Dr. Luther Peck Awarded Rotary's First Community Service Medal At Last Friday's Meeting

Faithful Service Wins Recognition

History of Health Work In Plymouth Is Reviewed

Upon a wall in the office of Dr. Luther Peck there is today hanging a Rotary plaque for distinguished community service performed over a period of nearly 35 years. It is the first and only award of its kind ever made to a Plymouth citizen by the Rotary club of this city. The award is all the more significant because of the fact it went to one who is not a member of the club.

Dr. Peck, who is at present filling the position of health officer of Plymouth, a place he also occupied in the years of long ago, was last Friday noon invited to attend the Rotary meeting and tell the members of the organization something of the advancement of health measures in Plymouth.

As he completed his interesting discussion, little did he suspect that he was about to have conferred upon him Rotary's first honor.

Rev. Walter Nichol had been selected by the Community service committee through its chairman, Herald Hamill, to make the presentation in behalf of the club. Rev. Nichol briefly told the story of a young graduate from the University of Michigan medical school who set out to make a place for himself in the world, of his everlasting desire to serve and progress and of the final success that came after long years of constant endeavor. He told of outstanding community service performed by Dr. Peck over the span of more than a quarter of a century.

Then amid the applause of the club membership Rev. Nichol presented to Dr. Peck the only plaque ever given in Plymouth for outstanding community service.

In his address delivered to the club preceding the surprise part of the program, Dr. Peck had reviewed in a most interesting way the growth and development of Plymouth's health department.

In part he said: "Thirty-four years ago, when I was graduated in medicine, two things were required—whiskers and brains! Unfortunately, I had the whiskers, and so when your chairman of today's program, asked me to appear before you and reminisce a little, I replied, 'It can't be done,' and I was reminded of the following story: "In the pre-prohibition days, a man had imbibed too freely of a liquid refreshment, with an alcoholic content, in excess of one-half of one percent. He had drunk his fill and was on his way home; when in an effort to preserve his equilibrium, he collided with a friendly lamp-post that stood along the gutter; and he reeled into the ditch. And as he was in this position, he turned around, and his eyes flitted across the street—to a movie picture house located on the other side, across the street of which

Civic Orchestra Here Monday

The annual Music Night program of the Plymouth Woman's club is to be furnished by the Ann Arbor Civic orchestra, a group of 40 players, under the direction of William R. Champion, this (Friday) evening in the high school auditorium.

The orchestra has presented concerts in scores of communities throughout southeastern Michigan. This will be their first appearance in Plymouth and the program promises to be particularly attractive with a goodly element of spice and variety.

The program will feature as soloist, Grace Johnson Konold, soprano, who will appear twice in the program with the orchestra serving as her accompaniment. The soloist is a brilliant concert artist and church singer having made several tours of recitals under the direction of Redpath Concert bureau. She has held solo positions in churches in Paris and in Detroit and at present is soloist and choir director of Church of Christ in Ann Arbor.

The concert will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. Those wishing tickets may get them, without cost, to the club members.

Jack VanCoevering Will Be Chief Speaker At Wildlife Banquet At Mayflower, Wednesday, March 23

Popular Writer of Outdoor Life On Free Press, Advises Committee Of Acceptance Of Invitation

According to an announcement just made by the executive committee in charge of the wild life banquet to be held at the Mayflower hotel on Wednesday evening, March 23, Jack VanCoevering, popular and well known editor of the Detroit Free Press outdoor page, will be the chief speaker.

No better selection for such an event could have been made, say those who are well acquainted with Mr. VanCoevering. He is not only one of the outstanding writers in Michigan, but recently he was elected president of the Outdoor Writers Association of America at the annual convention held in Baltimore. It is the plan of the committee, according to Chairman Lisle Alexander and his associates, to make it as clear as possible that anyone interested in hunting, fishing and other similar outdoor recreations, is specially invited to be at the banquet.

William Rambo, Dr. Paul Bulz, Mark Chaffee, Glenn Jewell and Sterling Eaton, who are the other members of the executive committee, have in mind a number of interesting features for the banquet, among them a display of wild life motion pictures that are said to be some of the best that have ever been made.

Kiwanis Club Hears M. A. Clark

Addressing the Plymouth Kiwanis last Tuesday night at the Mayflower hotel, Monte A. Clark, manager of Industrial and Public Relations, U. S. Rubber Products, Inc., Detroit, made a plea for a better understanding of industry, industries' aims and objectives and the good that industry has done.

From over 20 years in the personnel field he has had opportunity to observe, possibly in a minor way to assist in the development of safer, cleaner, all together better working conditions, greater stability of employment, higher standards of wages and performance, and an increase in humanness in the industrial field successively year after year.

He emphasized the necessity for all business men to think through further than the headlines and not be satisfied with every large type word that is printed. From his experience, travelling up from an immigrant and spending the last 25 years in industry, he has not yet discovered the "economic royalist" nor had the experience of working for a soulless corporation, but had found the leaders of industry, Mr. Ford particularly as a leader, to be ever constructively thinking of human values in industry, how they best can be protected and developed, ever aiming towards a higher standard of humanness and a more enjoyable standard of living for the workers as a whole.

Industry, he stated, has shown more marked progress in economic value, in appreciation of human life and limb and happiness than any other field of endeavor. It had increased its contribution to the advancement of civilization and happiness of the (Continued on Page Five)

He Sells Horses "Over The Air"

Harry Robinson has sold horses in all kinds of weather, under all kinds of circumstances and to all kinds of people and all kinds of horses, but never before until last week did he ever sell horses "over the air."

Probably one of the most interesting features that WWJ ever conducted was the actual horse sale at the Detroit horse market conducted by Mr. Robinson that was broadcast. Nearly every one in this locality heard it—and all enjoyed it.

Fourteen Cast In Senior Play

Aurania Rouveral's popular three-act comedy "Growing Pains" has been chosen for this year's Senior play. This play, listed as the most popular of the year by the National Theatrical League, was praised by New York's critics and had a lengthy Broadway run. "Growing Pains" is different from other plays.

Todd Recovers From Wound

Friends will be pleased to know that Arthur J. Todd, who was shot by two bandits nearly two weeks ago, is making an excellent recovery from the bullet wound that pierced his chest. If there are no complications he will probably be able to be removed to his home early next week.

While police have hunted down every possible clue they have so far obtained no lead which has given them any immediate encouragement of arresting the gunman.

Back From Trip To Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ralph Miller, of Francis street, returned this week from their second trip to the Republic of Mexico. The journey was made by motor and a total of 6,150 miles was covered in the 20 days which elapsed from the time the couple left Plymouth until they returned. Twelve days were spent in Mexico and slightly more than 2,500 miles of Mexican highway were traversed. The trip took them over more than 95 percent of all the paved highways in the entire republic.

Mexico City was used as headquarters while side trips were made to the many interesting localities in that section. These included the famed pyramids at Teotihuacan, the colonial cities of Pachuca, Toluca and Puebla, historic Cuernavaca and Taxco, and then, deep down into the tropics to the picturesque Pacific seaport of Acapulco where mid-day temperatures exceeded the 100 degree mark.

The last stretch of the trip was beyond the constructed portion of the Pan-American highway and was negotiated for some 50 miles across boulder-strewn and cactus-studded mountainside and down the dried up river beds of the Tierra caliente region. The return to Plymouth was made by way of New Orleans, Mobile, Birmingham and Nashville. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rutz of Detroit.

Proclamation To The Citizens of Plymouth

HENRY HONDORP

STEWART DODGE

It has come to our attention that the automobile dealers of the city of Plymouth plan to take part in the National Used Car Exchange Week, which has been fixed by Presidential proclamation for the week of March 5 to March 12. In behalf of the city of Plymouth and its business organization we wish to highly endorse the decision of our local dealers to take part in this great event. The automobile industry five years ago played an important part in leading the nation out from the depression. It is again necessary for this great industry, so vital to the future of Michigan and the nation to take its part in restoring business. To do so it is essential to remove from the used car lots the hundreds of thousands of automobiles that are now preventing the sale of new cars, thereby keeping our workmen and our plants idle. This is most vital to Plymouth, as many of our industries are dependent upon automobile manufacturing and hundreds of our residents work in automobile factories and plants that produce parts for makers of automobiles. Again we commend our local dealers and we urge every one to assist as far as possible in this great campaign.

HENRY HONDORP, Mayor, City of Plymouth. STEWART DODGE, President, Chamber of Commerce.

Gallimore Made Chairman

At a meeting last week of the members of the community Christmas committee, it was decided to make the organization a permanent body that would function on the various occasions of community celebrations such as Halloween, Christmas, Fourth of July, etc.

James Gallimore was named to head the committee, with Miss Ethel Carlson acting as secretary. Other members of the executive committee were named as follows: Mrs. Paul Wiedman, Mrs. Sidney Street, Arno Thompson, Glenn E. Heston, and Gertrude Baker.

The Tuesday afternoon contract bridge club will be the guest of Mrs. Paul Wiedman at a dinner-entertainment, March 5.

Parades Saturday Inaugurate Used Car Week In Plymouth

Miss Hynes Weds Anthony Hoban

Nuptial rites celebrated in St. Patrick's Catholic church at Northfield at 8:00 o'clock last Saturday morning, united in marriage Miss Lois Catherine Hynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hynes of 1825 Joy road and Anthony Dennis Hoban, son of Anthony Hoban of Plymouth. Rev. Anthony Heraty, assistant in charge of the church, officiated at the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gray suit and jacket trimmed with gray fur, a royal blue off-the-face hat and matching veil and other accessories in blue. Her shoulder, corsage was of blue irises and yellow roses.

Miss Ann Marie Hynes served as bridesmaid for her sister, wearing a brown suit with aquamarine accents and brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses bowed with brown ribbon. Mr. Hoban was assisted by his brother, Patrick.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hynes. The couple left for a short motor trip and will live at Plymouth on their return in about a week.

The bride was entertained at a luncheon and linen shower given earlier in the week by Mr. Hoban's sister, Mrs. David King, at her home on Millford road. Covers were laid for 12 guests at a table centered with white and pastel-shaded flowers.—Ann Arbor News.

Church Parlors Dedicated

Last Sunday morning at a combined service of the church and Sunday school, Newburg dedicated the new parlors in the basement of the church. The sermon and the dedicatory service was given by Dr. Sidney D. Eva, secretary of the Detroit area of the M. E. church. There was special music by the choir and a solo by Mr. McIntyre. The Sunday school superintendent gave a short talk of welcome and a review of what the school is attempting to do.

At the conclusion of the service the congregation, which had filled the auditorium and overflowed into the adjoining classroom, inspected the parlors below which had been just dedicated. This is a very worthwhile undertaking of service to the community, and the cooperation which has been offered by interested friends is greatly appreciated.

Jewell Installs New Equipment

The installation of a Bowser pressure filter by Jewell's Cleaners and Dyers brings a new era of dry cleaning to Plymouth, stated Glenn Jewell to a representative of The Mail yesterday. The new filter is the first of its kind in this section and replaces the now obsolete gravity system.

Not only does the new filter speed up the plant's production, but it does the most thorough job of cleaning that has ever been possible in the business. In the new operation the solvent used in the cleaning is changed in the washer once every one and one-half minutes and gives 30 percent more efficient cleaning results. Rinsing the clothing is no longer necessary because of the constant carrying away of the dirt as the solvent runs through the machine.

Mr. Jewell stated that the machine was installed to enable them to do the most efficient cleaning possible and to make them able to do a complete cleaning job in a much faster time.

West To Be Host To Farmers

A. R. West, local International Harvester dealer, will be host to hundreds of farmers next Thursday evening at an open house that will include sound movies, dancing and entertainment. The yearly event is held to acquaint farmers with new advancements offered in farm machinery and one of the features of the party will be the showing of the first reaper ever made.

The machine, the property of the International Harvester company, is on its way to Plymouth and will be erected for display that night. Mr. West also owns a grain binder that was made in 1823 and that also will be on display.

Farmers and their friends are asked to attend and bring their neighbors. The program starts at 8:00 o'clock at Mr. West's store at 507 South Main street.

See Mardi Gras In New Orleans

Now that Rex, king of the Mardi Gras down in New Orleans has had his day of parades, fantastic dances and street carnivals, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harms, who drove down to the southern metropolis to see this historic annual event, are expected home within the immediate future.

The final day of this century old festivity was Tuesday and it is said that the crowd that witnessed this year was one of the largest that had ever visited New Orleans.

Not only did Mr. and Mrs. Harms go down to see the event that has helped to make New Orleans famous, but Mr. Harms when he left, planned to do a bit of fishing down at the mouth of the Mississippi river.

This City Joins National Drive

Every Auto Dealer To Take Part In Event

Two big automobile parades Saturday, the first one between the hours of 1:00 and 2:00 o'clock and the other between 4:00 and 5:00 o'clock, will mark the inauguration of Plymouth's participation on the National Used Car Exchange week, which begins Saturday, March 5 and will continue until midnight Saturday, March 12.

The used car week, which will be a national event, has been planned for the purpose of once again starting the automobile industry back on the road to activity, and thereby placing hundreds of thousands of men back to work.

The drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business will be participated in by every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry, Alvan Macaulay of Detroit says. The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in greatest volume, Mr. Macaulay said. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

To support the campaign, Mr. Macaulay announced, the manufacturers will spend $1,250,000 in newspaper, radio and outdoor advertising and in other promotional channels. Two-thirds of the advertising budget will be spent in newspapers.

"The motor car industry," said Mr. Macaulay, "is making the announcement, 'is generally credited with showing the way out of the last depression.'"

"Today, the automobile manufacturers, their suppliers, the nation's 46,000 dealers and allied industries are launching a similar drive."

So far as the automobile industry is concerned, the most serious barrier to business improvement is the large stock of used cars in dealers' hands, Mr. Macaulay pointed out.

"Until these cars can be sold, it is impossible for dealers to handle a normal volume of new-car business," he explained. "This means that factories will be forced to continue on part-time, and thousands of men in the motor car plants and in allied industries must remain either out-of-work or on part-time schedules."

The primary purpose of the campaign, he said, is to make known to prospective owners the remarkable used car values which now are being offered by automobile dealers in all parts of the United States.

"The present situation has resulted in the best used car values in the country's history. We are confident that used car stocks will be reduced sharply as soon as the public becomes aware of that fact," he added.

During the last few years vast improvements have been made in motor cars and this improved transportation is available on easy terms to those who take advantage.

Dr. Luther Peck Awarded Medal

was displayed this sign—"Home Sweet Home in Five Reels"—and he said, "Hell, it can't be done!"

"However, your chairman would not take no for an answer; and so I am going to ask your indulgence for a few moments while I speak speedily and briefly on the historical and biographical review of the health department of the city of Plymouth.

"Now, I assume that most of you know that I am the health officer to the city of Plymouth, and have been, since the passing of my good friend, the late Dr. Patterson, whose death occurred on the 13th of September 1935.

"However, it may be history to some of the older residents present, when I state, that over 30 years ago, I was health officer for a period of several years—to the then village of Plymouth, having been appointed by the late J. D. McLaren; and later by James B. Eddy, who were our village presidents respectively—in those years.

"This was during my very early life in Plymouth, when the health officer's salary was a meager $25.00 per year. I do not recall ever seeing one of those salary checks, only long enough to endorse them; as J. D. retained them to apply on a coal bill which I was always owing him.

"The health department in those days, was seemingly, a very unimportant one. The doctor's office, the doctor, a few quarantine placards, and a shovel constituted the armamentarium.

"Much of the work was given over to the disposing of dead cats and dogs that had either committed suicide, or met death through heroic combats. Thus, a shovel was always an instrument upon the floor of my buggy.

"I do not recall any serious epidemics, away back in those days, our school enrollment was decidedly smaller than it is today—around the 300 mark in those days and thus, big epidemics of communicable diseases were not frequent.

"There was a food poisoning case, which interested me much in those early days. Called one day, I hurried to a family of six children and the father and mother, living in the country about four miles from my office. I answered the call but it was in the "horse and buggy" days and it seemed if I would never get there. Arriving and hitching my horse to the dinner bell post—I ran into the house to find no one at home. Hurrying to farm buildings, I found all the members scattered about, one here and one there—all seemingly had a desire to be alone and away from one another. Vomiting, purging, and intestinal cramps were their major complaints. After considerable coaxing, I persuaded all to get back into the house and into bed. If I remember rightly, a liquid refreshment with an alcoholic content in excess of one-half of one percent was administered and all finally recovered. Their noon day meal was lettuce fixed with sour cream and vinegar, potatoes boiled in salt water, with onions added. Corn starch pudding was the dessert. I could not see anything in that concoction that would spell grief.

"However, the mother stated that considerable plaster had been dropping from the ceiling, above which much rat poison had been placed. Possibly minute particles of the ceiling dust with just enough rat poison attached had caused the trouble. We never knew definitely, but all recovered.

"I believe the outstanding accomplishment during those early days as health officer, was getting a resolution passed—doing away with all the various milk tickets in vogue at that time.

"There were many milk vendors. Nearly every one who owned a cow sold milk. It was before the days of milk bottles. Milk from the original milk pails, was transferred to large milk cans; and these in turn were taken to the back porches and so much milk was poured from the milk can (which served as a measuring device as well as a cover to the can) to the bowl or whatever receptacle was in waiting. But first the milk man would stick his hand into the bowl and extract the kind of milk ticket he had invented. Some were card board affairs and others were wood fibre or metal discs. Once back home he would re-stack his tickets for re-sale purposes. Having no desire to have my offspring infected with contaminated tickets—I protested to the village fathers and they sustained me—and soon followed the "use only one milk ticket" rule. It was a hard moment for the milk vendors to accept the new order of things and I was accused for a long time of trying to pull something spectacular.

"Now from 1904 to 1928, there were no official records kept regarding the health department; thus, substantiating the statement made a few moments ago—that the health department was seemingly a very unimportant one. However, during those 25 years, the health officership passed from one doctor to another. I remember well, when Dr. Kenyon, an ex-army physician, held the post, also Dr. Tilley, Dr. Cooper, Dr. Kimble, Dr. Patterson and Dr. Campbell. Every one of these good fellows have gone the long, long trail; and it makes me feel a little reminded when I say that I am the only remaining one from the old vanguard.

"However, during that quarter of a century of health department work, the outstanding epidemic occurred in 1914 and that was Smallpox. I remember this outbreak distinctly, as I was seemingly the goat. One of your good Rotarians, then a young man, sat upon my office porch for over a half hour, entertaining and being entertained by my two infant children while awaiting my return. After tying my horses, I jumped upon the veranda to find Glen all broken out. 'My God, Glen,' I said, 'How long have you been with my kiddies?' 'Oh, about a half hour,' he replied. 'Well,' I said, 'You hike for home and go to bed and I will be up very soon.' And I can hear Glen say, as I heard him say then, 'Doc, what have I got?' I said, 'You get home,

Glen, and I will tell you darn quick what you have.' Glen went and I followed soon. I diagnosed Smallpox. Glen became vehement, and said, 'You're crazy!' For your sake, I hope so, I replied. He disputed my diagnosis and wanted consultation! I went around the corner, and brought in a Dr. Campbell, who had moved here a short time before from northern Michigan. I knew that Dr. Campbell had probably seen hunters' rashes or pine tree ezema, and I wanted to give Glen the benefit of the doubt. The doctor corroborated my diagnosis; and then Glen was on fire. 'I think you are both crazy,' he said. Of course, that remark made me feel better as there were two of us then in his classification. But still I wanted to play fifty-fifty with Glen; and I told him I would call out Dr. Guy L. Kiefer, then president of the Michigan state board of health. The doctor came on the afternoon train and pronounced Glen guilty of Smallpox. And then Glen did explode. 'You say I have Smallpox, go see 'Reddy' Mott, and Frank Wagnerschutz, and Gus Schaufele and others.' 'Reddy' was down in the pool room, but he was soon sent home. The others were also placed under strict quarantine. But before the disease was conquered, 17 people had the disease. Glen's mother had the disease in a virulent form; but his father escaped with a much lighter attack.

"I believe 'Reddy' Mott, who at that time, was being treated by a neighboring physician for a 'crop of boils' was the fellow who spread the contagion.

"And now we will skip along to 1917 when the first commission form of government was established. This change had no beneficial effect upon the health department; and it still continued, to exist as something 'not worth recording.' And 11 years more passed without records of achievement being tabulated. However, in 1928 Adolph Koenig became village manager; and he was the first manager, after 11 years of commission-manager form of municipal organization, to get out a detailed printed and in book-form, an annual report. One whole page was given in this book to 'Public Health Activities'. And in the following years, 1929-1930, Adolph continued to give public recognition to the health department by devoting at least one whole page to the good of the cause. In his annual report for the year, 1930, I find public record of the typhoid fever outbreak which precipitated considerable excitement at that time. Five cases with one death. Dr. Patterson, the then health officer, did a remarkable piece of work in finally tracing the outbreak to a typhoid carrier who at that time was distributing milk for one of the dairies. All the dairies with their milk products had been damned and cursed by the public from the outbreak of the first case; but they were all innocent from the start, and not until the typhoid carrier was found and relieved of his duties, did the clamoring public cry out in utter satisfaction, 'Come my good dairy, continue to bring us your milk!'

"Now in 1931, L. P. Cookingham, better known to us as Perry, succeeded Adolph Koenig as our city manager and continued in this position until 1935 when he was called to Saginaw to accept larger fields of endeavor. Perry, however, continued to give Plymouth, the annual reports, during his stay with us and the health department came in for its share of the work accomplished.

"Here I find recorded in the annual report for 1931, the depression: 'The health department is under the direction of a part-time health officer, whose duties have to carry out the health and sanitary regulations of the city active to health and sanitation.'"

"In 1934, under Perry Cookingham, the health department was re-organized and placed on a much more efficient basis. The re-organized department set up headquarters at the city hall where office work was handled by the clerical staff. An adequate filing system was provided and co-operation was given by the police department in the control of communicable diseases.

"On the first day of January, 1936, Clarence H. Elliott, our present city manager, took over the office vacated by Perry and I am glad to state that the health department has continued on under his guidance with tremendous strides toward making Plymouth as it is today—one of the healthiest cities in the state.

"This statement is borne out by the fact that during the fiscal year, 1936-37, there were only 47 communicable diseases as compared to 344 during the year 1934-35 and 184 during the year 1935-36.

"As I stated a moment ago, the health department is now functioning from the city hall. Soon after taking office, I mailed to every physician and dentist in the city, a booklet titled 'Code and Regulations for the Control of Communicable Diseases'. All were asked to report all communicable diseases there. And here is how we work it. The staff clerk receives the report from the attending physician, she in turn, tabulates the cases for proper filing—and immediately calls upon the police department to quarantine or isolate as the case may demand. It becomes my duty to check daily (if necessary) and report these cases back to the state board at Lansing, by signing all reports; which are then in turn re-checked by the clerical staff, which does the mailing.

"We have at all times had 100 percent co-operation from the police department, in all health department work. I am telling you gentlemen, that they do a lot of running around, and I have nothing but praise for all their assistance to me in my work.

"I believe the greatest annoyance we have in handling communicable diseases is the fact that parents dislike to have their homes placarded. I don't know why it is but they just can't bear to have their home placarded. They usually start about three days before the time limit for removing the placard to damn the health officer for not having taken the sign off. We try to live up to the minimum number of days for this or that disease to be placarded as ruled by the state board of health. The health officer's rule is that quarantine cannot be lifted until the attending physician has reported to the health department, that the case is ready for release; and not then until the minimum number of days have passed, permitting release. But here again is where a little more annoyance enters the picture. To illustrate: Dr. X reports a case of scarlet fever on February 5. If the case runs the ordinary routine, he may be released on the 26th; but he argues that he was really taken sick on the 1st but did not call Dr. X until the 5th and so he argues that he should be released on the 21st. We, however, usually date our beginning quarantine, from the day the Dr. X notifies the health department. At least things work out better by so doing. We may have yielded, a little, to the argument, occasionally, if so, it was to prevent the "shut-ins" from getting hysterical.

"Now I want to say a few words regarding the school nurse. She has been a tremendous help to the health department. For several years, intensive campaigns have been carried on in our public schools in preventing the spread of communicable diseases.

been most commendable. She has reported many cases to the department, who had not previously called a physician. For instance, only last week, she reported eight cases of whooping cough, mind you eight cases in one family and no physician. That's how diseases spread! The school nurse visits homes daily with children out of school to ascertain the cause of their absence; and thus, renders valuable service in ferreting out health dangers.

"Another very important problem was solved this last summer, by the installing of an electric refrigerator in the health department's annex. Now all the Biologic products are kept under refrigeration at the city hall, where any city physician may apply and receive these preparations. Formerly, a person bitten by a rabid dog, had to make daily trips to Ann Arbor for a period of 21 days to take the necessary treatments. Now he can remain at home and have them given. It used to cost $150.00 for a complete rabies vaccine cumming treatment at Ann Arbor, but now for $50.00 he can get the same service at home by his family physician, and out of this $50.00 there will be enough profit left for the doctor to get his shoes shined and take his wife to the theater.

"We've already had quite a 'flare-up' of rabid dog bites during the past few months, and the flare-up seems to be a little on the increase. This brings me to say that at the present time there is a quarantine on all dogs in Wayne and Oakland counties. This quarantine permits any police officer to shoot to kill any dog running at large. I have fervently urged for a long time that the city officials allow no dog to be licensed unless it can show a proper receipt emphasizing vaccination within the fiscal year.

"The collection of garbage and rubbish has been another health problem, that the health department has had to battle with. It has now been taken over by municipal service; but more help and more expense should be budgeted to this work to raise the efficiency of the methods now prevailing. This problem is one that is going to require considerable attention in the future.

"Probably the most outstanding achievement undertaken and completed by the health officer during the past year was the order which went out during the early summer, calling for immediate tapings into the sanitary sewer by those whose properties have access to this sewer line.

"You know, ten years or more ago, the village started a construction program, and several main trunks of surface and sanitary sewer were built; when completed, the edict was for those who had access to these lines—to tap in—but along came the depression and people were excused. However, this last summer the state board of health in communication with Manager Elliott, urged this task to be undertaken immediately. The manager notified the health department. The health officer signed his name to 57 letters, written in rather sharp tones and somewhat mandatory. The response was wonderful; over 75 percent of the property owners began having these tapings made. However, this was not satisfactory to the city manager, and he jumped upon me again, to get after those who had not complied with my first order. So I wrote a second letter, handed it to the clerical staff for multi-graphing purposes. The second letter was very tersely worded, giving the property owners 10 days to act before a court order would be issued. In checking over the names to get the second letter, the staff clerk found that the health officer, who for some reason or other had not been sent the first letter. She discovered that he owned a piece of property on Sheridan avenue, that had access to the trunk line. She consulted the manager—they went into a huddle. The manager's ultimatum was—'If the coat fits him—make him wear it! In my mail the next morning, I found a letter addressed to the health officer and from the health officer, giving him 10 days to act. And gentlemen, it cost me $104.00 to write those two letters. The present score stands—one up on the health officer.

"However, 98 percent have carried out the orders from the health department and have availed themselves of the new sanitation.

"Now let us for just a moment take up the milk problem.

"At the present time there are seven dairies serving the city of Plymouth with milk; 40 farms producing this milk, sell to the dairies. Four of these dairies pasteurize all the milk purchased, and three sell raw milk. All the dairies are inspected about four times a year. All the farms selling milk to the dairies are inspected one or more times each year by our city milk inspector. State inspection is also given to all cows furnishing milk to the dairies.

"There is a movement with the commissioners right now as to the advisability of passing an ordinance compelling all dairies to sell pasteurized milk only. Well, I'll let you fellows solve that one.

"With rigid milk inspection, the consumer should be privileged to purchase either raw or pasteurized milk. It will be a safe bet to state that every one of you fellows were brought up on raw milk. It is certainly a sane inference to imply that pasteurized milk is a safer milk than raw milk, but raw milk, when practically made safe by rigid milk inspection, need not be pasteurized. The dairies who sell only pasteurized milk should receive more money for his milk; but just ask the public a cent or more for this product and see how quickly they will clamor for the old raw milk.

"Heating every particle of milk or milk products to a temperature of 142 to 145 degrees and maintaining it at that temperature for 30 minutes is called pasteurization. Milk should be kept at a temperature of 55 degrees before and after cooling.

"The milk problem is one that is going to require considerable deliberation before definite action should be taken.

"The examination of all food handlers is another problem upon the health officer's desk. This problem is on the calendar for the near future. All food handlers will be required to pass a satisfactory physical examination before being allowed to carry on their work. Blood and skin diseases will be thoroughly checked.

"There are other problems coming up almost weekly that are going to demand study and careful thought to solve satisfactorily."

Everything splendid is rare, and nothing is harder to find than perfection.—Cicero.

If a radiator leak is suspected, check the pump shaft packing nut first.

Thou wilt show me the path of life: in thy presence is fullness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore.—Psalms 16: 11.

A mixture of kerosene and gasoline is ideal for cleaning an automobile motor, but, because it creates a temporary fire hazard, such work should not be started until the engine is cool.

Used Car Week In Plymouth

vantage of the bargains to be offered during "National Used Car Exchange Week," Mr. Macaulay stated.

"Too many unsafe, wornout, unreliable cars, without modern safety brakes, safety glass, large tires and steel bodies, are in operation today," he continued. "Too many are costly to operate. Eleven million cars seven years old or older are licensed for operation throughout the country."

"Many of these cars can be replaced during National Used Car Exchange Week—to the great advantage of the buyer and of the public—with newer, 'up-to-date' cars, without initial investment beyond their present car and on terms to suit the average pocketbook. These new cars offer modern equipment and are a good investment in comfort, safety and economy."

The TONQUISH CREEK BREEZE

Published at Tonquish Creek, Michigan. The People's Watch Dog. Vol. 1 No. 13

The Breeze is blowing again.

The editor of The Breeze feels sort of good these days. He's outsmarted Stan Corbett of the Purity League for three weeks now. Because of the editor's alertness some violence has been avoided.

Constable Mathew Stephens Madison Powell is getting ready to enter big circuit politics. Matt has solved he thinks, one of the worst crimes of the wildwoods. He says he is going to get a conviction too if the jury is not packed with a lot of screw-brained fellows like what run around in the woods.

Walt Harms has been right at home lately down where the big catters grow. He wasn't satisfied with stoppin' off in Missouri where the cat fish are just mere tid-bits. He went right down to the mouth of the Mississippi where cat fish are cat fish. The Breeze has had a letter from its New Orleans correspondent who says Walt has been eatin' cat fish for breakfast, cat fish for dinner and cat fish for supper. Walt says a good cat fish is better'n Doc Butz' sun fish.

Abie Goldstein is organizing an army of 40 years or older 250 pounders to fight the next war. Abe says if they had gone to the last war there wouldn't be any more wars. He's got his eyes on the swastika. Now it's a funny thing about the swastika. When the Creek was first settled, they used to say the swastika was found among the Indians who used to scalp some of our ancestors. How it ever got over on the Rhine is more'n anybody can understand.

Bert McKinney had a coming-out party for Constable Matt Powell the other night. Some of the big-wigs from along the smelly banks of the Detroit river were supposed to be there and eat moose sparcibits, but they got waylaid along the highways.

Miss Rosy Poxey ain't so bad as some of the old gossips in the Creek would have folks believe. Rosy has not told any one what she's doing, but she does sort of mind her own knittin' and that's made a hit with the expert tobacco spitters. She did say she might open up a milliner shop here since the other milliner left the creek under cover of darkness.

At any rate Time magazine in last week's issue tells of a mush breakfast served by Governor Earle (D) of Pennsylvania in the Governor's mansion and of the presence at the dinner of U. S. Senator Guffey of that state as well as other political powers of the Keystone state.

But there was a difference between the event in Plymouth and in Harrisburg, as the Governor's mush-breakfast blew up in a big political row and Time magazine says that an entire dish of piping hot mush was spilled.

Now comes The Detroit Courier with a tribute to mush as a food. The Courier says:

"Columnists are having a lot of fun about the political Mush parties of Michigan which shows that they are very ignorant—so far as American history is concerned. This has been accomplished because industrial leaders have recognized the value of complete cooperation and over the years have striven to develop and cement cooperation between the employer and the employee. There will always be differences of opinion as to methods but there are no differences of opinion on principles. Industry should bend its efforts still further towards the elimination of peaks and valleys in production and the greater reduction of distribution costs and still lightening the burden of labor, hours not in excess of the ability of the average man to successfully and healthfully work, but with leaders in industry recognizing the necessity for cooperation and extending cooperation, there still remains a job for the leaders of labor and labor itself to reciprocate in like manner, and labor must recognize that in what it believes to be its new found power, to meet this power and presumed authority with due recognition of its full responsibility.

America setting the pace for the world in productive values and standard of living, must still lead the world in its democratic cooperative effort in the great fields of industrial enterprise. At the meeting the club welcomed into their midst Riley Lynch, high school agricultural teacher. Mr. Lynch, who was sponsored by Claude Dykhouse, principal of the Plymouth high school, comes under the classification of "agriculture."

Past President James Gallimore submitted to the club an achievement report for the year 1937, and expressed thanks to the various committees who cooperated in making the past year a pleasant one, and upholding the club motto, "We Build."

The advantage of the bargains to be offered during "National Used Car Exchange Week" Mr. Macaulay stated.

"Too many unsafe, worn-out, unreliable cars, without modern safety brakes, safety glass, large

tires and steel bodies, are in operation today," he continued. "Too many are costly to operate. Eleven million cars seven years old or older are licensed for operation throughout the country.

"Many of these cars can be replaced during National Used Car Exchange Week—to the great advantage of the buyer and of the public—with newer, 'up-to-date' cars, without initial investment beyond their present car and on terms to suit the average pocketbook. These new cars offer modern equipment and are a good investment in comfort, safety and economy".

Ordinary talcum powder will keep a fan belt from slipping temporarily.

Some of the creekers who shed their felt boots a week ago have had to put 'em back on. They thought winter was over. Well, winter is never over until it is over. Fred Schrader left his pair out at the Buffalo ranch and he had to go back to get 'em. His feet got cold. While talking about cold feet, maybe if Clair Maben and Franklin Farley Learned would sort of stop debating, so many folks around the family table wouldn't have cold feet all the time.
Notice—The Breeze will accept no more tinted potatoes in exchange for our paper. Maybe they are O.K. to look at but that purple dye has a sort of bad taste. Only good, sound Michigan white potatoes like what comes from the Schrader ranch will be accepted from now on. P. S. (We hope he takes the hint.)
Our two Creekers who have been among the palm trees and mermaids—meaning Charlie Draper and Charlie Finlan—have been doing a lot of talking about fishing. The Breeze must have some proof of what's being caught from now on. We have had disquieting information, which is being suppressed for the present.

YOUR GREAT OPPORTUNITY TO DRIVE A BETTER CAR

NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK begins Saturday, March 5. It is one of the greatest chances you've ever had to own a better car. Thousands of fine cars—many of them guaranteed by dealers — are offered at prices far below trade-in values. There are many sound reasons why it is to your advantage to buy now. THE SEASON IS RIGHT—spring is just around the corner. THE VALUES ARE RIGHT—dealers have an unusually wide selection of good used cars. AND THE PRICES ARE REMARKABLY LOW—way below those of several months ago.

Here's something else. Many of the cars in this NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK are 1937, 1936 and 1935 models with modern features that your old car doesn't have. For cars have improved greatly in the last few years. And this sale gives you the opportunity to have these improvements for very little money.

Better gasoline economy—smoother, more powerful engines—roomier bodies—big tires—big luggage compartments—dozens of worth-while conveniences that weren't even thought of when your old car was built.

Think how you'd enjoy a car like that after the old one! SAFETY is important, too, for every member of the family. If you're driving a car with an old-style body or unreliable brakes, this is your chance to switch to a safer, more modern car, for very little money. And it's good business to trade-in your old car before you run into a big repair bill.

Your present car may cover the down-payment on the better car you want. Pay the balance on easy terms. If you have no car to trade you can still take advantage of the low down-payments and easy terms during this sale.

Visit the used car lot or showroom of any authorized automobile dealer during the week of March 5 to March 12. GET THERE AS EARLY AS YOU CAN, WHILE THE SELECTION IS BEST.

One look at the cars and the prices in this big nationwide sale will convince you that you can't afford to pass up this remarkable opportunity to DRIVE A BETTER, MORE MODERN CAR.

amen! Amen!! AMEN!!

For many years the editor of The Plymouth Mail has been urging as strongly as possible the restoration of honesty in the administration of public affairs. Time and time again it has been pointed out that if just the simple rules of honesty could be followed in all public affairs, the present plight of the nation would almost immediately end.

When you find the biggest portion of welfare funds going to job holders instead of those in distress, the old age pension fund appropriation being eaten up chiefly by chair-warmers, and high state officials drawing pay checks from two different state appropriations, it is about time for something to happen to impress the people of the state with the necessity of honesty in public affairs.

A recent editorial in Liberty magazine is so in keeping with the policy that The Plymouth Mail has so strongly advocated that it is being re-printed in full as follows:

ARE THE POLITICIANS ON THE SKIDS?

"Rotten politics" has become a popular phrase. What is everybody's business is nobody's business.

When one is in charge of the public purse, the expenditures reach those who have to pay the bills by such a devious route and are so carefully hidden that the source is rarely considered.

What we refer to as graft in politics has become so common it is taken for granted. Public works of any kind, almost regardless of their nature, are supposed to include illegal payments to favored contractors, politicians, etc. And unless something can be done to stop the inroads of rotten politics, taxes will gradually increase until they approach confiscation and then we face the possibility of a bloody revolution.

It is often stated that what might be termed the pendulum of the public's attitude or opinions swings from one extreme to the other. Dishonesty in politics will probably have to become so bad that it will smell to high heaven before the pendulum starts swinging in the opposite direction.

However, there are definite indications that a start has been made in this direction, and we should all thank the Almighty on bended knees for this change. We are on the road to national perdition unless we can find honest, capable officials, who cannot be bribed, to conduct our government affairs.

The recent election in New York City was a rude awakening to grafting politicians. Out of the maelstrom of this hectic contest emerged two men whose honesty cannot be questioned.

Mayor LaGuardia has made strenuous efforts to give this great metropolis an honest government. He had to struggle against ulterior forces, but notwithstanding these great handicaps, substantial gains were made in the right direction.

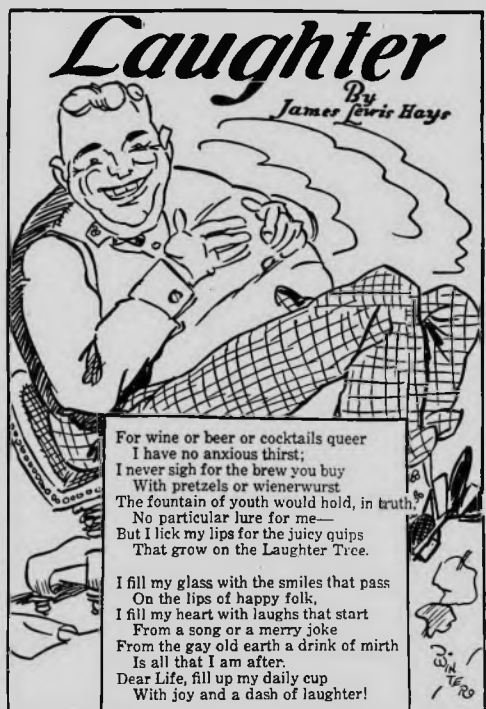

But the victory of Thomas E. Dewey was probably of still greater importance, for the Tammany henchmen who thrived on the "gravy" of official rottenness were out for the one purpose of "getting" Dewey. He was the one man who had gone after the criminals at the top. He wanted to destroy the monster of rotten politics at its source, and his success was so gratifying that he was feasted by every supporter of the Tammany system.

And one outstanding factor of his election is that his majority in Manhattan, the borough in which he was elected, was greater even than Mayor LaGuardia's.

LaGuardia's majority in Manhattan was 93,515; Dewey's was 100,223; and there are a few other records of the recent election

Laughter

By James Lewis Hays

For wine or beer or cocktails queer
I have no anxious thirst;
I never sigh for the brew you buy
With pretzels or wienerwurst.
The fountain of youth would hold, in truth,
No particular lure for me—
But I lick my lips for the juicy quips
That grow on the Laughter Tree.

I fill my glass with the smiles that pass
On the lips of happy folk,
I fill my heart with laughs that start
From a song or a merry joke
From the gay old earth a drink of mirth
Is all that I am after.
Dear Life, fill up my daily cup
With joy and a dash of laughter!

which are clear indications that the politicians may be on the skids.

In the election of 1936 in Massachusetts, Governor Curley, who was known as the political boss of that state, wanted to be United States senator, and he was beaten by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. In the last election he was candidate for Mayor of Boston. He had already served three terms, but he was beaten by Maurice J. Tobin.

The results of these elections clearly indicate that the people are awakening to the crying need for ousting professional politicians. We must have officials whose sole concern is good government. No matter how capable they may be, if they are concerned with party politics and the building up of their political machines, they represent an influence that will ultimately lead to national ruin.

Success in politics has not always been due to ability. Personal popularity is usually the principal requirement. Dewey's election is a striking exception. It was his startling efficiency, his fierce fight for honesty in government which brought him his splendid victory. He is already being mentioned as a candidate for the next governorship of New York, and Republican politicians are keeping their eye on him as a Presidential possibility in 1940.

Who knows? There may be hope for us yet, with a fighter like Thomas E. Dewey as the chief official of the state of New York, and if we could find another similar crusading spirit, like LaGuardia for instance, also to serve in Washington, we would indeed have cause for rejoicing.

TO BE REGRETTED.

Announcement has been made of the retirement of Vernon J. Brown of Ingham county and George Watson of St. Clair county from future legislative activities. Both over a long period of years have been outstanding members of the house of representatives, and both have given to the state of Michigan services of untold value. News of this kind is, indeed, disturbing to one who knows something of the caliber of office holders now holding high places. While not of the majority group, these two have more than once served the state well by opposing plunderbund legislative proposals. Not only that, but legislation they did sponsor was generally of the worthwhile kind. Again we say the announcements do not bring to the people of Michigan good news.

THE "SMEAR" ARTIST GOES BACK TO WORK.

Apparently stung by the public rebuke that swept the nation following the recent extortion banquets held by the present office holders to raise funds to be used in the forthcoming election, Charlie Michelson, notorious "smear" artist of Washington, has taken pen in hand again in an effort to justify the rotten scheme.

He thinks that because some "rich" folks once contributed money to the opposition political party that his party is justified in brow-beating public office holders into contributing $25, $50, and $100 bills into his party's political slush fund.

He would have the public believe that these contributions from the very "rich" folks went to just one party. Well, Charlie Michelson knows that any such insinuation does not conform to all the facts. He knows that the notorious scheme he carried on to sell "campaign books" to big time business men, was by its evasive scheme more contemptible than was the direct contributions made to political parties.

Please do not misunderstand—it is all rotten, one is just as much of an insult to the voters of the nation as the other, and if these modern carpet-baggers of BOTH parties do not wake up pretty soon to what they are doing, there will not be any political parties left to high-jack either public office holders or men who have accumulated a surplus of worldly goods. Mr. Michelson and some of these other "smearing" boys had better wake up to this fact.

IN AGREEMENT.

"We are right up to our tax limit. It is fair for the taxpayers to complain." Thus declared Mayor LaGuardia of New York in an address against crooked politicians delivered last Saturday in Lansing. The editor of The Plymouth Mail is pleased to know that there is some one in high public life who agrees with him on this subject. Taxation and unemployment go hand in hand, because taxation kills the very thing that creates employment.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

WHO PUT THE "SPITE" IN SPITE LINES?

It has been amusing to hear and read the controversy between the Rural Electrification Administration—REA—and the Consumers Power company. The REA accuses the Consumers of building "spite" lines in territory where this government project plans, hopes to, or is operating. It might be well to recall just who it was that put the "spite" in spite lines.

When the Michigan Public Utilities Commission was re-organized by Governor Murphy, he placed at its head Paul Todd, a former Kalamazoo mayor who can be classified as a "utility hater" or, possibly one should say he is a strong advocate of municipal ownership. At any rate, it was not long after this gentleman and his associates were installed in office before they started out to be the promotional agency for the federal rural electrification plan.

Coming into Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties where the Consumers had franchises and where they were advancing rural power lines very rapidly, it naturally developed that the two agencies clashed. The Consumers company was in field first, was developing it rapidly, and was, and is, amply fortified with money, equipment and personnel to do the job. Impartial observers would say that the first evidence of "spite" came in the invasion of this territory by REA.

Now it develops there is a race between the two concerns—in ordinary business it would be called keen competition—to build lines in likely neighborhoods. The government promoters have put a loud, mournful whine that the Consumers Power company is building "spite" lines—using every means to beat them to certain neighborhoods and customers. One day last week one of their government-paid hirelings was using WKAR, the Michigan State college radio station, to broadcast his woes and build up sentiment against the Consumers Power company because of "spite" lines.

We are not much concerned, but feel inclined to ask who put the "spite" into these spite lines?—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

ANOTHER TAX.

The latest venture into the field of hidden taxes is a proposed tax on fuel oil which it is estimated will yield the government a billion dollars a year. A recent survey disclosed 20,000 oil burners in Detroit homes alone. In every town in Michigan there are at least a few. Such a tax is a direct hit at the family pocketbook.

Why is this tax being considered?

Well the organized coal miners have recently forced the cost of coal so high that customers are turning to oil for heating. The result is, less coal being mined and less work for the miners. So to correct, one error they commit another—tax the oil to make that higher too.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

EARTH TO EARTH.

After thinking the matter over for quite a while, the editor of The Eccentric has come to the conclusion that democracy is merely a period in the ever-changing cycle of government, and lasts from the time one dictator, or King, is overthrown, until another is required to take his place. Democracy will always beckon human beings, but when possessed long enough, becomes lost because the generations that didn't fight for it fail to appreciate it. It's sort of expressed in that old axiom of "three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves."—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

TIMES ARE DIFFERENT!

And now they claim boys go wrong for the want of something interesting to do. But few of our forefathers went wrong—and following a plow wasn't so darned interesting, either.—Charles Seed in The Rochester Clarion.

Stark School News

A special meeting of taxpayers was held recently at which a new piece of property was added to the school grounds. This property is between Pine Tree road and the present enclosed school yard. The school board was authorized by the voters to negotiate for about two acres west of the school.

The newly-purchased ground will probably be the site for the new building. The construction of the new school will be started in time to be ready for use at the beginning of the fall term.

The new school will be largely financed by the W.P.A. It is one of the several schools in the township to be constructed through this project. The building will be a three-room, one-floor brick veneer construction. It will be erected in such a manner as to allow for expansion of construction when the need arises.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

SAMMY JAY PUTS ON HIS THINKING CAP

SAMMY JAY had a great deal to think about and so he went off by himself to a certain thick hemlock tree in the Green Forest where he could be quite alone. Now, whenever Sammy Jay goes by himself that way to put on his thinking cap you may make up your mind that mischief of some kind is brewing in that small head of his. Just now Sammy was thinking about what he had overheard Buster Bear say to Jumper the Hare, and he was wondering how he could get something out of it for himself. You know, Sammy is one of those people who try to profit by the troubles of other people. He is never so happy as when he can find some one in trouble, because he is almost sure to find some way to get something for himself out of it.

One time Sammy happened along when Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Happy Jack and Gray Squirrel were quarreling about some very fat choice acorns. Each claimed them as his. Sammy just urged them to fight for them, and this is what they did. While they were quarreling Sammy carried away all the acorns, and when finally they agreed to stop fighting and divide the acorns they found none to divide. Sammy had hidden every one where only he could find them. That was dishonest, very dishonest, but you know, Sammy has always been a thief. He thought it was smart. You and I know better, but he didn't, and there are a lot of people in this world just like him.

Now, Sammy knew very well that Buster Bear was the strongest and biggest of all the people who lived in the Green Forest, and when he had first seen Buster Sammy had been very much afraid of him. Now he wasn't afraid, because he knew that his wings would keep him out of reach of Buster's cruel claws, but he had a great deal of respect for Buster just the same and he wanted to do something that would make Buster his friend. When he overheard Buster ask Jumper the Hare to try to find out for him where he could get some honey Sammy smiled. He knew that the only way Jumper could find out was by asking questions of those who lived in trees, for it is in hollow trees that Busy Bee stores up honey. To be sure, Busy's big cousin, Bumble, who makes such a fuss about everything he does, has a little storehouse in the ground, and possibly Jumper might find this. But if he did it wouldn't be a taste for Buster. What he wanted was the storehouse of Busy Bee.

"Now if I can find it for him," thought Sammy, "he'll always be my friend. I think I'll have a look at all the hollow trees I know of in the Green Forest."

Just then another thought popped into Sammy's head. He and Reddy Fox were no the best of friends. In some ways they were very much alike, and perhaps this was the reason that they were forever falling out. Sammy had been one of the first and loudest to jeer at and make fun of Reddy the time he seemed to be running away from Jumper the Hare. Then he had seen Reddy run from Buster Bear only that very morning, when Buster had suddenly appeared just as Reddy had thought to catch Jumper the Hare, and he knew that Reddy knew that he had seen and laughed at him. So now Reddy was sure to be his enemy.

"I can think of some plan which will make Reddy think he can make friends with Buster Bear, why Reddy will forget all about his anger with me," thought Sammy. "I have it! I'll tell him how Buster wants some honey and set him to hunting for the storehouse of Busy Bee."

With that off flew Sammy Jay to hunt for Reddy Fox and tell him how he could make friends with Buster Bear.

The hand of FRIENDSHIP

To REACH for the telephone and call a distant friend... just for old time's sake... is one of those small but thoughtful acts which keep friendship alive.

It disproves the cynical saying, "Out of sight, out of mind." It is the very hand of friendship reaching across the miles. And it gives the person at the other end of the wire one of the pleasantest of all human emotions... the satisfaction of knowing that, although far away, he still lives in the heart of an old friend.

NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK

MARCH 5 TO MARCH 12

In the City of TOMORROW

you'll loaf along at 50-night through town.

—predicts NORMAN BEL GEDDES

"If you drive 16 blocks or more in 'the City of Tomorrow', you'll use Express Streets allowing speeds up to 50 miles an hour," predicts Norman Bel Geddes, authority on Future Trends.

"One-way Local Streets will be made wider by the elevation of sidewalks to second-floor level... elimination of parked cars and loading trucks."

—but TODAY round town 4 miles in 5 are Stop and Go

TODAY'S stop and go is the costliest kind of driving! Just one stop can waste enough gasoline to drive 1/3 of a mile.

While traffic authorities are planning "the City of Tomorrow," Shell engineers have developed a fuel... Super-Shell, to meet today's driving problem.

Automotive engineers use the term "motor-digestible" to describe Super-Shell, because at all speeds it is converted so quickly; so completely into power.

Your regular use of Super-Shell will save an stop and go. Try a tankful today at our station.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH. Holbrook and Harding streets. L. B. Stout, pastor. When will the revival come to Plymouth? Revivals are not held back by the repeal of prohibition, the inroad of communism, or the misunderstanding between capital and labor; but by "my people, which are called by my name" sayeth the Lord. May God in His grace and mercy give us a Wesley, a Luther, a Knox, a Finney, yes, a John the Baptist, who can really point us back to the "Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." Among the Bible citations is this passage (Genesis 1: 27): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 336): "Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind."

Girl Reserves Hear Reports on Mid-Winter Conference

Ruth Pennell and Annabelle Brown, Plymouth delegates to the state mid-winter conference of Girl Reserves at Grand Rapids, related some of their interesting experiences in the Girl Reserves meeting last Thursday. The girls said that first they had gone down to the Y.W.C.A. at Detroit a week ahead of the conference, which was scheduled for February 18, 19, and 20. Ruth told of their experiences on the train, and then when they registered and each one given an identification tag and a "meal ticket" which told when and where each meal was served. The delegates stayed with various families in that city—Plymouth girls with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hadley; however, the girls ate all their meals at the "Y".

PAUL WEATHERHEAD ADDED TO FACULTY

To cope with the ever increasing enrollment of students in Plymouth high school, another teacher, Paul Weatherhead has been added to the faculty, making the number of teachers in the high school the largest in its history. Perhaps the most widely traveled teacher in Plymouth besides teaching in Michigan and Illinois schools, has taught in schools in Manila and Baguila in the Philippine Islands. A graduate of Central State college, Alma, and Loyola, he is teaching two junior high school classes in English and two senior high groups in commercial geography. To further add to his background in teaching commercial geography, he has studied market analysis at Rock Island, Illinois, and banking in Detroit. Work outside the field of education was the supervision of the service department of the Standard Oil company in the Philippine Islands. Plymouth is, indeed, fortunate in adding a teacher of such wide experience to its faculty.

CLASS NOTES

The contest in oral poetry reading, conducted in Miss Kilham's English class, was won by Ions Stuart, Sally Bass, and Janice Downing. The 10A English students have begun an interesting project of dramatizing the various short stories by American and English writers that they have read in their text, "Prose and Poetry for Appreciation" by H. Ward McGraw. To aid in their ability to write the French language, the first year group wrote compositions in French describing the activities of an entire day. In the second year group a French edition of Walt Disney's book, "Elmer the Elephant", was read aloud, furnishing much entertainment besides giving students practice in understanding spoken French.

Upon finishing its study of the barbaric invasions of the Roman empire, the organization of the Holy Roman church in medieval times, and Mohammedianism Miss Fiegel's ancient history group began its study of feudalism. After covering the period between 1888 and 1912, the three American history classes started the period leading up to the World War—in the administrations of T. Roosevelt, Taft, and Wilson.

Four of Miss Lovell's ninth grade English classes have begun a unit in creative writing. In this unit they will study poetry and the informal essay—later trying their hands at writing in these two fields.

The new 7B Home Economics girls are making a garment bag as their problem in the unit on "Care and Repair of Clothing". Twelve members of Scout Troop II have passed their tenderfoot tests and their tenderfoot pins have been sent for.

Miss Cary is initiating her 10-B bookkeeping class into the mysteries of closing a ledger. Occasional sighs break the silence which reigns in the room.

The 10-A bookkeeping class has begun the W. R. Collins set which teaches the use of vouchers. Miss Cary says that they seem as if they were actually doing business.

French and Elean, mythical characters for whom bookkeeping students work, will employ the entire 11-B class beginning Monday, February 28. The pupils are wondering whether they will like their prospective employers, for they have heard that they are exacting and difficult men to work for.

Miss Rathburn's English classes have chosen spelling teams and are in competition working for the highest average. Clayton Kelley, Robert Dailey, and Robert O'Connor are all at work on a project concerning our town of Plymouth. They are taking photographs, writing editorials, and making trips to different industrial factories. These boys are trying to find ways to better our beautiful city.

Miss Walldorf's 11A English class has completed the study of the American short story and the novel. As a conclusion of the former unit each person in the class selected a story not in the text and told it to the class. These stories represented all types—mystery, humor, horror, and beautiful.

The tenth graders in Miss Walldorf's English class have completed their study of the short story. Members are selecting portions of declamations to learn in the competitive contest between members of Misses Walldorf's and Kilham's English classes and Mr. Latture's speech class. By a process of elimination the best speakers will be selected and the school declaimer will be chosen on March 31.

The fourth hour speech class is studying salesmanship, including the qualities necessary to make a successful sale and the correct procedure to use. Data for biographical appreciation talks is being gathered by reading, listening to radio addresses, and talking with people who know something about the subject. It was decided that each member should choose some person in whom he was interested and tell the rest of the class concerning the life and reason for appreciation of this one particular person. George Bennett selected Carl Akeley; Hazel Curtis, Amelia Earhart; Bonnie Jean Drake, Helen Keller; Bob Kenyon, Woodrow Wilson; Edward Landow, Carl Sandburg; Betty Ann Mastick, Jane Addams; Roger McClain, Henry Ford; Leo Schmitz Theodore Roosevelt; Betty Smith, George Washington Carer; and H. Wallbridge, Will Rogers.

FRESHMEN GIVE DECLAMATIONS

The mark for the entire month's work for both boys and girls in Mr. Latture's vocation classes is determined by how well, from a speaker's point of view, various declamations are delivered by the pupils.

The main reason for these declamations, from which no pupil is exempt, is to give the student and Mr. Latture a chance to see just what chance he would have for a position if he were confronting an employer instead of the rest of the class and his speech were an application for work.

It is no small undertaking to be able to stand up in front of a room and deliver a speech as the many pupils whose knees are still shaky now realize. When a so-called victim arrives at the front of the room, almost invariably two things happen: His stage fright comes, and his well-learned speech departs; however, every participant should agree that hard as it was this experience has helped him to understand his own abilities.

The pean twig-girdler attacks pean trees in North Carolina and is rated by growers as one of the trees' chief pests.

GYM DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD IN MARCH

A novel demonstration of the gym classes of both girls and boys, seventh to ninth grades inclusive, is to be held March 25, under the joint direction of Mr. Jacobi and Mrs. Miller, girls and boys athletic directors.

It is not yet known whether a nominal sum will be charged for the parents or whether they will be admitted free but all are cordially invited to attend, for it is the wish of Mr. Jacobi and Mrs. Miller, that the parents see the kind of work in which their children have been participating. Further details regarding the time of day and the program will appear in a later edition.

SECOND TEAM YIELDS LAST GAME

Yielding by the close score of 21-16 to the strong Ypsilanti team in a fast game played at Ypsi, the Plymouth second team ended the basketball year with a record of nine wins against five defeats. The Ypsi and River Rouge teams beat Plymouth both games played, while Dearborn triumphed but once, thus accounting for the five losses.

The only score made by either team in the first quarter was a lonely foul shot by Bill Norman. Ypsi changed her tactics in the second quarter and at the half was ahead by the score of 11-4. On account of Harold Leach's eight points, all made in the third period and a beautiful shot from the middle of the court by Joe Scarpulla, the locals were behind only two points, the score being 16-14 at the close of the third.

Battling gamely but to no avail, the Rocks fought to the last but did not succeed in reducing Ypsi's lead, the final score being 21-16.

BIOLOGY HAS GONE CORNY

The members of the girls' biology class under the direction of Miss Ford have taken up farming on a miniature scale. Room 30 is now the scene of many bottles, jars, and flower pots showing seeds in various stages of germination. Some girls were too "city-bred" to get their seeds to grow. Shirley Mault proved herself to be a regular farmerette—her corn shoots are nine inches tall and her lima beans are seven inches high. Different groups of girls have been experimenting with pea seeds during the past week, trying to determine what factors are necessary for germination and in what proportions they should be combined. A few have pea seeds in water, others without air, some have theirs in the school refrigerator still others in varying amounts of air, water, and temperature.

This semester is to be concerned solely with the study of plant life and promises to be very interesting and instructive.

The combined third and fourth year Latin class has finished the third book of Virgil's "Aeneid". When time permits, Miss Hearn reads aloud the next day's lesson from a poetic translation found in the Harvard classics and thus enables the class to get the gist of the material. This does not, however, make the translating much easier because the students translate the material in prose while the classics are written in poetry.

CIVIC ORCHESTRA VISITS PLYMOUTH

The Detroit Civic orchestra, a federal project of the Works Progress administration, visited Plymouth high school on Tuesday, March 1, and gave an hour's concert before more than 650 students. The program elicited stormy applause from an appreciative audience.

Otto Kruger, conductor of this perpetetic company, introduced a representative of each department in the orchestra, and had each play a violin. In the string section, the viola, viola, violoncello, and string bass were compared. Under the woodwinds, the French horn, bassoon, oboe, flute, and piccolo were demonstrated. The triangle and tampani represented the percussion division.

The program opened with two incidentals from the Peer Gynt Suite, by Edward Grieg, greatest of the Norwegian composers. These were "Anitra's Dance" and "In the Hall of the Mountain King". The orchestra dipped into the classical next with a minuet by Bach. This was followed by the University of Michigan's march "The Victor". During this, Conductor Kruger called young Kenneth Hannon to the stage and gave him the baton. Kenneth heroically went through the motions of leading the orchestra, and at the conclusion made three very deep bows. A waltz called "The Wedding Dance" succeeded this, and was followed by a group of songs by Jerome Kern from the motion picture "Showboat". In closing, a lively march, "The Noblemen", was rendered.

A fee of a nickel was charged those present, and attendance was not compulsory.

ENGLISH CLASS IS MAKING NEWSPAPER

Miss Rathburn's second hour class of ninth graders is starting a newspaper. The two boys editing it are calling it "The Plymouth News". Although the newspaper articles are nearly finished the paper will not go to press immediately; it will be typed. The paper will consist of things of interest in Plymouth—parks, factories, post office, and churches will be the main topics. The two editors are Clayton Kelley and Bob Dailey. They will have no help from anyone if possible.

David Kellogg Carter of Massillon, Ohio, clinched the nomination of Lincoln by announcing a change of four votes in the Ohio delegation in the Republican national convention of 1860.

YOU OWE YOUR EYES the very best of lighting—to guard against eye-strain and fatigue. Because eyes are slow to complain, because they try to adapt themselves to unsatisfactory conditions, we frequently abuse them without realizing it.

Good lighting is a comfort that costs little money. You can afford to give your eyes good lighting for every seeing task. In the living room, be sure that there is a reading lamp beside every easy chair and at each end of the sofa, in addition to the light furnished by the ceiling fixture or wall brackets. (The shades on your reading lamps should be light-colored inside to reflect the maximum amount of light. A dark shade "soaks up" light.) At a child's study desk one of the new I.E.S. study lamps, using a 150-watt bulb, will provide good illumination. In the kitchen, use a 100 or 150-watt lamp in the ceiling fixture, and a 60-watt lamp over the range, the sink, and the work areas. In the bathroom, use a 100-watt lamp in the ceiling fixture, and a 40 or 60-watt lamp on each side of the mirror.

If in doubt about any phase of your home lighting, please feel free to call in a Detroit Edison Home Lighting Advisor. He will give you helpful advice on your lighting problems. There is no charge for this service.
