All Citizens to Register by Dec. 31

Headquarters Open At City Hall Daily

Plans for the mobilization of volunteers in Plymouth for an all-out defense effort were completed at a meeting of the local Civilian Defense Council at the city hall Saturday morning. The Council appeals for the 100 per cent registration of Plymouth citizens for civilian defense work by December 31. Defense headquarters in the city hall will be open to accept registrations every day including Sunday, with the exception of Christmas day, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Every man and woman in the community district, which includes Plymouth, Canton and Nankin township, between the ages of 18 and 65 years, is called upon to register for civilian defense duty. A separate youth program will be set up for those under 18 years of age through the National Youth Administration.
The Civilian Defense Council is comprised largely of city officials in charge of vital municipal services and departments to act (Continued on Page 7)

TB Seal Sale Sets Record

Plymouth Campaign Nets More Than $700

Plymouth's sale of Christmas Tuberculosis seals set a new high this year with reported proceeds of more than $700 from the two weeks' campaign. The total sales in Plymouth were about $200 better than last year, according to Mrs. Bruce Woodbury, chairman of the local commmittee.

Children in Plymouth schools sold $288 worth of the TB seals and school children in the 19 rural schools of this district scored a sales record of $370 in seals. Receipts from miscellaneous con-tributions in Plymouth amount-

Old Newsboys Promise No Blackout of A Merry Christmas for Children

For three years now, we the Old Newsboys and Goodfellows of Plymouth, have made it possible to say in Plymouth

"No Child Without a Christmas." This year as in the past, even though stress and strain and turmoil and war, demands of all of us additional work and worry and expense, we still will say with courage and re-determined faith, "No Child Without a Christmas." Shall we, because an inhuman and treacherous trio of power-mad monsters have finally had to meet their pre-destined day of reckoning, forget the needs of children still too young to understand perfidy, treachery and war? No, we are not made of such stuff-we Americans. We shall give that little bit more in us-again and again and again to keep alive the traditions of America, of the Christan trust, and our children's faith. This truth is self-evident in the case of these, our littles ones. War is for us, the men and women of America, and not for our children. They must be spared the knowledge and the destructions and the sacrifices we must and will endure. And we will endure, make no mistake about that. And during this Christmastide, as we, the people of Plymouth, go over the top again to make certain that there shall be "no child without a Christmas," let us review the Christmas blessings we grown-up Americans possess.

What are these blessings? Of course you know what they are. Again and again we have repeated them glibly, but have not we fear, always heeded the injunction of the wise men of old Judea. who first repeated, "Let the meditations of our hearts be ever thoughtful words upon our lips and acceptable actions of our hands."
Liberty, Freedom, Justice—these three are the blessings we have repeated over and over.

These are the meditations of our hearts, born in us, or sought and accepted by our adopted sons and daughters of oppressed countries-but have they always been thoughtful words or acceptable actions of our hands? Perhaps not at all times in this beloved America have we all of us remembered or been thoughtful of their implication or their value. Perhaps not at all times have we all of us remembered to use them and apply them. Some of us have abused them; in our arrogance and our easc. our prosperity and our safety, we have misused them and made a mockery of them. But, thank God.. not al! Americans have misused them all of the time, nor most of them some of the time, and though today we. are in a desperate struggle to defend, protect and preserve them here in our America, our lives and our treasure shall not have been in vain to retain them if all of us, all of the time, will practice them, apply them to all and keep them inviolate.

One hundred and fifty years ago on December 15, 1791, our forefathers, just emerged from the struggle for independence, in which all from the ragged foot soldier of Washington's Continental Army to the signers of our Declaration of Independence, pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, wrote into The Constitution of the United States, A Bill of Rights, the ten original

They knew from bitter experience, how and what to write, and the deep necessity of writing into our Constitution the Bill of Rights, not to leave it to chance, not to leave it to the hearts or the good intentions of those whom we might choose to govern us, but to write it in and emblazon it on the minds of all as long as the United States and the Constitution itself shall last.

We could, if we wished, take the Bill of Rights article by article and freshen our minds and hearts in each of their aspirations and each of their reasons for being. But a few of these reasons will suffice to make us bless and appreciate anew our forefathers' foresight and wisdom. The free exercise of religion: Our forefathers suffered martyrdom and torture to practice their right to worship as their conscience dictated.

Freedom of speech: They hung on the gallows and were split in twain because they spoke of their king, or their prince, or their overlord with anything but praise and flattery.

The right to peaceably assemble: They were transported in hell ships to Australia, the Indies, the African deserts and jungles because they assembled to petition for redress of their wrongs and the alleviation of their misery.

Trial by jury: They were imprisoned for life and suffered mutilation and worse, because to satisfy their hunger, they shot the hare or the pheasant on their lord's domain, and that without indictment or trial or place of jurisdiction or counsel. Secure in our persons, houses, papers and effects: They were invaded in their homes—their cottages and their hovels, by the King's Men, on their prince's whim or their overlord's desire to taste of their daughters' purity. Their sons were seized and bound out as serfs, their goods and chattels, though poor and meager, confiscated on little or no pretext at all. These are only a few of the reasons our forefathers wrote and

In his spiritual life, Army chaplains declare, the citizen soldier finds the closest tie linking military duties with the cherished customs of his home. Especially among young men from the farming communities and the towns and smaller cities the observance of Christmas cities the observance of Christmas in the camps will not be unlike the programs in churches throughout the land where friends and neighbors assemble for the Christian festival. In Army chapels the same midnight services will be held, the youthful worshipper will join in the same inspiring music, he will hear again the same messages of hope, the same fervent prayers

Postal Employes Mark 25 Years of Public Service

Three employes of the Plymouth postoffice department will mark their twenty-fifth Christ-Fred Lyke who had resigned as mas in the postal service next week. Ezra F. Rotnour and Forrest Gorton, city mail carriers, entered the postoffice service on October 1, 1917 and William D. McCullough, chief dispatch clerk at the postoffice, began his service with the postoffice on November 1, 1917.

Postal carriers Rotnour and Gorton were the first mail carriers in the city of Plymouth. The postoffice opened delivery service on October 1, 1917; previous to that time, all postal patrons nicked up their mail at the postoffice which, at various times, was located, in several buildings on Penniman avenue across from the present Federal building. Postman Forrest Gorton recalls that the delivery of mail in Plymouth has been interrupted on only two occasions since it was established in 1917.

In January, 1918, a severe storm prevented the delivery of the mails and on the first Armistice day of this country, November 11. 1917, mail delivery was disrupted.

Clerk McCullough has been chief dispatcher of the mails since November, 1917, when he replaced his wife, the former Bess Rathbun as postal clerk. Previous to that time, Mr. McCullough had several years' civil service experience with the U. S. Fishery and Hatchery department.
Clerk McCullough has another distinguished record, no sick leave time lost during the last 24 years. It took a train accident to lay the faithful McCullough up for a couple of days, his only period of absence from the post-and Seals, as Vice-Chancellor.

Long Distance lines will be jammed this Christmas . . .

BUT WAR CALLS MUST GO THROUGH

> We ask your cooperation in keeping the lines open by:

- 1. Placing your holiday calls before 9 o'clock Christmas morning.
- 2. Giving the operator the number of the distant telephone, if possible.
- 3. Making your calls brief.

Last year, the demand for Christmas long distance calls was as much as eight times normal at some points.

Now our Nation is at war, imposing an additional load on long distance lines . . . a load that will continue even on Christmas Eve and Day.

All available operators and many new circuits will be pressed into service. They will be able to handle calls between Michigan points with few delays. But many calls to distant points will be delayed, and many may not get through at all.

WE ARE OBLIGED to keep adequate lines for war use, even though it means disappointment for many on their personal calls. . We know you would have it that way, and that you will accept the situation in an understanding
