PTA Plans Drive for Membership

Central Grade school students will soon be undertaking the task of enlarging the membership in the Central PTA by each personally soliciting their parents.

The membership drive begins next Monday, October 4, and will continue throughout the week.

An official of the organization voices a hope that there will be a record membership this year, for, as she continued, "the teachers and children need your support and cooperation to help meet the many school problems and maintain the same high standards of education that have been prevalent in the past."

"Each parent's membership in the PTA gives the school a sense of security and promotes a feeling of good will and loyalty toward the public school system," the same official added.

"Many timely problems need to be solved and through the PTA, information concerning them will be disclosed."

The club spokesman concluded the plea with an announcement that meetings are held the fourth Tuesday of each month.

City is Planning Fund Investment

City Manager Harold Cheek has been authorized by city commissioners to invest capital improvement and operational funds, over and above current needs, in U. S. Treasury certificates.

The bonds, the manager pointed out, are negotiable and may be cashed within 48 hours notice. The interest they accumulate totals approximately one and one-eighth percent.

The city manager was previously instructed to invest the water works improvement funds in a similar way.

Observe 61st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Farrand

Two long-time residents of Plymouth observed their 61st year of marriage last Saturday.

They are Mr. and Mrs. William Farrand of Ann Arbor trail who repeated their nuptials during a Plymouth ceremony on September 25, in the year 1887.

Countless friends presented the couple with wedding cake, replicas and their family gathered at the Farrand home for a quiet observance of the occasion.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Farrand are 81 years old, and both have spent nearly all their lives in this immediate vicinity. Mrs. Farrand, the former Anna Rucker, lived here prior to their wedding, and Mr. Farrand was from Inkster. He had always worked around Plymouth, however, and following their marriage, made their home here.

For years Mr. Farrand had a milk route here, and he says that it was in the days when the customers used to meet the milk wagon with their own quart containers for him to fill. Following this venture, Mr. Farrand went into the Greenhouse business on East Ann Arbor trail. Until three years ago, when he retired because of his health, he was employed at Sullivan's greenhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrand are the parents of three daughters who with their families, joined them last Saturday for the celebration of their 61st anniversary. They are: Mrs. Bartrum Coverdill; Miss Helen Farrand, a teacher at Starkweather school; and Mrs. Bertha Tiffin, who lives at the home of her parents.

Dog Quarantine Expires Today

Expiration of the dog quarantine in Plymouth occurs today, Friday, Police Chief Lee Sackett states.

Although the county-wide quarantine was terminated on September 1, he explained, city ordinance No. 116 extended the date of the local control until October 1. Particular stress was laid on last month's enforcement, due to a number of rabid dogs discovered in this area.

With the conclusion of the quarantine period, vaccinated and licensed dogs may now run at large, Chief Sackett continued. Those found to be unlicensed and unvaccinated, however, will be picked up and impounded or disposed of if found loose, he emphasized.

What I Think and Have A Right to Say

the back of programs and other types of printed matter that are read by an exceedingly small number of people.

It has come to the attention of some of the business men in recent weeks that an effort will again be made to restore this practice which was terminated in Plymouth a number of years ago.

Those who are sponsoring the idea should realize that when they ask a few dollars for this type of useless advertising that the merchant looks upon it simply as a "sand-bag" method of collecting money. When they are forced to donate to this worthless type of advertising in order not to offend any one, the promoters know that they are simply taking money away from the business men that would ordinarily find its way into some worthy charitable or religious cause. These schemes are ordinarily an easy type of money grabbing that should not be revived under any pretext.

In fact these collections are nothing more than a tax upon a business man that he should not be forced to pay. We should not permit this method of getting money for nothing to be revived in Plymouth. It is a tax the community business men cannot and should not be forced to carry.

to check their homes, and do what they can about needed corrections. Posters reminding residents of the week's observance will also be placed around the city in conspicuous places.

In listing the more prevalent fire hazards which are the chief causes of fire, Chief McAllister stated that some of the first are worn electric cords and defective flat irons. He named faulty furnace pipes and flues as another, and asked all residents to have them repaired at once.

"Matches must be kept in metal containers and away from small children," he continued, "and rubbish piles in the cellar, attic, and closet should be cleaned up today."

His further listing included careless disposal of cigarettes. Gasoline and kerosene, he added, should never be used in the home for any purpose.

Inflammable wooden shingles should be replaced now with fire retardant roofing. Chief McAllister stated, and wooden ash baskets and barrels are another cause of fire. Put ashes in covered metal cans, he added.

In conclusion the fire chief asked the cooperation of Plymouth residents in the carrying out of fire prevention program in the city. "This is the only way we can cut down our fire loss."

Chief Lee Sackett states that there have been several recent cases in which bikes have been ridden away, and later found dumped.

He asks that bike owners keep a close check on their vehicle, and lock them before leaving.

City commissioners have asked that City Manager Harold Cheek obtain a reputable tree firm to administer needed care to the memorial elms in Central park.

They are reportedly in poor condition, badly in need of feeding and trimming.

These trees, it was pointed out, were planted in honor of Plymouth men who lost their lives during the first world war. Of the nine originally planted, seven remain.

Edison Official Will Retire

of Plymouth's electrical program stands out vividly in the memory of Mr. Hubbell. Acting in the capacity of city treasurer, he was the one who received the Edison company's $50,000 check for the purchase. The check, he whimsically related, was presented to him after the banks had closed for the day, and this he remembers presented him with a monstrous problem. What could he do with it? After eliminating all other possibilities, he finally decided to take the money home with him. That night he had the rare opportunity to sleep on $50,000, after having resolved that the only safety spot he could find was under his pillow. First thing the next morning, the money went in the bank.

A need for expansion of the facilities soon came with the advancement and development of electricity and electrical appliances, Mr. Hubbell explained. To help solve this problem, the building presently occupied by the Detroit Edison company was constructed in 1917. Since that time, also, the number of meters in the Plymouth division was increased almost seven times, until today 5,500 meters are served by this company.

In way of comparing the amount of electricity used now with the amount used 33 years ago, Mr. Hubbell reports that one factory in Plymouth now uses as much electric power in one day as the entire area served by the organization consumed then.

A lot of electricity has passed through the meters in Plymouth during the past 33 years, and Mr. Hubbell has done his share in keeping the lights burning and the motors running. Now at his retirement as senior clerk he plans to take life easy and more actively pursue his hobbies of wood working and weaving at his home here.

A celebration in honor of Mr. Hubbell has been planned by his fellow employees for this evening, Friday. They will meet for the event at the American Legion building in Wayne.

these enrollments as excessive, but points out that there has been a slight improvement over last year's situation, which included classes with enrollments as high as 45 children to the classroom. Such class loads, he warns, make effective instruction by the classroom teacher impossible.

The Baptist school addition is reportedly alleviating the situation somewhat, but all the rooms are nevertheless filled.

Both Mr. Nelson and Mr. Johnson voiced the belief that at the present rate of growth, Plymouth schools will definitely have to expand, in spite of the two parochial buildings being built in the city.

Roy Rogers and Trigger." The pleased young boy could hardly contain himself.

Mr. Curtis tells that just before they left, young Georgie had one more thing to say, so he cocked a finger at Roy who bent over, and allowed the boy to whisper, "I've seen you in the movies too." At this his hero broke out in appreciative laughter and kindly expressed his thanks, concluding a few minutes' visit which will forever stand out in Georgie's memory.

Dependent on the number of people who will need the use of them, the machines will be allowed to remain with the patient for a period of two to four weeks, together with a number of the micro-film books on any subject the patient may desire.

The Lions club already has purchased a projector and a number of the micro-film books for demonstration purposes. Individuals or groups who are interested in a practical display of the plan may arrange to view the projector in operation by notifying Lion Herb Swanson at 490 or Lion Ward Jones at 198-J, both of whom have assumed the work of arranging such demonstrations.

Lion Max Todd, who has been appointed to head up the drive for funds, wishes to point out that it is the aim of the Lions club to secure the amount required by popular subscription, insofar as possible, without the necessity of personal solicitation. However, should voluntary subscriptions fall below the goal of $2500, members of the club will begin to contact the citizens of the community in an effort to make up the balance. In Todd's opinion, the only barrier to securing the funds by popular subscription will lay in the fact that the program is entirely new to the people of Plymouth, both in the knowledge of operation of the ceiling projector and the vast morale-building value to the bedfast patients who will require them. It is with this in mind that the Lions club is eager to arrange demonstrations to various civic, fraternal or church groups in an effort to incite and enlist their support.

 Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"
ARTIST OVERCOMES TREMENDOUS HANDICAP

If you are discouraged over your lot, I hope the following story will encourage and inspire you. It is about a man on the other side of the ocean, in Czechoslovakia. His name is Carl Fisher. During the latter days of the war a bomb burst near him. He was between forty and forty-five years old and he had been successful in his line, a line in which his hands were essential—drawing, caricaturing.

That bomb-bursting resulted in his hands being injured beyond use. He spent weeks in the hospital, nerve-wracking, despondent weeks. Middle-aged, how could he hope to start all over again at some other work—and give up the work he loved? What could he do with his life, anyway? And he had a wife and a young son to support. If he could only die! His wife could re-marry, and there would be someone to care for her and his child.

Then one day a friend came to see him, another artist. Naturally their conversation ran to their work, for most artists tie up everything with their art. Said this friend, "Raphael was so much an artist that he would have found some way to paint even though with his toes."

After the friend had gone, Carl thought over that remark. He, too, would find a way, though not with his toes. He took his brush between his lips and drew a picture. Not very good. He drew another, and another, and another. Each one showed a slight improvement over the other, even though very slight.

He worked for weeks, painstaking practice, before he finally turned out some that the critics said were "good." But by and by they prophesied that one day Carl Fisher would be among the best illustrators of Europe.

If you are discouraged, and this doesn't hearten you, there's something radically wrong with your mental attitude, for the chances are few who read this have such a terrific handicap to overcome as did Carl Fisher.

FROM THE PLYMOUTH MAIL FILES

The Plymouth Public schools are badly congested with practically no way to relieve the congestion except through building. It is an accepted fact by all authorities on the school administration that the largest number which should be placed in any lower grade room is 40. It would seem practical at this time to construct a ward school north of the P. M. tracks, in order that the same might be available at the beginning of school in 1924.

Dorothy Dibble, Gladys Schrader and Marion Kiehl began their studies at the University of Michigan this week.

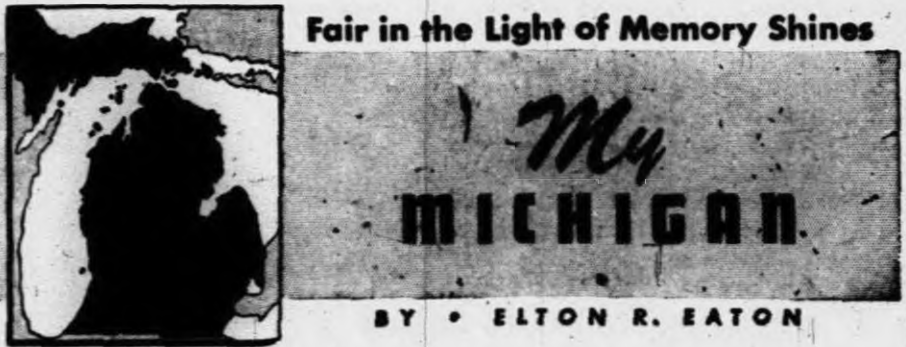

Starting October 3 and 4, there will be five shows a week at the Penniman Allen theater. The picture for Sunday will be shown again on Monday, and the picture on Wednesday, will also be shown on Thursday. Saturday night picture, one night only.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sutherland and Mrs. Merle Roerbach were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Voyle Becker of Fenton.

Mrs. Hugh Sutherland of Embro, and daughter of Toronto, Canada, spent a few days last week at the homes of William Sutherland and Robert Mimmack.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sutherland and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parrott, the Misses Whaley and Pearl and Winifred Jolliffe were in attendance at the M. E. conference in Detroit, Sunday.

Remember that news item which came out of the Upper Peninsula early last summer which told of a little girl being killed by a bear?

Remember that the "experts" said that it was a most uncommon thing for a bear to attack a human being—that they made tests to see if the bear was suffering from rabies? They found that it was perfectly normal in every way—and left no answer as to why it had killed and partly devoured a little girl.

Wild life experts haven't provided a satisfactory answer to this strange conduct of a Michigan bear, but northern Michigan residents have.

In a letter to "My Michigan" column from Mrs. Carol Hammon Wieland of Brimley, Michigan, a former Plymouth resident, a very logical answer has been provided.

Every one who knows anything about Michigan bears know that they live almost entirely on wild fruits and berries that grow in nearly all parts of northern Michigan. Seldom does a bear ever eat meat. It will rob a kitchen of bacon and the like, and once in a while kill a lamb, which is rarely if ever devoured.

Week Proclaimed for Letter Writing

Plymouth's post office will join in the department's annual observance of National Letter Writing Week, which this year is slated for October 17-23, according to the assistant postmaster, Mrs. Beatrice Schultz.

Mrs. Schultz adds that the slogan this year is "Write Today—Make Someone Happy!", and urges that all Plymouth residents work to make it a "great success and bring pleasure and happiness to millions of people everywhere through letters which keep folks in touch with their old friends and neighbors and maintain home ties."

A pamphlet sent out by the United States Post Office department reports that "There's genuine happiness in keeping track of folks through letters—hearing what they're doing, exchanging confidences and news and encouragement. They keep friendships alive, span the long miles and years; they're the mortar that holds families together, the links to home when people are scattered to the ends of the earth."

The bulk of the pamphlet is written as an appeal from a mail carrier who tells that "This job isn't so dull or burdensome that I can't sense how glad people are when they reach for the letters I hand them. You get to thinking a lot about personal letters when you know how much happiness they bring, or how much disappointment can be caused by letters that never get written."

"And when you write a letter," he continues, "whether you're expressing sympathy or congratulations, or just sending along a little gossip news, the way I figure it you're involving yourself in a pretty decent kind of fellowship. You're not just a lone soul any more. Maybe I'm stretching this idea a bit too far, but I figure when you write a letter, you're a little bit of the brotherhood of man, maybe; you're thinking of others—and doing something about it. You belong!"

Those who live in the neighborhood of where the little girl was killed, are now fully convinced that the bear was one that had been held in captivity and then for some reason turned loose in the woods. Apparently while caged up it had been fed food unnatural to bears, meats, etc.

When it was released it did not know how to find its natural food in the woods. Becoming desperately hungry, it was but natural for it to do the unusual thing, attack a human being, although bears generally turn and run when they scent a person.

Upper Peninsula residents are sure that this is the true story as to the reason for the bear's attack upon the little girl.

Mrs. Wieland asserts that not only are northern Michigan residents hostile over what appears to be a most thoughtless thing for someone to do, but that they are amazed at how gruesome some people can be. The home of the bear's victim is only a few miles from Elmer's Place, the hunting and tourist camp operated by the Wielands near Brimley. The letter states that souvenir hunters have even torn boards off the home of the parents of the little girl. Others have expressed a wish to have their pictures taken holding the gun that was used to kill the bear.

There isn't much question but what Mrs. Wieland has revealed the real reason as to why a Michigan bear, which is usually afraid of a person, killed the girl. When in captivity it had become accustomed to the scent of a human being, and was not afraid to venture to the cabin where the little girl lived with her parents.

Michigan State Normal college, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jackson of Chicago, were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, a few days last week.

About six o'clock last Sunday morning, the fire department was called to the residence of Ormel King on North Mill street where a fire originating from a gasoline stove caused a serious blaze. The rear of the dwelling was practically destroyed by the flames. The loss will reach several thousand dollars.

At 3:45 Tuesday, the freshmen held their first class meeting. The following officers were elected: Edwin Schrader, president; Wilbur Murphy, vice-president; Alice Hathaway, secretary and treasurer. A committee was appointed to select the class colors and motto. The patronesses are Miss Streng and Miss Kenney.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morgan and Loretta and Mrs. George Burrell and Miss Lucy Burrell of East Michigan avenue, motored to Rossford, Ohio, Sunday, and visited Charles Burrell and family.

Cattle testers have about finished work in Superior, and generally speaking have found the herds in a healthy condition, although a few have lost all or nearly all their herds.

The recent hard rains have delayed silo filling quite a bit, and made corn fields very soft in which to use a binder.

Miss Harriett Casterline of Flint, and Russell Parre of Wayne spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith. Miss Casterline left for the State Normal at Ypsilanti, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rorabacher and daughter, Mildred, and Louis Werner of Detroit motored out, Sunday, and spent the day at Guy Rorabacher's.

Plan for Checking Points Announced

Leaders' club members have announced that they are checking points every noon except Tuesday.

Verna Rice, a member of the Leaders' club executive board, is the captain of the point checkers with Beverly Balsley, Pat Zink, Nancy Mastick, Jane Pierce and Aline Burns as assistants.

Points may be earned in this manner: scholarship points will be given when the credit slip or card is presented; school games, dances, and playground assistance are counted as school points; members holding positions in Leaders' club receive points; physical examinations for gymnasium will be counted; class sports after school and championships will be included. All these points may be earned in school.

Outside activities including all sports, cheerleading, hikes and night recreation are counted. For any one outside activity only 100 points may be earned in any one year. Hours may be carried over by point checkers to the next year if nine or more hours in any sport have been earned.

A girl must have earned one half of her points under school supervision. Five hundred points are needed for a chevron and 1000 for a letter. In the senior year a senior letter may be earned by presenting an additional 500 points.
