This program is broadcast each Sunday over WJW at 1:30 p.m. One of the speakers is Irving Pflaum, foreign editor of the Chicago Times, who has just returned from a visit to Latin America investigating this subject. All the countries to the south are coming in for attention now more than ever, and in connection with the broadcast the following list of books is suggested, any of which you may borrow from your branch of the Wayne county library:

"The All-American Front," by D. Aikman; "Dictatorship in the Modern World," by G. S. Ford; "Latin America," by F. A. Kirkpatrick; "America Faces South," by T. R. Ybarra; "Latin America and the United States," by G. H. Stuart; "The People and the Politics of Latin America," by N. W. Williams; "Coming Struggle for Latin America," by C. E. Beals; "Americas to the South," by J. T. Whitaker; "South American Primer," by K. Carr; "New Roads to Riches in the Other Americas," by Edward Tomlinson; "Mexico Challenge," by F. L. Rev. Hoenecke Reads Schoof-Selle Nuptials

Jacquelyn Jayne Schoof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Schoof became the bride of John W. Selle, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Selle, of this city, Saturday afternoon, at a service performed at 2:30 o'clock, by the Rev. Edgar A. Hoenecke, in the St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church, which was beautifully decorated with baskets of white gladioli and larkspur.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was lovely in a wedding gown of white organza, made with full skirt, square neckline, puffed sleeves, trimmed with fluffing. Her fingertip veil of illusion was fastened to a twisted band of the same material. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and tiny gladioli.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William B. Petz, of Northville, and the bridesmaids, Jean Schoof, sister of the bride, and Lila Selle, sister of the bridegroom, wore gowns of deep pink crepe made with a shirred front and full skirt. They wore tiny matching hats of lace and net and carried pink roses and gladioli in a colonial bouquet the same as that of the bride.

William B. Petz, of Northville, was best man and ushers were Robert K. Brown, of Detroit, and Elmer Kreger of this city.

Mrs. Schoof, mother of the bride, wore a gown of regency blue crepe with matching hat. Mrs. Selle wore a gown of burgundy crepe with matching hat. Each wore a corsage of tiny roses.

A reception followed in the church with about 100 relatives and friends present. Later Mr. and Mrs. Selle left on a wedding trip through northern Michigan and Illinois. For traveling Mrs. Selle chose a green wool ensemble with hat to match and black accessories. She wore a corsage of orchids.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Selle are graduates of Plymouth high school and have a host of friends

Harold Stevens Takes Detroit Girl as Bride

A wedding of interest to many residents of Plymouth was that of Elinor Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gage of Detroit and Harold Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens of Williamston, who for many years were residents of Plymouth. The ceremony took place in the bride's home in Detroit at 4 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, September 5.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Franklin in the presence of the immediate families. The wedding party stood in front of the fireplace, which had been banked with gladioli in peach and white and candles which were placed at either side. The same color scheme was used in the decorations of the table for the reception which followed in the home.

Both the bride and her matron-of-honor, Mrs. John Thompson, of St. Clair, wore green ensembles with matching accessories, the bride wearing one of wool with a corsage of orchids, and Mrs. Thompson of crepe, with a corsage of lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens left that evening for a wedding trip through the northern part of the state. They will reside in Detroit. The bridegroom was graduated from Plymouth high school in 1931, and has many friends here who extend best wishes to him and his bride.

They will reside at 964 Roosevelt avenue, Maplecroft, in Plymouth, after September 15.

WITH this advertisement, Buick washers in a brand-new automobile model year.

1940 production is history—recording the greatest manufacturing and selling season our company has ever known.

You may be sure we grimly realized we had to accomplish things in our new cars for 1941 that we could count on to continue our advance.

So we've taken our greatest all-time car and steadily and carefully brought it forward to a perfection of action, ease, goodness beyond anything ever offered under our name.

Every car in all five series of the whole new line deserves unused fresh-minted language.

Stylewise, their suave and dynamic beauty refreshes the jaded eye as would sight of a hydrant in the desert.

They move and function like young wild things. They're all grace and poise and eagerness. They bring to driving and handling a keener pleasure and a new thrill.

Go see these superb new cars at your dealer's and ask especially about the new micropoise-balanced FIREBALL engines—the 1941 furtherance of Buick's Dynaflex design and kinpin of all the features that make Buick the sensation of the new automobile year.

THE FIREBALL DOES IT!

Modern gasolines have high octane ratings to permit higher compressions without "ping." Note how this piston, which can be used only in valve-in-head engines, rolls the fuel charge into the bowl of a flattened ball that centers around the new, smaller, racing-car type spark plug. Fired at its very heart, this more highly compressed fuel lets go with such force, "ping-free" wallop that any gasoline of 75 octane rating (now available at standard fuel prices) may be used in the 115-hp. engine. Any fuel of 80 octane rating serves in the 125- and 165-hp. engines.

ONLY CAR IN THE WORLD

WITH ALL THESE FEATURES

- BUICK FIREBALL VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINES—115, 125 and 165 horsepower.
- MICROPOISE BALANCING AFTER ASSEMBLY
- COIL SPRINGS ALL AROUND—no lubrication, no spring covers.
- "MASS-STREAM" BODIES, with concealed running boards
- COMPOUND CARBURETION—30-mile economy at 50-mile speed.
- PERMI-FIRM STEERING—for freedom from steering wheel play.
- DUREX MAIN BEARINGS—practically indestructible in normal service
- FORE-AND-AFT DIRECTION SIGNAL with Automatic Cut-Off.
- MASSIVE BUMPERS—with built-in front license frame.
- PLUS: Full-length Torque Tube in Sealed Chassis * Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes * One-Piece "Lift-Off" Hood * Built-in Automatic Choke * Heavy-Duty Oil Bath Air Cleaners * Sealed Beam Headlights * Two-Tone Body Colors * Safety Plate Glass All Around

Plymouth Ice House Was Formerly School Building and Hotel Barn

The old wooden building occupied by the Plymouth Artificial Ice company until its razing in recent weeks to make way for a new A & P super market at Main street and Ann Arbor Trail has had a long and variable career.

First built for a select school known as a Seminary, the structure was erected in 1840 on Church street by E. J. Penniman in memory of his first wife. In the fall of 1853, T. T. Lyon, chairman of the board of school inspectors, appointed Henry Fralick to notify the 131 qualified voters of district No. 1 of a meeting in the Seminary building to elect officers of the school. Pioneers of Plymouth who attended the meeting were Ebenezer Penniman, Jacob Westfall, John Kellogg, Peter and Henry Fralick, Thomas May, Henry Holbrook, William Lidyard, James Moreland, George Starkweather who was the first white child born in Plymouth, Joseph Brearly, William Grow, Franklin Adams, and J. Scattergood.

Penniman offered to give the Seminary the building and lot on which it stood to the district on the condition that the site be established as the future location of the school building for the first district. Teachers employed for the first year at the new school were C. A. Frisbee, first grade; Edward Adams, second, and Sarah Shattuck, third.

Mrs. E. W. Chaffee (then Miss Ella Smith) was preceptress of the old school and one of her pupils was Mrs. Nettie Dibble who has collected and recounted this early city history.

This building was used until 1884 when the schools were moved into a new brick building erected on the same site at a cost of $18,000. During the erection of the brick building, the old frame one was moved out on the common near the Presbyterian church.

It was in 1884 that the same frame building, formerly a school house and recently an ice house, was purchased by Marvin Berdan and moved from Church street to the rear of the Hotel Plymouth on its present site where for many years it served as the hotel barn. Later remodeled and added to, the building housed the Plymouth Artificial Ice company, until its destruction now for the erection of a new store.

At Rose Lake wildlife experiment station, operated by the state conservation department's game division, pheasant nests were discovered and counted by dragging a weighted one-inch rope between two cars at a speed of about five miles an hour, with little damage to the hay. Incubating pheasants do not flush easily, however. In one instance at Rose Lake, the bird did not leave the nest when a tractor passed over it.

'40 Gridders Auger Evil for Opposition

To Test Strength Sept. 20 at Melvindale

This is early fall, 1940. The season and year which the odds and the indications favor as producing a champion football team for Plymouth high school.

It has long been a custom of Plymouth football teams to show a powerhouse in even years and nothing in the odd ones. Fate has so arranged it with no extra help that as soon as Plymouth boasts a winning team for a season, the winning team departs the next year via graduation.

Thus the years, 1938 and 1939. Plymouth's blazing eleven in 1938 swept the Twin Valley Activity association, defeated all its opponents outside the League and ended in a tie with Ecorse for the League lead. At that time Plymouth and Ecorse were under a temporary suspension of athletic relationships between the two schools, since they were.

Then came the general graduation. In 1939 with only a shell of the preceding year's team still at school, Plymouth suffered humiliating losses at the hands of Ecorse and Wayne and ended with the season record of three wins, a tie and four losses.

That is the picture which Anthony S. Matulis reviews as he sees through regular re-appearance this year to fill every position. Last season's sophomores and juniors, who numbered at least three-quarters of the team, have all come back, a year older and a year stronger. And with them are at least 20 others, football heroes who can fill in the weak chinks, if any, in the returning varsity.

Eleven of the 45 men from last year's squad who are back this year will probably receive the call in the inaugural game with Melvindale on September 20, which is singular for two reasons: One, the game is scheduled to be played at night, which is something new in Plymouth football history; two, the game is not to be played at or with Redford Union, which has been the contention in past years. In fact, Redford Union is not yet on the Plymouth schedule.

With September 27 as an open date, there is every chance of Plymouth having four home games, but as the record stands now, five are scheduled away and only three at home. The Plymouth football season will end November 15 at Northville.

Discarding the possibility that the Ecorse game may be played at night, it still will attract more than usual Plymouth interest. Last year in a renewal of the football wars, Ecorse trimmed Plymouth 20-0 in a game which was supposed to show which was the better team. There is still doubt in some minds that Ecorse can repeat. Plymouth meets Birmingham, the winners of the T.V.A. football crown on November 11 at Birmingham.

The most unexpected upset of last season, however, came from a 33-6 Wayne cannonading which knocked all the football deponents for a loop. This is another game which Plymouth will try to reclaim this year.

Jim Birchall, left end; Doug Prough, right end; Bob Hill, quarter back; Joe Scarpa, half back; and Neal Curtiss, full back, are the only regulars last year who have graduated. Each one of their positions had alternates last year who will probably take the job steady this season.

Coach Matulis and Assistant Coach Henry Jensen haven't decided yet on the starting lineup for the Melvindale initiation, but it's a safe guess that it will be mostly familiar faces. For the coaches know, too, that this is 1940, the year for Plymouth to rise and shine.

Pilgrim Prints

Thirteen. Today is the thirteenth of the month. It also marks the beginning of the thirteenth year of publication of the Plymouth Pilgrim Prints.

The Plymouth Pilgrim Prints appears weekly during the school year in The Plymouth Mail. A staff of 15 students semi-weekly compile as complete a record of high school news as possible.

Last year at the annual Pilgrim Prints dinner given by Miss Allen, Bob Daniel was elected editor for the 1940-41 school year. Virginia Rock, who last year held the post of assistant editor, was re-elected to that position. This year's staff, bigger than last year's, is composed of eight veterans and seven newcomers.

Miss Edna M. Allen, assistant principal of Plymouth high school, will act in her customary position as adviser, faculty representative, and copy reader.

The Plymouth Pilgrim Prints was founded in 1928 by the Student Council. Its name is the result of a name contest sponsored by the Council. Originally only class notes appeared, the English classes alternating at the task of writing. Gradually the field was enlarged to its present scope of covering all high school activities.

Side-Glances

Dearst Readers: You probably don't know me but I know you. I'm the little girl who wasn't there but knows all about the affair. In spite of all my futile attempts to dissuade her, my mother makes me wear mid-victorian middy blouses with dark pleated skirts. I always did admire pretty blonde-haired girls with curls begotten by permanent waves. My hair is brown, braided, and topped with a large butterfly bow.

It is said about me that I don't get around but I do know quite a bit about things. Perhaps I could be called a "walking calendar."

By the way, on September 20 from 3:30 to 5:15 the freshmen reception will be held in the high school auditorium. All committees have been chosen for this affair but the plans are rather indefinite. I certainly hope they have dancing (since I'm a freshman) because I love to dance, don't you?

Mama has told me a few rules about dancing—all about not putting your arm around a boy's neck (that looks like you're trying to keep him), and especially about going with another couple or more since it's more fun.

Also, on the same evening Plymouth plays Melvindale there at 8:00. Just think of all the fun it's going to be. Maybe next time I can tell you about something more—that is, if you'd like me to.

Respectfully yours, CLARABELLE.

Cross-Country

Cross-country running has started off with a bang this year when 17 boys, the largest number to ever sign up, started practice. The cross-country boys, as some of you probably know, are the ones wearing track suits who almost always interrupt the band formation during the half of every football game.

The first practice session was held Monday, September 9. Mr. Wallace, the coach, explained that there has to be at least five boys of 16 years of age or over on the team in order to compete. Contrary to popular opinion, one does not run until exhausted, but sets out in order to get the right pace for running up and down hill and on the level, and to develop the heart. The larger the heart the slower it can pump in order to supply the necessary blood.

Following is the schedule: Oct. 4—Dearborn, here. Oct. 11—Wayne, here. Oct. 18—Ypsilanti, there. Oct. 24—Ecorse, there. Oct. 26—Regionals. Nov. 2—State meet. Open—River Rouge.

The T.V.A.A. meet is to be held on the Plymouth course this year. The date has not been set.

Inspirations

(By A. Hope)

Here is a column of school philosophy, one that brings a combination of high school and national life and tries to fill the gap between the two.

High school writers do not possess adequate experience to write a column and we admit it, but others have accomplished the trick so why shouldn't we try? At any rate, we rise to report that:

Harry Eggleston is just proud of his surname and the list of great men who have made it famous, but even so, he has encountered before those who have difficulty in pronouncing it. So after he had survived the initiation ceremonies in his first day at high school he was quite prepared.

Sitting in his English class along with about 35 other first day "John Does" Harry impressed himself forcibly on the teacher and his classmates. Eggleston doesn't seem a hard name to pronounce, but Harry's past experiences had left him doubtful. So, the English teacher inquired: "And what is your name?" "Just call me Eggie," said Harry.

Our sincere appreciation goes to Oscar James Campbell, writing in the July issue of Harpers. Professor Campbell takes a deep breath and proves that the man responsible for William Shakespeare's plays was none other than William Shakespeare. This is a simple solution to the mystery. We have always thought that Shakespeare wrote Shakespeare.

Focus the spotlight on the election situation: Willkie charges Roosevelt with violating the Hatch act; Roosevelt disregards it. Flynn accuses Willkie of being anti-labor; Willkie disregards it. And so on down the line.

We can visualize what will be happening just before election when the janitor of Commonwealth and Southern ignores the accusation by the White House shoe-shine boy that he hasn't paid his union dues.

Affairs have reached such a state that popular orchestras are afraid to play either "Back Home Again in Indiana" or "Home on the Range" because they don't know whether their audience is mostly Democratic or Republican.

New Teachers

Miss Moreen Shaffer, a new teacher in the home economics department, claims Adrian as her home town. She attended high school at Morenci, Michigan and later, Michigan State Normal college, where she received a B.S. degree. This is Miss Shaffer's first teaching position.

Her hobbies are swimming and sewing.

Miss Mary Louise Lamb, our new typing teacher, comes from Ypsilanti, where she attended grade school and high school. She received her bachelor of Science degree in Michigan State college. This is Miss Lamb's first teaching position.

When asked about the coming Plymouth - Ypsilanti football game, Miss Lamb said she would make no predictions as to the outcome of the game.

Miss Lamb's hobby is swimming.

Miss Elizabeth Jane Hale attended the Bogota high school at Bogota, New Jersey. She went to Bergen Junior college for two years and transferred to Michigan State Normal college for the last two, and received a bachelor of arts degree.

While in college she was active in dramatics, newspaper work, and music.

Mr. Westcott, the new vocations and industrial arts teacher, is a graduate of the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti and has a bachelor of science degree in industrial arts. He has previously taught at the Roosevelt and Lincoln schools at Ypsilanti. Mr. Westcott is a full-fledged Plymouth booster.

Insurance

To aid athletes, a plan has been devised which the same as the one used to insure automobiles against accidents. The Athletic Accident Benefit Plan, as it is called, sponsored by the State Athletic Association, enables an athlete to take out insurance on himself against possible injuries received while participating in any high school sport.

The fee is $1.50 for all sports, including football, or for all sports except football, the fee is 75 cents. Not only is a member of the accident insurance plan able to collect on injuries or fractures or torn muscles, but also on injuries to the teeth.

For example as to how the plan works: If a member loses the sight of one eye through injuries received in sports, he can collect $200; lacerations, the smallest payable injury receives $3.

Parents are urged to take out an insurance on their child if he is to participate in any sport. A physician must examine the applicant before he is able to take out a policy.

Government

General political activity has keyed the second week of high school for this semester. Plans and preparations have been afoot for the election to be held on Tuesday next. An assembly was held on Tuesday, September 10, in which students explained the meanings in connection with the system of student government inaugurated on February 15 of the last school year.

Class and school caucuses were explained by Phyllis Hawkins in regard to the students' duties and privileges. Rights of petition was explained by Ruth Drews. Billy Bakewell, of the ninth grade, was responsible for a detailed explanation of registration duties to the junior high assembly.

At the election, the mayor, council representatives, and class officers will be elected by the entire student body.

Reception

The senior class will give the annual freshman reception Friday, September 20, in the high school gym, from 3:30 to 5:15. This reception is given each year to welcome the incoming freshman class to the high school.

The committees in charge of the reception are as follows: Refreshments, E. Bohl, chairman; Frances Dunn, Doris Campbell, Susan Millard, Dorothy Waters, Lloyd Clark, and Bill Wernett; entertainment, Ardith Rowland, chairman; Ruth Parmelee, Betty Brown, Jack Crisp, Allen Owens, Evelyn Stewart, and Jim Zuckerman; invitations and reservations, Phyllis Hawkins, chairman; Virginia Rock, Warren Hoffman, Lillian Fisher, and Orlin Lewis; cleanup, Bob Daniel, chairman; Ruth Wellman, Beverly Smith, Olive Bakewell, and William Elliott.

Due to the unusual size of this year's freshman class, it will be necessary to make reservations for seats.

Projects

Home Economics projects were completed by 111 girls during the summer for a total of 150 projects. Each girl had her choice of subject. Among those were food preservation, child care, personal budgets, personal improvement, clothing construction, care and repair, and room arrangement and improvement.

The projects were carried on during the two weeks following the end of the school year and the two weeks preceding the re-opening of school. Ten per cent of the girls worked for credit while the remaining 90 per cent worked to complete their home economics studies.

Mrs. Soule reported that as soon as the projects have been marked the best ones will be selected to be placed on display in the showcase on the second floor.

Calendar

- Sept. 13—Petition deadline for class elections.
- Sept. 17—Class elections.
- Sept. 20—3:30-5:15—Senior and Freshman reception.
- Sept. 20—Football, Melvindale, there (night game).
- Sept. 27—Football—Open date.

Writers' Club

Of the seven members of last year's Pilgrim Prints staff, two, Virginia Rock and Paul Harsha, became members of the Quill and Scroll. This is an international honorary society for high school journalists. In order to be a member one must be able to write well and must be either a junior or a senior. He must also send two of his best articles along with his application and $2.00. He then receives a membership pin, and one year's subscription to the Quill and Scroll magazine.

Don'ts

To help the athletes of Plymouth high school remain eligible, the Pilgrim Prints is publishing a list of eligibility "Don't" put out by the Michigan High School Athletic association. These are the "Don'ts":

1. Do not accept money from anyone for playing.
2. Do not accept any award (medal, trophy, or merchandise) the value of which is more than one dollar ($1.00).
3. Do not compete under an assumed name.
4. Do not accept money or any other consideration for teaching or officiating at any form of athletics, sports, or games.
5. Do not play any outside game or contest in the same sport, after you have represented your high school in that sport, until the high school season has been completed.
6. Do not practice with any outside professional team during the high school season in a sport.
7. Do not play as a member of an "all-star" team in any "all-star" charity exhibition, or other similar type contest in football or basketball.

If there are any questions, see Mr. Matulis, Mr. Dykhouse, or Mr. Smith.

Besides these rules, the athletes must pass in at least three subjects. Remember, better be safe than ineligible!

Editorial

Since—the beginning of this year and the onrush of war against the world's largest countries, the United States has been becoming "America Conscious." Besides the publication of slogans declaring Uncle Sam's neutrality, the flag has appeared more times than it has ever before during these last 25 post-war years.

The flag literally appears to be naked eye as a piece of material—cotton or silk, as the case may be—in three colors, red, white and blue. However, in the mind of TRUE Americans, it stands for a country with 164 years of independence and for a 5,000-year struggle of liberty.

Being the third oldest flag in the world—older than the Union Jack and the French tri-color—the history is one of the most interesting. As was stated before, its color is hued in red—for valor, zeal, and fervency; white—for hope, purity, and clearness of life, and rectitude of conduct; and blue—the color of heaven, for reverence to God, loyalty, sincerity, justice, and truth. To summarize this: It stands for the courage, hope, and Christianity in man.

An ancient symbol of India, Persia, and Egypt, the star, is used in a constellation of stars in the federal union. Washington explained it thus: "We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing we have been separated from her, and the white stripe shall go down to posterity representing Liberty."

The flag may be said to be a lamp of the ages having seen the history of the United States from 1777. First flown from Fort Stanwick at the present Rome, New York, it was under fire three days later. Since then it has flown victorious over Saratoga, Yorktown, Gettysburg, Manilla Bay, and Chateau-Thierry. Beginning on the Atlantic seaboard, it saw three thousand miles of westward expansion. It now watches over a nation of one hundred thirty millions, struggling to decide which alternative will preserve its fate.

Hand in hand go the Star-Spangled Banner and this national tribute to our flag:

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands: One nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Debate Squad

"All pigs are white, you are white, therefore, you are a pig." This does logic run in the first days of Plymouth high school's 1940 debate team.

Eight people turned out to begin gathering material on the topic. "Resolved, that the power of the Federal government should be increased."

Veterans of last year who are returning are Virginia Rock, Phyllis Hawkins, Marion Goodman, Robert Daniel, and James Zuckerman. Besides these veterans there are three novices, Doris Strauss, Bob Dailey and Archie King.

The schedule, as yet, is undetermined.

Girl Reserves

Opening the first meeting of the semester for the Senior Girl Reserves, Virginia Rock and Ardith Rowland, the two delegates to the 1940 summer conference, held at Camp Kitanniwa for Girl Reserves of Michigan, related their experiences and offered suggestions for various programs during the coming semester.

The theme of the conference, "We Face Our World," was carried out in daily talks by Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, who has specialized in psychology at Northwestern University. Mrs. Duvall gave five talks during the week with the subjects "People Who Belong to Us," "People and How They Grow," "People Who Don't Belong," "People Who Never Have Enough," and "People Well Never See." These speeches treated with such interesting subjects to high school girls as the reason for "cliques," why girls want to go "steady," how girls can become popular, how the wealth of the nation is distributed and the problems it has caused, the refugee problem and what high school students can do

Pilot Wins Soaring Badge

(By Skysailor)

Sunday, September 8 many pilots came to the gliderport particularly late in the afternoon. The morning had been rainy but clearing skies made the weather at least somewhat suitable for soaring.

Herb Abrams proved again that it is anybody's game by putting in the best flight of the day. He stayed up 14 minutes and 30 seconds in the Midwest Sailplane serial number one belonging to the Midwest Sailplane company. Naturally the Midwest boys are going to point with pride to this flight, but such action need not detract from the importance of young Abrams' good piloting technique. Herbie did a fine job.

Herbie is a member of the LIT glider club, but somehow goes to fly the Midwest occasionally. This time when he found a thermal he spiraled very nicely in it and stayed with it in spite of drifting with the wind quite far to the south of the field. He reported reaching 1500 feet after having released at perhaps 1,000 feet. This is the first time that Abrams has soared for more than five minutes above his point of release. He is, therefore, entitled to the C soaring badge. It happens that Ted Bellak was on the field and observed the flight. Ted being an NAA observer will be able to vouch for the true character of the flight and Herb should therefore be admitted into the official ranks of soaring pilots.

Ted Bellak was flying his Minimoa Sailplane at Triangle Sunday. He did very well on two flights out of four, getting nine minutes, 20 seconds on one and 11 minutes, five seconds on the other.

Six ships were out on the line—three Franklins and three Sailplanes. The Sailplanes were the Minimoa, the Wolf and the Midwest.

Saturday the XYZ Soaring club was active with two ships flying. The Wolf and the Franklin. The Soarheads also came out with their Franklin and made a few flights. Lyle Maxey made one flight of 19 minutes in the Wolf and reached 1,400 feet. He did a very smooth job of flying in the very weak lift in order to accomplish such a flight.

Considerable training was carried on during Saturday and Sunday. Among those who are just starting was Robert Egge, of Plymouth. He appears to be very enthusiastic and is doing very well so far.

HELPING CRYSTAL FALLS

Crystal Falls business and professional men were so elated over the start of open pit operations there by the Inland Steel company that they gave a testimonial dinner for officials of the company and the contractors in charge of stripping the iron ore. It is the first mine to be opened in the community in a quarter of a century and from 1,200 to 1,400 tons of ore are being loaded and shipped daily to the docks at Escanaba. Three crews are employed in eight hour shifts. That means a great deal to Crystal Falls, which has been about as hard hit as any community in the Peninsula. Tom Conlin in The Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

WALLACE FUMBLES

Henry A. Wallace's acceptance speech boils down to the argument that President Roosevelt should be elected to the tradition-breaking third term because American democracy and vital American interests are put in peril by the war in Europe. The Republican Party cannot be trusted in the present emergency because, he contends, as "the party of appeasement," it is being supported by Hitler and Mussolini in every possible way.

Present plans are that the former Secretary of Agriculture, as candidate for Vice-President, shall be the chief Democratic spokesman on the stump. However that works out, his Des Moines acceptance is the first formal Democratic answer to the Republican acceptance by Wendell Willkie and Senator McNary.

Stress on international affairs was to be expected. The total concentration on Hitler and war, together with the manner in which Wallace presents Roosevelt's claims on this account, by no means can be viewed as an expected matter-of-course development. We think that in attacking the Republican as the Hitler party, Wallace has cast a boomerang which will return the New Deal, the Democrats, and Roosevelt a hard blow.—George Breen in The Iron River Reporter.

IS HITLER TROUBLED?

Hitler's speech in Berlin has special military interest because of its appeal to Great Britain for mutual cessation of night air bombing. Hitler described the night attacks as "useless" and it seems probable that this part of his speech was due to pressure of the German people, disquieted by hostilities in the dark.

The Fuehrer's protest marks his first defensive utterance since the beginning of the war. Hitherto he has always spoken entirely about forthcoming offensives. Now he indicates that Germany wants to moderate the war by eliminating night raiding.

It is strange that Hitler thus tries to lay down rules limiting air warfare after his frequent references to the great preponderance of German aviation strength and his promise to the German people that they would have air mastery over Britain. It would seem that aviation plans of the German high command are not working out according to schedule.

Hitler's statement that he waited three months before retaliating against British night bombings was intended as a moral argument. But, as a matter of fact, German aviators had no training in night navigation and operations. It was necessary to improvise instruction for them which quite possibly accounts for the three months' delay in hitting back.

German air specialists have scoffed at night raids. They were held to be useless so long as German's large numerical plane superiority would allow daylight attacks of sufficient intensity to guarantee air domination, but this mis-judgment is about the most serious the German high command has made during the war. Hitler now tries to rectify it by urging suspension of night attacks.

The British realized at the outbreak of the war that major daylight air attacks against Germany would be impossible until they more nearly approached German strength. So they have given their pilots specialized training in the technique of night attack against which defense is far less effective than in the day time.

The British, too, practiced defensive methods for night use which were neglected by the Germans because of their contempt for night air maneuvers. These factors have allowed the British to gain superiority over the Germans in accuracy of night air attack and in repelling night bombers. The one advantage the Germans possess is the short distance from air bases in France and Belgium to British cities. The British, however, have far wider areas open to attack, which makes German defense concentrations more difficult.

If the British were to forego night air operations they would have scant means of offsetting the German daylight offensives. It seems improbable, therefore, that Hitler's attempt to modify the air campaign in his own interest will be successful until such time as he is able to make a better showing of strength.

Hitler's threat to exterminate British cities unless night raids cease represents a decline in the magnitude of his promises to the German people. First, he assured Germany that he would destroy the British Empire. Then the destruction was to be limited to Great Britain, and now it is to be confined to municipalities.

This limitation of purpose is accompanied by a long extension of time for accomplishment. Early this summer Berlin was announcing the end of the war would come with the capture of London by mid-August. Now, the Fuehrer says he has prepared for a war of five years. How German morale will respond to the disillusionment may begin to find expression before the end of the coming winter. To forestall such hazard Herr Hitler will have to do some fast thinking and some effective fighting.—George Handy in The Ypsilanti Press.

Does Our Charity Begin At Home?

"All the problems of the world could be settled easily, if men were only willing to think."
—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler

Today in this world of unrest with ever darkening clouds of fear hanging over our peace-loving country, we are faced with many problems relating to our well-being and the fate of our fellow human beings. Cries of the militarist mingle with that of the Pacifist in our governmental departments; confusion reigns in the mind of the man on the street created by continuous demands for more adequate defense preparation in these United States while on the other side of the fence sincere individuals decry the measures that they feel are certain to drag us into another World War as in 1918.

In the midst of all this turmoil arises the problem of helping the needy, the unemployed, worthy charities, hospitals, churches and schools right here at home as well as taking care of the suffering created by the war abroad.

The Red Cross has been working courageously day and night to help alleviate the untold misery and plight of our fellow men in flood and disaster in our country as well as in war-torn Europe. But, the aid of that splendid organization has not been adequate in many instances in giving help to many individuals and organizations right in our own state of Michigan who are outside the scope of its influence.

Our social agencies are finding it difficult to take care of our needy families and worthy "down and out" individuals who definitely are in dire circumstances of poverty. Many charitable organizations as our own Starr Commonwealth for Boys at Albion and Father Flannigan's Boys Town in Nebraska are sorely pressed at times to continue their fine work.

The education of our children suffers due to overcrowded conditions in the schoolrooms where by the schoolday must be shortened and the program of a thorough education is annihilated by a mass production system in which the child is the loser.

Thousands of worthy individuals all over the United States are in urgent need of medical and dental care and there are not enough clinics and medical equipment to help them so that they may go through life with sound bodies to become happy citizens. Our doctors are working voluntarily in many cases without remuneration and without sufficient funds necessary in providing modern facilities and medical equipment to care for those who need medical attention.

Many of our people are still unemployed in spite of measures created to cut down the list on the welfare. Defense methods may absorb many in months to come but countless numbers will never be happy until some means of creating jobs and then finding the individual best suited and trained to fill these positions is conceived.

Church programs are curtailed sometimes to detriment the whole theory of religious training and education.

What is the cause of the shortcomings and curtailment of the program of these symbols of our democracy?

Just three small words is the answer . . . mercy "lack of funds" to help carry on the necessary work of our social agencies so that they may effectively construct a more unified and progressive program to relieve the plight of our own right here at home.

Let us first consider the needs and shortcomings of our people and institutions in our United States of America. Then let us give till it hurts. And then let us turn with an open heart to the war oppressed, the suffering and injured overseas, helping them in every way possible.

P. S. Let's not forget Father Flannigan, Floyd Starr and the rest of the institutions which have been doing such a great job through the years for Americans. Let's continue to give them our support. In our hysteria we may forget all the good charities that need help here.
