

Spring Talk Of Baseball Brings Out Picture Of Old Time Team

The one sufficing thought during the recent cold waves has been that spring will eventually arrive, in 36 days to be exact. And accompanying the thought of spring comes visions of the future baseball season, as well as memories of past games for Plymouth's ex-ball players.

Pictured above is a group of one-time athletes, many of whom are still outstanding men in the city. In the front row, reading from left to right, are George McLaren, Claude Henderson, Ray Smith and Charles Riggs. Those comprising the second row are: Wm. Taylor, president of Taylor and Blyton, Inc.; Charles Rathburn, township supervisor; Harry Tomlinson; and Burt Leadbeater.

Heading the third and final row is the team manager, Edward Riggs, who owned the store where Taylor and Blyton is now located, and known as E. L. Riggs & Son; Coach Paul Reed, son in law of Mr. Riggs, Fred Kaiser, Homer Williams, Floyd Sherman, Robert Jolliffe, and Ed Gayde, a one-time representative to the state legislature and the owner of Gayde Bros. grocery store in North Plymouth.

Mr. Taylor estimates that the picture was taken approximately 40 years ago. The team posed for the photograph on the baseball field, which was located at that time on Farmer street by the railroad tracks.

Planning Commission Again Discusses Proposed Changes

In the two previous articles on these subjects we have described the Planning Commission's procedures in its alley study, and have told of the parking difficulties, both present and future.

One question asked the past week by a property owner indicates that we should emphasize the difference in treatment of business and residential blocks.

Plymouth's Planning Commission agrees with Wayne County and with many municipalities, including Detroit, in saying that alleys behind residential lots are unnecessary. This is indicated in the recommendation to the City Commission that alleys now platted, but not opened and used, be vacated. Where alleys are now used as access to private garages or as regular routes by the city garbage and rubbish collectors, of course, they are necessary and can't be closed. In business blocks the circumstances are different. The first of these articles discussed business alleys, and there is no need for repetition.

Last week we outlined several answers to the question "where are we going to park?" Disregarding the impracticable first and the unthinkable fourth, the other two can be discussed together. The two differ first in ownership and then in possible parking fees.

While the City will probably look with favor on privately developed and managed parking lots, it cannot wait for private capital to take the initiative. The need is immediate. The City can legally proceed in ways not open to the private promoter. In moving to provide municipal lots, Plymouth would be following the example of numerous Michigan cities.

Can Plymouth do this legally? A recent state enabling act permits cities to issue revenue bonds to finance parking facilities just as they can for water, sewers, etc. Won't these lots cost a lot of money, and how on earth can they be paid for? The land for these lots would be purchased through negotiation or by condemnation just as alley property would. The same considerations indicate that the City would

Church Needs Film for Junior Service Program

An appeal is being made for 16 m.m. film to be used during the Junior church program of the Presbyterian church, according to Mrs. Edward Dobbs.

Films of either the comic or educational type would be appreciated, she stated. The ages of the Junior church members range from three to eight years.

Anyone with this type of film and wishing to donate it for a short time is asked to call Mrs. H. E. Raaffaub, 1015-J, Mrs. E. L. Balfour, 1561, or Mrs. Dobbs, 103-R.

Ex-Plymouthite Tells Kiwanians About Television

A young man whose father owned the first appliance store in Plymouth was guest of Kiwanis and spoke before the club Tuesday evening at its regular meeting at the Hotel Mayflower. He is Bill Rutherford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rutherford, Bill is now with the television sales department of RCA Victor corporation. His appearance was made possible through the cooperation of R. L. Kimbrough, of the Kimbrough Appliance Co., Plymouth outlet for RCA television receivers. Warren Worth was program chairman.

Kiwanians saw television by means of a machine set up temporarily in the hotel's Crystal room. Before the broadcast, Rutherford told club members and their guests something of the development of television locally and nationally.

He said the first patents on television were granted 101 years ago and at that time it was called "pictures through the air." The first experimental stations for television, as it is now known, were set up in 1928 and since 1929, when a major league baseball game was televised, that station has been on the air and operating every day. It is now NBC-New York.

Rutherford, who has visited all of the TV sending stations in the country, said there are now 18 in operation. However, an additional 80 have applied for licenses to operate.

The television receivers which are now on the market will not be out-dated for many years, Rutherford assured his audience. WWJ-TV, The Detroit News television station, is the best in the country, he declared, and Plymouth residents are ideally located to receive the telecasts. Within two years the Detroit station will be on a nation-wide network—and now all that prevents this is the laying of cable over which the programs will be transmitted. Aside from that, he remarked, right now WWJ-TV is on the air more hours with a greater variety of programs than any other such station in the country.

Announcement was made at the meeting that practices have begun for the annual Kiwanis variety show which is scheduled for March 16, 17, and 18, at the high school auditorium.

Conference Plan Cited as Success

During the conference program recently completed in the Plymouth Grade schools for the benefit of parents and teachers, 879 parents visited the schools to discuss their children's progress. Paul Johnson, elementary coordinator who supervised the program, has stated.

He stated that this attendance represents an 80 per cent response on the part of parents, which, he continued, is considered exceptionally high for this type of undertaking. In addition to the discussion of academic progress, the conferences provided an opportunity for parents and teachers to discuss special problems and ways and means for improving the services of both home and school for the child. Cooperative thinking and planning is the basis for this improvement, Mr. Johnson contends.

Members of the school staff were without exception pleased at the fine cooperation of the parents, he reported. He explained that numerous problems which had been causing teachers concern were explained through a better understanding of the child's background.

One teacher expressed her opinion by saying, "I have never felt so able to begin a new semester." Parents generally expressed a similar opinion. Mr. Johnson said, that the conferences were of great value and far exceeded in their effectiveness any other method of reporting the child's progress to the home. That

Col. C. V. Burnett Tells of Aviation

The belief that American defenses should be kept strong, was voiced by Col. C. V. Burnett when he spoke to Hi-12 members Wednesday evening during the regular meeting at the Masonic Temple.

Colonel Burnett, of the Marine Air corps, served during both wars as a flier, and at the present time is manager of the Detroit City Airport. His topic for the Wednesday meeting was aviation, and he related the past, present, and future developments of this field.

He contends that this country must arm for peace. As he stated, the guided missiles of the last war are already obsolete, and those now on the drawing board will in all likelihood land in our front yard during the next war.

The meeting was arranged by Larry Lyons.

Tickets for the card party which Hi-12 is sponsoring next Wednesday evening, February 18, may be obtained from Charles Huebler. The affair will take place in the Masonic Temple, and the president, Edwin Schrader, has extended an invitation to all to attend.

Qualified Electors Urged To Vote On Monday

Second Symphony Concert Planned for February 22

An outstanding soloist, Mrs. Alice Truscon of Dearborn, will be included on the program to be presented by the Plymouth Symphony orchestra Sunday, February 22, according to Paul Wagner, director. This will be the group's second concert and is scheduled for the high school auditorium at 4 p.m.

"When the public attends this concert, they will see men of all walks of life united in a common cause, because, in the orchestra, there are men and women of nearly all professions and workers of all trades," Mr. Wagner stated. "Their common interest is love and devotion to fine music. Only in a true American city such as ours could a project of this nature exist and flourish," the director continued.

Numbers to be featured on the program will include the Fourth Symphony of Felix Mendelssohn, a Symphonic Suite by Eric Coates, and the aria "Voci de Donna" from the opera "La Giocanda" by Ponchielli, with Mrs. Truscon as soloist. She will also sing the ever popular selection, "Thine Alone" by Victor Herbert. The program will be climaxed by the stirring "Rienzi Overture" by Richard Wagner.

The Plymouth Symphony orchestra has been made possible through the cooperation of many civic-minded persons who have given both their time and means to make this project possible, Mr. Wagner reported. He urges the public to arrive early, as a large audience is expected.

Charles Voss is Named as Officer of Conservation

Answering a long time need of this vicinity, Charles Voss took over duties as State Conservation officer approximately three weeks ago, according to William Rambo.

Mr. Voss was graduated with the last class from the conservation school at Higgins Lake.

Mr. Rambo stated that this is the first time a conservation officer has been assigned to this section of the county. Previously, the one located at Grosse Pointe was the only one in this vicinity.

Motorists Urged to Get License Plates Soon

Car owners are urged to obtain their license plates now, rather than wait until the deadline, February 28, according to a report from Frank Rambo at the Auto License bureau.

He stated that the issuance of plates during January did not show the same increase over last year as was shown in December. In the latter month about one third more plates were issued than in the previous year.

It is believed that the cold weather is the factor which caused this month's number to go down. Mr. Rambo urges, however, that car owners secure their plates as soon as possible to avoid the waiting, which will undoubtedly be necessary the last few days before the deadline.

Dr. Thelma James Tells of Folklore

Folklore grew from a hobby to a profession for Dr. Thelma G. James, she told members of the Woman's club and their guests Friday afternoon, February 6. The meeting took place in the St. John's parish house.

Dr. James is an instructor in folklore at Wayne university, and she makes frequent lecture appearances throughout this vicinity.

During the program she asserted that folklore is hinged on superstitions which have prevailed throughout the ages in all countries. The speaker touched on the subject of folk tales, mainly those of the Chinese and Hebrew people. It was through a study of Chinese cures, she reported that penicillin and adrenalin have become popular and recognized as helpful medicines today.

When discussing the folk music of various groups throughout the nation, such as coal and gold miners, sailors, river boat men, and the like, she stated that music for such may be obtained from her department at the university.

During her discussion of folk dancing, Dr. James asserted that Scott Coleburn, of Ann Arbor, who many Plymouth residents are familiar with through his classes here, is an authority on the subject, particularly the square dance.

Mrs. Henry Welch was chairman in charge of the program.

Officers Chosen by Goodfellows

During a meeting of the Plymouth Goodfellows, Wednesday, January 28, at the city hall, Milan Frank was chosen to act as president for the year.

The officer roster is completed with Earl Gray, vice president and Warren Worth, treasurer. A secretary will be appointed by the president at a later date.

Those members relinquishing their offices are: Arno Thompson, as president; Milan Frank, vice president; Carvel Bentley, secretary; and Harold Jacobs, treasurer. On behalf of the outgoing officers, Mr. Thompson has expressed thanks to all civic organizations and individuals who helped in the recent Goodfellow paper sale.

A total of $1,503 was contributed to the Goodfellow organization during their Christmas - time drive. With a portion of this sum the Goodfellows took care of approximately 53 families, including 105 children, during the holiday season. They provided them with food, clothing, and toys. Expenses at that time totaled approximately $700.

Immediately following the Christmas holiday season, four emergency cases were taken care of by the Goodfellows. It is a policy of the organization to take care of emergency children cases during the entire year.

Commission Candidates and Water Issue of Much Interest

Commission Candidates and Water Issue of Much Interest

Four of eight candidates, vying for the two seats on Plymouth's city commission, will be eliminated in the primary election slated for Monday, February 16. At the same time voters will determine the fate of the proposed $525,000 water works improvement bonds.

The two vacancies on the commission will be created by the expiration of Mayor Jack Taylor and Commissioner Dunbar Davis' two year terms. Mr. Davis is running for re-election, but Mayor Taylor will not be an incumbent candidate.

In addition to Mr. Davis, the names of Marvin Criger, Lewis Goddard, James Houk, Harry Hunter, James Latture, Archie Shufelt, and Austin Stecker will appear on the primary ballot. Each voter will select two, and the top four will be nominated to run in the election of April 5.

On a par with the election of nominees for the city commission, is the proposed solution to the water problem.

Plymouth water has been a contention point for several years. The current issue up for approval by the voters deals with the proposed $525,000 revenue bonds for the financing of a change from the Mill street to the Beck road wells. The specific improvements it would cover, if accepted, would include the laying of mains from the Beck road farm, the drilling of wells, laying of feeder mains, and the construction of a new water storage tower.

The greatest objection to the present water supply is the disagreeable taste and smell attributed to a high salt and nitrogen sulphite content. The Beck road water has been recommended as an answer to this problem.

Plymouth water previously came from the Beck road wells, but in 1943 it was found to be inadequate to meet the growing demands of the population. A lack of materials and labor prevented development work from being carried on, so a well was drilled at the end of Mill street.

It has been estimated by Samuel Porter, a representative of the firm which made a recent survey of the present situation, that under the proposed improvements at $525,000, water would cost eight and three quarter cents per ton. This amount is not believed to be out of line with the assessed valuation in Plymouth or out of line with ability to pay.

Several inquiries have been made of city officials as to the possibility of using Detroit water. A report from the Wayne County Road commission, the body which handles Detroit water in this county, stated that it was their opinion it would not be practical or economically feasible. This estimated that a supply main from Detroit to Plymouth would cost over $2,000,000.

If the voters turn down the proposal, the city will be unable to go through with an improvement program.

City officials urge all citizens to vote in the primary and they point out the urgency of issues before the people. Diversified opinions on what should be done in regard to the water problem have been voiced frequently within the past year or so. For this reason officials hope that all will turn out next Monday, so that a majority of the voters will have what they want, whether it's a rejection or acceptance of the proposal.

Their opponents will come from Detroit Pershing High school for the debate which is to take place here. Mr. Latture stated that the Plymouth squad has one of the best records of any school in the state for their debating achievements.

Those who will defend Plymouth will be Ronald Witt and Roger Kidston. To date the debaters have won eight verbal battles.

City officials will be among those on hand to answer questions pertinent to the present water problem. Among those present will be Mayor Jack Taylor, Commissioners Dunbar Davis, Frank Henderson, Robert Lidgard, Ruth Whipple, and City Manager Harold Cheek. Louis Schimmel of Ann Arbor, director of the Michigan municipal advisory council on finance, and Samuel Porter, engineer of the firm which made a survey of the water situation, will also be present. Clarence Bradford of Kalamazoo will act as moderator.

No questions will be accepted from the floor, it has been announced. Only those written on cards provided at the meeting will be answered.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Packard Send Giant Size Oranges to Mail Office

Oranges, looking more like grapefruit in size, were received Wednesday from Mr. and Mrs. Don Packard who are in Tucson, Arizona.

The fruit will be on display in the window of the Mail office over the weekend.

Accompanying these giant sized oranges was a letter from Mrs. Packard which follows in full. "To the Editor and our friends and neighbors of Plymouth:

"We are sending to you a sample of two of the navel oranges which grow in the citrus groves of Tucson. We were so amazed at the size of this fruit that we wanted you in Plymouth to see them too.

"This fruit grows in irrigated orchards. Last year Arizona suffered for the want of enough water from lack of rainfall to fill her reservoirs behind her many dams. Many of the dams had little or no water stored for use by the spring season. Usually there is a rainy season in July and August. Last year there was scarcely any, residents report.

"Last fall when we arrived in Tucson we noticed that the beautiful Poinsettias of the 1946 winter season were nowhere to be seen. We later learned that early frosts had killed the ones we would have seen and that lack of water had curtailed the plantings.

"Most of the above mentioned irrigated groves are watered from deep wells located at the groves. Many of these wells have casings 10 or more inches in diameter. Often Diesel engines are used to pump the huge streams of water. In a semi-arid region like the Southwest, it is a wonderful sight to see these huge streams of sparkling, clear water gushing into the prepared irrigation ditches to make the "desert", as they call it here, productive.

"Anything produced on these irrigated ranches are a deep, deep green color. The contrast is so great between the green and the drab ground that one is conscious of the power of man to engineer the great dams which bring the life-giving waters to the Southwest.

"Perhaps all of you know that most of the water from the great Hoover Dam, formerly known as Boulder Dam, is used in California. Even though the Grand Canyon is in the State of Arizona, California gets most of the water from this dam. The people of Arizona need water too. So today a new dam is being built in the Colorado river known as Davis Dam. New areas of productivity will undoubtedly be opened when the water from this new dam is available to Arizonians. Then more lettuce, cauliflower, melons, alfalfa hay, grain crops and carrots, etc. will be produced to help feed the people of our land and others, we hope.

"This winter, the coldest in twelve years for the Southwest, I am told, has worked many hardships on the citrus and vegetable growers, bringing severe frosts to kill and curtail their production. Therefore you and I may experience a shortage of these things which we have had in plenty heretofore.

"These oranges were picked before these last frosts which have done so much damage. The frost on oranges breaks the membranes within the fruit causing the juice to go back into the stem. When eaten, this frosted orange would be mostly fiber. It is for this reason that the fruit co-ops stop all shipment of such fruit out of the state. The co-ops claim that if they shipped such fruit it would spoil their record and therefore curtail their market.

"We visited in California during the Christmas vacation. We saw the George Alexander family at their home in Sunland. They asked to be remembered to their friends and acquaintances in Plymouth. Their home is surrounded with flowers. They had pansies in bloom while we were there. Lovely eucalyptus trees grew in their yard along with avocado, English walnut, apricot and others. They seemed very happy in their new location.

"There are many more things which you might enjoy hearing about but the editor may feel that even this much does not deserve space in The Mail.

"We take this way to say "hello and how are you" and write us if you feel inclined.

Doctor Speaks to Business Women

Members of Plymouth's Business and Professional Women's club heard Dr. Walter W. Hammond discuss the "History of Surgery" at their regular meeting held Monday evening, February 9, in the St. John's Episcopal church.

The speaker stated that the earliest history of surgery dates back to the Egyptians, about 2500 B.C. There was no great change in surgery, he continued, until the year 1800 A.D., since which time rapid strides have been made in relieving human suffering. Dr. Hammond concluded by stating that as far as he is concerned, he is glad the so-called "Good old Days" are no more.

The meeting was planned by the health committee, composed of Miss Doris Johnson, Mrs. Wilda Bentley, and Mrs. Hazel Johnson. Table decorations followed a Valentine motif.

It has been announced that three new members were added to the club's roster: Mrs. Mildred Barnes, Miss Doris Fisher, and Miss Dorothy Ritchie. A benefit bridge is being planned by the club, scheduled for Monday evening, February 16. It will take place in the Veterans' Memorial Center, beginning at 8 p.m. The affair is being planned by Miss Wilma Finrock, Miss Beulah Wagenschulz, and Miss Dora Gruebner. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the committee in charge.

In Marksville, La., hundreds of little fish inexplicably fell from the sky on poultryless Thursday.

The County Agent's Farm Tip Column

By E. I. Besemer
Wayne County Agent

"Four Freedoms" for America's farm livestock and poultry are listed as winter-time measures to insure greater food production during the year. In view of the present scarcity of feed and reduction in livestock, the agent declared that all four "freedoms" are especially vital this year. The American Foundation for Animal Health also urges the adoption of the practices to assure livestock comfort.

(1). Freedom from filth. Clean dry housing - with frequent change of bedding and thorough cleaning and disinfection of stalls and pens—is vital to prevent disease among stock in winter quarters.

(2). Freedom from faulty feeding. During the cold months, when sunshine and green forage are scarce or lacking, vitamin deficiencies are a frequent cause of trouble. Proper rations for the parent stock have an important part in determining the size and vigor of the spring crops of pigs, lambs and calves.

(3). Freedom from parasites. Winter is the heyday for mange, lice and other parasites that play havoc with the thriftiness and vitality of stock. Systematic efforts to free animals and birds of these infections will pay real dividends.

(4). Freedom from infectious disease. Sanitation, good feed and parasite control all help to protect against disease. Along with these measures, immediate diagnosis and treatment at the first sign of illness may ward off heavy losses of valuable animals.

Winter is the time when many farmers cut the year's supply of wood. With the present prices of coal and fuel oil, the farmer with a woodlot can get good return on his labor by spending a few days or weeks harvesting the fuel supply. Woodcutting, however, is a somewhat dangerous type of work and certain precautions must be taken. Many deaths and serious injuries result every year from improper use of tools, weak or broken tools or just plain carelessness. Here is the agent's list of precautions:

1. Avoid going into the woods on windy days.
2. Have all tools in good shape. Handles tight, cutting edges sharp and heads of wedges dressed to prevent flying splinters of steel.

3. Use axes in such a way so they cannot hit you. Make certain that helpers are a safe distance away.

4. Keep a sharp lookout for loose branches which may come crashing down.

5. Clear the area of brush and branches before starting to fell trees.

6. When the tree starts to fall, move away and watch out for branches which may fly back.

7. Don't overestimate your strength, or put yourself in position where a log may roll over you.

8. Keep circular saws guarded as much as possible.

9. Clear snow and ice from around buzz saw to provide secure footing.

All-World Peace Project Planned

Business discussed during the Monday, February 9, meeting of the Committee on Promotion of International Understanding for this section, centered around the county wide convention which is to be held in Wayne the latter part of March.

According to James Latture, committeeman, the state recently set-up a program to promote world wide peace and understanding. It is being carried out by officials of the Department of Education. The state has been divided for the purpose of organization, and the section in which Plymouth is included is composed of the entire county, with the exception of Detroit.

The aim of the committee is to organize this section for a campaign in attempting to carry out this goal. The work of the committee will be limited to "in-schools," Latture stated, as it will be to organize the club, churches and numerous other groups in the community towards this goal.

Planning Commission Again Discusses Proposed Changes

(Continued from page 1) have to pay less than average lot prices for what would be needed if parking lots were to be developed in the interiors of large blocks. If municipal lots abutted upon streets, they would cost more to acquire. In either case the city would have to pay a fair price. How would these purchases be financed? In two ways— from fees collected in parking meters—and from special assessments.

Where cities have installed parking meters as Plymouth has, it is universally recognized that surplus receipts over the amounts necessary for purchase, maintenance and replacement should be used only for the extension and improvement of traffic control—including the financing of parking lots. Ann Arbor is now acquiring lots in this manner. Plymouth is still buying its meters, but it is expected that there will be funds available from meter receipts in the future.

Financing parking lots by special assessment is a possible, logical and an altogether probable method for Plymouth. Again, it is going to be legal—Again, yes, in at least two states a city's power to assess for the acquisition of parking facilities has been upheld by the court. Now will the assessment be made? We can't say for the Planning Commission does not recommend, but it is a possibility.

The grade coordinator reported that these conferences mark the beginning of one phase of a plan stimulating closer community planning and working together as a whole, and arises from the recognition by educators and citizens generally of the vital necessity for home and school cooperation if we are to achieve the common goal. The latter is the development of all children into happy, efficient and desirable citizens.

Those participating have expressed the wish that the plan be continued and expanded in the future. Mr. Johnson related. Among his concluding statements was the fact that some improvements will be made as parents and teachers become more experienced in the conference methods. Improvements in organization to better fit the local situation, he stated, will also be made in the future.

The public is invited to attend this service. The church is located at Holbrook and Pearl streets.

How to Chase Ants Out of Your Backyard This Coming Summer

Day dreaming, are you, about those picnic dinners you are going to serve next summer and fall in your backyard—the kind of outdoor dinners that have become so popular among Plymouth residents.

But those pesky ants! Yes, we'd have more of those outdoor picnic dinners if it wasn't for the ants, did you say?

Then why have ants? Get some of that tobacco fertilizer for the lawn. It not only is one of the best fertilizers there is, but it chases the ants out of the lawn just like St. Patrick chased the snakes out of Ireland.

If Plymouth business concerns do not now handle tobacco fertilizers, some one, or all of them, will make a killing if they will put in a supply.

Tobacco is one of the best insecticides you can get. Nicotine sulphate, which we buy under the name of Black Leaf 40, is death to a great many insects.

This Black Leaf 40 is made from tobacco. Insecticide companies buy the poor grades of tobacco and extract the nicotine.

Tobacco is also wonderful fertilizer. You can buy ground up tobacco stems for your garden. This product serves the double purpose of keeping away a great many insects and at the same time building up the soil around your plants.

Incidentally, to get off the subject just a little bit, here's an interesting note about mealy bugs. Ants use mealy bugs just like we use milk cows. They put them out to pasture on plants. Well fed mealy bugs exude a sweet milky fluid. The ants milk the bugs by stroking them.

But ants hate tobacco. So if you scatter tobacco dust around your plants, they'll find pastures for their mealy bugs somewhere else.

If local dealers who supply nearly everything Plymouth gardeners need, do not get in a supply of tobacco fertilizer, then "grow your own", instead of "rolling your own."

Tobacco grows well in southern Michigan. Dr. Gruber, over at Eloise, just 15 or 18 miles from here, has grown tobacco for years for the use of patients in that institution.

It might be worth a try for someone who has a little extra garden space. Tobacco produces about eight or nine hundred pounds of leaf to the acre—not counting the stalks.

Of course, this is strictly an experiment. But a gardener with a little extra land might find it interesting and profitable. Just let the plants grow—and they grow every tall. Then let the leaves cure in the sun. When they're good and ripe, scatter them around the garden and let them rot down.

Some people build up the soil before planting a garden by digging trenches and putting tobacco in the bottom. This could be done with the stalks which might be too big to rot down quickly if they're scattered around as mulch. Also the stalks could be thrown on the compost heap. They'll make the compost that much richer.

Sallow Receives Farming Award

Gerald Sallow
The Michigan Farmer magazine award to the outstanding 4-H boy and girl in the county, was recently awarded to Gerald Sallow and Doris Waldecker.

Gerald, who is the son of Mrs. Elsa Sallow, 16185 Newburg Rd., received his bronze plaque for an outstanding dairy and beef raising project.

Doris, the daughter of Mrs. Avis Waldecker, was also recognized recently as a winner in the 1947 Dairy Foods Demonstration which was held at a 4-H meeting in Lansing. At that time she shared top honors with her sister, Doris.

Both Gerald and Doris will graduate from Plymouth High school in June.

Department Gives Measle Warning

Many communities in Wayne county are due for a red measles epidemic this spring, according to a report from the Wayne County Department of Health.

It further states that this disease which is so serious, especially for children under three, usually hits each community during the spring months at two or three year intervals. Occasionally an outbreak occurs earlier in the season. Belleville and Van Buren Township had a quite severe epidemic this winter which reached its peak about the holiday season. A slight epidemic was reported in Plymouth, but has subsided.

More recently a few cases are being reported in several areas in the county. These cases are of many local outbreaks being sown. Those areas that have had the least measles are the most two or three year period are most apt to have a severe outbreak this year.

Every community should prepare to protect its children, especially those under three, from this serious disease. Here is what you can do:

1. Be on the alert for and report promptly the first case. Remember that the first symptoms of measles are cough, runny nose, red eyes—just like a cold. Also that measles is most contagious during this stage—before the rash appears. Children (and adults as well) with symptoms of an acute cold should remain at home and away from others.

2. Teachers of Elementary Grades should have prepared a list of children who are known to have had red measles previously. Although subject to considerable error, this does furnish a basis on which to predict the extent each room may be affected by absenteeism because of measles. It also helps the teachers to know which children are most apt to have the disease.

3. Schools should send out letters of warning to parents as soon as it is known that there has been an exposure of measles in the school. The health office will gladly advise as to when such warnings should be sent and assist in the preparation of the letter.

4. Parents should keep babies and young children away from crowds and public places where they may be unknowingly exposed. During the next three or four months even a visit to the cousins or the neighbors may result in an exposure which you will not be aware of until your baby starts to cough. It is then too late for your doctor to modify or lessen the severity of the disease by giving a serum.

5. Young children may be protected from a severe attack, if it is known that the child was exposed and if the child is taken to the family physician before the first symptoms appear. All parents should be informed as to this fact and be on the alert. In many families the young children are exposed by a school child who first gets the disease. In such cases the parents should consult their physician about protection for the younger children as soon as the first case is reported.

the severity of the attack. The Wayne County Health Department has available (from the Michigan Department of Health) a limited supply of immune globulin. They will furnish this free to physicians as long as it lasts for the modification of measles in children under three years of age or older children who are debilitated. The public health nurse from that office who is assigned to this community will gladly consult with and advise anyone regarding measles or other health matters.

Chief Lee Sackett Issues Three Year Report on Traffic Activity in City

year there were two injuries from between parked cars, two from getting out of the left side of the car, and one person was injured when he fell from a motor cycle. There was one traffic fatality.

Twelve accidents occurred when children grabbed door handles on turns, one when a car made a turn against a pedestrian, one car skidded into a railroad crossing watchman, three when pedestrians walked between cars and bicycles, with one hit and run driver.

There was also one hit and run in 1945, as well as eight accidents due to icy pavements the same year and five for passing at intersections. There was one fatality.

Last year 122 men were driving cars involved in accidents, while there were 35 female drivers. During 1946, 108 male drivers were charged, as compared to 25 female drivers.

No 14 year old drivers were involved in accidents last year, while one was each preceding year. Two 14 year olds were in 1946, as compared to one the other years. Three 16 year olds were given tickets last year, two in 1946, and one in 1945. In the 17 year group, nine were involved in accidents last year, none in 1946, and five during 1945. There were eight 18 year olds during 1947, and four in 1945. Four 19 year old drivers were involved in accidents last year, three in 1946 and one in 1945. Two 20 year olds were ticketed for this reason during 1947, three the preceding year, and an equal number in 1945.

During 1947 a total of 3,138 operators licenses were issued, above the 2,771 total for 1946, or 2,421 for 1945.

Store Has Change in Ownership

Announcement was made Tuesday by Mrs. H. H. Young of the sale of her store to the Dunning and Young store to her associate, Margaret Dunning. The store will continue to operate under the same policy in the future and no physical changes will be made.

Mrs. Young announced that she and her husband will leave within the next few days for a Florida vacation before she announces any plans for her future.

In Manchester, England, Sarah Kimpton just couldn't wait to cook a precious beefsteak, took a big bite out of it raw, fell down dead.

NO HOARDER, SHE . . . Princess Elizabeth couldn't use all the food sent by the dominions and colonies to her and Philip as wedding presents, so she had it distributed throughout Britain in parcels to old age pensioners and widows.

FASHIONABLE . . . While not as famous as Anatole of Paris, Daniel Loreski of Pittsburgh, only 15, is coming right along as a fashion designer. He casts a critical eye at one of his creations.

In Milwaukee, Arthur Pontow, who returned to the store to complain that the watch he had bought there was no good, was promptly arrested; the check he had given for it was no good either.

In Des Moines, Iowa, Baitz, admitted to a wretched police that she had modified a radio-phonograph and a wardrobe trunk.

On the Hwai River, China, stray gunfire just missed UNRRA Official Carrol Dey's riddle as the book he was reading: "Thunder Out of China."

In Perryville, Pa., the citizenry generously voted to allow Sunday movies—which left them just where they were: Perryville has no movie house.

No Faulty Gas is Reported Here

Although numerous cars in Detroit have been damaged recently, supposedly through the use of inferior gas, no complaints of this nature have been received from car owners in Plymouth.

This was revealed following a survey of gas dealers in the city. One dealer remarked that it is his belief nothing of this nature will happen in Plymouth, as he contends the trouble is not the fault of the gas being used.

One dealer reported, however, that a car brought into his garage to be serviced was severely damaged by this gasoline. An analysis of a sample of the gas proved that the gum content was extremely high.

Pat Cochrane Wins 4th. in Hair Styling Contest

Fourth place in the hair styling contest held during the North American Beauty and Fashion show was awarded to Pat Cochrane, of Pat's Beauty Salon of Plymouth. The show took place Thursday, February 5.

Attending the hair stylist convention with her was Gloria Fowler, her model. Miss Fowler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Jones, 1424 West Ann Arbor trail.

According to reports, this is the first time Miss Cochrane has ever entered a model in the show. She and Miss Fowler will leave for Chicago March 1 for another contest.

Stock Raiser Says Costs Take Profits from Cattle Business

A report from Michigan State college states that too many people look upon current prices for livestock products as a matter of grave concern only to the consumer of these foods. This, however, is far from the complete facts, as Robert Willoughby readily affirms.

Mr. Willoughby is one of the largest livestock raisers in the vicinity of Plymouth. He stated that a few years ago it was a profitable business to raise beef stock, but now, he contends, "one is lucky if he can make ends meet. Many farmers," he continued, "feel that they would be farther ahead to sell the stock and the feed in the fall, and many have been doing just this."

"This is creating a shortage," he stated, "and meat prices cannot come down while this shortage exists." Since fall the prices have jumped, with the cheaper and medium priced cuts going the highest, in proportion to former costs.

Another serious worry of the producer is the cost of feed. In many cases the cost of concentrates alone is not returned by current prices to say nothing of the cost of labor, use of equipment and risk involved in handling livestock.

It is little wonder, therefore, that livestock numbers are being reduced by people who are taking advantage of the current prices and turning their lands over to the production of grain, which is in such great demand for export to Europe, the college report states. You cannot question the motives of a man who is going all-out for crop production, inasmuch as he is trying to meet the situation immediately before us. It further states that you can, however, question with good cause the judgement of any man who gets too far away from a good system of crop rotation and the maintenance of adequate numbers of livestock to consume all of the roughages produced on the farm, and utilize pasture lands to the fullest extent possible.

As Mr. Willoughby stated along the same line, he feels that even though he just breaks even, it is profitable in the long run to keep his beef cattle. An important reason, he continued is that he needs the fertilizer to keep up his crop production.

The report continued stating that while there is unquestionably urgent need for cereal grains to ship to Europe, we should not lose sight of the fact that 60 percent of all feed utilized by livestock is hay and pasture, with only 40 percent of their feed consumed from grain concentrates. It seems quite probable that livestock numbers will be reduced to a point where there will not be a sufficient amount to utilize this hay and pasture, and thus the over-all food supply may be reduced even though there are large amounts of cereal grains on hand.

Another factor in the situation which should be carefully considered by every farmer, college officials report, is the fact that we are now producing from 50 percent to 60 percent more wheat annually than we were during the thirties when we accumulated burdensome surpluses. Fortunately, we were able to consume this large surplus by feeding it to livestock. Normally livestock provide us a market for at least 80 percent of all grain produced.

A return to anywhere near normal grain production in Europe will mean that we must again depend upon livestock to consume our surpluses as there would be little, if any, export demand. Every livestock farmer should, therefore, give careful consideration to the maintenance, first, of sufficient animals to provide a remunerative market for his pasture land; second, to utilize his leguminous roughages which should be a part of every careful farming plan; and also the roughages which are a by-product of cereal production; and third, he should have sufficient livestock which would be necessary to consume the surplus of cereals which is bound to arise in the not too distant future.

Many factors point to a future decline in meat supplies. Sheep numbers are at the lowest point in nearly a hundred years. Hog numbers are lower than they have been for several years. Beef cattle are being marketed in larger numbers than they were last year, with female stock making up a much larger proportion of the total than has been the case for several years. All of which points to the fact that livestock products will remain scarce for some time and relatively high in price. A normal grain crop in Europe would mean that we would again have to depend upon livestock as a market for our grain, and every American producer should ask himself, "Will I have the livestock when that time comes? It has often been said that the wise man is he who is doing the opposite of the majority, and it really seems today that the majority of the people are reducing their livestock numbers altogether too far.

It would seem, therefore, good judgement for every man to make a careful appraisal of his farm situation not only for today but for the days and years immediately ahead with the idea of either maintaining, producing or acquiring sufficient livestock to make maximum use of his pasture, roughage and a considerable part of the future grain crops in order that the over-all production of food supplies for the American public may be safeguarded. Unless the American farmer can and is producing the livestock products demanded by the public, the report concludes, they are bound to be imported from other countries and thus we may lose our own markets.

Winter Carnival Meets Success

Proceeds from Central Grade PTA's Winter Carnival totaled $358. This amount will be used to set up a fund for the purchase of a school piano, according to Mrs. Jack Taylor, president. The carnival took place Saturday evening, February 7, in the Central Grade gymnasium.

The president reported that the affair was highly successful, with a sell-out or near sell-out of tickets to all concessions and booths.

This is the second year such a program has been sponsored by the organization. Last year's was entitled "Fun Night." Saturday's affair, was reportedly the more successful, and it is hoped by the members that a similar carnival can be given next year. Mrs. Taylor stated, "This is the PTA's singular money making scheme of the year."

On behalf of the entire organization, Mrs. Taylor has expressed her appreciation for the support which many Plymouth merchants gave to the project.

Highlights of the evening were a cake walk, magician show by Roy Rew, the tea room, and games.

Mrs. W. V. Clarke was general chairman of the carnival.

MOMS Attend Meeting Held in Garden City

Twenty members of the MOMS of Plymouth went to Garden City Monday evening as guests of the Garden City unit. The latter were observing their third anniversary.

State president of the MOMS, Mrs. J. S. Coultier, was present and gave a talk on the hospital work of the organization. She touched on the subject of the new project of the club, which is to secure new sound equipment for the Veterans' hospital at Dearborn.

The evening was spent in games, followed by refreshments.

Jaycee Auxiliary Entertains Troop

Plymouth's Junior Chamber of Commerce auxiliary honored members of the Girl Scout troop which they sponsor at a Valentine party held last Thursday evening, in the Hotel Mayflower.

A skit, "Girl Scout Day", revealing what comprises a typical meeting, was given by the troop members. Following this portion of the program, ballerina dancing was performed by Aleta Shekell and Sharon and Julia Walsh.

Place cards and favors carried out the Valentine theme. Heart shaped nosegays were presented to Mrs. Arthur Donnelly, troop leader, Marjorie Tate, pianist, and Miss Shekell.

Mrs. John Palmer and Mrs. Marvin Kleinschmidt assisted Mrs. Francis Walsh, chairman, in planning the meeting.

Detroit Members Show How to Cast

Three members of the Detroit Bait and Fly Casting club traveled to Plymouth Wednesday, February 4, to instruct members of the Plymouth organization.

It has been announced that a Sunday afternoon meeting will be held in the near future. It will take place in the high school auditorium to enable members to practice the art of fly casting.

The Plymouth Bait and Tackle company recently donated four rods to be used by members of the club, according to William Rambo.

The local club is open to anyone wishing to learn the art of plug-and-fly casting. Meetings are held each Wednesday in the Central Grade gymnasium. Ed Woods is still serving as regular instructor.

Has Plan to Cut Food Cost

Announcement is made elsewhere in this week's Plymouth Mail of something new in grocery and meat merchandising. Carl Huller, operator of the Farmers Market, corner of Ford road and Haggerty Highway, says that he has a plan to be placed in effect soon whereby consumers can pay a flat monthly fee and then buy foodstuffs at a lower rate. He declares that no matter how much a family spends per month for food, the fee remains constant.

"Without a doubt this plan is an answer to combat the high cost of living today," Huller remarked. "At least we're doing all we know to help."

The club is to be operated on a pay-as-you-go plan from month to month. Membership is limited as to number only, Huller says. Further information can be obtained from the owner at his place of business.

Three Sport Shop Basketball Players Are Found Ineligible

A ruling released by Ralph Johnson, city recreation director, reveals that three members of the Plymouth Sport Shop basketball team are ineligible for further competition, as of Thursday, February 5.

Mr. Johnson explained the decisions, stating that during the season there have been rumors that Sport Shop had members of a college basketball team playing on their squad. "My hands were tied," Johnson said, "as a protest must be presented, some proof given me, or an act performed for me to investigate."

An investigation was begun when Robert Bentley, Reinard Heining, and Wargo failed to appear for a game with the Plymouth All-Stars against the Jerry Lynch five from Detroit. I received no word or communication from them before the game, and took it for granted that they would appear. Their failure to appear did not allow the Plymouth Recreation league to put a representative team of the league on the floor, which consequently let the city of Plymouth down."

The investigation disclosed that Heining was a member of a college varsity team and Wargo and Drake were members of the freshmen squad. The Michigan recreation association rules and local rules state: "Members of the varsity and freshmen squads of colleges and universities shall be ineligible for competition unless they shall have been graduated at the end of the first semester."

Application of the above rule makes Heining, Drake, and Wargo ineligible for further basketball competition in Plymouth this year, Johnson stated.

The theory behind the ineligibility of college players is that a recreation league is for players who otherwise do not have an opportunity to play or participate in a sport they like, he continued. Players who play only once a week, and in some cases their age makes other competition impractical, should not be faced with players whose continued practice and physical condition give them a definite advantage, Johnson concluded.

Mr. Box requests that at the end of the regular season each member of a team in the league make his selection of the most valuable player. This vote will be taken at 11 a.m. Saturday, February 28, in room 204 of the city hall.

Wolverines Take Easy Win From Panthers

With Jerry Huddleston scoring 10 points for the Wolverines, they took a comfortable lead in the first half and were never challenged.

Gilbert St. Louis led the Panther attack with four points.

Parkside Cools Austin Taxi Five

Austin Taxi, as hot as a tropical heat wave last week, was as cold as the temperature Tuesday, February 2, as Parkside smothered them 68-28.

The score was never close, as Parkside scored 23 points in the first quarter and led at the half 37-13.

Doug Egloff scored 22 points, as Austin's leading scorer was Ned Washer with 10 points.

Three teams are definitely in the playoffs: Plymouth Sport Shop, Parkside Bar, and Daisy. Atchinson needs one victory in the next three games, Austin Taxi needs two out of three, and Blunk's Inc. must win their next four games.

John Wilkie led Daisy with 23 points, as Balko scored 11 points for Atchinson.

Red Sox Capture Fourth Victory

The Red Sox won their fourth straight game Monday evening as they defeated the Wildcats 37-14.

With a great deal of fury, the Wildcats fought well in the first half to only trail 8-6, but the Red Sox height was too much in the last half of the game.

Al Williams scored 15 of the Red Sox points as Robinson netted eight points for the Wildcats.

Wayne Zebras Triumph Over Rocks With Free Throw in Last Seconds

By Al Larson

All-Stars Lead Class D Division

Saturday morning the leaders of Class D Boys' division, the All-Stars and Spitfires, clashed in a game for possession of first place. Both teams were previously undefeated.

Richard Fenton scored 10 points for the All-Stars, as Walter Hammond led the Spitfires with seven points.

Sport Shop Tops Blunk's by 67-48

In spite of the excellent playing of Jack Dobbs, who stepped from high school to the city league in four days, Blunk's fell before Plymouth Sport Shop 67-48.

Dobbs made 26 points in his first appearance, as he made all eight of his free throws added to nine baskets.

Sport Shop held a 29-20 lead at the half, but slowly pulled away as Heining, Drake, and Huelber found the range.

Fearers Quintet Wins Last Game

Fearers Standard Oil brought their season to a close by downing Daisy-I.D.E.A. 19-17 Monday, February 2, at DeHoCo.

The score was tied at the half and when the final whistle blew, the score was 17-17. A sudden-death overtime period was then played.

Yelic made her free throw after being fouled, followed by the game winning point as Bev Everson made her good a few moments later.

Schields scored six points for Daisy, as Barber and Phillips each scored five points for Fearers.

This game concludes the season's schedule for these teams, as Plymouth Mail and Woods Studio will battle for the championship.

DeHoCo Downs South Lyon Methodist Five

DeHoCo scored its second victory of the season as they bottled up Duane Dysinger, South Lyon's scoring ace, to win 50-38.

The score was tied at 16 all at the half, but DeHoCo added 21 points in the third quarter to take an 11 point lead.

Jesse Morden had 15 points for DeHoCo, as Wilson scored 13 points for South Lyon.

Faith
 by Grace Noll Crowell

FAITH takes on the look of silver things:
 A shimmering path at night across the sea,
 The points of stars, the silver tips of wings,
 The white, still luminosity
 Of gabled rooftops when the moon shines down
 The streets of any town.

Faith is a silvered brightness in the soul:
 A shaft set there to point the way to heaven,
 And carved upon it is a lettered scroll,
 Its words miraculously given
 To guide the traveler on his shining way
 Upon the road today.

God help me keep my faith undimmed by tears,
 And uncorroded by the rust of years.

PHS PRINCIPAL WRITES FOR MSSA BULLETIN

The publication of the Michigan Secondary School association for December, 1947, has an article entitled "Plymouth Guidance Program", which was written by Louis E. Schmidt, principal. In this report Mr. Schmidt presented the six-point program now in operation in the Plymouth High school. Namely, counseling, testing, cumulative records, career conference, study of curriculum, and follow-up. Each point was explained in detail.

SENIORS TAKE SECOND PURDUE OPINION POLL

Plymouth High school seniors have again voiced their opinions on questions of world and national importance. Thursday morning, January 22, the senior boys and girls gathered in the study halls and wrote what they thought of presidential nominations, a coming depression, price controls, and compulsory military training.

An earlier poll, sent out by Purdue university, Illinois, was given in November. Percentages were returned on that test comparing Plymouth, the Mid-west, and the United States. Important questions asked at that time concerned general questions on the atomic energy commission, and the United Nations. Results showed Plymouth seniors did not expect the United States to be at war in the next five years while the rest of the country did. However, Plymouth agreed with the rest of the nation in thinking the U. S. will be at war in 25 years.

These are other questions upon which a majority agreed: A police force should be used against any country which tried to start a war, including the U.S.; the development of atomic energy in the U.S. should be carried on by the government; all able bodied young men should have some military training.

These were the questions concerning Russian and American relations. A majority in the United States should not go to war against Russia right now, and should not go to war with Russia if it was discovered that they were making atomic bombs of their own.

P-3 Scouts, Cubs Stage Program

As a part of the 38th anniversary observance of Boy Scouting in Plymouth, troop P-3 staged a pot luck supper and program Monday evening at Starkweather school.

Dr. Elmore Carney, Rotary representative, was master of ceremonies for the evening. The Cub Den of Mrs. Heloise Campbell presented a number of stunts. This portion of the program was followed by awarding of pins by Charles Miller, cubmaster. Rickie Caplan received a bobcat pin; wolf badges were given to Jamie MacIntosh and Jimmie Angevine; silver wolf arrow to David Grow; a lion badge to Bruce Campbell; and six service stars for a year's Cub membership.

Scout awards were made by troop committeeman Henry Agosta, Ferris Mathias, Jr., and Phil Williams were awarded the swimming merit badge; Bill Agosta received a second year bar for his attendance pin; Albert Williams was given the P-3 award for best advancement and his second class rank; and Phil Williams was presented with the assistant Scoutmaster's badge.

The mothers pinned new tenderfoot badges on their sons. Those receiving them were: Frank Broilette, Tyler Caplan, and Donald Ward.

Nearly 80 Cubs, Scouts, leaders and members of their families attended. Exhibits made and collected by the boys were on exhibit, and the troop's new colors stood at the end of the room.

Scoutmaster Ferris J. Mathias and his staff and committee can all be well pleased with the turn out at this "housewarming" and the success of the program, Sidney Strong stated.

Postcard PATTY
By Charlotte Winterhalter and Kay Knowlton

The inspiration for Valentine's Day came from Shelley's verse: "My heart to you is given, Oh, do give yours to me, We'll lock them up together, And throw away the key!" Speaking of hearts and keys, Deane Herrick, Jewelry, has a large array of heart shaped lockets, friendship bracelets with tiny hearts and keys in sterling or gold filled, and all $5.00 or under. In the higher priced bracket—friendship rings in sterling for around $12.00 and sentimental heart compacts saying, "I love you" in seven different languages.

Valentine's Day was started in the 15th century. Then anonymous suitors hid simple verses in tree trunks to escape vigilant papas. Typewriters weren't, as yet, invented to make writing the verses easy, but, today, if you're making your own Valentines, a Corona or Remington portable is just the thing you need. Purcell's can supply you with one—also new and used machines of all makes. A handy article for keeping close check on your clothes or the children's at school, is made-to-order rubber stamps.

By the 17th century, Valentines were hand drawn and lettered on colored or gilt-edged paper. This sounds wonderful, but here's something the gentleman of the house will think is even more terrific. Drop by Hines & Owens Motor Sales today—402 N. Mill street—and have them install a Fulton Sun Shade to match the color of your car. They're especially good now to keep snow and frost off the windows, and in summer the car is much cooler. It sounds almost too good for $33.00.

Comic Valentines made their appearance in 1900. For some years sentimental verses were entirely ignored. This wonderful item doesn't appear in time for February 14, but February 16 you can get a goldfish bowl complete, with two goldfish, chips, plants, and moss for 17 cents with any one dollar purchase in Beyer's Drugs—165 Liberty—45th anniversary sale. Other good buys include three, 12 oz. hostess glasses with tulip design for 29 cents, and an 8-piece cutlery set, with either red or white plastic handles, for $1.79.

The early 1800's produced complicated designs made by folding paper and cutting it with scissors. Food, served in an enticing manner, can be just as much a Valentine's present as the most extravagant gift. Before dinner, why not serve Canapes straight from Loren Goodales? Crab meat, boned turkey, and Cod Roe Caviar to start. With the artichoke hearts, filet of anchovies, and boneless sardines. Before the entrance, clam chowder, and for the main course: 1/2 Guinea Hen. All this by just opening a few cans.

Did you know that Valentines used to be left on porches or thrown thru doorways attached to apples and oranges? Here's something that also arrives at your doorstep straight from the man in your life to make you feel loved and cherished. It's flowers from Heide's Greenhouses—696 Mill street. From the large variety offered, you are sure to receive your favorite plants—azaleas, tulips, primroses, cyclamens, or cut flowers—daffodils, roses, carnations, and gladiolas. If it's hard to choose, take one of each.

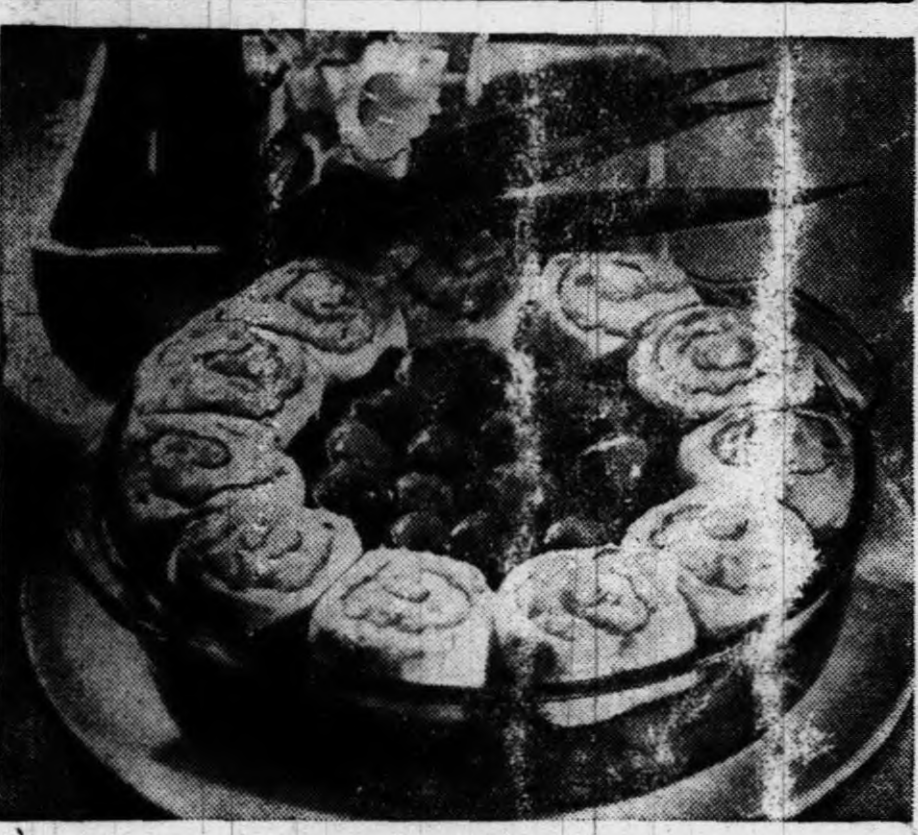

Strange as it may seem, fathers used to judge their daughters' suitors by the Valentines they sent. If you wish to make such an impression stop in at Dunning & Young and look at the lovely pure silk print blouse, nationally advertised in Charm, Glamour, and Mademoiselle, at $8.95. Also, little girl cottons in white and pastels. Ask about the shipments of hose coming in soon in all new spring shades. They may be here now! Jewelry, too, including earrings, scarf clips, and pearl necklaces. Prices start at $1.00.

Superstitions arose in the 18th century, one being the first man a maiden saw on St. Valentine's morning became her husband. And, we'll bet all those men were dressed immaculately in their Sunday best, just as you want to be at all times. Herald Tri Cleaners will give your clothes that new look, as well as mend or repair any garment you wish. Just call 110 for pick-up and delivery service. Harold suggests you get your spring things in before the rush. Remember, Easter comes early this year.

1948 gives this old custom particular charm, not only sentimental Valentines for the gals, but also something for the boys. In Davis & Lent's stock reduction sale, you will find wonderful buys like wool and rayon ties, assorted from the regular stock—79 cents; dress shirts, also from regular stock, including all sizes, for 1/3 off, and flannel, covert, and tweed trousers in assorted lots, reg. $7.95 to $12.95—now 1/3 off. Have you registered yet for the free-drawing, March 1? Each time you stop in the store you are entitled to register at no obligation. And, just think, $100.00 in Savings Bonds given away!

Fruit Puddings Are Mouth-Watering!
(See recipe below.)

Fruit Puddings
Dessert lovers everywhere enjoy deep-dish, fruit puddings with their crisp crusts, their mouth-watering fragrance. The grand thing about them is that you may have them at any time during the year, but especially during the months when fresh fruit is not so readily available.

First of all, there are canned cherries, plump, red and juicy. But don't stop there, for you may like to use apples or figs, pears and apricots, and even some of the citrus fruits. All of them are happy inspiration for meals that you want to be filling and hearty.

Another thing you'll like about these desserts is that they are simple itself to prepare. Use them often for economy's sake on days when you use the oven for the rest of the meal.

Special Cherry Cobbler.
(Serves 6)

1 No. 2 can tart, pitted red cherries
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 to 3/4 cup milk
1 cup prepared biscuit mix
1 cup shredded American cheese

Drain the cherries and heat the juice to boiling. Blend sugar and cornstarch in enough water to make a thin paste. Gradually add this to the hot cherry juice and cook until thick and clear. Add the cherries. Place in a shallow baking dish. Add the milk to the biscuit mix and blend well. Roll out into an oblong piece, 1/4 inch thick. Sprinkle with shredded slices of cheese and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut into 1/2 inch slices and place them around the edge of the cherry mixture. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until the biscuit pinwheels are done.

Peach Honey Cobblers.
(Serves 6)

1/2 cup strained honey
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons butter, melted
1 No. 2 1/2 can sliced peaches, drained

Combine honey, cinnamon and butter. Add peaches. Place in individual custard cups. Use the following as a crust:

1 cup sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk

Sift dry ingredients together; cut in shortening until it resembles coarse meal. Add milk, stirring until mixture is damp.

Drop dough onto prepared fruit; spread evenly to the edge. Bake in a hot oven until crust is nicely browned. Serve warm with cream or hard sauce.

In place of peaches, apricot halves or plums may be used.

Apple Pudding
(Serves 6)

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening

Combine fruit, molasses and spices. Add sifted flour and salt. Dissolve soda in cold water, add and blend thoroughly. Turn the batter into a greased lid or doubled parchment paper tied snugly. Steam for two hours on top of stove. Turn out and serve with hard sauce or softened ice cream.

Fabrics Blended With Fur Add Warmth, Softness to Clothing

When you put on a camel's hair coat, a cashmere sweater and a pair of angora mittens, you are wearing fur. Your coat is a special blend of wool and the fur of the two-humped camel, your sweater a blend of cashmere goat's hair and wool, and your mittens are made of wool and angora rabbit fur.

These and other specialty fibers have the advantage of adding warmth without adding weight reports Evelyn Mansfield, clothing specialist at Michigan State college. They also have a softness and luster not found in unblended wool.

Whether you want to pay the additional cost for these blended fibers will depend on the use you plan for the garment. If you want something utilitarian, the luxury of fur fabrics is not necessary. You can pay as much as $1,000 for a coat of the rare vicuna fur blend—the softest in the world.

Fur from the alpaca, a member of the camel family, blended into yarn will give rich luster to a garment. Mohair, the fur of the angora goat, is noted for its strength and luster and you will find it in tropical worsteds as well as carpeting and upholstery. Many of our soft felt hats contain the fur of the rabbit or jackrabbit which adds softness and luster. Beaver and muskrat are used in the more expensive hats. Even ermine, mink, marten and sable are found in fabrics—with the accent on luxury. Fox, nutria, opossum and rabbit also contribute to the fur fabric industry. Separating the tiny hairs of the fur from the skins and blending them with wool in yarns is an industry that is opening up all kinds of exciting new fabric possibilities. We need to read the labels on these fabrics and determine whether we want to pay for their luxury.

If you have a social item you desire published in The Mail, phone 1755.

Fair in the Light of Memory Shines

If requests of the Michigan Conservation department are heeded by federal wildlife authorities, the southern end of this state will have a two week later duck hunting period this year than it did last year.

The department believes that there should be at least a two-week differential between the lower peninsula and the upper peninsula. Enthusiastic Plymouth duck hunters would welcome such a change, as last year the northern flights of ducks did not start until after the season had closed.

There are high hopes that a good sized new natural gas field is being opened up in this part of the state. The conservation department, as well as others, are watching with keen interest the development of the gas wells that are being driven in the vicinity of Howell, where there are already eight wells producing gas. Geologists' special interest is due to the Howell wells' production from the Guelph-Salina formation, a rock layer that underlies much of the lower peninsula but has been tapped elsewhere only by the Freer well in Clare county and a now-plugged well at KawKawlin. At Howell production is obtained at about 4,000 feet, but farther north this formation is much deeper, underlying the rocks from which most of Michigan's oil and gas extracted to date have come.

The discovery well in the Howell field was completed Oct. 21, 1946; seven other wells have been drilled in, and drilling is still in progress. Geologists say years of drilling may be required to explore the potential production of the Guelph-Salina formation, not only near Howell, but throughout the southern Michigan basin.

Current gas production from the eight high pressure Howell wells is eight million cubic feet a day, for house heating and industrial use. This is about an eighth of Michigan's total gas production and less than a twentieth as much as the gas imported daily from the southwest, but proximity to the Detroit market increases the economic value. A valuable by-product of the gas production is the liquid "condensate", which yields high test gasoline and other petroleum products.

Some 25 or 30 miles west of Plymouth, two square miles of roughly rolling country comprise one of the University of Michigan's largest laboratories, where field studies on native birds, insects, mammals, and plants are carried on.

The area is the Edwin S. George Reserve, given to the University in 1930 by Col. Edwin S. George, of Detroit, and now administered by the University Museum of Zoology. Scientific studies on the region and its wildlife are carried forward by faculty investigators and by graduate students, with an occasional group of undergraduates also using the Reserve.

Currently in progress are studies of the food habits of hawks and foxes, of the populations and life histories of several species of insects and birds, and of the reproductive cycle of the white-tailed deer.

Located in Livingston County, north of Ann Arbor, the Reserve is maintained as a natural setting for wildlife native to southern Michigan.

"Today, close to urban regions, it is difficult to carry on field studies on animal and plant life," Prof. J. Speed Rogers, director of the Museum of Zoology, explains. "Field studies require time, sometimes five years or longer, and they can be undertaken successfully only in a region where natural conditions will not be interfered with. The George Reserve, by its freeland and deer-and-dog-tight fence safeguards the study area from the fires, grazing and trampling that often spoil the long-time studies of natural areas."

All the various studies on the plant and animal inhabitants of the Reserve will add to total knowledge of Michigan's native wildlife and of the relation of one species to another, University investigators believe. The studies of the food habits of the hawks, for example, will provide precise knowledge of these predators and of their dependence upon other wildlife populations for food.

A census of the Reserve has shown that there are 33 kinds of native mammals, ranging from the tiny masked shrew, which weighs about as much as a small coin, to the white-tailed deer. Observers have also recorded 170 species of birds in the area.

The six deer placed on the Reserve by Col. George in 1927 soon multiplied to more than one hundred, and it became necessary to take off a number each year to prevent overbrowsing, which markedly affects the development and composition of the vegetation. The deer population is now held to about fifty and is used in studies on the food habits, reproduction and growth of this animal.

Of considerable interest has been a series of studies conducted on the Reserve on the "territoriality" of birds and mammals. Some species of birds regard a certain amount of territory around their nests as "theirs," and will attack other birds invading it, particularly birds of their own species. University research workers have studied the territorial habits of several kinds of birds — the amount of territory they require and the vigor with which they defend it. The same sort of study has been made on various mammals, which also claim territory as their own.

The Reserve is typical of the rugged, once glacier-covered land of southeastern Michigan, with a central area of level upland surrounded by marked knobs and basins. About one-third is swamp or marsh, the remainder woodland or grassy or shrub grown fields that have lain uncultivated for more than 30 years. There are several buildings on the Reserve, including houses for the resident naturalist, Dr. Frederick N. Hamerstrom, and for the custodian, Larry Camburn, a laboratory, and a combined workshop and garage.

Former Museum Piece Travels Plymouth Roads in Top Condition

It might be minus the chrome and shine of the 1948 models, but it totes passengers around just as efficiently. William Wolfram, 137207 Middlebelt road, believes that his 1919 model T Ford is in as good running condition as any four year old car.

Although it was assembled 29 years ago, it has been on the road for only four years. The car was on exhibit for 25 years in the museum of Greenfield Village. When the government took over a portion of the village during the war, many of the antique goods had to be disposed of, one of which was the car Mr. Wolfram now owns.

Carl Roach, of Garden City, was the original purchaser of the car, since the sale was closed to employees of the village. Mr. Roach in turn sold it to Mr. Wolfram. "It runs fine", the owner reported. The car has of course had its ails, but Mr. Wolfram contends that they are no more numerous than any car would develop. When anything does break down or wear out, he continued, repair is relatively simple and he had had no trouble in replacing parts.

Mr. Wolfram has no idea as to how many miles the car has traveled in the past four years, since at the time it was drafted, speedometers were not included in the plans.

When the annual South Lyon's Kiwanis Farm Festival parade took place last fall, Mr. Wolfram and his car were a part of it. In fact, the model T owner was awarded first prize in the oldest car class.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

Down Under The Palm Trees

By ELTON R. EATON

There's something funny in this big land of ours about gasoline prices. Up in Michigan the state has a three cent gasoline tax. Dealers in the Wolverine state are forced by gasoline distributors to charge 31 and 32 cents per gallon. That was the prevailing rate during December for ethyl gasoline.

Haven't heard that it has gone down any during recent weeks. Since arriving in Florida where the state has a seven cent per gallon gasoline tax, the writer has been getting a good grade of ethyl for a fraction over 26 cents per gallon.

Deduct the three cent gas tax in Michigan and that would make the price for gasoline about 28 cents a gallon in our state.

Deduct the seven cent gas tax in Florida and that would make the prevailing rate of gasoline down here about 18 cents per gallon, nearly 10 cents cheaper than it is in Michigan. Even after paying the seven cent gas tax it is still cheaper than it is back in Michigan.

On top of all of this, Michigan is a big oil producing state. Florida produces practically none at all, nearly its entire supply being shipped in.

On the surface of this situation, it looks very much as though Michigan gasoline users are being given a good trimming somewhere along the line.

Trailer camps are springing up like mushrooms in all parts of Florida. It has been some three weeks since we have driven over one of the main roads out of Miami. During those three weeks, at least half a dozen new trailer camps have been started—and they all had business. By the end of another year it is safe to predict that the number of trailer tourists will be doubled over those now on the highways.

President Paul Wiedman of the Plymouth Rotary club was amazed the other day when he heard an announcement made by the secretary of Miami Rotary that there were Rotarians from 42 of the 48 states in attendance at that meeting. There were four Rotary guests from foreign countries at the same meeting.

One of the old-time fishing boat operators declared the other day that he was sure that the "good old days" were a thing of the past. "People are no longer throwing their money away like they have in past years", he said. Last year and the year previous it was nothing for two or three fishermen to hire a fishing boat, pay the full price of $65 usually charged for six fishermen in the boat, and then when they docked after the days' fishing, to give his mate and himself a $20 bill each as a tip. "That has happened only once this year—and we are not expecting it to happen any more. We have always been satisfied with getting our regular charges, but it seems that there are some people who have had so much money they didn't know what to do with their dollars. It begins to look as though they have done a pretty good job in getting rid of most of it—because they are not back here throwing it around," he added.

Mrs. Fred D. Schrader and daughter Evelyn Schrader, are thoroughly enjoying their winter stay at Lake Worth. They are nicely located in one of the Arthur Goodhue apartments, not far from the business section and not far from the lake. On a day when the mercury registered at zero back in Plymouth, there were flowers in bloom in their yard. The Goodhues, who now spend most of the year in Florida, are in excellent health and enjoy visiting with old friends from both Plymouth and Lansing. Mr. Goodhue is a past president of the Michigan club of Lake Worth. Mrs. Schrader does not expect to return home until late in the spring.

Both Mrs. Eaton and the writer recently enjoyed a brief visit with Mrs. Anna Muhlenburg, now a permanent resident of Lake Worth, but previously a resident of Kalamazoo. Mrs. Muhlenburg years ago was most active in Eastern Star and White Shrine work. Besides being a past Worthy Matron of the Star, she is also past High Priestess of the White Shrine of Kalamazoo. During the years that Mrs. Muhlenburg served in an official capacity in the White Shrine, Mrs. Eaton served as her "flower girl." But passing years have raised havoc with the size of that little Mrs. who weighed barely 95 pounds during the years when she was the flower girl of the White Shrine of Kalamazoo. Mrs. Muhlenburg is one of those grand women it is a pleasure to know. Her son is head of the Automotive Rubber company of Detroit, being associated with Robert Redmann in the business. In fact, these two former Kalamazoo boys not only established the business but developed the process that is now such an important essential in the industrial field.

When Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs return to Plymouth sometime during April, they will be about as sun-tanned as any two people can be who spent the cold winter months of the north down in the bright sunshine of the south. The Jacobs spend at least two and sometimes three hours every day on the ocean beach at Ford Lauderdale. Both are already as brown as berries and they are continuing to add to that famed southern tan so many wish they had. Mr. Jacobs says there is just one other thing he enjoys as much as he does the sunshine of the southlands, and that is fishing up in St. Mary's river at Neva Lovewell's cottage. He expects to be right up there in that part of Canada early in June troling for some of those overgrown Great Northern pike.

BABSON

Babson Discusses Grapefruit and Oranges

Babson Park, Fla., Feb. 13. I am sorry to see my citrus friends here in Florida feeling so low. After several prosperous years, grapefruit are now selling at twenty cents a box, on the trees, and oranges are selling at forty cents. No grower can raise fruit for these prices.

Reasons for Drop in Price

During the war the Government took about one-half the crop. This was dehydrated to one-seventh its normal bulk and sent in large cans to our soldiers in Europe. When the war stopped, the Government suddenly stopped buying which resulted in the citrus people losing one-half of their customers all at one blow.

People up north are not buying as much citrus as they were. With the high price of steaks, fish, and vegetables, people are economizing on other food items. In addition to consumers buying less, many more trees have been set out during the last few years which has increased production. Citrus is unlike a tomato crop or any other annual crop which can be cut off at any time. It takes seven years before a tree begins to bear, and then it bears almost forever.

Health Value of Citrus Fruits

I have no citrus fruit to sell, but I can honestly tell readers that citrus fruits should be eaten by all people who wish to keep well. A No. 2 can of grapefruit or orange juice has about 350 milligrams of vitamin C. Each can has the equivalent of about three grapefruit or four oranges. Citrus fruit also has the valuable vitamin P and certain other important vitamins and minerals.

Grapefruit juice can be purchased in No. 2 cans that sell, as a rule, two for 25 cents or about half the pre-war prices. In fact they are about the only good food which is selling much below pre-war costs. These No. 2 cans can be purchased in cartons holding 24 cans. I earnestly advise every family to buy now, while the price is low, one or more of these cartons for winter use.

"Remedies" Proposed by Growers

The citrus grower in Texas, California, Arizona, and Florida

are holding meetings everyday as to how to increase the price and avoid further losses. Some growers recommend destroying a portion of the crop; others are urging that all get together and agree on a fixed minimum price. At best these two suggestions are but stopgaps.

Today, however, all connected with the industry get their pay, while the grower is obliged to take what is left. Pickers, and handlers, charge some twenty-five cents per box; the processing of the fruit costs about a dollar a box; the freight costs over a dollar a box; and of course the various handlers take their commissions. This leaves nothing for the honest grower.

My Recommendations to Growers

(1) Spend more on newspaper advertising, telling consumers the real health value in citrus juices, and especially advise the purchase of cans in cartons rather than two cans at a time.

(2) Reduce the cost of production by eliminating coloring, polishing, over-fertilization, and such spraying as is done just to make the groves look handsome.

(3) Stop new plantings. Notwithstanding these very low prices, I find that new groves are constantly being set out in California, Arizona, Texas, and Florida. The growers should immediately start active propaganda so that anyone who now sets out a new grove would be looked upon as an undesirable citizen.

Lesson to All

I traveled widely throughout the agricultural sections of our country. Farmers, ranchers, fruit growers and others in most sections have been making a lot of money during the last few years. These fortunate people have, however, been spending money carelessly, believing that good times will always continue. As a result, now that hard times have come, they have no financial reserves and are begging for Government help. Every business should expect poor years and good years, and it is only reasonable to expect all producers to lay aside a portion of their profits in good years to make up losses in poor years.

Therefore, I urge all growers of any products, who are still making money, to save their money. You who are growing wheat, raising livestock, and are prospering in other lines, should remember that hard times are coming to you the same as they have to the citrus people. I therefore urge you to now "save money for a rainy day"—or to speak more correctly to save now for days when it won't rain.
