$2.00 Per Year in Advance

Construction Started On 21 New War Houses

Building Permits Issued For Total Of 41 To Date

Construction of 21 so-called defense homes is underway in the Sunset and Kate Allen subdivisions on Plymouth's north side.

Building permits have been issued for 41 other such defense homes. Permits for fourteen others have been granted by the city but haven't been taken out by the contractors.

City officials are keeping a close check on the construction of the homes to make certain that they meet all of the city's building requirements.

This action is being taken because of the advance action of the contractors in attempting to get building regulations reduced to meet FHA and other federal requirements that the houses be built with a minimum of expense.

The fourteen permits which were issued, but have not been taken out by the contractors, were issued to the Beachlawn Construction corporation of Detroit, which planned to build in the Brookview subdivision on the south side.

Whether or not the failure of the construction company to take out the permits hinged on the reported disapproval of the new houses by other residents in the subdivision could not be learned.

The present property owners in Brookview, it was learned, have employed an attorney with a view of seeking an injunction against construction of the houses.

The houses which were to have been built in the Brookview area were valued on the plans at $5,850, which was just under the $6,000 maximum which could have been approved for an FHA mortgage. They will be for rent and sale only to workers in war plants.

Most of the houses to be built will be of wooden construction and are valued at $5,000 or slightly under. These are the houses which already are under construction. Basements have been dug for 21 of these houses. The basement walls are now being laid. The framework of one of the houses has been erected.

There has been considerable discussion of the new housing program in Plymouth since it was inaugurated by the builders when they attempted to have the building regulations changed.

And while it is admitted that some of the houses may not be all that is desired in the construction of a permanent house, and while others feel that the similarity of construction and placement on a lot certainly classes them as a "row" house, it also is pointed out that the housing is badly needed in the city.

Wanted—Washing Machine For Lt. Edwin Schrader's Naval Craft

Wanted—A good, electric washing machine. Must be in excellent working condition. If no one has a machine they care to donate to 28 American fighting navy lads, The Plymouth Mail will make an effort to raise sufficient funds to pay for one you might have for sale. Contact Sterling Eaton of The Plymouth Mail immediately.

There is not a washing machine for sale in all of New York city—and Lieutenant Edwin Schrader is in command of the naval craft that needs the washing machine.

The popular young Plymouth business man who was some months ago awarded a navy commission, has now been assigned to the command of a navy boat. Among the duties of the officer in command is the equipment of the boat with such necessities and luxuries of life as men aboard fighting crafts are permitted to take with them when they go to sea.

And a washing machine would help these 28 crew members to "do their washing" much easier than by using a pail and scrub board.

So urgent is the necessity of a washing machine for the boat that Lieutenant Schrader called by long distance phone from New York in the early wee hours of the morning to ask that The Plymouth Mail make an effort to help him get a washing machine for his boat.

All you have to do to help out, is call Sterling Eaton by phone sometime Friday or Saturday and let him know if you have a good washing machine you care to donate or sell for use on Lieutenant Schrader's warcraft.

Northville Fair To Feature Outstanding Rodeo—Free Gate

Dates For Event Fixed For August 18 to Aug. 22

Final plans for the Northville-Wayne county fair to be held in Northville from August 18 to August 22, have nearly been completed. Dr. Lynwood W. Snow, president of the association stated yesterday.

"We are holding the fair this year because we believe it is a civic duty to go out of our way to provide a little diversion for the busy men and women who are working so diligently in war industries. The fair will provide them with some good entertainment and something to see that will be a change from their everyday routine," stated President Snow yesterday.

"In addition to our exhibits and attractions, we have been very fortunate in booking one of the best rodeo shows on the road. We believe this will be one of the big features of the fair. It will provide plenty of excitement as well as entertainment," he added.

"We are carrying on the Northville fair tradition because of the need for it at this time. The people need something like it and they need entertainment. We have had nothing around here in a year and that is why we are giving up our time and putting forth an effort to have a fair that will give people a place to go for an afternoon or evening. We especially invite the busy residents of Plymouth and vicinity to come and enjoy the fair. There will be no gate charge this year. There will be a grand admission. This arrangement will give plenty of free entertainment for all who are seeking a diversion we so badly need."

Summer Tin Can Collection Takes Place Saturday

Workers Hope To Make It City's Most Successful

Saturday is the date fixed for the annual summer collection of tin cans and Mrs. William Rambo, the new committee chairman, is anxious that the mid-summer collection be the city's largest.

It is urged that every household place the containers containing their cans on the edge of the curbs so that the drivers of the city trucks can make the collections speedily.

Mrs. Russell Powell, general salvage chairman, states that in Plymouth township, there are nine tin can truck stops. Due to the distances to be covered, it has been necessary for Mrs. Powell and her aides to set up these stops in order to make the collection more convenient for both the residents of the township and the collectors.

It is urged that the block aides take their cans to the following listed stations this (Friday) evening or Saturday morning before 10 o'clock. If one of the collection workers has not called at your home in the township to collect your cans, you are requested to deliver them to one of these places so they can be collected in the collection to made Saturday.

Russell Daane Gets Commission In The Navy

Leaves Saturday For Instruction In New Duties

Russell Daane, vice president and cashier of the Plymouth United Savings Bank, was yesterday advised that he has been awarded a commission as lieutenant in the United States navy. He was ordered to report to the Babson Institute at Boston on Monday. He will leave Saturday to take up his preliminary instruction in the naval supply corps.

At a meeting of the directors of the bank this week, Mr. Daane was granted a leave of absence for the duration of the war.

Mrs. Daane and children will continue to reside in Plymouth in the attractive residence the family constructed a few years ago on Garfield avenue.

Lieutenant Daane, a graduate of the South high school of Grand Rapids, is also a graduate of Michigan State college with the class of 1928.

He served four years as a state bank examiner and then was appointed assistant manager of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation when the government first opened its office in Detroit. He also served in this capacity for four years, coming to Plymouth in March, 1935 when he was named as cashier of the Plymouth United Savings bank. Two years ago now responsibilities in the bank were assigned to him when he was elected to the office of vice president.

He has been active in Rotary club affairs, having served recently as president of the club. He is also treasurer of the Wayne County Crippled Children's committee and has been active in the promotion of the cub scout movement in Plymouth.

Both Feet Severed

Ralph West Is Critically Injured In P. M. Yards

Ralph West, well known Plymouth resident, employed by the Pere Marquette railway as a car inspector, had both feet cut off Thursday morning about 2 a.m. when hit by a train as he worked in the darkness alongside another train standing on a switch track.

He was rushed to Grace hospital where it was reported Thursday morning that he had received other serious injuries and that his condition was critical.

During the past few days Mr. and Mrs. West have been greatly worried about the condition of their son, James, who was recently transferred from the Pacific southwest to an army hospital somewhere on the Pacific coast due to a critical illness he suffered on one of the jungle islands.

The soldier's father was given first aid by Pere Marquette employee to stop the flow of blood. The Schrader ambulance was called and he was hurried to Grace hospital. Mr. West has been employed by the Pere Marquette for a number of years and has a host of friends in this city, who were shocked to learn of the deplorable accident.

Only Buyers Can Defeat Black Market Perils

Operation of black markets in the Detroit metropolitan area, and in Plymouth in particular, can be broken only through the joint and concerted action of the public.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Catherine Henderson, a member of the consumers' council, and the consumer member of the rationing board.

Speaking on behalf of the consumers' council, Mrs. Henderson declared that if there is a joint action on the part of all consumers, that there will be an immediate reaction. This in turn will be reflected on the middle man, and eventually the producer.

It was reliably reported in Plymouth this week that efforts already are underway by a group of wholesalers in Detroit to combine to beat down the prices on the big markets in Detroit. If they are successful, this will be reflected in the price of fruits and vegetables charged in the Plymouth market.

Another source suggested that the truck drivers, most of whom operate on a wholesale basis, would be of tremendous help in blacklisting the black market.

But Mrs. Henderson insists that the place to begin the crack up of the black market is among the consumers, who do the eventual buying.

One grocer revealed at a meeting of the Plymouth War Price and rationing board last week that he had refused to buy berries at the terrific prices being charged for them. On the other hand, there were grocers who bought berries and sold them at prices higher than the berries were worth. In some instances, they were higher than what were thought to be ceiling prices.

"If the public," said Mrs. Henderson, "will just refuse to buy this black market merchandise, it would take only two weeks to beat them out of existence."

"The black markets are a definite hindrance to the great bulk of the people in Plymouth. Of course there are a lot of people here who are making more money than they ever made in their lives. They are spending this money for food and other black market articles, entirely unaware, or at least entirely unconcerned by the fact that the great bulk of their neighbors are salaried people who have not had raises."

"These people have to eat, too. They also have to have furnishings of all kinds. They can't buy them if they have to pay black market prices."

To Drop Bombs On Plymouth Tuesday Night

All Residents Warned To Be Inside Their Homes

A full-dress air raid will be held Tuesday evening with a simulated bomb attack with paper bombs to be dropped over the Detroit metropolitan area by planes of the Civil Air Patrol.

All units of the Civilian Defense Corps will be mobilized for the alert, including the auxiliary police and firemen, and all units of the Red Cross.

The first or "yellow" alert will be flashed at 7 o'clock in the evening. This will be followed by the "blue" alert which indicates that planes may be approaching. The "red" alert, which indicates that planes are about to drop bombs is scheduled to be flashed at 7:48 p.m., with the actual bomb attack to follow immediately.

The bombs are to be small pieces of paper weighing about two ounces. To these pieces of paper will be stapled red, blue and green streamers, signifying the type of bomb which has been dropped.

The red streamers, of course, are fire bombs. The blue streamer is a devastation bomb and the green streamer will signify a demolition bomb.

When citizens find these bombs or see them fall they should act if they were real bombs, at the same time notifying their air raid wardens.

All persons will be required to be inside, however, during the air raid in the same manner that they would be under a real bomb attack.

Bob Townsend, in command of the Civil Air Patrol for western Wayne county, with headquarters at the Mettetal airport south of the city, said ten planes from his airport would drop about fifty-thousand bombs during the course of the alert.

Ceiling Prices Discussed

More than 150 merchants in the area served by the Plymouth War Price and Rationing Board attended a meeting sponsored by the ceiling price panel of the board at the City Hall last Thursday night.

While there was some complaint voiced by some of the merchants that nothing was accomplished at the session, William Pettigill, the sub chairman of the panel declared that the panel had accomplished what it set out to do.

"We succeeded," said Mr. Pettigill, "in informing the merchants that operation of the ceiling price program is to a large extent their responsibility."

Principal speakers at the session were Arthur B. McWood, district vice executive of the OPA and Clint Campbell, food specialist for the Detroit office of the OPA.

Both McWood and Campbell explained the operation of price control, and the necessity for it. Campbell placed particular emphasis on the operation of the price panel, which Mr. Pettigill said was anxious to cooperate with the merchants in the area in order to make the program function.

Following the talks by McWood and Campbell, the meeting was thrown open to questions and answers. Most of the merchants took advantage of the opportunity to ask questions.

After the questioning had been underway for a short time, it became fairly evident that some present were attempting to put the two officials on the "spot" because of the unpopularity of the rationing program, and because their business were being adversely affected by the rules and regulations which have been formed.

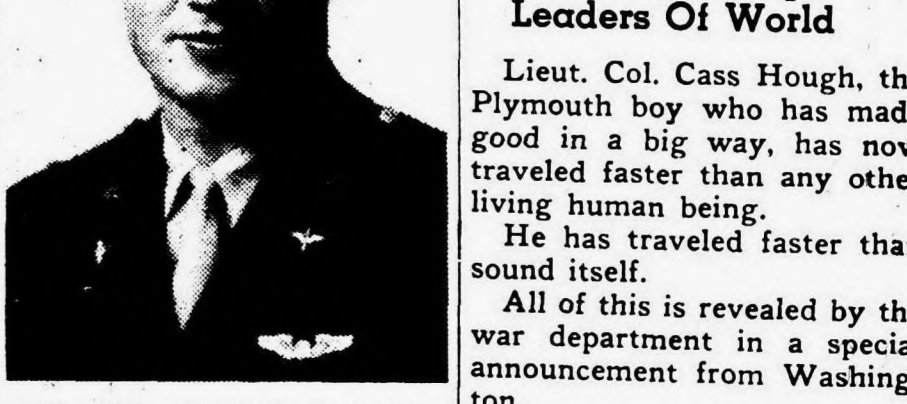

Chairman Bill Wood, of the local board told the merchants that they should bear in mind that the regulations had not been formulated either by the two speakers, the Detroit office or the local ration board.

Sets World Record For Speed Flight

Tells How It Felt To Travel Faster Than Sound Itself

Col. Cass Hough Traveled Faster Than Sound In Plane Tests

Accomplishment Of Plymouth Lad Has Amazed Military Leaders Of World

LT. COL. CASS S. HOUGH

In an interview carried from England by all news services covering the world war, Lt. Col. Cass Hough of this city told how it felt when he traveled through the air at a greater speed than ever accomplished by any other man.

The 36-year-old Plymouth Army pilot, who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his feat in "independent flight research," told today how it feels to travel faster than sound.

Hough dived a P-38 Lightning 25,000 feet, or nearly five miles, last September to set what is believed to be a record for vertical power dives.

"I wasn't conscious of any sensation in particular," said Hough, "Only a rather uncomfortable feeling of going through solid air. There was a noise like the roaring and rushing of the sea past my cabin and the shrill screaming of the propellers."

"I had no sensation of speed, for there was nothing to impress on my notice. If I had passed anything going down, or if I could have kept my eyes on the earth leaping up to meet me, it would have been different."

Hough started his power dive from 43,000 feet and plunged straight down for 25 seconds, at the rate of about 1,000 feet a second. In the middle of the dive for 15 seconds—his hands were off the controls while he jotted down data on the speed of the plane and "other things," with his eyes glued to the instrument panel.

"It was a bit risky," I admit," he smiled modestly. "With just 18 seconds to go before reaching the ground—at 18,000 feet—Hough started to flatten out."

To him this "really was the exciting part."

"I had to act quickly and at the same time very carefully," he explained. "If I had pulled out suddenly I wouldn't have been here to tell the story. However, I got her out in a nice curve—and that was unpleasant enough. I didn't black out—I just grayed out."

"I didn't for an instant lose consciousness. I felt as if some hefty fellow was sitting tight on my head and pushing me back from the way the plane was going. When I tried to move my arm it was so heavy I thought I'd need a crane to lift it."

"My whole body felt like lead. Then, I could see the ground and all at once I became conscious of speed."

Hough clutched a wooden charm while telling his story. It was a wooden toy skunk, three inches long and painted black. He said he has never flown without it in 15 years of piloting.

The war department said that he had undertaken the tests of his own volition in search of technical information.

(It the tests) furnished invaluable technical data covering the entire range of dive phenomena," said the citation. "Col. Hough contributed to the operational data of P-38 and P-47 airplanes, thus increasing the combat usefulness of these fliers."

Those who know Col. Hough here in Plymouth are convinced that he was merely doing a job, and that there was no attempt at sensationalism involved in his daring achievement.

"Cass is and always has been a good flier, a safe flier, a sound flier," said one person in Plymouth who knew him well. "He certainly would not have done anything like this unless it was something which needed to be done."

Fat Collection For July Way Up

Believed Record Made For Month

Plymouth housewives topped all records during July in their collection of fats for Uncle Sam's munition factories.

According to Mrs. Lida Merriam, chairman of the Plymouth collection committee, the total for the month of July reached the sum of 1728 pounds, more than half a ton.

That will make enough high-powered munitions to sink a half dozen submarines.

Mrs. Merriam comes forth with the suggestion that Plymouth now make a new effort to top the July record, and send to the government a full ton of fats and grease for the month of August.

Shovels Fishermen Juveniles How It's Done

Douglas Blunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blunk, has demonstrated the fact that he knows how and where to catch fish. The other day while his father and uncles were fishing with him at Maxfield lake, he landed a five and a half pound bass, and the next day he went with them to Silver lake where he caught another bass weighing just a little under five pounds as the elders looked on in amazement.

Carolyn Kirk Wins MSC Scholarship

Carolyn Kirk, daughter of Russell Kirk, was recently notified of her success in winning a scholarship to Michigan State college.

The scholarship, which is sponsored by the Michigan Alumni association, was awarded to sixty-four students in this state. These students will maintain the scholarship as long as they retain a scholastic standing of B or above.

Mrs. Floyd Schroeder and son, Donald and Shirley Schroeder, John Schroeder of Farmington and Miss Virginia Brown of Wayne left Monday for Gulfport, Mississippi, to visit Pfc. Floyd Schroeder of the Army Air Corps.

Health Officer Wins Junk Dealer Case

Sol Barron Is Convicted In Municipal Court

Sol Barron, operator of the Plymouth Replacement Parts company, a junk yard on Fralick street, was found guilty Tuesday in City Court of violating an order of the city health commissioner to clean up the premises because they constitute a hazard to the health of the city.

He was placed on probation for one month after which he is to report to Judge J. Rusling Cutler in city court to determine whether he has complied with the orders of Dr. Luther Peck, the health officer.

More "Dude" Ranches Here Than In Wyoming Says Harness Maker

George Richwine Is Busiest Man In State Making Harnesses

What with man's inventive genius, times do change, and as times change, the jobs of men change with them.

For instance, the old time horse-shoeing blacksmith became the first garage mechanic as a matter of self preservation when the automobile replaced the horse and buggy as the means of local travel.

But the automobile practically put the old-time harness maker out of business.

As a matter of fact, George W. Richwine is one of the few real old-time harness makers left in the business. He's certainly the only one in this part of Michigan, and as far as Mr. Richwine knows, the only one in the state.

There are several leather workers here and those who repair harness, but repairing harness and creating it is something entirely different.

Repairing a bridle, for instance, or a saddle girth, is largely just a matter of cutting a piece of leather to fit, and putting a buckle on it.

But making harness requires a knowledge of not only how to put leather together, but how to select the proper grain of leather for a certain job, and knowing the horse.

Mr. Richwine knows horses, which is only incidental to this dissertation on harness making, for he has ridden one almost every day for the past thirty years. He's seventy years old now, but he saddles up every night and rides anywhere from five to twelve miles about the countryside, chinning with neighbors and friends, comparing the value of horseflesh and generally admiring the scenery.

It was in 1903, when there weren't enough automobiles in Plymouth and western Wayne county to keep a single mechanic busy, that Mr. Richwine set up business as an expert harness maker here in Plymouth.

He knew his business, and it wasn't long before all of the countryside knew that he knew his business.

As a matter of fact, there are many sets of harness still in use around Plymouth that Mr. Richwine made when he first came to Plymouth.

Nowadays, harness making is more or less incidental to his work. A good big share of the horseflesh around southeastern Michigan is ridden and not driven.

Mr. Richwine estimates that there are not more than half as many horses used on farms now as there was when he started in business. Tractors have replaced them.

But somehow or other, a fellow simply can't shower the affection on a tractor that he can on a horse, and for that reason there are still horses — riding horses, driving horses and work horses.

Mr. Richwine has made riding equipment for the best cowboy riders in the country, including the famous Adams, Rodeo Co., which played at the state fair in Detroit three years ago. Mr. Richwine still makes their equipment for them — excepting saddles, which he says he can make but doesn't.

A good harness maker, therefore, is hard to find.

For instance, Mr. Richwine knows his leather. He buys whole hides for his work and keeps them in stock, although he is not permitted by the government to make whole sets of harness for anything but farm use. That's because of the shortage in leather.

But when he does make a set of harness, it is made right.

"I remember," he said, "that one of the farmers around here came into my shop some years ago and wanted to know how much a set of harness would cost him. I set a price and made the harness. But this farmer thought the harness was too light. He said he had a couple of young colts that were too tough for the light harness I had made.

"Well, sir, I was a mite taken back. And so I told this farmer for him to take the harness and use it. I told him that if the traces stretched as much as an inch and a half in a year, to bring the whole harness back and I'd make him a new set.

"Well, he took the harness, and he eventually sold the colts, but he kept the harness, and about two years later, he walked into the shop and slammed the harness down on the floor, acting mad as anything.

"He told me to measure those traces" which I did, and they hadn't stretched an inch, and then he laughed and told me to make him another set just like the ones he had."

Traces, which is the pulling part of any set of harness, are the most important part. They should be made out of the very best grade of leather, which comes from the center of the back of the best grade of steer hide. Steer hide, Mr. Richwine went on, is best when it is taken from an animal about seven or eight years old.

That's the part that you just have to know and learn from a long experience—where to get the best leather from the best grade of cattle. And that, says Mr. Richwine, is what the production harness makers don't know.

Like everything else, Mr. Richwine is a bit handicapped by government regulations. Why, from time eternal, harness has usually been made of black leather. But not any more. The government says leather can't be blacked. Right now, Mr. Richwine says he is busier than he has been at any time since he went into business. He attributes that to the fact that there are about 300 horseback riders in Plymouth.

"Why there are more cowboys and more dude ranches in western Wayne county than there are in Wyoming," he said.

Perry Richwine, the Plymouth attorney, is his son. For years Mr. Richwine was city treasurer and city assessor.

Mrs. L. C. Hough Soon To Observe 97th Birthday

Pioneer Resident Recalls Happy Days Of The Past

Somehow, when you look at Mrs. L. C. Hough, you get the impression that when she was a young girl she was exactly what she says she was—highly-tighty.

The manner in which Mrs. Hough says it, you rather gather the impression that she was the belle of the ball, that she was cute and pretty, but that with it all she was a home-body.

She could ride any horse in Wayne county when she was a young girl—and she did. She took dancing lessons from the time she was "so-high" and she measured forty inches from the ground with her hand.

And then, too, you wonder if Mrs. Hough as a young girl wasn't pretty hard to get. She tells you that her father was a wealthy farmer, and that she can't remember when there wasn't enough money to do pretty much as she pleased.

It was in connection with that toss of her head, that still gay chuckle, that reminiscence of dancing and riding that she said she was highly-tighty.

Mrs. Hough will be 97 years old this coming August 17, and she's still pretty highly-tighty.

She can't ride horses any more. She doesn't dance any more. She doesn't gad about as the social butterfly she once was. But she's nonetheless active. She's a bit hard of hearing, and she admits that her eyes aren't as good as they once were, but when she sits down on an afternoon to read her Bible, she still doesn't wear spectacles.

She admits that her memory of the past isn't what it used to be, but there are still vivid recollections of 97 years which almost encompass the history of Plymouth.

Mrs. Hough was born on a farm about two miles west of Plymouth—Marianne Clark, and there never was a thought in the minds of her parents that there had been born the woman who was to become the first lady of Plymouth.

In those days, most farmers were well-to-do. They were the landed gentry, Mariette's father was one of the better farmers. Their house was a gay place. There was lots of company, and many dances.

Mariette became a part of that life.

Her adolescent years were spent under the canopy of a Civil war, and then she married Lewis Cass Hough.

There began then one of the fullest lives ever lived by a woman in Plymouth. Fortune smiled on the Houghs through the Plymouth Iron Windmill Co., which Cass Hough helped to found, and the Daisy Manufacturing Co., which succeeded the windmill company.

Mrs. Hough says she never had much to do with business affairs. After all, she had an astute husband, who didn't need her help in the business world, and they were blessed with an equally astute son—Ed Hough—and a super salesman as a nephew—Charles Bennett—and together they carried on the business.

Mrs. Hough's life was spent in her social affairs, her church and with her home.

Before the death of her husband, she became vitally interested in the Christian Science church, and together they fostered the church in Plymouth. Today, Mrs. Hough attends services of the church regularly, and contributes liberally to its support. And she is devout in her attention to the principals of the church.

There is almost adoration in her eyes when she talks of Cass Hough, Jr., her grandson, who now is in the army air corps.

"He's a grand boy," she says, "and I love him."

She keeps up with the affairs of the world, with the war and with the events in Plymouth. She even takes a hand in the management of her business affairs, although these mostly are managed by her son.

She sits on her porch on North Main street, and thinks of the times when Main street was a mud road. She thinks of her old home, which was located where the office of The Plymouth Mail now stands. And she thinks of the old homestead farther north on Main street which was too big for her after Mr. Hough died.

She's not young any more. She knows it and admits it.

But as she puts it, "with my God and His Truth, I'm living out my years in a happiness that I did not dream was possible."

A constant governance of our speech, according to duty and reason, is a high instance and a special argument of a thoroughly sincere and solid goodness.—Isaac Barrow.

The Deadline!

That is something The Plymouth Mail has never set.

It has always been our practice to accept both news and advertisements up to the time that the newspaper press "starts to roll."

Unfortunately, we are no longer able to do this.

Shortage of help, the war, and everything else has worked to our disadvantage and we no longer can take news and advertisements right up to the "last minute."

That's why we are so thankful to you if you will get your news and ads to The Plymouth Mail as early in the week as possible.

It helps more than you realize, and it is your cooperation which enables The Mail to get out on time.

Weddings

TYLER-SCHARMEN
Before a mantle decorated with white gladioli in her home on McClumpha road, Miss Clara Tyler was given in marriage by her father, Jess W. Tyler, to Lewis Scharmen of Dearborn, Sunday afternoon, August 1. The Reverend T. Leonard Sanders of the First Methodist church performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families of the young couple.
Miss Tyler wore a street length dress of aqua light weight wool with black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Carl Caplin, who wore a dress of grey chiffon with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Carl Caplin attended the bridegroom.
A dinner in the home followed the ceremony.
After spending a week at a cottage on Lake Huron Mr. and Mrs. Scharmen will be at home in Dearborn.
Mrs. Scharmen was formerly a teacher in the Plymouth high school and Mr. Scharmen is a radio technician in the signal corps.

If you would be pungent, be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed, the deeper they burn.
—Robert Southey.

Society Events

Among those who have been attending the plays for the summer season at the Lydia Mendelssohn theatre in Ann Arbor are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brake, Mr. and Mrs. A. Matulis, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Matulis, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Dyhouse, Mrs. George Cramer, Mrs. Dow J. Swope, Mrs. George Chute, Mrs. Nellie Bird, and Mrs. J. C. Weed.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Hannah entertained at a lawn party Sunday in their home on Ann Arbor road in honor of their son, Kenneth, who expects to leave for the service soon. Guests were present from Canada, Detroit, Wayne and Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Thorp entertained their Sunday school class of 31 members at their home on Holbrook avenue Sunday evening. Sandwiches, ice tea, ice cream and cake were served.

Parking Lights For Funeral Home

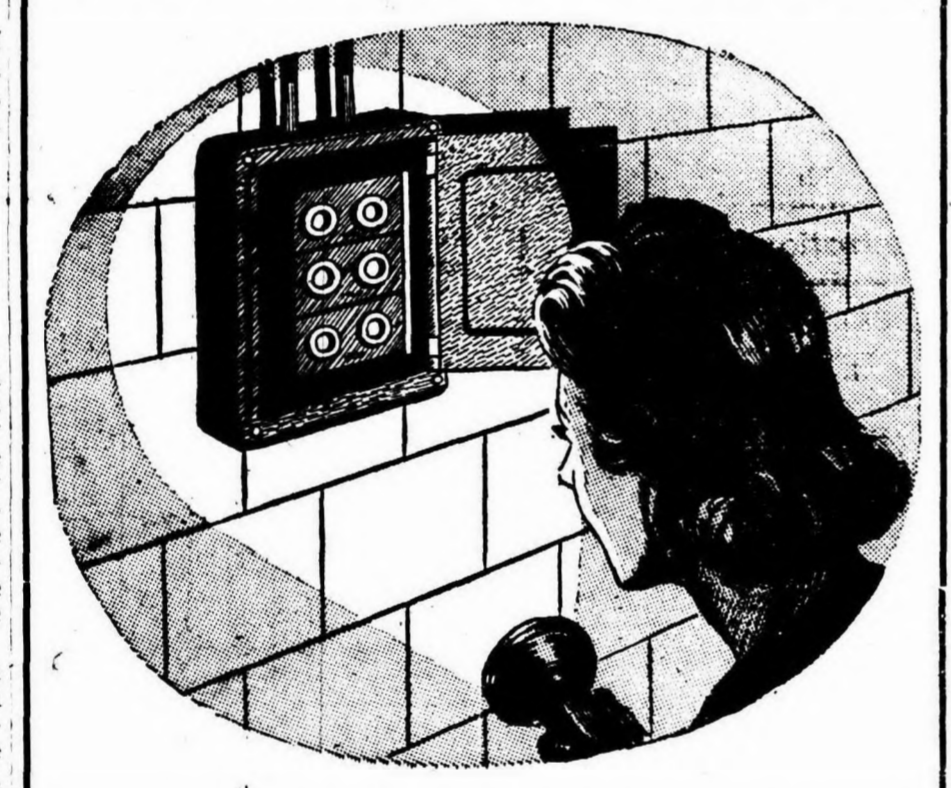

Signs directing patrons to the Schrader Funeral home parking lot have been installed at both the front and rear of the building. The signs announce only that there is parking, and they point the way to the lot at the rear of the home, but the word "parking" is preceded by a purple cross, which indicates that it is for those who have business at the funeral home. The new signs are of distinct advantage for evening callers at the funeral home as the flicker lights point clearly to the parking space in the rear.

How to

before it happens!

It's no fun sitting in the dark simply because a blown fuse has plunged your house into a black-out. Most fuse trouble can be stopped before it happens by observing a few simple precautions.

- (1) Frayed lamp cords and extension cords are often responsible for short circuits. Such frayed cords are dangerous. Have them repaired BEFORE they cause trouble. (Don't loop cords over a nail. Don't kink cords or tie them in knots. Don't run cord through a door jamb or under rugs.)
- (2) Never put an electric appliance in water. Never poke at the element of your electric toaster (or any other appliance) with a fork or sharp tool, whether turned on or off.
- (3) Don't connect too many appliances and extra lamps on one circuit.
- (4) Be careful not to overload your washer, or feed too many pieces of clothing through the wringer at one time. The same is true of your ironer.
- (5) Disconnect appliances by pulling on the plug—never jerk out the cord. Do not let cords come in contact with water, grease or acids.
- (6) If a faulty lamp or appliance burns out a fuse, disconnect it at once—and don't use again until it has been repaired. The Detroit Edison Company.

Electricity is not rationed. But its production requires coal and railroad transportation. Don't waste it!

Dear Parents:
You may not know it, but we have been having a mite of trouble-were some of your youngsters here lately?

Now, I know that you have read about a wave of juvenile delinquency sweeping over the country, and I know that you think it is no worse here in Plymouth than it is anywhere else, and so why worry about it, and all that sort of thing.

But honestly, now, don't you think you ought to worry about it just a little? Oh, not from the standpoint of the city you understand. What the heck, the town and village and city can stand all the trouble the kids cause. But don't you think you ought to worry just a little because of the kids?

After all, you don't want the boy, or the girl either, for that matter, to grow up with a background of delivment, and moral troubles.

I remember when a girl had to be clean when she got married, or the boy wouldn't have her. Well, I fear all the girls in Plymouth aren't spotless.

Maybe it's your fault. Do you know where your child was until 10 o'clock last night? No? Well, you'd maybe better find out.

FATHER PLYMOUTH.

Mahogany Is Tough
Mahogany is used extensively in making plywood and veneers. A thin outer coating or surfacing of mahogany placed over a base of soft tough wood makes fine material for building fast PT mosquito boats. Thin sheets of mahogany and other woods from one-hundredth to one-tenth of an inch thick are cemented together under heat and heavy pressure, thus providing a semi-plastic material that is boil-proof, waterproof and lighter than steel.

Built Ships Early
Before the Mayflower arrived in the New World, the first ocean-going ship to be built on these shores had been launched on the Maine coast. The time was 1607 and the ship, the "Virginia" made many trips across the Atlantic. Today, American shipbuilding is one of the major industries and the only one to meet and exceed presidential directives in 1942. Deadweight tonnage in 1942 was in excess of 8,000,000 dead-weight tons.

Grow Fence Posts
Farmers who plan to grow their own fence posts in a plantation of trees may wish to set out seedlings of osage orange, the most durable post wood that grows in the north. Better even than black locust, osage orange posts only two or three inches through often last for 12 years as fence supports, it is said. Posts four to five inches thick, cut from the trunk of an osage orange tree, are practically indestructible.

Treat Tool Handles
Commercially treated handles on picks, shovels, pitchforks, and other tools have that blonde look because they are bleached with hydrogen peroxide. Numerous other wood products are bleached either by spraying the chemical on the veneer to produce a surface bleach or by immersing the veneer to give a bleach that will permit deeper sanding operations.

Concealed Blood
In the 18th century, Lord Nelson is credited with having the sides of decks, gun carriages and sometimes the guns on a warship painted red. The theory was that blood stains from men killed or wounded in action would blend in color with the paint and the morale of gunners who replaced the dead or injured would be less likely to be affected.

Eat Apples Unpeeled
Eat your apples whole and unpeeled for more vitamin C, or serve them sliced in the following salad combinations: Cabbage and red apple; cottage cheese, nuts, and red apple; alternate slices of oranges or grapefruit and red apple; banana, grapes, and apple; carrot, celery, nuts, and apple; or chicken, celery, and apple.

To Clean Windows in Cold Seasons
Windows are best cleaned by the dry method in cold weather. Finely powdered whiting mixed to a thick paste with water or alcohol and rubbed over the glass in a thin layer will dry before it can freeze and may be rubbed off with a soft cloth or paper.

Re-Use Packages
As many factories now make packages for war supplies instead of for food, and since steel for nails and wire is scarce, re-use of crates, boxes, barrels, baskets, burlap and cotton sacks is urged, to prevent a widespread shortage of food packages.

Earth Moves Irregularly
The earth appears to be somewhat irregular in its movements. It was 36 seconds late for an engagement in 1940. This discovery was made as a result of observations on the transit of Mercury across the face of the sun.

Don't Overheat Iron
Overheating an electric iron wastes electricity, damages the element and creates a fire hazard. Dropping an iron may break the thermostat or throw it out of adjustment.

Sacks for Clip
An adequate supply of burlap and paper sacks for handling the 1943 wool clip is expected. Paper twine should be used for tying fleeces.

Rats Expensive Boarders
It pays the farmer to get rid of excess population today: the rats that cost about $2 each for their room and board for a year.

Measures Color
An instrument known as a photoelectric tristimulus colorimeter, or "an artificial eye for color measuring," has been developed.

Mustard Gas Strong
A scientist points out that mustard gas poisons even the rubber gloves of a surgeon.

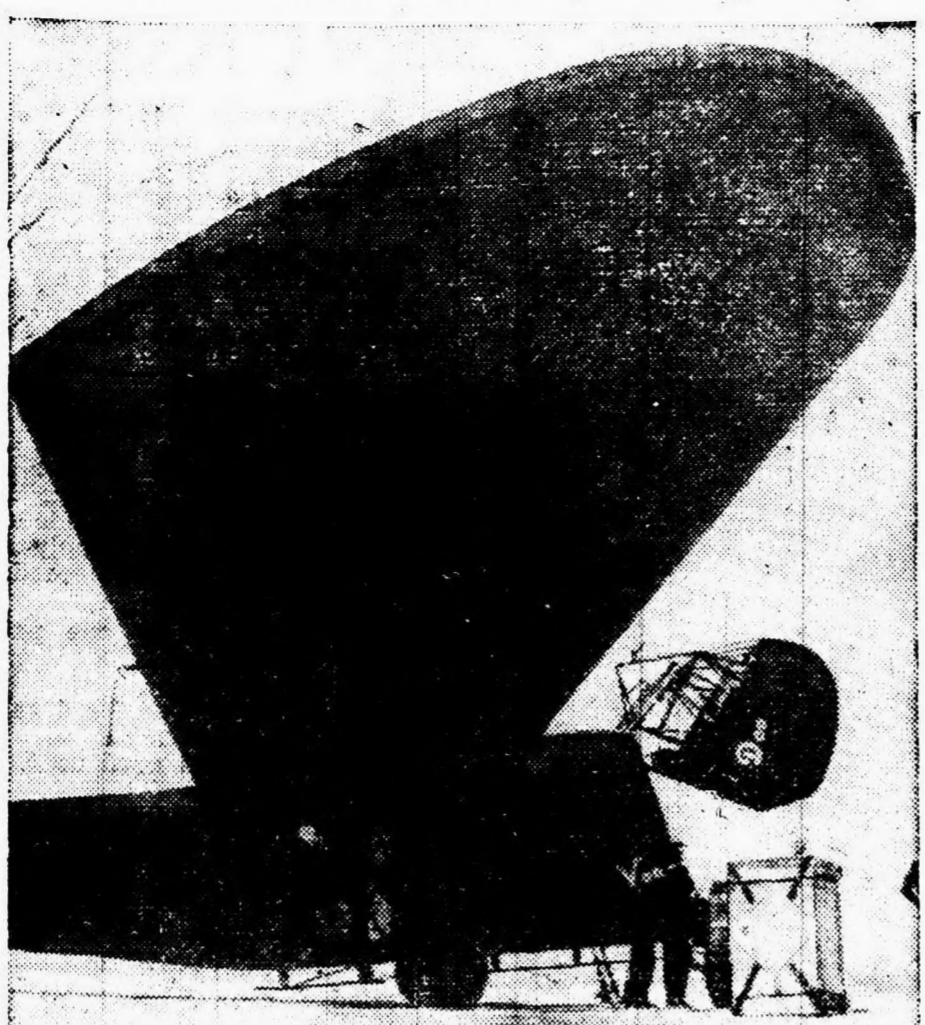

Columbus Found Sea
The Sargasso sea was discovered by Columbus on Sunday, September 16, 1492.

Ants Have Strong Jaws
Ants are considered to have the most powerful jaw grip of any animal.

Tested Blood Pressure
Blood pressure was first measured in 1733 by the Rev. Dr. Stephen Hales.

California's First Book
California's first book, Father Paul's "Life of Junipero Serra," the pioneer leader of the Spanish missionaries in California, was written in Mission Dolores, San Francisco. The mission still exists.

Loaded Glider Towed to England

Machines, medical supplies and engine parts comprised the cargo of this glider as it was towed from Canada to England in 28 hours. The 84-foot motorless aircraft was pulled across the Atlantic by a transport plane. It was the first time a glider had been utilized this extensively and the trip was preceded by months of experimental hops.

Establishing a Beachhead

These soldiers at Camp Edwards, Mass., are part of an engineer amphibian command who have just abandoned an ostensibly disabled landing barge to swim ashore with full packs and rifles as they establish a beachhead against an imagined enemy. This was part of a combat swimming exhibition staged under the supervision of the American Red Cross.

Registration Of School Voters

New System Has Been Inaugurated

The board of education has inaugurated a new system of registration of voters in school elections. It was announced this week.

Under the new plan, the registration will be kept up to date at all times.

Previously there was no method by which it could be constantly determined whether or not a voter was still a resident of the city or whether he was otherwise entitled to participate in school elections.

Under the new system, if a voter has failed three consecutive times to take advantage of his right of franchise, then he will be asked whether or not he wishes to be continued on the rolls.

Registration of voters may be made at any time at the home of Harold W. Stark, the secretary of the board of education, or registration be made at any time at the office of the superintendent of schools.

Voters may be registered during school hours at the office of the principal of Starkweather school.

SOMETIMES I FEEL GUILTY FOR BEING SO LUCKY!

"I'VE GOT WORRIES, of course. We all have, today. But there's one big worry I don't have. I know my Servel Electrolux Refrigerator will last for the duration, no matter how scarce appliance parts become. It has no moving parts in its freezing system to wear or need replacement.

"With food such a problem today, I think I'm pretty fortunate to know I'll be able to take care of what I do get. And since I've had to spend more time in the kitchen lately, I appreciate my Servel's noiseless operation even more. And it costs so little to run! Is it any wonder I sometimes feel guilty for being so lucky?"

It's perfectly natural for Servel owners to feel especially favored today. For they're assured of low-cost, trouble-free, noiseless refrigeration for the duration, and long after.

WAR BOND QUIZ

Q. Can Stamps of various denominations be placed in one album?
 A. More than one denomination in an album greatly increases the work and cost of redemption. Please, therefore, don't mix denominations.

Q. May a minor designate a co-owner or beneficiary?
 A. Yes, if the purchase is made by the minor from his own wages or earnings.

Q. Do I lose my investment if my War Savings Bond is lost, stolen, or destroyed?
 A. No; upon satisfactory proof of loss or destruction, the Treasury Department will issue a duplicate, usually without requiring a bond of indemnity.

Q. May I register the name of a beneficiary on a Bond without his knowledge?
 A. Yes. Records of War Savings Bonds are confidential. It is not necessary for the Treasury to contact the beneficiary during the owner's lifetime. Only individuals may be named as beneficiaries. No associations, churches, or clubs may be so named.

Remember—the longer you keep War Bonds, up to 10 years, the more valuable they become.

Time Rolls Along Pretty Fast
 Robert Willoughby Thinks So, Anyway

"Haven't got any gray hairs yet, but it begins to make me think I'm getting old when one finds his name in the 20 years ago column of the newspapers," commented Robert Willoughby the other day as he glanced through The Ypsilanti Press and found his name in the 20 years ago column.

It seems that Robert, who had served a year as a school teacher after he graduated from the State Normal at Ypsilanti, decided that school teaching wasn't just the thing he wanted to do for a life's occupation.

The busy Plymouth shoe man didn't explain how he happened to get interested in the shoe business, but there was an item in the 20 years ago column which stated that Mr. Willoughby and two or three others from this part of the state had entered the National School of Orthopraxy at St. Louis, Missouri.

"Gee, it doesn't seem as though it was that long ago. But they always did say that the years roll around pretty fast," declared Bob as he turned to wait on another shoe customer.

Butter Shortage Hit The Mayflower

There's always the first time for everything.

And last Friday noon was the first time that the Mayflower hotel during its more than score of years of existence was unable to serve butter to its customers.

There wasn't an ounce of butter in the hotel's big larder—not an ounce—even for the cook.

Friday was a busy day, too. There were an extra number of guests for luncheon and an extra big meeting of the Rotary club.

But Manager Frost couldn't serve any one with butter—because there was no butter in this land of plenty—the land of New Deal milk and honey.

Rebuild Tracks For "Sportsman"
 Fast Train For Plymouth Permanent

New work on the Pere Marquette lines between Wayne and Plymouth indicates that "The Sportsman" crack train of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pere Marquette between Detroit and Washington will continue to run through Plymouth permanently.

Some 75 employees of the Grego Construction Co., of Detroit have been working for the past several weeks in laying new ties and ballast, and raising the tracks on the line between Plymouth and Wayne. It is expected that the work will be completed before winter.

Belief that "The Sportsman" will continue through Plymouth is based on the fact that the railroad would not make such extensive repairs to the tracks unless it was planned to keep it. Work was started last year when the train was routed through Plymouth.

The Pere Marquette also has completed a spur switch into the grounds of the Wayne County Training school to be used as a coal unloading dock.

Voters May Act On Play Program

Commission Not To Sponsor Enterprise

Action by the city commission last Monday night indicates that the recreation program which had been recommended to the city will not be considered further until the people of the city have had an opportunity to vote on the proposal.

The action was taken following submission of a detailed report to the city commission of the activities of the Recreation commission.

As the matter now stands, the recreation program may come before the next meeting of the commission, but it is considered likely that if it does it will be on a motion to place the question on the ballots at the next election, which will be next spring.

Meanwhile, the program will lie dormant and nothing will be done with it through the winter months.

The failure of the commission to act at the Monday night meeting is expected to result in the resignation of the recreation commission, which will be in the position of having nothing to do.

It was understood from authoritative sources that the members of the recreation commission feel that the group was created to administer a recreation program which was created by the last city commission. When the new city commission was elected, it held different views on the program, and it has not been given funds to operate.

In its detailed report to the city commission, the recreation commission said that the program had been recommended previously to the city commission, and it expressly stated that it was not so recommending such a program for it should not be placed in the position of having to "sell" the program it was created to administer.

However, the report set forth that the commission had made many contacts with individuals and organizations in the city and had been promised wholehearted cooperation.

In summation, the recreation commission reported:

"It seems apparent that the establishment of a program under the supervision of a trained director is the first step, rather than the procurement of facilities."

Some members of the city commission feel that Plymouth lacks the facilities, however, for a recreation program such as that which has been outlined. They further feel that although only $5,000 has been appropriated in this year's budget for a recreation program, that within a matter of two or three years this may be expanded to $10,000, which is a tenth of the city's budget.

From other sources it was learned that while the program is designed to minister to the needs of the entire city, adult and juvenile, that it would in essence be devoted almost entirely to the juveniles.

"We have been approached," said one city commissioner, "with the idea that there is already so much recreation in the city that there is no time for the children to do their normal home chores.

"We also have heard that a recreation program is not a cure-all for any increase in juvenile delinquency. That is not a matter for the city anyway. That is a matter for parents. We shall continue to have juvenile delinquency until the parents themselves take over the management of their unruly children.

Cut Weeds Now! Urge Officials

Help Sufferers Of Hay Fever

During the early portion of the month of August, it is necessary for every newspaper in America to warn the readers that now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country and their fellow neighbors, by cutting the weeds and shrubbery on their property.

The good Plymouth citizens are well aware of the fact that weeds, especially the very prevalent ragweed, create hay fever. They are cognizant of the fact that a goodly portion of their neighbors are afflicted with this malady.

Further, they are well aware of the fact that unless it has been cut frequently during the early summer months, shrubbery has grown so large by this time of year that it is definitely a hazard to motorists, of which the property owner is undoubtedly one. Furthermore, the city officials declare that weeds in alleys are most unsightly and in some cases are a definite detriment to the collection of trash and rubbish. The city officials further aver that there are limbs hanging down over the sidewalks, which are a pedestrian traffic hazard.

So, Mr. and Mrs. property owner—
CUT YOUR WEEDS.

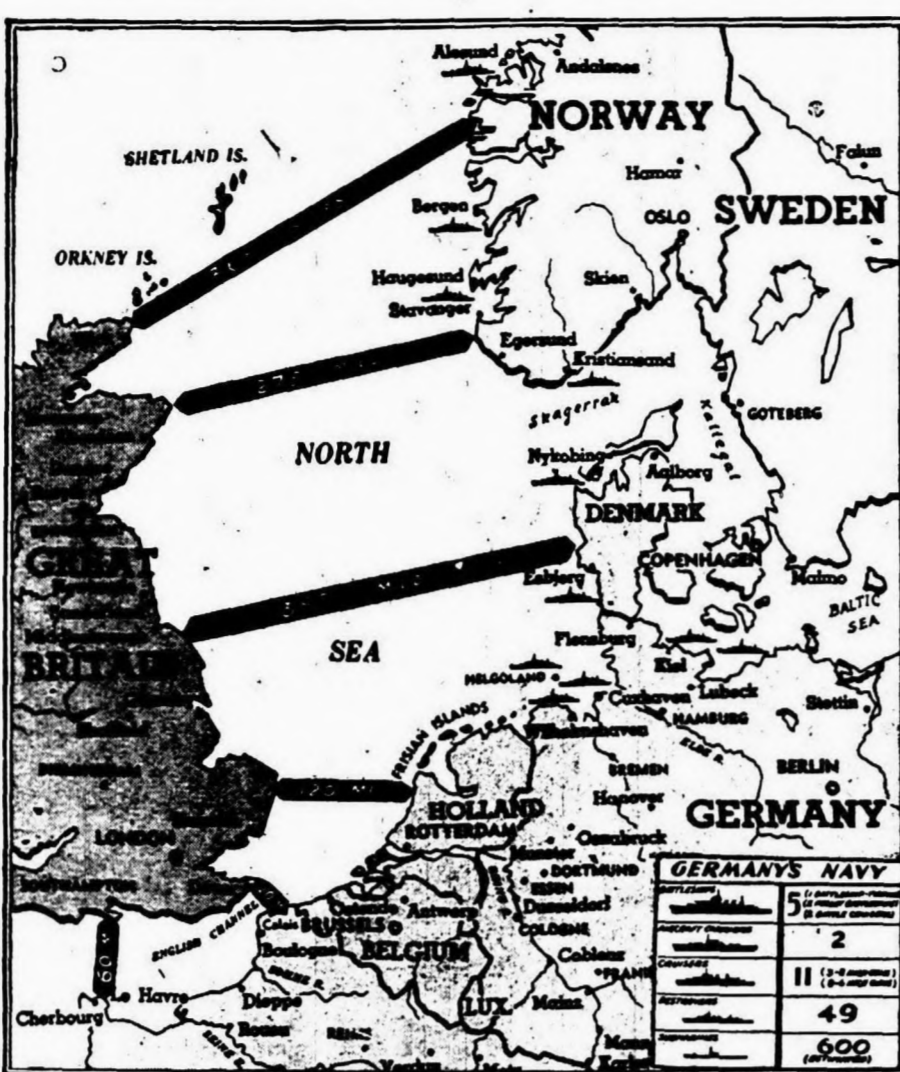

No Decision Made As To Use Of Allen Home

The Rev. William E. Mooney, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Roman Catholic church here said this week that decision on the use to be made by the church of the Kate Allen property on Penniman avenue, had been delayed indefinitely.

The decision on the use to be made of the property will be made by the archdiocese of Detroit. Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit was to have been here last week, but his visit has been delayed. Father Mooney said it was uncertain when the archbishop would come.

A great amount of time is consumed in talking nothing, doing nothing, and indecision as to what one should do. — Mary Baker Eddy.

Will Allies Strike on Third Front?

If the second front in Europe is to be further developed or a third front opened, the blow or blows may descend from several possible directions. Dover, England, is only 20 miles from Calais, France. Southampton is 60 miles from Cherbourg, and Wick, Scotland, is 365 miles from mid-Norway.

Pigs Prove His Big Worry

Postmaster Has Two Pet Squealers

Pigs! Big, fat, roly-polly pigs! In fact these two porkers we're writing about are not only nice, roly-polly pigs, they have been fed so well and treated so kindly that they are regular family pets.

Can you imagine two porkers being jealous of the family cat?

These pigs belong to Postmaster Harry Irwin who sometime ago added two little squealing piggies to his worldly possessions and began to fatten them for the family's winter larder.

But they were treated so kindly and fed so well, have had such nice soft straw beds to sleep on, that they now act just like pampered children.

"I don't know what I'm going to do when the time comes to butcher them up into pork chops and spare ribs. Maybe under these butchering regulations I can't butcher them at all. But that will be O.K., as it has gotten to a point where I don't think I ever could see those little piggies made into sausage," stated Postmaster Irwin yesterday.

At any rate, the pig problem seems to be about the only worry Plymouth's newly confirmed postmaster has at the present time.

The poet's line "Order is heaven's first law," is so eternally true, so axiomatic, that it has become a truism; and its wisdom is as obvious in religion and scholarship as in astronomy or mathematics.

Frank Cody Is Rotary Guest

Prominent Educator Good Story Teller

Who'd ever believe that Frank Cody, for nearly a quarter of a century superintendent of Detroit's public school system and supposed to be a very sedate, pious man of learning, would turn out to be as good a story teller as ever appeared before the Plymouth Rotary club?

But that's that—and for 30 minutes last Friday the prominent educational leader of Michigan, now retired to an active career as a Detroit councilman, kept members of the club laughing at many of the queer incidents and stories he has accumulated during a long career as an educator.

Last Friday's Rotary affair was a sort of home-coming to Mr. Cody. His mother was born out at Nankin Mills and Mr. Cody was born at neighboring Belleville. The Cody family during all of the years never lost its contact with old neighbors and friends in this part of Wayne county and many of the old timers he knew so well were at Friday's meeting.

With it all, he told of the development of the Detroit school system, of its leadership in the educational field and of its outstanding aid to the handicapped boys and girls of Detroit.

Personal Telephone Number Booklets

YOUR Telephone Company has prepared personal telephone number booklets for you in two convenient sizes. One fits your pocket or handbag, and has space for 215 names, addresses and telephone numbers. The other, for home or office use, will hold 228 numbers.

Even now, when operators are busier than ever before with vital war calls, more than a thousand hours are lost each day by unnecessary calls to "Information"—requests for numbers that are listed in the directory.

To help eliminate that waste of switchboard and operators' time, here are two things you can do—

1. Look up the number in the directory first. Call "Information" only when it is not listed.
2. If you must ask "Information" for a number, write it down in your personal directory so you will have it next time.

You can obtain your handy directory booklets—free—from any Michigan Bell business office, either by writing for them or calling in person.

May Send Liquor Cards Back

Few Call To Get Purchase Permits

Manager Frost of the liquor store in Plymouth urges the public to get their ration cards as early as possible to avoid a last minute rush, for the reason that the hotel staff with its many extra duties cannot handle any unusual amount of business.

These cards have been ready for distribution since Monday of this week and to date, less than 100 cards out of approximately 2000 have been called for.

The hotel is making an effort to serve the applicants between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. No cards will be issued on Sunday.

It is not necessary for each individual member of a family to pick up cards assigned to them. Any one member of the family can call for cards provided they present War Ration Book No. 2 for each person qualified to hold one of these cards and 25 cents for each card, which goes to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission requires that all cards uncalled for after thirty days following delivery of such cards to the hotel, be returned to Lansing. No liquor can be purchased without one of these cards.

More Silk Hose Goes To War

Another 100 pounds of silk hose has been sent to war munition factories, according to John Blyton of the Taylor and Blyton store who has charge of the silk hose depot.

Mrs. Russell Powell, general salvage chairman, is elated over the response to the last call for more silk hosiery.

"Plymouth women are showing a most patriotic interest in the war, and it is this interest which keeps our city right at the top," she stated yesterday.

The total pounds of silk sent from Plymouth since the drive started is not far from a full ton. It will not take many more 100 pound donations to top the two thousand pounds figure.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS Prevents the "Bends"

Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "sued-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.

The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

STRIKERS WIN
EVERLASTING HATRED
OF SOLDIER BOYS

Judging from the tone of letters that come to "Our Boys" column, greedy strikers in American war plants had better look out for the day of reckoning when the soldier lads come home.

Especially bitter is the comment of the boys now stationed on foreign shores. The following interesting letter from Earl H. Wilson, located somewhere in the South Pacific, reflects pretty well the attitude of fighting American lads located in all parts of the world.

Sergeant Wilson writes as follows: "It's me again, this time to 'wax poetic' on the conditions surrounding the defense plants in Michigan and a few outlying states.

"First of all I want to give my best regards to all my many friends at home, and thanks to your column 'News of Our Boys' to my many, many 'Service pals' abroad.

"I am receiving the 'Mail' regularly, but late. But good news never is really late, and from the progress many of 'Our Boys' are making it is real good news.

"Censorship, which is very strict, prohibits my saying anything concerning land, climate and weather. And when you can't talk about weather—well!

"Orchids to the mother of 'Ray' Martin. She is a true American mother of a brave, gallant son. If the mother of every son in service would profit by the brave attitude of 'Mom' Martin we could all see victory in the near future. And if every serviceman would carry with him the spirit that 'Bill' Clark portrays in his wish for vengeance in the death of Don Passage, his pal and mine, we would all be certain 'They shall not have died in vain'.

"There is no tribute to the 'Slackers,' 'draft dodgers' and their blood brothers—the strikers. No claim to glory and no share in victory. Their only ambition is to prolong this war so that they may make more money for 'post war' use in mocking the men who have fought this war with their life as the forfeit. Thus inspired, a poem was written for wide publication—(Note: This is a revision of the poem "To the Draft Dodger" written by Tec. Sgt. Giff and published with his kind permission. And every word is true. Don't look away you strikers. For it's addressed to you. You feel at ease, and in no danger. Back in your old home town. Your jobs are safe, your home is safe.

"To the Strikers"

And the draft board's turned you down. You never think of the real men who leave home day by day. You just think of the money you'll earn.

And spend while they're away. You sit and read of the Victories made.

You stand and shout "We'll Win!" JUST WHERE DO YOU GET THAT "WE" STUFF?

This war will be won by MEN. Just what do you think Mr. Striker?

That this free nation would do if all the men were slackers? And foiled their jobs, like you? I guess that's all you strikers. For I know your face must be red.

America is no place for your kind. And I mean every word I have said.

So I'll end this letter with warning. Just remember what I say. There'll be no glory for "Slackers!"

When Victory is ours some day. "That concludes my letter for this time. Thanks again for every issue of The Mail. Keep up the grand work and here's hoping that Victory will soon be ours."

PROUD OF WAR
WORK PLYMOUTH FOLKS
ARE DOING AT HOME.

From somewhere down in the Caribbean sea country there came a letter the other day to The Mail from Sergeant Lloyd G. Renaud, better known to his many Plymouth friends by the nickname "Skipper" Renaud, in which he lauds the work that Plymouth people are doing in various war efforts.

His letter, all interesting, follows: "I am grateful for the copies of The Plymouth Mail which are making the long journey down here to my desk after some three weeks on trains and steamships. News from the home front is always welcome.

"The Plymouth Mail brings a little of the home atmosphere here to me deep in the jungles 'Somewhere in the Caribbean Area.' Here in a military camp I labor over my books on military accounting and fiscal matters and note with amazement our vast war expenditures. By means of a radio we keep informed of the war news on other fronts and debate among ourselves on war strategy.

"Even with adventure and my important military duties I am often lonely by missing the normal activities of our American society. It is for this reason that The Mail is of great importance to me and through its pages I recall my high school days at P.H.S., happy pre-war days, days that seem to belong to another age by now. I note with interest that certain loyal members of the faculty are still serving; namely, Mr. Smith, Mr. Dykhouse and Mr. Evans.

"I like the editorials of The Mail and its new department 'News of Our Boys' is very interesting. It seems strange that so many of my friends and classmates are now in the active services of our country.

"These are epoch days in the history of the world. I am charged by oath to do my duty as a soldier in the U.S. Army, accepting orders from higher authority and obeying same cheerfully and promptly, according to the Articles of War, and against the enemies of the United States—whomever they may be. Yes, myself and millions more, embarked on a great mission, to give to posterity a better world—a world free from greed, hate, and the bloody canis of European War Lords. "And we of the Service are proud of the folks back home, as I am proud of Plymouth with its patriotism, independent weekly organ of free speech, bondbuyers, progressive public schools, ample library, various active churches, law enforcement, and the spirit of fellowship that permeates its citizens."

WRITES GRANDPARENTS
THAT IT'S MIGHTY
HOT DOWN IN TEXAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Felton of 454 South Harvey street, received an interesting letter from their grandson, Aviation Cadet George Felton, now stationed in Corpus Christi, Texas, in which he says it's hot down in that country. The letter was written before the recent storm that swept the Texas coast. The city in which he is located was in direct line of the storm.

EUGENE BAKEWELL
NEW WRESTLING CHAMPION OF HIS NAVY PLATOON

Naval Aviation Cadet E. L. Bakewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bakewell, of 38105 Plymouth road, Plymouth, has been named the 150-pound wrestling champion of his platoon at the U.S. Navy Pre-Flight school in Iowa City, Iowa. The victory came as a climax to several rounds of intra-platoon tournament competition. Wrestling is included on the list of sports at the Pre-Flight school which help build stamina, speed, agility and the will-to-win in the cadets who will soon be called upon to fly the Navy's fighters and bombers against the Axis on the warfronts of the world.

BOYS APPRECIATE
ALL THAT PLYMOUTH IS DOING FOR THEM.

Two Plymouth lads, Private Fred J. Korte Jr., and William Donahue, both stationed at San Diego, California, "joined hands" in writing to The Plymouth Mail the other day. The boys, appreciative of all that Plymouth is doing for our lads in uniforms, wrote as follows:

"I have finally found time to write a few lines to you. 'Bill' Donahue and I would like to thank you for the Plymouth Mail we are now receiving. Now we can keep in touch with all the late news. We would also like to take this time to thank the Canteen club, Salvation Army and all organizations for the 'box' we received before leaving for San Diego. All of the articles have really come in handy so far.

"Bill and I were in the same tent at the base. But now we are at the rifle range and we are four tents apart. The two and a half weeks we spent at the base really flew. We have two more weeks here and then we move back to the base again for a week or two. After completing that period we will then be transferred to a line camp or school.

"Life in the Marines is O.K. It is tough at first but after you catch on to it, everything rolls along smoothly. The chow is really fine here and Bill and I both think we have put on a few pounds of 'meat' already.

"We have fellows from Texas, Louisiana, Kansas, Missouri, Alabama and good old Michigan here. All totaled there are 18 from Michigan, mostly from Detroit, so we really put up a battle royal when they start arguing about the Civil War. Somebody should straighten out Texas as to who won this Civil War.

"Well, it is time for 'chow' so Bill and I hope you are all fine and well as we are and thanks again.

Two Plymouth boys, Pvt. Fred J. Korte Jr., U.S. M.C.R.; Bill Donahue, U.S.M.C.R.

P.S. Bill and I would like to say hello to all of our friends in Plymouth and in service.

TWO MORE PLYMOUTH
BOYS AT GREAT LAKES

Richard Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moss of 12077 Centralia on R.F.D. No. 4, and Arthur E. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Robinson of 364 Adams street, recently reported to the U.S. Naval Training station at Great Lakes, Illinois, where they have been assigned to "boot" camp. The boys will be located at the Great Lakes for the next few months.

BOYS IN NORTH AFRICA
WORKING 16 HOURS
EVERY DAY.

From Corporal H. J. Johnson, a Plymouth lad now stationed in North Africa, comes word to "Our Boys" column that soldier lads in that part of the world are working 16 and more hours per day. Apparently the long hours were due to preparations for the invasion on Sicily.

He writes in part as follows: "I thought it was time that I should write to you again, seeing as how I have only written one letter to you since I have been in the army.

"I want to thank you for keeping me supplied with The Plymouth Mail. I received a copy today dated May 22, 1943. It may be a little old in date, but it sure is new to me.

"I have been in Africa since November 8, but have never had the good luck to meet any other fellows from Plymouth. I know there are some over here because The Plymouth Mail has let me know. It sure makes a fellow feel good the way that the Plymouth citizens are backing us up.

"We are pretty busy over here now. We are working 16 hours a day, seven days a week, and when I read about the strikes back in the states I wonder how the leaders would like to be sent over here and work under the conditions we have to. I think after a few months of it they would think twice before they did anything.

"By the time you receive this letter I will be overseas 15 months, but the time has gone by pretty fast. It doesn't seem long until you stop to think of it.

"There is a mistake in my address on The Plymouth Mail. You have Captain before my name. I sure appreciate the build up, but I am only a corporal, and at times my paper gets in with the officers' mail. My APO is 52 now.

Well I guess this is all for this time.

DECLARES PLYMOUTH IS BEST CITY IN THE ENTIRE COUNTRY

Corporal William McAninch, well known Plymouth youth now with the U.S. air force stationed at Chanute Field, Illinois, in a letter to "Our Boys" column, declares that Plymouth is about the best place in all the world.

His interesting letter follows: "Thank you for The Plymouth Mail I've been receiving the four months I've been in the Army. Just as all of us took our country for granted, I'm afraid I took my home town paper too much for granted.

"When out-of-towners asked me where I lived, I made a habit of replying 'just outside Detroit.' I knew I had gained a good education at Plymouth high; and I also knew my fellow students were 'nice kids'.

"I read The Plymouth Mail each week, mainly looking to see whether or not my name was in the Pilgrim Prints section.

"These last four months I have changed my idea about taking things for granted. Plymouth is no longer 'just above average'—it's the best little middle-sized—bit of fun together. I sure was glad to see them. That was the first time that I had seen Clark in a year. He's back at Luke Field in Arizona now.

"During my train trip down here I saw a lot of cotton fields. They were all white, and in full bloom.

"Well, I've got to write to the folks and a couple others. Write soon."

LEROY KOLIN NOW
BOMBARDIER CADET.

Colonel Robert W. Warren, Commandant of the Army Air Forces Bombardier school at Big Springs, Texas, has announced that Leroy C. Kolin recently arrived at the school for training as a bombardier cadet. He is the son of Robert Kolin of Plymouth. He attended Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, high school and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He is a Mason and his civilian occupation was Precision Gauge Maker at Dearborn. His brother, L.L. Kolin, is also an Aviation Cadet.

SENT TO SPECIALIZED TRAINING CORPS

Private Stephen J. Ruh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ruh of Deer Street, has been sent to the Army Specialized Training Corps at New York City College in New York. He is attached to Co. D, 3225 A.S.C.W.

I've gained many friendships here at Chanute, but the "nice kids" back home are the world's best. I no longer glance at a sheet or two of The Mail. Instead each of the pages including the "want ads" is read and re-read. When Bill Wernett, Dud Martin, Steve Dely, Jack Schaufele and I are together The Mail plays a leading role.

"I'm in a secondary school here, training to be a celestial navigation trainer operator. I finished link trainer instructor school over a week ago.

"I want to thank you again for The Plymouth Mail, your gesture is typical of Plymouth citizens—No higher tribute could be paid anyone."

UNIVERSITY OF TOLEDO.

Donald Walter Mielbeck of 15810 Newburg road, has entered the University of Toledo at Toledo, Ohio, where he is preparing for training as an aviation cadet. He expects to be stationed at Toledo until early in December.

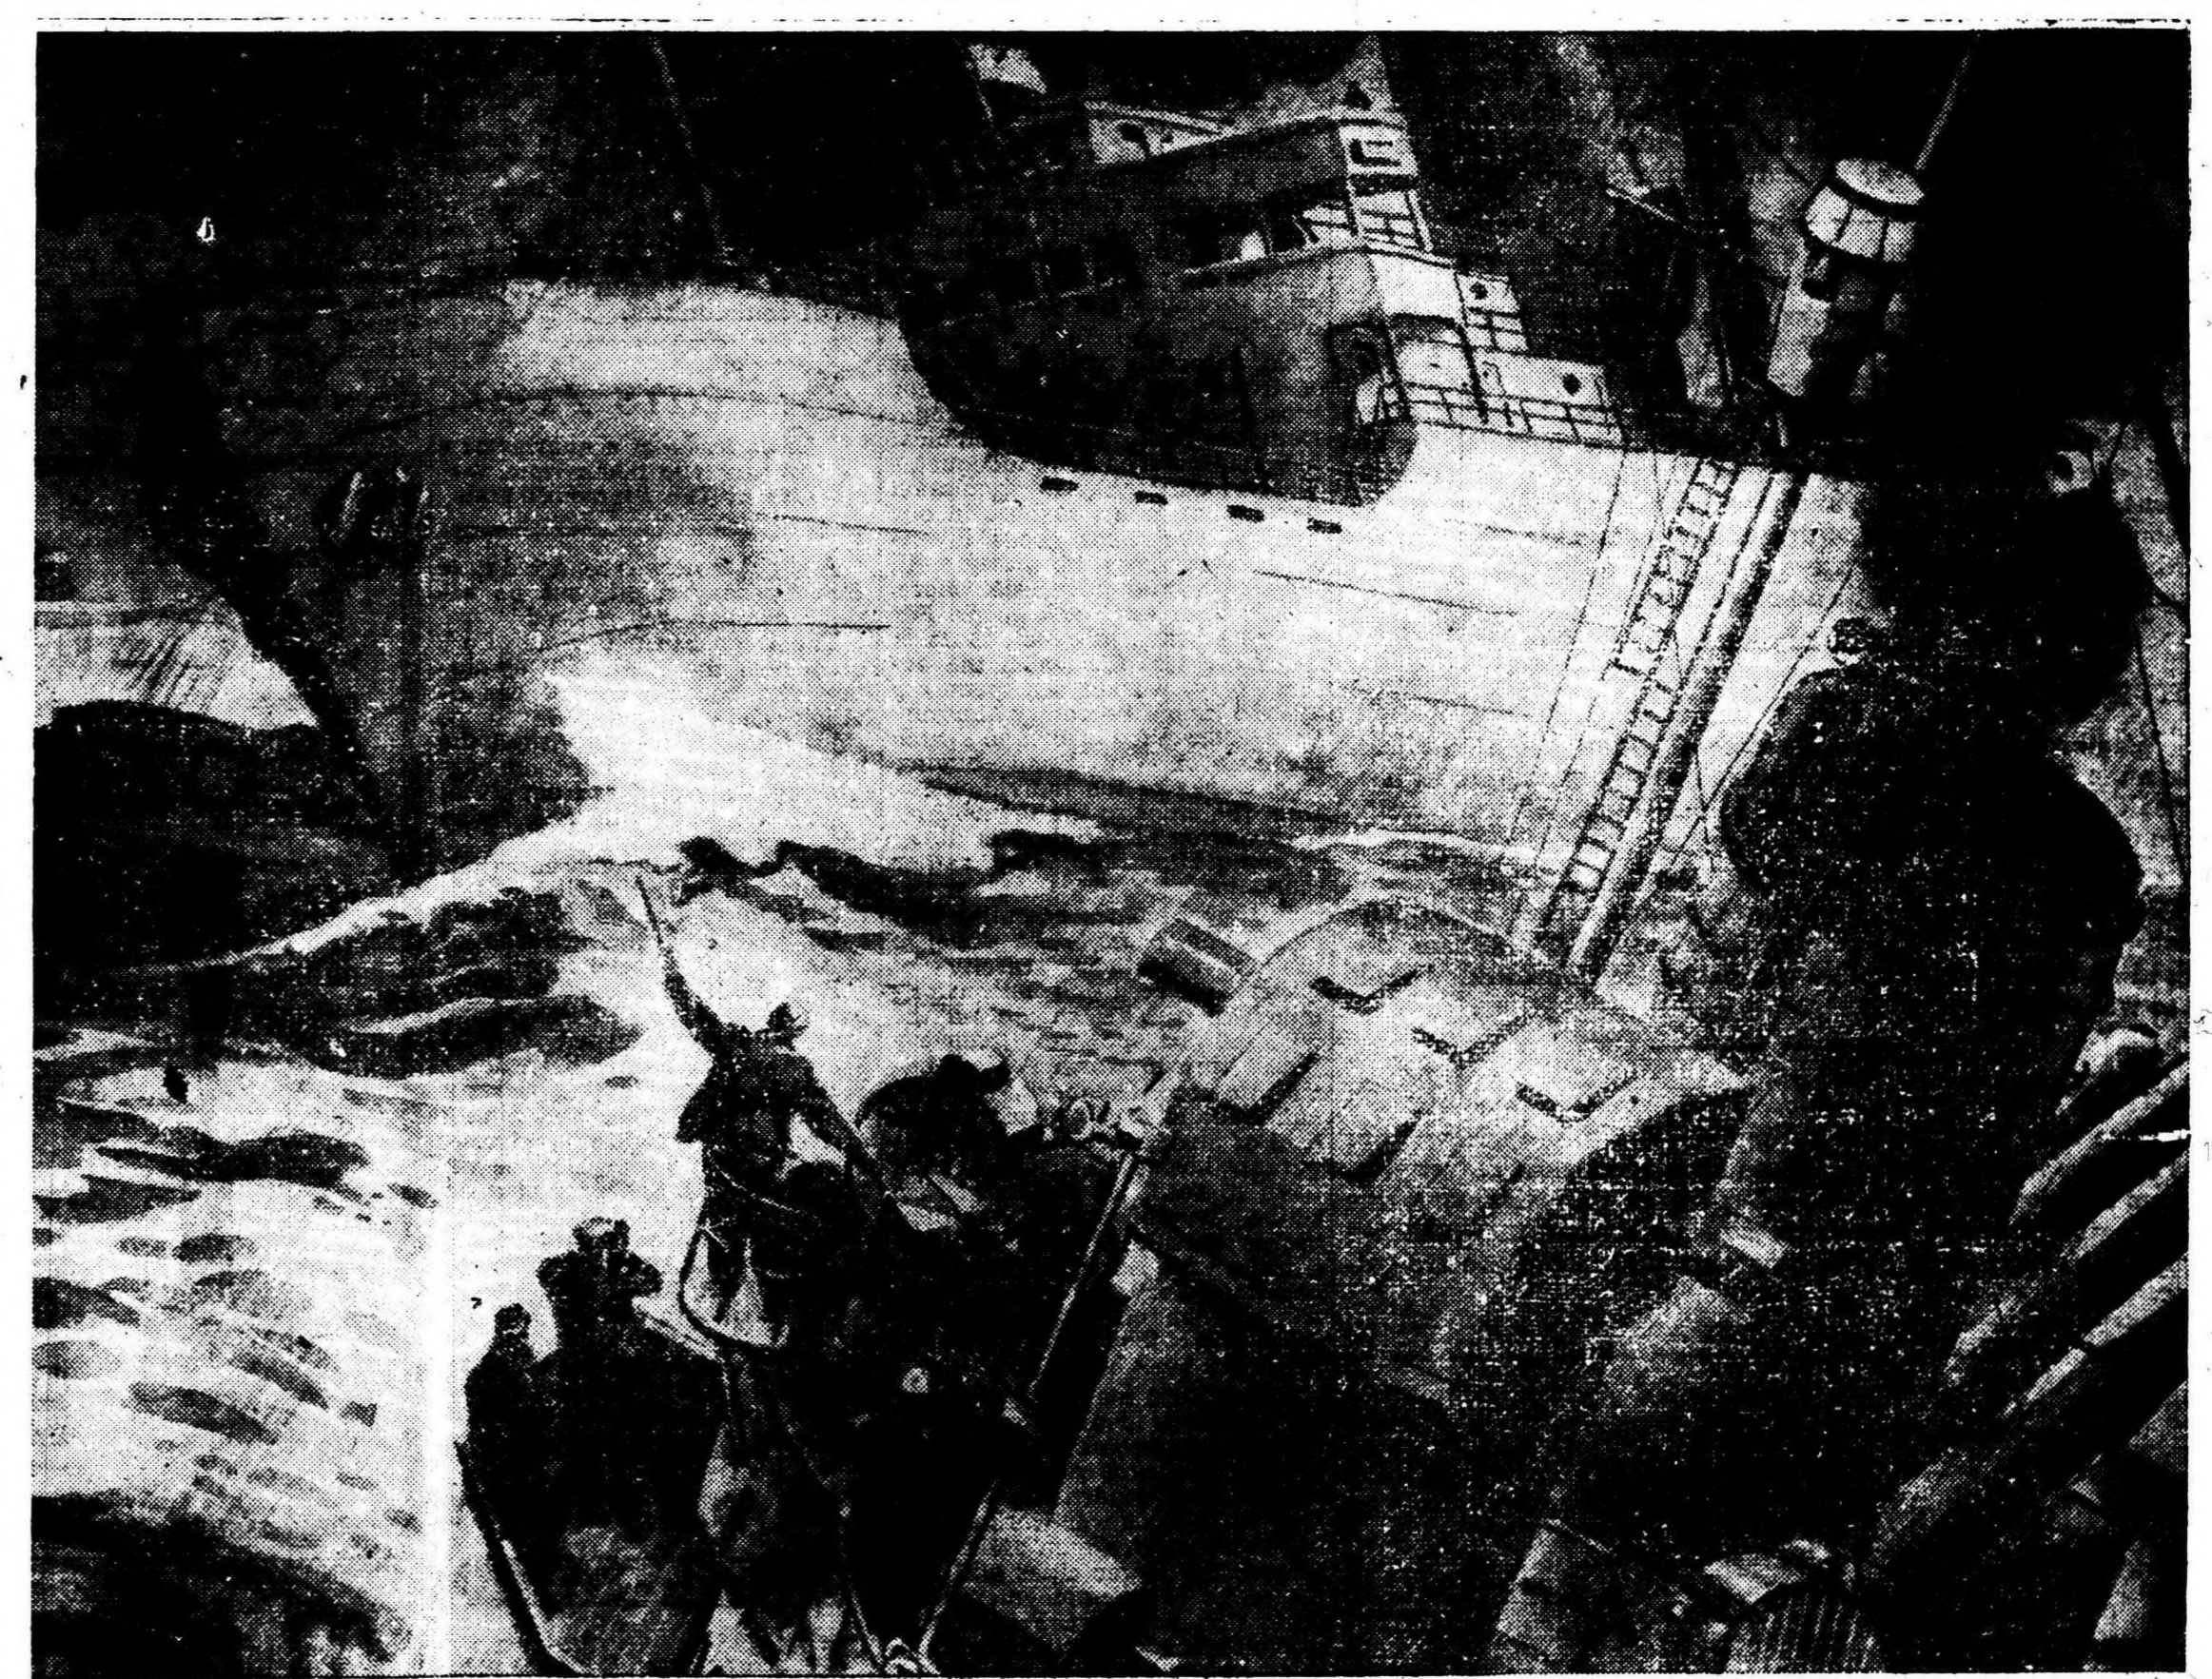

ALTON RICHWINE JR.
NAVAL SCHOOL GRADUATE

A third class petty officer rating as a yeoman, third class, was awarded to Alton J. Richwine, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Richwine, Plymouth, upon graduation from the Service School at the U.S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois, recently. Having had 16 weeks of instruction in his specialty in addition to a period of recruit training, he is now qualified for duty with the fleet or at a shore station.

MEN who go down with their ships at sea—an Admiral or the helmsman of a tanker—pay the last full measure of devotion to their country. We who are buying War Bonds to replace those ships—are we merely lending our spare dollars—or are we fighting with them? We are fighting if we're scrimpers and savers—spending less to lend more to our country—for guns and tanks, planes and ships—for security of our flag, our homes, and loved ones—and with the best security in the world for our investment: The promissory note of Uncle Sam.

THE SOLDIER VOTE.

Some shrewd Washington political observers say that President Roosevelt's speech the other night was a direct bid for the soldier vote. Judging from comments of soldier and sailor lads who call at The Plymouth Mail office while home enjoying leaves of absence, if the soldiers and sailors vote in the next election, the New Dealers will get the surprise of their lives. Of the scores and scores of boys in uniform who have expressed themselves, NOT ONE is favorable to continuing the New Dealers in office. In fact, most of them are not only opposed, but exceedingly hostile. We doubt very much if political promises will change the minds of these fighting lads. They are anti-New Deal and strongly so. And they are RIGHT in the position they take. We have predicted before and we predict again that the Washington New Dealers will get the trimming of their lives in the next election, no matter whether the war is over or still going on.

HIS TOILS ARE ENDED.

Harry M. Royal, for a long period of years one of Michigan's outstanding Jeffersonian Democrats and editor and publisher of The Oceana Herald at Shelby, died recently at his home after a long illness. His passing is regretted by every editor in Michigan who knew him well. He was one of the outstanding editors of Michigan, an editor who had served his community and state well. A faithful adherent to his party, he was respected by those of opposite political faith, respected because of his high ideals and because of his unselfish services to mankind. Truly, a most useful life has been ended and to his family and community we extend our sincere condolences.

ANOTHER FORD STRIKE.

Four times in recent weeks there have been strikes at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor company. A Detroit paper quoted one of the men on strike as saying that he had been forced to go on four strikes recently, that he didn't know what he was striking for, that he didn't know how the strikes had been settled up, and that he was threatened with personal violence if he didn't strike, and that at no time did he have a reason to strike. Let's see, didn't the Washington planners tell us that the Wagner labor act would bring industrial peace to America and there would be no more strikes?

QUITE RIGHT.

Westbrook Pegler, famed writer of a newspaper syndicate column, a few days ago quoted some one in his column as having said that if fascism ever came to the United States it would come disguised as anti-fascism.

Quite true. After reading Vice President Wallace's speech in Detroit, we have come to the conclusion that there isn't much question about the coming to America of fascism disguised as anti-fascism, unless the people of this country wake up to what is going on.

RACE RIOTS.

Race riots have broken out again—this time in New York City and Savannah, Georgia. These affairs are most regrettable, but we are simply reaping the results of the whirlwind the Washington planners have been sowing during the past ten years. The result could be nothing else than what we are getting.

Babson Says --

Era Of Small Towns Is At Hand

Babson Park, Mass., August 6—The end of Mussolini's twenty-one year rule over Italy came so suddenly that its significance has yet to be appreciated. It marks, however, a definite end of an era of confusion. The sands of all dictators are now running out. Whether governments of Fascists, Nazis, Revolutionists, Socialists or New Dealers, or city dictators—their ends are in sight. We shall return to Religion and Democracy. We also face a return to "Belief"; not to New Deal relief, but to relief coming from one more demonstration that what is fundamentally right will prevail. We, however, do face new economic problems that will arise in connection with postwar events.

To date, the rise in the cost of living has been kept within reasonable limits. The National Debt has risen to astronomical heights; but it is being adequately serviced. Money in circulation per capital is the highest in our history. Consumer goods inventories are holding up pretty well; and we should now see more, rather than less, such goods. For the time being, however, there is relatively less for which the average wage worker can spend his money. Hence, Secretary Morgenthau's continued efforts to switch the bulk of War Bonds buying from banks to the individual—from the cities to the towns. Any high degree of inflation is likely to come after the War, rather than now.

It thus becomes essential that everything possible be done to prevent a postwar scarcity of goods and resulting uncontrollable prices. This should be the basis of our postwar recovery plan. Russia, North Africa, Latin America, Denmark, Norway, and Holland may provide a good deal of food. It becomes more apparent, however, that we shall have to feed, as well as help, several hundred million people outside of our own, beginning with North Africa, Sicily and Italy. For two or three years, we may be obliged to produce much more food and merchandise than ever before.

Henry Ford may live to see a revival of his ideas for small factories and processing companies located in towns near raw materials and foodstuffs sources. When 30,000,000 war workers and 10,000,000 service men are demobilized, the larger cities will feel the effect of unemployment and depression the most. Plant owners and labor will fight over wage and production schedules just as they did in 1918-21. Hundreds of large city plants may be idle. It is possible for unemployment to reach new heights unless people return to their birthplaces during the postwar period.

The smaller communities hold the key to solving the problem. The total population of small towns exceeds that of our large cities. If the businessmen, bankers, editors, farmers and other leading citizens of our small cities and towns can get together and operate by themselves or through government loans, small and efficient plants they can absorb the unemployment slack. I anticipate that 75% of postwar unemployment will be taken care of by existing consumer goods plants and by reconverted war plants. Taking care, however, of the remaining 25% of unemployment may spell the difference between the American way of living and a more drastic planned economy.

One of the biggest battles at the Peace Table will be over the question of tariffs, shipping and air routes. Whether we can long compete with certain other nations in the cost of manufacturing goods, in the cost of growing and processing foodstuffs, in wage rates and in shipping costs remain to be seen. Foreign trade competition will be unprecedented after the war. To gain an edge on this, we can at least, while the War is on, assure ourselves of surpluses far and beyond our own needs. Foreign demands for our goods and services will be great and we must be prepared fully to meet them. To do this may require a temporary lower standard for wages and living for all groups. This would be better than unemployment.

No other nation is so fundamentally equipped to expand as we are. Control of the postwar world markets would put us at the head of the Peace Table regardless of any question as to whether we, England or Russia had done the most to knock out Hitler. But we can accomplish little without the industrial development and help of 80,000,000 consumer-producers of the American rural hinterlands. In the hands of this group—rather than our large cities—lies the physical salvation of much of the world and certainly the winning of the losing of the coming economic battle on our own postwar home front.

Several conclusions may be reached from the above analysis. The chief one is that those now living in towns and small cities should stay where they are and not seek the large cities. Those now in the larger cities should plan to get back to their "home towns" just as soon as the War is over. Following World War II the best opportunities for both young and old will be on good farms and in spiritually minded small communities.

25 Years Ago

News items of a quarter of a century ago taken from the files of The Plymouth Mail.

A slight frost was reported near Elm Tuesday night, but no serious damage was noticed.

The Deep Springs Water Co.'s plant near the P. M. railway station has become one of Northville's show places. Seven or eight hundred people visited the building Sunday, 366 of them registering. Only visitors from places other than Northville and vicinity are registered.

The Epworth League and their friends will go to the village flats this (Friday) evening for a "dog roast," it being the occasion of the monthly social meeting. Rev. B. F. Farber, formerly pastor of the local Presbyterian church, has returned from France, where he has been doing Y.M.C.A. work for the past six months. Rev. Farber and family arrived in Plymouth, yesterday afternoon and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Schrader at a six o'clock dinner.

Buffalo Dies On Schrader Ranch

Maybe Due To Lack Of Excitement

Old age—or maybe it was the life of ease and lack of excitement—resulted in the death of Fred D. Schrader's oldest buffalo on at Mr. Schrader's Buffalo Ranch west of the city on Territorial road recently.

"For some time she has been dumping around in the fields. Then she got better and I thought she was on the way to a complete recovery from whatever it was that ailed her. But the other morning she failed to appear up around the barn and we found her dead in the field," stated Mr. Schrader yesterday.

That leaves but three of the original herd of five out at the ranch. Some 900 hungry Republicans ate up one of them at the famous buffalo stew banquet served at the Mayflower hotel four years ago. The remaining three buffalo are doing nicely—and maybe one of them will go into the stew pot when another one of the new deal depressions comes along.

Church Group Hears Talk By Missionary

Miss Elizabeth W. DeLa from Calvary Baptist church of New York City addressed the adult groups last Sunday morning in the Sunday school of the First Baptist church. Miss DeLa is a missionary candidate to Nigeria, British West Africa under the Sudan Interior Mission.

Miss DeLa stressing the imperative needs of the Nigerian people during the war and post-war periods claimed the greatest need was that they come to a knowledge of Jesus Christ as personal Savior. She also pointed out that in a population of over 20 million people there were only 800 missionaries of all faiths. Miss DeLa hopes to leave the United States about September for Africa. The local Baptist church gave Miss DeLa a substantial sum of money to be used for her passage costs.

Woman Hurt In Auto Collision

Mary Davis of Northville was slightly injured last week Wednesday afternoon about 5 p.m., when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another automobile at the intersection of Beck road and Ann Arbor Trail.

Miss Davis was riding in an automobile with Alvin Abraham of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., an oil driller, who lives in the same rooming house in Northville where Miss Davis also makes her home.

Abraham told Deputy Sheriffs Walter Koch and Edward Baumgart that he had failed to stop at Ann Arbor trail as he proceeded southward on Beck road. He was given a ticket for failing to stop at a preferential street.

As he crossed Ann Arbor trail, Abraham said, his automobile was struck by one driven by Charles Bennett of Detroit.

Portion Of Blanche Street May Be Closed

The city commission at its meeting Monday night ordered a public hearing to be held September 7, to consider whether or not the city should vacate Blanche street from the Pere Marquette railroad to Amelia street.

If the city should vacate the street, the property would revert to the owners of property abutting onto the street.

It was understood at the city hall that the Dunn Steel Products Co., wishes to expand its holdings.

Many of the class of 140 will enter full-time service as pastors, children's workers, young people's workers, rural Bible teachers, and 33 are expecting to go as missionaries to Africa, China, South America and Alaska.

Col. Hazleton Killed In Crash

Lieut. Col. Paul H. Hazleton, a former resident of Plymouth, was killed Sunday in St. Louis when the glider in which he was a passenger crashed during a demonstration flight over the Lambert-St. Louis airport.

Nine other persons in the glider, including its manufacturer, the mayor of St. Louis and the president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce also were killed.

Col. Hazleton came to Plymouth about two and a half years ago and occupied the Dr. Butz residence on Ann Arbor Trail. At that time he was in command of material control at the bomber plant.

About a year ago he was transferred to a command post in St. Louis.

Mrs. Hazleton visited in Plymouth last week. Her daughter and grandson live in Dearborn.
