No Appropriation For Welfare Made By State Of Tennessee—"Welfare Clients" Get Only Necessities

State Doles Out No Cash—Welfare Problem In South Interests Michigan Because of Migration

By E. R. Eaton

Memphis, Tenn., March 17—In the last year or so thousands upon thousands of people from Tennessee and adjoining states have migrated to Michigan. They have largely settled in Wayne, Oakland and Genesee counties.

Why? This question is of utmost interest to Michigan taxpayers and job holders.

It is interesting to the taxpayers because of the increasing welfare "load" due to the unemployment of these newcomers. It is also interesting to the job holders because of the fact that many of the newcomers are persistent job hunters and are now filling good Michigan jobs formerly held by Michigan workers.

The welfare problem is the most interesting because of its vital concern to every Michigan citizen as well as the future progress and development of the state.

The state of Tennessee absolutely refuses to give cash relief. So difficult is it to secure public assistance that only a comparatively small number try to get it. One should not gain the idea that Tennessee does not properly provide for those in actual distress. It does so, and largely with funds that originate outside of the state. Michigan taxpayers being most generous contributors by compulsion to the aid of Tennessee people who have not left the state.

It is only fair to say that the majority of these southerners migrated north in order to secure the much higher wages paid for all labor than is paid in Tennessee and other states about her.

But, also it is an interesting fact that all of these people who have left the South and located in Michigan know about our cash payments made to people who get on the welfare, and they know too that it is a much easier thing to get welfare assistance in Michigan than it is down in Tennessee.

While Michigan has spent well over $100,000,000 by direct legis-

Charter Change Faces Vote Here

Approval of an amendment which would bring readjustment of salary provisions for members of the city commission will be sought at the biennial municipal elections to be held April 4.

The proposed amendment would make Section eight of chapter four of the city charter read:

"The Commission shall receive as compensation for their services a sum of three dollars for each meeting of the commission by them respectively attended during their term of office, but shall not exceed 52 meetings in any one year. This payment shall be made from the general fund in the city treasury. The said officers shall receive no other compensation for services performed for and on behalf of said city during their term of office, provided that in no case shall such commissioners receive compensation for any meetings not actually attended."

The amendment, if approved by three-fifths of the voters who cast ballots, will not go into effect until July 1.

It was pointed out this week that the amendment does not increase the meeting salary, but instead insures payment to the five city commissioners for up to 52 meetings a year and thus limits their possible total remuneration for a year to $156. At present the commissioners are paid at the rate of $3 a meeting for only 30 meetings or a maximum of $90 a year.

Since the charter was approved in 1932 the work has increased greatly, especially since so much time is necessary for welfare and WPA projects.

Records in the office of the city clerk reveal that for the 12 months from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1936, the city commission held 24 regular meetings, nine adjourned sessions and 11 special meetings for a total of 44 meetings ranging from one to three hours in duration. Under the present charter provision the commissioners were paid for only 30 meetings, serving at the other 14 without remuneration.

In the 1936-37 fiscal year the commission held 24 regular meetings, three adjourned ones and 16 specials for a total of 43.

Many persons familiar with the amount of work required of members of the commission in directing the operation of a city as large as Plymouth, believe that the amendment is proper and makes an adjustment needed for several years.

Fire Station Asked For North End

The city commission has been asked to establish a fire engine and station in the northern section of the city.

Bill Rose, president of the Civic Association and 13 other members of the group, appeared before the commission to make the request. Rose, as spokesman for the group, urged that the branch fire station be necessary to safeguard against the possibility that freight trains on the Pere Marquette crossings might block entry to the section by engines from the city hall.

Members of the commission said that previous attempts to obtain volunteer firemen in that section had failed but Rose said that would not be the case this time. Rose said that the commission asked for three volunteers to operate the engine and that the association had four already promised and could get a total of six if needed.

Provision for the purchase of a fire engine, a place to locate it, and funds for operation would have to be considered in the budget for the fiscal year 1938-39 so the plan, if given formal approval, could not go into effect until after July 1.

Plymouth Seeks Class B Title In State Tourney

High School Five Wins Regional Championship

Coach Milton Jacobi's fast stepping Plymouth high school basketball team, crowned regional champions of Class B at Ypsilanti last Saturday night, headed up that long, rough road to the state title this week.

Hopeful of turning the tables on an old foe, the Plymouth five traveled to Jackson to clash with the touted Marshall quintet in the quarter finals Thursday night. If Plymouth can win, Coach Jacobi takes his team to Grand Rapids where they will meet the winner of the Flint St. Michael-Alpena game in a semi-final round at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the huge city auditorium. The Class B final is scheduled to be played in the same auditorium at 8:50 p.m. Saturday.

As the Rocks set out for Jackson they kept in mind the humiliating defeat handed them a year ago in the quarter final by the Marshall five. Last year Marshall won 42 to 23 to eliminate Plymouth from the title grind. Coach Jacobi and his cagers, with 13 victories out of 16 games played on the record, believe they will make a much better showing this year although Marshall has not lost a single game from its fast team of a year ago.

Coach Jacobi planned to start the following team at Jackson against Marshall:

Gordon Moe and Orin Egloff will be at the forward posts, Jack Ross and Douglas Prough at the guards, and Marvin Sackett at center.

Plymouth outclassed Fenton to win the regional title at Ypsilanti last Saturday. The score was 30 to 19.

The Rocks got away to a slow start in the first quarter but held a 7 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter. They fought off a furious Fenton rally in the second and Plymouth held a 11-8 margin at half-time. The Rocks held Fenton to but two points in the third period and led 15 to 10. It was in the final quarter that Plymouth turned on the steam, piling up 15 points while limiting the opponents to but 9.

Egloff led the scoring with 9 points while Moe had 7, Sackett and Ross, 5 each. Plymouth marksmen made good on 12 out of 16 foul shots attempted. Fenton was only able to make five out of 20.

A large delegation of Plymouth residents were on hand to see the title game in Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Knapp Speaks At Annual Event

Seventy-five guests and members of the Northville and Plymouth branches of the Women's National Farm and Garden association attended the annual spring luncheon held in the First Presbyterian church, Monday.

Mrs. Thad J. Knapp, of Northville, spoke on English gardens which she visited during her trip abroad last year. She said that roses predominate the gardens in England but many of the same flowers that are grown in United States are popular there too. London has 7,000 acres of parks, the largest being Hyde Park, and all have spacious flower gardens. She said that hot house roses could be purchased in England for ten cents a dozen.

The parks, however, are not equipped with facilities for cooking as in United States, Mrs. Knapp related. Families enjoy the parks, however, by bringing their lunches and staying all day. A chair to sit on in the park costs two pence.

Mrs. Knapp also visited Stratford on Avon, Shakespeare's home. The gardens there, she said, are very beautiful. She also visited Ann Hathaway's cottage, the ruins of Kenilworth Castle, the Warwick castle and many other places of interest in England. She displayed many pictures taken during her travels.

The girls' double quartette of Plymouth high school sang two numbers, "Lullaby" and "Voices of Spring", to complete an enjoyable program.

Many members of the clubs are planning to attend the annual flower show to be held in Convention Hall in Detroit from March 19 to 27.

Henry Fisher Recalls Storm Of 25 Years Ago

Henry Fisher recalls that it was 25 years ago this week that one of the worst wind storms in history struck Plymouth.

The storm blew off the roof of Mr. Fisher's blacksmith shop just the day before the opening of the Gayde and Fisher dealership in farm implements, wagons and buggies. The building was wrecked with the loss estimated at $2,000.

The heavy wind also played havoc with the electric light and trolley wires, shut down the local electric light plant and caused disruption of power service for several hours.

Wildlife Banquet Scheduled For Next Wednesday

Advance Ticket Sale Indicates Good Turnout

Advance ticket sale indicated this week that more than 150 sportsmen from Plymouth and Northville will attend the wildlife banquet to be held at the Mayflower hotel at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, March 23.

Jack Van Coevering, popular outdoor editor of the Detroit Free Press, will be the only speaker on the program. Lisle Alexander, chairman of the arrangements committee will act as toastmaster.

The banquet will be strictly informal with everyone, who desires to do so, urged to wear hunting jackets or other sports wear.

The committee has obtained several reels of fine movies on conservation which will be shown during the program. One of the principal reasons for the banquet will be the formation of a Plymouth-Northville wildlife organization.

The committee in addition to Alexander includes William Rambo, Glen Jewell, Mark Chaffee, Dr. Paul Butz and Sterling Eaton who still have banquet tickets for sale. Alexander also has a supply of wildlife stamps that are being sold in connection with the national conservation week celebration which starts March 20. Sixty-five percent of the funds derived from the stamp sale go to the national wildlife federation while 35 percent is retained for conservation education by clubs in Michigan.

President Roosevelt's proclamation for National Wildlife Week follows:

"Whereas one of the most important phases of the conservation of our natural resources is the protection and preservation of our wild life; and

"Whereas this is a work in which virtually our entire citizenship can participate wholeheartedly and enthusiastically, whether resident in the large metropolitan centers, with limited access to the great outdoors or permitted to enjoy at first hand the wonders of nature; and

"Whereas the carrying into effect of any program for the conservation of our hereditary wild life—in the past seriously diminished and depleted by destructive exploitation and lack of proper understanding and sympathy—must enlist the support of all of our citizens if the mistakes of the past are to be avoided in the future in dealing with this important resource of incalculable social, economic, athletic, and recreational value.

"Now, therefore, I Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and designate the week beginning March 20, 1938, as National Wildlife Week, and do earnestly appeal to all of our citizens first to recognize the importance of the problem of conservation of these assets in wild life, and then to work with one accord for their proper protection and preservation. To this end I call upon all citizens in every community to give thought during this period to the needs of the denizens of field, forest, and water and intelligent consideration of the best means for translating good intentions into practical action in behalf of these invaluable but inarticulate friends. Only through the full cooperation of all can wild life be restored for the present generation, and perpetuated for posterity."

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Wernet and son, William, were in Detroit, Tuesday, to attend the golden wedding dinner celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fritz, parents of Mrs. Wernet.

Dr. O. A. Brines, of the Wayne County Medical society, will be the speaker this (Friday) afternoon at the meeting of The Woman's club of Plymouth at the Hotel Mayflower. He will discuss "Causes and Curability of Cancer."

Mary Jane Clark, an instructor at the University of Michigan, and her harp ensemble will furnish the musical portion of the program. Miss Clark is a pupil of Nellie Zimmer, Van Veatchon Rogers, Helen Burr-Brand and Carlos Salzedo.

Special guests of the day will be members of the Northville and Redford Women's clubs, the Redford Child Study club; The Arche club of Wayne and The Wayne Literary club.

Mrs. Austin Whipple is the program chairman and Mrs. Harold Anderson is tea chairman.

Kiwanis Host To Dexter

At an inter-club meeting last Tuesday night, the Plymouth Kiwanis club acted as host to the Dexter Kiwanians, recently organized. The program of the evening was put on by members of the Dexter club, with Joseph Schnebit, president, in charge.

The visitors were introduced to the Plymouth Kiwanians by president Schnebit and then turned the meeting over to Alfred Gross, who acted as toastmaster for the evening.

Several selections were rendered by John F. Hoey and William Urquhart accompanied by Roland Servis at the piano. Selections by the Plymouth Kiwanis orchestra, a talk on "Handicraft Boy and Girl Work", by George Keal of Dexter brought the meeting to a close.

Jerry Niehaus, district lieutenant of a neighbor was a guest at this inter-club meeting and led the singing.

Golfing Season To Open Soon

With warm weather swinging attention to golf once more, the Plymouth country club was making a final campaign for members this week.

William Rambo, manager of the club, announced this week that 43 memberships have already been taken. Only seven more are left to be sold inasmuch as the club limits its membership to 50.

After April 15 an extra $5 will be charged for memberships. The fees before April 15 include $25 for a single membership, $30 for husband and wife and $45 for a family membership.

About 50 golfing enthusiasts were at the club last Sunday, taking practice drives although the greens were not ready for play yet. Rambo expects regular play to be in full swing by April 1.

Officers Re-Elected By Newburg Parent Teachers

Roy Kidston was re-elected president of the New Parent-Teachers' association at the regular meeting held March 3. Other officers re-elected include Mrs. Gladys Ryder, vice president; Mrs. Ada Watson, secretary; and Elton Hunt, treasurer.

The group was especially active during February, giving its second dancing party. Everyone had a good time. The association netted $35 also through the efforts of Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Bovee and Mrs. Kidston.

A camera club for movie and still camera enthusiasts in Plymouth, Northville, South Lyon and surrounding territory was organized in Northville last Tuesday evening, with about 15 members present. Neil Hanneford was elected president and Russell Clark, secretary-treasurer, and committees were appointed. A meeting to adopt by-laws, meeting place, etc., will be held at the Northville high school March 24.

Between 80 To 100 Employees Begin Work In Mammoth Plymouth Plant After Transfer From Detroit Unit

The Burroughs Adding Machine company will begin operations in its new mammoth and modern Plymouth factory, Monday.

Company officials, in making the announcement, said that between 80 and 100 men and women employees, now located in Detroit, would be transferred here beginning next week. Officials stressed that the moving of the departments, to be located in Plymouth, would be accomplished gradually over several months.

This week, presses for use in the printing department of the plant were installed and trucks brought stationery supplies, advertising material and other equipment here in preparation for the beginning of operations. Gradually, all of the direct mail shipments of the company will be made from this city.

The modern cafeteria, provided by the management in the new building, will be opened shortly for the convenience of the employees assigned to the Plymouth factory and power house.

The opening, Monday, of the huge five-story factory located on the eastern outskirts of the city on Plymouth road will mark the inception of a new industrial development in this locality.

The beginning of work at the plant will bring the huge power plant and heating system into use to provide good working conditions for the company's employees.

Construction of the Burroughs plant here was the largest single unit industrial job ever built in this section of Wayne county.

The five-story main building is 600 feet by 135 feet and includes spacious rooms for various departments. Also there is a sizeable gymnasium, shower rooms and handball courts to provide recreational facilities for the employees.

The Burroughs company expects eventually to move its printing division, ribbons department, direct mail, chair and stand assembly, chair manufacturing and finishing units to Plymouth.

The decision to begin operations here brought many of the employees to Plymouth this week to seek rooms and apartments for living quarters. Already, many of the employees are living here and the gradually increasing demand for homes and apartments in Plymouth has already presented this locality with a serious housing problem.

Officials stated that it probably would be many months before the plant was working to its capacity and, as definite plans for future movements are not yet available, it is impossible to state what future employment totals might be.

Seek Remedy For Crossing Delays

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce will seek a remedy for delays of traffic caused by lengthy freight trains on main crossings in and near Plymouth.

Complaints of unnecessary traffic jams were discussed Monday noon at the second of a series of weekly luncheon meetings held at the Hotel Mayflower. About 30 business men attended. Stewart M. Dodge, president of the Chamber of Commerce, plans to name a committee to call on railroad officials and determine whether the objections of motorists can be remedied.

Discussion of other community problems will be held informally at next Monday's session.

Public Is Thanked For Used Car Drive Support

Paul Wiedman, acting spokesman for automobile dealers of Plymouth, publicly thanked the people of this area this week for the fine response given locally to the national used car exchange week campaign.

Dealers here reported an upturn in sales of used cars which will help break the backlog which has been handicapping automobile sales. Interest shown by prospective buyers also indicated a good spring sales season, Wiedman said.

Mrs. Anna Halken of Northville is visiting at the Orr Exchange home.

GOVERNOR MURPHY, "D.D.": DREAMS AND DEFICITS

(George R. Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric)

This newspaper has, since Governor Frank Murphy came to Lansing over a year ago, sought desperately to withhold a critical attitude toward this chap who wants to Christianize the world in which he lives. We thought that we recognized him as a type of dreamer-politician who, while trying to hold on to his public job, also sought by precept and example to prove that absolute honesty and sincerity, and a modicum of ability, are the foundation stones of governmental decency. And, up to recent date, we have been able to watch him function without being very critical—and at times being quite laudatory of him.

But there come times in the life of every observing newspaper editor, of every voter and taxpayer, when what he sees compels him to a frank expression of his opinions—opinions created by the action of the one under observation. And right here is where this newspaper is, at the intersection of fiction and fact; and we propose to follow the highway marked "FACT."

We have no personal quarrel with Governor Murphy, neither do we declare that everything he has done in public office is wrong; but we do believe right now that he is more the artful politician than he is the smart-ful executive; that he is sanctimoniously walking about the campus of The College of Politics, his soft hands clasped across his trembling breast, on Sundays; and that during much of the remainder of the week he is wrestling with his disturbed conscience as he witnesses the Chaos that his "dew and sunshine" utterances and attitudes have assisted in creating.

It seems to us, then, that it's about time the garments of a politically compromising and weak Constitutional character are stripped from Mr. Murphy, and thus reveal him for what he is: an excellent prospect for academic activity, a poor person for executive example.

It is about time—for the good of his own soul—that the public gives him an opportunity to make and meet a payroll of his own, at his own expense and upon his own experience!

It is about time that Governor Murphy, dreamer of Utopia, be allowed to roll up his unsoiled sleeves, and become a weaver of practical patterns upon the loom of realistic facts!

It is about time that this priest of paternalism be afforded the opportunity of taking a needed vacation so that, either from his own Party or from some other, Michigan capital and Michigan labor be given the chance to live upon the fat of their own abilities, their own self-reliance, their own God-given right to earn an American living.

This newspaper some time ago reached a place in its political wisdom where it penetrated the thin veneer of partisan politics, and recognized that efficiency or inefficiency, sincerity or insincerity, were not the natural and sole rights of any political Party. We became convinced that both Republicans and Democrats contained able men and women; that both Democrats and Republicans contained other types, from ableness downward to your own invention of types of human nature.

But, so far as Mr. Murphy is concerned, we have watched him for more than a year, have listened to and read his spoken thoughts—and then we've balanced them against what has happened to Michigan's economic and governmental affairs, and we've not liked the difference.

First he encourages and allows "sit-down strikes," then months later tries to appease both sides by a fence-straddling statement; he preaches about the unfortunate plight of the unemployed, then does nothing to strengthen the backbones and give fundamental assurance of better times to either capital or labor; he pleads for more efficient and economical management of business, then sits by as Michigan's payroll reaches its greatest peak, with some of his closest political allies drawing more than one salary from the State's unbalanced budget; he laments the drain upon the thin pocketbooks of weary taxpayers, then imports "experts" to invent new ways to increase the tax load; and he does a host of other things that tend to disintegrate the basic citizen-character of most of the people he has sworn to serve.

The editor of this newspaper wants it distinctly understood that these statements are not made on any partisan political basis. We have criticized Republican Governors in the past, and expect to do so again in the future, if their actions merit such criticism. But we are tired and we are weary—and so are hundreds of thousands of bureaucrats, of the pater of politicians, of the sobbings of sycophants (this is the only two-dollar word we have used, please remember), of the preaching of pedagogues, and of the deficits of dreamers.

The major basic trouble with Governor Murphy is that his eyes are not on Lansing so much as they are on Washington; he views his job with all the fervor of a New Dealer with too many "jokers" in the deck—and Michigan doesn't want its Governors to be so sleepy to the causes and the cures of its problems.

The editor of this newspaper, then, has come to the final conclusion that unless some miracle takes place he can't give his vote this Fall to Mr. Murphy; but if the latter ever needs it, he can have our shirt.

We believe pretty thoroughly in the old Biblical admonition that one can do worse than to "sell all you have and give

Hardships

By James Hays

Poor Mother has to cook with gas,
Needs an electric topper.
Dad's auto should have four wheel
Two aren't safe to stop 'er. Brakes—

Then Harold ought to have a bus
He needn't share with Sam
And so should all the rest of us—
It's two blocks to a tram.

We have to put up with a lot
Of hardships all the while,
But Uncle Joe, who pioneered,
Is mean enough to smile.

Why, Uncle must have had it fine
When he was pioneering
With scouts and Indians all around
And real bears in the clearing!
He must have lived like a story book
I can't see why he'd grin
When his life's been lots easier
Than ours has ever been.

it to the poor"—but we hardly think the Lord included in that category the poor politician.

For "faith without works" is much like hunger without food, capital without labor, labor without capital, political promise without personal performance. The way to end the whole thing is for the people, at election time, to create candidates without votes.

And that goes for incompetent candidates in any Party. For the people are greater than the politician; and, "though the truth is ever on a scaffold," it eventually triumphs!

SUICIDE BY TAXATION

"The biggest problem facing the nation today," says Roger Babson, "is not the recession; not the jobless; not the railroads. It is our taxation system." Unsound, excessive and inequitable taxation coupled with unprecedented government extravagance is slowly driving the nation to commit suicide by taxation. Reform in government spending and taxation is the crying need of the moment. As Mr. Babson declared, the only basic policy in our present system is an almost fanatical desire to conceal taxes from the ultimate payer—the consumer. Taxation has been instrumental in bringing private enterprise and industrial progress to the present point of stagnation.

Mr. Babson points to ten different steps that should be taken immediately:

1. Broaden the income tax base.
2. Pare down excessively high income taxes.
3. Reduce capital gains assessments.
4. Eliminate tax-exempt securities.
5. Tax government employees.
6. Remove the undistributed profits tax.
7. Stop the present policy of virtual "embezzlement" of social security funds.
8. Clamp down on special local taxes.
9. Lower real estate taxes.
10. Cut public spending.

These are concrete suggestions for a practical program of solvency and business encouragement which, if enacted, would stimulate the private citizen to forge ahead. Private enterprise would take a new lease on life. Employment and wages would resume their upward march in step with the constantly rising standard of living that has characterized American progress for the last 150 years.

THE EFFECTS OF EXCESSIVE TAXATION

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors because they are a burden on production and can be paid only by production. If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax-sold farms, and hence in hordes of the hungry tramping the streets and seeking jobs in vain. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, in increased cost of what they buy or (as now) in broad cessation of employment. There is not an unemployed man—there is not a struggling farmer—whose interest in this subject is not direct and vital."—From a 1932 campaign speech of President Roosevelt.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

EDUCATION IS NOT IN A MUDDLE!

Members of the Chamber of Commerce heard a young educator speak one evening last week Jack Emmens is an assistant to Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene Elliott. He made an unusual record in Michigan schools before being taken to the important work in which he is now engaged. The burden of his talk was that "education is not in a muddle" as some laymen and some educators claim. We are willing to go this far with Mr. Emmens:

Education is in no more of a muddle than are other public and semi-public undertakings. It is no more of a muddle than are the economic structure, the social structure and the state and federal governments. Inasmuch as our educational system is a part of, and the joint responsibility of, federal, state and local governments, it is sure to inherit at least part of the confusion which exists in any and all of them.

There is an insistent and growing demand that this thing we call education prepare young people for exactly what they are going to do when they get their so-called education. It goes without saying that educators do not know what the young people are going to do. The wisest men in the country do not know what either young people, or themselves, are going to do five, ten, or twenty years hence. Chances are too great and come too fast.

So . . . how CAN education prepare them for exactly what they are going to do?

It is a fact—an indisputable fact—that certain individuals are endowed with the kind of brains that enables them to assimilate more of what educational institutions have to offer than others. In this land of the free and home of the brave, we do not segregate the youngsters according to their degree of intelligence or their ability to learn. Honest and frank educators will tell you . . . generally with misgivings . . . that about half of the enrollment of the colleges and universities are incapable of getting any considerable part of what the universities and colleges have to offer.

Why is this so?

Because public high schools are the preparatory institutions for college and university training. High school graduates, theoretically, are ready for college. Half of them are not—yet they go if their parents can foot the bill. Why? Because it is the "thing to do". About half of the college students are engaged in assimilating social niceties, acquiring a taste for something they cannot afford, without gaining the ability to satisfy their acquired tastes or to travel with those they have come to believe their social equals.

How can it be corrected?

If we knew we could have a job. This is a democracy. Probably, by and large, our system works out better than any other in the world. Like our state and federal government, like our social and economic structures, education IS in more or less of a muddle for the good reason that as a people we maintain—each and every one of us—that we have the inherent right to do as we damn please in all matters—even in matters of education. Because we do assume that attitude, our educational system, which is a part of our democratic setup, must go along with the people.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

THE GREATEST NEED.

What this country needs more than a five cent cigar is a revival of just old fashioned decency. Ten years more of our present declining morality and most folks won't know or care about our form of government.—Muri H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

BEER GARDENS

Many of the faces are young, healthy and attractive, with the appearance of average intelligence. Very few look stupid. If they did, we believe their actions would be entirely excusable. The young men and women of whom we speak are numerous and they are idling their leisure hours in beer gardens and other public drinking places. Why are they willing to sit hour after hour, dissipating time.

talking about nothing, but feeling very keen and self-satisfied? Most of them are high school graduates, and many of them are college trained. They have a formal education, but it seems to be shoved back on a shelf while they continue to be grammar school minded in their leisure hours.

Why aren't they interested in music, in literature, in art, in science, in government, in religion? Why don't their round-table discussions disclose interest on these topics rather than enjoy hour after hour talking foolish nothings?

Has their education failed to give them something finer to look for in life? Have their parents failed them in the right influence?

Or is it just because beer gardens are so numerous that young people have popularized them for their get-togethers and their conversation and actions are in keeping with their environment?

And why do we allow these beer gardens to thrive and exert their unhealthy influence on young people?—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

Some small business men were summoned to Washington recently to tell the big-wigs how to run the country. Most of what they told the administration is sane and sensible. But to our minds there is one thing left untouched.

One of the great factors in making this country great has been the ability of the ambitious beginner in business to gain a foothold. The way he was able to obtain that start, frequently, has been the fact that his home town banker had watched him grow up. The banker knew the young man. He knew his father before him. He knew his habits, his associates, his probable integrity. Frequently he had observed the young man working for another and had come to believe in him and in his future. The encouragement given to young and ambitious business men of the years ago is of inestimable calculation.

Bring back the old fashioned banker. Cut him loose from the red tape and the excruciating rules and taxes under which he now operates. Set him back again where he knows his customers, when they need money and why.

This country was built on the faith of money in men. It was built on the solid foundation of energy, thrift and integrity. It can be rebuilt on those same lines—and in our opinion on those lines alone. It can never go ahead on hate and distrust and interference by officialdom. Give us the old country banker and see America go forward again.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

A LOT OF CAR for a VERY LOW PRICE

The Ford effort to make your dollars buy a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the De Luxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thrifty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon—or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

(By Alda M. Wade)

Long years ago in infancy,
I romped beneath your trees;
I listened to your singing birds,
And humming of your bees.
I breathed the fragrance of your flowers
As I played upon your street
Or, skipping o'er the nearby lawn
I bounced on childhood feet.

Ah! Friends! I yet remember
Where stood my father's cot.
It was across the school house grove,
Adjoining the bakery lot.
And my father was the baker
Who kneaded at the trough.
As the tasty one poured loaves of bread
Were formed from Fleischman's dough.

'Twas here we lived for four years long—
My sisters and brothers all—
My father and mother—how gleefully
We answered her call.
For my mother was an angel,
So my brothers and sisters say—
I myself too young to remember
The sentiments of that day.

Then came a day of sadness—
Just fifty years ago
For a better place, I know;
I still see her in her coffin—
So white and cold and still,
And then the long procession
Through the snow to Newburg's hill.

Then there came the family break-up,
And we parted, one and all.
One sister went out West to live
In answer to an uncle's call.
Another soon was wedded
And in her home did dwell,
While the boys took separate courses—
This I still remember well.

Hand in hand with my poor father,
I journeyed from your town—
But never have forgotten you,
And never turned you down.
I've seen you many times since then,
In my travels the good state o'er
As a student at Ypsi College,
Oft I rang at your front door.

Since that fair day, I've watched your growth,
From village to a city bright;
You've passed your days of swaddling clothes,
From dull gas jets to brilliant light.

No longer now the muddy roads
That bogged the farmer's cart,
As, from the neighboring growing fields,
He brought his products to your mart.

Today your wide paved avenues
Extend to all the state.
Your beautiful groves and nearby parks,
Bring millions to your gate.
Great institutions have grown up
A near your border's side,
Which offer promise to extend
Again your limits wide.

Then all hail now your city fair!
Long live this lovely town!
May every hope be realized—
Great honor and renown!
For greatness will be yours some day—
And that fair day, ere long,
When we will join you in your glee,
And sing with you your song.

MICHIGAN FARMERS ARE TESTING 1938 SEED

The volume of seed samples tested by the State Department of Agriculture for 1938 is double that of any previous year, according to Commissioner John B. Strange. This volume is accepted by the department as an indication that practically all Michigan seed will be tested prior to the opening of the seed sales season within the next month.

"The law," according to Commissioner Strange, "now provides for the tagging of all agricultural seed, the exemption applying to local grown seed sold by elevators having been eliminated by the 1937 legislature. Our seed laboratory has been taxed to the limit in testing these seed samples, but all samples have been cared for as received from the elevators. If other elevators are contemplating sending seed samples, action should be taken at once so that the seed may be tested before sales start as it is unlawful to sell any untagged seed."

Auditor Attacks Costly Proposal

Edward H. Williams, Wayne county auditor, in a series of recent radio broadcasts, vigorously attacked a proposal for the construction of a $12,000,000 City-County civic center.

The proposal, recommended by the Detroit Convention and Tourist bureau, is untimely at present, Williams declared, because the city is in no position to assume an obligation of such size, the State is not interested and Wayne county, which has an untouched bonding limit of $90,000,000 should not shoulder the burden at this time.

"Because Wayne County survived the former depression with its credit and resources unimpaired; because it is in exceptionally stable financial condition today because its prudent pay-as-you-go policy has enabled it to conserve its assets, the County is now asked to lend a willing ear to a vague plan to spend millions of dollars of the people's money," Williams said.

"The county is not miserly. It is willing at all times to extend a helping hand to the city or to any municipality within its boundaries, provided the assistance sought is actually and imperatively needed. Certainly, no one can classify the civic center as a matter of immediate necessity, particularly now, when every citizen needs every cent which can be saved for him in lower cost of government."

Williams charged that the whole proposal lacks specific details and that its proponents err in many claims concerning its financing. Williams pointed out that Wayne County needs schools and hospitals much more than it does a convention hall and civic center at this time. The burden placed on taxpayers, should such a building proposal be carried out, would be far heavier than that admitted by proponents, Williams charged. The loss of taxes from condemning property along the waterfront for such a building, the interest charges and the bond amortization payments would total a staggering annual total, Williams concludes.

Farm Fur Crop To Be Studied At State

First major research project undertaken by the recently organized Institute of Conservation at Michigan State college is to be a survey to determine if farmers can obtain additional revenue from the trapping of fur bearing animals and also continue to keep farming profitable.

Approval of a project for these studies as outlined by Don E. Hayne, assistant in zoology research, has been granted by the institute and by the department of zoology and the agricultural experiment station.

Estimates of the state department of conservation place an annual value of $1,200,000 on the fur crop taken in Michigan. More than two-thirds of this income seems to be obtained by trappers in farmland counties south of a line running from Ludington to Bay City.

Hayne proposes to find out what portion of the fur crop in this southern part of the state is trapped on farm lands. He also wants to know what part of this income is going to farmers and whether the farmers' share can be increased without interfering with the use and operation of the land for agricultural production.

First work is to be started soon in this section. Estimates are to be obtained from farmers, trappers and fur dealers to supplement information now available in the state department of conservation.

Another project submitted by Hayne and given approval by the institute is to investigate rodent damage to orchards and to other trees and shrub plantings. Likes and dislikes in appetites of rats, mice and rabbits are to be studied. One phase of this survey will be to test and try to control the pests with repellents. Another part will be to get information on how many seem to be killed off by predators and what proportion die from disease and fighting.

IT'S A BIG MONEY FOR MIGHTY LITTLE MONEY!

ASK YOUR FRIENDS, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words: "It's a honey for the money!" That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice!

For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it! It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane — power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant. Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size. So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted. Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.

Chevrolet And Wilkie Win

The Community Basketball league play-offs started Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium. The first game was played at 7:00 o'clock between Wilkie and Schrader and proved to be a very interesting one. Wilkie played hard and piled up a score of 57 points, while Schrader failed to get anywhere near its opponent's score and the game ended, 57-24.

At 8:00 o'clock another hard fought battle was waged between the Plymouth Plating and Chevrolet teams. At no time during the entire game did either team have much of a lead. Both teams were determined to win, but in the last few moments of the game Chevrolet gained a lead of two points and by hard playing were able to retain that lead until the final whistle blew. The score was 31-29.

Wednesday night at 7:00 o'clock Plymouth Plating defeated Schrader, 45-19. This eliminated the latter team. At 8:00 o'clock, Wilkie and Chevrolet fought a hard battle. The score was nearly even all the way. Wilkie finally winning by one point, making the final score, 41-40.

Monday night the four girl teams completed the regular schedule. Hi-Speed defeated Coolman, 21-17, and Daisy defeated Red & White, 23-21.

The final standings of girls' teams:

Half Year Plates Sale Show Gain

Despite legislation adding a 25 cent fee to the purchase price of half-year motor vehicle permits this year, sales will show an increase of from 20 to 25 percent over those of last year, figures of the department of state indicated this week.

Half-year permits totalled 438,635 in 1937; half-year plates manufactured thus far for 1938, totalled 574,400, with final figures not available until late this summer, these plates being valid until September 1.

Sale of half-year plates lagged conspicuously this year until only a few days before the March 1 deadline, yet when the deadline had been reached, many branch offices including Plymouth had sold more than they had throughout 1937.

Branch managers report that economy rather than necessity have dictated many half-year plate sales. Law enforcement officers throughout the state prefer plates for their ready identification of cars.

Arrests Solve 4 Auto Thefts

Arrest of two youths this week cleared up four recent thefts of automobiles in Plymouth.

Harry Siedelberg, 16 years old, and Leland Thomas, 17 years old, were taken into custody Monday and confessed, Police Chief Vaughan Smith, to stealing an automobile belonging to Arthur Frost, of Stark road.

The youths said they took the car Sunday night from the street where the owner had parked it while attending services of the Salvation Army. They abandoned the automobile in the Robinson subdivision where Plymouth police recovered it Monday.

Siedelberg and Thomas admitted to Chief Smith that they stole three other cars here recently. In each case, the youths said they took the cars to go out east of the city to see their girls. Upon their return to Plymouth they abandoned the cars. The youths were turned over to Wayne county juvenile court.

Phone Co. Makes Annual Awards

THEODORE O. HANSON

Theodore O. Hanson of Northport, plant employee of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, has been awarded the Theodore N. Vail medal in bronze in recognition of a "meritorious act of public service", beyond the normal performance of duty, that resulted in saving a life. The announcement was made by George M. Welch, president of the company, following citation of Hanson by the Michigan Vail Medal Committee of Award, meeting in Detroit.

On the night of May 30, 1937, while Hanson and his wife were driving near the Indian village of Peshwabatown, between Traverse City and Northport, they came upon the scene of an automobile accident in which a man was badly injured and was in danger of bleeding to death. Hanson, who had taken the first aid course offered its employees by the Michigan Bell company, applied a handkerchief-tourniquet to the partially severed arm of the victim and stopped the hemorrhage. He then took the man to a physician at Suttons Bay and later to a hospital at Traverse City for an emergency operation. Rounding a curve, the injured man's car had crashed into another car without lights that was parked on the highway, it was stated. He credits Hanson with saving his life.

Hanson's is the 64th Vail medal presented to Michigan telephone men and women since the award was created 17 years ago in memory of Theodore N. Vail, twice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Six of the recipients were employees of Michigan telephone companies other than the Michigan Bell.

The Vail Medal Committee of Award also recommended five letters of commendation to telephone employees for unusual acts of public service performed during the past year. They are: Olga Veitengruber, chief operator, and her two sisters, Florence and Erma Veitengruber, operators at

Senior Class Play Draws Well; Nets $91 Profit in Two Nights

The senior class play, "Growing Pains," presented last week Thursday and Friday was a financial success. A profit of $91.80 was turned in to the senior treasury.

A very successful ticket selling campaign was managed by Leona Maul, chairman of the committee. It was a house-to-house canvass with free tickets given to students for selling 25 tickets and a prize was awarded to the one selling the most. Richard Innis captured the prize, a brown leather wallet, by selling 48 tickets. Gerald Bordine, champion ticket seller for "The Patsy," ran second with a sales record of 44.

The play was well received by the audience and perhaps the excellent portrayal of the characters produced this effect. As the play was adapted to the age of the actors, the voices were more natural, and the acting itself was more natural.

The senior class would like to extend a vote of appreciation to Miss Ford, the director.

The credit for the beautiful scenery goes to Miss Fry who planned the color schemes and explained the technical points to a group of students who had not taken any courses in art. Jeanette Schwartz was the chairman of this committee.

Piano music between acts was furnished by Howard Wallbridge who played both classical and popular selections. His selections were "Regatana" and "Prelude" by Grug, "Polannaise" by Chapin, "C Sharp Minor Prelude" by Rochmanoff, "Witches' Dance" by McDowell, "You're a Sweetheart," and "Roselle".

George A. Smith's class in economics is busy trying to interpret present situations in the light of accepted economic principles and is attempting to find the causes of the present recession in industry and business.

Mr. Smith says that the so-called "good times" or business prosperity since 1933 was due largely to the huge quantities of buying power made possible through government spending in the form of C.W.A., F.E.R.A., P.W.A., W.P.A., and the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Again, payment of the soldiers' bonus provided over two billion dollars of purchasing power. Mr. Smith adds that the desire and attempt of the administration to reduce government spending, and thereby balance the budget, meant the difference between the present recession and the ordinarily prosperous times of 1936.

This is the beginning of the course in economics. Later money and banking and different forms of economic organization such as capitalism and socialism will be studied. The function of the class, Mr. Smith states, is not to solve problems, but to attempt to interpret the problems which have appeared during the last hundred years and to apply them, using economic principles, to different situations as they have arisen and become history.

Miss Cary, who says that she is a "jack of all hobbies," stumbled upon stamp collecting by accident. Once during an illness she wanted something to do and Miss Allen asked her to sort some two-cent stamps. Becoming interested in the marked differences among the common, everyday stamps, she determined to begin a collection of her own. Now her collection is composed of United States and foreign stamps, especially the latter. The stamp club, of which Miss Cary is the director, is also interested in collecting foreign stamps.

STAMP COLLECTING POPULAR HOBBY

Stamp collecting is one of the most popular hobbies in evidence at Plymouth high. Besides several student collectors, some teachers have collections. Among these, Miss Hearn, teacher of Latin, has the most outstanding one. During her college career, Miss Hearn visited a cousin and became interested in his collection. She considered this a "kid's stunt" and did not collect for herself until she came to Plymouth as a teacher and heard Miss Allen and Miss Cary discussing their collections; right then and there she began developing her collection. As many stamps as can be obtained are bought at the post office, Miss Hearn states; others are obtained from Washington, D. C. and various stamp companies. From the standpoint of investment, United States stamps are the most valuable and it is of this type that Miss Hearn's collection is principally composed. Exhibition sheets are next in value but because so many of these types are being issued, Miss Hearn has given up collecting these; "They are too expensive," she says. "The prettiest stamps are the foreign ones," she explained. "They are engraved and have prettier dyes and deeper colors." To illustrate this point she opened her desk drawer and displayed a British stamp which certainly was much prettier than those of this country.

Miss Cary, who says that she is a "jack of all hobbies," stumbled upon stamp collecting by accident. Once during an illness she wanted something to do and Miss Allen asked her to sort some two-cent stamps. Becoming interested in the marked differences among the common, everyday stamps, she determined to begin a collection of her own. Now her collection is composed of United States and foreign stamps, especially the latter. The stamp club, of which Miss Cary is the director, is also interested in collecting foreign stamps.

MYTHICAL STORES' RUN BY CLASS

Miss Cary's 10A bookkeeping class has assumed complete responsibility for the imaginary W. R. Collins Hardware company during the owner's absence on a vacation in Florida, and is learning the various phases of business from first-hand experience.

For this week, Mr. Collins left Jean Anderson and Eugene Bakewell in complete charge of the business in general, which includes, among other duties, the overseeing of about 30 bookkeepers. The purchasing department is being supervised by Carolyn Bowser, while Ruth Ash is conducting the sales section. Ivan Packard, treasurer, with Betty Barlow, assistant, are efficiently managing the banking division of the office. June Garrison and June Gardner see that all outgoing papers and reports are correctly audited.

Despite the "recession," the store is doing a very rushing business, and errand boys are flying around constantly.

All employees are happy when "pay-day" comes, and when their checks have been cashed, the class agrees that 10A bookkeeping is "fine."

STOP here :: Stop there :: It's stop and go everywhere! And just 30 stops can waste enough gasoline to drive 10 miles!

While traffic authorities are planning tomorrow's cities and highways, Shell engineers have developed a fuel, Super-Shell, to meet today's driving problem TODAY. They have found a way to rearrange the chemical structure of gasoline :: :: actually to balance it.

Automotive engineers use the term "motor-digestible" to describe Super-Shell, because at all speeds it is converted so quickly, so completely into power.

DEAD AND DEADER.

Student government should serve as a very useful means of preparing students for some of the life situations they will find later and which they will be expected to solve.

An attempt is being made in some of the eighth grade United States history classes to allow the students to make their own rules (their "constitution"), elect their own representatives (for "congress"), enforce their own rules, and punish offenders. So far it seems to be working out quite successfully.

Jefferson, being the founder of the Democratic party, has often been given credit for saying many things he never even thought of. One very significant thing which he did say on many occasions and on which the "Founding Fathers" seemed to have been in whole hearted agreement was that a democracy could be successful only if and so long as the voting public was well trained in the fundamentals of democracy with its privileges and responsibilities.

HI-Y STUDIES COLLEGE CATALOGS

Last week's Hi-Y program was concerned with a talk from Mr. Dykhouse on selecting a college after graduation from high school. After the talk, catalogs and announcements from various Michigan colleges and schools were circulated among the members for further examination. In the previous two meetings, reports on narcotics were given by Jack Gilles and Jacques de Laurier, who gathered his material from interviews with Dr. Tioch of the Detroit House of Correction and the narcotics inspector of the Detroit police department.

Sons Of Dealers Attend School

A new type of industrial school made its appearance in the automobile industry when 27 sons of Chevrolet dealers gathered in Detroit from all parts of the United States to take a seven-week course in Chevrolet's School of Modern Merchandising and Management.

The school was officially opened by W. E. Holler, Chevrolet general sales manager, on March 1. Mr. Holler issued a welcome to the dealers' sons and told them their course would give them a rare opportunity to learn the inner working of the automobile business.

"This is a practical business school," Mr. Holler declared, "designed to open the doors of practical training which would have been of inestimable benefit to every one of the men who are running Chevrolet today."

"You will have an opportunity to obtain first-hand knowledge which will permit you to do a better job of following in your fathers' footsteps than would otherwise be possible. You will get a comprehensive insight into Chevrolet which will be invaluable to you in the future.

"The school itself is ample evidence of the fact that Chevrolet is not building dealerships—it is building heritages," he said.

The new course, which will take the 27 students through representative Chevrolet factories in Flint, Saginaw, Indianapolis, and Detroit, will be under the supervision of T. O. McLaughlin, a Rhodes scholar who has been with Chevrolet for a number of years.

Actual classroom work started after the plant visits.

At the end of the seven weeks, a comprehensive examination will test the students' knowledge of Chevrolet. A graduation banquet is scheduled for April 20, after which the men will return to jobs in their fathers' dealerships.

The men attending the first course of dealers' sons were selected from several hundred applications from the field. Mr. McLaughlin declared. The nine Chevrolet regional managers in the United States made selections from recommendations submitted by the 47 zone managers, and these selections were ultimately passed on by central office officials. Three from each region were ultimately chosen for the school.

No Appropriation For Welfare Made By State of Tennessee—

lative appropriations and city, village and county contributions for welfare purposes in the last three or four years. The Tennessee legislature only once made provision for welfare funds. That was in 1933 when the legislature provided a state bond issue for only $1,500,000. Governor Gordon Browning told the writer the other day.

"We do not as a state appropriate money for direct relief. Of course back in the depression it was necessary for the bond issue, which we used judiciously for the benefit of our people," said the Governor.

"We are however very proud of our social security set-up and it is working out especially well."

It is interesting to note that the Tennessee "social security program" is the one from which federal funds flow into Tennessee and which are matched by state funds, such as the old age pension, the afflicted and crippled children's funds and assistance for the blind and deaf.

Tennessee has every reason to be proud of its governor and enthusiastic about him because of his remarkable success in tapping the strong box in Washington for money to be spent in Tennessee.

Before going into detail pertaining to the Tennessee method of handling welfare it might be well to briefly analyze the flow of federal tax dollars into the state of Tennessee through Washington methods.

According to Senator Townsend of Delaware the north, central and eastern states in which is located Michigan, paid 80 percent of all internal revenues collected during the governmental fiscal years from 1933 to 1937, but received back only 48 and one-half percent in relief expenditures.

In other words, the taxpayers of Michigan received back in WPA, CCC and in other federal projects less than half of the money they pay into the federal treasury. Outside that portion which does not remain in the possession of the Washington political job holders, a very great portion of the balance of these Michigan tax dollars are sent into Tennessee and other southern states.

According to data published in a recent issue of the Congressional Record, Michigan taxpayers during the fiscal years from 1933 to 1937 paid into the federal treasury a total of $763,900,000.

During the same period Tennessee paid into the federal treasury only $88,600,000.

This is $675,300,000 less than paid by Michigan taxpayers.

In the same period Michigan received back from government for all federal relief expenditures the total of $448,400,000.

This is $315,500,000 LESS than was paid into the federal treasury by the taxpayers of Michigan.

In the same period of time the federal government poured into Tennessee the vast sum of $330,900,000 for federal relief purposes a total of $242,300,000 MORE than was paid into the federal treasury by the taxpayers of Tennessee.

It is impossible to believe that any public official or other person would seriously contend that Tennessee needed these tax dollars more than did the state of Michigan. In fact there is not much question but what the relief need in Michigan has been and is much greater than in Tennessee. But notwithstanding this fact Michigan taxpayers were bled white in order to fatten the coffers of Tennessee and other states that were "in" on the division and diversion of federal funds.

No wonder Governor Browning is such an enthusiastic booster for the present Washington government. He can rightfully claim probably first honors for getting for the people of Tennessee more than their rightful portions of public funds. He certainly has done a good job in shifting the welfare burden from the taxpayers of Tennessee onto the taxpayers of Michigan and other northern and eastern states.

Not only has Tennessee gleaned a very large portion of federal relief funds, but it has been amazingly successful in securing WPA, NYA, CCC and other emergency jobs for its people.

Michigan with an estimated population of nearly 2,000,000, more than that of Tennessee has had according to Congressional Record data, working on these government projects only 54,172 while Tennessee has been able to place 31,956 of its residents on these government payrolls.

Of course everyone of the 2,864,000 population of Tennessee cannot be provided with jobs created by these federal funds, and Tennessee makes it so difficult for a person to get on the welfare—something that the state itself must provide—that there is little wonder there is so much migration to the North.

The writer is one who is not opposed to President Roosevelt's wage and hour proposal. If the congress could be induced to compel southern employers to pay somewhere near the prevailing wages of the North, it is my firm conviction that a long step would be taken in the direction of ending the costly migration of people from state to state.

It is only fair to the very large number of people who have come to Michigan from the South to say that they did so to improve their living conditions, made possible by the higher wages paid in the North.

Southern wage standards are much lower than those of the North. Of course there is a vast amount of colored labor. The wages paid these people can barely be termed wages, they are so low.

Why President Roosevelt did not turn his labor organizers into the South, can only be explained in one way, there isn't a sufficient wage paid down here to make the field profitable for operation.

Probably the best way to show just how the Tennessee system of welfare assistance functions is to visit a county office from which is administered public assistance.

Union City is the county seat of Obion county. The population of the county is something over 30,000. It is a typical section of the South, where they grow chiefly corn, cotton, berries and livestock. There is a number of fair sized factories in the city, one which employs over 800 people when in full operation. The citizens all seem to be of the same type and average intelligence as any other county in the nation.

"Can you tell me where the welfare office is located in this city?" a resident on the street was asked.

"Well, we don't have a welfare place here, but if somebody needs help, they go over to the Red Cross in the court house," was the answer.

So the Red Cross office was visited.

A bright, intelligent and clear thinking woman was in charge. She was the secretary of the Red Cross branch in that city. The office began functioning in 1917, when this country entered the World War. It has been in constant service since.

Every phase of welfare work and public assistance in that county of over 30,000 population is handled through this office and by this ONE keenly alert little woman. She is the only paid worker—and there is no question but what she does a good job and earns every penny paid to her, because the total expenditure last year in Obion county for welfare and public assistance purposes was less than $2700!

Not one cent was paid out in cash to any person. Miss Anna Little, the secretary, declared that she regarded cash relief as the poorest thing that could be done for a person in need.

"We believe in being kind to the unfortunate people who are compelled to come to us for aid but we are not kind to them if we give them money," she declared.

"We provide clothing when it is needed, food and medical supplies. Our grocery orders are always given on our stores in town. As long as we raise the money here, we believe in spending it here," she added.

When cash was paid to assist those on relief, it was found that much of the money flowed into the beer gardens and that southern houses of ill-fame received much of it.

"We've even found that some men came for aid who had had their fingers treated in manicure shops. Women spent the money for permanents and perfume," she added.

No welfare funds are used to pay house rent for any one.

One negro who applied for aid was told that if he figured himself worth feeding, he should do something towards getting something to "feed himself on."

"I do all my own investigation work, and no one fools me. No one ever gets aid that does not need it. They all know it and no one tries it."

"Our funds come from three sources. Last year the city appropriated $500 and the county appropriated $1000. Then the citizens hold a mass meeting to raise what additional funds might be necessary. The American Legion is a great help. The members do a lot of good work for us. We have a committee of citizens in charge of all our work. Not one of them gets a cent of pay for anything. They work for two purposes, to do the best they can for those in need and to do what is right by those who foot the bill—the taxpayers."

"What do you do with transient cases, people who do not live in your city or state?" she was asked.

"Well, we had one case from your state recently. I told him to see the chief of police," she said.

In the South "transient welfare" cases are seemingly regarded as vagrant cases. They either move along pretty quickly or go on the road gangs.

Obion county is especially proud of its county farm, which is apparently more of a combination hospital and old people's home than a poor house.

County prisoners raise the crops, take care of the stock and operate the place for the afflicted and destitute who are compelled to become county charges.

Of course there is unemployment in the South, but public officials are exceedingly careful about spending tax dollars that originate at home.

From observation it appears that those who foot the bills of the public down here have a bit more interest in how their tax dollars are spent than are the northern taxpayers. At any rate, public officials down here seemingly have a very high regard for the interests of the sustaining citizens of the state.

Professional welfare workers have no part in tax spending in the South, not in this part of the South at any rate.

And while some "reformers" may contend that Michigan is outstanding in its "social reforms" from the outside looking in for a few days, it appears very much as though Michigan taxpayers are being looted by a band of politicians operating under a false guise.

Hard-boiled Tennessee can teach some Michigan political job holders a whole lot about how to use tax dollars—even though they come from the taxpayers of other states.

Enrollment of full-time and part-time students at Wayne University for the second semester is 17.97 percent higher than it was at the corresponding time last year, according to a report issued by the division of research and finance last week. The total number of individuals registered on February 25 was 10,459 as compared with 8868 on February 25, 1937, making a difference of 1593 students.

Of the total, 5685 are part-time students taking less than ten credit hours of work. "Equating" these students to the minimum full-time load counts them as 1908 full-time students, for a total "equated" enrollment of 6882 full-time students. This represents a gain of 16.66 percent over the "equated" enrollment on the same date last year, when the figure was 5728.

FASHION: Striped velvet which resembles corduroy is a much-favored material. Revers and collars are frequently faced with a contrasting material and edged with fur. Some of the tailored coats have long narrow sleeves which button the full distance of the arm. Agrettes are grouped about the crown and are in some instances the only trimming. Many women wear the hair ornament or bandeau well down upon the forehead. Short coats of brocade will be worn with cotton gowns and they should always be the same color. Flat lace flounces will be approved for evening gowns and are considered smarter than the panner effects. Brocade crepe meteor is a new material and promises to rival both chiffon and velvet in popularity. Heavy velvets with open mesh are favored in quaint and oriental designs.

Beaver, maker of history as the reason for the fur trade, the conqueror of the Northwest, the French and Indian war, is an active factor in wildlife restoration. Beaver dams form storage ponds, breeding places for other fur-bearers and waterfowl, checks to forest fires. In some states beaver have increased until they are a problem on trout streams, but they are easily trapped alive and transported to areas where they are an asset.

THE GOOD EARTH... (The Harvest)

EACH year since 1930 the utilities of Michigan have led the entire nation in the number of farms electrified. In the last eight years, the number of farms served by THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY has tripled. Here is the record:

Year	Old Territory	New Thumb Territory
1929	8,759
1930	9,796
1931	10,305	(Detroit Edison began service in Nov. 1, 1931)
1932	12,437
1933	12,408
1934	14,167
1935	17,178	1,750
1936	18,760	3,370
1937	20,339	6,818

customers, the Company built 1,497 miles of farm line.

To farm families, electricity is even more important than to city dwellers, for on the farm electricity shoulders many burdens that city people never carry. Electricity performs over 100 tasks for the farm and the farm home. It eliminates much drudgery from farm life. For 10 or 15 cents a day, electricity performs such tasks as pumping and carrying water, the back-breaking labor of washday, cooking, grinding cattle feed, milking cows, and a score of other chores. The electric rates the farmer pays to us are exactly the same as the city residence pays—resulting in an average of 3.47c per kilowatt-hour for farms—and this rate includes without charge lamp renewals and many fussy little repairs to appliances.

The farmer tilling the land, who sows the seed and reaps the harvest, is a vital part of the economic system. And any group of farmers in the Detroit Edison service area who want electricity have always been able to get our service by a fair contribution to the cost of building the necessary line. In Michigan farm electrification has been a reality for ten years.

Note that the number of farms served in the Thumb increased by 5,156 or 310 per cent in the twenty-six months since The Detroit Edison Company began to serve it. To bring electricity to these 5,156
