Donald Thrall Uses V-Mail To Send Art Work Home

Probably Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thrall, 288 Irving street, are receiving the most unusual and interesting type of V-mail from their son, Donald, now soldiering in New Guinea, that comes to anyone from any part of the world.

Silk Hose Drive Starts Monday

To Make Effort For Large Collection

Ladies! Get busy! Dig out the old silk and nylon hose, because there is going to be an intense drive in Plymouth during the week of July 26, announced Mrs. Russell Powell, chairman of the salvage committee yesterday.

It is especially desired that all those possessing silk rugs, made of hosiery, make a donation of these rugs to the silk stock piles.

For the first time in two years the family of Mr. and Mrs. James Bassett were together. Their son, AMM 2/c Edward of Daytona Beach, Florida, another son, S 2/c Earle who just finished his training at Great Lakes, their daughter, Mrs. Jennie Tallmadge of New York, and two other sons and their families, Lester and Warren all had a family dinner Wednesday, July 14 at the Bassett home on Lilley road.

Minister's Wife Now In Poultry Business

Mrs. Edgar Hoenecke Not Too Busy To Take On New Duties

Poultry fans beware! An expert has gone back into the business—one of the kind of experts who knows how to step out and win top prizes in the poultry world.

Yes, indeed! Mrs. Edgar Hoenecke, busy wife of the pastor of the Lutheran church, who finds time to rear five energetic children, work eight busy hours every day as a nurse at the Kelsey-Hayes machine gun plant and carry on the responsibilities of a popular minister's wife, has decided to devote the few extra minutes she has in the week-days to raising a flock of a hundred or more white Jersey Giants to help relieve the nation's food shortage.

It seems that years ago when Mrs. Hoenecke's father, who was also a Lutheran minister, was transferred from a large metropolitan church to a section in Ohio where there was pioneer church work to be done in building up a Lutheran church, Mrs. Hoenecke, then a mere girl, was so delighted with the change of environment from a large city to a place where trees grew outside of the parks, she decided to raise a few chickens.

Fix Dates For Northville Fair In Middle August

To Make Event Big One For Farmers In This District

At a meeting of the directors of the Northville-Wayne County Fair association held late last week, definite dates for the annual Wayne county fair were fixed for August 18 to 22.

Secretary William Forney is busy preparing for the big event and is right now working on the agricultural entry lists as well as the stock exhibits.

He states that the dates were selected for a period when there will be a slack period on the farms.

Other attractions are being booked. The fair will provide the only near-home attraction this part of Wayne county will enjoy during the present year and a large attendance is anticipated.

Boys Pay High Price For Fun

Damage To Cemetery Costly Business

Fourteen age boys have learned that vandalism doesn't pay. A little more than a week ago, a number of tombstones were overturned in the old Plymouth Memorial cemetery at the end of Pearl street on the north side.

Police learned that six boys were playing in the cemetery. They were taken to the police station along with their parents, who agreed to pay $4.15 each for the destruction done to the property.

The boys were required to each wash a city-owned automobile and to clean up the city hall basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McConnell will visit friends at Bell River, Canada, next week. Mr. McConnell will return to his business August 2.

American Legion's Record Of Patriotic Activities Revealed

LISLE ALEXANDER Plymouth resident, high official of state Legion, makes interesting address before local luncheon club.

Legion Plays Leading Role In World War Two

Lisle Alexander Gives Interesting Facts To Rotarians

It was members of the American Legion who gave to America the protection of its coast lines following the sudden breakout of hostilities in the present World War, revealed Lisle Alexander, adjutant of the Michigan department of the Legion organization in a talk before members of the Rotary club last Friday noon.

The same soldiers who drove the Germans out of France during the first World War, the soldiers who made possible the Allied victory when the Kaiser started out to conquer the world, just as Hitler did four years ago, were the American civilians who erected and manned the watch towers of the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines during the early days of the present conflict.

"We paid out of our own pocket for the coast line towers so necessary to our defense during the months when our country struggled to prepare itself for the emergency into which we had been plunged. The men who sat through the days and nights watching the seas for the air fleets every one expected to blow up our coastal cities, were the veterans of the first World War who know what war is all about.

"Not only are we doing our part in helping to win this war, but we are looking into the future, looking forward to the time when we will have thousands upon thousands of new veterans, sick and wounded, to care for, just as we have the wounded soldiers of the first World War to aid and comfort.

"Michigan's Legion department has always been right out in the forefront in veteran welfare work and it is our purpose to keep this lead," he declared.

He revealed the surprising information that more than 150,000 veterans of the first World War are now serving in the armed forces in this war.

"But our biggest job is winning the peace after we have won this war—a peace that we are fast losing in this war.

"Every member of the Legion task, every Legion member is devoting his full effort."

Made Major Before His 25th Birthday

Norman Kincade Makes Rapid Progress In Uncle Sam's Army

To step from civilian life into the great military organization of the country and in less than two years win promotion after promotion, reaching the rank of a major before becoming 25 years of age, is a most unusual thing. But nevertheless it has been accomplished by Norman Kincade, a Plymouth lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kincade, 40757 Plymouth road.

This outstanding military achievement won by a Plymouth high school graduate of 1936, has come as the result of tireless effort and a devotion to his duty that has characterized his entire career since entering the army in April, 1941.

Following his graduation from the Plymouth high school, he entered Michigan State college and graduated from the East Lansing institution in 1940. During his college school days, he took the military training course offered at that time and was able to enter the army with a commission as second lieutenant.

He was immediately assigned to the Quartermaster's division at Pendleton Field, Oregon. It was soon after his marriage in March, 1942, to Dorothy Hearn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hearn of Plymouth, that he was promoted to first lieutenant.

In late summer in 1942 he was transferred to Area headquarters in Hempstead, Long Island, where he received his captain's promotion and entered the Command and General Staff school in February, 1943. He completed his course in April and is now connected with the Headquarters, Fairfield Air Service at Fairfield, Ohio.

It was on June 19 when he was given his promotion to major, the honor coming to him just a few days before his twenty-fifth birthday.

Rigid Inspection Planned By City Of New Homes

Officials Want Only Good Homes Erected In Plymouth

The city of Plymouth will maintain a very rigid inspection of all houses which will be constructed in the city to be rented or sold to war workers.

"We want no rows of houses here which in ten or 15 years will be rat nests and worse. The city engineer has been instructed to maintain a rigid inspection of all of these houses—not after they are completed, but as they are being built. They must conform in every way to the building code which has been found adequate over a period of years."

The mayor pointed to the row houses which have been and are being erected in various sections of Detroit, and even in the environs of Plymouth.

"These houses are a travesty on the American home-loving system. They are not even as adequate as apartments. In ten or 15 years at the most, they will be blighted, blighted worse than the blighted areas which are now being cleaned up in other sections."

"There will be nothing like that here. When these builders came to the city commission several months ago, they specifically asked that we relax our building code in order that less adequate houses could be built. These builders declared that if Plymouth wanted the houses, they would have to be built with 20-inch studs instead of 16-inch studs. The city commission didn't want the houses on that basis, and refused to relax the building code."

"The builders argued that unless this was done, the houses would not be built because government agencies would not approve priorities and insurance for them."

Health Officer Takes Action On Junk Clean-up

Official Carries Out Threat To Prosecute Owner

Sol Barron, owner of the Plymouth Replacement Parts, which operates as a junk yard on Fralick avenue, was arrested Wednesday morning, charged in a warrant with failing to comply with an order of City Health Officer Luther Peck, requiring him to clean up his premises.

Arraignment before Judge J. Rusing Cutler was set for 11 a. m. Thursday morning. The warrant for his arrest was issued by Judge Cutler following the filing of a complaint, signed by Dr. Peck, and approved by assistant prosecutor John Mowatt.

Prosecutor Mowatt approved the warrant after he, Dr. Peck, City Manager Clarence H. Elliott and Chief of Police Charles Thumme had visited the yard for a final inspection.

It was admitted by the health officer that the junk yard had been cleaned to some extent since June 20, but inspection revealed that it is still a mess.

When the officials inspected the yard, they found piles of papers, automobile cushions and rubbish, some of it piled against the building.

The place appeared to the officials to be a fire hazard as well as a health hazard, but that was not made a part of the complaint.

To get through the garage building, it was necessary for the officials to climb over much of the debris which cluttered the normal driveway.

Barron told the city officials that he had been hauling from one to two loads away five days a week since the yard had been ordered cleaned. He said he had been unable to get help.

Dr. Peck charged that he had been working in the replacements parts store instead of cleaning up the mess, and that this part of the work could have been handled by Mrs. Barron.

Barron did not reply to this charge. Dr. Peck told the prosecutor that he had visited the junk yard daily since June 20, when he issued his order to clean up the yard. Dr. Peck told Barron at that time that if he failed to clean up the yard by July 15 that the yard would be closed.

The city officials decided upon prosecution of the junk dealer as the best method of enforcing the edict of the health officer.

The complaint against Barron charged that he had failed to abide by the health officer's order, which was based on a portion of the state law, which requires the health officer to maintain the public health in such instances.

Dr. Peck told the prosecutor that the junk yard, because of the messy condition in which it had been kept, was a breeding place for rats, which carried disease.

He further said that because of its downtown location that it offered opportunities for other unhealthful conditions.

Work of paving Fralick avenue, will start about August 1. It was hoped that much of the cleaning would be completed by that time. It is anticipated by city officials that the street will be widely used by both motorists and pedestrians after the paving work is completed, sometime before September 15.

Barron told the city officials that he anticipates closing out his junk business, but that he expects to continue sale of parts, and the maintenance of a general garage repair business.

City Designates New Bus Stop Locations

The city commission at its meeting Monday night ordered new bus stops for the Plymouth Coach company in the business section of the city. The bus stops will be used for a trial period of 30 days.

Under the new order, the buses bound from Detroit to Plymouth may stop at the high school building, at the corner of Main and Pennington (in front of Conner's hardware) and at the south edge of the Mayflower hotel.

Outbound buses will stop at the bus stop near the park and at the city hall.

Many Enter Plymouth Victory Garden Contest

Still Not Too Late To Enter For Prize

More than two hundred entries now have been received for the Plymouth Victory Garden contest.

Mrs. Walter Sumner, chairman of the contest, said that she expected some additional entries before the judges begin eliminating gardeners from the contest.

The judges are meeting this week to arrange the prize list, which now totals $350. And additional $10 in prizes of garden implements, seeds, or anything else in the store, was offered by the Kasco Feed stores.

Mrs. Sumner, who has done most of the work in connection with the contest, which was designed to inspire victory gardeners to greater effort in order to provide food for winter, said she was highly pleased with the response which has been made thus far.

The entries have reached her from all sections of the city and township. Some are small gardens. Some are large gardens. Some are by gardeners, who have never had a hoe in their hands before. Some are from men who have been raising gardens for years.

But the small garden and the large garden have equal opportunities. Size has nothing to do with the contest.

The contest is still open, and entries may be made with Mrs. Sumner.

The judges will be able to eliminate many of the gardens with one quick look. Many of them, it is reported, have not been well weeded and cared for with insecticides. They would have no chance against the better gardens which have been cared for.

It was pointed out that the gardens are designed for the preservation of food for the winter, and that weedy and gardens covered with insects could not have the producing capacity of well-cared-for gardens.

Let Contract For Fralick Ave. Paving

Porath and McVaine, Detroit contractors, will be awarded a contract for the paving of Fralick avenue and Farmer street.

The city commission ordered the contract drawn by the city manager on the basis of bids submitted by four firms at the meeting of the commission Monday night. The low bid was $18,367.50.

The contractors are expected to start work the first of August, and have the work completed before the fifteenth of September.

The specifications call for full paving on Farmer street from the Pere Marquette railroad to Blunk street, and a three-quarter pavement on Fralick avenue, curb and gutter on both sides of the street and a sidewalk on the south side of the street.

Invite All Merchants To OPA Price Ceiling Meeting

The ceiling price panel of the Plymouth Price and Rationing board will get together with merchants in this area on July 29, to formulate and explain the rules and regulations for controlling ceiling prices.

William T. Pettingill, chairman of the ceiling price panel of the board, invited all grocers, meat dealers, furniture, hardware, jewelry and all other merchants (excepting those dealing in wearing apparel) to meet with the panel at 7:30 p.m. on July 29.

The meeting will be held at the ration board offices, and it was stated that it will be to the advantage of all merchants concerned to be in attendance.

In addition to members of the rationing board, Arthur B. McWood, district vice executive of the O.P.A., and Clint R. Campbell, O.P.A. food specialist, will attend the meeting to explain the procedure by which the O.P.A. intends to control retail prices.

Commissioners Debate Curfew Ordinance Here

Want Public To Express Opinions On Its Adoption

A curfew ordinance was submitted to the meeting of the city commission last Monday night.

The commissioners discussed the provisions of the ordinance, but did not pass it at that time. The commissioners felt they would like to get public reaction to the proposal before taking any action on it.

A special meeting of the commission Friday evening will be held to hear the police version of whether or not such a proposal is desirable.

The ordinance which was submitted to the commission by City Manager Clarence H. Elliott, acting on previous instructions of the commission, provides that no child under sixteen years of age may be on the streets of Plymouth between the hours of 10 p.m. and 7 a.m., unless they are accompanied by their parents, or another adult having care of them, or unless they are on an errand or other business specifically directed by their parents.

Punishment would have the child deemed a delinquent, and prosecuted in the juvenile court as a delinquent.

The ordinance also provides that parents shall not permit the children under 16 to be on the streets between the hours mentioned. Punishment for the parents are specified as up to 90 days in jail and up to $100 fine.

Following is the text of the ordinance:

"Section 1. No minor under the age of sixteen (16) years shall loiter, idle, wander, stroll, or play in or upon the public streets, highways, roads, alleys, parks, public buildings, places of amusement and entertainment, vacant lots or other unsupervised places, between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 7:00 a.m. of the following day, official city time; provided, however, that the provisions of this section do not apply to a minor accompanied by his or her parent, guardian, or other adult person having the care and custody of the minor, or where the minor is upon an emergency errand or legitimate business directed by his or her parent, guardian, or other adult person having the care and custody of the minor. Any minor violating the provisions of this paragraph shall be deemed to be a delinquent child and may be complained against in the Juvenile Court for the County of Wayne as a delinquent child by an Officer of the Police Department.

"Section 2. No parent, guardian, or other adult person having the care and custody of a minor under the age of sixteen (16) years shall permit such minor to loiter, idle, wander, stroll or play in or upon the public streets, highways, roads, alleys, parks, playgrounds, decks, wharves, or other public grounds, public places and public buildings, places of amusement and entertainment, vacant lots, or other unsupervised places, between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 7:00 a.m. of the following day, official city time; provided, however, that the provisions of this section do not apply when the minor is accompanied by his or her parent, guardian, or other adult person having the care and custody of the minor, or unless the minor is upon an emergency errand of legitimate business directed by his or her parent, guardian or other adult person having the care and custody of the minor. Every parent, guardian or adult who is convicted of a violation of this section shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than ninety (90) days or by a fine of not less than five ($5.00) nor more than One Hundred ($100.00) dollars or by both such fines or imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. Each violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offense."

"There was no indication at the meeting that a majority of the commissioners favor the ordinance in its present form, but there may be some inclination to pass such an ordinance if the age is reduced to 14 years.

"We don't want the homes which are here to be penalized to satisfy a demand for new homes. We'd rather do without them."

Mayor Shear went on to say that he was disappointed that cheap houses had been erected near Plymouth, but outside the corporation limits.

"Some day," said the mayor, "Plymouth will have grown to the point where many of these suburban communities will come into the city. And there may be difficulties. Plymouth should not accept into the city corporation communities which are afflicted with blighted home areas through faulty construction, or just downright cheap construction. But there is nothing we can do about that now. But we can and will see that the homes which are built within the city are in every way equal to the building code of the city."

Accident Injures 5 Detroit Boys

Five Detroit boys, all in their late teens, were injured Wednesday afternoon, and two others in the same automobile were badly shaken up, when their car crashed into a guard rail and culvert on Ann Arbor road between Lilley road and Main street.

The boys were going swimming at Murray's lake.

The injured were Jack Wallace, who was driving the 1934 Ford Tudor sedan; James Boyle, owner of the car; Irwin Rogers, Robert Drozdowski and Eddie Kozmowski. Uninjured in the accident were Lawrence Drozdowski and Peter Leleniewski.

Lawrence Drozdowski said he could not account for the accident, unless one of the tires blew out. He said they were not going over 35 miles an hour, but the two one-inch cables which guard a deep ditch on the north side of the road were snapped and a concrete post was broken before the car finally stopped against the culvert.

Two of the injured were treated at the Plymouth hospital; one of the boys was taken to Eloise and the other two needed only first aid treatment.

Sketches Of New Guinea Natives

lately became quite infatuated with himself. All of the rest crowded behind him and started pushing. So finally we had to arrange them in a line so they could take turns in looking into the mirror.

"They would scratch their heads with little wooden combs and jump up and down impatiently like children waiting in line to see Santa Claus. When they finally did see themselves, they would let out a blood-curdling yell.

It was hard for us to decide whether they were pleased with the way they looked or not.

"The mail just came in. I received a letter from Russell Kirk," he added.

A more recent letter, mailed from New Guinea on July 3, was written in ink—ink that the artist-soldier had made by dissolving the lead of an indelible pencil in water.

He enclosed to his parents a translated copy of some letters that had been passed out to the natives on New Guinea island by the Australian government.

The message to the natives said: "All natives on the coast should listen to this message. All Australian and American soldiers have chased out and whipped all Japanese at Buna. Very, very many died. Some groups ran away preferring to follow the coast line and we are chasing them with death-dealing airplanes. Now by working together we will chase them out and destroy them in New Guinea. Airplanes are constantly on the outlook for Japanese. If the airplanes see men on the beach they will quickly shoot them. Airplanes are not able to distinguish between friendly natives and Japanese. They can merely detect movement. Also if airplanes see a canoe, he will promptly shoot it. Then the man will be killed and the canoe will be destroyed. The government is sorry to advise you by this message that the airplane will be patrolling all the routes of travel. You should hide good while walking through the bush and at all times be sure to put your canoe in the same place where you hide. We will come and chase the Japs from your homeland. The Government has spoken. You must listen and obey."

He's About The Busiest Man Ever

Roy Jewell Finds His Fun In Hard Work

Everybody in Plymouth thinks he is the busiest fellow in town. Maybe so. But there is one gent who is busier than the busiest honey bee that ever buzzed around the blossoms of the old crabapple tree.

The gentleman in question is Roy Jewell, who with his busy partner, Carl Blalich, is making an effort to take care of all the plumbing needs of a busy, bustling city of some 6,000 souls.

Even though he is trying to do the impossible, he finds time to devote a few hours now and then to one of the biggest victory gardens in this locality, raise a herd of Shetland ponies for the amusement of his grandchildren and their playmates, and pick some of the first ripe tomatoes grown in any Plymouth victory garden.

Maybe his victory garden success is due to some extent to the fact that the little Shetland pony he uses to drag his cultivator down the long rows of potatoes, tomatoes, squash, melons and what have you, has the distinct markings on both of its sides of a perfect "V" for victory.

On both shoulders are two "Vs" of white hair on a background of black.

Even Ripley in his "Believe It Or Not" newspaper picture feature sometime ago mentioned the Jewell "V" for victory pony's markings.

Mr. Jewell was asked the other day how he found enough hours in the day to accomplish so much work.

"Well, it's just like this, I start working when I get up in the morning and I never quit until I go to bed. But my work to me is all play. It's the way I get my fun out of life."

Playgrounds Still Drawing Crowds

Some 350 People Attend Park Program

More than 350 persons attended the community night of the Plymouth Recreational program at Riverside park last Thursday night.

Feature of the evening was a baseball game between two teams of the industrial league and a band concert by the high school band, under the direction of Clarence Luchman.

Two teams of juniors also played a ball game.

Before the evening's festivities, some of the crowd enjoyed picnic dinners with their children who had been at the park throughout the afternoon. Prizes were awarded.

Anthony Matulis, recreation director, said that more than 650 children now have been registered for the recreational program, and that there have been thus far 17,746 participant hours on the various playgrounds.

More children in the eight-, nine- and 10-age groups are participating in the program than other age groups. Largest age group represented is the nine-year-olds.

Mr. Matulis said that attendance at the playgrounds is surpassing that of any previous year.

Society Events

Mrs. Theron Tallmadge recently returned to New York after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bassett.

About 30 cousins from Port Huron and Plymouth were present at the Burgett reunion Sunday in Riverside park.

Mrs. Edward Helzerman of Ypsilanti visited Mrs. William Highfield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartwick entertained at a family dinner Sunday in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Hartwick's brother, Robert Beyer.

Mrs. Herbert C. Murphy left last Wednesday for Sheephead Bay to stay with her husband who is stationed there with the Merchant Marines.

Mrs. Kenneth Martin is to be the honored guest at a luncheon and shower this (Friday) afternoon in the home of Mrs. Oscar Kuhn in Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rogers entertained at a family dinner Monday in honor of Private Harpold C. Stevens who is home on furlough from Camp Butler, near Durham, North Carolina.

Miss Margery Merriam and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones of Oklahoma, were the guests of Donald Cady at a dance given at Sigma Chi in Ann Arbor Saturday evening.

Elton W. Bakewell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bakewell left last Saturday for Great Lakes where he will receive training in the navy. His brother, Wesley, is also in the navy, and another brother, Eugene, is in training at Iowa University for the Navy Air Corps.

Mrs. R. M. Daane, Mrs. Walter Harris, and Mrs. Robert Welter were hostesses at a shower Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. Welter.

Both ardent football fans for years, and among the early purchasers of season tickets at the University of Michigan, the two Plymouth men this year were the first to buy season tickets when they were placed on sale.

Said the girl at the ticket window: "Where do you want your tickets?"

Said Jolliffe and McLaren: "On the 50-yard line, about half way up on the east side."

Said the girl at the ticket window: "That's just where you're going to be."

Imagine, getting tickets on the 50-yard line for Michigan games, and the hot dogs at that particular spot aren't a bit better than they are behind the goal posts.

—But the game is better, or is it?

Ask City Manager To Direct Course

City managers of southeastern Michigan have asked City Manager Clarence H. Elliott of Plymouth to conduct a course in city planning for their benefit. The course will be held once each two weeks at Pontiac.

Mr. Elliott previously conducted a course for the managers in techniques of administration. A local item in last week's Mail stated Charlotte Ford of Pittsburgh was visiting at the home of her fiance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Everett. This was incorrect as Miss Ford is a friend of the family.

Back From Canal Zone Country

Soldier Says It's Jungle Country

After spending over a year and a half in the Panama Canal zone with United States artillery forces, Stanley Eldridge, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Shore of Plymouth road, is in Plymouth on a brief furlough from the army. "You can tell my friends that I am mighty glad to get back to Michigan even for a few days, after spending such a long period in the jungles of Central America. And when I say jungles, I mean just that," he declared. "Maybe you've seen these Tarzan pictures supposed to have been taken in jungleland. Well the motion picture stuff is nothing compared to what we have had to face down there. It is necessary to cut through the undergrowth and trees every foot of the way. There are no clearings, except the highways that have been cut through by the army. Of course along the Panama canal there is a good road, but when you get back inland ten or fifteen miles, it is entirely different," he said. "Lots of snakes, and many poisonous ones, too. The rivers are filled with alligators and I have seen ant hills higher than an automobile. The flowers are beautiful and the climate, especially on the Pacific side, is not bad. I'm glad to be back in this part of the world, although that part of the country is interesting," he added. His outfit has been transferred to Fort Ord, California and he expects to leave for that place this week.

Obituaries

CAROL LEE CALDWELL. Carol Lee Caldwell, beloved five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Caldwell of Plymouth, passed away at the University hospital at Ann Arbor on Friday at 9:45 p.m., July 16. Carol Lee had suffered a head injury while at play on the Thursday preceding her death. The body lay in state at the home of her parents on 625 North Harvey street. The "Mass of the Angels" service, white in its entirety, was held at Our Lady of Good Counsel church with Father Mooney officiating on Tuesday, July 20, at 9 o'clock. Carol Lee was laid to rest at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery on Ten Mile road. Services were under the direction of the Wilkie Funeral home. The active pallbearers were six 12-year-old boys from the parish of the family. She leaves behind many adoring relatives and friends. The surviving relatives are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, mother and father of the child, Mr. and Mrs. R. Panattoni and Mr. and Mrs. J. Caldwell, grandparents; several aunts, uncles and cousins. Out-of-town relatives at the service were Mrs. J. Caldwell and Mrs. O. Johnston of Calumet, Michigan.

To Our Darling A buggy in the corner, A doll still left at play, Little children asking, "Where's Carol Lee, today?" But God had other plans, For our Angel from above, So she goes to better hands And with her, takes our love.

The telling of a falsehood is like the cut of a sabre; for though the wound may heal, the scar of it will remain.—Saadi.

"The power men—public and private—in this area and throughout the country—should be proud of the job that has been done in providing power supply. Power has never been too little or too late. There is today no shortage of power. This is in sharp contrast to the situation as to many of a single necessities. I do not know of a war plant has been delayed by lack of electric power supply."

—J. A. Keuc, Director Office of War Utilities, War Production Board (in an address delivered Feb. 16, 1943, at Chattanooga, Tenn.)

Electric power is playing an important role in the nation's war production. This country alone has more horsepower than the combined total of all our enemies. Here in Detroit and southeastern Michigan, the power supply of The Detroit Edison Company totals more than a million-and-a-half horsepower. More than half of this enormous power pool is being used directly in war production. During 1942, power for war production totaled over TWO BILLION kilowatt-hours.

The combined generating capacity of all Detroit Edison power plants totals 1,655,000 horsepower. Insofar as one can be sure of anything in time of war, there should be no shortage of electricity in this section, and all war plants will continue to get electric power to meet peak production. The Detroit Edison Company.

ELECTRICITY IS NOT RATIONED. BUT ITS PRODUCTION REQUIRES COAL AND RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION. DON'T WASTE IT!

A Rookie Again

How to Name the Baby
Names have a meaning—at least, a good many of those registered on birth certificates filed with the Georgia department of public health. Here are a few examples, actually filed by fond Georgia parents, offered for imitation or adaptation by anyone faced with the problem of naming the new baby: Pink Sunset, Icie Rivers, Pleasant Moon, Good Price, Joyful Nations, Payed Cash, Hansome Mann, Patience Mules, Pretty Smart, Friday Knight, Love Session, Fuller Booze, Asia Minor, Be Careful McGee and Money Killing.

The Classic Touch
Lieut. George Kimbrell of Ellington Field, Texas, settled down contentedly in his box to enjoy an evening of the Beethoven-Brahms entertainment variety. Suddenly his suspicions were aroused by a peanut vendor hawking his wares unclassically. Investigation revealed that the music-lover, intending to hear the Houston Symphony orchestra at the City Auditorium, had, through a ticket mixup, wound up at the Shrine Circus. Adjustments were made immediately.

Paper Parachutes
A new type of paper parachute has been perfected with a view to saving silk and nylon. Maj. Robert S. Fogg, army air force officer now assigned to the civil air patrol in New England, stated the new device had been tested by civil air patrol pilots. Perfected by paper products experts, the parachute is made of new para-crepe paper. It is designed to lower a 25-pound load of supplies from the air and in tests it handled 50-pound loads.

Insulation Costs Nothing
A home should be insulated when it is being built. The cost of completely insulating a new house is about $200. Most houses are built on loans. The $12 a year that would be the carrying charge for the $200 (cost of insulation) will be more than met by fuel savings each year the home is operated. Thus insulation at the time of building costs nothing in the long run.

Unhurt, Unstung
In Marion, Ohio, a pheasant flew against Fred Maag's windshield as he drove along, breaking a hole in it. Through the opening flew a bee. Mr. Maag fought off the bee, lost control of the car and it overturned. Mr. Maag climbed out of the wreckage unhurt, unstung.

He that perseveres makes every difficulty an advancement and every conquest a victory.—Caleb C. Colton.

The glory of good men is in their conscience and not in the mouths of men.—Thomas a Kempis.

Food Administrator

Judge Marvin Jones, second in command to Economic Stabilizer James Byrnes, is sworn in as war food administrator by Chief Justice S. Whaley of the United States court of claims.

Flying Garage

A jeep is shown being loaded into one of the huge gliders being built for the army. The noses of the gliders are linged. They are towed to the destination of their cargo by bomber planes.

Underwater Ballet

Scene from an underwater ballet routine performed in a Los Angeles swimming pool by Belita, an ice-skating star, and her partner, Bob Billard. Belita claims that underwater ballet helps to perfect her sense of rhythm and grace.

'Hey Rookie' Gets in Swim

Thanks to the phenomenal financial success of Fort MacArthur's yardbird show, the special services division was able to turn over a check for $10,000 to Col. W. W. Hicks for the erection of a swimming pool.

For Rubber Dentures

Plastics made from acrylic resins have been substituted for rubber in new dentures made in the United Kingdom since October 3, according to British press reports. This is to aid in further conserving rubber.

Cold, Then Hot

In Milford Center, Ohio, Carl Kaufman was treated for chills after being trapped in a packing house refrigerator for four hours. Three hours later he was treated for burns when his truck caught fire.

Shipworms Costly

An outbreak of shipworms, which eat the wood of piers and jetties, caused destruction amounting to $25,000,000 in San Francisco bay from 1917 to 1921.

Nazi Education

Girls in Czechoslovakia are excluded by Nazis from all but elementary schools, and so are the sons and daughters of "progressive" parents.

Soldier Gasper Returns To Montana

Private First Class Eugene Gasper, son of Mrs. Alex Gasper of 270 South Mill street, has just completed his 11-day furlough visit to his mother and friends in Plymouth and returned to the 47th quartermaster truck regiment at Fort William Henry Harrison at Helena, Montana.

The young soldier entered the armed forces on September 14, 1942 and took his five weeks of basic training at Camp Lee, Virginia. Upon completion of this work he was sent to a laundry school, then transferred to a trucking regiment at Camp Sutton, North Carolina. Later he was sent to Mississippi for ground and basic training in transportation. Following four months at the Mississippi camp, he was given his present assignment in Montana.

The outfit to which he is now attached comes under the classification of the "new fighting quartermaster," where infantry training is stressed as much as operations of different types of army vehicles.

Mrs. Gasper has another son in the army, who is now a student of gunnery at Laredo, Texas.

In the economy of God, no effort, however small, put forth in the right cause, fails of its effect.—John Greenleaf Whittier.

ATKINS-MCKINNEY
BILLOCK-MCCRACKEN

Double marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Ann Marie Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins of Murray Hill avenue, Detroit, with Aviation Cadet Charles Rouse McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKinney of Rosedale Gardens and Miss Rita Mae Billock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent E. Billock of Youngstown, Ohio, with Aviation Cadet Robert M. McCracken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McCracken, also of Youngstown, Ohio.

The candlelight ceremony was simple, but impressive, and took place before an improvised altar banked with crape myrtle and white daisies, at the First Methodist parsonage at Vernon, Texas. The Rev. T. Edgar Neale read the ceremony Saturday, July 10, at eight o'clock in the evening.

BASSETT-JOHNSON

Miss Sybil Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bassett, was given in marriage by her father to Carl Johnson of Marquette in a quiet wedding at the home of the bride's parents Friday, July 16, at 8 o'clock in the evening with the Rev. Verle J. Carson officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Shirley Bassett. Russell Johnson acted as best man for his cousin.

Mrs. Johnson graduated from Plymouth high school with the class of '42. Both are employed at the Willow Run Bomber plant.

After a short wedding trip they will be at home to their friends at an apartment in Plymouth.

Rationing Board Mails "A" Cards

Volunteer Workers Of Great Help

Ray Bachelord, executive secretary of the Plymouth Price and Rationing Board said that every application for "A" gasoline card renewals had been mailed out of this office by Wednesday evening.

To complete the job of mailing out more than 8,000 "A" books, required the services of 60 men and women from Plymouth and an equal number from Northville, who worked over there for two nights.

Mr. Bachelord said that more than 200 applications had been mailed back daily to applicants who had failed to properly fill in their applications.

These will have to be mailed out later as they again are received at the ration board.

Many of the applicants did not fill in on their reapplications for "A" cards the serial numbers of their tires. Others failed to sign the application in the right place.

There was only one answer, and that was to have the application filled out again.

In those cases, their cards will be mailed out later.

The failure of the general public to understand many of the rules and regulations of the ration boards has created many amusing incidents.

At the local office, there have been several users of non-highway gasoline (many of them farmers) who have become irked with ration board clerks because the clerks could not tell them how much gasoline to get.

"Only the farmer himself knows how much gasoline he needs," said Mr. Bachelord. "And we have instructions to give farmers all of the gasoline they need for non-highway use regardless of anything else."

One woman called the police department and asked them to have a ration board member stop at her house. Another called the local board asking about charcoal regulations, which weren't exactly clear. Another wanted a pressure cooker, but those were issued only by the agriculture board at Wayne. One farmer called in to ask if he could sell to another farmer.

The ration book three is not being mailed out by the local board. That is being handled by the state offices, but when books arrived, the local ration board was called to ask questions, especially when only one book was received and others were expected.

The ration board is not an information center, although the board members and the clerks try to answer all such questions whenever possible.

There is between my will and all offenses A guard of patience.—Shakespeare.

Carlton Denton Now A Captain

Wins Promotion From The Ranks

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Denton of Six Mile road have just been advised that their son, Carlton Denton, a graduate of the Plymouth high school with the class of 1930, has just been promoted to the rank of a captain in the anti-aircraft force of the United States coast artillery.

Captain Denton has won his way up from the ranks as a private. He enlisted in 1940 and since that time promotions have come to him frequently, until now he has reached the captain's rank.

He is stationed in Texas, where he has been for a number of months.

Another son of Mr. and Mrs. Denton, Raymond, is now serving in the army at Camp Grant in Illinois.

Two Sons Home On Visit At Same Time

Last week was an especially happy one for Mrs. Genevieve Wilson of Elmhurst street, two of her three sons in the armed forces being home on furlough at the same time. But the occasion was just as joyous for the boys, as it was their first time together since entering the military services of the country.

Robert, who is in the anti-aircraft artillery at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, came home early in the week and was joined by his brother Harold, who is in the aviation maintenance branch of the navy, now stationed at the U.S. Naval hospital in New York.

The youngest son of Mrs. Wilson, Russell, is now in the Marines somewhere in the South Pacific. He has been overseas for some time. Mrs. Wilson is longing for the day when all three of her boys can be home at the same time.

Predicts Serious Crop Shortage

State Report Confirms Farmer Opinions

Farmers and fruit growers in and around Plymouth have been saying for sometime past that crops production in this part of the state was going to be far below the average yield of past years.

Now comes along the state crop reporting service with a report which confirms the previous statements of farmers in the Plymouth area.

The state crop reporting department says that the yield prospects in Michigan on July 1 were below average. With the exception of rye, field beans, hay, pasture, and grapes, the reported conditions of the principal crops were below the 10-year averages for July 1 and only hay and pasture exceeded last year. The condition of grapes was reported the same as a year earlier. The composite condition of the 11 principal field crops was 75.4 percent of normal, or 1.0 point below average and 7.9 points below a year ago. The composite condition of five fruit crops was 44.2 percent of normal, 16.3 points below average and 19.2 points below July 1, 1942. The combined index of field and fruit crops was 71.8 compared with the 10-year average of 74.4 and 80.6 a year ago.

Frequent and excessive rainfall in the southern counties during May resulted in poor pollination of tree fruits, reduced the acreages planted to oats and barley and delayed plowing, fitting the soil, and planting of other spring crops until after the first week of June. In many localities, frequent June rains further delayed and reduced the planting of late crops. Above normal temperatures during the last half of June resulted in rapid drying of the soil in several southern counties, which caused some difficulty in fitting the soil, particularly in those fields that had been plowed too wet. In general, the late planted crops germinated rapidly and were making good progress at the end of June. The total acreage of field crops for harvest this year is about four percent less than a year earlier compared with a one percent increase intended last March. At the beginning of July, hay harvest was in progress in the Lower Peninsula and on most farms that enterprise had priority over the cultivation of row crops. Winter wheat and rye were ripening rapidly, but harvest will be a few days later than usual.

Frequent spring rains prevented Michigan farmers from planting as many acres of corn, oats, and barley as they had intended and much of the acreage was planted late, with consequent reduced yield prospects. With both acreage and prospective yields below last year, the July reports indicated a marked reduction in the production of feed grains. This year's production of the three crops is estimated at 1,960,000 tons or 39 percent below last year's bumper crops and about 11 percent below, the 10-year (1932-41) average. The corn acreage was reduced seven percent from a year ago, oats acreage reduced 18 percent; and barley reduced by 23 percent; a total reduction of 434,000 acres, or about 13 percent. Last March farmers intended to plant about 3.5 percent more acres to those three crops than in 1942.

WAYNE is a Fighting County

...and Greyhound is part of its fighting power

This county is America in cross-section—fighting mad and fighting hard, doing its level best to back up our troops across the seas with the home-front cooperation they must have.

All of us are putting the drive that counts behind the particular jobs that are ours to do—whether it's sending our men to the colors—building their guns and ships and planes—raising their food—buying bonds—or moving manpower.

Men and women of this community, loyal Greyhound employees, are busy keeping buses rolling to help keep our war effort in high gear. They're driving the buses—keeping them mechanically fit—conserving vital materials—giving wartime travel information—handling baggage.

As our share in this county's joint war program, Greyhound is taking our local boys to induction centers—and bringing them back home from training camps on well-earned leaves. We are transporting our neighbors to their vital jobs in war plants and on farms. We are keeping essential travel on the move—linking up this county with the other busy communities of this state, where so much of the Nation's war activity is centered.

We're in this fight to win — we didn't start it but we're going to finish it!

WILL YOU WRITE A LETTER to a Prisoner of War . . . tonight?

Maybe he's one of Jimmie Doolittle's boys. Perhaps he was left behind when Bataan fell. Anyway, he's an American, and he hasn't had a letter in a long, long time.

And when you sit down to write, tell him why you didn't buy your share of War Bonds last pay day.

"Dear Joe," you might say, "the old topcoat was getting kind of threadbare, so I . . ."

No, cross it out. Joe might not understand about the topcoat, especially if he's shivering in a damp Japanese cell.

Let's try again. "Dear Joe, I've been working pretty hard and haven't had a vacation in over a year, so . . ."

Hell, better cross that out, too. They don't ever get vacations where Joe's staying.

Well, what are you waiting for? Go ahead, write the letter to Joe. Try to write it, anyhow.

But mister, if somehow you find you can't finish that letter, will you, at least, do this for Joe? Will you up the amount of money you're putting into War Bonds and keep buying your share from here on in?

Warden Gillies Taking No Chances

Warden Blake Gillies of the Detroit House of Correction is taking no chances of having any riots out at his institution as the outgrowth of race troubles in Detroit sometime ago.

George Miller, the white convict who was captured as a result of a news photograph published in Life magazine, which showed a white man slapping a colored man who was being held by two policemen, is locked securely in a cell where he cannot be reached by any of the colored inmates of the institution.

Prison officials have discovered that there is considerable sentiment against Miller, even among the white inmates, for the cowardly way he assailed a colored man whose arms were being held by two policemen, and was unable to defend himself from the assaults.

The colored victim, Samuel Mitchell, later identified Miller as his assailant. Miller was sentenced to serve 90 days in the custody of Warden Gillies.

Police Chase Down Nazi Rumor

Suspects Prove To Be Just Good Workers

All roads surrounding the John Buneya farm on Joy road were guarded by state police last Monday afternoon after local police had been informed that two foreign speaking men had obtained work at the farm.

The report was received by Capt. Lee Sackett, Chief of Police Charles Thumme said the report had been turned in to the police by Mrs. Rowland, who wasn't sure whether the men were legitimate workers, or might be enemies of the country.

Mrs. Rowland told the police that two boys with foreign accents approached her on Sunday evening and asked for a drink. After giving them the drink, she said they asked her where they could get a farm job.

Asking for a farm job was a bit unusual, she thought, when high wages are being paid in the factories, and because of the foreign accent, called Capt. Sackett.

Capt. Sackett traced the boys to the Buneya farm where they had been given jobs.

Capt. Sackett took charge of the chase and directed both the local and state police.

Chief Thumme and Captain Sackett immediately contacted the FBI. It was possible that the men might be escaped Nazis from an internment camp.

The state police also were called into the case.

Five cars of state police participated in surrounding the Buneya farm. Revolvers and riot guns were produced.

Then headed by Chief Thumme and Capt. Sackett of the local police, the FBI agent, and a state police captain, an advance was made on the farm.

The two men were found hoeing potatoes in a field.

It turned out that the two men were Finns, who had come to this part of the country seeking farm work.

"It merely proves the value of cooperation," said Chief Thumme "not only on the part of the various police organizations but on the part of citizens as well."

"We need more patriotic citizens who will call the police when they see something suspicious."

By desiring what is perfectly good... we are part of the power against evil, widening the skirts of light and making the struggle with darkness narrower.—George Eliot.

Wise distrust and constant watchfulness are the parents of safety.—Secker.

SOLDIER TELLS OF BEAUTIES OF THE STATE OF MAINE

Robert A. Egge, Plymouth soldier lad who is stationed for the present at Presque Isle in Maine, has written a most interesting descriptive letter of the beauties of that part of the country.

It is probably better to let him tell in his own words about his camp and the surrounding country. His letter follows: "Today we had to move into our new barracks and for once there will be no change of address. This new 'home' is H shaped and lies approximately east west direction. I am in the north wing right in the middle of the H. The showers are in the cross bar, but there is no place to wash our clothes. Since there is to be a G.I. laundry here soon, it makes little difference. I like these new barracks, and am at last living where I have always wanted to live—high on a windy hill. I am going to give you a picture of what I saw today from my perch on this hill.

The time is evening, 8:45 p.m. to be exact, and there is a slight breeze blowing from the northwest. The sun has just disappeared over the horizon on its way to the West coast and into tomorrow. I stood on the edge of the hill and looked over the valley. The only place like it at home would be on the hill on Beck road.

There is some shin-high green grass out there and as I walked to the small pile of rocks I could not help feeling free. At the bottom of the hill the ground looks what you can see of it, slightly swampy and covered with coniferous trees of all kinds. There is a river down there, too, but one cannot hear or see it. You know it is there as it just has to be to complete the scene. When one looks at the panorama it seems to be seen all at once, but to write it on paper one must start at one end and work to the other.

"I shall start left or N.N.W. to almost south. The valley goes out to the left banked by plowed fields still barren of crops. The contrast between the light brown earth and dark green trees is beautiful, and as the trees go up the hill to the horizon, they spread out and are separated by a potato field to be. Going to the right there are a few green fields bordered by trees, and then one long line of trees running along the whole picture. This line is a road and along this road are the farms and buildings all painted white or red and brown. Down in the center is a little cemetery with its little white spots and definite border against the green background. I could somehow see the band and a parade of people marching out there and stopping at the bridge just like they do at home.

"Working around to the northwest there is another wide valley and we can look up it for miles. The sky over there was beautiful too for a group of cumulus clouds hung over the last ridge. Their tops were still red from the sunset while the lower parts were a dark gray not quite blending with the green gray sky. The plowed fields made the sanatorium stand out in plain view even if it is tucked in a niche in the hills. The hills on the right side of the valley are almost all plowed and on top a large barn stands out like a sentinel in the sky. At the bottom of this hill, built around the river is Presque Isle. It is up the hill and off to the right and looks for all the world like a large woods with a church steeple in the middle. The sky over town was a gray green color with a few cumulus clouds, flat and black on the bottom and tall spires turning pink near the top, still floating between the hills off to one side of the town."

FINDS WEATHER IS HOT IN CALIFORNIA, "HOTTER THAN FLORIDA."

Private Kenneth Kleinschmidt, one of the hundreds of Plymouth lads wearing the uniform of Uncle Sam's military forces, is now located at Camp Roberts in California.

He writes that the receipt of The Plymouth Mail every week brings Plymouth "thousands of miles nearer to California."

In telling of the weather, he says, "California weather is of the same kind we had in Florida, but I believe it much warmer. Today it is 110 in the shade and since I have been stationed here, the highest temperature has been 117 degrees. It's weather like that which makes tar on the roads turn into black soup and very disagreeable to march on."

"I have been placed in the Field Artillery Replacement Center and am in the clerk's specialist battery. In this battery, clerks are trained in 'army style' and it makes high school and college work regular play.

"As yet I know of no one from Plymouth who is located in this camp and I sure would like to meet some one from home so we could talk over happenings in the old home town. Many, many thanks for The Mail."

A CURFEW LAW.

Members of the city commission will soon give consideration to the enactment of a curfew ordinance which, if passed, will require all young people to be off the streets and in their homes by 10 o'clock every evening. It is being advocated by those who believe such a measure will help to curb juvenile delinquency.

The Plymouth Mail has frequently stated that it will favor any step which will keep youngsters from going the hard way. But we have contended—and still contend—that the juvenile problem is one that rests chiefly with the mother and father. If they will take care of their own children and look after them as they should, there would be exceedingly little trouble from the children.

The enactment of a curfew law looks very much like an effort on the part of some parents to shove their problems off on the community at large. Many mothers and fathers are too busy with other matters than their home to give to their youngsters the care and attention they should have.

Providing children with proper supervision and care in their own homes, and with WORK TO DO, will do more to keep youngsters out of trouble than all the laws Plymouth, the state or nation can pass.

We have so much restrictive legislation at the present time that a person does not know whether he is living as a law abiding citizen or not. A curfew ordinance takes away from the people more of their rights and adds to the restrictions which have been imposed upon the people during the past score of years.

If we are going to pass any ordinance relative to this matter, it might be far better to pass one requiring parents to give proper attention to the activities and supervision of their own children than to pass one telling children what time they must be in bed.

POTATOES!

Want to see a swell crop of potatoes? Some day when downtown, take a glance at our victory garden—and you will see potato vines that stand over two feet high. Some predictions are that there will be a peck of potatoes to the hill, the crop is going to be such a big one.

But the joy was taken out of life this week when we read that there isn't going to be any potato shortage at all—that there are so many potatoes on the market that the government is figuring on renting storage places for the surplus crop.

Barely six weeks ago potatoes were bringing three, four and five dollars on the "black market."

But don't be discouraged, maybe you'll be glad to have the potatoes you are so busy raising right now. At any rate, it's a case of using your own judgment. There is none of it flowing out of Washington.

THE MAXON BLUNDER.

When Lou Maxon of Detroit fired his broadside at the OPA and other Washington crackpots, he told the country nothing new about the Washington mess and the fuzzy-brained boys trying to change our form of government. He blundered and blundered seriously, when he resigned. No one helps his position by resigning. The thing for him to have done was to STAY ON THE JOB and hurl his harpoon into the crackpots at every opportunity. By resigning he weakened his statement and removed himself from a position where he might have been able to accomplish some good for the country.

WHO GOT IT?

While out pulling weeds from our potato patch the other day a worker stopped in front of the lot to change a flat tire. The incident recalled to mind the action of the administration in Washington some time ago in requiring every one who had an extra tire or two to sell these surplus tires to the government. The payment made to the owners, say tire dealers, was but a fraction of the cost of the tires. Now these same tires are back on the market being sold through dealers at prices far in excess of what the original owners were forced to sell them for. What we would like to know is, who got the rake-off?

A WORTHY SUCCESS.

Plymouth's first experience with the Girl Scout day camp has just come to a close. It was an outstanding success and those who planned it are entitled to the commendation of the community. It was an effort well worth repeating next year on a larger scale and for a more extended period. The Plymouth Mail wishes to congratulate the very able director, Miss Helen Moore, for her splendid work, and the thoughtful women of Plymouth who made the venture possible.

Babson Says - -

Roosevelt Is Too Smart To Run Again

Gloucester, Mass., July 23—I question that Mr. Roosevelt is personally much interested in four more years in the White House. Along with Churchill, Stalin and Chiang Kai Shek, he is undoubtedly more concerned in winning the War. I believe he would prefer to leave office at the height of his career as Commander-in-Chief! And make no mistake in thinking that he is not the guiding head of our armed forces. As such, with the greatest war in the history of our country successfully behind him, his historical future would be far more secure than if he continued for four more years.

The President may have told his friends—the Frankfurter, Rosenman and Hopkins crowd—to go ahead with Fourth Term Plans and that he would string along with them. But Roosevelt is too smart a politician to make the mistakes that Woodrow Wilson did. He may feel that to both win the War and win the Peace is too much for a just Providence to grant. My hunch is that he will let nature take its course. If the soldiers demand his continuance in office, he will run again, but not otherwise.

Roosevelt is making no attempt to straighten out his domestic front. Why he is willing that Congress should adjourn and its members—both Republicans and Democrats—should go home and tell their constituents what a lousy job he is doing with rationing, with food control and other domestic measures, I cannot understand. Perhaps he believes that with "unconditional victory" all his domestic errors and omissions will quickly be forgotten. Let me tell him that the memories of our boys in the army, navy and air force will not be short.

It is obvious that the closest possible cooperation has been necessary—both before and since Pearl Harbor—among the principal Allied Nations. All of the Allies, including our Latin American neighbors, are keeping the cards close to their chests and playing an admirable game. China, Russia, Great Britain and the United States naturally embrace different ways of living, different trends of thought and have had different ideas as to policies. But fortunately all of these considerations have been waived in the common agreement that the first task of all concerned is to whip Hitler and Hirohito.

In spite of her great losses in manpower, Russia will emerge from the War a stronger nation than ever before. She will no longer be an isolated nation. Russia's position in coming world affairs will have to be acknowledged and perhaps reckoned with. One set of conditions for the Allies can prevail when fighting for a common cause; but when peace comes these conditions will lose their significance. "Dog-eat-dog," rather than cooperation, may then be the rule.

Just what form our participation in world peace will take after the War, will depend upon our new war veterans. Perhaps, as a nation, we should adopt the slogan of "slow and careful." Many of them will remember our efforts, including Wilson's Fourteen Points, the Dawes and Young Plans and the League of Nations, which followed the last War. In the main, they were all failures. We were thanked but little for these efforts to establish a lasting peace.

So again, should we attempt to dominate the peace plans of the postwar era, our efforts may, likewise fail.

I doubt if there can be any semblance of a lasting peace in Europe without a Federation of States which is what Hitler has had in mind for years. The continent of Europe comprises too many small countries and rulers for its own good. In the end, the Allies may be forced to do, through diplomacy, what Hitler has attempted through force of arms. But this will be decided, not by Roosevelt, but by our returning soldiers.

I am sure that we shall not be called upon to "feed the world" for more than a year or two. I am not so certain how the Beveridge "cradle to grave" plan would suit our people; nor contrariwise how any social security plans of ours would suit Great Britain or Russia. If it is the intent of any present New Dealer to draw our Allies into a "New Order" these other nations may diplomatically suggest that we had better first have "more order" in our own country—that is, fewer strikes, race fights and hold ups.

I once said, "Watch Russia." I now add "Watch Africa." In that country, if anywhere, the first signs of an attempted World New Deal will show up.

I seem to recall that when Admiral Dewey made his triumphant entry into Manila he said that the Americans would remain in the Philippines only for a short time. It may now be that we will, likewise, experiment with Africa. Talk it over with your boys as they come home from the War. The decision will rest with them; not with armchair strategists, or long-haired professors, here at home. Likewise, they can determine the form of government, industry and business which will follow World War II, whether it shall be American or socialist.

Listen more to what your boys are thinking!

Urges Marketing Of Poultry

Feed Situation Grows Serious

Following revelations made in the last issue of The Plymouth Mail that this part of Michigan is faced with a serious feed shortage for poultry, came additional proof of the serious condition of this week when the extension department of the Michigan State college urged the marketing of portions of new flocks of poultry.

The Extension Service stated that Michigan's millions of hens are due to go on restricted diets or even go to market unless poultrymen devise more efficient ways of feeding their flocks. Savings of feeds could go far towards reducing the need for 1,080,000,000 pounds of feed now used annually to feed Michigan's 12 million laying hens, according to C. G. Card, head of the Michigan State college poultry department.

Ten per cent of the average flock could be culled without losing much egg production, Card estimates. Non-layers ought to go to market. Another five to 10 per cent of the mash and grain feed supply could be saved by using hoppers properly constructed and not filled so that feed can be scratched out by the chickens or blown out by winds.

Still another way to save feed is suggested by the college authority. This concerns the 30 to 35 million baby chicks started each year in the state. Normally 20 to 25 percent of these young chicks die early in life or just as they reach the broiler or the laying stage. If only five percent more of the chicks could be saved for meat or for laying flocks, Card figures, the 15 million pounds of feed eaten by the five percent of the chicks would be saved and not wasted. Adequate poultry disease controls, according to Professor Card, are as important to war production, as the feed saving since poultry continues a vital source of food for army forces and civilians.
