

What I Think and Have a Right to Say

By Elton R. Eaton

A GREAT CITIZEN DIES

It was some ten or twelve years ago early in the fall, when Myron Mawhorter, well known Plymouth township farmer, called in at the office of The Plymouth Mail for a little chat with the editor. He had just returned after spending the summer at his cabin up near Baldwin.

"Say, Mr. Editor, there's a teller up around Baldwin who has a big summer place on the bend in the river, who says he knows you. Just before I started for home, he wanted me to be sure and convey to you his best regards. I guess from what they say, he must be some pretty big shot down there in St. Louis, Missouri, where he lived. He's one of the finest men I have ever met. Spent most of his summers trout fishing. That's where I generally met him, right in the middle of the stream. His name is Sterling Edmunds. How did you happen to know him?" asked Myron.

A few days ago there was a newspaper dispatch out of St. Louis which stated that Sterling Edmunds had died after an illness of many months. In part the newspaper article said:

"Mr. Edmunds was a lawyer and an authority on international law; was special assistant to the Department of State in 1918; lecturer on law at St. Louis University, and the author of several books in addition to being a regular contributor to the American Mercury and numerous legal publications.

Violently opposed to the New Deal he published in 1932 'The Federal Octopus' in which he assailed the growing power of the federal government as the 'destruction of constitutional government and of civil and economic liberty in the United States'—terms which twelve years later are incorporated in the Republican National platform. With former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, he organized the National Jeffersonian Democrats in 1936 and served as its first secretary."

Yes, the editor of The Plymouth Mail told Mr. Mawhorter that we knew Mr. Edmunds. But we knew him best as the city editor of the old St. Louis Chronicle.

It was a few weeks after we had graduated from the Galesburg, Michigan high school when we first met Mr. Edmunds. Having worked since 12 years old around the office of the Galesburg Semi-Weekly Argus, it was our desire to get a job on a daily newspaper as a reporter. Every city in southern Michigan and northern Indiana that had a daily newspaper was visited after our graduation in search of a reporter's job. At that time it seemed that it was almost an impossibility to get work of any kind. We felt, however, that somewhere there must be a newspaper that would give a fellow just out of high school a chance at the kind of work he wanted to do.

This search finally ended up in the editorial department of the St. Louis Chronicle, at that time a Scripps-McRea newspaper. Sterling Edmunds, the city editor, smiled as we told him of our "country" qualifications for a job on a great metropolitan newspaper. But as he smiled, he opened the door for the opportunity we had searched so diligently for.

Patient, and always encouraging, Mr. Edmunds taught the writer the elements of metropolitan newspaper reporting and writing. He not only provided the opportunity, but he saw to it that advancement was not long in forthcoming. First our task was writing "city briefs". Then a south side police court, the river front and its shipping news, then the St. Louis city hall, the municipal news and political center of one of the great American cities.

After some two years under his able direction it was not difficult to get newspaper work back in our native state.

Some years after our return to Michigan, Mr. Edmunds left the field of journalism to become one of the great lawyers of the mid-west.

We shall forever cherish his memory because of his willingness to provide work for a youngster who wanted to WORK, because of his able and inspiring direction of one who had a burning desire, to become a newspaper writer and because of his aid at a time when aid was so badly needed.

To the writer it was not a surprise to know that he had become one of the leading lawyers of the midwest. If he had remained in newspaper work, he would have been one of the great editors of modern times. We mourn with the people of the vast Mississippi valley the passing of one of its great citizens.

WAY OFF THE "BEAM"

Newspaper editors, at least the most of them, put forth a determined effort to be as near right as possible in their editorial expressions. But it appears that Editor Schuyler Marshall of the Clinton County Republican-News got way off the "beam" in his editorial expressions this week when he said that Senator Truman was a good choice for the Democratic nomination for vice president.

Editor Marshall then proceeded to state that millions of dollars were saved to the nation by the activities of the Truman committee. Let's just look at the record and "see what we shall see" for a minute.

Wasn't Truman picked up out of gutter politics by the notorious, grafting Pendergast machine and made a United States senator? Hasn't he supported every rotten, un-American activity and scheme of the Washington crack-pots?

Hasn't he kept his wife on the federal payroll at $4,500 per year while another paid government stenographer has done the work for which his wife was paid?

"Yep," it looks very much as though Editor Marshall got off on the wrong beam this time. We hope he doesn't crash.

PRIMARY ELECTION AND ENROLLMENT LAWS

William Berkey, editor of The Cassopolis Vigilant, has been voting the Republican ticket since 21 years of age. He has been one of those Republicans who has had the courage to fight against the wrongs within his party and fight for the ideals which he believes Republicanism stands for.

He is a high type citizen, the kind that is a credit to any city or state.

In a recent issue of The Vigilant, Editor Berkey expresses some misgivings about the primary election laws of this state.

He says: "We are more and more convinced as time goes on that primary elections should either be abolished or the primary laws so amended as to require a pre-primary convention by each political party to approve names that may be placed on the ballot."

"Why do we say this? Because the people are fast losing interest in primary elections where politically ambitious self-starters and those with full pocketbooks can get themselves nominated."

There is much truth in what Editor Berkey says. But we do not agree with him pertaining to the suggestion that the primary election should be abolished. We do not agree that a pre-convention should have the authority to say who can and who cannot run for public office. It might be perfectly satisfactory to permit a pre-state convention to place its approval upon certain candidates, but to close the door against all who could not get this endorsement, would be a step in the wrong direction.

But we are in ENTIRE accord with Editor Berkey's belief that something should be done about Michigan's primary elections.

We believe that the party enrollment act should be re-enacted. This is a government of political parties. It is true that many so-called independent voters do not care to line themselves up with either the Democratic, Republican or Prohibition parties. Why not give them the right to organize their own independent party and nominate independent candidates for office?

We do not believe that any person who claims to be independent in politics should be deprived of his right to vote in a primary. We recommend that he be given a chance to help nominate for office candidates of his own belief and ideals if he does not care to enroll as a party member.

Neither do we believe that "flopsters" should have the right to become candidates for office in a party to which they have not belonged over a period of years. Apparently the voters of Michigan have the same idea. We have noticed in recent primary election returns that every political "flopper" was given a good trimming in the party contests in which he had entered his name.

We believe that the lack of interest in primary elections started with the repeal of the enrollment act.

New District Governor of Rotary to Visit Plymouth Club This Noon

Harvey H. Lowery

The Rotary Club of Plymouth today (Friday) will welcome Harvey H. Lowery, Governor of the 153 District of Rotary International, which includes 55 Rotary Clubs in Southern Michigan and Ontario.

Mr. Lowery is a school superintendent in Dearborn and is a member of the Rotary Club of Dearborn. He was nominated as Governor at the conference of the 153 District held last May and was formally elected at the 1944 convention of Rotary International in Chicago, Ill., in May.

Mr. Lowery will visit the Rotary club to advise and assist its president, Secretary Wood and other officers of the club on matters pertaining to club administration and Rotary service activities. He is one of the 140 Governors of Rotary International who are supervising the activities of 5,200 Rotary Clubs with a quarter of a million members in more than 50 countries throughout the world.

Despite the war, this worldwide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength. Since July 1, 1943, 150 new Rotary Clubs have been organized in 13 countries of the Americas, and in Australia, Ceylon, China, England, Finland, India, Kenya, New Zealand, Northern Ireland, Sweden, Switzerland, and Union of South Africa.

Lumber "Freeze" Is Tight One

In this land of milk and honey, in this state where lumber has been so abundant that folks thought it a mere nothing to build roads and miles of plank roads for the convenience of horse-drawn vehicles, in this country where millions and millions of feet of "timber" trees have been used for fuel, in this land of plenty—you can't buy a foot of lumber today unless Uncle Sam says so.

Oh yes, maybe if you are a farmer, you can buy 300 feet during a three-month period, providing you plan to use it for such purposes as the "planners" in Washington may approve.

If your house is damaged by flood, fire, earthquake or tornado, you may be able to get some lumber to repair it.

There isn't much use in saying more. Talk with any Plymouth lumber dealer. He'll tell you just what he can sell and how much he cannot sell.

Its a lumber "freeze", like some of the freezes this part of the state suffers in the winter time when the mercury drops to 15 or 20 below zero.

Urge Motorists To Apply For Gas

As a result of the change in procedure of issuing supplemental gasoline rations, Chairman Bill Wood of the Plymouth War Price and Rationing Board, issued this week a suggestion that all such motorists should get their applications in early.

It will require at least two weeks for the processing of such applications.

Gasoline ration coupons are no longer kept in Plymouth. When an application is received, it is approved or denied by the Plymouth board.

We believe further that the presidential primary preference act should be re-enacted in Michigan, but only if the enrollment act should be passed.

It is a government of political parties. It is true that many so-called independent voters do not care to line themselves up with either the Democratic, Republican or Prohibition parties. Why not give them the right to organize their own independent party and nominate independent candidates for office?

We do not believe that any person who claims to be independent in politics should be deprived of his right to vote in a primary. We recommend that he be given a chance to help nominate for office candidates of his own belief and ideals if he does not care to enroll as a party member.

Neither do we believe that "flopsters" should have the right to become candidates for office in a party to which they have not belonged over a period of years. Apparently the voters of Michigan have the same idea. We have noticed in recent primary election returns that every political "flopper" was given a good trimming in the party contests in which he had entered his name.

We believe that the lack of interest in primary elections started with the repeal of the enrollment act.

We believe that the enrollment act should be restored to the law books of the state.

THE DAYS OF "BIG MONEY"

It begins to look as though the "big money days" are rapidly nearing an end. Unemployment is already beginning to show its ugly head. Unless the men and women who have been making big wages during the past two or three years have invested their surplus funds in war bonds and savings accounts, it will not be at all surprising but what there will be some tough years ahead—and not before long, either.

The war bond was designed for two purposes: first, to provide the government with funds with which to carry on the war, and second, to enable the individual to lay away his surplus earnings in the form of government securities to hold until the next Roosevelt depression hits the country. You'd better buy more war bonds right away, because there are plenty of signs in the sky which indicate that there will not be many more full moons before Roosevelt WPA days will be back with us and jobs will be difficult to find. A war bond will come in handy much sooner than many expect.

English Lassie Becomes The Bride of Plymouth Air Officer

Mrs. Harold Granger

In last week's issue of The Plymouth Mail was published a news item pertaining to the marriage of Miss Brenda McGaulay, an English girl, to Lieut. Harold Granger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Granger of this place. The wedding took place in England and it is the plan of the young couple to come to Plymouth to reside after the war.

Lieut. Granger has won much distinction for himself as a member of the American flying forces that have been bombing Germany out of the war.

Complaint No. 1—The present water is not as cold as the water used to be before the city started taking most of its water from the new well at the city limits.

Answer—Complaint is justified. The old water supply at the source on Six Mile road showed a temperature of from 48 to 50 degrees. The new water supply on N. Mill street has a temperature of 51 degrees.

Complaint No. 2—The present water supply appears roily, or cloudy.

Answer—True. This is due to a modicum of air in the water, plus the fact that more water is being used in the city than ever before, with the result that some small deposits which have been left on water mains over a period of years are knocked loose and enter the water stream. There is no danger whatever. The water is tested for its purity every week both by the Ford Motor Co., and the State.

Complaint No. 3—The water doesn't taste as good as it used to taste.

Answer—Probably true, dependent on individual taste. The present supply is a much softer water than the old water supply and thus tends to have a somewhat flatter taste.

General explanation—The population of the City of Plymouth is double the population when the old water supply was established on Six Mile road.

Last summer, the city was unable to supply adequate water, and during the usual summer drought, it was necessary to limit the amount of water to be used. Sprinkling was forbidden at one time.

This year, there is adequate water for every use. There has been no question of water use at any time. Residents of Plymouth Gardens, north of the city, who never had sufficient water, even for bathing, when there was a shortage in Plymouth, now have adequate water supply. The supply for Plymouth Gardens comes mostly from the old water supply.

Since the old water supply was established, the industrial use of water in Plymouth has increased ten times over. The old water system is utterly inadequate to supply the residential and industrial water for the entire city. The present water supply is adequate to supply the present city and all of its industrial users, and will be adequate until the city reaches a population, both residential and industrial, of approximately twice the present size.

A small booster pump has been ordered to be placed north of the city, which will raise the water pressure of the users in Plymouth Gardens, and at the same time will permit more pumping from the old water supply. It is now planned to mix the two waters. This will tend to give a better taste to the water and make it slightly cooler than it is at the present time.

Otherwise, there isn't much of anything that can be done about the water, and the users will just have to get used to the taste of it. Regarding the purity of the water, it should be borne in mind that the old well was a spring which provided a pool of water about twenty feet from the surface.

The new well, is quite deep, and therefore should be a purer source of supply than the old well.

City Manager Clarence Elliott also pointed out that it should be borne in mind that the present mains were laid from thirty to fifty years ago, to satisfy the demands of a comparatively small village. Since that time, Plymouth has grown to be a city.

One of the post war projects being planned by the present city commission is the laying of new and larger water mains, plus the construction of another water tank stand pipe to improve the water supply.

Water Complaints Still Being Made To City Officials

Manager Gives Answers—Says Water Is Tested Weekly

Complaints are still being registered against the water in Plymouth—but apparently the residents will just have to complain for there isn't much of anything that can be done about the situation.

Here are the facts: Complaint No. 1—The present water is not as cold as the water used to be before the city started taking most of its water from the new well at the city limits.

Kelsey-Hayes To Build Pistons

It was learned this week that Kelsey-Hayes has obtained a sub-contract from the Packard Motor Car company for the manufacture of pistons for the Rolls-Royce airplane engine.

Work will start as soon as the necessary machinery can be installed.

About 500 men will be employed in the new line, but the new contract will not in any way effect the manufacture of guns which has been in progress there since before the war started.

Had Made More Than 55 Bombing Missions; Wins Air Medal

Wesley Hoffman

No additional information has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoffman of Merriam road pertaining to their son, Staff Sergeant Wesley Hoffman, recently reported missing in action over Germany, by the war department.

In a letter to his parents written several weeks before his final mission over Germany, he stated that he had taken part in 55 successful missions over the European continent and that he was hoping for a brief furlough.

But apparently invasion plans interfered with his plans and he continued his many bombing raids. He was serving as a radio gunner on a B-26.

In view of the fact that so many boys who have been reported missing have later been found to be interned in German prison camps, the many friends of Wesley hope that he will be found alive and well somewhere in Germany.

Information came to The Plymouth Mail this week from the famed B-26 Marauder Base in Italy, that Sergeant Hoffman had been awarded the Air Medal for his work in the first mission against Florence, Italy. Hoffman and two companions were cited by their commanding officer after "Marauders" had accurately blasted the city's (Florence) important railway yards without damaging hospitals and numerous cultural monuments nearby."

This mission had apparently taken place at least two or three weeks before he was reported missing in action.

During his high school days in Plymouth, he was most active in various student affairs and was popular among the students.

Dope Victims Cured At Local Institution

It remained for a detective lieutenant of the Detroit police department to reveal last Friday to members of the Plymouth Rotary club the interesting facts that the House of Correction, over which Warden Blake Gillis rules with a supreme hand, is one of the best "dope" curing institutions in the entire country.

Frequently we have dope addicts come to our office in the Detroit police department and ask that they be sent out to the House of Correction so that they can be cured of the dope habit," stated Detective Lieutenant Albert Carter, head of the famed narcotic squad of the Detroit police department.

Lieut. Carter has for over 20 years been associated with the branch of the Detroit police force which devotes its time to breaking up dope rings and sending to prison those who profit off the weaknesses of humanity.

Earl Fluelling Leases Station

Earl Fluelling, distributor for Hi-Speed products in this area, has leased the facilities of his station at 275 S. Main street to Ben Gordon and Earl and Raymond Flanagan, all of Ypsilanti.

The new operators will continue to carry a full line of Hi-Speed products and will enlarge the service department of the station. Raymond Flanagan has been an automobile mechanic for the last 12 years. He and William Irwin will manage the repair end of the business.

Under the new management the station will be open until 9 p. m. in the evening and all day Sunday.

Mr. Fluelling will move his tire recapping plant to the corner of Ann Arbor road and Ball street, just one block west of S. Main. He will keep his offices in their present location and tire recapping customers may still bring their tires to the downtown station or take them directly to the plant.

School Will Open Here On September 5th

Plymouth schools will open for the 1944-45 school year on September 5, it was announced this week by Superintendent George A. Smith.

There is still one vacancy on the faculty, Mr. Smith said, but he is certain that it will be filled before the opening of school.

During the summer, the school buildings have been renovated. Teachers have been employed in painting the halls and class rooms. Other teachers have assisted in the rewiring of the building.

It was necessary to use teacher help this year when advertisements for bids on painting the school went unanswered.

A new roof also is being installed on the building. The old roof had been put on the building 27 years ago. The average life for such a roof is about ten year, it was reported.

Jack Ross Hurt During Invasion

Jack Ross, one of the outstanding athletes and most popular youths to graduate from Plymouth high school in years, has been injured in France.

His father is Hugh Ross, manager of the Sunnybrook golf course.

Young Ross is a paratrooper, and was hurt during the invasion. He is now recuperating at a base hospital in England, according to word received by his father and his wife, Virginia, who lives in Pontiac.

Ross was a participant in all athletics at Plymouth high school, and at one time or another was captain of almost all athletic teams.

He also served as President of his class for four consecutive years.

Ross enlisted in the army on July 27, 1942.

Calvin Furlong On Missing List

Calvin E. Furlong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin L. Furlong, 70 Mt. Vernon avenue, Detroit, former residents of Plymouth, a naval aviation radioman; second class, has been reported as missing somewhere over the Atlantic by the navy department.

He was 19 years of age and was reported missing on July 16 when his plane crashed into the ocean. Calvin enlisted in April, 1942. While attending high school here, he won the 1941 declamation contest of the State High School Forensic Association.

When he entered the navy, he was a student at the Detroit Conservatory of Music.

Wendell Porter Badly Wounded

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Porter of 16240 Northville road, have been advised by the war department that one of their sons, Wendell, has been seriously wounded during military action in France.

The nature of his injuries was not stated, but the parents were advised that they would be informed as quickly as possible as to his condition.

The Porters have three sons in the army, Kenneth, who is in England and Ralph, now in Italy.

Walt Anderson Badly Hurt

Walter Anderson, driver for M. Powell & Son, who resides at 1095 Dewey street, was seriously injured Sunday evening when he ran into the side of his automobile, fracturing his skull and nose and cutting his face severely over one eye.

It was at first feared that he would lose the sight of one eye, but Wednesday it was found that the eyeball was not injured. He slipped in such a way that his head hit an outside mirror on the side of his automobile.

Mr. Anderson was rushed to Mt. Carmel hospital where doctors found that his injuries were of such a severe nature that he will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

Open house was held last Sunday afternoon in the G. A. Bakewell home on Plymouth road, in honor of their son Ensign Eugene Bakewell and his wife. More than one hundred fifty guests attended from Detroit, Ypsilanti, Wayne, Dearborn, Highland Park, Rosedale Gardens, Hazel Park, and Plymouth. Baskets of pink larkspur and pink and white gladioli flanked the fireplace in the living room and the lace-covered dining table and buffet held glass bowls of yellow and white gladioli and larkspur with white tapers on either side. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Rolfe H. Smith Succeeds John MacLachlan As Rotary President

Rolfe H. Smith

At today's meeting of the Plymouth Rotary club, Rolfe H. Smith, manager of the Consumer Power company's offices in this part of Wayne county, will become the new president of the Rotary club. He was elected by the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of President John MacLachlan, who has been transferred to Wayne by the Michigan Bell Telephone company to assume charge of the company's affairs in that fast growing section of Wayne county. The retiring president, Mr. MacLachlan, has the unique distinction of having served probably the shortest term of any president ever elected by the club. He presided over but two meetings as the official executive of the club before receipt of the information that he would find it necessary to leave Plymouth for his new responsibilities almost immediately.

President Rolfe Smith has been active in Rotary affairs over a period of several years. He has served as chairman of the program committee and as a member of numerous other committees of the club. The Smiths recently sold their attractive residence in Plymouth and moved over near Farmington. Paul Weidman was elected to fill the vacancy on the board of directors of the club. Mr. Smith had served as vice president of the organization, a position to which Harold Curtis was elected by the board for the remainder of this year.

Check Reveals No Rentals Here

As thorough a check as possible throughout the city reveals that there are no houses for rent in Plymouth.

There are a few houses for sale, some of them new, some of them older, but even these are for the most part being grabbed up by new residents of the city.

There is no immediate prospect of any drop in the present tight housing situation.

Most of the factories in Plymouth are still advertising for help, and are taking all they can get. As long as that situation prevails, there is no likelihood of a deterioration of the real estate market.

Many Localities To Use Williamston Plan During Hunting Season

The so-called Williamston plan—a "good neighbor" policy that has operated successfully for several years in promoting friendly relations between farmers and city dwellers who want to hunt on their lands—will function again in southern Michigan counties next fall. It was used successfully around Plymouth several years ago.

The conservation department's game division, sponsor of the plan, is notifying officers of farmers' cooperative clubs that requests for signs and tickets must be mailed before September 1. When possible, department representatives will address club meetings if requested.

Gasoline rationing and longer wartime work weeks will again throw extra hunting pressure on farming communities within short driving distance of cities. Many farmers in such areas have welcomed war workers who have sought permission to hunt on their lands and the Williamston plan—which limits numbers of hunters on members' farms and requires hunters to observe regulations—is proving especially valuable under present conditions.

More than 60 Williamston plan farmers' hunting cooperatives will operate next fall in southern Michigan counties.

Livonia Girl Sets Bond Record

Miss Dorothy E. Timerson of 16790 Middlebelt road, Livonia township, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Timerson, is a very proud young lady.

She is a senior in Redford high school and there aren't just a great number of things which a high school senior girl can do to help win the war.

But there are some things, and Miss Timerson definitely wanted to help her Uncle Sam.

High School senior girls can sell war bonds.

So, Miss Timerson went to work and in a check up of the last war bond drive, it was discovered that she had sold $8,000 worth.

Livonia township officials are very proud of her, which makes Miss Timerson proud, too.

Faith marches at the head of the army of progress.—It is found beside the most refined life, the freest government, the profoundest philosophy, the noblest poetry the purest humanity.—T. T. Munger.

Goes Back To Active Service
Machinists mate, 2nd class, Wilbur Kilyington, who for a number of years prior to his enlistment in the Navy, made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Christensen, left last Friday for Philadelphia, where he will be reassigned to a ship. After being released from the Seattle hospital where he had spent several months with an arm wound received in the Guadalcanal campaign, he was one of several young men chosen to give talks before various organizations to further war bond sales.
The first group to whom he spoke of his experiences in the seven major campaigns in which he saw active duty, was the Senior Chamber of Commerce of Seattle. Following this he was in the group that gave talks to business men's clubs, ex-service men's clubs, women's groups, high schools, Y. M. C. A.s, not only in Seattle, but in Yakima, Washington, Portland, Oregon, and in many other cities including some as far east as Nevada.
These talks usually consisted of the experiences the boys had been through, and the need of war bond sales to furnish the implements of war that would bring final victory, after which they answered questions from the audience.

Wilbur was granted a thirty-day leave before being assigned to his new ship, ten days of which he spent in Plymouth.

Dope Victims

(Continued from Page 1) he has won the highest citation that any officer can be given. Many will recall the notorious kidnaping and murder in Detroit that Lieut Carter solved a number of years ago, which ended in fatal shooting of the kidnapper.

Lieut Carter states that the "dope" business right now is at a low ebb, but he predicts that the police of the country will have plenty to do when the war is over.

He knocked into a cocked-hat the oft repeated rumor that many high school students are dope addicts.

"There are practically none, no matter what they tell you," he declared. The vast number of our addicts are of the average age of 47 years. Formerly the average age of dope addicts was 24 years.

"I want to say just a word about the great work that your fellow member, Mr. Gillies, is doing to help wipe out this plague. Large numbers of people have been entirely cured of the dope habit as a result of a special treatment given them at the Detroit House of Correction," he said.

The officer then told of several individual cases where victims had returned to useful occupations following their release from the local institution.

One hundred and forty-four special permits to shoot pheasants that cause crop damage have been issued by the conservation department so far this year. Fifty permits have been issued in Tuscola county, 17 in Wayne county, 13 in Huron county, and 10 in Macomb county, areas where damage has been done heaviest.

Ceiling Prices On Peaches

Three weeks ago The Plymouth Mail published an article pertaining to the ceiling prices that growers could charge for peaches this season.

The information was taken from a Washington Associated Press dispatch to The Detroit Free Press.

Apparently the Washington correspondent was misinformed, the Free Press made an error or the OPA changed its peach price ceiling prices after the original publication of the ceiling price information.

The following letter has been received by The Mail from the Detroit district office of the Office of Price Administration, signed by Clinton R. Campbell, food price specialist:

"Dear Sir: We have a copy of an article that appeared in your paper July 21, 1944 under the heading of 'Peach Growers Enraged Over Price Ceiling.' You state that Michigan growers can charge only $2.16 per bushel for peaches, but retailers can charge up to 16 cents a pound which is equivalent to $8.00 per bushel. This statement is not in accord with the national ceiling as established by Maximum Price Regulation 426, Amendment 39, which we are herewith attaching.

"We call your attention to item 22 on page two of the regulation. Under the heading of 'Peaches Produced in all Other States and Graded and Packed in the Following Containers.' This will include Michigan grown peaches when qualified under the above heading. 'Standard Bushel Baskets $3.66 all season.'

"When peaches are graded and packed in bushel baskets, otherwise qualified under the regulation, the price quoted would be allowed to the grower. The maximum price for the peaches at retail, that is when sales are made to the ultimate consumer, are covered by a maximum which is spelled in a Community Pricing Order which is adjusted on a weekly basis. When farmers or producers are selling to the ultimate consumer, the price so spelled in the Order, they would be permitted to charge.

The current weekly community price is 15c per pound, and if producers were selling to the ultimate consumer for any sales being made for this week, up to and including August 2, the maximum would be 15c per pound or for such qualified sales the return to the producer would be $7.20 per bushel or 15c per pound.

We trust that you will correct the article that appeared in your paper July 21, so that the Office of Price Administration may serve your community better.

Make Plans Now For Fall Garden

If the Victory gardener seeks variety in his summer job of combating weeds and insects and hoping for rain, let him plant a fall garden, suggests Keith C. Barrons, associate professor of horticulture, Michigan State College.

For best results, fall garden planting should be done by the first week of August in the upper peninsula and by August 15 in the lower peninsula. Crops that are especially adapted for summer planting, to be harvested in fall, are radishes, leaf lettuce, spinach, kohlrabi, mustard, and turnips, says Barron. If desired, beets may be sown to be harvested for their green tops.

Some of these crops are fairly frost-resistant and may be harvested until late in the fall. As an extreme case, Barron explains that spinach has been harvested on the College farm regularly in December, if the crop is raised on a well-drained, sandy soil, it is possible to winter-over spinach satisfactorily.

If the soil is so dry that there is doubt that the seed will germinate, Barrons suggests making the required number of furrows in the usual way and then soaking the soil in the furrow before sowing the seed. His method is to tie a rag over the nozzle of the hose and place the hose where the water is required. After the water has soaked down into the soil somewhat, then he proceeds to plant.

To give the fall garden crops a boost, Barrons suggests adding a Victory garden type fertilizer, even though the ground has received an application earlier in the season.

Plymouth Mail Found in Dearborn Corner Stone

Has Story of Harry Robinson's Runaway-Team

Since back in the days of the Gay Nineties the Plymouth Mail has been more or less standard equipment in every home in Western Wayne County, and even as far away as Dearborn.

This is proven by H. R. Penhale, who has recovered the contents of a box placed in the corner stone of the old Dearborn high school, which was built in 1893.

Mr. Penhale, whose father built the old Dearborn school, recovered the box when the old building was torn down in 1925 and the present Fordson high school constructed.

He was a student in that high school, and he plans to return the contents of the box to the school authorities for inclusion in their archives.

That box now has been opened just three times in 50 years. The first was when its contents were placed in it, and it was then sealed into the corner stone of the building as a historic record of the day.

It was opened then about three weeks ago when Mr. Penhale's brother passed through Plymouth, and then it was opened for the benefit of a Plymouth Mail reporter.

The box itself was made of tin. Its lid was badly rusted, and had disintegrated in spots. Inside the box were copies of the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit Tribune. There was a nickel and a penny dated 1893, and a disintegrated, almost indistinguishable picture of the old Dearborn school which preceded the new building then being erected in 1893.

The picture was dated, February 14, 1893. There was a roster of the school officials, faculty and students—and there was a copy of the June 2, 1893 issue of The Plymouth Mail.

The paper was labeled Volume 6, Number 39. It had been addressed to William H. Clark, a member of the Dearborn School Board. Publisher and editor of the paper at that time was J. H. Steers.

Principal item in the quite small paper was a story of how Harry Robinson was driving back to Plymouth from Dearborn, went to sleep, and dropped the reins of his team. The horses ran all the way into Plymouth, not stopping until they were in their stable.

Although Mr. Penhale was originally from Dearborn, he has lived for some time in Plymouth. He operates in peace time a factory devoted to the manufacture of custom furniture for business houses. In war time, he makes a gun box for shipping guns.

Howard Couture On Furlough

Howard Couture, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Couture, who has been with the hard fighting Marines over in the southwest Pacific for the past 27 months, arrived home a few days ago to spend a three weeks' furlough with his parents and friends.

The former Plymouth high school student was with the Marines when they took Guadalcanal, when they invaded New Guinea and he was with them at the invasion and capture of Cape Gloster.

There are three combat stars on his service badge. "But I came through all of them without a scratch. Feeling fine but I am mighty glad to be home. Expect to be sent to the Atlantic coast to service. But I certainly did have a lot of interesting experiences over in the Pacific southwest" stated Howard the other day.

"You can bet I appreciated getting The Plymouth Mail. As soon as I have a new address, I'll let you know where it is so you can send it to me again" said Howard. His parents reside at 41582 Ford road, near Haggerty.

Dry Corn Now For Next Winter—It Will Taste Good Then

Live up meals and bring back memories of old-time days next winter by serving dried corn prepared this summer, suggests Roberta Hershey, extension specialist in food and nutrition, Michigan State college.

Drying is a safe and sure method of preserving corn when no cooker is available, although it is not practical except for comparatively small quantities, she says. The chief advantage of dried corn is in the novelty of the product.

Any variety of good sweet corn may be used. Gather it in the milk stage but only in small quantities that can be prepared at once. Husk the ears and remove any worm injuries. Dip in hot water from 1 to 15 minutes, to "set" the milk. Young corn will require all of 15 minutes, while older corn will need only 15 or 12 minutes. Then drain, cool, and cut the grains from the ears. Spread from 1/2 to 3/4 inch deep on trays and dry at a temperature of 130 to 140 degrees F. in the sun or in a dehydrator.

Stir the kernels during drying to break up masses and to insure even drying. When sufficiently dried, the grains will be hard and will break with a clean, glass-like fracture, Miss Hershey explains.

It is important that the temperature be maintained from 130 to 140 degrees. That is a slightly warmer atmosphere than one for any length of time. To regulate the temperature, leave the would care to keep his hands in electric oven door open about 1/2 inch and a gas oven door open about 8 inches. In the case of ovens in wood or coalburning stoves, it will be necessary for the housewife to determine by experiment how to regulate the temperature, Miss Hershey explains.

After the pans were removed from the oven, the corn should be left to dry further for several hours on the kitchen table before being put in storage containers. The grains should be stirred occasionally during this time to insure thorough drying. The corn should be stored in tin cans with close-fitting tops or in old glass fruit jars that can no longer be sealed tightly enough for ordinary canning.

Edison Patrol Dogs Join The Marines

Edison Patrol Dog

With their home front services ended, Lance V. Liebestraum and Rhett of Palm Hill, two registered German Shepherd patrol dogs of the Detroit Edison, recently departed for active roles with the "Devil Dogs" of the U. S. Marine Corps. According to William C. Miller, Superintendent of the Company's Electrical System, "these dogs were acquired two years ago to assist the company's plant protection men in patrolling outdoor bulk power 20,000-volt step-down stations." These well-trained dogs increased the effectiveness of each patrolman, thereby saving manpower for other important work. Miller said: "Government authorities charged with the security of plants have ruled that this type of supplemental protection is no longer necessary."

The company has received a citation from Lieutenant General A. A. Vandegrift, Commandant U. S. Marine Corps, for donating the services of these two canine warriors.

New Deal Screwball Figures Out Some "Feathery" Price

Here's another sample of Washington new deal bureaucratic figuring.

There has been posted in all the Plymouth meat markets the ceiling price lists for live and dressed poultry.

It appears that some two-by-four screwball couldn't figure out ways to make a living by ordinary means, must have secured a job with the OPA and did this figuring for the meat dealers.

Here 'tis! Dealers can charge 35 cents per pound for ducks, live weight. They can charge 36 cents per pound for dressed ducks.

The average duck weighs four, five or six pounds. For removing feathers off a duck, a dealer can add but one cent a pound for this work. That means he will get only four or five cents extra for each duck he dresses.

To do a good job in dressing ducks, it takes at least ten minutes, generally fifteen minutes or more.

"Ye Editor" did some "duck dressing" last winter. It required not less than 30 minutes to clean just one young duck. For this 30 minutes' work "ye editor" could have collected only 4 or 5 cents, if he had sold that duckling at retail.

A chicken is much easier to clean than a duck. So new dealers have figured out for the easier job, the meat market dealer should get about 7 cents. On a goose, his net profit for the feature cleaning job is only 3 cents per pound.

Nobody, except some Washington screwball, can figure that one out.

Student House To Be Ready Soon

City Manager Clarence Elliott said this week that work will start at once on renovating the "hangout" at Church and Adams streets, which will be used by the high school youngsters during the coming winter.

Mr. Elliott inspected the house last week, and said that it will require complete fumigation before it is usable by the youngsters.

It also will require some reinforcement to stand the strain of the youngsters. After the fumigation and reinforcement, the high school group will take care of the decoration and furnishing of the house. It is planned to have it in operation as soon after the opening of school as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith of Penniman avenue entertained Miss Betty Allen and Miss Audrey Brothers of Ypsilanti on Sunday, the occasion being Miss Allen's 16th birthday.

News of Our Boys

In Uncle Sam's Fighting Forces Defending Our Homeland and Our Liberties.

FINDS CARRIBEAN SEA CLIMATE LIKE THAT OF NORTHERN MICHIGAN. Douglas Lorenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lorenz, writes to "Our Boys" section that part of the Caribbean sea country in which he is located, is a whole lot like Northern Michigan.

"Doug" writes as follows: "I have received the Plymouth Mail, the first since my departure from San Juan. I saw the picture of Owen Gorton and myself on the front page. I was very surprised when I opened the paper. Owen and I spent quite a few liberties at town and we sure hated to leave each other.

"As you already know, I am farther south at a Naval Air Base. I like my work and have a lot of fun on the base. The nearest town is very rugged and old looking. Most of the people are dark, but I speak English. The people are under the British rule and we also get paid in British money.

"The climate is rather warm during the day but it is cool at night. We sleep in barracks that are on a hill in the forests. I like it here for the reason it seems like northern Michigan in the summer. The only difference between Michigan and here is that when a person wants a coconut he just goes out the back door and picks one off the coconut tree.

"We have very good food here and I have gained weight already. We have ice cream three times a week, plus the regular pie. The cooks are really on the ball.

"I see that Plymouth is going well over the top again in the fifth war loan. We can always depend on our people for all the help needed. I sure am proud of Plymouth and hope we are all back home soon.

"I enjoy The Plymouth Mail very much. If there is anything I like it is the home town paper. Please keep the Plymouth Mail going on all fronts. Thank you." Editor's note—You can bet we will!

BEING TRAINED TO LOCATE HOSTILE SUBMARINES BY SOUND.

There is a lot of intensely interesting work in connection with the nation's war effort. Here is a letter from Lawrence Blackmer in which he tells about his special training. It follows:

"I want to thank you sincerely for The Plymouth Mail. It is just like a lot of letters.

"I'm now going to the West Coast Sound School where I'm being trained for sound. I've been here the weeks and have been pretty busy studying here on the base. The last three weeks of our training will be at sea. My class will start that next Sunday so I suppose I will soon become acquainted with seasickness.

"The Navy gives a lot of valuable experience and training. I'm enjoying all the good of it but I certainly will be glad when Hitler and Tojo have had their fill so we all can come home to those we love.

"Sometimes I wonder if the civilians realize how much service men appreciate the effort they are putting into this war effort. I would like to speak in their behalf and give a hearty "Thank You" for the work of the many organizations which are trying to make a service man's life more happy."

ROBERT BOWDEN SAYS HE LIKES TO READ ABOUT HIS "BUDDIES."

Robert Bowden, better known to his many friends as "Bob", has written to "Our Boys" page that he likes to read The Mail because he can keep track of his "buddies."

"I want you to know how much I have appreciated getting The Plymouth Mail these past few months in the service.

"I have really enjoyed reading all about what is happening around the town and especially the section devoted to the fellows in the service. I have been able to keep track of many of my buddies in this way.

"I also wish to let you know that I have been transferred and am now stationed in Florida. I am going to Bombardier school here. It is about a twelve-week course. I was transferred here from Purcell, Oklahoma where I went through aerial gunnery school. Thanks again for sending me the paper."

JAMES L. WARD GIVEN A PROMOTION.

James L. Ward, son of Leslie W. Ward, 397 Arthur street, who is stationed at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, is now Private First Class Ward. He has been undergoing combat training with a field artillery unit. He enlisted November 9, 1943.

MARILYN MARLEN WINS PROMOTION TO STAFF SERGEANT.

News, both good and bad, has been received by Mr. and Mrs. William Martin of North Harvey street during the past few days. At about the same time they received word that their son, Eldon, had been wounded in the French invasion, news came of the promotion of their daughter Marilyn, from sergeant to staff sergeant. She is a member of the WACS, now stationed in Florida.

Then came The Sydenham Gazette from Sydenham, England, telling of the happy meeting of two of their nephews fighting with the Royal forces in Italy. These boys are Jack and Cyril Russell. They celebrated their surprised meeting in Italy by staging a "grand" celebration on lemonade and nuts—and they are determined to have an even better one on beer when they come home," says The Sydenham Gazette.

LYOYD CLARK WRITES NEWSPAPER LETTER FROM FAR-AWAY ITALY

Lloyd Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Clark of Union st., has been able to find interesting Plymouth news, even though he is some 5,000 miles from home. Lloyd is over in Italy and he has been right up under the Nazi guns for almost a year.

But let this interesting letter tell all the news about Plymouth and Northville boys. It follows: "Just a few lines to let you know a few facts of what's doing with a few home town soldiers. I have contacted Bob Lorenz, and Donald Kimmel from Northville, who has many friends in Plymouth. I also have located Keith Avey of both Northville and Plymouth, but not as yet talked to him.

"Bob Lorenz and I had quite a chat together the other night. He is with a divisional ordinance company, as a good many of the home folks know. He has quite a job on his hands. He apparently is enjoying his job, at least it has treated him well. I think he has gained on it all. It sure seemed good to talk to someone from home. We all hope to have this thing over with before too long and get back home to our friends and home town neighbors.

"It is getting pretty hot over here. The sun is extremely hot during the day, and then when the sun goes down it is almost uncomfortably cool. It is surely good sleeping weather. We have an occasional coke and also the fellows that like beer have a quart every so often. Those who don't like it usually give it to the fellow buddies that does like it, so it makes things pretty well for the fellows.

"In general the food is pretty good. The boys on the front are getting the best under the conditions. As soon as they are allowed to come into the rest period, they have hot meals and some even have cold drinks, lemonade, iced tea, or just old cold chocolate milk. Don't get me wrong, these incidents are few and far between. It isn't everybody that is lucky enough to have these things, but when ever it is possible, it is being done. At least the combat infantryman is getting a few of the breaks, they have deserved for some time.

"I am getting The Plymouth Mail quite often. The latest I have yet received is of the 21st of June, received on the 10th of July. Give my regards to everyone back home. Thanks for the papers. Even the fellows that are from other cities like to read it.

JAKE SHOEMAKER IS RECOVERING FROM JAP SHELL SHOCK

It's strange how "Our Boys" keep interesting news about themselves to themselves. It required an interesting letter from Arthur Robinson, who is located out on the Pacific coast, to reveal the fact that Jake Shoemaker had been injured by a Jap shell explosion and is now in a Pacific ocean hospital.

Arthur writes as follows: "Here is a short note to give you my new, and I hope, permanent address for the duration. Also to tell you a little news here. "The other day I had a double surprise. First I received my first Plymouth Mail since I graduated from the University of Chicago (Continued on Page 11)"

... I'm worth more to my boss now that he's installed a SCHULTZ Electric Milk Cooler

Because Schultz Electric Coolers quickly cool my milk—and keep it cool they insure my boss, the full butter fat test I have worked so hard to produce. Schultz Coolers also halt bacteria growth and make my milk more saleable.

The Schultz principle is that of floating ice and top cooling without the need of a circulating pump of any kind. The coils automatically manufacture the ice on the smooth inside surface of the cabinet walls. This allows the ice to release and float on top of the water where it is needed. Schultz coolers effectively reduce labor costs; keep the nights milk under 40°. Many users say, "I wouldn't sell my Schultz Cooler for $1,000.00 if I couldn't get another."

Available in sizes to cool from 2 to 12 cans at one time. Buy the cooler to fit the job—not the milk house. Can be very easily installed in the average milk house. Easy payment plan can be arranged. See us today for further facts and prices.

Radio School. It sure was good to take a look at the home town paper and see names and places I knew. For one day that ought to have been enough, but—

"For the second, I received Jake Shoemaker's address. Jake and I were classmates at Plymouth High School, so I was very anxious to see him. Knowing chaplains have ways of finding people, I saw him and he told me Jake was about a mile away.

"At the present time, Jake is convalescing in U. S. Naval Hospital. While landing with the first marines on one of the Marshall Islands, a 500 pound Jap bomb hit some twenty to thirty feet from Jake's foxhole. This, combined with the other excitements of battle, has affected his nervous system. Jake expects, and certainly rates a leave as soon as he is discharged from the Medical Corps, which according to Jake, should be soon.

"Jake is justly proud of the fact that he is to receive the award of the Presidential citation as soon as he goes to a main-land hospital. The marine division to which Jake and other Navy corps men are attached, received this award for the action in which Jake was hurt.

"Jake is one of the many Plymouth boys we can be proud of. With fellows like him in there, how can we lose?

"I think I have exceeded my short note, so I shall close. Thank you again for The Plymouth Mail."

WALTER A. SMITH IS NOW PRIVATE FIRST CLASS.

Serving with a P-47 Thunderbolt outfit somewhere in Europe, which is the highest scoring outfit overseas, Walter A. Smith, son of Mrs. Mary E. Smith, 14390 Northville road, has just been promoted to private first class. He is a machinist and is with an AAF Eighth Fighter command somewhere in England. Smith was a student at the Ford Trade school for eight years before entering the service. His wife resides in Ann Arbor.

MARGARET ZIMMERMAN WINS GOOD CONDUCT RIBBON.

She is serving with the army at Holabird Signal depot near Baltimore, Maryland. Miss Zimmerman is a graduate of the Plymouth high school with the class of 1940. She entered the army during May, 1943.

DONALD NICKERSON AND WARREN BLOOMHUFF AT GREAT LAKES.

Two more Plymouth boys have recently been assigned to the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Illinois. These boys are Donald A. Nickerson, 40374 Ferguson avenue, R. F. D. No. 2, and Warren H. Bloomhuff of 1140 Hartsough. Upon completion of their naval indoctrination, they will be granted a few days leave of absence to spend at their homes before being given future assignments.

KARL JOHNSON'S OUTFIT PRAISED BY GENERAL.

Private Karl S. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, 9033 Hix Road, R. R. 2, Plymouth, is a painter and fabric worker at an 8th Air Force Service Command sub-depot bomber repair base which recently was commended by Brigadier General Donald R. Goodrich, Commanding General of the VIII Air Force Service Command, for outstanding performance of duty during the organization's first year in the European Theater of Operations. This base is located somewhere in England.

Private Johnson attended the Plymouth high school and before entering the Army March 13, 1943 he was a grinder at the Ford Motor Co. Private Johnson has been stationed in the European Theater of Operations ten months.

THIS PLYMOUTH LAD HAS SEEN PLENTY OF SERVICE.

Donald P. Lewis, 34208 Orange-lawn, with the Ninth Division in France, fighting on the Cherbourg peninsula is a member of an outfit that has been awarded the newly created Combat Infantry Badge by Major General Manton S. Eddy, Division Commander.

The awards were made in England shortly before operations on the Continent began. The Ninth Division, which landed on the beaches with early elements of the invasion, was one of the first to enter Cherbourg.

This Division, with its now famous red, white, and blue rosette shoulder flash, was originally organized in July, 1918, but did not see overseas service in World War I. It made up for this deficiency, however, in World War II, landing in North Africa and fighting its way through Maknasey, and was the first infantry unit to enter Bizerte.

Later the Ninth fought in Sicily as part of Lieutenant General George S. Patton's Seventh Army. Elements landed at Palermo on August 2, 1943, and fought through the center of the island, helping the First Division capture Troina, and later to defeat German positions at Randazzo.

A Thought-Provoking Article
By DOROTHY DUCAS

This Week Magazine sent Dorothy Ducas to "Key Town, U. S. A." and came back with a startling story that every parent should read. She interviewed parents, supervisors, teachers and students. She attended classes to watch the creaking wheels go round.

Read what she says about the wartime teacher shortage, educational standards, overcrowded buildings, juvenile delinquency, competition of war jobs and what must be done within a year to avoid serious consequences to future citizens.

The article, one of many, together with first-run fiction by top authors appears in This Week Magazine.

VICTORY'S SONS

ERGENT Michael Perrone was leading his section of infantrymen as they stormed Jap machine gun nests on Guadalcanal. On and on they moved, taking advantage of every bit of cover. Foot by foot they were advancing, gaining point after point.

Then Sgt. Perrone sagged and dropped. Two machine gun bullets had pierced his right side, just after he had crawled forward and rescued two wounded men of his command and had sent them back to a field hospital.

Fortunately, the sergeant's wounds were not deep, and he did not lose consciousness. Hastily bandaging himself, he began to crawl back to his base, for he had become separated from his men. Halfway back, a Jap sniper leaped out of a tree just ahead, and rushed at Perrone. The sergeant, summoning his remaining strength, defended himself as best he could. The Jap dropped his empty rifle in the scuffle, and Perrone seized it. Then, breaking loose from the sniper's grip, Perrone fiercely swung the rifle on the man's skull. The Jap slumped. He was dead.

Sgt. Perrone now wears the Silver Star and the Purple Heart.

FUNERAL HOME

Babson Says --

Chicago, Illinois, August 4. My father was a real conservative. He voted the straight Republican Ticket, stuck close to home, ran his farm, served on the board of his local bank, went to church regularly and hung on to his money. Upon his death there was found in his estate a particularly choice selection of stocks and bonds. During his lifetime he successfully preserved his principal and maintained a generous income. Conservation in investing was warranted during his time. Now, however, the picture has changed. It will progressively take far different investment qualifications to even maintain, let alone increase, capital and income.

Most current large fortunes were accumulated before the years of inheritance and income taxes and, of course, before the decade or more of Government regulatory practices. Particularly in recent times, investors have had to contend with rising taxes, rising living costs and lower interest rates. Many investors have developed a defeatist attitude with respect to their position. There are certainly as many investment opportunities, but investors may have to throw overboard many of their former theories to take advantage of them.

Ten years ago an investor with funds conservatively divided between Government, corporate bonds, preferred stocks and common stocks could count on a return of 4.75%. From this a married man with no dependents would pay about .82% in taxes leaving a net return of 3.93%. Today these same securities while showing an increase in value of 1.66% would yield 4.43% and taxes would amount to 2.28% leaving a net yield of only 2.15%. It is obvious that investors must forget certain orthodox methods of investing but still cling to broad diversification.

Conservative investors have long been accustomed to making a choice of "blue chip" securities and then sitting tight. For the successful management of their portfolio they have depended upon correctly forecasting general market trends. The trend in market averages still plays a part in determining security values. The most important consideration in portfolio management should be the minute and continued study of relative values among individual securities and groups.

For example, as a group, most bonds and many preferred stocks are too high today, but there is no indication of immediate rising money rates to indicate any change in the near future. Common stocks in relation to earnings are about "average" in price and the return from fixed income securities is still attractive. Thus it is okay to keep normally diversified between bonds, preferred and common stocks. Yet, we all know that an individual instance of certain of these securities will rise substantially and others will decline regardless of market trends.

From a tax standpoint, many investors would be better off by avoiding income securities in favor of capital appreciation bonds and stocks. A portion of every portfolio should be set aside for investment in "special situations". Perhaps the most outstanding of these have been in reorganization railroad bonds. However, every other industry, such as merchandising, financing, chemicals, paper, bus transportation, oil, electrical and so on, has shown in specific instances large capital gains.

The investor should be continually on the watch for outstanding attractive situations which will be better than average market performers. Certain preferreds with large dividends arrears are well set for gains. In every group, little-known companies as contrasted with "popular" companies may turn out the best. Companies with no outstanding debt, whose capitalization consists solely of a relatively small number of common shares, are particularly good. Investors should pay less attention to security ratings and more attention to indenture terms in the case of bonds and to issue provisions with respect to the rights of common and preferred stockholders.

Prosperity doth best discover vice, but adversity doth best discover virtue.

City Orders New Booster Pump

City Manager Clarence Elliott has ordered a new booster pump for the Plymouth water system, which will be installed at Five Mile and Northville roads.

The necessity for the pump was made apparent this summer when the city used water not only from its new well at the city limits, but also pumped water from the old system north of the city.

For the most part, the old water system is now used principally to supply customers living in Plymouth Gardens and in other Phoenix subdivisions, but when any drain is made on this system, it is difficult to maintain a pressure in those areas north of the city.

Thus, the booster pump will be installed. Mr. Elliott said the residents north of the city who subscribe to city water will now have a twenty-five pound water pressure, which is equal to the average of most cities.

Big Increase In License Issue

Chief of Police Charles Thumme said this week that there has been a heavy increase in the number of driver's licenses issued this year as compared with last year.

To this time last year 1,103 new licenses and renewals had been issued. This date this year, 1,555 have been issued.

There are several reasons for the increase, but it is believed they are principally due to an influx of population.

Gets His Share Of Nazi Bombers

Lieut Robert Kenyon, who is known to some Plymouth residents as plain Bob Kenyon, now has three German planes to his credit—two Messerschmidt fighters and a Heinkel bomber.

All three planes were destroyed during May, according to reports from France.

Kenyon is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Kenyon. He is also a nephew of Mrs. Leota Ambler of Blanche street, and Mrs. Dorothy Cline of Mill street.

As a Mustang fighter pilot, he has accompanied shuttle bombing missions from London to Russia to Italy and returned to his base in England. The two fighter planes were shot out of the air, and the German pilot of one of them almost fell into Kenyon's propeller when he bailed out.

The Heinkel bomber was destroyed on the ground.

Kenyon is a member of the oldest American fighter group in England. It was originally the Eagle Squadron composed of Americans fighting for Britain. Later, the group was placed under the command of the American army air forces before entering the service, he frequently visited in Plymouth.

DETROIT EDISON LINES

timely items concerning your electric service, suggestions about cooking, lighting and appliances, and many other things of interest and value will appear from time to time in "Edison Lines." Make "Edison Lines" a reading habit!

A DOLLAR BUYS ABOUT TWICE AS MUCH household electricity today as it did before World War I. The average price per unit paid by our residence customers today is 46 per cent less than in 1921. If ALL your dollars did this double duty, think how living costs would drop!

PIG IN THE KITCHEN—"Mechanical pig" is the name many women have for the grinder device that gobbles up table scraps, small bones and garbage, whisks them down the sink drain. After the war you'll again be able to buy this handy electric unit. Quick, effective—and no messy garbage can!

PEOPLE LIKE our handy new electric bill, mailed to the home in neat postcard size—simple, convenient, practical—small enough to slip into your pocket. By eliminating envelopes and reducing the card size, we save over 25,000 pounds of paper a year, conserve manpower and transportation—all critical shortages now.

74 EDISON OFFICES serve Southeastern Michigan—all equipped to handle your business with Edison. There are also nearly 1,000 Edison agencies where you can pay your bills—in drug stores, confectioneries and other shops. Some of these agencies also exchange lamp bulbs. Use the one in your neighborhood.

A CAREER FOR WOMEN is what the WAC offers—an unusual wartime opportunity. In the WAC you go places, do things, meet people—get the finest physical conditioning, learn valuable skills. Serve beside our fighting men. Go to your nearest recruiting office.
