Club Requests Enforcement of Dog Quarantine

New Method of Identification Now Available

A request is being made to all dog owners in Plymouth and the vicinity to take special care in keeping their dogs confined during the duration of the state-imposed quarantine period, by the Western Wayne County Conservation association.

Dr. B. E. Champe, president of the club, said that men who intend to use their dogs for hunting purposes this coming fall will not be able to do so unless the quarantine stipulations are kept in force. "If dog owners abuse the restrictions," President Champe declared, "the state will not permit dogs to be used for hunting when the season opens in October."

For the most part in the city, police officers have had little trouble with dogs running at large. Owners who place any value at all on their dogs will keep them confined. Dr. Champe said, but it is those dogs that have not appreciative owners, that the State Department intends to keep from running the streets and coming in contact with other dogs. Because of a prevalence of rabies this spring, the state levied the quarantine.

A new restriction just passed by the State Department of Conservation, but not compulsory, is that of tattooing dogs for positive identification.

The plan as outlined by the state and being sponsored in this locality by the W. W. C. A. is to have an identification number tattooed on all dogs. This process must be done by a veterinarian.

Dr. Cass Kershaw, whose veterinary hospital is located on Wayne road, has offered to assist the association with the tattooing here.

Dog owners may obtain application blanks from Dr. Kershaw. The blanks must be sent to the State Department of Conservation, accompanied by a one-dollar ($1) fee, and the number will be sent back. Dogs are then taken to the hospital where the number, as assigned by the state, will be tattooed upon its ear and flank, for a nominal veterinary fee. Two certificates are then made out. One is a certificate of ownership which the owner keeps and the other is returned to the state for permanent record.

This is the first and only positive method of identification which has been sanctioned by the state.

It is suggested that dogs be tattooed before the fall hunting season, as it is at that time dogs become lost or stolen.

The identification will be enforced by the conservation department and local police authorities.

Washington, D. C., Opens New Airport

Estimated to have cost $10,000,000 the new Washington, D. C. airport was officially opened July 4. Pictured here is Col. Sumpter Smith, chairman of the Washington National Airport commission with a scale model of the new landing field. Said to be the most luxurious airport in the country, it replaces the small, hemmed-in field heretofore serving the nation's capital. The new field covers 750 acres and has four runways varying in length from 4,000 feet to a mile and a quarter.

Hog Production to Go Lower

The recent upward trend in Michigan hog production has apparently reached a peak and is at the point of turning downward. The evidence of this change in trend springs from the latest semi-annual survey conducted by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service assisted by postmasters and rural mail carriers. The June survey shows a spring pig crop of 817,000 head compared with 799,000 a year ago and 816,000 as the 10-year average. The number of sows farrowed in the spring of this year appears to have been 3 per cent larger than a year ago. Weather conditions during a portion of the farrowing season were somewhat unfavorable and the number of pigs saved the normal 2 per cent more than in the spring of 1939.

The average number of pigs per litter saved on the 6,800 farms tabulated from the survey, was 6.33. This was not only lower than the average of 6.44 reported in the spring of 1939 but considerably less than the 10-year average, which currently stands at 6.70.

The small increase in the spring pig crop is expected to be more than offset by a decrease in fall farrowings. Breeding intentions obtained from the survey indicate that the fall pig crop of 1940 will be about 10 per cent smaller than that of 1939. This is interpreted as a decrease of around 68,000 head in prospective fall pig production. Combining this with the increase of 18,000 in spring production, total 1940 hog production in Michigan apparently will be about 50,000 head less than that of 1939. While in percentage this is only about 3 per cent, it is a significant indication that the cycle has turned downward. Cycles in hog production usually have an average duration of about four years. Hence, if the present cycle continues even roughly to the normal pattern, the downward trend may be expected to continue for a period of about two years from the 1939 peak. Disturbances that may affect marketing conditions are more numerous than usual, and there is no certainty that the normal cycle will be followed very closely in this instance.

Mackinac Island Hub of Michigan

Mackinac Island, the Fairy Isle which shines like a jeweled hub in Michigan's Straits of Mackinac, is entering upon what promises to be one of its greatest summer seasons.

Romantic and colorful Mackinac presents some of the world's most charming scenes," says Col. Roger M. Andrews, Michigan publisher. "The climate is superb, and the Island and its surroundings are bound to become an increasingly important summer recreational center."

There are 17 hotels and many rooming houses on Mackinac Island. Room rates are as low as one dollar per person. The Grand, largest summer hotel in the world, offers rates on the European plan at $3 to $8.50 a day, no higher.

For 25 cents one can enjoy a carriage drive from any hotel on the Island. Carriage rates are approximately 50 cents a mile. A drive to principal points of interest, taking nearly one and one-half hours, costs $1.50.

While motor cars are not permitted on the beautiful state park which is Mackinac Island, garages on the mainland at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City will store cars at reasonable rates for owners enjoying the sights on the Fairy Isle.

Residents Paying for U. S. Defense

Monday morning Plymouth residents came to the realization that from now on they will contribute numerous pennies, nickels, dimes and even more to Uncle Sam for the government's national defense program.

The new federal tax on tobacco, liquor and amusements amounts to slightly more than one cent on a "shot" for liquor, a quarter of a cent more tax on a glass of beer and one-half cent more on a package of cigarettes.

Formerly there was no amusement tax on theatre tickets unless the admission price was more than 40 cents, but now there is a 10 percent increase on any admission above 20 cents, which amounts to three cents at the Pennington-Alton theatres.

One-half percent increase in the price of automobiles is now taxed and a one-half cent a gallon was added to the price of gasoline. Auto accessories also went up one-half percent and gasoline prices were increased one-half cent on a gallon in Plymouth.

The increase in oil and accessories will probably be absorbed by manufacturers, it was stated by tax officials.

Boat Service to Isle Royale

"One of America's most primitive havens is to be dedicated this summer as a national park. It is Isle Royale, situated due north of Chicago in Lake Superior," says Frederic Babcock in the Chicago Tribune.

"Lake Superior and Mackinac, Isle Royale is still living in the horse and buggy age. But unlike them, it doesn't even have the horses and buggies. There are no roads on the island. Travel is solely by foot trail and boat," continues Mr. Babcock.

"The new park will be a sanctuary for birds and wild animals, and as such will be an unusual place for the study of animal as well as plant life. It is to be kept in its present state. There will be no autos, saddle horses, or high-wheeled, horseless Isle Royale will also be a sanctuary for human beings."

The steamship Alabama of the Georgian Bay line, operating from Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Mackinac Island and Sault Ste. Marie to Isle Royale and Duluth, will leave Buffalo on its initial trip June 29. Other boat service to the island will be available from Copper Harbor and Eagle Harbor in upper Michigan, and from Duluth and Grand Portage, Minnesota, throughout the summer.

The white oak is the most important hardwood forest tree native to Michigan and to North America. It has held this front rank place since the earliest days of civilization. The origin of forests of the rich agricultural areas of the United States were largely made up of this most useful tree.

What National Guard Has Not!

Ranks Low in Modern Equipment

(By Gene Allemen)

LANSING—For a quick cooling-off of emotional ardor that the United States should go to war, consider the Michigan national guard.

Six thousand sons of Michigan, who form half of the thirty-second division, are handicapped today by lack of the following modern equipment:

- No new anti-tank guns
- No anti-aircraft guns
- No anti-aircraft searchlights
- No Garand automatic rifles
- No mechanization of cavalry
- Only 12 observational planes

In the light of 1940 Hitler-style warfare, mechanized to the nth degree, the deficiency of the above material is serious. War has become a battle of machines on land and in air; its tempo has been speeded up until the 16-mile infantry advance of a World War day has been multiplied tenfold by motorized transportation.

And yet in spite of the appalling shortage of vital arms, the Michigan National Guard is "a thousand times" better equipped and better trained than it was in 1917.

The statement comes from Col. John S. Bersey, the adjutant general of Michigan, whose full-time business is national defense.

It offers an insight into the relative unpreparedness of the Guard in 1917 as compared with 1940 when the German blitzkrieg, unorthodox in its methods, changed rules of the military manual.

For example, Michigan is one of 17 states authorized to maintain an aircraft arm. The one hundred and seventh Observation Squadron is based at the Wayne county airport, Detroit. Its total equipment today is 12 planes, only one of which is in use. Two months after the unit received nine new observation planes each of which carry a pilot, machine-gunner and an observer.

At a time when Germany's output of airplanes is estimated to be 100 a day, the dozen airplanes at Detroit would not begin to meet military needs for 30 seconds. (The federal government maintains a large corps north of Detroit at Selfridge field.)

Then there is the new automatic rifle of which the United States has about 75,000 to date. None of these has been distributed to Michigan guardsmen who rely upon the old Springfield rifle, firing five times semi-automatically from cartridge clips.

The World War style of horse cavalry still prevails.

The one hundred and sixth cavalry depends on horses which are fine for polo games and which are still reliable for military use after the tanks, airplanes and trucks smash through enemy lines.

This is in contrast with mechanized cavalry units in other states. The cavalry also has two riders for every horse.

The one hundred and eighty-second Field Artillery, a motorized unit, lacks some tractors and trucks. (Michigan's guard is to get 42 trucks this year.)

From coast to coast Michigan is known as the foremost industrial state whose technological advance has been the marvel of engineers from nations of the world. This lack of arms is also contrast to the state's ability to manufacture them.

Congress has just authorized a four billion dollar expenditure for armaments of all kinds. The regular army is to be almost doubled in size from 225,000 to 400,000. During the last year the Michigan guard was authorized to recruit 1,000 men, and today the state force is more than 6,000 strong.

state would probably have 60,000. A national guard strength of three million men is being recommended by experts.

Likewise, Michigan's current effort to dig up $50,000 or so to provide some additional armories for expanding guard units will seem like matching for pennies. The explosion overseas has transformed our unemployment problem into a preparedness problem overnight. (Governor Luren D. Dickinson, recently acceded to pressure of advisors and requested the United States government to authorize an anti-aircraft unit for Detroit.)

The cost of modern military arms is fairly staggering to the imagination. Each of Michigan's new observation planes, for example, cost Uncle Sam about $60,000 each. It takes about $10,000,000 to equip one anti-aircraft regiment! That calls for a lot of blue chips in the form of increased federal taxes.

It was William Jennings Bryan who declared that a threat of war would find a million Americans springing to arms between sunset and sunrise.

As recently as two months ago the House at Washington pooh-poohed the need for educational orders for making war needs in industrial plants. The senate budget appropriation of $16,000,000 was cut to $2,000,000.

This aroused the ire of Sen. Albert J. Engel, Michigan. He declared: "We should have tools, dies and jigs made with which to produce the equipment necessary for equipping an army of one million men. If we have the tools, dies and jigs, we will have saved from three to five months and not be dependent upon taking these workers from ordinary production."

We then should have enough educational orders in these factories to train sufficient men so that on short notice we can go into production of the required material and equipment!"

After the United States entered the last war, the armies of Great Britain and France, together with those of Italy and Russia, engaged the Germans for nearly one year until we could train an army and transport them to France. Even Henry Ford in his remarkable offer to build 1,000 airplanes a day said that it would take him six months.

If we are given the time (and the right leadership) the country can properly equip its regular army and its national guards.

Likewise, Ford can build his 1,000 airplanes every 24 hours.

Factories also can be ready to turn out war goods on a brief notice.

But the big factor, unforeseen six months ago, is time. Michigan's national guard is offered as exhibit A. Well trained as it is, the guard is not prepared for war this July 4, 1940.

Double Play Stops Inkster

A double play, nipping a ninth-inning rally put on by Inkster, enabled Plymouth's Schrader-Hazerty baseball team to win 6-5 in a game played at Riverside park Sunday afternoon. The win strengthens the team's hold on first place in the White division of the Inter-County league.

Plymouth's winning runs came as a result of timely singles by W. Bassett and Hazerty.

The winning battery was De-

Bozy and Schomberger. Wolfe and H. Williams. Inkster's mainstays were Lessell on the mound and Coleman, catching.

Thursday, July 4, Plymouth met the Northville Mercantile at Riverside, and Sunday they will play Ann Arbor at the park diamond.

Tallest Human

ROBERT WADLOW

World's Tallest Man in Plymouth Monday

The tallest human in the world known to modern science will be seen in Plymouth Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, according to Robert Willoughby. The Willoughby shoe store is sponsoring the appearance of Robert Wadlow, who is 22 years old and weighs eight feet, nine and one-half inches in height.

Mr. Willoughby says that Wadlow will be on a platform in the store at the front of his store on Main street. He will talk for about an hour, answering questions and telling onlookers something about his life.

When he was born February 22, 1894, he was an average sized child, weighing eight and one-half pounds. At six months, however, his weight had increased to 10 pounds and his height and weight had increased steadily to the present time. He grew about 10 inches last year.

At great weights and measurements of Wadlow are recorded at the Washington University Medical school. His parents and two brothers and sisters are all average size.

He wears a size 37 shoe which is the largest ever made for the human foot. Each one weighs four pounds, is 19 inches long and contains several times as much material and reinforcements as ordinary shoes.

Ida Jane Spicer and Marcus Sharpe Married at Hillsdale

Ida Jane Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Spicer, of Detroit, and former residents of Plymouth, was united in marriage with Marcus Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sharpe, of Hudson, Saturday afternoon at the Hillsdale First Presbyterian church.

Dr. W. H. Roberts, of Hillsdale college read the service at 3:00 o'clock, before a background of green, with madonna lilies, blue delphinium, weigela, and shasta daisies flanked by lighted candle-candles in tall candelabra.

The bride's gown was of white net over satin, with shirred bodice, short puffed sleeves and girle of ecru batiste. Insets of ecru tulle also distinguished the full skirt. A shoulder length veil fell from a halo ruffle, and she carried a large colonial nosegay of staphanotis and white roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Jack Taylor of Detroit, matron-of-honor, and Miss Nellie Welch of Huntington Woods, maid-of-honor, wore models of flowered organdy with batiste finish identical in design, with the added charm of large yellow hats. They carried nosegays of vari-colored bloom.

Mr. Sharpe was assisted by Edward Schmidt of Lansing as best man, Robert Tully and Lester Brabon, both of Hillsdale, seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Spicer selected blue lace, and Mrs. Sharpe, mother of the bridegroom, a navy and white dress with white trim. Both wore corsages of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Wilbert S. Ray, presided at the organ, with the Lutheran procession, the Mendelssohn recessional, and other favorite selections of the bride.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Convis, an aunt of the bride, followed the church rite. Mrs. Convis was assisted by Miss Ellen Sharpe, sister of the bride, in the reception.

The bride and bridegroom left by motor on an extended western trip. En route they will visit Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Chapman, uncle and aunt of the bride, and family in Tucson, Arizona, her brother-in-law, and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Williams in San Diego, California and with his brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Wendell Sharpe, in Rochester, Minnesota.

For traveling Mrs. Sharpe wore a larkspur blue light wool suit with matching accessories.

The bride is a graduate of a Detroit high school and Hillsdale College, where her sorority affiliation was Pi Beta Phi. For the past two years she has taught in the Hillsdale schools. Mr. Sharpe is an alumnus of Hudson high school and Hillsdale college. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

The recent bride is a niece of Mrs. H. S. Deerr, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spicer and Miss Mabel Spicer, who were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Trotter, Miss Betty Spicer and Louis Norman of Plymouth also attended the wedding.

Many Interesting Things in Plymouth Museum

Bert Paddock Has Collection of Curios in His Home

Plymouth has a museum! No, it hasn't received a great deal of publicity, nor does the general population know where it is located.

It really isn't a very large collection of curios. In fact, it hardly takes up the space in one medium-sized room. But, nevertheless, it is the only such collection known in Plymouth and its classification comes closer to museum than anything else. So we'll call it a museum.

This so-called museum is in the Bert Paddock home on East Ann Arbor trail and his collection was started when he lived out in Newburg. A few years ago when Mr. Paddock no longer was interested in keeping up the collection, he passed it on to his son, Dwight. The father is now nearing 65 years of age.

Many of the articles in the Paddock "museum" have been passed down as family heirlooms. The Paddocks are descendants of the Ryders, who were pioneer residents of this part of the state.

Among the relics, there is an old Edison electric light bulb which was used in the first electricity was introduced in this locality. An ox yoke, which was passed down from Grandfather Ryder, was in use when oxen hauled goods from Detroit to Plymouth on the old plank road. Mr. Paddock reports that his grandfather used to have the oxen for the heavy hauling on the farm also.

Several old guns have been fixed up and are included in the collection. One is an old muzzle loader and another is a Civil War Springfield flint-lock rifle, with a hinge cartridge chamber. An old-time muzzle-loading pistol and powder horn are also shown.

Shells and helmets from the last war are on display. One of the helmets is of the type issued to German commissioned officers. It has the traditional spike on the top.

When the old G. A. R. hall was destroyed at Newburg, Mr. Paddock salvaged a ballot box from the ruins. It is similar to those used in certain fraternal organizations today, but back in those days it was a election in the Ryder post of the G. A. R., named after two of his uncles who were killed in the Civil War.

Indian arrow heads, parts from animal skeletons, all kinds of curious fragments of wood, sea shells and old musical instruments are among the other hundreds of items which are all carefully laid out on tables and properly labeled in the Paddock museum.

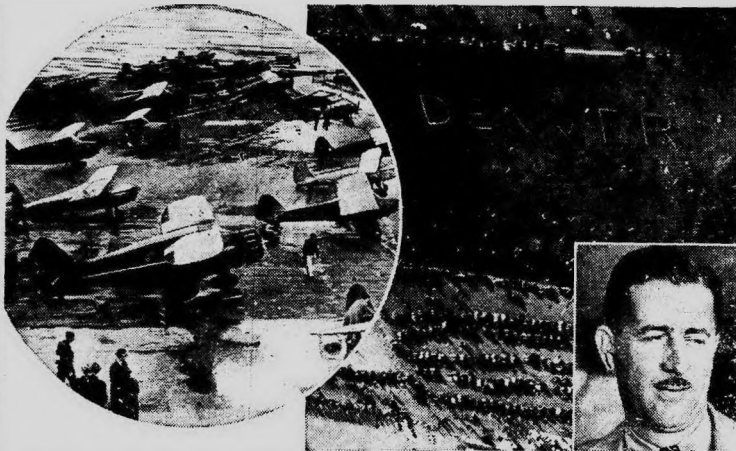

Of interest to cigar smokers is the mounted collection of cigars, bands. There must be hundreds of them. All different, that have been saved over a period of years.

To the casual observer, this collection of articles, some valuable from a standpoint of money, and others just simple little reminders of interesting incidents in a man's life, would mean very little. But if one could hear the stories connected with many of the things, he would be convinced that the memories are worth as much and sometimes even more than monetary value.

Mr. Paddock has two sons who work at the Daisy plant. He, too, was formerly employed at the Daisy.

In the basement of the Paddock home he has set up a work shop, where he makes bird houses, trellises and other articles which are sold to neighbors.

Denver Plays Host to National Air Congress

Problems ranging from those of the novice pilot to those of military forces and air lines will be discussed and resolutions will be adopted for submission to the United States congress to unify and aid American air progress at the National Air Congress of the National Aeronautic association, which will open in Denver, Colorado, July 7. Pictured above (at right) is the Denver municipal airport and (at left) some of the many places owned by members of the Denver N. A. A. chapter. Inset shows Karl C. Braums, president of the Denver chapter, which will act as hosts to the flying visitors.

Jack Ross Wins Golf Tournament

Jack Ross, stellar Plymouth high school athlete, who was graduated with the class of 1939, won low gross honors in the Junior District Golf association tournament Monday at the Detroit Golf club. He put together a 38-40-78 to take the title in his first appearance in the competition.

While Ross' 78 was surprising for a newcomer, it could just as well have been four or five strokes lower. He turned in a 38 on the first nine, but on the tenth he ran into difficulty when his tee shot sliced to the right and the second hooked into a trap. He took two to get out and held out with a seven.

This, combined with two three-putts, prevented him from approaching something of a record for a newcomer in the junior ranks.

The tournament drew 34 entries.

Ross is the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross who live on Five Mile road. He is a student at the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti. Mr. Ross manages the Middle Belt golf course.

Guess Again

"A wise man changes his mind, but a fool never," quoth the sage. Wise, foolish, or in-between, here are seven queries about which you can change your mind as often as you like. When finished though, indicate answer choice in space provided, check for correctness, tally for rating.

(1) Maybe you were never told but can you guess that a palanquin is: (a) small Arctic bird, (b) fashion model's handbag, (c) oriental covered vehicle, (d) large spinning wheel.

(2) An agrarian: (a) eats only fish, (b) starts fights, (c) burns the candle at both ends, (d) farms.

Blame The Law, Not Postmaster

It's law—that's why the post-office box rents have had to be raised in Plymouth.

Last week, The Mail published a brief article telling of the raise, but it didn't say why.

The law says that when a city gets so big that when its post-office becomes a first class post-office and the business of a city and its population reaches a certain point, then it's necessary to charge more for postoffice box rents.

Plymouth right now is feeling its "growing pains" pretty much. Along with the increased post-office box rents comes word from City Manager Clarence Elliott that because we have now reached a population of more than 5,000, everybody in town must re-register before voting in the fall primary election.

Close Cropped

How are you going to ear-tag a rabbit without ears? That is what Warren Shapton is thinking as he contemplates the funny bunny shown above. It was taken recently in one of the box traps at the Rose Lake wildlife experiment station maintained by the conservation department near East Lansing. About a year ago this animal must have got too close to a mower in one of the hayfields. The relationship of farming practices to wildlife is being studied at the experiment station. Since the beginning of the mowing season investigations of hayfield mortality of pheasants and rabbits has been in full swing.

Hilltop Halves Match Sunday

Hilton's golf team halved with River Bank and Plymouth Country club was humbled nine and one-half in two and one-half by Loyl Wild in Sunday's Michigan Golf association league play. The Hilltop-River Bank score was 6-6.

The Hilltop No. 1 and 2 men, Leroy Mae and Bill Hunter each divided the three points with their opponents, Rogers and MacIntosh. Ivan Baldwin swept three points from Wauara and Gordon Mac lost his match with Jones.

In beating Plymouth Country club, Stan Bick, No. 4 man on the River Bank foursome, cut the course par by 4 strokes, shooting a 68. Bick's opponent was Melvin who carded a 78. Fitzpatrick, Plymouth's No. 1 player, made two points for his team which was upset by his opponent, Elyman. Herbert Buray led three points to Brown and John Lock made only one-half a point in his match with Crane.

Next Sunday, on the Country club 18-hole course, the two Plymouth teams in the league will meet for the second time this season. The match will start at 1:00 o'clock. In their previous meeting the Country club team won.

The Estman-Borden act, which would require apartments to show the state the records of a fire record tax on firearms and ammunition, has supplied federal money for wildlife restoration in Michigan annually, beginning this year.

7 TO 14 DEGREES COOLER

Users say: "It's like sleeping outdoors!"

This is NOT the best house-cooling method in the world, but it's mighty good—as hundreds of satisfied users will tell you. Attic fan house-cooling has the virtue of being simple and inexpensive . . . and it achieves surprisingly effective results. Even when there is not a breath of air stirring outside, you can often cool your house 7 to 14 degrees in the evening, making your bedrooms comfortable for sleeping.

Here is the way it works: During the day, the hot sun beaming down on the roof converts your attic into a huge oven, with temperatures often reaching 130 degrees. Much of this heat is transferred through the ceilings to the rooms below, and at night, this burden of hot air hangs in the house, even after the temperature outdoors has fallen considerably.

An attic fan changes all this. After sundown, open your windows and flip the switch of the fan. Instantly its large powerful blades blow away the oppressive blanket of heat in the attic and set up a gentle circulation of air all through your house. A flood of cool night air is drawn in through the open windows, making your rooms delightfully comfortable. An attic fan costs only about 12c an hour to operate. Prices range from $50 up (installation extra).

Electrical dealers, department stores, and fan dealers will gladly give you full information about this low-cost method of house cooling. Telephone today. The Detroit Edison Company. (We do not sell or install this equipment.)

WE ARE GLAD.
Decision of the Methodist conference to return Rev. Stanford Closson to this city for another year's service as pastor of the First Methodist church is pleasing news to Plymouth. In the few years Rev. Closson has been in Plymouth he has not only made many friends, but he has done much to build up the church he is serving so well. He has, too, taken an active part in various beneficial community affairs. His continued services in this city will be of general benefit to the entire community.

DR. RUTHVEN'S POSITION.
The Plymouth Mail has only words of highest praise for the firm stand Dr. Ruthven has taken against admitting students at the University of Michigan who are not loyal, patriotic believers in the American system of government. Dr. Ruthven's commencement day address, published in part in The Plymouth Mail, indicated what his intentions were. Every citizen of Michigan will applaud the decision of the president of our great University. No student has a right to gain his education at the expense of the government he would destroy. The time has arrived for America to rid the country of every person who is not a true, loyal supporter of our government.

A UNIQUE POSITION.
While a tremendous campaign has been conducted during four years to win for Senator Arthur Vandenberg the Republican nomination for president, he loudly disclaimed any interest in the effort right up to the time of the Philadelphia convention. The unique thing about such an odd position lies in the fact that he was the LAST candidate for the nomination to release his delegates, and then only after it was certain that nothing could stop the nomination of Wendell Willkie. Dewey, who had the largest block of delegates, released his supporters on the third ballot, which was the proper place for such action on the part of any candidate, except of course the two major contenders.

PEAN NOW.
Recently The Plymouth Mail pointed out some of the defects in the constitution of the state act pertaining to afflicted and children. The bill passed by the last session of the Michigan legislature did not accomplish all that it was hoped it would do. In recent months the faults of the law have become more apparent, and right now is the time for the State Commission in charge of this work to prepare proper legislation for submission to the next session. The commission should not overlook the importance of discussing the subject with Dr. Haynes of the University of Michigan hospital, who probably knows as much if not more about the problem than any other one person in Michigan.

The University hospital has long been regarded as one of the best equipped and its staff one of the best trained in the entire country for the handling of this kind of work. The Crippled Children commission should keep these facts in mind when preparing for such changes in the present law as it may deem advisable—and important, too, is the advisability of consulting with the University hospital superintendent as to his ideas on the subject.

A VICTORY OF THE PEOPLE.
Political bosses went out through the window down at the Republican national convention in Philadelphia. Wendell Willkie was nominated for president by the DIRECT vote of the American public. He refused to consort or have anything to do with any political schemer or any self-advertised political boss. It was the pressure of the common folks back home that forced his nomination against the will of the bosses. Wendell Willkie will be elected president in exactly the same way that he was nominated. It will be by the vote of the common, plain, everyday sort of citizens of the nation. Although he heads a great public utility, he has the viewpoint of ordinary folks.

Michigan's boss-ridden delegation muffed the ball. For all the good it did, the delegation might just as well have remained at home. On the final nominating ballot, when Michigan's turn came to vote, it passed and the after almost a sufficient number of votes had been cast to nominate Willkie, the political bosses made an effort to show and permitted the delegates to vote as they had long desired. Willkie would have been nominated no matter what the Michigan bosses did. The "stage play" didn't fool any one—and the real Republicans have nominated a real candidate for President.

HITLER AND CHRISTIANITY
Have you ever wondered what life seemed like to people who lived through great crises such as our own Civil War and Revolution or the great Crusades of Europe? Now we know, at least as far as such things can be understood by tiny humans who find it difficult to grasp the immensity of the present world upheaval. For it still doesn't seem real, even though newspaper headlines shout it to us continually, and the radio blares it forth night and day. There are so many angles to the whole situation. If we really try to think out the problems, we find it difficult to say that any group is all right or any other group completely wrong. The errors of many nations have led to turmoil in which all Europe today finds itself. The shadow of these dread events falls threateningly on our own shores. We are realizing that a man or a nation that wishes to live in peace cannot do so if it is to the advantage of a stronger and more ruthless nation to destroy that peace. All over America today serious-minded men and women are planning to defend America. Some think first and only of visible land and property and of military defense. Others look deeper. They understand that what created America in the first place was not land, but ideas. Men of many bloods struggled to the shores of this great continent with astonishingly similar ideas of a new kind of world. Here they founded one. Its basic principle was the freedom of the individual, Kings and all hereditary rulers, dictators and autocrats of all sorts were forbidden here. "Liberty," a word for which millions had given their lives in other lands, here developed a wider meaning than it had ever before possessed.—Floyd Miller in The Royal Oak Tribune.

FIGHTING NEW DANGERS
It is not likely that there will be much in this column from now on about the fifth column. Before the latter term became current, we were trying to do our bit in calling attention to the subversive tactics of the organized groups in this country in the pay of the totalitarian states. Now that our press and FBI are after the traitorous crowd in full cry, we think we had better take up some more advanced subject, such as world peace, disarmament, world courts and an honest-to-God world federation for international amity.—Emerson Gildart in The Utica Sentinel.

CIVIL SERVICE
The Merit System association is seeking signatures to initiatory petitions to place on the fall ballot a proposal for state civil service. Michigan has a brand of civil service now and that brand replaced another. Neither brand gave Michigan any better or more economical service than it had in the past outside of civil service. Civil service is another one of those things which looks good on paper yet does not work out in practice. Of course, the Michigan style of civil service enacted under the Democratic administration "froze in" all Democratic appointees. Naturally, when Republicans returned to power they changed the act to remove some of the key positions from civil service. Otherwise, elected officials would have had their hands tied. In responsible positions they would have had to have employed men and women who owed their jobs to the political camp of the opposition. How many Republicans hold any important federal jobs today? You guessed it.

To our way of thinking there are too many federal and state jobs today and those jobs are made too secure. What is actually needed is a reduction of the public jobs by half. By so doing we would have less, and therefore better, government. However, we realize that such a thing will not be done. Public employment is steadily growing and there is no reason to believe that one party is any great improvement over the other in the matter of patronage. Michigan people got along well for many years without civil service. We have reason to believe that government was never so costly or so unneeded as under the Bismarck system of civil service imposed upon Michigan. We also believe that the so-called ripper law adopted by the last legislature resulted in more good than harm by making permanent some of the state positions. If the civil service proposal is placed on the ballot this fall we intend to vote against it.—Nelson Brown in The Ingham County News.

KEEPING 'EM HONEST
Do you know that practically every United States post office above the second class rating has within its walls a passage-way where government inspectors may secrete themselves, the idea being to watch post office employees who may be suspected of wrong-doing? Such inspectors generally arrive at night or early morning, using a special key to get into the office. They do not know when they may be under the eagle eye of these federal men—and that's the whole psychology of the plan: to keep everybody honest. Sometimes I wonder why the government doesn't resort to a comparable strategy in other departments—just to keep everybody honest.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

MICHIGAN'S VAST VACATIONLAND WELCOMES SUMMER VISITORS
Michigan's streams, forests and lakes are again beckoning tourists. That time of year when vacations are in vogue is now upon us, and Michigan, as in the past, will soon become the mecca of visitors from many states. Few states can boast the splendid highways that the Wolverine state possesses. Many of our visiting guests are surprised to find themselves traveling on a modern concrete highway, past gorgeous natural scenery and through districts with very small population—these roads have been built for the convenience of the vacationist. Woods, water, hills and sky provide an appropriate background for action pictures of the abundant wild life the visitor will find in Michigan. he is urged to bring his camera through which he may preserve the memories of his vacation here. With many miles of navigable streams and chains of lakes, east and central Michigan offers an unexcelled variety of canoe trips and excursions. All through Michigan there are many interesting excursions. This month the East Michigan Tourist Association released its annual publication, Vacationland, a 80-page booklet advertising and publicizing in an interesting and pictorial manner the recreational features of the various East Michigan attractions. Two full pages of this booklet are devoted to Isabella county, pointing out the recreational, educational, agricultural and industrial facilities of this area. The pages carry photographs taken in or near Mt. Pleasant. Michigan is truly a vacationland, and Mt. Pleasant and vicinity can be said to share in extending gracious welcome to thousands of tourists each year.—Webb McCall in The Isabella County (Mt. Pleasant) Times-News.

POLITICS
There is something drastically wrong with the two political parties. In fact, all the other parties have a nut or two loose. It has gotten to the point where the ordinary person knows but very little about his party. It's like groping around in a dark room for something; you think you know where the thing you want is and you stumble over several articles before you come to it. And that is just about the condition of your political parties. It is there somewhere under cover and only a few know. The ordinary person is kept in the dark. It would be a mighty good thing to put the majority of the planks these parties rest on into a hot bath and give them a good rubbing down. It would be a real relief to the common people. The leaders of these great parties have forgotten the meaning of Democracy. That word, according to the dictionary, means "government of the people collectively." As they are now operated it is "classes" and not the "masses." A change of color must surely come soon.—L. M. Rogers in The Camden Advance.

QUITE TRUE!
With congress rushing the preparedness program after years of listening to the pacifist and isolationist chatter, the man all ways in favor of security insurance can say: "I told you so."
—Bob Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

THE GOVERNMENT SNOOPING
We were filling out our sales tax return late last week, and discovered that with the April return we had to make application for the yearly license to do business in the great state of Michigan.

The yearly license costs a dollar, and that isn't so very serious. But in the application for the license, a lot of questions were asked which we believe to be none of the sales tax department's business. These questions have nothing to do, so far as can be seen, with either the computation or the payment of the tax.

For instance, the question is asked, "Is applicant the owner of real estate and buildings used in connection with business?" What difference does it make to the sales tax department whether the proprietor of a business owns a building or rents one—so long as he pays the sales tax?

Again, the application asks: "State whether corporation, partnership, individual proprietor, etc." What business is it of the sales tax department as to the form of business—so long as the business pays the tax?

The application calls for the name and address of partners (in the case of a partnership), and then demands to know the interest of the partners in the business.

Is it any affair of the sales tax department whether two partners each own half of a business, or whether they own the business 60-40, or 70-30—so long as they pay their sales tax?

And then comes the prize question: "When was the business begun?" queries the application blank. Well, The Advertiser, for instance, was started in 1868—but what has that got to do with the sales tax? You tell us. We can't figure it out.

Then again, says the blank, "If not a new business, give name of party from whom purchased and date." How do you suppose it helps in the collection of the sales tax for the bureaucrats to know that The Advertiser was bought from Fred Sloucin in 1900—some 30 years before the state sales tax was even heard of? You figure that one out. It gives us a headache.

Question 12 on the blank says: "Have you ever been issued a Sales Tax License in Michigan before?" Well, well! Not content with making the taxpayer a collection agency for the state, it can't even keep its own books. One might think that it would keep a record of taxpayers in Lansing, and would have only to look on its books to know whether or not any firm had had a license before in Michigan.

All this seems to us to be part and parcel of governmental snooping which serves no other purpose than to give political jobs to a lot of unnecessary clerks.—James Gallery in The Tuscola County (Caro) Advertiser.

Little Corlette Hough and Helen Sams-n, nieces of the bride and bridegroom respectively, acted as flower girls.
