician Sisters Will Be Present

Archbishop Edward Mooney's first public official act in the Detroit arch-diocese, since his enthronement, will be the dedication of the Villa St. Felix, the new motherhouse and novitiate of the Detroit Province Felician Sisters, on Schofield road at Newburg road, near Plymouth. The ceremony will take place on Labor Day, Monday, September 6, at 10 a. m. and will be followed by solemn Mass.

The dedication of the buildings will fulfill a long felt need of the community of nuns that have been so responsible for the staunch faith of Catholic Poles in the Middle West. The villa, of brick and stone construction, includes the convent, novitiate and chapel and the service buildings. Plans call for the erection of an infirmary, girls' academy and rectory later.

Distinguished guests from all parts of the country as well as the mother general of the Felician Sisters, whose headquarters are in Cracow, Poland, will be present at the dedication. The superior general is Mother Mary Pia, formerly a member of the Chicago province of the community.

The buildings, of the Lombard style of architecture, were designed by O'Meara and Hills, architects, and were erected by the W. E. Wood company. The structures are thoroughly modern and fire-proof and are built of concrete and steel, with pink brick and Indiana limestone trimmings.

The dedication of the buildings is the climax of a remarkable story of self-sacrifice and labors that had its humble beginning in the United States in a small community diocese known as Polonia, Wis. In this small settlement, in the Green Bay diocese, the Rev. Joseph Dombrowski had established a parish to take care of the early Polish immigrants to this country. In 1874 he realized that good a community of nuns could do in aiding him in this apostolic work. He invited the then rather young order of the Felicians to come from Poland to Wisconsin. Five nuns arrived that year and opened their first convent there. In 1882, with the growth in immigration from Poland, the Felicians realized they needed a more central location. They were invited to come to Detroit. In the meantime, Father Dombrowski had been busy in organizing St. Cyril and Methodius' seminary, now of Orchard Lake.

When the Felicians came to Detroit they established their convent at St. Aubin and Canfield avenues. From this convent the order spread throughout the United States until today there are 3,000 members in six American provinces. These provinces are Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago, Lodi, N. J., Coraopolis, Pa., and Enfield, Conn. These nuns conduct schools, orphanages, old folks' homes and the like. In the Detroit community there are 600 nuns who teach in 40 grade schools, six high schools, and conduct two orphanages.

The new villa will be open for public inspection, September 6, 7, 8, 11 and 12.

Construction work on the villa was started in 1935 under the direction of the provincial superior, Mother Mary de Sales and her council, Sisters Mary Theodora, Pancratius, Vitolda and Jeremah. The cornerstone was laid October 13, 1935, by the late Bishop Michael Gallagher.

Roy Scheppele's Flowers Appreciated

Thanks to Roy Scheppele, of Five Mile and Beck road, who brought to The Plymouth Mail office a dozen of the prettiest dahlias seen here this year.

The flowers, of exceptional large size, were much appreciated by The Mail staff and visitors at the office this week. Scheppele can rightfully take pride in the dahlias and asters he grows.

CITY HEALTH DEPARTMENT GETS NEW REFRIGERATOR

The City Health department had a new refrigerator installed this week. The refrigeration is necessary for serums and stuff which is gathered for testing by the Health department.

PLYMOUTH HI GRIDDERS SWING INTO ACTION

Coach Milton Jacobi of Plymouth High school had his first practice session with the Rock football toters Wednesday morning in Riverside park and seemed more than pleased with the wealth of material on hand. There were ten regulars and nearly two score of reserves and other candidates on the field to get in shape to fight for regular berths on the eleven.

With the opening game only two weeks away, both Coach Jacobi and Captain Marvin Sackett were more than interested in getting the boys in shape for their first contest of the season.

The opening gun will be fired at the Michigan School for the Deaf and this game will be no set-up for the Rocks. Although the outcome will have no bearing on the final standing of the team in the Twin Valley league the coach was more than interested in tucking this one under his belt.

Plymouth Schools Ready To Open Next Tuesday

Three Teachers Added To Care For Big Enrollment

Three additional teachers will be on duty Tuesday for the record enrollment expected when Plymouth's public schools open Tuesday.

The addition of these teachers brings the total number on the faculty to 55. Many of the instructors will return to their jobs while several new teachers have been hired to fill vacancies.

Supt. George A. Smith predicts a sizeable increase in enrollment over the 1,537 pupils attending when school closed in June. The school census reports 1603 of school age.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of school. The buildings have been renovated, supplies have been received, and schedules are being worked out.

To the regular courses in the high school the apprentice training course has been added which permits pupils over sixteen years of age, who wish to learn a trade, to spend half time on the job and half time in school, receiving credit towards graduation if the school work and apprentice training is completed satisfactorily.

With the addition of the apprentice training course, the curriculum in Plymouth high school is practically complete, there being no reason why any boy or girl interested in self-development will be unable to find his or her opportunity in the Plymouth high school.

The P.T.A. at Central school, as in years past, will help those who wish to exchange their second hand books which they do not need for second hand books which they do need. Mrs. Paul Wiedman, president of the P.T.A., has her committee selected and will be in the high school auditorium at eight-thirty Tuesday morning to assist in the exchange.

Everything seems to indicate an enlarged school with a correspondingly enlarged opportunity for individual development of the pupils.

Olive May Metz Named To Detroit Music Post

Miss Olive May Metz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metz, of 33910 Plymouth road, takes over her new position as graduate teacher at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art next Tuesday.

Miss Metz, who teaches piano, organ and theory, has been an instructor at the Detroit Conservatory of Music since she received her master of music degree there in 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Whipple entertained at dinner, Thursday, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gallagher, followed by dancing at Westwood. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garlett, Mr. and Mrs. Beth Virgo and Mr. and Mrs. Winston Cooper.

THANKS!

Editor Plymouth Mail:

I wish you would extend to the people of Plymouth and vicinity the thanks of the Northville-Wayne County Fair association as well as all of the residents of this community for their whole-hearted participation in our fair last week. It shows a mighty fine spirit between the two communities and we want you in Plymouth to know that all of Northville appreciates your good will and cooperation. What you did helped to make our fair the big success that it was. All we hope for is the right kind of an opportunity to return the favor in some way. Thanks again.

ELMER L. SMITH,
President Northville-Wayne County Fair Association.

Northville Fair Biggest And Best Ever Held

Success of Event Assures Badly Needed Improvements

The 1937 Northville-Wayne County fair is over and when the officials late Saturday night checked over the figures, they discovered that for the first time in over a dozen years it looks as though there is going to be some money left to paint and fix up the buildings and do the other things that lack of funds have so long prevented.

Yes, the 1937 fair is going to be a financial success. It was without question the best fair ever conducted in Northville, with record crowds every day except the opening day on Wednesday. Even the crowd on the opening day exceeded that of last year.

But those who did not attend the first day's entertainment missed as good a specialty show in daring automobile driving and (Continued on Page Seven)

Mrs. Whipple To Preside At State Session

Municipal League Program Listed For Saginaw

Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple, Plymouth city commissioner, is listed as chairman of the opening night dinner meeting of the three-day annual Michigan Municipal League convention to be held in Saginaw September 15, 16 and 17.

It is the first time that the League has honored a woman city official by naming her to chairmanship of one of the sessions. The program over which she will preside will deal with welfare reorganization legislation.

The entire Plymouth commission and City Manager Clarence Elliott plan to attend the convention.

Schrader Funeral Home Offers New Service

Through the courtesy of the Schrader Funeral home, Plymouth churches and fraternal organizations may now place another announcement of their activities in the space provided in the firm's advertisement in The Plymouth Mail.

This new service, which was announced this week by Fred D. Schrader, is unique in the fact that it is run for usage by other people. Mr. Schrader stated that he hoped all organizations would take advantage of his offer and use the space as a regular calendar of events.

State Parks Open For Hay Fever Victims

Four northern state parks will be kept open beyond the normal tourist season for the accommodation of those who suffer from hay fever, parks authorities announced. Orchard Lake near Manistee, Magnus near Petoskey and Traverse City parks will remain open to Oct. 15; Straits near St. Ignace to Oct. 1. Most other state parks close Sept. 15.

Mrs. R. L. Hill has returned from a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. Mary Werve, in Saint Sts. Marie.

Rush Work On New Collins Garage

New Structure On South Main St. To Be Ready Soon

"This is a rush job" seems to be the descriptive term adopted on the two newest buildings now under construction here, the Collins garage and the addition of the Precision Piston company.

Both building contracts involve a time limit and penalty, consequently early completion is necessary. Work, which began August 4, on the Precision job, has progressed rapidly. With the steel work finished, workmen are now laying cement blocks.

The Collins building is nearing the finishing touches. That is, the rough work is complete, with only the modernistic front to be put on. The roof also has been put on and the windows have been set.

Indications are, that Plymouth is surely going to grow and expand, and in a hurry, too. Evidence of this is borne out by the fact that in the past few months several new industries have moved their plants here. All proving that business is picking up and regaining its recently shaky place in the nation's spotlight.

Kipke Invites Kinsey, Gates For Football

Plymouth Gridders Outstanding In Michigan Squad

Two former Plymouth high school grid stars, Dave Gates and John Kinsey, have been invited to report for pre-season football practice at the University of Michigan on September 10.

Head Coach Harry Kipke, in issuing the call, said that the two Plymouth sophomores are outstanding candidates among the 53 men asked to return early.

"I think Kinsey will develop before the end of his college career into one of the greatest kicking, passing and running backs the University ever had," Kipke said. "Gates, if he can add some weight, will develop into one of the fastest linemen we have ever had."

Both Gates and Kinsey are already getting into condition, working out daily to help Coach Milton Jacobi get the Plymouth high school football squad into shape.

The two Plymouth boys with several other outstanding sophomores are expected to give the veteran Michigan gridders a tough battle for regular posts. Kipke is quite optimistic over the outlook for his Wolverines this fall.

Michigan tackles one of its toughest foes in the first game, meeting Michigan State at Ann Arbor on October 2. Then Coach Kipke takes his eleven to Evanston, Illinois, to battle Northwestern on October 9. Minnesota comes to Ann Arbor on October 16 while the Wolverines travel to play Iowa on October 23. The remainder of the schedule includes Illinois at Urbana on October 30; Chicago at Ann Arbor on November 6; University of Pennsylvania away on November 13 and Ohio State at Ann Arbor on November 20.

Did You Know That

Dress up your windows with Mobas Shades, New or repairs, also Linoleum and Venetian Blinds. National Window Shade Company, Telephone 530 for Estimates.

Dr. John A. Ross announces that he will now have his office open Thursday, from 2 in the afternoon until ten in the evening. His other hours will be the same as in the past, every evening and Sunday by appointment.

Rupert Hadley son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hadley will marry June Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wallace of Ypsilanti, Saturday. The ceremony will be held in Holly, Michigan with the Rev. Frederick Burnett officiating. After the ceremony the young couple will make their home in Dixboro. Mr. Hadley is a graduate of Plymouth high school in the class of 1933.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Halpant returned Tuesday from a ten days' vacation in the Upper Peninsula.

Daisy President Recalls Chinese Incident

City Is Expanding Its Water Supply

Development of a third well at the City spring is under way and will be completed next week.

The third well will supply 200 gallons a minute to give the city a pumping capacity of about 1,000 gallons a minute or 1,440,000 gallons a year.

Salvation Army To Hold Harvest Sale

Plans Announced For Mid-September Festival

Plans are being made for the Salvation Army Harvest Festival to be held here in mid-September.

Carl J. Lindstrom, the new captain of the Army here, announced that a sale of vegetables and fancy work would be held. The dates for the Festival will be announced soon.

Lindstrom, who took over his post here a few weeks ago, reports a busy program at the Salvation Army hall. The mid-week prayer meeting is held on Wednesday night while the singing company and the band rehearse on Monday and Thursday night. On Saturday nights the Plymouth group holds outdoor meetings in other towns. The Sunday schedule includes Sunday school at 10 a. m., the devotional service at 11 a. m. the Young Peoples Legion at 6:15 p. m., an open air meeting at 7:30 p. m. and the regular night service at the hall at 7:45 p. m.

Street Repair Progress Made

Good progress was reported this week by City Manager Clarence Elliott on the street repair work being done by WPA workmen.

The placing of curbs and gutters on Burroughs avenue from South Main street to Harding street was completed this week and work of putting in curbs and gutters in on one block on Casser street was started. Blacktop hard surface will be put on Burroughs street also.

Elliott said that work will start next week on relocating Church street. A double parkway will be built from the new Presbyterian church to Main street. When this is completed the old route of Church street in front of the school will be closed, eliminating one of the city's worst traffic hazards.

Plymouth Pioneer Posed As Target To Sell Air Rifles

Bennett Settled Oriental Protest Of 35 Years Ago

The Japanese-Chinese conflict brings an interesting story from Charles H. Bennett, Plymouth pioneer and president of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. The gun shown in the picture is on permanent display at the company's offices here.

The story, as published in The Detroit Free Press, is reprinted below.

As the big guns hurl tons of metal and explosive in Shanghai these days, Charles H. Bennett, of Plymouth, smiles when he recalls the trouble he had in 1902 convincing the Chinese that no harm could come to their nation if he were permitted to sell air rifles there.

The mandarin, whose word in such matters was final, refused to listen to argument. A rifle was a gun, wasn't it? And guns were dangerous, weren't they? The mandarin preserved an Oriental passivity in face of Mr. Bennett's most persuasive sales talk.

Then Mr. Bennett thought of proof. He requested to be shot by the mandarin with one of the rifles.

The mandarin picked up the weapon, wiped the perspiration from his palm on his silken robe, threw the little gun to his shoulder and pressed the trigger. Mr. Bennett smiled away the sting of the leaden pellet.

"You see," he said, "I told you it was a toy. It is an air rifle, not a dangerous weapon."

As a result of that incident the mandarin was persuaded and gave to the man from Michigan the right to ship air rifles into Shanghai, where they had been unknown.

Today, Mr. Bennett, president of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. at Plymouth, maker of toy guns for boys of all the world—except Italy and Russia—wonders what became of the mandarin and ponders the turns of fate as he reads of the big guns throwing deadly missiles as Japan and China clash.

"I had all I could do to keep from wincing," he smiles, reverting to the incident of 35 years ago, when silk-robed mandarins ruled China and no grim Japanese warships belched death on the Whangpoo.

"He was convinced, and we sent a good many air rifles into Shanghai after that. The Chinese used them to kill rats," said Mr. Bennett.

In that same year of 1902, Mr. Bennett went to many other countries introducing an air rifle (Continued on Page Seven)

Pacific Street Sewer Is Completed

The City completed the sanitary sewer on Pacific street between Blanche and Farmer this week.

Several additional sanitary sewer connections were made in various parts of the city this week.

Traffic Fines For August Sets Record

66 Violators Contribute $335 To City

Traffic violators in Plymouth paid a total of $335 in fines during the month of August. It was the largest total ever collected here in one month.

The fines, contributed by 66 automobile drivers, ranged from $1 for failure to halt at a stop street to $25 for reckless driving.

Police Chief Vaughn R. Smith, in announcing the monthly report, urged cooperation to safeguard children who will be returning to school again next week.

"I hope that all persons driving in Plymouth will help by driving safely and sanely," the police chief said. With the resumption of school large numbers of children will be crossing the streets before and after school. If everyone cooperates serious injury or possible death of a school child may be avoided.

Smith also announced that during the past week stop signs at the intersections of Harvey and Church and Penniman and Church have been repainted. He warned that all stop signs in the city would be strictly enforced.

1897 Menu Shows Food Price Jump

Gustave Freund, of 624 Maple street, brought a menu into The Plymouth Mail office this week which demonstrates how much the cost of food has advanced in 40 years.

The menu for the Warner and Barkenowitz cafe for January 18, 1897, lists roast beef, boiled trout, baked rabbit pie, chicken livers, or boiled ham with cabbage (all complete with potatoes, bread and butter) for 15 cents.

In entries the menu listed blue points and little neck clams for 15 cents, Chickasaw or fresh lobster salad was 25 cents.

Apple pie was a nickel a cut as was mince and orange pie. A steamed raspberry roll with wine sauce was five cents.

How State Workers Get Big Pay Boosts

Taxpayers Would Be Surprised To Know All The Facts

By Elton R. Eaton

There has been two or three articles published in some of the newspapers of the state during recent weeks pertaining to salary raises of various officials and department heads in Lansing.

Since the beginning of the year it seems that every one who has been able to annex a job for which the taxpayers of the state foot the bill has devoted most of his time in an effort to boost his state paycheck.

The taxpayers would be amazed if they knew just how many salary increases have taken place in the last few months, increases to job holders who have served the state but an exceedingly brief time.

It was with considerable satisfaction when the writer learned the other day that legal complications confront an entirely unwarranted and unnecessary pay raise that was slipped through the state legislature during the last night of turmoil and confusion when members of the legislature were voting "yes" on bills that they had not the slightest knowledge of what the contents were.

When the re-drafted liquor control bill was presented to the house it contained a provision providing an increase in pay for the recently appointed members of the liquor commission. The salary of these officials was $5,000 per year, but the legislature skyrocketed it to $7,500 per year.

Readers of The Plymouth Mail will be interested in knowing the details of just how some of these salary raises are "put over."

When the liquor bill was reported to the floor of the house, it contained a provision for $5,000 per year, which under most any circumstances is pretty big pay in Michigan or any other state.

The writer pointed out to his associates in the house that when the members of the liquor commission were appointed to these jobs they were tickled to death to accept the salary of $5,000 per year that went with it.

"There isn't much question but what this is two or three thousand dollars more per year than any of them ever earned before. They should be satisfied to give the state good service for $5,000 per year, which under most any circumstances is pretty big pay in Michigan or any other state," the writer stated to his associates.

"In addition to this $5,000 per year, each member of the commission has an expense account and he pays an exceedingly small sum out of his own pocket for his personal expenses. So the $5,000 per year salary really means more than what the figure represents," he added.

Some of the Democratic members of the house took a strongly adverse position. Representative John Hamilton of Detroit being one of the strongest defenders of the proposed raise to $7,500 per year. He justified his position by declaring that it took "big money to get big men."

The writer then introduced an amendment cutting the proposed salary raise back to $5,000 per year—and it carried the house by a very good vote.

Finally the liquor bill, with the salary for the commissioners fixed at $5,000 per year, went over to the senate for consideration. In the conference committee until the very last night of the session.

When the bill came out of the conference committee, a group of both senators and house members appointed to secure an agreement on differences between the house and senate over various amendments. It contained an exceedingly large number of changes that had been made by the conference committee.

It was probably sometime along about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning of the night set for final adjournment when the conference committee reported out the liquor bill.

The salary raise that had been cut out in the house for members of liquor commission had been restored in conference committee, and nothing under the sun could have prevented the passage of the amended liquor bill at that hour in the morning, when every one was tired and wanted to bring to an end a session of the legislature that had continued for three months longer than it should.

So it was that when the Honor (Continued on Page Nine)

FOR RAIL WORKERS

Plymouth has for years been an important railway point on the Pere Marquette system and there are many hundred residing here who are intensely interested in anything which is of benefit to these good citizens.

Because of this fact the following comment taken from the Weekly Post at Salisbury, North Carolina will be of interest locally:

"Final passage of the Railway Retirement Act writes finis to another chapter in the outstanding record of organized labor in the American railway industry," says the Salisbury, North Carolina, Post.

"The new retirement act is an effective compromise between differences of opinion among various groups. On the whole it seems to have the approval of every level of the railroad industry. It appears to be a fair reward all around for intelligent and tolerant dealings between all concerned."

The act constitutes the most comprehensive plan in existence in any industry for the retirement of employes because of age or disability. It affects about 1,500,000 workers, and was evolved by joint negotiations between representatives of railway managements and the 21 standard railroad unions.

Under the terms of the act, any employe of a railroad is eligible to retire at the age of 65, or at 60 if he has completed 30 years of service. Employes may retire at any age after 30 years of service because of mental or physical disability. The act is financed by taxes on both employes and employers. Amount of the retirement pay is dependent upon years of service and compensation received. Benefits are extremely liberal.

The act is important in that it marks a milestone in assuring future security to the workers of our largest single industry. It is equally important in that it represents an amicable and fair settlement of differences between social minded management and reputable, long-established unions. These unions didn't resort to violence and disorder to attain their ends—they sat down with the employers, and discussed and solved their problems. The result is that railroad labor—always highly paid—can look forward with equanimity to the future. The act is a towering monument to wise industrial relations, and sincere, honest dealings on the part of all concerned.

A GOOD MAN RESIGNS

The announcement made in the last issue of The Plymouth Mail of the resignation of Edward Scully from his position with the state sales tax division caused considerable regret among residents in this part of the state where he has represented the department for a number of years. Mr. Scully has been a most efficient and a courteous state employe. He represents the type of men the state should seek to retain in its service. But the deplorable part of the whole business is the fact that public workers of the high type of Mr. Scully do not remain in the employ of the state any longer than necessity demands. It is to be hoped that under the new civil service plan to be worked out that employes of the caliber of Mr. Scully can be induced to enter public employment and then remain permanently in their positions. Unfortunately few people think that such a thing can or will happen under the new civil service law that has been passed.

HOW THE WORKERS ARE SWEATED

Every dollar spent by the Roosevelt administration in the last fiscal year was thus derived:

- From personal income taxes, seven cents.
- From corporation income taxes, eight cents.
- From liquor taxes, six cents.
- From tobacco taxes, six cents.
- From processing taxes, seven cents.
- From excise taxes, five cents.
- From custom duties, five cents.
- From estate and gift taxes, three cents.
- From all other taxes, fees and so forth, four cents.
- From borrowing, forty-nine cents.

Corporation income taxes are "passed on" to buyers, or consumers, of course. In great part, individual income taxes are "passed on."

They talk about "soaking the rich," but the Roosevelt administration is in fact soaking the laborer, soaking the poor, says the News and Courier of Charleston, South Carolina.

Of every dollar that is now being spent for relief, for theaters, for American guidebooks, for dams, roads, office-holders' salaries, you, the workers, are contributing at least forty cents of every dollar spent, and you are borrowing forty-nine cents.

If you like it, all right. It is your affair. Expenses of government, federal and state, have come to be the chief cause of the poverty of the workers in the United States and the greatest of afflictions from which the people suffer.

THE ROAD TO HAPPINESS

- 1—Cultivate the habit of always looking on the bright side of every experience.
- 2—Accept cheerfully the place in life that is yours, believing that it is the best possible place for you.
- 3—Throw your whole soul and spirit into your work, and do it the best you know how.
- 4—Get into the habit of doing bits of kindness and courtesies to all those who touch your life each day.
- 5—Adopt and maintain a simple, child-like attitude of confidence and trust in God as a father.

HELP POLICE OFFICERS

"Two young men and a girl, aged 17 to 19, were killed instantly late last night returning from a dance, when their car crashed into a tree at a high rate of speed. The fourth member of the party is in a critical condition in a local hospital."

This news-item, differing only in minor details, has appeared a thousand times, and in papers in every state of the mobile accident problem—the reckless drivers in their teens and early twenties. Out for a good time, they careen about the highways and by-ways—and at regular intervals death follows in their tracks. Immature minds regard it as an act of enviable bravado to "see what the old old bus will do." In many cases the cars they drive should have been sent to the junk pile long ago—brakes are gone, lights are bad, steering mechanisms are faulty, and tires are down to the fabric, ready for blowouts.

The larger part of the blame for accidents that kill and maim young people must be put squarely on the shoulders of their parents. The fathers and mothers who permit their children to endanger their lives with reckless driving, or are too lazy to find out the true state of affairs, are, to put it kindly, derelict in duty. Even worse are the parents who, when their children are arrested for dangerous driving practices, move heaven and earth to have them freed without punishment—thus, in effect, telling them to go out and do it again. But youth itself, in the form of the young girls who go riding with their boy friends, can be of the greatest assistance in reducing this toll by bestowing a bit of praise and showing admiration for the safe driver and simply refusing to ride with the reckless one—make safe driving the price of a date and watch said boy friend slow down.

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith and his force have but one object in view in what they are doing in their efforts to correct traffic conditions—and that is to save human life. They are entitled to public cooperation, even without the urge to give it.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

SLAPPING THE FARMER

When Governor Murphy vetoed the bill passed by both houses of the state legislature granting $2,000,000 to counties for highway purposes in addition to the McNitt Act which refunds all the automobile weight tax as well as one-half the gasoline tax, he stood directly in the way of better roads for the off-lying sections of the rural areas, for which these extra funds were intended.

There has been an insistent complaint that the roads not so frequently used were being neglected and that too much emphasis was being placed upon improving the secondary highways. There was only one reason given by the Governor for his veto. That was lack of funds, or rather, an unbalanced budget. It evidently never occurred to him that the cost of the present state administration has needlessly grown by several times the two million asked for roads, and that it was very well within reason to cut these expenses several times the sum asked.

The denying of these extra funds for rural highway purposes is not only a slap at these unfortunate farmers, but it will draw funds from use in improving prominent highways where they are greatly needed, through efforts to aid the off-lying farmers.—Adrain Van Koeveering in The Zealand Record.

ICE OF A CONSERVATIVE PAST

With true Murphy delight in aphoristic rhetoric, Michigan's governor has couched his first quarters report in terms of exquisite self-praise and boast. At Mackinac Island recently, where in correct Rooseveltian character he gathered his party henchmen for an Island conference, Governor Murphy spoke as follows: "The ice of a conservative past has been broken and Michigan stands today, in both legislative and administrative achievements, in the front ranks of the progressive states of the Union." He then went on to compare Michigan's present condition with what he inferred was the rule before January 1 when he took office. He spoke of "machine guns"; of "bloodshed"; of men deprived of their "civil liberties"; of the bloody clash of antagonistic interests in the industrial world; of "retribution against labor". He concluded his word picture of Michigan before 1937 by saying, "In the first six months of my administration there has been effected the most notable contribution to the cause of social justice ever accomplished by a government in Michigan."

So this is what Michigan was like! Where, dear Governor, was all this blood shed before you came to the rescue? Where was this carnage enacted? When were machine guns used in Michigan, except by Detroit gangsters? Where did these "bloody clashes" take place? When and where in Michigan have honest men been deprived of their "civil rights" except since last January when honest men and willing were denied the right to work?

Let's get down out of the clouds, governor! Lapsing into another and equally insincere tempo, Governor Murphy pointed to his first six months in office as productive of complete industrial peace. "An historic industrial crisis has now passed entirely in Michigan," he boldly vaunted. "We are today on

FIRST THE HILL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE dream is always greater than the man, however great the plan. The gaunt New Englander went forth

To build a nation in the North And little thought beyond the crest Of good green hills a little west, And yet the flag he gave to dawn Now flies above the Oregon.

For always up alluring streams New dreams move onward from old dreams, And over hills men make their way And find new hills to conquer. They Make camp tonight, and think that here

Their march is ended. Yet the year Shall see their campfires redded skies Above new hills of enterprise.

But he who never dreams at all Because the dream may seem so small, Who thinks to walk the level mile A journey hardly worth the while, Will live and die within the vale, Will never find the upward trail, For none will climb the mountain till

He, first of all, has climbed the hill

Kansas fattens more than 300,000 southwestern ranch and range cattle on its bluestem pastures each year.

the threshold of an industrial peace with no major difficulty in the state."

What? Industrial peace? No major difficulties? Why governor, the very morning newspaper which carried the story of your Mackinac Island speech carried these headlines, all of Detroit labor strikes: "Dairy Strike To Continue"; "Freihauf Strike Parley Opens"; "Trucking Strike Threatens State"; "Cleaning Units Remain Closed"; "Strikers Make Pleas to Gov. Murphy"; "500 Employees on Strike"; "Strike Ties Up Milk Supply to 75,000"; "Gas Plant Unions Submit Demands"; "25 Workers at Kelvinator Plant Ejected in Parley"; and there were others of less import.

"The ice of a conservative past may be broken" for all this writer knows Michigan may be or may not be in the front ranks of progress as stated, for all he cares. But as for "bloodshed" and "retribution" and "antagonism" and "bloody clashes" and men deprived of their civil rights, we have lived in Michigan quite a spell and we never heard of these things until the Murphy regime came along. And as for industrial peace, let's have some ice, it's sure getting hot.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

WHAT IS THE "CLOSED SHOP?"

In these days of one strike after another, the words "closed" and "open" shop are frequently used. Few people know just what the term "closed shop" implies. But a brief news item from Pennsylvania tells the whole story.

In a hosiery mill a group of girls of the Mennonite sect worked. Their religion forbade them to join any organization such as a labor union. But their plant became a closed shop under which those not belonging to the union could not work there. It meant that the employer would be compelled to discharge these girls and they would lose their livelihood.

The union, however, had the answer to that. Its officials agreed that if the girls would pay the regular union dues they would not have to join. And that is the story.

In the final showdown the union did not care whether they belonged to the union. It wanted the dues. The "closed shop" is a means by which employes are compelled to pay over a tax upon each pay envelope or quit work.—James Gallery in The Caro Advertiser.

"We LOVE the delicious roasts prepared in the oven!"

PRAISE FOR THE COOK

One woman says: "Electric cooking has certainly made a hit with our family. We love the delicious roasts prepared in the oven. Meats and vegetables have an entirely different flavor."

Another writes: "You could have our piano, furniture or anything in the house before I would part with my electric range. I wouldn't exchange it for any other stove in America!"

NEW FLAVOR

A range user says: "I have discovered—much to my delight—that cooking with very little water gives meats and vegetables a delicious flavor... something I was never able to do until I cooked electrically."

And another writes: "Delighted with my range! It is excellent in every cooking operation. The flavor of foods is superb."

PROUDOWNER SAYS:

"Our electric range will soon pay for itself, on account of keeping the kitchen immaculate. No other stove is so clean, and so wonderfully easy to keep clean."

Another owner says: "I enjoy my electric range more than any other stove I have ever used." (See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers and all Detroit Edison offices.)

The marriage of Mrs. Alice J. Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Ballen, to Francis Nye Lockwood, son of Mrs. Eva Lockwood, of Ypsilanti, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday, August 28th, at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. The home was decorated throughout with baskets and bowls of garden flowers. Only the immediate families and a few friends were present. The bride was lovely, wearing a stone blue silk crepe afternoon dress with dark blue accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of tea roses.

Lois Bell, of Detroit, a friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She chose a dark green crepe with brown accessories and her corsage was yellow roses.

Ferris Lockwood, of Grand Rapids, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Ballen wore for her daughter's wedding a dress of Burgundy crepe. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mrs. Lockwood chose dark blue chiffon and wore pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood left immediately after the reception on a trip through northern Michigan. Upon their return they will live in Plymouth. They have many, many friends in and around Plymouth, who extend very best wishes to them.

Doerr Completes Aircraft Study

From way out in California comes the news that Phillip Doerr, Plymouth boy, will soon complete his course at the Curtis-Wright school of aeronautical engineering.

Rated as one of the better schools in which to thoroughly learn the technical end of designing, building, and repairing airplanes, this school has for a number of years provided all of the well-known factories with expert technicians.

Nearly a year ago, Doerr decided that his future lay in the field of aviation and since attending the institution he has attained an average consistently above the average. So great is the field of work, that the school guarantees a position for each graduate upon completion of his course.

A portion of the academic work is taken up in the ships of the Curtis airplane company of Glendale, California. The other is spent under the direction of expert teachers. For the work that the students do while working in the shops, pay and school credit are both given.

The duration of the course is a year, after which time graduates are placed immediately. Doerr expects to finish his course early in September.

Thirty million copies of the Bible are printed every year.

Ann Arbor Trail
Once Indian Path

Believe it or not, Plymouth residents, at least a few, can remember when Indians were a part of the life here. Many others have heard their grandparents tell of the days when "Indians were 'thickern' th' woods!"

Mrs. Ida Taft, whose home has been on Ann Arbor Trail for years, has clearly stamped in her memory the Indian stories that her grandparents told her as a child. Slowly making their way across an almost unsettled part of the country, her grandparents arrived in Plymouth in the early days, after a long and at times, nearly impossible trip from New York state.

As first white settlers, they purchased nearly all the land on which is located the present city of Plymouth from the Indians and built a home on the old Indian trail. Later, through the generosity of C. Kellogg, the city was given Kellogg park and the Presbyterian church was given the old cemetery and the church site.

The Indians frequently camped in the front yards of the early settlers here. It's an old tale, but everyone knows or has heard that Indians were very fond of whiskey, good or otherwise. And in order to quench their thirst, they would hitch their pinto ponies to a "stone-beat" with a large jug on the boat, and would then drive up the trail to Ann Arbor to get their beverage. The Ann Arbor road follows almost perfectly the old Indian trail; they built it never bothered to straighten out the bends and curves.

What would the Indians do? Most anything, say the older residents. For instance, every home had a mammoth fireplace in the front room, sometimes reaching the entire length of the room, and into this great room would come the Indian squaws to get warm. They would bring their papooses and literally go on a sit-down strike before the open fire.

The tribes, though small, roamed continually up and down the old Indian trail, living for a short time at one place, then moving to another. They even went so far as to demand milk and flour from the settlers, and in return, would give some Indian trinket.

A hill nearby was named "Bunker Hill", after the one so famous for its battle. Yet, no one apparently knows just how it acquired its name. And to this day, youngsters speak of "going over to Bunker to slide". The scenes of Indians and cowboys have also been rehearsed on this locally famous hill, with the youngsters playing the respective roles.

Thus, brought to light by age and excellent memories, comes the declaration that all of Plymouth once belonged to the "red men", from whom it was bought (or stolen), as the principle demanded. And this land has been handed down from generation to generation, always with progressive leadership an impelling motive.

WHAT SAMMY JAY TOLD BLACKY THE CROW

THIS is the story, the amazing story, that Sammy Jay told to Blacky the Crow as they sat in the Lone Pine. It is the same story he had tried to tell all the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest, but that in his excitement he had mixed up so that nobody could make head or tail of it, and so everybody had thought he had gone crazy.

"I had gone way, way into the Green Forest just to look around a little," said Sammy. "I had seen nothing and nobody for a long time, when suddenly I saw something moving on the ground. I flew over to see what it was, and when I got where I could see clearly I nearly fell from the tree in which I was sitting. Yes, sir, I was so surprised and—frightened that I nearly fell out of that tree!"

Blacky shook his head. "Was it as black as mine?" he asked.

Blacky looked as if he didn't quite believe this, but thought that Sammy was just trying to make a big story. But he didn't say anything, and Sammy went on.

"At first I thought it was Farmer Brown's boy, for the stranger was standing on two legs, just like Farmer Brown's boy, and his back was to me. But in a minute I saw he had on a black fur coat, and I've never seen Farmer Brown's boy wearing a black fur coat, have you?"

Blacky shook his head. "Was it as black as mine?" he asked. Sammy nodded. "Just as black," said he. "In a minute he began to walk, and he didn't walk on two feet—he walked on four feet!" Sammy was beginning to get excited again. "I was so surprised that I guess I screamed. Of course, he heard me and looked up. Hello, Mr. Jay!" said he, and grinned, and when he grinned he showed his teeth and they were very big. I had begun to think that nobody lives around here and was getting kind of lonesome. You don't happen to know where there is any honey, do you?"

The idea of thinking that there would be any honey as early in the spring as this! Then he walked over to a big tree and stood up and stretched his hands way up as high as he could and scratched the bark of the tree, and he saw the awful claws you ever saw! I didn't suppose anybody ever had such claws. When I saw those I just spread my wings and flew away as fast as ever I could. And now when I try to tell about it everybody calls me crazy."

Blacky scratched his head thoughtfully and Sammy suspected that he, too, thought him crazy. "Did he have a tail?" asked Blacky. "I—I don't know," confessed Sammy. "I didn't stop to look."

"And you say he is as big as — as Reddy Fox?" asked Blacky, his sharp eyes twinkling shrewdly. "I said he is as big as Farmer Brown's boy!" replied Sammy indignantly.

"And he walks on four legs?" persisted Blacky. "Yes," replied Sammy, "but he stands on two legs."

"Hm-m-m," said Blacky. "I've lived a long time in the Green Forest, but I've never seen or heard of any one like that. You are sure you did not dream it, Sammy?"

"Of course, I didn't dream it!" cried Sammy. "Did you ever know me to go to sleep in the daytime? I tell you he's a stranger!"

"Where did you say you saw him?" asked Blacky. "Deep in the Green Forest, beyond the pond of Paddy the Beaver," replied Sammy.

"I believe I'll go have a look for myself," said Blacky. "Won't you come show me the way?"

"No, thanks," replied Sammy promptly. "I've seen him once, and that's enough!"

And so Blacky the Crow started alone to hunt for the stranger in the Green Forest.

Steelhead Trout Season Still Open

Although Labor Day ends the regular trout fishing season in Michigan, the law provides for a special three-month extension for the taking of steelhead or rainbow trout only in certain designated waters.

The steelhead fishing season continues open throughout September, October and November.

Steelheads, in sizes up to 15 or more pounds, begin to enter the waters tributary to the Great Lakes and larger inland lakes early in the fall. Waters in which fishing for this species will be permitted until Nov. 30, are:

Muskegon river, Muskegon and White lakes and White river, Muskegon county; White river down from the dam at Hesperia, Pentwater and Stony lakes, Oscana county; Muskegon river down from Rogers dam, Mecosta and Newaygo counties; Pere Marquette river down from Indian bridge, section 23 T18N, R16W.; south branch Pere Marquette river down from Riverview bridge, sections 35 and 36 T18N, R16W. and Pere Marquette lake, Mason county.

Manistee river, Manistee, Arcadia and Portage lakes, Manistee county; Manistee river down from Trunkline US-131, Wexford county; Round, Platte, Bronson, Lake Ann, Lower Herring and Betsie lakes, Benzie county; Mullet and Burt lakes, Indian and Crooked rivers and Sturgeon river down from the dam at Wolvaine, Cheboygan county; Crooked river, Crooked and Pickarel lakes, Emmet county; Lake Charlevoix, Charlevoix county and channel below new powerhouse at Elk Rapids in Antrim county.

City Fishermen Are Chief Law Violators

Who are the most inclined to violate the conservation laws in Michigan—the city resident or the one from the small town or rural community?

Figures contained in the compilation of arrests by conservation officers during July offers interesting material for speculation on that question. While the rates of offenders per total city population or total rural population, if known, might vary surprisingly for that month, exposes the city man as being numerically the "bigger violator."

Of 269 persons taken into custody by conservation officers during the month of July in Michigan, 197 were city residents while 72 came from cities of less than 10,000 population and small rural communities.

Of the city violators the majority were from the Detroit area.

Sixty-five of the city violators were non-residents, coming from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio for the most part; one came from California. Most of the non-residents were vacation visitors.

The smaller up-state towns and communities appeared far less frequently in the compilation, indicating that for the vacation months the city sportsman may be the chief law enforcement problem to conservation officers.

Locals

Mr. and Mrs. John Burke, of West Ann Arbor Trail, plan to move Saturday into their new home on Berwick avenue in Rosedale Gardens.

Mrs. Minot Weed, of West Ann Arbor trail, is confined to her home by illness this week.

Mrs. William Robertson and daughter, Joyce, and Mrs. John T. Neale and children motored to Kingsville, Ontario, Thursday where they were the guests of Detroit friends at their summer home.

Arthur Beach, who has spent the past month at Mrs. Stella Honeywell's, expects to return to his home in West Palm Beach, Florida, the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Terry entertained the employees of the Sanitary Bakery, their wives and husbands, Wednesday evening, at a picnic dinner in Riverside park. The guests numbered 20.

The Presbyterian ladies and anyone else wishing to dispose of clothing and accumulated articles are asked to save them for the October rummage sale.—Adv.

The great majority of arrests during the month were for violations of the fishing laws. 109 persons being taken into custody for fishing without a license and 94 for possession of undersize fish.

Obituary

WILLIAM S. THOMAS

William S. Thomas, aged 89 years, passed away very suddenly early Friday morning, August 27, while visiting at the home of a friend in Brecksville, Ohio. Since the death of his wife in February of this year Mr. Thomas has resided with his youngest son Frederick Thomas of this city. He leaves to mourn his loss, three sons, James W., of Detroit; Edmund A., of New Castle, Indiana; Frederick J., of Plymouth; one sister, Elizabeth Thomas of Detroit; and six grandchildren. Funeral services were held from the Wikke funeral home on Outer Drive, Monday afternoon, August 30. Interment was made in Elmwood cemetery, Detroit, Rev. P. Ray Norton officiating.

LYDIA HUBBARD

The many friends of Mrs. Lydia Hubbard were saddened to learn of her death on Thursday, August 19, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Christensen, in Northville. Although Mrs. Hubbard had not been in good health for some time she was only ill in bed one week. Funeral services were held from the Christensen home, on the Nine Mile road, Sunday, August 29, with the Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Plymouth, presiding. Burial took place in Rural Hill, Northville. Mrs. Hubbard was 85 years old and about 66 years ago became the wife of Henry Hubbard, who passed away 32 years ago. They had five children, three of whom are living, Mrs. Iva Christensen, of Northville, Mrs. Katherine Manners of Chicago, and Charles Hubbard of this city. Mrs. Hubbard also leaves a brother, William Glympe of Plymouth, with whom she made her home the past 22 years.

I even sterilize the jars, tops, and rubbers in the oven by setting the heat control at 275 degrees. That's not hot enough to injure the rubbers, still it does kill the germs.

Then after cleaning the berries or whatever I'm going to can I place them in the sterilized jars filling with boiling water, of about half and half sugar and water, to within one inch of the top. Then I place the rubbers in position, screwing on the tops, and adjusting only the upper clamp, but not sealing them tight.

Place the jars in the oven, set at 275 degrees, set the timer for 35 to 45 minutes, depending upon the kind of berries, and relax.

When the timer rings the canning is done. The jar tops are then immediately sealed securely, and are ready for storing.

Business Places To Be Closed On Labor Day

Plymouth Joins Nation In Celebration

Plymouth business places will be closed Monday as residents of the city join the nation in celebrating Labor Day.

Residents will spend the extra long week-end at summer resorts or on picnics at nearby parks. Warnings came from state officials that especially congested highways call for "special driving methods" if Michigan is to reduce its usual ghastly holiday traffic toll.

"Speeds must be reduced in heavy traffic," one official said. "Trips should be started sufficiently in advance to give the motorists time to arrive at their destination at moderate speeds. The car and its equipment should be thoroughly checked. If every driver makes it a personal responsibility to drive safely, Michigan can reduce its holiday traffic toll."

Posed As Target To Sell Air Rifles

In his office in the ivy-covered factory at Plymouth, Mr. Bennett picked up the rifle that the mandarin had handled and recalled experiences in extending the sales of air rifles.

"There are no air rifles in Italy or Russia. They never have permitted the guns to be sold there. I know of men who have insisted on taking samples to those countries getting themselves into considerable trouble," he said.

The manufacturer recalled that his company used to send many rifles to Japan until a Japanese appeared in Chicago several years ago and asked to be the company's agent.

"In a short time," Mr. Bennett said, "a duplicate for our gun, bearing the same name, appeared on the Japanese market. For some time they had trouble making the springs, and our guns continued to sell. But they are improving." Despite that he likes the Japanese.

Without qualification, Mr. Bennett declares that the Chinese are the greatest merchants in the world.

"They will tear their whole shop apart to show you merchandise and if you buy nothing they will be kindly and smiling when you leave as when you arrived."

An ardent Rotarian and representative of his club at International Rotary conventions, Mr. Bennett recalled that he had traveled 200 miles on various occasions while on his latest trip to Japan in order to maintain a perfect attendance record.

He entered one meeting in Japan a few minutes after the session had started, he said, and every man at the table stood and bowed when he entered the room.

"They were all Japanese, but many of them were graduates from American colleges, and some had attended the University of Michigan. I was treated royally."

He believes that the Chinese have an uncanny means of learning things and transporting information. He relates that in one Chinese city he had gone to look at some German air rifles after being in the city but a few hours.

Arriving at the shop, Mr. Bennett was shown the German rifles, then he noticed that one of his company's rifles was on the shelf. "May I see that one?" he asked.

"You don't have to see that one," the merchant replied, "you work for that company." Then he laughed.

How did Mr. Bennett get started in the air-rifle business? Born in Plymouth, Mr. Bennett for some time prior to 1888 had tried selling fanning mills to farmers for cleaning grain.

"I never found a farmer who really wanted one," he said. "They all said they would borrow their neighbor's." About that time a small part of this present factory had been built by some men who made iron windmills. The farmers wouldn't let them and they would squeak; so they were a failure. Then the man who had talked them into making windmills came along with the air rifle.

"When they first started to make the rifles I used to take a few on the wagon along with the fannings mills to sell to the farm boys. They sold, so I turned my attention to the air rifle business."

Mr. Bennett's factory produces about 5,000 air rifles, pop guns and toy guns of other types in a day. In a year several million feet of lumber are made into gun stocks.

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis

WITHOUT adequate mental power, the reflective and creative processes of the mind cannot effectively function.

Whenever analyzing the fingers for preliminary determination of fundamental mental qualities, always bear in mind that the fourth finger invariably indicates the amount and kind of force that lies behind them, for this factor has a vitally important bearing upon the correctness of your deductions.

Finger of Mediocre Mentality. You will never have the slightest difficulty in recognizing this type, for it cannot possibly be confused with other types. You will be immediately impressed by its short ungainly structure.

The fourth finger thus classified is thick and usually overfleshed, particularly on its under side. The knuckles are smooth and often deeply creased by reason of their excess flesh. With fingers pressed closely together, the tip falls even with or even below the nail joint of the third finger. With hand extended wide, the finger leans far away from the third finger. The nail is short and dish-shaped, and is usually deeply imbedded in the surrounding flesh. Under backward pressure, there may be a surprisingly degree of flexibility or the reverse. In the first instance, a stubbornly mediocre mentality is indicated; in the second, vacillation as well as mediocrity.

The individual with this type of fourth finger is one who has at his command an exceedingly small reserve of mental energy and "pep."

There are about 178,000 miles of roads in England. Of these, 40,500 are subject to a 30 mile an hour speed limit.

Fair Biggest And Best Ever Held

(Continued From Page One) automobile stunting as ever witnessed on any fair ground. It was a worthwhile entertainment and attracted much favorable comment.

Edward Flaherty drove away the Chevrolet on Thursday and he works in the valve factory of the Ford Motor company at Northville.

The Plymouth car given away on Friday went to Mrs. Carl Caplin of Plymouth and the Ford car given away on Saturday is now possessed by Mrs. H. B. Miller of Novi. There seemed to be more interest in the disposal of these cars this year than ever before. Charles J. Thumme of Plymouth was one of the judges of the automobile committee.

The poultry show was by far the biggest and best ever conducted in Northville. In fact some of the poultry exhibitors declared that the state fair had never had anything equal to it.

Of course the junior horse show in which several from Plymouth took part was one of the big events of the week.

The senior horse show on Friday and Saturday drew thousands to witness the daring and expert horsemanship of both prominent men and women from all over this part of the state.

Plymouth day was outstanding. It seemed as though everyone was there from Plymouth. The parade was so long that it could not get on the race track at one time. In fact so many were the cars in the line that a large number never even got in the procession around the grandstand.

There were many favorable comments heard about the playing of the Plymouth school band. President Elmer Smith of the association is more than pleased with the success of the 1937 venture. In past years bad weather has played its part in cutting down attendance, but not so this year.

The thousands of friends of the Northville-Wayne County fair will be pleased to know that the success of this year's event will make possible a far bigger and better fair in 1938.

It is incorrect to say "per day" or "per week," according to grammarians.

Mrs. Charles Smith, a recent bride, has been honored by two showers: one was given by her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rice, at the home of Mrs. Rice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bidman, of Worden, on Saturday, August 7. After an evening spent playing pedro, Mrs. Rice served a light lunch and Mr. and Mrs. Smith unwrapped the many useful and lovely gifts which they received during the evening. Those present were the honored guests; Mrs. Mae Gyde, Mr. and Mrs. Will Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Manfred Becker, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rorabacher and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Gyde and sons, all of Plymouth; Mrs. Russell Thompson and son of Dearborn; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wilson of Salem; and Mr. and Mrs. Mervel Gyde and family of Pinckney. The other shower was given in Riverside park last Friday by her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Gyde. After playing a game of which Miss Alice Williams took the prize, a light lunch was served. Mrs. Smith then opened her gifts, all well chosen for a bride and her new home. Those present were the guest of honor, Mrs. Smith, her mother, Mrs. Mae Gyde, Mrs.

Highmy, Mrs. Carmen Root, Mrs. Henry Root, Mrs. Schaufele, Mrs. Lloyd Williams and daughters, Alice and Doris, Mrs. Columbus Wilkins, Mrs. Ed Bolston and daughter, Marian, all of Plymouth, and Mrs. Jim Burrow of Cherry Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jayson Day and family have returned from a summer's stay at Douglas lake, near Pellston, and are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Hitt, before returning to East Detroit, where Mr. Day will resume his commercial teaching in the high school.

On Tuesday evening of last week Mary Lorenz and Mary Urban entertained at a miscellaneous shower honoring Rosemary West and her fiance, Jayson Lyke, of Northville. They were the recipients of some lovely gifts. Miss West and Mr. Lyke will be married Saturday, September 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lage (Marian Wurster) of Ann Arbor, have moved to Plymouth and are at home in the Innis apartments on West Ann Arbor Trail. Mrs. Lage will continue teaching in the kindergarten of the Plymouth schools.

Dr. and Mrs. Olsaver were hosts at dinner, Wednesday, at their summer home at Base lake, entertaining Dr. and Mrs. Harold Brisbois, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Moon and Mrs. Cass Hough.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman
PROTECTION AGAINST TERMITES

I AM hearing more and more of damage to houses by termites, and from practically all sections of the country. Termites are now known to be the real cause of a destruction of wood that was formerly blamed on dry rot. It is a matter of fact that nature provides termites for the reduction of dead wood to mold. They are part of the scheme of things. They are pests only when they attack wood that mankind wants to preserve. We cannot hope to exterminate termites. Our protection against them is to build our houses in such a way that they cannot be housed. Termites nests are always in the ground. In attacking a house, they do not set up nests in the wood-work, but travel back and forth between the wood and the home nest. Considering the damage that they can do, it seems only rational to build a house in such a way and of such materials that an attack will not be possible.

Foundations should be poured concrete reinforced with steel bars to prevent cracking. In modern house designs, the first floor is on a level with the ground—or nearly so. This brings the floor beams within easy reach of termites. These beams should therefore be of steel instead of wood. Sills, studs, sheathing and other wood parts are also exposed. For protection, these wood parts should be impregnated with any one of several chemicals that will make them termite-proof. Treated wood can be had through any lumber yard. The price will be somewhat increased, but considering the damage that is avoided, the extra cost can be regarded as insurance, and is certainly a small price to pay.

Termites are of three classes or castes. The largest caste is made up of the "workers," which do the damage. A second class, known as "soldiers," protect the workers against the attacks of ants and other enemies. Both of these castes are white; they are blind and never come to the surface. The third class is made up of winged black "reproductives." Once a year in the spring, occasionally also in the fall, they appear in a great swarm; they flutter about for a brief time, drop their wings, and disappear. A swarm of these insects is a danger signal that no home owner should disregard. He should at once find out whether his house has been attacked. There will be no outward sign on the woodwork; the destruction will all be within and can be learned only by drilling small holes, by pounding, or in some other way that will indicate hollowing of the timber. He may find slender tunnels of clay over the surface of masonry, these being the paths by which the termites circulate from the nest in the group.

Information on how to proceed can be had from a pamphlet issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The departments of agriculture of many states also have information.

Hudson and Staten Island Staten Island was one of the earliest discoveries of the explorer, Henry Hudson. He first saw the highlands on September 2, 1609, and on the following day entered the lower bay and anchored in the harbor of Sandy Hook. The next day he manned a small boat and sent it through the narrows to explore the bay, and the island now known as Staten Island was discovered September 4. It was then inhabited by a branch of the Raritan Indians. In 1630 the Dutch West India company purchased the island from the natives, giving in exchange for it some kettles, axes, hoes, warmpans, drilling awls, jew's-sharps and divers small wares. It was the Dutch who named the island, calling it Staaten Eylandt—Island of the States—after the States General, the Parliament of the Netherlands, which was popularly referred to as "the States."

Kellogg Park Is Beauty Spot

Some worthwhile progress has been made during the present summer in the improvement of Kellogg park, the beauty spot within the heart of the city of Plymouth. There is much more that can be done, but Plymouth residents are appreciative of the first real effort to make the park the beauty spot which it should be. The trees have been properly trimmed. The shrubs have been taken care of and the flowers planted last spring now add their part to the general improvement. There is a whole lot more that can be done, but the city, say those who have watched the park development, are highly pleased over the more favorable appearance that the park now possesses than it did a year ago. The work has been done largely by Harry Minthorn, who has knowledge of landscaping and plantings. In fact, it is quite amazing what has been accomplished in the brief time that has been at his disposal to do the work. Kellogg park can be made into one of the most beautiful places of its kind in Michigan.

The TONQUISH CREEK BREEZE
Published at Tonquish Creek, Michigan
The People's Watch Dog
Vol. 1 No. 13

It begins to look right now as though Tonquish Creek is going to have a pretty hot political fight over who is going to be constable. Last week's BREEZE had an item about Matt Powell being the victim of some pretty slick thief who stole his felt boots. Now Mathew Stephens Madison Powell, (that is his political name) is going to run for constable so he can catch the daring criminal.

A PAID AD
One nite the udder day about a week ago last month I heard me a noise hyder front middle of de bac yard which did not use to be. So I jumps de bed out and runs mit der door and ven I see I finds that my pig grey mare he was tied loose and runnin' mit de stable off. Whoever prings him pack shall pay five dollars reward.

The new millinery all the boys of the Creek have been looking for is not here yet. They've even been meeting the trains.

Some of the young folks hereabouts have been leaving for seats of higher learning. They don't think they have got enough education here in the Creek. Too much education is not a good thing for some folks, says Creeker

Harold Finlan. Since he turned back the floods, this creeker has set himself up as a sort of authority on everything pertaining to the weather, rainfall and education and even politics.

Barrister Perry Richwine took a crack at the editor of The Breeze the other day. It seems he didn't like that insinuation about work. All the Breeze will say is that the BREEZE KNOWS.

There's been some gossip floating about these parts that Doc Butz didn't go fishing up in Canada as most folks think. He went up to find out something about some trips that a certain candidate for constable has been making up to the north woods.

Jake Crust, a new baker that Creeker Clair Maben has imported from Hickory Corners is in a bad fix. Jake figured a big saving of dough by punching larger holes in his doughnuts. Later he discovered it took more dough to go round the bigger hole than a little one. This kitchen economy might go in politics but it just don't fit into high class cooking.

Stan Corbett, our famous Thomas Edison of Tonquish Creek, has been thinking of going into the chicken business, say some of the Creekers. He's been looking at some real show birds down around the creek lately. Maybe he's just looking.

Brick Champe went over to Mud Holler the other day to see some feller who claims he has a new sort of Nelson hold for wrestlers. Brick thinks maybe a wrestling show might go good. He would like to book Abe Goldstein and Harold Finlan. Odds right now are on Finlan if the match takes place, but the boys had better look out, as Abe may prove to be a dark horse.

Stan Corbett whizzed into the Creek valley yesterday afternoon with some interesting gossip he had picked up just west of the Creek. It seems that Fred Schrader has been telling the Creekers all summer long about his oats standin' go high his buffalo could not reach the top of the grain. He started harvesting his crop the other day. When the big binder run up against a snag he found a house trailer out in the middle of the field where some folks had been living all summer. Nobody knew about it, says Creeker Corbett because the oats were so high the trailer couldn't be seen from the road and the folks living in it couldn't be seen as they trailed down through the field to the road-way.

Schraders Take Laundry

Last Thursday at the Northville County fair the Schrader baseball club defeated Perfection Laundry 3 to 2 for the third consecutive time in the last two years with the identical score of 3 to 2.

Sunday at Riverside park the strong Schraders team won the opening game of the two game knock-out play-off series by the score of 9 to 4, and as a result draws a bye next Sunday, as the remaining teams carry on the play-off series.

Next Sunday at Cass Benton park the local Perfection Laundry team will meet Cass Benton who drew a bye in the opening round. A victory for the local nine will mean a game at Riverside Park next Monday (Labor Day) with either Wyandotte, Glen Gray or the winner of the Garden City-Belleville game. In other words the local boys cannot afford another defeat during the play-offs. Let's turn out and cheer the local boys on to victory on both Sunday and Monday.

Parkway Group Formed Here

Twelve members of the Huron-Clinton Parkway committee were guests of Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple and T. Glenn Phillips for luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel last Thursday.

A permanent organization was formed to function until some sort of legislative authority can be established. Harry E. Earhart, of Ann Arbor, was named chairman. Other officers include vice-chairman, Prof. E. C. Goddard, of Ann Arbor; executive secretary, Dr. Henry S. Curtis of Ann Arbor; executive committee, Edward N. Hines of the Wayne County Road commission; Col. Sidney Waldon, of Pontiac; Samuel T. Dana, dean of the Forestry School, University of Michigan; Prof. Henry E. Riggs, University of Michigan; Mrs. James Inglis, of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Hines gave a report on his contacts with the road commission of the six counties, included in the parkway: Wayne, Washtenaw, Livingston, Monroe, Oakland and Macomb.

The name, Huron-Clinton Parkway committee, was chosen as a permanent title.

The objective of the project includes all type of recreation on water and land such as we have in the River Rouge parkway. Other objectives are to free the Huron and Clinton rivers of sewage, to obtain dedication of as many acres as possible (three large tracts have already been dedicated), to establish forest areas, to promote water plantings such as that of the Ann Arbor Garden club which this year started its Lotus garden in the Huron, and to create an area of beauty from Lake Erie to Lake St. Clair.

The following committee heads were appointed: Chairman of the executive committee, H. B. Earhart, Ann Arbor; chairman of Wild Life committee, E. L. Foreman; chairman of local publicity, George C. Handy, Ypsilanti; and chairman of general publicity, J. S. Gray, Monroe; chairman of cooperation with state agencies, Harold D. Smith, Lansing; chairman of cooperation with Women's club, Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple, Plymouth; chairman of cooperation with civic clubs and churches, Prof. E. C. Goddard.

Workers Get Big Pay Boosts

POSITION OF RIGHT ARM

KEEP your eye on the golfer who is overanxious to kill the ball and you no doubt will see him flap the right arm around so that at the top of the stroke it is almost straight out from the trunk of the body. From such a position it is very easy to make the mistake of coming onto the ball from the outside in, i.e., cutting across the ball and adding a slice. Furthermore such an extreme movement adds an unnecessary tension to the arm which it could very well do without. The proper method is to keep the right arm comfortably close to the right side. Tommy Armour for example keeps his right elbow tucked in close but possesses freedom of action nevertheless. Armour's is more or less of an extreme position, most of the players allow the right arm a trifle more freedom after the manner of Bobby Jones above. On the longer shots the Atlanta wizard's elbow is raised moderately and on the first stages of the downstroke, drops abruptly nearer the side. The cock of the wrists is in no manner disturbed by this motion and their power is saved to be utilized later on. The abrupt dropping of the right arm insures a swinging path from the inside, close to the body and brings the clubbed onto the ball straight along the line of flight.

Garden City Cops Northville Title

Garden City won the championship of the Northville Fair by defeating Belleville 6 to 0 on Friday, and trimming Plymouth Schrader 7 to 1 on Saturday.

On Sunday afternoon Garden City lost the first game of the play-offs in the Michigan Inter-County league to Wyandotte by the score of 4 to 2.

Waldo Scott pitched four-hit ball to conquer Belleville while his teammates collected 13 hits off two Belleville pitchers. Ace Hill pitched against Plymouth Schrader and allowed only seven hits. Going into the ninth inning, Hill had the Plymouth team shut out, but a freak double which resulted from two outfielders being crossed up as to who would take the ball, and a single spoiled the shut-out. Garden City collected nine hits in this game and had little trouble in the Plymouth team.

On Sunday afternoon Garden City ran into some difficulty when Grybel, Wyandotte's ace right-hander, set the lads down with six hits. His mates collected nine hits off of Ray Pyle, the hits including 5 doubles and a triple. Wyandotte scored three of their runs in the fifth inning when Wyandotte collected a single, a double, a triple and another double in succession.

Garden City scored a run in the first inning when Joe Higgins hit the first pitch of the game for a double. Two infield outs followed and Charlie Wolfram walked. R. Wolfram singled to right to score Higgins. In the fourth inning O'Brien tripped and came home on R. Wolfram's double. Incidentally R. Wolfram came out of his slump and collected two doubles, a single and a walk in four trips to the plate.

The defeat left Garden City in a hole in which they will have to battle straight through the play-offs with another defeat in order for them to duplicate last year's feat of winning the championship of the Michigan Inter-County league.

Next Sunday Garden City will journey to Belleville to play them in the second game of the play-offs. A defeat to either team would eliminate them from the play-offs.

With Equal Weight

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NOT only Atlas bore the earth Upon his shoulders. Also we Have some small world of some small worth. For our responsibility, Not burdened only are the great. For others have them, each and all; Yes, problems press with equal weight Upon the mighty and the small. Our own small world our own small way Each on his aching shoulder bears. They little understand it, they Concerned alone with large affairs.

Some little duty takes our time, Some little worry takes our sleep, Some little slope we have to climb, Some little family to keep.

I have my world, and you have yours. The little often larger than Some other that his esse endures, And quite forgets the little man. The little burden may be great, The great be little, after all. At least they bear with equal weight Upon the mighty and the small.

ALL-STARS MAKE CHAMP GOLFERS EAT WORDS

A chance boast cost the city golf league champions, the Banner Beer team, their prize at the Roundup Day at the Plymouth Hills golf club Sunday.

The champs, composed of Captain Herb Burley, Lee Rorabacher, Lionel Coffin and Jack McAllister, were tops all through the competition but Sunday when Captain Herb Burley, in accepting the prize of several dozen golf balls, remarked that there "wasn't four players in the whole league who could beat the champs," he apparently spoke out of turn.

Elmer Horvath immediately accepted the challenge and picked "Butch" Burley, "Bill" Choffin and Bert Papp to help him show up the title holders in a special match.

The All-Stars did it too, 7 to 5, and grabbed off the golf balls.

Other league teams who won prizes for the regular season included Wild & Co. second place; Fenniman-Allen, third; The Barbers, fourth; Bakery No. 1, fifth; Bakery No. 2, sixth.

New Laws To Aid Health Control

The Michigan plan for centralizing tuberculosis control activities in the local health department is proving most effective with the aid of the laws passed by the 1937 Legislature, according to Dr. C. C. Slemmons, state health commissioner.

Under the new laws, the local health officer is the sole agency responsible to the country for the care, treatment and hospitalization of tuberculosis patients. The local officers enforce the rules and regulations prescribed by the Michigan Department of Health. All patients requiring hospital care at county expense must fill out the department's official application. This form must be signed by the health officer as the only acceptable means of admittance for such patients to any approved hospital or sanatorium.

A great boon to counties is the doubling of the state subsidy for hospitalization of tuberculosis patients. By increasing this subsidy from 75 cents to $1.50 per day, the state assumes about one-half of the total cost. Poor counties with heavy case loads can now afford to provide treatment for more patients.

The local health officer also has a new weapon for enforcing the hospitalization of tuberculous persons who may be endangering the health of others. The probate court, upon the petition of the health officer, may commit such a person to an approved sanatorium until he is no longer in a dangerous communicable stage of the disease. This law is effective October 29; the others were given immediate effect.

Complete indigency is not necessary before a patient may receive hospital care at public expense. Treatment may now be obtained as soon as the diagnosis is established. Lengthy investigations and controversies, during which many a patient in the past has grown steadily worse, will thus be avoided.

Even the matter of legal residence is no longer a bar to immediate hospital care. The new laws provide for such care by the county where the patient is found. The question of residence is later arbitrated by the director of the State Welfare Department.

After a most delightful and profitable summer in which we have worshipped with the friends of our sister churches we resume our regular services this Sunday. The congregation of this church is called to a communion service at ten o'clock. The sermon subject is, "Reading and Sewing." A time to read, and a time to sew. Eccl. 3:7. It is much desired that there be a full attendance of our membership and those who choose to worship with us.—11:15. Bible school. Let's all gather back for next Sunday in our several classes. At seven-thirty it is expected that the pastor and his wife will have as their guest the son of old friends, both of whom have been called early in life to the great beyond, but not until they had given two lives to christian work. Spencer Bower is a Wheaton College student who has for the past two years been associated with a great missionary enterprise in the north woods of Minnesota. He will tell of his call to the ministry and of his work during this time. We especially urge our young people to hear Spencer. Mr. Bower's sister with her husband are missionaries in South America. The pastor at one time saw a motto in the vestibule of a certain church which read, "You will grow with this church or this church will grow with you." It is the call of the Christ that bids you eat at His table next Sunday. It is He to whom you must answer if you are not there.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST Scientist—Sunday morning service, 10:30. Sunday school at 10:30. Pupils received up to the age of twenty years. Wednesday evening testimony service, 8:00.

"Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 5.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matt. 5:48): "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 259): "The Christlike understanding of scientific being and divine healing includes a perfect Principle and idea—perfect God and perfect man,—as the basis of thought and demonstration."

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, Hardenburg and North Holbrook Avenue. An amateur typist, in writing an article, wrote that each Christian was to "walk worthy of our vocation to which we are called. However, he hit the wrong key and made it "vacation." How many Christians seem to think they are called to a prolonged vacation. The moment summer appears, Sunday school falls in attendance; the evening service is too often closed for the warm weather period. They wander from Christian service and from Christian living. We may be thankful for a vacation, but we must remember that we are under the eye of man, either to the praise of God or to the reproach of His Name. There is no vacation from the demand and privilege of Christian service. Both services this Sunday are in charge of the Rev. Mr. Lyn B. Stout, of Howard City, Michigan. Communion service at 10 o'clock in the morning; evangelistic message at 7:30 p.m. Bible School immediately following the morning service. Wednesday evening is given to prayer, testimony, and Bible Study. When 7:30 rolls around, we would be most happy to welcome you. May we? Come to Calvary. We preach Christ crucified, risen and coming again. It is a joy to announce the departure of several of our young people for Chicago, where they will attend a four day conference at the Moody Bible Institute. The best Bible teachers in this country will be there. We trust 'his experience will be a great blessing to them.

ST. PAUL'S EV. LUTH. CHURCH, Livonia Center. English service Sept. 5, 1937 at 2:30 p.m. Gerhard E. Peters preaching.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH—Rosedale Gardens. Masses: Sundays 8:00 and 11:00 a.m. Holy Days 7:30 and 9:00 a.m. Week day, 8:00 a.m. Confessions before each Mass. Catechism class after first Mass. Benediction after second Mass. Baptism by appointment.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST Services Saturday Afternoon at Jewell-Blach hall. Sabbath school 2 p.m. Bible school following. Prayer service, Tuesday evening, 8:00 p.m. at Jewell-Blach hall. Testimony study every Friday evening at various homes.

CHURCH OF GOD—788 Penniman avenue. Sunday, Bible school 10 a.m. Morning worship, 11 a.m. Young People's meeting, 6:30 p.m. Evangelistic service, 7:45 p.m. Mid-week prayer meeting, Thursday, 7:45 p.m. A hearty welcome awaits you at the Church of God, Pastor, Rev. E. L. Harris, 38005 Ford road. (Not Pentecostal).

Warning—IMPORTANT

Following wire from Washington:

"Chairman Hosford (Coal Commission) announced today that an Order had just been issued instructing the District Boards to send in their prices by September 2. Co-ordination starts on September 8, to be finished by September 23. Prices are to be put out by the Commission on October 1."

This means that coal prices will be fixed by October 1st. It also means the following:

1. HIGHER COAL PRICES, especially from fields where prices have been badly depressed.
2. We anticipate a very HEAVY DEMAND between now and October 1st, a demand that may tax our ability to handle.
3. Inability of the railroads to move the tonnage account heavy movement and an already SHORTAGE of railroad equipment.
4. We URGE our friends and customers to BUY NOW while prices are attractive and deliveries certain.

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

The Finger of Shrewd Mentality

There are some men and women whose successes are seemingly achieved solely through tireless scheming and almost uncanny foresight. Such people gain their objectives by secrecy and shrewdness, which often fall just short of cunning. In matters of finance particularly, they seldom miss a trick, which is sometimes taken at the expense of the other fellow.

Here we shall consider the fourth finger and its indications of this kind of mental power.

Finger of Shrewd Mentality. Excessive length and length are, perhaps, the most outstanding characteristics of this type of finger. With them is also found a somewhat irregular but pronounced curve of the entire finger toward the third finger. The finger is of rather wiry appearance, with peculiarly prominent knuckles, notably the second joint. These, however, are not of the usual "knotty" variety.

The nail tip is often quite striking in its length, and the nail is invariably long, narrow, inclined to convexity of form and well set. With the hand extended wide, the finger lies extremely close to the third finger, and with the fingers pressed together its tip falls just below that of the third finger.

Those who possess fourth fingers of this type usually plan secretly and thoroughly, and have an amazing tirelessness in bringing their plans to a successful outcome.

Homes Festival To Close Monday

After being open to the public for a period of two months, the exhibit of multiple-unit homes at West Warren and Middle Belt roads, sponsored by the Garden City Civic association, will be brought to a close with a three-day festival which will begin on Saturday and will continue through Sunday and Labor Day.

Anticipating that many of the visitors will be in a holiday mood, the Civic association has arranged for a number of entertainment features in connection with the home display. Among these will be a carnival company, complete with merry-go-round, ferris wheel, lupo planes and sideshows. Other attractions will include band concerts afternoon and evening by a 45-piece concert band, and by the Boys' German band of Dearborn, together with fireworks each night. Numerous refreshment booths have been provided.

A feature of the festival will be the turning over of the three multiple-unit homes to their owners, the first unit on Saturday night, the second on Sunday night and the third on the night of Labor Day.

The homes on exhibit are called multiple-unit homes, because when completed, they consist of from one to three units, depending upon how large a home an individual may wish to build.

For example, if a person has only a moderate sum to invest in the building of a home, he may limit the size of his home to a single two-story unit, the first floor having a combination living room and bedroom, and a combination kitchen and dining room, while on the second floor there is a bedroom and bath. The interior may be left in a semi-finished state, the owner completing the interior trim, lathing and plastering in his spare time.

The home is so designed that additional rooms may be built on at either side without any alterations being made in the portion already erected, all partitions in the first unit remaining just where they were when the unit was built. In fact, so carefully have the plans been worked out that additions can be made without tearing off a single board from the original structure.

Of even greater importance perhaps than the ease of adding on additional units is the fact that multiple-unit homes differ from the ordinary temporary house in that each unit embodies the same high type of construction that is found in the finest of modern residences. In this respect the multiple-unit home marks a great forward step over the type of structure built in the past as more or less of a temporary dwelling which the owner intended to tear down and replace at some later time with a permanent home substantially built in the multiple-unit type of home, each unit is a permanent structure in itself, the result being that it is not necessary to scrap any part of it when additions are made.

The homes will be open to visitors from 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. daily, through Labor Day, the buildings and grounds being illuminated with 9,000 candle power lights for the benefit of those visiting the exhibit at night.

Expiring Licenses
All 1936-1937 hunting licenses and gun permits will expire in Michigan, Thursday, Sept. 30, the department of conservation announced.

Hunting licenses for the 1937-1938 seasons are now being distributed by the department throughout the state and will be on sale in advance of the fall hunting season. New gun permits may be issued by conservation officers to applicants who have purchased the new hunting licenses.
