Over 2,800 Frozen Locker Plants Important in Protecting the National Food Supply

You will remember that during the period of the World War, some 22 years ago there were "meatless" days, and restrictions placed on other foodstuffs, so that more foods might be available for the fighting forces at home and abroad.

FROZEN MEAT NOT HARMED IN VITAMIN B CONTENT

According to word that comes from South Dakota Experimental Station, tests have been conducted on fresh lamb frozen at a temperature of minus four degrees and held at 10° to 12°—and early results indicate that the vitamin B content is not materially harmed.

Mr. Sportsman:

To you hunting is a great sport and pleasure, and undoubtedly you value very highly your game. If so, may we suggest that you should not overlook the fact that a refrigerated food locker will preserve your game for future use and enjoyment at very little cost.

ACTUALLY "FRESHER THAN FRESH"

According to recent investigations of Food Research authorities, it appears that vegetables quick frozen and kept frozen in storage lockers, can actually come to our tables fresher than the so-called fresh vegetables from farm, market, or store. Storage studies of fresh vegetables held at room temperatures indicate rapid loss of vitamin C. Fresh spinach, for instance, loses half of vitamin C if allowed to stand at room temperature three days.

Methodist Women's New Society Meets October 9

The first monthly meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Endeavor, new organization combining all Methodist Women's activities, will take place Wednesday noon, October 9, with unit in charge. At this time further plans will be made for the annual bazaar which is to be held Wednesday, November 6.

Mrs. Howard Bowden of Ann Arbor was elected president of the society at its charter meeting, September 18. Mrs. Russell Hopkins, wife of a Detroit minister, was a guest speaker at that meeting.

Officers were installed at a candlelight service Wednesday evening, September 25. During the singing of "Best Be The Tie That Binds" the circle of friendship was formed. Presbyterian Auxiliary Hears Foreign Student Hoping for another record attendance such as greeted the September speaker at the Presbyterian Auxiliary, the committee has again prepared an interesting program for the October 9 meeting.

"In Lands Afar" is the motif for the afternoon, with a foreign student from the University of Michigan giving the talk about customs and manners of a distant land. Mrs. Anthony Matulis will be chairman for the afternoon, and Mrs. Alvin Taylor will have charge of the devotionals.

Members and interested friends are asked to be present promptly at 2:00 for a short business meeting preceding the program. The Auxiliary is made up of Presbyterian women and others interested in the work of the church, and the attendance invitation is general.

Mrs. Carrie Lambman entertained her "500" club, Wednesday afternoon, in her home on Maple avenue.

Luella Meyers entertained the OKD club, Tuesday, at a potluck supper, in her home on Ann street.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Neale, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cowgill, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Moss, Mr. and Mrs. J. Merle Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garlett and Dr. and Mrs. John L. Olsaver plan to have dinner Saturday at the Topinka Tavern in Detroit.

The Child Study group, of which Mrs. Leonard Curtis, of Redford, formerly of Plymouth, is a member, surprised her Tuesday evening by joining her in her home for the regular meeting and social hour. They presented Mrs. Curtis with a remembrance. Mrs. Henry Agosta was welcomed as a new member that evening.

Mrs. Hoenecke Contributes Simple Twenty-Minute "Wash Day Dinner"

Mrs. Edgar Hoenecke shown reading to her five children: (left to right, on the floor) Heinz, 12; Karl, 10; and Paula, 13. Lois, 7, and Kurt, 5, are on either side of their mother.

A simple "wash day dinner" which only requires 20 minutes is contributed this week by Mrs. Edgar Hoenecke, wife of the Evangelical Lutheran pastor, who manages a busy household with her five children.

While setting the dinner table and opening a can of tomato juice, this "quickie" dinner may be prepared in a large drip pan. Mrs. Hoenecke fills the pan with dabs of mashed potatoes, which may be left-overs from the Sunday dinner, onion rings, and patties of ground round steak in separate portions around the pan. Either catsup or mustard may be spread over the top of the steak patties. After cooking for 20 minutes, the dinner is ready for serving, and the large cooker may be placed on a platter to be served directly from the table. The main course is completed with a tomato juice appetizer and raw carrot sticks.

An equally simple dessert to accompany this dinner is apple sauce and sugar cookies. Mrs. Hoenecke's recipe for sugar cookies is as follows:

Sugar Cookies
1 cup sugar
1 cup lard
2 eggs
1/2 cup sweet milk
1 scant teaspoon soda
2 teaspoonsful baking powder
nutmeg and salt

Another all-around favorite with the Hoenecke family is a Canadian bacon boiled dinner, the bacon to simmer slowly for half an hour in an inch of water in a deep well cooker into which raw potatoes, carrots, and cabbage are added. Mrs. Hoenecke's special dessert with this dinner is German applekuchen (apple cake), the recipe for which includes:

Apple Cake
2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1/3 teaspoonful salt

Into these ingredients are added 1 tablespoonful of butter and one tablespoonful of lard. Beat one egg in a cup, fill with milk, and add to the above. Cover with cut apples and then cover with the following:

2 1/2 cups sugar
2 1/2 teaspoonfuls cinnamon
Add 3 tablespoonfuls of butter and strew over sliced apples. This recipe makes three cakes.

Another choice dinner menu is scaloppine of veal with peas which requires the following:

Scaloppine Veal
1 1/2 pounds veal steak
4 tablespoonfuls of butter
1 small can of peas
2 ozs. or 1/4 cup of white wine
salt and pepper
flour

"Cut the veal in small pieces about one inch square," Mrs. Hoenecke directs. "Then, dip the slices so they will be flat. Salt, pepper, and flour the veal on both sides and fry in butter until delicately brown. Add the wine and lower the fire. Cook until the wine is almost entirely evaporated and the gravy becomes a little thick. Remove the meat to a hot platter. Then add the peas to the gravy and cook a few minutes longer. Pour the peas and gravy over the veal and serve."

A popular item at which Mrs. Hoenecke is especially adept is barbecued spareribs, the recipe for which follows:

Barbecued Spareribs
4 pounds spareribs
1 medium onion (chopped)
2 tablespoonfuls butter
2 tablespoonfuls vinegar

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillip attended a recording party, Tuesday evening, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas in Detroit.

Mrs. Francis Beals and Miss Elta Reynolds, of Detroit, were joint hostesses at a steak roast, Tuesday of last week, at Hillside Inn, when they entertained 12 teachers of the Coolidge school in Detroit. Later they enjoyed bridge in the Beals home on Mill street.

Central P. T. A. Meets Tuesday

The first fall meeting of the Central Grade school P.T.A. will be held Tuesday evening, October 8, at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Central school.

After a short talk by Superintendent George A. Smith on "Some Current School Problems," Mrs. Gustave H. Enss will give a selection of poem recitations. The sixth grade chorus, under the direction of Miss Georgia Zemer, will sing a group of songs. Mrs. Thomas Phillips, chairman of the first program, announces.

Thomas Phillips, accompanied by Miss Ruth Erickson, will lead group singing at each meeting. Neighborhood chairmen will contact P. T. A. members to arrange transportation to meetings. This is an innovation which it is believed will assure a larger attendance at every gathering.

The new officers for this year are: Mrs. F. R. Hoheisel, president; Mrs. William Arscott, vice-president; Miss Grace Robinson, secretary; Miss June Jewell, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Dobbs, chairman, program committee, assisted by Mrs. John Bloxom and Mrs. Leo Crane; and Mrs. Murray G. O'Neil, press chairman.

Over 100 ladies attended the delightful luncheon and card party given Friday by the Past Matrons' club of the Eastern Star. Many lovely door and table prizes were distributed.

Mrs. Harry Mumby and Mrs. Arthur Blunk entertained at a luncheon bridge, Thursday, in the latter's home on Haggerty highway, for the members of the Jollyate bridge club.

The members include Mrs. E. W. Blunk, Mrs. LeRoy Jewell, Mrs. William Rengert, Mrs. John Kahrl, Mrs. George Gorton and Mrs. Harry Brown.

"Girdling Your Figure"

What is your lucky number? There are seven fundamental types of figures, and your individual figure problem is included in one of those types.

Every woman is anxious to remodel herself somewhat for fall, and the best place to start is at the foundation of her dress, for a well-fitted foundation garment is essential to the smooth appearance of exterior grooming.

Before "girdling your figure" for fall, you should consult a competent corsetiere who will analyze your figure according to one of the following figure types:

1. Average figure, with standard bust, waist, and hip measurements.
2. Full hip and average bust.
3. Full bust and average hip.
4. Full bust and straight hip.
5. Short waisted, average or full bust, and average hip.
6. Long waisted, average bust and full hip.

In preparing your figure for the fall months, the first step is to adjust your weight, and then go about buying a garment suited to your individual needs, for girdles do not reduce weight. They are designed merely to mould and to support the figure.

Good posture is a requisite to good fitting. Well-trained abdominal muscles and straight shoulders will do wonders for any figure. Square yourself off, then, in a good posture for your corsetiere's measuring tape.

By measuring the bust, waist and hips, the corsetiere will classify you into one of the seven basic figure types.

If yours is the average figure, an open weave two-way stretch elastic foundation would be helpful in an all-in-one combination will answer your needs. A two-way stretch is a girdle which has vertical as well as horizontal elasticity.

Women Voters Meet Friday, October 11

Mrs. Woodbury Gives Report on Convention at Grand Rapids

The first fall meeting of the League of Women Voters will be a dessert luncheon at the home of Mrs. Thomas Bateman, 1347 West Ann Arbor Trail, at 1 o'clock, Friday, October 11.

Various league members will present a resume of the history of the organization and its purposes for the benefit of new members. Amendments and campaign issues of the election will also be discussed at the meeting.

Mrs. Bruce Woodbury, president of the league, attended the state convention of the League of Women Voters at Grand Rapids September 26 and 27.

The highlight of the convention was a banquet meeting addressed by Mrs. Richard Field, vice president of the national league, and James A. Kennedy, president of the Michigan Merit State association. With "A Challenge to Democracy" as their subject, Mrs. Field and Mr. Kennedy both spoke on the necessity of a qualified personnel in government and of an extension of civil service.

Mr. Kennedy, Mrs. Woodbury reports, explained Amendment No. 2 on the fall ballot, which provides for the creation of a civil service system in the state. The proposed amendment would set up a four-person civil service board to be appointed by the governor for an eight-year period. In subsequent periods, members would be appointed for two, four, six, and eight year terms.

"More than two members are to be of the same political party; two members are to serve on a non-salaried basis; a personnel director is to be appointed by the board after fulfilling the requirements of a competitive examination. All state employees are to be members of the civil service, and given civil service rating.

The other exceptions would be holders of elective offices, department heads, secretaries of elected officers, members of the Army and Navy, and members of state institutions of high learning.

The amendment proposes that no civil servants would be demoted or discharged for racial, religious, or partisan considerations, and that the status of those now under civil service shall remain unchanged.

Mr. Kennedy explained that the appropriation for the first six months will be one-half of one per cent of the state payroll, and that each following fiscal year the appropriation must be at least one per cent of the annual payroll," said Mrs. Woodbury, who added that the amendment in question has been studied and formulated through the efforts and interest of the League of Women Voters.

State Auctions Off Oil Leases

With interest of the oil industry stimulated by a rise in the price of crude and by promising strikes made recently in seven counties, the state on Friday, October 4 will hold the year's biggest auction of oil and gas leases for state owned lands. More than 37,000 acres will be offered.

The new oil developments have been in Berrien, Cass, Huron and Allegan counties, and the new gas production has been brought in in Clare, Missaukee and Osceola counties.

Lands for which oil and gas leases are to be auctioned Friday by the land division of the department of conservation are in Antrim, Arenac, Clare, Gladwin, Kalkaska, Mason, Midland, Missaukee, Oceana and Roscommon counties. One 40-acre block in northeastern Clare county will be leased only if a well now being drilled nearby proves to be a producer.

Correspondence Study at U. of M.

The University of Michigan Extension service announces the addition of supervised correspondence instruction in cooperation with training section of the WPA as a regular part of its program of adult education, and Claude J. Dykhouse, principal of the Plymouth high school, has been appointed supervisor for correspondence students here.

The correspondence courses are intended to supplement local school programs of adult education, and to provide educational opportunities for adults in those communities which do not provide educational services for out-of-school people. Credit and non-credit courses are designed to include those who were unable to finish high school, those who are preparing for college but unable to attend, enrollees in CCC camps, enrollees in NYA camps and resident handicapped, study organizations.

Carefully prepared outlines of material to be covered, containing lesson assignments, and explanatory material, are sent to students. Each course has approximately 16 lesson assignments; each assignment involves about one week's work on the part of the student. When the lessons are finished, the supervisor assembles them and sends them to the university for correction. Instructors in the correspondence study office grade the papers carefully, note any mistakes, and write supplementary instructions on the lesson papers, which are then returned to the study supervisor for redistribution to the students. Further information may be obtained from the high school principal, Mr. Dykhouse.

When Is A Rainbow Trout A Steelhead?

When is a rainbow trout a steelhead? The answer is: when it gets to salt water. This is no conundrum, but the answer of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research, final court of appeal for many a barbershop and country store argument among anglers. In the western states, where Michigan's rainbows and/or steelheads originated, the same fish known as rainbow in the streams become steelheads when they migrate to sea, and steelhead progeny become rainbows again when they are in the streams. Fish of this species in Michigan which cannot reach salt water remain rainbows all their lives, though potentially they are still steelheads.

So far as Michigan law is concerned, it makes no difference which common name is applied to the fish whose scientific title is salmo iridus.

Salem Resident Also Collects Shakers

Mrs. Robert M. Wilson of Salem informs us, after reading about the salt and pepper shaker collection of Mrs. James Richard written up in the paper recently, that she, too, has the same hobby.

The distinguishing feature of Mrs. Wilson's collection is that most of her 85 sets were gathered as souvenirs from different cities which she has visited. A pair of pelicans carry the stamp of Charlevoix on them, and a set of tulip shakers from Windsor, Ontario bear the insignia of the Canadian maple leaf. Mrs. Wilson has a salt and pepper set of crabs from Mackinaw City, a set of elephants from Lansing, which she considers rather appropriate, and other sets from Toledo, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Cheboygan, Traverse City, and points throughout northern Michigan, that she has gathered on vacation trips. Her oldest set, now 40 years old, once belonged to her husband's grandmother, mother of William Holmes of Plymouth. She also treasures a set given her mother as a wedding present.

DISGRACING MICHIGAN.

Monday and Tuesday of this week the great state of Michigan had the honor of a visit from a very worthy candidate for President of these United States. Any one to be nominated for President, the highest office within the gift of the electors of this country, by one of the great political parties, is entitled to courteous and respectful treatment from ALL the people, irrespective of political views.

To the shame of Michigan the visit of Wendell Willkie to Detroit, Pontiac and elsewhere was marked by incidents of utter disrespect and contemptible conduct upon the part of several people—some holders of public offices under the present federal administration.

Probably the lowest act of disrespect and degeneracy took place in Pontiac when eggs were hurled at the Willkie car and smeared the wife of the candidate for President. It is unbelievable that in an enlightened country, such a thing could possibly happen, but it did happen, to the everlasting shame of the state in which we live. One female adherent of the present Washington administration went so far in her hostile acts, that a girl bystander in Detroit was seriously injured.

For nearly eight years we have had preached to us class hatreds. We have been hounded over the radio and through the newspapers with propaganda which sought to create ill-will and discord. Those who have steadfastly refused to go down into the gutter and become mud-throwers have been the targets of vicious assaults upon the part of administration leaders.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that minor job holders within the administration and misguided henchmen go so far as to hurl vegetables and eggs at a candidate who is peacefully pursuing a dignified political campaign?

While we are ashamed and humiliated to think that such contemptible acts of rowdiness took place within our state, one can place the blame directly upon the doorsteps of those who have by their utterances and conduct, inspired this un-American, unpatriotic and dangerous mental attitude among certain low-thinking types of people. The blame does not lie upon our public schools, as the Governor states.

Our greatest fear is that this propaganda campaign of ill-will and class hatred has been carried forward to such an extent that unless it is immediately curbed, we will soon be reaping the whirlwind.

Notes on the G. O. P. Convention

Michigan Republicans met at Grand Rapids last Friday in their annual fall convention. The event is of more than passing interest because of the fact that it marks the beginning of the end of boss-rule in Michigan Republicanism. Governor Dickinson did his part to help bring an end to the domination of a clique that has been running the Republican party for a number of years. While the job is not yet complete, an excellent start has been made. Many about the state believe that the action taken at the convention by the elimination of the rump delegation from Wayne county will have a tremendously important and beneficial bearing on Republicanism in the forthcoming election. It clearly demonstrates that the efforts of a group of citizens over a period of years have not been in vain. They have won the first important victory—and more are to come.

U. S. A. Heggblom of Detroit who went up to Manistique in the Upper Peninsula last summer to run for the Republican nomination for congress in the eleventh district, showed up at the convention as a rump delegate on the machine slate. Heggblom was originally on the Barnard ticket but when a protest was made before the election commission in Detroit that he was a candidate for office in the Upper Peninsula, his name was withdrawn. He was overwhelmingly defeated in his congressional race because of resentment against the fact that voters in that part of the state figured he "didn't" belong in the contest, even though he claimed legal residence in Manistique. One must be a legal resident of the election precinct in which he is elected a delegate, but not so as a candidate for congress.

State Representative George Higgins of Oakland county who during his first term in the state legislature made a record of which any member might well be proud, did his bit during the convention to help clean up the Wayne county mess. He was made a member of the credentials committee from this district, failing by only one vote of being elected chairman of the committee. The boss crowd didn't want him as they knew Higgins to be a fighter and that he would have insisted on fair play before the committee. John Smolinski of Grand Rapids, personal friend of Frank McKay, was the chairmanship winner. Representative Higgins didn't hedge in his fight, however, and when the convention by an overwhelming vote, sustained the position he had taken in committee deliberations, he rightly felt that it was almost a personal victory. Oakland county didn't fool either on its vote for the nomination for attorney general. It gave Rushton 49 votes and only 20 for Reed.

Harry Newman, Ford Motor company lobbyist up at Lansing, and a sly boss henchman, was in close conference before the convention with Fred Ehrman, secretary of the state liquor commission. Ehrman, for some unknown reason, was not active about the hotel corridors as at past conventions.

Former Secretary of State Charles DeLand, who as sergeant-at-arms at the Wayne county convention, couldn't suppress the noisy machine delegates, accepted a whole lot of "kidding" from his many friends about the state for the way he "kept order" at the Wayne county convention. Mr. DeLand is a candidate for the state legislature from the city of Detroit and those who know of his former splendid state services are hoping that he will be elected.

Arthur Wood, who advertised extensively about the state that he was "anti-boss" and "anti-machine" and not only voted for the boss candidate for chairman of the Wayne county convention, but he showed up in Grand Rapids as one of the rump delegates. He took part in all the machine conferences and did his bit in the unsuccessful attempt to seat the rump delegates. Notwithstanding his advertised claims, he has always been aligned with the bosses. It is difficult to understand how any candidate would dare to misrepresent to the voters his position on an issue of this kind in such a brazen way as Wood did.

James Thomson, of Jackson, former chairman of the Republican State Central committee and recent candidate for nomination as lieutenant governor, was at the convention backed by endorsement of the Jackson county delegation for any place he might desire on the state ticket. Mr. Thomson was most active in his recent campaign. Large numbers of Republicans about the state regret greatly the fact that he did not retain his place as state chairman. There is one thing he didn't do, while chairman, and that was goose-step at the behest of the self-proclaimed party bosses. Some have already suggested that he should be returned as quickly as possible to the position he resigned in order to restore some semblance of fairness in the conduct of the committee's affairs.

Henry Hopps, Ford Motor company employe who was a party to one of the most notorious political double-crosses that ever characterized a Wayne county convention, was the fellow who demanded a poll of the Wayne delegation in an effort to keep the boss-sponsored Tom Read in as attorney general, although newspapers reported that it was Art Garrish of Tom Read's office. Hoppe went the limit in his efforts to help the boss ticket.

A Ford company employe who had been active in working up the boss delegate slate for both the county and state conventions, confided to the writer that probably Henry and Edsel Ford knew nothing about the under-handed political business that was going on. He blamed it all on Harry Bennett and John Gillespie, who gave the orders to mess up the Wayne county fight against the machine. "We had to go along, but there are a lot of us who do not like it," he said. Now the dope is that pay checks for the day's work were taken off for the county convention are not going to come through until the "heat" is off. The Plymouth Mail has always been a great admirer of Henry Ford and Mr. Cameron, and it is difficult to understand how employes of the company in high positions could be parties to political activities of a kind that must be repugnant to both Mr. Ford and Mr. Cameron.

State Treasurer Miller Dunckel was not at the convention. It was reported that Mrs. Dunckel is suffering from a nervous breakdown at the home of her parents over in Illinois.

The Fourth Estate group of newspaper editors, headed by George Averill of Birmingham, rightly thinks that the influence of weekly newspapers is something to be reckoned with. It was this group that took up in earnest the fight against the political machine in Michigan. It has been the contention of the Averill group that bosses are non-essential and that they are in politics for personal gain and advantage only. Recent political events in Michigan indicate pretty strongly that the Averill group not only has exceptional influence with the voters, but that it is in step with the trend of the times.

Floyd McGriff of Redford was "right at home" during the convention fight against the political boss machine. Floyd is a supporter of decent government and his influence counted much for the good.

While the political fixers had no trouble in getting what they wanted from the machine controlled State Central committee it was not so easy to win over the credentials committee, although an effort had been made to pack this committee against the Republican group that bosses are non-essential and that they are in politics for personal gain and advantage only. Recent political events in Michigan indicate pretty strongly that the Averill group not only has exceptional influence with the voters, but that it is in step with the trend of the times.

"What a pee-wee for chairman of the Republican State Central committee," said a delegate as Leslie Butler mumbly tried to read the convention call. Indications are that his days will be short as the official directing party affairs in Michigan, as seemingly no one except the bosses are satisfied with his administration. He probably is one of the most yessy men of the yes-men, especially when it comes to doing the goose-step for the machine. A new springman will be elected by the anti-machine delegates next spring.

Former Governor Wilber Brucker was not at all hesitant about declaring openly that Chairman Butler had double-crossed him. It seems that Butler put forth every effort in his power to prevent the anti-boss delegates from getting a fair hearing before the State Central committee. Brucker and the other delegates from Wayne county were denied a proper hearing that had been promised by Butler.

Except for two or three Ford employes, all of the delegates from this part of the seventeenth congressional district, voted and worked against the political bosses at the convention. Supervisor Jesse Ziegler and Jack Whitehead of Livonia, were active in opposition to the political fixers.

The Republican State Central committee Monday sent out to the newspapers of the state a picture of the candidates nominated at Grand Rapids, and labeled it as "an anti-boss slate." That's correct insofar as it goes. Felix Flynn, candidate for state treasurer, has been one of the most obedient yes-men that McKay and Barnard ever had. Harry Kelley secretary of state is believed to have cut all boss ties. The other members of the ticket are strictly anti-boss. The fact that Flynn is a McKay man will make little difference however, as his efforts can be easily over-balanced by the others. But it's funny to see the State Central committee sending out anything that's anti-boss.

Joe Green, who managed Flynn's campaign for lieutenant governor in the Upper Peninsula, is Lansing lobbyist for the Wall street owners of the mining industry of the northlands. He has been exceptionally successful in getting mine valuation reductions during recent years from the state tax commission. Those who know, say that even though vast amounts of ore are taken out each year, the iron supply in this state has been barely touched.

Michigan congressmen from the southern part of the state have been boiling over the slight handed out to them by Chairman Butler of the State Central committee. It seems that only one Michigan congressman was asked to be a guest on the Willkie train through Michigan, and the train at no time passed through his district. While it looks like a little thing, the prestige of being on the Presidential candidate's train does have an important part in a congressman's election.

Dr. Eugene Keyes, candidate for lieutenant governor, met large numbers of Michigan Republicans for the first time at the convention. Dr. Keyes made an excellent impression. He is a likeable citizen, a tireless worker and it is unfortunate that the automobile accident in which he broke his arm, will take him out of the campaign, as he would have been a real asset to the party in the weeks to come.

Good Governor Dickinson should not worry too much about the future political activities of Edsie Barnard, deposed styled Wayne county political boss. The Governor probably does not know that Eddie has been in the habit of strongly opposing most Republican candidates for office in Wayne county. Four years ago when Republicans made an effort to elect Chester O'Hara prosecutor in order to stop some of the racketeering in Wayne county, Eddie was one of O'Hara's most vicious opponents. Eddie also supported Democratic Tom Wilcox for sheriff both four years ago and two years ago. He viciously opposed Republican I. A. Capazzi for prosecutor two years ago and he fought Emil Colombo, who ran for county clerk on the Republican ticket. So don't worry any more, Governor, about what Eddie might do. He has been "doing it" for years, therefore it makes no difference where he lands. It should be noted that Eddie was also a special guest of Leslie Butler on the campaign train Monday.

DEMOCRATIC FOR 100 YEARS—NOW FOR WILLKIE
What manner of man is Franklin D. Roosevelt that he causes a great American daily newspaper that has been Democratic for 100 years to come out this fall for Wendell L. Willkie, a Republican?

Something terrific has happened in the editorial mind of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, when recently it announced its inability to support the man it did plead for heartily in 1932, a bit less heartily in 1936.

The Plain Dealer's reasons may be seen in these two forceful paragraphs:
"The Democratic national platform of 1932 was liberal, forthright, and courageous. Standing on that declaration of principles, Gov. Roosevelt as a candidate for president was impregnable. Had the tenets of that platform been obeyed the United States would today be in a far better situation—financially, economically, politically—than it now is."
"The Plain Dealer elects to abide by the idea that the country should make social progress as fast as it can pay for it, whereas Mr. Roosevelt has attempted, not a liberal, but a radical goal. The only possible outcome of his policies, as we see it, is State Socialism, followed inevitably by some form of Fascism."
—George Averill, in The Birmingham Eccentric.

Silo filling is the order of the day, and those engaged in that line of business come along for their share of accidents. One day last week when Earl and Harry Wolfe were filling a silo at Livonia Center, a hammer was accidentally thrown into the filler with the corn, which caused a break that threw pieces of iron in every direction, one piece striking Harry on the nose, which fortunately only bruised that member, but which might have resulted more seriously. The filler was badly wrecked. The recent heavy rains make corn cutting with a binder a hard proposition.
