DOUBLED THEIR BUSINESS

with light!

An increase in net profit of 122 PER CENTachieved solely by improved lighting: That is the startling record of Mr. John T. Rancu's gas station at Woodward and Stimson Avenues, Detroit. In this "before and after" test, made to determine whether better lighting really pays its way in dollars and cents, a careful record of costs and sales was kept. The resultant figures are actually conservative. * * * Mr. Wilson Morrison, owner of a gas station at 10600 Harper Avenue, enjoyed a similar experience. He added new reflector flood lamps, and increased lamp wattage over the grease and wash racks. Three months after the installation of improved lighting, his gross sales had jumped 146 PER CENT. He says-Since installing modern floodlighting and reflector lamps at my gas station, I have better than doubled my business. This increase was way beyoud my expectations, but I can now appreciate the value of good lighting as a means of increasing business.

Would you like to get an idea of how YOUR gas station will look when flood lighted? We will be glad to demonstrate. No charge or obligation. The equipment can be set up right on your premises. Phone your Detroit Edison office.

A ROADSIDE PICNIC TABLE AND MICHIGAN'S MURRAY D. VAN WAGONER

DR. JOHN A, ROSS
OPTOMETRIST
Plymouth, Michigan

Dear Sir:

A sedan bearing an out-of-state license eased to a stop. From doors and windows a family of six and their lunch boxes literally poured themselves about a roadside picnic table. A brief few minutes found the group joyously tucking themselves around a bounteous picnic lunch. Stomachs filled, nearby water and greensward kept youngsters happy while mother repacked, and dad reached for his pouch of "Velvet." In friendly chat, our visitor narrated upon the joys of motoring in Michigan - the roads, the maps and information service, comfort accommodations, and asked he, "Who is the father of this roadside picnic table idea, these roadside parks, and rest facilities? Why, we had a whale of a time keeping the kids satisfied before noon. They wanted to stop and eat at every picnic table and sample every spring they saw along the way. These provisions for our comfort are really grand and something we appreciate. Who is the father and founder of this service?" And right there is where we spoke a good word for you, Mr. Van Wagoner

Now that time and circumstance have conspired to make our people government conscious, and your party has literally drafted you to leadership, I am thinking of ten years ago when you were first elected to public office. Not even the most imaginative crystal gazer then forsaw in that humble start the first stepping stone to the Governorship of Michigan and the making of the foremost democrat of our commonwealth. A decade of unselfish devotion to your task and an inbred appreciation of human values has today made you our foremost apostle of frankness, truth and honesty in Michigan governmental affairs.

Through the years of aggressive administration of our state highway system people of all states have risen to applaud and appreciate the highways and roadsides you designed for safe travel, rest, and recreation. Miles of concrete sweeping through the countryside exemplify every known principle of safe and speedy travel. Dangerous stretches now have banked curves, and three or four traffic lanes. Reflectors, no passing zones, safe speed signs, superhighways, viaducts, and crossing protection all speak an understandable language. The toll of slaughter lane stretches has been reduced as much as 75 per cent. Truly, hundreds of motorists live today by reason of the application of your genius for safety engineering.

In streamlining our state highway department, you gave vent to your idea of efficient operation. Your ideals of conduct for employees stressed responsibility, organization, and trustworthiness. Where many public officials use the privilege of office to spurn traffic laws, your men find time to serve, yet comply with, traffic regulations whether in metropolis, village, or open country.

So often have we heard of your policies reconditioning the lives of men and families. Your respect for men and their problems, and a desire to help always has found time for personal attention, even to vexing or complimentary correspondence. Where humanity can be served, merit or gumption rewarded, you have ever sought to help. For many, self respect and personal integrity have found new root in your encouragement. We recall a young man of our acquaintance. Business almost gone, bank assessments of self and widowed mother due, every known corner cut and pared to the bone-depression at its worst, and you helped bring him and his family through. Today on the up and up, this Christian man and his friends (in the know) are truly grateful. This is only one of hundreds of tales of opportune rejuvination of men and families that speak of a great heart. You like to help the little fellow-ask the postmasters of smaller offices how they appreciate the breakdown of your departments' postage purchases. Ask the painter of the yellow lines, the gas station man, the cross roads grocer or the cop on the corner, and large and far there mounts a pyramid of civic and humanitarian accomplishment that staggers our Accomplishment in your chosen profession has brought national prominence and honor. You have made the reputation of Michigan highways a national by-word. Yet you have done all this without losing touch with the commonplace, the love of your fellowman, or the grandeur of your vision for the future of our great state. You have surrounded yourself with capable executives-men skilled, yet imbued with the ability to know people and do things for them. The Bluewater Bridge, now a reality; the Mackinaw Bridge yet a possibility; with viaduct, crossing protection, and superhighway you are weaving into the warp and woof of Michigan an ever greater desire to make the tourist and resort business the stabilizer of our state economy. You seek to lengthen our tourist season by promoting winter and spring sports and, by ridding Michigan of ragweed, make our state a haven for hay fever victims. And through these years you have engineered the job of translating millions of state and federal dollars into work and wages without even a breath of scandal or embarrassment.

With all these business and professional associations, we marvel that you still find time for the enjoyment of a happy home life with your wife and two daughters. As vestryman in your Episcopal church, a Legionnaire, Rotarian, Exchangite Elk, and Mason, you have crowded into ten years of public service a lifetime of experience bringing you intimately in touch with every phase of Michigan social, economic, and political life. So much is this true that today few men are as qualified by experience, ability, and record of achievement to administer the affairs of this great Commonwealth. Indeed, we may do ourselves proud by electing to the governorship one from our midst with your faith in people and ability for the intelligent application of democracy. Surely none other is more worthy of the great task of initiating in Michigan a wise and thrifty government, where, unbound by pledge or boss, homespun economy and a far vision may direct Michigan's destiny in this Union of the States.

With best wishes for your success, I am,

Sincerely,

John A. Ross

No, it wasn't seed we were after

THE mighty straight-eight that propels the 1941 Buick Century, ROADMASTER and LIMITED, is, we believe, America's most powerful standard-production automobile engine.

That suggests immediately that here is the instrument of great speed — but the fact is it wasn't speed we were after when we built it.

We were shooting for more efficient use of the fuel you burn — more economy, more power, more pick-up — yes, even easier car handling through less frequent need for shifting.

Consider, for example, just one quality of this great power plant the tremendous reserve of power it puts at your command.

At 20 miles an hour this Buick uses only 7.4% of its available power—at 30 only 9.7%—at 50, less than one-sixth.

You can see for yourself how this tree dous reserve, instantly available for pick-up, eliminates much of your need for shifting to lower gears, hence makes unnecessary any involved device for this purpose.

For such an important contest one would naturally think that the two major contending parties would select, as they did just before the Civil War, the outstanding leaders of their parties, for all high public responsibilities, men with long and known records in public service.

But what do we find here in Michigan? The candidate selected to oppose Serator Arthur H. Vandenberg for one of the most important positions in our national government, is an unknown, without a record of outstanding service of any kind and never an advocate of any public cause that has attracted comment that even rated a throw-away advertising sheet attracted comment that even rated a throw-away advertising sheet.

He was nominated by a group of voters who knew well the name of the late popular Governor Frank Fitzgerald and apparently voted for him because of the familiarity of the name. Senatorial Candidate Frank Fitzgerald is not even entitled to the party vote of the ticket upon which he is running and we doubt very much if the thinking members of the Democratic party will accept a candidate simply because his name happens to be the same as that of a former popular public leader.

Even though the views of Democrats may somewhat differ from those of the Republican candidate, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a Vandenberg vote, is a much safer vote for Democracy—yes, the DEMOCRATIC party—than it is for any Michigan voter to mark his ballot for a strictly name candidate.

GREED

GREED.

A high public official, one supposed to possess judicial temperament, last week shot and killed a business associate in Detroit. He tried to kill two others. Apparently, it was a dispute over money, a dispute brought on as the result of an unsuccessful attempt to build a type of business that would produce "easy profits." In other words, it was a murder brought on by greed—greed for wealth, greed for earthly possessions.

brought on by greed—greed for wealth, greed for earthly possessions.

Judge Sage had made a fairly good record in a position he had held for a number of years. By strict devotion to his duties and its responsibilities, he could have held his public position for an unlimited number of years. Its compensation in a financial way was good—its compensation in services to the public was unlimited.

But apparently it was "easy money" that he wanted—and "easy money" leads to just one thing—trouble, the courts, jail and death.

The satisfying way is always the easier and better way and why men choose to go the hard way of greed, and sometimes graft, is most difficult to understand. In the case of Judge Sage it was greed—and look at the trouble and despair his uncontrolled human instinct has brought about!

EMERSON BOYLES.

EMERSON BOYLES.

For the first time, Michigan voters this fall will elect a member of the supreme court upon a non-partisan ballot. First choice for this place is Judge Emerson Boyles, outstanding public official over a period of many years. His opponent for the place is an unknown lawyer with practically no training of any kind for this important place, as far asthe public knows. Mr. Boyles, who is now filling out the unexpired term on the supreme bench of Judge William Potter who died last summer, is not only well qualified for the place, but he has the judicial temperament so essential to any one occupying such an important position. Not only has he the qualifications, but he is possessed of a thorough knowledge of state matters, and of court procedure. There should be no question about his election.

HELPING THE ENEMY

While our country has not declared war upon Germany and Italy, it might just as well be done, as we are at war with these countries, no matter what the claims might be in Washington. As a nation we are doing much to help England—and as amazing as it may seem—we are also helping our enemies. We did so in the last world war and we are doing it again.

Why under the sun some one In congress does not hound the administration so viciously about this dual role until it is stopped, is most difficult to understand.

the administration so viciously about this dual role until it is stopped, is most difficult to understand.

Not from any member of congress, but from a newspaper writer, has come information showing how, through the back-door, we are dumping vast loads of badly needed war materials into Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia.

Guy Richards, New York newspaper correspondent, in a special article, provides so much valuable information on this subject, that it is hereby published in full:

"Despite the British blockade, American industrialists have found corkscrew routes for pouring into Germany and Italy about $10,000,000 worth of vital war materials every month. Vast stores of oil, copper, machinery and cotton (essential to the manufacture of explosives), are finding their way to axis territory through Arctic Ocean ports. Spain. Portugal, Cuba, Mexico and Russia.

At least five nations are lending their services to American businessmen who have found gold-lined routes for shipping block-ade-barred goods into Germany.

"These scattered suppliers, dealing through their New York headquarters, have established contacts with agents all over the world. The agents are sponsored in this country by amazingly influential business interests.

"This reporter discovered, for example, that the American representative of Juan March, financial backer of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish dictator, has his desk in the offices of Francis I. DuPont Co., at one Wall street. He receives a regular salary from the firm, which is engaged in the commodity and brokerage business.

"Three members of the famous Wilmington, Delaware, clan that controls, E. I. DuPont DeNemours are partners in this Wall Street firm which also has a branch in Wilmington. The interest of its sersion member, Francis I. DuPont is secured with 2,000 shares of Hercules Power common stock—an investment which was forced out of direct DuPont control by a Sherman antitrust suit of 1912.

Another desk in the Francis I. DuPont office is occupied by Avelino Montes, Jr., th

Another desk in the Francis I. DuPont office is occupied by Avelino Montes, Jr., the man whom German firms here know as the expert on how to get shipments through Mexico.

"The two men—Jose M. Mayorga, Spanish emissary of Franco's Juan March, and Mexico's Avelino Montes—sit side by side in a comfortable suite in the DuPont offices, on the ninth floor of the building. They are intimate friends and former classmates at the Harvard business school. By manufacturers anxious to obtain deliveries in Germany they are known as exactly the right people to see.

people to see.

"In the newly-found loop-holes of the blockade thrown around the Axis by the British Navy and American embargoes, the chief beneficiaries in the United States are cotton, oil and machinery supplies and the giant copper concerns which have somehow managed to keep their metal, in both scrap and ingot form, off the American embargo list.

"How profitable the loop-holes have proved for American business men can be gleaned from the figures of the department of commerce."

"How profitable the loop-holes have purely the business men can be gleaned from the figures of the department of commerce.

"They show that shipments to Spain and Portugal skyrocket-ed more than $22,000,000 over last year's figures for the first seven months of this year. Cotton, oil, machinery and scrap iron are the items leading the big increase.

"To Russia, America shipped $11,374,940 worth of copper in the same period last year. Exports of all sorts to the Soviet Union the same period last year. Exports of all sorts to the Soviet Union jumped to $48,342,000 this year from $23,310,037 in the same seven months of 1939—a rise of more than 100 per cent.

"Exports to Cuba soared $7,700,000, to Mexico $8,100,000. Those figures may indicate why Spain and Portugal have been spared so long from involvement with the Axis powers in actual war. And they also indicate to shipping men that someone here with a deep insight into Spanish commerce has been able to persuade the British navicert authorities that Spanish industry, and not German and Italian, has been consuming the goods shipped.

"But with the British becoming wiser, and Spain nearing interest the war, a tightening of the blockade has shifted suade the British navicert authorities that Spanish industry, and not German and Italian, has been consuming the goods shipped.

"But with the British becoming wiser, and Spain nearing involvement in the war, a tightening of the blockade has shifted the flow of goods over the Pacific, where no blockade exists.

"For this contingency, elaborate facilities already have been shifted into high gear by Russia and Germany. The rising flow of trade across the Pacific to Siberian ports has led to the opening of branches throughout Japan and Russia of the German forwarding agency of Harry W. Hamacher, a former official of Schenker & Company, Berlin, with 208 offices scattered all over the world. In the Orient, Hamburg-American line offices have been turned over to Hamacher. In New York, Schenker's agent is the Draeger Shipping company, of 17 State street.

"The furious pace of trans-Pacific trade has brought numerous charterings by Russia of American tankers. The Amtorg Trading company has just leased three speedy Swedish motorships and last week six miscellaneous freighters were booked by the Soviet officials to carry cotton and wheat from west coast American ports to Vladivostok.

"Thus it is in the Pacific that informed circles in New York believe will come the next Anglo-American move to shut the back-door, now wide open, through which invaluable aid is flowing to Germany. This necessity for a joint United States-British blockade in the Pacific is seen as the basis behind official discussions now in progress, reportedly involving the cession of navalbases to the United States in Australia, New Zealand and Singapore.

"Meanwhile, daily, from Cuban barbors, loaded tankers own."

apore.
"Meanwhile, daily, from Cuban harbors, loaded tankers owned by American subsidiaries leave port—only to return three days later, having unloaded their cargoes on daring neutral blockaderunners. These, in turn, set off on long voyages that scrape the Arctic circle to reach Petsamo and Murmansk, and thence tranship their loads to Germany.

ship their loads to Germany.
"Such shipments, usually from South America to Cuba, do not appear on United States export figures. Their value is estimated at about $3,000,000 weekly and raises to $10,000,000 the weekly figure for Axis-bound merchandise arranged for in New York."

York.
"Official measurement of the traffic, showing the swell of exports over last year, is available in the figures of the department of commerce. They show that the five countries chiefly participating in it have bought goods valued at $61,127,281 more than in the same first seven months of 1939, thus:

"Despite these precautions, however, the widespread leakage of vital supplies as well as military secrets to America's potential enemies impelled the Senate Interstate Commerce committee lest week to report unanimously on a resolution to authorize a Senate investigation of American industries with foreign tic-ups.

"The resolution followed exposure by a Federal grand jury in New York of important patent arrangements between German companies and the Aluminum company of America, the Dow Chemical company, the Bausch & Lomb company, manufacturers of optical equipment used in gun-range finders, and other concerns making machine tools, chemicals, alloys and aviation equipment.

"The E. I. DuPont DeNemours company also has world-wide affiliations. It owns stock interests in I. G. Farbenindustrie, the German chemical trust; in Dynamit, A. G., giant German explosive manufacturer, and in the Deutscher Gelt und Silber Scheideanstail, smelters and dealers in precious metals.

In refusing a reporter's request to interview Jose M. Mayorga Thomas W. Phelps, a partner in the Francis I. DuPont firm, said:

"Mr. Mayorga is simply employed in our statistical department. For various reasons, he prefers not to have any publicity at the present time."

"Mayorga is a strikingly handsome man of 28. He was born in Spain. He maintains sumptuous homes in Manhattan just off Flith avenue, and at Boonton. New Jersey, and mingles in cafe society where his friends estimate his income as around $100,000 yearly. To this reporter, the DuPont 'statistician' smilingly disparaged his importance, saying:

"Oh. I just read copies of letters written by the home office."

"His real role must be gleaned from the history of Juan March for whom, on the authority of the Spanish consulate here and of Mayorga himself, he acts as American representative.

"March made his first real fortune in the first world war smuggling oil to German submarines in the Balearic islands, Later he obtained the government tobacco monopoly in French Morocco and his sales there—smuggled across the border into Spanish territory—proved so annoying to the Madrid government that it finally yielded him the monopoly in Spanish Morocco, just to submit his business to legal taxation.

"He became—and remains—Spani's richest man. He financed the first weeks of Franco's rebellion and personally went to Rome and Berlin and obtained promises of military aid.

"Such connections—by general agreement of American shippers of war supplies—are almost unbeatable."

WHY WE FAVOR WILLKIE

The office of President of the United States is referred to as Chief Executive. This means that a President should be a good executive, a person who knows how to get practical matters done by practical people; a man's personal record as an executive ought to be his best recommendation for the office. So, in considering the contest between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell L. Wilkie, one ought to 'go into the record.' Prior to his becoming President, Mr. Roosevelt was anything but a brilliant success as an executive: Mr. Wilkie, on the other hand, struggled from scratch to a $75,000 per year job in private industry. That's why, in making our choice for the Presidency November 5, we are voting for Mr. Wilkie; the records show him to be an able executive. Further than this there is no mystery about our choosing.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

WHAT THEY DO IN RUSSIA

A Moscow couple were, in a much publicized trial, given 10 years apiece for hoarding foodstuffs and clothing for resale at higher prices. Ordinary economic laws still prevail, it would appear right in the capitol of Soviet Russia, where, theoretically, a great body-blow has been given capitalism by removing the profit motive!—Emerson Gildart in The Utica Sentinel.

THE REMEDY

Our state Republicans have the solution to the Wayne problem. In the last Legislature the House passed the Eaton bill which provided that in Wayne county conventions should be held by Congressional districts. This act had passed the House unanimously but when it reached the Senate the presiding officer ordered it strangled and buried. One Hon. Felix Flynn was in the chair and he had taken orders from Edward N. Barnard.

So the out-state Republicans of Michigan do not have to dig down into the dirt for an explanation for the present muss of Wayne county. There would be one if Senator Flynn had allowed the Senate to vote. That was why he was defeated for Lieutenant Governor. He didn't even dare to campaign in Wayne county, and when he did come there to speak once or twice had to ask Barnard to stay out of the Republican meetings.

Once Wayne county political conventions are held as provided for in the Eaton bill, then the rule of Barnard will terminate permanently. — Milton Carmichael in The Wayne County Legal Courier.

The council had another brys session Menday evening. The matter of the removal of two small buildings, one occupied by the Adams Express office and the other to be occupied by a shoe shop and owned by Charies Greenlaw, to the sidewalk line on Main street, came up for some real lively discussion which gave a tinge of spice to the usual outet and uninteresting meetings of this kind.

The Third Term — A Century Ago and Today tinues tordisfigure our syste

One hundred years ago November next William Henry Harrison, the hero of Tippecanoe, was elected the ninth President of the United Status. Exactly one month after his inauguration he died. His last words were, "Sir, I wish you to understand the true principles of the government. I wish them carried out. I ask for nothing more."

As one of these true principles General Harrison declared against the use of the power of office to perpetuate the holding of office. He thought it a serious mis ke by those who had written he Constitution that they did not place an express limit on the length of time the presidency might be held by one individual.

al. ippecance a Whig Old Tippicance was a Whig. Old Tippicance was a Whig. But in stating this view he followed the great Democrats. Jefferson and Jackson. Jackson had six times urged such a constitutional amendment upon Congress. General Harrison's belief is to be found in his inaugural address. I quote from it:

his inaugural address. I quote from it:

"A defect of the Constitution is the eligibility of the same individual to a second term of the presidency. The sagacious mind of Mr. Jefferson early saw and lamented this error. As, however, one mode of correction is in the power of every president, and consequently in mine, it would be useless, and perhaps invidious, to enumerate the evils of which, in the opinion of many of our fellow citizens, this error of the sages who framed the Constitution may have been the source and the bitter fruits which we are still to gather from it if it continues to defigure our system.

"Republies can commit no greater error lian to adopt or continue any feature in their systems of government which may be calculated to create or increase the love of power in the bosons of those to whom necessity obliges men to commit the management of their affairs, and surely nothing is more likely to produce such a state of mind than the long continuance of an office of high trust. Nothing can be more corrupting, nothing more destructive of all those noble feelings which belong to the character of a devoted republican patriot. When this corrupting passion once takes possession of the human mind, like the love of gold it becomes insatiable. It is the never-dying worm in his boson, grows with his growth and strengthens with the declining vears of its victims.

"If this is true, it is the part of wisdom for a republic to clining years of its victims.

"If this is true, it is the part of wisdom for a republic to limit the service of that officer at least to whom she has intrusted the management of her foreign relations, the execution of her laws, and the command of her armies and navies to a period so short as to prevent his forgetting that he is the accountable agent, not the principal; the servant, not the master."

Harrison's First Message
President William Henry Harrison was 16 when the constitution was written. He served under Presidents Washington. Adams. Jefferson and Madison. He was soldier, Governor of Indiana Territory.
Congressman. Senator, Foreign Minister, President. His first and only message to Congress, in its devotion to "republican liberty," ranks. in my judgment, next to the best of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln.
He foresaw the time when:

ment, next to the best of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. He foresaw the time when: "By making the President the sole distributor of all patronage of the government of all patronage of the government the framers of the constitution do not appear to have anticipated at how short a period it would become a formidable instrument to control the free operations of the state governments. Of trifling importance at first, it had early in Mr. Jefferson's Administration become so powerful as to create great alarm in the mind of that patriot from the potent influence it might exert in controlling the freedom of the electiv franchise."

Shades of Harry Hopkins! General Harrison knew, one hundred years ago, what would happen when public officials boasted that the beneficiaries of Federal patronage would "know their friends." He knew, as did Acton that "Power always corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

"Power associated as a solutely."

These words of a great President may be contrasted with "The World Wants Roosevelt." which was beliehed forth by the Kelly-Nash Superintendent of Sewers at the recent convention which booed the name of Jesterson.

Ed Bolton is building a new house on Harvey street. Bert Crumbie has the contract. Fletcher Campbell. Kenneth Harrison, Leslie Hudd, Victor Jolliffe and Henry Baker are attending the U. of M. this year.

Ann Arbor hospital, where she underwent an operation eleven weeks ago.

The new cement road on South Main street was the mecca for many automobilists last Sunday. The cement roadway is completed to the town line, and is certainly a fine piece of road building. The contractors are making this way from the Michigan avenue end at the present time. The formal opening of the Beyer Pharmacy last Saturday was largely attended. There was plenty of music for the occasion and each lady visitor was given a nice souvenir. Farmington, be cause of overcrowding in its present school, will build a new building to cost $9,000.

The thimble party given by the Lutheran Ladies' Aid society, at the home of Mrs. H. J. Fisher last Wednesday afternoon, was well attended. About 20 ladies were present. Arthur Whippie, son of Mrs. W. Whipple and a graduate of the Plymouth schools and well known here, was united in marriage with Miss Geneva Shock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shock, of Detroit, at the North Woodward avenue Methodist church, last week Thursday afternoon. After the ceremony the young couple left for a two weeks wedding trip through the East. They will be at home after November 1, at 156 Whitney avenue, Mr. Whipple holds a responsible position in the probate office and is a graduate of the Detroit College of Law.
