EXCELLENT RECOMMENDATIONS.

Have taken the time to read over with more than ordinary care the recommendations pertaining to street improvements that were made by a joint committee of the city commission and planning commission. As we see it, the recommendations are excellent and some method should be found to carry them out as soon as possible. There is nothing which will do Plymouth more good than a COMPLETED street improvement program such as was published in a recent issue of The Plymouth Mail.

HATS OFF TO MR. NEAL LANG!

Detroit papers announced a few days ago that Neal Lang has been appointed the new general manager of the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel in Detroit, formerly the Book-Cadillac. General Manager Lang comes to Detroit from New York city where he most successfully managed one of the great hotels of that city.

During the years of his association with many of the hotels of the country and while serving his country as an official in the flying forces, a number of Plymouth residents have come to know Mr. Lang well. All of them extend to the Sheraton-Cadillac their congratulations upon bringing Mr. Lang to Detroit — and all of them extend to him and his family a most cordial welcome back to our good old Michigan where Mr. Lang began his successful career as an employee in the legal department of the New York Central railway. The Plymouth Mail joins with all the others in wishing him unbounded success.

A GOOD JOB WELL DONE.

To Postmaster George Timpona and his efficient postal staff recently fell the responsibility of handling the largest amount of Christmas mail that ever went through the Plymouth post office. Facing this seemingly almost impossible task was a postal force considerably reduced from the regular number of employees.

Maybe it was this complicating feature which inspired the Postmaster and his assistants to do the remarkable job that they did—deliver every Christmas package and every bit of Christmas mail that was in the Plymouth post office on or before Christmas morning, before the day was over.

That was good work Mr. Postmaster — and you and EVERY one employed in the Plymouth postal service is entitled to a THANK YOU from the many thousands of patrons of our busy post office.

THEN WHY NOT BE FOR HIM?

Read in the newspapers the other day that former Governor Earle of Pennsylvania said that Senator Taft would make a mighty fine president, but a poor candidate. If this is so, then what makes Senator Taft a "weak candidate"? If the former Governor of Pennsylvania thinks Taft would make a "fine President, fearless and independent," why not help his candidacy? It is support by such people as Earle who would make Taft a strong candidate—and mind you we are not saying he should—but we are simply pointing out the inconsistency of the former Keystone state Governor's position.

NOT ALL INDUSTRIAL.

Heard some one express a bit of surprise the other day when he read that the recent census figures just released in Washington revealed the fact that there are 2,546 farms in Wayne county, with an average of 48 acres to each farm.

The average value of each farm in Wayne county, which includes only the land and buildings, is placed at $17,076. Wayne county farmers in the year 1949 sold produce from these farms valued at $6,019,976.

You've got to admit that there are a lot of people still living in Wayne county who possess a lot of common sense.

THE JUVENILE PROBLEM.

Crime and waywardness among the young people of today has become such a serious problem that seemingly almost every sort of an organization seems anxious and willing to do something to help make the oncoming generation a good generation—one that will be a credit to America.

The churches are doing a masterful job, limited as they are in financial ways. Individuals are doing their part, too.

But it is rather a strange thing. Sometime ago there was organized in Plymouth a lodge known as the DeMolay. It is a group where the membership is open to the sons of members of the Masonic lodge. The Plymouth DeMolay organization has grown by leaps and bounds since it was formed—and that is good news. It is an organization that has the highest of endorsement from civic, church and business leaders.

Naturally the boys do not possess all the funds necessary to equip such a large lodge as has been formed in Plymouth. It was some months ago when an appeal was made for funds from Masonic members to help the boys get the necessary lodge and uniform equipment they should have.

William Rose, of the Plymouth Hardware, who is chairman of the finance committee for the DeMolay, stated a few days ago that he was highly disappointed in his appeal to the members of the Masonic lodge for funds to help properly equip these boys. He said several hundred dollars more was badly needed.

"We are keeping the boys off the streets and giving them the right kind of associations and in a place where the surroundings just naturally help the boys. Maybe if you write something in your column calling attention to these facts we can get the additional funds we need," stated Mr. Rose.

We have written it, Mr. Rose, as you requested—and we admire you for the good work that you are giving much of your time to. Now let's see just how interested the Masons of Plymouth are in their desire to help make the boys of Plymouth to become the high type of citizens this country so badly needs.

WHY CIVILIZATIONS DECAY.

Not so long ago at a highly important religious conference held in South Bend, the Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles said among other things:

"Our present day chaos, the unprecedented condition of our current negotiations between men and nations, our national disintegration, the abandonment of conventional conduct, the departure from the wholesome in dress, the breakdown of morals in the family, the exploitation of immorality in the press, in the cinema and in art—these are all striking evidences that departure from the 'fixed' produces a crumbling in the foundations.

"In past ages and in other places such departure has resulted in the decay of civilization."

The breakdown of morals in the family — he says, led to the destruction of nations.

It would appear that we in this country have about reached the point where there must suddenly be a right-about-face move made or we will go down as have similar great nations in other periods of world history. And the FIRST turn should be made by the voters in the forthcoming national election by relegating to the ash cans those who have been leading the country down hill for the past 16 or 18 years.

Salvation Army Colonel Speaks to Rotary Club

The speaker at Rotary Friday, January 11 was Lt. Colonel T. M. Larsen of the Salvation Army. Colonel Larsen is the Director of all Salvation Army activities in Eastern Michigan.

The speaker chose as his subject "What's In a Motto" using Rotary's motto "Serve above Self" as the basis for his talk. The Colonel said that America offers to its citizens many privileges but that many think they can accept these privileges without accepting any responsibility. However, privileges carry with them responsibilities which all of us must accept.

Amongst these responsibilities is the call to serve our fellow men where we are. Those who have made the profoundest impressions upon our minds have been the men who served their communities with no thought of getting something for themselves. True service to others is the thing that is needed so much in the world today.

The Colonel closed by reading the poem "The Measure of a Man". The Rotarians are determined to live up to their motto "Service Above Self."

Over 700 Sign to Give Pint of Blood.

The kind-hearted citizens of Plymouth came through with flying colors again. An appeal was made in this paper last week for blood donors for the boys in Korea. Over 700 persons in this community wouldn't let those fellows down as that many signed up by Tuesday night to give a pint of their blood so some boy might have a chance to come home alive.

The above can now be an answer to a letter The Mail received this week from a member of the Explosion Burns Two Men Badly

Two men were severely burned last Monday in an explosion at the Centri Spray company plant, located at 39001 Schoolcraft road in Plymouth township.

Anderson Brewer, who resides at 1288 West Brooks, Detroit received third degree burns over 25 percent of his body. Wallace Ladowski also received severe burns about the face and hands. He lives at 7007 North Lafay, Dearborn.

The two men were changing and re-threading an above ground storage tank when the explosion occurred. It is believed that a spark may have set it off, and that natural gas may have seeped into the well. Both were taken for immediate treatment to Sossions hospital and later transferred to University hospital.

Fire Chief Roberts of Plymouth township and the State Fire Marshall are carrying on an investigation to determine the cause of the explosion.

Plymouth Fire Chief Robert McAllister intends to make a check on all the water wells supplying Plymouth to see if any natural gas is seeping into the wells.

City to Receive $31,500 From State Gas & Weight Tax

Plymouth Rock Lodge 47 F. & A. M. held its 100th anniversary banquet in the high school auditorium Tuesday evening. Eight hundred and fifty persons attended the first function held in the new auditorium.

Detroit Lodge number 2 F. & A. M. presented the Plymouth Lodge with a new gavel. It was this Detroit lodge which recommended the local lodge 100 years ago. At that time the members of the city lodge presented the village lodge with a gavel.

Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the state of Michigan, Guy C. Powell, was the main speaker of the evening.

Credit for the successful evening goes to Walter J. Gregory, Worshipful Master. Mr. Gregory handled all of the arrangements. It was through the cooperation of Fred Coverdill, superintendent of Ward W. Ross incorporated, that the auditorium was completed and ready for the Masons, Tuesday.

Bank Gains 25% in Profits Over Last Year

Stockholders of the Plymouth United Savings Bank met for their annual meeting Tuesday afternoon. A resume of the years activities of the local banking institution given by vice president Harry Mohrman revealed the fact that profits had increased 25 percent in 1951 over the year before.

Board membership was reduced from 11 to 9 members and all of the present officers were re-elected. Marvin Criger was named cashier and Betty J. Koite named assistant cashier. Other officers are Charles H. Bennett, president; Harry Larsen, Harry Mohrman and Russell Daane, vice presidents.

Directors of the institution are C. H. Bennett, R. M. Daane, Cass S. Hough, Harry O. Mohrman, Dr. Luther Peck, C. H. Rathburn, Jr., E. S. Roe, Edwin Schrader and Marvin Criger.

Local Woman Celebrates 102nd Birthday Jan. 22

Mrs. Susan Lennox of 258 Joy street will be 102 years old on January 22.

Mrs. Lennox has resided in Plymouth for the past 12 1/2 years. She lived in Plymouth previous to this time but moved away. She is now residing with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Lennox.

The city of Plymouth stands to benefit about 50 percent more this year from the state gas and weight tax than was received last year. The coffers of the city treasury will receive approximately $31,500 from the state. Last year the city received around $21,000, the increase now being due primarily to the increase in gas and weight taxes by a public act passed in 1951.

The city has to prepare a certified list of all the major and minor streets in Plymouth and submit this to the state as remuneration comes from city population and from mileage of major and minor streets. This last does not include the city streets that are maintained by Wayne county. These county maintained streets are all of Starkweather, all of Sheldon road, all of Wilcox road, Mill from U.S. 12 to Plymouth road, Plymouth road from Mill to eastern city limits, S. Main to southern city limits, E. Ann Arbor trail from eastern city limits to Hamilton street, and W. Ann Arbor trail from Main to western city limits.

Not counting the above streets, Plymouth has 5 1/2 miles of major and 19 miles of minor streets.

This revenue must be used exclusively for streets, and cannot be used for any other purpose. It can be used for engineering service, administration, accounting, street improvement, and street debt service, but cannot be used for playgrounds, sidewalks or such.

'Gunpowder' Sweaters Make Appearance in Plymouth

A warning comes from Fire Chief Robert McAllister that the highly inflammable sweaters, which have created a minor panic in certain sections of the country, have appeared in small shops close to the city. At least five have been purchased by residents of Plymouth as that number has been turned in to the fire department since the alarm was given through the school children of this community. A few small shops outside the city limits reported that a salesman had sold them several of the sweaters. None have been purchased in the city.

Chief McAllister tested one of these combustible sweaters and found it was entirely consumed by flames in 51 seconds.

A spark from a cigarette will ignite one of these sweaters, and painful burns could result as the flames would travel up in seconds to the face and hair.

It is believed that large buyers who have a number of these articles on hand are trying to peddle them to outlying shops to get rid of them.

These sweaters are of a cotton and rayon cloth and it is believed that they have been treated with oil—ordinarily they are treated with fireproofing chemical. The sweaters are very nice looking and very attractive.

Federal and state authorities are endeavoring to locate the manufacturer of these sweaters.

All the members of the Mutual Fire Chiefs Association of this area, Plymouth, Livonia, Northville, South Lyon, Salem, Plymouth township and Canton township, are interested in this great danger, and warn their citizens to be on the lookout for any questionable sweater.

Chief McAllister urges anyone who finds a salesman at his door trying to sell one of these garments to remain calm and to suggest that the neighbor might be interested—in the meantime rush to the phone and call the fire or the police department. Police Chief Carl Greenlee says there is a law against peddling in Plymouth without a license.

Chief McAllister has spoken to some of the school children, and notes were sent home with other school children last Monday, warning parents about this dangerous article of clothing.

He further states that if anyone has purchased a sweater recently and is in doubt as to its safety he should bring the sweater to the fire department for a check. There is a sweater on display at the fire department for anyone to inspect who desires to do so.

Hi-12 Presents Big Game Movie

Under the auspices of Plymouth Hi-Twelve Club, service clubs of the surrounding area are invited to join with them for a dinner meeting at the Plymouth Masonic Temple on Wednesday, January 23, at 6:30 p.m.

Following dinner the men will be entertained with a feature-length motion picture film story of a three month hunting safari in the heart of Africa.

The picture, Karambi, portrays in full natural color, the adventures of E. P. Hurd and his son Ed, of the Hurd Lock and Manufacturing Co. of Detroit, as they travelled more than 10,000 miles through the richest big game preserve in the world. All the scenes are authentic and were filmed on the spot as they actually occurred.

Most of the scenes which were photographed by the Hurds, contain enthralling pictures of story-book wild life—lions, rhinos, elephants, hippos, buffalo, leopards and many others! Also to be seen are shots of the difficulties of traversing rugged primeval hinterlands, the customs and habits of primitive tribes and the day-to-day living in safari camp.

The more than 10,000 feet of film were compiled into a picture record of the trip, after their return to this country, by Richard B. Smith and J. Richard Worthington. Narration is told by Milton Cross, well known radio personality, against a background of symphonic music. The film, which takes one and one-half hours to run, has been highly praised by all who have seen it.

Harry Roberts C. of C. President

Members of the Chamber of Commerce recently voted by mail to fill the three vacancies on the board of directors caused by the expired term of Walter Rensel and Wendell Lent, and Ray Williams moving to California.

The three new members are: Harry Roberts, of the Utilities Line Construction company; Dean Saxton of the Saxton Feed store and James Houk of Fisher Shoe store.

Other members of the board are: Ralph Lorenz, Jack Taylor, Walter Hammond, Frank Arlen, Robert Marsden and Robert Waldecker.

These nine men met and elected officers for the year. Harry Roberts was elected president; James Houk, vice president; Jack Taylor will continue as treasurer. Helmer Nelson is the secretary, having been chosen recently for that position.

Kiwanians Hear Supt. Isbister

The Kiwanians enjoyed a fine talk from Superintendent of Schools, Russell L. Isbister, at their meeting last week in the Hotel Mayflower.

Mr. Isbister discussed some of the school problems the community is faced with, and what has to be done to give the ever increasing number of children in our school district the education that they have a right to expect. He strongly believes that the schools belong to the people, and that each parent, or others, should become interested in their schools.

President of the Board of Education, James Gallimore, gave a few remarks which indicated that the Board recognizes the problems and is doing something about them.

George Bowles was in charge of this splendid program.

Wall Wire Executive Says Manpower Could Cause Our Defeat in Next War

Employees of the Wall Wire Products heard their executive vice president E. L. Malone say that continued taxation required for military establishment will lower our standard of living as the years go by. That continued raising of wages will increase inflation and could bring about an eventual bankruptcy and that the world is waiting for a policy of conciliation in international affairs, at their annual service dinner held last Saturday at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club.

Because the talk was an outstanding one and should prove of interest to all of the readers of The Mail it is presented here in its entirety.

"This is an odd sort of a world in which we live. It certainly is a paradoxical one. Geographically, compared with ourselves, half the world is upside down. But not all of us are aware that what we consider to be correct and proper somewhere else in the world is considered as wrong and improper. Here are some examples.

In America
The infant child is allowed freedom of body movement.

"We look upon the child as an economic liability.

"We brag about our child's ability; how much smarter is our child than others of his age.

"We tolerate freshness and rudeness in our offspring.

"We question a daydreamer in school.

"We usually punish treason, a crime against all citizens, with life imprisonment.

"We punish personal murder with a death sentence.

Somewhere Else
"The infant is strapped tightly to a board 23 hours a day.

"Children are welcome assets and 'the more the merrier' in most primitive tribes.

"Amongst the Dakota Indians the parents will do all within their power to make sure every one will know their child does not excel any other child.

"Most other countries encourage respect from children.

"In India, the daydreamer is a potential holy man.

"For treason, most other countries swiftly enact the death penalty.

"Most other countries figure murder to be a personal matter and the penalty, if any, is light.

"Nothing here is 'right' that cannot be shown to be wrong somewhere else in the world. Nothing here is 'wrong' that cannot be shown to be right somewhere else in the world. You can see therefore that it is possible to bring up people to believe anything that a civilization wants it to believe.

"All countries, all societies, all tribes, have what are called 'in-groups' and 'out-groups.' 'In-groups' are those we associate with ourselves—those who look like us, act like us, think like us, behave like us. The 'outs' are those who do not. And, suspicious always of those whose ways differ from our own, hate or prejudice is built up against them by par-

MOBILITY FOR TODAY—YOUR AUTOMOBILE

By Marguerite Mickelsen

How old is the car you're driving nowadays? A year? Two years? Five? Is it a pre-war model? Have you thought about it lately? Essential transportation for Americans depends on the good condition of the nation's automobiles. Civilian defense people are keenly aware of the truth of that statement.

An emergency that demanded widespread use of automobiles could mean serious trouble if these cars were to fail.

Furthermore, since 71 per cent of all American families depend on their cars for essential transportation, and of this number 52 per cent for the purpose of making a living, it could be serious even without an outside emergency.

It may surprise you to learn that you're an exception if you're driving a new automobile. Of the 49 million cars now operating, more than half (51.4%, to be exact) average 10 years of age.

In spite of record production in the post-war years, the greatest in history, less than half of the passenger cars now being driven could be called even relatively new cars.

Your new car dealer, the man who sold you your car, recently joined fellow dealers in the National Automobile Dealers Association to conduct a nationwide survey—and found some interesting things.

This survey showed that the great majority of car-owning families turn to their new car dealers for maintenance service—feeling that factory trained mechanics know their makes of cars best. The study also showed that car owners approve of the repair and maintenance work done by these specialists.

But these dealers really wanted criticism that would guide them in improving their services. They asked for it—and got it.

Working with their association, they're now busy acting on constructive suggestions to be sure they're ready and able to maintain those aging but essential cars.

"The automobile is essential today," one civic-minded dealer said, "and we want to be sure that adequate production will replace aging cars—that car owners know our service departments are well equipped to maintain these essential cars—and that we use nothing but the finest replacement parts."

These dealers, thinking of national and community welfare, as well as conscientious improvement of their own establishments, want to be sure they are not found inadequate in any emergency.

If you use a light starch on small rugs after washing them the edges will not curl. Since small cotton washable rugs are in high demand, this suggestion from Miss Olevia Meyer, home management specialist, Michigan State College Extension Service, is a fine tip for that make-your-home-safe campaign. Curling edges on rugs can cause falls.

PHS Visited by U of M Bureau of School Services

In an accreditation visit to the Plymouth High School recently by Kent W. Leach of the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, some excellent educational characteristics and some vocational weakness were noted.

In his letter to school officials, Mr. Leach observed that Plymouth High School is characterized by good pupil-pupil, pupil-teacher, and teacher-administrator relations. He says, "It is gratifying to see that Plymouth High School has a program of studies diversified to meet the needs not only of those boys and girls going on to college, but also of those who do not desire to pursue their studies further."

"In the main, the general overall guidance picture, the quality of teaching, the library organization, the general pattern of administration, and the overall tone of the school, are sufficiently good to say that Plymouth High School is a very good school."

However, it was pointed out to school officials that certain weaknesses in the vocational field were rather inadequate for the school size of Plymouth.

Mr. Leach commended the community for the excellent new gymnasium, handroom and swimming pool, but felt that there are other equally important needs that should be met.

For example, more space should be available for shop work. The homemaking room should be modernized. A school the size of Plymouth should have better cafeteria and lunchroom facilities, and many more pupils would be eating at school if proper facilities were available. The matter of electives for the ninth and tenth grades, and the granting of credit for extra, or co-curricular, activities should be examined thoroughly.

For a school the size of Plymouth, the commercial department does not have sufficient experience offered in the area of office practice and business machines instruction. A more adequate art room should be provided.

The staff of Plymouth High School has recognized the need of remodeling the vocational department for some time in order to keep pace with the changing community. In the past a majority of the graduates went on to college, but with the industrial expansion moving this way, the majority of the graduates do not go on to college now. As a result of this change a study is being made of what changes need to be made in order to best suit the needs of the graduates today.

Recently the emphasis has been placed on elementary buildings because of immediate needs, but now due to the influx of population, the upper six grades will need attention also if the community is to have the fine school system for which it has been noted.

"Power Thieves" Beset Tractors

"Power thieves" is the term used by Bill West, service foreman of West Brothers, local International Harvester dealer, to describe the afflictions which beset any farm tractor after it has been many hours of hard work.

"Power thieves" make themselves known so gradually that you don't recognize them. Mr. West adds. In fact, you may still think your tractor is "running good" when actually it is in an advanced—and expensive—stage. He cites several symptoms which may warn you power thieves are at work. An engine that bucks and coughs, runs hot or pings on heavy pull is probably suffering from power thieves. Smoke in the exhaust is another sign. If you have trouble starting, if you fill your gas tank or clean your spark plug a little more often than you used to, then your tractor is probably costing you more to run than it should.

The best way to get rid of power thieves, says Mr. West, is by thorough inspection and overhaul. And the quicker it's done the better, because when power thieves are present tractors are expensive to run. Changing them out is a job for skilled servicemen and precision service tools, but the work quickly pays for itself in the fuel, oil and time it saves. "Take a good look at your tractor now," advises Mr. West, "and if it has 'power thief' symptoms, then get it into the shop as soon as possible."

Outstanding Athlete Honored

David Walaskay who was chosen the outstanding junior athlete of 1951 by the city recreation department was honored at a dinner sponsored by the Optimist club Monday evening. David is the son of Reverend and Mrs. John Walaskay of East Ann Arbor Trail.

David received the first outstanding achievement award given by the Plymouth recreation commission. The award was presented by Herb Woolweaver, Boys' Work chairman of the Optimists.

A student at Starkweather school, it was his play on the Optimist sponsored school team which earned David the nomination to a position on the Pop Warner Foundation midget all star football team.

W. R. Foster, coach of Starkweather's team, gave the introductory speech. Al Wistert, former All American and an outstanding member of one of the University of Michigan's Rose Bowl teams, spoke on the importance of training youth in sports and the effect of that training on a boy's future.

He stressed the fine qualities of leadership, cooperation, and other valuable characteristics a boy derives from participating in sports. Mr. Wistert is now in the insurance business at Northville, and belongs to the Optimists club there. He last competed for great Michigan team of 1947 and helped his alma mater to a 49 to 0 win over Southern California in the Rose Bowl game of that year.

Reverend Walaskay expressed thanks in behalf of his son and praised the club for its work of being a "friend of the boy."

Other guests were Plymouth high school football coach, Charlie Ketterer, and L. B. Rice of the Plymouth branch of the Automobile Club.

Mrs. Barbara Pint Named Jumpmaster in Florida

Mrs. Barbara Pint of 11456 East Side Drive, has been made a "jumpmaster" at Marine Studios, Maringland, Florida, for taking part in one of the feeding programs while visiting the world's only oceanarium.

Mrs. Pint, an employee of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, earned the title for coaxing the large porpoises to leap the entire length of their bodies out of the water and take their food from her hand.

Leadership Class Starts Thursday

A course in leadership will be inaugurated next Thursday evening by the department of recreation and adult education. This course will be adapted to the needs of the class and the first session will outline the field in general with Dr. Howard McCuskey, the well-known professor of Educational Psychology at the University of Michigan in charge.

The following three sessions will be devoted to parliamentary procedure and its relation to democratic group action. These will be conducted by Dr. Fred G. Stevenson, consultant in Leadership Training at the university.

The next three sessions will deal with the less formal type of meetings and with the rapidly developing knowledge of how groups function and how they respond to leadership. Traits of good leaders will be studied as well as the technique of a good discussion leader. This session will be handled by Dr. William C. Morse, associate professor of Educational Psychology at the university.

The final session will be in the form of a social meeting evaluating the course, pointing out definite applications and considering the relationship of the various organizations in the community. The Woman's club of Plymouth will give a tea to the group that night.

Mrs. Esther Hulsing will be the moderator for all sessions.

Anyone interested in this progressive community course should contact the recreational office by calling 2075 and register as soon as possible.

Both of these petitions were referred to the city manager for further study.

The city commission passed a resolution to be sent to the county for more adequate snow removal on W. Ann Arbor trail from Forest to Main street, and on S. Main street from W. Ann Arbor trail to Maple. Both of these trails are maintained by the county.

C & O Trains Cause Traffic Jam

One of the traffic evils of Plymouth has again come into the spotlight. Many complaints have been received by the city hall relating to the long traffic tieups by the C. & O. railroad on streets in the city.

For years the city has been trying to work out some satisfactory arrangement with the railroad so the streets would not be blocked and the town cut in two by a long train. In case of an emergency such as a fire or an ambulance call in lower town, the ambulance or fire department would have to travel a number of miles in detouring around a stalled train.

The city passed an ordinance a few years ago whereas the train crew could be fined if a train blocked the streets for more than 5 minutes. This has not proved satisfactory and the train crews say the fault lies with the persons responsible for making up the trains. The long trains coming up the grade into the city from the east put extra pressure on the drawbars and knuckles, which cause them to buckle in cold weather, leaving a train broken down over streets and roads until a repair crew can get to the scene.

Often times these breakdowns come during the rush hours in the morning and evening when people are going to or from work.

Too, many times the signal gates are down on Plymouth road when there is not a train in sight, or one may be taking water many yards down the track, holding up traffic for blocks on the street.

City Manager Albert Glassford has written the Michigan Public Service Commission to find out if it may be possible to limit the length of a train, and if any city has such an ordinance in force in Michigan.

Why are adolescents always hungry? Because their food digests more rapidly than for older persons. The hunger pangs in active adolescents are really vigorous, says Miss Mary Lewis of the food and nutrition department, Michigan State College.

The "staying qualities" of meat, potatoes, gravy and pie are much better than those of toast, fruit juice and coffee. This fact is the keynote of feeding growing children. The protein of the meat and the fat of the gravy and pie slow up the rate of digestion more than the carbohydrates of toast or coffee. That means plenty of good protein foods and fat foods for growing boys.

Civilization, according to a scientist, began 70 centuries ago. Civilization, did he say?

Society Members Hear Edna Allen

Thirty-five members of the Plymouth Historical Society attended the regular monthly meeting on January 10. It was held in the Arthur Todd home, W. Ann Arbor trail. Mrs. Arthur Mills, Vice President, presided.

Miss Edna M. Allen presented a paper on "Books and Magazines" published from 1825 to 1870.

"The chief aspects of the literature of that period," Miss Allen stated, "were its obvious moral character and its unrealistic attitude toward love. Perhaps the adventurous spirit which led to pioneering also made the literature of the time romantic because ardor is the essence of romance."

A book entitled "Nature's Ways" has been placed in the Dunning Library in memory of Anna Belden Root (Mrs. Charles A. Root, Sr.), a charter member, by the Society.

Robert Hishcock, a pupil at the Bird School entertained the group by playing several selections on the accordion.

A social hour followed with Mrs. Arthur Todd and her committee serving refreshments.

The next meeting will be held at the Veterans Memorial Center when several of the members will act as hosts to the group.

Theater Guild to Meet Monday

The Plymouth Theater Guild is holding its first meeting of 1952 Monday, January 21 at 8:00 p.m. in the Plymouth Veterans Memorial home. Announcement of the spring play selection will be made at that time. As in the past, anyone interested in amateur theater work is invited to attend.

Once again this year the spring play will be for the benefit of the Kiwanis Girl Scout Cabin. Selection of the new play was made by the theater guild and approved by the Kiwanis. In the recent past the Plymouth Guild has presented such favorites as "John Loves Mary," "Blithe Spirit," and "I Like It Here."

The main item on Monday's agenda will be the casting of the play. Refreshments will be served after the close of business.

Dogs Troublesome on City Streets

The police department has had several complaints from citizens, motorists, and school officials lately about dogs congregating and raising a rumpus around school grounds.

It seems that in many cases, instead of a lamb, the family dog follows the children to school, and after the children enter the building, these canines hold sort of a reunion each morning. In fact, most of these are country dogs from the subdivisions just outside the city limits, and when they get together with their city cousins the howling, barking and snarling becomes a dog-gone nuisance.

Too, they get in packs and run across streets causing motorists to become frustrated and irritated. When they get in packs, some of them become excited and snap at little tots on their way to school.

The police department and the school authorities request that anyone who allows his dog to follow children to school to refrain from doing so, or strict measures will have to be taken to curb the disturbance caused.

He served as Supervisor of Canton township from 1933 until 1945 and was an active member of the Out-County Supervisors association. Prior to this he was Canton Township clerk for two terms.

He is survived by his only child, Mrs. Truesdell; two grandchildren, Sally and Louis Truesdell; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Streng of Grosse Point Park and Mrs. Mary Streng of Detroit; several nieces and nephews.

Pronounce Oregon Right Says Reader

In a letter to the Plymouth Mail, Lemuel Truesdell of Portland, Oregon, and a former Plymouth resident, says that Oregonians dislike the way easterners pronounce the name of his adopted state. The correct way is by stressing the first syllable instead of the last. It should be OR-e-gon and not Or-e-GON. Oregonians, like Texans, dislike hearing over the radio, as in the recent Oregon MSC football game, their name mispronounced. In fact, during the half of the above mentioned game, many telegrams were received by the announcer to that effect.

Mr. Truesdell was born and raised just outside the city limits of the city, and attended the local high school.

He states he has been a reader of the Plymouth Mail for the past 50 years.

 ents, schools, churches, newspapers, magazines, radio, television, almost from the time we first open our eyes. All of us tend to go through life wearing mental blinders imposed upon us by our culture and civilization; we believe in what we are led to believe is necessary for our protection and survival.

"Just because a nation thinks something is right for it, does not necessarily make it right for others. Just because a community of people acts in a certain way does not mean that way is the best either for their own or the world's best interests.

"We are a nation with plentiful resources, practically alone in a world of nations without such known resources. We try to popularize a philosophy of democracy based on a specific type of overflow economy. We cannot quite understand the resistance with which we are met by other nations with limited resources and an austere economy, who neither understand nor desire our type of political democracy, who could not exist with our type of business democracy.

"An immense disservice was done to our thinking by the 'one-world' slogan that was the rage some years ago, for we now cherish the concept of a world which will be motivated by the same ideas, the same general types of religion, politics and business practices as our own. That is the kind of a 'one world' that it is unlikely ever to be. Nations are not easily going to change their fundamental ways of thought and action just because other nations disapprove. This is a world in which it is increasingly evident we must learn to live and work and make our peace with the 'out-groups', with those whose beliefs differ from our own.

"Throughout the world there are many areas where thought differs regarding economic, political and cultural systems. Nations differ and people within those nations differ. One such difference lies in thinking solely of the use of force as the world determinant. We in America seem to have adopted the attitude now that we have the world's greatest military strength, that our 'destiny' is forcibly to convert the world to our type of democracy. I want to analyze this question of force not from the ethical standpoint, but only from the standpoint of available manpower.

"Newspapers and magazines lately have filled us with the wonders of our country's growth. We now number almost 151,000,000. Soon we will be 175,000,000, then 200,000,000. Then—who can tell? 250,000,000? 300,000,000? Pretty wonderful, is it not, for a nation of but 3,000,000 just 150 years ago? It certainly is.

"Yet these popular authors fail to give us the very serious story underlying these future population figures. Back in the 1800's the families of 10, 12, 14, 16 were not uncommon. Large numbers of children and unlimited immigration swelled our growth phenomenally. But, in general, large families are a thing of the past. Look around at your neighbors—who has more than 2 children? And 2 children per family is an insufficient number to reproduce ourselves.

"If a country were composed of men and women, girls and boys, all under 40, you could conceive of heavy birth rates, and negligible death rates, and a tremendous population increase. But if a country were composed of men and women all over 40, you could conceive of very few births, heavy death rates, and the certainty of a population decline. So you can understand how the number of citizens at the various ages, and especially the number in the young and reproductive ages, will determine the pattern of a country's future growth.

"A very good measure of the true reproductive rate of a nation is to ascertain the number of women in a nation between the ages of 15 and 45, and the number of surviving girl babies to which they give birth during their reproductive years. Should these women give birth to just the same number of girl babies as themselves there will be no margin for a future increase of population. If they give birth to fewer than their own number then the nation's population is destined to decline.

"Unfortunately for us, based on what we know of our reproductive rate, there is no indication whatever that we are headed for a population of more than 200,000,000; there is every reason to believe that after reaching that peak our population will fall off. At this moment the true reproductive rate is about 1.00—just enough for a future stationary population a generation from now.

"The bumper baby crop of recent years serves only to advance the dates of the births of the first and second children; but it will not more than temporarily interrupt America's birth rate which has declined continuously for 150 years. In brief, we are headed for a maximum population and then a declining population.

"The number of young men and women available determines the capacity of a country to wage successful war. TNT bombs, A bombs, H bombs, ships, submarines, tanks, guns, bullets, rockets, etcetera, all are weapons of war, some more deadly than others. But never lose track of this truth: wars are won by the man power able to seize and occupy enemy territory.

"What is the population situation in the world? Examine some of our potential allies in North West and Central Europe:

England—Will reach its population peak in 10 to 20 years. Its reproductive ratio already is under 1.00. It is .80 to be exact. By the way do you realize the population density in England is 1 1/2 times as great as India or

China and over 10 times as great as that in the U.S.A.?

France—Its population has been stable for about 80 years. Its reproductive ratio now is .90, or only 9/10 of what is needed to maintain its population.

Germany—Another country with less than a 1.00 reproductive ratio.

Italy—The birth rate has been dropping for the past 30 years. Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Ireland, Wales—All will reach their population zenith in the next 10-20 years. All are under the needed reproductive ratio of 1.00.

In only three countries in all Europe in 1940, Latvia, Netherlands, and Germany was population under age 5 greater than the population age 15-19.

How about our potential enemies, real or imagined:

Russia—During the past 70 years its population has more than doubled, to 200,000,000. Their reproduction rate is 1.60. 50,000,000 will be added to the population within the next 20 to 30 years.

China—China contains 450,000,000 people and its population is still increasing. Its reproduction rate is high, perhaps 1.50.

India—Though the average life expectancy of a new born child in India is but 26 years, compared with our own average life of over 67 years, the excess of birth over deaths produces rapid population growth. Reproduction ratio in India is about 1.30.

Japan—With a land area only equal to the State of Texas, Japan held 70,000,000 in 1930 and holds 85,000,000 today. It has a growing population, a reproductive ratio in the neighborhood of 1.45.

Let us take a perspective of the population situation: Russia has a population today of 200,000,000. Her population in 1970 will be 250,000,000.

South and East Europe, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Albania, Bulgaria, Greece, Lithuania, Poland, Romania, and Yugoslavia have populations of 130,000,000; in 1970 it will be 190,000,000.

The total population including Europe and Russia today: 380,000,000; in 1970 440,000,000.

Northwest and Central Europe has a total population today of 237,000,000; in 1970 225,000,000.

America's population today is 151,000,000 and in 1970 will be 160,000,000. The total population including Northwest and Central Europe and America today is 388,000,000; in 1970 it will be 405,000,000.

"Not only will Russia and South and East Europe together have 10 percent more total population in 1970, but they will have a population distribution that will give them perhaps 15 percent more young people than we and our potential allies can count on.

And should you place China, India, and Japan, one or all, in the scales with Russia the balance tips very far against us.

"Since we cannot wage a successful war without manpower, and since our manpower and the manpower of our allies will be shy of our needs within the discernable future, for the preservation of the United States of America and our way of life for ourselves and our children, I suggest that we bring pressure upon our government officials to seriously advance some proposal, and to seriously consider any and every proposal by friend or foe, that would offer a way by which no country or any conceivable group of countries would be able advantageously to wage a war against any other country or conceivable group of countries.

"We can win no war alone, by ourselves. To rely upon our weapons of war to win a peace is to rely upon a mental mirage. To expect other nations always to come to our side when we call is as likely of attainment as their coming to our side when we instituted war in Korea; nations will fight when and with whom their best interests are served. To expect a radio voice or pamphlets to overthrow a regime in a nation we dislike is just as likely as our overthrowing of our government because of pamphlets and a radio voice from Russia.

"A United Nations, shorn from its inception of all power to keep peace, is a colossal fraud. We do need a federation of nations vested with armed police power sufficient to circumvent international warfare. Does that mean giving up our sovereign right to wage war everywhere and whenever we want? Yes, it does. Does it involve taking the risk that all other nations of the world may gang up against us and make us regret any move we make for world peace? Yes, it does. But since when have we lost our courage for taking risks in a righteous cause?

"In the hope of permanent world peace and the non-extinction of humanity it is well worth the risk to surrender the excess might of the U.S.A., if some or all other nations do the same sort of surrendering of their excess armed power. As a business proposition it would be worth while; the continued taxation required for our military establishment means our standard of living will lower as the years go by; and raising of wages will only increase money or price inflation with an eventual bankruptcy in prospect. As a matter of just plain common sense, we can't 'win' a next war; neither we nor our allies will have the manpower for that. Why therefore not face the facts and if only in our own interests, institute a policy of conciliation in international affairs for which the whole world is waiting?

And of what should that consist? In part—

- (1) A soul-tingling bi-partisan declaration to the world of nations of our intention, to engage in no more international wars acting solely in our own behalf.
- (2) An offer to disarm to such an extent that an international agency will have the balance of military power and the ability to force and maintain peace.
- (3) An offer to the world to make available through this same international agency the cost of 2 years of our military expenditures, say $120,000,000,000, to be used as a non-interest bearing revolving loan fund for countries who desire to rebuild, industrialize, improve health, or otherwise help themselves, regardless of their political beliefs.
- (4) An acknowledgement of the dignity of all humans anywhere in the world, regardless of their race, color, religion, politics or culture.

"If more people understood that their economic well being, their resources, their cultures, the things for which they say they fight are not saved or gained but are destroyed by war, nothing could stop the clamor for a genuine effort for world peace, the like of which exists in no important nation in the world today.

"Eventually the common needs of us common people will give rise to such a demand. Some day men of the calibre of the late Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, Governor Earl Warren of California, Supreme Court Justice William Douglas will prevail upon their political parties and nations to embark upon a program of this sort. I hope that day will not be far distant.

Whenever you hear about the inevitability of war and of war being deep-seated in human nature, don't you believe it. War as we wage it today is not an instinct nor a drive in man. Any people that think so have been made to think so by the way in which they have been brought up. There are better ways to solve our own or anyone else's problems than resorting to wars—especially so if we are unlikely to win that war."

Thousands of Michigan home-makers will enjoy "refresher talks" during Farmers' Week on Michigan State College campus, East Lansing, soon. The home economics programs are featured on January 29, 30, and 31.

Short Ribs

NO MATTER what your activity, piracy or philanthropy, you are likely to run afoul of some society "for-the-prevention-of." I'm sure angels run into as many organizations founded to oppose something as do devils. Don't imagine you can swat even a moth without finding it has some club with a high-faluting name for an ally. A man in England tried it—invented a moth trap with an ultra-violet light irresistible to the insects and lured about 40,000 of them nightly. But the inevitable society reared its ugly head—or maybe it was its ugly vice president—and the poor little moths were turned loose to deposit larvae in your best pantaloons. The Insect Protection Committee of the Royal Entomological Society expressed in government circles its alarm over moth mortality.

ZANY ZOOLOGY: I don't know the name of the society, but one must exist to express concern for the obstetrical toad—male of the species. If your wife thinks you are a toad, just consider the obstetrical variety. Nature has endowed him with the duty of taking up and fastening around his legs the string of eggs which the female lays and carrying them about until they hatch. Human husbands are a lot better off than the obstetrical toad, even if human husbands have to baby-sit every now and then. He is one toad that even his fellow toads call a toad.

The society for the prevention of cruel husbands should bear about a friend of mine; his wife told him it wasn't the price of a birthday gift that mattered to her but the fact that the gift was a token of something. So for her birthday, he gave her a streetcar token.

BUSINESS NOTE: But he's not as eccentric as the Janitor in the little Kentucky town who prophesies every year and proclaims that a certain day will be Judgment Day. He frightens few people, but the merchants don't miss a bet—they publicize the day and hold Judgement Day Clearance Sales. Business is generally so good that some of the merchants are looking forward to announcement of the real Judgement Day.

 armed forces in the Korean theater of operations. This person requested that the name not be used. Here is the letter.
 Dear Mr. Eaton:
 "It has been nearly 3 years since I have been in Plymouth and I think of it often.

A short time ago there were pictures in Life magazine of the emptiness of the storage places for plasma in various cities in the states.

It makes us who are away from our country wonder what has happened.

Here in Japan quite often they turn pleas in to the occupation for certain types of blood needed in emergencies—and the people over here are doing fine each 8 weeks.

I am not a donor as I have not been able to keep my hemoglobin up to par, but believe me I wish it were. So I thought maybe I could do my part by sending a note to you, asking the people there to get in and pitch.

Not that I say some aren't doing it, but it sometimes takes a bit more doing.

You have Kiwanis club, Rotary club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Masons, Knights of Pythias and various other units including the Womens clubs.

I think it would be a wonderful Christmas and New Year for everyone if they would try for records to see what percent they can come up to.

One carrier here in the Pacific nearly had a 100 percent record. If the Army and Navy can—I'm sure the citizens of Plymouth could go to the Red Cross and donate a pint of their blood.

Mr. Eaton, I am writing this to you because I always liked your editorials in the Plymouth Mail.

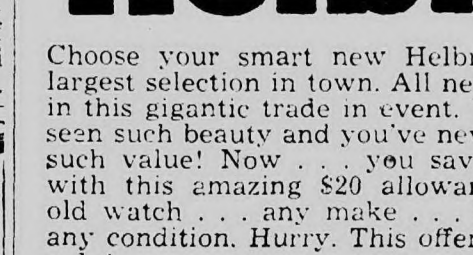

Hope you will write one on this Blood and Plasma situation. Believe me it is needed.

In regards to the feeling I got when I saw those empty storage places, I think most military, navy, and occupation persons serving overseas felt the same way.

Handy Jim's FIX-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

Spring on Clothesline Keeps It Taut

THERE'S nothing so annoying as having to dodge the clothesline in the basement. Here's a simple remedy, illustrated below.

The one end of the line to a screen-door spring. Since the spring is not strong enough to carry the weight of a line of clothes, run the end of the line past the spring and tie it to the hook also. Leave sufficient slack so that the weight is taken by the line after the spring stretches about one-quarter of its length.

This arrangement keeps the empty line taut and does not interfere with the line in use.—Illustration reproduced through courtesy of Popular Mechanics.

Rambo Wants to Know Where He Can Buy Jumbo Peanut Seed

Do you happen to know of any place in these United States where Frank Rambo can get a seed catalog advertising "jumbo" peanut seed?

If so, just write Mr. Rambo a letter and give him the address. He has fully decided that he is going to put in a crop of peanuts this forthcoming summer, but the peanuts he intends to plant must be of the jumbo variety.

"You see" said Mr. Rambo the other day, "I've been able to find a market for my peanut crop providing they are of top grade and of jumbo size. Harry Lush writes to me from California that he is willing to buy for his Plymouth and Northville theatres all of the peanuts I can raise, but he insists that they must be better than Grade A-one and of jumbo size. I'm not worried about the grade, but its the size of the peanuts that is the big bother."

Mr. Rambo advises that he has looked over a lot of seed catalogs and can't find one that advertise a special "jumbo" size. He even retrieved from one of the smaller buildings out at the Rambo peanut ranch on Ann Arbor trail a Montgomery Ward catalog, but he declares that he couldn't even find any kind of a peanut seed advertised in it.

"I guess what Harry wants is some peanuts that will be about as big as goose eggs. Well if I can't find any that will grow that big, I'll sell my 1952 crop to the peanut politicians down in Washington and call it a day" added Mr. Rambo.

In an effort to help out Plymouth's enthusiastic peanut grower, the "farm editor" of The Mail recently visited the peanut bowl up at Columbus, Georgia, where they play football with peanuts instead of footballs. It seems that Columbus sets itself up as the "peanut" center of the United States and The Mail's farm editor thought he might get some inside "dope" for the Rambo peanut ranch of Plymouth.

Said one Georgia peanut grower, "Of all things! Think of any one up in Michigan going to try and take our peanut honors away from us! What des he know about peanuts, I'd like to know."

That's just it. Surprising as it may seem, Plymouth's peanut farmer has been spending his few extra minutes getting together a lot of information about peanuts and how good they are.

When The Mail's farm editor walked into his office a while back and asked him something about peanuts, he pulled out a clipping from his vest pocket, and said, "Read that and then you'll know something about peanuts."

The Mail farm editor was quite surprised when looking over the clipping to find that it contained a lot of facts about peanuts and how to use peanuts in cooking. "Maybe if Mr. Lush doesn't want to buy my peanuts because they're not as big as goose eggs, some of the women folks around Plymouth will buy them to cook with," said Mr. Rambo, "and I will not have to sell them to the peanuts in Washington."

We don't claim to be a wizard on international complications... but the attitude of the Hungarian Communist leaders seems as far-fetched as a palm tree in the Klondike. After the Hungarian Communies forced us to pay $120,000 for the release of 4 of our flyers, the U.S. closed the Hungarian consulates in N.Y. and Cleveland. The Reds claim this was rude and uncalled for. Their rules of politeness must have been prepared by the same fellow who designs one-way streets. If it's rude to protect ourselves we'd better start developing some bad manners... before it's too late. Many hunters are reported using hearing aids to amplify woodland sounds. How Two Boys Got to See Circus By Filling Mermaid's Water Tank

Charles Bennett's Love for Fishing Bullheads in Phoenix Pond Worried Mother—He Tells How Plymouth Celebrated Fourth Some 75 Years Ago

Article No. 2
After our family had moved off Main street to the little-traveled road along in front of my uncle's blacksmith shop on what is now known as Penniman avenue near Union street, I discovered that the creek which flowed down what is now known as Fralick avenue and alongside The Plymouth Mail building, also flowed through our backyard.
It was full of minnows, and worms were also plentiful in our backyard. Memory carries me back to two or three unforgettable spots in those days down on the bank of what is now known as Phoenix pond. This pond was the nearest and most favored body of water for bullhead fishing.
I have spent many a dark night on its banks, building a fire and fishing for bullheads, never realizing that my mother might be nearly telling the truth when she made the statement that in her opinion the largest bullheads were on the bank of the pond and not in it.
As I look back over the years I now realize that my mother was not wholly in sympathy with fishermen. It was her contention that a person who wasted valuable time fishing had worms on both ends of his fish line.
A favorite hang-out for boys in those days was the harness shop of Thomas Madden, whose place of business was in a large corner room of Union hall, then located at the corner of Main street and Penniman avenue. He was fond of small boys and story-telling and it was in this lowly horse "haberdashery" that I learned the art of stretching my jaws chewing harness wax while also acquiring the art of stretching my stories to meet all competition. I was nearly 20 years of age when Mr. Madden and his family, consisting of a wife and two sons, moved from Plymouth back to Long Island, New York.
Plymouth in those days was never without a Fourth of July celebration—the celebration consisting of firing off a few Roman candles, a few firecrackers, and the banging of big blacksmith anvils from morning until night.
The unusual bang of an anvil was created by placing one anvil on top of another, with some black powder between, which was set off by the heated end of a long iron rod. Firing the anvil was always one of the big events of the day.
Powder and candles cost but little in those days, but that little had to be raised, and a committee was always selected and the members canvassed the town for this Fourth of July fund. Plymouth at that time was a town consisting altogether of 400 or 500 counting all the people, dogs and cows.
The greater part of the town was then owned by five men, three of them brothers, namely Siron Kellogg, Josiah Kellogg and Cassius Kellogg. The other two landowners were E. J. Penniman and George W. Starkweather. My Uncle Henry often used to tell me that all five of our rich citizens gave three cheers on the Fourth and those were not too hearty.
Three of these men always needed and kept a hired man, but they would not keep a man who whistled while at work.

claiming that whistling sapped a man's vitality and strength. I knew all of these men very well, and how I loved to whistle whenever one of them passed me.
The present home of the Schrader Funeral parlor was the residence of an uncle of mine by the name of Zacharia Chandler. His wife, my Aunt Susan, was the only milliner in town and because of this she was in the habit of high-hatting the other ladies in town.
Their only son Frank was a buddy of mine for quite some time and it was in the grape arbor behind their house where Frank and I acquired the terrible habit of smoking. It began by Frank sneaking out of the house to the dark shade of that grape arbor, with a well-filled old pipe of his father's and a box of parlor matches.
We took turns in puffing at that pipe for a while until yours truly began to feel dizzy. After that Frank had the pipe all to himself.
Back some 75 years ago there was an open space of ground bounded on the west by Union street and by the present C. & O. tracks on the east, which would now be that area south of the Daisy plant.
It was on this ground that I played my first games of baseball and it was here that I watched the erection of the great tents often the first (and to my vision at that time) the largest circus and menagerie that ever came to Plymouth. It was "Robinson's Colossal Circus and Menagerie."
Together with other urchins of the town I walked a long ways down Canton Center road to meet this circus when it was coming to town from Ypsilanti with its one elephant and two camels tramping along the dusty road.
I have had my share of thrills in my lifetime, but there has never been anything like that circus. The only reason I did not join the circus and become a great clown was because nobody asked me. I wanted to badly enough, and had I not gotten so tired and gone to sleep while they took the main tent down over my head late that night, I might have joined up.
What made me a bit tired was the fact that it had been a very hot day and I carried quite a lot of water that unforgettable circus day. It happened that the glorious and stupendous attraction of that circus was a "mermaid," who could eat, drink, smoke and chew gum under water.
In order to do this marvelous thing, there had to be water. In order to hold this water and give the audience full view of the maiden, the circus management had purchased a very large tank. Needless to say each day this tank had to be filled with water and as Plymouth at that time was known as an anti-tank town, with only wells and a creek providing its water supply, it was up to volunteers to come forward and receive one ticket to the circus for each of the afternoon and evening performance for carrying water in pails from the nearest local wet spots to fill the "mermaid's" tank.
Well, my chum then, George Kellogg and myself together with many other urchins of the community applied for the job to carry water for the "mermaid's" tank. George and I were given the assignment—that is what the circus superintendent called it—to fill the tank for which we would receive in return one circus ticket.
We were by far the smallest and shortest of the applicants—and in using the word shortest I include its financial meaning as well—and we wondered for a brief while just why we were so lucky against so much competition from other larger boys. But the mystery was explained when the circus superintendent told us it was because we being so short that we would be nearer the water when we filled our pails, thus making our task much more comfortable and easy, and giving him the assurance, too, that we would be sure and have the tank overflowing by the time the "artist" would be needing it.
We had an early breakfast and shortly afterwards went back to the circus grounds to begin filling that tank. We were handed three pails, one to be carried between us and the other two to be carried in our other hands.
We started for the creek that crossed Main street just north of the present Plymouth Mail building and ran down the bank of the creek to about the place where the Grange hall now stands, where there was a good place to dip water.
I have often wondered since why either George or myself failed to ask how many millions of gallons of water that tank held but it surely must have been a million or more from all the water we carried that day.
Suffice it to say it was a large, very large tank and by going without our dinner and getting a running start each time on the return trip for more water, we were able to carry enough water to almost fill that tank in time for the 2:30 o'clock appearance of the "mermaid."
The young lady did her water acts in fine shape and in spite of all the wishes and hopes George and I had during the day when carrying water, she did not choke to death while smoking under water. The following year came Can Amberg's tents to Plymouth, following these came P. T. Barnum's Greatest show on earth and while I saw each one come and go, the tank and the mermaid never returned to haunt my dreams. (To be continued.)

Hints For Plymouth Homemakers

Cheese Adds Zest, Variety To Commonplace Meals

Cheese can be used in a variety of ways. Macaroni rarebit is a new twist to an old recipe. Two other recipes using macaroni are macaroni casserole, southern style and macaroni egg nests.

Tangy cheese crispies and scalloped potatoes and cheese are two other delicious recipes.

Macaroni Rarebit

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
3 ounces elbow macaroni
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
2 1/2 cups milk
3 cups grated Cheddar cheese
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Freshly ground pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon paprika

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. In a 2-quart chafing dish, melt butter or margarine over low heat; add flour and blend. Add milk; simmer until mixture is thick, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients, stirring until cheese is melted. Add cooked macaroni, mixing thoroughly. Serve immediately. 6-8 servings.

Tangy Cheese Crispies

Cut thin slices of refrigerator dry bread, spread with soft butter.

Better see Beglinger for better deal. New and used cars.

ter or margarine, and sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Toast until crisp, and serve with soups or salads. These crunchy rye bread tidbits also are delightful as appetizers with beverages or to nibble on while watching television.

Macaroni Casserole, Southern Style

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
3 ounces elbow macaroni
1/2 pound raw smoked ham, ground
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese (or 1/2 pound)
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 10-1/2 ounce can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. In a large bowl, combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Add cooked macaroni, mixing thoroughly. Pour mixture into a 2-quart casserole. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 1 hour. Serve piping hot. Makes 4-6 servings.

Scalloped Potatoes and Cheese

1/2 cup minced onion
3 cups medium white sauce
4 cups cooked sliced potatoes
1/2 lb. packaged sliced cheddar cheese

Cook onion in butter or margarine called for in making white sauce. Arrange alternate layers of potatoes, sauce and cheese slices in shallow baking dish, ending with cheese. Bake in moderate oven, 350 F., 20 minutes or until cheese melts and browns. Makes 8 servings.

Macaroni Egg Nests

1 lb. macaroni
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons grated cheese
5 eggs (for serving 5 persons)

Cook macaroni until tender and drain. Thoroughly blend flour, salt and pepper with melted butter. Add milk, gradually stirring into a smooth paste. Mix in grated cheese until dissolved. Combine with cooked macaroni and pour into a greased baking dish. Cook in a moderate oven until macaroni is slightly browned. Make five indentations in the macaroni and break eggs into them. Pepper the eggs slightly and cook in a moderate oven until the eggs are cooked.

Shoulder Chops Are Thrift Buy

Lamb chops are a man's choice frequently. And for the woman of the house who's keeping her eye on her food account she might well look to chops cut from the lamb shoulder—either arm or blade chops. The home-maker will often find these chops several cents per pound less than the popular loin chops.

Chops for broiling should be cut at least 3/4 inch thick. To broil, place the chops on the broiler rack so that the top of 3/4 to 1-inch chops is 2 inches from the heat; 2-inch chops, 3 inches from heat. When one side is browned, season, turn and finish cooking on the second side. Season and serve. Chops cut 1 inch thick require 10 to 12 minutes. Chops cut 2 inches require from 20 to 22 minutes cooking time.

Chops with a tart topping present a tasty serving variation. This dish is cooked by braising—a second lamb chop cookery method. For this dish, brown the chops in lard or drippings. Season, then top each chop with an onion slice, a lemon slice and a green pepper ring. Pour 1/2 cup of tomato juice over the chops, cover and cook in a slow oven (300 F.) or simmer on top of the range for about 45 minutes.

Some Different Biscuits For Winter Meals

Good hot biscuits can play a host of roles in your winter menus if you make them different. To do this, add ingredients to your biscuits or cut the dough into unexpected shapes.

For instance, use tomato juice to moisten the dough in place of milk. These tomato biscuits make an excellent topping for stews. Cheese biscuits are another choice for serving with numerous casseroles. Deviled ham added to the biscuits gives them hearty proportions just right for winter serving.

Mixed parsley added to the dough produces another tempting biscuit variation. Or cut biscuits with your doughnut cutter, bake them over a meat pie, then tuck parsley roses in the doughnut holes just before serving. If you like, use cookie cutters to make various shaped biscuits. Or cut dough with a knife into rectangles or triangles.

Remember for the finest of biscuits cut the lard (4 to 6 tablespoons) into the flour (2 cups sifted), baking powder (1 tablespoon), and salt (3/4 teaspoon) mixture until it has a fine even crumb. Add just enough milk (1 1/3 to 1/2 cup) to make a soft dough, then turn out onto a lightly floured surface. Knead the dough gently for about 30 seconds, then pat or roll to 1/2 inch thick and cut as desired. Bake in a hot oven (450 F.) for 10 to 12 minutes.

The average American executive secretary, or "Girl Friday," is 36 years old, has worked in her present job 8 years, earns $255 a month. Her chances of getting a husband through her job are not as great as many think—52.8 per cent of the country's secretaries are single; 50.6 per cent are married; 11.9 per cent divorced; and 4.7 per cent widowed.

You'll be in love with a wonderful soup when you eat cream of mushroom.

Enjoy mushroom soup just as it comes from the can. Or turn it into an even richer combination like Mushroom-Corn Soup. It's easy to make. Just blend together 1 can (1 1/4 cups) of condensed cream of mushroom soup with 1 cup cream-style corn and 3/4 cup milk. Then stir in 2 slices of crisped bacon (broken into 1-inch pieces) and 1/2 cup of chopped onion which has been browned in the bacon drippings. Heat well. Garnish each bowlful with crisp bits of bacon. Makes 4 servings.

WINTERY WINDS make the young 'uns and Dad hurry home for something heartwarming and filling. At lunch or supper on such a day, feature this "randi" dish.

GAY GARNISH for the top of a sandwich is made this way. Spread sandwich filling (cheese, peanut butter or whatever is the family favorite) on a bun. Stick two toothpicks through the sandwich to hold the layers together. Perch a radish on top of one toothpick, a chunk of pickle on the other.

Braising Know How

Braising is a method of moist-heat cookery in which the meat is browned in a little hot fat, then cooked slowly in a covered utensil, usually with a small amount of added liquid. (Examples: pot roast, Swiss steak.)

1. Season meat with salt and pepper. (Sprinkle with flour for a richer brown.)
2. Brown meat slowly on all sides in a little hot fat.
3. Add small amount of liquid. As liquid cooks away, a little more may be added.
4. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat at simmering temperature on top of range or in moderately low (325 F.) oven until meat is tender. (2 to 3 hours for a pot roast, 1 to 2 hours for Swiss steak.) 30-45 minutes before meat is done, vegetables may be added. Continue cooking until meat and vegetables are tender.

Meat Cuts For Braising
BEEF: Pot Roasts, Arm, Blade, Round and Flank Steaks; Short ribs; Plate; Brisket; Cross Cut Shanks.
VEAL: Breast, Arm, Shoulder, Sirloin and Round Steaks (cutlets); Chops; Cubes; Patties.
PORK: Shoulder steaks (cutlets); Chops; Cubes; Patties.
LAMB: Shoulder Chops, Breast, Neck Steaks, Shanks.
VARIETY MEATS: Heart, Kidney, Brains, Liver, Sweetbreads.

Special Points on Braising

1. Braising is the best method for preparing pork and veal steaks and chops since these cuts may be cooked well done by this method and yet be tender and juicy.
2. Brown braised meats slowly for a brown that stays on better.
3. Meats may be braised in a slow oven (300 F.) or simmered on range.
4. Season meat after browning or, if the meat is floured, add the seasoning to the flour.

Florida Not Just Home For "Old Folks" - Young People Flock South For Vacations

By Elton R. Eaton
Alligator News - What Happened to Music Circus - Michigan Girl on Editorial Staff of Florida's Best Newspaper

What about Florida in this year of a bitter undeclared war our country is not winning in Korea, in this year of price controls, price juggling, and Washington grafters basking in the sunshine along Florida's Atlantic coast, and the coldest winter our good Michigan has experienced since I was a youngster over in Kalamazoo country?
What about Florida, did you ask?
The thing that has amazed me the most has been the untold number of young men and women, middle-aged men and women one sees where ever you might go.
Yes, there are a lot of elderly people here, too, but not in proportion anywhere near to the vast numbers of younger people one encounters any and everywhere.
Seemingly most of them are here on vacation trips. At a Rotary club meeting a week or so ago in Miami, it was amazing to note that some 150 visitors who were present from 37 different states were not elderly men, but middle-aged business men, men within the age range of 35 to 50 years.

What is the answer, when one is under the impression that most people who come to Florida during winter months are 60 years of age or older? That is one I haven't figured out. Maybe you have the answer.

Ran across Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith of Northville up in Fort Lauderdale the other day. Both are enjoying the warm winter weather, but both are sure now that they have their outside light on at night when they step outside their home in that beautiful new subdivision on the north side of Fort Lauderdale.

One of their neighbors who lives only two short blocks from the Smith residence stepped outside to his car port the other evening to get into his car. As he opened the door, something snapped at his legs and badly bit him. Tearing himself loose he hurried back into the house to get a gun and a flashlight.

He returned to his car to discover a big five foot alligator under it. There is a law in Florida which prohibits the killing of alligators, so he called the police who finally got a big sack over the head of the alligator, loaded it into a car and took it back into a swamp some ten or fifteen miles from the city. Doctors were called to treat the badly slashed leg of Mr. Smith's neighbor.

A short time ago I happened to meet A. A. Applegate, director of the department of journalism of Michigan State College at a Rotary club meeting. The Applegates were down here to spend a few days during the holiday period with their daughter, Roberta Applegate, who is a member of the editorial staff of the Miami Herald. Miss Applegate was for a number of years the Associated Press representative in Lansing, resigning this position to become head of the press staff selected by former Governor Kim Sigler. During his administration she had a most commendable job in handling a most difficult task. It was soon after leaving this position when she became associated with the Miami Herald, a top-notch newspaper. And every newspaper man in Michigan knows that her father has in a few brief years made the journalism department of Michigan State College one of the best in

PHS Gymnasium to be Finished by February 15

Plymouth's new high school gymnasium will soon be complete. According to Fred Coverdill, construction engineer, the completion date will be February 15.

On that night the Masonic Lodge will have their 100th anniversary dinner initiating the new building with the first activity.

The swimming pool will be finished sometime in March. The reason for this delay is that the beams needed for ceiling support and construction were held back for some time by the government. Now with materials on hand work has continued and the natatorium is beginning to take shape.

There is an airconditioning unit throughout the entire building and a soil water mechanism has also been installed.

The shower rooms are tile with chrome and white enamel plumbing. There are handriers built into the wall for the girls coming out of the pool.

The gymnasium will have bleachers 15 feet high on the east and west walls with a seating capacity of 2,000.

The band room is shaped like a shell and the acoustics at dead center of the room throw the director's voice out with a volume of a loudspeaker.

Laundry and moisture rooms, coach's offices, a ticket office, and a long, wide corridor constitute the rest of the new addition.

According to the basketball schedule and if the gymnasium meets its completion date, Plymouth's basketball squads will be able to play at least one game on the new floor.

Tait's Win Again

Tait's, the league leader, mustered enough scoring punch in the last half to enable them to polish off the unpredictable Daisy five by a score of 68 to 53. At the half the score was 38 to 30 in favor of the experienced playets.

For the winners Paige was high with 15 points, Brodie had 13 and Ebersole and Becker 10 each.

For Daisy, Wally Dzurus led with 17 points, Huebler had 11 and Jacobus 10.

Inter-Grade BB Season Begins

With the inter-grade school basketball league getting into action since the holidays, some of the teams have shown remarkable power. At Smith, the Smith reserves downed the Catholic School 8 to 2. The varsity found Smith romping over Catholic 32 to 0.

In another varsity game Starkweather defeated Bird 10 to 2, and the reserves saw Bird turning the tables and beating Starkweather reserves 10 to 2. In the varsity game Barraco scored all his team's points for Starkweather.

On Monday Starkweather reserves beat Catholic reserves 14 to 6, and the Starkweather varsity downed the Catholics 16 to 15.

At Bird only one game was played. Bird varsity downing Lutheran 41 to 0—Dzurus led his team to victory by scoring 12 points.

In another game Starkweather varsity downed Smith 10 to 7, and the Smith reserves bested Starkweather 8 to 6.

Sports Glances

by "Professor" Edgar Brown

The Detroit Red Wings are again on top of the pile in the hockey league. This has been the customary place for the Detroit club for the past few years. It seems they run away with the league championship, and then sort of fold up during the playoffs. They play good ball during the season, but lose to some of the teams that they consistently beat during the regular season.

Some teams can get "edged up" for a particular game or series, while others can't. The Toronto Maple Leafs are a good example of a club that plays best when the chips are down. There are times when the Leafs barely squeeze into the playoffs, but they sure play the other favorite teams to a standstill once they get on the ice.

The Wings have finished in first place by a comfortable margin many times, but have seldom won the trophy in the playoffs.

See where they are having a contest during the next three weeks in connection with the Sales Refresher course offered in the Adult Education program—this contest is to see who can send in the best letter on salesman service rendered by our hundreds of sales people in Plymouth.

I think this a grand idea and perhaps we should have a little item in each week, not just the next three, whenever we see someone doing a good job.

Too many times we are ready to criticize a person's faults, but we should also recognize his good points. I think most of the people who have faults would appreciate it very much if a person, instead of telling others of a person's faults, would come to the person and try to help him in some way. Some problems can be worked out alone—others need outside help. Maybe if more people would try to think of the other person, our city would be a lot better place in which to live.

Less sunshine in the winter months makes it important that your family obtain vitamin D from other sources such as irradiated milk, cereals, fish liver oils or concentrates of these oils.

I have heard much favorable comment on these teen-age dances held on Saturday night at the Masonic temple. On Friday night there is a dance at the high school, and then these Saturday night dances sponsored by the Optimist club, give the teenagers of Plymouth something to do on weekends and to have fun in doing it. These dances will continue as long as the young people attend them enough to make expenses. Most cities have a problem of what to do with leisure time of our young people—too much leisure time breeds adverse ideas. These dances keep our young people happy, and people who are usually happy cause no trouble.

Saw the musical comedy "Guys and Dolls" at the Shubert in Detroit the other night. Very good for someone who goes to a show for a couple hours relaxation and entertainment, but nothing much that you can take away with you. There was no plot—but a number of laughs and some good acts. Not near as good as Oklahoma and a few of the others.

Fishermen Asked Of Marine Code

Would the fishermen of this state like to have a Marine Code to regulate the use of motorboats on the waters of Michigan? The United Conservation Clubs and the Joint Study Committee of the Legislature will come up with a model law to be presented to the Legislature this winter.

Both groups want expressions of opinions from fishermen and would like answers to the following questions:

1. Do you favor a Uniform Marine Code to cover all Michigan waters?
2. Should operators of outboard and inboard motors be licensed like automobile drivers?
3. Should there be an age limit? What age?
4. Should rental boats be required to pass a safety and equipment inspection?
5. Should all rental boats be permanently marked to show capacity to occupants?
6. Should boat operators be required to register at boat livery to protect livery owner against liability for overloading, reckless operation, damage to his property, etc.?
7. Should enforcement be required of all peace officers (local police, state police, sheriffs, conservation officers)?

Answers to these questions will be welcomed by Gilbert Schmitz, chairman, Michigan United Conservation Clubs Safety Afield Committee, 1331 Majestic Building, Detroit 26.

Rocks Edge Rival With Late Rally

The improving Plymouth Rock basketball quintet won their first 6-B league last Friday night over at Bentley when they came from behind in the last three minutes to edge the Bulldogs by a score of 37 to 34.

Trailing 18 to 12 at the half and 26 to 22 at the end of the third quarter, the Rocks fought a winning battle finally forging ahead in the last few minutes of the contest.

Jerry Kelly, Casey Cavell, Dick Bloomhuff, Bob Arlen, Bud Lanphear and Dave Finney played most of the first half. This team has definite possibilities, but appeared a little nervous at the start. The four seniors on the team entered the game near the end of the third quarter and along with Al Williams made up the deficit and went on to win. The seniors being Jack Daggett, Bob Keeney, Dave Travis and Ralph Welch, but this was strictly a team victory as the scoring was evenly distributed with the exception of Al Williams high with ten points. Ten men out of the 12 who played scored points.

The Rocks foul shooting still is low as they only connected on 9 out of 23 attempts—Bentley being just as bad as they made 3 out of 23 attempts.

Plymouth now has one win and two losses in league play. Bentley has no wins and three losses. Kime was high point man for Bentley with 14 points followed by Ford who had 10.

The reserves also won from the Bentley reserves by a score of 33 to 24. This was the fifth straight win for Coach Charles Ketterer's lads. Tyler Caplin was high for the young Rocks when he scored 21 of their points.

Daisy 63 Bank 45

Daisy trounced Plym. United Bank last week to the tune of 63 to 45. The bank boys have yet to win a game in this league, but they were ahead at the end of the first half by a score of 16 to 15, but folded up during the last half.

Wally Dzurus again paced the winners with 17 points, followed by Jacobus with 15 and Levering and Huebler with 11 each.

La Blanche had 21 for the Bank, and Ron Hees had 13.

Frosh Win Game in Last Seconds

The Plymouth Frosh basketball team, under the direction of John McFall, won a hair-raiser from Bentley Frosh last Friday afternoon at the local high school when they came from behind in the last 40 seconds to win by the close score of 16 to 15.

Plymouth was ahead most of the game until Bentley forged to the front midway through the final stanza to lead 15 to 12 with one minute left. Then John Agnew made a hook shot to bring the score up to 15 to 14, and with 37 seconds of the game remaining, Dick Day sank a shot from the corner to put the frosh in front 16 to 15.

Dick Day and Larry Wilhelm were high scorers with 4 points apiece.

The season's record stands at 2 won and 1 lost. This Friday the Frosh play Wayne there at 4 p.m.

LaFontaine Wins

The up-and-coming LaFontaine team in the senior men's basketball team won two more games last week when they downed the Livonia team on Tuesday night by a score of 63 to 44, and again on Thursday night they bested the DeHoCo team by a score of 50 to 37. These wins enabled LaFontaine to remain in second place right on the heels of the flashy Tait five, who edged them out for their only loss earlier in the season.

In the first game LaFontaine steadily built up a lead in each quarter. Hall was high point man with 23 points. For the losers, Fisher had 16 and Norman 10.

In the second win a no scoring second quarter for DeHoCo proved the downfall of the losers. Hall, Gillis and Price each had 12 points for the winners. Robinson had 23 for the losers.

Gaff's Win-Lose

Gaff's Cleaners were handed a jolt in their bid for the leadership of the senior men's league when DeHoCo came to life for one night and handed them a 53 to 50 setback.

The score was close throughout with the half being 26 to 24 in favor of the winners and the third quarter reading 40 to 38. This was one of the closest games played in the league this year.

Robinson dumped in 27 points for the winners. Fairbanks had 10 for the losers.

In another game during the week, Gaff's really came back after their loss to DeHoCo when they walloped United Bank by a landslide of baskets to win 71 to 27. Wozink had 17 points for the winners, and LaPlanche 8 for the losers.

Trenton vs Rocks Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the high school basketball cagers take on the high-flying Trenton Trojans on the local floor. Trenton has not lost a game this season, and have beaten most of their opponents by sizeable scores. Last Friday night they whipped Allen Park 60 to 41, and Allen Park won over the Rocks by a half dozen points. Henderson is the dog gun for Trenton as he has scored close to 20 points in all the Trojan wins.

This game is always one of excitement between these two old rivals, and the outcome is seldom in doubt until the final whistle. Last year the two teams divided the two games played.

The preliminary will be played between the two reserves of the two schools, and this should also be another bangup game as the Plymouth reserves have not lost a game yet.

The first game begins promptly at seven o'clock.

Big Scores Open Class "F" League

Recreation basketball got off to a fast start last Saturday, January 5, with all the teams in the "F" league seeing action.

In the first game, the Optimists Jr. basketball team swamped Fisher's Shoes 62-1, with Fisher's scoring their only point in the last 10 seconds of the game. Andy Morrow and Jackie Carter led the way for Optimists Jr. with 18 and 17 points respectively.

The second game was a little closer with the Colts winning over Davis and Lent 16-15. Foster Brown led the way for the Colts, scoring 10.

Next Saturday, January 12, Optimists Jr. will meet the Colts, and Fisher's Shoes will play Davis and Lent. These games will start at one o'clock.

Plentiful Foods Report Issued

If your New Year's resolution calls for budgeting the money you spend for food more carefully, here's some word from the U.S.D.A. to help you live up to that resolution. It's the Department's first Plentiful Foods report for the New Year—a report on the foods which will be most plentiful in January.

First, for the protein foods. Head off your meat budget with pork. It's very plentiful and many cuts have been particularly low priced. Then add turkeys—from the nearly 107 million pounds in cold storage at the start of December. Fish made the list in the form of frozen ocean perch fillets and canned tuna.

In fruit, you'll continue to find fresh oranges a very reasonably priced way of providing Vitamin C at your meals. Tangerines will be at the peak of the year's supply in January. Stocks of dried prunes, raisins and dates are plentiful. And there are liberal supplies of orange and grapefruit juice. Both canned and frozen, available for food buyers in the first month of the new year.

Rice makes the list this time, because production is about 17 percent heavier than a year ago. There are ample stocks of dry beans—navy and baby limas. Stocks of honey from the record 1951 production are large, and heavy production of pecans and almonds place those nuts among the more plentiful foods with which we start 1952.

A flavor tip from Michigan State College home economists—the next time you broil hamburger, steaks or chops, brush each side with Worcestershire sauce a little melted butter.

Better see Beglinger for better deal. New and used cars.

Roger Babson Says---

Babson Discusses Our Roads

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 17. There are nearly 49,000,000 registered vehicles on our roads. Better than 8,000,000 — or about one-sixth — are trucks. Spot checks in some states reveal that about 10 percent are overloaded. And overloaded trucks are ruining our roads faster than we can build them.

The Evidence

The most significant evidence yet gathered to substantiate this fact comes from the tests sponsored by the Inter-Regional Council on Transportation and made on a mile stretch of two-lane concrete highway in Maryland. Various test loads of 22,400 and 44,800 pounds were run. The 22,400 loads damaged 28 percent of the concrete sections; while the 44,800 pound loads damaged 96 percent of the concrete slabs! If this first fairly comprehensive test gives insight into what future tests will reveal, then it becomes clear truckers are not bearing their share of the burden in maintaining our roads. I should like to see a similar test made of pleasure vehicles to see how fast they pound our roads to pieces. Should the evidence collected build a case against the trucker, then he should be taxed in proportion to the rate he wears out the roads. Further, since some truckers will overload until caught, on the basis that "only the big loads are pay loads," then a careful check system will need to be established.

Taxes vs. Tolls

I cannot deny the fact that it is a pleasure to drive the 327 miles from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia on a super-highway. Yet, I resent, in principle, the idea of having to pay a toll on top of a tax. With tolls currently averaging from 1 to 1 1/2 cents a mile, this is simply adding an additional tax of 15 to 20 cents a gallon. I wonder how many motorists ever stopped to consider the problem in this fashion? What would be your reaction should the current price of gasoline at your favorite pump be hiked from 28 cents to 45 cents per gallon? Apparently with our roads be-

10 Years Ago

Officials of Local Board No. 61 in Plymouth estimate that an additional 1500 men will be available for combat duty by February 16 when all men between the ages of 20 and 44 years must register for selective service.

Railroads and Trucks

The truck companies make a profit on their business just as the railroads make a profit on the freight they carry. Railroads, however, build and maintain their private roads. Truck companies, on the other hand, have the use of the highways which all of us build and maintain.

I'm not suggesting the truckers build their own roads. I am, however, suggesting they carry their fair share of building and maintaining the roadbed they use. Perhaps a per-mile rate multiplied by tonnage might be an equitable basis? I know that a position of this sort will not appeal to the truckers. But, I ask you, isn't it so often the abuse of privilege by a few which brings about regulation of all?

Advice to Truck Drivers

Many have noticed of late the increasing carelessness with which truckers drive. Almost any day, between Boston and Hartford, for example, they roll along racing each other, two abreast so that the average motorist has to fight for his place on the road. More than once lately I've been scared out of my wits by trucks failing to stop at red lights simply because they were rolling so fast they couldn't stop! We used to look upon truck drivers as the most courteous on the road. If overloading and recklessness continue, the whole industry will suffer.

Truckers ought to try to regulate themselves before the state and federal governments step in! In fact, municipal governments may soon rule that truckers can use downtown streets only after 6:00 p.m. Eliminating trucks from congested areas will be the next step in solving the wretched traffic conditions of today.

D. of A. News

Daughters of America, Silver Springs council of Northville and Old Glory council of Plymouth will hold a public installation, January 18. Strathmore council of Detroit will do the installing. Mary Hoff will be installing officer.

Among the officers to be installed are Councilor, Mildred Smith; Associate councilor, Evelyn Willson; Vice councilor, Cordelia O'Rourke; associate vice councilor, Pauline Kowalcik; assistant recording secretary, Bertha Kaiser; and conductor, Mary Carrievan.

Marion Cushman, Warden; Victoria Cogswell, Inside sentinel; Libbia Showers, outside sentinel and 18 months trustee; and Clara Everson, captain, complete the list of those to be installed.

Lucky 13 Canasta club will meet with Mrs. Louise Rulison of Blunk street at 7:30 p.m. January 22.

Mrs. Bertha Kaiser will entertain the Past Councilors club on Monday, January 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne County Training school club rooms.

Keep a pair of scissors in your kitchen utensil drawer. They make quick work of dicing celery, chives, peppers and other vegetables. They also trim pastry well, advise Michigan State College home economists.
