C. H. Rathburn Inspects Highways and Parkways on Eastern Tour

It's a long road that has no turn, but there is such a road—a smooth, concrete pavement, called the Pennsylvania Turnpike, which runs straight for 110 miles between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. C. H. Rathburn, supervisor of Plymouth township, recently returned from a five-day trip, sponsored by the Detroit AAA club, which took him over this latest highway development of modern engineering. He was one of a group of officials from Wayne, Washtenaw, Livingston, Oakland and Macomb counties invited by the AAA to inspect super-highway and parkway developments in the East. The party, which also included J. Merle Bennett of the Wayne County Roads and Parkway commission, left here Tuesday, December 19, and returned Saturday, December 24.

The new Pennsylvania Turnpike, 165 miles in length, with 110 miles straight-of-way, pierces the highest ridges of the Appalachian Mountains with tunnels, a separation of all highway and railway grades, elimination of all entrance interruptions from cross traffic, and by-passes around all towns and cities. "The Turnpike, a milestone in transportation progress, is the first long-distance four-lane highway in America which embodies all these features designed for a maximum of convenience and safety. The pike is a toll highway, and motorists pay a cent a mile rate, computed according to weight, to travel on it. The full length costs $1.50 up to 7,000 pounds weight," explained Mr. Rathburn, who was enthusiastic about the development.

"The tunnel passages through the mountains vary from 3,000 to 6,000 feet in length, and save arduous mountain-climbing drives. The highway took 22 months to build and was just recently opened. The $70,000,000 project, financed by federal grants and loans, is to be paid off by 30-year liquidating bonds, which are expected to be liquidated in half that time."

"One of the most impressive features," said Mr. Rathburn, "is that no billboards, lunch stands or signs line the highway, blocking the view, for only one gas station and restaurant is located on the road, at the half-way junction."

After reaching Harrisburg, deep in the Susquehanna Valley region, via bus, the group traveled by train to New York City, where they stopped at the Savoy Plaza hotel. From here, they undertook survey trips of the parkway drives under the direction of Robert Moses, New York park commissioner.

"Along the Hudson River drive, we toured the parkway system of Westchester county and Playland Park, a million-dollar recreational center. On the East River drive, at Hell Gate, we crossed on the Triborough toll bridge, which connects three of the five boroughs of greater New York. It is not, as some people think, a single bridge, but includes all sorts of crossings, bridges, cuts, highways, streets, and parkway constructions. It is a combination of many bridges, suspension, lift and fixed. This modern traffic artery is 17 and one-half miles long. Driving through the Grand Central parkway next, we proceeded to the La Guardia airport and Bethpage State park and famous Jones Beach on Long Island." Mr. Rathburn explained. The group returned to Michigan on the "Detroit."

"This is the finest and most educational trip I have ever experienced. After seeing what the states of Pennsylvania and New York have done in the way of highway and parkway developments, I believe we are sorely lagging. I am sure we could employ three major turnpike drives from Detroit to Grand Rapids, and to Port Huron. If we have the foresight, we, too, can finance such projects for Michigan," declared Mr. Rathburn.

Training School Repeats Program

Children of the Wayne County Training School will re-enact the Christmas playlet and pageant, presented at the school last Sunday, for Rotary club members at the next meeting Friday, December 27.

Nearly 400 children took part in the pageant, "The Nativity Story," and a Christmas playlet, "The Magic Christmas Bell," before an audience of 1,000 relatives and friends last Sunday, and part of this same program, following an annual custom, will be presented at the Rotary meeting Friday. The presentation of the Nativity story is as related in the Gospel of St. Luke. The young players designed their costumes, stage settings, and printed programs.

Application blanks and information may be secured at the local board office from Evered Joffiffe, secretary of the board.

est contribution was five cents and the largest was $50.

Grade school children saved pennies and contributed toys. One class from Starkweather grade school gave several hundreds of pennies in a red Christmas stocking, and other classes contributed money and toys. The manual training department of the high school also made toys for the Goodfellow fund. One woman gave a collection of 1,000 marbles to be sold for the fund.

"It's the most fun we've ever had," was the comment of many of the Old Newsboys who gave their time and energies selling papers on every street corner in Plymouth.

A total of 101 families, comprising 306 individuals, were cared for by the Goodfellows. Seventy families or 253 individuals were given clothing. The clothing boxes contained an average of three pieces of clothing per person.

Boxes of toys were distributed to 35 families, and 175 children received three toys each. Half of the 525 toy items were repaired by the Goodfellow toy committee and the others were donated by clubs and individuals

Sixty-five families received complete food baskets; nine elderly persons were given baskets of fruit; six old people or shut-ins were given plants; five tons of coal were given as emergency relief; five hospital patients and three invalids were also remembered.

Eighty-one girls were given dresses from a fund of nearly 120 contributed voluntarily by individuals or organizations.

"We wish to thank each and every individual, organization, and industry that helped in this campaign. The Goodfellows not only give aid at Christmas but assist the school nurse in satisfying emergency needs throughout the year, and all of the money given will be used for the purposes for which it was collected." chairman of the 1940 Goodfellow committee.

New Year's Day Dinner Is Best Start Toward Happy and Prosperous 1941

MRS. RUSSELL POWELL

Mrs. Russell Powell believes that the best way to start the new year off right is with the New Year's day dinner. She suggests the following menu:

New Year's Dinner Menu
 Shrimp Cocktail and Sauce
 Roast: Goose and Dressing
 Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
 Cottage Cheese and Chive Salad
 Cranberry Jelly
 Home-made Bread
 Sour Cream Pie Coffee

For the cocktail sauce, Mrs. Powell mixes three tablespoons of horseradish, three tablespoons chili sauce, six tablespoons of catsup, the juice of half a lemon, and a dash of Tabasco sauce.

The day Mrs. Powell is interviewed in her new modern kitchen on North Territorial street she had just finished baking four loaves of bread. Mrs. Powell bakes her bread according to her grandmother's recipe which follows:

Home-made Bread
 "Dissolve three tablespoons of yeast in a cup of hot water until the fat is broken down. Add two cups of lukewarm water, and let cool until the mixture is lukewarm. Add three tablespoons of salt and half a cup of sugar. To make a yeast, dissolve in one cup of lukewarm water. Add four cup of flour, and let stand until batter is light and bubbly. Then stir in the flour until you get a dough. Let stand until it rises double. Put on a floured bread board and knead until smooth. Separate into loaves and put in greased bread pans, and allow to rise about five hours. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. This recipe makes four small loaves. If a soft crust is desired, brush with butter when loaves are taken out of the oven, advises Mrs. Powell.

Sour Cream Pie
 1 cup sour whipping cream
 3 eggs (save 2 whites for meringue)
 Beat eggs, add cream and the following:
 2 3 cup sugar
 1 teaspoonful cinnamon
 1 2 teaspoonful cloves
 1 2 cup chopped raisins
 1 cup chopped nuts

"Bake in a pastry shell the same as a custard pie at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, and at 325 degrees for about 45 minutes. Cover with meringue and brown."

If you are planning a party for New Year's eve, Mrs. Powell suggests a "hurry-up" recipe for a midnight lunch:

1 can Franco-American Spaghetti
 5 slices of bacon fried and cut fine, with bacon grease
 2 tablespoonsful diced green pepper
 1 small onion chopped
 1 cup tomatoes
 3 tablespoonsful bread crumbs
 Dash of cayenne pepper
 "Bake at 400 degrees for one-half hour."

Hermits
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 1 scant cup butter
 3 eggs
 1 teaspoonful soda dissolved in 1 tablespoonsful sweet milk
 1 teaspoonful cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoonful cloves
 1/2 teaspoonful nutmeg
 4 cups flour
 1 cup chopped nuts
 1/2 cup chopped raisins
 "Drop on greased pans by the teaspoonful and bake at 350 degrees for 10 or 15 minutes."

cannot sit back and allow such an under-statement of the truth. In today's edition you state that the "scholastic fire that has burned for almost 15 years" is about to end; in fact, the scholastic fire with the "Ashes" has actually been ablaze for over 20 years. I have to make this statement in justice to Carl and Walter Ash who were attending school during the time which I had the privilege of being with them. In fact, about the only time I ever did get an "A" is when I sat one seat away from the "A" student, Carl Ash. The long excellent record of this family should not in any way leave out these two members.

Plan to be there at 10 a.m. There were 20 men present last Sunday in the Men's Study group. This Sunday this group will complete the study of Confucianism; Dr. Enss will present a detailed comparison of Confucianism with Christianity. We like to have visitors; come, listen in, 11:15 a.m. The Bible book review will be on Second Corinthians. The Bible readers club is making good progress; you can still join in with us and make the grade; make the Bible your most intimate friend by reading it carefully and intelligently. They are having a happy time in the children's department of the Sunday school. Let your children be regular in their attendance. Only then they will receive the blessing intended for them. The Sunday night meeting at 7 p.m. will again be presided over by the young people and the special feature will be New Year's resolutions. Dr. Enss will close the meeting with a brief message. On New Year's eve there will be a watchnight service in our church with a communion service at the close. Details concerning this meeting will be published in our Sunday bulletin.

New Year's day service at 10:30 a.m. The new year being a new and uncharted undertaking of major importance to everyone of us; has it ever occurred to you that the sensible thing to do would be to begin the journey with sobriety and prayer, rather than in ribald lightheadedness? If ever, we will need the guidance and protection during the year 1941 of Him who truthfully said: "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." In His faith and love and peace, we wish you all a Blessed New Year!

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Jeremiah 17: 14) "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. Smith Speaks at N. E. A. Meeting in Detroit Plymouth high school was honored by an invitation from Mr. Smith to share in a meeting held by Education Policies Commission of the National Education Association held in Hotel Stratler Wednesday, December 18. The meeting was one of 30 held in different parts of the United States at which a selection of superintendents, high school principals, bankers, ministers, labor leaders, social workers attended. The theme of the conference was "Learning the Ways of Democracy." The morning program consisted of speeches. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke on "Michigan's Interest in Civic Education." The School's response to the Nation's Need for Good Citizens" was given by William G. Carr, secretary Educational Policies commission, and T. Rankin, director of research and informational service. Detroit schools, gave a talk on selected issues in Civic Education. The theme of William P. Lovett, secretary of Detroit Citizens' league, was "The Public's Interest in Civic Education." In the afternoon, roundtable conferences were held. Mr. Smith took part in the discussion "What Are Some of the Best Measures of the Efficiency of a Program of Civic Education, and How Can These Be Used Constructively?" Mr. Smith said he believed the highlights in measurement seemed as follows:

"In order to measure civic education the school alone can't be considered, but instead the whole community consisting of home, church, school, and city government. The best measure of civic education in the community is the degree to which men and women arriving at the age of responsibility are able to find places in which they can earn an honorable living, avoid conflict with social rules (laws), and be happy in so doing. To take an active part in political activities such as voting and being willing to render service in office whenever the community honors the individual with such a privilege; to share actively in the social and recreational activities within the community in which he lives and to feel a sense of pride in being able to co-operatively provide opportunities for boys and girls, who will become tomorrow's citizens, in his community.

Virginia Rock Is Best Girl Citizen

In a nation-wide contest sponsored by the Daughters of American Revolution, Virginia Rock was selected from the senior class as best girl citizen. Each year in December the D.A.R. chooses one girl from every state to take a trip to Washington, D. C., all expenses paid. Each high school in the state holds such a contest and elects one girl and two reserves from whom the three best are picked to represent their state.

The requisites for these girls are as follows: Dependability, which includes truthfulness, loyalty and punctuality; service, co-operation, courtesy and consideration of others; leadership, personality, self-control, and ability to lead; and patriotism, unselfish interest in school, community and nation.

Virginia has been in debate four years. Leaders' club, six years, program chairman of Leaders' club one year, Girl Reserves six years, treasurer and vice president of Girl Reserves in the 11th and 12th grades respectively, extempore champion of school and T.V.A.A. two years, Pilgrim Prints three years, glee club three years, student council representative first semester and first woman mayor in Plymouth high school.

ambition of someday becoming an airline hostess or a nurse. Carolyn, who was born in Sturgis, is an expert at her favorite hobby of horseback riding. Stunt night and Girl Reserves for one semester have been the extent of Carolyn's participation in extra curricular activities. Little sisters are her pet peeve.

Fnyllis Louise Campbell is a short blonde, blue-eyed girl who is always seen rushing from one place to another. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fletcher Campbell, at 941 West Ann Arbor Trail.

Her chief hobby is playing the saxophone which she has played for the last four years in the band and for three years in the orchestra. Fnyllis has also been a double quartet member for this year and been on several music committees for class dances. Everything connected with Phyllis is music! Her aim is to be part of the saxophone section in an orchestra. Even her pet peeve brings in music—it's squeaking violins.

Insorations

If the Chinese weren't at war and in poverty and in a depression and if I didn't live in America, I'd like to live in China. If Lin Yutang's book, "The Importance of Living," paints the average Chinese as he is, I'd almost prefer the Chinese philosophy of life to the one I'll use when I get out of school. Still, the significant fact appears that I do live in America, and so I'll have to adapt that Chinese philosophy to an American arrangement.

In a section toward the back of the book, Lin Yutang quotes a countryman whose name I can't pronounce and besides have forgotten, to emphasize his point that the Chinese get more enjoyment out of life than any other people. He calls the sketch "Thirty-three Happy Moments." It deals with a man in a Temple during the rainy season who finds a lot of things to make him glad he's alive.

Well, that Chinese isn't the only man that can tell things that make him feel glad he's alive. That's a challenge to us. Right here in high school there are plenty of things that could be listed as "Happy Moments."

Just imagine dreading a history test for a week; then imagine taking the test and finding you know almost all the answers. Isn't that a happy moment? Or imagine giving a speech—a five-minute one—as the principal walks in and retaining your poise and completing in a blaze of glory. Isn't that a happy moment? Just relax at noon with plenty of studying behind and more ahead. Isn't that a happy moment?

Watch Plymouth wallop Wayne in basketball or whip Clawson in football; recite on a difficult question in physics; congratulate a fellow actor on the successful conclusion of the senior play; wear a piece of saudy clothing to school; laugh with your friend at a joke—aren't these happy moments? If they aren't, a Chinese is more glad he's alive than we are!

—By A. Hope.

Girl Reserves

The Story of Christmas was the theme upon which the Senior Girl Reserves based their program in entertaining the Junior Girl Reserves and the Hi-Y club Thursday noon. The story was read by Virginia Rock to a small child while a chorus interposed appropriate carols into it. The carols included, "Oh! Little Town of Bethlehem," "Away in a Manger," "Silent Night," "We Three Kings," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "O Holy Night," "Joy to the World" and "On, Come All Ye Faithful."

Mary Jane Olsaver sang the first verse of "Silent Night" in German and Margery Merriam sang one verse of "O Holy Night" in French. The first verse of "Oh, Come, All Ye Faithful" was sung in Latin by the chorus.

The program was closed with community singing of carols. Each Girl Reserve brought, as a guest, one non-member.

Personalities

Monday: December 16: Christmas mail rush really began in earnest in Mr. Smith's office. The ledge on the window that is used for outgoing mail needs an addition built on at Christmas time and if the teachers get particularly tall cars, horror of horrors, they'll have to be bent so they'll fit in the box.

Tuesday: At long last—the salt water taffy has come. Isn't it interesting to see pink, green, brown, yellow and red papers floating around. But it's really more fun to watch jaws juggling up and down, chewing away, and then guess by the whiff of flavor whether it was spearment, cherry, molasses or chocolate taffy.

Wednesday: Did you know there are three faithful basketball practice watchers, who, rain or shine, are in the gym watching Bob practice dribbling balls down the floor and hooping baskets. My it must be fun to be the object of admiration of the "faithful three," huh, Bob?

Thursday: It certainly seemed like Christmas in school today. The Christmas play, presented by the music department under the direction of Miss Doris Hamill, had beautiful scenery and fine costuming. The program attempted to give the students a little idea of what Christmas should mean to a free Christian nation. Many of those who attended the play in the evening felt that the program was an especially fine one.

Another program given by the Girl Reserves at noon hour also captured the deep religious feeling at Christmas time by having the Christmas story read from the Bible with a choir singing Christmas songs to fit the story. It was, indeed, a fine gesture for the Girl Reserves to invite other girls to attend the devotional program.

Friday: Excitement reigns supreme the day before Christmas vacation begins. Teachers had presents wrapped up in pretty paper and beautiful ribbon. What I wanted to know—like H.C.L. Jackson did—is what's in them. I hope you all had a very Merry Christmas.

Why do typing students often get the desire to pitch a typewriter out a window? Is it poor spelling?

Cupid must have taken all the feathers off his arrows because they seem to be hitting the most unsuspecting people lately. Of course I'm not tempted to be specific.
