War Workers In Ford Plants Get Plymouth Milk

Ramblin' Acres Becomes Country Bee Hive

The Ramblin' Acres Dairy Co., which began operation on February 15, 1942, is now delivering an average of 34,000 bottles of milk a day to the war plants in the Detroit Metropolitan district.

And this summer, M. F. Hardy, president and general manager of the company, expects that figure to go up materially.

"On hot days this summer," said Mr. Hardy, "we should deliver about 20,000 bottles of milk to the bomber plant alone."

The Ramblin' Acres company is unique among dairy companies. The firm sells only at wholesale and only to war plants or army posts. It does no retail business of any kind, and sells only plain milk or chocolate milk.

All milk which leaves the Ramblin' Acres plant, seven miles west of Plymouth on Territorial road has a butter fat content of at least 3.6, all of it purchased from Michigan Milk Producers' Association.

"Our business is such," said Mr. Hardy, "that it is almost impossible for us to purchase regular daily supplies of milk from the farmers. This is because we sell about 6,000 gallons of milk on both Thursday and Friday. But on Saturday and Sunday, we sell only about 4,000 gallons."

"On hot days, when men in the plants get thirsty, we sell more milk than we do on the cool days."

About one-tenth of all of the bottles of milk we sell are chocolate milk, but this is going down because of the poor quality of chocolate now available. We readily admit that the chocolate is not of good quality."

The plant where the milk is handled is the most modern. There are two huge pasteurizing tanks, two bottling and storage space to handle the huge volume of milk, most of which is brought in by tank truck from collecting centers.

Ramblin' Acres also formerly manufactured ice cream bars, but under recent rulings whereby each company is allowed to make only 65 per cent of its last year's volume, this business was turned over to another ice cream company in Detroit.

The company has 37 employees, all of whom are paid more than union scale wages for similar work in Detroit. The company maintains a lunch room for the employees and permits them to drink all of the milk they wish.

The firm is now the exclusive supplier of milk to the bomber plant, and has a large percentage of the business at the Ford Rouge, Lincoln and Highland Park plants, the Packard plant, the Chrysler plant, Murray Body Co., and Lyons, Inc. It also is the exclusive supplier of milk at the Wayne County Air Base on Middlebelt road and to the Wayne County induction center.

"And believe me, those are the boys who want good milk," said Mr. Hardy. "If they don't get good milk they really squeal. But we've heard no complaint on our product."

Church Paper Sponsors Contest

Mrs. T. Leonard Sanders, wife of Rev. Sanders of the First Methodist church of Plymouth, is the winner of The Michigan Christian Advocate contest conducted recently for the best answers to the question, "What Should Christian Youth be Expected to Know About God and Himself?"

The first prize, $25 in cash, went to Mrs. Sanders of this city, the second to Mrs. Lisle Brown of Detroit and the third to Ogden Lee Beagle of Muskegon.

The donors of the cash prizes were anonymous. The contest created unusual interest among the readers of the Advocate, one of the outstanding religious papers of the country.

Fire Chief Asks Women To Help

Tells What War Workers Can Do

Women working in local factories and shops were asked today by Fire Chief Fred Wagenschutz to cooperate with his department by observing rules of fire safety at home and on the job.

"Before going to work, women—and men for that matter—should make certain that the heat controls of the furnace are properly adjusted, that electric irons and other appliances are not left turned on, that matches are safely out of the reach of small children, and that all other precautions have been taken to prevent fires from starting," the Chief said.

"And when women report for work, they should observe all the fire safety rules of their employer. As a result of experience and research, certain safe practices have been established in all industries. It is to be assumed that employers will instruct new women workers to observe all necessary precautions."

"Women in the shops should also learn, as men do, how to control fires when they first break out. They should know where fire extinguishers in their department are located, how they operate, and which types to use on different kinds of fire. It is important to know, for instance, that water type extinguishers are not suitable for all kinds of fires, or fires in burning liquids, it is necessary to use foam, vaporizing liquid, carbon dioxide, or loaded stream extinguishers. For fires in electrical equipment, vaporizing liquid and carbon dioxide extinguishers should be used."

"Any fires in these days of war helps the enemy, whether it occurs in the home or on the job, and despite the readjustments that are being made in the daily routine of women war workers we must not relax our vigilance and allow more fire accidents to happen."

Catching wolves, coyotes and bobcats now holds so little interest either as sport or part-time occupation that the first quarter's bounty payments cost the conservation department only $1,190. This is about half what it cost a year ago, and about a third of what it cost in 1940. No wolves were taken in the first quarter of this year. Only three of the coyotes bountied since January 1 were taken in the lower peninsula; the other 53 together with 44 bobcats were taken by hunters and trappers north of the straits.

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't goin' in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise,'

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices', 'Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck'. Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

Something For You To Be Proud of

$433,375.00

The above figure is the maturity value of United States Government Obligations that our customers, friends and this bank subscribed for, through this institution during the month of April, 1943.

The SECOND WAR LOAN got under way on April 12th, and the response given to the call for funds by the United States Government was almost unbelievable, but the astounding part of this drive was the number of bonds sold by this one institution.

A Hearty Thank You

We are indeed grateful to everyone for the splendid reception that you gave this WAR LOAN DRIVE. We know that PLYMOUTH HAS A RIGHT TO BE PROUD of its sales during this WAR LOAN DRIVE.

We appreciate your remembering us in purchasing your WAR BONDS and thank every one of you for your patience and cooperation in making this BOND DRIVE the success that it was.

GLORIOUS ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Plymouth residents did themselves proud in the recent war bond drive. In this little city of some 5320 people, a total of $56,000—more than three times the quota, was raised. Probably few places of this size in the country can equal such a record. Plymouth is not a wealthy city—its residents are working people, owners of small business places, retired farmers, professional men and women—a population made up almost entirely of one hundred percent Americans. And when America faces a danger—real Americans do their duty. It was a glorious accomplishment, and we are proud of our city.

DEAR MR. FARMER.

During recent weeks many of you have called at The Plymouth Mail office asking about help on your farm during the forthcoming season. You have been anxious to produce all within your power, and that takes manpower, even in the growing of crops.

We haven't been able to be of much help to you, and maybe yours just as well. A farmer friend Monday brought us an editorial taken from Successful Farming, pertaining to the kinds of meals new dealers say farmers must provide their help, providing help is imported from Mexico or elsewhere.

Read it—then reflect back over the good old times and wonder if there was a time when you ever enjoyed such menus as you must serve these Mexicans if you hire them to do farm work.

The editorial follows:
 "SAY, IS THIS THE FSA?—A further twist to the legislative tail was recently given by the release among Congressmen of rules allegedly to be enforced for the feeding of imported farm workers (mostly Mexican so far): 'Butter is to be served at each meal; bacon squares or meat in some form for breakfast six times per week and ham, once a week; eggs to be served every morning and no limit placed on the number consumed. Beef should be No. 1 Grade cow; no veal is to be served; pork to be served about once every week or 10 days. Milk should be diluted with one part water and served for all meals.'

"Some suggested menus for import workers are: 'breakfast—oatmeal, bacon squares, fried pinto beans, fried potatoes, eggs, sirup, hot biscuits, and coffee; dinner—roast beef, pinto beans, Spanish Macaroni, stewed fruit, hot bread, potatoes, tea or coffee; supper—beef hash, pinto beans, macaroni, white bread and corn bread, potatoes, cake or stewed fruit, tea or coffee.'

"With the Congressional pants hanging loosely these days about the Congressional waistline, with the East hard hit for butter, milk, meat, and eggs, the diet of FSA's star boarders is enough to make the solons mad—even to the fried pinto beans, tough dish in any man's language!"

NAME THEM!

Drew Pearson is probably one of the most widely read Washington commentators in America. The other day he made one of the most serious charges yet hurled at those in charge of our war effort in Washington. He said "War and Navy Departments desk jobs are crowded with blue-bloods from the Social Register who never saw a rifle, but had no trouble getting telephone commissions—you can see through them but they protect you from the draft."

It is up to Mr. Pearson to name some of these blue-bloods. His charge is of too serious a nature to be permitted to stand without providing substantiating facts. Can you do it, Mr. Pearson?

WANT TO GET RICH?

If you have a longing to make money and have been unfortunate in getting "in" on the big dough being made out of the present war, we've got an idea for you. When we lick Hitler here's going to be a real job awaiting everybody—a new era of hovel-leaving. We suggest that if you are of an inventive nature, that you invest and get patents on a shovel on which one can lean and sit at the same time. That's the thing to which the new dealers are leading the country, so if you are not getting yours now, prepare to get it when the crack-up being prepared by the crack-pots comes in our country. Of course if you have faith in the common sense of the people of the nation and expect change of administration after next year, don't expend too much of your time on the suggested invention. It will not be needed.

Babson Park, Mass., May 7.—I am receiving many letters from readers who are concerned over the ultimate size of our national debt. They wonder how this huge debt and inflation will affect their business and investments. Hence, I shall devote my column today to a brief analysis of the situation.

Our national debt now amounts to $135,000,000,000. By the end of 1943 it will approach $160,000,000,000. What happens after that depends largely upon the length of the war. As I expect the German phase of the war to run at least until November, 1944 and that it will take a year or more after that to finish up with the Japs, we may see our national debt reach $300,000,000,000. At the end of the war, under a proper Administration, government borrowing should drop off sharply. We may then see some reduction in the size of our debt. Ultimately, however, somebody has got to pay it off. Where is the money coming from?

The funds with which to reduce our national debt cannot be pulled out of the air. They must come from something real. The only real property our nation has consists of its land plus its forests, its mines, its oil and other tangible goods embraced in the earth. In the aggregate, this land of ours is worked and made to yield capital largely through the efforts of the farmers. Hence, I believe in the end that the farmers, and other land owners, through increased taxes, will have to take care of the bulk of our national debt. The other group which must help pay the debt are the wage earners who process the products of the land. The merchants and other legitimate middlemen will be pretty much exempt.

The investor—particularly the one who is living upon rents and interest—will surely get stuck. In fact, as inflation rises and long before we make an honest attempt to minimize its evil effect, bondholders will especially feel the pinch. In spite of legislation commodity prices will continue to rise and the investor's so-called "unearned" income will continue to buy less. Furthermore, his taxes upon the dividends and interest which he receives will continue high. Unless the man who is now dependent solely upon such income for support can get some kind of a job to supplement his unearned income, he will be out of luck.

The average wage earner who has invested in War Bonds at a discount will automatically increase his capital over a ten-year period and hence will be a little better off than the investor who has spent his income. Furthermore, wages are now approaching a peak and either will decline as I pointed out in my article of two weeks ago or else be counterbalanced by higher inflationary prices. All attempts to fix rents, wages or prices by legislation or regulations is the bunk. In the end, both farmers and wage workers get only what they raise and manufacture by their sweat and toil. Too bad, but this is true!

Tells How To Dry Apples

Accompanied by a number of Plymouth members of the National Farm and Garden club, Mrs. R. R. Lindsay, president of the organization, attended the luncheon held by the club at the Statler hotel in Detroit recently.

Feature of the event was a brief talk and demonstration by Mrs. Henry Ford on the proper method of drying apples. She had on display a miniature dryer and explained to those present just how to use it to properly dry apples.

Other talks were given by Dr. Aline Underhill Orten on "Nutrition and Emergency Food," Mrs. Ruth Mosher Place on "Growing Protective Foods" and Miss Emma DuBord who talked

Mrs. Henry Ford Is Garden Club Speaker

Considered all of our farmers, workers, investors, manufacturers, jobbers, retailers and other types of businessmen, the merchandising group are most favorably situated. This is the group that buys from the manufacturer and sells to the ultimate consumer. They include the chain stores, department stores and the smallest shop-keepers. Those selling household goods, paints, plumbing fixtures and every other article come under this category. Did you ever ask yourself why salesmen have never formed a labor union? The answer is "because they get the cream automatically without a labor union."

In the sight of God, Vice President Wallace is absolutely correct in believing that we should build up the industries of foreign countries and lower our tariffs on goods coming into the United States from these countries. This, however, presents the very serious alternative of shutting off our own people, or the peoples of other nations, from earning a living. Already our wide-awake manufacturers have discovered that by having a plant in one foreign country they can sell the products of this plant to the people of a second foreign nation far cheaper than they can manufacture the same goods in the United States and export them. The next step will be for them to harness this cheap foreign labor to make goods for importing into this country.

The merchant, however, under the capitalistic system, cares little whether the goods which he sells are made in the United States or in Europe or Asia; he sells them just the same and gets his profit. When he can't make a profit he sells something else. He receives a tax bill and mails a check in payment therefore; but this tax money does not come out of him. He merely adds it to the price of his goods and passes the tax along to the farmers, wage workers and investors. All this means that with a huge government debt and a capitalistic system, good merchants and their employees and those who invest in their securities should be the best off during the next 20 years.

Engineers Will Provide Data To Make Study of New Water Source

City Manager Clarence Elliott has employed the services of Pate and Hirm, consulting engineers in Detroit to advise and assist the city in the use of the new supply of water discovered at the booster plant.

Employment of the engineers on a per diem basis was approved by the City Commission, when it was established that connecting the new water supply to the present system was too complicated for any of the engineers on the city pay roll.

Mr. Elliott said that because of priorities on supplies, it will be some weeks before the new water is turned into the mains. However, it was anticipated that the connections will be made before the end of the present fiscal year in June.

The city manager said the firm of engineers would advise the best method of hooking up the new water supply to the city system, would recommend the arrangement of the controls and check the city's plans for future development of the water supply.

Mr. Elliott said the city had been delayed in its purchase of a motor for the new pump, as well as other metal supplies used in its operation.
