State Police Urge Traffic Safety

"Speed kills—take it easy!" This is the traffic safety theme to be stressed during the month of July by police agencies of Michigan, according to Sergeant Henry P. Kozowicz, commanding officer of the Detroit post of the Michigan State Police. The campaign is part of a year-round traffic education program sponsored by the National Safety Council under the title of "Operation Safety."

"Modern, smooth running cars give a delusion of safety when running at high speeds," Sergeant Kozowicz said. "No car, however, is safer than its driver, and the records show that speed is a factor in accidents more often than any other violation. Speed is likewise a contributing cause in two out of every five traffic deaths."

Contrary to general belief, Michigan does have a speed law that applies to the open highway. Sergeant Kozowicz pointed out. "Unless a zone is posted with signs, the law does not designate any specific speed limit outside of business and residential districts," the officer said. "But it does provide that driving too fast for conditions is a violation. By conditions is meant such considerations as the weather, volume and rate of flow of traffic, condition of highway, and whether it is day or night."

"Under certain circumstances, you can speed at five to 10 miles an hour as well as at 50 or 60. And when you're going 60 and hit a solid obstruction it is just like driving off a 10-story building."

Although the accident record is not increasing proportionately with the increase in traffic, nevertheless it is at a new peak and growing, Kozowicz stated. Last year 1,444 persons were killed and 39,639 injured in 137,619 traffic accidents in Michigan.

"There just aren't enough policemen to control the situation," Kozowicz said. "If we are to reduce accidents, drivers must police themselves by being conscientious in the operation of their cars. They must also be alert for the unexpected, especially carelessness or recklessness on the part of the other driver. And remember, you can't dispute the record, speed kills. So take it easy, what's the hurry?"

Telephone lines will really be abuzzing. A new mechanism, consisting of microphone and amplifier, permits group telephone conversations without extra headsets. After telephone is attached to cabinet containing amplifier, all persons in the room can hear what is said into the microphone and what comes over the receiver.

Saxton Tells of Radio Device

Radios without vacuum tubes and which play instantly when turned on are now a possibility with the invention of an entirely new electronic device by the Bell Telephone laboratories at New York.

In announcing the device known as a "transistor", J. R. Saxton manager here for the Michigan Bell Telephone company, said it works on a new principle of physics discovered by the laboratories in the course of fundamental research into the electrical properties of solids.

"It is an amazingly simple apparatus hardly larger than a shoe-lace tip," Saxton said, "yet it efficiently performs nearly all the functions of an ordinary vacuum tube plus some that the old-type tube cannot."

"The laboratories have used several transistors to activate a radio receiving set, and also to amplify electrical speech waves traveling between two telephones— jobs now handled by vacuum tubes."

Saxton said the transistor is a tiny, hollow cylinder housing two hair-thin wires touching a pin-head of germanium, a semi-conductive metal. The device has no vacuum, glass covering, grid, plate, cathode, or any parts which move or wear out. It is energized by dry-cell batteries and consumes less than a tenth of the power used by an ordinary flash-light bulb, according to Saxton.

"Electrical current is amplified when it moves from one wire through the germanium to the other wire," stated Saxton. "The wires themselves are only two-thousandths of an inch apart. Tests have shown that the transistor will amplify at least 100 times."

News In The World of Religion

By W. W. Reid

The acting chaplain of Columbia university, who was in charge of religious observances in connection with that school's mammoth commencement observances in June, is the Rev. Shunji Forrest Nishi, an American-born Japanese, graduate of the University of California and of the Episcopal Theological school in Cambridge, Mass., and an ordained Clergman of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Seventy-five bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States are now in England where they have been in attendance at the Lambeth conference of the Church of England—the mother church of the Anglican communion. This is the first meeting of the conference since 1930, and the eighth in the history of the church. Some 330 bishops are in attendance, and more than 200 of these are from outside the British Isles. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, presides over the conference which, he says, "meets at a time of extraordinary confusion in the world."

"Christianity is not a beautiful dream; it is not merely a hauntingly lovely poem of a fearless revolutionary who lived 1900 years ago," said Francis B. Sayre, president of the Trusteeship council of the United Nations and former assistant secretary of State of the U. S., in a recent address at Princeton Theological seminary. "It is not a way of escape. It is an intensely practical way of life for here and now. It is a unique and God-given revelation of the only possible foundation upon which a human society can be built that will satisfy the eternal demands of the human heart and thus prove stable and permanent. . . . The choice between the pagan way of war or a peace built upon justice and Christian brotherhood will in all probability determine within the next decade or two the fate of western civilization."

A group of Japanese alumni of Aoyama Gakuin, the Christian college which was maintained by the Methodist church in Tokyo before World War II and whose buildings were badly damaged by American bombs, have recently organized a unique body known as "Aoyama Gakuin Business Men's club." The purpose of the organization is to promote understanding between America and Japan; to sell information on business, journalism, religion, and education in Japan to American interests needing such knowledge, photos, etc., and to use all Delegates from every state and 23 foreign missions were present at the 12th general assembly of the Church of the Nazarene held recently at St. Louis, reports the Rev. William O. Welton who attended with Mrs. Welton.

 The church was founded 40 years ago, he states, and now has increased 25 times in membership to a present number of 210,000 communicants. A goal of $4,000,000 which has been sought for foreign missions during the past four years, was announced as reached, the local pastor continued. During this same time churches have been established in Alaska, Australia, Hawaii, and the Philippines.
 An estimated 10,000 attended the assembly, the Rev. Welton reports, and took part in the balloting for national officers. During the sessions it was also decided to relocate and expand the national headquarters in Kansas City.

District Meeting Held For Church of Nazarene
 The district assembly for the Church of the Nazarene is being held this week at Indian lake near Vicksburg, the Rev. William Welton stated before he left for the scene of the meetings.
 Besides the Rev. and Mrs. Welton, two elected delegates, Mrs. Helen Shoebright and Mrs. Ray Dunham, plus the department heads, are representing the local congregation in the business activities there.
 The annual camp meeting will be held at the Indian lake camp ground July 16 through 25.

Nutrition Aids
 from the American Red Cross Nutrition Service

Few Plymouth mothers can schedule a complete vacation from the usual household tasks during the summer months. The family needs three good meals a day—more for some of the young fry—and there's no let up in the demand for clean clothes. Doing these routine chores in an easier way makes it possible for the home-maker to have a little extra free time to enjoy summer.
 A dinner that can be gotten on the table in half an hour after a day outdoors can be just as nourishing as one which takes twice as long to prepare. It can follow the usual pattern of a meat or meat alternate, potatoes or another starchy food, vegetable, salad and dessert, or it may be simplified to include several of these foods in one combination dish such as a casserole or a salad.
 Naturally this speeded-up preparation means either making use of many ready-to-eat foods available in all grocery stores or doing part of the dinner preparation early in the day. The first method is more economical of the cook's energy, the second is easier on the food budget.
 Here are a few simple summer dinner menus suggested by the Nutrition Service of the American Red Cross. They're so attractive in appearance and flavor the family will never suspect they're short-cut-meals.

eggs, diced; 2 cups cooked or elbow macaroni; 1 medium onion or 4 green onions, chopped; ½ cup mayonnaise, French dressing, salt and pepper to taste, salad greens, radishes.
 Moisten cooked macaroni with French dressing and chill. Shortly before serving combine with all other ingredients except salad greens and radishes. Mix lightly. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with radishes, rings of green pepper and wedges of tomato when they do not appear in another form in the meal. Serves 6.

Summer Cruise Takes Glenn Pace to Lisbon
 Glenn U. Pace, airman apprentice USN son of Mrs. Burnetta Pace of 35909 Plymouth road, arrived in Lisbon, Portugal, while serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, one of the 13-vessel Midshipmen Practice Squadron on its annual summer cruise.
 The personnel of the Coral Sea was extended a warm welcome by the Portuguese whose capital is periodically visited by ships of Admiral Conolly's Northern European Task Force. Liberty in the Old World city was a pleasant relaxation after the days of intense drill and instruction on the voyage across the Atlantic from Annapolis, Md. where the Midshipmen were embarked June 7.

 The season's first count of pheasant broods, made by conservation officers throughout the pheasant range in the first two weeks of June, is rated "disappointing" by conservation department game men.

Official Warns of Gas Tax Refund

During a visit to Plymouth last week, an official from the gasoline tax division of the Secretary of State's office pointed out the seriousness of farmers misrepresenting facts in soliciting their refund from the gas tax. He emphasized that only gasoline used in farming is exempt from the tax. Pointing out the result of making a false application, he told the story of Dr. C. T. Lewerenz of Chicago who was fined $400 and costs of $100 in a circuit court at St. Joseph last month.

Lewerenz, who owns a farm near St. Joseph, the official narrated, was accused by the gasoline tax division of the department of state of using the gasoline for highway purposes instead of for farm work as he had claimed in an application for refund. A routine check by the department's field investigator disclosed information leading to the conviction.

The department of state, after investigation of claims, refunds approximately $3,000,000 of highway funds annually, 70 per cent of which is for gasoline used on farms. During 1947 a thorough checking of claims has resulted in a saving to the state of more than $300,000.

The Pacific Northwest forest industry is carrying forward a program of forest practice, aimed to perpetuate and increase the timber supply of the area. It seeks to find markets and methods of manufacture which will use small trees, slabs, broken and low-grade logs and other material, which will increase the total amount of forest products returned from the land.

The old-time method of storing fine white table linen by wrapping it in blue paper is still a good one. The blue paper will prevent the linen from turning yellow.

California Visitors See Former Plymouthites

Dr. John McIntyre tells of visiting former Plymouthites Mr. and Mrs. James Sessions at their present home near Los Angeles, California, recently. He reported that Mrs. Sessions is much improved in health, and is "getting along fine". Dr. and Mrs. McIntyre and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jölliffe were in California attending sessions of the Kiwanis convention.

Fiscal Year Ends For Local Church

Reports and an election of officers formally closed the fiscal year for the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene.

Outstanding in the list of achievements of the congregation during the past year is an increase in Sunday school and church membership. The former reaching a total of 171, shows an increase of 9.9 per cent over last year, while the church membership ranks showed an increase of 9.2 per cent. The Rev. William O. Welton announces that the church debt was reduced from $4,330 to $2,820 this past year.

Officers elected include: Sunday school superintendent, M. P. Clark; church school board, the Rev. Welton, Mr. Clark, Mrs. Lorena Wasalaski, Blake Fisher, K. G. Swain; trustees, Charles Wilson, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. Swain.

Missionary president, Mrs. John Wasalaski; stewards, Lewis Smith, John Wasalaski, Paul Hockenberry, Mrs. Marie Swain, Mrs. Nettie Kincaid; young people's president, Merle Hamlin.

Magical Picnic Slated for Sunday

Anything can happen, and probably will, when between 150 and 200 magicians meet at the home of Roy Row next Sunday, July 18, for a picnic.

It will be closed to the Wand-wavers club membership, Mr. Row, president, announces. A similar picnic held at the president's home last year attracted 75 of the magicians.

A variety of acts, with magic predominating, has been planned for the afternoon. A small band has also been obtained for entertainment.

A lonesome little sailboat, moored beside a rambling jetty, is a real picture when framed through branches of the trees along the marge of the lake.

Michigan Coast Line

By the Old AAA Traveler

The so-called Lower Peninsula of Michigan is one of the country's greatest vacation playplaces, and little wonder that hundreds of thousands of beauty-loving visitors from the 48 states troop in to enjoy its green forests, its excellent fishing and, above all, its glorious summer climate.

Climate par excellence, for Michigan's expanses are air-conditioned with water-washed breezes perfumed by the pine and cedar, and with all the exhilaration of rare old wine.

The lower peninsula of Michigan lies like a great hand, Saginaw bay cutting in on the eastern coast to form the Thumb, and the western coast and the Leelanau peninsula representing the little finger.

Here is everything the beauty-lover and vacationist might want in natural beauty and the advantages that go with the perfect playplace... the deep green of forest and the unforgettable blue of thousands of lakes... miles of white beaches and tumbling rivers in which trout gambol... picturesque little bays reminiscent of the Gaspe peninsula and areas of fruit orchards as productive as anything in the Yakima country... cool retreats deep in the pines.

In this story we shall treat only that area extending northward from an imaginary line drawn east-west from Bay City to Muskegon... the area spreading in its blue-green-white splendor from almost the center of the Lower Peninsula to the Straits of Mackinac at Mackinaw City.

It's God's country for the vacationist, summer or winter, for in the cold months that entire area goes in for winter sports and elaborate carnivals, but it is in summer that the country really takes down its hair and plays whole-heartedly. And it is in the summer, of course, that the millions of tourists pour in for their days of delight on the water and in the woods, with rod and camera, in lazy hours beside blue lakes and in the evenings beneath a silver moon hanging so low you feel you can reach out and touch it.

It would be a bootless task even to attempt to parade a detailed treatise on where to go and what to see; so we'll just sort of skitter here and there, and hit the high spots... or highlights... in this magnificent play which we have at our very door.

We'll start in at Bay City, with the blue of Saginaw bay to the eastward, and northward a trail leading into the beauty that is in the Ogemaw State Forest, the Houghton Lake State Forest, the Huron National Forest and the Au Sable State Forest. Out of Bay City we follow US 23 along filled with interest... Arch Rock where, Indian legend has it, Gitchie Manitou passed through from his landing place to his home in Sugar Loaf... Sugar Loaf itself, where the Indians believed that the Great Spirit was fed by the bees... old Fort Mackinac, overlooking the harbor, built by the British in 1780 and restored to its original condition... Southward out of Frankfort you have more lakes and more state parks and we'll see Manistee and Ludington, with its Ludington State Park and Orchard Beach State Park at Manistee, and, just a bit inland, the great expanse of Manistee National Forest, one of the largest national forest areas in the state.

On southward out of Ludington into Silver Lake State Park and Whitehall on White Lake and then Muskegon on Muskegon Lake and on Lake Michigan, with the beautiful expanse that is Muskegon State Park and the surrounding country that is almost as interesting. We jump over to Cadillac for a few hours, in the William Mitchell State Park on Lake Mitchell and for an hour or so around Lake Cadillac itself. Just east of Cadillac are Lake Missaukee as well as a dozen surrounding lakes and, of course, Lake City Park.

A bit farther and you are in the center of a great playplace. There are Houghton Lake and Higgins Lake, both expanses of blue water in which the summer vacationists find pleasures galore. There are fishing and boating and lazy hours along sandy beaches. There are Houghton Lake State Forest, and Huron National Forest and Higgins Lake State Forest if you like the spreading woodlands. There is Grayling, on Lake Marge, and the famous Hartwick Pines State Park, with one of the few remaining stands of the giant pine which first brought settlers into Michigan.

Yes, all of Michigan is a playplace... a land of lakes and beaches and forest... an air-conditioned land whose breezes are washed as they pass over the surrounding open waters... a country where the climate is delightful winter and summer and where the home folk are hospitable... the very heart's desire of the man or woman who seeks peace and beauty to heal nerves frayed by the roar of urban life.

So... I give you the Lower Peninsula of Michigan. Of course, you'll look in on Interlochen and the National Music Camp, for there assemble the great of the musical world through the summer months. Right on down the coast we travel, with a little time for Benzie State Park on Platte Lake, a

TWO HEADLINERS are better than one!

NO doubt about it—the tires on your car have a lot to do with its comfort, and the new oversize casings deserve all the headline play they're getting.

But if you like to take things easy as you drive, why be content with one such headliner, when Buick gives you riding comfort in a double dose?

For instance, every 1948 Buick rides on lower-than-usual air pressures. That comes not only from the tire sizes, but from the fact that Buick wheels have the widest rims in the industry.

Wider rims increase tire air capacity. They also straighten sidewalls, giving them a bracing action against side thrust and sway.

Result: Comfort plus control—a soft ride and surer handling—in every Buick in our '48 line.

On top of that, every Buick has a soft coil spring on each wheel to back up the cushioning action of the tires.

Each wheel is prepared to step over bumps as they come, front and rear springs are precisely balanced with each other, and both front- and rear-seat passengers enjoy a level, jounce-free ride.

On such springing alone this sprightly fashion plate of '48 would be noted for its easy-going stride.

But we figure that two headline features are always better than one, so every Buick enjoys both gentler springing and lower-pressure tires.

Go try out a Buick and see for yourself what we mean. If you haven't done so already, you'll see your Buick dealer pronto, with or without a car to trade—and get a firm order in.

The Widest Rims in the Industry

Compare Buick rims with those on other cars of the same size and weight, and you'll find that Buick's are wider—why? Because wider rims increase air space and permit lower air pressures. They also give sidewalls an extra bracing action that checks sideways. The result is a softer ride, plus better car control.

BUICK alone has all these features

Steel output is being further expanded and 1949 should see Nash and the rest of the industry increase automobile volume over last year," he said.

Farmer Thought a Plymouth Pastor Was Governor Thomas Dewey

"Pardon me, Sir, but I am wondering if you are not Governor Dewey, our next president?" asked a central Michigan farmer the other day of Rev. Edgar Hoenecke of this city when the well known Plymouth churchman was standing near the shore of Houghton lake where the Hoeneckes have been enjoying a brief vacation.

"Thanks for the compliment. I am not Governor Dewey but I am surely going to vote for him for President" answered Rev. Hoenecke.

One can well understand how the Houghton farmer mistook Rev. Hoenecke for Governor Dewey. A second glance at Rev. Hoenecke reveals the fact that there is much resemblance between the two, even to the mustaches. Maybe it's the abbreviated mustaches that these two prominent gentlemen seem so proud of that led the Houghton farmer to believe that Rev. Hoenecke was Governor Dewey.

Said the farmer as he departed: "Well they don't fool me often, but you sure do look like the man who is going to put some commonsense into affairs down in Washington."

Hostelers Pass Through Here

A group of hostelers, led by Blaine Ingram of 360 South Harvey street, passed through Plymouth last Friday on their way to a hostel work project at South Lyon.

This group of five girls and six boys are on a two month cycle and canoe trip from Northfield, Massachusetts to Minnesota, by way of New York state's Finger lake region, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Michigan and Wisconsin.

This summer over 300 young people from the states are taking such hostel trips through this country, Canada, Mexico, Alaska, South Africa, and Western Europe. These groups cycle 40 to 50 miles a day, carrying their bed rolls and cooking utensils with them. Over night they stop at a hostel, where house parents provide accommodations for a low fee.

This group which passed through Plymouth has many ages and interests represented. The youngest is 15 and the oldest 26. They are students from high school and college, a teacher, a group worker and an engineer. A good share of the fun they report, is getting to know people from other sections of the country. The group represents Kansas, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, Vermont, Massachusetts and New York.

Coal Bin Can be Eliminated from Basement; Construct It Outside

by A. F. Reason

Today when there are so many restrictions on the use of gas and oil fuel, builders are undoubtedly giving greater consideration to coal heat. Hot water heating fired by a bin fed stoker has always been a favorite and perhaps this is the opportune time to offer some practical suggestions on how to avoid some of the popular objections made against dirty coal.

Coal bins can be placed outside the house, thus getting rid permanently of coal storage in the basement. In many cases of new home construction, the side driveway leads back from the street to the garage. When the basement proper is dug, it is just a few more shovels full with the average clamshell to excavate a storage space under the driveway sufficiently large to hold several years supply of coal, generally 25 tons or more. Space can be cemented in along with the foundation walls, and the top is part of the driveway, plus a good-sized man-hole for easy dumping.

With a bin of this type, the homeowner can get a lower price for fuel bought in large quantities. This keeps all possible spilled dirt outside the house, and it is a simple matter to sweep it into the bin, with only a garden hose necessary to wash off the driveway. Since coal is the only fuel that can be stored a long time in advance, its use becomes a safeguard against shortages, strikes, bad weather, price increases and uncertain deliveries. These are important factors to consider if the home is being built in the country or in sparsely settled communities.

Bathey Official Aboard Ill-Fated Racer

John T. Annas, an executive of Bathey Manufacturing company, was aboard the famed Nuala which was wrecked in the Mackinac-Port Huron races last Sunday.

Severe weather played havoc with the yacht northeast of Rogers City, leaving it without a mast and leaking badly. The staywire had snapped in the heavy wind, and the mast was reported to have folded over immediately, snapping the gasoline line to the auxiliary engine. When rescue help arrived, the water was over the floor boards.

Plymouth Dealers Pioneering Coal Service Program

Great numbers of dealers and coal mine operators have been told of the plan, and response has been tremendous. Lightfoot remarked. A representative of the mine operators has been sent to Plymouth, and has been working directly with local men in setting up the program, which is known as "Janiteers".

Lightfoot, who is manager for local dealers, said that the Janiteering will be copyfrighted. A great number of other communities are watching with interest this guinea pig experiment, in the hopes of setting up a similar plan.

Plymouth dealers forwarding the plan are Eckles Coal and Supply company, Roberts Coal and Supply company, Plymouth Lumber and Coal company and the McLaren company.

Thus, now coal users need to do only two things to have proper heating without ever touching their furnace again. They simply have to order coal and order at the same time the "Janiteer" service.

STOKOL STOKER

HEAT INSURANCE for COAL USERS

Take Delivery OF YOUR COAL NOW!

Your coal merchant wants you to know why an order on the books, to be filled from future instead of present stocks, will not provide you with the protection which you should have—and which he always wants you to have.

He has no wish to be a scare-monger, but he is anxious to insure your comfort and health this winter, as in the past, with economical coal heat. For this reason, he points out that it would be wise and foresighted not merely to place your coal order now, but to permit him to deliver it to your home now.

Several factors, both present and probable, make it urgently advisable for you to get this winter's coal in your bins without delay:

- 1 Your coal merchant's supply, both in quantity and in kind, is ample at present. This may not be true when cold weather arrives, especially as regards choice of type and size.
- 2 Labor stoppages have cut coal production at the mines and it is earnestly hoped there will be no further interruptions of this kind.
- 3 Transportation facilities are more restricted now than for many years; mines served by many railroads, some of which have had no car shortages until now, are losing from 1 to 1 1/2 days' production per week.
- 4 Coal will again be called upon to fill the gaps made by forecast shortages of oil and gas, thus spreading the supply thinner.
- 5 Certain sections of Detroit's present Smoke Abatement Ordinance do not approve the sale of some types of coal which Detroit has used for years and which represents a large portion of our city's coal supply. Your home coal supply may be affected by this; consult your coal retailer, who is cooperating with smoke abatement to the fullest extent, for information as to whether the coal you use is in question.

To help your coal retailer protect you against a possible reduction of your fuel supply resulting from all factors mentioned—call him today and request delivery of the coal you will need this winter.

P.S. If purchase of your coal supply now places too great a strain on your summer budget, your coal retailer will probably be able to ease it for you. Consult him about an easier method of payment.

"I Can Trust A&P..."

"We live in a pretty nice neighborhood. We aren't rich, and neither are many of our neighbors. Our income is what might be called 'comfortable' and we have most of the things we really want as well as some money in the bank, and we've never cashed our war bonds."

"We've come along in the world from a modest start not by skimping but by trying to spend wisely what we've had to spend and I've noticed that most folks who have a little something are folks who believe in getting their money's worth."

"I do all my shopping for food at A&P. I do it because I can trust them."

"I can trust them to buy the best that the market affords and to guard its quality and freshness until I come for it."

"For instance, when they mark eggs 'Grade A' I know they'll be 'Grade A' when I buy them (Grade A eggs, you know, will be B or C if they stand around the store too long or aren't properly refrigerated)."

"When I buy a steak at A&P I know it's beef from a grain fed steer, expertly selected in the first place, and trimmed closely to give me my money's worth in meat, without too much fat and bone."

"I know that I can trust their fruits and vegetables to be fresh and crisp—not leftovers from the day before."

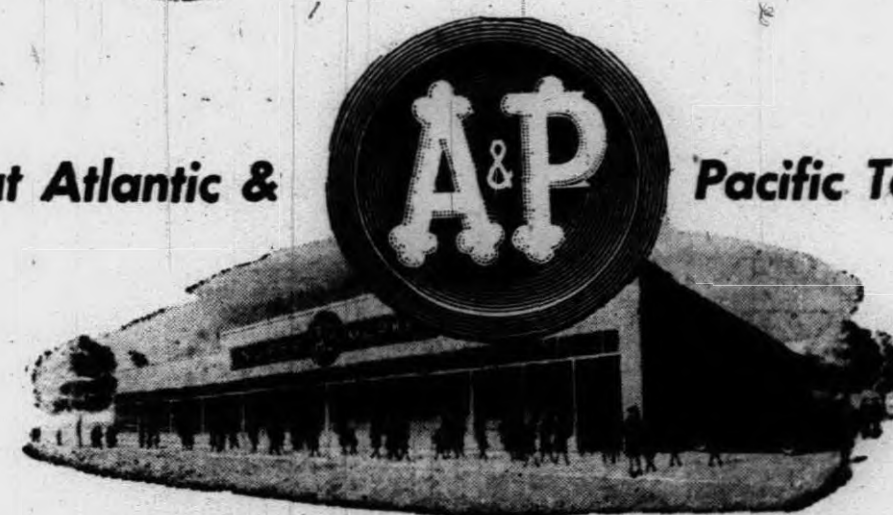

"I can trust A&P's advertising to be straightforward and frank. When they list the price of cauliflower, I know I can select the best head in the bin for that price. There's never a 'We're-sorry-there-are-no-more-left-at-that-price, how-about-one-of-these-for-more.' And when they advertise hamburger at thus-and-so, that's the price of their best hamburger, not of a second 'come-on' grade."

"I trust their prices throughout the store and know I wouldn't save by shopping around the town."

"I don't mean that someone doesn't have a 'special' on something some time at a lower price than A&P. I mean that when I do all my shopping there, week in and week out, I'll save money and have the best that money can buy."

"Yes, I can trust A&P... and it's a mighty comfortable feeling."

TRY TO BEAT YOUR OWN RECORD

SOME years ago a certain boy was the poorest student in a country school in Iowa. He sat on the back row, he tried to get out of answering questions; he dawdled; he was hopeless. One day, as he was running out the door of the school house, he ran into the teacher and knocked him over. The boy thought he was going to have the daylight beat out of him. Instead the teacher said, "Come in, I want to talk to you. I've been watching you; the great trouble with you is that you don't do your best. I have a little recipe I want you to try. When you get up in the morning, I want you to raise your right hand and say to yourself, 'Today I'm going to try to beat my own record.' Not somebody else's record, but your own. If you'll do the best you can every day, you'll amount to something."

The boy was impressed; he decided to do exactly that. Now comes the startling part: that boy has been doing that for 70 years. Of course he is not a boy any longer; indeed he is an elderly man—and a man who has had a great influence on America.

He is Prof. Perry G. Holden. He lives in Belleville, Michigan, and is 83 years old.

This very year he has received three citations of honor. The University of Illinois invited him to take part in the commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of its founding. It was the first regularly established Agronomy Department in the United States and Perry G. Holden was its first professor.

He has written an inspirational booklet for the International Harvester company entitled "Young Folks—Do Something; Be Somebody." One and a half million copies have been distributed.

He has written a booklet for the Boy Scouts of America along the same line; and about the same number of copies have been distributed.

He was a pioneer in developing seed corn; he helped organize a railroad train—something like the present Freedom Train—which went out across the country teaching farmers how to select better seed corn. He put millions of dollars into the pockets of corn farmers. Homer Croy in his book, "Corn Country," said: "Professor Holden opened up a new world to me. I still think corn is wonderful and I still think Professor Holden is wonderful."

Yes, this little professor with the big beard is active and working and every morning, when he gets up, he holds up his right hand and says, "Today I'm going to try to beat my own record."

That simple daily inspirational thing has been a great influence in making him the grand old man he is.

The section in southern Idaho irrigated by the American Falls dam and reservoirs is one of the largest continuous irrigated sections in the United States.

New Telegram System Set-Up

Now you can send telegrams to and from mobile units, equipped with radio-telephones, such as automobiles, trains, airplanes, buses, trucks and inland waterways boats, it was announced today by C. U. Hendricks, Plymouth manager of the Western Union Telegraph company.

Western Union has made arrangements for telegraph service to and from more than 5,000 mobile units already equipped with radio-telephones for service through stations of the Bell Telephone system and other telephone companies, Mr. Hendricks stated.

The driver or passenger of the radio-telephone equipped mobile unit simply asks for Western Union and sends his telegram collect or has it charged to the mobile unit telephone number.

Telegrams may be sent to radio-telephone equipped mobile units through any Western Union office, either as a paid message or charged to the mobile unit telephone number. The sender will be expected to furnish approximate location of the mobile unit.

A list of the cities, at which the telephone companies maintain land radio-telephone stations covering a radius of approximately 25 miles, is provided in tariff listings at all Western Union offices.

Officials Inspect Food Handling

In order to prevent the sale of any articles of food that are impure, unwholesome, adulterated, misbranded, or otherwise contrary to the provisions of state laws, inspectors of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, during May inspected 3,168 establishments handling food, according to Miles A. Nelson, Chief of the Bureau of Marketing and Enforcement.

When food is suspected of not being in compliance with state laws, official samples are taken for testing. During May inspectors took 37 official samples, and placed under seizure 83 lots of food that did not meet the requirements of state food laws. Other May activities of the Bureau included completion of 48 prosecutions for violation of laws, all resulting in convictions; approval of 7,781 weighing and measuring devices, and condemned 1,200; 1,295 packages were reweighed to check accuracy of the weight or measure declaration, of which 1,204 were approved, and 91 or 7 per cent condemned as being short the declared weight or measure; 18 official insanitary notices were released when listed conditions were corrected. The farm produce storage warehouse inspector made inspections on 94 Michigan warehouses in 85 towns during May. Bean inspection service covered 152,761 bags of beans.

TB Drops Notch in Death Causes

Tuberculosis dropped from seventh to eighth place among Michigan's ten leading causes of death in 1947, according to provisional figures released by the Michigan Department of Health.

The 1947 tuberculosis death rate of 26 per 100,000 population showed considerable decline from the previous five year average of 32.6 per 100,000 population.

Tuberculosis killed as many men as women in 1947. Male deaths from tuberculosis numbered 1,100 and female deaths, 543. More than half of the females who died of tuberculosis were under 35 years of age, while 80 per cent of the males who died from the disease were over 35 years of age. The greatest number of women who died from tuberculosis were between 25 and 29 years of age and the greatest number of men, between 55 and 60 years of age. Of the 1,643 deaths from tuberculosis last year, 45 were of children under five years of age and of these, 18 were of infants less than one year of age.

To help control tuberculosis, the Michigan Department of Health advises you to:
1. Have an annual chest X-ray.
2. Consult your doctor if you have any symptoms such as a persistent cough, fatigue or loss of weight.
3. Avoid continuous contact with persons who have tuberculosis.
4. Keep your general health at a high level.
5. Remember, early diagnosis and prompt treatment saves lives and prevents spread of the disease.

Nutrition Aids

from the American Red Cross Nutrition Service

The best cure for that sinking feeling most Plymouth home-makers get when they look at the prices on meats is a trip to the vegetable counter or better still their own gardens. From now until frost there will be an abundance of delightfully fresh vegetables to give relief to food budget blues.

Vegetables can't replace meat in menus to be sure, but increasing the number used can make meals in which the amount of meat must be reduced more interesting and satisfying. Their crispy texture is an excellent foil for the softness of many of the meat alternates which most women are using more often than usual these days.

The Nutrition Service of the American Red Cross suggests the following points to remember in the preparation of vegetables so they'll be at their best in flavor, color, texture and food value.

1.—Use the vegetables as soon after harvesting as possible. To keep them fresh until used store them in a cold, dark place—in most cases in the hydrator of the refrigerator.

2.—Cook the vegetables in the least possible amount of water and for the shortest possible time. That means starting the cooking with boiling water and cooking only until tender.

3.—Protect the vegetables from air during the cooking process to save vitamins. To do this use a tightly covered pan, cook at a gentle boil and avoid stirring. Serve as soon as cooked for the same reason.

4.—Save the cooking liquid to use of soups, sauces, gravies or stews. It's full of flavor, minerals and vitamins.

Try a dinner menu in which vegetables are used to add pleasing contrast to a meatless main dish.

Hot Spiced Beets
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Lemon Icebox Dessert

Hot Spiced Beets
Two and one-half cups diced cooked beets, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon allspice, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup beet liquid, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

Reserve liquid in which beets are cooked to make sauce. Combine sugar, cornstarch and allspice. Blend with vinegar and beet liquid and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add beets and margarine and heat over boiling water for about 15 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

Stuffed Tomato Salad
Combine equal amounts of diced cucumber and celery with a bit of minced onion and enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Use mixture to stuff tomatoes. Serve on crisp greens.

Lemon Icebox Dessert
Two egg yolks, well beaten, 6 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2/3 cup cream, whipped, 12 to 14 vanilla cookies.

Combine egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar, lemon rind and juice. Cook over hot water for 3 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. THIS WEEK IN Washington

PROBABLY never since Abraham Lincoln's second term has a President of the United States been so discredited within his own party as is President Harry Truman. While the Gallup polls still show Truman as the choice of more than 60 per cent of party membership, even before the convention some of the leadership in the larger delegation states—Illinois, New Jersey, New York, California and others—had gone out on the proverbial limb and repudiated the Truman leadership in favor of the nomination of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Political observers here profess to see in this party split, (1) a purely political pique on the part of the southern state leaders over the civil rights program which they sought to use as a bargaining point to return to the two-thirds rule in the party convention by which the South could control the nominee; (2) hysteria at the thought that the 16 years of entrenched power in the federal government enjoyed by the Democrats might be endangered and that state political machines built upon federal patronage was endangered by the party weakness; (3) the cohesion of the erstwhile New Dealers against Truman in an attempt to rally the left-wing element of the party around some candidate such as Justice William O. Douglas because they believed Truman had leaned too far to the right and ousted most of the New Deal bigwigs from the party jobs in Washington.

How to put humpty-dumpty back together again is now faced by the party leadership. As a matter of fact, political observers here declare that Democrats cannot point a finger to any act of President Truman which would make him unacceptable as the party candidate. His bi-partisan foreign policy just now culminating into positive action is already bearing fruit in the first break in the iron curtain in the Tito-Yugoslavia affair and in the formulation of the Marshall plan into the 16-nation pact; he has continued to weld the pan-American union into a western hemispheric solidarity; he has welded into a more solid union the western European bloc with England, France and Italy as the spearheads; he has at least lost no ground in China and he continues to press for a democratic Japan.

And this gives rise to the plea of the Eisenhower die-hards... who refused to accept his declaration that he could not accept... that Eisenhower would be a non-partisan national candidate, that voters of all complexions would accept him and vote for him with a feeling of faith and renewed security, that for the next four years this nation should forget the two-party system and unite in a coalition government in the interest of national safety and security. And that would be Utopia.

Air Reservists Now on "Cruise"

Four Plymouth youths and two from Livonia are among those who have reported to the Grosse Ile naval air station for two weeks active training duty, it is announced by Capt. C. S. Cooper, commanding officer.

They are: Albert E. Duston, 18, 454 North Main street, Plymouth Mail employee; Ferris D. Mathias, 17, 858 Blunk; Gerald C. England, 18, 14649 Bradner; Lawrence E. Mason, 17, 11304 Arden, Livonia; Louis Westfall, Jr., 17, 840 Irvin; and Edward H. Bruce, 18, 10001 Blackburn, Livonia.

All the seamen recruits who joined the Naval Air Reserve this spring, and who are now on "cruise" with their squadron, Fighting Squadron 63E, at Grosse Ile.

During their training duty they will take intensive training courses in all technical phases of aviation, including engineering, radio, electronics and ordnance. As members of the Naval Air Reserve they attend meetings with their squadron one week-end each month, in addition to the two weeks duty each year.

Correct Hazards, Farmers Urged

Plymouth farm people can save themselves injury, money, work hours, and possibly their lives, by taking time during Farm Safety Week, July 20 to 26 to correct the safety hazards they know exist on their farms, the Michigan Department of Health advised today in urging participation in the national safety campaign.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is a good motto to adopt for the week. Human lives are involved and it may be your wife, your child or yourself. The time to prevent accidents is BEFORE they happen, the Department counseled.

Farm accidents killed one out of five persons who died in occupational pursuits in Michigan last year. Lives can be saved by giving thought now to things which caused the greatest loss of farm lives in the past.

The careless handling of domestic animals on Michigan farms results each year in serious injury or death to many people. Jobs like handling bulls and horses and working around cows require close attention to avoid unnecessary accidents.

Farm machinery is another hazard to the farmer. Each year workers meet death as the result of falls from loaded wagons or trucks, the use of haying equipment which has not been checked and repaired, or the overturning of tractors. Children are killed each year because they begged rides on tractors and played in or around other farm machinery. Corn shredders and like equipment "cripple" many a sturdy farmer. Broken whiffletrees can cause death.

Falls from a ladder, a slip down a hay chute, or stumbling down unlighted or cluttered barn stairs are involved in a third serious danger to farmers. Safest

WHAT "Stepping Down" MEANS TO YOU

How the New Hudson, America's most streamlined car with the low silhouette, brings you roominess and comfort never before obtainable in an automobile.

You've seen them flashing by in all their sparkling color—those trim, gorgeous New Hudsons with the low, streamlined silhouette.

But have you really examined one of these amazing cars? They are the big news in the automobile world today!

Hudson, always known for great forward steps in the development of the automobile, and for efficient use of motive power, is again way out ahead with a motor car that hits a new high in efficient use of space—that makes a greater percentage of its total space actually available for your use and comfort.

When you take a close look, you'll find that Hudson, through the use of a new, exclusive "step-down" zone, reclaims so much usually wasted space that this sensationally efficient car gives you more useful interior room than you've ever before experienced in an automobile.

This new kind of motor car has a sturdy foundation structure surrounding the passenger compartment, which permits the floor to be recessed down within the base frame so that you step down when entering. This makes space between frame members, which is usually wasted, available for use inside the car.

Seats can thus be lowered to harmonize with the new, lower top, and by stepping down into Hudson, which is only five feet from ground to top, you get more head room than in any other mass-produced car built today!

And how about seating room? Hudson's new design reclaims space formerly taken up by wheel housings and protruding fenders. This is accomplished by placing rear seats ahead of the rear wheels, in a zone unrestricted by wheel housings. As a result, rear seats are 15 inches wider in this car than in any other mass-produced car built today. Both rear and front seats extend the full width of the body, giving Hudson the roomiest seats in any American-made car! Hudson's use of the "step-down" zone and unique seating arrangements are illustrated in the sketches that follow:

OTHER CARS—Passengers ride on top of a frame, as shown above, and (in the rear seat) between rear wheel housings, which occupy space that should be a part of seating room. Riding on top of a frame means that essential head room must be reduced if the roof is lowered for streamlining.

NEW HUDSON—You ride cradled down within Hudson's base frame, as shown above, and also ahead of the rear wheels. Seats can therefore extend full width of the car. Due to the use of the "step-down" zone, roof is lowered for streamlining, yet ample head room is provided.

The New Hudson even reclaims the unused space in doors by providing gorgeously tailored, recessed compartments; where interior door handles, window cranks, ash receivers, and generous arm rests are placed out of the way to allow increased elbow room for passengers.

This development of Hudson's exclusive, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame with its "step-down" zone required years of engineering work, the perfection of new production techniques and millions of dollars in highly specialized new plant investment. This may be why Hudson, and Hudson alone, offers this important advance today!

"Stepping down" is so important to motor-car beauty, riding qualities and safety—as well as roominess and comfort—that the nearest Hudson dealer has a booklet—yours without obligation—fully explaining this design principle. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

College Institutes Ice Plant Course

A new short course in ice plant operation is being offered for the first time this fall by the Institute of Short Course at Michigan State college. The course was arranged at the request of the Michigan Ice Manufacturers association and will include 6 months of on-campus training conducted principally by the mechanical engineering department. The last half of the year, the students will spend in different ice plants over the state applying their course learning and gaining practical experience. The course will open September 23 and about 25 applicants can be enrolled. The course is similar to others offered at Michigan State college where students spend half their time at the college and the remainder of the year in placement training with industry. Similar courses are now offered in grain elevator management, farm equipment sales and service, forestry practice, nursery and landscaping, commercial floriculture and rural building.

Plymouth's army of duck hunters will be interested in knowing that the curtailed duck hunting season last year and other efforts to increase the wild duck population are producing results. This information comes directly from the U. S. Department of Interior officials who have been making a close study of the situation.

"Waterfowl production has shown some improvement this year, compared to the favorable years of the past, the breeding grounds are still seriously under-populated," Albert M. Day, Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, declared recently as he released a summary of developments on the waterfowl breeding grounds in Canada and the northern United States.

"We hope that the present improvement will still be in evidence not only at the end of the current breeding season but also at the start of next year's nesting." This year's breeding season, which was several weeks late in getting under way is still unfinished.

Mr. Day stated that as the result of excellent cooperation from a number of interested agencies the Service has been able to obtain a clearer picture this year of how ducks and geese are faring on the breeding grounds.

North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Nebraska, for example, joined with the Fish and Wildlife Service in making ground or aerial surveys of breeding grounds within their boundaries.

These surveys were correlated with similar investigations in Canada where the Dominion Wildlife Service, the Provincial Game Branches of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan pooled their manpower and efforts with the Service. Ducks Unlimited and the Wildlife Management Institute also contributed to the pool of information, said Mr. Day.

Reports of dogs chasing deer within a few miles of the Michigan state capital pointed up the problems raised by the expansion of Michigan's deer herd as the conservation commission prepared to discuss deer hunting regulation at Higgins lake.

Archery seasons and the special seasons at Allegan may be set Monday, but territory to be open during the regular season is not likely to be defined before the commission's August meeting.

Encroachment of the expanding deer herd into cultivated farm lands has produced organized protest in Barry and Leelanau counties. Orchardists and sportsmen's clubs at Leelanau have declared for control of the herd that would consider the interests of tourists who like to see deer near the resorts, farmers who don't want them in their orchards, and sportsmen who would like to see their numbers held to what the winter range will support without starvation.

Alarming effects of the increasing demands of a growing human population on the limited supply of natural resources will be stressed in the program of the 14th North American Wildlife Conference, according to the Wildlife Management Institute. Attention will be focused on the most urgent problems facing America today.

No phase of conservation and restoration of natural resources has been omitted from the broad program, which will include discussions by international leaders and qualified experts on subjects ranging from the basic resources of soil and water to the management of their ultimate living products. Wise utilization of all resources will be emphasized in the ten sessions of the three-day meeting to be staged in the nation's capital next March. Never before in history has a greater need existed for a definite evaluation of our present and future policies toward these natural assets.

The entire Conference is being formulated around the central theme: "Today's Problems—Tomorrow's Tragedies?"

Over 50 papers will be selected for presentation in the scheduled sessions that will be held on March 7, 8, and 9, 1949, in the Washington Statler. All papers and the recorded discussions from the floor will be published, as formerly.

The 80th Congress acted on its last bill and departed for home recently, leaving behind it a generally favorable impression in conservation circles, the Wildlife Management Institute reports.

In its 2nd Session the Congress passed the Burke-Wherry Bill, which provides that surplus war lands be turned over to the states for wildlife purposes or to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service "where the land has particular value" for a migratory bird program. This was one of the most important conservation measures to be enacted in years. It makes available to state and federal game agencies millions of acres of excellent wildlife habitat that need only management to maintain them at a high level of production.

In the final days of the session, the Congress passed and sent to the White House a bill containing the largest appropriation ever allocated to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The record budget of nearly $22,000,000 should permit that agency to operate with increased efficiency during the coming fiscal year. The Alaskan game law enforcement section of the Service was strengthened by $50,000 more than the $175,000 of last year. This increase was needed badly because of the rapidly growing population of our northwestern territory. Funds for the maintenance of reservations for mammals and birds and for wildlife investigations also were increased substantially.

The Congress also passed the Taft-Barkley Stream Pollution Control Bill after rephrasing it and striking out some of its most forceful provisions. The bill passed the House in its final form over the protests of Representative Karl Mundt of South Dakota, one of the staunchest Congressional proponents of a strong anti-pollution law. The bill as it stands fails to meet all the demands of conservationists for a good pollution-control law, but it is regarded as a step in the right direction. It places a Federal anti-pollution law on the books where it may be observed in action, and if it fails to check abuses, it may be strengthened with amendments by a future Congress. It at least lays the groundwork for action in cleaning up one of the most unsavory blots on the American scene.

George Todd of Plymouth has been appointed as chairman of the Christmas activities committee for the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1948-49, President Kenneth Heininger of Ann Arbor announces.

He discloses that the state chairmen co-ordinate, assist and promote the activities of the 83 Michigan Jaycee chapters, with their 5,500 members in the various fields of civic service and leadership training.

The Michigan Jaycee, during 1947-49, won the U. S. Jaycee award for the most outstanding state project with its Food for France appeal, Heiminger de-vel;iges; national recognition for its Old Timers project, and the state chapters won 17 national awards in the various fields. The state organization also boasts Paul D. Bagwell, of the Michigan State college faculty, former Lansing and Michigan Jaycee president, as the new U. S. Jaycee president.

PONTIAC
Fine for its Second owner too!
Recently, a large group of used car owners were asked what car they would buy if they were buying new cars today. Those who own used Pontiacs led them all in saying they would buy new cars of the same make they are now driving. In other words—according to this survey—a used Pontiac is more satisfactory to own than any other make of used car. Of course, that could mean only one thing: Pontiac's dependability and long life are outstanding, and Pontiac's fine performance lasts throughout the years. There could be no finer endorsement of a new car than this—and we trust you won't forget it when you order your own next car. Remember, too, Pontiac is the lowest priced car in the world offering GM Hydra-Matic Drive—a tremendous advance in better motoring. It's wise to choose a Pontiac—a car so fine that even its second owner is sure to like it.
*General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive and White Sidewall Tires optional at additional cost.
