Popular Northville Couple Have Plymouth Wedding Attendants

St. Paul's Lutheran church of Northville was the scene, July 6 at eight o'clock, of a double ring candlelight ceremony uniting in marriage Shirley Helene Musloff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Musloff of Fairbanks road, and Richard Lynn Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Richard Davis of Cambridge road. Rev. Edwin E. Rossow performed the ceremony before an altar banked with white daisies, and gladioli and set off by a background of palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white net over duchess satin with a medium length train. Her three tiered illusion veil was held by a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried a small white bible showered with white satin ribbons tied with stephinitis. Mrs. Arthur Miller sang "Because" and "O Perfect Love" and was accompanied at the organ by Miss Selma Schutte. Miss Patricia Clark of Jackson, a college room-mate of the bride acted as maid of honor, wearing a gown of light blue silk lace over taffeta. She wore a band of daisies in her hair and carried a bouquet of daisies. The four girls who acted as bridesmaids, Miss Ann Davis, sister of the groom; Mrs. Imogene McClain, Miss Jean Minehart, cousins of the bride; and Miss Donalee Reid, wore gowns much the same as that of the maid of honor.

The groom was attended by his cousin, William Davis. The ushers were William Clark, Robert Stremich, Louise Babbitt and Carter Church, all of Northville. Mrs. Musloff, mother of the bride, wore a gown of aqua silk lace and crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. Davis, mother of the groom, wore a gown of pink and black silk net and crepe with white accessories. Her flowers were also gardenias.

A reception was held at Botsford Inn for 250 guests. The dining table was centered with the wedding cake and surrounded with daisies, gladioli and fern.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left on their honeymoon to the east coast. They will go as far as Buffalo by boat, stop at Niagara Falls and continue on to Florida. For travelling, the bride wore a light green gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The bride graduated from Northville High school and attended the University of Michigan, graduating from there with a B. A. degree. The groom graduated from Cranbrook and attended Michigan State College until he was called into the service. He served in the South Pacific with the Army Air Forces for three years.

Out of town guests at the wedding were from Detroit, Dearborn, Wayne, Ferndale, Royal Oak, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Chicago, Flint, New Hudson, South Lyon, Battle Creek, Jackson, California, Florida and Ohio.

Visit Old Home In Colorado

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Shingleton, well known Plymouth residents, have been visiting for several days in Salida, Colorado where Mr. Shingleton was in business years ago.

Mr. Shingleton sent to The Plymouth Mail a copy of the tabloid "Salida Daily Mail," which contained an interesting interview with Frank A. Gimlet, termed "the Hermit of Arbor Villa." Mr. Shingleton stated that he had known him well back in the days when both were in business in Salida more than 35 years ago.

The interview in part, will be of interest to readers of The Plymouth Mail. It tells of a visit to Washington made by "the Hermit" who is apparently a pretty good authority on the silver question.

In part the report from the Salida paper follow:

Washington was alert when the Hermit arrived for his customary inspection, but he surprised the solons by calling first on the U. S. Treasury.

"Nobody was on the job," said the Hermit today. "Vinson was out of office, having been made chief justice, and Snyder had not yet moved in. I had to talk to one of the assistants, who was holding down the treasury. Just to find out the state of the nation and see how democracy is working. I asked a few questions. I want to tell the home folk that the atomic bomb ain't in it. What I carried away from that department is more dangerous than a half dozen atomic bombs."

"When I talked with congressmen later, and told them what I had found out, they were both amazed and stunned."

"Here is what I found out. Two years ago the U. S. Treasury had 800 million dollars in silver bullion, but we lend-leased to foreign nations and lent to U. S. corporations until we have only 235 million dollars in silver bullion on hand. The bullion that escaped is never coming back to us. Now, we have only two billion dollars in coined silver to back up the paper dollars. But we have 30 billion dollars in currency with no monetary backing. It is merely in the form of notes, backed by bonds."

"Next, I found out that the silversmiths and other industrialists are raiding the U. S. Treasury supply of silver dollars. They are presenting the $1 silver certificates and hauling away the silver coins and melting them down to be manufactured into silver goods."

"I asked the Treasury official if this is not against the law, which prohibits the mutilation of money. He replied that it really looked like that, but some smart lawyers had declared that it was not mutilation—just destruction. I asked him how one could destroy a thing without mutilating it, and darned if he knew. Neither do I."

"If the silversmiths keep on taking the silver dollars from the Treasury and melting them down, there will be no silver left. Then we will have paper money not backed by any metal."

"If the people cannot see what that will lead to, all I can say is, that I can. I asked the Treasury official what he thought about it, and he was frank in saying he did not know. He's a bright fellow, too."

"Bear in mind it costs the Government a lot of money to coin silver into dollars, and when the silversmiths take it out and melt it, they are destroying wealth in the form of labor."

Reorganization Gives Midget Loop New Life

The Rotary Midget League, according to Virgil C. Knowles, Plymouth recreation director, is working out much better under the reorganization of last week. All boys are now getting to play ball and no forfeits arising in the loop.

Last week the Midgets trampled the Red Socks, 21 to 11, for the scarlet legs first loss. The champion team of the midget loop will be awarded baseball caps with the lettering "Champs" on the bill. This will enable the community to tell the members of the champ team.

There are still many games to be played and the parents of these boys are urged to take an active interest in the games. They are scheduled for four o'clock on Mondays, Wednesday and Thursdays on the diamond back of the school.

A persistent turkey buzzard that hovered for three days above a spot near headquarters of Highland state recreation area led area manager C. D. Harris to a find that convinced him black market meat dealers had been among his park visitors. The buzzard was watching and trying to feed on a hind quarter of beef, and no barbecue party, Harris thinks, could have mislaid so much of its luncheon supply.

MICHIGAN, My MICHIGAN

BY • ELTON R. EATON

If a person will take a little time to look around when traveling about Michigan, it is amazing what interesting places can be found. Years ago when Kalamazoo county was "home" to the writer every one knew that "down south" in Colon, some 30 odd miles from the old "baliwick," was located the magicians of the country. When these performers who "sawed" women in two with a cross-cut saw, who made rabbits jump out of their coat pockets, found it necessary to "hole" up because of lack of funds or for other reasons, they went to Colon to remain until better days arrived.

The colony grew and the place is now regarded as the home of more famed magicians than any other place in the world.

Had forgotten all about Colon and its magicians until the other day when looking over an issue of The Michigan Tradesman, we turned to a write up of the home of one of Colon's magicians.

Michigan my Michigan readers will be interested in the following write up of one of Colon's industries which has resulted from its magician settlement:

Very few people in Michigan know it, but the town of Colon, down near the Indiana border, has become famous all over the world as the "Home of Hocus Pocus" where articles and equipment for magicians are manufactured for sale all over the universe, to amateur and professional disciples of legerdemain.

This village, 18 miles from a railroad, is the location of the Abbott Magic Novelty Company.

It was started 18 years ago by Percy Abbott, an Austrian-born magician.

Here five busy workshops manufacture almost 1,800 different articles for magicians and sold mostly by mail. Volume of business is over $160,000 annually.

Percy Abbott, who founded the firm, is himself an old-time magician. He has performed before audiences in China, India, England, Egypt and many other countries.

After he had opened a supply shop for magicians in Australia in 1923, he traveled to America for a rest, and, liking to fish, came to Michigan. Here he met a Colon girl and they were married. Abbott decided to remain in Colon and so established his business there.

More than 50 residents of Colon are employed in the Abbott workshops, the other principal industry in the town being the Lamb Knit Goods Company.

At times, Abbott is so rushed to fill orders that Colon families are hired as sub-contractors to assemble bouquets of feather flowers and other hand work items.

Abbott invented many of the tricks he sells. He has a knack of adapting everyday objects to magical purposes. For inspiration he goes to Detroit or Chicago and shops in dime stores. Some of his most successful tricks, from the point of sales, use 10-cent gadgets from Woolworth's.

Magicians seldom patent their tricks, depending more on professional ethics for protection. To steal another man's stunt would mean speedy ostracism in the magical world. If he particularly likes some effect which another magician is using, Abbott may offer to buy the manufacturing rights. Several topflight amateur magicians—one of them the millionaire president of a locomotive concern—hand over to Abbott the exclusive distribution of their magical innovations in return for nothing more substantial than a line of acknowledgment in the catalogue.

Manufacture of magic calls for woodworking, blacksmith, paint and machine shops, plus a printing department and a sewing and silk-dyeing room. The business is conducted like almost any other factory, with workmen fabricating small parts in metal and wood while deft-fingered girls assemble and package them. Only in the shipping department does the gaudy glamor of magic become apparent. Stacked in tiers to the ceiling are boxes of nickel-plated, dyed, and painted apparatus—the stuff that baffles people from coast to coast and keeps young and old standing hypnotized before "magic stores."

Abbott himself is a small, bespectacled, graying man who wears a perpetually worried look and claims to go without sleep for days at a time.

In the showroom adjoining his factory is a full-size stage where visiting wizards can try out a trick before buying it and where Abbott himself can keep in magical trim by occasionally sawing a woman in half.

Back in the days when Alex Groesbeck was Governor, Michigan led all of the states in the Union in tree planting. Millions and millions of pine trees were planted throughout the burned-over northern Michigan country. Today, except in places where forest fires have again swept the lands, travelers can begin to see the results of the tree planting of some 20 years ago.

Now comes Wisconsin with its boasts. Wisconsin planted over three times as many forest trees last year as any other state in the union, the U. S. Forest Service announces.

The Wisconsin Conservation Department's nurseries produced 13,000,000 trees last year for planting in all counties. The second highest forest tree producer was New York with 3,820,000. Other high producing states were Michigan, 3,768,000; Georgia, 3,407,100; and Pennsylvania, 3,533,300.

About half of the forest trees put out by the department last year were planted on farms, 6,226,900. Georgia was second in its farm plantings, nearly 3,000,000.

Wisconsin is highly conscious to the need of planting forest trees, the conservation department said, and the demand for forest planting stock last year was more than the department could fill.

Six Michigan counties which do not need to have the value of the tourist trade recited to them are Branch, St. Joseph, Van Buren, Cass, Lake and Mackinac. According to conservation department records they sold more fishing licenses last season to non-residents than to residents.

The margin was biggest in Branch county, where 11,733 non-resident and 6,392 resident licenses were sold. In St. Joseph county the count was 10,209 to 6,846, in Lake county 2,580 to 1,876, and in Mackinac 2,689 to 1,543.

Every county in the state except Barry, Livingston and Sanilac sold some $25 non-resident deer hunting licenses, and Iron county sold the most, 280. More northern non-resident small game hunting licenses were sold in Roscommon than in any other county, and Monroe led in the sale of southern Michigan non-resident small game permits.

Wayne county sold the most resident hunting and fishing licenses—102,659 and 84,003 respectively, but these numbers are not large in proportion to the population. Where Wayne sold fishing licenses to 4.1 per cent of its population, Roscommon sold resident fishing licenses equal to 182 per cent of its inhabitants. And where Wayne's resident deer license sales amounted to 1.3 per cent of its population, Roscommon's was 86.1 per cent.

The conservation department points out that hunters and fishermen may buy their licenses where they please, and that license sales are not an index to the number of sportsmen in each county.

Persons who would like to add some meat "tasting like high quality beef" to the currently common diet of canned meat and sausage can get it from turtles with no other equipment than a home-made trap, trap tags bearing their name and address, a fishing license, and a notice to the local conservation officer of where the trap is to be set.

Contrary to the legend that turtle has 13 kinds of meat, conservation department fisheries men say there are only two, light and dark, but this meat is of good quality and easily removed, as a turtle is easier to dress than a chicken. No law limits the size or number to be taken, but conservation men recommend freeing from traps those less than eight inches long.

Turtle trapping conditions continue good through September.

More Apartments Authorized

Five additional married veterans' permanent apartment buildings will be constructed on the campus of Michigan State college, to provide housing for eighty more veteran-students and their families, the State Board of Agriculture, college governing body, decided at its June meeting. The apartments, similar to six others now nearing completion, will be started soon and may be finished by next February.

Dishwashing Research

Michigan State college bacteriologists have conducted long research into the proper and sanitary methods of washing dishes. They received an added boost recently from the National Sanitation Foundation, of Ann Arbor, which donated $7,000 toward such research, which also is to include study of mechanical dishwashers.

What's wrong with a one-passenger trolley?

You might praise its comfort and convenience, if you happened to be the passenger. But if others were waiting, we believe you'd agree that sharing the trolley is a more practical plan.

The same principle applies to telephone service. Many people have waited a long time for a telephone, and sharing the lines means more service for more people sooner.

That's why we are making the widest possible use of party-line facilities. When more central office equipment and outside lines can be provided, we'll be able to furnish one-party service to everyone who wants it.

Meanwhile, if you're on a party line, you can help make service better for everyone by following these simple suggestions:

1. When the line is in use, please don't interrupt except in case of emergency.
2. Keep all calls as brief as possible.
3. Avoid making several calls in immediate succession.
4. After every call, hang up carefully. One receiver improperly replaced puts all the telephones on the line out of service.

State Socialism C.I.O. Aim Asserts
Writer For Michigan Newspapers

(By Gene Alleman)
The second phase of our post-war period is now well under way.

First came the Truman administration program whereby high purchasing power was to be maintained by a substantial increase in workers' wages.

It has been the thesis of left-wingers, as illustrated by views of the Michigan C.I.O., that the nation could not attain full employment and full production unless the wages of labor were raised to offset a $80 BILLION decline in war orders.

August Scholle, president of the Michigan C.I.O. council, declared in a talk at Michigan State College that wages must be increased or another depression was inevitable. Furthermore, he declared that any increase in wages must come out of profits and not be added to prices.

If prices were increased, said Scholle, then purchasing power would remain the same or go down instead of up. Yes, the employer must absorb any extra labor cost from his profits, according to Scholle. If he did not do so, come admirals, shoemakers have become senators, and newsboys have become governors.

It was the farmer, butcher, baker and candlestick maker, the gunsmith, pewterer, and button maker who told Hamilton, Adams and Jay to get the Constitution adopted and how to make it work.

Under the free enterprise system the price of an electric bulb has been decreased from $1.50 to 10 cents. The automobile has become the property of the man on the street. The telephone has become a household convenience. Refrigerators are commonplace, and so are bathrooms, radios, hot water and gas stoves—things which are almost unheard of in Soviet Russia!

What political system announced a $5 minimum wage? Henry Ford did it. It was private enterprise, not government, that raised the living standards of the American worker to enviable heights.

Why do peoples of every other land want to emigrate to America?

Are we the downtrodden, frustrated, exploited people?

Is our economic system obsolete, decrepit, broken-down and in need of replacement by a glorious totalitarian state?

Andrew I. Vishinsky, soviet deputy foreign minister, said on May 15: "The soviet principle of justice is based on democratic dictatorship. A dictatorship can be democratic when it acts in the interest of the people."

In our opinion, the nation's present confusion, uncertainty and chaos are leading us down the road to another D-Day: "Democratic dictatorship."

There is still time to save our American liberty and freedom.

"The price of liberty is eternal vigilance."

Stellar Golfing Feat Recorded by "Gobby" Lorenz

Ralph "Gobby" Lorenz, manager of Hotel Mayflower, could make his living as a professional golfer if ever he gets tired of managing the local hostelry. After his sterling performance last Saturday on the Hilltop links the Plymouth golfing crowd say they no longer will look to Walter Hagen, Byron Nelson or any other golfing greats for instruction. "Gobby" Lorenz is their man from now on.

Before the war, Lorenz was an active golfer and his prowess with the clubs on various courses throughout the state were well known.

Last Saturday morning he and Mike O'Connor played a round and Lorenz turned in a 37 for nine holes. It was one over par for the course. Mike returned to Plymouth and began telling about the card Lorenz had. Soon the story was the chief topic of conversation.

Bill Stacey, assistant superintendent of the Ford plant at Northville, dropped the remark that he'd lay ten bucks that "Gobby" couldn't duplicate his performance again Saturday afternoon.

"Gobby" felt in top form so he said he would give Stacey 2 to 1 odds that he could card a 36. Followed by a large gallery, "Gobby" and George Kenyon trekked out to Hilltop for nine holes in the afternoon.

Performing like a cool and methodical workman and untroubled by the gallery of his friends, Lorenz outdid himself and shot a 34-two under par.

"Gobby" did not seem too surprised. That would indicate that he has the uncanny ability to call his shots in the same manner Joe Louis predicts the exact round he will score a knockout.

The performance Lorenz gave was a knockout too. His admiring friends still are talking about his golfing ability and some are urging him to enter a few tournaments and perhaps emerge as a new national champion or at least a threat to some of golfdom's stars.

"Gobby's" card for the record breaking 34 shows he scored bogeys on the third and seventh holes (five on each) and birdies on the first, fourth, sixth and ninth. The other three were made in par.

It was a feat worth mention in metropolitan papers, and might even make Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" column.

 More than 200 high school musicians from throughout the state attended school music special course at Michigan State college this summer, and received college level instruction in band, orchestra, and choir, as well as in private lessons. ## Hilltop Men's Golf League

Current standings of the Wednesday night Hilltop Golf League are as follows:

Terry's Bakery	27½ pts.
McCormell Barbers	25½ pts.
Plymouth Mail	23 pts.
Fisher Shoe Store	22 pts.
Todd's Market	21½ pts.
Box Bar 1	15½ pts.
Davis & Lent	15 pts.
Michigan Bell	13½ pts.
Twin Pines Dairy	12 pts.
Box Bar 2	9 pts.

Thus for the first time since the league organized the McCormell Barbers have been shoved out of first place. By grabbing four points last week the fast-moving bakers moved into top position.

The Fisher Shoe Store squad also have been increasing the tempo of their play. In the last three weeks they have jumped from sixth to fourth place. Art McCormell still leads the individual point race.

Jack Palmer of the "number please" team walked happily away with last week's individual prize.

The schedule for July 24 includes McCormell Barbers vs. Michigan Bell; Box Bar 1 vs. Fisher Shoe Store; Plymouth Mail vs. Davis & Lent; Todd's Market vs. Box Bar 2; and Terry's Bakery vs. Twin Pines Dairy.

Pest Control A Farm Necessity

From the viewpoint of the farmer, orchardist, florist, nurseryman or the livestock man, pest control begins at home. It is nothing new, says Charles Figy, Director of the State Department of Agriculture, but is a struggle that has been carried on by the farmer and his forbearers since agriculture began. In the beginning he had only to contend with native insects and diseases as commerce in nursery stock and plants did not involve transportation over long distances thus spreading pests and plant diseases from one section of the land to another.

The individual control operations of the farmer on his own land may be considered the first step in pest control. He is aided in this work by public funds and by information made available to him through various agencies as to the best methods to accomplish control most economically and effectively.

With the increasing volume and speed of commercial movement of agricultural plants and nursery stock, it has become apparent that the second step is to adequately protect the plant industry in the State. The recognition of the hazards imposed on agriculture by the introduction through commerce of new pests and diseases has prompted the establishment of quarantines to protect these producers from further invasion of new pests.

The third phase of pest control may well be considered the suppression or eradication of pests which are newly introduced. Careful planning and extensive research to gain technical knowledge of the character of the pest or disease is needed to maintain effective control and eventual eradication.

The control of emergency outbreaks which cannot be economically controlled by individuals or local agencies alone, may be named as the fourth phase of pest control. Such control is best accomplished through cooperative activities between individuals, local, state and federal agencies, according to the needs and the abilities of the cooperating agencies. Excellent examples of these emergency outbreaks are grasshoppers, mormon crickets and chinch bugs which are important from a quarantine standpoint.

The future of our horticultural and agricultural industry depends upon how well we can control and combat destructive insect pests and contagious plant diseases and by preventing the introduction and dissemination of new pests and diseases.

New Streamliners To Operate Here

The "Pere Marquette", Michigan's first Diesel-drawn streamlined trains, described as the finest day trains ever designed, will be placed in operation late in July. R. J. Bowman, president of the Pere Marquette Railway and if its parent Company, the Chesapeake & Ohio, announced today.

The trains, their stainless steel exteriors handsomely decorated in maize and blue, will each consist of locomotive, baggage car, mail car, four coaches, and diner. The trains will provide three trips each way on week days and two round trips on Sundays between Detroit and Grand Rapids, thru Plymouth covering the distance, 148 miles, in two hours, 40 minutes. Operating schedules will be announced shortly and it is understood oil trains will stop going both ways regularly at Plymouth.

The new "Pere Marquette" will be the first complete post-war ordered trains to be delivered anywhere in America. They will embody every new feature in motive power, construction and decorations.

The coaches, built by Pullman-Standard, will feature the very latest developments of the equipment builders' art. Designed for safe, speedy, comfortable and luxurious day travel, the cars will have special spring arrangements to cushion up-and-down motion, reduce sidesway and provide stability on curves. Couplings will be of the tight-lock type enabling the trains to move as a unit with jerky starts and stops eliminated.

Two of the 81-foot passenger coaches have seating capacity for 14 passengers with nine additional seats in the smoking lounge. Each of the two others will seat 58 passengers with 10 additional seats in the observation lounge. The coaches will be equipped with the scientifically constructed "Sleepy Hollow" seats. Each car will be completely air-conditioned and will have radio and public address equipment and spacious lavatory facilities. The decorative scheme for these cars will be in tan, brown, green and gold.

The lounge diner, its kitchen midway of the car, will be located in the center of the train and will be an outstanding example of modern rail luxury. Duplicate accommodations will be at each end. Rectangular, square and triangular tables, for two or four and set diagonally, the first time this modern styling has been used in a railroad diner, will care for 28 guests. Seating arrangements consist of fixed settee seats against the walls and movable chairs. In addition, there will be a rathskellar section at each end of the car, seating eight at rectangular tables, employing fixed seating.

Color scheme of the diner calls for light yellow ceiling, darker yellow mirrored walls, draperies and fixed seats in gold, table tops and movable chairs in blue-green and dark grey carpet. The diner will have radio and public address facilities and will be air-conditioned.

The exterior decoration of the new trains will include roof, window bands and trucks finished in blue. Below the windows and in the center of the car, above the windows, will be car-length stainless steel bands. The name "Pere Marquette" will be blazoned on boards in maize-colored script letters.

Kroger Workers In Armed Forces

Approximately 40 per cent of all regular employees of The Kroger Co. served in the armed forces during the war, Joseph B. Hall, Kroger president, revealed in his semi-annual report released to shareholders this week.

He added that most of the 7,500 Kroger veterans who have been on military leave of absence have been released from the service and more than 75 per cent of them are back with the company. In his report Mr. Hall laid particular stress on the additional strength the organization has gained through the return of these veterans.

In a recent interview he said: "Almost without exception we find our veterans are more capable and more serious about their jobs than when they left. Experience and added maturity they gained while in the service stands them in good stead now that they are back."

"Every returning Kroger veteran is given an opportunity to renew acquaintances in the organization and to discuss with our key men operating changes that have taken place during the war. We want them to know immediately how much we have missed them and how glad we are to have them back. In many instances retraining or additional training is provided before the veteran actually goes back on the job. Of course, he is paid his full salary during any training or reorientation period. Probably as a result of this program, there have been no serious readjustment problems," he continued.

Reporting sales of $236,475,155 and net income of $4,193,731 for the first 24 weeks of 1946, Mr. Hall pointed out that this amount to less than two cents return on each dollar of sales.

Average number of Kroger stores operated in midwest and southern states during the first half of 1946 was 2,704, a decrease of 143 from the same period a year ago.

Soldier Writes Draft Protest

PFC John W. Cockrum, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cockrum and brother of Delmar Cockrum of 9375 Canton Center road, in a letter from Schwaback, Germany, tells definitely what the GIs who are still in service think of the new draft act.

In his letter concerning "Draft protest," he writes: "We men in the service are as much 'the people' as the civilians at home. This new 45 day extension isn't worth a darn. The draft must continue, or the occupation must stop. This half-hearted job we're doing is a laugh, and everyone knows it."

"I'll venture to say that there isn't an American in the ETO who can say that his unit is up to T.O. strength. Of the men coming over now, very few are trained, and hundreds are being assigned to jobs they know nothing about, which results in countless mistakes."

Summer Paradise Ready for Tourists

Michigan's great summertime paradise of Mackinac Island is being refurbished for its annual influx of beauty-lovers from all over these United States, and indications are that 1946 will set a new high record in visitors on the island, just as new high records in every Michigan playground are indicated.

Long before white men came into what now is Michigan, the Indians called it "The Great Turtle" because it rises out of the blue waters like that creature so sacred to the red man. Today it's looked upon as one of the continent's scenic gems, and certainly the most historic single spot in all of Michigan. And its beauty is as well known in Europe as it is right here at home. It's Mackinac Island.

Mackinac Island is, of course, one of the main ports-of-call on several of the lake cruises, and literally thousands of Michiganians and beauty lovers from other states have put into that northern gem for delightful hours of exploration, Mackinac Island, incidentally, is just about as well-known in California or Massachusetts as it is in Michigan, and its fame as a beauty spot has spread into foreign lands.

The early Indians called the island "Michilimachinac"—"The Great Turtle"—because it rises from the water in the shape of that creature. You see, the turtle is the totem, or symbol, of everlasting life with most tribes. That is because the turtle, when it's time for it to die, disappears into the earth. The Indian, in his strange reasoning, believes that the turtle never dies, hence it has become his symbol of deathless existence.

While the Indians called Mackinac Island "The Great Turtle," modern day travelers call it the Bermuda of America—because the island is so much like that emerald gem set in the warm waters to the southward. Others, a bit more poetic, have called the island a cross-section of Paradise. And all of them are right, for Mackinac Island stands today as one of the most beautiful spots on this continent—and it would be extremely difficult to find another spot so rich in history.

The Indians knew Mackinac Island literally centuries before any white man arrived, and council fires burned on its heights, and ceremonial chants rose to the star-studded heavens long before the first explorer headed in that direction.

Jean Nicolet, the Frenchman, probably was the first white man to sight Mackinac Island, for he canoed through the Straits of Mackinac around 1634 as he hunted a new waterway to the Orient.

In later years the high cliffs of the island were seen by missionaries, voyageurs and fur traders, but it was not until 1670 that the island really began to attract attention. In that year Father Claude Marquette founded a mission at St. Ignace and canoed across the Straits to visit the island. A few years later LaSalle landed on the island when he passed through the Straits in his ill-fated Griffon. The Indians called the Griffon, the first sailing vessel on the Great Lakes, "The Great White Bird."

Well, let's sort of jump over the years and have a looksee at the Mackinac Island of today. The first thing to strike you, of course, is the absence of automobiles—you'll explore the island in a horse-drawn vehicle. You'll see St. Ann's Church, and on that church a bronze plaque tells you that this was the first parish in the United States dedicated to the memory of the mother of the Virgin Mary. That was in 1695.

The original St. Ann's, of course, was built on the mainland within the original Fort Michilimackinac, and when the fort was transferred to the island, the church was dismantled and transported, log by log, across the ice of the Straits for rebuilding.

There's the Arch Rock, over on the eastern shoreline, a rock bridge 149 feet above the lake, with a span of 50 feet, which the early Indians believed was built by the fairies as a gateway to the island. And, of course, there's the towering pinnacle known as Sugar Loaf, which the Indians will tell you—even to this day—was the wigwam of Manabogho, who re-created the world after the Deluge.

Another "unforgettable" on the island is Skull Cave, a cave which got its name when one Alex Henry, a fur trader, fled from the massacre of Fort Michilimackinac, the massacre which was one of the highlights of Pontiac's Conspiracy. Henry was guided to the cave at night by a friendly Indian, and he slept the dreamless sleep of exhaustion through the night—and the next morning found that he had slept on a bed of human bones! It is believed the bones were those of captives executed by the earlier Indians, possibly devoured at war feasts.

All areas, of course, have their Lover's Leap, and the island is no exception, for there is the high point from which, so legend has it, a beautiful Indian princess leaped to her death when she heard that her lover had died in battle.

High on the hill stands old Fort Mackinac. It was built in 1780. And you also see the old Astor Trading Post, which was the beginning of the fabulous Astor fortune.

Through the summer months Mackinac Island is a veritable flower garden, with fences festooned in roses, burgeoning home gardens, the trails bordered with flowering shrubbery, Grand Hotel's vast grounds one great formal garden, and over it all the brightest golden sunshine in all the world. The air over the island always is fresh and clear, with the tang of rare old wine, and somehow the entire atmosphere is one of soul-healing beauty and contentment—the beauty of blue water and green trees and—peace!

The Associated Women Students, co-ed organization at Michigan State college, is seeking new songs to add to the present collegesongs. ### Playground News To Be Reported In Special Paper

Playground activities in Plymouth will be reported and announced in a weekly publication to be known as Plym-Play which will be issued every Monday. The first issue made its appearance this week.

It is the brain-child of Virgil C. Knowles, Plymouth recreation director, and is deserving of considerable commendation. The paper is a single sheet mimeographed on both sides and contains much detail about the local playground activities.

Plym-Play faithfully lists all activities at each playground and is a virtual fountain of information about all recreation in Plymouth. Plym-Play will serve a number of purposes throughout the summer and should be consulted for information regarding the supervised playgrounds provided in the city. One corner of the front page each week will be devoted to "Game of the Week."

In this section some particular playground game will be named, described and instructions on how to play it given in detail.

Among some of the items heralded in the first issue of Plym-Play is the news about a playground quiz tournament. Quoits or horseshoes, require skill and are a good game for youths to take part in. Courts have been prepared on each playground.

Instructors will teach all who aren't familiar with the game. Each playground will have elimination contests and finally the best from each will compete for the City championship. Honor certificates will be awarded.

Mr. Knowles points out that in Plymouth there is no excuse for children playing in the streets or other limited areas. The three playgrounds provided by the city give ample room to play any type of game. Children not only will be safer but will also profit from participating in supervised recreation.

Swimming and wading pool trips are being planned, according to Mr. Knowles. Swimmers and waders should check with their respective playground to learn just when those trips start. Unless written permission of the parents or guardians is obtained, children will not be permitted to take part in the swimming and wading pool trips.

These trips will be both for fun and education. Non-swimmers will receive free instruction.

Storage Bins Should Be Ready

Ray Hutson, head of the department of entomology at Michigan State college, doesn't believe farmers would put their monetary savings in bins to which the bugs and rats had access. But he is afraid many are going to throw their equally valuable 1946 small grain harvest into similar storage containers and hope it will keep. With DDT now available, the control of weevil and other insects is much easier.

For safe storage, the first requirement is a bin which has been thoroughly cleaned. All old wheat or grain should be removed and the bin swept clean. That is the way to tell whether the bin is tight. The second requirement is making the bin tight so insects and rodents cannot enter. After those two chores are accomplished, the spraying can be done.

For grains stored for feed or cereal products, a spray containing five percent or less of DDT in refined, deodorized kerosene or in water suspensions or emulsions should be used. Applied to the walls and woodwork at a rate of not more than one gallon of spray per 1,000 square feet it will do the job. The spray should be applied and be allowed to dry thoroughly before the grains are put in the bin.

If the grain is to be stored for seed purposes, a different treatment should be used. Hutson said. Dust of 3-percent DDT in pyrophyllite thoroughly mixed with the seed, one-half ounce of dust to one bushel of seed, or 3-percent DDT in magnesium oxide, applied in the same manner is the proper treatment. This method, however, is not recommended for stored grains or cereal products to be used for food.

Under normal conditions, these precautions will take care of normal insect infestations. Should abnormal infestations arise and fumigation be necessary, the county agent should be consulted. Hutson said.

Looking For New Place to "Tour"?

Is there a motorist in Plymouth who is looking for new lands to invade? If so one of the few remaining frontiers for the motorist on the North American continent was rolled back recently when, for the first time, an automobile was driven across Canada from ocean to ocean without touching foreign soil—a 4,743-mile trip proving the feasibility of travel on the newly opened Trans-Canada Highway.

The car used on this historic nine-day trip was a stock model Chevrolet sedan, driven by Brigadier R. A. Macfarlane, D. S. O., one of Canada's most distinguished soldiers and Director of Mechanization for the Canadian army in World War II.

The lure which took the Brigadier on this unique trip was the 34-year-old A. E. Todd medal, donated in 1912 by an ex-mayor of Victoria, B. C., for the first motorist to drive across Canada from Louisburg, Nova Scotia, to Victoria, along an all-Canadian route and without resorting to use of railroad right-of-way.

At the time the Todd medal was first offered, there was not even the beginning of a Trans-Canada Highway. Gradually, the provinces extended their roads and linked them at inter-provincial boundaries until, when Canada entered the war in 1939, the only link missing was through virgin forest in Northern Ontario. As long as this gap existed, trans-Canada motorists had to make a detour of many hundreds of miles through the U. S.

This link was finally completed, with gravel surfacing, in 1943, but by then war-enforced gasoline and tire rationing made any transcontinental trip impracticable. Thus it was not until a few weeks ago, with the melting of snow from the northern roads, that it was feasible to essay the all-Canadian route across the Dominion.

Dipping the rear wheels of his Canadian-built Chevrolet sedan in the Atlantic surf at Louisburg, Brigadier Macfarlane headed westward at what was to prove an average rate of more than 500 miles a day for nine days before he ran his front wheels into the Pacific rollers at Oak Bay, Victoria.

During that time, the Brigadier had no mechanical difficulties whatsoever, his only road delays being occasioned by four flat tires—three nails and the fourth to a jagged piece of metal.

The Brigadier expressed complete satisfaction with his car's performance record. "I selected a Chevrolet for this trip because of my experience with this make of car throughout the war. Road conditions varied from pavement to prairie gravel and many miles of tortuous mountain routes, yet the car maintained highly creditable fuel economy with negligible efficiency or block temperature and never had to resort to low gear for climbing."

To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, today is big with blessings.—Mary Baker Eddy.

War Memorial

The 320 students and former students of Michigan State college who gave their lives in their country's service in World War II will be commemorated on campus by a Memorial Center, to be made up of a chapel and an International Center, devoted to the promotion of peace and international goodwill. The project will be financed entirely through voluntary contributions, with Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations, coordinating the collection of funds.
