Arrow Hunter Gets Buck Fever and as Result Didn't Get His Buck

Just plain every day "buck fever" tells the story. That's why Robert Wesley, president of the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce and advertising manager of the Daisy Manufacturing Company and Plymouth's first modern bow and arrow hunter, didn't come home with a 300-pound buck from his recent hunting trip up north.

There were not many who have known the secret, but for months the youthful Junior Chamber of Commerce leader has been blazing away at targets with a bow and arrow. During the early weeks of the fall his marksmanship became almost one hundred percent perfect.

For the bow and arrow hunters of Michigan the legislature opens up the hunting season each year before the army of rifle hunters invade the north woods.

Armed with a big supply of arrows, "Bob," as he is known among his friends, invaded the deer country up near Alpena.

Bright and early on the morning of the season opened, Bob was out on a deer runway.

It wasn't long before there emerged from the woods, a doe, followed by two small deer, right in front of Bob. Soon three or four more deer showed up in the opening not more than 200 feet from the hunter.

Then came from the woods a big buck, a whaling big buck. Right there in front of Bob was a whole flock of deer.

The buck, it must have been at least a 12-pointer, ran out in front of the other deer and came up within two or three rods of Bob.

The Plymouth bow and arrow hunter rose up to blaze away with the deadly missile of death.

The big deer turned, looked at Bob, snorted and turned sideways. Bob's instruction book said that a deer should be shot right back of the shoulder in order to make a sure kill.

He pulled his bow string. The deer didn't move, even its tail. Naturally one, to fire an arrow from a bow string, must release his hold on the string when he has pulled it back as far as he can.

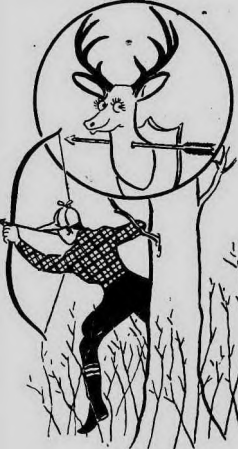

There stood the deer and there stood Bob, with his bow all pulled back ready to send the arrow on its mission of mercy—and venison for the Wesley refrigerator.

But do you suppose Bob could let go of that bow string?

Witnesses say the deer waited and waited, and so did Bob. Becoming tired of the suspense, the big buck trotted up to Bob, twitched its tail and ran off into the woods with half a dozen other deer following him.

That's what deer hunters call buck fever—when a hunter gets so excited that he forgets to pull the trigger of his gun or release his arrow from the bow-string.

P.S.—Mr. Wesley has entirely recovered and is already planning for his invasion of the north woods next year, with some sure cure buck fever medicine in his pocket.

To Tell of Plight of Balkan Women

Linda Littlejohn, leader of the Australian Women's Movement who was awarded the King's Jubilee Medal in 1935, and the King's Coronation Medal in 1937 for her work in behalf of women, will be the Detroit Town Hall speaker in the Fisher theatre next Wednesday, November 23, at 11:00 a.m. "Do Women Count in World Affairs?" will be her subject.

Mrs. Littlejohn comes direct from several months in the turbulent Balkan states where she has been studying conditions. Her study of the conditions of women in many countries has taken her during the past few years to Russia, Turkey, Palestine, Spain, Germany, Great Britain and the United States.

For years closely associated with the Women's Movement, she was president of the United Association of Women of New South Wales, and more recently liaison officer in London between the Federation of Women Voters of Australia and the British Commonwealth League which exist to secure equality of liberties, status, and opportunities between men and women.

Noted as Australia's leading woman orator, Mrs. Littlejohn has spoken frequently from the British Broadcasting Company, London, and has broadcast from Copenhagen and Geneva. For three years she spoke three times a week on the leading radio station in Australia. She has spoken three times on the New York Town Hall platform.

Michigan has a share in one industry that is 100 per cent American. It's the business of making maple syrup and maple sugar, all of which is produced in the United States and Canada.

Experiments benefiting thousands of Michigan farmers who operate acreages of muck soil are coming out of the work at Michigan State college. Dr. Paul M. Farmer, muck soils specialist, is in charge of experiments on a 15-acre plot of muck on the college farms. This area is covered from one and a half to 14 feet in depth with the black soil once the bottom of a marsh.

TOWNSEND CLUB HAS THANKSGIVING POTLUCK

Townsend clubs all over our beloved America are planning one meeting between November 20 and 27, inclusive, in which to offer up thanks unto God, for the manifold blessings bestowed upon our people in the past year and also for the progress made by the Townsend organization up to the present time.

The local club will hold this special meeting next Monday night, November 27, in the Grange hall with Rev. Virgil Peters of Pontiac, the speaker for the evening and Keith Sprott will render musical selections on his accordion.

The ladies will begin serving dinner at 7:00 p.m. All are requested to bring sandwiches and a dish for the table; also their own dishes and silverware. All members and the public are cordially invited.

50 Are Out for Cage Team

More than 50 aspirants for the high school basketball squad turned out for the first practice Monday afternoon. Coached by Anthony S. Matulis, the team's first workout consisted of dribbling and fore-hand practice with emphasis on speed and drive.

The 14-game schedule for the season is played on a home and home basis. Birmingham is the first home game December 20. The season opener is with Redford Union December 12 and Northville will play here for the final game February 23.

- The following schedule is subject to change as all the games have not been verified:
- Dec. 12—Redford Union, there.
 - Dec. 15—Dearborn, there.
 - Dec. 20—Birmingham, here.
 - Dec. 22—Wayne, here.
 - Jan. 5—Ypsilanti, here.
 - Jan. 12—River Rouge, here.

 - Feb. 2—Wayne, there.
 - Feb. 9—Ypsilanti, there.
 - Feb. 16—River Rouge, there.
 - Feb. 21—Ecorse, here.
 - Feb. 23—Northville, here.

But whose looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and contineth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed.—James 1: 25.

WHAT CAUSES GETTING UP NIGHTS?

Getting up nights may be nature's warning of sluggish kidneys. If excess acid and other wastes are not regularly eliminated other danger signals that may appear are burning, scanty or frequent flow, backache, leg or rheumatic pains, headache or dizziness. Kidneys need occasional help same as bowels. Get a 25c box of BUKETS from any druggist. If not pleased in 4 days your money back. Locally at Beyer Pharmacy, Plymouth, M. P. H. S. Harriers Receive Letters

Cross country letter winners of the high school team were announced early this week by Coach Leo Wallace. They are Bob Marshall, Robert Kirkpatrick, Philip Kisabeth, Herman Trick, George Adams, Eugene Nichols and Harold Wilson.

Bob Marshall has been the outstanding runner of the season by setting a Plymouth course record and placing in both the regional and state cross country meets.

In the dual meet with Ypsilanti here, October 24, Marshall ran the two-mile course in 10:27, which is the best time ever made on the Plymouth course. Between that date and the regional meet at Dearborn, the Plymouth thincard injured his leg.

He placed sixth at the regional.

covering the territory in 10:48. When barriers from all over the state met at Ypsilanti, Marshall came in sixth again with a time of 10:59.2.

Duty then is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things. You cannot do more. You should never wish to do less.—Robert E. Lee.

LIGHT ADAPTORS

Bedroom Light Adaptors—40c each

Many old-style ceiling fixtures fail to provide good lighting. They frequently have bare unshaded lamp bulbs that are a source of glare and are harmful to eyesight. The Light Adaptor shades shown here furnish a practical solution at low cost. They slip over the bare lamp bulbs and convert your old fixture quickly and easily into an attractive ceiling unit. Installed in a jiffy, they provide modern Light Conditioning for any room.

Available in a wide range of styles and colors, these adaptor shades are on display at department stores, hardware stores, lighting fixture stores and electrical dealers. (The Detroit Edison Company does not sell light adaptors.)

Visits Students at University

Claude J. Dykhouse, of Plymouth high school, was in Ann Arbor a few days ago consulting with former students, now freshmen in the University of Michigan. University freshmen from Plymouth this year are Helva J. Barnes, Carol E. Campbell, Jacques DeLaurier, Charlotte Joliffe, Betty Mastick and Douglas Miller.

About 140 principals and teachers of 85 high schools and five junior colleges participated in the consultations. Altogether, approximately 675 freshmen visited with former teachers and principals.

in the plan sponsored by Registrar Ira Smith of the University. This consultation plan, which has been in operation for the past 12 years, is intended to bring about a closer relationship between the high schools and the University, Mr. Smith said. The consultations enable the high school teachers to detect needs in local educational systems and to become more familiar with university methods. Such meetings also aid university instructors in studying preparatory school methods and permit student discussions of freshmen problems.

Be not thou one of them that strike hands, or of them that are sureties for debts. — Proverbs 22:28.

Governor Pleads for T. B. Victims

In a proclamation issued Saturday Governor Luren D. Dickerson called attention to the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals which opens December 1 and urged the people of Michigan to join in the campaign to eradicate tuberculosis through their generous purchase of the seals.

The proclamation reads: "For over 30 years the people of Michigan have waged war on a shadowy hidden foe, a killer of youth, a destroyer of hope, an interrupter of the life-flowing of a nation, the great white plague, tuberculosis."

"Ignorance has been its chief ally and it is at ignorance that the Michigan Tuberculosis association, organized in 1907, has aimed its heaviest attack. Today the lowest death rate in the history of the state testifies to the effectiveness of the association's repeated charge. "But with the disease in retreat it is not the time to lay down our arms. Homes are still broken, lives are still taken and the cost to state and nation is still greater than the cost of any other war."

"Therefore, in conformity with long established custom, I, Luren D. Dickinson, governor, hereby call upon the people of the Commonwealth to join with the Michigan Tuberculosis association in its constructive and meritorious work through generous purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals."

Don't Steal a Christmas Tree

Free Christmas trees do not grow in Michigan. The cruising motorist who spies one he thinks would look well in his living room in season, and the trucker who wants to make some quick and easy money, alike are warned that removal of Christmas trees without the written consent of the owner of the land is theft, for which the penalty is $25 to $500 fine and up to three months imprisonment. Any vehicle bearing a Christmas tree may be stopped by a conservation officer, an officer of the department of agriculture or a regular officer of the law, and inspection of the bill of sale or written consent of the owner demanded. Permission is quite as necessary in getting a tree growing on state-owned land as for one on private land. No Christmas trees are cut in state forests. The law protecting Christmas trees is broad in its application and covers all wild trees or shrubs, including the well liked spruce and balsam.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

PETER RABBIT HAS SOME STARTLING NEWS

LITTLE Mrs. Peter Rabbit, who used to be little Miss Fuzzytail, sat on the edge of the dear Old Brier Patch anxiously looking over toward the Green Forest. She was worried. There was no doubt about it, little Mrs. Peter was very much worried. Why didn't Peter come home? She did wish that he would be content to stay close by the dear Old Brier Patch. For her part she couldn't see why under the sun he wanted to go way over to the Green Forest. He was always having dreadful adventures and narrow escapes over there, yet in spite of all she could say he would persist in going there. She didn't feel easy in her mind one minute while he was out of her sight. To be sure, he always turned up all right, but she couldn't help feeling that some time his dreadful curiosity would get him into trouble that he couldn't get out of, and so every time he went to the Green Forest she was sure, absolutely sure, that she would never see him again.

"What is it, Peter? Do tell me quick! Have you had another narrow escape?"

Peter used to laugh at her and tell her that she was a foolish little dear, and that he was perfectly able to take care of himself. Then when he saw how worried she was he would promise to be very, very careful and never do anything rash or foolish. But he wouldn't promise not to go to the Green Forest. No, sir, Peter wouldn't promise that.

You see, he has so many friends over there and there is always so much news to be gathered over building, Chicago, Illinois.

Civil Service Jobs Open in Vicinity

Assistant Postmaster Beatrice Schultz, local secretary of the United States Civil Service commission announced this week that there will be given an open competitive examination for the position of hospital attendant at the United States Veterans Administration facility at Dearborn. Another position is open for the same type of work at the United States Marine hospital in Detroit. The examination will be given at Detroit and application must be filed before the close of business on December 4. The application blanks may be obtained from the secretary of the board of United States Civil Service examiners at the postoffice, Dearborn and Detroit, or the manager of the Seventh United States Civil Service district, postoffice.

there that he just couldn't keep away. Once or twice he had lured Mrs. Peter to go with him, but she had been frightened almost out of her skin every minute, for it seemed to her that there was danger lurking behind every tree and under every bush. It was all very well for Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, who could jump from tree to tree, but she didn't think it a safe and proper place for a sensible rabbit, and she said so.

This particular morning she was unusually anxious. Peter had been gone all night. Usually he was home by the time Old Mother West Wind came down the Purple Hills and emptied her children, the Merry Little Breezes, out of her big bag to play all day on the Green Meadows. But this morning Old Mother West Wind had been a long time gone about her business and still no sign of Peter.

"Something has happened. I just know something has happened!" she wailed.

Oh, Peter, Peter, Peter Rabbit, why will you be so heedless? Why will you take such dreadful risks. So foolish and so needless? "Don't worry. Peter is smart enough to take care of himself," cried one of the Merry Little Breezes, who happened along just in time to overhear her. "He'll be home pretty soon. In fact, I think I see him coming now."

Mrs. Peter looked in the direction that the Merry Little Breeze was looking and sure enough there was Peter. He was heading straight for the dear Old Brier Patch, and he was running as if he were trying to show how fast he could run. Mrs. Peter's heart gave a frightened thump. "It must be that Reddy or Granny Fox or Old Man Coyote is right at his heels," thought she, but look as hard as she would she could see nothing to make Peter run so.

In a few minutes he reached her side. His eyes were very wide, and it was plain to see that he was bursting with important news.

"What is it, Peter? Do tell me quick! Have you had another narrow escape?" gasped little Mrs. Peter.

Peter nodded while he panted for breath. "There's another stranger in the Green Forest—a terrible looking fellow without legs or head or tail, and he almost caught me!"

Announcement is also made of an examination for Aircraft Instrument mechanic and positions connected with that duty. Application for these positions must be on file by December 5. Employment will be at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and Patterson Field, Fairfield, Ohio. Examinations will also be given for marine firemen and watchmen to be employed at the United States Engineer Department at Large, War Department, Detroit. Application for the positions may be obtained from the secretary of the board of United States Civil Service Examiners, United States Engineer Department at Large, Federal building, Detroit, or at the Plymouth postoffice, November 28 is the last day that the applications will be accepted. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Schultz at the postoffice.

Speaker Advises Early Marriage

"Marry as soon as you can, but not too soon," was the advice set forth by Lyndon Babcock, M.A., psychologist at Eloise hospital as he appeared before the Plymouth Young People's Forum Sunday night in the second of a series of lectures having to do with love and marriage. He declared that there were specific advantages of both early and late marriages.

"For some people, it is important to wait because psychological maturity is not reached until the man is in his late twenties. For women, this age comes somewhat earlier."

Mr. Babcock explained that the length of time that two people to be married are engaged often has much to do with the couple's happiness in later life. "The length of engagement depends on the length of friendship," he said, adding that by friendship he meant more than just an occasional date. "I should put the minimum of friendship at one year."

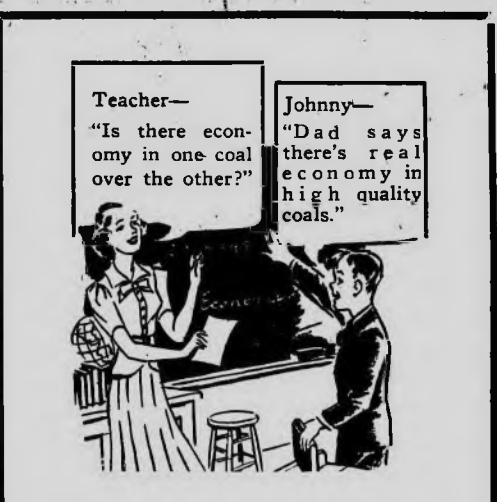

"The speaker declared that the engagement period was one for careful planning and studying the other person in the marriage agreement. Each person should get to know the other's parents very well during this time. The two will attain a mutual understanding through careful study of the other's personality and traits."

Mr. Babcock compared the engaged couple with a piece of hard rubber and said that each had to give a little, much the same as the piece of rubber gives when hit by a hammer. But, he added, when hit, don't bounce right back for more.

"I imagine most of you young people wonder just what you and your future bride or groom should talk about during the engagement. Those of you who are married may still want to talk about these things."

Finances are probably first in the minds of two persons who are planning to embark on the sea of matrimony. Of course, if both are employed, which, by the way, is a fine thing, each should know how much money the other is making so that a budget may be planned.

Beware of too much water in cooking apples. Michigan's huge crop recently harvested means abundant supplies for winter months. But to get good applesauce that the family will appreciate, be sparing with the water, suggest members of the home economics staff at Michigan State college.
