Chief Attends Police Convention

Police Role in Defense Program Is Keynote

Vaughan R. Smith, chief of the Plymouth police department, was among the 1000 delegates attending the forty-eighth annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police held at Buffalo, New York, last week.

"Michigan was well represented at the convention and this state figured largely in the discussions of the police department's role in national defense due to Michigan's strategic position in the defense program. Michigan was also honored by the election of Captain Donald S. Leonard of the Redford district of the Michigan State Police to the presidency of the association," reports Chief Smith.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, mayor of the city of New York and national director of the civilian defense program, addressed the convention on "Civilian Defense and the Police Department." Most of the meeting's discussions centered around topics concerning defense, including investigation of incendiary and sabotage fires, police and state defense councils, protection of ports and harbors, traffic engineering and public education as law enforcement aids, traffic control measures and military traffic problems for army maneuvers near training camp centers.

Chief Smith attended a luncheon meeting Wednesday of FBI graduates at which Inspector Hugh H. Clegg, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was the guest speaker.

College Professor Administration Ruining Nation

Babson Says We Are No Longer Free and Equal

Washington, D. C., August 29—The nation should be run for the good of the people as a whole. Because a person has money—especially if inherited—he should have no special privileges. Likewise, no special privileges should go to any group because they happen to be organized. Government should run a nation on a "free and equal" basis. For selfish political reasons Congress has thrown out this basic principle. We are giving special privileges to special groups. Real freedom no longer exists for any except those belonging to the CIO or those on relief. Neither politics nor socialism will win World War II.

One of the oldest American sports is horse racing. Yet, the story is told that a certain New Dealer objects to it "because it is inhuman." He recommends that the horses be examined and judged by their "points." Says he: "Better still, march them before the grandstand and let the audience vote, in a truly democratic manner, which is the best horse."

Leaders are absolutely necessary under every form of government—Monarchist, Fascist, Socialist, or American. The main difference in these four forms is in their methods of selecting leaders. Hereditarily determines who shall be the leaders under Monarchies; brute force determines them under Fascism; college professors determine them under Socialism. "Survival of the Fittest" should (and did until 1900) determine the leaders of the United States and Canada. We are no longer free to work, employ, buy, sell, or in any way earn a living, except under rules laid down by college professors. These men are honest and anxious to do right; but they lack practical experience.

We all respect college professors as men. All of us know some to whom we owe much. But they won their positions by being good teachers in non-competitive work supported by taxation or endowments. Yet, you and I know that getting our daily bread is a constant struggle under very competitive conditions. These college professors have had little experience in factories, stores, or on farms either as workers or employers. They do not understand our problems.

This is why Washington is in a jam today. This is why national defense is being held up. Theorists are useful in college halls; but they will never win a war nor solve unemployment problems. When we need a surgical operation, we do not send for a professor of physiology, but rather for one who has had actual experience in surgery. Washington and Ottawa today need men with more practical experience.

Some of these professors have a wrong conception of debt and taxes. In 1900, U. S. taxes were only six per cent of the national income. Between 1900 and 1920, taxes doubled to become 12 percent of the national income. By 1941, taxes have become over 25 percent of the national income. In 1900, it would have taken only $150 of everyone's savings to wipe out the public debt. Today, it would take about $1500 from every man, woman, and child. Have we not it? Yet, these professors say we must expect our government to run on a deficit for years to come!

Many citizens believe these professors are over-emphasizing "humanitarianism" which is linked up with this debt question. Of course we should help others; but the present method of giving relief may be doing others a wrong. The solution of the unemployment problem lies with employers and the unemployed. The present relief system—designed by college professors who never hired anyone—makes men more unemployable.

A nation perhaps could toy with the alphabet—AAA, NRA, OPM, OPACS, etc.—if more super-men existed, but "a river cannot rise higher than its source." The capacity of every man has limitations. The real difficulty today is that tremendous undertakings are being carried on by only average men. This means that whatever honest and well-meaning officials advise, you had better: (1) Get out of debt and stay out. (2) Accept what the government gives you as subsidies or aid; but operate your business, farm, or household so that when this is withdrawn you will not be broke. (3) Insist your children get a good useful education—not merely a diploma—and take some adult educational courses yourself. (4) Develop health and character, remembering your local church. Professors decide questions according to text books written by men who also never had enough practical experience. Professors do not realize what a great factor human nature is and how difficult it is to change economic habits. We all are like the cogs on the wheels of a watch. One broken cog, on one little wheel, ruins the watch. Have these professors full conception of the magnitude and complexity of life? Many single factories make 20,000 different items. Some stores carry 100,000 different articles. If under Prohibition we could not regulate the sale of one commodity like whiskey, how can any nation regulate the sale of thousands? It is like attempting to upset nature. Killing off the birds brings pests; killing one pest brings another.

I am not appealing for capitalism, per se. There are things more important than bigness, money, and even efficiency. As we progress, we will gradually co-operate more, reducing needless waste and unfair practices. Some leaders of the Co-operative Movement are probably aiming at the right goal. To reach this goal, however, needs a spiritual awakening on the part of us all.

Let us labor for that larger comprehension of truth, and that more thorough repudiation of error, which shall make the history of mankind a series of ascending developments. — Horace Mann.

Business Women Meet in West

Mrs. Grace Moseman Writes of Convention

(By Grace Moseman) The sixth biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which was recently held in Los Angeles, California, was the largest convention ever held by the federation. It was attended by distinguished women from all parts of the United States and other countries of the eastern and western hemisphere.

Dr. Minnie L. Moffert, national president, presided at all the sessions. Dr. Moffert is a prominent physician and surgeon from Dallas, Texas, and handled the work of the federation in a most courageous manner. The national affairs of the country make it essential, she said, for women to become the "balance wheel" in America.

The stately, silver-haired physician-president, gave as the theme of the convention "National Defense," which she outlined in the following way:

- 1. The agricultural way of life must be maintained.
2. Civil protection and women noted for their missionary spirit can be helpful in promoting the extension of freedom of speech, press and religion.
3. This area includes health, welfare and consumers' interests.
4. Housing and industrial facilities.
5. The re-valuation of human resources and skills.
6. The relationship between producers and consumers.

Charles P. Taft, of Federal Security Agency, flew from Washington to deliver an address, "Strengthen Democracy for Defense." This address was the only one of the convention to be broadcasted over a National hook-up.

Mr. Taft who has an outstanding personality, and a fine speaking voice, paid tribute to the Federation, as a group who were always ready to do volunteer service work, and that there is great need for the Federation members to work to keep the "Spirit Within." "Strengthen Democracy in Our Town," "Faith for Living," "Keeping Fit for Defense," and "Contribution to Democracy in General."

Many round table talks were held, and women who were leaders in their field presented their views. Kathryn Starbuck, lawyer and on the Vassar College board of directors, was program coordinator. Miss Starbuck is professor of political economy at Saratoga College, N. Y.

Louise Franklin Bache, executive secretary of the Business and Professional Women's club, business women to overhaul their unit of work, to install new streamlined processes and re-direct its focus towards industrial mobilization. Changes for both men and women are in prospect, she said. These changes indicate trends and shifts in occupation—old fields closing—new fields opening—all of vital importance to working women.

Los Angeles met us with open arms and many lovely affairs were given. Highlight of the convention from the standpoint of entertainment was the California Fiesta and barbecue staged at the Uplifters Ranch in Santa Monica canyon. Under the screaming trees, a luncheon lighted, more than 2800 persons sat down at the long trestle tables for dinner. Lovely, authentic Spanish costumes were worn by the hostesses. No words can do justice to the occasion. Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles welcomed the Business Women, and movie stars provided the program.

State dinners were held throughout the city. The Michigan dinner was held at the Los Angeles Women's Athletic club. Mrs. Marv D. Briggs, postmistress of Los Angeles, was guest speaker. Mrs. Briggs formerly taught school in Kalamazoo. Margaret Siebert, of Lansing, state president, presided.

The federation dinner was held at the Masonic Shrine Temple and presented a most inspiring sight. Groups from all the states were present. Governor Olson of California was in attendance, and after being introduced gave greetings and a tribute to the federation and also to the women who had traveled from their homes to attend the convention.

The next biennial convention will be held in New York City.

The Company's new Central Office building on Capitol Avenue, Lansing, as it appeared in May. It is being rushed to completion. Defense Moves Fast in Michigan When a big industrial state goes "all out for defense," it moves in a hurry. One of the first things it calls for is more telephones. It takes a lot of telephone calls to build a tank or an airplane—an Army camp or a factory. Lansing, capital city of Michigan, is setting a dynamic pace in defense activity. And today, Lansing has 2,500 more telephones than a year ago. To take care of Lansing's increasing telephone needs, we have undertaken a program of expansion that will amount to nearly $1,250,000 in 1941. What is happening in Lansing is being duplicated in many other parts of Michigan. $11,000,000 is programmed to serve camps, arsenals, factories, and others engaged directly in defense work. Backed by the resources of the Bell System, Michigan Bell is spending more than $26,000,000 this year to meet new telephone needs throughout the state. The telephone has a little part in almost every National Defense effort. And a little part in every effort adds up to pretty big figures. Michigan Bell Telephone Company DEFENSE COMES FIRST
