How Plymouth's English Namesake City Plans to Arise from The Ruins

Some of Blitz Ruins to be Preserved As Attractions for Tourists

PLYMOUTH is a name high among historic names. The PLYMOUTH MAIL, too, is a name linked to the historic past.

It was from Plymouth, England that the Pilgrims sailed to establish in America a new Plymouth, with a new kind of freedom and a new kind of opportunity for all men.

When pioneers came into the wilderness of Michigan to create new homes and new opportunities, they decided to name this pioneer Michigan settlement in honor of the place from whence the Pilgrims came.

When The Plymouth Mail was established nearly three quarters of a century ago, its founder named it in honor of the famed London Mail.

But what about Plymouth, the city in England with which the city of Plymouth, Michigan, has had so many ties in various ways in more recent years? What about the city which was honored by naming our own community after, that during this war suffered terribly as the result of Nazi bombings?

What about plans for the NEW Plymouth, England, in which every loyal resident of Plymouth, Michigan has an interest?

From the British Information Service, The Plymouth Mail recently received some most interesting information. It follows:

Plymouth, in Devonshire, England, has grown from the fusion of three towns—Plymouth, East Stonehouse and Devonport. It is the chief port and naval base in southwest England and has a population of 208,182 in an area of 9,515 acres. It was badly damaged during the blitz, especially by the raids of March and April 1941, which wiped out whole areas. The buildings then destroyed included forty churches, the civic buildings, libraries, theatres and main shopping streets, and many thousands of homes.

A plan for the new Plymouth was completed in 1943 by Prof. Patrick Abercrombie and the City Engineer and Surveyor Mr. J. Paton Watson.

The plan is regional in its scope requiring planning of the countryside as well as of the borough. It requires a green belt round the city, to prevent further spoiling of the countryside as well as for health and amenity; satellite communities beyond the green belt take up the "overspill" of population displaced by reconstruction. Tendencies toward community grouping are discovered and emphasized; each community is to be surrounded by an open space, and will have its own community center and neighborhood units—the latter to have their own schools, hotels and shops.

"Historic" Plymouth—the Elizabethan city—is to be preserved as a precinct through much renovation and reconstruction will have to be carried out. It will be enclosed by a wall built of local stone, and there will be very little vehicular access. The seventeenth century Charles Church, which was destroyed by the blitz, might be preserved as a ruin which would form a living memorial of the city's trials, but the early 14th century church of St. Andrew, now being used as an open air church, should be restored. The Barbican Quay will be given suitable monumental treatment.

A new City Center is planned, stretching from the Hoe to the north railroad station. It will include the restored Civic Center, the shopping center behind it, cultural and amusement centers—the latter to include an open air theatre—as well as hotels and a residential area. The main traffic roads will circle the Center, and there will be a tunnel for pedestrians connecting the station with the shopping center and passing under the traffic roundabout and hotel in front of the station.

Traffic problems will be lightened by a single colored road plan. Main arterial roads will be connected with the ring road round the City Center, and traffic not desirous of stopping at Plymouth will be carried on a by-pass.

Road intersections will be reduced in number and controlled by means of roundabouts, there will be provision for car-parking and provision for pedestrians. Vehicles will be unloaded in the business area, away from traffic lanes, and there will be segregation of local from through traffic and of bus from shopping traffic. Traffic lanes will be provided on all main roads.

Many more open spaces will be required to bring the provision up to the desirable standard of four acres per thousand of the population. Advantage should be taken of the coastal panorama, which can be seen from many parts of the town, owing to the hilly nature of the landscape. The plan suggests that Plymouth make more of its potentialities as a tourist center for some of the most beautiful scenery in the south of England.

New Trains, More Business For Pere Marquette

A plan of the Pere Marquette Railway Company to put in operation two streamlined passenger trains on the Detroit-Lansing-Grand Rapids run was announced by President R. J. Bowman in his letter to stockholders in the 28th annual report of the company, made public recently.

The road has now on order, said Mr. Bowman, two Diesel locomotives and fourteen lightweight cars which are to be commissioned in service as two train sets, affording three round trips daily. "The modern equipment and improved schedules," he commented, "will more adequately meet the needs for railroad service in this area."

From its record-breaking volumes of freight and passenger traffic in 1944 Pere Marquette realized a new high of $56,302,777 of operating revenues, an increase of $1,249,973 or 2.7 per cent over 1943. Net income before railway tax accruals amounted to $10,176,875, falling short of the figure for 1943 by $2,054,986, or 16.80 per cent, despite the fact that tax accruals were $1,447,542 under the accruals of the preceding year.

Net income of $3,012,076 was less by $607,444, or 16.78 per cent, than that of 1943. In both 1944 and 1943 net income before tax accruals was divided in the same way, with 70 per cent going for taxes and 30 per cent for the use of the railroad.

Mr. Bowman pointed out in the report that throughout the railroad industry net earnings have not kept pace with increased service. The Class 1 railroads, he said, collected gross revenues of almost nine and one-half billion dollars, an all-time peak and an increase of almost $400 million over 1943. But net railway operating income, notwithstanding, declined about one-quarter of a billion dollars and net income (income after fixed charges) by almost that amount.

"This," he stated, "is explained by the fact that wages continued to increase and tax rates were at the highest levels in history, whereas freight and passenger rates remained substantially at pre-war levels. With these rates continuing unchanged during the past year, even the peak volume of traffic did not enable the railroads to keep pace with advancing costs."

Among measures pursued by management to promote operating efficiency and to improve service despite the manpower shortage Mr. Bowman cited has been instituted on the road with the view to insuring proper observance of approved operational rules and practices.

A critical manpower shortage in the summer of 1944 he said, was met through mobilization of 500 high school boys for service as track workers. Under supervision of high school instructors and athletic coaches, who acted as time-keepers and counselors, the boys lived, worked, and thrived under conditions conducive to health and physical development.

Fifty-seven new industries were established on lines of the Pere Marquette during the year, making a total of 203 new industries since the outset of 1942. These industries accounted for 87,001 cars of freight handled in the 3-year period, representing revenues amounting to $8,680,263.

President Bowman voiced confidence over the prospects for the post-war period. He said:

"With a growing number of new industries added to those already firmly established in the territory served by your railroad, and the prospect of a continuing proportional growth in future years of the railroad's so-called "overhead business," the post-war era, traffic-wise, is not viewed with pessimism. In this connection it is interesting to recall that following World War I your railroad carried more revenue ton miles of freight in 1919 than in 1918, and more in 1920 than in 1919.

"It does not necessarily follow that this experience will be repeated, but it is reasonable to assume that a great deal of the slack which may result from the cessation of wartime manufacture will be taken up by the large-scale production of goods and materials to meet pent-up civilian demands, rehabilitation and reconstruction requirements. Because of the type of industry located in the territory served by Pere Marquette, your Directors believe that the future of your railroad in the post-war era may be viewed with justifiable confidence."

So You're Going to Repair The Barn?

THAT'S JUST WHAT WAR BONDS ARE FOR!

EVERYBODY'S PLANNING. Recent farm surveys show that a majority of the people who own their own farms are ready, the minute war ends, to build and repair barns and buildings and make many other improvements. Tenants, too, are on the lookout for farms of their own to build on in the post-war period. This is going to take many millions of dollars. Wise farmers have been saving the money for these purposes. Many of them have saved it in War Bonds—and many more are on their way.

HOW TO GET READY. You probably have many places on the farm to put money when materials and machinery and equipment are again available—if you have the money! So why not start right now? Step up your savings by buying War Bonds—the best and safest way to invest for future needs.

WHEN THE BOYS COME HOME. Your youngster in service is doing a man's job now—and he expects to do a man's job when he gets home again. But he won't be happy with run-down buildings and inefficient equipment. So that's another good reason for stepping up your purchase of War Bonds. You're backing him up in his fight to preserve our country, and at the same time preparing for the kind of home he wants to come back to.

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get 1/2 more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. BUY WAR BONDS!

Baseball, Track, Golf Teams Ready To Go In New Suburban 'B' League

The new six-school Suburban "B" League, of which Plymouth High School is a member, begins operating in all sports as well as speaking and music this spring. The spring baseball, track and golf schedules for Plymouth were announced this week by Athletic Director John Tomshack. Speaking and music activities already have been announced.

The league was formed partly as a wartime emergency and partly because of the disintegration of various leagues, of the old Twin Valley League. It is expected to continue and expand after the war.

The Twin Valley League had outgrown Plymouth and at the same time, some other schools, notably Trenton and Belleville, had outgrown their old leagues necessitating formation of the new circuit. Wartime travel curtailment also influenced its formation.

Clean the Orchard No Fresh Greens? To Destroy Insects Then Eat Weeds

One of the best ways to control destructive insects and diseases in the small home orchard, where the owner lacks adequate spraying equipment, is to do what grandfather did—keep the orchard clean.

T. C. Stebbins, extension specialist in horticulture, maintains that sanitation will go a long way toward keeping the codling moth and other insects, as well as disease, from multiplying. To get the crop of codling moth that will soon be developing, right now is the time to scrape the trunks of the apple trees, he says.

Use an old piece of hick or a section of a moving machine sicle. Scrape off all the loose scales of bark as high as there is rough bark on the tree. It's under these scales that the larvae are lurking. Also, clean all rubbish or old apple tree prunings from the orchard. Only straw can safely be left on the ground around the trees.

Chemically treated corrugated bands that can be purchased from orchard supply houses also will trap and kill many of the moths. Put them around the trunks of the trees in late May or early June.

Sprays are needed for complete control of scab and should be applied immediately. For the grower with only hand spraying equipment, the best spray is liquid lime sulfur, 2 gallons to 98 gallons of water. Apply every 10 days to 2 weeks until about 20 days after the blossoms have fallen.

Codling moth sprays are advisable starting just after the blossoms have fallen. Use 2 pounds of arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water. Increase the strength for each spray.

Also back from last year's squad is Outfielder Dale Bentley, a junior, who is expected to battle with Duane Rutenbar, Del's brother and a sophomore, for the right field job. Other outfield candidates are Sophomores Bob Woods, who also aspires to pitch, and Melvin Woodard.

Pitching candidates besides Shely are Lefty Terry Hitt, a sophomore, and Fred Hopkins, a senior. The shortage in that department is what worries Tomshack most.

First Base hopefuls are Jim Noyes, a senior, and Don Hayes, a junior, with Noyes apparently having the edge at this writing.

Jack Dobbs a sophomore, appears to have the edge among five candidates in the race for the third base post. The others, who will have to be satisfied as utility players if beaten out, are Larry Eckles, a senior; Don Schaufele, sophomore; Bob Wagenschutz, sophomore, and Bob Brink, junior.

Rock, who appears to have the first string catching job sewed up, also can play third base. He's described as an all-around ball player by the coach. Sirely, another all-around player, also could fill in at third.

Tomshack has another worry, but he doesn't think it will be too great. Del Rutenbar, the center fielder, has been accepted by the Army and is awaiting his call. He has been told, though, that he has two or three months to wait.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When you think of the sacrifices our fighting men are making in this war, it's hard to figure out how we'll ever repay them, isn't it, Judge?"

"Yes, it really is, Tom. There are only certain things we can do. Such as... write them cheerful letters often. Send them favorite gifts from time to time. Work harder than ever to provide them with everything they need to finish their job quickly. Buy more and more War Bonds... especially during the current drive... to pay for the ammunition and fighting equipment they must have."

"All that still seems kind of small compared with what they're doing for us, Judge."

"True, but it's about all we older folks back home can do, Tom. Except one more thing. And that is to be sure our fighting men come home to the same kind of country they left behind. The kind of country their letters tell us they want. Nothing changed that they don't want changed while they're away and unable to express their wishes."

Radios and Refrigerators... Tires and Telephones are all in the same boat

Many thousands of people can't get telephones today for the same reason they can't get radios, refrigerators, tires, automobiles. Telephone factories also are busy on war work, and will be for a long time. There just aren't enough telephones to go around.

But the telephone instrument is only part of the problem. More than half of our 100,000 unfilled orders also are held up because of the lack of central office apparatus, cables and wires.

When war does release manpower, materials and manufacturing facilities, we're planning a full-speed program of expansion and improvement costing $120,000,000 in the first five years. But even working at that rapid rate, it will take at least two years to manufacture and install enough equipment so telephones can be furnished generally without delay.

We are sorry if you must wait for a telephone. We will fill your order in its proper turn just as soon as possible.
