State Needs More Efficiency in Tax-Collection

Ann Arbor Senator Talks Before Rotary Club

"Michigan needs no additional taxes of any kind, but it does need a system of collection that will assure the state of receiving all that is its due," said Senator George P. McCullum in a talk to Rotarians here last Friday.

Senator McCullum, a member of the senate tax study commission, told his interested listeners that his committee had recommended three things to the governor and the legislature after they concluded their survey of Michigan's tax system.

He was emphatic in his first statement that Michigan needed no new taxes and that was the first paragraph of the committee's report. The second recommendation was that the state stop hampering industry and the third that the state improve its tax collection machinery.

Rocks Defeat Northville 20-15 in Annual Clash

In a fast and furious game in which the substitutes played a better game as a unit than the regulars, the Rocks won their game with Northville high school.

The game which was always exciting because of the closeness of the score was played with a man-to-man defense with many quick breaks. During the first half of the game the Plymouth subs with the aid of Bob Norman scored 10 points to give Plymouth a one-point lead over the opposition.

Northville's regulars did a somewhat better job—collecting six of their team's nine points made in the first half.

Going into the second half with a one-point lead the Rocks added three points on a free throw by Blomhuff and a field goal by Wilkie. At the same time Northville added but one point.

The final quarter netted Plymouth seven points on field goals by Norman and Baker and a free throw by Baker. Northville still had some fight left though and threatened Plymouth's lead several times only to be downed.

the intangible tax law that he introduced to the legislature last year stating that intangibles in Michigan which are now untaxed would amount to about one-half of the tangible items taxable.

He told Rotarians that the tax study commission had suggested the formation of a department of revenue for Michigan patterned after the one now operating in New York state. It was suggested that a commissioner of the department be appointed for a ten-year period and four assistants selected by him with the governor's approval to serve under a strict merit civil service system.

As an example of the efficiency of the New York system, he told how the governor of that state received a trial balance at 10 o'clock every morning on the state's financial condition as of 4 p. m. the day before.

Senator McCullum concluded his remarks with an appeal to members of the Rotary club to help him in creating a consciousness in the people in regard to efficient government in our various state departments.

Norman was high-point man for the game, having scored five points. For Northville, Eaton and Holcomb were tied at four points apiece.

Would Buy Land Owned by City

A representative of the Troy Aggregate company, a Detroit concern, was present at the city commission meeting Monday night to request purchase of one acre of land that the city owns on Beck road.

Certain commissioners felt that perhaps the activity across the road from the wells would have a bearing on the city water supply. It was assured that the only difference made would be perhaps after a number of years, the city wells would have to be deepened.

There was nothing the commission could do to prevent the Detroit company's buying of the other land. They did, however, lay the matter directly concerned with the purchase of the city property on the table for a time.

Michigan Fourth Estate Organized to Work for Honest Government

Long Term Fight Planned to Aid the State

Consolidation of a group of Michigan newspapers, which was recently organized in East Lansing to discourage invisible government and subterranean political-boss rule in Michigan, was effected Friday in Lansing on a long-term basis when directors were empowered to apply for incorporation as a non-profit organization for a term of 30 years, the maximum allowed by Michigan law.

George R. Averill, publisher of the Birmingham Eclectic, was elected president of the organization which will be known under the first article in its newly adopted constitution as the Michigan Fourth Estate Group.

Organization of the newspapermen was first effected in East Lansing on December 1, at which time temporary officers were named with T. O. Huckle of Cadillac as chairman to complete plans for a permanent organization to be submitted to the group January 12. During the intervening six weeks Chairman Huckle and his committee have held three meetings and were prepared Friday to offer a program which received unanimous approval. Sixteen directors were elected Friday, empowered by the constitution to elect officers from their number. Eight were elected: George A. Osborn, Sault Ste. Marie; Jack A. Cooper, Reed City; H. J. Kurtz, Sparta; W. A. Crandall, West Branch; Floyd J. Miller, Royal Oak; William H. Shumaker, Three Rivers; Lawrence Towne, Jonesville; and J. L. Keddle, Bear Lake. Eight directors were elected for two years: Frank J. Russell, Iron Mountain; T. O. Huckle, Cadillac; A. Van Koeveering, Zeeland; Hal Whitely, Rogers City; George R. Averill, Birmingham; Don Cochran, Hartford; William Cansfield, Northville; and Richard Cook, Hastings.

The board of directors elected the following officers: President, George R. Averill; vice president, A. Van Koeveering; secretary, Jack A. Cooper; and treasurer, George A. Osborn. The president accepted office

with the following statement of policy:

"The Michigan Fourth Estate Group is a non-profit organization of Michigan newspapermen and women that stands for an honest, more economical and more efficient condition of government in the state of Michigan. Our organization has come into existence because, in the face of mounting taxes, and notwithstanding the burdensome increase in the number of employees in government, there still remains a startling deficiency in the administration of our government. We in the Michigan Fourth Estate Group hold that this costly and inefficient status of government is the result of many years, and every political party that has been in control of state government has made its contribution to this mess. We hold, too, that a general public disinterest and apathy has played its part in allowing this condition to gain its hold.

"Our organization intends to function on a strictly non-partisan basis; we will operate free from any alliances with candidates in or out of public office; we intend to refrain from the endorsement, as a group, of any political candidate or any political party. Our chief mission shall be one of fact-finding and fact-giving to the public, through our newspapers, and to individuals and organizations that stand for good government. Our slogan shall be: A person's judgment is no better than the accuracy of the information."

"Perhaps the best summary of our Michigan Fourth Estate Group's policy is contained in our constitution and by-laws, which reads: The purpose of this organization shall be to consolidate an independent group of Michigan newspaper publishers banded together to discourage invisible government and subterranean political boss rule in each and all political parties by means of full and frank publicity; to encourage, as each member desires in his own case, the candidacies of those Michigan citizens (by means of full publicity) who are free from and independent of boss-alliances; and, finally to exercise greater diligence in interpreting the significance of the acts of public officials throughout their terms of office, thus better to enable the public to judge and discriminate between the unworthy official and the one who regards public office as a public trust."

"That statement will be our rule and guide. We are setting up our organization on a long-term basis; we know our task is a tremendous one, because it is difficult to remove from the present status of government in a short time those conditions that have been in the making for several decades. But we shall pursue our course with unflinching devotion to the cause of perpetuating a free self-government; and in that objective we invite the cooperation of all citizens and groups that wish to unburden their own knowledge of any condition that has been responsible for evils in government."

His Miners Meet

Opposition to the administration's reciprocal trade agreement program is expected to be voiced Tuesday, January 23, when John Lewis, above, meets with the United Mine Workers of America in their convention at Columbus, Ohio. Lewis, president of both U.A.W. and the Congress of Industrial Organization, is helping the union celebrate its golden anniversary.

City Employees Study Tree Care

Through the courtesy of the Wayne county road commission, Joseph Witwer, 593 Edison avenue, is conducting classes for city employees in the care of shade trees.

Mr. Witwer met with the men for the first time last Thursday afternoon. It is now planned the instruction will continue each week until spring.

City Manager C. H. Elliott feels that the instruction will not only be interesting but helpful as well, for it will better qualify city employees for taking care of Plymouth's thousands of trees along streets and in parks.

Included in the course is instruction in the care of plants and shrubs. Later the men will study the fine points of spraying and pruning, it was said.

Essay Contest on Parks Planned

A high school essay contest designed to acquaint the people of southeastern Michigan with the issues involved in the proposed Detroit-Huron-Clinton Parkway plan was announced today by the committee of citizens sponsoring the project.

Legislative authorization for the establishment of a five-county parkway authority was granted in an act passed at the last session of the legislature. A referendum provision in the act makes the creation of the inter-county parkway board dependent upon the approval of the voters in any two contiguous counties at the November elections.

Local and county-wide contests will be held in each of the five counties covered by the proposed plan—Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Livingston. Winners of the local contests will compete in the county contest and county winners will compete for the grand prizes offered for the best essays in the entire area.

It is said that there will be more than 100,000 high school students in the area eligible to enter the contest.

Local newspapers throughout the area are offering prizes up to $10 for the winners in the community contests. Prizes up to $50 for the best county papers are being offered by newspapers and the county committees. The two best papers in the entire area will bring prizes of $100 and $50 offered by the parkway committee.

Prize-winning essays in several of the local contests will be published by the sponsoring newspapers under the name of the winner.

The contest was conceived by the committee as an excellent means of familiarizing people in the area with all phases of the project," said Dr. Curtis, secretary of the association, "so they may cast their ballots next November with full knowledge of the matter. It is part of our educational campaign to bring to the voters a realization of the need for a coordinated recreational plan for the 3,000,000 people living in the district."

The general plan of the parkway committee contemplates a series of parks, parkways, bathing beaches, wild life refuges and picnic grounds along the valleys of the Detroit, Huron, and Clinton rivers, made easily accessible to the people of the area by radiating limited-access highways.

The parkway authority, if established by the voters, would be an independent governmental unit for the planning, creation and maintenance of the parks and parkways.

HUNTERS BRING OUT FIREMEN

Mason — Hunters built a fire in a hollow tree to smoke out a coon they were trailing. Hours later, Mason firemen were called to put out the fire, something the hunters had forgotten to do. When conservation officers read of the incident in a local paper, they sought to arrest the hunters for illegally molesting a raccoon in his den.

Retirement of Fireman O. K.

Sections four and five of the Firemen's Agreement were approved by the city commission Monday night. The sections have to do with the retirement of firemen who have reached the age of 65 years.

The action on the agreement was brought up at the Monday meeting because of the fact that one eligible fireman asked for his retirement from active duty. He is Alfred R. Hartung who resides on Maple avenue. Mr. Hartung is now 70 years old and has been in active service with the Plymouth fire department for about 30 years. He is the first fireman to retire under the new agreement.

Some time ago it was thought that the administration set-up in the fire department should be improved without increasing the operating expense to a great extent.

Two changes in the set-up were outlined. One was that two men be assigned to duty on Sundays and holidays, especially during the summer months. This action was essential because of the fact that, strange as it may seem, most fires occur in the city on Sunday. Also it was considered that on Sundays and holidays firemen are apt to be out of the city. A lack of men cripples the department. Thus the need for additional men on duty was seen.

The second essential outlined which had to do with retirement was approved Monday night. The provision deals with men who have reached the age of 65. Those who were not that age as of December 6, 1937 were permitted to remain on the active force until they were 70.

When retired the firemen are permitted to attend the regular monthly meetings of the department and draw their pay for attendance, but they are not required for active duty as a volunteer fireman unless they are called in the case of a large fire. A badge will be presented to Mr. Hartung by Mayor L. E. Wilson on which will be inscribed the number of years he has been in active duty with the Plymouth fire department.

Americans consume an estimated 20 billion cups of tea a year—an annual average of 150 cups for every person in the country. A National Consumers Tax commission survey shows that of 18 cents paid for a quarter pound of this tea, nearly three cents—or 15.4 per cent—are taken by hidden taxes.

Michigan Fourth Estate Organized to Work for Honest Government

Long Term Fight Planned to Aid the State

Consolidation of a group of Michigan newspapermen, which was recently organized in East Lansing to discourage invisible government and subterranean political-boss rule in Michigan, was effected Friday, in Lansing, on a long-term basis when directors were empowered to apply for incorporation as a non-profit organization for a term of 30 years, the maximum allowed by Michigan law.

George R. Averill, publisher of the Birmingham Eclectic, was elected president of the organization which will be known under the first article in its newly adopted constitution as the Michigan Fourth Estate Group.

Organization of the newspapermen was first effected in East Lansing on December 1, at which time temporary officers were named, with T. O. Huckle of Cadillac as chairman to complete plans for a permanent organization to be submitted to the group January 12. During the intervening six weeks Chairman Huckle and his committee have held three meetings and were prepared Friday to offer a program which received unanimous approval.

Sixteen directors were elected Friday, empowered by the constitution to elect officers from their number. Eight were elected for one year: George A. Osborn, Sault Ste. Marie; Jack A. Cooper, Red City; H. J. Kurtz, Sparta; W. A. Crandall, West Branch; Floyd J. Miller, Royal Oak; William H. Shumaker, Three Rivers; Lawrence Towse, Jonesville; and J. L. Keddie, Bear Lake. Eight directors were elected for two years: Frank J. Russell, Iron Mountain; T. O. Huckle, Cadillac; A. Van Koevring, Zeeland; Hal Whitley, Rogers City; George R. Averill, Birmingham; Don Cochran, Hartford; William Cansfield, Northville; and Richard Cook, Hastings.

The board of directors elected the following officers: President, George R. Averill; vice president, A. Van Koevring; secretary, Jack A. Cooper; and treasurer, George A. Osborn.

The president accepted office

with the following statement of policy:

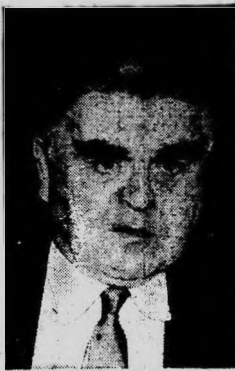

"The Michigan Fourth Estate Group is a non-profit organization of Michigan newspapermen and women that stands for an honest, more economical and more efficient condition of government in the state of Michigan. Our organization has come into existence because, in the face of mounting taxes, and notwithstanding the burdensome increase in the number of employees in government, there still remains a startling deficiency in the administration of our government. We in the Michigan Fourth Estate Group hold that this costly and inefficient status of government is the result of many years, and every political party that has been in control of state government has made its contribution to this mess. We hold, too, that a general public disinterest and apathy has played its part in allowing this condition to gain its hold.

"Our organization intends to function on a strictly non-partisan basis; we will operate free from any alliances with candidates in or out of public office; we intend to refrain from the endorsement, as a group, of any political candidate or any political party. Our chief mission shall be one of fact-finding and fact-giving to the public, through our newspapers, and to individuals and organizations that stand for good government. Our slogan shall be: 'A person's judgment is no better than the accuracy of the information.'

"Perhaps the best summary of our Michigan Fourth Estate Group's policy is contained in our constitution and by-laws, which reads: 'The purpose of this organization shall be to consolidate an independent group of Michigan newspaper publishers banded together to discourage invisible government and subterranean political boss rule in each and all political parties by means of full and frank publicity; to encourage, as each member desires in his own case, the candidacies of those Michigan citizens (by means of full publicity) who are free from and independent of boss-alliances; and finally to exercise greater diligence in interpreting the significance of the acts of public officials throughout their terms of office, thus better to enable the public to judge and discriminate between the unworthy official and the one who regards public office as a public trust.'

But we shall pursue our course with unflinching devotion to the cause of perpetuating a free self-government; and in that objective we invite the cooperation of all citizens and groups that wish to unburden their own knowledge of any condition that has been responsible for evils in government."

Rice Attends AAA Convention

L. B. Rice, manager of the Plymouth division of the Automobile Club of Michigan, will take an active part in the annual convention which will be held in the Statler hotel, Detroit, on Friday and Saturday of this week.

With a membership far surpassing any previous year in each of its state divisions, the Automobile Club plans to extend its services in the promotion of safe and comfortable motor travel, according to word received by Rice, from W. B. Bachman, membership director of the club at Detroit.

Beginning with its formation in 1916, the club has worked hand-in-hand with manufacturers and motorists in the interests of better roads, reasonable traffic regulations, and a school safety patrol movement which has spread throughout the nation. During the last two years, the club has been an active agency in the promotion of Michigan travel and Plymouth's attractions have been broadcast to each of the one thousand affiliated clubs of the American Automobile association of which the Michigan club is the largest.

Winter Fishing!

Colder weather lures thousands of ice fishermen to Michigan's inland lakes. Above scene is small one on Houghton lake where special regulation limits the daily catch of perch to 15. Here's a Chance for Old Barber Shop Singers to "Join up"

National Official Now Resides in Plymouth

Attention! Tenors, leads, baritone and basses! Do you like to harmonize, anytime, day or night, to your year's content? Do you love the old songs, those that used to be popular back in the days of handle-bar mustaches, log-chain watch fobs and when newspapers were not full of the war situation and barber shop quartet singing was the rage? If you do, and can carry a tune, without the aid of a basket, you are a candidate for membership in the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Edward Schwoppe, state highway engineer now located in the Plymouth office, and a "self-styled, wicked-performing" baritone is a national vice president of the royal order from Michigan. Schwoppe says that if enough Plymouth men, lovers of songs sung in "barber shop style," will get together a chapter can be organized here. Although definite plans have not been made, the Michigan vice president declares there is no reason why there shouldn't be a chapter of "shaving mug singers" in Plymouth.

Detroit's chapter, now listing a membership well over 1,000 lovers of latent lyrics, was started more than a year ago. One in Grand Rapids and another in Flint began soon after, and now Michigan boasts several hundred such odes.

The idea for a barber shop singing organization was born when two men, O. A. Cash, Tulsa tax attorney, and Rupert I. Hall, mortgage attorney also from the Oklahoma city, met on a train. The two men found themselves with nothing to do except talk about taxes or revise old songs. They brought back the old songs and that's how it all began. Cash is now listed as founder and Hall is president of the growing non-profit group.

The "SPEBSQSA" is a very informal organization. Qualification for membership resides in that strange, sad yearning for close harmony that gets the best of us and a love of good fellowship. The society's theme song derives from that ancient hymn of which the chorus goes:

"The old songs, the old songs
The grand old songs for me;
I like to hear those minor chords
In good close harmony."
"Sing and relax."

Flood Lights Please Skaters

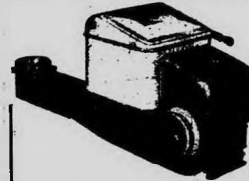

Through the cooperation of the city of Plymouth and the Wayne County Board of Park Trustees, four flood-lights were placed at Wilcox Lake the first week in January. New Year's Day Mayor L. E. Wilson, who is a frequent visitor at the skating pond, and City Commissioner Whipple, who is a daily skater at Wilcox Lake, asked the Wayne county park superintendent what could be done about lights for night skating.

A. Merle Bennett, superintendent of Wayne county parks, had had a survey made a week before the request was made, but the survey showed that the cost of bringing lights from Northville road to the skating house was almost prohibitive. January 2 the matter was taken up at city commission meeting and all the commissioners, Messrs. Robinson, Hon-dorp, Worth, Wilson and Mrs. Whipple, wanted the city to provide lights in some way. The city manager, Clarence Elliott, had the idea that the city of Plymouth could light Wilcox Lake with power from the city's booster station on the south shore of the lake. Wednesday morning, January 3, Mr. Elliott and Mr. Bennett conferred on the matter and decided that the lights could be installed with very little expense under the city manager's plan.

That day the lights were installed with the city of Plymouth furnishing the poles, wires, labor and current from the booster station and with the county park department furnishing the electrical labor and the reflectors.

Hence, through the planning of the city manager, through the quick action of Mr. Elliott and Mr. Bennett and through the cooperation of the city commissioners and the Wayne county park officials, Plymouth skaters have been enjoying lights on Wilcox lake since January 3.

To Re-Write Electric Code

According to City Attorney Arlo Emery, certain parts of a proposed electric ordinance which was up before the city commission for a third and final reading Monday night would be held unconstitutional if attacked in court. The ordinance is the result of collaboration between city officials and electric contractors in the city who desire that they themselves be licensed by the city of Plymouth to do contract wiring and other electrical work here.

Commissioners and a representative of the electric contractors of Plymouth agreed that certain parts of the proposed ordinance be re-written. City Manager Clarence H. Elliott was instructed to revise the ordinance in part so that it will be constitutionally correct when presented again to commissioners for passing.

Further information concerning the Art Barn and its course of instruction may be obtained from Mr. Worthington.

WAITS FOR WIFE

Birmingham -- Police recently received a phone call giving them location of a parked car in which a man was slumped over the wheel. Fearing a suicide, officers rushed to investigate. As they prepared to force open the door, the man looked up and said drowsily, "Just waiting for my wife to finish her shopping."

Mrs. Whipple, aside from her place in city government is also a member of the Wayne county board of supervisors; affiliated with the W. C. T. A GREAT HUMANITARIAN LEADER.

It is refreshing now and then to find some person anxious and willing to lead a fight for some worthy humanitarian cause without personal gain or benefit providing the motive for the sacrifice in time and effort required to create public interest and accomplish results.

The Plymouth Mail has consistently opposed the scheme to place complete domination of the administration of pensions for mothers under the control of federal job holders. There were two chief reasons for it: one was because of the fact that we have never believed that the care of a widowed mother and her children should be classed as a welfare problem, and the second reason for this position has been the fear of political manipulation. Right now we are having a perfect example in Wayne county official circles of our second reason for opposing the federal-state set-up.

The other night there was a meeting in Detroit of many thousands of widowed mothers in protest to the politics that has been injected into the administration of their problem, and to protest also against any possible danger of a cut in public funds for their aid.

Mrs. Ruby Zahn, who led the fight to have the law passed in Michigan more than a quarter of a century ago that provided pensions for widowed mothers, presided at that meeting. She urged the mothers not to give up their fight for the protection of the boys and girls who have been left alone in the world without fathers to provide food and clothing or the guidance and care that only good fathers can give.

During a long and active life, Mrs. Zahn has been a leader in every worthy humanitarian cause. In her present fight she is absolutely right. Widowed mothers who have been left the responsibility of rearing the future citizens of our nation, are entitled to more than just the routine care that comes from unsympathetic political job holders who get their places on the public payroll as the result of political "drag" with higher-ups in Washington.

Our only hope is that one so sincerely interested in great humanitarian causes as is Mrs. Zahn may be able to continue her activities for years to come. Michigan and the country needs her type of enthusiastic leadership.

MR. MURPHY'S PROTEGE.

The other day up in Lansing a grand jury indicted Martin J. Lavan of Livingston county upon a charge of stealing public funds. He is now out on bail and faces trial in the Ingham county courts.

The news item is of more than passing notice. Lavan is a former Howell lawyer now living in Brighton. Former Governor Frank Murphy took him under his wing and made Lavan a "big shot" in Democratic state political circles over the protest of good Democratic citizens of Livingston county who knew something of the way this fellow Lavan operated.

Then when Frank Murphy became governor, Lavan appeared on the scenery in Lansing as "legal advisor" for the auditor general.

(That's something new in these days of such amazing political intrigue. It seems that most public officials now think it necessary to have legal advisors, another "luxury" paid for by the taxpayers.)

During the two years that Lavan was in Lansing, he buzzed in and out of the Governor's office with the air of a yellow jacket. He not only endeavored to run the affairs of the Democratic party, but the state government as well.

Now a grand jury up in Ingham county alleges that they caught him with his fingers in the public's cash till. About the most contemptible crime that can be committed is for a trusted public official to steal money from the taxpayers. We do not care whether he is a Democrat or Republican, if Lavan is guilty, he should be punished to the limit.

TOO "FISHY" TO BELIEVE.

That affidavit which was thrown into the National Labor Relations board mess pot investigation down in Washington which quotes some fellow as saying that Henry Ford promised to give some labor organizer $3,000 or $4,000 reads so fishy that even one of the boys or girls over in the Lapeer Home for Feeble Minded would regard it for just what it is worth—a wordy mess of insinuations based upon nothing.

The person who signed it, by his own admission in the affidavit, that he was willing to commit felonious assault, less than the crime of murder; that he was willing to burglarize an office; that he was willing to destroy and damage property—he was willing to commit all of these major crimes for money—brands himself for just what his affidavit implies.

It is too bad that any movement of any kind which seeks to help mankind must be smeared with things of this nature. Whatever the intent in presenting the affidavit to the congressional committee might have been—it has served a real purpose. It has revealed the viciousness and bias of a group of public officials supposed to be possessed of a judicial temperament.

A HIGH PUBLIC SERVICE.

There has just been organized in Michigan a group of newspaper editors which plans to devote its time and energy in an effort to bring about better, honest and daylight government in Michigan state affairs. It is not a political group in any sense and it plans to keep an eye on state government, no matter which party may be in control.

The organization comes about as the result of conditions that have existed in Michigan for nearly a dozen years or more. It remained for Editor T. O. Huckle, of Cadillac, to provide the initiative which started the organization going. Some accused Mr. Huckle of having a personal political reason for his interest in the matter, but that is not true. Years before that condition had developed, Mr. Huckle had displayed an interest in this serious state problem. Michigan owes the determined, clean-cut fighting editor of Cadillac its thanks for getting something started which is bound to prove of benefit to the great state of Michigan.
