Candidate For County Auditor Visits City

Thomas G. Stackpoole, who was for many years associated with the accounting division of the Wayne County Social Welfare department and still in the accounting department of the county, was a visitor in Plymouth Saturday in connection with his candidacy for the Republican nomination for a member of the board of auditors of Wayne county. Mr. Stackpoole's friends point out that his long experience in the accounting departments of the county well qualifies him for the place he is seeking. During the time that Richard Olin of this city was employed in the welfare department, he became well acquainted with Mr. Stackpoole and holds him in high regard.

A friend should be one in whose understanding and virtue we can equally confide, and whose opinion we can value at its sincerity.

FROM General Bradley, leading the Invasion ground forces, right through every rank, American men now face a brutal, desperate, able enemy. For this invasion has only begun—before our fighters lies a hard and bloody task, one that demands all their courage, backed by all your faith in their ultimate victory.

That faith will be tested many times in this invasion—in grim struggles, setbacks, possibly even temporary defeats. It will be up to you to remember that early victories usually only mean more savage opposition from a foe made more bitter, more ruthless as the shadow of his doom grows larger—up to you to keep that faith in days and nights of gloom as well as in hours of triumph.

There is little that you can do to show that you realize what they must face, perhaps for many months. But one thing you can do—back the attack with every dollar you can spare! Let the Bonds you buy in this greatest of Drives be the measure of your belief in their ultimate victory!

In the event of a vacancy, this man becomes Governor. Such a man should be a capable administrator. His long experience qualifies Vernon J. Brown as the candidate of the Republican Party for Lieutenant Governor.

Seek Game Bird For The U. P.

Search for a game bird that can survive and multiply in the rugged environment of Michigan's northern peninsula is being pushed steadily by the state conservation department's game division, although war conditions are limiting efforts to introduce new species in the northern habitat.

The blue grouse, found at different altitudes in the mountainous regions of western North America, seems likeliest to meet specifications, according to game division men, although earlier efforts to acclimatize the bird in captivity at Cusino wildlife experiment station in Alger and Schoolcraft counties met with failure.

Northern peninsula sportsmen continue to urge such experimentation, hoping that the game bird can be established in northern counties that will afford sport during periods of population decline among native species—the ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse and prairie chicken.

A recently completed game division report discusses the rugged habitat conditions of the northern peninsula as contrasted with the more favorable habitat and weather conditions of agricultural counties of lower Michigan and points out that severity of winters and scarcity of food during the winter months combine to reduce the number of species of upland game birds that can possibly live in Michigan's northern counties.

Only three exotic birds—the blue grouse, capercaillie, and blackcock—seem to offer possibilities for introduction into the capercaillie, found in western Europe, the Scandinavian peninsula, Russia and Siberia, and the blackcock, which has managed to "hang on" after its introduction into suitable areas in the British Isles, have failed in previous American introductions, and cannot be obtained from northern Europe in war time, but may be worth another trial in the northern peninsula later. An earlier effort to introduce the capercaillie to the northern peninsula, made by the Cleveland Cliffs Company, met with failure.

In 1941, twelve blue grouse were obtained from national forests in Idaho and were installed in pens at the Cusino station. These birds apparently never became acclimated, and they gradually died off without having reproduced.

However, the opinion is expressed that while blue grouse inhabit a different altitude and type of forest, and are difficult to obtain and raise in captivity, they may be worth further tests on an experimental basis.

Production Of Chicks Slump

Plymouth poultry growers and farmers who raise a considerable number of chickens every year will be interested in knowing that a recent survey shows a 165 percent drop in the production of chicks in Michigan hatcheries during the first five months of this year.

Just what this means in the late fall and winter poultry market no one can guess, but Plymouth suppliers of feeds and materials for poultrymen believe that the fall business will be above the average, providing there isn't too much interference by OPA regulations.

Homesick To Get Back In Training

"After I get home, it seems that I am more homesick for the training station than I am for my old home town. One makes a lot of dandy friends when in training and when I get home I find that nearly all of my old friends are in service," stated Melvin Vickstrom the other day just after he had returned from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station for a nine day leave of absence. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vickstrom of 482 Blunk avenue and is enthusiastic about the training he is receiving. He leaves Saturday for Great Lakes to receive his first assignment for the future.

250 Unfilled Phone Orders

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company today announced it has a waiting list of more than 75,000 orders for telephone service that it cannot fill because of the demands of war for communication facilities.

John R. MacLachlan, manager for the Company, said the backlog of unfilled orders is increasing at the rate of nearly 7,000 a month, with no prospect that the situation will improve for some time. He pointed out that Western Electric Company, manufacturing unit of the Bell System has confined virtually its entire output since November, 1942, to military and war production needs. Western Electric is making more than a third of all communication facilities manufactured in this country for war.

The announcement said that there are 250 delayed orders in the Plymouth exchange area.

The situation is so critical at most points in the company's territory MacLachlan continued, that the service can be granted only if it is essential to the war, public health, or the public security, as defined by regulations of the War Production Board. If spare facilities are available after meeting that priority, orders are then filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Instruments do not comprise the only shortage of facilities for civilian purposes, MacLachlan said. "More than half the delayed orders also are held up because of shortages of cable, wire, and central office facilities. Two years of war have used up about all of the reserves which always have been built into the telephone system."

Recent announcement by the Western Electric Company that it has been authorized to resume the limited manufacture of telephone sets for civilian use, beginning next fall, will have no appreciable effect on the shortage situation for some time, according to MacLachlan.

The number authorized to be made and released is a mere "drop in the bucket" in comparison with the number of delayed orders, he pointed out, and even that limited supply will not be available for some months in the future.

"As a matter of fact," he declared, "the first telephone sets to be made are destined by government order for the Pacific Coast."

Every effort has been and will be made to spread our overtaxed facilities so as to serve the greatest possible number of applicants with the least possible delays. But there can be no delays in meeting the communication needs of war industry of our armed forces. They cannot be put on any waiting list," MacLachlan concluded.

James Latture Goes To Interlochen

Jim Latture, school teacher and cook par excellence, plan to be cooking at Camp Interlochen, the National Music Camp, operated by the University of Michigan, under the direction of Professor Maddy, a nationally known figure in music circles for the summer.

The Latture family is going to go along to absorb some of the Northern atmosphere. The Latture's are leaving Sunday and expect to be gone till the last of August. While at Interlochen Mr. Latture plans to renew his friendship with Kenneth "Beef" Matheson, who is in charge of the recreation at the Camp. "Beef" was formerly the athletic director and coach at the high school in Plymouth.

Dr. Haskell Is Rotary Speaker

The guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon last Friday was Robert H. Haskell, M. D., the Medical Superintendent at Wayne County Training School. Dr. Haskell spoke on the "Trends in Mental Deficiency during the last Hundred years."

Dr. Haskell is the author of a recent article printed in the American Journal of Psychiatry for April 1944. This article titled "Mental Deficiency over a Hundred years" deals with a brief history of the trends of this field.

In his talk to the Rotarians Dr. Haskell pointed out that in 1877 a Dr. Samuel G. Howe started a movement for the betterment and care of the feeble-minded. He said that Americans have not realized the important groundwork and patterns this individual laid for his followers. Dr. Haskell has found through research enough evidence to prove that Dr. Howe, an American was one of the most learned men in his field at that time, although he did not receive much credit for his knowledge and experiences.

In conclusion, the speaker stressed that our country's problem today is much the same as that of Dr. Howe's day: one of rehabilitating the idiot. By schooling and workshop methods, we can

Rushing Work On City Tax Bills

City Manager Clarence Elliott reported this week that the tax roll now has been spread on the books of the city, and that the figures have been sent to the county offices for billing.

There seems to be no doubt but what the bills will be in the mail by July the first, largely through the combined efforts of city and county employees.

The bills should have been at the county offices for running through the billing machines by the first of June.

The failure of the city commission to approve the budget until a week ago last Monday night, left the city in a jam, which was met only through the efforts of all the city workers.

The tax bills are payable not later than August tenth, after which a penalty is assessed.

HERE IS Your INVASION WEAPON

Don't wait . . . invest your savings in it today. Everything can depend on it—your freedom, your happiness and peace of mind. The eyes of the entire world are on you, those of our enemy as well as the men and women who are fighting for us. This is the zero hour, the hour of INVASION. What we do in backing up this invasion by buying more War Bonds than ever before can easily raise the morale of our fighting forces and help to lower the resistance of the enemy. NOW is the time to let the world know in no uncertain terms that we are 100% back of our men, that we intend to preserve our freedom and safeguard the future of our children.

Some people speak of buying bonds as though it meant sacrificing for them to invest in the safest, surest investment in the world, an investment that will not only help to bring peace sooner, but one that will pay them in cold cash four dollars for every three they loan Uncle Sam.

Who among us here at home can speak of sacrifice who has not crawled in mud; slept under rain-soaked blankets; and been nurtured by raw fish and bird-meat while waiting to be rescued from a life-raft? Our soldiers, sailors, marines and coastguardsmen face what kind of sacrifice every day yet all they are counting on us to do is invest all we can in war bonds . . . bonds which will equip them to fight this war to a finish—fast!

Directions For Canning Are Issued By the M. S. C.

Does your victory garden boast a strawberry patch? Strawberries contain more vitamin C than any other Michigan grown dessert fruit. Strawberry short-cake made with enriched flour and loaded with strawberries is really quite a vitamin cocktail.

Strawberries do not make such a perfect canned product as some other berries but they taste unusually good in the middle of February just the same. Strawberries keep their shape and hold their juices better if they are washed before they are hulled. They are plumper and have a better color, if the berries are brought slowly to the boiling point with the sugar before canning and then let stand in the kettle in a cool place until morning. The next day bring them to the boiling point, pack hot and process them in the boiling water bath for 5 minutes. The processing in the water bath makes certain that there will be no mold growth on the surface.

One cup of sugar to a quart of berries makes an excellent product, but less on none can be used. Sugar does not help to preserve canned fruit—it's heat that makes fruit keep. So don't blame sugar rationing for spoilage.

If a half a cup or less of sugar to the finished quart is being used berries may be heated with the sugar to draw out some juice, boiled gently for three or four minutes, packed hot and processed for 5 minutes in the boiling water bath. The last step is important since much fruit was lost last year that had been canned by the open kettle method.

Follow the directions of the manufacturer in sealing jars. There are several types on the market and they seal in different ways. In general, one half inch head space should be left in pint jars and one inch head space in quarts. Exceptions to this rule are jars packed with corn and peas in which a full inch or more head space should be left. If the jar is to be sealed with a three piece top where the glass lies curved downward, an inch is recommended also even for pints.

Before processing, all jars are partially sealed but a partial seal is obtained in several ways, with the newer three piece lid, the small sized rubber, should be taken out of hot water, fitted on the ledge of the glass top, and then both of them should be placed carefully on the edge of a jar with a perfectly smooth level edge. The metal ring should then be turned down gradually until it is tight and then back one-fourth turn. After processing, this type of lid should be tightened gradually to avoid displacing the rubber. After 18 to 24 hours, the ring may be removed. It is usually better to remove metal rings because they have a tendency to rust on the jars.

One piece screw tops with rubbers that fit on the jar shoulder should be tightened and turned back one fourth inch before processing and then seal completed after processing. Remember the metal rings which are part of three piece lids are turned back one quarter turn and the one piece screw tops are turned back one quarter inch.

Vacuum seal lids are actually partially sealed when the rings are turned down tightly as long as the run-on composition is still hot and soft. The seal is made as the jars cool. The rings should be turned down firmly without exerting undue pressure before processing and they should not be tightened further afterward. The next day the rings may be removed.

Hot pack is recommended nowadays for most all products even fruits. There are several advantages over the old cold pack method. More food can be packed in the jars since air is driven out by pre-cooking and the actual processing begins much sooner. Most folks, however, prefer raspberries packed cold since they tend to keep their shape better. They need merely to be packed in the jar, covered with boiling medium or light sirup, and processed for 20 minutes in a boiling water bath with the water a good two inches over the tops of the jars. Sirup made from one cup of sugar and 3 cups of water is sweet enough peas or snap beans soon will be ready for home canning. Both of these vegetables should be simmered for five minutes in water to cover before being packed in jars, and covered with the cooking liquid to which 1 teaspoon of salt per quart has been added. Remember that peas need more head space than snap beans do. After the jars are partially sealed, process pint jars of green beans for 20 minutes in the pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure; pint jars of peas for 45 minutes at 10 pounds and quart jars of snap beans for 35 minutes. It is better not to try to can peas in quart jars since they become overcooked and mushy.

Be sure to open the petcock of the cooker as soon as the gauge registers zero, but not before. Your gauge will be less likely to get out of order if this rule is followed.

Above all don't try to substitute canning powders or tablets for proper processing. Most of them are ineffective and some are actually harmful to health.

For detailed canning directions on a card which can be hung in a kitchen, send to Michigan State College Bulletin Office for a "War-time Canning" chart and the extra leaflet on "Using War-time Canning Equipment."

Schedule For Midget League

The Twilight softball and baseball Leagues sponsored by the Recreation Commission and under the direction of John Tomshack will play at several diamonds this summer instead of being concentrated at the high school playground.

The recreation commission believes that by scheduling games at different playgrounds during the week it will serve to bring attention to the possibilities for recreation that exist in each locality.

The recreation department has decided to use Starkweather and the Central playgrounds in addition to Forest street and Farmer street playgrounds. A Midget League of seven teams has been organized. These boys are in the sixth and seventh grades. An older boys' league has also been organized. These two leagues will play on Mondays and Wednesdays of each week. Games will start at 6:15 p. m.

Remodeling Wilkie Funeral Home

Extensive repairs and remodeling is being done at the Wilkie Funeral Home, according to Edward Wilkie, in order to increase the facilities and comforts of the home. Major improvement made was the covering of the exterior of the building with asphalt siding, which does much to improve its appearance. All of the ceilings of the buildings were insulated and the interior is being rearranged and redecorated throughout. The sign on the front of the building has been sent back to the manufacturer for repairs and painting and it is hoped to have all of the work completed within the next few days. Mr. Wilkie stated that the work in no way interferes with the services of the business.

Each of the 3,755 chapters of the American Red Cross offers home service to the families of men in the armed forces and claims service to servicemen honorably discharged.

Beats OPA To Ceiling Prices

Ceiling prices on cars go into effect on July 10th according to the OPA, but as far as The Plymouth Motor Sales is concerned the new prices become effective at once.

According to Paul Weidman, Plymouth's well known Ford dealer, there are a lot of people in this area who are badly in need of better cars. He believes that many of them are holding off their purchasing till such time as they can take advantage of the new low OPA prices and that by so doing they are driving cars that are endangering not only their lives but those of others.

Mr. Weidman states that the new prices which he now has in his office effect savings up to $200.00 on some of his used cars and that since he must reduce these prices three weeks hence the public might just as well take advantage of the savings now if they are in need of a better car. An announcement elsewhere in this issue gives full information about the offer.

To Release Sugar For Honey Bees

Effective June 30, any person in Michigan who needs sugar to feed bees may obtain up to 10 pounds of sugar per bee colony each calendar year. Under emergency weather conditions where bees cannot subsist on their natural source of nectar and the supply of honey left in the colony is too small, provision is made for extra allowances of not more than 15 pounds of sugar. However, these can be obtained only by certification from the beekeeper's local U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board that the bees would be lost if not given emergency feeding.

"That's the way I like to see them," said Gen. MacArthur when he saw the rows of dead Japs in the Admiralty Islands. In this war—the costliest, cruelest war of all time—our boys must fight with savage fury. Kill or be killed! And on how well each plays his part depends the lives of many of his buddies. Here on the home front, too, just cheering the attack on isn't enough.

That's why there's a Fifth War Bond drive on now, a drive in which you're needed to support the men on the fighting fronts who are facing the most treacherous forces Americans have ever met in combat. We on the home front can't let them down—and we won't. So resolve now to at least double your Bond buying in the 5th War Loan drive. This is the time to do better than your best.

LETTER TELLS HOW BOYS IN TRAINING FELT ABOUT INVASION

A timely letter from Private Robert N. Green, who is with a U. S. air corp outfit at Buckley Field, Colorado, vividly describes the reaction among boys in training on the night of the great Allied invasion of Europe. In part Bob wrote as follows:

"This great occasion has certainly made great changes here, as it most certainly has done all over the world. A certain quiet determination has been developing among the men here all day. Tonight the usual hilarity and horseplay that is ever present in an Army barracks is missing. News papers are being read over and over again to get every last bit of information. Ears are glued to the radio. A report is just

"This letter might indicate that I have been carried away with the excitement of the day. I have one consolation if such is the case, because the thoughts I have written are also those of my fellow soldiers."

ITS FIRST LIEUTENANT DONALD SPICER FROM NOW ON

First Lieutenant Donald E. Spicer of the Charleston Port of Embarkation was recently promoted from the rank of second lieutenant. Port Headquarters announced recently.

Lieutenant Spicer, whose home is at 11419 Auburndale Ave., studied business administration at Wayne University. In civil life he was an insurance auditor.

Lieutenant Spicer was commissioned a second lieutenant in January, 1943, and was assigned to duty with the Charleston Port of Embarkation in February, 1943.

CORPORAL ERNEST BASEL MEMBER OF FAMED ARMY MOTOR UNIT

Plymouth boys are earning fame and glory in more ways than one in Uncle Sam's fighting forces. From the army headquarters in the Mediterranean comes an interesting news story pertaining to a Quartermaster Car company organized at Camp Livingston in Louisiana that is made up of some of the finest car drivers in America. Among them is Corporal Ernest J. Basel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Basel, 12930 Mercedes avenue.

In their sedans, trucks, reconnaissance cars, jeeps and weapon carriers, these drivers cover almost 50,000 miles a month. They have to drive over high mountains and burning desert sands. Trips may last several weeks and cover as much as 3,000 miles.

In March, 1942, part of the unit went to England, while the remainder stayed at Camp Beauregard, La., and Fort Sam Houston, Texas. Later the company was reunited in England. There the drivers had the difficulty of learning to drive "on the wrong side of the road." English-style. They soon mastered that, however, and were busy day and night transporting generals and celebrities and in serving as couriers throughout the United Kingdom.

Soon after the North African landings, the company moved to a base in Algeria, and until the end of the Tunisian campaign the men were frequently called upon to drive between various headquarters and the front lines.

In addition to the original personnel, many of the men in the company have come from combat units, and Silver Stars, Purple Hearts and other battle decorations are not uncommon. Several of the drivers joined the unit in England, where they transferred to the United States Army from the Canadian tank corps.

Commendations have been received from General Marshall for the expert way the men transported President Roosevelt's party in North Africa, from General Eisenhower and others. Kay Francis still writes letters regularly to the private who chauffeured her to remote Army outposts where she entertained troops.

"The men really enjoy their work," points out Capt. Henckley. "They know they have immense responsibilities when they are driving generals or statesmen, and they always fill the bill. A large part of the credit should go, too, to the mechanics in our outfit, who keep the vehicles in perfect shape.

"It's got so that driving celebrities around has become almost routine with these men, but they are always conscious of their responsibilities."

DONALD REH AWARDED ENSIGN COMMISSION AT NAVAL AIR CENTER

Donald Earl Reh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Earl Reh, of 1251 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, Mich., has graduated from the Naval Air Training Center, at Corpus Christi, Texas, and was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He received his preliminary flight instruction at the Ottumwa, Ia., naval air base.

Each Naval Aviator is an expert flyer, navigator, aerologist, gunner, and radio operator.

Naval Aviators fly carrier-based or land-based planes in combat zones, or at Naval Air Stations at home and abroad.

RICHARD REAMER AT GREAT LAKES STATION

Richard D. Reamer, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Reamer, 1380 Junction Ave., Plymouth, Mich., is receiving his initial naval indoctrination at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruit to determine whether he will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate active duty at sea.

NEPHEW OF MRS. CHARLES MESSMORE IN A GERMAN PRISON CAMP.

Following many months of worry and uncertainty as to the fate of Staff Sergeant Donald J. Emaus, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Messmore of 251 West Liberty street, it has now been definitely established that he is in a German prison camp. Mrs. Messmore, who has always believed him to be alive since he was reported missing on August 16 of last year, has received several cards from him in which he has told as much as he is permitted to reveal about what happened to him after he was forced to bail out on a flight over German territory last year. He was first placed in an Italian prisoner camp and then when Italy quit the war, he was turned free and spent five

SIMPLE, CONVENIENT, PRACTICAL

It will be simpler—easier to read—a convenient size—and more practical in several ways. It will be small enough to slip into your pocket. With all its advantages, it will also help the war effort.

SAVES PAPER, MANPOWER, TRANSPORTATION

For one thing, the new bill will save paper. Envelopes are eliminated, and this saves 25,544 pounds of paper a year. In addition, the new post card bill will save manpower and transportation.

This is a wartime emergency measure. But we are sure you will like the new bill for its own good features—even without the paper and manpower saving it makes possible. It is a good method that has been tested and proved. People like it.

We believe you will, too.

STAFF SERGEANT EARL T. OLIPHANT WINS OAK LEAF CLUSTER

The Oak Leaf Cluster in lieu of an additional air medal has been awarded to Staff Sergeant Earl T. Oliphant of 6018 Canton Center road, an armorer gunner by Lieut. General Millard F. Harmon, commanding the U. S. Army forces in the South Pacific area.

A bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster is awarded for meritorious achievement while participating in sustained combat operations of a hazardous nature during which enemy opposition is met, or during which an area is traversed where enemy anti-aircraft fire is effective or where enemy fighter patrols are habitually encountered. The missions for which the award was given were with the 13th AAF.

LIEUT. ROBERT J. METTETAL IS NOW FLYING INSTRUCTOR

There isn't much excitement around the Pampa Army Air Field at Pampa, Texas, where Lieut. Robert J. Mettetal, a Plymouth lad is now serving as flying instructor, except when a hail storm sweeps over that part of the country, writes Lieut. Mettetal.

"We had a real one the other day, and had to evacuate the planes as quickly as possible. These hail stones are pretty large and they can do a lot of damage in a very short time," he writes.

"Thanks a lot for sending the service men and women your news-paper. I know it means a lot to all of them, as it does to me."

Weeks trying to get back to the American lines, only to be captured by the Germans. He was then sent to a prison camp at Stalig, Germany, where he is at this time. In one of his brief notes, he stated that for Thanksgiving dinner last fall they had a dish of chocolate pudding. "That was a special treat," he wrote. He advised Mrs. Messmore that all the members of the bomber crew he was serving with were alive, although two were badly injured when the plane was shot down. He was on his 44th mission at the time of his capture and the war department had awarded him the distinguished flying cross for one of his missions over Rumania. The young man's home is in Grand Rapids, but he has frequently visited in Plymouth and is well known here.

★ ★ ★ LIEUT. (j. g.) ELMORE CARNEY LOCATED AT OREGON AIR STATION.

Plymouth friends of Lieut. (j. g.) Elmore Carney will be interested in knowing that he is at present located at Tillamook Air Station at Tillamook, Oregon. Mrs. Carney and little children who recently went to the Pacific coast to spend the summer with her husband, writes that they are nicely located on a bay, where the children spend much of their time playing in the sand.

"The boys love it, and so do I. The air is so clear and so healthy and cool we can sleep at anytime. Elmore is working hard, and he thoroughly enjoys his work" wrote Mrs. Carney recently. It is her plan to stay in the Pacific northwest until Lieut. Carney is moved again.

★ ★ ★ OFFERED DISCHARGE BUT STAYS IN ARMED SERVICE

Private Lynton L. Ball, who is now stationed at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, has found time to write a brief letter to "OUR BOYS" column that will prove of interest to his many friends, both in service and out. He says in part:

"Just a note of appreciation for the Plymouth Mail which has followed me so faithfully from Texas to Pennsylvania and from Fort Custer back to my present station here at Camp Kilmer, in New Jersey. As another service man so aptly termed it, it is certainly 'a bit of home' and a very welcome one.

"At present I am writing from the station hospital where I am convalescing from a recent operation. And only a few weeks ago I was in the same hospital with three fractured ribs suffered while breaking up a riot in a nearby town.

"At Fort Custer, around the first of the year, I was reclassified from general service to continental service, due to what the Medical Corps terms 'otitis media', or a thickened eardrum.

"At the same time I was offered a disability discharge but I felt guilty enough to be in limited service and I chose to do whatever I could until this blasted war is over. And God grant that it may be soon.

"May I take this belated opportunity to offer my perhaps comfortless but nevertheless, heartfelt sympathies to the families and friends of those Plymouth boys who have given their lives for their country.

"I was especially sorrowed to hear of Archie King's death last fall and of Bob O'Connor's this spring, as they were schoolmates of mine and good friends.

"Again, thanks for The Mail and on this day of invasion we may see the beginning of the end."

★ ★ ★ SEES THE SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE EVEN IN THE MUD OF NEW GUINEA

Corporal Don Thrall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Thrall of Irving street, apparently can see funny things in life even though Jap bullets may be flying around his head and the mud of New Guinea may be knee deep. In a recent letter, Don pictured a member of Uncle Sam's infantry tramping through the mud of New Guinea and only an artist of Don's ability can put the expression that he did in the sketch on the letter.

He recently sent to his parents some Jap money that the American soldiers they had found on Jap prisoners they had captured. The money was especially coined for use in the Jap invasion of Australia that never took place, due to the quick and decisive help given by General MacArthur to Australia. "It is stated by those in a position to know that this money was actually used to pay off Jap troops in the islands," wrote Corporal Thrall.

Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. His "boot" training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill, and general naval procedure.

★ ★ ★ PLYMOUTH GIRL'S HUSBAND SERVING WITH A MOTOR POOL

Technician Fifth Grade Leo J. Kubik, former job setter and work leader at Ford's Aircraft, is serving with the motor pool at Headquarters Company of the Army's Service of Supply for the South Pacific Area, according to an announcement just sent but from New Caledonia.

He is a driver at the motor pool and his duties include driving officers and enlisted personnel to various parts of the island.

Services of Supply in the South Pacific Area, under command of Major General Robert G. Greene, operates all functions of supply and maintenance for the entire theater.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kubik, 30127 Ann Arbor Trail, Garden City, Corporal Kubik entered the army October 1942 at a Fort Custer, Michigan, had his training at Camp Walters, Texas, and came overseas April, 1943.

His wife, the former Miss Shirley May Bernard of Plymouth, lives at 11258 Laurel Road, with their year-old daughter, Rose Mary. Corporal Kubik is a graduate of Wayne high school, class of 1938, and was a regular tackle on the football team his last two years in school.

★ ★ ★ SEABEE ROBERT WIDMAIER CELEBRATES FIRST YEAR ON FIJIS.

Beer, good cold American beer and Coca Cola were the grand prizes of a series of athletic events staged by American Seabees on the anniversary of their first year spent on the Fiji islands in the South Pacific, according to a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Widmaier of 45560 Ann Arbor Trail, from their son Robert, the youngest Seabee in the entire outfit serving in the Fiji island invasion group.

There were other prizes besides cool, refreshing drink of American beverages down under the equator where the thermometer reaches the top of the glass tube at times, but the neatly typed program of the day did not specify what they were.

The event proved a double celebration for Seabee Robert however, because it was his birthday, and being the youngest Seabee on the Fiji, the camp cook made him a special birthday cake.

Among the events of the day were oatmeal races, three legged races, a leap frog race and even an officers' ankle race. Even though these home-loving American boys are thousands of miles away from home, it is gratifying to their friends back home to know that they can find for themselves some forms of amusement.

Babson Says - -

New York City, June 23. During the past few weeks I have directed this column to various groups of people, colored workers, white workers, union labor, parents and investors. Permit me this week to give certain employers some good advice. This especially applies to the older men. There are many young forward-looking employers, but the stage has been stolen by the "die-hards".

As a part of my education, I attend group meetings of various kinds, church, social, scientific, labor and employers. All these groups—with the exception of the latter—have a definite constructive legislative program to make a better nation. We employers, however, present little constructive legislation. We have asked only for "lower taxes and to be let alone". I am sure this is a mistake.

Some economists recently discussed whether installment sales—which have temporarily been restricted under Presidential Orders during the War—should be regulated after peace comes. They claim that to stabilize employment, installment purchases should be encouraged during depressions but retarded during booms. This would be sound practice; but what do most employers say? They reply, "No! The government should let us alone to handle our own credits as we damn please."

Labor has made an appeal for much more extensive accident compensation laws through a government insurance company. The argument is that employers will hesitate to employ returning soldiers who may have any defect of eyesight, hearing, lameness or otherwise, believing that such persons are more liable to accidents. To encourage employers to employ such, labor leaders urge an extension of industrial insurance. Do most employers agree? No! They insist that the government should "keep their hands off", while their insurance friends yell "Communism". Is such an attitude by manufacturers and bankers wise?

Credit men have suggested that legislation be enacted whereby inventories be regulated in some way. One reason for unemployment because stocks of raw materials and merchandise at times become so large that manufacturers and merchants suddenly stop buying. These credit men claim that normal inventories tend to keep employment normal. But here again, too many employers say, "No!" They demand "free enterprise", freedom to inflate or deflate and freedom to speculate or hoard. Too many of us want freedom for ourselves without thinking of the other fellow's welfare.

Accountants believe that some relation should exist between depreciation, replacements and corporation taxes. They say that during the depression employers continue to charge vast sums to depreciation to save taxes, but they do not spend the money. Hence, this policy makes the depression so much worse. They believe that during a depression, when depreciation money is not spent for replacements, it should be taxed; while during a boom, it should be taxed if it is spent. Well, this suggestion has caused some employers to set up a big howl. Perhaps the idea is crazy but there is no harm discussing it.

Just one more illustration: Many farsighted insurance men believe it is not healthy for the country to forbid savings banks, life insurance companies and other institutions from buying "equities". To force them to buy so many governments is keeping funds away from small businessmen and homebuilders. "It is O. K.", they say "to forbid us from buying the stocks of corporations which have bonds outstanding; but in the interest of the public, we should be allowed to invest a certain proportion of our funds in the equities of companies having no debt, especially during depressions". This sounds sane to me. Certainly, this is something that employers could get behind.

The English Minister of Reconstruction, Lord Woolton, is now considering some very practical recommendations to stabilize unemployment by synchronizing and adjusting public works, exports, investments, taxes, interest charges and railroad rates to business conditions. His plan is to decrease the first three in booms and to increase them in depressions; but to increase the last three in booms and lower them during depressions. I understand that our U. S. Committee on Economic Development is busy making studies. But such studies have been made before. The library of the Department of Labor is full of them. But here is the rub: Too many manufacturers, employers and bankers seldom present these proposed employment aids to Congress as definite legislation. Furthermore, if labor submits them, the employers' association usually fight them. I repeat that too many employers ask only for lower taxes and to be let alone!

... I'm worth more to my boss now that he's installed a SCHULTZ Electric Milk Cooler

Because Schultz Electric Coolers quickly cool my milk—and keep it cool they insure my boss, the full butter fat test I have worked so hard to produce. Schultz Coolers also halt bacteria growth and make my milk more salable.

The Schultz principle is that of floating ice and top cooling without the need of a circulating pump of any kind. The coils automatically manufacture the ice on the smooth inside surface of the cabinet walls. This allows the ice to release and float on top of the water where it is needed. Schultz coolers effectively reduce labor costs; keep the nights milk under 40°. Many users say, "I wouldn't sell my Schultz Cooler for $1,000.00 if I couldn't get another."

Available in sizes to cool from 2 to 12 cans at one time. Buy the cooler to fit the job—not the milk house. Can be very easily installed in the average milk house. Easy payment plan can be arranged. See us today for further facts and prices.

25 Years Ago

News items of a quarter of a century ago taken from the files of The Plymouth Mail.

The Misses Clara and Cordula Strasen entertained a company of twelve young ladies at their home on Spring street last Wednesday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Edna Fisher.

Two automobiles were taken from in front of the Penniman-Allen theatre last Saturday evening, a Ford sedan owned by Irving Blunk and a Ford touring car owned by Lewis Warner.

About eighty workers in the Red Cross, nearly all in uniform and the executive board had their pictures taken in a group in front of the school building Monday afternoon. One of them will be placed in the school building and the other will be sent to Washington.

A terrific wind and rain storm swept over Plymouth late last Sunday doing considerable damage. The roof of the Daggett and Gayde store buildings was completely lifted from its place, and landed in a vacant lot in the rear. An old roof underneath protected the stock of goods inside the store from probable ruin.

Glenn Jewell returned home Sunday evening from a four week's trip through the western states in the interest of the Ford tractor.

The Misses Clara and Cordula Strasen and Edward Drews went to Detroit Monday where they attended a moonlight given Monday evening by the Detroit Festival Chorus.

Stanley Corbett of Detroit will open a new electrical store in the Tighe building, opposite the post-office. He has been with the Spaulding Electrical Co. of Detroit for a number of years.

The home of Charles Mather on Main street was burglarized early last Friday morning. The thieves gained entrance to the home through the kitchen window, which had been left unfastened. In one of the pantry drawers the robbers secured $329 in cash and a diamond ring was taken from the living room.

No man can possibly improve in any company for which he has not respect enough to be under some degree of restraint.—Lord Chesterfield.

VICTORY'S SONS

IN 27 RAIDS, the "Dry Martinis" have roared over targets in western Europe, dropped bombs, beat off the foe, and returned. The "Dry Martinis" are Flying Fortresses commanded by Maj. Allen Martini, who at 23 is the youngest major in the army. He has flown four "Martinis"—each in turn had to be junked because it was so shot up. Yet in 300 hours of combat fighting, Maj. Martini has never lost a crewman. The enemy has come to know and to hate that "Dry Martini" emblem, and the German fighters concentrate their attack on the Fortress bearing it.

There was that time over the Renault airplane factory in Paris, for example, when Maj. Martini established a world record... ten planes shot down, four others probably, and eight damaged... 22 enemy fighters put out of action in 15 minutes!

When he set the Fortress down in England, a wing fell off. They counted 2,000 bullet holes. Maj. Martini is now on leave, touring the country with the Four Freedoms War Bond Show.
