

HITS AT TAX SCHEME.

Just read a paragraph that said income taxes and inheritance taxes should be kept high to give all American youth a more equal start in life. In other words, make everybody poor so they will be equally poor. Such a philosophy of government, if actually practiced, would rob people of any incentive to succeed in business or to save, and our nation would become poor indeed. Such doctrines should not be preached, for they misled too many people.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

THE BUREAUCRATS AGAIN!

Strange how Federal Administration which professes such keen desire to watch over the public's pocketbook in purchases of articles in every-day use, in order to prevent gouging by a wicked group of merchandisers, at the same time exhibit no interest in a reduction of public money expenditures. There is a 37½ billion dollar budget which the Administration doesn't want to cut by a single penny; there is a terrific income tax burden which the Administration doesn't consider of any importance; and there is a public debt of fantastic size which doesn't bother the Administration for one instant.—Editor Boyle in The Michigan Tradesman.

EDITOR SEED SAYS SOMETHING.

It has become an established fact among most laboring people that the most effective method to bring about increases in wages or salaries is to strike or threaten to strike, never once giving thought to the old time custom of giving value received for a day's good pay and leaving it up to the employer to properly reimburse for said faithful service. "A good day's work for a good day's wage" has been supplanted by "get all you can while the getting is good."—Charles Seed in The Rochester Clarion.

LET'S DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

Now that a lot of the assessments of Plymouth have been jacked up, some probably not as much as they should have been and others more than they should have been, let's not forget that good idea advanced by Attorney Perry Richwine pertaining to the formation of a new type of a board of assessors.

This is in no criticism of the work of former assessors or the present assessor of this city. They did the best they could, and on the whole, a pretty good job at that. But the charge has been made that in some cases low assessments were maintained because of political or other reasons. We doubt the accuracy of this charge, but nevertheless it has been made.

If we adopted the suggestion of Mr. Richwine and set up a board of assessors, composed of a group of Plymouth property owners, there is no question but what a charge of this kind could never be made. The people who pay the taxes would see to it that all pay and pay alike in proportion to the value of their property. Mr. Richwine's idea should be kept alive until something is done about it.

WHERE OUR STRENGTH LIES.

Some one recently wrote a pretty good editorial on the subject of the "Strength of Our Country." There is so much common sense in what is said, that the editorial is being reprinted in full, as follows:

"The basic strength of this country lies in its philosophy of life and government—not in its natural resources and its industries and its wealth. These last, vital as they are, are but the consequences of the first. They are the natural development of a system which places maximum freedom for the individual above all other considerations.

"Other nations have great resources—greater, in some particulars, than our own. Russia is a case in point. But other nations have not been able, despite grandiose 'five-year plans' and similar schemes, to put them to full use for the benefit of the people. Super-government, which robs the individual of his freedom, likewise robs him of his ingenuity and his ambition. The individual is simply the tool of the state. He is denied much and often most of the fruits of his labors. Results are gained by mass action, by driving and terrorizing the people. But the individual, save for the man in the saddle, never benefits.

"This country grew great under the Constitutional idea of a government of limited powers—a government which maintained the Army and Navy, the courts and other essential services, and acted as an arbiter in the economic affairs of the country but never as a competitor or participant. This is the kind, and the only kind, of government under which the rights and freedoms of the people can be preserved, and it must not be undermined here."

ABUSE — PLENTY OF IT.

There has been a lot of talk around Michigan in recent months about the abuse of the rights given under the unemployment compensation act of this state. While it was originated as a benefit to people out of jobs and who could not find work, it has become not much more than a downright racket.

Editor John Lignian of the Olivet Optic recently in discussing this question, declared that the abuse of unemployment insurance is rapidly becoming a disgrace in Michigan. Set up as it was to tide a person over during periods of unemployment, it is now being used for a big vacation spree and many of those drawing it won't take a job as long as they can get the hand-out.

In spite of the fact that it is almost impossible to hire anybody to do anything for you, there are from 100 to 150 men and women in Eaton County alone who appear at the court house in Charlotte every Thursday morning for a weekly check of approximately $20. Many of the people in the line are jobless from choice and not necessity. If you don't think so, try to hire some of them.

Apparently a lot of people would rather get $20 a week and lie around than to work and earn more. Unemployment insurance, instead of accomplishing what it was intended to do, is educating a lot of people to become lazy. It does not come out of the worker's wages, as does social security, but rather it is paid by all employers of eight or more people. These employers add the cost to the price of their product, so in the last analysis, the consumer foots the bill, and that means you and me.

The cure for this abuse is to lower the payments so they will furnish only the bare necessities of life and not be attractive for lie-around pay. This will only be done when the people get mad enough to demand it.

New Plaque In Kellogg Park To List All of Plymouth's War Dead

When Plymouth citizens Friday honor the heroes of its wars, there will be placed on "Plymouth Rock" in Kellogg park a new plaque containing the names of the fallen heroes of World War I and World War II.

Up to the present time the plaque has contained only the names of the veterans who sacrificed their lives during the first World War. Now the plaque has been recast and it will present the names of all the veterans of the two world wars who died while in the armed services of our country.

This has been accomplished as the result of efforts on the part of the ex-service men who wanted to see an accurate and complete list of all war victims compiled. The files of The Plymouth Mail provided accurate data for the list that was compiled of Plymouth uniformed men who gave up their lives in the last World War.

The girls left New York May 1 and made the trans-Atlantic flight by Sky Master Flightship. They landed in Amsterdam, Holland, where they were met by their brother, Colonel George Clemens. They were thrilled when they found that they had arrived on the weekend of the tulip festival. There was an abundance of different blossoms which had reached their peak of beauty. During the festival the Hollanders gather the blooms and make them into leis. They then cover all the cars and bicycles with them. "The whole countryside of Holland with its green meadows, many herds of dairy cattle, beautiful...

Hanford District Votes To Join Plymouth Schools

School electors of the Hanford district number two which is located southwest of Plymouth voted to join the Plymouth school district at an election held in that area last week.

The vote in favor of joining with this district was 37 to 20 and Hanford now becomes the first of three districts located south of Plymouth to approve of the joint move which was suggested by the Wayne County Board of Education.

The Bartlett district voted down the same proposition at their election last week and the Hough school district will vote on the same question on June 8th. After the outlying districts approve of the union then Plymouth electors will be asked for their approval of the move.

The joining of the smaller districts around the Plymouth area is part of the state wide program to consolidate the smaller school districts. The smaller districts gain the advantage of free bus transportation, which is paid by the state and also have the assurance of the larger district, such as Plymouth, of high school facilities for their children.

If all three districts finally approve of the plan it is expected that the Plymouth schools will operate one of the present buildings in that area for grade school purposes. At the present time all of their high school children are now attending Plymouth schools.

Chess Players Get Free Lessons At Library Here

Ever wonder what chess is all about? Ever wish you knew how to play? An opportunity to really learn the game under expert instruction is to be offered to interested persons free of charge, at the Plymouth library.

This fascinating game, which is growing in popularity, can be played by anyone. According to J. E. Peckover, vice-president of the American Chess and Checker Foundation, and director of the Detroit Academy of Chess, you don't have to be either a Houdini or an Einstein to understand and enjoy the game. "Anyone can learn if started with proper instruction," he said. There is a challenge in his statement because Peckover himself will be the instructor.

An internationally known instructor, Peckover claims that the average person after three lessons, not only grasps the fundamentals but is able to play the game; and after seven lessons is well prepared for competitive play. Therefore the degree of skill depends almost completely on practice.

Especially urging high school students to attend, Walter H. Kaiser, county librarian, said, "Reports come from all sections of the country of large numbers of young people forming chess clubs and conducting tournaments. Young people definitely are interested in chess and soon master the game with little difficulty. The Plymouth library welcomes this opportunity to provide instruction for a game that is (Continued on page 2)

Celebration For Wayne On Fourth

The Village of Wayne Swimming Pool Board is sponsoring a Community Festival on July 4, 5, and 6 for the purpose of raising funds for a Memorial Swimming Pool. The pool is to be dedicated to the memory of the many fine young men lost from Wayne during the last great war.

There will be many interesting events featured during the three day festival. A huge parade will start the events on the morning of the Fourth and will commence with an Air Show daily, American Legion Baseball Game, and an evening concert in the park by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Dr. Valter Poole will conduct and Miss Eva Likova, the new soprano from Czechoslovakia, will be the guest artists with the symphony.

July 5 will feature athletic events and games for both adults and children with many valuable prizes being offered the winners. A Coronation Ball Saturday evening is a highlight event. The queen of the festival will be presented with her crown at the Ball.

Sunday will be especially interesting with a Sunday afternoon Band Concert in the park featuring the Detroit Police Band. The evening program highlights an outdoor Boxing Event with prominent fighters making an appearance.

During the entire festival day booths and displays will be offered to the public to put them in a festive mood. A few of the many are: the Midway, an Ox Roast, demonstrations and army vehicles festival mood. A few of the many and the Michigan National Guard, displays by merchants and local industries, and a gigantic display of fireworks.

Anyone interested in tickets for any of the above listed events, please, contact the Wayne Kiwanis Rotary, Mom's Club, Knights of Columbus, Oddfellows, Chamber of Commerce, or any other local Wayne Organization.

Schmidt Talks Before Kiwanis

Louis Schmidt, principal of the Plymouth High school was the speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth, Tuesday evening.

The speaker addressed the gathering on general conditions and points of interest concerning China. Mr. Schmidt was a lieutenant in the navy during the war and visited China during his term of service. He spoke of the great similarity between the Chinese and Americans. This is especially evident in their love of independence and freedom. He further said that while the Chinese are shrewd and able business men they value human relations above all else. They are a proud and courteous people and love a joke.

Mr. Schmidt stated that the streets of Chinese cities are narrow, dirty and crowded. There are many poor people to be seen everywhere and there is always a crowd ready to follow you. The tremendous number of rickshaws, which are used for transportation, make these cities even more congested.

In conclusion Mr. Schmidt said they are a most friendly people but that one should refrain from slapping them on the back and calling them pal.

The interesting talk was warmly appreciated by the Kiwanians and contributed greatly to a good program.

Besides many other honors, McSorley's has been the subject of a book and at least ten oil paintings, one of which hangs in the Detroit Institute of Arts.

GOVERNOR SIGNING JUNE DAIRY MONTH PROCLAMATION

Governor Kim Sigler signing the June Dairy Month Proclamation recognizing the importance of our $200,000,000 dairy industry to the general welfare of the citizens of Michigan. Members of the Dairy Month Committee, L. N. Francke, Michigan Allied Dairy Assoc., A. C. Baltzer, Michigan State College, Charles Stone, American Dairy Association, F. M. Skiver, Michigan Department of Agric., and Stanley Powell, Michigan Farm Bureau, are receiving the proclamation from Governor Sigler. Michigan with 1,080,000 dairy cows ranks sixth in the Nation as a dairy state producing annually over 2 1/2 billion quarts of milk, the sale of which accounts for over one-third of the farm income, in some counties it is the source of 50 to 60% of all farm income.

Large Crowd Expected At Rodeo Sunday
Many will purchase tickets before the day of the Rodeo. However, if this is impossible, they declare, tickets will be available at the gate. Rodeo officials from Saddle Ridge report that special show stocks have arrived from southern and western states. There will be special backing races, steers for roping and bulldozing and calves for roping. Professional cowboys and cowgirls are also on the program, who will compete for prizes. Plymouth area riders may take part in the Grand Entry scheduled for the 10:00 a. m. event on the program at 2:00 o'clock. Saddle Ridge quadrille team will have a part of the program. Interesting will be their "square dancing" on horseback and it will be noted that horses have to be well-shodded to participate in an event of this kind. The "musical chair" game will provide thrills for all, as will the potato race and other competitive events planned. Jaycee chairman of the rodeo, Wendell Lent, this week expressed the desire for as many as possible to buy tickets thereby increasing their desire to contribute to the high school band uniforms fund drive. Jaycees promise a show well worth the price of admission and hope that when it is over more than $2,400 will have been raised to cover the cost of the band uniforms which have already been ordered to arrive in time for the annual game this fall in Plymouth's new athletic field.

Plymouthites In Europe Write of Tulip Festival

tiful flowers and colorful dwellings is most picturesque. The people are so friendly and polite and it was reluctantly that we went on our way," they wrote. The girls then drove west from the Hague and Rotterdam and through Belgium and on into France. They spent four days in Paris and found it as fascinating as they had always read it to be. They report that very little of the city was destroyed and that now, two years after the war, it is difficult to find traces of the bombing. They attended a play at one of the playhouses and also a performance at the opera house. They have written that while meat and bread are scarce all kinds of fruits and vegetables are plentiful.

After leaving Paris, they journeyed to Nancy, where they spent a day, and then continued on down the Moselle River Valley, where the American Armies did a great deal of fighting during the war. During this portion of the trip, Colonel Clemens pointed out the way he had traveled with his anti-aircraft battalion. The closer they came toward Germany the more evident were the signs of conflict. The country in this area has not been cleared away and rehabilitated as much as other parts.

The girls plan to spend a few days in Switzerland before returning home in the early part of June.

Form Industrial Softball League

The Industrial Softball League, which is being sponsored by the Plymouth Recreation Department, will begin competition Monday, June 2.

There are eight teams in the league at this time and four games will be presented on Monday and Thursday evenings. The teams are as follows: Evans Products Local, Wall Wire, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Plymouth Merchants, Cavalier, Oldsmobile-Cities Service, House of Correction and Daisy Air Rifle.

One game a night will be played on the House of Correction field, two will be played on the central high school field and one will be played at the Daisy Air Rifle field.

League play will be divided into two rounds of fourteen games each and at the conclusion of this series the league will be divided into two groups. The four top teams will be in Class A and the last four will be placed in Class B. Playoffs in both sections will be held and the members of the winning teams in both sections will be awarded a trophy.

The winning team of the Class A division will be eligible to compete in the Michigan Recreation Association tournament.

Temporary officers for the Umpires association have been appointed. They are Henry Hees, president, Arthur Jenkins, vice-president and Harry Hunter, secretary.

Umpires who officiate at the Industrial League games will receive $2.00 for each evening's work.

Residue left by the weed killer 2, 4-D in spraying equipment will kill desirable plants unless the equipment is thoroughly cleaned.

No Wednesday Store Closing

A luncheon meeting was held Tuesday noon at the Mayflower Hotel by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and a group of local merchants to discuss plans for store closing in Plymouth during the summer months.

There had been numerous suggestions for arriving at some definite time when the merchants would close but there was no majority of opinion for any one day.

The retailers feel that their first obligation is to the shoppers of Plymouth. Feeling that closing any one day would inconvenience the residents of the community they rejected the plan. It was also decided that the policy of all stores closing on one day would cause undue hardship upon those who travel from other points to do their shopping in Plymouth. Some stores will close for a few hours in order to give their help time off one day a week.

Most Plymouth merchants will be open Thursday evening, instead of Friday evening, enabling Plymouthites to do their last minute Memorial Day purchasing.

Girl Scout Rally Tuesday, June 3rd

The Girl Scouts of Plymouth are planning a rally to be held at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening, June 3, in the high school auditorium. The highlight of the rally will be the court of awards at which time the curved bar award will be presented to the scouts who have earned it. The curved bar award winners of last year will conduct the court. Mrs. Edward Dobbs, assisted by Mrs. John Paul Morrow, will present the award to the following girl scouts: Anne Vincent, Gwendolyn Phillips, Jayna Arnold, Sally Rupp and Barbara Goodale. All girl scout troops of the city are requested to attend the rally and all parents are invited.

Cattle should not be turned into pasture until the grass gets a good start.

Streamliners Nearly Double P.M.Ry. Business

Pere Marquette Railway's twin, ultra-modern streamliners have increased passenger traffic 86 per cent in the first seven and one-half months of operation, and increased business will equal total construction costs of the two trains in less than four years.

This was disclosed today by President Robert J. Bowman of the Pere Marquette in furtherance of the parent Chesapeake and Ohio Railway's effort to show that railroads generally can't afford NOT to modernize equipment.

Plymouth, the only city between Grand Rapids and Detroit, except Lansing, which has the benefit of the services of all of these trains, has contributed its share to this tremendous increase.

The streamliners offering luxurious appointments at regular coach fares on an essentially local 152-mile run between Detroit and Grand Rapids, Michigan, were placed in service last August 19—the first all-new, post-war streamliners in the country.

From that date through March 31, 1947, these trains carried 266,486 passengers, an increase of 123,015 or 86 per cent over the 143,471 carried on old trains in the previous corresponding period when traffic still was war-swollen.

Passenger receipts on the streamliners in the same period totaled $617,677, an increase of $274,147 or 80 per cent above the $343,530 for the previous corresponding period. The percentage of increase in passenger receipts was slightly below the percentage of increase in the number of passengers, due to the fact that the old trains included parlor cars on which first class fares were charged.

Increase in receipts of the streamliners is at the rate of $430,000 a year, more than one-fourth the $1,660,045 total cost of the two trains.

The streamliners, named the "Pere Marquettes," make the Detroit-Grand Rapids run in two hours and 40 minutes, clipping about 40 minutes off the running time of the trains they displaced. They discourage tipping in the dining cars, and were the first to utilize Chesapeake and Ohio's "a-y-a-s-y-o-u-t-o" plan which permits passengers to reserve seats by phone, go directly to the train and pay their fares enroute. The Chesapeake and Ohio describes these trains as the "minimum standard" for new equipment which Chairman Robert R. Young believes all roads should establish. Lagging passenger traffic increased at once, jumping 76 percent ahead in the first four months, then continued to climb. The new trains are diesel powered, and each has a passenger capacity of approximately 250.

The rate at which the streamliners are returning their cost is evidence that "modern equipment is not a luxury that only a few fortunate systems, like the C. & O., can afford," said Mr. Bowman.

First "Michigan on Canvas" Painting Is Unveiled

Detroit, Mich.—Zoltan Sepeshy, Director of Painting at Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, shows his finished painting, "Mending Row (Fishermen)," for the "MICHIGAN ON CANVAS" Collection. When completed, approximately 80 pictures of present-day life in Michigan will have been painted by ten of America's outstanding artists, commissioned by The J. L. Hudson Company, Detroit. The paintings will highlight Michigan's scenic beauty and recreational areas, its great industries, its natural resources and the way its people live. It is planned to show the complete collection throughout the state for the benefit of all Michigan residents. The artists are now gathering data in all sections of Michigan for their assignments. The J. L. Hudson Company expects the project to be completed sometime this Fall.

Poultry Feeding

In poultry feeding, increasingly larger quantities of vegetable oils are being used as carriers of the fat-soluble vitamins. On the other hand, in several feedstuffs, such as meat scrap and the oilseed meals, as much fat and oil as possible are being extracted. Therefore, experiments were made to ascertain the effect of levels of fat intake varying from 0.8 to 8.8 per cent on the hatchability of eggs. None of them affected hatchability or time of occurrence of embryonic mortality.

Controls Ulcers

Sodium alkyl sulfate, a component of a popular brand of soapless soap, has been found to be effective in the treatment of gastro-duodenal ulcers which have been resistant to all other types of medication. Twenty-six out of 34 patients treated had their symptoms controlled by the sodium alkyl sulfate, eight obtained no relief, and two of those relieved have had a recurrence on cessation of the treatment.

Child Labor

In 1916 child labor was still thought of as the labor of children under 14 and the first Federal law embodied this standard, with regulation of hours up to 16 years. Since then the standard has been pushed steadily ahead toward a 16-year minimum for school leaving and employment, with regulation of hours, and of employment in dangerous occupations, up to 18 years.

Natural Flood Control Beavers were probably the greatest flood control engineers. It is estimated by wildlife experts that the dams of 80 million beavers in primitive times, held back flood waters in what is now the United States. A number of states are now instituting intensive programs to increase beaver population which has been decimated because of the value of the fur.

Cluttered Steps

Cluttered cellar steps frequently cause bad falls. It's easy to put scuffs away if there is a place for them. The lack of handrails is an added hazard.

Flavor Potatoes

For fine flavor in cooking potatoes for fish cakes, add half a clove of garlic to the water and discard before mashing the potatoes.

High Yields

High crop yields just don't happen, they are made by a wise selection of good seed, good land and wise farming practices.

Heavy Dish Towels

New dish towels that are very heavily sized will serve better if soaked overnight in warm sudsy water to remove stiffness.

Legion Invites Vets

Veterans of World War II were made eligible for membership in the American Legion October 29, 1942.

Evans Products Names Western Sales Manager

Appointment of Williams J. Ritchie as sales manager for the Western Division of Evans Products Company of Plymouth is announced by E. S. Evans, Jr., president. Ritchie will maintain offices at Evans main plant on Eekles road. From there he will direct sales of wood products manufactured at Evans plants at Coos Bay, Oregon; Vancouver, British Columbia; Grand Haven, Michigan, and Evans Molded Plywood experimental laboratories at Los Angeles.

Evans west coast plants, located near the company's own timber stands, are the largest manufacturers of battery separators in the world. Finished from Douglas Fir and Port Orford Cedar, Evans battery separators are made both for domestic use and for shipment throughout the British Empire. Other products of the Western Division include Venetian blind slats, rails and fascia; Douglas Fir Pallets; molded plywood chair backs and seats, and wheel blocks for shipping automotive vehicles.

Ritchie has been with Evans Products Company for 11 years, having served as Assistant Sales Manager, Western Division; Stamping Division Manager; Assistant Manager, Loading Division; Director of Purchases; and Assistant to the Vice-President, Lumber Products Division. As Stamping Division Manager, during the war he aided development and production of boxes and crates for export shipping.

Before his affiliation with Evans, Ritchie was with the Detroit sales offices of Republic Steel, where he became well acquainted with executive personnel of all the major automotive companies.

Add Flavor

Many home-grown herbs add greatly to the flavor of low-cost meat cuts. Sage, bay leaf, sweet marjoram, gill leaves, thyme, winter and summer savory and basil supply their own characteristic flavors, but should be used sparingly. Onions, tomatoes, green pepper, horseradish and parsley also make appetizing combinations with meat.

Self-Opening

Oyster opening is frequently a difficult and dangerous task, both in the home and in the commercial plant. In the postwar world it will only be necessary to add a pill to a glass of water containing an oyster. The pill generates carbon dioxide, causing the oyster to yawn and open up of its own accord.

Turkey Fare

About three-quarters of one pound of turkey, dressed weight, will satisfy the average person. For far duck or goose, more must be prepared—about one and one-half pounds dressed weight. One pound of chicken will be ample for the average eater.

Milford To Hold Interest Lags In Auto Race, June 8 Summer Band

On Sunday, June 8, the "Big Cars" will race for the largest purse of Prize Money ever posted at the Milford track.

Being a member of the Interstate Racing Circuit, and the Milford date the only one scheduled for June 8, a very large field of cars is expected.

The track having been reelayed last fall is in ideal shape due to the spring rains, which have settled the new surfaces to make a very fast track.

A few of the early entries include the top notch drivers as—Freddie Hawes, winner of the 1947 opener at Jackson, Geo. Tichenor of Logansport, Ind., Bob O'Neal of Detroit, Geo. Lynch of Detroit, Dick VanEmmerik of Waterford, Michigan and Red Bayles of Cleveland, Ohio.

There will be 7 thrill packed events, which will include a 25 lap feature. Qualifying will be at 1 o'clock sharp and the first race at 2:30.

Paul Wagner, director of music for the Plymouth High School, has been rather disappointed in his latest project.

He reports that the number of Plymouth adult musicians who appeared for the first rehearsal of the Plymouth Community band was below expectations.

High school band members and any adults who play musical instruments are encouraged to become a part of this organization. Interest in this project has always been keen in the past and it is hoped that enough musicians can be contacted in time for the first concert. This program, the first of eight which have been scheduled, will be presented Friday evening, June 13, at Kellogg Park. Guest conductors have been contacted for the solos and have promised to appear.

Anyone having an interest in becoming a member of the Plymouth Community band are requested to contact Mr. Wagner at their earliest opportunity.

Plea For Safety On State Hwys

Anticipating a surge of holiday traffic which will cause many auto accidents over the Memorial Day weekend, Automobile Club of Michigan today joined police and other safety agencies in a special plea to motorists to "take it easy" on state highways and city streets this weekend.

"Memorial Day weekend marks the beginning of summer and holiday driving in large volume. Everyone will be on the road," Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director, reminded motorists.

"During this big holiday it is hoped that every effort will be made both by motorists and pedestrians to use extra care while driving and walking. This applies especially on rural highways where almost two-thirds of the total traffic deaths in Michigan occur," he added.

Davis emphasized that more cars will be on the road this weekend than at any time since 1941. Michigan traffic deaths numbered 1,464 last year, with 34,479 injuries and 85,097 property damage accidents. This was an increase over 1945 of 27.3 per cent in deaths, 24.2 per cent in injuries, and 35.4 per cent in property damage collisions.

The traffic record for the first few months of 1947 has been better than this but this weekend can easily start Michigan on the road to another upsurge of traffic deaths and injuries in traffic, Davis pointed out.

Residents of northern Michigan tourist towns and those who run resorts will be working overtime at home this weekend. But they will help add to the accident figures unless they are ceaselessly vigilant in crossing highways or streets used by tourists.

Davis listed seven suggestions to insure a safe and sane Memorial Holiday:

1. "Take it easy." Driving at speeds too fast for conditions was a dominant factor in 42 percent of last year's accidents. Don't weave in and out of traffic.
2. Have brakes checked over before leaving home.
3. Watch for cars coming out of side roads particularly during dusk hours. Obey all traffic signs calling for a "full stop."
4. Don't drive on the wrong side of the road. Keep to the right, particularly on curves.
5. Don't pass on hills, curves or at street intersections. Scrupulously obey "No Passing" signs.
6. Get an early start, both going and coming, and avoid the rush.
7. Slowdown at sundown. Don't overdrive your headlights. If headlamps require adjustment, have them fixed before the holiday.

If you have any items of interest about your family or friends please call 16.

Scout Leaders To Meet For Training

About two hundred key Scout Leaders from Michigan, Indiana and Illinois, will attend a National Camp Directors School at the new Training Center on the Charles Howell Boy Scout Reservation, located near Brighton, the week of June 1 to 8.

Prominent Scout officials and other personalities will serve on the Camp Training Course faculty. Among those scheduled to attend are, Wes H. Klusmann, National Director of Camping and Activities for the Boy Scouts of America, and Peter McLaren, World famous axeman and wood-chopping champion.

The new Training Center, one of the finest of its kind anywhere in America, was completed late last year. The Center is a mammoth rustic structure capable of seating 300 or more persons at one time. The huge pine logs, used in its construction, were a gift from the Ford Motor Car Company. The Center is completely modern in heating, lighting, toilet and kitchen facilities. Its location and physical conveniences as a Training Center have attracted Regional and National attention.

Although designed specifically for Local Council training needs, other Michigan and nearby State groups will hold future conferences and courses at the Training Center.

The National Camp School, in session from June 1 to 8, is designed especially for Scout Executives and other key Scouters who will direct Boy Scout Camps, or definitely supervise some particular phase of a Camp organization. Special attention is given to the training of men in the commissary and program departments of long term camps.

Why the Railroads Can't Afford NOT to Modernize!

A Dollars-and-cents Example That Will Interest Travelers, Labor and Investors

FOR a long time the C & O has been saying that America's railroads must modernize their passenger equipment—or forfeit a great opportunity.

In print and in private we have lampooned the "rolling tenements" that still pass for sleeping cars. We have stumped for modern streamlined trains to replace tired, creaking old day coaches. And over and over we have stated the conviction that, given attractive equipment, and new comforts and services, the railroads could open the door on a new era of travel.

As an earnest of that conviction the C&O is replacing every old sleeping car, day coach and diner, on all our main lines, with modern streamlined cars. The orders have all been placed. If every railroad were doing as much, there would now be 21,000 new passenger cars on order instead of a mere 3000.

But Is It Practical?

The standpatters in the industry are still shaking their heads. And lately more reasonable people have been asking, "How can the large-scale replacement of old trains be practical?"

They point out that several of our largest systems had serious deficits in 1946. And everyone knows that the railroads are caught between rocketing costs and lagging rates. "How," they ask, "can such an industry afford large outlays for new equipment?"

The answer is that the railroads can't afford not to make these outlays. And here is a dollars-and-cents example:

The Investment That Is Fast Returning Its Cost

Last August one of the C&O lines, the Pere Marquette, installed two ultra-modern trains on its run between Detroit and Grand Rapids. These new daytime streamliners were the last word in passenger attractiveness.

Since they have been in operation the new trains have carried 86% more passengers than old trains carried over the same route during the same period of the previous year—when traffic was still swollen by war emergencies.

And here is the proof of the pudding: In less than 4 years, at the present rate, the increase in passenger receipts will equal the total cost of the trains!

Modern equipment is not a luxury that only a few fortunate systems, like the C&O, can afford. Even a bankrupt railroad can borrow money today to buy such equipment at 2% interest. Since that is the fact, it is almost incredible that less than 100 new passenger cars have been ordered this year!

Which Way Do We Go?

To investors, the labor brotherhoods and the traveling public, the C&O repeats its conviction—that our railroads face one of the most critical choices in their history.

If pessimist thinking, old-line practices and Toonerville equipment continue to be tolerated, then, regardless of rate relief, further deficits and bankruptcies are certain.

But, if, on the other hand, these liabilities are replaced by modern ideas and modern trains, our railroads can again be a credit to our country. They can also be a bulwark of our national defense, which, as every citizen knows, depends on a flourishing transportation system.

Pressure Groups Blamed For Misleading Voters About Taxes

By Gene Alleman
LANSING—The state capital is again sighing with relief. The state legislature, now winding up its fifth month, is due to go home next week.

An adjournment of the legislature is always an occasion for rejoicing by legislators, state officials and legislative agents. This year's event will be more so.

The 1947 session has been distinguished by constant confusion. Although Republicans have been in complete control of both the House and Senate, leadership has been noticeably wobbly and actions have been quite unpredictable. Legislators have confounded everyone by reversing their stands on important measures. New tax programs have emerged periodically with bewildering contradictory upsets. For utter confusion the 1947 session was the "worst" in 24 years, according to John C. Espie of Eagle, veteran chairman of the important house ways and means committee.

As we look back on this five-month phenomenon, we note several basic reasons why this condition has prevailed and also why legislators should not be criticized.

Constitutional car-making of its major sources of revenue has put the state in a financial strait-jacket. Who is responsible for this dilemma? Two parties: Pressure groups which have sought special privilege or protection, and the public (you, the voter) which has supported these appeals.

The ear-marking of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle weight tax for highway use is a good example. The 15-mill limitation on real estate tax is another. The latest was the ear-marking of 76 per cent of the sales tax for return to local units of government. We are not disputing the merit of each proposal; we do point out its collective effect.

As Governor Sigler emphasized in his first budget message state payments to local units of government have gone up $138 millions since the sales tax was enacted. In that time the state has kept $30 millions more for its own needs.

With very little left to spend, the legislature has had an almost impossible problem to solve. No other state in the nation is in such a jam. The legislators could either raise more money by new taxes or let the state government go into the red. It now appears at the eve of adjournment that the legislature has succeeded in doing both!

Action on taxes was stalled for months while the state supreme court weighed validity of the sales tax diversion amendment. After the court ruled the amendment to be constitutional, the legislature then had the distasteful task of trying to balance the budget while the nation was undergoing the worst inflation in a half century.

It is always easier to find ways to spend money than find ways to raise money, and Governor Sigler's program of new taxes was due inevitably to be unpopular with someone. Shelved by legislators were these recommendations: Soft drink tax, beer tax increase, and a state property tax. A 3-cent cigarette tax was approved. Lost in the shuffle: A personal income tax (rejected repeatedly by the voters); a manufacturer's tax and removal of the corporate tax ceiling.

Feeling legislators' consideration of these proposals was the renewed feud between city and rural interests. Rural legislators were friendly to needs for more money for highways, while city legislators were hostile. Each group disagreed as to how the money should be spent.

In the words of Governor Sigler, the ear-marking of public revenue by constitutional amendment has had the effect of "depriving the representatives of the people (the legislature) of a true opportunity to consider and evaluate all the needs for public expenditure."

Granting that such is the case, it seems illogical to make the legislature the scapegoat for the confusion at Lansing since the first of the year. The root of the trouble, as we see it, goes right back to the antiquated crazy-quilt system of taxes, now firmly imbedded in a state constitution adopted shortly after the turn of the century and periodically revised since then.

The sales tax diversion amendment will be re-submitted to the people in November, 1948. Approved by the senate, the resolution has been passed by the House.

The prospect for a solution of the constitutional problem—this ear-marking of funds—is none too bright. If the house approves a senate plan to create a constitutional commission, the Sigler administration can rightfully point with satisfaction to a constructive step toward modernization of the state's charter.

Until this is done, Michigan must continue to struggle along under the handicap of an out-patched constitution which has now taken away from the legislature the power to spend public revenues according to changing needs. This curb may reflect a lack of public confidence in the legislature. From first impression such would seem to be the case. But we believe that the root of the conflict goes deeper than that.

As long as one agency of government collects money and another agency of government spends it, we will continue to have a breakdown in tax responsibility. The sales tax has become "Lansing money", 76 per cent of which is spent now by local units of government. A dollar collected at Lansing or Washington has a tendency of becoming the "other fellow's" dollar—not your dollar.

This breakdown in tax responsibility invites an ever-increasing demand for spending by government. The needs of the people are unending and inexhaustible; pressure groups will continue to seek more state aid for their privileged use—worthy as it may be.

The problem is "tremendously difficult", to quote Governor Sigler, and the answer will not be easy to find. Michigan sorely needs a revised and modernized constitution.

When India's Chamber of Princes holds a meeting in Delhi, each of its 121 royal members is saluted, upon arrival, by the number of guns that indicates his rank, the total being nearly 1,500 cannon shots which require a week to fire.

Bowling Prize Money Arrives

Members of the Daisy Air Rifle bowling team were awarded several prizes during the recent American Bowling Conference held in Los Angeles.

The whole team represented in the five man event bowled a total of 2718 pins and as a result won $38.40. L. Butler and H. Shaw, represented the Daisy team in the first doubles event and won $20.00. They scored a total of 1142 pins. The second prize of the two man event found B. Archer and P. McAllister walking away with $11.84 in prize money.

In the individual events B. Archer, with a score of 610, won the first prize of $17.00, and P. McAllister took second place money of $8.00 by scoring 578. The all events prize, for a nine game score, went to B. Archer. His score of 1788 was enough to take the $35.00 prize.

Clarence Levandowski, of the Goldstein team, was the only one to win that group. His 591 pins were enough to earn $6.00 in the singles event.

Troop Three Boy Scouts For their first camping trip of this season Boy Scouts of troop P-3 hiked to Northville Hill last Saturday and set up an over-night camp site.

Saturday morning and afternoon was spent in organizing the group, passing tests, and playing baseball and other games. Meals were planned and cooked by Patrols.

David Dean, Bob Miller, Paul Broilet, Dan Laskey, Albert Williams, Don Jackson, and Robert Olds became members of the Royal Order of the Court of Siam on Saturday evening. Besides these Scouts, the following also went on the over-night hike: Chuck Miller, Bud Meyers, Don Mathias, Bill Agosta, John Hancock, Freeman Hoyer, and Scoutmaster Ferris Mathias.

Troop Three has gone on several evening hikes this spring and are planning to make a ten day trip again this summer to northern Michigan. Money for the trip is earned by the troop through newspaper collection.

Good way to keep a Honey Happy

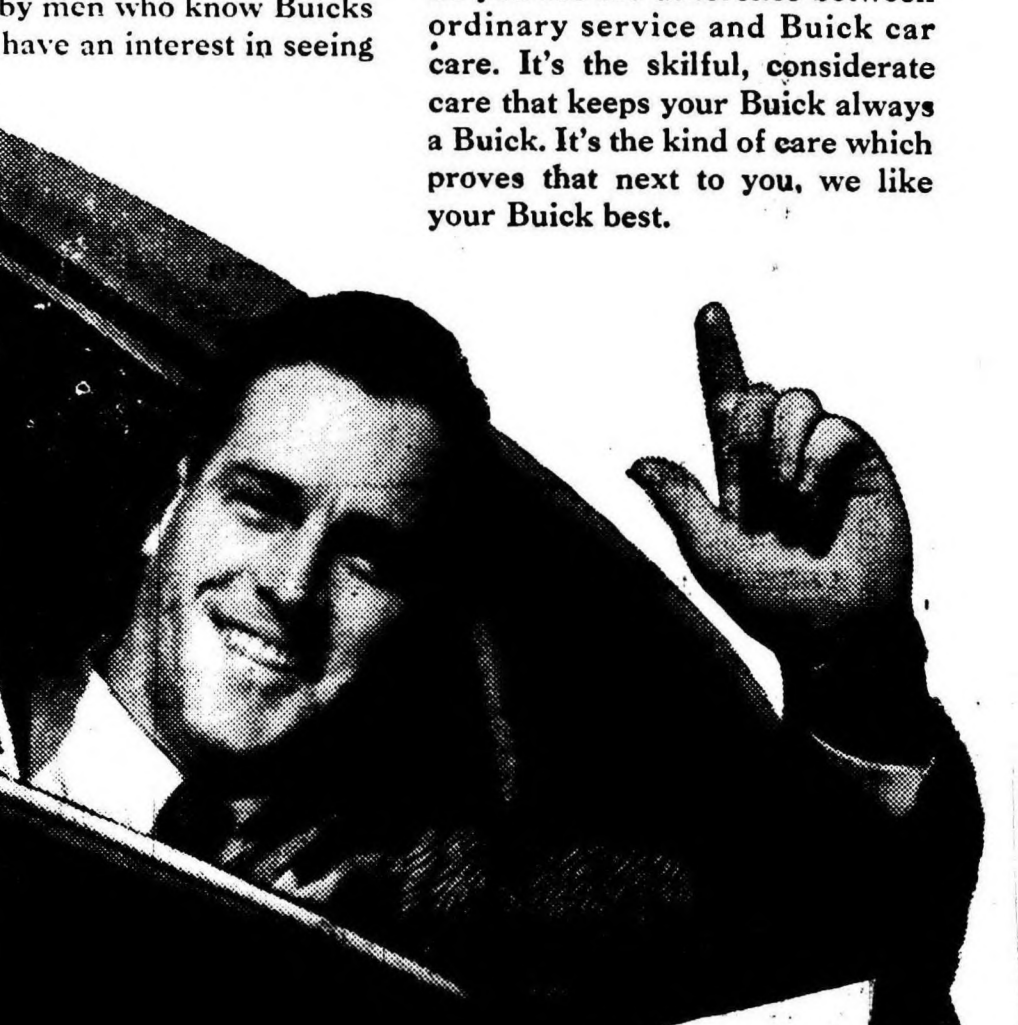

THINK back to the days when your Buick stood proud, shiny and new at your door. A touch of your toe and that two tons of car romped away gentle as a breeze — and just as obediently glided to a soft, sure stop.

Buicks. It's there for you to have for years and years — especially when your car gets the kind of care such a honey should have. That doesn't mean just filling her up and seeing that the oil doesn't get low. Nor a periodic lube job done with "one-kind-for-all" lubricants. It means competent care by men familiar with every part of a Buick — by men who know Buicks best and have an interest in seeing that you get the greatest satisfaction from yours. Every detail of our service is aimed at this goal. The men are specialists on Buicks. They work with Buick-designed tools. They're backed up by a parts department stocked with Buick-engineered parts that are just made for Buick cars. So you see the difference between ordinary service and Buick care. It's the skilful, considerate care that keeps your Buick always a Buick. It's the kind of care which proves that next to you, we like your Buick best.

TIME TO REPOWER?

Suppose your Buick is crowding the big figures in high mileage. Suppose you don't want to wait for that new one. Here's a happy answer. If your Buick's any model year from 1937 through 1942, you can make it factory-fresh as far as power is concerned with the Buick Power Package. This is all the major assembly of a new Buick Fireball engine except carburetion and electrical systems. It puts good-as-new zip and performance into high-mileage cars. Changing over takes less time and often costs less than a really thorough overhaul and replacement job. Easy payments if you wish. Come in and talk it over.

FAIR IN THE LIGHT OF MEMORY SHINES MICHIGAN My MICHIGAN ELTON R. EATON

Charles Heddon, the famed Dowagiac manufacturer of fishing rods and all kinds of fishing tackle, once declared that no confirmed fisherman was ever known to be a criminal. If a man fishes as a pastime, he said, that man will do nothing which will cause any worry to the law-enforcing officers who have to deal with felons.

Now comes forth Malcolm Binyay in his "Good Morning" column in The Detroit Free Press and he makes a similar claim. Mr. Binyay discussing former President Hoover's recent speech about fishermen, wrote in his column:

Regardless of politics, it is wholesome Americana to see Herbert Hoover, only living ex-President, coming back to his own; not as a political figure, but as an intensely human being who had won the admiration and affection of the world for the magnificent job he did feeding the Belgians.

Ignored as a pariah during the long reign of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he found his abilities of service to his Country and humanity recognized by President Truman who twice sent him to Europe on missions of mercy.

Another gesture by Truman that must have warmed the old gentleman's heart was the naming of Boulder Dam in his honor—after it had been denied him by FDR's impulsive pettiness. Now at the age of 72 and no longer possessed of political ambitions. Mr. Hoover slips naturally into the role of the elder statesman.

In this position he is revealing a quiet philosophy that shows his real life, so largely hidden when he tries to be a politician—a role for which he was never born.

Nobody will ever know how many millions of his own fortune this man has given away to charity with never a word of publicity. He is the only President who never took a cent of his salary.

Though ridiculed for fishing, wearing a high collar and a derby hat, he really did love to fish—and still does. With his own money he bought and built that fishing lodge along the Rapidan River. When he left office he turned the property over to the Government, without cost, to be maintained for all presidents of the future.

In a radio broadcast the other evening in a discussion pertaining to Izaak Walton's "The Compleat Angler," Mr. Hoover explained why Presidents like to go fishing, because only in "prayer and fishing" do Americans respect privacy.

"The pneumatic hammering of demands on the President's mind had increased in frequency with the rising tide of economic and international complexity, and he just had to get away somewhere, and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

Among the fishing Presidents he merrily guessed that Mr. Coolidge had never fished in his youth:

"He was a good deal of a fundamentalist in economics, government and fishing, so he naturally preferred angle worms. But when the fly fisherman of the Nation raised their eyebrows in surprise, he took to artificial flies."

"However, his backcast was so much a common danger that even the Secret Service men kept at a distance until they were summoned to climb trees to retrieve flies."

With tender nostalgia he recalled his own boyhood, fishing with a bent pin. But, even in this poignantly happy hour of reminiscence, the Hooverian inability to master the riddle of politics made itself evident.

He spoke of Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt as great fishermen in the Presidential tradition. Cleveland was—in a flat-bottom rowboat on Lake Erie—an angler who wanted nothing else.

But as far as the records show, Theodore Roosevelt never caught a fish in his life. In a concordance of his writings there are three pages on hunting, but not a single word about fishing. TR was not given to contemplation, that communion with Nature that only a fisherman knows. Always he was a man of action. That may have been his weakness.

His fifth cousin loved to fish; but, again, as a mirror of a man's character, it had to be in a big way. When he no longer had the use of Vincent Astor's yacht—largest in the world—he drew upon the United States Navy, sometimes all of it.

I think Mr. Hoover owes it to fishing men to write a book upon the rivers of the world in which he has cast his flies. Let him take Izaak Walton's lines for a text:

"You will find angling to be like the virtue of humility, which has a calmness of spirit and a world of other blessings attending upon it."

I hope he also read Henry Van Dyke's great contributions to the Brotherhood of the Trout, "Fisherman's Luck," "The Anglers' Reville," and—best of all—"Little Rivers."

"Then come my friends, forget your foes, and leave your fears behind."
And wander forth to try your luck, with cheerful quiet mind."

In "Little Rivers" Dr. Van Dyke has a tribute to his father, as a fisherman, which is one of the most precious contributions to our literature. Out of his years of tragedy, Mr. Hoover can agree with Van Dyke:

"It is with rivers, as it is with people: the greatest are not always the most agreeable nor the best to live with."

Still Room For Campers In Parks

Nearly 10,000 children already have summer camping scheduled for them in state park group camps, but there still is room for a few more, if their sponsors apply early.

Ernest V. Blohm, who makes the group camp bookings for the conservation department's parks and recreation division, reports some camps still have open dates near the peak of the season, but most of the available time is near the season's end, between Labor Day and September 15, when some schools already have resumed classes. Until June 1, priority is being given applications of children's groups; after June 1 the weeks still open will be made available to adult groups also.

Specifications of camp locations, facilities and capacity are available from the parks division Lansing office, and applications for summer use are accepted only in Lansing, Blohm said.

Boy scouts, girl scouts, campfire girls, church groups, community youth organizations, underprivileged children, YMCA boys, school groups, 4-H clubs and junior sportsmen's associations are chief users of the group camp buildings in summer. Rates per camper are low enough to assure many a summer outing that otherwise would be out of reach. No child is in camp for more than two weeks.

The children are housed in substantial permanent buildings, some of them the barracks type, some the small cabin type, with central cooking, dining and washing facilities. Besides usual camp facilities, all state park group camps are near water for swimming, fishing and boating and well located in woods suited to hiking and wildlife study.

State park and recreation area group camps and the approximate number of weeks still available, between June 15 and September 15, at each are: Allegan Lake, six weeks; Ortonville, four weeks; Highland, 12 weeks; Hayes, five weeks; Ludington, four weeks; Muskegon, four weeks; Sleeper, four weeks; Oqueoc, three weeks; Wells, seven weeks; Wilderness, seven weeks; Waterloo, Cedar Lake, two weeks; Mill Lake, one week and Burns Lodge, five weeks; Yankee Springs, Chief Noonday, one week and Long Lake, one week; and Island Lake, two weeks.

Applications are accepted for use of the camps before June 15 and after September 15 by resident park managers. Small cabins in Wilderness and Porcupine Mountains state parks also are available directly from the park managers or for overnight use, or for a few days' stay.

No wild animal is more difficult to capture and transport to a distant zoo than the giraffe as its long neck and legs are easily broken. Such injuries may result from a fall or a sudden jump when frightened by a startling sound or sight. Therefore, while temporarily unaged on a journey, a giraffe is seldom tied to a tree or a similar immovable object.

A pen barn, rather than the usual dairy arrangement, means fewer steps and requires less equipment and labor in handling manure, according to farm labor specialists at Michigan State college.

All's Well In Magruder's Brooder

... But last winter when lightning knocked out a nearby utility line, Farmer Magruder was sure of disaster. Although 467 baby chicks were snug and warm in his electric brooder, the brooder would soon grow cold without electricity, and he chicks could not survive.

Almost before the brooder had begun to cool, in Edison emergency crew was repairing the damage—restoring service. Not a chick had a chilblain. Magruder's investment was saved.

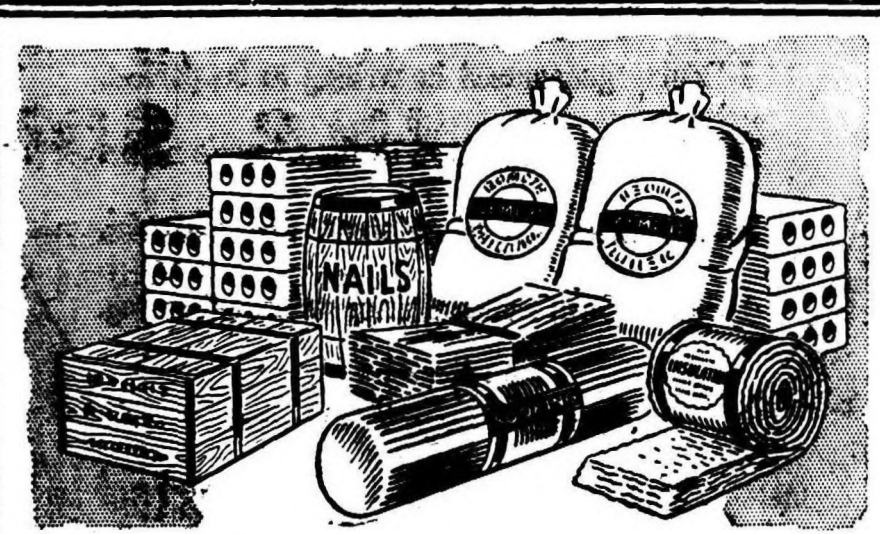

Electrical equipment is so reliable these days that there aren't many cases like that. But it's good to know that there are Edison troubleshooters, alert to keep electricity flowing to Edison farm customers. It's their work, coupled with the experience of Edison Farm Service Advisers, that makes electricity the most reliable of farm hands.

Tenderay Beef Back At Kroger Counters Again

Reintroduction of Tenderay beef to Kroger stores in this area was announced today by Ira O. Shy, general manager of the company's Detroit branch. Originally introduced here in 1940, Kroger's patented process for tenderizing beef was suspended during the war years because of inability to obtain sufficient beef of high quality, according to Shy. He explained the method speeds up nature's slow aging process, achieving in two days the same degree of tenderness that requires six weeks or more with traditional aging methods. Beef is held in special processing rooms at a temperature of 65 degrees and relatively high humidity while it is protected from bacteria and molds through use of a battery of ultra violet lamps. Rays of these lamps maintain hospital-like sterile conditions in the air which is circulated constantly. At relatively high temperature and humidity the natural enzymes in the meat act quickly to tenderize tough connective tissue.

Described by a noted scientist as "the only important contribution to the meat industry since the invention of mechanical refrigeration", the Tenderay process was developed jointly by the Kroger company, Westinghouse Electric corporation, and an internationally famous industrial research institution after more than four years of testing and experimental work, Shy said.

He added that reintroduction of Tenderay at a time when Kroger's standard beef cutting method has been adopted in all of the company's stores constituted a substantial contribution toward insuring improved quality and keeping the cost of meat down. He explained that the new beef cutting method standardizes all cuts and eliminates excess fat and bone.

Will Celebrate At Walled Lake

The nights of May 29th and Decoration Day will be enlivened by gigantic fireworks Displays at Walled Lake Park. The principal features of the pyrotechnic show will be along modern lines with the aerial battle of super bombs, augmented by appropriate set pieces, humorous numbers and novelty displays.

The rides have been completely renovated and decorated for the summer season, including the thrilling Roller Coaster. A giant new Ferris Wheel of modern design and a Tilt-a-Whirl have been added this year. The Ferris Wheel is being shipped from the factory by special truck so as to be in operation for the holiday patrons. Two regulation Baseball Diamonds; shaded Picnic Groves; large Roller Rink and a fleet of "mile-a-minute" Speed Boats augmenting the many rides and attractions; and a free parking area for 6000 cars, make Walled Lake Park the Picnic Wonderland. The Walled Lake New Casino Ballroom features George Olsen on May 29th with Frankie Masters opening May 30th for a week's engagement. A group of 20 musicians featuring blonde Phyllis Myles; Phil Gray, romantic baritone, along with the Humdingers and all-girl quartet and the Masters' Voices will offer entertainment nightly.

U. of M. Plans For Medical Relief

ANN ARBOR—Action to end the scarcity of doctors in the small towns and rural areas of Michigan is planned by the University of Michigan Medical School. Dean Albert C. Furstenberg has just announced a new postgraduate training program designed to encourage more doctors to turn to the field of general practice instead of becoming specialists in some particular field of medical science.

"We expect this program will fill a great need," Dean Furstenberg asserted. "Among medical students there appears to be little interest in the general practice of medicine. This may be due in part to the fact that there are very few recognized two year programs offered by hospitals to equip a doctor for general practice."

The new plan of the Medical School is designed to make such training easily available. Qualified hospitals throughout the state may become affiliated with the Medical School to provide a two-year postgraduate training program. Six months of training in the basic sciences in coordination with clinical medicine at the Medical School will be part of the program.

Dean Furstenberg outlined several of the advantages of the new program:

1. It is expected to attract students who might otherwise not be interested in preparing for the general practice of medicine.
2. The plan would be an inspiration to the general practitioners of medicine who have been doing excellent work but may feel that their contribution to medicine has been overlooked in the increasing emphasis on training and certification of specialists.
3. Standards of medical care in the smaller hospitals and the surrounding communities would be raised.
4. The program might, in some measure, help to distribute medical care more evenly since there is a tendency today for the young doctor to practice in the community where he has been trained.

BABSON SAYS

Babson Discusses Tax Incentive St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—Many ask how present high prices can be reduced. My answer is that the best way to reduce high prices is by producing more goods at lower cost. But how can costs be lowered in the face of current high wage rates? To this I reply that production costs can be reduced by increasing the investment in labor-saving machinery. This will raise the real wages for all the people—not for just the strongly organized union groups.

Lower Taxation the Key America has heretofore out-produced the world with steadily falling prices by continually raising the amount of money per worker invested in labor-saving machinery. To keep up this progress we must have incentive: (1) To save and (2) To invest savings profitably. Unfortunately, our present system of taxation is not only destroying capital that has already been accumulated, but it is also preventing the gathering of new capital. This can only end in a declining standard of living for all.

As an example of the destruction of accumulated capital by taxation, I like to cite the story of the House of Morgan. When the elder J. P. Morgan died in 1913 he left more than $70 millions to his son. Thirty years later this son died and after his death taxes were settled, he was able to pass on only $5 millions to his heirs. Such a destruction of capital may be good for the morals of the heirs, but it bodes ill for you and me. There is little incentive to invest more money and hire more workers under such conditions.

Common-Sense Taxation Wiping out of capital by death taxes would not be so bad if our income taxes were not also damping up the flow of new capital into industry. The bulk of savings must come from those of sufficiently large incomes to create a reservoir of capital. Yet, today an executive with a fair salary has no urge to invest in a sound stock paying 5% because his net income from that stock is reduced by two-thirds through income taxes. All incentive has been destroyed.

The President has recently asked businessmen to lower prices so as to increase the volume of production. I believe the President should direct that same advice to Congress. Just as a business can sell a greater volume of products at a lower price, so can the government expect a higher tax-take if it can increase the national income. I believe the best way to increase the national income is by lowering taxes now. The stimulus to incentive will be so great that national income will rise. Then a smaller percentage tax rate would produce a greater total federal revenue. Let the government take its own advice and lower the unit cost (i. e. taxes) of its selling price for its service. The resulting jump in total tax collections from a stimulated national income should Rome, A Warning If Senators and Congressmen would only study history in greater detail, they would see at once how many nations have been brought to their knees by burdensome taxation. More empires have been destroyed by oppressive taxes than by enemy armies. Today's heavy burdens on enterprise if continued will surely lead us along the road followed by Egypt, Rome, Spain, France and now England—all sunk by taxes.

The New Deal tax policy is to soak the rich—to fleece the sheep that have the fewest votes. This may be considered "good politics", but it certainly is bad business. If Uncle Sam confiscated all incomes above $10,000 a year, the total amount of money taken in would pay less than half of the current annual expense of government! Of course, if that were done, there would not be any incomes above $10,000. That's what would happen to incentive. However, I warn you—our present tax course is less spectacular than such outright confiscation. But it is none the less certain in the long run.

No Plea for Wealthy When writing the above, I am not interested in saving money for taxpayers. That is purely secondary. The less money my heirs inherit, the better off they may be. I am interested solely in the future of U.S. voters who sincerely hope that every Senator and Congressman feels the same way.

U. Commencement Saturday June 14

Plans for the 103rd Commencement at the University of Michigan on Saturday June 14, are now being completed, it is announced by Dr. Frank E. Robbins, assistant to the president.

The exercises will be held outdoors at Ferry Field unless bad weather requires the use of Yost Field House. The traditional procession from the campus down South State street to Ferry Field will precede the start of the exercises at 6 p. m.

The speaker will be the Honorable Paul Joseph James Martin, minister of national health welfare in Canada. His topic will be "Fortresses of Peace" in which he will deal with the University as a foundation for understanding between peoples.

A record number of graduates will be presented with diplomas by President Alexander G. Ruthven. A tentative list of 2,910 candidates for degrees is being assembled.

Tickets for the Ferry Field exercises may be obtained by writing to Secretary Herbert G. Watkins, I University Hall. If it is necessary to hold the exercises in Yost Field House, however, limited seating capacity will restrict the number of tickets available.

While sorting out one of these collections, they came across two editions of The Plymouth Mail for the years of 1894 and 1898. It was interesting to note the difference in prices between that time and the present.

Tells How To Remove Ink

Pouring milk on ink stains is an old custom which may work, but Emma DuBord, home demonstration agent, recommends newer methods. Writing inks differ so much that what removes one kind may set another. Washable inks will come out by rinsing in water and then soaking in soap-suds. But soap will set inks containing iron tannate. It is best to try several methods. Begin with the simplest and the one least likely to harm the cloth. Treat while the ink is still fresh and moist, if possible. As soon as ink is spilled, spread cornmeal, cornstarch or talcum powder on the stain to absorb as much as possible and keep it from spreading. As the powder shows color, shake it off and shake on fresh until no more ink is taken up. Then pour either glycerine or a soapless shampoo on the stain. Rub lightly between the hands. Rinse and apply more as long as any ink comes from the stain. Finally, rinse with clear water.

If traces of ink still show, try lemon juice or citric acid powder—successful bleaches for iron tannate ink. Other bleaches may be used on white fabrics. On colored materials they must be used sparingly and with great care. After using any bleach, rinse it out thoroughly with water. Removing ink from fabric that is not washable is difficult or impossible by home methods. If the fabric is injured by water, it is already harmed by the water in the ink. Ordinary cleaning fluids or dry cleaning solvents for use on non-washable materials will have no effect on ink.
