Brief History of The Goodfellows

Since the founding of the Ex-Service Men's Club of Plymouth soon after the war by a small group of Plymouth's returned soldiers, Irving Blunk, Carl Blach, Harry Mumby, Harry Brown and others, the club had interested itself in welfare work not only among veterans but in general, and in particular the needs of the unfortunate children of the community. The field of endeavor toward underprivileged children occupied and handled so efficiently by the Kiwanis club and the Rotary club with their broad application of help to hospitals and institutions was not touched upon, but the Ex-Service Men's club felt that the field was not closed as long as one family or one child was in danger of being overlooked in this community. Cooperating with these other clubs and assisting the Red Cross and the Salvation Army annually, the veterans made personal solicitations and assisted in distribution of Christmas baskets to the needy.

Some six years ago in a year when the needs of families and children at Christmas in the community was acute, the Ex-Service Men appointed a committee called the Cheerbringers.

This committee organized charity balls that year to raise funds and in addition, through the courtesy and public spirit of The Plymouth Mail, issued a "Cheerbringers Edition" of that paper and sold them on the streets of Plymouth. The money thus raised was used to clothe, feed and buy toys for unfortunate families at Christmas.

This work was continued until about three years ago when the Ex-Service Men's club turned over to the American Legion the annual sale of papers. The Myron H. Beals Post then engaged in selling Goodfellow editions of Detroit newspapers, the funds being used in the same manner.

Two years ago at a meeting of representatives of practically all the organizations of Plymouth at the City Hall, there was formed a civic committee. This committee was intended to function as a co-ordinating organization between groups and clubs, its purpose being to prevent overlapping in recreational and charitable efforts and to promote recreational and welfare projects civic in character and not already handled or inclined to be handled by other groups.

Its success in its first year in promoting and handling such civic affairs as the hobby show, the sunrise service, the community picnic and the Halloween party led to its being requested to take over the distribution of Christmas baskets at Christmas time. It was there pointed out, that by this one agency handling all the Christmas needs, no family or child need be overlooked, the necessary investigation could be expedited and the duplicate giving of food, clothing and toys to the same family or individual be eliminated. The civic committee instructed its president, James Gallimore, to proceed at once. Mr. Gallimore appointed a committee headed by Arno B. Thompson to plan and execute the project. At the same time the American Legion representative, Harold Anderson, offered to make a request of his organization to turn over to the committee the right to sell papers to finance the Christmas activity.

Mr. Thompson at once formed his committee and established central investigation headquarters at the City Hall, with records designed to indicate adequately all needs, avoid any duplication, establish complete auditing of funds and provide common decency in keeping the names of the recipients of its charity secret, but to the few necessary in the work.

The Myron H. Beals Post graciously consented to relinquish the paper sale and at once the civic committee requested that a new organization be founded to conduct the paper sale.

A charter book was opened, listing the names of volunteers, and within a few days thirty or more citizens had gathered in the City Hall and founded the Plymouth Old Newsboys and Goodfellow association. At its first meeting in the fall of 1938, Harry Robinson, a charter member of the Detroit Old Newsboys and Goodfellow fund, was unanimously elected first president, George Howell was elected vice president and secretary and Harry Brown was chosen as treasurer.

Saturday, December 16, 1939 saw the first parade of Old Newsboys and Goodfellows in Plymouth. Headed by the Plymouth High

Farm Program Acreage Goal for 1940 Announced

County Chairman Bird Outlines Aims of the AAA

The national acreage goals for principal crops and the rates at which participating farmers can earn payments under the 1940 agricultural conservation program were announced this week.

Commenting on the 1940 farm program, Maurice C. Bird, Wayne county AAA chairman, said that the new program is basically the same as in 1939, except that it offers more opportunities for soil conservation.

Mr. Bird also said that more opportunities for participation by small farms are included in the 1940 program.

A national soil-depleting crop goal of between 270 and 285 million acres has been set. This is the same as the 1939 goal. This acreage, at normal yields, will provide ample supplies for all domestic needs for export requirements, and for an adequate reserve.

The total wheat allotment is 62 million acres, or 7 million higher than 1939. The corn allotment for the commercial corn area is about 4 1/2 million acres below 1939. The reduction in the corn allotment has been made because of the large quantity of corn which is now in storage all through the corn belt.

Payments on the normal yields of allotted acreage of corn, wheat, potatoes and commercial vegetables will again be made to participating farmers. Lower acreage goals for corn have resulted in a higher rate of payment.

Following are the 1940 conservation program payment rates on important Michigan crops:

Corn, per bu.	10.99
Wheat, per bu.	9.17
Potatoes, per bu.	3.03
Commercial vegetables, per acre	1.50

General soil-depleting crops, per acre, 1.10. The payments for wheat and corn will be supplemented by parity payments if the 1939 season average price is less than 75 per cent of parity. These payments are designed to lift farm purchasing power to the level it occupied before the World War.

The rates per acre which will be used in computing payments for carrying out approved soil-building practices are practically the same as for 1939. The only exception is the increase in the allowance for non-depleting acreage from 50 to 55 cents per acre. The minimum payment to small farms has been increased to $20 and each farm may earn as much as $30, in addition to all other payments, for planting forest trees.

The change in the amount of credit farmers can earn by soil-building practices is one of the most important revisions in the 1940 program. As a means of obtaining more conservation, the rate of credit has been reduced for several soil-building practices which are normally carried out on a large proportion of farms. By reducing the rate of credit for these practices, increased emphasis is given to soil-building practices which are not normally carried out on a large number of farms. Changes in the credits do not affect the amount which a farmer may earn by soil-building, but merely change the requirements for earning it. As a result of changes in credit for practices, it is anticipated that farmers will use their soil-building allowances for increasing conservation practices badly needed, while maintaining those practices normally carried out.

HOLD'S BUSINESS RECORD

Hastings — Henry C. Zusehnert of Nashville holds the Michigan record for continuous service in the hardware business, all of it in one store. He observed his 82nd birthday recently, and has clerked for 64 years in the "Glasgow Hardware" here.

Gets Hurt When He Runs Into Auto

Because he did not see an approaching automobile, Allen Tillotson, 42, who lives at 1327 South Main street, was struck while crossing the street near the intersection of Main and West Ann Arbor Trail Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Tillotson was knocked unconscious and taken to the Plymouth hospital where first aid was given by a Plymouth physician.

The accident happened as Tillotson ran across the street from near the south-east corner of Kellogg park, in a diagonal to the Mayflower hotel corner.

Tillotson saw one car which was approaching the intersection from the east on West Ann Arbor Trail, but failed to see another, driven by Glenmore C. Passage, of Plymouth, which was approaching from the west.

After waiting for the first car, he darted across the street, and was struck by the Passage car. Tillotson's injuries were reported to be minor, and he was released from the hospital Wednesday evening.

Odd News Events About Michigan

ROLLING BOTTLE EXPLODES

Royal Oak — George Lyons, nine years old, was injured when a beer bottle exploded. An older youth was pushing a bottle along the sidewalk, and George bent over to examine it. As he did so it exploded, showering him with glass.

IT'S MICHIGAN CLIMATE

St. Louis — Chalk up another freak of nature for Michigan's climate. Cherry trees at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peacock worked overtime in November. Boughs which had been stripped of leaves bore white blossoms during one week of this near-winter month.

DID HE TRY TO EVEN SCORE?

Harbor Springs — Maybe the deer in this story was trying to even the score for all the deer who have been hit by automobiles. As a group of local persons were driving home from Detroit recently, a deer beside the highway whirled and ran into the rear fender of their car, then jumped up and disappeared into the woods. The reverse accident happened near Roscommon.

GROWS DIXIE'S CROP

Bangor — Harvest of an unusual crop for this section of the country was reported by Jay Abbot when he displayed several bolls of long staple cotton grown on his farm near here. Of a planting of two 10-foot rows, each produced at least one blossom and some cotton. Three plants survived even the first hard frost.

FIVE GENERATIONS LIVING

Kind — Five generations of one family, all girls, were present when Mrs. Rose Miller observed her 78th birthday recently. She was visited by her mother, daughter, granddaughter, and great granddaughter. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Ciechak, is 102 years old and is still active, doing housework and sewing without using glasses.

"OUR HOME TOWN PAPER"

The Plymouth Mail is so well known, And its reading we class as the best; Its clear type is always well shown, And it surpasses all the rest.

A pleasure it is to read all the news, When not mixed with scandal and strife. Where you may pause to study and view A paper not filled with scandals of life.

So hats off to the good Old Town Paper, I say A home paper which is so clean and true; Where the good news has paved the way And makes its reading a pleasure to you. —An old, long time subscriber.

Merchants Enjoy Good Business

Plymouth merchants, in keeping with other retailers throughout the state, are enjoying their busiest Yuletide season since 1929, with Christmas sales mounting to an estimated $101,202,000. Not since the booming 1920's have the prospects of a freespending holiday shopping spurge been so optimistic, Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, leader of the National Consumers Tax commission's drive against "consumer-penalizing" taxes, stated in the business survey report.

"Throughout the country reports from business—from large industries to the small storekeeper—point to the heaviest holiday trade in 10 years," Mrs. Muckelstone added. "The buying spree, following the trend of recent months, probably will carry the year's retail sales total to $37,916,000,000 for the nation, an increase of more than seven per cent over last year."

The increased Michigan trade, the NCTC report said, will start a dded seasonal employment, heavier employ bonus checks and improved dividends. However, less cheering is the fact that an estimated $15,483,906 of sales in the state will go to pay taxes which producer, manufacturer, shipper and distributor, of necessity, pass on indirectly to Christmas shoppers in the price of their purchases.

The NCTC's crusade against hidden taxes is headed in this state by Mrs. Arlin L. Hopkins, of Bear Lake, national committee member, and Miss Leatha C. McGee, of Detroit, state director, co-leaders of Michigan's 154 local ax study groups.

Ship by Express, Says Millross

"To preserve all the beauty of this happy season by making the shipping of Christmas gifts a real pleasure instead of a trial and wearisome task—that is the purpose of my job," declared Leonard Millross, railway express agent yesterday.

"Do you know of the convenience that railway express service makes possible to you in shipping your Christmas packages to friends and family in other places? Could anything be more convenient than this:

"1. Pick up your telephone and call your express office or Western Union office.

"2. At no extra cost, our driver or a Western Union messenger will call at your door, take the package and give you a receipt for it, showing the value which you declare and up to which we assume liability.

"You can then forget the package. We will handle it carefully and quickly, and send it to its destination on a fast passenger train or 3-mile-a-minute plane, and care for it until it is put in the hands of consignee."

"No fuss, no bother, no waste of time and effort, and all at a cost that is surprisingly low. Our special gift and air express rates will be appealing.

"Ship your Christmas packages by railway express this year, and I know you will be delighted with the convenience, the speed and economy of the service."

"Greetings of the season to you and yours."

League Discusses Weight and Gas Tax

The League of Women Voters met on Friday, December 8, at the home of Mrs. James Sessions for its regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple conducted a round-table discussion of recent legislation which affects municipalities, touching upon the Weight and Gas Tax, changes in local administration and several proposed bills which would have a marked trend toward lessening local jurisdiction.

Guest speakers were C. H. Elliott, who has been Plymouth's city manager for nearly four years, and Mark Alger, editor of the "Michigan Municipal Review."

Mr. Elliott discussed the effect of Plymouth properties of the law which caused all properties on which taxes were delinquent before and up to 1935 to revert to the state on November 3 just passed. A map of the city was displayed on which delinquent properties had been plotted in red.

Mr. Alger presented interesting facts relative to the passage of these bills which tend to destroy home rule. He stated that pressure groups were largely responsible for introduction of these.

The afternoon was too short to allow discussion of many features of this trend. The members of the league felt deeply indebted to the speakers for their pertinent and timely information.

Because of the nature of the state's soils, it is predicted that more than half the area of Michigan will always be covered with forests for recreation, game and wood production.

Townsendites to Hear Genet

The Plymouth Townsend club has secured Clifford J. Genet, president of Highland Park Club No. 2 to speak at its meeting next Monday night, December 18 at 8:00 p.m. in the Grange hall.

Mr. Genet is a great great grandson of Citizen Genet, who came to this country from France in the early days of our history and who was also a friend of George Washington.

The public is invited to come and hear Mr. Genet and learn more about the Townsend Plan.

Rocks Take Redford Union in Season Opener

Scarpulla Leads Teammates to First Victory of Year

With Joe Scarpulla paying the way, the Rock outfit knocked the first game off its schedule by subduing the Redford Union five by the slight margin of two points Tuesday in the opponents' gymnasium. The final score was 23-21.

Plymouth scoring started with Wes Hoffman's field goal which he sank from underneath the basket. A few seconds later Norman tallied on a foul shot. These two baskets accounted for the three points on the score board at the end of the first frame.

R. U. failed to score. In the second period, the Redford Union quintet scored ten points to the Rocks' eight. Hitt, Hoffman, Scarpulla and Baker were responsible for the points while Morgan, Pepon and Lutz scored their team's gain. The score at the half was 11-10, with Plymouth leading.

The third quarter was a fast period with each team attempting long shots and lightning thrusts that proved futile.

In the final canto Plymouth battled impetuously to retain her lead. One team would gain possession of the ball, only to have it intercepted on a pass or passed out-of-bounds. The ball was flying around the gym like a frightened bat. It finally came to earth when the game ended with the score 23-21, Plymouth emerging victorious.

Morgan, white-haired thunderbolt on the Redford Union team, led Plymouth's highest scorer, Scarpulla, by two points. Scarpulla led his teammates with seven counters with Hitt scoring five to place second.

Refereeing was done by Lester Hughes of Royal Oak.

Large Meeting of Garden Club

The regular meeting of the Plymouth branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association was held with Mrs. O. F. Beyer, Monday afternoon, and was very inspiring. There was a very fine attendance and all took part in giving suggestions for the Christmas decorations, both for the exterior and the interior. Plans were completed for the all-day meeting on Monday in the home of Mrs. Thomas W. Moss when the ladies will make up the Christmas wreaths, garlands, etc., for the greens sale. They will be shown in the windows of the Harry Robinson store at 857 Penniman avenue.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week three of the Plymouth unit will assist in the Detroit greens sale at 1440 Washington boulevard. They are Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. C. E. Elliott and Mrs. Homer Burton. All the members who cannot be present all day Monday, are asked to come in the afternoon. A potluck luncheon will be enjoyed at noon.

State's Problem of Expenses Not Yet Solved

Murphy Deficit Adds to Difficulty of Situation

(By Gene Alleman)

LANSING—"Here is where we came in."

Nearly one year has elapsed since a new administration took control of state government at Lansing, and the prevailing topic is still about the same as it was a year ago: Finances.

You will recall that the late Governor Frank Fitzgerald held high hopes of effecting substantial economy in the cost of state government. His plan of payroll reductions was a campaign issue. When Fitzgerald became governor, he emphasized the need of more local control—"home rule" if you please—instead of more and more centralization of power at Lansing, as has been the case for many administrations regardless of their political sponsorships.

This philosophy was shared by Luren D. Dickinson, and when he became governor the creed of economy was continued officially. The state legislature resisted many requests for state aid, (The welfare appropriations were cut from an expended total of approximately $15,000,000 for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1939 to $8,750,000. On paper the budget was to be balanced; millions of dollars were to be saved. (The exact deficit at the end of the fiscal year of the Murphy administration was $30,651,842.08.)

Payrolls Increase

Reflecting to a certain extent the legislators' mood for economy was its decision to slice drastically the appropriation for administration of civil service. Then the civil service act was overhauled; the revision bill was tagged "ripper bill" by administration critics. In the light of all these efforts for economy, payrolls are expected to decline. Financially, the present administration cannot be held responsible for appropriations made for the period ending July 1, 1939. Any payroll statements must be subject to this condition.

Apparently contradictory to the economy efforts was the discovery in October that payrolls of state government had reached a new high for the first nine months of 1939. In dollars the all-time peak of spending was $19,369,551 compared with $18,739,074 for the same period in 1938; $17,214,734 in 1937; $14,417,076 in 1936.

Examination of the payroll record shows that a mere handful of state departments and agencies were responsible for most of the payroll increase. Among the state departments which effected economy in payrolls were the auditor general, attorney general, banking, civil service, governor's office, highway, liquor control, old age assistance, public service, sales tax, secretary of state, and welfare. Departments showing an increase were agriculture, conservation, employment service, labor, health, public instruction, state police, treasurer, and unemployment compensation.

Federal Aid Agencies

Two state departments—employment service and unemployment compensation—deal heavily in federal funds. Their payrolls appear on the state record, but their major source of income is the money which employers and employees contribute in social security payments. The unemployment compensation commission derives all its funds from Washington; the employment service is financed jointly by Washington and Lansing.

These two agencies, offsprings of the Roosevelt New Deal, represent a total of $643,607 in higher payrolls for the nine month period of 1939.

Of course, the same condition as to these two agencies existed during Frank Murphy's administration, created usually to meet demands of the public, are usually responsible for payroll increases, and the Dickinson and Murphy administrations are recent examples of how it works out.

Government costs have grown steadily from $66,559,214 in 1922-23 to $247,084,041 in 1938-39. What has been responsible for this revolutionary change?

Shift in Collections

The major reason for this increase according to state officials at Lansing, has been a decline in local responsibility at home and a corresponding increase in centralized responsibility at Lansing. Abolishment of the state property tax and levying of a general sales tax was one illustration of the process.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown revealed a few days ago that $129,000,000 collected this year by the state would be returned to local or independent units of government or spent for local rather than for state purposes. This is 50 percent of the state's spendable revenues.

Governor Dickinson points out that "if we can stop the growth permanently, even if we aren't able to make a reduction in the cost of government, I think we will have made a big accomplishment."

From the office of the state budget director comes comforting news that, despite payroll increases, the state has spent two million dollars less than it did a year ago. Dickinson phrases the financial trend as being at a "pivot" and adds that "if we can start costs downward instead of upward, our administration will have made still more of an accomplishment."

Home Rule?

It is the governor's belief that additional funds for relief, for example, should be financed by home governments. "Counties, cities and townships can legally borrow money, which the state cannot do," he explained. And again, "it is easier to call a special session of a board of supervisors than the state legislature."

Municipal officials, backed by organized labor, are inclined to shift the burden on the state. The relief crisis at Toledo and Cleveland are timely illustrations of the general trend. "Will Governor Dickinson call a special session of the legislature to vote more funds for relief from a non-existent surplus in the state treasury? (Last Thursday night, December 7, Governor Dickinson said "it doesn't look to me that there is any immediate prospect of a special session—or that there will be any prospects very soon")

Here is a December problem that strangely recalls headlines of one year ago.

Reserves Trounce Redford U., 26-9

The Plymouth Reserve basketball team opened the season by walking all over Redford-Union last Tuesday, 26-9.

Owen Gordon led his team to victory by enlarging the score to ten points. Ken Olds ran second with one field goal and two free throws. Redford-Union's high man, Sprankle, boasted only three points.

During the third and fourth frames Redford-Union failed to score, while the Reserves of Plymouth scored seven points. The entire Reserve team was tested during the last two periods. Coach Jensen used 13 players to the 11 used by Redford-Union.

Plymouth J.C.C. Takes Part in Future Poll

Answers Questions Concerning Important Issues Before Nation

Ten members of the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce believed that labor legislation revision was the most important problem before the nation today. This fact was revealed through the results of a local poll taken for Future magazine, a publication for and by young men of America.

National defense was believed to be most important by seven members of the organization. As a second choice, to limit the national debt was the foremost problem, and the extension of credit for Latin American trade relations; reduction of federal government costs except for national defense and relief and public works appropriations, stood as the third most important problem facing the nation.

There were three parts to the next question: Would you favor or oppose this nation taking part in negotiation arbitration to end the present war? Fourteen opposed it, in collaboration with European neutral nations; an equal number favored and opposed the question, at the public request of one of the belligerents, and there were 20 who opposed the question, at its own interdependence.

It was almost unanimous with the Plymouth young business men to oppose the action of this nation sitting in on the formulation of the actual terms of a peace treaty at the conclusion of the present war.

Each month the Future magazine requests that such Junior Chamber of Commerce organizations as the one in Plymouth take a poll on vital issues before the nation today to determine how the young blood of the nation feels toward the issues. With each month's publication of the magazine, results are given from all over the United States. It is surprising to note that in the long run, Plymouth stacks up almost identically with results from the nation at large.

Last month's poll had to do with the benefits derived from a college education, with questions also for those who did not attend an institution of higher learning.

Ham and Eggs! What About That Cock-Eyed Election Recently Forced Upon the People in California?

There Isn't Much to It, Except That People in Distress and Voters Are Being Taken for a Joy-Ride

thority to print phoney currency in the form of "Retirement Warrants." The bank would accept for deposit both state printed warrants as well as U. S. currency. These state warrants would be accepted at face value in payment of all obligations due the state in the form of taxes and licenses. All cities, townships and counties would be required to accept the state printed "money" for taxes. These warrants, said the promoters, could be placed on time deposit in the State Credit bank without depreciation and could be used for checking privileges.

The state would pay its $30-per-week pensions to the old folks in this state printed "money."

Any person over 50 years of age who would refrain from any gainful employment would be entitled to 30 state printed one-dollar warrants every Thursday.

No matter if a person possessed a million real dollars and over 50 years of age and wouldn't work, he was just as much entitled to a pension as the most needy person in California.

These proposed warrants were not backed by the state treasury or the state's taxing power.

In other words the promoters of the phoney scheme would pay off the state's $30-per-week pensions to folks over 50 who had agreed not to work, in state printed money, or "warrants," that would be absolutely worthless except for the payment of taxes.

Its enactment would have ruined the state of California. It would have closed its schools, its public offices and its welfare department, which administers the old age pensions, declared its opponents—and there isn't much question but what they were absolutely right.

How do the schemers fool so many people on an issue of this kind?

The answer is an easy one. California, as every one knows, has a very delightful all-year climate. There are vast sections of the state where vegetables and fruits can be grown both winter and summer. Because of its pleasing climate thousands and thousands of elderly retired farmers from the Midwest, before the days of planned economy, sold their farms and went to California to spend the rest of their lives in ease, believing that they had enough to live on for the remainder of their days.

In the last few years a large number of these retired people have become practically destitute, through no fault of their own.

Thousands of these people who believed some California real estate promoters when they said that a good living could be easily made in California off just one acre of ground, and went out to California to nearly starve to death on that one "farm," and you have a fairly large group of despairing people who will grasp at any sort of a straw in order to help themselves out of the plight they are in.

There should be included in this total a number of married people who would like to shift the support of their aged parents out on the public because they no longer are able to make enough money to properly care for their own families, say nothing about:

the support of aged mothers and fathers, and you have the type of citizens who make up the 800,000 membership that the Ham and Eggers claim.

Ham and Eggers promoters know well the plight of these many people. That's why it costs only one cent a day to "belong." Most any person on welfare can spare 30 cents per month out of his "budget" if he thinks there might be $30-a-week (phony money) coming from the payment of penny-a-day dues.

These schemers have also taken advantage of the general public disappointment over the failure of Washington prosperity panaceas. In some of their propaganda they say that citizens of California "despairing of Federal action" have decided they will exercise their right to acquire "the necessities and comforts of life."

As an indication of how thorough these fellows work the tragic gold vein, they have included in their scheme a proposal that all property under a certain valuation be exempted from taxation. Of course that is nothing more than a catch-clause to get some more thousands of pennies per day from taxpayers who would like to escape the payment of their portion of support to the public schools, state institutions and the city, county and state governments which provides them with public necessities and protection. Who wouldn't pay a penny a day to some outfit if they thought they could beat the tax collector?

Who are the promoters? It was an interesting visit the writer made to the headquarters of Ham and Eggers.

At 731 North Highland avenue, in glittering, beautiful Hollywood is located the offices of "Ham and Eggers Retirement Life Payments Association, $30-per-week for life." That's the way the promoters sign up most of their propaganda.

The visit was made some two or three weeks after the election in which the voters turned thumbs down on the scheme.

"I would like to talk to some one about Ham and Eggers," said the writer to a smiling brunette at the telephone switchboard.

"He'll tell you everything," declared the Miss or Mrs. as she pointed to a tall, elderly gent, who had apparently taken the writer for a Ham and Egger.

"Yes, sir, we are going to get him, you can bet your last penny on that. He fooled us once, but it's going to be just once. We're going to recall him," he declared to me as I walked towards him. "We must get busy, Brother!"

His salutatory remarks pertained to a plan now being promoted by Ham and Eggers to recall Governor Olson, Democratic chief executive of that state, elected. Ham and Eggers say, by their votes, Governor Olson had the courage to come out against the crack-pot idea during the campaign. It is generally believed, however, that the Ham and Eggers will get enough signatures to force a special recall election of the Governor.

The chief pooh-bahs were holding some sort of a pep-meeting with some 40 or 50 men and women present. A half dozen clerks were scurrying around from office to office. Chiselers had cut a doorway through a brick wall to provide additional space for filing cabinets.

The talkative recall promoter collected and gave to the writer considerable of the propaganda gotten out during the recent campaign. How, under the sun, the most ignorant voter would fall for such a conglomerated scheme is difficult to understand.

But all of this is away from the real point—who is getting the big bank-roll and how is it being split up?

Millions of pennies quickly grow into millions of dollars, you know.

Last spring two of the so-called original directors sued for a split of the jack-pot. They alleged that at that time well over a million dollars had been collected and they declared that they were entitled to some of it.

California has some sort of a law which requires that a statement of expenditures be filed with the secretary of state.

But Ham and Eggers were apparently too busy to file a report, so they sent up some books of check stubs.

Check stubs marked "cash" or "expense" showing checks drawn for $12,000, or $15,000, or $17,000 were plentiful but to whom paid and for what—well, what business is that anyway except of those who control the check-books?

There are two brothers actively associated at the head of the scheme. One is an ex-real estate promoter. The other sets himself up as a "radio" lawyer. They are said to be chief owners of the Cinema Advertising Agency. This agency gets a commission on all radio contracts made and it handles all other forms of advertising for Ham and Eggers. Somewhere I saw a notation of some $71,576.74 that had been paid to the Cinema Agency over a certain period. Besides the brothers, there is another fellow who sets himself up as an "engineer-economist," whatever that might be, who comes in for some sort of a drag out of the jack-pot.

After a day spent rummaging through files and records trying to get all the data possible on Ham and Eggers, I thought it might be well to find out what some of the Mr. Average Citizens of California thought about the penny-grabbing scheme.

Some folks, including Charlie Heddon over at Dowagiac who manufactures a good share of the world's fishing tackle, think that the average fisherman has a bit more intelligence than the rank and file of humanity.

Down on that long circular pier at Long Beach I nudged up to one of these alleged super-intelligent individuals.

"How's fishing today?" is always a good question with which to break the ice.

"Rotten." (That, too, is a stock answer.)

"Read in the newspapers you have just had an election out here to fix it, everybody who doesn't want to work can get $30 a week. Do they think it will work?"

"Nobody, only the nuts think that," responded this super-intelligent citizen.

"I know," he said, "that a lot of folks after they get west of the Rockies and stay out here for a few years, go queer."

There were a couple more fishermen down the pier a short distance. They were feeding bread crusts to the minnows near the top of the water in order to attract bigger fish down deeper where their baited hooks were.

"How's fishing?"

"Just so-so, like it was yesterday, the day before and the day before that."

"Well, maybe if you fellows had voted for that Ham and Eggs business, fishing would be better," I ventured.

"Say, are you one of those crack-pots? If you ever put that over out here I'll go back to Arkansas where they keep crazy folks in the bug-house!"

That ended that conversation. He wouldn't talk any more, not even about fishing.

But where does this "Ham and Eggs" phrase come from—and what has it to do with any pension plan?

Ham and eggs provide a pretty substantial meal, especially does the combination appeal to a hungry person.

One of the promoters of the penny-grabbing idea is said to have belonged at one time to a breakfast club where they sang a song about ham and eggs.

All promoters for all sorts of schemes and ventures are always searching for snappy slogans—something that will catch the eye and something easy to say and remember.

"Ham and eggs and thirty per!" The expression clicked!

So the Ham and Eggers plagiarized the old breakfast club song, tied it in with their thirty dollars a week, no work, tax exemption, state money scheme and have forced two special elections upon the people of California and are now proposing another.

State elections cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. But what care these fellows, as long as the taxpayers have to foot the bill and they can keep the millions they are getting to use as they see fit?—millions of dollars that come from the pockets of hordes of destitute, desperate people, looking for relief from the plight of a planned social condition and a depression have brought about!

All that has been done, apparently, is within the law—but what a law that will permit schemers to take pennies away from people who are frantically searching for some sort of security for themselves.

Yellow gold! Black gold! Tragic gold! What a blot upon the name of such a great state of the Golden West! Surely a commonwealth that can turn deserts into rich and beautiful gardens and orchards; a state that has amazed the nation by its progress, can stop such preying as this upon men and women who need their pennies for milk, bread and butter!

There is no law, but there ought to be a law that would prevent such things from happening.

Michigan, fortunately, has never paid much attention to crack-pots. For that, we can be most thankful.

Two Cage Teams in City League Combine

Resulting Team to Be Called Blunk and Thatcher

Two teams in the city recreation basketball league have combined. They are that of Blunk and Thatcher and Chevrolet. The resulting squad will go under the Blunk and Thatcher name. Earl Gray, director of the league, says that the teams have merged because of the inability of many of their players to play regularly as a result of their working nights in Plymouth factories.

The new set-up will necessitate a change in the schedule. Mr. Gray says that each week games for the following week will be announced. Other teams will follow the schedule as planned the first of the season.

Next week games will be played on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. Referees are to be Anthony Matulis, high school coach; Oran Egloff and Clarence Levandowski.

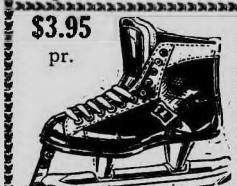

In the girls' games last week, Cloverdale swamped Hi-Speed, 40-22, Monday night. Tuesday night, Daisy and the Independents fought all the way with the Daisy team finally emerging victorious. Score, 15-12.

Monday night, Dunbar Davis' team won from Blunk and Thatcher by forfeit. The Blunk and Thatcher team won Tuesday night from Perfection, 54-8, and they played the first game of the week Blunk and Thatcher lost to the Daisy team by the score, 21-36.

According to schedule, Chevrolet is supposed to play Thursday night of next week, but because of the change in the team, Schrader will play in their place that night. Monday's games include Daisy vs. Cloverdale and Plating vs. Daisy. Cloverdale and Independents will meet Tuesday night. Thursday night Daisy and Hi-Speed will be evened and Dunbar Davis' team and Schrader will meet for the round-up.

Important Facts About Plymouth Automatic Sealing Vaults:

PLYMOUTH VAULTS are tested under water to be certain they are air and water tight. Only highest grade aggregates, washed and carefully screened, free from silt, are used in their construction. PLYMOUTH molds are vibrated while in process of casting. This insures strong, dense, watertight concrete. All installations are made by our own skilled service men. This is an added guarantee of permanent, absolute, protection. Your Funeral Director will furnish a genuine PLYMOUTH VAULT if requested to do so. Do not accept a substitute.

For Economy, Beauty, Durability, Choose Plymouth Concrete Vaults

For Permanent Protection Nothing Surpasses Plymouth Concrete Vaults

In days gone by, only the wealthy could buy the protection afforded by a granite tomb. This has been changed with the perfection of Concrete Vaults, which are stronger, better and moderately priced. If the remains of your dear ones rest securely encased under the sturdy protection of one of these vaults, you know that you have done your utmost in the fulfillment of a sacred trust. If you turn a water glass upside down and immerse it, you will find that no water can enter from below. It is on this theory that our vaults are constructed. The air expels the water and keeps the interior dry. This is the Air Sealing Principle. They will not rust, corrode, or decay. Earth actions have no effect upon them, in fact, they grow stronger with age. They also prevent sunken graves. Engineers say that no living person can begin to estimate the life of our vault in years.

$39,000,000 for a Water System. The Mulholland Dam, Los Angeles, California. Concrete was used because of its undeniable superiority over other materials where water must be controlled, tremendous pressure is exerted and endless years of service are demanded.

Actual Laboratory Tests show that in 21 days Plymouth Automatic Vaults have obtained 3555 pounds per square inch--In 14 days they have obtained 3045 pounds per square inch--that is, it would take the equivalent of 50 tons to break these cylinders. Therefore showing we are living up to the highest specifications of the American Institute of Concrete--Laboratory test results available at any time.

"WE'LL DECIDE THAT LATER"

The task of selecting a burial vault is too often put off until the time when an intelligent decision is most improbable. Few people are capable of weighing the facts at the last minute. Isn't it good judgement to make this important decision in advance? The facts we present here will help you and we will be glad to give you any additional information desired.
