"Dead-Shot" Deer Hunters Home

Plymouth's four "dead-shot" hunters have returned from the western part of the Upper Peninsula with four bucks, each hunter getting his deer. The party, made up of William Simpson, Don Grow, Emory Hix and Robert Johnston, each got a deer. They hunted along the southern shore of Lake Superior in one of the best hunting sections of the state.

When they came across the Straits of Mackinac City the other day, the conservation department checkers advised them that theirs was the only hunting party of four members that had returned with four deer.

The trip to the Upper Peninsula was made through Chicago and Wisconsin for by going this way they avoided the long ferry delay at the Straits caused by the high wind storm that prevailed at that time.

New Bus Placed on Plymouth Line

Plymouth residents who use the bus service between this city and Grand River, have this week experienced the thrill of riding in a new bus that has just been placed in service. It came direct from the factory to the Plymouth-Detroit run. The bus is one of the latest and most modern used in the Detroit area. It has all of the comforts that a bus is supposed to have. Manager Rouse states that it is the intention of the company to keep constantly improving the service.

Companions Tell Why "Matt" Powell Is Home Without A Deer

Matthew Stephen Powell, just back from a ten-day hunting trip, is not eating venison these days.

"Matt," as he is best known to his hundreds of friends, hereabouts, hunted steadily for ten days. He saw deer here, there and everywhere. Then, why no deer?

Two years ago when Matt went north hunting, he forgot to take his rifle with him.

This year he took his rifle. Casey Partridge, who hunted with "Matt" and Francis Beals, another Plymouth hunter, actually saw "Matt" in the woods with a rifle.

But why no deer?

It seems that the trouble this year lies entirely in the fact that "Matt" forgot any ammunition for his gun and hunted for ten days without shot or shell.

He strenuously denies it, but his hunting companions insist it is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

More Happy Hunters Return With Deers

Mrs. John Suggen, 1620 South Main street, brought a two-year-old spike-horn deer home from Luzerne last week. She bagged her second deer in as many years on her second day out. Mrs. Suggen has accompanied her husband hunting for the last four years, but her streak of luck didn't begin until last year.

Jack Sremich, 358 Liberty street, also bagged a nice deer in his favorite hunting spot.

Conducts Record Auction Sale

"It didn't even make me hoarse," declared Harry C. Robinson the other day when he returned from Detroit where he had auctioned off 26 big truck loads of furniture for the Detroit Storage company.

"Maybe you think selling 26 truck loads is a record, but to me it is all in a day's work. I was just as fit as a fiddle after the sale was over and am ready for a dozen more that I have booked up," he added.

"No, I haven't any old dictionaries, but keep looking, maybe you will find something that I don't know I've got kicking around. And that wouldn't be the first time that somebody has found something they wanted I didn't know I had," and Plymouth's pioneer auctioneer kept packing towards the ceiling another load of household goods he had just unloaded for his Plymouth store.

Farm Leader Visits Plymouth

Ira Wilmoth, of Adrian, former president of the Michigan Farmers' Union and for years one of Michigan's outstanding farm leaders, was a visitor at the home of his sister, Mrs. Burton Giles, in Plymouth over the last week-end.

Mr. Wilmoth, who has been seriously ill during the last year, has sufficiently recovered to be about and he hopes within another few months to become active again in behalf of legislation beneficial to the farmers of Michigan and the country.

He was one of the original advocates of the cost-plus production plan for farmers and he is a firm believer that this method of fixing stable prices for farm products is the only solution of America's farm problem. Mr. Wilmoth is greatly regarded throughout the state by the thousands who know of his efforts to better conditions for farmers.

There's no way of going into training for winter.

"Tip" Gets Deer Under Rambo Tree

"See that tree over there, Tip? Well, you go over there and sit down under that tree just at the top of the knoll and wait there long enough and you'll get a deer." That's what Frank Rambo said to Clifford Smith just four years ago this fall.

The two were hunting deer up near Baldwin, where the Smiths have carved a "beautiful estate" out of the brush and second growth of a northern lake said to be running over with fish.

"Tip" sat under that tree the first day for about four hours waiting for his buck. When night rolled around he went back to camp was as nice a young deer as ever rolled over in the woods.

The next year he went back to that same tree and got his buck. He repeated last year—and again this year "Tip" is back home with the same story.

"I sat down under Rambo's tree the first day of the season and sure as you are living, I got my buck this year in just 30 minutes. I don't know what there is about that tree, but for four years I've got my buck right in the same spot, about 100 feet from Rambo's tree—and of course you won't believe it, but each buck has dropped right in the same spot," declared "Tip" to a group of friends the other day while they drank some muddy coffee.

Chick "Takes Ride" on Front of Car

When chickens on the farm of Rollo R. Dixon, who lives west of Plymouth on the Pontiac-Ann Arbor road, go to roost, they go to roost, there is not much question about that, no matter where the roost might be located.

Tuesday night Mr. Dixon returned home from work, he decided to drive over to Lapham Corners on the Six Mile road and get the family mail from their rural mail box.

The trip was made during the heavy snowfall that took place during the evening.

When he reached the mail box Mr. Dixon pulled up beside the road, stopped his car and walked around in front of it to go to the box.

Imagine his surprise when he discovered roosting comfortably on the front license plate one of the big hens from his own chicken coop that had gone to roost on the license plate in his garage before he left home in the storm to get his mail!

Yes, Sir, Miss Biddy had ridden nearly five miles from the Dixon home to their mail box on the front of the car without losing her balance or freezing her toes.

Mr. Dixon saw to it that Miss Biddy's return trip was made in real comfort. She occupied the back end of the car all alone and upon her return home, she was placed in her rightful roosting place where she spent the rest of the night where it was warm. Mr. Dixon is one of the road commissioners of Washtenaw county.

The Priscilla sewing group was the guest of Mrs. Irving Blunk at a dessert luncheon Thursday afternoon.

Long to Address Townsend Club

Ward B. Long, of Detroit, national representative in Michigan of the Townsend club, has advised officials of the Plymouth organization that he will be in this city to speak to the local club on Monday evening, December 2, at the meeting to be held in the Grange hall.

Preceding the address, there will be a potluck dinner served to the club members and guests. The important nomination of candidates for the Club Council will take place Monday evening. The election of the 12 members will take place on December 9. group of lawyers, who are members of the Wayne County Republican committee, are not in favor of demanding his resignation. William Hammond, Congressman George A. Dondero and Phillip H. Cole, all lawyers, opposed immediate action. Congressman Dondero in urging that no action be taken, declared that "this matter is technical and delicate and I hope you will go slow in what you do next Wednesday."

Next Wednesday is the day set for consideration of the resolution calling for McKay's resignation.

We do not care especially how lawyers feel. Some make big fees by being "retained" by indicted men—but we are concerned about the future of our kind of Republicanism.

The golden opportunity is at hand.

Let us wash our hands of all the filth that has bogged us down for years—clean house—regain again the confidence of the rank and file of voters—the common people, so-called, and become once more the champions of all that is decent, all that is honest, and all that is for the good of America! That's what we started out to do when Republicanism was born. Right now, TODAY, is the time to again take up the cudgel and go to work for all of Michigan and America, instead of working to fatten the coffers of a selected few of political fixers and money-grabbers.

A good man happy is a common good.—Chapman.

A physician was called and the injured man was rushed to St. Joseph hospital, Ann Arbor. The extent of his injuries is not yet known.

Mrs. Myra Taylor was visiting a niece in Detroit the first of the week.

Rev. Cora M. Pennell of the Federated church is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her pastoral duties. In her absence Ben Hollis, a former Salem boy, now of St. Clair Shores, is in charge of the services.

First Three Trainees From This District Are Volunteer Soldiers

The first three men to be called into selective service training from local board No. 61, which includes Plymouth and Northville and the townships of Livonia and Redford, were inducted at the local armory in Detroit last Friday morning, November 22.

The first quota for this district was filled entirely by volunteers who are Edward Greig, 21, of Redford township; Howard F. Beller, 22, of Northville, and Harold J. Wallis, 22, also of Northville.

Greig, who signed up two days after the national registration day for selective service, made a special effort to become a citizen in order to serve in this country's national defense measure. He received his citizenship papers Wednesday thereby becoming eligible for service training as a volunteer.

Beller and Wallis lived together at the latter's home at 245 South Wing street, Northville and wished to go to camp as buddies at the same time. Board officials complied with their request to "stick together," and Wallis drove both Beller and Greig down to the armory Friday morning, where the first quota of men from all over the state was officially inducted into the army program after a second physical examination. Selectees must be subject to a physical examination by the medical examiner of the local board first.

From the armory, after each man was classified and okayed, they were taken in trucks to the Michigan Central depot from which they left for Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

Walter Harms, chairman of local board No. 61, said this week that as far as the board is informed at present there will be no more men called from this district during November.

The chairman of the board also stated that 65 questionnaires have been issued to men registered for selective service, but that the percentage of class one or eligible men is very small according to questionnaires received to date.

Whatever makes men happier makes them better.—Goldsmith.

Harold Leach, U. S. N. Reports Holiday Feast at Naval Station

Mothers needn't worry about their boys in military service not getting enough to eat. Mrs. Arnold Leach received a copy of the Thanksgiving dinner menu served at the U. S. Naval air station at San Diego, California, from her son Harold, this week. And the dinner is more elaborate than many enjoyed by the folks back home.

"From soup to nuts" is no legend in the navy at least. The menu included a variety of relishes, cream of celery soup, roast turkey, cranberry sauce, apple dressing, giblet gravy, candied sweet potatoes, creamed whipped potatoes, a varied choice of vegetables including creamed cauliflower, peas, onions, turnips, sliced tomatoes, and a choice of mince pie, ice cream and fruit, with coffee, mixed nuts and cigarettes.

Harold, who was graduated from Plymouth high school in June, 1939, is studying radio aviation. He studied first at the Great Lakes Training school, and has been at the San Diego naval station since July. He is to graduate from there December 20 after which he will probably be stationed in the Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Leach plans to spend the Christmas holidays with her son in San Diego and will also visit other relatives in California.

Bulletin Lists Items Trainees May Take to Camp

Instructions on personal property were issued from state headquarters of the selective service department this week to registrants for selective service training who will be summoned in subsequent calls.

Only minimum hand baggage should be brought by men selected to induction stations, for there is no provision for transporting or storage of trunks. Barrack bags will be issued when selectees arrive at their camps.

One pair of comfortable and serviceable shoes in a good state of repair is essential, and men are advised to bring their own toilet articles, towels, and a limited amount of clothing in addition to that worn, such as shirts, underwear, socks and handkerchiefs. Uniforms and clothing will be issued to selectees within 24 hours after arriving at the reception center or camp.

Men ordered to report for training duty may drive to the induction station in their private automobiles but they must provide for someone to drive them back, for autos are prohibited at camp.

Selectees are also encouraged to bring any athletic equipment they have, as well as musical instruments such as guitars or banjos. Small photographs will be permitted but there will be no place for large pictures in camp barracks.

Liquor is absolutely prohibited, and any brought to induction stations or camps will be confiscated. Firearms and weapons will not be permitted and will have to be returned to the selectee's home at his own expense.

Facilities for housing and entertaining visitors in the vicinity of reception centers will be very limited, so selective service men are advised not to plan for visitors until they are established in camp.

The safekeeping of money and valuables will be the responsibility of each individual.

The state headquarters also announces that there will be well-stocked libraries and reading rooms available at camps and posts. It is suggested that periodicals received by mail not be forwarded until men are established with their outfits. Postal cards will be furnished each soldier in training at the reception center for the purpose of notifying relatives and friends of their arrival. Similar cards will be furnished when the selectee is transferred to his final station in order that his permanent address will be known.

U. S. Army Sets up Rigid Physical Requirements for New Soldier Boys

You're in the Army now! But you don't get there without first passing a rigid physical examination, as the men summoned in the first quota of the selective service program in Plymouth know.

Dr. Harold J. Brisbois, medical examiner for local board No. 61, gives each registrant a thorough-going physical examination set down by Army regulations and which requires an average of 40 minutes.

The Army regulation book states that the "objective of the physical examination is to procure men who are physically fit for the rigors of general service. The registrant must be able to see well; have comparatively good hearing; have a heart able to withstand the stress of physical exertion; be intelligent enough to understand and execute military maneuvers, obey commands, and protect himself; and be able to transport himself by walking as the exigencies of military life may demand."

A thorough check-up of every part of the body, an eye examination from a distance of 20 feet, and blood tests for venereal diseases are a part of every registrant's examination. Blood specimens are forwarded to the state laboratory for report.

The examining physician reports a registrant's ability to perform limited military service if he is found to be below the standard for full military service, stating concisely his physical limitation in terms such as "cannot march," "cannot do heavy work," "insufficient vision for fine work."

Each registrant then receives a classification based on his physical examination: Class I-A, available for general military service; Class I-B, available, fit only for limited military service; Class I-D, student fit for general military service, available not later than July 1, 1941; Class I-E, student fit only for limited military service, available not later than July 1, 1941; Class IV-E, conscientious objector available only for civilian work of national importance, and Class V-F, physically, mentally, or morally unfit for military service. These classifications are subject to change or re-classification upon subsequent examination at induction stations.

Draft registrants had better not "play sick" for the doctor, either, because the guide book that the Army department has sent to each medical examiner contains special instructions of tests for the detection of malingers who may feign "blindness," "arthritis," or other physical defects to avoid service.

Congress alone has the power to declare war, under Article I, Section 8 of the United States constitution. This is generally interpreted to mean the Federal government, and the customary procedure is for Congress to declare war only after such a step has been recommended by the President.

Gene Tunney to Discuss "Isms"

Gene Tunney, undefeated heavyweight champion of the world, friend of boys and crusader against the "isms" which he believes are now threatening American young people, will speak before the Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher theatre Wednesday, December 4, at 11 a. m. on the subject "American Youth."

Idol of millions for more than a decade, Mr. Tunney has devoted a large part of the last few years to helping American youth in its problems, and to organizing boys' clubs throughout the country. He has figured in the national headlines during recent months for his denunciation of the American Youth Congress for its subversive "ism" doctrines, and his establishment and leadership of the National Foundation for American Youth, an organization to combat anti-democratic propaganda.

The career of Gene Tunney reads like an Horatio Alger story. Born a poor boy, he rose to the top because he had that impregnable combination—confidence in himself and no bad habits. He learned to box with the Marines in France during the World War. A far cry are his recent achievements as a Shakespearean student, a top-notch business executive, successful lecturer, and author of two books and countless articles.

Boys Catch Opossum, Adopt Animal as Pet

Tom Gray Jr., 11 years old, who lives at 1027 Dewey street, has a new pet. It's a young opossum which he keeps in a wooden bird cage.

Tom and his friend, Jack Campbell, also 11 years old, of 582 Kellogg street, were out hiking by the creek near where they live last Sunday afternoon, when they spied the furry opossum sprinting through the bushes. They sneaked up on him, caught him, and are now making a domestic pet of the animal. The boys are good fanciers too, for they know what to feed their new pet. His diet includes grains, nuts, vegetables, and berries.

Two New Ford Village Plants Ready to Operate

New Units Bring Total of Country Plants up to 18

Two new units in the Ford Motor company's string of village industries—small neighborhood plants on rural waterpower sites within a 50-mile radius of the Ford Rouge plant—will be ready for full productive activity before January 1, the company announced today.

One of these small "factories in a meadow" is the Willow Run plant, located two miles east of Ypsilanti along the stream for which it is named. This unit will start manufacturing door and ignition locks for Ford cars about December 1.

At Manchester, 12 miles southwest of Ann Arbor, another village industry is being completed to start assembling automobile instrument panel "clusters" by the beginning of the new year. This plant is situated on the River Raisin.

The two new units bring to a total of 18 the number of such village plants producing small motor car parts for the parent

New Ford Village Industry at Willow Run

One of the two new units of the Ford Motor company's group of village industries is this small plant at Willow Run, near Ypsilanti, scheduled to start producing automobile door and ignition locks about December 1. Like most of the other village plants, Willow Run is situated on a rural waterpower site. Two 10-horsepower water wheels, said to be the smallest of their kind ever built, drive the turbo-generator which supplies electric power for the plant. All village plants make small automobile parts.

Ford factory. They mark another milestone in the experiment started in 1918 by Henry Ford when he established the first village industry at Nankin Mills to help close the gap between farm and factory and also to help decentralize his mass-production operations.

In striking contrast to the immense Rouge plant, each of the village industries occupies a small building of its own in a picturesque setting near a small Michigan town. The plants fit with complete harmony into the landscape. Many of them occupy rehabilitated grist mills, originally built in pioneer days.

A new plant was erected at Willow Run, adjacent to a lake created by the plant dam. It is a two-story structure of brick and concrete. The main section is 20x50 feet, with an "L" joining the north portion which houses the waterpower turbines.

From neighboring farms and towns a staff of 35 young men have been enlisted to operate the plant. Company officials estimated that Willow Run would produce approximately 3,000 locks a day during normal operations.

The plant is a model of compactness and efficiency. Equipped to make locks all the way from brass castings to the completed unit, it has a small foundry with electric furnaces on the first floor. Brass is melted and poured into molds in this department. These castings, which become the body of the lock, are milled on the second floor. Even the tiny tumbler pins for the locks are made at the plant.

An unusual feature at Willow Run is its water turbine system. Electric power is provided by twin water wheels of 10 horsepower capacity each. They are the smallest water turbines ever built, the company announced.

The Manchester plant, now in the last stages of construction and machinery installation is expected to be ready for production before the first of the year. It will employ 125 people. This village industry is to manufacture parts of the instrument panel "cluster" and to assemble all the vital instruments such as oil pressure gauges, and water temperature recorder in their proper grouping. It will have a normal capacity of 2,500 clusters a day.

Like all of the other village plants, Manchester will be operated by water power. It has a 50-horsepower water wheel. The two-story plant, 48x150 feet in size, is built into a hillside above the river bank.

The day's output from both Willow Run and Manchester, as in the case of the other village industries, will represent only a small portion of the Ford Motor company's needs for their particular product. But the advantages of such little plants, to their communities, to the workers, and to the company, are so definite that Mr. Ford has steadily increased the scope of the village industry program. It will be extended, company officials said, as rapidly as suitable sites are found.

Sixteen other industries placed in operation in rural Michigan since 1918, with the products each makes, are: Brooklyn, electric starter switches; Dundee, welding points; Flat Rock, lamps; Hayden Mills at Tecumseh, soybean storage and cleaning; Milan, ignition coils; Milan Old Mill, soybean oil and meal; Milford, carburetors; Nankin Mills, engraving, fine tools and dies; Newburg, drills; Northville, valves; Phoenix, cutouts and regulators; Plymouth, taps; Salline, soybean oil and meal; Sharon Mills, lighters and stoplight switches; Waterford, precision production gauges, and Ypsilanti, generators and starters. (Five of these plants, Nankin Mills, Newburg, Plymouth, Phoenix and Waterford, are all within a mile or two of Plymouth, and all are along the Rouge river.)

Watch Orchards, Advises Besemer

(By E. I. Besemer, Wayne County Agent)

Orchardmen around Plymouth, Northville and other sections of Wayne county where orchards are a part of the farm business should examine their trees for early injury by field mice. Some orchardmen have reported mouse injury which is unusual at this time of year. The prevention of mouse injury is easier now than doing bridge grafting in the spring. Several methods may be used to prevent mouse and rabbit injury.

1. Placing mechanical protectors around the tree trunks.
2. Cleaning the sod and weeds away from the tree trunks and mounding with soil, cinders and gravel.
3. Killing the mice by means of poison bait.
4. Pruning the trees (at least partially) in the fall and leaving the prunings on the ground until spring.

More details are given in Extension bulletin—Protecting Fruit Trees against mice and rabbits.

Lemke Addresses Kiwanis Club

Limitation of tenure of political office to one term was advocated by William Lemke, North Dakota Farmer-Laborite, in a speech before the Plymouth Kiwanis club last Tuesday evening, November 19.

The general population should be informed that 20 per cent of the high cost of living today is directly due to graft as perpetuated by high office holders in both state and national political offices," declared Lemke, who in 1935 was a candidate for president of the United States on the Farmer-Labor ticket, and formerly a U. S. representative from North Dakota.

"No individual elected or appointed to office should be allowed to serve more than one term. It is only by accident that these men are chosen—they are no different from one of you," said Lemke.

The speaker maintained that in order for this country to remain as a united state intelligent legislation must take an active part in politics.

Another problem that will confront you is the matter of paying off interest on the $16,500,000,000 that has been appropriated for national defense during the last few years. It was wholly unnecessary that such a tremendous amount be set aside for that purpose. So much of it has already been spent unintelligently," the speaker claimed.

Lemke predicted another plague of unemployment following the termination of the present war and world crisis. "At the present time there is an over-production of ignorance, which, coupled with maldistribution, will bring about a difficult situation before we realize it and can do something about it," the speaker charged.

Unemployment as it affects agriculture was discussed by Lemke, who pointed out that agriculture is dependent upon consumption and that in turn is based on the means people have of buying the farmers' goods. On the same program were Harry Atchinson, state president and national vice-president of the Farmers' Guild, and E. E. Kennedy, counselor for the Guild at Washington, D. C. Leroy J. Simmons was chairman of the committee arranging the program, which also included "Accordion Joe," favorite entertainer from a club near Plymouth, who played and sang several numbers.

Newburg School News

Newburg P. T. A. The Newburg P. T. A. will hold its December meeting next Thursday evening with Charles Braki, our deputy school superintendent, as our guest speaker. There will be several other attractive numbers on our program.

This fall, our P. T. A. had an excellent attendance due to the fact that our programs have been unusually interesting to our community.

At our October meeting Officer Farcius of the Detroit police department and his little dummy, Pinyano, entertained with a Safety dialogue and a more serious talk on Safety Habits. Forty-six parents as well as several guests and the children were present. Good Safety Habits make "Safe Children."

On November 7, our second meeting was equally successful. The "Food" center entertained with several songs and musical selections. "Wimpy," their comedian bass-vocal player, was a favorite with all.

Mr. Besemer, our Wayne county farm agent, gave a most instructive talk on 4-H Ideals and Activities of 4-H Clubs in Wayne County. He showed us several reels of colored film of 4-H club members at work in our own communities, including one of the Newburg Needlecrafters busy at their sewing, others were canning, working in gardens, growing prize calves, etc.

One film showed 4-H exhibits at the Northville fair, and at the 4-H Achievement day last spring.

Forty-five parents, several guests, and children who accompanied parents were present. Our Safety Patrol assisted in greeting guests, ushering, helping with arrangements for films, and passing out song sheets and collecting them.

—Ada Watson, publicity chairman.

We have a new pupil from the Gady school in the seventh grade. Her name is Lenore Engel. —Alan Kidston, Robert Clement.

Why I Am Thankful I am thankful for a good home in which to live; and also for a good church to attend and that we as American citizens may live as we like and worship God as we like. We as citizens, should respect our country and try to be peaceful and happy while we are here.

We don't know what it means to go without food, clothing and homes in this country. Where they are having war right now, boys, girls, men and women are dying by the thousands day after day from starvation and sickness. That's why we should be thankful for everything we have, including our parents.

—Ruth Chilson.

City Manager Discusses Municipal Purchasing in National Journal

The procedure for the approval of claims or invoices for payment in city administration was discussed by C. H. Elliott, city manager of Plymouth, in an article contained in the "Municipal Finance," a national journal. "Some administrators think that this process is just so much red tape, aggravating and time-consuming. Nevertheless, the process needs to be perfected first because of savings resulting from discounts; second, because of the necessity of maintaining qualitative and quantitative standards; third, because the general public demands business-like methods in public affairs; and fourth, because the establishment of sound records is the beginning of efficient government and progressive administration," writes Mr. Elliott.

"Too frequently, in our smaller municipalities the process of approval of claims is poorly managed. Often several persons are authorized to make purchases. In such cases, no attention is given to remaining within the budget, nor to how and when payment is to be made. A system in which one person is charged with the responsibility of purchasing all materials will enable the small town to perform the work satisfactorily. In this system it is necessary to use two accounting forms, one called a requisition and the other designated as the purchase order."

"The first step in purchasing is the determination of requirement needs. In our city the department head must submit a material requisition to the city manager, who is the purchasing agent. This requisition contains the reason for ordering goods, the quantity needed, when needed, and the description of the article requested. The manager has the authority to approve or disapprove the purchase. Inasmuch as the manager must keep all accounts within the budget, adequate control is held over the purchases. The purchasing order is then filed out. Of greatest importance are the terms of purchase and the discounts allowed. The administration must see that the city gets what it buys and pays for."

The article stresses the necessity of a check on the receiving slip by the city manager, for he must be prepared to defend the procedure of buying and inspecting the purchases before his commission or council.

"The council must approve the bill for payment. In our city," the article continues, "the mayor appoints two commissioners to act as an auditing committee. They subject the manager's report of bills to careful scrutiny and examination for the purpose of determining the fidelity with which the administration has performed its duties."

"While this procedure has been discussed primarily for a small city of five thousand inhabitants, nevertheless, the same procedure perhaps expanded will serve for cities much larger in population."

Be their own place, or the world's thy jail.—George Herbert.

Prosperity Week

National Prosperity Week begins December 2 as Christmas clubs distribute more than $350,000,000 to their 7,500,000 members. Packages carried by Santa Claus (above) indicate how the money was spent last year.

Portraits used on the various denominations of United States paper currency are as follows: $1, Washington; $2, Jefferson; $5, Lincoln; $10, Hamilton; $20, Jackson; $50, Grant; and $100, Franklin.

Mother and Daughter Injured

Mrs. A. K. Brocklehurst and daughter, Virginia, of 657 Wing street, were injured in a four-vehicle crash near Fremont, Ohio, last Monday, November 18. They were driving back to Plymouth from Pittsburgh where they had been visiting J. K. Brocklehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brocklehurst.

An automobile driven by a man from Monroe, Michigan, attempted to pass a large trailer truck, according to Mrs. Brocklehurst, and when he realized that he could not safely pass, the car skidded into the path of Mrs. Brocklehurst's car, approaching from the opposite direction. The car behind Mrs. Brocklehurst was also involved in a crash with the trailer truck in an attempt to avert hitting the first two cars.

Mrs. Brocklehurst had nine stitches taken in her head, and Virginia received lacerations on the mouth and a couple of broken teeth. Injured passengers of all four cars were given first aid treatment by the state highway patrol.

Dealer Attends Truck Meeting

A. R. West, of the West implement company, has just returned from Detroit where he was a guest at a large dealer meeting of the International Harvester motor truck organization. The occasion was the announcement of a new line of International motor trucks, which, Mr. West reports, introduces the new "Green Diamond" engine, latest development of International Harvester in engines built exclusively for trucks.

The new line of trucks shown at the Detroit meeting consists of five models, all between one-half ton and one and one-half-ton capacities. Now in production, these models take their place in the complete line of Internationals that includes 51 models in 166 wheelbases, ranging from light delivery units to powerful six-wheelers.

"The new models," says Mr. West, "are truly things of beauty and show how completely the designers have combined smart styling, comfort, and safety with capacity for the hard work a truck has to do."

The "Green Diamond" engine in the new Internationals, he says, is a revelation in truck power plant construction for greater power and fuel economy.

Basketball Team

Plymouth's Varsity basketball team this year will average only five feet ten inches in height if a forecast based on the first practice Tuesday holds any weight.

Bob Norman, Jack Wilkie, Art Johnson, and Jack Baker are the only regulars of last year's team that had for second place in the Twin Valley League returning to the varsity this year. Besides this quartet, eight second team men last year will probably be shifted to first team status.

In addition to eight other juniors and seniors who are out for the first team, Anthony S. Matulis, coach, announced that 25 freshmen and 19 sophomores reported for practice.

A team manufactured from this representation will put in its bid this year in a game that as yet is open on the Plymouth schedule, Tuesday, December 10. Besides the height disadvantage, Plymouth is starting the 1940-41 season with an additional black eye. Bob Norman, the team's leading scorer last year, is a half-year student and will play his last high school game at the close of this semester, about the middle of the season.

Wayne will meet Plymouth for the first league game of the season in the Plymouth gymnasium Friday, December 13. From that period until the season ends with a Northville game, February 28, Plymouth faces all league competition.

Six seniors who provided most of the impetus in last year's struggle for the league lead have been lost by graduation.

Although the Plymouth team tied with Wayne for second place in the league race, Plymouth was eliminated by Wayne in the first game of the district finals last year.

Last year's quintet was victorious in eight of its fifteen games. The Bucks lost twice only to Rivor Rouge, the league winner, and to Wayne. The first Rivor Rouge game is well down in the Plymouth schedule. After the Wayne game, Plymouth won't have a home league game until January 17, with Ecorse.

Play Tonight

"Young April," the play given by the junior class, will be presented for the last time tonight (Friday) at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Trash Heap

It's too bad Bill Widmaier didn't have the foresight to take French as it would be useful in writing his notes to a certain tenth grade girl. Anyhow, the translator surely gets a break.

Carolyn Castle has finally made up her mind, according to the latest reports. Could it have been last Friday night?

The card on the inside cover of Archie King's debate book is especially interesting. It wouldn't be a slogan, would it, Archie?

Question of the week dedicated to Jim Mulholland: "SHE all right?"

Did "Bonnie" Korte and Ruthie Wellman actually know the Michigan theater with their presence last Saturday night? We have heard rumors to the contrary.

What is Doris Starkweather's reason for spending so much time at Kate Micol's house? It couldn't be that she likes Kate's next door neighbor? Or could it?

The latest version of the eternal triangle gives us Jean Blunk, Harriet Penoyer and Art Talmadge. It's strange how a few parties will complicate a beautiful friendship. Don't you agree with us, Jean?

Old Glory
My country's flag is flying high,
A picture there against the sky,
Dear "Old Glory" flag for me.

Wave the stars from shore to shore,
Thy stars shall shine forever,
Each brilliant stripe, each shining star
Cast freedom's message near and far,
Dear "Old Glory" flag for me.

High above my head I'll always see
Those eight and forty stars, and colors three,
Wherever you fly my heart will be,
Dear "Old Glory" flag for me,

To Use Banners

In awarding athletic trophies this year, the Student Council has adopted the method used by Detroit schools. In previous years the letters have cost the school a great deal of money. In order to cut down on this expense, the Council has decided to award only one trophy to a student regardless of the number of sports in which he participates. Previous to this the school has awarded letters every year. The money thus saved will be put on better athletic equipment. Athletics winning more than one letter usually wear only one, making the others useless. The school will award either a letter or a banner but if the student wishes to have both he must buy one of them. However the awarding of stripes remains the same. An athlete may win stripes in only one sport.

Senior Prom

The Senior Prom committees are industriously trying to produce a successful dance, to be held on December 6 in the Plymouth high school auditorium. The prom is perhaps the most important social event of the senior's last year. A large crowd is usually expected at these proms because of the holidays and the return of former students.

The class of '41 is giving a patriotic prom this year. Red, white and blue are the basic colors: white flags, banners, stars and stripes, and most of the other symbols connected with America will be used.

The reception room will be decorated with banners, on both sides of which red, white, and blue cloth will be draped. Modernistic furniture may be obtained for the room.

The programs will be white, with a blue Capitol, topped by a flag on the cover. The inside pages will be red with white printing.

Anyone desiring invitations to the Prom will please notify Virginia Brocklehurst, the chairman, or call the school.

Girl Reserves

With a list including the signatures of three Plymouth football players, a Prince Albert can, a rose leaf, a sea shell, a 1939 calendar and other things, the Senior Girl Reserves went on a scavenger hunt Monday, November 18. Members met at the school and went on the hunt in pairs.

The winners were Ruth Dews and Marie Ann Miller. Refreshments were served after the prizes were given.

Social Register

Thanksgiving was an event for many Plymouth "kids." Ruth Parmalee spent the holiday with her aunt near Wolverine lake. Alan Bennett went to Black lake with his parents. Gloria Jones was with her aunt and later went to Ann Arbor. Shirley Reamer enjoyed dinner with her aunt in Detroit. Dorothy Fisher spent the week-end with Shirley Lyke in Northville, and Wesley Hoffman was the guest of Doris Dubea for Thanksgiving dinner. Helen Flucky, a freshman at Michigan State college, spent the week-end with Phyllis Nichols.

The picture, "Northwest Mounted Police," was quite an attraction to Plymouthites last week. Carolyn Castle, who incidentally week-ended with Nancy Alexander, and her hostess saw it Friday night as did Frances Morgan, Bob Brown, Lloyd Clark, and Ruth Parmalee. To celebrate Bob's birthday, before going to the theatre, they dined at the "Midriff" in Detroit. Barbara Litsenberger and Dick Dailey went to the Statler last Saturday and to the Michigan later.

Another big attraction last week was the Senior Prom in Northville. Spanish decorations were used in their gym and the orchestra played many Spanish pieces. Enjoying the dancing were Jack Gettleson, Gloriette Galloway, Eddie Holdsworth, Margery Merriam, Wes Hoffman, Doris Dubea, Bob Lawson, Ernestine Mead, Elmer Kreeger, Lila Sells, Bob Bowden, Doug Lorenz, and many graduates from Plymouth.

Evelyn Stewart visited Camp Custer near Battle Creek last week-end. She said there are five miles of barracks and plans for 40,000 more barracks are being made. At present 3,000 soldiers are stationed there and 2,000 more are expected by January.

Barbara Litsenberger and Bob Dailey saw "Tin Pan Alley" at the Fox theatre last Friday night. Frances Morgan, Bob Brown and Bob Dailey visited Nancy Rhenheart in Birmingham last Sunday. Jack Gettleson, Gloriette Galloway, Wes Hoffman, and Doris Dubea went to the Great Lakes where they saw "Dance, Girl, Dance," and "We Are Not Alone" after which they went to Doris' home for a snack.

Graduates

Every so often one of the multitude of past graduates from Plymouth high school pops up with something of interest that his name considers worthy of mention.

Such is the case of Arthur Finney, class of '32, and of Ellis Brandt, class of '39.

At the present time Finney is holding the unenviable position of demolition-bomb inspector at the huge Bethlehem Steel plant near Philadelphia. The bombs he inspects vary from 300 to 2000 pounds.

Finney let himself in for this job by graduating from a position in Northville. Through the medium of a civil service examination he progressed to the Federal Inspectorship.

Ellis Brandt's undertakings were in quite a different field—that of the newspaper. Editor of the Pilgrim Prints in his senior year, Brandt is now a sophomore at Michigan State college.

Recently he blossomed out with his first signed article in the State News, college newspaper. Brandt, who covers the maintenance department of his paper, got his by-line on an article on ash-removal.

Science Club

One of the boys succeeded in repairing a broken test tube. The tube is rather roughly repaired and next meeting he hopes to make it more nearly perfect. Some of the other boys made an electric cannon which worked very well. This shot nails two or three feet. Some of the boys blew glass.

Class Brevities

This week there was much amusement in Boot and Buskin. The sixth grade boys and girls gave a play for the members called "Queen Doll" taken from the original play called "Little Cosslette." After the play ice cream was served. When the guests bade us good-by the regular meeting was continued.

The Junior girl reserves had as their program an original play entitled "The Joy of Service." It was written by Edith Nolte about two different types of new girls in a school and what Girl Reserves did for them.

An interest in science arose among the feminine members of the eighth grade, so a girls' science club has been formed. Glass blowing and picture developing were the features of last week.

"The Star Spangled Banner" was locally designated as the national anthem on March 3, 1931, when President Herbert Hoover signed an act of congress making it official.

Rocks End Season

Ending their final game of the 1940 football season with a victory, the Plymouth high school football eleven extended their victories to three games.

During the season the Rocks have won three and lost five. Ypsilanti Central, Clawson, and Northville were the three games won, while Melvindale, Dearborn, Wayne, Ecorse, and Birmingham were the five games lost.

The Rocks, in number of points scored, totaled 89 and their opponents' points also totaled 89.

Twelve seniors ended their football careers in Plymouth high school with the end of the Northville game. These are co-captains Shirley Dunham and Jack Gettleson. Bob Norman, Ben Darnell, Jack Klot, Bill Herter, Erlend Bringe, Sam Virgo, Warren Hoffman, Jack Bickley, Jack Stout, and Jack Nielson.

Next year 19 of this year's football team will be returning, and a good season is hoped for.

Coast Guard

A member of the United States Coast Guard, Captain Weidner, presented a movie Wednesday, November 20, on the Maritime Police, as the Coast Service is often called. Captain Weidner has been a machinist in the Guard for 21 years.

The movie traced the growth of the Coast Guard Service from its beginning when pirates and privateers were most to be feared, up to the present modern organization.

There are now over 200 Coast Guard stations, including one on the Ohio River. These stations guard more than 10,000 miles of United States coast line.

The recruits are given their training in New London, Connecticut, where emphasis is placed on handling small boats and barges, and in the use of small arms. Life saving practice is carried out with "Oscar," a dummy, as a victim. Even when the members become officers, they find it necessary to continue their studies, for they have to pass an examination before each promotion.

One of the Coast Guard's most important duties, by which hundreds of lives have been saved, is rescuing sailors from wrecked or burning ships. Another regular service is taking injured and sick persons from ships to where they can receive medical attention. This work is often very dangerous, but it is regarded as merely part of the work.

Radio service is used by the Coast Guard a great deal, both in sending out storm warnings and in notifying ships of the location and size of icebergs near them.

An interesting duty is the protection of seals on Pribiloff Islands, near Alaska, where thousands of them come every year.

Other services of the Coast Guard include the transportation of Federal officials, patrolling harbors, guarding ships against overloading, carrying supplies to lighthouses, and rescuing people marooned by floods.

The aviation unit cooperates with other government agencies in the enforcement of Federal law. One service of this unit is dropping storm warnings to isolated places which have no radio communications.

New Troopers

To increase the efficiency of the police force two new members have been stationed at strategic points on each floor. This has been done to prevent students from going to lockers during classes without a permit and to keep them from skipping school. Bernice Kinahan and Carolyn Castle, assisting Paul Harsha, chief of police, chose the new troopers. The new system is an improvement over the old, since more reliable people have been chosen.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

Governor Dickinson the other day thought it advisable to appoint some one to fill the vacancy existing in the office of lieutenant governor. The place has remained vacant since the death of Governor Fitzgerald, although one of the candidates for the nomination did advertise to the voters that he was the "acting lieutenant governor." The Governor named Mrs. Matilda Wilson of Oakland county to serve as acting lieutenant governor until the present term ends January 1.

While the attorney general has been somewhat caustic in his criticism of the appointment, The Plymouth Mail believes that it is an excellent appointment and that the Governor is to be commended for his action. The Governor did not care to fill the vacancy before the primary election because of the fact that he was fearful that by doing so, he would be giving some person an advantage in the primary contest. He wisely waited until after both political contests were over.

Mrs. Wilson is a woman of excellent judgment. She is keenly interested in public affairs and if occasion should arise for her executive services, Michigan would profit by it. We commend both the Governor for the appointment and Mrs. Wilson for accepting the honor in the spirit that she did.

THUMBS DOWN ON THIS ONE.

Political writers for some of the Detroit newspapers say that Wayne county Democrats are going to urge upon Governor-elect Van Wagoner the selection of Barney Youngblood as a member of the state liquor commission.

Let it be said immediately that Youngblood should not be appointed by the Governor-elect. But if the Governor should accede to the demand of the Democrats of Detroit to appoint him, then the Republican state senate should refuse to confirm the appointment. By withholding confirmation, Youngblood cannot draw state pay.

Youngblood was deputy secretary of state under Leon Case, who was elected to that position when Frank Murphy became Governor. Case, a highly respected and conscientious Democratic official, had not intended to appoint Youngblood to the job. He had in mind the selection of a well known, honest and competent western Michigan Democrat for the position, but he listened to the demands of the Wayne Democratic job-thirsty bloodhounds and appointed Youngblood as his deputy.

During the final months of the Case administration facts pertaining to the conduct of some of the departments directly under the control of his deputy came to light which so distraught the honest, capable and sincere Leon Case, that he wilted under the shame and humiliation of it all and soon died of a broken heart.

The writer met Leon Case in the corridor of the capitol near his office just a few weeks before his term was to expire, about the time Youngblood's manipulations within the demand were coming to public attention.

"I am crushed under this whole affair. It is impossible to understand how so-called friends could let one down in this way. It had been my desire and purpose to give Michigan an administration we could all be proud of—and now look at what happened," said Case to the writer. Tears came to his eyes as he turned to go to his office.

It is known that months and months before the facts became public pertaining to what had transpired in the secretary of state's office, that Leon Case had gone to Governor Murphy about it.

It is authoritatively stated that the Governor was disappointed in what had happened, and told Case that it was unfortunate that his department had seemingly been forced to make appointments he (Case) did not approve.

This interview took place previous to the hotly contested election in which Murphy and Case were candidates for re-election. Case never said, but it is presumed that because of fear of public reaction just before the 1938 state election, steps to clean up the Youngblood mess were not taken by Case until after the election.

Then what happened? During the inquiry that followed, Youngblood slipped off to Detroit, secured a county political

But It's True-----!

The Murphreesboro mine is the only diamond mine in the nation officially listed by the United States government. There are other parts of the country which have diamonds ready to be mined, but development of the territories has never been considered worthwhile. For the same reason that many diamond-centers have never been mined, it has never been considered good business to take the gold from coal ash. The work would cost more than the return. Mr. Knoebler taught the squirrel his trick.

job and left Leon Case, his benefactor, to face, alone, the storm of public criticism for the things that happened in Youngblood's department. Broken-hearted Leon Case soon died from shame as a result of it all.

But did Youngblood ever do one thing to help his benefactor out of the difficulties into which he, Youngblood, had injected the department? The answer is NO.

It is an imposition upon Governor-elect Van Wagoner to even suggest that Youngblood be given any kind of a state appointment under the new administration. Fortunately, indeed, the Republicans of the senate hold the whip-hand in this situation and if the name of Youngblood should go before that body for approval, it should for the sake of political decency be immediately rejected.

POOR MUSSOLINI.

Apparently the Greeks have been using something besides frying pans and other restaurant utensils on the fleeing Italians. Maybe they've been using hot dish water to chase Mussolini's boys up and down hill. Anyway, they've done a real job in showing the soldiers from Spaghettiland just how a real angry Greek can fight when it is necessary for him to do so. But what an outrage to think that some war-mad dictator can force such suffering upon a people who wanted no part in any war! Let's hope that the upset of the German-Italian plans in the Mediterranean sea area will hasten the end of such a disastrous war as now is sweeping Europe.

STAR-SPANGLED BANNER.

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming:
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.

Oh, say, does the star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

On the shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines on the stream.

'Tis the star-spangled banner, oh! long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a Country should leave us no more?
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution:
No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave.

And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Oh! thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved home and the war's desolation,
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserved us a Nation,
Then conquer we must, when our cause is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust."

And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

FOR CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Just too bad we haven't capital punishment that would permanently take care of Michigan criminals, and not only erase them from the threat of further criminal acts, but set before the criminally inclined an example that might discourage them in committing more acts. For instance, take that 23-year-old Milford machinist, the last week choked his three months' bride to death and then buried her in a sand lot on his grandfather's farm. Why keep that kind around? Why burden us with the expense of boarding and looking after that kind for life or for long prison terms?—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

THE RIGHT THOUGHT

The business concerns are the heart of a community. The progress of the town depends on its stores and its industries, and whatever you do to help those stores and industries to prosper, is like giving a human body a stronger heart.—R. J. Jeffries in The Lowell Ledger.

ELECTION POLL QUACKERY

The election polls this time were almost as big a flop as the Gallup Poll was uncanny in its accuracy four years ago. The poll of Fortune Magazine, carried in its issue just prior to the election, was the best of the lot. The Gallup poll was fairly reliable until the closing ten days when it started being cagey and finally predicted a close race. That all the experts were in a dither in the last lap is not difficult to explain. Most everyone was finally giving New England to Mr. Willkie, when as a matter of fact F. D. R.'s vote in solidly all time Republican Maine was the best ever accorded a Democratic candidate. The writer has always had a profound respect for John Hayden, head of the

He is your NEWSBOY today . . .

Yes, did you ever stop to think about that newsboy as he comes to your house each day. Rain or shine you can almost set your watch by his arrival. A no more faithful servant operates in any community than the newsboys that bring the papers to your homes.

Many of you can recall the days when you were tramping up and down the streets of your home town delivering papers to your friends and neighbors. Do you remember the customers that every once in a while did some little thing for you, not much, but just some small favor, that made your job seem a little easier. A friendly hello, perhaps a cookie or an apple from the house wife, just some little thing that you remember to this day.

Well you know it's almost Christmas and what a grand thing it would be if all of us took just a half a second some day and did some small thing to let the newsboy know that we appreciate his faithful service.

Look about you and you'll find hundreds of former newsboys among your present acquaintances. The early training they received as carrier boys helped them get established on a business career. It gave them a foundation upon which to build. Today they are Goodfellows, and as such, they continue their spirit of service and their kindly deeds.

As a youth Dr. George Crane was a newsboy. He worked his way through school and saved many pennies to help his family. Today he is a Goodfellow and a shining example of an old newsboy who has made his mark in the world. The doctor gives much credit to his early training for giving him a foundation on which he gained his varied knowledge. He is only one of the many there are in this world today.

Think of the thousands of Goodfellows who are in the process of growing up . . . they are your newsboys . . . they serve you every day . . . why not take time today to do some little thing for them that will let them know that you are appreciative of their efforts and that you hope that when they grow up they too will remember to set an example for the boys that will be serving them . . . Let's make it a Merry Christmas for the newsboys . . . certainly they work to make it a Merry Christmas for everyone else.
