

Cause of Tragic Death of Frank Fitzgerald Predicted in His Own Statements of Recent Weeks

Popular Governor A Victim of Thoughtless Friends, Greedy Politicians and Scandal Mongers

(By ELTON R. EATON)

"I can take care of my enemies but my friends are just simply killing me," said Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald as he stood in a hotel room in Detroit talking to Mayor Richard Reading of that city some two weeks ago.

The Governor had spoken at a banquet. The affair was over and the two had stepped aside for a brief chat.

Tears came to the eyes of Frank Fitzgerald as he half pleadingly poured out his soul to the mayor of the great city.

At the banquet the Governor had said: "Every one thinks he can tell the Governor what to do. My one chief ambition is to do a good job for the state of Michigan, one that will leave a good impression on the memories of the people of our state."

That is what the Governor declared was his one desire just two weeks before he died. His honest friends and supporters knew what he said was the truth.

It was just about a week before the untimely death of the Governor that I attended a meeting of a group of public officials in Lansing to discuss one of the administration measures pending before the legislature.

Present was one who had probably received more or at least as many favors from the hands of Frank D. Fitzgerald as any other citizen of Michigan. After the Governor had assumed his duties the first of the year this job-holder had camped, day after day, around the corridors of the executive office waiting for every opportunity to press his claim for immediate consideration.

He was given that which he sought, by HIS friend, the Governor.

"What happened at that meeting?" It is needless to go into details, but the incident was of the kind which would cause the Governor or any other man to wonder if it is possible to select an official family of true blue qualities—an official family composed of the type of MEN who should be at the head of our government and loyal to their chief.

"My friends are just simply killing me."

Frank D. Fitzgerald had a big heart. He was kindly. He was friendly. He wanted to please every one and he wanted to do that which he thought was right.

Men of that kind are easily hurt—a betrayal is like the wound from a dagger, it cuts deep.

Walter Winchell, the scandal-monger of the air, while Governor Fitzgerald lay on his dying bed, blared forth the statement that he had been advised that steps were being taken to recall Governor Fitzgerald. The Governor heard about the statement.

Do you think such things as that help much to make function a heart that has been torn wide open by friend and foe alike?

There was a lot of talk about gambling in the first few days of his administration. During his public life Governor Fitzgerald had taken the position that the enforcement of laws is up to the sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys. The Governor's position was absolutely right and in accordance with the provisions of the state constitution. Everybody in Michigan for four years had known his views on this question.

Frank Murphy had been governor for over six months when I introduced a resolution in the house of representatives on July 30, 1937 demanding an investigation into the gambling situation in Michigan. Big gambling houses were operating and slot machines rattled everywhere.

In my resolution introduced during the Murphy administration and which is recorded in the legislative documents at Lansing, the unfed charge was made that the number of slot machines operating within the state had increased, that open gambling was permitted to exist in numerous counties and because of the fact that Governor Murphy and every one else must know these facts but had done nothing except issue verbal statements to correct the situation, that the legislature should investigate.

The resolution passed on the same day it was introduced, and the committee of investigation was appointed.

Two days AFTER the resolution was passed the slot machines disappeared from most of the beer gardens and other places in and around this part of Michigan. Irrespective of all the statements and Murphy or any one else makes, it was this resolution passed by the legislature which closed up the gambling during his administration and NOT any executive order he ever issued that took his friend, Maxie Silk, the slot machines and other forms of gambling out of Michigan.

The months passed on. The fall campaign of 1938 approached. Frank Fitzgerald won the Republican nomination and polls of voters indicated that he was sure to beat Frank Murphy.

About this time rumors began to circulate throughout the state that Frank Murphy had said that if he would make the statement something to the effect that the "enforcement of the gambling laws was up to local officials" that some one had said they would give him $100,000 or $250,000. He told it to newspaper reporters in Lansing and he must have told it to many others because everybody in the state seemed to have heard about it.

Frank Murphy was defeated, as he should have been. Almost the day after Frank Fitzgerald had assumed office, an effort WAS made to open some of the big gambling joints that had closed down after the legislative investigation started in August of 1937.

Frank Fitzgerald announced that his position was the same as it had been three and four years ago—that law enforcement was a CONSTITUTIONAL duty of the law enforcing officers of the counties. Frank Murphy and every one else knew this to be the views of Frank Fitzgerald.

Frank Murphy did NOT do his duty as Governor of Michigan when he permitted the person or persons tendering him a bribe to escape prosecution, if such a bribe was offered.

One has a right to ask if the vicious story was started for the one purpose of driving another dagger into the heart of Frank Fitzgerald. The insinuating rumor was circulated at a time when it would do the greatest harm and injury to the Grand Lodge youngster who had grown to a commanding position in his state.

It was the second day after some Battle Creek preacher had written a letter to the Governor about gambling in Michigan, when Frank Fitzgerald picked up a newspaper and read the headlines about it.

"What would my mother say if she was alive and could read that?" said the Governor to a friend standing near.

Does not a distressed person who thinks of his mother who has been called to the other world, possess a heart that is easily wounded by such assertions?

You, kind reader, may answer that question.

"My friends are just simply killing me."

The preacher claimed to be a friend. The disloyal job holders claimed to be his friends. The persistent seekers of favours claimed to be his friends. The self-seeking, greedy, grasping bosses claimed to be his friends. They embarrassed him and hindered him. His entrance to the capital and from the capital was blocked by those who hounded him. They called personally at his home before he left for Lansing in the morning. They would call evenings and Sundays. They called him by telephone at all hours of the night. He had no rest, no time to think or no time to work. He didn't have the opportunity to give barely a single thought to the many problems he wanted to work out.

One day he turned to me as I passed him in the corridor of the capital and said, "Are they ever going to give me any time to work?" (Continued on Page 2)

The New Governor Takes Oath of Office

Charlotte—In a plain farm house near this city, Luren Dickinson, Lieut. Governor of Michigan took the oath making him Governor to succeed the late Frank Fitzgerald, who died Thursday night. The oath was given by Miss Tebe Tamans, an old friend, and prayers were offered by the Rev. A. L. Wagley, Mr. Dickinson's pastor.

City to Decide on Type of Sewage Disposal

Favor Plan to Join County Interceptor

Two solutions to Plymouth's sewage disposal problem were presented to commission members by City Manager Clarence Elliott on Monday evening. First was to enlarge the present plant to meet the requirements as set up by the Michigan department of health, and the other, to connect Plymouth sewers to the proposed Wayne county Middle Rouge parkway interceptor. The latter plan was favored by the commission.

Plymouth Schools Will be Hosts to Teachers

Out-County Institute and Banquet Planned

More than three hundred teachers are expected to attend the Teachers' Institute at the Central grade and high school on Monday afternoon, according to school officials this week. Local teachers as well as those from the neighboring towns of Belleville, Wayne, Northville, Flat Rock, Redford Union, New Boston and Romulus will attend meetings at 4:00 o'clock. Each teacher is invited to bring in all problems and questions to his special interest group. In each case a chairman and a guest who is an authority on the subject, will help answer unsolved questions and add valuable contributions.

Two are Victims of Broken Legs

Two local men are the victims of broken legs as the result of accidents over the week-end.

Joseph Simick is in the Plymouth hospital with both legs broken and Charles Stoneburner is in Grace hospital, Detroit, with a fractured leg.

Lenten Mission to Come to City

The Methodist church of Plymouth is presenting a Lenten preaching mission during next week on the theme of "What Christ Means to Me."

The mission will be opened on Sunday evening, March 26 with a musical sketch called "Sharing," presented by the Evangelical Singers, a male quartet from the Fourteenth Avenue Methodist church of Detroit where Rev. Closson formerly preached. Earl Keim, the organist and choir director, wrote the sketch to be presented.

The week night messages will be given by five Detroit laymen. On Monday, March 27, the speaker will be Charles Clark, of Crowley-Milner's. Paul Halmbucher, a Detroit dentist, will be the lecturer on Tuesday. There will be no Wednesday supper during this week but there will be a talk by Joseph Halmbucher, a Detroit dentist, on Wednesday evening. Thursday's speaker will be Dennis Strong of Southwestern Motor Sales and Friday's will be George Fead of Bomer Warren and Company. The mission will be concluded on Sunday, April 2 with a special dinner entitled "The Centennial Servant" to be given by the Brightmore players, of the Brightmore Methodist church, of which Rev. E. J. Hollenbach is the pastor.

Absentee Voters Must File Early

City Clerk Clarence H. Elliott announced this week that qualified electors wishing absentee voters' ballots should file applications with him as soon as possible. Ballots will not be given out after Saturday, April 1, Mr. Elliott said. Several people who were confined to their homes by sickness last year, requested absentee voters' ballots on election day. This practice of giving out ballots to absentee voters on the day of election will be discontinued this year since a state law has made it illegal.

Civic Group Names Committee for Hobby Show

Also Plan to Make Permanent File of Club Members

A hobby show committee of seven was chosen by the Civic committee at its meeting Monday evening. Glenn Jewell was named chairman for this group which includes Lisle Alexander, Mrs. Leo Crane, Mrs. Robyn Merriam, Mrs. Russell Daane, Marvin Partridge and Margaret Buzard. Working with this group as advisor will be George Chute.

More definite plans for this year's show will be announced as soon as the new hobby committee meets in the meantime. The civic committee is urging every resident with a hobby to get it in shape to exhibit at the show. They feel that if all Plymouth residents who have hobbies would exhibit their collections, the show would be a great success.

Mrs. Cass S. Hough Heads New Group

By a special act of Congress, April has been set aside as Cancer Control Month. The great need for an education program which may enlighten the public as to the part each individual may play in the curbing and controlling of this menace which in seventy to eighty cases is curable if taken in time, led to this act and to the organization in 1936 of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. This army of volunteer workers expanded until at the end of 1938, 43 states, including Michigan, were organized into divisions headed by a commander with local units in counties, towns and cities. The Women's Field Army is unique in that it is a health movement in which the state medical societies play an official part. The army does not enter a state until its program has been approved by the state society.

Ex-Service Club to Hold Benefit

He has been assigned to handle the legal work of the Agrarian Claims Commission in Mexico.

John Blyton and William Taylor Purchase Blunk Bros. Dry Goods Store—To be Enlarged

Another important business announcement that means much to Plymouth was made this week when Blunk Bros. made known the fact that their dry goods and ready-to-wear department store had been sold to William Taylor and John Blyton. The latter has been in charge of the department during the last three years.

The new corporation will be known as Taylor & Blyton, Inc. They have already taken a long term lease on the Blunk store and will assume possession of it on April 1.

The entire store will be turned into a dry goods and ready-to-wear establishment. The removal of the furniture business to Penniman avenue makes available more than 2,000 additional feet of floor space for the dry goods department.

Mr. Blyton, formerly a director and shareholder of Blunk Bros., and who has been merchandise manager of these departments within the store since coming to Plymouth, will be the general manager and buyer of the entire store. His associate in business, William Taylor, is one of Plymouth's old time and well-known residents. Mr. Taylor does not plan to be active in the business, leaving its direction entirely in the hands of Mr. Blyton.

The new company has taken over the entire building and with the addition of the second floor, this city will have the largest dry goods and ready-to-wear establishment in Wayne county outside the city of Detroit. Workmen are already working out numerous improvements that will be made.

Numerous additional departments will be added and orders have already been placed for much larger stocks than have hitherto been available. This being done for the purpose of giving buyers in this locality more complete stocks and enabling the store to better serve the needs of Plymouth and vicinity.

Some of the new departments that will be installed immediately will be a baby department, and a modern curtain and draperies. (Continued on Page 2)

Ten Permits Issued for New Buildings

$50,000 Worth of Construction Contemplated

Building permits for $50,820 worth of construction have been issued since the beginning of the year city officials said this week. This large figure includes $15,500 worth of commercial building.

Most of these permits have been issued during the first three weeks of March and were given largely to people contemplating residential building. Proposed residential building in Plymouth for the first three months of the year included permits issued:

December 31, 1938 to Gerald Mondorp for a new home on Penniman avenue; January 10, 1939 to Knut Gustafson for a new home on Adams street; January 26 to Daniel S. Mills for a new home on Penniman avenue; February 27 to Harvey C. Springer for a new home on Auburn avenue; March 7 to Joseph Hudson for a new home on Pacific avenue; March 15 to Marvin Terry for a new home on Evergreen avenue; March 15 to Leroy Simmons for a new home on Evergreen avenue; March 17 to Adel Keeping for a new home on Irving street.

Not all of this work has been completed, some has not been started, but the work which is being done is giving Plymouth a decided boost. By the end of March approximately 40 new homes will have been added to the city tax rolls, prophesied the city treasurer.

Two commercial permits have been issued this year. One to Ralph Lorenz for construction of his new building on Main street and one to the Daisy Air Ride company for its new addition.

Kiwanians to Honor Schrader

Members of the Plymouth Kiwanis club at their regular weekly meeting Tuesday night, were entertained with the showing of sound films, entitled "Let's Go Fishing," and "Diesel, The Modern Power." These films were produced by the General Motors Public Relations department, and brought to Plymouth through the efforts of Ernest Allison.

Arthur Wilson, General Motors Public Relations department field representative, was introduced by Mr. Allison and delighted the members with the showing of the intricacies of the average lease Walton follower as well as the educational and interesting features of the new modern power.

Next Tuesday evening has been set aside as the Lenten Mission night. It is expected that every member will be present and lend his support to the good work that has been done.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who is the general claim agent for the Free Marquette railroad, was elected to the school board in 1938 and has served on it for four years.

Frost Shield on Water Tower Burns Tuesday

Damage is Estimated at Nearly $400

A water tank surmounted by a fire siren is the last place a blaze might be expected. Yet, on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30, smoke was reported to be pouring out of the wooden casing which surrounds the down pipe on the water tower behind the Presbyterian church. When the fire was extinguished three hours later the damage was estimated at $400.

The fire, which is believed to have started from a grass blaze at the base of the tower, was in the walls of the wooden casings which serve as frost shield to the pipe. The high tower served as a perfect chimney, and since a strong wind was blowing, the conflagration continued for several hours.

As soon as firemen had rushed two trucks up to the park and had begun pumping water, Louis Westfall climbed one third of the way up the tower and chopped a hole in the dry wood of the frost shield which surrounded the pipe.

All efforts to subdue the fire by pouring water in this hole were useless. Three of the volunteers, Fred Drews, Dale Rorabacher and Warren Perkins climbed up the outside of the tower to the platform on which the siren is situated. From this precarious position 65 feet above the ground, they directed a stream of water at the top of the down pipe and after three hours extinguished the fire. All the casing that was left will be torn down and replaced.

This is the second time in the last 10 years that the wooden casing has been destroyed. About five years ago it was burned off when, in an effort to thaw the frozen down pipe, the wood caught fire.

As long as there is an ever present danger from bonfires in the neighboring junk yard, the city manager decided that a fire-proof casing should be constructed. On Wednesday he took in estimates on corrugated pipe of galvanized steel and rock wool insulating material which would make the casing incombustible; however, no definite steps have been taken.

Cause of Tragic Death of Frank Fitzgerald with you and the other members of the legislature on the things we should do?"

The Governor made a request the first of the year for all the departments to cut expenses and reduce their payrolls. Paul Todd, immensely rich through an inherited fortune that was partly created by the operation of a near-peonage labor system on mint farms near Menasha, isn't the sort you usually find in high public places. He is of the type one expects to find in the class of people who never did anything to create the wealth they possess. He defied the Governor and wouldn't do a thing the Governor had requested. Very rich people who do not create their own riches generally display that attitude.

The Governor urged the legislature to pass a bill lawing Todd out of his job. The bill was passed quickly by the legislature. It was given immediate effect.

Todd took some of his big fortune and went to court. He got his case into the supreme court because he had the cash to hire expensive lawyers. The supreme bench ignored the immediate effect clause of the act and indefinitely postponed the will of the governor and the legislature.

When the Governor heard of the action, it troubled him greatly—it troubled him to think that the judges of the supreme court would for an indefinite period block the wishes of the Governor in an administration economy program he desired to carry out.

"What is the use of trying to do anything for the over-burdened taxpayers of Michigan when a handful of judges can block the wishes of the legislature and the governor?" asked the Governor of a friend with him when he heard of the decision.

All of these things bothered the Governor greatly. His enemies and HIS FRIENDS had begun to torpedo his administration almost before it had started. In the few brief weeks he had served during his second term more distressing things had happened than usually take place during several years of an administration. He wanted to be a friend of every one. He wanted to be not only a good Governor but an outstanding Governor. And he wanted to go higher in public service. He was just at the right age to start his climb to fame.

He not only took more rebuffs than usually come to one in such a brief time, but he answered the calls of every one, night and day—and in doing so he ANSWERED THE CALL OF DEATH.

Michigan has lost a native son who made good in his native state and became an outstanding leader.

The saddest part of it all is the fact that a devoted wife and an admiring son have been left alone in the world without advisor or protector.

Blyton and Taylor Night School Purchase Store Second Term Ends

Plymouth high school has concluded another successful term of night school this week, said Principal C. J. Dykhouse yesterday.

During this second term 48 students were enrolled in classes which met twice a week for 12 weeks. No credit was given for these classes, no prerequisites were required, and students were allowed to progress at any rate they chose without fear of exams.

The courses were so well received that Mr. Dykhouse announced that they will be continued next fall on an enlarged scale. Statistics show that the most popular course was typing and shorthand; Harry Fountain, commercial teacher, had 16 students enrolled in his classes. Twelve pupils met twice a week with Riley Lynch to study landscape gardening, and 12 also met bi-weekly for machine shop and mechanical drawing with William Campbell. Mrs. Ward Henderson instructed eight girls in home decoration with her domestic science course.

Students not included in the public night school figures are eight boys from the Ford Trade school who meet every week for American history sessions with James Lature. High school credit is given for this 30-week course which will continue for three more weeks.

Tax Sale Will be Held May 2

City Treasurer Charles Garlett announced yesterday that a tax sale will be held for 1816 delinquent taxes at the county treasurer's office on May 2.

In order for taxpayers to stop sale of their property on that date, it will be necessary for them to pay all of the tax due at the county treasurer's office in Detroit. Those owing back taxes will be notified by mail this week of the amount due, giving them a chance to redeem their land, Mr. Garlett said.

PERSONS, PLACES AND ACTIVITIES YOU HAVE HEARD OR READ ABOUT AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

Medical treatment, education and research are all carried on within the University of Michigan hospital building shown above. Patients, students and every citizen of the state benefit from the hospital's broad program.
Physicians today must spend from 20 to 25 years in securing their education. After the regular college years, the student spends two years in the medical school laboratories and classrooms and from three to seven years in study at the hospital. Courses for medical students, for specialists in various fields, and for graduate physicians returning for "refresher" training are continually in progress at the hospital. Student nurses, dietitians, anaesthetists, occupational therapists, social workers, and others in every department are also given training in their various fields through the facilities of the hospital.
The special facilities of the hospital are used by the physicians of Michigan who may refer patients for examination or treatment and receive detailed reports of the hospital's findings and results.
Research is carried on by the staff of every department. The blood diseases, diabetes, arthritis and heart trouble, to mention a few, are being studied in an effort to ameliorate the suffering of humanity.
The intensive activities in treatment, education and research tend to reinforce each other by their interrelations with the whole hospital program.

Will Survey Deer Country

Plans are being made by the game division of the department of conservation to conduct tours through browsed out deer areas in northern counties of the lower peninsula and in the upper peninsula between March 16 and April 30.
Again this year reports are coming in of deer found dead from starvation in areas where all available browse has been consumed. Conservation department men are now investigating these reports to determine the seriousness of the situation. Recent severe storms and cessation of logging operations have further complicated the shortage of food in hundreds of areas throughout the deer territory.
CCC men will be used to census the more seriously over-browsed areas to determine, as nearly as possible, the starvation areas.
Present plans call for the taking of interested groups into and through these browsed out areas wherever there is a number of interested sportsmen.
Groups will probably meet in hotels in the cities nearest to the areas in which the surveys will be made. Definite dates for the various areas in lower and upper peninsula have not yet been determined but any persons or groups interested in the project are asked to write the department of conservation at Lansing or get in touch with their local conservation officer for further information concerning the tours.
Similar field trips made in past years by the department with representatives of sportsmen's groups have been extremely successful both in conveying a vivid picture to the public of the serious situation of portions of the Michigan deer herd and in presenting to the sportsmen of the state concrete evidence of the urgent and pressing need for immediate action in these browsed-out "starvation areas."

Atlantic Mail Flights Will Begin Next Spring

LONDON.—The long-awaited Anglo-American North Atlantic air-mail service will begin next spring as soon as the ice-blocked harbors of Newfoundland have thawed clear. In making the announcement the British air ministry revealed that the experimental crossings of the Atlantic by the new Imperial Airways Cabot flying boats, scheduled for this fall, were held up by the recent European crisis. Nevertheless, Britain is well ahead of America with Atlantic preparations. While the first of a series of American flying boats big enough to cross the ocean with a worthwhile mail load has just been completed, three of the eight new British Cabot flying boats will be ready this month. The rest of the new British flying boats will be in the air by spring. In addition, two D. H. Hercules landplanes are now undergoing tests, and it is expected they will also be ready for work by then.

City to Decide on Sewage Disposal

operate an individual sewage disposal plant, discharging into the Rouge river, the department of health has recommended that certain conditions be met.

It is apparent that alterations and improvements are more or less mandatory, if the city's disposal plant is to meet the standards of efficiency as set forth by the department. That department requires the employment of a full time technically trained supervisor at $1500 to $2000 per year, the complete renovating, repairing and painting of existing structures at approximately $500, the construction of laboratory office and purchase of complete laboratory equipment of approximately $1000. The standards of this department also require the construction of a water line to the laboratory and Imhoff tank at approximately $300, and the construction of a sedimentation tank and sludge pump as proposed by Former City Manager Cookingham to cost $22,000. A glass enclosure for the Imhoff tank at $1000 and one for the sludge beds at $3000 are necessary. Gas collection equipment must be installed to cost $600, waste gas burner which will cost $100 and two chlorinators for introducing chlorine or a similar purifier into the system to cost $350 each must be installed.

This $29,200 is the estimated cost of bringing the existing plant up to standard, and does not include the yearly salary of the full time supervisor. After this estimated expenditure the city would still have a plant capable of providing sewage disposal for only its present population, as the plant is now working near its capacity, Elliott said.

The city of Plymouth can, in the near future, expect to expand its present disposal plant, inasmuch as there are, at present, approximately 1000 sanitary sewer connections, exclusive of that area of the city, south of Burroughs and Sutherland avenues, which area now has no sanitary sewerage system, depending entirely on storm sewers for its sewage disposal, the city manager said.

These proposed additional units, that is, an Imhoff tank and a sprinkling filter of the latest type and efficiency, were estimated in 1935 at a cost of approximately $40,000.00. This amount, together with the $29,200.00 as mentioned before means a proposed expenditure by the city of Plymouth of $69,200.00. Of course, the $40,000.00 is not a proposed expenditure, but a necessary one, in order that the city expand and as new trunk sewers are connected to the existing system; such as that which will become mandatory in the south portion of the city.

For the city to join the county sewer would be less expensive in the long run, M. Elliott felt and he summed up his report to the commissioners with the following recommendations:

- 1. That a resolution be passed by the city commission substantially as follows: Be it resolved, that it is the opinion of the commission of the city of Plymouth that it is desirable to connect the sewers of this city with the line of sewer of the county of Wayne being constructed along the branch of the Rouge river passing near the city of Plymouth. It is further resolved, that the connection be made upon the terms and conditions as provided and set forth in an estimate heretofore made by the board of supervisors for Wayne county and as notified by the road commission of Wayne county, and that the sewage be disposed of through such sewer.

- 2. That the city commission authorize the necessary funds for such disposal of waste water out of the existing profits of the water department.
- 3. That the city manager be instructed to enter into the necessary negotiations with the Wayne county road commission for a sewerage collection agreement which would be submitted to the commission for their approval within the next few weeks. The report was tabled until the meeting on Tuesday, April 4.

Decide no Outside Help Needed

Members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce turned thumbs down Monday noon on a proposition which would take another five dollar bill out of each one of the merchants who "signed on the dotted line."

This time it was something a little different—an additional "detective" service provided by tacking a sign on the door, advising thieves and crooks to look out or else!

Local business men decided that Plymouth had a pretty good outside force and didn't need any outside help in keeping crooks out of town, so they voted down approval of the plan.

Librarian Talks at D. A. R. Meet

The regular meeting of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, D. A. R. was held at the home of Mrs. George Wilcox on Monday, March 20. The speaker of the day was Mrs. Jefferson Butler, who has been a librarian for many years in the Burton Historical Library in Detroit. As a young woman, Mrs. Butler began her library work directly under Miss Sarah Ann Cochrane, for whom this chapter was named.

Mrs. Butler spoke on "Genealogical Records," making a subject often considered very dry, most interesting and at times very humorous. She gave many reasons why people study genealogy and cited the ways in which migration of families and whole communities can be traced in genealogical records. She spoke of genealogy as a hobby—an expensive one, requiring only endless patience—much as a complicated puzzle of any kind. She compared the tracing of a family line to the solution of a crime—depending now on one clue, and then on another—as in the modern detective novel. Mrs. Butler's talk was followed by a short talk on "What the D. A. R. Stands For," given by Mrs. John F. Root, chairman of national defense through patriotic education.

The two good citizenship pilgrims, Dorothy Roe, of Plymouth, and Lucille Lapham, of Northville, were the guests of the chapter and were presented with good citizenship pins by the regent, Mrs. Sidney D. Strong. Both girls are planning to attend the state conference at Saginaw on Friday, March 31, at which time the state winner of a week's trip to Washington will be announced. The good citizenship pilgrims of the state will be guests of the state D. A. R. executive board at luncheon.

At the conclusion of the program tea was served by Mrs. Wilcox, assisted by Mrs. J. Merle Bennett and Mrs. Henry Baker.

Library Offers Books on Gardens

Spring's official arrival on Tuesday brought to Plymouth gardeners the desire to get an early start on the garden this year. They began a search for some literature other than seed catalogs, and many found the answer at the library. For gardeners, amateur and professional, Mrs. Ada Murray has compiled a list of the gardening books obtainable at the local branch of the Wayne County Library. These books are:

"American Plants for American Gardens," by Roberts; "Gardens in and About Town," by Durysa; "Everybody's Garden," by Eaton; "1001 Garden Questions Answered," by Hottes; "American Alpines in the Garden," by McCully; "Continuous Bloom in America," by Shelton; "City and Suburban Gardening," by Sherlock; "Landscape the Home Grounds," by Ramsey; "Textbook of Landscape Gardening," by Waugh; "Art of Home Landscape," by Bottomley; "Lawn Care," by Scott; "Cultivation of Shrubs," by Cloud; "Book of Shrubs," by Hottes; "Foundation Planting," by Johnson; "My Wild Flower Garden," by Durand; "American Rose Annual," "Garden Ciderellas," by Fox; "Peonies in the Little Garden," by Harding; "Rose in America," by McFarland; "Rose Odyssey," by Nichols; "Year in the Rose Garden," by Nicholas; "Iris," by Rockwell; "Rainbow Fragments," by Shull; "Sweet Peas" by Unwin; "Iris" by Wister.

Care of House Plants

House Plants Must Be Fed

Plants, like people, need food. The importance of feeding house plants regularly is apparent when the small amount of soil which nourishes the plant is compared to the relatively large size of the plant growing in it.

Since the roots of the plant are confined to a small area within the dish and cannot forage for food over a large area like the roots of plants in a natural environment, it is necessary to add plant food to the soil of house plants.

It is important, too, that they be fed the right kind of food. The food, says Walter Kleinschmidt of the University of Michigan Botanical Garden, should be one that is complete and properly balanced to supply all of the elements needed for normal healthy development. In addition, he says, the food must be readily available, that is, in such form that it may be absorbed promptly by the roots of the plant.

The plant food may be applied over the surface of the soil, Mr. Kleinschmidt says, and should be worked lightly into the soil and watered well. A six inch pot requires about a level teaspoon at each application. These applications should be made at about four or five week intervals unless the plants are in resting or semi-resting condition. With plants whose foliage grows close to the soil, the food can be applied in water. In this case, a level teaspoon of food should be stirred into one quart of water.

Care must be taken to avoid getting the plant food on stalks or foliage of the plant. At the time of planting or reporting a completely balanced food can be mixed with the potting soil at a rate of one teaspoonful for each gallon of soil.

Besemer Tells How to Fix Trees

(By E. L. BESEMER)
The severe sleet and ice storm of March 12 caused irreparable damage to most of the shade trees in many of the fruit trees. Some of the young trees are mere stubs and will have to be replaced with other trees. Nearly all shade trees have one or more large limbs broken off and these stubs offer a means for the entrance of decay producing and disease organisms.

These stubs should be cut off close to the trunk and painted with an asphalt paint. Farmers' Bulletin 1728, Treatment and Care of Tree Wounds points out that "After a severe ice storm all broken and hanging branches that are a menace to life or property should be removed promptly, generally by being cut at the break. If an attempt to save the tree seems warranted, and the tree is badly smashed, some or all of the main stubs (after the splintered ends have been trimmed off) may be left until growth starts sufficiently to show where vigorous buds or shoots will develop. The ends of the stubs may then be removed with a slanting cut starting just above a vigorous bud or shoot and running back and across the limb at an angle of about 45 degrees, and the scar properly treated."

Large limbs should have a cut made on the under side about one foot from where the final cut is to be made so the bark will not be stripped when the limb falls.

Properly made cuts will heal quickly and if the wound has been properly treated to keep out destructive organisms, the tree will be saved.

"Permanently good results can be assured only when the dressed surfaces are watched from year to year and recoated annually or biennially. This is a very important part of the work, a part that is commonly neglected. It is best to recoat the wounds regularly every year, even though no cracks or blisters appear. Blistered or loose portions of dressings should always be removed just before painting."

Wives of Legislators Visit Kalamazoo And Its Institutions

"Not only is our Western State Teachers' college the largest of its kind, in the United States, but it is the only one with as many men as women among our 2475 students. We have an additional 115 in our graduate school, organized in co-operation with the University of Michigan, and between 800 and 1000 registered in the extension division. There are 2000 children in our training schools." President Paul V. Sangren told the members of the House and Senate club of Lansing who visited Kalamazoo yesterday. The organization is composed of the wives of legislative members.

"Our school, founded in 1904, is the youngest of the four teachers' training colleges in Michigan. Originally established to train elementary and rural teachers, today we train every type of teacher except in agriculture and for the seriously handicapped physically and mentally. Perhaps one-third of our students are preparing themselves for later study in professional schools. Our seniors are all placed for next year—we could place twice as many. The greatest demand is for elementary teachers.

"We employ many women on our faculty, for training schools cash in on women's abilities and ambitions to be great teachers, whereas men prefer research and administration," President Sangren concluded at the luncheon in the Van Gogh room of beautiful new Walwood hall. Mrs. Carl DeLano, of Kalamazoo, acted as toastmistress and was assisted in making arrangements by Mrs. U. S. Acker, Kalamazoo; Mrs. E. V. Root and Mrs. Earl Burhans, Paw Paw. Seated at the speaker's table also was Mrs. Howard Nugent, Bad Axe, wife of the speaker of the House and Mrs. Harry Hittle of East Lansing, an alumnae of the school.

Mrs. J. T. Upjohn and Mrs. James Wilson, Kalamazoo, former presidents of the House and Senate club, joined their friends for luncheon. Mrs. Sangren and faculty members received the Lansing group, including Mrs. Bertha S. Davis, dean of women; Miss Anna French, librarian; Miss Dezena Lautzenhiser, of the English department; Mrs. Donald Smith, home economics department; Miss Katherine Mason, freshman adviser; Mrs. Gladys C. Hanson, assistant dean and director of dormitories; Miss Elizabeth Zimmerman, of the language department.

After the luncheon the wives of the legislators were escorted through the town of Parchment, the model suburban community, and through the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment factory by Donald R. Ross and W. H. Stauffer.

"Every job in this plant is worth $10,000," declared Mr. Ross, "for in 28 years this factory has grown to a total value of $14,000,000 with 1400 employees. To make our many paper products we need power, water and pulp. We use 12 million gallons of water daily, 6000 tons of coal and 4000 tons of pulp per month, more paper is made here than in any equal area in the world."

After the trip through the plant, covering 250 acres, one mile and a quarter long, Mr. Stauffer of the accounting department concluded, "Not once during the depression has our company gone in the red. This is due, I believe, to the great variety of papers which we manufacture for some 10,000 customers, out of 1200 ingredients."

Because of the illness of Mrs. Elton R. Eaton, of Plymouth, president of the organization, Mrs. Carl DeLano, vice president, had charge of the Kalamazoo trip and meeting.

Newburg News

On Friday, March 17 the Ladies' Aid society of Newburg M. E. church celebrated its 50th anniversary, with a luncheon at 1 p. m. in the Ladies' Aid hall at which time forty-five members and former members were present. Potted daffodils and a three tiered cake, in gold and white, were the decorations. The speakers' table and daffodils centered the other table.

The program which took place after the luncheon was as follows: Hymn, "I Found a Friend", sung in unison, with Mrs. Edwin Norris accompanying on the piano; Mrs. Emma Ryder then read from her scrap book, doings of the society from its beginning for six years, from then to the present time Mrs. James McNabb gave its history; letters were read from former minister's wives and old members, by Mrs. Eva Smith, Mrs. Harry Gilbert and Mrs. Edgar Stevens. The past presidents, present, were then called upon and each gave a brief talk. They were Mrs. Eva Smith, Mrs. Emma Ryder, Mrs. Ada Landis, Mrs. Levi Clemens, Mrs. Jesse Thomas and Mrs. Donald Ryder.

To the regret of all present Mrs. Nora Smith Barns, of Lansing, who was to have been the speaker on this very happy occasion, was unable to come on account of illness.

The society was organized in March, 1889 when ten ladies gathered in the home of Mrs. E. L. Crosby. They were Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. James LeVan, Mrs. Amanda Dean, Mrs. A. C. Johns, Mrs. Emma Johns, Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Emma Ryder, Mrs. Eva Smith, Mrs. James Rawson and Mrs. Emma Knickerbocker. Of these ten charter members just two remain. Mrs. Emma Ryder and Mrs. Eva Smith. They were each presented with a potted daffodil. Mrs. Edgar Stevens, president, making the presentation with a few well chosen words Mrs. Harry Gilbert, vice president, then presented Mrs. Stevens with a plant. The meeting closed with the singing of the hymn.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ruth Leonard and Miss Wood, of Lake Orion; Mrs. Orville Hoar, of Detroit; Mrs. Harriett Bassett, of Wayne; Mrs. Louis Tandy, of New Hudson; Mrs. Albert Rosdiger, of Salem; Mrs. Ransom Lewis, of Clarencville; Mrs. Ada Landis, of Oscoda; Mrs. Emerson Woods, of West Branch; Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. Maggie Smith and Mrs. Blanche Farley, of Plymouth.

Mrs. Carrie Campbell of Detroit was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James McNabb for the week end. One Sunday they were all dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Brewer, of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Simmons were hosts at dinner Sunday, entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William Greer, of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lettieri and son, Joseph, of Detroit.

The many friends of Mark Joy will be glad to learn that he returned home from the hospital on Tuesday and is gradually gaining his strength.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and son, Marvin, who have been in St. Petersburg, Florida, since the early part of January, returned home last week.

Evelyn McMullen was called back to work at the Phoenix plant last week.

Sparks from a nearby bonfire set fire to the roof of Miss Flo Summers' home Saturday morning. Mr. Arbothnot noticed the smoke and rushed out to her aid just as the flames broke out.

Telephone service had not yet been re-installed, so it was impossible to call nearby fire stations. The fire was extinguished by Bert Paddock, his son, Dwight, Arthur Bennett and his son, Orville, with a bucket brigade.

Charles Paddock started to work for the Watkins company in Plymouth this week.

Plymouth Gardens News

The men of Plymouth Gardens are having a very enjoyable time at the bowling alley in Wayne on Fridays. Everyone is welcome to come out and bowl with them. John Campbell improved his score a great deal, we think it was because of the new bowling shoes he is wearing.

The board of education has purchased a radio-victrola for the new school. Pupils of all grades are benefiting from this, keeping up with current events on the radio and hearing choice music on the recording.

The Stark school P. T. A. is having a hard time dance and box social. All ladies are to bring a box lunch to be raffled off. The dance is planned for Saturday evening, April 1. Cards and bunco will also be part of the entertainment. Everyone is welcome.

The last meeting of the P. T. A. was election of officers. Mrs. Swarbrick was elected president; Mrs. Gagneur, vice president; Mrs. Morris, secretary; and Mrs. Burke, of Gray avenue, treasurer. We hope the community will help co-operate with these officers and make our P. T. A. bigger and better.

Improvement association's St. Patrick's dance was not very well attended but those present enjoyed it thoroughly. Newburg and Rosedale also gave dances that evening.

The Ladies' Auxiliary meetings are being pepped up a bit with new ideas to bring out old and new members. Refreshments are back in the running again. It was decided that there would be four better prizes, three for the high score in cards and bunco and one as a door prize. Do come out and join the fun every Wednesday evening.

The Boy Scouts gave a bunco party for children on Thursday evening, March 16. Five cents a child. Bunco was played and taught to those who didn't know how and prizes were given for the high scores. Mr. and Mrs. Swarbrick were host and hostess of the party and it was a big success. There will be more of them.

There was a lot of excitement in front of the Gages' house Monday afternoon. Don Horn was hit by another car coming down Wayne road from Plymouth road as his car crossed Pine Tree road. One of the men in the other car went through the windshield and cut his head, then fell out of the car on the pavement. Don hit his head on the steering wheel of his car and fainted. The state police and county sheriff were present a few minutes later. The boys were all taken to a hospital for examination.

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

During 1939 some 40,000 young men, from 18 to 35, will enlist in the United States army, keeping it at its full strength of 165,000 men. Army Day observances, April 6, draw many youths to recruiting stations without solicitation.

Having passed physical and intelligence examinations, the youth is questioned for possible police records and moral deficiencies. When requirements are satisfactorily met, he is fingerprinted for further criminal identification.

Accepted as a soldier, the recruit then solemnly swears that he will "bear true faith and allegiance to the United States . . . will serve them faithfully against their enemy . . . will obey orders of the President and the orders of the officers appointed."

Under the tutelage of a regular, the recruits learn to march in formation. Then the young men are sent to an army post for the duration of their enlistment. Some are sent to foreign countries, some remain at home. Regardless, "the army builds men."

Early diagnosis of tuberculosis is good economy, according to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. To keep an early case in a sanatorium for a few months may cost a few hundred dollars. To hospitalize an advanced case for several years may cost thousands of dollars.

Health Lectures Here Next Week

Women of Plymouth will have an opportunity to attend a series of free health classes during the next six weeks upon the general subject of maternal and child hygiene. The groups will be addressed by Dr. Georgia Mills, lecturer for the Michigan department of health. Starkweather and Central school parent-teachers' associations are sponsoring the lectures here.

The series will start the week of Tuesday, March 28 at 1:30 p.m. and will continue at the same time for five succeeding weeks. The following centers will have an opportunity to hear Doctor Mills: Starkweather school the first week and alternate every other week at Central school.

In view of the nation-wide demand for lower maternal and infant death rates, Doctor Mills' lecture series is especially appropriate. The first lecture is entitled "First Aid" and will include a discussion of accidents and the more common emergencies met in the home and the first aid treatment of these. In the second lecture on "Our Body and How it Functions" there will be a practical discussion of human anatomy and the physiology of the important systems of the body.

The third lecture is entitled "The Beginning of Life" and a film on prenatal care is shown. This film was prepared at Harper hospital, Detroit, under the supervision of the maternal health committee of the Michigan State Medical society. The fourth lecture deals with the problems of the care and training of babies and young children and is illustrated by a motion picture, "Around the Clock with You and Your Child."

In the fifth lecture the cause and prevention of communicable diseases and the new immunization methods will be discussed. The Michigan Tuberculosis association will show a sound picture on tuberculosis. The sixth talk takes up the cancer problem and life after forty, and is illustrated by slides.

The complete series as sponsored by the Michigan department of health offers an excellent opportunity for women to gain the basic knowledge of modern maternal and child hygiene. Doctor Mills accompanies her talks with considerable illustrative material—charts, maps, and posters in addition to the moving pictures and lantern slides.

Each member of the classes receives an outline. An opportunity is given for an open discussion of individual problems following each talk and women are encouraged to bring questions to class. The meetings will last an hour and 15 minutes.

There are usually no symptoms in the true early stages of tuberculosis. Later, when the disease has advanced, it warns with unexplained fatigue, loss of appetite, loss of weight and persistent cough—Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Easier For You To Borrow Money

The common form of personal loan requires a note signed by the borrower and two other responsible people, co-makers.

A reason frequently given for not wishing to become a co-maker is the liability falling on the co-maker if the borrower should not live to repay the loan.

Our New Personal Loan Plan, by automatically insuring the borrower's life for the unpaid balance of the loan, removes this risk for the co-maker. With this protection it becomes easier to obtain co-makers.

We will make Personal Loans with this new insurance feature in amounts from $50 to $1,000. Come in and talk it over with us. You need not be a depositor of this bank to obtain a loan.

MR. HANCOX EXPLAINS TUTORIAL METHOD AT OLIVET COLLEGE

"A spirit of hustle is one of the preliminary requisites for any student, who intends to go to college," said Mr. Hancox of Olivet college who talked to the academic group of seniors Monday afternoon in the high school.

Mr. Hancox went on to say that a college can easily tell by the various recommendations they receive what the mental abilities and personalities of their prospective students are.

He explained the tutorial method, that of having students meet in small groups with an instructor twice a week and said that it gave them a greater feeling of cooperation and accomplishment. It is superior to the lecture method, he said, in that it gives the students individual work that is not possible in a larger group. It also puts the brighter and slower students in separate groups so that there is a chance for more rapid advancement.

BUILT FOR ETERNITY

Beveridge Mausoleum is constructed on the same principle as the most famous mausoleum. The outer walls of the building are practically two feet thick and one of the strongest ever built for its size—stone, reinforced concrete, interior faced with the finest grade of marble.

It enables us to perpetuate the memory of our loved ones.

Quintana said, "Show me the manner in which a nation cares for its dead and I will measure with mathematical exactness the trend of the sympathies of its people and their loyalty to its ideals."

Inspect this building and the new addition yourself. We will be glad to call on you, giving you all particulars without any obligation on your part.

SOME DESCRIPTIONS OF THE STORM BY EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS

Nature's Music

If you listened—myriads of tiny xylophone played by equally as many fairies twinkled enchantingly. If you looked—it was just the fingers of sleet tripping over the many icicles on the window ledge. —Jack Kenyon

English

It was a different world we opened our eyes on Sunday morning. Where grass and plants once grew now twinkled myriads of diamonds. Wires of communication were wrapped in a new insulation. The pine trees stood weighted down with ice until they swept the ground. At the ends of pine branches danced balls of shining crystal, like balls on a Christmas tree. —M. J. Nichol

From Everyday to Fairyland

I saw a fence of chicken wire that looked like a bridal veil with moth holes. All the fences' lacy patterns and the trees looked like giant glass chandeliers. Little trees that couldn't stand the heavy load were bent double like acrobatic dancers. —Signe Hegge

Mother Nature's Arch

Just a young, slender tree standing erect with boughs outstretched, when unknown but to Mother Nature an ice storm came. The tree perhaps trying to protect itself in its own manner bent low in a perfect arch. Its limbs, not erect now, bent toward the ground formed a portcullis of living branches. The tree now unable to go back into its straight slender posture, was laden with the ice which held it there, a portcullis which only Mother Nature could raise up to let others through. Words cannot express the sites-beauty of it.

BOB DANIEL CHOSEN SCHOOL ORATOR

Bob Daniel, speaking on "The Coming Victory of Democracy," was chosen school orator by the judges, Mr. Smith, Miss Allen and Rev. Nichol, in the final contest held Friday, March 17. Dick Wilkie, who delivered "Our Liberty," and Leo Schmitz, presenting "Americanism," received second and third places respectively. Gerard Bianton acted as chairman. These three were previously chosen in a preliminary elimination contest held Wednesday, March 15. The judges were Miss Figiel, Mr. Latture and Miss Bryce. Bob Daniel will represent Plymouth in the T.V.A.A. contest to be held April 5 at Wayne.

SOPHOMORES SWAY TO SWING STRAINS

To the tune of Bill Foreman's orchestra, the sophomore St. Patrick's day dance swung in and out last Friday evening, March 17.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Robyn D. Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. R. Warren Mason and Mr. and Mrs. E. Mead.

The total proceeds were $35; out of this $10 was profit.

Throughout the evening the procedure was to dedicate numbers to certain people.

SENIORS SPONSOR STUDENT STATE

The students under the direction of the seniors have started a student government which will tend to do away with noise and congestion in the halls.

Bob Brown and Beva Barnes have been the leaders in this enterprise and with a volunteer body they have made rules and worked out the details of the government. All pupils are to obey the set rules to make the hall system better. Nine fixed rules were given to every pupil in the high school, seventh grade through the twelfth, and they are simple if the boys and girls will remember "manners and respect."

The rules are as follows:

1. Walk to the right.
 2. Do not loiter.
 3. Do not walk more than three abreast.
 4. Do not bang lockers.
 5. Stay on the first floor until 8 o'clock in the morning.
 6. Do not whistle or shout.
 7. Put all waste paper in baskets.
 8. Show respect for other personal property.
- Fifteen troupers stationed at different places in the halls of the three floors will be ready to give any person disobeying rules a ticket which orders their presence at traffic court in Miss Figiel's room on Tuesday night at 3:30. The troupers are under the direction of chief-of-police, Paul Thams and lieutenants Ross and Mielbeck who will see that the troupers show no discrimination what-so-ever when giving tickets. Thirty troupers were chosen and they will take turns enforcing laws, being on duty before and after school and between classes for one week at a time.

APPRENTICES ENTERTAINED BY MR. BENTLEY

Eighteen of the twenty-four boys serving apprenticeships here in Plymouth were entertained by Mr. Bentley in his rumpus room in his home on Wednesday, March 15. They played ping-pong, Chinese checkers, and darts. After these games piles of sandwiches and gallons of chocolate milk were brought on the scene. Then in addition to this, ice cream was brought in. The apprentices who attended were Earl Beckwith, Ben Darnell, Bill Darnell, Herman Esch, Loren Gould, Gus Hansen, Harold Hills, Jim Honey, Fred Paulsen, Ed Landau, Paul Keller, Ned May, Ed Mulry, Ed Nash, John Pott, Stub Slater, Warren Todd, and Ray Westfall. Upon leaving several of the boys stated this should be a weekly affair rather than an annual one.

YOUTH FEDERATION ACTIVITIES

The Youth Federation dances held in the city hall each Saturday night seem to appeal greatly to the younger set for they crowd the hall to dance to the swing rhythms of the new orchestra. Last Saturday night a capacity crowd danced to Jack and His Melody Lads, more popularly known as Butz and His Five Galoshes. The program was very interesting and Eleanor Shoemaker, John McClain, Barbara Lutzenberger, Jimmy Sheroes, and Mae Jones all performed very well. Next week Mike and His Rhythm Kings will play and another interesting program is planned. Don't miss it! Come early and avoid the rush. Remember, no more Friday night dances until April 14.

HI-STEPPERS TO PLAY AT BAND DANCE

The Hi-Steppers, composed mainly of Plymouth band members, will play for the band dance to be held in the high school auditorium from 8 o'clock to 11 o'clock next Friday, March 31. The proceeds will be put into the band uniform fund.

Under the general chairman, Bob Lorenz, Wesley Hoffman will head the chaperone committee; Gladys Salow, tickets; Neoma Snyder, refreshments; Richard Strong, floor; Donald Mielbeck and Bill Thams, poster; Neal Curtiss, tags; and Orlyn Lewis, publicity.

The "broom dance" and other games will be played at the intermission if time permits.

High school students, help your band to get uniforms.

RUTH PRIEST SETS REMARKABLE RECORD

For the first time in her life, Ruth Priest, a junior was tardy one day last week. She has indeed set a remarkable record, and the tardiness was not Ruth's fault. The woman with whom she rides ran out of gas. Who can equal or beat this record?

VIRGINIA ROCK WINS EXTERTM CONTEST

The final elimination contest to choose the school representative in the field of extemporaneous speaking was held Thursday, March 16, in study three. The three speakers were Helen Lisul, James Zuckerman, and Virginia Rock. The general topic from which each speaker chose a phrase to speak upon was "Hitler's aims in carving up Czechoslovakia." The judges were Miss Allen, instructor of English; Miss Fry, instructor of art; and Mr. Dykhouse, principal. The student who in the opinion of these judges did the best work from the standpoints of material used, speaking ability, knowledge of subject, and interpretation was Virginia Rock, tenth grade student. James Zuckerman ranked second and Helen Lisul, third.

BEAUX FOES

Although fashion experts would lead us to believe that the feminine is alluringly draped in sheers and silks, the essence of shapeliness and art, sock manufacturers have rendered these statements void if not outright false by putting out such a highly colored masculine foot and ankle covering that the very idea of comparing the two would be a genuine crime. It is amazing what the addition of a little color will do toward dressing up an ankle.

"Any boy with a little self respect wouldn't think of wearing those hideous masses of color on his feet," the skeptic will say. If so, few boys still retain their self respect; it seems that every boy in school has one time or another been seen with a flashy pair of ankle warmers. In order to more alluringly display their raw-boned ankles, it has even become stylish to roll the pants up to a conspicuous height.

Although color combinations are so diversified as to elude description, almost every pair possesses one thing in common—the use of stripes. Whether red, green, yellow, or sky blue-pink it doesn't matter, but rings appear to set off the beauties of the stocking to a much greater degree of satisfaction. Many pairs of socks have as many as eight different colors, and every pair is different. Stylists must sit up in the wee hours of the morning devising new and more intriguing color combinations.

The zomber slacks and grays of a few years ago are almost totally gone—wiped out by the ever changing dictates of fashion. But because they're so highly colored the socks aren't at all high priced. Cotton serves as well as silk, takes the dye better, and isn't half as high priced—enabling farm boy as well as millionaire's son to flaunt his feet with pride. The fashion should wipe out all timidity in the manner of dancing. How could anyone be afraid to dance with his feet so gorgeously clothed?

A formula for the color combinations would necessarily include all the colors of sunrise and sunset with any in-between that can be found. Coupled with the new "buck shoe," can't it be said that the combination is dear to the heart of the American boy?

A short time ago, the school idol was determined by his athletic prowess; now the idol is measured by the brightness and variety of his socks.

Dairy cattle need a higher protein ration during the barn feeding period than they do in the summer time.

JUNIOR'S JOTTINGS

A rumor, unconfirmed of course, but still a rumor, has floated about the school to the effect that the scholarly editor of the Pilgrim Prints is to be tarred, feathered and run out of town on a rail if he longer holds the horde of surmises as to the Brother Rats identity in suspense. Be it said here and now that fellow Pilgrim Prints members are heartily in accord with any such suggestion. The Editor won't even give his fellow writers a chance to hint as to who "the Rats" are. We were puzzled day in and day out by his inquisitive staff until they finally have reached a decision. "The guy won't talk."

A new angle on the meaning of the United States motto, "E Pluribus Unum," was given by a deeply thoughtful, or vice versa, English student. Said the sincerely patriotic history expert, "E Pluribus Unum" or "one from many" is found on every United States coin because that coin is only one from the many minted every year.

The subject of the hour is of course the new student government introduced at the first of this week. We extend our best wishes for outstanding success in this project and we donate our fullest cooperation, but in passing may we weakly ask, "What would happen if we should accidentally trod upon the feet of the brawny troopers stationed 'round and about?" For confidentially, they do offer quite a hazardous problem of navigation. The old adage that "All policemen have big feet" must undoubtedly be true.

TONIGHT IS STUNT NIGHT

The annual stunt night program will be held in the auditorium of the high school tonight, Friday, March 24, at 8:00 o'clock. As usual, four stunts will be given with the audience and two judges deciding which is best. Portions of the profit will again be given for the best stunt and the class selling the most tickets.

Since the senior class has voted itself too busy to have a stunt, the eighth grade will have one instead.

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Psalm 111:10): "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do his commandments: his praise endureth for ever." Correlative passages to be read from this Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 275): "To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning of God as the divine Principle of all that really is."

Calvary Baptist Church. Holbrook and Harding. Lynn B. Stout, pastor. 615 North Mill street. Spring is here today as I write, but it does not look or feel like it, yet the calendar says so and I believe it. Today I am a Christian. I may or may not look or feel like one, but the Bible says: "For as many as receive Him (Christ) to them gave he the power to become the Sons of God." Tno. 1: 12, and some 20 years ago I did that very thing. The calendar says it's spring, and the Bible says I have become a Son of God so why should I worry if it is a little cold today. I believe the calendar and I believe the Book. Hallelujah! The subject for Sunday morning, "The Lord for the Body." Sunday night, "The Dispensation of Law." Bible school, 11:15 a.m.; Y. WANTED: HORSE DENTIST
ST. JOHNS (MPA) — Fred Ottmar decided his 28-year-old horse wouldn't eat because it had poor teeth, so he hired a man twice to sharpen them up, paying $1 for each job. When the horse didn't respond to treatment, Ottmar took the animal to a veterinarian at Michigan State college, East Lansing. There he learned the poor old critter just didn't have any teeth.
Tuberculosis does not just happen. It is passed from person to person, and the close contacts of family life make the spread of the disease difficult to control. That is why the Michigan Tuberculosis Association stresses the importance of early diagnosis.

MICHIGAN IS IN SAFE HANDS.

Between the hours of sundown and sunrise the leadership of the great state of Michigan has been changed. Its affairs are in new, but experienced hands. As the grieving citizenship turned from the memorial services held in nearly every nook and corner of Michigan in honor of Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, their eyes immediately looked towards the clean, upright, devoutly Methodist layman, Luren D. Dickinson, who will be Governor until January 1, 1941.

He is nearly 80 years old, but his mind is as clear as one half that age. He is alert, cautious and one of the finest gentlemen of all Michigan. He knows the state government and he has the courage to do what he thinks is best.

Read his pledge to you when he was advised that the untimely death of the young and popular Frank D. Fitzgerald had made him the Governor of our state:

"As for myself, I am humbled by this new responsibility. I truly believe, after my 40 years in public life, that I understand something of the problems of this great office at this time and here and now I dedicate myself and all that I represent in Michigan's political history to the task of serving all of our people. Obviously I shall not seek re-election and my public record, I feel sure, is such as to guarantee to our citizens that I shall have no interests to serve other than those best suited for the welfare of our great state as a whole.

"With this brief statement of policy and in the blessed presence of Mrs. Dickinson, and these understanding friends of many years, and with the help of Almighty God, add the prayers of our people for spiritual strength and vision to carry on, I herewith subscribe to the required constitutional oath and take over this public burden."

With one possessing such ideals, do you think we should have any worry over what the future might hold for us?

USE YOUR JUDGMENT.

On the spring ballot you will vote April 3 there will be two proposed amendments for your consideration. In our judgment Amendment No. 1 is a good one and should be passed.

Any benefit from Amendment No. 2 is doubtful and it should be defeated. The legislature was in some doubt about the advisability of submitting question No. 2, but a number felt as long as the request had been made for a vote of the people on the proposal, that it should be granted. The voters are the final judges in any question and it is probable that they will take good care to see to it that it does not pass.

Amendment No. 1, if approved by the voters, will make the election of judges a non-partisan matter and The Plymouth Mail strongly urges its readers to vote Yes when they cast their ballots on April 3.

Amendment No. 1 provides that in all primary elections and in elections of justices of the supreme court, judges of the circuit courts, judges of probate courts and all county judicial offices, provided by the legislature under Section 21 of Article VII of the constitution, shall be non-partisan. Nominations for these offices will be made at primary elections. Nominating petitions for candidates shall be filed at least 35 days prior to such primary election. Nominating petitions for judge of the circuit court shall be filed with the secretary of state and for all other judicial offices affected by this amendment with the county clerk. There will be a separate ballot used in the primary election for the election of these judges. There will be no party designation used by the incumbent or other candidates. This proposal will add a new Section to Article VII of the state constitution. Vote Yes on this one.

Proposal No. 2 provides for the vesting in circuit court commissioners, such powers as exercised by justices of the peace. It gives the legislature power to provide by law for the election of one or more persons in each organized county with judicial power, not exceeding those of a circuit judge at chambers with judicial powers of a justice of the peace with power to hold court and perform judicial acts anywhere in the county. This proposal would amend Section 21 of Article VII of the state constitution. Vote No on this proposal.

SAVING PENNIES.

It is difficult for the taxpayers of Michigan to realize just how serious is the financial plight of the state. The income from all tax sources is not sufficient to meet the running expenses of the government, to say nothing of paying off the nearly $25,000,000 deficit created during the last two hectic years of the Murphy administration.

The members of the legislature have been devoting hours and days to a study of a situation that is not only serious, but alarming. There is not the slightest chance to increase the state's revenues by additional taxation. The people are not in a position to stand it—and the present administration is pledged against any increase.

The problem, therefore, resolves itself into one of trying to reduce the state's expenditures. There are some functions of the government that could be ended without serious disturbance to the citizenship. The old tax commission, the board of cosmetology and some of the activities of the highway department could be reduced to a minimum or abolished altogether.

There is little chance for the legislature to complete its work early in the spring as had been hoped. The financial situation is such a difficult problem that it cannot be solved hurriedly or without serious consideration.

Do not be surprised if you read in the near future of very substantial reductions in the activities of many of the state departments.

That is about the only way the state can get out of the mess it was left in by the previous administration.

FOLLOWING OUR EXAMPLE.

It is pleasing to Plymouth residents to note that Michigan congressmen in Washington are following our example and have just held a banquet where a menu consisting entirely of Michigan produced foods were served. Our Lincoln day charity dinners have been made outstanding because of the fact that Plymouth has been daring enough to publicize such good old Michigan standbys as fried salt pork, corn meal mush, Michigan potatoes, and Michigan maple syrup. Now the idea has spread down to Washington. D. C. Maybe if our Michigan congressmen can get some of the New Dealers to eating side pork and boiled potatoes instead of boneless squab and the like, maybe we will be able to reduce governmental expenses a bit. But the New Deal boys have taken on expensive appetites and it is mighty hard to break habits of that nature.

WHO ARE THE "DESERVING REPUBLICANS"?

We have known persons, and so have you, who have worked night and day in campaigns for the party they believed would bring them good government. These same people, generally men and women of strong convictions, are party people in season and out. They not only work but they give. Generally they ask for and expect no reward except that of satisfaction in having a part in doing what they believe to be best for government. They want no jobs. They ask for no honors. They expect no pay.

Such people, as we see it, are "deserving" Democrats or Republicans.

In these last few weeks when the Michigan Civil Service law has been on trial, one frequently hears that "deserving Republicans" must be rewarded; also, that the "deserving Democrats" who were blanketed into jobs by qualifying examinations are not entitled to their jobs by virtue of that law.

Just how deserving are these so-called "deserving" people? We had one call this week and asked for an endorsement. We doubt if this person could give one sound reason why a job should be awarded to him. Working in a distant city, the claim was made that residence is maintained and voting done in Clinton county. So what? Nearly 10,000 people vote in this county. Our own suspicion is that this person wants to get back among a group of kindred souls whose principal aim in life is to collect a political pay check which affords more "whoopie" than private industry will pay for.

There may be . . . in fact we believe there is . . . good reason why the Civil Service law should have some horse-sense amendments. We can see the logic of making certain policy-making executives exempt from its provisions. At the same time we strongly suspect the sincerity of those interested in hordes of "deserving" party members.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

ANTI-ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATS NOW CONTROL PARTY

Control of the Democratic party in Michigan was very definitely taken from the hands of former Gov. Frank Murphy at the Democratic state convention at Flint recently, and was placed in the hands of State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner when the Van Wagoner forces succeeded in naming for state chairman a former member of the Utilities Commission, Charles S. Ferritt of Oakland county. The Murphy forces were led by Frank A. Pizar, former Liquor Commissioner and recently appointed Federal Judge, present state Democratic chairman Edward Fry and others, but Mr. Van Wagoner demonstrated that he was in full control of the party in Michigan and that Mr. Murphy was definitely out. This may mean one of two things: It may mean that the Democratic party in Michigan has definitely turned its back on President Roosevelt with his big new deal and Frank Murphy with his little new deal, or it may merely mean that Mr. Van Wagoner, in his office as State Highway Commissioner, had built up a much more powerful political machine than Gov. Murphy was able to do even with presidential assistance, which means federal patronage, welfare and all the things that are known to have been helpful to Mr. Murphy. The Highway Department is big business, employing thousands scattered all over the state, and that it can be an important factor in carrying elections and controlling conventions no one can doubt. It was noted in the state papers that G. Donald Kennedy and V. B. Steinbaugh, lieutenants of Commissioner Van Wagoner, had a hand in giving the Murphys the "run-around." If, however, all this has served to divorce Mr. Murphy from Michigan politics, it may be worth the price.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

EXPERIMENTING

Pennsylvania has at least 140,000 less doe deer to bring baby deer into the world this year than it had last year, because Pennsylvania allowed the slaughter of only doe deer last fall and 140,000 were reported killed. That sounds discouraging, just like our federal killing of hogs and other desperate farm adventuring carried on by the federal spending administration. And then we have men in our conservation department, and deer killers in our sportsmen's clubs that would like to see the same thing practiced here, but we trust our legislators will stop that threat of slaughter of the female deer, a measure said to be humanitarian because it would be better to shoot them than to have them suffer the danger of starvation.—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

SAVE HEALTH AND MONEY

(By O. F. BEYER, of Beyer Drugs)

It pays best to patronize a medical doctor before you are forced to call upon him for service.

Owners of any kind of machinery know that it pays to check constantly on the condition of their machines. There may be no outward evidence that a part is wearing down to a point of danger, yet you consult a mechanic from time to time, and he checks for wear or other defects, thereby saving your machine and a greater outlay of money later on.

Perhaps at times readers of these health talks may feel that the repeated admonitions to check with a physician, even though you consider yourself well, are overdone—but are they?

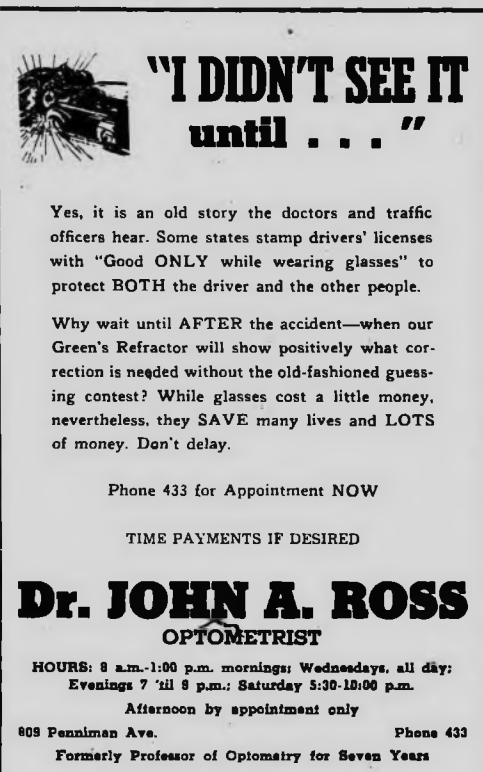

It sounds like sweet music to hear the doctor say, "You're in good shape." It sounds like something else when he says, "You'll have to remain in bed for three months."

When medicine is needed, get it where you can be sure of accurate compounding by a competent pharmacist.

"I DIDN'T SEE IT until . . ."

Yes, it is an old story the doctors and traffic officers hear. Some states stamp drivers' licenses with "Good ONLY while wearing glasses" to protect BOTH the driver and the other people.

Why wait until AFTER the accident—when our Green's Refractor will show positively what correction is needed without the old-fashioned guessing contest? While glasses cost a little money, nevertheless, they SAVE many lives and LOTS of money. Don't delay.
