What I Think and Have a Right to Say

By Edwin R. Eaton

PRICE TAGS ON VOTERS
Sidney Hillman, born and raised among the hates, jealousies and squallor of Central Europe, who now proposes to tie a price-tag on every American voter, will find when the ballots are counted on November 7 that the majority of voters in America do not sell their votes. It is true that he will find a fertile field for his price-tags among his own kind, but few real Americans will sell their votes in exchange for another four years of Hillman-Roosevelt bureaucracy. Recently some of his hirelings went through some of the factories located about here, seeking contributions for his election slush fund. It is interesting to note that our patriotic American workers turned thumbs down on the political money-grab.

IT IS GOOD NEWS—BUT!
"The news we are getting from Europe and the Pacific certainly sounds good these days," asserted a good citizen to the writer the other day. Yes, it is good news, it is the kind of news we must hear much of before our victory is complete. But with the good news, we wonder if many of us realize the worry, the fears, the terror it carries. The wives and mothers of the boys who are winning these battles. Did my John come through all right? Did my son Bill, my Jack, my husband live through the invasion or that battle that carried American troops nearer to Paris and into south France or northern Italy or take another Pacific island from the Japs?

"LET GEORGE DO IT."
The Detroit Free Press, now as always, is pretty alert to what's what in the affairs of the world. Under the above heading, the Free Press a few days ago, made the following timely comment:
"We think Arthur Vandenberg is a splendid public servant and has done a fine job as watch dog for the opposition party in the Senate."
"But his local political organ goes a bit too far in calling that re-conversion program, the 'George-Vandenberg Bill.'"
"Democratic Senator George is quite capable of writing his own bill. All Republican Vandenberg did was applaud it—very effectively."

A DIRTY CAMPAIGN
There is one thing above all that we detest in politics—it is dirty politics. We regret to note that the "Pathfinder", a nationally circulated publication, predicts that the forthcoming national campaign promises to be a "dirty one."
The editorial from the Pathfinder, under the heading, "The Machinery For Class Hatred," follows:
This is going to be one of the dirtiest political campaigns in history. We might as well get that down in the record now, while the first spatters of mud are descending.
Quite aside from the personality of President Roosevelt, and irrespective of the fact that his physicians may still forbid him to run for a fourth term, there will be two fundamental issues up for public decision this fall.

Issue No. 1 is—Centralization of Government.
Issue No. 2 is—Class Hatred.
We put the issues in that order because they will be argued in that order in the mud-slinging to come. Actually, we believe, the Class-Hatred (Call it Class-Fear, if you will) is responsible for the present centralization of authority in Washington.
We happened to be standing behind a bald, beakish young editor for one of the New York magazines in the magazine gallery at the Chicago Stadium while Governor Dewey was making his acceptance speech. The young editor had a leer on his face that was so fixed it must have been painted there by his managing editor before he got aboard the Twentieth Century Limited at Grand Central Station. He hammered the blazes out of a portable typewriter all during the speech. His favorite words were "apathy," "capitalism," "quillness," "cliche" and "decadent." By the time he had finished with Dewey, it was pretty apparent that the "masses" were about to be crushed underfoot, again, by the iron boot of Wall Street.

This is the sort of slop that has been passed out in this country for the past 20 years, under the name of "journalism." It is the type of verbose lying that created the New Deal's socialisms and set up the decade-long roar of Capital vs. labor.
Now the horns are resting. Dewey, the farm kid out of north Michigan, is about to be fitted out, by the sneer-press, with a top hat and a stainless steel soul. Bricker will be built up as a "well meaning tool of Big Business." The "working man" will be hauled out again as a 250 lb. $80 a week victim of machine slavery. Madame Dorothy Thompson, never noted for her poverty, will tear at her unlovely hank of hair and declaim for a world-of-common-freedom.

This would be very funny in a vaudeville show. But we aren't running a vaudeville show between now and November 5. We're electing a President, a vice-president and a Congress which will run the Federal Government during the period of postwar reconstruction. We're electing the people who, by the laws they pass and the beliefs they reflect, will determine the type of life every one of 130,000,000 Americans is to have after the war.
We'd been going along, for 150 years, under the illusion that most of us belonged to a great "middle class" where every man was as good as his neighbor, where the family, the home and the community were the most immediate and most important things of life. Somewhere off in limbo were a few millionaires and a few snobbish women who stared through lorgnettes and spoke with fretful broad-A accents, and generally made frowns of themselves for public amusement. Nobody would admit that he or she belonged to the "lower class." And not even the millionaires would admit that they belonged to an "upper class," although their wives continued to dress them up in monkey suits and drag them off to meet "Roosian" princes.

Now, as the young editor who smeared Dewey re-emphasized, the "middle class" concept has disappeared. Nobody seems to know what happened to it. It was just taken out one night 11 or 12 years ago and buried. The next morning we all discovered that we were poor, downtrodden wretches bested upon by Capitalism and the Machine Age. The only way we could gain economic paradise was to admit we were bums and wash-outs, accept the hand-outs of government and follow, blinding, down any path the college professors and social-planners led us.
So, class-hatred was born in America. And out of it grew centralized government.

Now, in 1944, the same harps are tuning up. The wolf-suits are laid out for any man or woman who has been silly enough to build up a successful business. There are piles of sackcloth and ashes in the corner for the lower-classes who make less than $150 a week. A few third and fourth-generation millionaires, having read two chapters of Marx and three paragraphs of Spengler's "Decline of the West," sit in shadowed circles to drone over plans for "the revolution." A million 4-F lawyers and bureaucrats, quivering from the collective fears of urbanized education, lay plans for bigger and lazier WPA projects, in varied guises and forms. The young editors with the painted collegiate sneers pound monotonously away "apathy" "capitalism" "common man" "decadent."
However, let's turn back to the night when the "middle class" was buried in the side-yard. The question is—Was the "middle class" really buried? Or has it been alive right along, waiting for the day when it would step out and say "A plague on your classism. I'm taking over again, in the interest of my family, my home and my 70 years in the prettiest country on earth."
Somehow we can't get over the feeling that that is what is bound to happen and soon. The game of classism was easy to play during the war-years, when most of us were too concerned with getting the war won to pay much attention to the yappings and sneers.

Harness Racing At Northville All Next Month

Michigan harness race followers get their first fall race meeting in years starting on Friday night, Sept. 1. That's the date when the Northville Downs Trotting Association, which recently leased the half-mile fairgrounds plant at Northville, inaugurates the first of many race meetings to be given "under the lights." Thirty or more nights of racing are slated for the meeting starting on Friday.

It will be one of the greatest race meetings of the year in Michigan racing circles. An outstanding program of classes has been arranged for the campaigning horsemen. A liberal purse arrangement has been drawn up, which is most pleasing to both owners and trainers alike.
Racing will get under way each night at 8:30, and there will be racing on six nights of each week, Sunday excepted. Racing throughout the meeting at Northville will closely follow the lines of the successful New York State night race meetings.

Eight races will be given each night, with the final race to be over by eleven o'clock, so that the fans can get away from the track in good time. The barrier system of starting will be introduced, to do away with old scoring system, which so many do not like. Under the system to be used, the fields will parade to the post, and will be off for the actual race in the matter of a few seconds only.

Many improvements are being made to the Northville track. The track is being widened at the head of the home-stretch to enable fields to race at a distance of 5/8 mile. A paddock out of which all horses will race will be put in, a white canvas wall to be put up all around the track, and with one of the finest lighting systems ever put in at a race track, race-goers will find that going to the races at Northville Downs will be a most enjoyable experience.

Eight races, or dashes, will be raced each night. These will all be at different distances, 5/8, 3/4, 1 mile and 1 1/16 miles. The photo-finish camera will be used to clock the finish of all races, the pari-mutuels will, of course be in operation, and the popular daily-double will be run on the first and second races each night.
Outstanding race officials have already been contacted for to have charge of racing. In that starters' stand will be Harvey H. Hartman of Quakertown, Pa., who will come to Northville from the long night meetings at Roosevelt Raceway and Freehold, N. J. Presiding judges will be Wesley Gibbons of Syracuse, N. Y., with the associate judges, Dr. Plyn Earle of Jackson, and Melvin C. Hart of Birmingham. Paddock judges will be the veteran horseman, H. D. Clark of Northville, one of Michigan's outstanding horsemen. Chief timer for the meeting will be Edmond P. Yerkes of Northville.

General admission for the races each night will be only sixty cents. Parking at the track will be free, and post time will be promptly at 8:30.

Rockwell Smith Badly Wounded

Word has been received by Mrs. Rockwell Smith from her husband in England that he is recuperating in a hospital there from serious wounds received in his arm and leg while in action in France. "Rocky," as he was well known in Plymouth, says that he is recovering from his wounds but he thinks it will be a long pull before he is up and around.

In a letter written by him to Mrs. Smith he can't say enough for the medical corps and says that even though his leg may bother him for some time he intends to ask for a job in the hospital as soon as he is able to hobble about. He thinks he will be able to help make more seriously wounded men more comfortable and also says that the medical corps is short of help and could use another good man.
Although he couldn't give full details as to how he got his wound he did say that if it hadn't been for his bad leg which had troubled him before, the "heineys" would never have gotten him.

Chosen For Pacific Fighter Command

Word was received in Plymouth early this week by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reh from their son, Ensign Donald Reh, that he had realized his highest ambition, that of being selected as a pilot on a fighter group preparing for action in the Pacific.
Don has been training in Melbourne, Florida, with the Navy air force and was one of a large group competing for the four planes to be sent in this fighter group. He has been flying one of the famous Navy Hellcats and expects that the command will be carrier-based somewhere close to Japan.

Police To Crack Down Hard On Old Plate Drivers After Thurs., Aug. 31st

If you have not converted that half year license plate on your car by midnight next Thursday night, August 31, you are in for a peck of trouble. There's no question about that!
On August 31, says Frank Rambo, branch office manager for the Secretary of State in Plymouth, the present half year license plates expire.
If there is any driver caught on the road after that date with the first half year license plates on his car, it is just going to be too bad! Chief of Police Charles Thumme and the State Police are going to crack down hard.

It is the contention, and rightly so, that the half year license plate idea was born back in the days when money was not flowing like honey down the sidewalks and into the beer gardens.
Now everyone has money, more money than they know what to do with, contend the police, and there isn't the slightest necessity for any delay in the purchase of the half year plate.
There can be no extension of time, warns the state, so if that first half year plate has not been replaced by a new plate for the last half year, it's going to be a good stiff traffic fine for the offender.
Manager Rambo has issued quite a few plates for the balance of the year, but he figures that there are something like 1200 or 1500 more drivers in this section who need new plates.
Unless they hurry, he is contemplating a last minute rush, with some of the delinquent ones not getting under the wire in time to save that traffic fine.

New Hope For Plymouth Boys Held By The Japs

Renewed hope that both Joe Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Merritt of Lilley road, and Jack Cooper, Plymouth boys who were captured on Bataan peninsula by the Japs early in 1942, are alive and well, was contained in a Washington dispatch a few days ago which told of a message from Lieut. General Wainwright, commanding general of Bataan at the time of its capture.
General Wainwright, who is now a prisoner with the Plymouth lads and many other American boys, was recently visited by the Red Cross at his prison camp in Formosa. He stated that Jap prison camp conditions were "as good as can be reasonably expected."

It will be recalled that the parents of both Dick Merritt and Jack Cooper last winter received cards from their boys, a type of card that the Japs had permitted them to use to tell their parents of their condition. These cards advised their parents that they were "well" and getting along satisfactorily.
Wainwright told a delegate of the international committee of the Red Cross that relief supplies received through the diplomatic exchange ship Gripsholm were useful but that more canned food and warm clothing were needed.
Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Beebe and Capt. George T. Scholey—prisoners interviewed at two other camps—said one Red Cross parcel a month was necessary for each prisoner to make up a protein and fat deficiency in the diet and that additional towels, socks, raincoats and toilet articles were needed.

American Red Cross chairman Basil O'Connor said efforts are continuing to make possible a regular flow of supplies to Japanese held Americans by shipment through a Soviet-Pacific port.

War Plant Lay-Offs Make Little Difference Here

Drastic war plant lay-offs in this vicinity will not hurt Plymouth to any extent, say local business men who have closely watched the trend of affairs in the past two or three years.
The inauguration of the government that the number of workers at the Bomber plant is to be cut in half means the discharge in the immediate future of more than 30,000 workers, many of them from Plymouth and vicinity.
The recent lay-off of 1500 or more workers at the Kelsey-Hayes machine gun plant resulted in the removal from the payroll of that factory of a prodigious number of workers from Detroit and elsewhere. There were some who reside in Plymouth who lost their positions, but the number was not large.

While work has been offered many of these workers in other nearby factories, at South Lyon and elsewhere, the wage scale has not been acceptable to some and as a result they have returned to their former homes, rather than take war factory positions at a less scale than has been paid where they have been employed.
Under the war-manpower control act, no one can take a position in any other factory unless he has the direct consent of the war-manpower board in Detroit. Many of the laid-off workers have been offered positions through this board in other plants where help is needed, but not all of them are being accepted.
The Washington announcement which stated that the government has an excess of most war materials indicates that future war plant lay-offs can be expected.

J. R. West, Petty-Officer 3rd Class, stationed at Pensacola, Florida, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess West of Dodge St. over the week-end.

21 Boys Will Leave Sept. 1 To Enter Service

Due to a change in the date of the next induction of boys from the Plymouth district, 21 will leave from this city on Friday, September 1, instead of Saturday, September 2, to enter military training.
The inductees will report at the Plymouth board office on the morning of September 1 and will be sent immediately to Chicago, arriving there in the afternoon. They will stay at the Stevens hotel in Chicago overnight and report at the Chicago induction station on Saturday morning.

Will Start Two Paving Projects

The City Commission at its meeting Monday night approved the construction of black top paving, with curbs and gutters for two streets.
The approval followed failure of anyone to object to the construction at a public hearing which was held in conjunction with the commission meeting.
Therefore, as soon as possible, blacktop paving will be started on Dewey street between Burroughs and Edison and Wing street between Main and Deer streets.
These two paving projects are part of the program of the city to eliminate as many gravel streets as possible, thus making for more utility in the city, more beautiful surroundings and a generally improved city.
Most of this work is being done by the owners of the property owners, but the present city commission is doing everything possible to foster this spirit of civic improvement.

Kenneth Brown Wounded In Hand

"I'm in a hospital in England, but it's only a wound in my hand and I'll soon be back at them again," were the words that Kenneth Brown sent to his mother here last week telling her he was temporarily out of action.
The letter was the first that Mrs. Jenny Brown, who resides at 814 Fairground street, had received from her son since the invasion started. He had been in action in France and was flown back to a base hospital in England for treatment for his wound. He also said that his wrist watch had been badly smashed during the fighting and that he was anxious to get back to the front to get a new one from the "jerries." He said his outfit had a priority on getting home and that if everything went well he hoped he would be in Plymouth for Christmas.

Wounded Son Back In America

Private Robert Hancock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Hancock of Rose Dale Gardens, seriously wounded by the bullet of a German sniper during the invasion of France, has been brought to the United States for treatment. He is now at an army hospital in Charleston, South Carolina and will soon be transferred to Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek.
The army officials have advised his parents that Robert is "making normal improvement."
The young soldier has been awarded the purple heart by the army.
His parents and friends are delighted to know that he is back in the good old U. S. A. and that he is making an excellent recovery from his wounds.

Wounded Son Back In America

Mrs. Fern Meyers' of Newburg road has received a telegram from Washington stating that her son, Private Elmer E. Meyers, a paratrooper, who was wounded in France on June 8, has now entirely recovered from his injuries and has returned to active duty with his paratroop outfit.

Wounded Son Back In America

T/Sgt. and Mrs. Howard Olson of Sampa, Texas, spent Sgt. Olson's furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Olson, who were accompanied there by Raymond Nickem of Wichita, Kansas, who was also a guest of the Olsons.

Kresge Company Leases Four Main Street Stores

One of the largest real estate transactions to ever take place in the business district of Plymouth was consummated early this week. Announcement of the leasing of four stores in the center section of the business district by the S. S. Kresge Company of Detroit was announced by Calvin Simon, the owner of the property.
The buildings leased by the Kresge Company are those now occupied by the Woodworth 5 cent to $1.00 store, the Kroger Grocery Company, The Goldstein Department store and the new Plymouth Hardware which will open for business some time early next month.

The future plans that the Kresge company may have for the property were not announced, but it was learned that the lease was for a period of 30 years and there was a probability that a new block might be erected on the present site.

Military Police Take Over City

Plymouth, Northville and most of the territory in between the two were taken over last Thursday and again on Tuesday by the military police of the 728th Military Police Battalion, stationed at River Rouge Park in Detroit.
Secret arrangements for the maneuver were made in advance with City Manager Clarence Elliott.
The activities of the day were strictly a maneuver by the troops, preparing them for similar action in foreign fields.
From the time the troops were given their assignments, it was just 26 minutes until the first squadron was ready to move out of the camp.
They arrived in Plymouth with all possible speed. Soldiers were dropped at Mill and Main streets, at Main and Church streets, and then they were moved into the downtown areas.
The troops assumed the direction of traffic at 9:30 in the morning and kept directing traffic until 2:30 in the afternoon.

It is interesting to note just what such a maneuver entails.
When the soldiers arise for breakfast, they are called into action. They are not equipped for what transpires, one hour or one month. They must consequently be prepared for any eventuality.
The field kitchen must be assembled, provisions provided, and transported. In the case of this area, the bivouac was established at Cass Benton Park. The kitchen arrived to provide warm food during the noon hour.
The entire operation was under the command of Major Brennan. Traffic in Plymouth was under the command of Lieut. Johnson and Lieut. Patrick.
City Manager Elliott said there was the safest driving in Plymouth during the five hours the troops were here that there has been in months.

Ensign "Jim" Sexton Killed In Air Crash

Parents Notified Of Death Tuesday
Was Completing Training Near Seattle, Washington
Word of the death of their son, James H. Sexton, Jr., was received here Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. James Sexton, Sr., of 1043 Penniman Avenue. A telegram from the commanding officer of Arlington Naval Base near Seattle, Washington, told of a tragic accident which claimed the life of this popular Plymouth lad.
"Jimmy," as he was best known to his host of Plymouth friends, was one of the youngest flying Ensigns in the United States Navy, having entered the services when he became of age in September, 1942.
Details of the accident which occurred last Monday have not been received by the family. The body is being brought to Plymouth by a Naval escort and funeral services will be held here sometime next week.
Entering the services at John Carroll University in Ohio, "Jimmy" has made steady progress in his flight training and was commissioned an Ensign at Pensacola on March 14th of this year. From Pensacola he was sent to Sanford, Florida, for operational training and was recently transferred to Allington Base near Seattle, where he was part of a carrier based fighter squadron which was completing its training.
Ensign Sexton had been a resident of Plymouth for the last several years, coming here with his family at that time. His father, James H. Sexton, Sr., is chief deputy probate register in the Probate Court in Detroit. Only last Saturday a younger brother, William, was sworn into the Navy at Detroit and expects to report in the near future to the Great Lakes Training School at Chicago.
The news of "Jimmy's" death was a shock to the community and especially many of his former school mates to whom he had endeared himself during his four years in High School. He had actively participated in the affairs of his classes and because of his unusual friendliness was well known to all of the students.

"Nick" Cicirelli Missing In Action In France

Pfc. Nicolas Cicirelli, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cicirelli of 3665 Plymouth road, is missing in action in France, according to word received by the parents early this week from the War Department.
Although Private Cicirelli had been in Northern Ireland since last November, he entered France in the middle of July with the supporting infantry that crossed the channel after the original beach heads had been established. According to the telegram received by the parents "Nick" has been missing since July 27th.
The last letter received from him was written on July 25th at which time he told of his going to France and he stated that he was in a very desolate area of that country. He also mentioned the fact in that letter that he had been receiving the Plymouth Mail regularly and he hoped it would follow him across the continent to Berlin.

"Nick" attended Plymouth schools through the tenth grade and in 1942 he transferred to St. Thomas High School in Ann Arbor, where he graduated before entering the services in May of 1943. His training was taken at Camp Walters, Texas, and last October he was sent to Ireland where he had been stationed until going to France.

Expect Exodus From Plymouth Over Labor Day

Labor Day!
It's September 4, a week from Monday — and next week-end promises to be one of the biggest yala days Plymouth folks have had in many a moon.
With war factory production ahead of schedule and many war plants laying off help because of their excess production, hundreds are planning brief vacations. Many have had no vacation of any kind since the big rush started more than two years ago. Now they think it perfectly proper to "take a little time off."
Prospects are that when most factories close down Friday, Sept. 1, many of his former school mates to whom he had endeared himself during his four years in High School. He had actively participated in the affairs of his classes and because of his unusual friendliness was well known to all of the students.

He had actively participated in the affairs of his classes and because of his unusual friendliness was well known to all of the students.

Both bus lines and railways are anticipating the biggest holiday travel over Labor Day they have had in years, due largely to the let-down in war plant production.
Many have been saving their gas coupons so they will have enough to get to get them to and from their cabins or cottages not too far distant from Plymouth.
This is one of the reasons why so many local residents prefer to go to their favorite lakes located some distance from Plymouth.

Obituaries

Henry James Whittaker

Funeral services were held Monday, August 21st at 2 p. m. from the Schrader Funeral Home for Henry James Whittaker who resided at 9293 Six Mile road, Salem Township and who passed away Saturday morning, August 19th at the age of eighty-five years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Clara Whittaker, one son, Glen Whittaker of Salem Township and was the father of the late Mrs. Leslie Curtis, the late Dale and Lee Whittaker; also surviving are fourteen grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Interment was in Lapham's Cemetery, in Salem Township.

"17 Babies this week—and he hasn't seen his own grandson!"

"TONIGHT the Doctor was hoping to finish early, so he could take a two-hour train trip and snatch a look at his new 4-day-old grandson. But no—the phone caught him again. So now he's off to deliver Mrs. Johnson!"

Doctors have always been 'round-the-clock men. But since Pearl Harbor, with half of our physicians in the armed forces, each civilian doctor is more in demand than ever. He is on call today to an average of 1700 people.

Your doctor's minutes may be lifesaving time; too precious to waste. Help him save time for people who need him urgently, for yourself in an emergency, by remembering these four helpful things when you are ill:

PHONE HIM FIRST. Tell him as clearly as you can what's wrong. Let him decide whether he should come to see you, or you should go to him.

GO TO HIM whenever you are able. House visits take lots of your doctor's time—time when someone else may really need him urgently.

KEEP YOUR APPOINTMENT promptly, don't postpone it; make it at his convenience, so that he can plan his crowded hours better.

FOLLOW YOUR DOCTOR'S ADVICE to the letter—so that your trouble doesn't drag on, get complicated, or need extra attention from him.

SAVE YOUR DOCTOR'S TIME IN WARTIME!

A fly rod is a weak lever to use in prying a three-foot, 25-pound catfish from the bottom of a lake, but Gail Austin of Tecumseh accomplished the feat on Evans lake, east of W. J. Hayes state park. Getting the big fish to the surface after a protracted struggle, Austin used a small landing net to hold its head still enough to hook his fingers into its gills and drag it into the boat. The fish had swallowed a shiner which Austin was using for bait. Sherman Cary, conservation department district parks superintendent, measured and weighed the fish.

Youths Report On Play Center

The work at the Plymouth recreation center has been progressing rapidly during the last two weeks. High school students have been putting in every spare moment at the big job of painting, cleaning and repairing.

Mary Katherine Moon was most generous in offering her services as the adult in charge until a permanent housemother is found. Kyle has also used considerable elbow grease in good practical help.

At present, all the woodwork and most of the rooms have been painted. A soft drink bar has been built and many carpentry repair jobs are completed.

The present group of workers has selected the following officers: chairman, Ed. Strong; vice-chairman, Bob Chute; secretary, Natalie Reitzel; treasurer, Carry Cushman.

An advisory board, consisting of four parents of senior high school students and one resident high school teacher was decided upon. These people were chosen for the advisory board: Mrs. George Chute, Mrs. Cass Hough, Miss Neva Lovewell, Mr. Roy Vershure, Mr. Carry Cushman.

A meeting of the advisory board was called on Friday, August 18. It was decided to invite Mrs. Whipple to the meeting so that she could report to the city commission on the progress of the recreation center.

If you have any porch type furniture that you wish to give to the recreation center, please call 193-J or 1365-R anytime during the day. Although some furniture has been collected, there is not yet enough to completely furnish the center.

Civil Service Work Explained

Eugene Mathivet, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, addressed the Rotary Club, Buffalo, New York, after October 1 they will be at home to their friends at 1051 Brush street.

Mr. Mathivet stated that clerks in the various offices in Wayne County were receiving for similar work and responsibilities from $1200 per year to $4000 per year for the same type of jobs. Under the standard salary scale for different positions and occupations under Civil Service it was determined by the Commission not to radically change the salaries of the present incumbents who were receiving more than the salary designated for such type of position. They did raise the salary for those working for less than the minimum set by the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Mathivet is a good example of a career public service employee and he advocates such a career for some of our more progressive and intelligent type of young men and women.

Harold Hills Home On Leave

Harold Hills, son of Raymond Hills of Plymouth, has returned to Plymouth on a 21-day furlough, his first trip home in almost three years.

In that time, he has seen much of the world—but most of it the worst part of the world. Harold spent 27 months in the far western Aleutian islands, from Dutch Harbor, and helped construct the present camp in that section of the world.

For much of the time he was in the islands, he was a cook, but that was confining work, so he transferred to field duty. As is usual in such cases, there isn't much that he can talk about. There's still a war going on.

But this much he reports: The weather in the Aleutians is terrible. One hundred to one hundred and fifty hours of sunshine a year is all they ever get.

The weather changes in ten minutes from one extreme to another, but mostly there is fog, and rain and sleet and snow—but mostly fog and wind. The wind blows so hard during a storm that the troops must crawl instead of walk. In the camps were before they built their tents in holes eight feet deep but the wind lifted the tents right out of the holes.

Four Plymouthites Ask Public To Use Ration Office

In a general appeal to the public, ration officials ask that all applications for tires be made at the board offices on the second floor of the city hall. This will not only expedite the handling of all applications but will make the ever growing burden of the board much lighter.

All ration applications, no matter to whom they are given, must still go through the regular channel at the ration office; hence no time is saved by any individual and each application that comes in through any other source than the office at the city hall is of necessity held back until it can be cleared in the usual manner.

At the same time it was pointed out that the people making application for new supplemental ration books for gasoline, B or C, should fill in the space provided on the front of the blank, stating how many coupons they still have left in their books at the time of application. Unless this is done these applications will be sent back to the person who filed them and much time will unnecessarily be lost.

Training classes in a general handicraft program have been tentatively slated to begin in early October. These classes will emphasize winter handicraft, pointing directly towards the Spring Hobby-Lobby Show. Another class will be slated for early spring with Summer Cubbing in mind.

We sincerely believe that this advisory body can, and will, bring about a definite change for the better in our district and serve as a balance wheel for all of the diverse factors of our organization that may make the operation of our Cubbing machinery smoother and even more powerful than that which is operating at an excellent tempo today.

The roster of the new District Seven Cub Council is as follows: J. Williamson, Detroit, General Chairman; Mr. Swarthout, Detroit, Pack Organizer; Howard B. Middlewood, Farmington, Rd. Activities; Jesse Bennett, Stark, Trainer; Mrs. R. A. Snodgrass, Rt. 3, Plymouth, Health Promotion; Mr. R. A. Snodgrass, Rt. 3, Plymouth, Health Man; L. L. Walker, Farmington, District Finance; N. Has Date With Movie Beauty

SH-sh-sh-sh. Don't tell anyone, but Bill Kilvington, of the United States navy and formerly of 278 Blunk street, where he lived for a number of years with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Christianson, had a date the other night with Glamorous Marcella Markham of the movies.

And don't tell a soul, but Bill took Marcella to New York's glamorous Stork Club for an evening of dancing. The way Bill got his date with Marcella was through the medium of radio—one of those shows which do the sort of thing. This one was on the Blue Network, and is known as "Blind Date."

After the date was all arranged, Bill asked Marcella if she wanted to go out with a zombie. "No," said Marcella. "Then," said Bill, "that eliminates the competition, and you have to go out with me." They went. But don't tell a soul.

An information bureau is open three afternoons a week in the city hall for persons desiring more detailed information about joining.

Cherokee Indians on the Smoky Mountain reservation in North Carolina are all set for war. Out of a group of 3,200, they have sent about 600 men and women into the armed services. The Indians also buy war bonds and stamps regularly from Amelia Walkingstick, the Indian postmaster at the town of Cherokee.

The garprike has big bony diamond-shaped ears so strong and heavy that Indians formerly made them into arrow heads.

Younger Boys At Playgrounds

Baseball rather than softball attracted the boys who participated this year in the city's recreation program, which was under the direction of John Tomshack.

Mr. Tomshack reported a marked difference in the age groups participating in the games this year. Previously there have been more of the high school youngsters, but because of war time pressure many of these were working with the result that the group this year was considerably younger.

There was widespread use of the neighborhood playgrounds. There also was considerable interest in the band and orchestra program. More than a thousand persons listened attentively to the four band concerts, which were under the direction of Clarence Luchman.

Tire Situation Not Improved In This Locality

The tire situation is not improved. Despite the fact that there now is apparently sufficient synthetic rubber in the United States to meet most demands, there is a definite shortage of help, and to this time it has been impossible for the tire manufacturers to keep up with the demands. In Plymouth, the War Price and Rationing Board for the month of August has an allotment of 375 tires, including the workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company plant, and other industries in this area. At the moment, there are more than 500 applications for those 375 tires. This puts a terrific strain on the rationing panel of the board, but there is little that can be done except to work out the tire rationing for the greatest possible benefit. The situation is that even with the best of care, many of the tires are wearing out. The demand for tires is greater than it ever has been for that reason alone.

Archery Club Plans Exhibition

As a part of its preparation for the fall deer hunting season the Rosedale Gardens Archery Club has planned an interesting tournament for the afternoon of Sunday, August 27th. The tournament will begin promptly at 2 p. m. and last until 5 p. m. It will be held on the archery range behind the clubhouse in Rosedale Gardens. The public is cordially invited to witness this exhibition and there will be no admission charge. It is suggested that folding chairs, or camp chairs, etc. be brought along for the comfort of the ladies. A total of 21 prizes are to be awarded for winners of various events. Seven main events are scheduled in which both juniors (those under 18) as well as adults will compete. The program outline is as follows:

1. Adults - Deer Hunt Game: 18 arrows at ranges from 20 yards up to 80 yards. 3 foot target. No handicap. (3 prizes)
 2. Juniors - Competitive Round: 24 arrows at 20 yards. Handicap according to average score. (3 prizes)
 3. Adults - Moving Target: 24 arrows at 30 yards. No handicap. (3 prizes)
 4. Juniors - Playoff, between three highest actual scores in the preceding Competitive Round: 24 arrows at 25 yards. No handicap. (3 prizes)
 5. Adults - American Round: 30 arrows at 30 yards. 30 arrows at 40 yards. 30 arrows at 50 yards. Three foot target. Handicap according to average. (3 prizes)
 6. Juniors - Deer Hunt Game: 12 arrows at ranges from 10 yards to 30 yards. No handicap. Four foot target. (3 prizes)
 7. Adults - Playoff, between three highest actual scores in the preceding American Round: 30 arrows at 30 yards. No handicap. (3 prizes)
- Don't miss this afternoon of healthful entertainment. It's a chance to witness the sport of ancient kings. A chance to learn more about this revived method for bringing home the venison (red points). In case of rain the event will be postponed and a later date announced.

Marries In Ohio

Mrs. Robert Bingley
Announcement was made this week by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kingsley of 9803 Auburndale avenue, Rosedale Gardens, of the marriage of their daughter Doris Brown to Robert Bingley of Plymouth. The marriage was a surprise to the many friends of the young couple. They were married in Napoleon, Ohio and will make their home in Plymouth. Both were graduates of Plymouth high school and are well known here.

Stores To Close On Labor Day

What happens in Plymouth on Labor Day this year is pretty much up to labor. All of the stores will close for the day, and the city and federal offices will be closed, but most of the factories indicated that there is plenty of work to be done, and that they will remain open if the workers themselves show up. No celebration of any kind is planned in Plymouth for the day, and there are some indications that many residents will move to the lakes for the last fishing of the season.

Issue "A" Gas Stamps At School

New "A" gasoline coupons will be issued at the school on September 18, 19, and 20. It was announced this week by Superintendent of Schools George A. Smith. The details for issuance of the books have not been completed, but presumably it will be on a plan similar to that for the issuing of ration books in the past. Present "A" coupons expire on September 21.

The Saturday Evening Post, in the issue of August 19th, carries a story "You Take the High Note", which gives the history of an amazing organization, The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. This Society whose name completely, if somewhat lengthily, disclosed the purpose of its existence, now has Chapters in more than half the States and Canada. Livonia Township is lucky enough to have a thriving Chapter of which Tom Baird, of Rosedale Gardens, is President. The Gardenaires quartet, composed of men from Rosedale Gardens competed in the Championship Quartet Contest at Detroit recently.

Post Office Is Busy Place Today

The adage that postmen spend their holidays taking walks is a fallacy.

Employees of the Plymouth postoffice declare that postmen spend their spare time fishing—a job, incidentally, which permits the participant to remain seated while enjoying the sport.

No golf for the postmen. That is just one of the facts gleaned from a morning spent in the Plymouth postoffice.

That postoffice is a most interesting place. One rather gathers the idea that postal work is a matter of course; that nothing ever happens.

That's the trouble with things which we take for granted.

But delivery of a letter from or to Plymouth is a rather complicated matter.

Let's for example follow a letter through from the time you post it at, well, let's say, the corner post box.

A postman on his rounds passes that box, opens it with a special key, and takes the posted letters. He carries these to the postoffice where they are dumped on a rather large table.

Not a thing romantic up to that point.

A clerk inside the postoffice, then starts sorting through the letters. He takes out the big ones, and places the smaller ones in a compact bundle. These are placed in a machine which puts the cancellation stamp on the letters faster than you can count.

The cancelled letters then are sorted as to destination. There's a special box for every state. Post offices near at hand which receive a large amount of mail from Plymouth have a bundle all their own. Detroit, for instance, has two bundles. One is for letters which are properly marked with zone numbers. The other bundle is for unzoned letters.

Then there are large sacks. Some are addressed to trains. Others are addressed to specific cities. For, instance, few letters go from Plymouth to the southwestern states, so all of the letters for Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, and Arizona are dispatched in a sack which eventually finds its way to St. Louis, and a train moving from there to the southwestern states.

And then there is the matter of incoming mail.

A sack arrives in Plymouth on the morning train. Its contents are dumped on another table, and another clerk proceeds to sort the mail. Some of it goes into special postoffice lock boxes. Some of it goes to general delivery, but most of it goes to the city and rural carriers.

The clerk sorting the mail must know his local geography in order to sort the mail.

Then the carrier himself gets the mail for his route. This must be sorted according to street rotation. Otherwise he'd be running back and forth like a chicken with its head cut off.

And so to the delivery at your home. A letter posted in New York, for instance, takes only a day from the time it's posted until it is delivered. An airmail letter from California can be delivered in less than 24 hours.

And despite all of the handling in many sections of the country, few letters are lost. Ernie Henry recalls only two letters in a matter of ten years which have been lost. And these were found ten years late. They had been accidentally dropped behind a sorting case.

Of course, there are times, when the postal clerks are hard to make a delivery. Frequently letters are misaddressed. On those occasions, if anyone in the postoffice happens to know the person named, then the letter is delivered anyway.

But many times, there simply is no such person and no such address. In that event, the mail goes to the dead letter office if it can't be returned to the sender.

In the dead letter office, Postmaster Harry Irwin finds almost everything — especially money. Whenever possible, this is returned. Sometimes, there is no indication of the sender.

The addresses on letters are important, indeed. For instance, there frequently are letters addressed to Plymouth, Mich., which should be addressed to Plymouth, Indiana.

Because Plymouth is the largest town in western Wayne county, much rural mail, which should be addressed to Northville, Garden City, or Wayne, is sent to the Plymouth postoffice. This mail is routed on to the proper postoffice.

There was a time when there was a fad for freak addresses. But this has largely passed. But even now whenever such a letter is received, the postoffice attempts to deliver them.

On the whole, postmen aren't interested in stamps in the sense that they are philatelists. Mr. Henry points out that the postoffice clerks like to look at stamps, especially from foreign countries—but as for collecting them, well, it's like playing golf on a day off. It simply isn't done. The postmen would rather sit and fish.

Fruit and coffee stains are easy to remove if treated immediately when stain is made. Stretch stained spot over a large bowl and fasten in place with an elastic band. From a height of two or three feet pour boiling water into a bowl through the stain. You'll be able to watch it disappear.

GOLF COURSE MANAGER CASEY PARTRIDGE WAY UP IN ITALY.

"What's the matter? I haven't had a copy of The Plymouth Mail for nearly six weeks. Probably it will appear as with me, but maybe you can do something on that end to speed it along. Guess we have been moving too fast, but here's my new address and that may help," writes Sergeant Casey Partridge from somewhere up in north central Italy, who operated the Plymouth Country Club until he entered the armed forces.

I suppose most of the fellows back home are still rabbling along and griping as much as ever along with Smitty's bar flies. I'd like to be there griping with them," wrote Sergeant Casey Partridge. "You'll never guess where I am—but I'm over here in Dago land—Italy to you—and have been here for quite some time. I've visited Naples and vicinity for several days. Have been over the Adriatic sea and around, but censorship prevents me from saying much about it.

"But the country is all that you have read about. They sure know there's a war on over here and the marks will be here for years to come.

"The G. I.'s are really serious and in dead earnest to get this thing over with.

"I've been assigned to one of the oldest engineer aviation branches there is. It has been overseas for 26 months. It has seen plenty of England, Africa, Sicily, and Italy, and where we are now located I feel I'm lucky to get in an outfit that knows what it's all about and I hope I can help them out a little bit.

"Give my regards to all the folks back home and be sure and bring my mailing address up to date. Don't want to miss a single issue of The Mail."

★ ★ ★ WAS ONE OF THE FIRST TO LAND IN AFRICA AND ITALY.

Pfc. Wilbert P. Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bryant of 12141 Inkster road, is about to end a three-week furlough with home with his parents and friends after having spent many months in North Africa and Italy.

When he returns, he will go to Houston, Texas, where he reports for duty.

Not many American lads have had the exciting experiences of Wilbert. He was the second infantry to land in North Africa when the invasion of that continent was made, and when the American forces were sent to Italy, he was the third infantryman to land in Italy. He has taken part in four different invasions, Africa, Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy. When the army was fighting its way to Rome, he received a slight shrapnel wound in one knee.

That the army food agrees with Wilbert is indicated by the fact that when he left Plymouth in July, 1941, he weighed 122 pounds. Now he weighs 180 pounds.

The youthful soldier declares that Italy looks like a junk yard and that from what he has been able to observe, the spirit of the German soldiers is weakening to such an extent that they are throwing away their guns and surrendering whenever they can.

He says it rains frequently and that the soldiers were provided with special shoes which enable them to wade through the mud with more comfort than with ordinary shoes.

"Sunny Italy to me is the bunk—it's a fantastic dream. There is no sunshine over there—only once in a while," he says.

Wilbert was greatly interested while in Italy in the way that army mules have been trained in mountain climbing. If the leader lies down, all of the mules lie down.

He has been overseas for over two years and declares that the old U. S. A. looks good to him.

★ ★ ★ MEETS OLD PLYMOUTH FRIEND WAY OVER IN NEW GUINEA.

In a brief but interesting letter from Corporal John Klof, who is stationed somewhere in the south Pacific, in the signal service of the army, he says:

"While in New Guinea I met Harry Dahmer and had a chance to read my first Plymouth Mail overseas. Harry told me that The Mail is being sent to servicemen from Plymouth. I would appreciate your sending me The Mail for I have always enjoyed reading it. I am a graduate of the Plymouth high school and worked for Jewell & Blaisch before going into the service. Thanks to the Servicemen's column in The Mail, I am finding out where a lot of my old friends are stationed and I am now looking forward to meeting some of the boys over here." John's name is now on the mailing list.

STAFF SERGEANT FRANK LOOMIS HELPING TO RUN FRENCH RAILWAY.

Staff Sergeant Frank W. Loomis, who went into the armed forces very early after the war was declared on Germany and Japan, and spent much of his time during the next two years learning to operate railway trains under the direction of the U. S. armed forces, is putting to practical use the knowledge he gained a few years ago.

Sergeant Loomis is helping American armed forces in Normandy to restore to use the railway lines and trains that were put out of commission by our flying forces just previous to the invasion.

Sponsored by the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad, the battalion to which Sgt.

Loomis has been assigned is now operating out of the Cherbourg rail yards. Although heavily mined, only a small percentage of the track at this place was damaged by the retreating German forces.

Considerable usable equipment was found in the Cherbourg yards, among which were 15 locomotives brought to France by the American forces during World War I. These engines were found to be in good condition and still bearing the U. S. insignia.

After the engineers had cleared a rail line in Normandy the operating crews soon had a daily work train running. Other yards were also cleared and put in workable condition. The "transmission" corps rail comes from which to construct the work of reconstruction in Normandy.

A regular passenger train, operated by crews of this battalion, makes round trips daily. The first run was made on July 10, with Major General Frank S. Ross and several members of his staff as passengers.

Staff Sergeant Loomis of Plymouth is the only Michigan man who is a member of this special American railway unit that is now operating a Continental railway in Europe.

.... I'm worth more to my boss now that he's installed a SCHULTZ Electric Milk Cooler

Because Schultz Electric Coolers quickly cool my milk—and keep it cool they insure my boss, the fall butter fat test I have worked so hard to produce. Schultz Coolers also halt bacteria growth and make my milk more salable.

The Schultz principle is that of floating ice and top cooling without the need of a circulating pump of any kind. The coils automatically manufacture the ice on the smooth inside surface of the cabinet walls. This allows the ice to release and float on top of the water where it is needed. Schultz coolers effectively reduce labor costs, keep the night milk under 40°. Many users say, "I wouldn't sell my Schultz Cooler for $1,000.00 if I couldn't get another."

Available in sizes to cool from 2 to 12 cans at one time. Buy the cooler to fit the job—not the milk house. Can be very easily installed in the average milk house. Easy payment plan can be arranged. See us today for further facts and prices.

CAN'T SEE FLORIDA AS A PLACE TO SPEND A VACATION.

Private Al Crain, who has spent the last nine years of his life in and around Plymouth, but is now located at Camp Blanding, Florida, just can't figure out why any one would desire to spend a vacation in Florida.

In a letter to "Our Boys" page, Al says:

"Don't know who this letter should be addressed to but someone has started sending the "Mail" to me here at Camp Blanding, Florida. The paper is read by me first, then the other fellows get a chance to read it. Some of them cut out sections of it to send back to their homes so their families can compare the ads in it to theirs. Prices seem to be different in our town than in other sections of the country.

"We have nothing here but sand, sand, and more sand, so there is very little grass. Don't know why people want to spend their vacations here. The sun is almost unbearable at times. We have very interesting work here. I am in an Anti-Tank company.

"Sure is nice to read about home. I was born in dear old Michigan I want to get back up there in civilization again and stay there 'til I die of old age. Have been in lots of towns and states, but Plymouth and Michigan are my choice by far. If there are any Plymouth boys here at camp will you let me know so I can look them up to talk over old times with them? Well, a million thanks for the paper and whoever is responsible for me getting it has made a never-to-be-forgotten friend." (The Plymouth Mail is doing it, Al.)

VICTORY'S SONS

IME and again Major Kenneth McCullar had done deeds of great daring. There was that desperate raid on Jap warships, the day before the battle of the Bismarck Sea. He had led his squadron of bombers on that mission, although the weather was adverse, and the distance dangerously long. Next day, in combined operations, he and his men sank at least five ships, using skip-bombing technique. But his most spectacular act of personal courage came a little later, over Rabaul harbor. Realizing that the port was heavily defended, Major McCullar purposely flew into the searchlight beams, swooping and darting to draw the anti-aircraft fire upon himself. Meanwhile, the planes of his command dropped their explosives on the targets. Major McCullar's plane somehow escaped the cloud of flak shot at him. As soon as he knew that the bombs were all gone, he regrouped his squadron and dived on the lights and guns, strafing the crews.

Major McCullar, who was killed in a landing crash, wore the Distinguished Flying Cross with the oak leaf cluster at the time of his death. This news service published each week through the courtesy of Babson Says...

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 25.—For the year 1943 total industrial wages and salaries, without including incomes of those employed in agricultural enterprises, amounted to $89,500,000,000. Of this, some $12,000,000,000, or approximately 13 1/2%, represented payments for overtime work. If the above workers had not benefited from overtime they would have earned only $77,500,000,000.

While the War lasts, manufacturers cannot complain too much at the high cost of labor. As a matter of fact, currently high wages, including overtime, are a direct operational cost and in the instance of most war contracts the Government pays the bill. However, in the final analysis, it is really the taxpayer who foots these charges.

When the big war contracts are a thing of the past, manufacturers will not have their present high volume of business, while selling expenses will be much higher. Their first step, however, will be to cut out overtime. In fact, overtime is already on the way out.

During World War I industry was averaging a 50-hour-week. During World War II the normal work-week has been reduced to 40 hours with overtime paid for anything in excess of that. During the last great boom industry averaged better than 48 hours a week. Not until the New Dealers with their ideas of "spreading work" and indirectly raising wages got busy did we hear anything about 40 hours a week. Hence, I beg wage earners to save money now. Build up saving accounts. Hourly wage rates may hold up; but most of you will get much less in your pay envelopes.

Technological progress has made it possible to turn out more production during a shorter work-week. New and more efficient machinery can produce more in a given period; but actually, even during our critical war days, these machines have not been permitted to work on a capacity load. With overtime out workers themselves may insist on a 44 or 48 hour week and they may get it. But if they do they will be expected to work and to keep the machinery working. Slow-downs will not be tolerated after the war.

Competition in all lines will be the outstanding factor as we emerge from the transition period of war to peacetime operation. This competition will not be merely a domestic issue but will be world-wide. There will be no place in our peacetime economy for the idle, lazy or inefficient; everyone must work.

Very large domestic and foreign markets will exist for U. S. goods. In view of this I believe, given a chance, that the question of employment may largely solve itself. Workers themselves, with or without benefit of their unions, must choose whether they want more leisure or a larger share of consumer goods which a longer work-week—without overtime—can provide.

The average consumer has learned to get along during the war on less than he had before the war. Hence, if the prices of goods rise too high and get out of line with salaries and dividends we are apt to see "buyers" strikes rather than wage-worker-strikes. White-collar-workers have taken it on the chin in recent years. As a group, they have nothing to look forward to in the way of salary increase. Hence, prices of goods must be kept within reach of their pocketbooks.

A return to a free movement of wages and prices with a recognition of supply and demand, rather than to a continuance of political and manmade laws, is in order. Unfortunately, most of us learn only by experience when evaluating hours of work, wages and production schedules. These matters are, however, definitely a part of our reconversion program. The war will be brought to a successful conclusion by our military leaders. I hope our postwar plans will be as successfully handled by our political leaders.

I must stand with anybody that stands right, stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong.—Abraham Lincoln.

Thieves Enter Two Gas Stations

A series of gasoline station robberies in the country surrounding Plymouth occurred Sunday night.

Sheriff's officers are investigating breakings at the Livrance service station at Six Mile and Middlebelt roads and at the service station operated by Joe Caccia at Inkster and Joy roads.

At the Livrance station, the principal robbery was of gasoline and fuel oil coupons. All coupons taken in for gasoline from Saturday business were taken there along with about 300 fuel oil coupons.

The robbers failed to take a couple of tires and batteries in the station. They did ransack everything else, and took about two dollars in change which had been left in the cash drawer.

Although the station is not open on Sunday, Mr. Livrance was at the station Sunday morning, so the robbery must have occurred sometime Sunday night.

Fewer details are available on the Caccia robbery, but it is understood that in addition to gasoline coupons, some tires and other accessories were taken there.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN WIVES AT COUNTRY CLUB

Some seventy Rotarians and their wives gathered at The Plymouth Country Club yesterday afternoon to hold their annual ladies day outing. Under the direction of committee chairman A. S. Lyndon, games and other entertainment were provided for those in attendance.

During the afternoon Rotarians held their annual golf match which was planned and arranged by sports committee chairman Dr. J. F. Cavell, Jr. The event was one of the best attended the club has held in some time.

Fire Damages Scheel Residence

The worst fire to strike Plymouth in the past year did heavy damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scheel and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thatcher at 336 W. Ann Arbor Trail, last Saturday noon.

Fire department officials estimated the damage at close to $2500 from fire, smoke and water.

The fire started in the Thatcher apartment on the second floor of the house, which they had occupied for about seven years.

Mrs. Thatcher was in the Scheel kitchen when Mrs. Scheel smelled smoke. It was then that they discovered the kitchen afire up stairs, at the back of the house.

When the fire department arrived, the fire had eaten its way far into the attic, and it was a stubborn blaze to fight.

The fact that the house was covered with asbestos shingles is believed to have held down the damage, but much of the interior of the house will have to be replaced. The furniture was badly damaged by smoke and water.

At one time there was three or four inches of water on the floors both upstairs and downstairs.

Mr. Scheel had just finished repainting the house on the outside, and had done considerable decorating through the summer.

A pine tree growing in Chile has such straggling interlocking branches that the English call it, quite appropriately, a monkey puzzle.

Timely items concerning your electric service, suggestions about cooking, lighting and appliances, and many other things of interest and value will appear from time to time in "Edison Lines." Make "Edison Lines" a reading habit!

HEATING BY REFRIGERATION... Your electric refrigerator "manufactures" cold. Why isn't it possible to "reverse" the refrigeration cycle and produce heat? Then, in winter you could use cold outdoor temperature to heat your home! Actually, the idea isn't new. It originated with Lord Kelvin over 50 years ago. A few installations have been made—mostly in more temperate climates than Michigan's. So far, the idea isn't practical for general use, but our research engineers have it in their "active" file. Someday new developments may transfer it from the realm of experiment into a practical machine.

SUMMER SNACK... For something new and different, try this recipe from our Home Service Department:

Tomato and Salmon Toast
6 slices bread 6 tbsp. flaked salmon, seasoned
6 slices American cheese 12 slices bacon
6 slices tomatoes

Place a slice of cheese on each slice of bread. On top of cheese put the flaked salmon. Place tomatoes on salmon and two slices of bacon on each slice of tomato. Broil until bacon crisps and cheese melts.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE... More than 1500 of our employes are now in the armed forces—about one out of every five. Of this number, 36 are women. There are 16 gold stars on the company's Service Flag. Every branch of the service is represented, and over 500 of the 1500 employes are overseas. Five Distinguished Service Crosses have been awarded to Edison men.

POWER GRID... Putting the Axis "on the griddle" is more than a figure of speech in southeastern Michigan. The uninterrupted flow of electricity to thousands of war plants has made possible new production records in all sorts of vital war materials. And one of the things that assures this uninterrupted electric supply is the "power grid" or network which covers all this area. If for any reason there is a power failure somewhere in the system, the "grid" connection makes it possible to restore service immediately by feeding in power from another point. Should a turbine in one plant shut down, other Edison plants pick up the load and keep the electricity flowing. The far-flung Edison network is interconnected with the Consumers Power Company on the west, and with the Detroit municipal power plant, lending added strength to the combined power grid.
