ARE ALL PEOPLE TREATED ALIKE?

If you or I had been driving down a New York state highway and if we had "dozed" off as we sped along the thoroughfare and our car went over the center line and we unlawfully hit another car that was on the lawful side of the road and being driven at a lawful speed, and if, as a result of the accident we had caused by our careless driving, two or three people were badly injured and two or three automobiles almost completely wrecked, what do you suppose would have happened to us?

Of course, the New York state police and other traffic enforcement officers would have arrested us on the spot. You would have been taken to the police station, charged with a serious traffic crime and held in custody until released under bail. Then you would have had both criminal and civil cases to fight in court.

Oh, yes — what happened to the traffic accident case in which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was involved recently?

LABOR LEADERS AND VETERANS.

Irrespective of all claims made, a certain group of so-called labor leaders did plenty to slow down the war effort during the years that OUR BOYS were fighting and dying to save America from Hitler. For facts all one has to do is talk with some honest American who worked in the war plants in this part of the country during the war.

Washington dispatches now say that anti-veteran elements within organized labor have launched a vindictive campaign to penalize patriotism and foment job discrimination against veterans, the American Legion charged today.

Plans of hostile cells in some labor groups call for black-jacking double payments from employers who gave war veterans back their jobs. Col. John Thomas Taylor, national Legion legislative director, declared.

Veterans had been restored to prewar employment under selective service interpretations of veterans' statutory job rights, later knocked out by the Supreme Court. Nonveterans took their places.

"The newest anti-veteran strategy is to force employers who open job opportunities to veterans to make duplicate payroll payments to nonveterans as long as any nonveteran is on a union list," he said.

"If it works it will boycott veterans from all job possibilities in large industries.

"The American Legion intends to see that this vicious strategy fails and fails completely."

THE TREND OF THE WORLD.

The United States News, published in Washington, is the only publication in these United States which is devoted exclusively to printing news of governmental affairs and world wide politics.

It has become an outstanding authority on world affairs and what it says, therefore, is of more than passing import.

In a recent issue it outlined clearly the trend of affairs between the United States and Russia. For the benefit of our readers who do not get the United States News, we are reprinting a part of the article. It follows:

War scares will recur as Russia keeps testing out U.S. War itself still is 5, 10, 15 or more years ahead. Warlike moves, however, will keep the world from settling down.

Warfare in propaganda, in diplomacy, in ideas is part of the technique of the Russians. Fighting war is not now in Russia's calculations.

A warlike attitude is maintained by Russia toward the West.

Peace, of a kind, seems sure for 5 years, probable for 10, possible for 20.

A type of peace will prevail at least until Russia gets the atomic bomb.

Preventive war by U.S., before that, seems highly probable. Peace after Russia gets the bomb will be more uncertain.

Atomic-bomb production should be well under way in Russia in 5 years.

Big unanswered question is whether a basis for co-operation between U.S. and Russia can be worked out in that time. The way things are going, it seems that the world is too small for both U.S. and Russia, operating as they appear to be determined to operate. Unless trends are reversed, a showdown between these two world powers seems almost sure to occur at some point.

The Russian goal, obviously, is a communist world. Russian policies are policies of expansion, of communist imperialism.

The Russian method is that of peaceful penetration, if possible, that of penetration and eventual control of communist parties in all lands, utilizing all of the machinery of elections or of revolution to gain ends.

Russia will use direct military force sparingly. Dardanelles will be the next testing point in U.S.—Russian relations.

Iran was the first test, and it ended indecisively. Trieste was the next test, and it ended at first in a compromise.

Shooting down of U. S. aircraft by Yugoslavs was the latest test, growing from the Trieste compromise, and it appears to be ending in a decision for U.S.

Peiping, or some spot in China, may provide a test before long.

U.S. policy definitely is to do no more backing up, to force Russia to show her hand clearly, to bring a full testing of the United Nations machinery. Russian policy is to keep pushing out in search of weak spots, to get while the getting is good, to give up nothing once gotten.

Net result of the growing division between East and West is this:

Two worlds clearly are being built. One-world idea is on ice. U.S.—Britain are actively recruiting for their world; are out to sign up those who want to go along with U.S.—British ideas of how the world should be run politically and economically. Small nations get a voice.

Russia is tightening the hold on nations she controls; is fitting machinery of those nations into the economic and political machinery of Russia. This is more nearly a planned operation, a planned type of integrated economy.

Barriers between these two worlds are growing higher. Rising barriers, however, are due to Russian attitudes and actions, not to U.S.—British wishes. Russia is not joining world economic organizations. She is tightening exchange controls, travel controls, trade controls.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robertson (Virginia Criger) are the parents of a baby daughter, Sharon Elaine, born Thursday, August 22nd, at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor weighing 10 lbs. 3 ozs.

William Bauman and sons Claude and Dale and daughter Norma and Miss Eleanor Sobczynski spent the Labor Day weekend visiting Pfc. William Bauman, who is stationed with the Marines in Washington, D. C.

Salvation Army Fund Drive To Open Monday

The Salvation Army will launch its annual fund drive in Plymouth next Monday. Residential sections will be canvassed by mail. Other areas will be solicited by workers under the direction of Major Cynthia Taylor, head of all Salvation Army activities here.

Major Taylor points out that the Salvation Army is not just a charity. It is an expression of Christian spirit and helpfulness. She said it was her hope that Plymouth people would respond generously with the means to carry on her group's humanitarian work during the coming year.

The Salvation Army is a non-profit organization. It has but one purpose—the salvaging of souls. The Plymouth corps not only preaches the gospel to the poor but carries on the work of lifting up the fallen, conducting character building activities for youths and aiding in the adjustment of home life for those in difficulty.

The army does not duplicate or overlap the work of churches. It reaches those unreached by any other social or charitable agency.

During the past year in Plymouth the army officers have made 766 visits to local homes. They have given material aid to 137 persons. Eleven families were given furniture without charge and 53 others received clothing. Christmas dinners were provided for 73 other persons and 95 children were given Christmas toys.

The officers also held weekly Sunday school sessions for a total of 2,040 children. More than 150 youth meetings were held for 3,161 Plymouth young people. They also held 66 religious services at the Detroit House of Correction. A daily vacation Bible school was held and during the war a very successful nursery was maintained for working parents.

Many other worthy projects also were conducted by the Salvation Army. It is hoped the Plymouth public will bear this in mind when it comes time to give their share to maintain the corps during the coming year.

City's First Polio Case Is Reported

Plymouth's first case of polio was reported this week. According to City Manager Harold R. Cheek, the illness of Jimmy D. Pritchett, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Doy Pritchett, of 448 Starkweather, has been diagnosed as infantile paralysis.

Wayne County Health Department heads said it was unusual that the city's first case came after the peak was passed. They said the disease had run rampant in Detroit but in other portions of the county it was light or entirely absent.

Charter Changes Up for Approval

Readers are asked to look on page 7 in this issue for the minutes of the last City Commission meeting which include the proposed changes in the Plymouth City Charter as recommended to the City Commission.

Members of the charter committee, appointed Aug. 29, 1945, by former Mayor Carl G. Shear, include Claude Buzzard, chairman; Stanley T. Corbett, William C. Hartman and George A. Smith. The charter changes have been recommended to the city commission for their approval but no official action will be taken for 30 days.

Cloverdale Loses Inter-County Title In Final Contest

Hard luck still dogged the Plymouth Cloverdale nine in the Michigan Inter-County Class A Baseball League playoffs this year.

As was the case in 1945 the Cloverdale club came within one game of the league championship and lost the chance to compete in the National Amateur Baseball Tournament at Youngstown, Ohio.

This year, by playing good ball and having the will to win the Cloverdale nine twice came from behind and won two games in a single afternoon to stick in the playoffs and wind up with a chance to play for the league title.

Last Sunday Cloverdale met Northville, sponsored by the Atechison Motor Sales, in the title tilt. Cloverdale was held to three hits and lost the all-important game 2-0.

Northville scored in the first and ninth and nicked the Cloverdale hurler for eight safeties.

By virtue of defeating Cloverdale the Northville club has won the right to play in the tourney at Youngstown. The club, accompanied by Earl T. Gray, president of the league, will leave at 5:45 p.m. Friday, tonight, from the Michigan Central station at Detroit.

George Molnar, manager of the Plymouth Sport Shop All Stars, will accompany the Northville club as its extra hurler.

Tournament rules allow each team to have an extra pitcher. The Northville club will play its first tournament game on Saturday. They will remain in Youngstown and in the tourney until twice defeated.

Two defeats whether consecutive or not eliminate the competing clubs from the national tourney.

Plymouth Scouts Back From Camp

Members of Boy Scout Troop P-3 have returned to Plymouth after spending a week camping at Silver Lake State Park in the northern part of the state.

While at the park the troop was given a tour of the sand dunes in a special dune-car. They also made several hikes over the dunes on the shore of Lake Michigan and went swimming and fishing. They took turns cooking for the camp.

David Henry won a wall plaque for catching the largest fish. He also won the troop's horse-shoe pitching contest. Bud Meyers won a plaque for all-around camping and fellowship.

Those winning their ten-day camping awards included David Henry, Donald Mathias, Bud Meyers, Norman Treadwell and Charles Miller, Jr. and leaders Ferris J. Mathias and Charles Miller.

The troop wishes to publicly thank the Plymouth Rotary Club for making their trip possible and Mr. Wright for providing a truck in which to make the trip. Everyone reported an excellent time.

Former Plymouth Surgeon Performs Emergency Operation While at Sea

Star of a dramatic life and death struggle on the high seas near Japan last June was a former Plymouth surgeon, Dr. Howard C. Rufus, who practiced here before the war.

Now a captain in the Army, Dr. Rufus has received nation-wide publicity for his feat that saved the life of a seaman when the odds all were against the success of his effort.

It was Sunday morning, June 9, when Dr. Rufus physician aboard the Army repair ship, W. J. Connors, was called to examine a seaman writhing in agony in his bunk. Dr. Rufus' worst fears were soon confirmed.

The seaman, Albert Bahoot, of Asbury Park, N. J., had a "red hot appendix" and Dr. Rufus said an emergency operation was the only thing that might save his life.

The physician was frantic. His ship was several hundred miles off Yokohama. It was too late for the vessel to turn back. The appendectomy would have to be performed immediately under the most adverse conditions.

Dr. Rufus was aboard a 46-year-old boat originally built for Great Lakes service. It was ill equipped for surgery. Instruments were encased in thick grease preservatives. There was no operating table, no equipment and no trained aides.

Ingenuous improvisations saved the day and a life. Boards hastily removed from mess tables and wrapped in blankets served as the operating table. A steam potato cooker was the sterilizer. The operating team was recruited from the stricken seaman's shipmates.

After nine hours of surgery and a blood transfusion, Dr. Rufus turned in for a few hours rest leaving orders for regular penicillin injections.

However, the doctor's troubles had just begun. It soon became apparent that unless regular penicillin shots could be maintained the seaman's life was in peril. It was then Dr. Rufus learned that the ship's supply of the drug was about all gone.

Unless he could enlist aid from another ship his patient was sure to die. A radioed appeal went out to all ships in the area. To add to the tense situation on board the seas became high and rough weather set in.

It was then that a ship loomed (Continued on page 8)

Say Complete Study Is Being Made So Perfect Solution Can Be Found

City Manager Harold Cheek presented local Rotarians with the complete facts concerning the city water supply at their meeting last Friday. Since the present water situation is uppermost in the minds of all Plymouth residents, the Mail presents Mr. Cheek's very comprehensive report to all of its readers.

The most important topic of the day is our city water supply. Or—What is the best way to improve the quality and quantity of City Water. The first thing that a water utility must do is to see that there is safe water in its system of sufficient quantity to meet all domestic, commercial, and emergency uses. During the summer months, when the consumption of water is quite high, it has been necessary to pump most of the water from the well located at the Booster Station at Mill Street and Starkweather Avenue.

"Plymouth used 31 million gallons of water during the month of July, 1946. That is 3 million gallons more water than was used in any July during the past five (5) years. To produce a million gallons a day would take 694 gallons per minute continually and we would have to have a large enough storage tank to take care of peak consumption.

"With the present facilities, we can not produce that much water by pumping the water from Beck Road. We are using so much water that there are times in the day between 5:30 in the morning, and 11:00 in the evening when we can not pump as much water per minute as is being consumed. In order to keep water in the water tower, and in every home, we have to use the well pump at the Booster Station, because it can produce 300 gallons more a minute than we can get from the Beck Road Supply.

"When I speak of emergency use of water, I refer to water for fires. During a fire, we must produce as much water as is normally consumed and in addition the amount required for the fire. During the past two months, one of the well pumps at Beck Road was repaired. According to reports, that well has been inoperative for over a year. Also one of the booster pumps has not been in operation for sometime but can now be used. We have two booster pumps of a capacity of 500 gallons per minute each. When (Cont. on page 6, 2nd section)

Recreation Rooms Grand Opening Slated for Tuesday

Marion, Roy and Homer Williams are announcing the grand opening of their new Plymouth Recreation Rooms, at 570-580 South Main street, which is scheduled for 7 p.m. next Tuesday, Sept. 10.

The new club, originally set to open last May, has been in the process of completion for the last six months due to material shortages. It is modern throughout and completely air-conditioned.

The rooms are finished in the latest interior styling with fluorescent lights. Glass building brick also has been extensively used in the construction. Everything is completely new from the building to the billiard chalk.

Useful gifts will be presented the first 500 persons to visit the new rooms at the grand opening. Other features will be a tournament between 22 Plymouth players and an exhibition by the winner of the billiard tourney at the Detroit Sportsmen's Show last spring.

In planning the new recreation accommodations the Williams tried to offer Plymouth something new and different. It is their intention to place billiards and pool on an equal plane with bowling.

Their new club is equipped with a private ladies billiard room with six regulation billiard tables. This room will be for ladies only or ladies with escorts.

The general public will have 16 tables on which to play. All are the new ultra-modern Brunswick-Wicke-Balke-Collender Co. tables.

The Williams' slogan is "Where Good Friends Meet." They pledge the public of Plymouth non-inflation prices and courteous service. The family is no newcomer to the realm of recreation in Plymouth but the Mail joins with other local firms and business men in wishing them continued success.

Put Peaches in Food Lockers

In the next two or three weeks when Mrs. Plymouth prepares peaches for use during the long, cold winter that lies ahead, quite a large number of the local ladies will put some of the delicious Michigan peaches that will soon flood the market, in freezer lockers.

Mrs. Plymouth will be interested in reading the following news item pertaining to the preparation of peaches for food lockers from the Extension Department of Michigan State College.

If those peach slices you put away in your freezer locker last year became dark, it was likely because you did not take the special precautions necessary to prevent discoloration. Dr. Roy E. Marshall, research specialist in the department of horticulture at Michigan State college, says certain enzymes cause discoloration and these must be killed or their action stopped by simple but necessary treatment.

The most satisfactory method of preventing darkening of peach slices for fruit going into lockers is the use of crystalline ascorbic acid in the sirup. This is available from drug stores and also from many of the commercial locker plants.

Dr. Marshall suggests the following method of preparation.

Peaches may be peeled by scalding, followed by immersion in cold water and then removing the peel. The peaches are then pitted and sliced.

If the fruit is to be packed in a 35-percent sirup, each gallon of sirup would be made from three quarts of water, 7 cups of sugar, and 1 1/2 teaspoons of crystalline ascorbic acid; the temperature should not exceed 125 degrees and stirring should not result in excessive agitation. Higher heat would heat loss of ascorbic acid through oxidation. After the sugar and ascorbic acid are thoroughly dissolved, the sirup should be cooled. It may then be added to the peach slices in the freezing cartons until the level of the sirup is above that of the slices. Care should be taken to prevent any portion of the slices from protruding above the sirup. Use approximately one part of sirup to 3 parts of peaches by weight.

The packaged fruit is then ready for freezing and storage.

Yes—1941 prices in 1946! Imagine what that means to you in cold cash savings! During the last five years, the cost of living rose sharply—but not the cost of your favorite nationally advertised health and beauty aids. We're still selling most of them at low pre-war prices—and many products are actually priced below 1941 levels. It seems too good to be true, but you'll see plenty of convincing proof in these timely values.

Engineers of New Streamliners Use Two-Way Radios Pere Marquette

Not only are Plymouth's 100 or more trainmen intensely interested in the beautiful new streamline Pere Marquette trains, but the hundreds of local patrons of the Pere Marquette who can be rightly classed as "radio fans" term the two-way radio communications systems on the trains as about the last word in modern progress.

It is believed that the Pere Marquette is the first railroad in the world to equip its passenger trains with a radio system which permits the engineers and conductors to talk with each other when speeding through the country some hundred miles or more away from each other.

Officials of the Pere Marquette have pointed out that modern railway equipment requires modern communications equipment because of high speeds and high standards of passenger service.

Radio communications apparatus consequently has been placed in each locomotive of the two streamliners and at the conductor's desk aboard each train. A fixed radio-telephone station is installed in the Grand Rapids, Mich., station.

The equipment was designed especially for Pere Marquette passenger operation by the Farnsworth Television & Radio Corporation of Fort Wayne, Indiana, after specifications were jointly determined by the mechanical, electrical and operating departments of the Pere-Marquette Railway and engineers of the Mobile Communications Division of Farnsworth.

While increased efficiency and improved passenger service are important factors, the principal purpose of the two-way radio system is to insure utmost safety in train operations. By means of the two-way space radio channel, conductors aboard the streamliners can instantaneously give voice instructions to their engineers, either with the train in movement or standing in a station.

Conversely, the engineer can, without delay, advise the conductor of any problem which requires his attention. Whether it is the reporting of hot-box or mechanical failure, an emergency connected with the boarding or debarking of passengers, or any other possible hazard existing in transportation operations safety is increased by the conductor's ability to communicate vocally and immediately with the locomotive crew.

On approaching Grand Rapids, the conductors of the streamliners can contact the yardmaster, who, in turn, can clear the tracks and at the same time inform the train crew as to what traffic situation exists in the Grand Rapids terminal area and on what tracks or tracks the incoming train will be routed.

While the trains are in the vicinity of fixed land stations, important emergency messages can be transmitted to each train as it is moving.

Subsequent fixed stations strategically located along the Pere-Marquette right-of-way at regular intervals are therefore being projected to provide emergency service facilities for passengers as well as continuous land communications with the speeding trains.

At a later date, when equipment is available, remote control units are to be placed in each car of the new streamliners so that communications can be maintained between individual cars and the locomotive at all times.

Also, when available, walk-talkie equipment, operating in the part of the radio spectrum set aside for railway operation and on the same frequency as the presently installed equipment, is scheduled for installation, to enable train crews, on foot and away from the train, to talk with the conductor and locomotive crew.

The Pere-Marquette streamliner radio system is comprised of very high frequency space radiation equipment, of low-power ten-watt type, operating in the 152-162 megacycle band. This is the frequency band recently set aside for railway radio communications by the Federal Communications Commission.

The equipment at each installation, whether fixed or mobile, is identical and interchangeable, and consists of four units—receiver, transmitter, power unit, and control panel with handset and speaker.

The antenna at Grand Rapids is larger and mounted considerably higher than those on the streamliners.

Of special interest are the antennas on the locomotives. When the system was designed, it was a requirement that a low clearance antenna be developed which would be short enough to meet all clearance limits along the Pere-Marquette right-of-way, which would blend with the modern, streamlined design of the locomotives, and at the same time would insure maximum performance.

The answer provided by Farnsworth engineers was the "fire-cracker" antenna, which, with a height of 12 inches, meets any known above-locomotive clearance limits of the nation's railroads, becomes an attractive part of the locomotive's lines, and supplies unsurpassed transmitting and receiving performance at railroad frequencies.

The Farnsworth Corporation, having acquired the Halstead Traffic Communications Corporation in 1945, has a long record of research and developmental achievement in the field of railroad radio. Postwar equipment of the type designed for the Pere-Marquette streamliners has been comprehensively field tested by Farnsworth under operating conditions on many of the nation's leading railroads.

In Munnsville, N. Y., Farmer Wesley Bolin slid down a rope from a hayloft, set off matches in his pocket, watched his barn burn to the ground.

REPORT CONCERNING THE CITY WATER SYSTEM August 19, 1946

To the Honorable City Commission Gentlemen:

Upon request by the Mayor, I am submitting this statement concerning the City Water System.

The first consideration concerning our water supply is that we have sufficient safe water for domestic and commercial uses.

Below is a statement of water consumption for the month of July for the past five (5) years.

- July, 1946 31,441,000 gals.
July, 1945 29,718,000 gals.
July, 1944 29,308,000 gals.
July, 1943 14,123,000 gals.
July, 1942 20,680,000 gals.

Steps have been taken to place our present pumping and boosting equipment in good order. One well pump on Beck Road, which has been inoperative for some time has been repaired. One of our two booster pumps at the Booster Station on Mill Street has now been operating. Parts are now ordered to get it in operation.

From the above statement of water consumed during the month of July, 1946, you can see that the City of Plymouth has used a greater amount of water than any month of July during the past five (5) years.

My first concern has been to keep enough safe water in our water system and storage tank. In order to provide water for everyone in the City, we had to run the pump at the new well at the Booster Station. It was impossible to provide sufficient water with the boosting facilities now in working order.

Our plans are to make possible the use of any or all of our Booster pumps and well pumps, or any combination thereof at any time.

As the demand for water decreases in the Fall and Winter months, and when all the Booster facilities have been repaired, we will use more and more of the water from the wells at Beck Road.

Respectfully submitted, HAROLD R. CHEEK, City Manager

It was moved by Commissioner Davis and supported by Commissioner Shear that the meeting adjourn. Time of adjournment 9:20 p.m. Carried.

Notes from a traveler's journal: What is going to become of Captain Joe Beach's delightful, leisurely "Toonerville Trolley" and river boat excursion to the Tahquamenon Falls in Luce County, Upper Peninsula?

The state conservation department has appropriated $50,000 to build an improved highway to the upper and lower Tahquamenon Falls—two of the scenic attractions of Michigan's famed north country.

The road will start at Paradise on Whitefish Bay, Lake Superior. It will proceed fourteen miles west to the lower falls and thence several miles more to within a quarter mile of the upper falls. To safeguard the falls from the noise of motor traffic, the state will require travelers to park their cars and to walk over a trail to the upper falls. There the visitors will view the 200-foot wide waterfall.

As we traveled on Captain Beach's excursion early in August, the question arose of what would happen to this unusual day's journey to the falls. The average American seems inclined to go quickly as possible. Leisure is a luxury in a two-week vacation. Somehow, we hope travelers will not overlook Joe's opportunity for a day relaxation. On our trip we saw numerous deer, many ducks, and one bear.

Two so-called "night clubs" mark the town of Dollarville, a mile and a half south of Newberry.

In company with a group of newspaper people we visited one of these hot spots. A piano player was banging away. A few minutes later, when the word was relayed of the Monday night "rush", a drummer arrived to reinforce him.

It seemed to be a far cry from the pioneer times when Robert Dollar was a "cookee" in a nearby logging camp and later rose to become the president of the Dollarville Lumber Company with vast mill and timber holdings. Dollar invested his logging profits in a steamship line. Yes, the Dollar Line of today was started on dollars earned by the ex-cookee of the Upper Peninsula many years ago.

Life is in constant transition, and Newberry is looking for a better postwar world.

Lumbering has been going on in Luce County since the Civil War. You begin to wonder how much longer it can continue.

Selective cutting was forgotten in the war-time rush to get out the lumber. From what the lumbermen say we doubt if selective cutting ever will be adopted voluntarily by the lumber industry. There is always a competitor and a competitor's price. Eventually state control must come, perhaps on a cooperative basis.

A one-time big industry in Newberry, the county seat of Luce County and home of the Newberry State Hospital, was the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company, founded in 1882 as a charcoal kiln and iron-furnace venture. Thousands of cords of hardwoods have been converted into charcoal for use in smelting iron ore.

After a brief war-time revival, the plants are idle. New industries have taken their place, offering better wages for workers. Newberry is better off.

True life story from Newberry: Every morning and afternoon, when the weather permits, a woman patient of the Newberry State Hospital goes to the gate near the state highway and begins peering down the road, expectantly awaiting the arrival of her husband. She has been doing this now for several years. Her husband abandoned her, and the shock unbalanced her mind. Each day she returns and says: "He will come tomorrow." But tomorrow never comes.

Canadian geese are nesting at the Casina state game refuge at Seney. Years ago, in the 1880's and 1890's Seney had the reputation of being the toughest spot in the Upper Peninsula. Gambling, fighting, drinking and prostitution were too commonplace to merit newspaper attention. A woman reporter for a New York metropolitan newspaper conducted a wild yarn about strangers being "shanghaied" on the frontier and forced into chained penitence at the Seney lumber camps. She called it "Ram's Pasture." The yarn became an overnight national sensation. One of the section hands on the railroad crew at Seney played a part in shaping our nation's history. Leon Czolgosz became the assassin of President William McKinley in the days of "manifest destiny."

Travelers to the Canadian Sault Ste. Marie—the Soo—must declare radios, cameras, typewriters, outboard motors and other valuable articles at the Canadian customs office. Serial numbers are carefully noted. American travelers who remain 48 hours in Canada may return with $100 worth of Canadian merchandise without requirement of duty.

The new Mrs. Arthur look at the St. Mary's canal is now fenced off. The war department provides guides who conduct visitors through the property.

Fort Brady is being converted into a branch of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Classes will start next month.

On the west coast of Michigan you hear reports that the tourist business is off on the east coast. And vice versa. So we did a little investigation of our own at Petoskey. Joseph W. Scoggins, manager of the J. C. Penney company store, said business was "excellent" and on a par with 1939. The Northern Automobile Company, agents for Ford and Studebaker gasolines, reports a 40 percent increase in sales over 1945.

Petoskey is joining with Cheboygan and Indian River in pushing a program for improvement of the inland waterway, a 40-mile route, for pleasure boats from Cheboygan to Petoskey. In 1900 the resorters induced Congress to declare the waterway a Federal controlled route. Active in this promotion are Charles T. Lathers, ex-Tiger player who has a dairy farm near Cheboygan; James Harrington, former Ford official and cottager on Burt Lake, and Joseph Graham, summer resident and one of the Graham brothers of automobile pioneer days.

NEW ARIZONA GHOST TOWN... Photo shows town of New Arizona, founded on the sloping sides of the mountain from which it was taken over a period of more than 60 years of mining. The town dry from ore. The site produced more than 100,000 tons of copper, silver and gold and will be abandoned next year, but it is planned to develop the area as a tourist center with public schools and private schools, so it will not be a ghost city.

Former Plymouth Surgeon Performs Emergency Op. at Sea

suddenly off the starboard. It was troopship bound for Seattle, Wash., and it had great quantities of penicillin.

Battling high seas and foggy weather, the crews of both ships finally managed to transfer a plentiful supply of the drug to the Army repair craft. Once more a crisis had been met.

Then on Tuesday morning, June 11, Dr. Rufus arranged for his patient's transfer to a Navy transport which was much better equipped to care for a sick man. The transfer almost ended in tragedy.

Dr. Rufus had wrapped his patient in blankets and secured him in a sea litter. He was being lowered slowly into a heaving lifeboat from the decks of the Army repair vessel. The litter of the lifeboat when a pulley jammed and the patient was left dangling helplessly in mid-air.

A high wave could have washed him away, but an alert shipmate leaped to the pulley and freed the rope and the litter reached the lifeboat without further incident. Dr. Rufus watched as the lifeboat slowly made its way to the Navy transport and the patient was taken aboard.

It was then, he later revealed, that he made a second prayer for the return of the ill seaman to normal health. Dr. Rufus said his first prayer was made just before the operation.

As for the patient, he is now recuperating at his New Jersey home and will soon be back on duty if not already there. Dr. Rufus refuses to take full credit for the success of emergency operation. "Without the guidance of God and the aid of Bahoot's loyal shipmates I would have been unable to perform the operation, is his modest story of the stirring drama.

31 Days left To Get G.I. Bill Help

Thirty-one (31) days are left for those young men who contemplate enlisting in the Regular Army in order to take advantage of the educational opportunities of the G. I. Bill of Rights before its expiration October 5th. S/Sgt. Norwood E. Boadway, Recruiting Officer of the Ann Arbor Recruiting Station located at the Armory Building, 223 E. Ann St. Telephone 3456, announced today that unless the President calls a special session of Congress to consider the extension of the G. I. Bill, it will automatically expire on October 5th.

There is no better way for ambitious young men to get ahead, to prepare for their education and get it free than by enlisting in the Regular Army, S/Sgt. Boadway said. The government will pay towards his college, trade or business school up to $500.00 for an ordinary school year. On an 18-month enlistment he will receive 30 months of college education, for a two year enlistment 36 months of education, and for a three-year enlistment 48 months, plus $65.00 per month to live on while attending school.

More than 900,000 young men have volunteered since last fall in the United States. They are now a part of the new Army which is doing vital research work in science, medicine, engineering and many other fields which will be a great benefit to America's future, S/Sgt. Boadway said.

James Belanca Tells Of Conditions in Italy

Chiefly through the efforts of Vol Barutti and Charlie Elgin, the Rotary meeting Monday at the Pen Mar had an International flavor. The guest speaker was James Belanca, Detroit lawyer, who recently made a trip to Europe to see what could be done to revitalize transportation facilities between Italy and the United States. Mr. Belanca was graduated from the University of Detroit and at the present time is chairman of the War Labor Board and a member of the Detroit Civil Service Commission. He was one of the first civilians to go to Italy following the war. James Belanca told of the trip by ship from the States to Le Havre, France and then of the train trip from Le Havre to Paris and then south to Rome and Naples. Mr. Belanca stated that the ships in Italy were full of food, but on further checking discovered that the price was prohibitive for the average working man to purchase. The same prices would be in the shop windows day after day. He continued, "Food costs per day while in Italy cost me in the neighborhood of from $25.00 to $30.00, while the average laborer makes from 35 cents to one dollar and twenty-five cents. So you can see our efforts for that particular country are not in vain."

Mr. Belanca also told of the devaluation and poor transportation conditions in all of Europe, the high cost of food and the poor physical and mental conditions that exist today. He concluded with the fact that Americans are very fortunate to live in the United States despite the fact that conditions here are not as satisfactory as they might be.

Motorcyclists In For Trouble In Plymouth

Plymouth motorcycle enthusiasts and those who might chance to visit the community will have to change their demeanor a great deal in the very near future or suffer the consequences.

Residents here are growing tired of the noise, most of it deliberate, from the machines which the riders insist making a part of motorcycling.

Plymouth citizens are becoming aroused at the manner these local and visiting motorcyclists race through the streets at all hours. The roar of their machines and the incessant backfiring is not conducive to calm comfort at any time. When it is heard in the early morning hours it stirs perfectly normal minds to thoughts of homicide or mayhem.

Persons who must arise early usually retire fairly early and it is not to be supposed that they are going to be awakened by some motorcyclist sitting at the curb backfiring his machine just for sheer moronic delight that only he can derive any pleasure from. There are laws and courts to deal justly with such offenders and unless it is stopped at once an aroused Plymouth citizenry will take collective action to see those laws are enforced.

To date there has been no concerted effort on the part of Plymouthites to seek retribution against these offenders. Several were of the opinion that the assaults of their ear drums were perhaps a temporary matter. They believed if the trouble could be eliminated without police action that would be better.

However, the past few nights have convinced the citizens that drastic action is necessary if they are to keep Plymouth the quiet, restful community it has a reputation of being. No mercy will be shown from here on in.

Motorcyclists who insist on racing down Plymouth streets endangering children and pets and even motorists will be dealt with severely. They will be put off the streets if necessary until they demonstrate they can operate their cycles with care and a minimum of noise.

No longer with deliberate backfiring whether it is day or night, firings of their machines be over. If possible, machines lacking mufflers will be confiscated until properly equipped by their owners. The prevalent gang races down Plymouth streets after most residents have retired will be stopped if all the riders have to be jailed for the night.

Until such time that the riders of the "suicide bikes" can demonstrate they are capable of operating their machines with due respect to the other vehicles on the road, without endangering life and property and with no more noise than the average car exhaust makes, they will be dealt with unmercifully by Plymouth police.

Because of the demands of an aroused citizenry, Plymouth police are declaring an all-out war on motorcyclists who insist on the reckless and noisy operation of their machines on Plymouth streets and highways.

In the past two decades, the American hotel business has remained virtually unchanged in size, having today, as in 1925, about 28,000 large and small hotels with some 1,500,000 rooms. The tourist-camp business, during this period, has grown from a few roadside parking sites to 20,000 cabin camps with nearly 450,000 rooms.

Cyclists to Race Sunday at Milford

The Thunderbirds Motorcycle Club, of Garden City, will stage its first annual flat track race Sunday, starting at 2 p.m., at the Milford Fairgrounds. It will be the first such race there in nine years.

The track has been resurfaced with clay and should offer a very good and fast race oval. Several prominent riders already have promised their intention of participating. It should be a thrilling and gala spectacle.

There will be at least nine thrilling events. Free parking will be offered spectators. Qualifying trials start at 1 p.m.

YOU CANNOT make an unauthorized cut in the wages of your employees without running the risk of being disallowed an income tax deduction as a penalty. In its first ruling in such a case, the Wage Stabilization Board directs that the Internal Revenue Bureau disallow $8,000 as a deduction for operating expenses of a firm that made unauthorized wage deductions.

Offer Hunters Air Trip To Dakota

Are you planning on shooting pheasants in South Dakota this fall? In case you have made tentative plans to go or if you are just thinking about it the Plymouth Sport Shop has arranged a plan for you to fly both ways on an all expense trip that guarantees your limit in birds and the utmost in comfort while away.

According to William Rambo, local sportsmen are able to make reservations at the store for a $198.00 trip from Plymouth to Redfield, South Dakota. The cost includes two way air transportation, hotels room and guides and other incidentals. Ten flights are planned during the season and hunters may select the time they desire to go and enjoy four and one half days of pheasant hunting on 1,000 acres of land that have been reserved for hunters taking these trips.

The trips have been arranged by the Great Lakes Aviation and Airways; and all flights will leave from Willow Run airport. The Plymouth Sport Shop is one of six sporting goods stores helping to promote the plan and complete details regarding the trips may be secured at the store.

YOU CAN buy surplus Government-owned machinery for use as scrap. Government agencies are authorized by the War Assets Administration to dispose of, for scrap or salvage, any surplus machinery for which there is no market in its present form.

Plymouth Boys At State Meet

By E. I. Besemer

The goal for wheat acreage has been increased for Michigan. The increase asked is 17 percent over estimated harvested acreage this year. This increase is 150,000 acres and makes a total of 1,050,000 acres for 1947.

Wayne County Farmers grow both the soft red winter and the soft white winter wheat.

Yorkwin is a white wheat that gives good yields and has good milling qualities.

Baldrock is a good soft red variety.

Before planting, the wheat for seed should be treated with the new improved Coresan for stinking smut.

All poultry shows, at which live chickens, turkeys, pigeons or other domestic birds or poultry are exhibited have been cancelled by order of Charles Figy, Director State Department of Agriculture. This is to help prevent the spread of "Newcastle Disease" which is highly contagious.

The disease is difficult to diagnose without laboratory tests, but symptoms include the birds' inability to keep balance and a twisted neck.

Four 4-H Dairy Club boys from Wayne County were at East Lansing August 12 and 13 to take part in the Elimination Contests in preparation for the State 4-H Club show September 2-4.

Don Brinks and Don Korte from Plymouth, Robert Reaume, Dearborn and Wm. Masterson, Wayne were the Wayne County representatives.

In the unofficial scoring Robert Reaume ranked 5th and Don Brinks ranked 9th in a class of about 160 boys and girls.

First, grade the yard properly to set off the buildings and provide desired contours and landscape features. The most satisfactory grades slope gently away from the buildings in all directions. Avoid terraces and steep grades.

After the grading is done, add topsoil. Dark colored, sandy loam and loam soils are ideal. If loams are not available, good lawn soil can be prepared. Besemer suggests you mix one bushel of clay soil, on bushel of muck or peat and two bushels of sandy soil. If a clay loam is available, mix one bushel with one bushel of peat and only one bushel of sandy soil instead of two. On loam or clay subsoils, the layer of topsoil added should be from 6 to 10 inches deep. If the subsoil is sandy, 10 to 12 inches of topsoil will give better results.

Do not add lime to lawn soils unless tests show the soil strongly acid. After the topsoil has been leveled, broadcast 10 to 15 pounds of 10-6-4 lawn fertilizer per 1,000 square foot and thoroughly rake into the surface soil.

Before seeding, alternately rake and roll the lawn surface until firms. The feet should not sink into soil appreciably when the seedbed is sufficiently firmed.

After the soil has been firmed properly, rake lightly over the surface before seeding.

Keep new lawn seedings moist, watering with a fine spray to avoid washing. Begin mowing when the grass has reached a height of 3 inches. Set the mower to cut at a height of 2 inches and maintain grass at this height, the agent recommended.

If you wish success in life, make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counsellor, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius. —Addison.

How War II Distributed Bakewell Family to Various Parts of World

World War II did many things to this troubled old world and the people who live in it. World War II also did a pretty good job in distributing the children of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bakewell of Plymouth road to all parts of the world.

Right now Wesley E. Bakewell is in the south Pacific with the navy. He was one of the fortunate Americans who had the opportunity of witnessing the two experimental explosions of the atomic bombs off the island of Bikini.

News reports say that all of those who witnessed the terrific force of these bombs have expressed but one hope—and that is that this country will never be forced again to use them.

One navyman with Wesley declared that "even after I have seen it, I can't believe it."

Wesley was married sometime ago to the former Lillian Fisher of this city, who is now serving as a nurse in a Los Angeles hospital, waiting for the return of her husband from his duties in the Pacific.

William, the youngest son of the Bakewells, still in the services of the armed forces of the United States, is a member of the Counter Intelligence Corps of the army. This branch of the service is called the FBI of the army. He is at present at Bad Homburg, Germany and until recently has been working on the court martial cases at Marburg. His present station is ten miles from Frankfurt, the great German city that was leveled to earth by American and English bombings.

Elton Bakewell, who saw plenty of action in the navy during the navy's fight to destroy the Jap fleet, is now out of service and is living on Eckles road, where he is developing a ten acre fruit farm. During the greater part of the time he was in the armed forces he was on the other side of the Pacific. Elton is married and the daddy of a bright little girl.

Eugene Bakewell, who did his bit for Uncle Sam in the air forces, seeing plenty of action as did his brother Elton, is now associated with the Cleveland Certified Aviation Center, located next to the great Cleveland arena. His experiences in the navy air forces led directly to his employment in the teaching of peace-time aviators.

Eugene is now living in Cleveland and likes his adopted city, although he never misses an opportunity to get back to his old home town.

The Link Trainer system with which Eugene is associated, now has centers in many of the largest cities of the United States. Its ultimate aim to have 300 such Centers available to the public.

Not only were all four sons of the Bakewells in the armed forces of the United States, two of them still wearing the uniforms of their country, but their youngest daughter, Olive Mae, also enlisted for training as a cadet nurse, but before she was taken into the services of her country, both Germany and Japan were defeated. She is now a registered nurse, having completed sometime ago her training at Harper hospital in Detroit and is still in service at this hospital.

Fortunately their sons survived the many conflicts in which some of them took part—and now that the war is over and though peace does not prevail over the world—Mr. and Mrs. Bakewell no longer look for telegrams from the navy or war departments which carried so many messages of sorrow and grief to other parents in this vicinity. Daily they rejoice that Providence was so kind to them.

Tells of Dangers To Lawns in '47

Max Todd, pro-mgr. of Hilltop Golf Club, who attended the monthly meeting of the Michigan Golf Course Superintendent's Association at the Red, Run Golf Club in Royal Oak recently, declares that the entire area of Michigan will experience a heavy grub infestation this coming year, according to reports of the Turf Research Staff of Michigan State College.

Todd, who is an active member of the association, stated: "Lawn owners will experience a problem this next year with the grubs of the June beetle which invade the soil every three years and are due in 1947. While the grubs themselves do not present any great problem, their presence will bring about intense activity of ground moles which are a menace to both lawns and gardens."

"However, grub-proofing of the lawn area to be protected with arsenate of lead will solve the problem in that moles will not frequent any place so treated. Moles live on soft bodied bugs or worms in the soil and will not bother the lawn or garden when these have been killed."

"Recommended treatment is five pounds of arsenate of lead per 1,000 square feet either mixed with water and sprayed on or mixed with fertilizer and broadcast over the area in the fall, followed by four pounds per 1,000 square feet in the early spring. Lawn owners will not experience any trouble if they follow this formula," he added.

Manager Discusses Water Problem in Address to Members of Rotary Club

Only one booster pump is operating it will produce 600 gallons a minute with the aid of pressure caused by gravity flow, if the two 500 gallon per minute booster pumps are used at one time, the most water that can be produced is approximately 740 gallons per minute. When the two pumps are producing 740 gallons per minute, they are drawing so much water through the supply line that at times we are likely to create a vacuum in the line. If we pump a vacuum in the line then contaminated water can be drawn into the system at any point where there is a leak. Therefore we can not, risk using the two booster pumps at one time and drawing in contaminated water.

"You may ask this question of me. Are there not certain times in the day when we can use the booster pump and furnish as much water as is being consumed? Yes, there are times when we can furnish enough water to maintain the required water level in the water tower. From about 9 in the evening and until 5 in the morning we pump into the system, only water from Beck Road. The amount of water that can be put into the system during those hours will vary from 150,000 gallons to 250,000 gallons. There are also times in the morning and early afternoon when the rate of consumption per minute is such that we can use water from Beck Rd.

"From November 1945 to June 1946, very little water was used from the Beck Road supply. Prior to November 1945, considerable water was brought in from Beck Road. For the first few months after the new well was placed in operation in December 1943, more than 1/2 of the water was taken from the old wells.

"As stated before, the amount of water used in the City of Plymouth for the month of July, 1946 was 31 million gallons. Except for two or three summer months, the consumption is almost 1/2 that amount per month. That indicates we can use more of the Beck Rd. well water during the winter months.

within the City of Plymouth goes over 700,000 gallons per day, the level of water can not be maintained in the reservoir.

"It is possible to determine the amount of water that can be supplied through a certain size line, a known length, with the present facilities, then we can be sure that little additional water can be secured from Beck Road until the consumption drops to under 700,000 gallons per day.

"During the past two months, every hydrant in the City of Plymouth has been flushed at least twice. A few have been flushed three times since July 1, 1946. It is necessary to clean out our distribution system, otherwise we would not be stirring up the City water and allowing the sediment and scales to flow into your homes. When we flush the fire hydrant, we record the amount of time that it takes to get clear water free from rust. By doing this we can tell if the sediment and scales in our lines is being flushed out because the time it will take for the water to clear up will decrease with each additional flushing until the time reaches a minimum. Hydrants will be flushed on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, so that the sediment will not come into the homes and spoil laundry on Monday and Tuesday.

"Just what can be done to improve our water supply. There are several possibilities. They are: drilling new well or wells; laying another supply line; building a treatment plant; providing a larger storage tank; or the securing of Detroit water. The plan may call for not just one of those possibilities, but a combination of several. At the present, we are treating only water pumped from the new well at the booster station. Water from Beck Rd. is not treated. Chlorine is put into the water from the new well to make sure the water is safe for drinking purposes. The quantity of chlorine added is less than 1 part to 1,000,000 parts of water. I believe the time may soon come when the State Department may require that all city water supplies be chlorinated, to guarantee safe drinking water. We also use Calgon to prevent excessive deposits of iron on the inside of pipes and on sinks, wash basins, etc. war costs and sometimes run from 25 percent to 100 percent higher than in 1941. The only bright spot in the financial picture for cities needing immediate improvements is the low interest rate on bonds. Plymouth should be able to sell bonds bearing approximately 1 percent interest.

"The City now has outstanding $20,000 general obligation bonds and 27,000 Water Improvement bonds, making a total of $47,000 bonds outstanding.

"The amount of our estimated receipts are above last year but increased labor costs, and material costs will absorb much of the increased income. There is also work that needs doing that could not be done during the war. Streets need to be paved and we have already spent or will spend for scheduled work, all the city funds can stand for this fiscal year. Bids were requested for concrete curb and gutter, pavement and sidewalk this summer, and only one bid was received. Several bids should have been received. Since the bid was too high, it was rejected and we will try again to get competitive bids and a better price.

"Here are other things needed by the City of Plymouth besides an improved water system and improved streets. We need new sanitary sewers and storm sewers, and proper sewer maintenance equipment. We need street maintenance equipment such as dump truck, tar maintenance kettle, maintenance roller, and street sweeper. $3,000.00 was set aside during the war and invested in government bonds to be applied against the cost of a mechanized street sweeper. Other equipment has been used for so many years that maintenance costs are excessive. Equipment should be purchased and replaced as it is available and when the money is on hand or will be at the delivery date.

"Before I close, I wish to say one thing more. It was also suggested that I give my impression of Plymouth in comparison to other cities compared in size. I naturally look at the public facilities of other cities when I visit them or drive through them. Plymouth is one of the nicest cities of its size that I have ever seen. I believe Plymouth has had good city government for many years, that it has many very nice homes and very few houses below averages, that it has good schools and churches, and a high class of people. Plymouth has a reputation elsewhere in the U. S., for I heard Plymouth spoken of highly a number of times before I ever thought of being here. I have never felt but that I made a wise choice when I came to Plymouth."

Plymouth Woman Finds 3-in-1 Egg

Mrs. Harold R. Underwood, of 1341 Sheridan, got 14 eggs for a dozen. It was quite by accident and not at all profitable.

Like most any housewife that purchased a carton of them at a local grocery. They were from a local chicken farm.

Upon reaching home, Mrs. Underwood decided to bake some cookies. While removing an egg from the carton it slipped from her grasp and crashed to the floor.

She was surprised when the usual muss made by a broken egg was missing. She looked closer. Her eyes must be playing tricks, Mrs. Underwood thought. For there inside the broken egg was a second egg with shell intact.

The second egg was slightly smaller. Upon cracking this egg, Mrs. Underwood was again taken back. You guessed it. There was still another smaller egg inside the second egg. They stopped right there, however.

ESCAPE FROM THE OLD "GRIND" Electrically

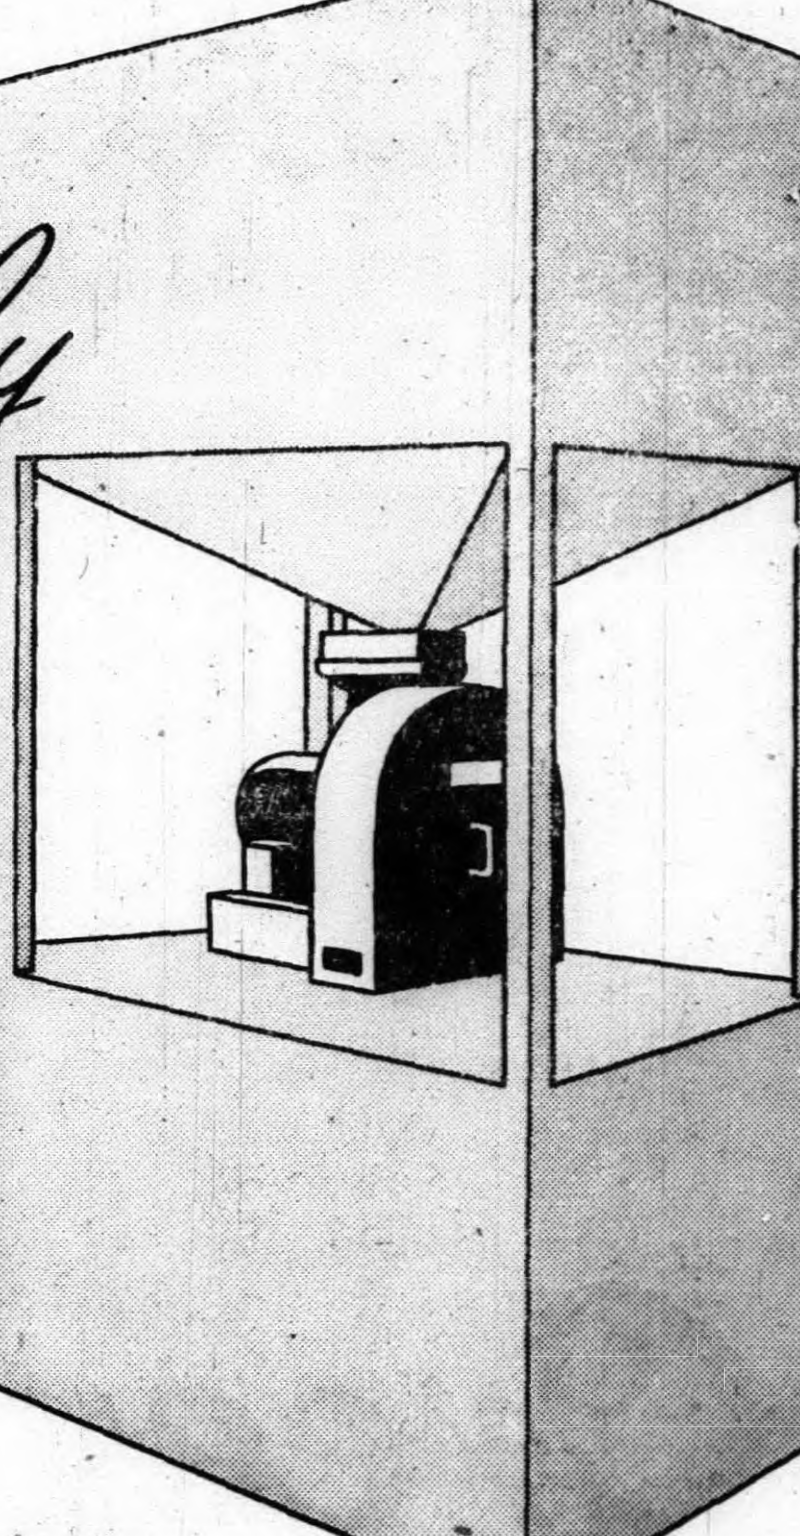

You save time—labor—and money when you use an electric hammer mill to grind your own feed. Simply fill the hopper with grain and snap the switch—the mill grinds automatically while you do jobs that need your supervision! There's no waiting for the grinder truck to come around, no hauling grain into town to be ground, no mill tolls, no tying up a tractor to provide grinding power.

Just compare the costs! Farmers tell us that tractor power averages over $1.00 per ton of feed for fuel alone. Electricity will do the same work for 30 cents. And you'll have fresher, better feed when you grind your own. There's an electric hammer mill to fit every budget.

Ask your Edison Farm Service Advisor to arrange a demonstration for you—not in a salesroom, but on a farm, where you can talk over performance and actual operating costs with its owner. While you're at it, ask the Edison man to help plan your long-range program for letting electricity do other chores too! There's no obligation to you.

They'll keep singing its praises for years

Every so often it happens.

A car comes along that rings so many bells on so many counts that folks remember it fondly and talk about it for years thereafter.

You're looking at one of those "vintage-year" Buicks now.

Right from the start, it clicked with the stand-out, hint-of-the-future freshness of its styling.

It brought wide, appreciative grins with the smooth way its Fireball straight-eight engine delivers its eager surge of power.

It registered with the steady stride of two lively tons of roadweight, cradled on tireless coil springs all around that turn the roughest road into a pleasure cruise.

Then as people began to discover the blissfully easy way this dream boat handles—as the miles piled up and owners found their cars getting actually better—word started to go round: "That '46 Buick—there's an automobile!"

They'll be saying that for many a long year.

And while we're doing everything in our power to get you yours soon-as-possible, you'll find that when you get it is a secondary matter.

For the man who gets a '46 Buick has really got something—something certain to be a high spot in his car-owning history.

Reviews Book Written by Daughter of Plymouth Resident

(By Edna M. Allen)

The work of Helen Hull, author of Hawk's Flight published this year, has always been of unusual interest to people in Plymouth, for she is an "almost native" of the town. Her grandfather and grandmother McGill lived here in early days on both Harvey and Main streets. Her mother, Minnie McGill was graduated from Plymouth High School with the class of 1882, when she was only sixteen years old. Later the mother attended Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, met and married Warren Hull who was a superintendent of schools in Charlotte, Albion and Flint. Her aunt, Anna McGill, who died recently, lived for years on North Harvey street and frequently entertained her niece. Miss Hull has been the guest of the Plymouth Woman's Club whose members have followed her literary career with eager interest. Mr. Hull, the father, still resides at 356 North Harvey street.

Miss Hull was graduated from the Lansing High School, later attending Michigan State College and the Universities of Michigan and Chicago. Then she went to Wellesley and from there to New York City where she has been a professor of English in Columbia University for thirty years. When summer vacation begins, she goes to an old farmhouse in Maine, which she and a friend share. Here in a building called "The Workhouse" which is set in fifteen acres of pasture and woods that slope to the ocean she does her writing.

The title of this most recent book, Hawk's Flight, is explained by Carey Moore. She watched a hawk soaring over a lake, and thought that to his eyes, the water was transparent, revealing all that was hidden to her, sitting where she could see only the surface and the reflections of overhanging trees. And so as she looked through the years from the vantage of all that had become experience, she saw the hidden life of the Ridge people; that is the subject of the book.

Miss Hull is perhaps the greatest analyst of the average American home in modern fiction. She realizes that character is evolved from the teachings, the stresses and strains, the atmosphere, and the implications of the home. The women are more individualistic than the men. In fact, as one reads Miss Hull's work, one cannot escape the conclusion that she thinks this is still a man's world, that women are at a disadvantage, that to be individuals they must fight harder than men. In this book the women are fiercely jealous of their jobs and what would be taken for granted in a man's world, they must sacrifice and struggle for.

Hawk's Flight is concerned with four families who live in a compact little group on The Ridge. They know each other as do the bridge groups which meet regularly in towns all over the United States; they know each other's heights and depths; their pettiness, their economic struggles; their successes; their children; their standards. The story is told by Carey Moore, wife of Gilbert, who becomes a very successful psychiatrist. She herself came from a small town, worked to help Gilbert through the University; didn't want to teach, obtained a fellowship in research laboratory work, and then established a laboratory of her own. She is sincerely in love with her husband, but in her zeal for success, buries herself in her work and gives up all thought of having children. Gilbert would have liked a family, one feels, but as one of the Ridge dwellers says, he has married, not a wife, but a laboratory. She says of herself,

"If I hadn't had sense enough to see that work, Gilbert's and mine, was the ladder we might climb to reach the vague heaven of approval and recognition and esteem for which I longed, I might have developed into a dissatisfied and complaining woman. I can see now that this longing had its bitter root in earlier days in college when I was too shy to be popular, too shabby and plodding to be elected to any office or bid by a sorority; earlier still in my home town where I took on my mother's fear of all the neighbors must know about us." And so the Moores buy a home on the Ridge, become successful but not happy because of the frustrations their life brings. Gilbert Moore dies of an embolism after an operation, while his wife is attending a meeting of a medical association in Cincinnati.

Ellen Hunter has married wealth and social position, but she is ambitious too. She runs a high-powered advertising agency, is greedy, grasping, a complete realist, and evinces little love for her easy-going, good-looking, very kind husband who is a broker. Listen to Ellen: "Lawrence is a stick-in-the-mud. He's a hunter and everything's been handed to him. Perfectly contented the way things are. But I keep him stirred up. If he plays things right, he'll have his uncle's place in the firm and his uncle's fortune too. We'll need the money. When I go back to work (she means after the birth of her child) you watch. I'll put a lipstick and a compact with rouge in the handbags of a million women."

In the face of such ambition, her husband cannot live knowing he has been wiped out by the depression, and commits suicide after a carefully thought out plan to save his wife's feelings. The there's Dexter Willets, a professor of economics, married to the clinging vine sort who thinks she has heart trouble and who is so suspicious that she times her husband from his commuter's station to his home. He must seek his companionship outside of his home. There is Adelaide, married to an architect whom she adores, but she isn't among the "smart" ones. She is immersed in her family and is too dumb to appreciate the distractions of John, who really does not know how to get along with people and to attract them to him professionally. Adelaide sees everything from the closed little world of the family and judges only from her personal point of view.

If what this reviewer has recently heard a doctor and a minister say, that there are very few really happy marriages, Miss Hull's work is completely truthful. Her men and women are frequently at cross purposes, and surely in this novel there is little happiness. Yet neither does it leave one with any feeling of the sordidness of this world, for there is always the pity and sympathy of the narrator for her characters, and there is understanding of their human frailties. Rather one feels as he does when reading tragedy—that there is a great waste of human power, and oh, the pity of it all!

Guitar Teacher At Festival

Plymouth was represented last week at the 4th annual festival of the International Guitar League at Hotel Gibson, Cincinnati, Ohio, by Miss Mildred Swartz, of 656 South Main, local guitar instructor.

Miss Swartz has been teaching guitar in Plymouth the last four years. Today she has 75 local students. They play in groups and singly and for the most part are students on the Spanish guitar. Miss Swartz hopes to increase the size of her classes this winter. She said the trip to Cincinnati was keen and the festival itself very interesting. Miss Swartz heard several fine guitarists and received new teaching methods instruction herself.

Miss Swartz said the guitar clubs throughout the country were not only teaching the children that music was fun, but also was aiding in the nation's fight against juvenile delinquency.

MICHIGAN, My MICHIGAN

BY • ELTON R. EATON

Numerous Plymouth duck hunters last fall were fortunate in securing a number of Canadian wild geese while hunting on Saginaw bay. "J. W." Selle Jr. was one of the more fortunate hunters. But things are going to be different this fall. What goose shooting, if any, the Michigan hunter will get, now that Canada geese are on the protected list, is so doubtful a matter not even conservation department ornithologists will hazard an estimate.

Michigan hunters are concerned only with Canada, blue and snow geese, for all other species visit the state so rarely they are simply scientific curiosities here. The Canada has been the most abundant goose, and provided the dependable shooting. With blue and snow geese there always are the questions of whether their route this season will take them over Michigan, and if it does, whether they will stop here. Only three times in the last 12 years have they stopped in sufficient numbers to provide good shooting, and the fact that last season was one of those years makes the conservation department's waterfowl specialists pessimistic about their repeating the visit in force this fall.

Popular misuse of the term "brant" for snow and blue geese should not mislead the hunter lucky enough to get a shot at blues and snows about the bag limit; he can take four of them, singly or combined. True brant rarely get this far inland from the coast.

Hunters hazy in their goose identification will be safe, game men say, if they refrain from shooting any goose that has a black neck and white cheek patch. Any others they may see in Michigan are almost certain to be blue or snow geese.

When the pheasant hunting season opens this fall, there will be no hunting on the first two days of the season until after 10 o'clock in the morning. Hunters in and around Plymouth know well the reason for this new hunting rule.

It means a better break for the hen pheasant. In past years hundreds of them have been killed and left in the fields to spoil. With good light at the late starting hour there will be no excuse even for beginners to mistake hens for cock pheasants. The late starting time also is expected to spread the kill over more days and give the birds more of a sporting chance.

While full protection of pheasant hens is needed to speed recovery of the pheasant stock from its heavy 1944 losses, there is no fear of "overshooting" cock pheasants. Field checks have shown enough cock birds survive the ordinary Michigan hunting season to provide an adequate sex ratio the following spring.

A late starting hour is not unusual among other states. Ohio hunting seasons for years have opened at noon, and pheasant shooting in South Dakota is not permitted on any day of the season before 10 a.m.

State-owned lands—abandoned once by owners who did not think them worth the taxes—at times can be bought for cabin sites, hunting lands, forestry and in some cases for farming, but purchasers are advised flatly that no oil or other minerals are included in any such bargain.

Since 1909, when the Legislature ordered all mineral rights reserved to the state, titles to more than 1,000,000 acres, with mineral rights deducted, have gone into private ownership. Income from leasing these lands for mineral production—and some of them have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of gas and oil—has gone into the state treasury.

The current flood of requests of the conservation department for mineral rights that cannot be sold is attributed to the ever-growing number of new owners of lands purchased from the state. While the department advises the surface owners that the 1909 policy still stands, it can assure them they will be protected against any damage that might result from the state's development of oil, gas, iron, limestone, sand, gravel or other mineral on property to which they own surface title.

The department has a thorough understanding of the surface owner's position. Of 4,500,000 acres it manages throughout the state, about 500,000 are owned subject to mineral reservations.

Six years ago a wealthy Tecumseh miller named Perry Hayden planted 360 kernels of wheat, reaped a "pocket-size" crop of 50 cubic inches a year later. Five of those cubic inches went to his Quaker church, says Pathfinder News Magazine.

... and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give thee tenfold.

Each year the process was repeated. Each year the crop grew. Farm land was lent by Henry Ford. Each year the church was given its tenth, in money received from the wheat's sale. By 1945 the crop covered 230 acres, yielded 5,555 bu. ($8,610) was distributed among 276 farmers (representing 30 different denominations) in the Lake states. Each guaranteed to continue the crop for six years, tithing regularly.

This year Hayden harvested his last crop, the farmers harvested their first.

Six years thou shalt sow thy field... But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land.—Leviticus 25:3,4.

Results of the 1946 crop: 2,660 acres yielded 28 bu. per acre, brought about $150,000, a tenth went to the farmers' 175 local churches. Much, in turn, was sent directly overseas to famine areas. For 45-year-old Perry Hayden, however, the last crop was just the beginning of another tithing. Henceforth he will devote much more than a tenth of his time to touring the country, telling everyone how his "partnership with God" brought him the gold of the wheat "and the gold of happiness."

Hot-stove talk among deer hunters, gathering to discuss their sport on the first chilly days of late summer, is the weather. Michigan's herd has been favored with three light, mild, short winters in a row, and the big question is whether a fourth winter of the same kind is possible, or likely.

Conservation department deer specialist I. H. Bartlett says that if the coming winter proves to be a hard one, some losses from starvation will be unavoidable. Reports from all parts of the state agree on the current abundance of deer, and in some districts a normal hunting season may leave more animals than there is winter food for in times of deep snow.

Preparing for the biggest hunting season since before the war, the conservation department next week will begin the mailing of 1,288,100 licenses, 147,000 more than last year. Back tags, game law digests and seals are being shipped with the licenses, and all 2,500 of the state's license agents are to be supplied by mid-September.

In this second postwar season, the first in which former servicemen will participate in great numbers, conservation officials are without a "yardstick" for accurately forecasting the number who will go gunning in Michigan for small game and deer. First estimates of fishing pressure this season proved too conservative, and an original printing order for 750,000 resident fishing licenses had to be boosted during the season to 879,000.

The 10 types of licenses and the numbers to be mailed, beginning August 26, are: resident hunting, 800,000 (65,000 more than last year); nonresident hunting, 13,000; north nonresident hunting, 9,000; resident deer hunting, 375,000 (50,000 more than last year); nonresident deer hunting, 20,000; resident bow-and-arrow, 10,000; nonresident bow-and-arrow, 1,000; trapping, 50,000; camp permit, regular deer season, 10,000; bow-and-arrow camp permits, 100.

"Get me the VETERANS' HOUSING CENTER in Peoria!"

Courtesy USMC and Victor F. Donahue, Artist

These lads know all about "taking shelter" in the field. What puzzles them is how to take shelter under current housing conditions.

Maybe you can help them. Maybe you have a large home, or unused space in a business building, or an old-fashioned apartment building, which could be remodeled to provide additional living units for veterans' families.

It's not only patriotic, but it's good business to remodel for veterans. Rentals from the added apartments and suites will soon repay the cost of the work, and will provide a steady extra income.

The job can be paid for with a low-cost long-term FHA-insured Property Improvement Loan. And priorities assistance can be obtained in getting scarce building materials for such work under the Veterans Emergency Housing Program.

We can help you plan the remodeling and assist with your FHA financing.

LAWNS: For greater, stronger and healthier root growth, a richer green and more surface protection for the coming winter—use Ra-Pid-Gro NOW... (2 pounds to each 20x50 foot area) and water well weekly as usual.

All living things require regular feeding... plants, animals, and humans alike. In the case of your plants, nature provides them with food through the soil. However, before they can use any of that food, it must be dissolved by rain or watering, for plants live on a liquid diet. Then, too, most soils are deficient in one or more of the elements the plant needs for healthy growth. That is the reason why you should feed them regularly with RA-PID-GRO. That is why they thrive and bear so miraculously on a regular diet of RA-PID-GRO.

Plymouth Becomes State's Most Popular Center For Horse Back Riders

In Michigan, western horses are to Plymouth what tulips are to Holland.

Today there are more than 1,000 saddle ponies in the city's trading area. A spot check revealed 90 per cent of them to be privately owned.

Plymouth also boasts the only truly western riding club in the state. In fact a group of Texas cow punchers last spring proclaimed it better than anything they had been this side of Arizona.

The trading area also is the home of two magnificent full blooded Arabian stallions. In addition there are riding stables, jockey clubs and dude ranches galore. Miller Brothers 101 Ranch and Saddle Ridge are the more popular public and private clubs, respectively.

Without fear of contradiction it can be said that Plymouth is the most horse-conscious community in the state.

Plymouth also is the home of George W. Richwine, 73, Michigan's only old-time harness maker still in the business.

He is of the opinion that the community has more western horses per capita than any other Michigan city.

Mr. Richwine also believes there are more dude ranches here than in Wyoming.

Asked if the abundance of horses was a result of the war-wrought tire and gas shortages, Mr. Richwine shook his head.

"Should say not. I been plying my trade here since 1903 and it was evident in those days that Plymouthites just seemed to have a liking for horses."

He said a good many farmers had cut down on the number horses they kept, adding, "but you can't shower affection on a tractor. That's why you won't find but few horseless farms in this area today."

Mr. Richwine complains that business is so good he sometimes works so late that he is forced to forego his usual nocturnal ride of five to twelve miles over the countryside.

Leather workers here who can readily make repairs to saddles, bridles, stirrups and harnesses wish they were capable of making the items. Their future then would be assured.

There is also a promising career in the community for a good blacksmith. Right now the area is without one. A traveling smithy with a mobile forge comes out regularly from Detroit but has more business than he can handle.

Lack of a blacksmith here is mighty unhandy but does not hamper the business or hobby of keeping horses.

Riders are of all ages. Plymouth bridle paths are the scene of brisk rides for both children and adults. Pre-school kiddies and grey-haired grandmothers alike are daisy denizens of the paths.

Bridle paths in Plymouth's nine miles of parkways wear out quicker than highways in the same area. They are in constant use from daybreak until darkness.

Plymouth youths have their mounts much in the same manner as Detroit youngsters have cars and motorbikes. Teen-agers talk nothing but horses and riding habits. Their interest in horses is something they have had handed down to them and it has endured.

Unlike the interest displayed in horses in other Wayne County communities, Plymouth's pride in its horses is just that. It isn't a fad nor do the residents ride just because it is considered the "thing" to do.

Plymouth has no snobbish horsy set. From bank president to messenger boy, everybody rides.

Many Plymouthites center into the city to shop. It's got so the City Commission is talking about installing hitching rails rather than parking meters.

The practice of riding in to get the mail has become so prevalent and popular that a hitching rail is going to be put up at the rear of the postoffice.

Ralph Cole, a rural carrier, and popular Plymouth horseman, said there were more western horses bought and sold in the area each week than any place else in Michigan.

The trading is not limited to riding stock either. Many Plymouthites own trotters and pacers. It was largely the Plymouth clamor for harness racing that led to the popular nocturnal meets at Northville Downs.

The majority of entries in those meets have Plymouth interests lurking in the background too. Some were trained by Plymouthites. Others were foaled on local farms.

Such is the case with a large share of the current saddle stock. However, many expensive western mounts arrive frequently to become part of various local stables.

Owner of the two beautiful white Arabian stallions is James E. Stolte, who only recently shifted his riding academy from Schoolcraft road to Hubbard rd. His pair of stallions, Nar and Terek, are the pride of Plymouth. Their foal about in private stables here. Crossing the Arabian with a Palomino or Albino mare usually results in a saddle horse of beauty, stamina and docility.

Many of Plymouth's saddle horses today stemmed from such cross-breeding.

Saddle Ridge is the ultra swank western and private riding club which Texas cow punchers said they had not seen duplicated. It is eight miles west of Plymouth on Curtis road.

It's stables house more than $70,000 worth of privately owned saddle ponies. Club members stage their own rodeos. They also have a truly western clubhouse in which to wine and dine their friends and each other. It is the showplace of the countryside.

Henry Ford put the world on wheels. But it remained for a community within a whoop and holler of his empire's nerve center to champion the return of the horse.

Meet our Boss: MRS. ROE

Who's the Big Boss of any business? That's easy—the person or persons who own the business!

In the case of Michigan Bell, our Big Boss is "Mrs. Richard Roe" and thousands of other thrifty folks who have invested in Bell System securities and provided the money for enlarging the system and improving the service.

Now let's see what Mrs. Roe's investment helped make possible. Here are just a few examples:

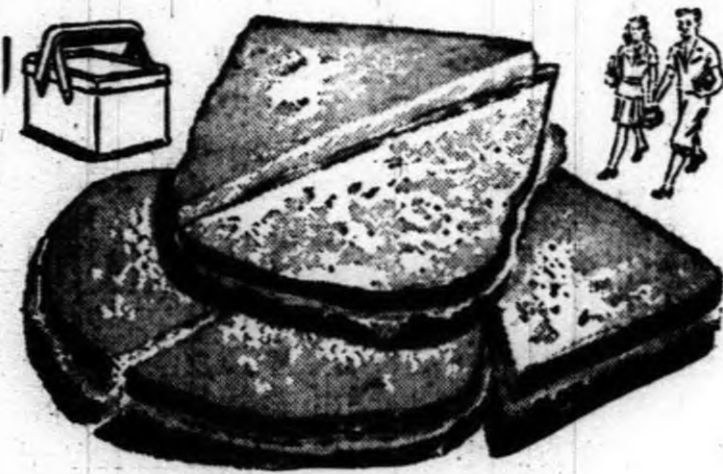

- From 1920 through 1945, it has permitted the Bell System to increase the number of telephones in service from 8 million to 22 million — almost 16 telephones for every hundred people in the United States.
- It has provided the facilities for handling a record-breaking billion and a half toll calls in 1945, compared to 360 million in 1920.
- It has financed the development and installation of dial telephone equipment so that now 4 out of 5 telephones in Michigan, for example, are dial operated.
- It has paid for the construction of 75 million miles of wire and cable throughout the nation, and accomplished many other improvements too numerous to mention.

If this progress is to continue—more money will have to be obtained from more investors through the sale of additional Bell System securities. And, since investors naturally want a fair return on their savings, telephone rates should be sufficient to permit paying a reasonable rate of return.

Michigan Bell's "cost of living", like yours, has been rising rapidly. If it continues to go up, rate increases may become necessary to insure adequate earnings. In any event, Michigan Bell wants telephone rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to operate the business efficiently . . . pay good wages . . . give a fair return to investors and, thereby, protect the future quality of the service we give you.

BABSON

BABSON DISCUSSES STOCK MARKET BREAK

New York City, Sept. 6.—Selling stocks is very different from going to the bank to draw out money. When you do the latter, the bank gives you cash from its reserves and you immediately take it home with you. It will always be the amount of your check—no more, no less.

REASONS FOR BREAK

When you sell stocks, the broker does not bust around to find somebody who will buy your stocks. When the market is booming, somebody will probably pay you more than the stock cost you; but on a declining market, he has more difficulty to find buyers. This is especially true today when buyers must pay cash. This largely eliminates the little people as, too often, only well-to-do people have the ready money. During August most of these wealthy people are away on vacations and have forgotten the stock market. Thus, it has been especially difficult for brokers to find cash buyers during the past month. This, in my judgment, is the main explanation of the August market break.

Certainly there is nothing in the present business situation to justify declining prices. Every company has tremendous unfilled orders and the banks are overflowing with idle money. It should take two or three years to fill the demand for automobiles; while the building industry has not yet got under way. It is true that in previous periods of prosperity the market has turned downward during the first half of the prosperity era; but history does not always repeat itself. Certainly, today history is not repeating itself in any other category.

SOME STOCKS AT BARGAIN PRICES

With the expected increase in 1946 dividends, certain stocks now appear to be bargains. Carefully selected stocks can be purchased today at prices and yields which should serve as good permanent investments, irrespective of market conditions. Suggestions as to selecting stocks and "switching" so as to be prepared for World War III if it should come, will be covered in next week's column.

To offset the effect of a World War III, there are several possibilities which every investor should carefully consider before selling stocks today. The first of these is the elections which come November fifth. Present indications are that the Republicans will get absolute control of the House and possibly working control of the Senate. This may lay the foundations for a complete Republican victory in 1948. I am not a politician but merely a statistician and, hence, you cannot bank 100% on this forecast. However, either before or directly after November fifth, we should have much higher prices. If a Republican President should be elected in 1948, stocks could "go through the roof."

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION AHEAD?

Something may happen in Europe to greatly improve the situation. If the British and American delegates stick together and refuse to get tired out, Russia may be sensible and agree to fair terms and yet secure freedom of all seas for all nations. The death of Stalin or a People's Revolution in Russia should make the stock market boom. Moreover, it is very probable that the Allies are now planning and encouraging a Russian Revolution. This is the reason for the "iron curtain" and the desire of the Russians to tie up the Danube River and Balkan States. It explains why our flyers were shot down.

Perhaps the Allies may sign Peace Treaties without Russia. With our supply of atomic bombs—and I assume we are shipping some of these to England—and with the possibilities of bacteriological and chemical warfare to kill both people and crops—World War III may be started by England rather than by Russia although we would probably get involved in it. If England should strike first, this could be very bullish on the market.

LABOR OUTLOOK

Some persons are selling stocks on account of further strike threats. These do not worry me marketwise. When production catches up with consumption the cost-of-living will again decline and labor's main argument will have been knocked in the head. Furthermore, as the "52-20 Clubs" dissolve and veterans and their wives again enter the labor market, a surplus may take the place of the present shortage. This will be another thing to keep labor leaders sensible.

Plymouth's New Drain Completed

Tile on the Amelia street storm sewer was completed several days ahead of schedule, according to City Manager Harold Cheek.

S. A. Besse, Plymouth City Engineer, had estimated that the new drain would be completed by Sept. 1. It is 3,600 feet long and built of reinforced concrete tile.

LeDuc and Robinson, Detroit contractors, supervised the construction. It was completed without injury to any of the workmen employed on the project. The final catch basin is being built now.

Mr. Besse said city workmen soon would begin repairing the streets that were opened in the process of building the sewer.

The new drain should eliminate the past trouble experienced in that area from heavy rains and the melting snow and ice in spring.
