

President Ruthven Points Out High Patriotic Ideals of University

No Unfriendly Aliens Are Welcomed; Hits "Fifth Column"

"As an institution of the people, the University of Michigan must continue to insist that Americans who prefer to live under other forms of government are at heart unfriendly aliens who have no right to the benefits provided by our schools," Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University, told a graduation class of 2,262 in Ann Arbor Saturday night.

Prefacing his annual commencement address with the warning that "Michigan does not welcome students who are not convinced that democracy is the ideal form of government for a civilized people," Dr. Ruthven pointed out that "honest discussion is a valuable method of education, but it is to be clearly distinguished from propaganda." He indicated that the university will "deal firmly, without fear or favor, with subversive, or so-called 'fifth column,' activities."

After dealing briefly with this warning to students coming to the University next year, the president spoke directly to this year's graduating class, urging them to remain young and active in thought, ever working toward an improvement of our democracy, which, he pointed out, will start to wither and decay whenever it ceases to be progressive.

"Our democracy cannot be static," Dr. Ruthven asserted, and in order to keep it from becoming so our minds must avoid the timidity, conservatism, selfishness, mental laziness, narrow-mindedness, and opinionation that come with adobe tissue and hardening of the arteries.

"In short," Dr. Ruthven said, "our failure to improve our attempts at self-government is in important part attributable to our lack of success in carrying over the valuable attributes of youth and the benefits of education beyond commencement day."

"Our failure to improve our attempts at self-government is in important part attributable to our lack of success in carrying over the valuable attributes of youth and the benefits of education beyond commencement day," he said, "our failure to improve our attempts at self-government is in important part attributable to our lack of success in carrying over the valuable attributes of youth and the benefits of education beyond commencement day."

"In the current struggles between individual freedom and regimentation, Dr. Ruthven asserted, "the safety of democracy in America requires not only an immediate tightening of its defenses, but more importantly a vigorous, offensive involving an improvement of practices. The schools and other social agencies must reject the concept of social and moral neutrality and both teach and exemplify the principles of self-government. Inevitably our people must have a spiritual revival. They must abandon their attitude of laissez-faire, their belief that conditions of life in our country are as good as can be expected, their confidence that we can exist in splendid isolation. They must be made intolerant of ignorance, greed, and injustice. They must reaffirm their belief in the equality, brotherhood, dignity, and moral responsibility of man. We must examine objectively our successes and failures as a nation, and dedicate their lives to the task of improving our efforts to govern ourselves."

"As a reward to the class of 1940, Dr. Ruthven promised that "if you are determined never to become bankrupt in intellect and in spirit never to grow old, you will, even in lives of toil and strife, enjoy that true peace which passes all understanding."

Jail Toledo Boys on Charge Here

The Plymouth police department has apprehended three youths who gave Toledo as their address and who are believed to have broken into the Pfeiffer Market, on Liberty street, early Tuesday morning at 2:30 o'clock.

As Officer Ira Hauk was on patrol duty Monday night, he noticed the boys in a parkway between two buildings. He summoned them and upon further investigation found that the rear door of the market had been forced open.

The Ohio youths were locked in jail pending further investigation of the premises Tuesday morning. Although nothing was missing from the store, they were charged with malicious destruction of property. One of the trio was released upon proof that he was not implicated in the offense.

Two of the young men attempted to escape from the city jail Tuesday night. They were arraigned before Judge John S. Dayton Wednesday morning. One of them was sentenced to 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction and the other received a 30-day sentence. Both have previous records in Ohio.

Seniors Stage Big Campaign Class Night

Evening's Events Cleverly Woven Into Election Theme

Making their bids for positions in the "wide, wide world," 114 members of the Plymouth high school graduating class appeared on the stage of the high school auditorium for their last organized class production Tuesday evening in the annual Class Night program. Events of the evening, including class history, prophecy, gaffery, will, president's address and presentation of a memorial to the school, were cleverly woven into an election theme. Candidates for election, the class were presented by their president, Joseph Scarpulla.

In nominating the candidate, Marilyn McClumpha, Betty Overman and Thomas Mitchell, told of the class history and its qualifications for a place in the outside world, based upon what has been done.

Prospects for the candidate, class prophecy were given by Margaret Brandt, Dorothy Bohl, Barbara Meinzinger, Eugene Bakewell and Jean Anderson.

If the prophecy foretold the future, the wide world may expect big things from the candidate. Campaign music was given, adding to the spirit of the occasion, by Dorothy McCullough, Isabelle Nairn, Dorothy Barnes, Doris Williams, Edward Mulry, Roger McClain, Neal Curtiss and Donald Blackford.

Little things to remember, campaign mementoes, were given to the entire four terms of the class. Amusing gifts were received, many pointing toward well-known class personalities. Gladys Salow, Richard Dunlop, Larry Newman, June Gardner, June Garrison and Patsy Arnold made the presentation.

The class will, or resolutions of the entire class of the class of 1940, was prepared by Jean Schoof, Ivan Packard, Eloyce Zimmerman, Doris Schultz, Delores Detling and Joseph Schultz. Plymouth high school will not notice the loss brought about by the graduation of the class if the entire four terms of the class and each lower classman accepts the things which were bequeathed.

More campaign music was given by Joseph and Doris Schultz, followed by the candidate's platform, the president's address, made by "Joe" Scarpulla, who has headed the group for the entire four terms.

He said "We have been nominated by Plymouth high school to represent it in the world. We have been given qualities which will assist us in getting to the top." He expressed his appreciation on behalf of the class, for the friendship and cooperation that has been given to them during the last four years.

"I am proud to be a member of the class of 1940," the class president declared, "and we will live up to the planks of our platform which have been affixed in our minds while here, so that in later years you will be proud to tell us as your graduates and we will be proud to know one another then, recalling friendships made at Plymouth high."

Richard Dunlop, class vice-president, made the tribute to the electorate and presented an Eastman Cine movie camera to the school, Superintendent G. A. Smith, on behalf of the board of education and school body, accepted the gift.

The superintendent said that the camera will be a means of preserving memories of Plymouth high school which will be with you years so much. Harold Davis, a member of the class, filmed, "The Last Days of the Class of 1940" with the new camera, and presented it on the screen for the first time at the picnic. A camera was given to the school along with the camera.

The campaign ended with the singing of the campaign song by the entire class. It was written by Vera Ess.

Both the professional and recreational marches were played by Ruth Drews.

Collins Garage Has New Counterbalancer

A Weaver Dynamic Counterbalancer for wheels has just recently been installed in the George Collins and Son automotive service garage on South Main street. It is the latest development in the scientific counterbalancing of wheels, eliminating car shimmy.

With this equipment, it is possible to make accurate corrections the first time, stop the tire gouging and other trouble caused by unbalance. It will also eliminate extreme fatigue and discomfort on long motor trips. Mr. Collins said that once a wheel is balanced with the Weaver Counterbalancer, it is accurate for all speeds.

Blickenstaff Is Named on Board

JOHN W. BLICKENSTAFF

Announcement was made this week of the appointment of John W. Blickenstaff as a member of the medical consultant staff of the Detroit House of Correction by the commissioners of that institution at their last regular meeting.

The consultant staff was created by Superintendent A. B. Gillis in 1938 and in addition to Mr. Blickenstaff is composed of Dr. Chester A. Doty, Dr. Donald H. McRae and Dr. George H. Voelker, all of Detroit. The addition of Mr. Blickenstaff in the position of consultant pharmacist will bring the staff the latest developments along the pharmaceutical line and will greatly help in the keeping of the institution's drug department up to date.

Announcement was also made of the appointment by the board of correction of August J. Plymou, as the acting medical director of the House of Correction.

Purity Displays Food Lockers

Refrigerated food lockers which will be available to Plymouth residents July 1, are now on display at the Purity Market, Dave Galin, owner of the market, reports that reservations for space in the refrigerated building, now under construction at the rear of his store, are being taken. Rent for the entire four terms of persons will be permitted to start using the lockers the first of July.

The food locker idea is new, and is gaining in popularity every day. Two years ago when the first food locker was built in Michigan, the need for such a public convenience was seen. Since that time lockers have been offered to customers in some 40-odd communities.

When Mr. Galin's lockers are completed, farmers and city residents will be able to buy perishable foods in quantities large enough to save a great deal on grocery bills computed over a period of one year. In addition it will enable families to serve a balanced meal the year round. It will not be necessary that perishable foods be purchased only in season for the table, because the locker idea is much the same as the "quick freeze" which has been commercialized on during the past few years and has made it possible to have fresh summer fruits and vegetables all season.

Large lockers will be supplied for farmers who wish to store halves of beef or the carcasses of other large animals for food. There will be 250 lockers in Mr. Galin's building. Already several have reserved one or more of the compartments. He suggests that those who intend to take advantage of the locker storage service make their reservation now.

The $7,000 building has been under construction for the past month or so. In order to help defray the cost of operation and refrigeration, Mr. Galin says that a small service fee will be charged to users.

The basement of the building will be used for sausage making, smoking of meats and the dressing of fowl for the market and the room now used for that purpose will be used for processing meats for storage.

Cards Hole-in-One on Second Attempt

IT WAS a hole-in-one, even if the scorer did mark down a two on the 130-yard first hole at Plymouth Hilltop Country club by Byron Champion, of Harvey street, when he played Thursday evening. Technically speaking he carded an ace, on the par 3 hole, according to the rules of the game. Champion got a two.

"By" stepped up on the fourth tee, approached the ball, and tied into it with his seven iron. It bobbed, disgusted, he teed up another ball. This time it took off, straight for the pin and rolled in. A hole-in-one in two strokes. And if you don't believe it, ask Tom Mangon. He was playing with "By."

High School Graduates First Apprentices

Present Diplomas at Apprentice-Employer Banquet June 12

The first students to graduate from the high school apprentice training course were presented their diplomas last Wednesday night, June 12, by Superintendent George A. Smith. The occasion was a banquet given by the 29 members of the course for their employers. Seventy were presented at the banquet including 25 employers and foremen, apprentice training course students, members of the school board and school officials.

The banquet was served in the high school cafeteria by members of the home economics department.

Those who received their diplomas were Loren Gould in drycleaning; Edward Landau, meatcutting; Ned May, grocery sales and merchandising; Earl Beckwith, variety store sales; Gustavo Hansen, drycleaning; Warren Todd, furniture sales; Harold Hills, dairy products manufacturer.

Although students in the apprentice department have received their high school diplomas in the past, never before has there been a student graduated from the apprentice department. In order to obtain a diploma from the department, one must serve a required number of study hours in addition to a required number of work hours. All graduates from the department, except one, Harold Hills, who has his high school diploma previous to this year, Hills received both diplomas.

Frank Dalton, chief of the trade and industrial educational division of the state board of control for vocational services, was the guest speaker at Wednesday's banquet. He conveyed greetings to the graduates from the department and congratulated them in seeing the value of a training in the trades. He also had praise for Carve Bentley, director of the department, in developing the program.

Mr. Bentley, who addressed the group briefly, expressed his appreciation to the employers for their cooperation with the high school in hiring the students during their training courses.

Superintendent of Schools George A. Smith presented the diplomas. A motion picture, "Rhapsody in Steel," the story of manufacturing and assembling of automobiles in one of the larger Detroit factories, was shown.

Prospects look good for placing four or five additional apprentices by the time school starts next fall," Mr. Bentley said this week. "We have to limit the number of students in the course to the number of positions that can be secured."

Plymouth high school has offered the course for only a comparatively short length of time in relation to the number of students who have succeeded in the fields studied.

Red Cross Wants More Knitters

This week the Red Cross chapter in Plymouth urges all women who are experienced knitters to knit sweaters for war relief in Europe. Sweaters and socks are being made for allied war refugees.

Mrs. John Blickenstaff, who was appointed by Miss Pauline Peck, Plymouth chapter head, reports that 75 women are now engaged in making the clothing. Yarn for 60 sweaters has been given out and several women have already completed their first garment and are starting additional ones.

Sweaters are being made in two sizes, for children and adults, and when completed they are sent to the chapter headquarters at Detroit where they are packed for shipment overseas.

Rotarians Have Picnic Today

Plymouth Rotarians this (Friday) afternoon and evening have their annual spring picnic, at which they are entertaining their wives and friends at Plymouth Country club, on North Territorial road. A golf tournament will be held for both men and women which is scheduled to start at 9:00 o'clock.

For those who do not play golf, other entertainment has been arranged. Dinner will be served at 7:00 o'clock. The Fellowship committee, headed by John MacLachlan, has charge of arrangements for the day, and it is assumed that everyone who attends will have an enjoyable time.

Reduce School Tax

Attends Conference

REV. S. S. CLOSSON

Rev. S. S. Closson, of the Methodist church of Plymouth, left Wednesday to attend the annual district conference of the Methodist church being held in Pontiac.

He took with him a report which showed the excellent condition of the Plymouth church. Not only has the church in the past year had very substantial support from its members but it has grown in attendance and its religious services to the community have been greatly extended.

Thursday morning's proceedings at Pontiac were highlighted by devotional services led by Bishop Edgar Blake, who is this year retiring as bishop of the church. Among other speakers during the week will be Governor Dickinson, Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of China, and Dr. M. S. Rice, of Detroit.

It is anticipated that Rev. Closson will be assigned to the Plymouth church for another year. Plymouth residents will be interested in the announcement that Rev. William Richards, who for ten years was pastor of the Methodist church of Northville, and has been stationed for the past ten years at Belleville, will be retired. He plans to move to a little country home that he has established just off the Seven Mile road, east of Northville.

The complete school tax rate for next year cannot be given at this time because it is determined by the county tax allocation board which meets next month. The board of education has not been notified as to how the allotted 15 mills for Wayne county, township and school taxes.

Wall Wire Picnic Today

According to an announcement from the officers of the Wall Wire Picnic Company, the company's picnic will be held today (Friday) instead of the previously reported date.

The change in date was effected because of the fact that company officials believed Friday to be a better day to close down production.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the day's program have compiled an interesting and varied list of events. Activities will begin in the morning and will be concluded with a softball game between the company's two teams, late in the afternoon.

Women's shuffle board doubles and men's horse shoe doubles tournaments will take place at 10:00 o'clock in addition to a tennis tournament and children's candy and peanut scramble.

From 11:00 until 1:00 o'clock lunch and refreshments will be served. The first event following the luncheon hour will be events for boys and girls between the ages of six and nine years of age. At 1:30 o'clock, children between 10 and 15 will compete in various contests for prizes, followed at 2:00 o'clock with events for mixed couples.

At 2:15 o'clock there will be women's events. Men's contests will follow at 2:30 o'clock. The anti-climax of the day will be a big tug-of-war to be staged at 2:45. The ball game is scheduled to start at 3:00 o'clock.

All Wall Wire employees will attend the picnic. This is the first event of its kind ever attempted by company officials and nothing is being spared in order to show appreciation to the boys and girls who they have done during the concern's first year in Plymouth.

Finds Eight-Leaf Clover in Lawn

Good luck surely awaits Frank Everett. The other day when working on the lawn at the Everett home on Haggerty highway he found an eight-leaf clover. Four leaf clovers mean good luck, an eight-leaf clover surely means double good luck. That is what Mr. Everett believes.

Board Votes to Cut Rate for Next Year by Dollar

Debt Service Fund Has Surplus, Annual Report Shows

Following a meeting of the Plymouth board of education Thursday evening, it was announced that the school tax rate will be cut one dollar per thousand valuation next year. Members of the board voted to reduce the debt service fund rate from $3.50 per thousand valuation to $2.50, making a reduction of nearly one-third.

The reduction was made possible because a surplus was found to be in that fund when the annual school financial report was made at the annual meeting last Monday night. The reason given for the surplus was due to added homebuilding and industry in Plymouth which has materially raised the assessed valuation of the city. Also the increase in payment of current and delinquent taxes has made the reduction possible.

Board members estimate that there will be sufficient capital in the fund to meet all current bond payments and interest even though the rate will be decreased nearly 33 percent.

The maturities of Plymouth school bonds, which are of the serial type, are so arranged that the amount retired each year, including bonds and interest, is practically the same. This arrangement makes the maintenance of a sinking fund unnecessary, and distributes the bond burden evenly over a period of years.

Plymouth high school bonds, are sold on the market at a decided premium because of the exceptional financial condition of the city.

The complete school tax rate for next year cannot be given at this time because it is determined by the county tax allocation board which meets next month. The board of education has not been notified as to how the allotted 15 mills for Wayne county, township and school taxes.

Deeds Property for City Park

City Manager C. H. Elliott received notice from a former resident that she intended to deed a piece of property to the city for use as a park. If it is accepted, she discussed the matter with commission men on Monday night and was authorized to reply that the property will be accepted with appreciation.

It was designated that if the property were taken it would be used only for a park or children's playground.

The property is located in the northern section of the city and is considered a beauty spot overlooking the valley and a part of the Wayne county park.

More definite information concerning the matter will be given at a later date when the deed is turned over to the city.

Out-State Officials Observe Plymouth's Accounting System

Wednesday afternoon, officials from Abington township in Pennsylvania inspected the Plymouth city accounting system. Because of the city's ideal accounting set-up and its close supervision, it is being used as a model by the International Finance Officers' association at the Hotel Statler. Five out of ten members of the association observed the accounting system.

City Treasurer Charles Garlett and C. H. Elliott, city manager, attended sessions of the convention. Property tax advisors were among the discussants they attended.

City to Charge Fee for Use of Bandstand

City commissioners decided today that on Monday night that a fee of $3 shall be charged to organizations for use of the municipal bandstand in Kellogg park. This fee will not be imposed upon civic organizations who plan to use the stand for a meeting or event which will be of interest to the general public.

At the present time and in the past the stand had to be erected before programs and then taken down later by city employees. It is estimated that $3 will just cover the amount which it costs the city to have the work done.

Summer Sports Program Starts Monday

Anthony S. Matulis Directs Program of Supervised Recreation

The summer recreation program, sponsored jointly by the city of Plymouth and the board of education, which has become an annual affair since its beginning six years ago, will be started Monday morning. For the second year, the program will be under the direction of Anthony S. Matulis, athletic director and head coach at the high school. He will be assisted by Miss Jewell Starkweather, who is spending the summer at the home of her parents on Starkweather avenue. She is a student at Kalamazoo college, where she has been outstanding in athletics as well as extra-curricular activities. She will be director of girls' activities and supervisor over a group of high school Leaders' club members.

The high school girls primarily will be in charge of neighborhood playground activities. These from the ninth grade are Sally Haas, Jane Stuart, Marjella Martin, Pat Hudson, Louise Powell and Janice Downing. Tenth graders who will assist are Virginia Dunham, Marie Ann Miller, Phyllis Nichol, Carmel Sitt and Virginia Garrison. Grace Sours, Ruth Wellman and Beverly Smith are burners in the club assisting with the activities in addition to Patsy Arnold, a senior.

These girls will meet with Miss Starkweather at 9:30 Monday morning at the grade school gymnasium in order to receive instruction for the program which they are expected to carry out.

Asa Roe has been appointed supervisor of men hired by W. P. A. They are Charles Stitt who will have charge of activities at Starkweather playground; Lester Daly, in charge of Central playground activities; and LeForest Welch, teacher of handcraft and art.

A community band will be organized under the direction of Herbert B. Smith, graduate of Plymouth high school and at the present, instructor of music at the St. Louis (Michigan) schools. Next week Mr. Matulis expects that a horse show tournament will be held for all boys. Softball teams at both playgrounds will be organized and play will begin at once.

Parents may send their young children to the Mill street and Forest avenue playgrounds each morning where members of the Leaders' club will be in charge of organized play. Games will be played and the girls will tell stories to the youngsters.

Plans have also been made for boys and girls to go to Rouge pool once a week, as last year. Transportation will be furnished and the only charge will be that for admission. Notice as to the time and date of the first trip to the pool will be given on the school bulletin board. Preference will be given to those children who show the best attendance in their recreational activities. A transportation facilities are not sufficient to accommodate the demand.

When the weather becomes hot, street showers will be available at Starkweather playground two times each week at 2:30 o'clock. Notice concerning the starting dates will be posted.

Last summer the program was participated in by the largest number of boys and girls so far in its history. Mr. Matulis expects even a larger attendance this year because of the success of last year's activities.

"I have lived in Plymouth just a few weeks more than a year," Mr. Matulis said, "and I already realize how much the city and school are doing for the boys and girls in supervised recreation during the summer months. It is seldom that one finds other cities the size of Plymouth in the state which are doing as much for their residents' children.

"The plan has, I understand, and should cut down juvenile delinquency in this city. It is in the building of strong bodies and minds for the younger generation."

Mr. Matulis said that all parents should see that their children take part in the activities which will be offered free of charge during the entire summer.

City Will Buy Cement Mixer

The city commission Monday night authorized the purchase of a cement mixer from the Shuster company, which submitted the lowest bid.

Upon the recommendation of a committee which saw one of the machines in operation, it was advised that the particular mixer be purchased. On the committee were Commissioners Henry Honderopp, Warren Worth, George Robinson and L. E. Wilson in addition to City Engineer S. L. Besse and City Manager C. H. Elliott.

DAD GOES TO SCHOOL

Lapeer—A father and his daughter were both enrolled in Lapeer high school this year. The father, Elmer Graham, 34, was graduated in June, and the girl, Enid, 7, has completed the second grade. Graham's education was interrupted in 1925 by army service. He plans to go to college next year while his wife attends high school.

Goes South to Get the Big Ones

"Norris lake will be a fisherman's paradise within the next five years," declares Jack Weed, well known Plymouth fishing fan and one of the editors of the Automotive News of Detroit, who has been spending his vacation down in Tennessee. "Caught my limit both days I have been on the lake, and the fish are of good size now."

"You will note that I won a prize in a contest down here by catching the biggest wall-eye taken out of the lake this year," he wrote.

Odd what happens. This is the same Jack Weed who took a 9-pound bass out of a little lake over in Livingston county two years ago. It was the biggest bass caught hereabouts in years.

Strawberry Crop Worth $2,000,000

Michigan's strawberry crop, which last year was worth in excess of two million dollars, already is two weeks later in starting this year but appears in condition to total more berries of better quality in 1940.

Reports gathered by the federal-state crop statistician's office in Lansing indicate average is 14,700 this year as compared with 13,000 in 1939. Frequent rains have deposited sufficient moisture to carry the crop along even if additional rains are not so plentiful.

In the meantime, three men at Michigan State College are continuing to play a part in service to strawberry culture as a phase of Michigan agriculture.

R. E. Lorce, specialist in fruit culture, cites the principal problems in marketing. One of these, necessarily prominent, because strawberries must be picked by hand, is that of uniformity of size and ripeness. There is a need for speed in handling to get the berries to the market while they are still in good condition.

Insulated trucks with refrigeration are helping, but even more of these could take berries to more distant markets, says Lorce. When the Chicago wholesale markets get more berries than consumers desire, then more distant cities might prove more profitable.

Another man who has played a part in strawberry handling is H.A. Cardinell, recently returned from Hammond, Louisiana. He made studies and observations of the southern berries while on loan from the college and in a month observed the handling of 3,054 crates. H. D. Hortman, extension specialist in horticulture, has been helping Upper Peninsula truck growers plan berry production for the profitable midsummer tourist and hotel trade.

Derby Racer Is on Exhibition This Week

Twenty-five Boys Meet With J.C.C. Committee to Discuss Plans

For the past week there has been on exhibit in the display windows at Taylor and Blyton's department store, the Soap Box Derby racer which won the annual race at Detroit last year. The racer was secured so that boys interested in building one of the gravity powered cars for the Plymouth derby which is to be held in July, may see just how they are to be constructed. Next week it will be removed to the Chevrolet agency on South Main street.

The Plymouth race is being sponsored jointly by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the E. J. Allison Chevrolet agency. Although the site or date for the race has not been definitely determined, boys are urged to start constructing their racer as an award is being offered for the first one completed.

Tuesday evening at the Mayflower hotel, about 25 boys who intend to enter the race, met with members of the committee in charge of arrangements to discuss rules and construction of the cars. The committee is headed by Clayton Keck, chairman, John MacLachlan, George Todd, Charles Wolfe and Byron Becker of the Plymouth J. C. C. and Mr. Allison.

Ten or more boys who compete in the race here will be sent to the Detroit Derby where they will be entered as finalists. The Detroit winner competes in the International derby at Akron, Ohio, where the first award is a four-year college scholarship.

Any Plymouth merchant who is inclined to sponsor a racer may do so by contacting one of the committee members or by calling 87. Many have already informed the committee that they intend to have a car in the race.

Each boy who enters the race is given, free of charge, an official All American Soap Box Derby crash helmet. No more than $10.00 may be spent in the construction of any car entered in the race. Wheel and axle sets may be purchased at the Plymouth Hardware company, but the purchase is not required.

Boys between the ages of 11 and 15, inclusive, are eligible to enter the race, providing they have a Plymouth mailing address. It is planned that there will be two racing divisions. One will be for boys between the ages of 11 and 13, and the other for those 13 to 15.

Schraders Take Amazo, 3-2

The Schrader-Haggerty baseball team from Plymouth remains in first place in the White division of the Inter-county league, by defeating Amazo at Riverside park Sunday, in a close game, 3 to 2.

"George" Molnar, after a shaky start in the first three innings, settled down and blanked the Amazo hitters for the remainder of the game. He had 10 strike-outs to his credit.

The Plymouth team made its runs in the sixth inning on an error and singles by Harold Williams, S. Horvath and Joe Horvath. Amazo connected for four hits and Schrader pounded out the apple safely six times.

Batteries were: for Plymouth, Molnar and Wolfe; for Amazo, Sherwood and McCaulley.

Next Sunday's game is with the hard-hitting Trenton team at Riverside park. Adam Pansonian will be called to the mound for Plymouth.

What to Do
 BY PHYLLIS BELMONT

WHEN walking along the street with my husband he will say to me: "Here comes So and So," calling by name persons whom I have never met or seen. When we pass he says "Hello," but I do not speak. He says it is proper for me to speak also. Please advise me which is proper.

Answer—Certainly in such matters husband and wife should not stand on ceremony. Either should be glad to exchange greetings with an acquaintance of the other. You are wrong not to speak to his acquaintances when he does; and a wife can easily retard the practical success of her husband by creating the impression of being aloof and formal. Presumably the problem can arise only in connection with chance or business acquaintances, for, of course, your husband would not fail to stop and introduce you to any personal friend of his with whom you were not acquainted.

Intelligent people welcome mechanical inventions which add to the comfort and convenience of living.

Fishing Season Opens on Tuesday

Tuesday, June 20, is that day which is awaited so eagerly every year by considerably more than a half million Michigan fishermen—the day on which the black bass, bluegill and sunfish season opens.

And this season, unless all present indications are upset, Michigan fishermen will be joined by a record number of outstaters.

June 25 is marked by the lifting of restrictions on fishing on all inland waters of the state not now open to fishing and it will be legal to take all species of fish except grayling and sturgeon.

The fish division of the conservation department reports that an unusual number of inquiries concerning places to fish and kinds of fishing in Michigan has been received to date from outside the state. Residents of western states, particularly, are displaying increased interest in what Michigan has to offer the fisherman.

More than eight hundred thousand fishing licenses may be sold in Michigan this year. Resident fishermen, for the first time, are buying $1 licenses which entitle holders and wives to fish for all legal species, including trout. Of the $1 license fee, 40 cents is earmarked for acquisition of lands which provide public access to fishing waters, for research and lake and stream improvement. Non-resident anglers pay $2 for licenses good for one year, $1 for special 10-day licenses. In the case of non-resident fishermen, wives may obtain licenses upon payment of a 50-cent fee.

Michigan expects the biggest tourist business on record this season and the quality and type of fishing offered in the state is primarily responsible for attracting a large proportion of visitors.

As usual, the lowly bluegill will be the fish which lures most fishermen to Michigan's inland lakes.

About 40 years ago the quarrying of slate was a thriving industry at Arvon in Baraga county. The slate was sold for roofing purposes and was said to compare favorably with slate from eastern quarries.

Are we really grateful for the sings we have, and thus be fitted good already received? Then we to receive more.—Mary Baker shall avail ourselves of the bless—Eddy.

Youthful Plymouth Army Flyer Tells of His Experiences in Blind Flying

Richard Innis Is Home on Brief Furlough From South

Richard Innis, Plymouth high school graduate who is a member of the United States flying forces, associated with the Twenty-fourth Bombardment Squadron located at Maxwell Field, Alabama, is home visiting with his parents on a brief furlough from the army.

He has written for The Mail the following brief article telling of his experiences at blind flying. It follows:

Blind flying is one thing that no one can become accustomed to no matter how much he or she is in the air. It is one of the most peculiar things that is connected with flying. Many pilots will say that they do not mind flying blind, but if you fly with a pilot when he is going "blind" you will find that he is jittery and not as relaxed as he should be when flying. It is not as though you are frightened or afraid, it is just that you have a feeling of uneasiness and you do not know what is going to happen next. The easiest way to get somewhat the same feeling is to walk in a strange room that is absolutely dark.

It was a dreary Wednesday morning when I had my first experience with blind flying. There was a drizzling rain falling, leaving a ceiling of about 800 to 1000 feet. I could hear the mechanic tuning up the twin engines of the Douglas B-18A Bomber that I was going to Meridian, Mississippi. A few minutes later the captain, lieutenant, engineer, radio operator and myself boarded the plane. As we were taxiing out on the field to get into position to take off I noticed that the ceiling was getting lower all the time. But I had no time to worry as we were given the "all clear" signal from the control tower and with both engines wide open we took off.

As we circled the field, gaining altitude, we lost sight of the ground completely. At 1100 feet we set a course due west and started climbing at the rate of about 100 feet a minute. Very soon the fog was so thick that we could hardly see our wing tips. Climbing steadily for about 20 minutes without seeing anything but a blinding white mist gave me an eerie feeling of uneasiness. I was beginning to think that we were going to have to fly blind all of the way when suddenly, as though you would take a blindfold from your eyes, we were above the fog and the sun was shining vividly on the clouds below and around us. Everyone in the ship expelled a long sigh of relief and seemed to feel better.

There is a certain strain that one is under that cannot be explained. It is just there and there is nothing that you can do about it. We continued to fly west and occasionally we would fly through clouds and experience that same eerie feeling as though we were being swallowed by some huge monstrosity in the sky and then we would come out of the cloud into the brightness of day.

Returning that evening the same thing occurred but as it was dark whenever we would pass through a cloud or mist bank our red and green running lights on the wing tips gave a dull luminous glow to the cloud which reminded me of the northern lights on clear winter night. I believe that this is one of the many things that makes flying what it is today. Seeing such a spectacle that is so strange and yet so beautiful is what makes a person want to fly. If you want a real thrill, a feeling of mysterious uneasiness, go up in an airplane on a real cloudy day or at night and fly through the clouds. It will be and remain the greatest experience of your life.

Dog License Fee Raises July 1

Dog owners in the city have until July 1, a few days more than one week, during which time they can get dog licenses for $1. After that date the price is raised to $1.50.

Last year there was a total of 454 licensed dogs in the city. So far this spring, only 75 licenses have been issued.

"Dogs must have a license even though there is state-wide quarantine in effect at the present time," Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith said, Wednesday.

The fee for both vaccinated and non-vaccinated dogs is the same. If dogs have been given the treatment, it is requested that certificates be presented at the time application is made for the license.

Since the beginning of iron mining in Michigan more than one-half billion tons of ore have been shipped from ports on the upper lakes. The value of these shipments amounts to approximately one and one-quarter billion dollars.

Bell Covert Reunion Held Last Saturday

Fifty or more former pupils of Mrs. Belle Covert Adams of De-Boit, gathered Saturday in Cass Benton park for their annual picnic and reunion. Following the greeting of old friends a bountiful dinner was enjoyed with a business meeting and program afterward. The president, Frank Holt, was in charge of the program which consisted of songs by the group, an impromptu talk by Mrs. Lida Murphy, of Northville and Aim Wilson, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, and the ever interesting talk by Mrs. Adams, which is always so full of inspiration to her listeners. Group singing completed the afternoon's enjoyment.

New Consumers Plant Opens This Week

Industrial Michigan's electric power resources receive substantial reinforcement this week with completion of Consumers Power company's new John C. Weadock plant on Saginaw Bay at the mouth of the Saginaw river a few miles north of Bay City.

The plant was dedicated Thursday afternoon, June 20, by Wendell L. Wilkie, chairman of the board of Consumers Power company and president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, in open air public ceremonies. John C. Weadock, distinguished former Bay City lawyer for whom the plant is named, also participated. Weadock is a senior member of the New York City law firm of Weadock and Whiting, counsel for the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

While the plant begins operations with one 35,000-kilowatt turbo-generator, the furnace and boiler for a second unit of the same size have been built in, and installation of the unit itself is scheduled to begin within a few months. With the second unit in operation, the plant's capacity will equal the present capacity of the Bryce E. Morrow plant near Kalamazoo, which ranks second among the 50 generating plants of the Consumers system. First place is held by the Saginaw River plant between Bay City and Saginaw.

MICHIGAN, MY MICHIGAN

Herbert Larson—and some day Michigan will properly reward him for what he has done for the state.

But with men living in Crystal Falls and in Iron county who possess such ideals as Engineer Larson, is it any wonder that Iron county has developed scores of camps and picnic areas for the use of visitors? One can catch bass in the rivers and find conveniently by on the river banks fireplaces where they can cook their fish, and tables nearby where the day's catch can be served right out in the open.

Howard Atkins is the president of the Crystal Falls Chamber of Commerce and "Bob" Clark is its secretary. They are hustlers. When Tom Conlin and a number of other northern editors decided to show some southern editors some of the tourist attractions around Crystal Falls, and to prove that there is some good brook trout fishing left in Michigan, they didn't fool. Way back in the woods, some 14 miles north of Amasa, they took us to a lumbering camp near a trout stream that flows down through the timber lands of the Potten Timber company. We fished the East Fence river—and their claim that it is one of the best trout streams in Michigan is surely based upon facts. It is a real trout stream filled with brook trout.

If one expects to see the beauties of the Upper Peninsula in Iron county, put the breaks on and stop there for a few days. It will be well worthwhile.

Presbyterians Plan Annual Picnic

Presbyterians, old and young, are planning their annual outing in Riverside park for Wednesday, June 26. Always a day of celebration, Wednesday's event promises to surpass other years, according to plans now being made. Beginning about 3:00 o'clock, games for the tiny folk will be held, with appropriate prizes. Anthony Matulis will be in charge of the sports and contests for adults, preceding and following the picnic supper. A softball game will be played.

"Sandwiches for yourself and a dish to pass" is the rule for the supper, to be served on long tables. Coffee will be made at the park and supper will begin promptly at 6:00 o'clock. In the event of rain, according to the Reverend Walter Nichol, the picnicers will eat at the Presbyterian church.

City Receives Historical Document Dating Back to 1851

Charles Rathburn Presents Old Tax Roll for Safe-Keeping

The city of Plymouth recently received a tax document dating back to 1851. It is an assessment roll for Plymouth and Northville townships and was presented to city officials for safe keeping by Charles Rathburn, supervisor of Plymouth township.

City Manager C. H. Elliott said that the historical document will be placed in the city vaults in a few days. Before that time, interested residents may call at his office to examine it.

The old roll is interesting from many standpoints, the city manager said. It is indicative of the historical trend of the times. The property descriptions as given would be all to inadequate for our present system and would be declared void if used today, he said.

Another point of interest was that the tax total, as given, does not agree with the presumed itemized account. Mr. Elliott said that a collection fee must have been included, but not itemized. "The total seems to be only a few cents off, he said, which leads me to make the fee presumption." Another change from the present-day trend was that in 1851 nearly everyone was required to pay a personal property tax. That is not the case today.

It was interesting to note the older Plymouth families which were listed on the roll. There were the Whipples, Pennimans, Starkweathers, Holbrooks, Cadys, Bennetts, Bakers, Adams, Patersons, Roots and Rotours in addition to the Sly, Shattuck, Safford, Taft, Wilcox and Yerkes families. The J. A. Austin estate was valued at $10,000 and was the largest listed.

Many of these men and their descendants have given property to the city, while in other cases, the property listed on the 1851 roll is still in the family name.

City officials are interested in piecing together a more complete history of Plymouth's early days. It will be appreciated if any person who has information about the community in the middle eighteenth century or earlier will give it to Mr. Elliott.

Detroit Gets Ace Sunday

A Detroit, Jack Burroughs, of 11800 Maiden, is the first golfer at Plymouth Country club to be recorded in their hall of fame this year. He ace the 155-yard thirteenth, par 3, hole with a four-iron shot, Sunday.

At the time he was playing with his father, Clyde Burroughs, of 2562 Bewick, and Henry Retz, both of Detroit.

Country Club Team Holds Second Place in M. G. A. League

By scoring in the sixties and low seventies the Plymouth country club team maintained its second place standing in the Michigan Golf association match play Sunday by defeating Middle Belt 8 to 4, on the Country club 18-hole course.

Jack Fitzpatrick paced his team with a dazzling 69—two under par—to win three points from his opponent, M. Evans, who carded a 72. "Herb" Burley and Jack Locke, both with 73's, took three and one-half points from their opponents, Z. Zawadzki and T. Dorcy, who had 74's for the round. McGrew, of the Plymouth foursome, halved his match with W. Losiewicz.

Summer Theatre Opens Tonight

Opening with a production of "Wuthering Heights," tonight (Friday), the summer theatre season of eleven plays in eleven successive weeks will get under way at the Art Barn Academy of the Arts. The plays will be presented on the stilt stage at the Art Barn with the curtain rising at 8:15 o'clock.

This is the first time that any such program of entertainment has been attempted in Plymouth. The set-up is much the same as that which is at the present time so successful on the east and west coasts.

A summer theatre class has been organized and the plays are cast entirely from members of the group.

"Wuthering Heights" the initial production, is a highly dramatic play which recently was adapted for the screen with Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier taking the leading roles.

Eva Scarpulla will take the part of the tragic heroine, Catherine Earnshaw, and will be supported by Netter Worthington as Heathcliff; Dorothy Brickwedde as Ellen Dean; Chandler Parker as Hindley Earnshaw; J. C. Parker as Joseph; Arvo Wirta as Edgar Linton; and Effie Hopkins as Isabel Linton.

Miss Bettyann Horton, of Marygrove college, Detroit, is directing the production. Musical accompaniment has been arranged by George Eberle, of the Art Barn School of Music.

Next week the comedy, "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works" will be presented.

Residents Urged to Cut Weeds

City Manager C. H. Elliott requests all owners of vacant property in the city to cut weeds growing on their property.

During the past week city employees have been cutting weeds along the sides of various streets. Last year, Plymouth residents were very cooperative in this matter, Mr. Elliott said, and it is hoped that they will cooperate in the same way this year.

George E. Gullen to Be Candidate

ATTY. GEORGE E. GULLEN

Rev. George E. Gullen Jr., well known Detroit attorney, has advised that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from this district. Mr. Gullen was in Plymouth recently and gave an address before members of the Township club, which was received most enthusiastically by its members.

In part he said: "Texas prevail. They constitute the only motor force in the affairs of men."

"Emerson said, 'Let all the world beware when God lets loose among men a man with a dominant idea.'"

"Hitler is a flaming idea. There is no possibility of controlling this strange present except with a more powerful, more active, more opportune idea."

"That idea is the AMERICAN IDEA."

"As in Europe so in America, that idea must be found embodied in a man before it can be effective for organization, for combat, for salvation. Lincoln, possibly, as no one else embodies for us THE AMERICAN IDEA. This martyr, American, not of Illinois, nor Kentucky, nor North, nor South, nor East, nor West, but of AMERICA still is the most potent mind among us."

"He stood in the midst of a flaming world. His mind was calm because it was formed about this One Great Idea—AMERICA."

"For me, I find for this hour no better exercise than to discover anew from that great American, the AMERICAN IDEA."

"It is to us—must be—as to him—a tangible idea, capable of expression. Lincoln said, 'I have often inquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept the Confederacy so long together. It was not the mere separation of the Colonies from their motherland, but that sentiment in the Declaration of Independence which gave liberty not alone to the people of this country but hope to all the world for all future time. It was that which gave promise that in due time the weight would be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and that all should have an equal chance.'"

"It must be and is a positive force—a builder of happy people. It is not NO, NO, NO, but YES, YES, YES. Lincoln did not say, 'no slavery, no democratic party, no war.' He said, 'A union, a nation, a happy people.'"

"We need a program of increased production, and of increased distribution. We need more and better machines, food, homes, clothing, bigger dividends and better wages, and there is not a valid reason under heaven why we should not have them. A happy people, where even hard justice is done between man and man, is an invincible people and to see that justice is done is the first and most important step in preparedness."

"We do not believe in war—but we will prepare until we are able to defend our land, our democracy against all who would be imbecile enough to attack us and we will make of our democracy one worth living for."

Church Plans Sunday Musicals

The first of a series of Sunday evening musicals, which is being sponsored by the Ann Arbor First Methodist church on their new three manual Kimball organ, will be given at 8:00 o'clock Sunday, June 23, in the new church building by Mary Eleanor Porter, organist, assisted by Hardin Vanderson, soloist.

The series will continue through August 11 with guest organists from various churches in Ann Arbor participating. Frieda Op't Holt, of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church will give the second recital on June 26, on July 24, Walter Kimble from First Baptist church will play; Mary Stubbins of the Congregational church will be guest organist on July 28, and the series will close August 11 with a Choral Evensong, presented by the choir of the First Methodist church. On each of these programs a soloist will assist.

The public is heartily invited to attend these musicals in Ann Arbor. The First Methodist church is located on State street, between Washington and Huron streets in Ann Arbor.

The facilities for getting into trouble have been vastly improved, along with everything else.

Commission Grants Two Requests Monday

Mrs. Orson Polley, representing a woman's organization of the Catholic church, appeared at the city commission meeting Monday night to request the use of Kellogg park, Saturday evening, June 29, for an ice cream social. Commissioners granted the request.

Also at the meeting Mrs. Nettie Dibble was given a permit to use a celotex ceiling in the store building she owns which at the present time is being remodelled. Previously it was required that a metal covering be used, but upon sanction of the state fire marshal the fire resisting fiber ceiling will be installed.

Ask Factory Jobs for WPA Workers

As the result of a resolution passed by the city commission Monday night, Plymouth factory officials will be requested to hire local laborers insofar as is possible during the employment boom which is expected during the next few months.

The federal government's armament program is expected to greatly speed up production in the factories and create a need for more men and women workers. At the present time there are a few welfare cases in the city and vicinity and also about 55 who are employed on WPA.

It is stated that the removal of these individuals from the welfare rolls will greatly decrease the burden on city, township and county taxpayers.

The resolution follows: Whereas, it appears that the Federal Government's armament program will greatly benefit the city of Plymouth by increasing employment, and Whereas, Plymouth at the present time has a number of welfare families as well as a number of people employed on WPA projects, and Whereas, the removal of these people from the welfare rolls and WPA to productive employment would greatly decrease the burden on the taxpayers of the city and county, therefore, be it

Resolved, that Her Honor, the Mayor, be and is hereby requested to contact the heads of the manufacturing concerns in Plymouth and request them, after they have recalled their old employees, to cooperate with the city of Plymouth by employing, so far as possible, people on relief and WPA projects, thus benefiting all concerned, and further Resolved, that the manufacturers be requested to require all people employed to show their voting registration and unemployment registration cards as proof of citizenship.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. G. H. Enns, Th.D., pastor. This Sunday morning our audience will be greeted by a completely changed interior arrangement which will add much to the dignity of our worship services. We will be pleased with your presence. Morning worship at 10:00 a. m. "The Sanctuary a Power House" will be the pastor's theme. Sunday school at 11:15 a. m.; evening service at 7:30. The Sunday evening services for the following four Sundays will be conducted by the children of the Vacation Bible school which begins this coming Monday morning at 9:00 a. m. We expect a kind and whole-hearted cooperation on the part of the parents in order that our work with the children might have the desired result. From kindergarten to junior high inclusive, children of the community are welcome regardless of church affiliation. Time from 9:00 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. No school sessions in the afternoon. Two projects will be carried out besides the regular Bible training—the building of the Tabernacle by the older children and of Noah's Ark by the younger ones. Miss Jusline Enns will direct the art projects and music and the pastor will teach the Bible subjects. The meeting of the Loyal Daughters was postponed to Tuesday, June 25, in the church; Wednesday prayer meeting, Thursday, park services, and Friday the men of the church will have a class outing; details to be announced at the Sunday class meeting. Special announcement to the children: This Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock all the children are invited to an ice cream party on the lawn of the parsonage. If the weather should be unfavorable we will go to the church. Teachers' meeting postponed. The Women's Missionary society meets on Thursday at 1:00 o'clock for election of officers. After the business meeting they go to Northville as guests of Missionary society of the Baptist church there.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.—185 Liberty street. V. C. Magee, minister. Bible study, 10:30; communion services, 11:30; song services and preaching, 7:30. Bible study Wednesday evening at 7:30. Everyone is cordially invited to all services.

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN church. Edgar Hoenecke, pastor. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.; English service, 10:30 a. m. At an unusually well-attended voters' meeting on Tuesday, June 11, the congregation inaugurated a church planning commission, consisting of the following 15 members: Carl Rohde, Roy Fisher, Jacob Brinks, Charles Vickstrom, William Gayde, William Kreeger, Roy Loughlin, John Sille Sr., George Peterson, William Ash, William Bartel Jr., Edward Husbach, Claude Gebhardt, Max Trucks and Gustave Escobar. The duties of this commission will be to work in collaboration with the church council especially on problems pertaining to expansion of the church. The fact of the large attendance on Sunday mornings, often necessitating the placing of folding chairs together with the steady growth in both the communicant, as well as the voting membership of the congregation, has made evident the need of a larger building in the not too distant future. A fund of $1800.00 already has been set aside for a new organ, while a new fund has been started for a larger church building. Since the congregation does not intend to go deeply into debt for this expansion, the realization of the larger buildings will greatly depend on the interest shown in the project by financial contributions to the fund. Albert W. Schultz and family, Wayne road, were received into the congregation in last Sunday's service. Thirty-two new communicants have been admitted to membership in the congregation since January 1, 1940. The Vacation Bible school will be held on Wednesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning from 9:30-11:30, beginning July 9 and ending July 26. This school is free and open to all children. Bring along only a Bible, a pencil and a tablet. Bible school children will receive tickets for the annual picnic on Wednesday, July 31. The Michigan District convention will be held at Scio, near Ann Arbor, from June 24 to 28. Rev. Hoenecke has been invited to deliver the sermon on the occasion of the commemoration of the nineteenth anniversary of the Synod, Thursday evening, June 27, at 7:30. Our entire congregation has been invited to attend this service, founded September 17, 1833, the oldest Lutheran church in Michigan.

The golden text (Amos 4:13) is: "Lo, he that formeth the mountains and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth. The Lord. The God of hosts, is His name." Among the Bible citations in this passage (Psalm 19): "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 295): "God creates and governs the universe; including man. Athletes to Get Injury Insurance

Boys who participate in high school sports next year will be fully covered by accident insurance, stated Athletic Director Anthony S. Matulis, Tuesday, after he had received notice of acceptance from the Michigan High School Athletic association. It is offered as an additional safety measure in the administration of high school athletics.

Those who will be eligible to benefit from the insurance must pay a $1.50 premium which covers participation in all sports for the school year. The school paid the $10 membership fee. The policy will go into effect September 1, 1940 and will continue throughout the entire school calendar.

The purpose of the Athletic Accident Benefit Plan is to assist members of Michigan high schools engaging in interscholastic athletics to meet the costs of injuries incurred by members of their teams during games or regular practice sessions in sports approved by the Michigan High School Athletic association. Benefits vary from $200 for the loss of sight in one eye to $3 for laceration.

D. A. R. Members Display Heirlooms

Family heirlooms were exhibited at the annual picnic of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter of the D.A.R. held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Kitchen, in Northville, Monday, June 17.

Mrs. Charles Root gave a short resume concerning the history of the flag and Mrs. Sidney Strong read some letters written by Sarah Ann Cochran to friends back in Vermont.

One of the most interesting and prized possessions displayed was a small desk brought by Mrs. Earl Mastick which has been in the Mastick family for 205 years, passed on from father in son for seven generations. It, of course, was put together with wooden pegs.

Mrs. Merle Bennett brought two glass paper weights that had belonged to her grandmother. And Mrs. Henry Baker brought an old fashioned silver powder container.

A brightly polished silver fish server which belonged to Dr. Thams' grandfather, who lived in Oslo, Norway, was of great interest. A pair of gloves, knitted by a grateful woman patient of Dr. Thams' father, were exhibited. They were over 60 years old and are still in the service of snow balling and coasting by the present generation of Thams boys.

Mrs. Kitchen's heirloom was a very old candlestick and a betty lamp which have been in her family for many years. An old day-book kept by Mrs. Yerkes' grandfather in the 1700's was most interesting. She read several excerpts from it which seemed quite amusing in the light of present day events. Her great, great, great grandfather was given this book by a Mr. Yerkes which seems in itself quite a coincidence.

An old blanket, colors unfaded after a hundred or more years of service, was displayed by Mrs. Osmond. The wool for the blanket was all prepared for spinning and weaving by her great, great, great grandmother.

After a most delightful time under the lovely canopy of trees in Mrs. Kitchen's yard, the Daughters adjourned for the summer.

Stray cats are one of the greatest enemies of bird life, particularly in resort communities where their abandonment is a problem.

Southern Michigan is just on the northern edge of the quail's natural range, making continuous quail abundance here unlikely ever.

Tear Gas Foils Would-Be Thieves

Sometime between 3:30 and 7:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, thieves broke into the Rex Lumber company's office and attempted to loot the safe. They gained entrance by breaking a window and when the combination to the safe was knocked off, a charge of tear gas was automatically sent out into the room, causing the would-be thieves to leave the building. It was reported that nothing was stolen.

Joyce Shoemaker and Oscar M. Matts Jr. Wed at Salem

The Congregational parsonage at Salem, Michigan, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday evening, June 15 at 9:30, when Rev. Lucia M. Stroh read the impressive ring ceremony uniting in marriage Joyce Ann Shoemaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shoemaker of Plymouth and Oscar M. Matts, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar M. Matts Sr. of Plymouth.
The bride looked very charming in a beautiful soft pink silk marquisette frock with white accessories and a large picture hat. She carried a gorgeous shower bouquet of pink roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Althea M. Thompson of Plymouth, who wore a lovely soft black silk jersey dress, white accessories and a corsage of roses and baby breath.
The bride's brother, Harry J. Shoemaker, served as best man. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a short motor trip for parts unknown.
On Monday evening at 8 o'clock a large reception will be held in their honor at the Rebecca-Odd Fellows hall. More than 100 guests are invited.
Mr. and Mrs. Matts Jr. will make their home in Plymouth, as the bridegroom is one of the younger coming business men of this city.
Their many friends in Plymouth and vicinity extend heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to them for their future happiness.

XYZ Pilots in Texas Meet

(By Skysailor)
After a long and rather slow trip the XYZ pilots reached Wichita Falls, Texas, with the Wolf sailplane in good shape. They were one day late but luckily missed very little flying due to the fact that the weather was not very suitable Sunday, June 2.

Monday, all of the sailplanes at the meet got away on cross-country flights. Alcide Santilli made 34 miles in the XYZ Wolf, reaching 3,300 feet on the way. Tuesday was a poor day and nobody was able to make a soaring flight. It was on Tuesday that Randy Chapman and Guy Williams arrived from Detroit with the LIT sailplane. Also William Putnam and Herb Abrams arrived late Tuesday after having experienced slight motor trouble at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Wednesday was a rather poor day. Thursday, Randy made 175 miles in the LIT sailplane and landed 35 miles northwest of Enid, Oklahoma, after getting started late in the day (after all most every other sailplane had departed). Randy reached an altitude of 6,800 feet. There is practically no limit to the distance Randy might have made had he been lucky enough to get an early start. This is the best distance of the meet so far.

Also on Thursday, L. D. Montgomery was able to climb in strong thermal lift to 5,800 feet and reached Post Field at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, a distance of about 45 miles. This distance meant a little more to Montgomery than it would to other pilots because it was the fulfillment of the third and last requirement for a silver "C" soaring badge. William Putnam made 27 miles reaching 4,000 feet, Thursday.

Friday was a rather poor day with weak thermals but William Putnam spalled the Midwest sailplane in the same thermal with Harland Ross of California flying the Bowles Super Albatross.

Both sailplanes made about six spirals at about 600 feet without losing altitude and then Putnam began to pull up while Ross was still fighting for lift at 600 feet. Putnam finally reached 4,000 feet, having caught up with two buzzards on the way. Ross in the same interval reached 1,500 feet but got up to 7,000 feet later on. Both Putnam and Ross made distance with Putnam reporting 41 miles to near Chattanooga, Oklahoma and Ross approximately the same distance toward Dallas, Texas.

Lyle Maxey reached 2,800 feet in the XYZ Wolf Friday but found only the one thermal and returned to the field at Wichita Falls with 25 minutes duration.

Saturday Lyle Maxey made the longest flight of the day in the XYZ Wolf by making 77 miles to Mountain View, Oklahoma, north of the Wichita Mountains. Maxey sailed away from Wichita Falls under the only Cumulus Cloud which came by that day. He reached better than 7,000 feet very quickly in the first thermal, enjoying climb at the rate of five and a half meters per second for 1,500 feet of the climb and three and a half meters per second for the remainder of the 7,000 feet. (One meter per second represents 200 feet per minute or two and one-third miles per hour).

Randy Chapman made about 25 miles, going some 10 miles beyond Burk Burnett, Texas. No one was as lucky as Maxey.

Sunday, operations were moved from the Municipal airport to Staley field. Overcast skies and occasional rain prevented the formation of any thermals and no soaring was accomplished.

Monday began stormy and with heavily overcast skies. The sun did not come out until about 3:00 and again no soaring was accomplished. Ted Bellak flew the Minima for the first time since a negligent airport employee ran a car into the left wing

Wednesday night and broke the very important leading edge plywood for about three and a half feet and came very near to the spar. The repair job on the Minimo, accomplished by Ted Bellak and his crew and Alcide Santilli was a very good looking job and is believed to be positively equal to original strength.

With her street length print frock of peppermint green the bride wore a white turban and Mrs. Sopp's gown was a delicate pink. Pink and white bouquets and pink candles formed the improvised altar.

Will Have Safety Course for Jailed Drivers

A. Blake Gillies Submits Plan to Detroit Police

Inmates of the Detroit House of Correction, who have been jailed on traffic counts, will be subjected to a complete course in traffic safety and driving before being discharged, declared A. Blake Gillies, superintendent of the institution and originator of the plan which has just been submitted to the Detroit police department.

Serious traffic violations caused 560 men and women to be committed to the institution last year, stated Mr. Gillies. "It is our belief that a great proportion of these convicted drivers may become good drivers if properly instructed," he said.

The course will be started at the institution immediately and will be under the direction of the Detroit Public Safety Bureau, with Sergeant Clyde Rims of the police department in charge of instruction. Two hours of instruction each week will be given by House of Correction staff members and the bureau will be responsible for one hour.

The plan has the endorsement of executives of Detroit's police department. Commissioner Frank D. Eaman, Fred W. Juergens, head of the traffic department, Superintendent Louis C. Berg and the judges of the traffic division of Recorder's Court.

The course will not only be compulsory for traffic violators but also for those committed on charges of drunkenness, and not involved in accidents. All other inmates will be compelled to attend two hours of instruction before being discharged, Mr. Gillies said.

Equipment duplicating that used in the traffic school at Detroit police headquarters, supplemented by a library, will be moved into the huge assembly hall at the institution which is being converted into a classroom.

Traffic court judges praise Mr. Gillies' plan as a new departure in correctional work. Reports will be given the judges at frequent intervals from their counts, the House superintendent said. They will be well equipped to determine the fitness of those to be discharged when it becomes time to decide whether drivers' licenses are to be returned.

15 on Church Planning Group

In order to make arrangements for church expansion, a large number of the St. Peter's Evangelical church members attended a voters' meeting, Tuesday, June 11, for the purpose of naming 15 individuals to the church planning commission.

The duties of this commission will be to work in collaboration with the church council, especially on problems pertaining to expansion of the church. Rev. Edgar Hoebecke says that the large attendance every Sunday morning necessitates the placing of folding chairs and with the growing congregation, it has been found that larger space will be needed in the near future.

A fund of $1800 already has been set aside for a new church organ, while the new fund has been started for church expansion.

Ruth Ash Gives Valedictory

Ruth Ash, who completed her high school curriculum with no mark lower than an "A" was the undisputed valedictorian of Plymouth's class of 1940. Following is the valedictory address, "Be American; Think American," which she delivered Thursday evening at commencement:

Never before has America become so American conscious, but never has America been threatened by such devastating forces as Communism, Nazism and Fascism. These are not new ideas to America. They have been at work here for many years, but it is only since they have become so powerful in certain European countries and started spreading over the world that America has been awakened from her lethargy to action. Little thought was given to being and thinking American until the examples of what has happened in less fortunate countries in Europe aroused the feeling. It was just taken for granted.

Now Americans are a little afraid of what might happen here and are wondering how such a catastrophe can be averted. The answer seems to lie in being American and thinking American. It shouldn't be hard to be American, but sometimes one becomes impatient with the things as they are here, such as the corruption in many government offices, and the laxness in many of the law enforcing bodies. But one needs only to look at the situation across the waters to discover how fortunate one is to be an American and that it is quite a pleasant place in which to live.

Here in America one can express just what one believes without the fear of being thrown into a concentration camp or entirely eliminated in the next purge. One doesn't have to be suspicious that one's friends are spying and reporting everything to the government. Freedom of speech and the press is one of our most valuable possessions. Papers can print the events as they happen without being censored. The government does not step in and say what can and cannot be printed. One can talk about the government in the papers, how the government is being run, what the officials are doing, to his heart's content, and the papers can print all they care to about these things. It is only when an untruth is printed to the defame of one's character that anything can be done.

Here in America there is freedom of religion. The government is tolerant of them all and no one will be persecuted because he believes in one of them. The government and the church are entirely separate and each respects the other.

Here in America every registered citizen of voting age can vote. Elections are carried on at regular intervals. The people elect whom they want to make the laws for them, whom they want to enforce them, and thus indirectly put through the laws they want. There are also the checks of initiative, referendum, and recall, by which means a law can be started, or rejected, or an officer removed. There is no dictator here who runs everything without the consent of the people. Every person has the right of trial by jury and the defense of a lawyer. One doesn't have to be afraid of being thrown into prison without first having a hearing.

Here in America there is a chance for an education. Some sections do not have as easy a time of it, but there are schools to which everyone can go, rich and poor alike. Public libraries are further sources of information. Radios are universal from which more information can be gained. The same is also true for radios in regard to news as it is with the newspapers. They are not censored by the government as to the kind of news they may give. Through the radio one can obtain news from across the country and across the waters, too.

These are just a few of the great privileges of being an American. The least one can do to show his appreciation is to think like an American. There are several characteristics of true American thinking all of which are equally important. One of these is clear thinking. People are needed who can choose from the maze of facts confronting them, those items which are pertinent problems of today. Such clearness can be obtained only by piecing together those facts which build a continuous train of thought and discarding those of no or less consequence.

Another characteristic is honest thinking. This means looking at the true facts, getting accurate information from good authorities, and refraining from repeating rumors and gossip and true facts.

A third characteristic is fearless thinking. A fearless thinker is one who looks at the facts and considers both sides. No satisfactory result can be reached without seeing both sides. One point of view may be the right one, but there's always the other side, and it might change the situation. The fearless will go right ahead and cheerfully pursue the facts of a problem until it is conquered.

So often mere opinion is substituted for clear, honest, and fearless thought. This indicates that the mind is in a state of invalidism, for it truly must be an invalid if it can't even be used for thinking.

America is continually being made the place where the American Dream can be more fully realized. The American Dream is a course to make America a country where the prizes and good life go to those who win them and not just be given to those who happen to be born rich or titled; and to make America a place where everyone may attain the highest level of which he is capable. If only more Americans would think American, there wouldn't be nearly as much chance for the isms to get started, and upset the American Dream. Just as soon as anything goes wrong, the thought of many of us is to get out of here, to get out of this country, to get out of this land—only because they won't think! It is with this minority that so much trouble results.

The government realizes how much damage they can cause and goes to a great expense in time and money to root them out. Committees are put to work to uncover these un-American activities, as they are called. Isn't it better and more practical and less expensive to think American in the first place and avoid all this annoyance?

Just because it is the government which starts the fight against this very real foe, don't think it ends there. It is the duty of every voter and citizen to do his part. It is the duty of every member of this class as well to prove the value of America by being and thinking American. The pledge each senior makes as he takes his initial step out into the world should be to faithfully carry out this great privilege of being an American.

Tonight is the last time we will all be together. We have just completed four years of training for the American way of living. However, it has not all been work. We have mixed in many pleasures. We have shared joys and sorrows, and I'm sure in looking back it can only be said that our lives were out-balance by far our sorrows. I am as sorry to leave as the rest of you, but time stands still for no man and we cannot turn it back or retard it no matter how much we may wish to. We must each take our place and venture on with each and everyone of you success in the field of work you have chosen. I know we are all determined to accept the challenge of true Americanism, and live as closely to its ideals as possible.

Edgar A. Guest in his poem "Old Crankmire Expresses Himself" brings out just what every true American should feel and silently repeat in his heart.

It goes like this: Old Crankmire had heard us discussing the things which we fancy are wrong. When he thumped on the table and shouted: "We live in a country of song!"

We dwell in a country of laughter, the country of pastime and mirth.

And something you all should remember, the happiest country on earth!

"It may be some things could be bettered as you fellows loudly propose. But here we are friends with our neighbors and never we treat them as foes."

And our dearest and proudest possession is that which all tyrants refuse: The right to express our opinions and vote at the polls as we choose.

Richard Strong Is Salutatorian

Plymouth high school's salutatorian this year is Richard Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, of Auburn avenue. Richard gave the following salutatory address, "As We Enter the World," Thursday evening at the annual commencement program:

Parents and friends: It is not only my duty but an honor and a pleasure to welcome you here tonight. I imagine you are all thinking, "My! What a handsome bunch of seniors. I think this is the best looking class I have ever seen." We thank you very much for this compliment and I assure you we all agree with you. However, while we welcome you with sincere pleasure, we are going to give you a challenge which comes just as sincerely from the whole senior class.

I am sure you have all heard the saying "On the shoulders of the youth of today rest the burdens of tomorrow." This is the saying on which our challenge is based. If you can consider this class as being a representative of the youth of the United States, you can say then that we are the future businessmen, manufacturers, butchers, bakers and candlestick makers, and above all the future rulers of the United States. Our country, with the cities and mountains and forests and rivers which are all so familiar to us, is our heritage. However, we realize that with all this goes the responsibility of governing and protecting our country. We are so proud of this heritage that we are willing to accept this responsibility and we will discharge it as well as we can.

Our preparation for this responsibility has been in your hands for the last eighteen or twenty years. It has been going on at home, at school, at church, and in whatever contacts we may have made in the world at large. Whatever becomes of us in the future will be due to what you have done for us. Our preparation is now nearly completed. Today we are ready and willing to take our places with you.

However, when we look out into the world at the leaders in business and politics, we are rather confused by the many examples they set. So many of the politicians and labor leaders, and even the social leaders of our own communities seem to be working at cross purposes that we have a little trouble in picking the right path to follow in world affairs. There might be a question, then, as to how we are going to choose the right path to follow—what way we will take in maintaining the ideals and principles under which the United States is governed. The most likely and most natural way would be to imitate our elders—to imitate you—since you have been the guides and examples upon whom we have depended in the past. You are the ones to whom we have turned for help and instruction in our problems. Our challenge to you, then, makes it your responsibility to set an example that will enable us to pick the right course through life. As we join with you as members of the United States, your standards of living, your methods of getting along in the world, and your codes of ethics will be the examples for us to follow in solving our problems. We now possess the means, the tools, to make our way, but in the times of stress when we wonder how to use these tools we will still need your example to follow. We hope this challenge will impress itself upon you since our whole future depends on it. It will mean much to us for the same reason when we begin to show the way to our successors who will soon join our ranks. There are two responsibilities of our heritage and yours in setting the right example so that we may discharge them faithfully. This is our challenge to you.

There's only one way to deal with some people, and that's to leave them alone even if you do lose a few dollars' worth of their business.

To the GRADUATING CLASS of "40" Plymouth High School

We extend to each and every one — our sincere congratulations on your graduation.

Every graduate has longings Never mentioned to a soul. Some cherished little secret dreams. Or a plan to reach some goal. So this is the graduation wish We sincerely make for you: That those plans and hopes and secret dreams May every one come true.

KILL THE SCHEME!

A copy of the Michigan Tradesman has been received by The Plymouth Mail which contains a strong editorial denouncement of the proposal to set up a system of national branch banking within this state. The Tradesman points out many of the evils of the system and denounces it as something Michigan does not want. It goes so far as to urge that Governor Dickinson call a special session of the legislature to pass legislation if necessary to prevent the operation of a system of branch banks in Michigan.

The Plymouth Mail is one hundred percent in accord with the Tradesman. Branch banking is the last thing Michigan wants.

The Tradesman should have pointed out the calamity that has come to the smaller cities and communities of California as the result of the system of branch banking in that state. The state's entire banking system is now dominated by one or two powerful financial interests. If a business man in El Centro or Redlands, California, desires to conduct even some ordinary routine banking business, except the depositing of money, local bank employees have nothing to say about it. All details must be sent to Los Angeles or San Francisco for approval or rejection by the "big bankers" of those financial centers.

Once we permit branch banking to start in Michigan, the business men of the smaller communities are at the absolute mercy of the big city bankers. We want none of it in Michigan. Kill the scheme NOW.

REPUBLICANISM.

It was on June 15, 1855 when Republicans at a meeting held in Washington, adopted certain policies which have prevailed since that time among the basic beliefs of all true Republicans.

One of those principles follows:

"The people are the rightful source of all political power."

That sentence was written into the Republican constitution by a group of free American citizens, voters who were not controlled by any political machine or any political boss. They voted their own convictions. They spoke as only uncontrolled, independent and God-fearing citizens dare speak.

Down through the generations large numbers of intensely loyal and devoted citizens have maintained their Republicanism because of belief in the idea that all political control belongs to the people, and out of such a condition the greatest number of public benefits are derived by the masses.

Republican history, like world history, has had its turbulent chapters. There have been times in the past when greedy, selfish, PLUNDERING interests have controlled the destinies of this great political organization, just as the same sort of interests have at times controlled the Democratic party.

Rank and file Republicans in Michigan for the first time now find it essential to repudiate and denounce a machine CONTROLLED party organization that has been set up in this state by a crowd of political boot-lickers.

Unfortunately, indeed, in these trying times, is the fact that we must fight for the protection of our country and at the same time fight a crowd of political puppets who jump at the bidding of their masters.

If any one person in Michigan can tell of one thing, JUST ONE, that has ever been accomplished for the good of Michigan or the nation by ANY political machine of ANY political party, we would like to have that person tell what that beneficial thing for the state or nation has been.

The action of the national convention delegation the other day was the most shameful exhibition of political prostitution and flunkysm ever witnessed in this state. But the smear is upon only those who had a part in it, not the party as a whole.

This present-day boss control of the Republican party has been gained through a series of unfortunate circumstances—and NOT by the vote of the people.

Amazing as it may seem, it has become evident in recent weeks, that the machine has reached into exalted places and now embraces in its ranks the support of some high public officials heretofore believed to be free and independent Republicans. They have not had the courage to defy the dictates of the bosses—and these are days when COURAGE on the part of a public official is an absolute essential.

But fortunate, indeed, is the fact that the rank and file of Michigan Republicanism is NOT controlled by the bosses. In this fact lies the hope of the party's future.

FIXING THE BLAME

(By David Lawrence in The United States News)

American public opinion has shifted so rapidly in the last few weeks that many observers regard the change as phenomenal. But it isn't. The change from a state of indifferent isolation to a state of alert awareness of the dangers that face American security is the result of a simple and natural process—the conquest of fallacy by truth.

For several years now we have been fed fantastic propaganda about the origin of war. Sincere though misguided men among us, so-called liberals have been insisting that only munitions-makers bring on wars. Or else the contention has been seriously advanced that profiteers contrive in diabolical ways to involve our sons in war.

The blame for the present plight of France and Britain must be placed on those statesmen who refused to face the truth and to drive fallacy to the wall. We in America contributed our share to the debacle. Even the Senate of the United States by its widely publicized munitions investigation gave credence to the doctrine that munitions-making makes wars. All over the world the charges and counter charges were exploited. And what was the result? The democracies including ourselves stifled the making of munitions by private industry and coincidentally failed to build up the government plants which were urged so eloquently as the proper alternative.

What powder-making factories do we have today? We haven't a first class plant available to make munitions. We have been misled just as were the British and French before 1937. It takes a long time to build up a supply of munitions and to develop the technique of munition-making. Only last week a few of the "educational orders" designed to give private industry the stimulus for an expanding production were let by our government. This should have been done two and three years ago.

The same group of men who smeared the private munitions-makers smeared also a President of the United States on the ground that he dragged America into war to protect our credits and trade. This libel on the character of Woodrow Wilson was widely disseminated so as to bolster the theory that wars are made for gain and not for the defense of ideals or human liberty.

Public opinion became anti-war but at the same time public opinion became anti-defense. Indifference to security is inexcusable. The names of the men who have been responsible for failing to permit America's defenses to be built up should be written plainly on the tablets of American history so that this generation may know who it was that conceived the plot to weaken the war defenses of democratic nations.

It is not too late to institute an inquiry into what influences were at work in the United States between 1934 and 1940 to sap the economic vitality of the nation on the production side and to frustrate the granting of the requests of the Army and the Navy for new weapons and adequate supplies.

The blame for unpreparedness must be fixed, and fixed soon. America today has very few airplanes, hardly any mechanized weapons for the Army's use and not enough transports or patrol vessels to take care of contingencies on our long sea-coasts. Why have our defenses been neglected?

Certainly the facts about the world situation have been known to our government. Our military and naval intelligence representatives abroad have told their superior officers in Washington for three years just what Germany has been doing. President Roosevelt has had detailed reports from diplomatic representatives of the United States stationed in foreign capitals. The danger that faced the democracies has been well known to the President. Why did he fail to tell the American people so that the Congress would respond by appropriating the necessary sums to build up our airplane industry for defense purposes?

The most commonly advanced explanation is that if Mr. Roosevelt had attempted to arouse the nation, he would have been called a "war-monger" and that he would have been refused by Congress the grants of funds. But this is no answer. Leadership based on revelation of the facts may fail temporarily, but if the debate is begun soon enough truth will in time prevail.

What would have happened had Mr. Roosevelt tried in January 1937 to advise the people of the United States of the need for enlarged defenses? He might have been balked by public opinion for the time being but if it were clear to the people that Mr. Roosevelt wanted nothing for himself, that he had no third term ambitions, the people would have accepted his argument as a disinterested exposition.

Mr. Roosevelt even in 1938 and 1939 had nothing to lose by urging preparedness—nothing except possibly a third term. And many a fair minded person will say that as between a political loss for oneself and the development of a policy which in the long run looks to the protection of the people against foreign aggression, the doubt should have been resolved in favor of an uncompromising campaign for national defense.

Ambition has ruined many a statesman in history. Consideration of self has beclouded the vision of many a would-be leader of democracy. Conversely, the heroes of centuries of human achievement have been men who have cast aside all thought of self in the sacrifices that bring spiritual rather than material compensations.

We are on the verge of war. No man can foretell how soon we will realize that all democracy faces a threat of extinction and that we must recognize a state of war exists now against our own democracy. These are not times when wars are declared. They simply happen overnight and only the democracies insist on taking time for the formalities while the aggressors bomb airdromes and render defenses impotent.

The President's duty is very plain. He must sacrifice his political ambitions for the good of the nation. He might well consider the recommendation to the Congress of a program putting America immediately on a war basis. At the same moment the President ought to announce that he will respect the American tradition and refuse to run for a third term.

A change in the presidency is not likely to cause any dislocation in industry especially if Mr. Roosevelt will appoint now or give power to men already appointed to accelerate the industrial production of the nation for defense. Whether another Democrat is chosen—and there are many capable leaders in the Democratic party—or whether the country chooses a Republican, the fact remains that at this of all times democracy must prove the worth of its institutions. In the middle of a critical period, Britain changed prime ministers last month and so did France.

If America is to go into war, it must be with a leadership that is freed from the handicaps that would face a third term president. National unity cannot be built upon foundations of distrust. And unhappily industry today does not feel that the President is as concerned about the national defense as he should be or else he would not be temporizing with advisory councils and insisting on maintaining the restrictions and barriers that have hamstringed industry for the last seven years.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot do the job of directing industrial operations himself. He must delegate authority and do so promptly. He must also tell the people the truth about the need for a modification in the restrictions imposed by the New Deal on business management and industrial production. If this is not done, it will be said with emphasis on every side that the administration is more interested in saving the New Deal than in saving America.

To attain the desired end—national unity—the third term issue must be disposed of by the President himself. To refuse a third term nomination would, to be sure, disappoint the selfish politicians and parasites who infest Washington and who have imposed long enough on the good nature of a generous-minded president.

But to refuse a third term would put the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt alongside that of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. The excuse of a war emergency, offered by the proponents of a third term, is a shallow one. To surrender the democratic process in the face of a challenge to democracy itself is to misconstrue the innate capacity of the American people to govern themselves and to give their lives and their properties for an ideal.

The time has come for men in public life to raise the quality of statesmanship by sacrificing the political ego for the common good. Only by such an example can the thousands of men young and old in our midst be encouraged to make the supreme sacrifice of self. For such sacrifices will have to be made if the women and children in our cities are to be protected from the bombs that can be so readily dropped by aircraft operating from nearby ocean bases left unprotected by the defeat of Britain and France.

Will America learn the lesson of her neglect of defenses of these last few years or will historians fix the blame for America's downfall on the blindness and selfishness of her political leaders of today?

Their views about public problems and issues.

HIGHWAYS FOR 1960

Some years ago, when highway construction began on a large scale, there was the general idea that after a period of major construction, the nation would have the highways that it required and that the expense of additional construction would be limited.

Experience has shown, however, that this is not to be the case. The number of automobiles has increased and the demand for improved highways is more widespread than ever. In fact, Paul V. Huffman, president of the Studebaker Corporation, says that an outlay of $50,000,000,000 for the construction of highways and streets will be necessary by 1960 to accommodate the 40,000,000 motor cars and trucks that will be used at that time.

According to our arithmetic, this means $2,000,000,000 a year for new highway construction. This is quite a sum. It may be an interesting item for those taxpayers who have the idea that the future will bring them reduced levies.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eclectic.

CRACKS POOL IDEA

Lansing dispatches carry the news that labor groups are going to ask both major parties to make 30-hour week platform pledges. This is interesting news. The Republican policy from Washington to Lansing has been, publicly at least, in opposition to these radical labor planks. Why not get away from this new current low in political hypocrisy and for once publicly condemn all such proposals? Republican leaders never hesitate to say as much privately. The Democratic party seemingly favors these theories which would clearly join the issue. The R-T favors all sound efforts to promote the cause of labor but forced leisure, in our opinion, is hopelessly wrong. Idleness, in these days of constant and costly entertainment is the one direct route to more and tougher social problems. All these social questions are intimately correlated. It is high time for persons and parties to stop pussy-footing on these issues and make a clean test of the whole problem in an attempt to register public thought on a political malignancy which threatens our internal security and national safety.—H. M. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr Passage were Detroit visitors last Friday.

Born, a boy, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carrington, of Northville, Wednesday, June 9. Carrington was formerly Miss Rose Wilksie of this place.

Calvin Whipple attended the graduation exercises of the Detroit College of Law yesterday. His brother, Arthur Whipple, was one of the graduates.

Next week Saturday, June 26, Mrs. Annie Henderson and Mrs. James Barlow will give an ice cream social on their lawn, corner of Wing and Deer streets. The proceeds are to be given to St. John's Episcopal Mission.

H. C. Robinson and family attended a picnic given for the pupils and former scholars of the Truesdel school district, held at the school house in Canton last Saturday.

Dr. Peck appeared before a special meeting of the councilmen last Monday evening, representing the school board in the matter of water taxes, which have been prevailing high for several months. The doctor's arguments were favorably received by the councilmen, who granted a flat rate of $50.00 per year.

Master Lyman Judson was an over Sunday visitor in Detroit, going in to attend the picnic Saturday at Sugar Island, of the Simpson Tabernacle Sunday school of which he was a member before moving to Plymouth.

Mrs. John Rosenworth of Romulus, is visiting at the home of her cousin, J. C. Peterhans.

Mrs. Eva Peterhans of Detroit, and Mrs. Amelia Peterhans, of Cleveland, were Sunday visitors at J. C. Peterhans.

William Gayde has purchased a new Ford automobile.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Ford Motor Co. company's band of 75 pieces will give one of their famous concerts in Plymouth on a date to be announced later. This band is one of the finest in Detroit and in Michigan, and it is well worth coming miles to hear them.

Last week Thursday, the L. O. T. M. S. of the city, entertained at Grange hall the members of the Wayne county association of that Order. About 250 ladies were present. Several notable members of the organization were in attendance. Mrs. Rita Smith, commander of the Plymouth drive, in fitting words, welcomed the guests. A class of 29 candidates from Northville and Plymouth were initiated into the order.

One of the East Plymouth social events of the season was the wedding of Miss Cecilia Gronowickie and Henry Messer, of Newburg. The ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Catholic church at Wayne, at 9:30 o'clock last Saturday morning, by Rev. Father O'Connell. Miss Mary Gronowickie and Miss Anna Gurney, of Detroit, acted as bridesmaids. Albert Messer, brother of the groom, and Frank Summers, also of Detroit, were the best men. The gowns were of the most attractive designs, the bride wearing white silk crepe de meteor with a beautiful bridal veil of white silk illusion, and Nearly every government activity that tries to run down these people is being attacked and misrepresented. For instance, the Dies Committee—but more specifically the Hoover G-Men against whom strong sentiment was developed because they were detecting Communists, crooks, racketeers and traitors by the police method of tapping their telephone lines. A terrible hurrah was raised about this practice, despite the fact that such a method in police and government bureaus has long been recognized as a legitimate method. Experienced newsmen in Washington have defended the G-Men and praised their sleuthing-plans to bring crooks to time. The public criticism of Hoover's G-Men was twisted and distorted to make it appear that a national agency was employed to run down enemies and crooks through the use of illegal and improper methods.

There is all the difference in the world in the right of the G-Men to tap wires, and the improper attempts of individuals, or gangs, to tap wires for criminal purposes.—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

LESS LAWS — MORE FOOD

According to the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, 14,000,000 families in the United States have an average annual income of $312, and an additional 8,000,000 families have an average income of only $758. As a result, twenty-two million families can spend only $1.00 to $1.62 per week per person for food.

Economic theorists and politicians of all stripes have banded figures like these about the country for years. The economists don't agree, and neither do the politicians on the solution to the problem. But while their heads have been high in the clouds of acrimony and debate, the rest of us have had to get along as well as we know how.

One fact is clear. In the long run, if we are to eat at all, it will have to be through our own efforts. You can't eat economic theory, and government panaceas are short-lived. Modern retail distribution has done more for consumers during recent years than most of us realize. There has been a steady reduction of "in between" costs. Distributors have co-operated with producers on an ever-increasing scale. Producer-consumer campaigns in which thousands of retail merchants join with farmers in promotional drives to move surplus crops into consumers' homes, have been amazingly successful. Too, retailers have worked whole-heartedly with the Surplus Commodity Corporation to adequately feed those in dire need. The food stamp plan has proved successful in many territories.

These are only a few of the measures that promise to go far toward solving America's nutritional problem. The biggest hazard to success lies in the continual agitation of political and business minorities who seek to abolish the natural laws of retail competition by working for man-made laws that embrace stringent price-fixing and class taxation. These laws are the enemies of the 22,000,000 families who need more food.—James Gallery in The Tuscola County (Caro) Advertiser.

Johnson, Harvey Wagon-schutz, Robert Lee and George Hayball.

The L.A.S. at Newburg are making plans to hold a fourth of July picnic on Saturday, the third, on the lawn opposite the schoolhouse, making a convenient place for the games and races on the school grounds.

The old building that has been such an eyesore for so many years on Newburg corners has been purchased by Mark Joy and moved onto his premises. The church will now occupy the space where the old house stood, making a decided addition to the corners.

At the Methodist parsonage in Plymouth, on Tuesday morning, June 15, Miss Grace Little and John E. Ross were married by Rev. Joseph Dutton. The bride lived west of Plymouth in the vicinity of Salem. The bridegroom resides on Pelee Island in Lake Erie, where the happy couple have gone to live. Mr. Ross is a fisherman by occupation. Pelee Island belongs to Canada. The wedding pair were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carter of Lapham's.

Children's day will be observed at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. The Sunday school has arranged the following program: Recitation, Evelyn Schrader; solo, Hilda Smye; recitation, Harry Lang; recitation, Gladys Schrader, and piano solo, "Pixies," Gladys Schrader.

Plymouth Arbor of the Ancient Order of Gleaners was organized at the Grange hall, Tuesday evening by William Hirschlieb, organizer of that society for Wayne county. There were about 50 present at the initial meeting of the new Arbor. The officers are as follows: Chief Gleaner, Robert Hutton; vice chief gleaner, Miss Madge Harlow; chaplain, Miss Marjorie Forshee; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Hutton; conductor, Harold Anderson; conductress, Mrs. Gladys Macomber; lecturer, Mrs. Frank Palmer; inner guard, Frank Palmer, and outer guard, Stanhope Forshee.

We cannot help but make public our appreciation of the kindness of The Detroit News

Only a week ago we were one of many of The Detroit News readers who were interested in seeing the column of Dr. George W. Crane returned to its position on the magazine page of that great newspaper.

Sometimes business firms become so large that the requests of a minority are lost in their daily routine.

We cannot help but feel that this great newspaper has the interest of all its readers and we wish to express our most sincere thanks to the management of The Detroit News for again bringing to its readers the daily feature prepared by Dr. Crane.

We also wish to join the thousands of people who under the capable leadership of Nancy Brown brought Detroit its magnificent peace carillon. . . For a leader such as Nancy Brown and her column folk to make so generous a sacrifice at a time when the world is embroiled in the horrors of war, it is, indeed, necessary to have the backing of a newspaper strong in its character.

The readers of The Detroit News must appreciate the interest you have in their problems. . . You may be assured we appreciate the things you have done for us.
