TAMPERING WITH GRAND JURY PROCEEDINGS?

The writer of this editorial is a member of the Michigan house of representatives. It requires a vote of both the house and the senate to pass any appropriation bill.

That's a CONSTITUTIONAL provision. We can find nowhere in the Constitution, in any legislative decision, rule or regulation, any provision which permits one branch of the legislature to make an investigation into an appropriation that must be voted upon by both houses.

In other words, we can't find any provision in the state constitution, laws or legislative rules that permits the senate to investigate something the house has done or that would permit the house to investigate some act of the senate.

And that is just what this phoney Johnson grand jury committee is doing.

Rightly, an investigation of any appropriation requires the vote on a JOINT resolution of both the house and senate.

But the opinion of the house of representatives was entirely ignored on the question by Senator Ivan Johnson and his cohorts who fathered the senate scheme.

Every member of the house can rightly assume that the Johnson inquiry is nothing more than a direct slap at the house of representatives.

As we see it, the chairman of this committee who is conducting the investigation of the expenditures of the grand jury that has been uncovering, convicting and sending to prison bribing officials and bribe-givers, is out apparently to use his investigating committee not only to smear the officials who have convicted a lot of crooks and bribe-takers, but the grand jury as well.

As an honest state official he should remember that there are a lot of other accused bribe-takers and bribe-payers yet to be tried.

As we see it, the thing he is doing is to smear and discredit witnesses for the people who will be used, or should be, against the accused.

If that is not grand jury tampering, we doubt if we know the meaning of the word.

And what is the Judge now in charge of the grand jury doing about it?

LET'S SEE HOW IT WORKS.

Pity the poor lumberman, the builder and the plumber and all other persons who have to do with construction work. Certainly the regulations laid down last week for the building industry were sweeping.

But if they help to get homes erected for veterans, that's perfectly O. K. Maybe we're wrong, but we can't see how more government regulations, more government rules and more government don'ts, will be of much help in spurring along a building boom that the country so badly needs.

We should not, however, pass judgment upon the new government plan until it has been given a trial. But judging from past experiences with government regulations and dictations, we cannot hope for much out of all the red tape that now has been placed upon the building industry. All we can do is wait and see how detrimental or beneficial it will be.

WHAT ELSE COULD YOU EXPECT?

Permit Jay G. Hayden of The Detroit News Washington staff to tell of the supreme court decision, written by our own Frank Murphy, in which thievery on the part of union members is not a law violation, and perfectly legal.

But what else could you expect from Frank Murphy? Writes Mr. Hayden in The Detroit News of this LEGALIZED pilfering:

It is a significant circumstance that, on the very day a congressional joint conference committee unanimously reported the bill to curb the racketeering excesses of James Cagney, Pettullo's union of musicians, the Supreme Court reached a new high in absolutism of organized labor from criminal prosecution.

A 5 to 3 decision, written by Justice Murphy, not only sanctioned a cumulative kickback exaction of 85 percent, imposed by the AFL-HoD Carriers' Union, but held that the legal exemption of labor unions is so broad as to prevent prosecution of individual union members who stole the kickback and put it in their own pockets.

Chief Justice Stone and Justices Frankfurter and Burton, dissenting from this finding, declared that Congress certainly did not intend to immunize persons guilty of "collecting funds by coercion, through their control of jobs, for their own personal advantage at the expense of wage earner, labor union and taxpayer."

The offense so described occurred in connection with construction for the Government of barracks at Fort Devens, Mass., early in the war. The union, under its closed-shop contract, exacted 55 a week from each new worker. The payments ended when sufficient had been paid to make up the full union initiation fee, $50 at first but later reduced to $30 and then $20.

But, as the evidence established, when a worker quit before becoming eligible for a union card, what he had paid frequently was pocketed by the collector.

Justice Murphy's finding that Congress had forbidden prosecution even for the sort of pilfering, where a union is concerned, is the logical sequence of previous decisions in the same line.

One of these made the basis for the Hobbs bill, passed by the House and now before the Senate, designed to prevent the Teamsters' Union from compelling payments by nonunion competitors. In the face of proof that the union systematically collected fees, ranging up to $9.42, on each nonunion truck bringing farm produce into New York City, the Supreme Court held that there was nothing that could be done about it under the law.

The conference agreement on the Petrillo bill undoubtedly was hastened by the Murphy decision, and this bill also may break the dam against legislation dealing with other forms of labor racketeering. Congress started out to nullify Petrillo's edict against broadcasting by unionized radio stations of music produced by school children. It will end by outlawing a whole list of existing exactions upon radio stations by the musicians' union.

Specifically, the conference committee bill says that it shall be unlawful, by the use or threat of use of force, violence, intimidation, duress or "other means" (construed in some quarters as including strikes) to coerce, compel or constrain an employer to do any of the following:

- Employ personnel in excess of the number needed for actual service.
- Pay tribute in lieu of employing excess personnel.
- Pay more than once for service performed.
- Pay for services not performed by the recipient.
- Refrain from broadcasting noncommercial programs for which performers receive no money other than for expenses.
- Refrain from broadcasting any radio program originating outside the United States.

A high point of strategy by the congressional majority is to put this Petrillo bill, which certainly will be passed by a whopping majority in both houses, up to President Truman first.

If the President signs it, or if it passes over his veto, the next likely to be tried out on him is the Hobbs bill, and after that quite probably the Case bill, which combines a half dozen limitations on union practices.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller of Irving street announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Ann to William Schultz, son of Mrs. Beatrice Schultz of Sheridan avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club will hold a dinner meeting Tuesday, April 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the Episcopal Parish house with Col. Cass S. Hough as speaker. The title of the meeting will be "International Relations."

Fire Ruins Wolf Store

Big Penniman Avenue Grocery and Meat Market Burns Wednesday Night

Fire which originated from unknown causes in the basement of the building occupied by the Wolf grocery store and meat market located on Penniman avenue caused an estimated loss that will run considerably more than $15,000 late Wednesday evening.

In spite of the timely arrival and good work of the fire department, the fire broke through the basement into the store and almost completely ruined the big stock of supplies which had been unpacked for the week end trade. What the fire and heat did not ruin, the water did.

Dental offices of Dr. J. H. Todd and Dr. Carl January, located on the second floor escaped damage from flames but a considerable loss was suffered as the result of the smoke and heat.

The Detroit House of Correction fire department was called to assist the Plymouth department. The firemen were able to keep the blaze confined entirely to the lower part of the building and prevented it from getting into the adjoining Herriek jewelry store.

Manager Stanford Stubblefield of the Wolf store in looking over the damage Thursday morning, declared it looked like a complete loss to him, and members of the fire department agreed with him. Just how soon the store can be repaired and reopened is not known.

Firemen believe that the flames must have originated from electric wiring. They say the Wolf store has always been careful to keep refuse cleaned out of the basement and that there was nothing to indicate that the fire started from the furnace or near it.

Damage to the building, owned by Ed. Huston who has not yet returned from his winter vacation in Florida, was not excessive.

U of M Club Sets Round Table Talk

A round table discussion meeting of the Plymouth University of Michigan Alumni Club has been scheduled for the evening of April 11 at the home of City Manager and Mrs. Clarence H. Elliott, 450 Ann Street.

Moderator for the meeting will be Charles Brake, deputy commissioner of Wayne County Schools. The topic is, "Recreation in Plymouth."

Members planning on attending are asked to notify the hostess at least two days in advance of the meeting date.

Establishes Iron And Metal Plant

Under the ownership and direction of Bernard Marcus of Detroit, who expects to become a citizen of Plymouth as soon as housing facilities are available, there has been established at 215 Ann Arbor road the Marcus Iron & Metal company.

Mr. Marcus sometime ago purchased three acres of the Post farm and is building a modern plant to handle his business. An office building has already been finished and a portion of an 8 foot, 6 inch board fence has been erected to obstruct the view of the wrecking and storage section of the business from the highway.

"I plan to keep the place in a condition that will be most satisfactory to every one and to give to this locality a service of this nature that will be beneficial to the community," he stated yesterday.

He plans not only to buy on scrap iron and old automobiles, but to make available to the public various types of machines, used auto parts, belting and structural items.

While a native of Detroit, he conducted a plant of this kind for eleven years at Napoleon, Ohio. During the war he worked in a defense plant for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus have one daughter, who is now a Junior in Wayne University.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Russell have returned home after spending a few days on a trip to Indianapolis, Indiana, and New Albany, while in New Albany they visited the Gunnison factory where the "Home of Tomorrow" is built. Mr. and Mrs. Russell crossed the Ohio River to Louisville, Kentucky, then returned home through Cincinnati Dayton and Toledo, Ohio.

Lightning Causes One of Many Local Fires

Plymouth's volunteer fire department was on the alert last Wednesday night. From Thursday noon until 6 a.m. Monday, the fire ladders responded to seven alarms.

Three of them, including the two most severe blazes, came between Sunday noon and 6 a.m. Monday. But the men never failed to respond because of their alertness and prevented considerable loss at two Plymouth homes.

During the early morning thunderstorm Monday, firemen were summoned to the home of Joseph Heafner, 1062 Hartstough, when a lightning bolt struck the residence and ignited the roof.

Firemen reported that the blaze did not do much damage but the combined loss from the fire and the force of the lightning which ripped up the area around the spot it struck, would amount to about $100.

The Heafner family were jolted from their beds by the impact of the lightning bolt and severely shaken. They report it was a frightening experience.

According to firemen the most severe blaze was Sunday afternoon at the home of Homer Frisbie, 1433 Sheridan Street. Mr. Frisbie, who had kindled a fire in his fireplace, began to smell wood smoke after the fire had been burning for several minutes, they said.

"Maybe the roof is on fire," he mused, and sent his daughter out to have a look. She lost no time in reporting that the roof was on fire. Prompt action by the firemen limited the damage to $150.

Earlier in the day they had responded to a grass fire alarm at Ann Arbor and McClumpha Rds. Little damage to anything but the burned over soil was reported from there.

Harms Agency Is Taken Over By Roy Fisher

An important business announcement was made this week by Walter A. Harms, when he advised his large number of insurance policy holders that he had sold his agency to Roy Fisher, another well known Plymouth insurance man.

Mr. and Mrs. Harms, who have for more than 12 years devoted their entire time to the building of a fine insurance business in this city, have no immediate plans for the future, except a good long vacation. They plan to continue to reside in Plymouth and Mr. Harms requested that it be stated that their home at 1396 West Ann Arbor trail is not for sale.

Mr. Harms has taken an active part in Boy Scout activities, and (Continued on Page 2)

Architects' Sketch of Proposed Memorial Center and Its Location in Plymouth

Pamphlets describing the Plymouth District Veterans Memorial Foundation, its aims, basis of organization and how the people of Plymouth can help bring about its successful completion are being distributed throughout the community this week.

The foundation is a NON-PROFIT civic organization dedicated to building for Plymouth a memorial to all men and women of AT ANY TIME served in the armed forces of the United States.

The foundation plans a LIVING MEMORIAL rather than a monument. Among the facilities it will provide is an auditorium, swimming pool, gymnasium, meeting rooms, dining halls, kitchen, outdoor tennis courts, baseball diamond, gridiron for night football, parking lots and children's playgrounds.

At a meeting of the foundation committee Monday evening April 23rd was selected as the date of a community wide meeting to discuss the affairs of the building. The committee has moved slowly in laying the ground work for the memorial realizing that any actual building was out of the question at this time but all of the paper work is now completed up to the final draft of actual construction blueprints.

Wendell Lent is at present compiling a list of all local organizations who will be invited to attend the meeting and interested groups are asked to contact him if they are desirous of participating in the discussion at that time.

The pamphlet assures that the foundation is not just a "dream." Since V-J Day many groups and individuals of Plymouth have been hard at work. All legal matters are taken care of and more than $20,000 has been collected toward the project without any (Continued on Page 2)

Plymouth Sending Large Delegation On Dawn Patrol

Fourteen two-seater planes will take off from Mettetal Airport at 6:30 a.m. Sunday to fly down to Adrian for a meeting of the Dawn Patrol. It will be the third convocation of that astute group of Michigan pilots since the war began.

Plymouth probably will be the best represented community participating in the patrol. Each plane from here will carry a passenger in addition to the pilot. Fourteen planes and 28 persons is about the best delegation the Dawn Patrol could boast.

Frank Dely, one of the passengers, has been the co-ordinator of the Plymouth flight. He has arranged for the various pilots and supervised the passenger list. Heading the delegation will be Bob Mettetal, owner of the airport, and William C. Ryan, airport manager.

Other pilots who will take part in the mass flight are Benjamin McCaskell, Glenn Cogsdill, Everett Worth, Clyde Smith, Warren Harris, Steve Hmlowitz, James Ryan, Louise Peck, Betty Overman, Kenneth Airhart, Alex Sarkozy, Edward Francoise, Kenneth Haderoff, Warren McCracken, Peter L. Perkins and Wayne Haynes.

Upon arrival at Adrian the Plymouth delegation and similar groups from at least 50 Michigan cities and communities will combine for a breakfast to be served complimentary by the Adrian flight.

Pilots coming the greatest distance and those arriving first out of each mass flight will be awarded prizes. The meeting will last until noon.

Kim Sigler, Former Rotary District Governor, Fights Grafter Gang in Seeking GOP Governor Nomination

Kim Sigler, Republican candidate for the nomination for Governor, piled up an incomparable record in exposing and convicting grafters in Michigan's government as special prosecutor for the State grand jury because of a long-standing obsession for good government.

As a private attorney and public speaker, Sigler urged business men and leaders in various fields to offer themselves as candidates for public office and serve their government, arguing that Michigan was first in so many things that it should be equally first in good government.

Sigler was haunted by rumors of corruption in State governmental units long before he was asked to take the special jury prosecutorial in December, 1943.

His obsession became definite in 1942 when he had two cases in Lansing and discovered that the Legislature "reeked with graft." He was powerless to do anything about it as a private individual.

Justice Leland W. Carr, of the State Supreme Court, head of the grand jury as an Ingham Circuit judge, gave Sigler his opportunity a year later.

Sigler lost no time in setting up the machinery to ferret out crooks in the State Capitol. He re-organized the jury's staff of investigators and became the jury's chief investigator and prosecutor.

During the following 26 months, the Carr-Sigler team brought down 10 major indictments involving legislative corruption. Solely responsible for the prosecutions that followed, Sigler obtained 41 convictions in trials, obtained 12 guilty pleas and procured the confessions of 12 additional persons who be-

Dr. Carney Opens Nazarene Church Offices Again

Dr. Elmore Carney, recently discharged from Uncle Sam's navy as a senior grade lieutenant following three years service in the south Pacific and on the Pacific coast has again opened his optical offices in the Penniman building and finds himself just as busy as he was before he entered the armed forces three years ago.

During the past year or so he was stationed at Tillamook, Oregon, one of the three lighter-than-air navy stations in the world. After he left Harvard, he was sent to New Herbrides in the south Pacific and later placed in the navy blimp service.

Mrs. Carney and their two children returned to Plymouth with Lieut. Carney and the family is now nicely located in their former home at 345 Pacific Ave.

Dr. Carney before enlisting in the navy had established an excellent optometry practice in Plymouth which he is now busy re-establishing.

Nazarene Church Announces New Musical Director

Prof. A. H. Fitzgerrel has been engaged as the new musical director of the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene.

Prof. Fitzgerrel, now enrolled at the University of Michigan, has just been discharged after 28 months in the Navy Band. He expects to receive his Master's Degree in music from the university in June, 1947.

The new musical director attended Olivet Nazarene College for five years. During that time he also served as assistant professor in the instrumental music department. After a year at Ohio State University he began teaching instrumental music and voice in the public schools at Utica, Ohio.

The church feels that it is indeed fortunate to obtain the services of Prof. Fitzgerrel. His talent and experience are priceless.

Dunbar Davis And Jack Taylor Win Election

You just can't stop the boys who wore Uncle Sam's military uniforms. When they decide to go places, it appears that they are going to go there. That's the way they won the war.

And that's why Attorney Dunbar Davis, who arrived home from the army just in time to vote in the election Monday is now one of Plymouth's city commissioners.

He was elected by the margin of one vote, after a recount had been made, which gave him two more votes than the other boards had counted for him.

Commissioner Jack Taylor, for re-election for a third term, ran high.

When the election was completed their tabulation showed that Whipple had two more votes than the soldier candidate.

In such a close election a recount is always called for. Friends who had worked to elect the soldier thought it unfair to the people of Plymouth that a recount take place. The city commission under the charter, was required to hold a Tuesday night election. The checkers present at the election interested parties.

The recount showed that Davis the election, but it was conclusively that the city should conduct a second election for its election board members before each election.

In fact, Mayor Carl Sorenson already recommended that the city should arrange for such a second election in future elections in order to prevent such mistakes as were found in the recount. The third board provided the best municipal ballot check of the recount.

Following a final tabulation of votes:

Mayflower Post Has 80 Members

On Friday, March 8, George H. Gee, of Pontiac, Deputy Chief of Staff came to Plymouth to assist in the organization of Mayflower Post No. 6695, VFW.

At that meeting there were only 13 veterans of World War II. A week later the number of charter members had grown to 49. Two weeks later, through the activity of the 49 members, the post membership totaled 80.

The charter has been approved by national headquarters and is still open to qualified veterans. The post commander is Bob J. Burley. Anyone wishing to become a charter member of Plymouth's latest VFW post is asked to contact Mr. Burley.

To Activate New VFW Post April 11

Plymouth's latest military organization—Mayflower Post No. 6695, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be instituted with colorful ceremonies Thursday evening, April 11, at the Central High school gymnasium.

The ceremonies which also will include installation of the charter officers will be open to the general public.

Arthur H. Grieg, department senior vice commander, will act as mustering-in officer for the ceremonies. A ritual team from a Detroit VFW post will participate. Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies.

Canton Drive Nets Red Cross $424

Results of the Red Cross fund drive in Canton Township exceeded the expectations of the chairman, Mrs. F. F. Spigarelli, by far.

She and her very able assistants canvassed the township very thoroughly to collect $424.55. Mrs. Spigarelli is most grateful and wishes to publicly thank her helpers and everyone else in Canton Township who in any way aided the campaign.

Serving with Mrs. Spigarelli were Mrs. L. Wilkie, 50221 Cherry Hill; Mrs. V. Palmer, 49920 Cherry Hill; Mrs. A. O. Ketenun, 1329 Lotz road; Mrs. G. A. Lamerand, 6438 Canton Center; Mrs. I. Spigarelli, 1237 Beck road; Mrs. Moyer

PROPOSED MEMORIAL CENTER IN PLYMOUTH

type of campaign. The pamphlet is reproduced below along with the architectural drawings of the physical properties of the proposed foundation.

What is the Plymouth District Veterans Memorial Foundation?

It is a civic organization, dedicated to building for Plymouth memorial to all the men and women of this district who have, at any time, served in the armed forces of this country.

Is the Foundation a real non-profit, civic organization?

The foundation is legally incorporated as a non-profit organization under the laws of the State of Michigan. The present Board of Directors is composed of young men and women active in business and professional life in the Plymouth district.

Will the facilities to be built under the Foundation's program be for everyone in the Plymouth district?

The proposed auditorium, swimming pool, meeting rooms, dining rooms, and gymnasium which are to constitute the Foundation's building program, will be for the use of everyone in the Plymouth district. No one group, or combination of groups, will in any manner control or administer the facilities of the Foundation.

Will the control of these facilities always be in the hands of the people of the area?

The foundation Charter provides that the control of the buildings and facilities of the Foundation will always remain in the hands of, and be administered by, a Board of Directors, chosen by ballot by the people of the district. Each person contributing to the Foundation a nominal sum, shall be entitled to one vote, and only one vote.

Will the use of the Memorial facilities be free of charge?

It is hoped that no rental charges will be necessary for the use of the buildings. This and the matter of service charges for maintenance and upkeep will be one of the many policies to be considered in detail by the larger committee (to be set up in the near future).

What can I do to help make this project a success?

Certain civic groups are already beginning to raise funds for the Memorial by such means as dances, plays, etc. Before long the fund-raising campaign will be under way in earnest, and the hard work and loyal support of every person in the Plymouth district will be needed to put this project "over the top." As the campaign progresses, further opportunities for helping in this project will present themselves and be utilized.

Is this project just a dream at the present moment?

Definitely not! All legal matters have been taken care of! A site has been procured, and funds nearing the $20,000.00 mark have already been raised without the aid of a fund-raising campaign. Plans for the buildings are well along. Unless unforeseen difficulties arise, ground for the first building of the Memorial unit may be broken before the snow flies in 1946.

This architect's sketch shows the proposed location of the Memorial, in relation to the school and the surrounding area. The use of the land for the Memorial has been given to the Foundation by the city and school authorities. Centrally located, the site is the only one in the city which combines all the needs essential for the Memorial.

Little known is the fact that, after World War I, nearly $500,000,000 was spent in building monuments to the heroes of War I. Not one of these did any community any real good. Simply a lot of money tied up in marble and bronze for people to look at. Plymouth's Veterans Memorial Foundation proposes that anything built for its war heroes shall be a Living Memorial, one that contributes to the well being and good of this community.

With this in mind the committee appointed in November 1945 by Mayor Shear set out to sound the needs of this community. Results of this "sampling" showed clearly the need for an auditorium, a swimming pool, meeting rooms for civic organizations, a community dining room, and a gymnasium. So the committee set about to find out just how these facilities could be provided for the community as a really living Memorial to our war heroes.

Various plans and proposals for tying-up the Memorial with the city government or the school board were discussed at length. Out of all these discussions came the unanimous decision to make this Memorial a really Civic project, and to place the running of this project in the hands of the citizens, not in the hands of any political or semi-political groups; and further, to provide in the charter and by-laws of the Foundation the means for a really Civic administration of the Foundation's facilities for years to come.

While architect Thomas Moss was busy sketching various combinations of buildings to provide the necessary facilities, the Foundation's directors were trying to find a site, most appropriate, and available, for the buildings. The property bounded on the north by Farmer, east by the PMRR, west by Adams and south by the High School athletic field was chosen as the right location. A formal request was made to the school district and the city for either use or possession of this property. These two groups voted unanimously to approve the use of this property by the Foundation, and are presently engaged in smoothing out the legal ways for outright transfer of the property to the Foundation. Just as soon as this is accomplished the way will be cleared for further action.

Shortly the large working committees, upon whom the successful completion of the Memorial depends, will be completed. These committees will be composed of anyone and everyone anxious to bring the project into being. They will be a true cross section of Plymouth district. And any one who knows anything at all about Plymouth's citizens will know that once this community has finally decided to back this project, the Memorial so badly needed for so long, will become a thing of stone and mortar, an ever living memorial to those who have at any time worn the uniform of our country.

the Rotary club, in which he has a 12 year perfect attendance record. Mrs. Harms has always been active in Red Cross work and during the war period in various salvage and other war drives. Recently Mr. Harms was awarded special praise by the state for the high type administration he had carried on in conducting the Plymouth induction board. He has been its chairman since the board was created back in October, 1940, and to the duties of this board he has given unlimited time and attention. He is one of the few induction board chairmen in the state to serve during the entire five year war period. A veteran of the first world war, he accepted the responsibilities of his induction position in the same patriotic spirit he did his military duties in the first world war.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Schuler and daughter Jeanne are attending the funeral of the latter's mother in St. Catherine's, Ontario. Mrs. Schuler will remain there a week or ten days.

Mr. Fisher, a long time resident of Plymouth, and at present the president of the Plymouth Kiwanis club, states that it is his intention to give his many new customers the same excellent service always given by Mr. Harms. He has already moved the files and records of the Farm agency to his office on South Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Harms expect to take their first automobile trip soon to Kansas City, where they will spend some weeks in visiting with relatives and old friends.

There is no doubt that the city paid out more for the epidemic of runs than the actual amount of damage done by the seven blazes, but money paid out for fire prevention is money earned.

Rush Plans to Hold Annual Wildlife Meeting in New Joy Road Club House

Using some of the same old tactics that made him the wrestling champion of the University of Michigan back in "the good old days," President Brick Champe of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association has "wrestled" the organization's club house into near readiness for occupancy.

He hopes that the annual meeting of the club can be held in the structure, located on Joy road just west of Wayne road sometime this month.

The windows have been placed, the wiring is ready for connection, and the concrete floor in the basement will be poured probably this week-end.

Aided by a faithful band of members, President Champe has worked nearly every weekend to get the building ready for use as soon as possible.

Members of the organization, states President Champe, will find that there will be plenty of work to do not only this year but next year as well, before the structure and grounds are finished up as originally planned. The date of the annual meeting, which takes place in April, will be announced soon, states President Champe.

KIM SIGLER FIGHTS GRAFTER GANG

The convictions included 9 graft-taking former State Senators and 10 former State Representatives, all of whom were sentenced to prison terms.

Sigler entered the race for Governor when a public demand that he carry on the fight for clean government followed his ouster as special prosecutor by Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash, successor grand juror, March 12, as the result of a Senate-inspired controversy over grand jury expenditures.

After agreeing with Sigler that no jury expense records pertaining to pending jury cases would be released to a Senate committee inquiring into jury expenditures, Judge Coash turned these records over to the committee.

The committee, headed by Senator Ivan A. Johnston, of Mt. Clemens, with Roy T. Conley, Lansing attorney prominent for his anti-grand jury attitude, as committee counsel, promptly released expense records for publication which "smeared" Sigler's chief witness in a pending indictment involving the 1941 anti-chain banking legislation.

Sigler, who was in Florida at the time, returned to let loose a blast at the committee, charging the group with attempting to destroy the jury's pending cases. Judge Coash took the next action. He suspended the grand jury to make his own inquiry of jury expenditures.

The special prosecutor publicly charged Judge Coash with "playing into the hands of persons who want the grand jury wrecked," and with "complete surrender" to the Senate committee.

Judge Coash's retaliation resulted in Sigler's discharge. The grand juror named a new jury legal staff unfamiliar with the jury's past or pending cases.

Judge Coash, an appointee of Gov. Harry F. Kelly, had not signed a single indictment and himself was unfamiliar with the major part of the jury's record.

Sigler left a lucrative law practice at Battle Creek to become the jury's prosecutor. Previously he had practiced law in Hastings, Mich., and Detroit and was selected by Justice Carr because he was "the best man in Michigan" for the job.

He was prosecutor of Barry County for three terms between 1922 and 1929 and special prosecutor at various times for Barry and other counties.

Always a court room "fighter," Sigler has amazing energy and driving power. An excellent orator and strategist, Sigler won seven straight legal victories in grand jury trials.

There is nothing of either the reformer or crusader in Sigler. Because of his interest in colorful wearing apparel he has the combined appearance of a Grover Whalen and a prosperous western cattle man.

His hats with wide brims and high crowns stamp him as a man once from the west. Stockily built, his grey bushy hair with a white streak running through the center is combed severely back. A ruddy complexion, his face has the appearance of a man always outdoors.

A golfer who frequently shoots in the low 70's, Sigler's main hobby is reading biographies of Civil War generals.

An extensive traveler in Europe, Sigler was a delegate to the Rotary International Conference in Nice, France, in 1937. He was then district governor of the 151st Rotary International. This district comprises all of southwestern Michigan. He became an active Rotarian in 1928 and is past president of the Hastings Rotary Club.

Served several years as a commissioner of the Michigan State Bar Association by appointment of the Supreme Court, Sigler is a member of the Judicature Society, the National Geographic Society, the Masonic Blue Lodge, the Council, and the Commandery of Pythias and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Born May 2, 1894 at Schuyler, Neb., Sigler was raised on the prosperous cattle ranch of his parents at Gothenburg, Neb. As a young man he was a farm hand, a cowboy, a lumber jack, a railroad construction worker, a factory worker, briefly an amateur boxer, and a hobby by choice to gain experience.

Although his parents were reasonably wealthy Sigler came up the hard way to show his parents he could make a go of things "on his own." He worked his way through the University of Michigan waiting table in the University Hospital, through the University of Detroit Law School by studying days and working nights in the Ford Motor Company's Highland Park plant.

Sigler received his law degree in 1918 and was admitted to the bar. A year earlier he married Mrs. Sigler, then Mae Louise Pierson, of Goodrich, Mich., daughter of a Goodrich farmer and banker. They have two daughters, Madeline, now in college, and Mrs. Betty Slattery.

Pre-War Days Back at Hotel

Ralph Lorenz

Once again Plymouth's well-known Mayflower hotel looks just as it did "before the war."

It's all because former Manager Ralph Lorenz, who served for three years in Uncle Sam's navy as Lieutenant Ralph Lorenz, has shed his navy brass and gold, put his "civvies" back on and is up again managing the Mayflower just as he did in the days before Hitler started out to lick the world.

"Am I glad to be back, did you ask? What a question! I'm so tickled to be back, I can't even talk about it" he said Monday forenoon as he greeted some of his old friends when he strolled about the hotel looking for something to do.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Frost who most commendably managed the hotel during the absence of Mr. Lorenz, left early this week to reside on their farm near Grand Rapids.

Manager and Mrs. Lorenz and children are again occupying their attractive home on West Ann Arbor Trail.

Dave Galin Goes Back to School

One is never too old to learn. And this doesn't imply that Dave Galin is anything but a young man.

But Dave is going back to night-school. He thinks a lot of things have happened in this old world lately that requires one to have additional "schooling."

It seems that Plymouth's well-known Purity Market owner who in addition to running a meat market, branched out and established an appliance store, wants to know all about how the lady of the house should lay out her kitchen, where she should place the sink, set the stove, keep the freezer and place all the other kitchen gadgets that have come into existence since the war.

Morley Bros. of Detroit, the wholesale distributors of appliances Galin & Son are handling, have started a night school so that their dealers will be able to give their customers expert advice on just how to plan the kitchen. Dave, wanting to know all about it, is going to night school.

Kansas Girl Becomes Bride of Romaine Lee

Evelyn Crosson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Crosson of Independence, Kansas, spoke her nuptial vows to Romaine Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lee of Dewey street, March 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Christian Church, Independence, Kansas with Rev. John Hanna officiating.

The bride wore a three piece grey pin stripe suit with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley formerly of this city attended the couple with just the immediate family present.

Pfc. Robert Allenbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Allenbaugh recently received his honorable discharge at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, after serving 36 months in the Army. He was 18 months in the Aleutians and nine months in India. He is entitled to wear the Good Conduct Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Theatre Ribbon, Meritorious Unit Award, World War II Victory Medal, and the American Theatre Ribbon.

Mr. R. Penhale Attends Meeting in Chicago

Principal Randall R. Penhale attended the meeting of the North Central Association of High Schools and Colleges in session at the Palmer House in Chicago last week.

Among those on the program at the meeting were: Chen Ping-Chuan who spoke on College Education in China; its past and future; Reverend Wilfred M. Mallon whose topic was New Ways to Unchanging Value; and E. F. Landuist who spoke on the Formulation of General Education Development Tests.

While in Chicago Mr. Penhale transacted some business for the Michigan Secondary School Association of which Plymouth High School is a member.

STORY OF C. HOUGH IS IN NEW ENGLISH TEXT

The story of Col. Cass Hough's heroic terminal velocity dive at 800 m.p.h., faster than the speed of sound, has been included in the new edition of "Prose and Poetry for Appreciation" which will be used in 10th grade English classes next year.

In "Fifteen Seconds to Live" Vivian Drake describes Col. Hough's drive, as deliberate exposure to one of the most dangerous experiments in aviation history. Col. Hough deliberately put a Lockheed P-38 Lightning into a terminal velocity dive, a feat which he knew had killed one man before him, another barely escaping with his life.

He was only 20,000 feet, or 11 seconds away from death when the huge plane gave the first sign of coming under control. After the controls finally took hold, Col. Hough recovered to find himself 5,000 feet higher heading almost straight up.

Col. Hough, well known native of Plymouth and father of two students of Plymouth High School, was awarded an Air Force Citation accompanied by the Distinguished Flying Cross.

P.H.S. STUDENTS TAKE SCHOLARSHIP TESTS

Candidates for Alumni Scholarships to the University of Michigan took general scholastic examinations in Ann Arbor's Rackham Building on March 26. Examinations covering general knowledge mathematics, and a general guidance form for helping new students at Michigan were given from 9-12 a.m., and examinations testing the candidates knowledge in science, English, and spelling were given from 1-3. Since Plymouth's U. of M. Club is the third largest in the country, Plymouth was allowed to have nine candidates for the scholarships.

NOW IS THE TIME!

Students—Have you thought about what you wanted to do or to be after completing high school? Have you said: Shall I go on to college? Do I want to be a banker? a lawyer? a doctor? a secretary? an aviator? a bookkeeper? a teacher? a housewife? a clerk? a salesman? a reporter? a factory worker? or just what do I want to be?

How much salary do I want to receive? What hours do I want to work? What days will I have to work? The department of Guidance and Counseling Room 14 has on file occupational information, college bulletins and applications. It is prepared to give you personality, clerical, and mechanical aptitude tests, plus a vocational interest inventory. Why don't you make use of these services?

Now is the time to choose whatever vocation you want to follow. Now while you are still in high school. Remember you had better start deciding unless you want to be left behind in the job race.

Twelve predictions concerning the future of guidance were presented by Dr. Robert Hoppock, professor of education and chairman of the department of guidance and personnel, New York University, when he gave the address at the 10th annual guidance conference held at Western Michigan College.

The conference was sponsored jointly by the Southwestern Michigan Guidance Association and Western Michigan College, and was attended by approximately 500 Michigan men and women concerned with various phases of guidance work.

Dr. Hoppock spoke on the subject "Looking Forward in Guidance," and emphasized its growing importance and urged greater preparation not only of the personnel of the professional guidance staff but also of classroom teachers.

Carl Horn, Chief of occupational information and guidance, State Board of Control for Vocational Education, was chairman of a panel representing 6 schools and representatives in guidance work at the present time. Programs and the functioning of the programs were presented by each representative.

New members of directors were elected, including Miss Beatrice Denton, Holland, and A. L. Schay, State High School, elected for two years, and Byron Thomas Coldwater, and Anthony Matulis, Plymouth, for three years, Miss Sue Slayton, Kalamazoo Central High School, was elected secretary, and Mrs. Dora Egner, Bellevue, treasurer.

STUDENTS URGED TO RESPECT SCHOOL LETTERS

By Alan Kidston
The awarding of school letters of excellence in inter-high school athletic competition has long been an established custom and a cherished heritage in the high school of the United States. Since the days when our fathers attended high school, and even before, it has always been one of the highest ambitions of the boy just entering high school to "win his letter." The desire to "win a letter" has always been one of the driving forces which made boys go out for athletics and as a result have to spend much free time practicing; to take bumps, bruises, and sometimes injuries on the football field; to drive themselves to the dropping point in track meet and basketball games. These things have always been just part of the game, part of the enjoyment of the sport, part of the introduction to the time when he can wear his letter and feel that he has done something to make his school be proud of. Yes, the boys who wear the block P have always held a place of honor and respect in our school.

However, in recent years this feeling of respect and honor has been diminishing, and all the incentive for winning a letter in Plymouth High has been slipping away. Why is this true? It is true because the wearing of the block P is no longer restricted to those who have won this right in athletic competition. There are students in the school who wear letters without ever having seen an athletic field. There are students who wear the block P without even a semblance of a reason for wearing it. At present the Varsity Club and the Student Council are trying to enforce a system for the awarding and wearing of school letters; however this can never be accomplished without the full support and cooperation of every student in the school.

Last Friday in Assembly awards for athletic competition during last semester were given out. At that time the basis upon which these awards are given was explained and the regulations for wearing a letter and stripes were read. We all know now, if we did not know before, how and why a letter should be worn; so let us remember and obey these rules and make athletics and the winning of a letter what it should be in Plymouth High School.

JOURNALISM CLASS VISITS DETROIT NEWS

Wednesday, March 27 the Journalism class visited the Detroit News. About 1:00 the class arrived in the waiting room where they saw a showcase filled with pictures and news stories.

At 1:30 a guide came into the room and directed the class to a waiting elevator which took them up to the fourth floor. After leaving the elevator the guide directed the class to several offices which makes up the editorial offices of the woman's page. When everyone had finished looking through this the class was conducted to the photographers' office in which are 18 dark rooms and 18 photographers that enables them to operate a 24 hour service. The art department, which is next to the photographers offices, is used to touch up the pictures and make them more clear. Also on the fourth floor is the sound proof room where women receive the classified ads. On the wall is a huge map of Detroit and vicinity which shows 700 sub stations from which classified ads are received.

The class then walked down to the third floor where they first went into the reference room where a copy of every newspaper is kept for five years after which a photostatic copy is made of it. From this copy which looks like V-mail the newspaper can be easily reproduced. Leaving the reference room the class saw the answer room where questions, which are asked by the public are answered to the best of the workers' ability. Next on the visitor's tour is the composing room where type is set up on a linotype machine on which every story is set up separately. After the story is set up the proof readers check the mistakes and if one is found the line in which the mistake occurred is sent back to be re-typed. When all of the mistakes are corrected the linotype is set up in a steel frame the size of a page called a lock. This lock is then covered with a piece of heavy manila paper and sent through a machine which presses the type on the paper. This paper is called a matrix. In the engraving room, also on the third floor reproduced pictures are used. First they put acid on the metal in a machine. The two are clamped together

The second floor is used mainly for all of the business offices and also for the main press room. The press room prints, assembles, cuts and sends the papers to the circulation department where they are sent out to be delivered to the homes. The press rooms contain 54 printing units and they print about 30,000 papers per hour. The circulation of the Detroit News is about 500,000.

After going through the press room the group was led back to the waiting room where they left for home.

SPIRIT, DOES PHS HAVE IT?

By Dave Heinzman

One of the main sources of developing winning teams is the amount of enthusiasm shown towards it. It has been often said that a team can be no better than its supporters. According to this, then, Plymouth should have pretty fair teams. But is the backing up that we give our team true school spirit? Is this so called "spirit" just getting out to every game, cheering our side, booing the other side, overlooking our mistakes, being critical of the other fellow? Or does it go deeper than that? Does it mean that both teams are out there playing with all they have for their school, and that no matter which comes out on top, there is space in both locker rooms for congratulations, instead of hard feelings? If we know that our side played the game fair and sportsmanlike, even though we don't win, we should be proud of it, because everyone can not win all the time. This year in football we did not do so well, but every team has a slack year; and basketball was the same way. P.H.S. had a good team offensively, but did not do so good on defense. A number of the games were lost by two or three points. And now we are getting into the baseball season, and without any predictions. Let's back up our team every game with real school spirit!

"Michigan and the Old Northwest"

Cadillac's expedition spent the night of July 23, 1701, on Grosse Ile.

Returning upstream next morning, the colonists put ashore near a hill.

On July 26, Ste. Anne's day, work started on a chapel, named for the saint.

This first fort enclosed about an acre; Detroit now embraces 142 sq. miles.

Maybe Florida thought it had a "full house" of tourists during the past winter. Maybe some of the visitors had to sleep in their cars a night or two until they found some place to sleep inside a house or hotel.

But Florida's experience last winter will be nothing compared to that this summer of northern Michigan, according to George Bishop of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

Pointing out that 1946 tourist patronage will tax all available housing and feeding facilities throughout the Upper Peninsula, Mr. Bishop is advising Chambers of Commerce and resort associations to list immediately every room which will be available for rent during June, July and August.

Bishop based his prediction on the large number of inquiries being received at the Bureau's office in Marquette and at Michigan Tourist Council offices in Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Lansing.

"Inquiries from prospective visitors are running 300 per cent ahead of 1941, our last pre-war vacation year," he said, "indicating that we can expect an unprecedented flow of tourist traffic this summer."

Beach and picnicking facilities for 3,500 persons will be provided at Lakeport state park, 11 miles north of Port Huron, with completion of an $85,000 construction program approved by the state conservation commission recently.

An ultimate plan of development will provide buildings of permanent construction and other facilities for the accommodation of twice that number of users.

The mile of Lake Huron beach will be cleaned up, temporary dressing booths and checking facilities provided, and a parking area accommodating 1,000 cars will be built. Present construction plans call for erection of some permanent structures and portions of water and sewage disposal systems.

Located 68 miles from Plymouth, Lakeport state park will serve an area in which 3,000,000 persons reside.

Blueprints, plans, drawings and sketches of structures suitable for resort or cabin groups, together with plans for laying out and landscaping a resort, are available and can be obtained by writing to L. R. Schoenmann, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich.

There is no charge for the sketches and designs, which were prepared under the land institute division of the college. Designs of single cabins and resort groupings are both available.

"The college program making these sketches available to persons contemplating erection of resorts or expansion and improvement of their present property is very timely," George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, said in making the above announcement, "particularly since provision of adequate facilities for housing and feeding visitors to the state and Upper Michigan constitutes the No. 1 problem for the Michigan tourist trade."

President Brick Champe of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association has frequently commented about the fickleness of trout fishermen. It wasn't over a year or so ago at one of the same dinner "feeds" of the club that some of the members were talking about the difference in color of trout they had been catching, some not liking the "pale" appearance. Soon there will be no need for any more of these arguments, says President Champe.

Anglers who have objected to catching hatchery trout because of their pale coloration will be unable in the future to decide whether their prize is a wild trout or a reasonable facsimile produced by a new coloration method developed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, Service director, reported to Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug recently that a new method for coloring hatchery-reared brown or brook trout, which requires the use of paprika in the trout's diet, will be tried in Federal hatcheries all over the country during the coming season as well as in some of the State hatcheries.

To A. V. Tunison, assistant chief of the Service's Division of Game-fish and Hatcheries, goes credit for the development of this method whereby hatchery trout are colored to resemble wild trout. The experiments were carried on in cooperation with the State of New York and Cornell University while Mr. Tunison was stationed at the Service's laboratory in Sortland, N. Y.

Hatchery raised fish which were fed on gull eggs on an experimental basis in 1942 were the first to show the natural coloring. By analysis of these eggs, biologists discovered that carotenoid compound, occurring only in aquatic animals upon which gulls feed, was the compound producing the pigmentation. Tests demonstrated that chicken eggs, alfalfa meal, and corn gluten meal produced a yellow color in the trout.

Since gull eggs were not commercially available, other substances were sought that would produce similar pigmentation. Paprika was found to produce very nearly the same coloration. In experiments conducted in 1944 and 1945 coloration similar to that of wild trout could be produced by using 2 percent paprika in the diet. The fins became colored and spots characteristic of wild fish appeared. Larger quantities of paprika produced brilliant coloration of the entire body. It was found that fish taken off the paprika diet still retained their color from six weeks to two months after coloration had been developed. The paprika does not produce any toxic effect and colors only the exterior of the fish. The taste of the fish is not affected. Tests on taste made at the Michigan State College have shown that there is little difference between hatchery-reared and wild trout except under certain specialized conditions.

Now that paprika is available again in the large quantities required for hatchery use, the Service proposes to give the new method an extensive try-out.

Although the new method is successful with brown and brook trout, the Service states that no method of coloring rainbow trout has yet been found.

The Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association, in accord with the wishes of its member clubs, is proposing that the State of Michigan through its Department of Conservation, shall hereafter in the sale of all wild public lands, reserve to the public all hunting and fishing rights. The proposal springs largely from observations of a number of factors bearing on Michigan's wild land situation, namely:

First, the State may ultimately have to dispose of a substantial portion of its wild land holdings.

Second, the Department of Conservation, for financial reasons, may have to limit the land acquisition program.

Third, the increase of no hunting signs, particularly in the Upper Peninsula.

With the expected increase of hunters and fishermen the three above named observations may substitute or develop a threat to public hunting and fishing unless immediate steps are taken to minimize the danger. The proposal might appear to be complicated and one that might create many problems of administration, but the complexity of the problem is more apparent than real according to Northern Michigan sportsmen.

The initial step is the setting up of necessary regulations providing that in the sale of all wild lands the State shall reserve to the public the right to hunt and fish; second, this reservation would be in the deed of conveyance which would carry specific reference to the regulatory provisions; third, under the regulations the Department of Conservation could have such adequate means as agricultural development, logging, recreational use, residence purposes, and other good and adequate reasons within the discretion of the Department to exempt any particular description from the reservation. The grounds for an exemption should be broad and the procedure for obtaining an exemption should be as simple as possible; fourth, any land that is exempt from the reservation will be closed to hunting and fishing to all persons including the owner; fifth, the Department of Conservation may re-invoke the reservation as to any description when the need for exemption no longer exists.

This proposal should not create any undue difficulties with land titles. The records of the Register of Deeds would show the reservations in the State of Michigan, and the owner or any prospective purchaser could very easily obtain an exemption provided he wanted to devote the land to some economic, recreational or educational use. The problem created by the proposal would be much more simple than those involved in the practice of reserving mineral rights in many sections of the Upper Peninsula, as the reservations would always be in the name of the State.

It assures the maintenance and extension of the present program for the acquisition of public hunting and fishing sites. It would also tend to place more land on the tax rolls. It would assure the continuance of public hunting and fishing over our wild land areas. It would create more control over the development of private clubs adjacent to or near developed game areas. It would eliminate the objection of sales of large tracts of land to timber operators who want to acquire and hold the same for long range development. It would assure elbow room to the hunter and fisherman with less spending of sportsmen's funds for land acquisition. The Department of Conservation, relieved of some necessity of buying land for elbow room, could use more money for the acquisition of land and waters that would have a direct bearing on game and fish life management.

The Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association considers this request for hunting and fishing reservations on sales of Michigan's wild lands as one of immediate necessity if public hunting and fishing is to be maintained and developed for the greatest good of the greatest number.

The small cost of treating seed before planting is the best insurance against crop diseases, MSC specialists believe.

WHY ELECTRIC RANGES ARE BETTER

One of the glittering dreams of many a homemaker has been possession of that long-promised, spick-and-span, bright and shining all-electric kitchen.

Soon now you can buy that dream.

It may seem that the vision became a reality overnight, but it didn't happen that way. For at least a quarter of a century The Detroit Edison Company has been working at the job of making the dream come true.

The foundation unit of your modern kitchen is, as always, the stove. Some of the outstanding advantages of electric cooking were well known even 45 years ago, but the electric ranges of that time left much to be desired. They were slow to heat, and they cost too much.

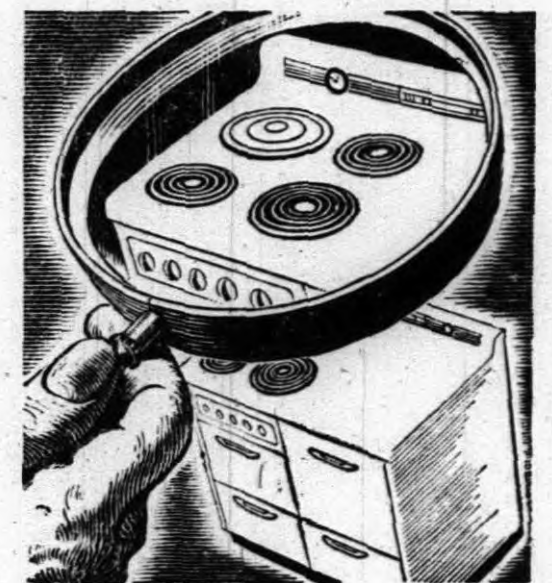

It was in 1920 that Detroit Edison decided to do something about the situation. Analysis and experiment proved to the company's engineers that major improvements were possible. At that point came the inevitable conclusion that the only way to prove to the industry and the housewife that better and lower-cost ranges could be made was to MAKE them.

The Detroit Edison Company abandoned precedent, and through an affiliate company began manufacturing electric ranges. They were not too good, but they were BETTER, and the cost was down. You, the cookers of meals for millions, told us what was wrong with them. We asked for trouble and we got it. You, the customers of Detroit Edison, who bought, used and criticized those ranges played a major part in transforming a vision into accomplished fact.

Alert manufacturers in the electric industry were quick to cooperate and follow through in the Detroit Edison experiment. We were glad to let them carry the ball. That gave Detroit Edison its opportunity to get out of the manufacturing field and back to its real business of selling electricity.

One of the results of this venture in improving the electric range is that people will avail themselves of more Edison service. The Detroit Edison Company is happy that, through your confidence and cooperation, it has been able to help create for you this contribution to modern living—the electric kitchen, superlatively clean, safe, efficient and economical.

Winter Life on Mackinac Island

Shooting Hollywood motion pictures on historic Mackinac Island, icebound in mid-winter, is like being shipwrecked on a desert island.
There's no place to go after you get there.
And when you get there you've got to wait many days before returning to your bustling post-war world, beset with its problems.
Mayor Allen Sawyers of the City of Mackinac Island took the recent excitement without raising an eyebrow. Attired in faded red and black checked windbreaker, stag trousers, heavy woolen shirt and a beaver cap, the mayor welcomed the arrival of a Hollywood motion picture crew which began the filming of winter scenes for "This Time for Keeps," a MGM production which will bring some of Hollywood's leading stars to Mackinac between now and next summer.
Among the visitors to Mackinac, during the MGM technicolor assignment, was Ben Wright, secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council. The "Michigan Mirror" invited him to report his observations. Here they are:
"Mackinac has a year round population of approximately 500, half of them Irish whose families have called 'The Mound' home for generations. Of the balance, about 25 percent are Indians who centuries ago fled from the windy shores to the center of the island and settled a shabby little village called Harrisonville.
"The contrast of Mackinac in mid-summer with Mackinac in mid-winter is delightfully shocking. Substituted for summer's gay laughter of youthful vacationists and the clop-clop of horses' hoofs is the death-like silence of the sleeping village where only the boom of the ice in the frozen Straits punctuates the air. So still is the setting that one finds himself talking in whispers.
"Life-long resident of the Island Otto Lang, plugs his combination mail-produce-passenger boat between the Island and Mackinaw City and St. Ignace just as long as the Straits are free of ice. Beginning somewhere around the last of January when the great winds of saucy Lake Huron and Lake Michigan compete to see which can pile the largest and the greatest number of floating ice islands into the narrow Straits, native Lang ties his craft, fast to the City Dock. From then on, the Islanders are at the mercy of winter.
"The State Ferries make only emergency runs to the Island in the winter. If someone is ill or if the Island needs food, the highway department will add Mackinac to one of its regular runs between the two peninsulas.
"At the first of February the stores were completely out of butter, eggs, bread and other assorted staples. Cap Bengten put the Sainte Marie in then to relieve the food shortage. Also debarking was an ex-GI whose limp told a war story. Embarking was another service man. He had come up eight days before to inspect a restaurant his brother had purchased for him while he was making 14 parachute jumps with the 82nd Airborne Division in Europe.
"Native ingenuity has partially solved the isolation of the Island during three or four months of the year. Three young men banded together this year to build a "Snosled," a rowboat-like contraption driven by an automobile motor of considerable age which turns a wooden propeller. It moves on a tricycle-placed skis and attains high rates of speed on clear ice. When the windrow heap drifts in its path the going is not easy, and often passengers and the pilot must brave the strong Straits winds to tug and haul it through the snow. On a windfree day with clear ice the trip from the Island to St. Ignace can be completed in 12 to 15 minutes, but that doesn't guarantee that the passenger won't have a nipped nose and frosted ears, for the "Snosled" is as open as a jeep in combat.

"The 'Snosled' carries the burden of communication between the Island and the mainland while the ice is too thin for horse drawn sleighs which take over when crystal-blue ice reaches thickness of 12 to 16 inches.
"The Snosled and the mailman's horse are just about the two most popular items on the Island in the winter. They symbolize contact with the mainland.
"News travels word of mouth for the most part. When Stewart Woodfill, manager-owner of the Grand Hotel, Commissioners W. F. Doyle and Donald McGowan of the Mackinac Island State Park Commission and a handful of newsmen arrived with the Hollywood contingent, the roster of the personnel aboard the Sainte Marie was known to every Islander before the ice crusher left St. Ignace.
"A winter visit by such personages is an event, especially when Commission Chairman Doyle elects to spend a few days in residence. Able devotee to the future, Doyle's first act on arriving is to reconnoiter the main stem, calling every last native by his first name and inquiring of his health, asking always what problem, if any, he might have. That's a $64 question, for there is hardly one among them who hasn't some pressing problem to discuss.
"It is not wishful thinking to envision a day when Mackinac will draw winter sports fans. From January 1 to late March there is seldom a prolonged period of above-freezing weather, and Mackinac gets more than its share of snow. The natives already have their toboggan slide, bob sled run, miles and miles of snow dipped trails for sleighing and plenty of slopes for skiing. Some day there will probably be regular boat service to the Island, and one or two of the hotels will be winterized. When that happens Mackinac may well become as popular in winter as it is in summer."

CLASS VISITS ROUGE PLANT.

By Martin Kregor

The first and second hour Geography classes of Mr. Stadtmiller, last Friday, March 29, visited the Ford River Rouge plant and viewed the making of the Ford and Mercury automobiles and Ford trucks.

The trip was made in two special chartered buses from the Plymouth Coach company.

We left Plymouth at a little after 9:00 a.m. and arrived at the Ford Rotunda building where we registered, made arrangements for luncheon and picked up the guides.

A short time later we arrived at the plant where the guide pointed out several buildings which were engaged in war work that were not in use.

The first building we visited was the rolling steel mill. First there was the smelter where the iron ore was melted and combined with other metals into large ingots of red hot steel about six feet in length and about two feet in diameter. Then by using rollers and chipping the red hot steel, they made into long sheets of steel, about four feet in width and various length all rolled up into rolls and stored until needed.

Other blocks were shaped for the axles, the wheel bases and chassis.

When we left this building, the time was 11:05 a.m. We took a tour of the grounds and saw the largest lake freighters on the Great Lakes. There was "The Henry Ford II," "The Benson Ford," and "The James Watt," all of which were being unloaded. By the docks were the large storage tanks and bins where they store enough of the raw materials, iron ore, coal and limestone. Next we saw the coke processor where the coal is burned from 16 to 24 hours, then put in a train car and dunked in water. You should have seen the steam roll off that load of coke.

We continued our tour and saw the building where Ford makes all his tires. This building will soon be out of operation as the machinery has been purchased by Russia. Also the glass plant where three and a half miles of glass was turned out every day before the war.

Then we arrived at the motor assembly plant where the motors for all the Ford cars manufactured are made. It was made by the assembly line method; each man has a certain job to do on each motor. Then came the final assembly line which started out with just the chassis then things kept adding on till finally the car was completed. There were three assembly line Fords, Mercury's and Ford trucks.

We then went back to the Rotunda building where we washed up and waited till 1:15 when we ate our lunch cafeteria style at the Administration building across the street from the Rotunda.

We started back about 1:50 p.m. and got back at about 2:30 p.m. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Hi-12 Club Hears Ohio Legislator

Guest speaker at the Hi-12 club dinner meeting Wednesday night at Masonic Temple was the Honorable Fred Hunt, of Toledo, Ohio. He was introduced by Clarence Schuler, past president of the club, and program chairman for April.

Mr. Hunt, a member of the Ohio State Legislature, also is president of the Michigan Association of Hi-Twelve clubs. His appearance created considerable interest and his splendid talk drew much favorable comment. The Plymouth group was most fortunate in getting Mr. Hunt as their speaker.

Last week the speaker was Homer Martin, a past president of the UAW (CIO), who is now a manufacturer's agent and gentleman farmer. He is a local resident too.

Mr. Martin spoke on "Which Way Labor?" He charged that the New Deal had been playing up to labor and has been able to prejudice the rank and file of labor unions against the boss. On the other hand, he declared, private enterprise has laid itself open to attacks by the Statists because it refuses to open its doors to labor.

Babson Says - -

Babson Discusses Utilities

New York City, April 5.—I dislike to see any more electric utilities taken over by the public at the present time. The utilities did well during the war and are now entitled to show what they can do in times of peace. Therefore, I wish it strictly understood that this week's column is not an appeal for public ownership. Yet, I do believe that investors in public utilities are entitled to know the truth.

Federal Power Commission

Up to now, public utilities have been regulated only by municipal authorities and state commissions who have understood local needs and conditions. In most cases they have been fair to the public, to the employees, and to the shareholders. Recently, however, the Federal Power Commission has come into the picture in a most threatening manner. The original idea was for this Commission to function only in connection with interstate problems; but current interpretations of the law enable it to interfere with most all electric utilities.

The Federal Power Commission is not content to render decisions based upon precedent. Shooting is not the only method of killing a man. A slow death may be brought about by starvation, by abuse, or even by fear. The utilities claim that the Federal Power Commission is using this latter method to bring about public ownership through unfair propaganda and an attempt to ruin the reputation of utility executives. Whether we like it or not, this program is destined to bring about government ownership of the utilities. This will probably be through large Federal Authorities, with the country divided into districts corresponding with the Federal Reserve Boards.

Depreciation Policies

A Federal Power Commission's formula demands that all depreciation charges, in excess of the cost of replacements and statutory dividends, shall be deducted from the appraisal price when and if the property is taken over by the public. This means that the public is already engaged in buying these properties on the installment plan!

The Commission claims that a utility has only three legitimate charges: (1) OPERATING EXPENSES, including taxes and interest on the debt; (2) DEPRECIATION, which the Commission recognizes only as a "reimbursement for facilities actually withdrawn from service and only enough to make good any actual wastage of capital"; and (3) DIVIDENDS, equivalent to an accepted allowable rate of interest on the "net property value" which words immediately bring up many conflicting views.

Rate Comparisons

The Federal Power Commission can show the public that rates for electricity can be very much less under public control. This, of course, is possible owing to the fact that the government can borrow money much more cheaply than a private utility; also to the fact that a publicly owned utility need pay no federal income taxes. As these amount to over 30 per cent, it can be seen that they are a great factor. Of course this merely means that the government must collect this money from other taxpayers if the utilities are exempt from taxation. But this point is soft-pedaled by those who advocate public ownership.

The Federal Power Commission can show the people of a community that, by taking over the utilities, they can (1) get a reduction in rates through the sapping of interest charges, and (2) get back, within twenty years, all that they pay for the property through the saving in federal income taxes. As the public gradually realizes this fact, there will be more and more properties taken over by Authorities. Furthermore, the above mentioned Depreciation Formula and the even more severe Original Cost Formula may help the public in getting these properties at bargain prices.

Socialism Increasing

Just now we hear little about public ownership in this country, but it is spreading at a rapid rate throughout Europe and the British Empire. Sooner or later the shadow of Socialism will fall on the United States. The New Deal is preparing the ground. When it hits the utilities will be one of the first groups to suffer. The bonds of public utility operating companies should be perfectly safe; but it may be wise for investors in utility stocks to cash in now before their properties are forcibly taken over by public authorities.

Farmers Urged To Protect Wildlife

Farmers are urged to refrain from unnecessary burning of cover on lands this spring to give depleting wildlife a chance for survival. A. O. Haugen of the Michigan Department of Conservation and extension service of Michigan State college warns of the fact that burning also has many disadvantages.

"The burning of swales, marshes, brushy areas and other suitable places for wildlife is a practice which has little or no agricultural value," Haugen holds out. "Cottontails are now nesting and pheasants soon will be. Spring burning reduces the amount of cover at a season when such cover is at minimum and crowd's game animals into less favorable areas. Burning of well-drained areas force pheasants to nest in poorly drained areas where they are drowned out," the conservationist continued.

Compilations of hunting records at the conservation department's Rose lake wildlife experiment station show that the kill of pheasants and rabbits is directly correlated with the amount of marsh and swale cover on the various study areas.
