PLYMOUTH'S GROWTH.

Final census returns given out in Detroit show that the city of Plymouth's population increased considerably more than a thousand during the past ten years. While there have been statements that the local census taking was a somewhat slipshod affair and a number of residents were not called upon, we believe that on the whole the count is a fairly accurate one.

So Plymouth is now a city of 6,649 residents instead of a city of 5,360 people.

That is an exceptionally good growth—one that we can be proud of. We should remember that our city limits have been bulging at the edges for a number of years and that there are very many of our good citizens who live just "over the line" in Plymouth township. While they rightly belong in a city count, the city limits make that an impossibility.

Northville, which in the old days was a keen rival of Plymouth, enjoyed a gain, too, but it was not as emphatic as that of Plymouth. We can pat ourselves on the back for being so favorably located for industrial plants. It is this industrial expansion in the area as well as the growth of the Daisy Manufacturing company and other local industries which accounts for the most satisfactory population gain that Plymouth has made during the past ten years. May the next ten years be as satisfactory as were the past ten years.

LET'S GIVE HIM EVERY VOTE.

It was good news the other day to learn that George A. Smith who for more than a quarter of a century was superintendent of the Plymouth public schools, had filed petitions qualifying him as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the state legislature from this district.

We do not know, in all of Michigan, a better qualified candidate for a place in the legislature than George A. Smith. He has been not only an outstanding school official, but he has been one of the most public spirited citizens this or any other community ever had.

Left an orphan when a small child, he became a state ward and was placed in the state school at Coldwater for homeless boys and girls.

Determined to make for himself a place in this world, the school found for him a place on a farm when he was big enough to work, where he could earn his board and a few extra dollars. He worked his way through high school, then the Michigan State Normal and later was awarded educational degrees by Michigan's great University at Ann Arbor.

Deciding to enter educational work, he climbed rapidly to an outstanding position in Michigan educational circles. Possibly it was because fate had deprived him of all family ties when a small boy that he took such a keen interest in the welfare of every boy and girl in the schools over which he presided. In all of our years of experience in Michigan, the writer has never known a school instructor who displayed a keener interest in the welfare of every school boy and girl than George A. Smith.

Most of these boys and girls are now the citizens of this section of Wayne county. As we see it here is a golden opportunity for them to repay in a small way the hours, days, weeks and months that George A. Smith gave of his spare time to their education and training for the days of manhood and womanhood.

No matter to what party you belong, every student who went to school to George A. Smith and now residing in this district can in a small way repay to a very worthy citizen a part of the priceless debt they owe him.

Let's decide NOW to see to it that Mr. Smith receives EVERY vote that is cast in Plymouth and vicinity in the forthcoming election for the state position he seeks. Not only should we put forth this effort at home, but we can do much throughout this legislative district to help him. He has, through his devoted public service, especially to young people won the undivided support of every citizen in this district. And if he is successful in both the primary and final elections, which we predict he will be, he will make a legislative record we will all be proud to acclaim.

A "MORAL RIGHT" UNDER THE FAIR DEAL.

"Mr. Farmer—Sell your corn to the Government for $1.48; store it right on your farm; then buy your corn to feed for 65c."

When this ad by a corncrib manufacturer appeared in a country newspaper, the "Farm Quarterly" figured that many farmers would ask: "Can I really get away with that?" In its spring issue last week, the "Quarterly" assured U. S. farmers that the ad had suggested a perfectly legal way for farmers to sell their corn and have it too—and make as much as 83c a bushel into the bargain.

The "Quarterly" cited the case of a Jefferson County (Ind.) farmer who normally uses all of his corn for feed. He had such a bumper crop in 1948 that he cribbed his 904-bushel surplus, put it under Government seal in 1949 and got a $1,319 loan at the $1.47-a-bushel support price less charges. Then a neighbor told him he was a fool; he could put his entire crop under loan at the support price, then buy all the corn he needed for feed at 65c a bushel in the cash market. In short, by selling all of his own corn to the Government and buying in the open market what he needed for feed, the farmer could make an extra 50c to 80c on every bushel fed to his pigs and chickens.

The farmer then asked his local Department of Agriculture agent more about it. "He told me that I would be within my legal and moral rights to do this," said the farmer. "By keeping all my own corn off the market and buying corn (on the market), I would be building up the price, which was just what the whole program was designed to do."

THEY ARE BEGINNING TO FIND OUT.

Some weeks ago there was a bit of comment in this column pertaining to the increasing difficulty of a man over 45 years of age in securing a job. All of this striking business about pensions, security and other "advantages", it seems, is mighty fine for the young fellow who because of job switching may never get any of the benefits for which there is so much agitation, but it's mighty tough on the job seeker who has passed his 40th birthday.

Living in a highly industrial center, we hear more about this subject than possibly others do. We were impressed a few mornings ago when in reading a Washington article written by Edwin Lahey that was published in The Detroit Free Press, in which he made much of the same kind of comment we did weeks ago.

He published data provided by the Census Bureau to support the contention that men who are beyond the age of 45 are finding it almost impossible to secure jobs. In fact they just cannot get jobs in industries which have become fully covered by these so-called benefits. Lahey reports that there is only one official in the Truman administration who is alarmed over this situation. He further declares that if there is anything ever done to help out the worker who is 45 years of age or older and out of a job, the leadership to bring it about will apparently have to come from OUTSIDE the present administration in Washington. So if you are 45 years of age or older, you'd better move with exceptional care—unless you have no objection to becoming a "client."

Plymouth's 4th Celebration Outstanding

Happiest Merchants in Town Congratulate Mayor on Completion of Street Paving

"It seemed like ten years but we extend our thanks to you in helping us get the job done," says Cloverdale's Herman Bakhaus shaking hands with Mayor Cass S. Hough. Grouped in the scene of the opening event of Forest avenue are all of the merchants of the street with the exception of George Milosch, owner of Better Home Appliances. The official opening of the street took place Monday night under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and members of the local Optimist club who held a talent show and a street dance on the new paving to celebrate the opening of the city's newest business area. From left to right in the picture are Bob Joly of the Forest Motor Sales, Herman Bakhaus, Optimist William Aluia, Optimist Charles Finlan, Mayor Cass Hough, Gulf Products Dealer Herbert Swanson, Joe West and Earl West of West Brothers, Harold D. Tuck of the Laundromat, R. G. Lorenz, general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce holiday celebration, Bill West of West Brothers, Jay Rucker of Stop and Shop, Tom Notebaert of Forest Motor Sales, and Optimists Richard Gray, Robert Minnock and William Eger.

Celebration High-Lights

The fireworks display, last feature of Plymouth's outstanding Fourth celebration, drew an immense crowd. The display proved the big feature of the celebration. Never before has there even been packed on the high school athletic field such a big crowd.

It would appear that there was a plentiful supply of bootlegger firecrackers in Plymouth, judging from the free use of them noticed on the streets.

Red-headed Jimmie Archer was the lucky winner of the pony and saddle. He is the son of Robert Archer of Roe street. Walter Griffiths of Gilbert won the bicycle which was readily turned over to his daughter, Gayle. Patricia Rensel, daughter of Walter Rensel of Dewey street, had the winning ticket for the cowboy boots. All prizes were donated by the Chamber of Commerce.

Nearly Drowns When Boat Upsets

James Winterhalter of North Main street had a close call June 27 when a boat in which he and two friends were fishing tipped over in Lake St. Clair. He and his friends from the Socony-Vacuum company started to swim for shore but one, Art Kesselring of Holly, was drowned.

The outboard motor on the boat stalled and as Kesselring tried to start it again the boat overturned. Winterhalter swam as far as a pier but was too exhausted to climb ashore. Friends heard his shouts and helped him to shore, then set out in boats to aid his companions. Kesselring's body was found floating further out in the lake.

George A. Smith Enters Race For Legislature

Aiding him will be citizens from all of the various townships, cities and villages in the district. Those who know Mr. (Continued on page 6)

Build Two New Stores on Forest

The growing Forest avenue business district will have two more modern stores in the near future. Gould and Moss, Architects and Engineers, started drawings Monday for the stores which are being built by Harry Speyer of Detroit.

The building will be constructed south of the Cloverdale Dairy and one will be leased to a jeweler. The drawings for the new Kroger store have been completed by Gould and Moss and will be submitted for approval this week.

Home building in Plymouth continues at a fast pace. Permits for 23 new homes have been taken out since March. Seven permits were taken out by the Garling Construction company. Cost of the Garling homes is in the $6500-$7500 bracket and are four or five room homes. Most of them are brick veneer or frame homes.

William Felbig is building three homes, two brick veneer and one frame. They are on Harvey, Adams and Park Place. Martin Jones received a permit for a two-unit home on Junction street.

A $7500 home on Harvey, a $16,000 home on Irvin, and a $10,400 home on Sunset is being built by Dan Mills. Other homes under construction average $10,000 and most of them are being built in the south and west sections of the city.

EXTENDS THANKS

Ray Williams, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has asked The Mail to extend his thanks to all who contributed to the success of the 4th of July celebration.

Frozen Special Gives New Owner Warm Welcome

Pleased expressions on the faces of customers leaving Community Pharmacy last Saturday were probably caused by portions of the 165 banana splits, 35 sundaes, 66 sodas, 44 half gallons of ice cream and over 100 cones sold during the store's one-day Grand Opening ice cream special.

C. C. "Pat" Wiltsie, new owner of the drug store, reports that his crew of 11 were kept busy all day taking care of the hundreds of customers who helped celebrate the occasion. Twenty gallons of ice cream were given away at the event and Margiea Roy Row was on hand to prepare a few stunts for the crowds. Six baskets of flowers from well-wishers were sent to Pat.

Pat purchased the store in the spring from John Blichenshaft.

City's Traffic Record Spoiled

Although Plymouth over the Fourth experienced the heaviest traffic that ever flowed over the streets of the city, there was not a single accident and only one slight traffic mishap within the city limits.

While the nation and Michigan counted the greatest number of fatal accidents in the history of the country, this city, can't even count one dented fender received in traffic over the Fourth holiday. (Continued on page 6)

Rotary Officers Take Over Duties

Robert Willoughby will officially take over the duties of president at the Rotary club luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Hotel Mayflower. New Rotary officers, elected in April, take office at the beginning of the Rotary year July 1.

Willoughby succeeds Frank Henderson as head of the club. Under Henderson's direction Rotary concludes another very successful year.

Other Rotary officers are held by Homer Johnson, vice president; David Mather, treasurer; and Everett Jolliffe, secretary.

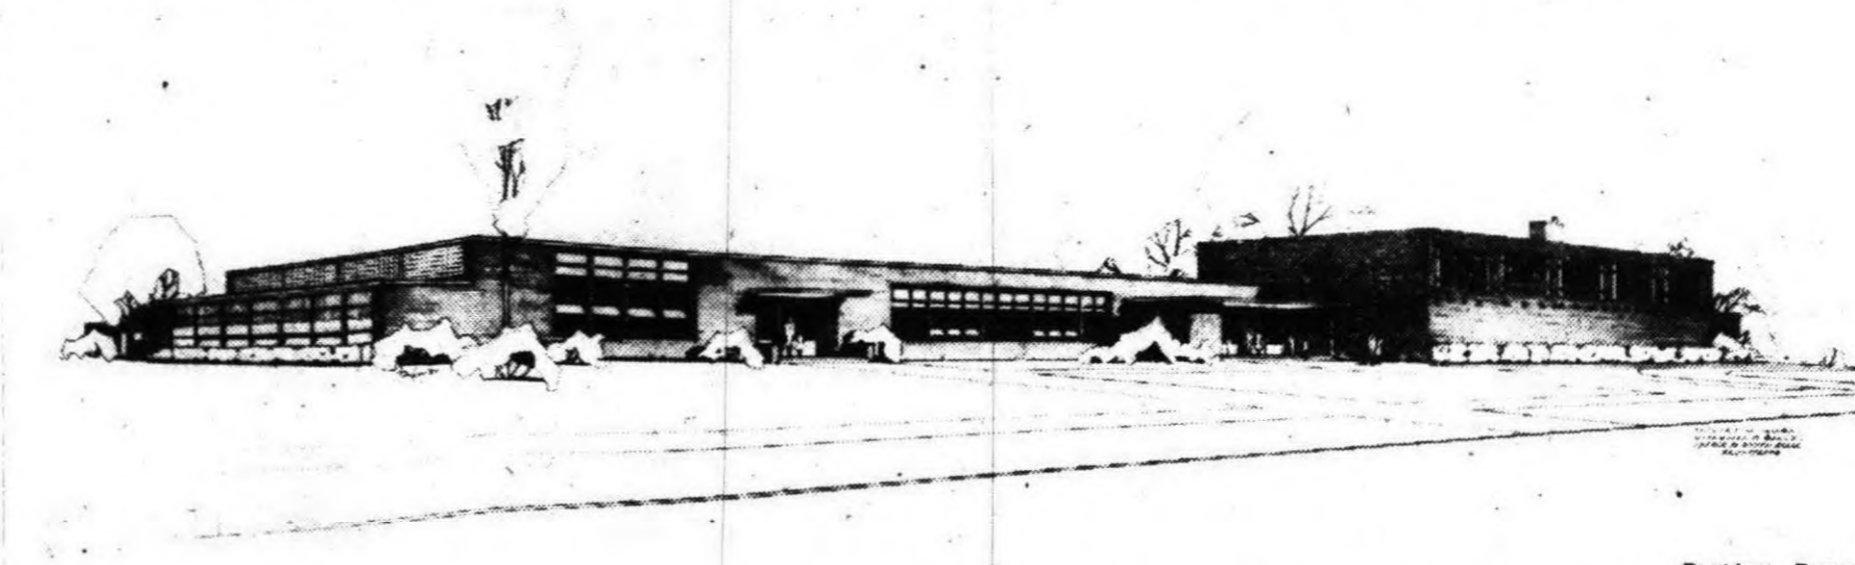

3 Admit Theft at Stop and Shop

Three men who broke into the Stop and Shop market on Forest avenue February 13 were apprehended in Detroit last week. Detroit police say their names are Joseph Sewast, Walter Duda and William J. Smith, all of Detroit.

Held on charges of safe cracking, breaking and entering and burglary, the three admitted taking several hundred dollars worth of cigarettes from the Plymouth store.

Two Detroit youths, Joe Johnson and Charles Oxidine, who were picked up by the Wayne county sheriff's detective bureau Monday on a breaking and entering charge, admitted the theft of the convertible owned by Jay Rucker, manager of Stop and Shop. The car was stolen from the rear of the store last February.

Artist's Conception of New School Now Under Construction.....

Pictured above is the artist's sketch of the Nellie Bird Elementary school which is scheduled for completion next February. Construction was started on the school following ground breaking ceremonies two weeks ago. The 13 room school is named in honor of Mrs. Nellie Bird, principal of Central Elementary school who retired in June. She has been a teacher in Plymouth for 32 years. The board of education purchased the Winston Cooper property at the corner of Ann Arbor trail and Sheldon road in May for the new school. The 12 acre site provides ample room for expansion. The site was chosen because it will serve residents in the growing section of the township south of the city.

Thousands Here For Two Day Event

Crowds, Entertainment Exceed Expectations of Committee Members—Everyone Pleased

To the everlasting credit of those who worked out the details and carried through the plans for Plymouth's two day Fourth of July celebration, this city can claim credit for providing thousands of people one of the most enjoyable Fourth celebrations held in the state of Michigan.

The Monday evening program, which included the formal opening of the new paving on Forest street, a talent show, a street dance and as good an auto show as one would desire to see—under the sponsorship and direction of the Optimist club—brought praise and commendation from the thousands who enjoyed the evening's program before rain brought an end to the night's activities.

The parade on the morning of the Fourth was probably one of the best ever staged in Plymouth. To say that at least 6,000 people witnessed the event is doubtless an understatement as to the actual number who lined Main street from the Mayflower hotel to Farmer avenue to see the hour long parade.

While hundreds, during the afternoon visited the auto show to see the display of new cars, the opening of the Fourth celebration did not take place until 7 o'clock when Mayor Cass Hough, accompanied by other city officials, cut the ribbon which formally opened Forest avenue to traffic and the highly commendable program of the evening.

The talent show for children and young people was an outstanding event. If anyone has an idea that there is not plenty of exceptional talent in Plymouth the thought would have changed immediately if they had witnessed the high class entertainment provided by the youngsters.

To little Sharon Strong who danced and sang, went first honors in the children's division. Twelve-year-old Pat Nolan, as a black-faced entertainer, was awarded second honors and third place went to Joan and Joan Steinhoff, who did a tap dance and a song.

Others who competed in the class under 13 years of age and showed excellent talent were Martha Bernash, Carol Stratton, Judy Lamy, Joan Eberpole, Shirley Andrews, Barbara Baskins, Roberta Lidgard and Patricia Gronowick.

In the group over 13 years of age, the winners were James Hizzel, a young baritone singer, in first place; three youths, John Britcher, Lee King and Gale Mills, known as the "Sons of Plymouth" were given second place for their western songs, and third place went to Marjorie Thomas, a young miss with a beautiful voice.

Pauline Gust Wed Saturday in Wayne Church

A reception for 175 guests at the Newburg Methodist hall on Saturday evening, July 1, honored newly weds Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Theodore Manilla. Before her marriage, Mrs. Manilla was Pauline Gust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gust of Warren road. The bridegroom is a Detroit.

The couple exchanged their nuptial vows in a double ring ceremony preceding the reception at St. John's Lutheran church in Wayne.

Decorations for the 7 o'clock wedding included baskets of white gladioli and Madonna lilies and lighted tapers.

Three tiers of white lace formed the bouffant skirt of the bridal gown. The fitted bodice was designed with a V-shaped neckline and cap sleeves. The bride wore a fingertip veil which fell from a headpiece of braided net. She also wore an heirloom gold locket belonging to her grandmother. Her bouquet of white roses was centered by an orchid.

For her duties as maid of honor or the bride's sister, Phila Gust, chose a gown of blue lace styled along the same lines as the bride's gown. Miss Gust wore lace gauntlets and carried a bouquet of red roses. Her headpiece was a coronet of red roses.

Rose petals were dropped down the aisle by the flower girl, Linda Howcroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howcroft of Warren road. She was gowned in pink marquisette.

The bridegroom asked Russell Myers to serve as best man. Mrs. Gust donned a navy blue dress for her daughter's wedding. White accessories and a corsage of red roses completed her ensemble.

After honeymooning in Northern Michigan, Miss and Mrs. Manilla will make their home in Detroit.

Ford Trucks Take Economy Test

This week the Ford Motor company and Ford dealers are launching the nation-wide Ford Truck Economy Run, a comprehensive truck operating study that will cover a six month period ending December 31, 1950, according to Post T. Wiedman, Inc., local Ford dealer.

The Ford Economy Run will include thousands of Ford truck owners all over the country who keep complete day-to-day records of their actual truck operations, including every mile traveled, every load hauled, every gallon of gas and oil consumed and total repairs and maintenance.

John M. Campbell Plumbing and Heating and Perry Campbell of the Jersey Belle Dairy will be Plymouth's entries in the study. The plumbing company's F-1 panel truck and the dairy's F-4 dairy truck can be identified by the orange and black shields which will be mounted on all trucks throughout the nation that are participating in the Run.

The study will possibly reveal interesting facts and figures as to what models and equipment items are best suited to specific types of duty and perhaps may indicate the need for additional new truck models.

Reviews "Service Is My Business" at Rotary Club

"Vocational service is the heart of Rotary," commented Rotarian George A. Smith in his review of the book "Service Is My Business" by Percy Hodgson. The review was presented at the Rotary club luncheon meeting last Friday at the Hotel Mayflower.

The purpose of the book, Smith stated, is to do away with any vague, intangible ideas and by a series of illustrations make clear that man's vocation is not only his way of earning a living but his way of rendering service to society.

In bringing out the highlights of the book, the reviewer remarked that in these days of keen competition, high "ethical principles" or "codes of ethics" are necessary to prevent cut throat competition.

According to the author, great advances have been made in advertising, buying and selling. Advertising today is, in general, "dignified and true." A salesman is a service man. Every buyer wants to make his own decision, and only needs true information from the salesman.

In explaining how the book applies to the individual Rotarian and to service clubs in general, Smith said vocations are considered opportunity for service and "modern guilds" are expressing the same spirit. "In Rotary clubs the size of Plymouth's, 69 percent of members belong to national associations of their business, trade or profession and 48 percent to state associations. This I believe, accounts for the fine codes of ethics in industrial, professional and business guilds," the speaker added.

In labor-management relations the idea of service to society, accepted by both employer and employee, is slowly leading to peace and justice in industry. Honesty is an enlarging factor in industry, business and professions. "Is it true?" is the energizing force in service to society.

One hundred years ago labor worked twice as many hours per week for one-tenth of their present wages. At that time manufacturers had $557 invested for each worker he employed—today he has $7000 invested.

As "service to society" is more realized, our communities will have more goods to use, and greater happiness because of economic cooperation and justice, Smith concluded.

Cutting of the forests, exposing the lands to eroding rains—overgrazing of the grasslands—and consequent erosion—blocking of the ditches—all are causes of the wrecks of civilization since the beginning of history.

There are evidences that the grazing of the cattle, sheep and goats of the nomads first destroyed the rich agriculture of the land—then the civilization of the country.

Appreciation Works Wonders
G. M. WILES, New York City, told me a story the other day about his sister who unwittingly used the most valuable technique in accomplishing her aim. No doubt you, too, have unwittingly used just the right method in persuading someone to do what you want done. Often, intuition or instinct prompts the right method.

Miss Wiles is on the staff of the fine arts department of the University of Chicago. Among her duties is that of staging exhibits. But she doesn't always find exactly what she wants for her exhibits, nor can she always persuade the owner to let her have the art she wants when she does find it.

This was the case this year. She wanted to build her exhibit around three unusual pieces of sculpture. The university owned copies of all three of these pieces, but a copy isn't the same thing as an original and it would lend ever so much more importance to the exhibit to display originals.

The sculptor is an elderly man, and no doubt over the course of years had not found it wise to let his originals be on exhibit. Or so it would seem, for he didn't take kindly to the request.

But Miss Wiles has that all-important trait, perseverance. She decided to go to see the artist in person, so she went all the way to Detroit, and arriving there made an appointment with the artist. Before the interview, she was shown through the artist's studio and was thrilled by what she saw. Finally came the moment for her "five-minute" interview.

Five minutes? Why, that interview lasted two hours, with the result that the three pieces of sculpture she wanted were loaned to her, and the artist himself appeared on opening day with three of his friends. Maybe that wasn't a triumph for Miss Wiles!

What had she done? She had evidenced genuine interest in that artist's work; she had been a good listener and had encouraged him to talk about his work. That was all. And that was enough! Appreciation works wonders, miracles.

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers and are famous preservers of youthful looks. Charm is a fragile and delicate plant. It can be prolonged by careful nursing, but not for too long. Reno can testify to this.

The world stands aside to let pass anyone who knows where he is going.

Directs School of Sacred Music

Dr. Nellie Huger Ebersole, a former Plymouth resident, will be in charge of music again this year at Waldenwoods School of Sacred Music when the school opens its 20th session July 16.

Dr. Ebersole grew up in Plymouth, graduated from Plymouth High school and attended the First Methodist church where she first became interested in the field of religious education. She is a sister of Mrs. Earl Fleuelling of Plymouth.

Perceiving the tremendous possibilities of a school dedicated to sacred music, Dr. Ebersole was instrumental in founding Waldenwoods. She has been chairman of church music of the Michigan State Federation of Womens' clubs for 24 years and now heads the department in the National Federation. She directs the Male Choristers of the Little Church of the Air, WWJ, which she organized; is director of music at the First English Lutheran church of Detroit, and teaches classes in sacred music and voice at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art. She owns perhaps the largest private library of sacred music in America, which is on display at Waldenwoods each summer.

The faculty this year will include Doctor Roerta Bitgood, organist, composer, and choral director; Doctor Robert Fountain, professor of voice and choral music at Oberlin; Doctor Nellie Huger Ebersole; and Professor Amos Ebersole, for many years in charge of vocal music at Heidelberg college, and now affiliated with the Detroit Institute of Musical Art.

Parkway Filled All Day on 4th by Detroit Crowds

In spite of the threatening weather that prevailed early Fourth of July morning, the Wayne county park system that extends for miles throughout this part of the county was filled to overflowing by Detroit crowds Tuesday morning not many hours after sunrise.

Detroit's colored population has apparently discovered what a beautiful place the vast parkway system provides for picnickers. They began arriving at the various picnic and playgrounds along the parkway almost before the sun was up and by 9 o'clock there were not hundreds, but thousands and thousands of Detroit residents enjoying the delights of the beautiful outdoors.

The Plymouth-Riverside park of the parkway system seemed the most popular spot, with its overflow finding its way to Cass Benton park and other beauty spots along the way.

There was hardly a vacant table or unused stove to be found by mid-forenoon, the Detroit visitors having taken possession of all of them.

They came in limousines and in truck loads. There were church picnics, neighborhood picnics and family affairs. The boys and girls enjoyed to the fullest the playground equipment that is provided throughout the park.

If anyone has an idea that Detroit does not now possess one of the largest colored populations of any city in the country, he should have visited the parkway system on the Fourth.

A Midwest doctor claims you don't have to count sheep if you want to go to sleep... especially if you're a cattleman. Just go to bed at the same hour every night. Get one hour of sleep before midnight. Don't make an all-out raid on the icebox... a glass of milk is sufficient. Don't read. Don't listen to the radio (some of those shows will keep you awake for several nights). Relax every nerve, muscle and thought. "When you go to bed," says the Doc, "close your eyes and go to sleep." Simple, isn't it? Of course if you prefer to count sheep... just forget the entire theory.

City's Traffic Record Spotless

When the Michigan football team plays at Ann Arbor there is always a heavy flow of traffic through the city on those days, but football season traffic was nothing as compared to the vast numbers of cars that traveled over Plymouth streets Tuesday.

Hundreds of the cars were driven to the city by people who came in to the celebration, but thousands of them were "through" traffic, going and coming from Detroit, Pontiac, Ann Arbor and everywhere else.

Local police declare the clean record of the day was nothing less than remarkable, in view of the vast number of cars that were driven over the streets.

Miller and Jean Doust. Roy Rew did the announcing for the show. Prizes for the winners were awarded by the W. Ford Johnson Cartage company, West Brothers and the Stop and Shop store.

The street dance which followed this delightful part of the evening's entertainment was cut short by a rain storm—but the merry-go-round did provide some entertainment for the youngsters later in the evening.

The big parade on Tuesday forenoon which started off the events of the last day of the celebration was doubtless the best that has ever been seen in Plymouth. And again it was the youngsters who provided the highlights.

Leading the mile long parade was Mayor Cass S. Hough, Supervisor Eleanor Hammond and City Commissioner Henry Fisher.

It seemed that every entry in the parade was outstanding. First came the Plymouth Colony Farms Weaving colony with participants dressed in the styles of the Pilgrim fathers, with a loom as a part of the display on the float.

The beautiful six horse team of Belgian horses were provided by Julius Porath farms located over on Six Mile road. To mention each and every entry would be almost an endless task, but all were of exceptional merit.

Some 65 or 70 horseback riders, a large portion of them juvenile Plymouth riders, made a hit, as did the nearly 200 bicycle riders who had decked their bicycles out with red, white and blue. Then came the juveniles, some on tricycles, others in patriotic costumes, depicting the Spirit of '76, Uncle and Mrs. Sam, prospectors, scarecrows, firecrackers, fishermen, a tiny barefoot hula dancer, little floats, Betsy Ross making a flag, cowboys, the Mayflower and Plymouth rock, three youthful Indians, and Indian tepee, Cinderella and her coachman, almost everything one could think of was represented by the little boys and girls—distinctly the big hit of the parade.

But the floats of the 4-H clubs should not be overlooked. The displays were outstanding, even to the squealing pigs and some of the stubborn, but beautiful young cattle that were paraded by 4-H club members. Possibly it was the Sheldon 4-H club which brought farm life most realistic to the crowds that lined the streets.

The Wayne County Vegetable Growers association and the County Farm Bureau had floats of unusual interest in the parade. In addition to these features there were many, many more in the parade that helped to make it without question the best ever staged in Plymouth.

The colored peanut contest, the ball games, the prize awarding and the giant fireworks display late Tuesday evening were other outstanding features of probably the best Fourth of July celebration held in the entire state of Michigan.

THE MIDDLES By Bob Karp

Named Research Director at Farms

Willis B. Hunting has been named research director of the Plymouth Colony Farms by Dr. Ralph H. Pino, owner of the farms. As research director, Hunting will explore the possibilities of further development at the farms.

Projects which Hunting will work on in his new post include the possible formation of a Plymouth Colony Farms cooperative market where high quality fruits and vegetables will be sold. The director will also coordinate work of the weaving shop at the farm with emphasis placed on weaving instruction and creation of new designs and patterns.

Hunting will begin plans for a program at the farms for the utilization of potentialities of people 65 years of age or older. This program, aimed at helping the aged lead constructive lives, may eventually become a pattern for other communities.

The new director has been a clergyman of the Methodist church and left the pastorate of the LeValley Methodist church in Ionia to accept a fellowship for study at the Merrill-Palmer School of Social Study in Detroit. He is specializing in family life education. He is also working on his doctor's degree in mental hygiene at the University of Michigan. The Huntings and their two children now reside at the Farms.

Smith well state that he is especially fitted for the position he seeks, through both education, training as well as a long-time interest in state affairs.

He was born in Michigan in 1884 and in 1890 he became an orphan and was placed in the State Public School for Dependent Children at Coldwater. The same year he was indentured into a farm home in Hillsdale county.

Determined to secure an education, with no relatives to help him, he saved enough money to pay his way through high school, from which he graduated in 1903. Soon after this he entered the Michigan Normal college and by working after school hours he was able to "pay his tuition and board." It was in 1911 when he graduated and was given a life certificate to teach. In 1919 he won his A. B. degree and in 1924 the University of Michigan awarded him his M.A. degree.

He immediately entered school work and for 29 years devoted his entire time to aiding school boys and girls to receive proper educational background.

For 15 years he was a member of the Wayne county board of education and for more than 25 years was actively associated in Boy Scout work. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, a Mason and a charter member of the Plymouth Rotary club. Rotarians in 1947 honored him by electing him as district governor for this district.

Because of his intense interest in the welfare of unfortunate children, four different governors of Michigan have honored him with appointment to the Michigan State Institute Commission which has jurisdiction over the Supporters of Mr. Smith point out the fact that few men who seek election to the state legislature have such a desirable background and knowledge of state affairs as has Mr. Smith. In his campaign he proposed to seek the support of his own party members as well as all of the people who are especially interested in the future progress of the young people of this state.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
Moses, Who Led His People to God.

Lesson for July 9: Exodus 10: 16-25; 35: 4-5, 21.
Memory Selection: Exodus 19:5

IN THE LESSON today the reader's knowledge of the chief facts of the life of Moses must be taken for granted. The lesson text begins with the giving of the Law on Sinai, three months after the Israelites had crossed the Red Sea. The Ten Commandments were destined to be the basis of all the jurisprudence of the world in after ages.

Following the giving of the Law, Moses built a tabernacle of worship, a movable sanctuary, adapted to the needs of a nomadic people. God gave the pattern of the sanctuary to Moses and the people gladly gave the materials that were needed.

It was designed that it could be quickly taken down and carried on the march—to be set up again when a new camp was reached. The tabernacle was a great symbol as well as a practical provision for worship for a marching host.

It was a symbol of God's presence and an assurance of his might as the people marched through the years toward Canaan.

The free gift of things needed for the tabernacle brings us a fine example today, if we would build a church unto God. As the Israelites freely consecrated what they had to the tabernacle, even to their precious possessions, in order to provide a place of worship, so they who would now build a church must be of a "spirit made willing" to give what is required for the work.

Blick's Trounce Northville 21-4

In the Girl's league, Blick's trounced Northville by the score of 21-4 on June 27. Rutherford was the winning pitcher allowing only three hits which is good pitching for the Girl's league.

Blick's started off in the first inning scoring two runs. Pursell walked, Holstein singled, both runners stole a base, Tate grounded out to the pitcher, but MacIntosh was safe at first on an error as the runners both scored.

In the second for Northville they came across with three runs or two hits but Blick's was out to win this game as they scored two runs again. McClockey, leading off, doubled, Konazkeski singled scoring McClockey, Rutherford then hit a grounder to the third basemen who threw home to catch Konazkeski sliding in. Then on a hit by Holstein Rutherford scored the second run of the inning.

In the third inning Blick's really went to town as they scored 13 runs on ten hits. Holstein collected two hits, Tate one, MacIntosh two, Grieve one, McClockey two, Konazkeski two, and Rutherford one. Blick's still wasn't through scoring as they pushed across four more as Tate drove in two runs with a single.

In another game on June 30 Blick's didn't do too well as they lost to Twin Pines 22-9. On June 27 Twin Pines lost to the Sophisticats of Ypsi 7-4. The Sophisticats scored five men in the first frame to give them the victory. From the fourth inning on they didn't get a hit off of Ling, the Twin Pine hurler.

Thibodeau Wins Another Game 3-2

In a nine inning game on Monday, June 26, Cavalcade downed Beglinger 3-2. Lula of Cavalcade smashed a home run in the last of the ninth to give them the game. Thibodeau was the winning hurler allowing only three hits. Street was the Beglinger pitcher giving up six hits.

Neither team scored until the fifth inning when Craigie of Cavalcade, leading off, blasted a home run over the right field fence. This was the second hit of the game for Cavalcade. Street then retired the next three batters. In the sixth frame Cavalcade scored again when Londeau, leading off, singled and took second on a wild pitch. He was sacrificed to third by Letourneau who laid down a perfect bunt. Paison then bounced one to Beglinger's shortstop who fumbled the ball allowing Londeau to score. This gave Cavalcade a two run margin.

Up to the seventh inning Beglinger had been held to two hits and only two men reached second. In the seventh Wilkie, leading off, was hit by Thibodeau. Street went out to first but Gillies smashed a two base hit scoring Wilkie. Gillies took third on a wild pitch and then scored on another wild pitch.

This tied the game up 2-2 at the end of regular time. In the eighth and ninth frame for Beglinger they were held hitless with one walk. Cavalcade went out 1-2-3 in the eighth but in the ninth Lula of Cavalcade, leading off, smashed a home run over the fence in right center field giving Cavalcade a well earned 3-2 victory.

48 Boys and Girls Attend Day Camp

The first week of Day Camp was enthusiastically attended by 48 boys and girls. The school bus transported them to Kensington park for a day of hiking, fishing, fire-building and swimming. Handmade insect nets enabled them to catch a variety of insects and to observe them through a magnifying glass. Ten varieties of wild flowers were identified by one group. Another group made some good looking walking sticks from tree branches.

Fishing in the Huron river and cooking stew over an open fire were two of the most popular activities. However, the swimming period in the beautiful Kent lake was the highspot of the day. Two life guards are on duty at all times as well as counselors.

Counselors are definitely adhering to the precautions to prevent polio as suggested by Dr. Harold Brisbois, Plymouth Health officer. Every child must wash his hands before eating, rest one hour after eating, and have a short swimming period in cool weather.

Registration fees of 50 cents a week for each child will go into effect on Monday, July 3, because of the cost of transportation to the park. Milk is to be furnished by the Optimist club of Plymouth and is delivered to the camp site at noon each day. The members of the club donate money at each meeting towards this milk fund for our Plymouth children in day camp and the children appreciate their generosity very much.

Pruss and Gregory scored giving DeHoCo a seven run lead.

In the fourth DeHoCo scored two more runs as Mueller walked and Harrison smashed a three base hit and scored when the left fielder errored.

Schedule "F" League Games

The "F" league is made up of three teams of 14 and under—two of which are from Plymouth and one from Northville, and one team which will include some boys in the 15 year age group. This was arranged in order to have enough boys to form this league. It is also a good thing to provide a spot for some of our 15 year old boys who were not quite good enough players for the "E" league inter-city team.

The team who wins this league will get emblems plus a free airplane ride donated by Bob Mettetal of the Mettetal Airport. The boys of the 14 year age group gaining a spot on the all-star team of this league at the close of the season will be given a free trip to a Tiger baseball game in Detroit which will be the annual donation of the McAllister Bros. grocery store on Northville road.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shaw Take Wedding Trip to Copper Harbor

The Rev. T. Leonard Sanders of Owosso read the eight o'clock ceremony in which Virginia Heintz became the bride of Harvey Shaw on Saturday, June 24. The wedding took place in the First Methodist church, Plymouth.

Mrs. Harvey Shaw

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. Robert Long sang "Because" and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride was escorted by her uncle, Henry Reddeman, to an altar decorated with white roses, gladioli, palms and lighted tapers. Mrs. Edward Heintz of Forest avenue is the bride's mother.

Designed from white organdy, the bridal gown featured a strapless lace bodice, and a jacket of white organdy. The full skirt was worn over a hoop. A tiara of white roses held in place the bride's fingertip veil of illusion. An orchid centered the bride's bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Duties of the matron of honor were carried out by a sister of the bride, Mrs. Arthur Frusher, of Wayne. She was gowned in dusty rose chiffon with lace bodice and cap sleeves. Rubrum lilies were featured in her arm bouquet.

The bride asked another sister, Mrs. Lillian Duguid of Detroit, to attend her as bridesmaid. Mrs. Duguid selected a gown of light gold crepe styled along the same lines as the honor attendant's dress. She carried an arm bouquet of rubrum lilies.

Joan Haefner Weds Roland Getts at Presbyterian Church

Two hundred guests extended their best wishes to newly weds Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Getts at the reception held following their wedding on Saturday evening, July 1. The guests were entertained at the Northville Veterans' Memorial hall.

Nuptial vows were exchanged by the couple in a candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian church, Plymouth, with the Rev. Henry J. Walch officiating. White gladioli decorated the church for the evening wedding.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Haefner of Hartsough street, Plymouth, the bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she chose a gown of embroidered imported Swiss organdy over taffeta. It was designed with fitted bodice buttoned to the waistline in front, a sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves. The skirt fell in a circular train in the back. A fingertip veil attached to a halo shaped headpiece completed the bride's ensemble. White roses and stephanotis were used in her bouquet.

The bride asked Sandra Walch to be maid of honor. Miss Walch chose blue organdy over taffeta for her gown, which featured a portrait neckline and buttons to the waist in the front. Stephanotis trimmed the maid of honor's blue tulle headpiece, and yellow roses were in her bouquet.

Wearing a gown of yellow organdy the same style as the honor attendant's, Patricia Hull of Detroit was bridesmaid. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Judith F. Haefner was her sister's flower girl. She wore a blue organdy gown and carried a basket of mixed spring-flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Donald R. Getts, as best man. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Getts. Eugene Pardy of South Lyon and Eugene Remaley ushered.

The bride's mother pinned a corsage of pink roses to the shoulder of her dusty rose crepe gown. She selected white accessories to accent her dress. Wheat colored accessories gave contrast to the navy sheer dress which Mrs. Getts wore for her son's wedding. Rubrum lilies made up her corsage.

After a wedding trip through Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Getts will reside in Farmington.

Hints For Plymouth Homemakers

Let Children Have Nutritious Between-Meal Treats in Summer

The arrival of warm weather brings up the annual problem of what to do about the traveling ice cream man. In addition to the economic angle there's the question of spoiling the children's appetite for foods more important to growth and health, to say nothing of getting too much sugar into them, when they choose the artificially flavored ices.

In some Plymouth neighborhoods parents have agreed that the moppets may patronize the fascinating salesman only once a week on a specified day. This automatically eliminates the daily nagging for dimes because the children next door are having a daily treat. In fact, in a short time the vendors discover that there is no business on that particular street and stay away.

When this system doesn't work because all the parents won't cooperate, each family has to fight an individual battle almost daily. Youngsters hate to be different from their playmates, so it takes something rather special to compete with the lure heralded by the tinkling bell.

A good supply of makings for cold drinks of different kinds or occasional homemade sherbets or ices on sticks are a good start. When the children have the privilege of inviting their friends in to share their treats the scheme usually works.

If the families in the neighborhood take turns in playing host the cost for each isn't prohibitive and most mothers can stand the wear and tear of the break in routine. Ideally these sweet treats should come at the end of a meal—right after lunch, for instance. Most normal youngsters, however, can take them several hours before mealtime without too much dulling of appetite for the next meal. In fact, this break is often of great benefit to extremely active children.

The best between-meal treats are those which add something more than just sugar. Milk drinks of all kinds are top choice, as are fruit drinks. The fizz of carbonated beverages is refreshing, but they contain nothing of real value but sugar, so use them to pep up the other drinks.

Sugar syrup made by boiling equal parts of sugar and water together until clear is a convenient sweetening for all fruit beverages. A jar of that in the refrigerator plus fruit juices, chocolate syrup, and milk will set you up in business.

For something extra special, freeze grape juice or any colored berry juice (drained from canned fruit, if liked) and use instead of ice in lemonade. Keep the lemonade rather tart because the ice cubes will sweeten it.

LEMONADE SYRUP
Combine the juice of 6 lemons (1 1/2 cups) with 1 cup sugar syrup. Store in tightly covered jar in refrigerator.

When ready to serve put cracked ice or ice cubes in 6 tall glasses. Divide syrup among them, then fill with cold water and stir. Garnish with orange or lemon slices, mint sprigs or sticks of pineapple—or serve plain to the children.

LIMEADE SYRUP: Use 1 cup lime juice and 1 cup sugar. Use as for lemon.

ORANGEADE SYRUP: Combine juices of 4 oranges and 1 lemon with 1 cup sugar syrup. Use as for lemon syrup.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP
One-half cup cocoa, 1 1/2 cups sugar, dash of salt, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine sugar, cocoa and salt and stir in water slowly to make smooth paste. Boil 3 minutes, stirring until smooth. Cool, add vanilla and store in refrigerator in covered container. For chocolate drinks use 2 tablespoons for 1 cup milk. For dessert or ice cream sauce, reheat and add 1 1/2 tablespoons butter. Makes about 1 1/2 cups syrup.

FROSTED CHOCOLATE
For each serving shake together or beat well 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup and 1 cup milk. Pour into tall glass and add small scoop of ice cream. Stir lightly and serve at once.

FRUIT MILK SHAKE
Two and one-fourth cups of grape or berry juice, 3/4 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 1/2 cups irradiated evaporated milk and 1 1/2 cups water, sugar, if needed.

Have all ingredients thoroughly chilled. Mix milk and water in bowl. Beat in fruit juices gradually. Taste and if necessary add small amount of water. Makes 8 servings.

FRUIT FIZZ
Juice of 4 oranges, juice of 2 lemons, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 cup marachino cherries with juice, 1 quart grape juice, 1 quart gingerale.

Combine fruit juices and chill thoroughly. Just before serving add gingerale and serve at once over ice in tall glasses. Makes 8 generous servings.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD ICED TEA

According to folklore, Chinese homemakers began serving hot tea to their families along about 2737 B.C. But it took the scorching summer of 1904 to inspire a St. Louis, Missouri, man to add ice to the popular beverage.

Making Iced Tea

Measure two level teaspoons of tea leaves (black or a special iced tea blend are best) for each cup of water into a clean tea pot. Be sure the water is boiling, then pour quickly over the tea while it is still bubbling. Allow it to steep only three to five minutes. Cloudy tea may result if left longer. Fill glasses with generous amounts of chipped ice or frozen iced tea cubes and pour the hot tea over them. Serve with lemon or orange wedges. Powdered sugar, which dissolves more quickly than granulated, or a syrup of sugar and water may be used to sweeten the tea. A sprig of fresh mint is colorful and refreshing.

Iced Tea Cubes

Prepare tea using two level tablespoons of special iced tea blend to a quart of boiling water. If sugar is used, dissolve one-fourth cup sugar in the boiling water before making the tea. Allow it to stand one to two minutes. Strain, cool and pour the tea into refrigerator trays and freeze until firm. Tea chilled with these cubes will not be diluted.

Fruit Punch

2 cups blended orange-grape-fruit juice
1 package orange gelatin
1 cup hot water
4 to 5 cups cold water
1/3 cup sugar
2 trays iced tea cubes

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add other ingredients and mix well. Chill and serve over iced tea cubes. Garnish with thin slices of fresh oranges and lemons. Red ripe strawberries add a festive touch to the punch.

This recipe will serve twelve to sixteen if four ounce punch cups are used.

Today's Recipes

IF YOU'VE been wondering why your pancakes don't bake a nice, even brown, try heating the griddle slowly for at least 15 minutes before baking a cake. Make doubly sure the griddle is the right temperature by baking a test pancake.

Batter should sizzle and start bubbling as soon as it touches the griddle. When the whole top is full of bubbles, the pancake should be turned.

Never flatten or spank pancakes as this toughens them. If you like thinner cakes, thin the batter with

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Wild Spinach (Serves 6)
1/2 medium onion, sliced thin
1/2 pound spinach
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
6 strips bacon
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup sugar
Cut spinach, after washing, with scissors. Add onion, salt and pepper. Cut bacon into small pieces and fry until crisp. Add bacon to vegetables. Add remaining ingredients to bacon drippings and heat to boiling point. Pour over vegetables and bacon and toss lightly.

more liquid. The baking time for the pancake, after turning, is half as long as it was for the first side.

The secret of perfect browning lies in proper temperature. Another tip which helps is to rub the entire griddle with a small bag of salt. Overstirring pancake batter makes less tender cakes. If there are tiny lumps in the mixture, you'll have better cakes. These lumps come out in the baking.

If you're looking for variety, add some drained, crushed pineapple or some finely chopped apple to pancake batter. These make delicious "dessert" pancakes when sprinkled with powdered sugar. Pancakes can go to luncheon if you wrap several spears of cooked asparagus in the cakes, roll, and serve with pimiento-topped cheese sauce.

Place two cooked pork sausage links on pancake and roll. Serve hot with spicy applesauce and you'll have an excellent breakfast dish.

Remember to take good care of your milk and not let it stand on the porch where sunlight will affect its nutrients. Provide a covered box to protect it.

Use These Rules to Alter Recipes

Approaching summer may mean more sour milk for you to use up, or perhaps your problem is having good recipes for sour milk but no sour milk.

However, recipes may be changed easily to use either sweet or sour milk. You'll feel very expert as you bake a sweet milk recipe with sour milk or vice-versa.

If you have lots of sour milk and want to use a sweet milk recipe you will need to make just two changes. Allow one-half teaspoon of baking soda for each cup of sour milk. Then, since one-fourth teaspoon of soda equals one teaspoon of baking powder in leavening action, you can estimate how much to decrease the baking powder in the original sweet milk recipe.

For example, if the original sweet milk recipe calls for three and one-half teaspoons baking powder and you substitute one cup of sour milk and one-half teaspoon soda, your sour milk recipe will need just one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder. The half-teaspoon of soda will equal two teaspoons of baking powder.

You can also plan that the amount of baking powder used in recipes will be two teaspoons of rapid-acting, or one teaspoon of double action, baking powder to one cup of flour. And one whole egg will leaven one-fourth cup of flour.

With these few rules you can change your recipes around like an expert and also solve that sour milk problem.

Liver Sausage May Be Served Hot or Cold

Quick meals, with emphasis on color and taste appeal, are for the homemaker who has ready-to-serve liver sausage in her refrigerator.

For serving in hot form, liver sausage slices may be wrapped with bacon strips, placed in a baking dish, then slowly baked until the bacon is cooked and the liver heated. Chopped liver sausage combined with tomato pulp and a bit of minced onion or green pepper is the perfect stuffing to be baked in plump tomato shells. Or 1/2-inch slices of this ready-to-serve meat may be brushed with melted butter or margarine, then broiled or panbroiled with tomato halves or slices.

A jellied Swedish meat loaf is another winning use of this cold meat. Liver sausage is rubbed through a sieve and combined with mayonnaise, dry mustard, finely chopped celery, green pepper and onion. This mixture is added to slightly congealed tomato-flavored gelatin, then placed in a ring mold. When chilled and firm it is unmolded on a bed of shredded lettuce lightly sprinkled with paprika.

Has Spoon from Every State....

PlyMail Photo

Mrs. Kenneth Thorpe of Spring street polishes one of the 153 spoons in her collection which will be on display this week in the lobby of the Plymouth United Savings bank. Spoons in the collection include one from every state in the union and 11 foreign countries. Mrs. Thorpe began her hobby in 1939.

Every state in the union and 11 foreign countries are represented in the spoon collection of Mrs. Kenneth Thorpe of 302 Spring street. Collecting spoons since 1939, Mrs. Thorpe now has 153, made of sterling silver, copper and bronze.

Adding the hometown touch to the collection is a sterling silver spoon inscribed with Plymouth, Michigan. Mrs. Thorpe purchased the spoon from Charles Draper's jewelry store which was located on Main street a number of years ago. "On the first day of the store's closing out sale the spoon was priced at three dollars. On the final day of the sale I bought it for 60 cents," Mrs. Thorpe remarked.

The cost of the spoons ranges from four cents to three dollars. Though Mrs. Thorpe has found most of the spoons herself, some friends have sent her many of them from all over the world. Servicemen stationed overseas during the war sent her spoons from India, Ceylon, Shanghai and Hongkong. Other foreign spoons come from Denmark, Canada, Mexico, Peru, Nova Scotia, Bermuda, England and Italy.

The Italian-made spoon is the most unusual in the collection. Hand-painted on the oval is a picture of the ruins of the Colosseum in Rome.

The state seal is inscribed on most of the state spoons but Arizona is represented in the collection with a miniature copper miner's shovel.

Mrs. Thorpe has 13 spoons with the face of a president of the United States engraved on the handle. Commemorative spoons in the collection include one made on the occasion of the visit of the King and Queen to the United States in 1939, and spoons marking the fairs held in St. Louis, New York and San Francisco.

A unique set in the collection is a group of spoons depicting Bible stories. Charlie McCarthy, Norma Shearer, Pinocchio and the Lone Ranger are represented in Mrs. Thorpe's group of character spoons. Other unusual spoons include a bone spoon from Chinatown in Chicago, a spoon pin from Norfolk, West Virginia, and a number of tiny salt spoons. The collection will be on display this week in the lobby of the Plymouth United Savings bank.

OUR SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Two Buildings, Wood Sidewalk, Hitching Posts, Dirt Road and a Hay Field Was Liberty Street in 1890

"The worst looking band of Gypsies ever to hit this town visited the northside last Saturday afternoon. They unloaded from their wagons and started to dance and sing until young Hite Wicks shot one of the big fellows with his air gun. The Gypsy started to holler and swear and took after Hite with a big club but Hite was too fast for him and disappeared over the board fence on the other side of Liberty street. The Gypsies were so mad they loaded into their wagons and one went north on the main street and one went south." From the files of The Mail in 1890.

Yes, this was Liberty street 60 years ago, the Miler Drug store on the left, next Peter Gayde's Grocery and Provision store and Starkweather's Dry Goods store on the corner. Across the street was a hay field where now stand the Beyer residence and other buildings down to the corner of the Dickerson grocery (formerly Lidgard's). About 20 years after this picture was taken Otto Beyer purchased the Miler Drug and soon was to build a new building next door to the one now used by the Ward Manufacturing company. The Beyer family now operates the store in the same location.

Sixty years ago about the time this picture was taken there were 300 telephones in the United States. The fastest railroad time of the day was 20 miles per hour and you could ship a bushel of wheat 1,500 miles by rail for only 5 cents. The most popular book of the day was "In Deepest Africa" by Henry M. Stanley and Scribner's Sons were advertising in Plymouth for agents to sell the same. The "Classiest" wagon on the road was advertised as a "Clean High Wheeled Road Wagon" two seated family special by the Chicago Scale Company for only $30.00. Yes, that was living those sixty years ago in Plymouth.

Some Helpful Information for Visitors to Canada

If you're planning a Canadian vacation, here are a few suggestions advanced by travel officials of the Canadian National Railways who have had lots of experience in helping visitors avoid some of the pitfalls tourists anticipate and sometimes find.

In the first place visitors to Canada will find the people not much different than those they know in a neighboring town or state. Canadians are friendly, congenial folks and they like Americans. Americans will like them, too. True, one-third of the people of Canada are bilingual but the majority of Canadians who speak both French and English live in Quebec Province. You really need not polish up your high school French to get by, because nine out of ten French-speaking Canadians you will meet speak just as good English as your next door neighbor. It's fun, however, to exercise your French when in Quebec.

Instead of States, Canada has Provinces; 10 of them and east to west they are Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

When it comes to money you'll find that Canadians and Americans are alike as two peas in a pod; they both like it. As here, Canada uses the dollar system; cents, nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars, etc. Canadian paper money carries the picture of King George VI of Canada and the printing is bilingual; English and French. Right now you will receive a premium of 10 cents on your American dollar in Canada.

A courteous host—as a Canadian is always—admires and respects a courteous guest. If you must discuss politics, don't make the mistake of referring to Canada as a "British Colony." Canada is a rich, proud, vast, industrious and intensely independent nation.

And crossing the border, don't worry about the Canadian customs and immigration officials. They're "good guys" and they will give you a warm welcome to Canada. The customs will not usually embarrass you with too much searching and examination of your baggage. You are allowed to bring in wearing apparel, toilet articles and personal effects duty free. Fifty cigars, 200 cigarettes and two pounds of tobacco are allowed free entry as is a bottle of liquor if it's for your own use. You most certainly can bring your camera; in fact, no trip to Canada is complete without one. You can bring "Rover" along, too, but you must have a veterinary certificate showing the dog is free of contagious disease.

All you have to do to satisfy the Canadian immigration inspector at the border is to convince him that you are a bona fide American tourist.

On your re-entry to the United States, you will be allowed to bring in duty free purchases made in Canada, if you've been across the border for 48 hours or more. By all means, have some sort of legal identification to prove to the U. S. immigrant inspector that you are a United States citizen or resident alien. Birth certificates, copies of naturalization papers, resident alien entry cards are usually best.

When you write home from Canada be sure to use Canadian postage stamps. A regular letter stamp costs four cents; air mail is seven cents and postcards should carry a three cent stamp.

If you travel by Canadian National Railways, which serves all ten provinces, you'll find service and accommodations comparable to the best in the United States. You'll like the courteous service on Canadian trains; smiles and friendly greetings by conductors and porters are the rule and not the exception.

Dining car meals compare most favorably with any in the U. S. and are usually less expensive, as are parlor and sleeping car charges. Canada operates genuine trans-continental trains; you can board a sleeping car or coach in either Montreal or Toronto and travel 3,000 miles to Vancouver on the Pacific Coast without changing cars.

Canadian telephone, telegraph and postal services are just as good as anywhere else in North America. In Canada, the railways own and operate the telegraph facilities as they do the express companies. The big railways also own many of the big hotels and summer resorts such as Jasper in the Canadian Rockies.

As to weather, you'll find it just about the same as in the northern tier of states; warm days—some will even be hot in mid-summer—and cool, refreshing nights, because Nature has the air-conditioning franchise north of the border. You can fish, swim, golf, tennis, canoe, rest, relax, play or even enjoy mid-summer skiing on the glaciers in the Canadian Rockies. Or you can just plain sightsee in a friendly land so vast they have to use six time zones to keep the clocks in harmony with the sun.

Pointing out that "The income to Michigan people, directly or indirectly, because of the deer herd runs into millions of dollars annually," Bartlett declares "the coming few years are tremendously important," and that "the range—the subsistence of the deer—must be conserved by proper herd management, beginning now, if we are to be assured of satisfactory deer numbers in the future."

Study Reduction of Deer Herds

Arguments for regulated shooting of does and fawns during special seasons in areas of Michigan where the winter food supply of deer is exhausted or menaced are contained in a new conservation department publication.

The story of Michigan's deer herd during the years is told in the 56-page pamphlet now being distributed by the department's game division.

Written by I. H. Bartlett, the department's deer authority, the pamphlet, "Michigan Deer," is a revision of his earlier text, "Whitetails," published in 1938.

Michigan's deer herd "has now outgrown its winter food supply in 4,000 square miles of northern lower peninsula range," Bartlett writes. "Hundreds of square miles of winter range are being ruined by over-population and thousands of deer are being lost and wasted annually through starvation. Such a condition cannot continue indefinitely. Either the herd must be cut down to fit its natural food supply, or it will go down naturally. If we wait for nature to act, the result will be browsed-out deer range and small deer herds in the future."

Local "Waltons" Have Good Luck

An average opening day turnout of fishermen—in Michigan that means a third of a million or more of which at least 200 were Plymouthites—apparently enjoyed average fishing success Sunday.

Good catches of bass and bluegills from inland lakes are reported by conservation officers in all lakes in this area.

Lakes were dotted with boats when the sun rose and best catches were reported during early morning and evening hours.

Bluegills were found in shallow water in many lakes, especially in south-central counties, spawning apparently not having ended.

Fishing pressure was heavy on lakes as far north as the Straits. Conservation authorities report more fishermen than ever before were on lakes in southeastern Michigan counties.

Good catches of trout from stocked lakes in southwestern counties are reported.

Only two violations of fishing regulations were reported, one each in Ingham and Jackson counties.

Bluegills were reported biting best on worms in south-central counties, artificial flies were taking most bluegills in southeastern counties.

Better-than-average catches of pike are reported for south-central counties.

There was little trout fishing on downstate streams that have been planted by the department, the water being high and roily.

Policemen rushed to register for target practice after the department's annual pistol-shooting contest was won by the 11-year-old daughter of the chief.

Township and Village Politics Wreck Fisherman's Intentions

Remember back a few years ago when Glenn Jewell sold his dry cleaning business to Clifford Tait—and he said he was going north to do nothing besides just fish and fish and fish—and then hunt and hunt and hunt when he wasn't fishing? He was all through with work! From that day on it was going to be just one round of fishing and hunting!

So when Mr. and Mrs. Jewell moved to Mecosta everybody thought he really intended to devote the rest of his life to one glorious good time.

But what happened?

Two of three years ago he was elected supervisor of Mecosta township. That reduced considerably the number of days he could be found resting on the end of a fish pole or sitting on a stump looking for a stray deer.

The months rolled along and the frying pan wasn't used so very much. Mecosta folks liked the way he ran the township affairs.

Then came along another election. Supervisor Glenn Jewell ran for the office of village president and was elected chief executive of the nice, quiet little community of Mecosta!

Now he's busy looking after the affairs of both the township of Mecosta and the village of Mecosta.

What's happened to the fishing and hunting? Friends say it is just one of those things that happens now and then—that even the best of intentions slip a cog. At any rate the fish up around Mecosta are said to be getting a good "letting alone" and the deer no longer fear to roam the wide open spaces. Fisherman Jewell is head over heels in politics—and that's ruined the intentions of a lot of good fishermen.

In St. Louis, Motorist Carl Simon finished smoking his cigar, heaved it out the car window, is still looking for two front teeth that came loose from his dental plate and went sailing out with the butt.

In Atlanta, a 17-year-old mountain girl, admitted to Georgia Baptist Hospital for a bladder operation, was unimpressed when she received her first telephone call (from her mother), commented: "At home Ma'd be right there—and I could hear her better."

First of the Fine Cars in Value

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

WE think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power; its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflo-cushioned take-off—Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this: That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports; too; cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine, Dynaflo Drive standard; A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

Roger Babson Says...

Babson Discusses Security
Webster's Dictionary definition of "security" includes freedom from fear, freedom from risk, danger, harm or the like.

Is Security Desirable?
I have sometimes heard men say that it was too bad peace didn't seem to provide quite the stimulus for greatness and distinction that war does. War often calls forth not only a man's ability but his capacity. Dwight Eisenhower has often stated that we human beings could not keep on living if there were no struggle and we were kept in "perfect security." Would Columbus have ever discovered America if he had been seeking freedom from risk? Would Patton have been a great fighting general if he had been afraid to swim the rivers or storm the bridges with his men? Would Gandhi have been the beloved leader he was to his people if he had sought first of all to protect his own physical health and life?

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles." Do we admire or gather inspiration from any of our heroes, poets or philosophers because they were first seeking security for themselves? James Byrnes in a speech at the last conference of Southern Governors is reported to have said, in effect, that the people who settled this country did not come here to establish a government. They came to escape the tyrannies of government. They were not seeking security, but an opportunity to enjoy freedom—the freedom of self-development and accomplishment. Today the spirit of self-reliance is unfortunately departing; too many want to lean upon the government; too many are thinking of security instead of opportunity.

Too Many "Dependents"

Who or what has encouraged this leaning, this moral weakness in the United States? Our government itself is encouraging it in every new proclamation. It urges more aid to farmers, more loans to small business, more health insurance and employment security. Each and every suggestion amounts to a promise to spend more as a charity to support this group or that—out of the peoples own hard-earned tax money. Moreover, may I ask if the politicians are doing this for the good of the nation, or to get the votes?

What happens when a man knows he's going to be supported whether he does a good job or a poor one? He loses all incentive to excel. The public must realize by now that too many of their overgovernment's employees feel "secure" in their jobs. Yet, they don't have to produce anything which must stand factory or retailer's or consumer's inspection. Even more discouraging is the attitude of some of our youth in the schools. A friend of mine, who is a teacher, says that healthy young men, in their early twenties, claim to be interested only in jobs which will offer them old age pensions and other benefits. As Americans, they should be ashamed of themselves. They should be looking toward jobs where there's a chance to work up, to earn advancement in an incentive system, not in a "sure thing" system. Pension systems should boom Florida and California real estate; pensions may help level retail sales over a period of years; but most pension systems will never increase the total national income.

Decay or Growth?
Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to presidents, said in a recent speech that we are swapping our independence for a "false gospel of security," that the greatest threat to our freedom is "too much government." Do the American people want to be treated like babies, to be cared for by their government from the cradle to the grave? What happens to children who are given everything, — except responsibility? They become greedy. They come to expect more and more; they become dependent and parasitical. A strong moral fiber character is never developed at all. There can be no personal or national development without risk, challenge and struggle.

In Galveston, Texas, a drunk assured Judge Edward Jahn that he had been drinking to celebrate the judge's candidacy for district court, was fined $5.

THE MUTUAL Broadcasting System has thrown a spotlight and a few kilocycles at "nature" for the benefit of small fry dial twist-ers and have scheduled Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the adventure series, "Mark Trail," patterned along the theme of the popular comic strip of the same name authorized by Ed Dodd, widely acclaimed naturalist and nature study teacher.

CROWLEY

The radio series, accordingly, features its hero in the role of protector of the great outdoors and the foes of those bent upon the destruction of the country's natural resources. The conservation and reclamation there is neatly woven into action-packed adventure stories, with emphasis placed on teaching children their own importance in the roles of protectors of bird, animal and floral life, and at the same time preventing the destruction of nature's wonders.

Not only has the program received the sanction of the Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman, who appeared on the premiere broadcast last January 30, but it has also undertaken a series of practical field demonstrations for school-aged city children, the first of which was a tour taken by "Mark" and 40 junior high school editors of New York City's vast watershed areas. The watershed was chosen for the first demonstration because of the water emergencies that have seriously handicapped a number of the large cities in the country.

Matt Crowley, prominent New York actor, is starred as "Mark Trail," with Phil Tonken as the narrator. Drex Hines directs the program which is adapted by a group of writers headed by Max Erlich. John Gart provides background music as "nature" takes a bow on the air-planes.

For "THE WALK THAT RELAXES"

Foamtreads' secret is a patented "bubble sole" that breathes with every step, has unique built-in arch support. By making your foot work, it increases circulation, flexes muscles, removes the main cause of discomfort. Yet your feet never touch rubber. They're protected by a supple leather insole, hand-laced to smooth Elk-tanned leather. Tests prove the Foamtread sole wears as well or better than regular soles. (List colors, sizes.)
