

IT SHOULD NOT BE REPEATED.

Right now seems a more proper time to say to The Detroit News and The Detroit Free Press that, in our judgment, the news handling of that crime some weeks ago which involved the killing of a mother and her daughter with a suspected son as the slayer, was anything but proper.

Day after day, these two papers constantly made reference to the fact that the missing boy was a Scout member.

One would gain the idea by the constant reference to this fact that maybe his Scout training had something to do with the crime. Of course any one who knows anything about the high ideals of the Scout movement and of the training the boys get are aware of the fact that Scout work tends to make ONLY for good citizenship.

But these two great metropolitan papers also know that there are thousands of their readers who know little about the excellence of Scout training—and these are the thousands who might be quick to say — "There - look at that boy, and he was a Scout. Wonder what they really do teach those boys!"

To our way of thinking, that was a bad piece of newspaper work on the part of these highly respected publications. Let's all give a little more thought to what "they" might say as the result of distorted insinuations "they" might get out of such constant reference to Scouts.

ANOTHER TRUMAN SCANDAL.

While reading a recent issue of Look Magazine I came across a big headline on an inside page which read "Washington's Next Scandal."

It seems that that is about all you do read about from Washington these days. But naturally like every taxpayer one cannot help but become interested in any article with such a heading.

And what did it reveal? Well it seems that hundreds of thousands of our tax dollars that are paid out to foreign countries under the Marshall plan are coming right back to America and into the pockets of scores and scores of Truman henchmen.

It's an interesting racket and if you didn't read the November 20 issue of Look, better go down to the library and read it.

You will find all about how Clark Clifford who was credited with writing many of Truman's speeches, as a lawyer, got thousands of dollars of the tax swag that went to some Holland outfit for "unblocking" some Netherlands assets.

Then Charles Patrick Sawyer, who was once Truman's chief counsel on his investigating committee and now a Washington lawyer-lobbyist, gets something like $75,000 a year for acting as Spain's agent in Washington.

There is page after page of information of this type. Better get a copy of Look and read it. Maybe you should not get it, after all. It will only make you "madder than a wet hen"—and what's the use of being "sore" all the time?

JUST LITTLE THINGS — BUT!

It is not quite possible to say how many times one walking along Main street is asked the question, "How do you get to Northville?" Frequently the question is, "How do you get to Novi?"

Occasionally such questions in these days of well marked highways and streets are not common.

But for some reason neither the city of Plymouth nor the road commission of Wayne county has ever given any thought to the proper marking of the corner where one must turn to go to Northville or Novi.

We assume that it is just an oversight. It is true that there is a sign on the left side of the street as you go north which designates "Starkweather avenue," but one must do the risky thing and take his sight off the heavy traffic on Main street to even find this sign.

Either the city or county should immediately erect a sign on the right side of the street where the Northville road turns off Main street at Starkweather, designating the turn to both Northville and Novi.

While we are talking about street signs, there is another designation that should be made. On the street sign post in front of the Mayflower hotel which faces Ann Arbor Trail, there should also be a sign reading "To Ann Arbor." A lot of traffic congestion due to drivers stopping or turning to make inquiries as to which way to go could be avoided by the proper sign designation at these two places. We are sure that this is all due merely to oversight and it will not take much energy to put the signs up — so let's do it.

THERE IS BUT ONE ANSWER.

Tragic indeed have been some of the terrible automobile accidents in Michigan during recent weeks. Not only tragic, but deplorable—because all of them could have been prevented if traffic regulations had been observed. Always most of the victims are the innocent, those who were in no way responsible for what happened.

Traffic officers do what they can and some judges cooperate. To deny that there has been favoritism on the part of some officers would be to give approval to a falsehood, because it is common knowledge that some officers, in fact many of them, when they catch up with some traffic violator they happen to be friendly with, let him go without a ticket. It is common knowledge, too, that some judges do the same thing.

And there is another thing that makes rigid enforcement somewhat complicated. Some traffic officers and justices have made a racket out of traffic enforcement. While this practice has disappeared to a very great extent in Michigan, there have been hints that it still does prevail in some places.

Our suggestion is that we overlook what has happened in the past and BEGIN NOW one of the most rigid enforcements of ALL traffic regulations in both cities and on country thoroughfares. Arrest and PUNISH the fellow who by his smart aleck driving endangers another driver. ARREST AND PUT IN JAIL the fellow who runs a traffic light at high speed, or any other speed.

We have more or less made a farce of our traffic regulations. We have permitted truck drivers to hog the highways. Frequently the speed of these giant trucks has been a threat to all traffic on the roads.

We have come to the firm conclusion too, that our present penalties for traffic violations are too mild. A $10 fine, a five day jail sentence, which generally means only a day or two, a temporary withdrawal of a legal right to drive a car are mere slaps on the wrist.

These penalties should be increased to such an extent that the average automobile driver will be so afraid of committing a traffic violation that he wouldn't dare break a traffic regulation.

Here's a real problem for our silly-nilly Governor up in Lansing. Here is a chance to save hundreds of youthful and useful lives, to save millions of dollars by eliminating automobile accidents — to turn our paved thoroughfares from rivers of blood and broken glass and twisted steel, into SAFE thoroughfares for public travel. Will the silly chief executive of Michigan do anything about it? Of course not.

AD HELPS MERCHANT

Another Plymouth merchant found out that advertising in the columns of The Plymouth Mail produces results. Sam Verona, owner of the Plymouth Men's Wear on Penniman avenue, advertised a Winter's Clearance sale in a recent issue of the local newspaper, and was astonished at the business experienced during the sale.

Mr. Verona says he had the most successful week since he has been in business in Plymouth, and is highly pleased with the results of the ad. Even in the rain last Friday night, customers jammed the store, and bought large quantities of merchandise.

Wildlife Film at Inter-Club Dinner

Under the sponsorship of the Plymouth Hi-12 club, several clubs of this area, held a joint dinner meeting at the Masonic Temple last Wednesday evening and viewed the wildlife film "Karambi," a story of a safari in the heart of Africa.

The film portrayed in full natural color, the adventures of E. P. Hurd and his son Ed, of the Hurd Lock and Manufacturing company of Detroit, on their 10,000 mile travel through the richest big game preserve in the world.

All the wild animals of Africa, lions, rhinos, elephants, hippos, buffalos, leopards, as well as the customs and habits of primitive tribes were of interest to the audience of 150 club members in attendance.

Dave Thompson was chairman of the program. Loren Goodale is president of the Hi-12 club.

Clubs represented were the Plymouth Kiwanis, Livonia Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary.

Salvation Army Meets in New Hall

Captain William Roberts of the local Salvation Army announces that beginning Sunday, February 3, services will be held in the basement of their new building on the corner of Fairground and Maple streets.

For the past four months the Salvation Army has been meeting Sundays in the Oddfellows Hall, but now the basement of their new building is finished enough to start using it for the week day and Sunday services.

The dedication of the new building is set for Sunday, March 23, at which time the main auditorium will be finished and ready for use.

Czarinna Penny Buried Today

Funeral services for Czarinna R. Penny, 57, will be held this afternoon, Thursday, at 2 o'clock from the Schrader Funeral home. Miss Penny died Monday, January 28, in St. Joseph hospital, Ann Arbor.

Miss Penny was born December 6, 1895 at 498 South Main street where she lived throughout her life and where her parents Czar and Mable Penny still reside.

In 1913 she graduated from Plymouth High school, and in 1918 from the Detroit Institute of Musical Art. In 1921 she received her Bachelor of Music degree from the Institute and taught there, continuing her studies.

During the past eight years, Miss Penny taught piano two days a week at the Institute. For 40 years she taught in Plymouth, teaching up to a week before her death. She also composed music, starting with hymns when she was in her early teens.

She was a charter member of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's club.

Besides her parents she is survived by her brother Russell, three nieces, a nephew, and a host of former students and friends.

Reverend Henry J. Walsh will conduct the services. Organ will be played by Mrs. Edna O'Connor. Pallbearers will be Paul Nash, Evered Jolliffe, Harold Jolliffe, Henry Baker, Stewart Dodge and George Burr. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery.

To Hold Carnival

A carnival will be held in Starkweather school from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, February 2. The carnival is sponsored by the Starkweather Parent-Teachers association.

Woman's Club to Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. Stephen Nisbet

Mrs. Stephen Nisbet of Fremont will address the Plymouth Woman's club tomorrow, February 1, at 1 p.m. in the Bird school gymnasium.

This program was originally scheduled for March.

City Cancels Primary Election

City Primary election scheduled for February 18 has been canceled. There were not enough candidates for nomination to conduct the election.

Candidates for the two city commission seats are Mrs. W. W. Hammond, Floyd Tibbitts, and Harry Hunter. Mrs. Hammond and Mr. Tibbitts are now members of the commission.

The regular spring election will be Monday, April 7. The voting machines will be used for the first time in Plymouth at this election.

Theater Guild Tryouts Friday

Plymouth area residents who are interested in acting will find the solution to their problem this Friday evening, February 1, at the Junior High School. (Formerly Central Grade School) Tryouts for the Plymouth Theater Guild's next production "Two Blind Mice" will start at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium.

"There is a particular need for men in this play," announced Mrs. Peter Miller, president of the guild. "Out of a cast of 18 there are 14 male parts."

Presiding over the casting will be Mrs. Marie Miller. Mrs. Miller, who was formerly on the professional stage, has been directing for the last 15 years. Currently she is directing for the Student Players in Ann Arbor under the sponsorship of the University of Michigan. Mrs. Miller's husband also teaches astronomy at the University. The theater guild feels very fortunate in having obtained a director whose experience extends not only to the professional stage in this country and Europe, but one who has already directed "Two Blind Mice."

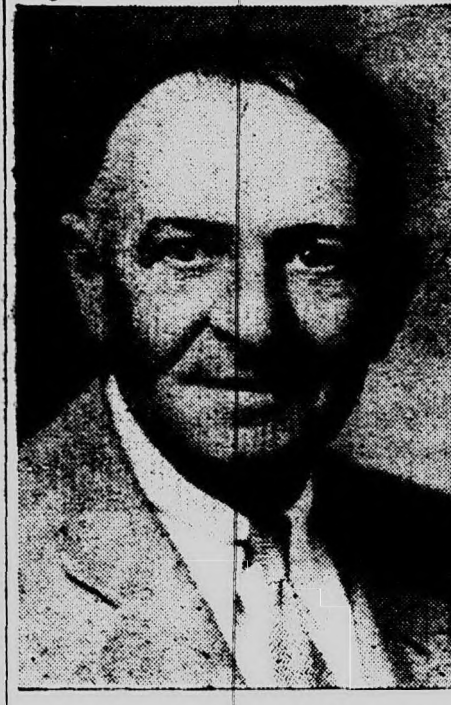

The play will be presented March 25, 26, and 27 for the benefit of the Kiwanis Girl Scout Cabin.

Part of the money will be used for the hearing aid and dental fund; $100 will be given to the University of Michigan day school Forney Clement project, $75 will be donated to the Goodfellows for the purchase of toys and $80 will be used to purchase toys for Maybury sanitarium. The money needed for the Kiwanis concession at the Band Parents carnival will be taken from this fund.

His friendly manner of presenting everything from late news bulletins and human interest stories to weather, livestock and produce reports plus new farm methods and processes have made him a favorite of many listeners.

Junior High Ass'n Will Meet Feb. 5

Mrs. Walter Hammond

Plymouth Junior High Parent-teacher-student association will hold a panel discussion Tuesday, February 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the junior high school gymnasium. Mrs. Walter Hammond will moderate the panel on "What Do Junior High School Students Do in Their Spare Time?"

The panel will survey the planned activities now open to this age group in Plymouth in an effort to determine its adequacy. The panel members will discuss: How late is late for junior high school students, should they have homework, and do group activities take them away from home too much, or interfere with school work?

Members of the panel representing community, church, school, and home are Herbert Woolweaver, Eleanor Clix, Willis Hunting, George Caldwell and Mrs. John Morrow. Robert Lidgard, Barbara Smith, John Williams and Lee Huber will represent the students.

A coffee hour will follow the program which is under the direction of Mrs. Michael Huber.

The meeting is open to the public and should be of special interest to the parents of students in Junior high school, and the students themselves.

Business Women Hear of WCTS

A delegation of staff members representing various departments of the Wayne County Training School, entertained members of the Business and Professional Women's club, at their regular monthly meeting, in the Mayflower room of the Hotel Mayflower last week Monday.

The staff members, Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. Marcella Douglas, Mrs. Dorothy Pearson, Mrs. Pauline Hoakley and Miss Bluma Weiner gave a complete picture of the procedure followed when a child enters W.C.T.S.

The Training School is a residential school for mentally retarded children. The services of the school are for the boys and girls of Wayne county, who need special help in education and guidance to rehabilitate them, so that when they leave the school they can become self-supporting citizens. The working principle of the Education and Vocation department at the school is, "We know what the child can't do. Find out what he can do."

It was most gratifying to members of the club to see what effort is being put forth to help educate these boys and girls so that they may become good citizens in their communities.

A planned tour of W.C.T.S. is being planned by members of the Business and Professional Women's club at a later date.

Plans were discussed for the Spring District 2 meeting to be held in April, at which time the Plymouth club will be host to other clubs of this district.

Repaint City Signs

Shortly the city will begin repainting all street signs in need of it. City hall officials have decided to do the job with city employees this year, as this will save the city a lot of expense.

New street signs cost approximately $7.50 per sign, and then the new sign will not fit the old post, so an added expense would be necessary.

Plymouth Mail Scores in Top Flight Again

Michigan newspaper publishers again selected The Plymouth Mail as one of the outstanding papers in the state at their annual mid-winter convention in Lansing last weekend. By ballot, the 450 odd publishers voted second place in the general excellence division of the larger weekly papers of Michigan, to The Plymouth Mail. First place award went to the Northern Michigan Review of Petoskey.

Michigan Press Association secretary, Gene Allman, made the award presentation Saturday evening at the annual All-Michigan dinner at Kellogg Center at Michigan State College to Sterling Eaton who represented The Mail at the association convention.

In 1937 The Mail was awarded a plaque by the association for state wide general excellence and for the last several years since the resumption of the award policy after the war The Mail has consistently been nominated among the top five papers in the state for this qualification.

The selections are made each year by a nominating committee of Michigan newspapermen selecting the best papers in each division, by size of circulation, and then the papers are put on display at the annual convention for final selection by the entire membership.

Awards are made on the basis of appearance, interest, make-up, advertising layout and design and editorial and news content.

Of general interest to business firms throughout the state was the session at the convention devoted to the preparation of advertising copy. With newspaper costs soaring a formula beyond raising of rates is to be sought which will reduce avoidable expense with the cooperation of local advertisers.

Newspapers will urge local retailers to take more pains with original copy and layout in order to avoid costly changes after proofs have been submitted. The policy now in operation in other states has paid dividends to advertisers as well where rules have been set up requiring careful advance planning of copy. The general policy requires additional charges for copy changes once it has been prepared by the newspaper's composing department.

Got An Idea? Any Suggestions? Why Not Tell About It-Readers Invited to Give Their Views

Readers of The Plymouth Mail, in fact all of the residents of this area are invited by The Mail to become "Editors for a Day."

Believing that our readers are interested in the growth of this most desirable community, The Mail is opening its columns for their suggestions and ideas on just what the major problems within this community are, and which and what are the best ways to approach their solution.

To guide such committees as the recently appointed parking group, the board of education, the planning commission, and the city commission and other civic bodies it is felt many worthwhile ideas could be forth coming from the citizenry if they were encouraged to present their ideas for general consumption through the news columns of The Plymouth Mail.

It is also felt that many constructive suggestions will not only come from local residents but much aid can be given in helping find solutions for problems that are developing from the growth now being felt throughout this section.

Letters of a defamatory or libelous nature will not be welcomed and without doubt will do much to guide the future planning that must be done if the area is to keep step with the growth.

Do you have an idea? Are you dissatisfied with some particular item? Do you have any suggestions relative to the schools, parking, city or township? What do you think is the proper approach to this problem or that one? Give us your views so that the entire community may benefit by your ideas. All letters must be signed by the writers and bear a return address, but if you desire we will withhold the name and use only your initials.

Here is your opportunity to become "Editor for a Day." Get that idea off your chest right now. Send your letter to The Public Letter Box in care of The Plymouth Mail and publication will be made in the order they are received.

The Plymouth Mail rings the door bell to 96% of all the homes in this area each week. From within those homes can come suggestions for better living, better conditions, and the solutions to many of our future problems. Give us your ideas so that we may carry them for you to the homes of the rest of the residents of this area. It's easy to do... just write a letter to The Public Letter Box of The Plymouth Mail today.

Symphony Review

By Grace Von Bergen

Wayne Dunlap, the musical director of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, may well be "The Man Who Invented Music" to many of the old and young who attended the concert in the Plymouth High School auditorium last Sunday. It was a concert which fulfilled the prediction of the first rehearsal comments by this writer beyond the greatest expectations.

The newly formed publicity committee is to be commended for their work. The auditorium was packed and every seat was taken and an overflow crowd had chairs brought from an adjoining room.

Many families turned out with children to hear the concert and made up a most intent and enthusiastic audience. The fourth concert on the sixth season opened with Rossini's Overture to "L'Italiana in Algeri" — a most stirring sendoff for the balance of the program. At its conclusion, Wayne Dunlap greeted the audience, welcoming them to an afternoon of relaxation, with an invitation to remove coats (or shoes, if so wished) and be right at home! The orchestra was going to prove that symphony music "can be fun" — not stuffy and dull, but interesting to those, age 6 or 96, and equal in interest as television.

No program notes were printed, nor were they missed for this particular concert, as Wayne Dunlap commented on each number and in so doing gave each selection added stimulus of interest. His great talent as conductor is equalled by his clarity in speaking and narration abilities. This was indeed a concert that "outpopped" all "pop" concerts! Mr. Dunlap warmed his audience by his casualness, and individuals who are prone to shy away from directors or musicians, fell under the spell of the music and learned to understand that symphonic music paints pictures in the imagination beyond description.

This hey-day for the orchestra proceeded with a selection: The Young Prince and Princess from Scheherazade by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

The Carnival of the Animals by Saint-Saens was made even more alluring with the reading of a poem by the humorous Ogden Nash in which the Introduction and Royal March of the Lion, Chickens and Cocks, The Elephant, Aquarium, Persons with the Long Ears, and The Swan took on a new meaning.

Evelyn Woods and Grace Hampton, duo pianists, played exciting accompaniments. The elephants of the orchestra were made eloquent by the bass instruments. The "Aquarium" became sparkling, crystal clear water with just the faintest fancy of the movement of fish, an illusion carried out with true effect.

"In the Land of Mules, there are no rules" according to Ogden Nash — drew a chuckle from the audience. This was followed by the ever lovely "Swan" performed as a cello solo by Douglas Marsh accompanied by Miss Woods and Miss Hampton at the pianos.

Mr. Nelson Hauenstein, "one of the best flutists around this town" as introduced by Mr. Dunlap, performed Night Soliloquy by Kennan. It is well named, with a plaintive opening, backed by the stringed section of the orchestra.

Two dances, The Polka and Dance of The Comedians from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" came next in order.

During the intermission, Dr. Joseph Maddy, founder of Interlochen, was introduced by Mr. Dunlap as a man not only willing to come to speak, but also to play a viola with the orchestra. Dr. Maddy congratulated the community for having within its borders a big city orchestra in a small town. He recalled talking at an early meeting when the Plymouth Symphony Society was first formed when he had thought that Paul T. Wagner had proposed ambitious undertakings in organizing the orchestra. He spoke of the zeal of musicians who "play for their own amusement and amazement". He also cautioned the audience to give every support to the orchestra and its conductor lest they be lost. "Here you have something very unusual — a terrific bargain, hang on to it" his closing remark regarding the orchestra.

The Allegro in "The Toy Symphony" by Haydn was performed with "pretty high priced talent" or six pupils well-trained by Assistant Conductor Fred Nelson. The toy drum was played by Barbara Carley; nightingale, Ronald Markham; cuckoo, Sally Williams; trumpet, Fred Reiman; triangle, Susan Daly and rattles by Roberta Lidgard. This number was definitely enhanced by their performance and Mr. Dunlap remarked they would be heard from again, as one of his former "rattle players" of a few years ago was soon to appear as soloist playing a violin concerto!

The White Peacock by Griffes was a graceful number, but The Man Who Invented Music by Don Gillis held the audience captivated. Wayne Dunlap acted as narrator while Fred Nelson conducted the orchestra. It was amusing to young and old, and was followed by the great march, Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever".

The concert closed with an invitation by Mr. Dunlap to the audience to attend the next concert Feb. 24 when Douglas Marsh and Joseph Lazaroff appear as soloists.

Heard in the audience was Joe Lazaroff, Jr., "Did it stop already?"

The warmest "after-glow" in the history of the orchestra met for tea at the Hough Memorial Home, where Nell Curry and Emily Reed served tea from a table centered with a floral piece made up of iris, pussywillows, roses and pink snapdragons. The tea was chairmanned by Mrs. Russell Daane, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Hough.

The concertmaster, Henry Nosco, of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and his wife were present at the concert and were well pleased with the intonation of the Plymouth orchestra. Also rapturous in praise of the performance were Mr. and Mrs. John Soderberg of the 22 year old Scandinavian Symphony of Detroit.

Also reported to be on hand was Charles Bennett whose series of articles on Old Plymouth have been appearing in the Plymouth Mail and which are being enjoyed by Plymouth and out-of-town readers.

This review is lengthy in comparison with other symphony notes, but the audience reaction and the music of last Sunday's concert are not to be stifled in oblivion, for Wayne Dunlap and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra have attained a wider appeal than ever. The orchestra is not too high-brow, and as someone said, "they're not afraid to let down their hair!"

In Pittsburgh, after 40 holdup victims were unable to identify any suspects in a police line-up, one of the suspects obliged by identifying three of the persons he had help up.

Winter sprays are the cheapest and most convenient way to get rid of troublesome brush along drainage ditches, fence rows and in pastures.

Rainbow Girls Install Officers

Installation of officers of the Plymouth Assembly order of Rainbow for Girls was held Monday, January 28 in the Masonic temple. Sandra Sweeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sweeney of South Holbrook was installed as worthy advisor.

Mother advisor is Jean Agosta of Rosedale Gardens. Others installed were Julie Simmons, worthy associate advisor; Barbara Davison, Charity; Sandra Tibbatts, Hope; Margie Thomas, Faith; Dorothy Krumm, Recorder; Irene Truesdell, treasurer; and Betty Simmons, chaplain.

Also installed were Elaine Rich, drill leader; Arden Stanbury, Love; Peggy Wingard, Religion; Janet Denhoff, Nature; Sally Ford, Immortality; Kay Ingram, Patriotism; Joanne Oliver, Service; Cheri Ritter, confidential observer, and Avis Blackmoor, outer observer.

Completing the list are June Dendeigh, musician; Carol Stratton, choir director; Janet Wickens, prompter; and Dawn Huebler, associate drill leader. Members of DeMolay provided music for dancing following the installation.

In Otrera, New Zealand, a health inspector reported that the Otrera Gorge Hotel has only one bathroom, but two doors leading into it — one marked "Ladies," the other "Gentlemen."

In Atlanta, Earl Martin, 22, was fined $13 for stealing a comic book entitled Crime Does Not Pay.

Co-op Nursery Members Meet

On Monday evening, January 28 at 8 p.m. The Plymouth Cooperation Nursery group met in the basement of the Methodist church to discuss with new members the advantages to parents and children of a cooperative nursery group.

Mrs. Mitchell from Monteith Nursery school was the speaker and leader of a most interesting discussion. Prospective members met the teacher, Mrs. Perkins, and saw the equipment and rooms used by the group.

Mrs. Perkins is the teacher of the Northville cooperative nursery group and is substituting for Mrs. Jane Bowser, the regular teacher, who is ill. For parents who may be interested in joining the group contact either Mrs. Clifford Lightstone, 491, or Mrs. George Conover 2385-M.

Will Turn Coffee Sales Over to March of Dimes

The March of Dimes will benefit from all coffee-drinkers at Barney's Grill tomorrow, for all the money obtained from coffee sales will be turned over to the above mentioned worthy cause.

Phil Barney states that there will be no limit to what one wants to give for coffee tomorrow—anything from a cent to a dollar, or more, will be turned over to the March of Dimes.

The Grill, located at 950 Starkweather, is open from 6 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Optimist Enjoy State Roads Film

The film, "Let's Get Out of the Muddle," with John Daly as commentator, was shown to members of the Optimist club at their regular meeting last Monday evening in the Hotel Mayflower.

A General Motors production, the film disclosed many interesting facts concerning our roads and the traffic on them.

Many of our good roads were built in 1924, to last from 15 to 20 years, for a far less number of vehicles to travel on than we now have. In pre-war years 300 billion miles were travelled by vehicles, whereas, now 450 billion miles are travelled, or a 50 percent increase in traffic. During the war the roads were not kept improved, and as a result the present improvement has not caught up with the pre-war level.

The film suggests that it behooves everyone to be concerned about good roads. They must be wider, hazardous curves must be eliminated, as well as the main railroad crossings. It is a program that everyone should be concerned about.

Lloyd Clark was in charge of this splendid program.

THE GREATEST CAR EVER BUILT IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

The big 1952 FORD

Out-rides them all!
The 52 Ford gives you riding comfort such as you have never before experienced in a car in the low-price field. With front springs tailored to the weight of each model, longer rear springs and diagonally mounted shock absorbers, Ford's Automatic Ride Control gives you the smoothest, easiest ride of them all—a level ride on straightaways, an even keel on curves.

Out-sizes them all!
The 52 Ford has longer wheelbase, wider front tread and greater length. It's big outside and big inside, with spacious seating for six and the largest luggage locker of them all.

Full-Circle Visibility!
With narrower corner pillars, picture windows all around and a rear window that's 48% larger you have "all-direction" vision that adds to your enjoyment and your safety.

Out-performs them all!
Ford's completely new 101-h.p. high-compression, low-friction Six, with free-turning overhead valves, is the most modern Six in the industry. And Ford's high-compression V-8, now 110 h.p., is the most powerful engine in the low-price field. Both are available with performance-proved Fordomatic Drive.

Exclusive Power Pilot Economy!
Both the new Ford Mileage Maker Six and the Strato-Star V-8 have the exclusive Ford Automatic Power Pilot. This completely integrated carburetion-ignition-combustion system gives you high-compression "go" on "regular" gas.

New Coachcraft Bodies!
Ford's new Coachcraft Bodies are longer, stronger... distinctive in their modern beauty. They offer new full-light construction which seals out dust, weather and noise. And Ford has more color and upholstery combinations than any other car in its field.

Out-values them all!
With such modern design and engineering features as new Fight-Style Control Panel, new Power-Pivot Clutch and Brake Pedals, new Center-Fill Fueling, and new counterbalanced hood and deck lid, Ford adds up to more dollars and cents value than any car in its price class!

'52 Ford

City Official Gets Sea Sick- Trepagnier Has Day in Court

Plymouthite Sleeps Under Same Roof With Truman Fair Dealers

Bobbing up and down, around and around, here, there and everywhere, like a cork on a fish line when the water is a bit choppy came Genial Ernest Henry, efficient postal mail superintendent and Plymouth city commissioner, down a sidewalk on Biscayne boulevard in Miami the other day, trying his best to feed some fishes that were not on the sidewalk, and because, too, he didn't have a thing left in his tummy to feed the fishes with. He had been deep sea fishing some 2 or 3 days before, and he was still sea sick when The Plymouth Mail's Rambling Reporter came across him as he stopped now and then on the edge of the walk and placed his hands over the vacuum under his belt. Try as hard as he might, there wasn't a thing left for either deep sea fishes or the suckers that might be along the sidewalks.

Here's hoping that by the time he returned home, he is completely over his affliction. He had gone out deep sea fishing the day after his arrival in Miami—and the boat barely hit the high seas when Commissioner Henry and several of his companions became sick. But fishing boats do not turn back when some one becomes sea sick and there was nothing else for Ernie to do but ride it out and let the fishes have all those nice meals he had been eating while on the way to Florida.

And here's one who can fully sympathize with him. Years and years ago when our children were small, we decided to take them for an ocean boat ride, my late brother, then a resident of California, having suggested that a trip to the Catalina Islands would be a pleasant experience for the youngsters.

The islands are some four or five hours out in the Pacific. We had barely left San Pedro harbor, where the navy's Pacific fleet was then stationed, when your Rambling Reporter became desperately sea sick. All of the children followed suit and soon the Mrs. was the only one in the family who was not sea sick.

Sterling, wanting to be polite and not feed the fishes on the deck, ran to the side of the big boat to help provide some of the big ocean fishes with a portion of his dinner.

No sooner had he leaned over the rail when some one from the deck above, had the same notion and his entire twelve course dinner landed right in the middle of the back of Sterling's coat. Even dry cleaners couldn't remove the smell. This all happened on the way going over—Commissioner Ernest Henry can well imagine how we felt when we had to get back on the boat and face some four or five hours more of it out on the Pacific which happened to be on a big rampage that day. For a week after, we wobbled about the streets of California, much more sea sick than was Commissioner Henry the other day.

Have been quite amazed at the large number of Canadian automobile licenses we have seen in Florida during the past few weeks. Ontario and Quebec furnish the most of them. New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois seem to have the greatest number of visitors in the southland, judging entirely by auto licenses one sees on the highways, with Canada ranking high on the list.

These must be happy days for William Trepagnier, editor deluxe of all AAA publications in Michigan, Detroit and the rest of the world. But he probably doesn't know just how happy these days are for him or why. Well, here's the reason.

Some years ago he wrote The Mail's Rambling Reporter a letter. The letter was forwarded by the office to the Rambling Reporter who was then up north, enclosed in a magazine. The magazine wasn't opened until a year or so later and all the time Bill's letter was just resting there in peace and quiet. And all the time he was getting so mad at The Mail's Rambling Reporter that he could barely talk without saying some pretty naughty words.

Some two years later when magazines were being removed from a garage up near Oscoda, out fell Bill's letter. That's why he never got an answer—and why, too, he had so many unkindly thoughts about a fellow who would be so thoughtless as not to answer a letter.

Even though he boiled and boiled for nearly two years, he never hinted revenge. But now he's got it good and plenty, and he doesn't know it.

Here's a life-long Tomahawk-carrying Republican who slept the other night domiciled with some Fair Dealers who have been sitting right next to the throne in Washington, and all because of my faith in anything

Mr. William Trepagnier has printed with the three AAAs on it.

Starting our trek back northwards from Key West a short time ago rather late in the day, it was decided that rather than buck Miami late afternoon traffic, we would stop at some nice motel just south of Miami.

We took out our AAA Bible and looked over the list of motels that Editor Trepagnier said were nice places to stay. And permit it to be said right now—in all of our ramblings around the country, we have never gone astray in finding a nice place to sleep everynight if we accepted one of Editor Trepagnier's recommendations. Our faith in him led to my political downfall the other night.

There it was right in cold type just as "Bill" had dictated—"White, Heron Lodge—A very good court of inviting, attractively furnished units" etc.

"That is where we will sleep tonight and not go into Miami in heavy afternoon traffic" was the verdict.

Arriving late in the afternoon, we drove into the White Heron lodge. It was all that Editor Trepagnier had recommended.

I said to the Mrs.—"You just can't go wrong on what Bill says, even though he has had a stomach ache for the past two or three years."

A most courteous young gentleman looked after the registration. I felt right at home when he used his left hand to finish out the registration card, having been left handed so long, I can't remember. The thought ran through my mind, too, that Harry Truman is left handed when he wants to be, as the exceedingly courteous clerk finished the registration card.

Then a very pleasing young lady who appeared to be of the usual successful business type of young women, showed us to our place of abode for the night.

Our baggage all unpacked, we sat loitering in front of Bill's highly recommended motel, when Mrs. Eaton heard some four or five ladies who had just arrived from Virginia, or was it Maryland, comment that "this is the place that Mr. Caudle of Washington owns."

And did my ears ever straighten up just like the ears of a Missouri donkey!

This is the place that Mr. and Mrs. E. Merle Young had purchased, NOT Mr. Caudle! To confirm my suspicions I walked back through the office—and sure enough that courteous young man who had waited on me and I had taken to my bosom because he was left-handed, was E. Merle Young—he looked just like the pictures I had seen of him in newspapers. And the pleasing young lady was Mrs. E. Merle Young, former stenographer of President Harry Truman.

What a mess Bill Trepagnier had gotten this howling, Fair Deal hating Republican into! Then a sobering thought came to mind—Bill's waited a long time to get his revenge by leading me right into a place where I had become a satisfied customer of some of Harry Truman's devoted followers.

When morning came, and we were ready to continue our northward trip, we were invited to a free "continental" breakfast, served right in the offices of the White Heron—with E. Merle Young doing the pouring! It wasn't just like eating crow, but almost as bad.

Seriously, however, the White Heron is as clean and up-to-date as any motel I've ever been in. But I do think that for the protection of Republicans like myself who might wake up in the night and find a Fair Dealer or an alligator under my bed, that congress should pass a law making Bill Trepagnier print right in front of all the listings in his AAA Accommodations Guide whether this or that motel is G.O.P. or something else.

Information just released by the Florida Advertising commission reveals the interesting fact that the state of Florida is collecting in taxes an average of $8.90 from tourists in return for every dollar spent for tourist advertising purposes. Not only that, but a check reveals the amazing information that every tourist who visits Florida spends $160.72 for every tourist advertising dollar spent by the state.

A fellow was in here the other day moaning over his lost youth because he'd just hit 40. He seemed to feel he was losing his appeal to the gentler sex. Well, maybe he's right... but a little maturity doesn't seem to have upset Crosby, Colman, Tracy, Boyer, Cagney, Gable, Olivier and a flock of other leading men from movie-land. They're all so far past 40 they need a scrap book to remember it, but we haven't heard of any of them being fitted for a low-geared rocking chair. As a matter of fact, they seem to be more popular than ever. Looking backward is the quickest way in the world to grow old.

Leadership Class Off to Good Start

More than 20 interested persons met for the first class in group leadership training at the high school last Thursday, January 24. Professor H. Robinson opened the session by telling the aims and objectives of a class of this sort. It is something in the nature of an experiment, in that, this is the first time that a course of this nature has been offered by the University of Michigan. If it meets with success in Plymouth it will be offered regularly through the Extension Service. The men coming to present the course are experts in their field and have much to offer.

Howard McClusky, Professor of Educational Psychology, and Consultant in Community Adult Education conducted a "buzz" session to determine what the people present wanted to get out of the course, demonstrating the effectiveness of a "buzz" session in quickly arriving at definite conclusions in a small or large group democratically. On the basis of the needs of the group Professors Fred Stevenson and Wm. C. Morse will conduct the next sessions—Stevenson, the formal type of meeting—Morse, the informal type. Dr. McClusky also demonstrated with five members of the group one of the three types of discussion groups.

It is hoped that 15 more interested persons will register with the Recreation Department for the classes which will be held for seven more successive Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 in the high school library. Anyone interested should call 2075.

Mole Trap Manufacturer Also Lived Here — Crack Rifle Shot Could Shoot Penny Thrown High in Air

Writes C. H. Bennett About Plymouth's Early Days

By Charles H. Bennett

Charles H. Bennett

There is a grocery store now, right back of the Norma Cassady store, corner of Main and Penniman avenue. Years ago from my hideout up in that big cottonwood tree I could see the residence there of Michael Conner, just back of the Conner hardware store of the early days in Plymouth. The old town pump stood on the edge of the sidewalk right near this corner for years and years.

Just beyond the Conner home I could see the spacious grounds and fine old home of colonial style that belonged to my old time friend Doc Coleman. From this point west there were but a few small dwellings, until we could see in the background the large white mansion and beautiful grounds of one of the "big five" of Plymouth, E. J. Penniman. The house still stands and is now the property of the Catholic church of Plymouth.

Let's stand on the corner of Main street and Penniman avenue just for a minute and make believe that the time is some 70 years ago. Standing on the Main street side of the Conner store and looking down the north side of Main street we see the dwelling of an uncle of mine, Zacharia Chandler, who lived there in 1870. This dwelling is now occupied by the Schrader Funeral Home. The next building east was the home of Oscar A. Frazier, who later became cashier of the old First National bank, a position he held until his death.

On the site of the present residence of Mrs. John Henderson corner of Main and Fralick avenue, was a large rambling two story house owned and occupied by Henry Safford and his family. The two daughters were named Phila and Alice. Then east we find only vacant lots until we reach the Detroit Edison building across from the city hall. On this site stood the home of Oscar Panches.

Adjoining his home and in the same yard, Mr. Panches erected a fair sized wooden structure. It was here as a carpenter and inventor he made about anything a customer desired.

Even after the lapse of so many years I cannot forget the large flock of chickens Mr. Panches always carried in stock, and how plump and well-fed they always appeared as they wandered and flew (mostly flew) from one neighbor's garden to another. In my opinion the name Plymouth Rock chicken was hatched by Oscar himself, for he was well aware of the quantity of rocks that were daily hurled at his plump chickens. And now a strange interlude, my memory goes into eclipse—I cannot remember that I personally hurled any rocks at Oscar's plump but extremely fleet hens—but, however, a faint glimmer of a convenient memory leads me to think that possibly I did toss a few pebbles towards those chickens, but of course I never had any intentions of hitting one. That's my story and I'm sticking to it to this very day.

The Panches' shop, or Panches' block as it was then called, stood almost on the corner of Main street and the double drive now known as Church street. Permit me here to say that Church street is said to be the only street in Plymouth that is not at some angle of the compass. Church street alone runs due east and west.

Looking to the west up Church street on the rise of ground where now stands the First Presbyterian church, there stood in my boyhood days the real First Presbyterian church of Plymouth. This early church was a wooden structure with a high steeple of fine proportions, topped with a spire, the entire steeple and building being painted a clear white.

On the south side of this church and extending to the street now known as Fralick avenue and west as far as the present Presbyterian Manse, was the old village graveyard, now called a cemetery by our younger generation.

The First Presbyterian church was years later replaced by a much larger church built of brick. This second church was destroyed by fire on the evening of January 11, 1936. Three years later the present beautiful church was erected very close to the site of the church that burned. Meanwhile city authorities had removed all of the bodies from the old graveyard to the new Riverside cemetery.

Let's go back again to the year 1870 and take another glance across Church street to the north. There stands that old wooden structure known as the Plymouth School House. It was two stories high and contained only five rooms, two of them on the first floor and three on the second. This fifth room was a small class room built between the two larger rooms of the upper floor, without ventilation of any kind and only four kerosene lamps to provide light.

The two rooms on the ground floor were for children entered in the first to sixth or seventh grades.

The entrances to this school building were at each side of the structure. There was no front entry. The girls, and girls only, occupied the rear half of the building and entered on the right hand side as you faced the building.

The boys came in on the left hand side. This division of segregation of the boys and girls in separate rooms continued until the students reached the age, or had in the opinion of their teachers, accumulated enough knowledge to climb higher in their school work, that being the flight of stairs up to the second floor where at last the boys and girls could study and throw paperwads at each other as co-eds. At that time there were no grades or diplomas to worry about.

At this period, about 1879, C. A. Frisbee was superintendent of schools; he was the principal, professor and instructor and when a student had passed through his classes and had absorbed all that Professor Frisbee had to offer, that scholar became a graduate, without portfolio.

I doubt very much if such rudimentary education would entitle me to a scholarship at the University of Michigan. To tell the truth I did not try. In passing, I might add that I learned a few things in that old wooden schoolhouse which have proved useful to me over a long period of years.

And now let us return to the corner of Penniman avenue and Main street and see what we can find on the other, or east, side of Main street. Mr. Valentine owned a lot that began where The Plymouth Mail building now stands. This lot extended to the house that is now the Plymouth Library. Between the Valentine home and the present library there was a fine apple orchard. I remember. Harvest apples were easily obtainable in season, the orchard being surrounded by a high board fence and there being only a minimum number of "no trespassing" signs.

On the lot where now stands the library stood a modest home of the heaviest man ever to live in Plymouth. He was known to all the residents as Captain Kynoch. Mr. Kynoch was not over five feet, ten inches in height, but his girth was enormous. I cannot tell you his exact weight, but I do say I have never seen a fat man in any circus who would outweigh Captain Kynoch. He and his wife and two sons moved to California while I was still a boy.

The next building beyond the Kynoch home was on the corner of Dodge and Main street. Here stood the home of William Wherry, the mole trap manufacturer of Plymouth. Mr. Wherry, who gained considerable reputation because of the good quality of his mole traps, had two sons, Frank, one of the boys, was the finest marksman with a rifle who ever lived in Plymouth.

He and a buddy of his, "Big" Charlie Bennett, who lived at that time in the house now known as the Ball (more recently Gaffield) photograph studio, erected a building next to what is now the Schrader Funeral Home. These two young men opened in this building a butcher shop, or so-called meat market which they operated for two or three years.

When Frank Wherry was not inside the market waiting for customers he was outside shooting his rifle. When a customer had a penny or two in change that he wished to see disappear, he only had to throw it up in the air and tell Frank to see if he could hit it with a bullet before the coin hit the ground.

I have watched Frank make this shot a hundred times or more and he seldom failed to put the penny out of circulation. In other words, Frank shot a bullet into the air, a cent fell to earth I know not where.

The next building east of the corner of Main and Dodge street was the blacksmith shop of Anson Polley, located on the present site of our city hall and fire station. Mr. Polley was the practical joker and wag of the town and no native of Plymouth had more friends or caused more hearty laughs than did Mr. Polley in his day. If there lived a youngster of that era who did not spend one afternoon of his Plymouth experience in searching for Mr. Polley's wool "sieve" or his "left-handed" monkey wrench, I do not remember him. Should I ever take the time to write my memories of prominent Plymouth citizens, I think Anson Polley will head the list.

Beyond the present city hall where stood the Polley blacksmith shop and to the northeast on the east side of the street where the Leon Huston home now stands, there was a large two-story wooden building. It housed the large wagon and paint shop of Andrew Rhynders. The wagons, when the woodwork was finished downstairs, were then pulled up to the second floor on a wooden ramp built outside the building. Man power was used, both "pullie and pushie" and plenty of it, to get the wagons upstairs to the paint shop.

The next building beyond the Rhynders Wagon Shop stood Plymouth's first sawmill. That location would be directly across Main street from the little park that is located between the city hall and high school building.

In Superior, Wis., Morris Baricault, a railroad worker, explained in court why he set upon three tankmates with an iron poker; he suspected they were plotting an attack on him by snoring in Morse code.

In Chicago, Hudson Dealer Jim Moran, who advertised that he would pay any prospective customer's transportation to his showroom, got a taker, shelled out $708 for a plane ticket from Sydney, Australia.

It's Loaded—So Be Careful!

Before you drive the Golden Anniversary Cadillac, there is one thing we should like to impress upon you: It's loaded—so be careful!

There's more power in that dynamic engine than you'll ever need—except for the rarest emergency. And it should never, never be used for dramatic display on the get-away.

If somebody else wants the honors when the light turns green—let 'em go. You don't have to prove anything, anyway.

But that great power works for you—even when you're not unleashing it to the limit.

It works for you as a reserve—and gives you that easy, quiet, flowing ride which makes a Cadillac such a joy to own and such a thrill to drive...

It gives you that slow-moving engine—that simply loafs at all legal speeds—and which is a literal Methuselah when it comes to long life...

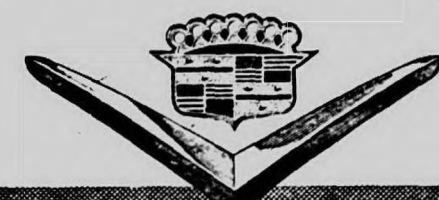

And it is a primary reason for that unbelievably low upkeep expense, at which Cadillac owners never cease to marvel. Some fleet owners have found, for instance, that Cadillac cost less to operate and maintain than any other cars they have ever used. And the easy-going engine, that never operates under strain, is a big factor in this economy.

Yes—Cadillac's great power works for you—and is necessary—and is one of the vital reasons why Cadillac's performance is so outstandingly different.

But we trust that no Cadillac owner will ever use it for dominating the highway. To do so is not only counter to the rules of safety—but it is not in keeping with the graciousness the motoring public has come to expect from the person who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Have you seen this great Golden Anniversary creation? If not, we should be pleased to welcome you to our showrooms—at any time.

 - 1 green pepper, coarsely diced
 - 1 large onion, sliced

 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 teaspoons soy sauce
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- Cooked rice

 2. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add to browned meat; cover and simmer 45 minutes.
 3. Add julienne potatoes, green pepper, onion, celery, mushrooms, salt and soy sauce. Cook, stirring occasionally 15 minutes longer.

Pork Casserole

- 1 1/2 pounds pork shoulder
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3 cups uncooked noodles
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 small can peas
- 1/2 cup grated American cheese

Cut pork into half-inch cubes and cook in a little hot fat until thoroughly browned. Add 3/4 cup water and the onions, celery, thyme and 1 teaspoon salt. Cook covered, over low heat until meat is tender, about 1 hour. Meanwhile cook noodles in boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain and combine with pork and rest of ingredients. Add last teaspoon of salt. Turn into greased individual casseroles or one large one. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake at 375 F. for 30 minutes. Serves 4 or 5.

Roasted Fresh Pork Shoulder with Savory Stuffing

Use a 5 or 6 pound shoulder with skin and bones removed. Prepare a savory stuffing of 1/4 cup of chopped celery and leaves, 1 tablespoon of chopped onion, 2 tablespoons of fat, 2 cups of soft bread crumbs, 1/4 teaspoon of savory seasoning, and salt and pepper.

Cook the celery and onion in the fat for a few minutes. Then add the bread crumbs and other seasonings and stir until the stuffing is mixed and hot.

Sprinkle the meat on the inside with salt and pepper, and pile in some of the stuffing. Begin to sew the edges of the shoulder together to form a pocket, and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing, but do not pack tightly. Afterwards, sprinkle the outside of the shoulder with salt and pepper, and with flour if desired. Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow pan. Do not add water and do not cover. Cook the roast in a moderate oven, allowing about 4 hours for a 5-pound roast.

A good vegetable choice to serve with the roast would be Acorn squash.

Seven-Way Cookies

"A Real Variety Act in Flavors"

 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 2 tablespoons milk
 - 2 cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1. Sift together flour, soda and salt into bowl. Add shortening, sugars, egg, vanilla and milk. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes.
 2. Fold in rolled oats.
 3. Drop from a teaspoon onto greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375 F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

Key to Good Health

Good food is one of the most important keys to good health. And of today's endless variety, one of the best foods to serve your family is oatmeal. In recent years scientists have confirmed what people have known for generations; that oatmeal is one of the finest foods in nutritive value.

Several recent scientific feeding experiments proved that oatmeal is far superior to other leading breakfast cereals in its protein value. Not only is oatmeal superior in the amount of protein, containing more protein than any of the other grains, but the growth-promoting value of that protein is also superior to all of the leading breakfast cereals.

Start your day with an oatmeal breakfast and take full advantage of such outstanding value. A real eye-opener that will "stick to your ribs" all through the morning is this tempting breakfast:

- Orange Juice
- Prune Oatmeal with Sugar and Cream
- Hot Cornmeal Muffins
- Butter
- Coffee
- Milk

Serve oatmeal often for real economy too. It still costs less than a penny for an average serving. This old-fashioned, yet ever popular favorite, with its high quality protein, its iron and B vitamins will be an important key to good health for your family.

Suggestion For Pack Lunches

New ideas for sandwiches that appeal to young appetites help keep school lunches from becoming monotonous.

Variety breads, in addition to the nutritious enriched white, such as cracked wheat, raisin, cinnamon, rye, pumpernickel, and French bread, and extra interest to the daily lunch box.

Here are three nutritious sandwich fillings that go well with many of the variety breads. Peanut butter mixed with grated carrots and mayonnaise; a blend of cottage cheese and apple butter; or cream cheese and raisins with milk added to soften the cheese to spreading consistency.

If you have a social item, or any other local news, phone 1600.

Pack Boxes Carefully

If you know someone in the Service you will want to send him packages of goodies occasionally. Whether in this country or overseas, there is nothing quite like cookies and candies, made in the old home kitchen.

To make sure that your package arrives in good condition, plan to send those foods that keep and pack well, wrapping each piece separately in waxed paper or parchment and pack in a strong tin box. (An ideal container for sending food to any part of the world is the three-pound shortening can. It may be decorated in keeping with the season with colored cellulose tape and various gummed seals.) To prevent breakage, fill all spaces with popped corn or clean, crumpled paper. Seal the lid to the can with a strip of adhesive or cellulose tape to keep out air and moisture. Wrap in heavy corrugated paper.

Unlike most fish, the mackerel has no air bladder to give him buoyancy. Nature has equipped him with strong muscles along his spinal column so he can tuck his fins in close to his body so as to swim with a minimum of effort.

Know What You Want at Coat Sale Time

Know what you want in a coat before you ever attend that sale of coats.

Analyze the advertising of the sale coats. Often it will give you more information about the color and style of the coat than about the fabric or lining. In the mild hysteria of a coat sale it isn't always easy to exercise your best judgment. That is why every consumer needs information concerning the points to look for in buying a coat.

Top values are often available at coat sales. The coats may have quality in their styling, fabric and fur trim. But there is also the possibility that a special purchase from the manufacturer has been made. In this case the coats may be priced somewhat below the pre-Christmas price but still not be an outstanding value.

Decide before you buy that a coat must be becoming to you, right for you and it must fulfill your needs or it is not a good buy regardless of price.

Style of the garment is important. For some the classic or conservative cut of the garment is more pleasing and will be a better value because it will remain in good style for many seasons of the year. Most women have to consider not less than three to five years as the probable wear life of the coat.

"Incoming fashion" is the smart choice rather than "high fashion." A "high fashion" coat is often reduced in a post-season sale because it will not remain in style too long. Too many women and girls learn this lesson the hard way. Even if the purchase price is low, if the coat goes out of style in a year it isn't a wise buy in most cases.

The real difference in most coats is not so much in the fabric quality but in the styling, accuracy of cut, quality of lining and inner lining, buttonholes and other construction details. Often the smart consumer will discover that in coats of different price levels the difference is not too great in the quality of fabric—it is in the finish and workmanship.

Methodist Women Hear Mrs. Tewes

A large group of ladies met at the Methodist Church last Monday night to hear Mrs. Helen M. Tewes from the University of Michigan Extension Department discuss the subject, "The Rebuilding of the American Home and Family Life."

Mrs. Tewes said that one of the first requisites of a home for a child is two parents who are in agreement on the rearing of children. Differences of opinion should be discussed during the child's absence.

Statistics prove that children growing up in a disrupted home lack training in the ability to maintain a home where there is unity and tolerance.

One divorce in every three marriages is a handicap to children and is helping to fill our institutions with mental and criminal cases. Many radio, movie and television programs are detrimental to the moral welfare of the child. Parents should carefully screen out the doubtful ones.

Other points that were stressed were brotherly love, understanding, cooperation, friendliness, kindness, and loyalty. She recommended that everyone try to blot out ignorance, hatred, bigotry, fear, pessimism, and jealousy.

Mrs. Tewes closed with this statement, "Preserve above you a shelter of faith in God, faith in self, and faith in your family."

In Canton, Ohio, after Harris Barret, a four-foot midget, rammed his midget-sized Crosley into a bus, Municipal Judge Gordon Burreis fined him $10, only half the usual fee for reckless driving.

Seek to Control State Deer Herd

Recognizing Michigan's deer problem as one which neither can be solved quickly nor without drastic action, the conservation commission again has asked the state legislature for unrestricted authority to manage the herd.

Presentation of this resolution to the legislature was unanimously voted by the commission at its recent meeting.

Need for balancing herd size to available browse range has been serious the last few years and was most acutely demonstrated in the 1951 winter and spring when a record 35-50,000 deer were starvation victims. Commission has had the authority and need it to permit special hunter trapping of deer in western orchard damage areas the last three years, but, the conservation body points out, the problem is statewide.

Latest survey by state game men, started during deer season and recently completed, confirmed the 1951 heavy die off in Osceola, Roscommon and Crawford counties and surrounding areas, and also indicated an important loss in parts of the upper peninsula and Drummond Island.

Seed cleaning, testing and treating are good farm practices every year. They are especially important this year with increased costs of putting that seed in the soil.

Now is the time to start planning your 1952 garden. Remember that fresh vegetables and fruits from your garden will cut living costs and improve the family diet.

The all-new 1952 Ford Customline Fordor Sedan features a completely new Ford Coachcraft body with curved one-piece windshield and rear window, triple-spinner grille arrangement and body highlights sweeping backward from the extended headlights along the hood and fender to the jet-tube taillight sections. Added styling features of the Customline Fordor are the chrome capped rear fender profiles.

Bulk Handling of Onions Tested

Interest in bulk handling and mechanical drying of onions is increasing rapidly in Michigan. James Boyd, research agricultural engineer at Michigan State College, told a Farmers' Week audience.

Labor supplies are tight and growing in cost, he pointed out. Mechanization is the answer to many problems facing onion growers today.

Boyd cited recent research at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station to support his contentions. In a storage building located at the muck experimental farm near East Lansing, a series of bins were installed to study use of procedures for getting onions from field to bin. Onions were harvested into crates and poured into an elevator similar to those used for ear corn. Speed was reduced to one-half that of an ear corn elevator.

The elevator carried the onions to a conveyor near the ceiling which moved them horizontally to the proper bin. The conveyor was made of one-inch boards with two four-inch canvass belts. The onions were deflected off the conveyor with a 1 by 3 inch board set at an angle on the conveyor deck. A canvass funnel took them to the bin.

Whenever a bin was filled with onions, a sample was also stored outside in a crate similar to storage done on most farms.

The first two years of work showed onions could be stored in bins with less shrinkage than with crate storage. Bruising trouble in bin storage was negligible. Researchers found that small onions could be dropped as much as five to seven feet without significant spoiling. Larger onions could not be dropped more than five feet if bruising was to be kept at a minimum.

Mechanical drying tests also yielded favorable results, Boyd stated.

Grange Gleanings

The Grange card party on last Saturday evening was a splendid success. There were twenty-six tables in play and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves immensely. Our next party will be held on March 1, so keep that date marked on your calendar. The committee for the party of Saturday night worked well. They were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nash and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Groth. Our thanks to them.

Our next Grange meeting on February 7 is our pot luck supper as usual but with a difference. All those whose birthdays come in January or February are especially invited as there is going to be a special table for them with a birthday cake. The birthday suppers will continue through the year if the members will help to make them a success. There will be a speaker here for that evening too. Further information next week.

Cagers Lose; Play Allen Park Next

The high school varsity cagers were downed again in 6-B league competition when Redford Union turned the trick to the tune of 52 to 43. Plymouth led briefly 7 to 6 early in the first quarter, but the Panthers then made 12 successive points to build up a lead they never relinquished. However, the locals did creep up to within 3 points of the winners in the last quarter.

Dave Travis, playing his last game for the Rocks, was high point man with 12 counters. The other points were spread evenly among several players.
 Tomorrow night Allen Park comes here for a return engagement. The first game was a well-played game between these two with Allen Park going off the floor with a hard-earned victory.

Daisy Wins Two

The Daisy team in the men's basketball league served notice that they are not out of the race yet when they won two games this week. Tuesday night they took the measure of DeHoCo by a score of 81 to 66, and Thursday they downed Plymouth United Bank 72 to 53.

In the first game, they jumped into a 39 to 24 half-time lead, which they maintained the remainder of the contest.
 Wally Dzurus was high for Daisy with 19 points, while Phil Jacobus had 16. "Pretty Boy" the Gow garnered 10 points. For the losers, Krider had 20, Gregory 18 and Robinson 16.

In the second win, Daisy had a big third quarter when they doubled the points gathered by the Bank team.
 Dzurus again led his teammates to victory by scoring 21 points. Don Huebler had 20 and Hank Levering 16. Ron Hees had 17 for the losers.

Sports Glances

by "Professor" Edgar Brown

Congratulations to Coaches John Sandmann and Charles Ketterer. Within a week each became a proud papa—at the latest report the mothers were doing nicely and the new babies began life with a howling success. However, the nearest either will get to the goalpost on a football field will be as majorettes—yep, they were both girls. Maybe by that time football will be de-emphasized to such an extent that girls will also be playing the game. Both said it didn't really matter as long as everyone was healthy and normal that was all that is necessary.

At any rate, it didn't bring them any luck on the court as both teams lost last Friday night, the reserves for the first time this year.

The second half of the basketball season begins tomorrow night when both teams take on Allen Park here at home. The varsity is now comfortably situated at the bottom of the standings, but that is no disgrace. Remember, Coach Sandmann had to rebuild an entire new team to replace the good team of a year ago, and it takes time to rebuild.

Remember the little school of Mass, in the upper peninsula, who came to the state tournament three years ago and easily won all their games. We haven't heard from them since, but this year they are again numbered in the top 10 teams in class "D" in the state.

Good teams come in cycles, unless a few graduate each year and a coach can depend upon a steady flow of material.
 I still wouldn't be surprised to see those boys win the District Tournament again this year though. I'm not saying they will, but that I wouldn't be surprised. Wait and see.

Frosh Win Fifth Straight Victory

The high school frosh won their fifth straight game last Friday afternoon when they downed Redford Union frosh 29 to 26. They have lost one game this season—that being the first game of the year.

The Frosh were out in front 16 to 8 at the half, but Redford Union had fought to a 2 point advantage at the end of the third quarter.
 Chuck McKenna was high for the locals with 8 points, John Agnew had 7 and Dick Day 5. The other 9 points were distributed among four players.
 Coach John McFall's quintet takes on Allen Park tomorrow at 4 o'clock over at Allen Park.

Tait's Rebound

Tait's recovered from their trouncing by Gaff's last week to more than double the score on DeHoCo. Upset by that defeat last week, they really "poured it on" to win by a 95 to 43 count. Halftime score was 38 to 24, but in the third quarter they scored another 38 while holding DeHoCo to 11.
 Paige ran wild on the floor and scored 37 points, which is a season high for individual scoring honors in the league. He made this on 16 baskets and 5 free throws. Pierce had 22, and Becker and Brodie each 15. Robinson was high for the losers with 20 points.

Bob Hitt Scores 713 in Major Game

A local bowler scored the second high score in the Motor City Classic, a league that has the best bowlers in Detroit in it, last week at Log Cabin Recreation. Bob Hitt scored a 713 on games of 223, 249 and 236. He bowls for the Wallace Woolen team, and his high scores helped his team to take two games from Progressive and win by a 3014 to 2993 count.
 Bob has bowled in Plymouth for several years and is considered one of the best bowlers in this section of the country. He also pitches for First National Bank baseball team in the summer.

Plymouth Drops to League Cellar

In a surprise showing, Bentley nearly pulled the classic upset of the year last Wednesday night when they held powerful Trenton to a 37 to 33 win. The Bulldogs are improving with each game. In another close game, Belleville downed Allen Park 46 to 42. Other games around this area saw Wayne walloping Ypsilanti 62 to 42 and Berkley take Walled Lake 44 to 33.

With the season at the half-way mark, the standings in the 6-B Suburban league are as follows:

Team	W	L
Trenton	5	0
Belleville	3	2
Allen Park	3	2
Bentley	2	3
Redford Union	2	3
Plymouth	1	4

Reserves Lose First BB Game

The victory skein of the hitherto undefeated high school reserve basketball team came to a sudden halt last Friday evening over at Redford Union. Coach Charles Ketterer's boys had amassed a string of 7 straight triumphs, but were edged by the junior Panthers by the close score of 47 to 46.

A combination of circumstances resulted in the loss. A lapse in the defense throughout the game, and 3 missed foul tosses in the last quarter were two of the foremost reasons.

The half ended with the Rocks on the short end of a 25 to 24 count and they were never quite able to make up the deficit.

For Plymouth, Tyler Caplin again led his teammates in scoring with 14 points. Pagenkopf had 8.
 Tomorrow they begin the second half of their schedule when they take on Allen Park at the local high school gym. They defeated Allen Park easily in the first meeting of the two teams.

Odd What One Finds Out About Friends A Long Ways From Home

Key West Now One of Florida's Most Congested Cities — Casa Roma Its Most Beautiful Motel

By Elton R. Eaton

"How is my old friend Stub these days? I haven't heard from him or seen him in years" asked a well known Michigan citizen of the writer the other day about a long-time resident of Plymouth.

Stumped for a minute, I asked, "Who is Stub?"

"Don't you know? He is as good a citizen as any city in Michigan possesses, and in addition to that he was a good friend of mine back in the days when we were attending the University of Michigan. He's Stub Jolliffe," declared former Congressman Robert Clancy of Detroit.

So it was why down here in Key West, the jumping off place of these United States, where I learned that the nickname of sedate, serious-minded and gentlemanly Evered Jolliffe during his student days at the University of Michigan was "Stub."

The former Congressman from Detroit has lived in retirement for the past five years, spends several months each winter in Key West. He occupies most of his time playing golf, reading newspapers and reminiscing about other days in Detroit and at the University. I told him that Mr. Jolliffe was trying to take things a bit easier than he did in former days but that the Plymouth Rotary club kept him pretty busy doing a splendid job as its secretary.

"Give him my regards and best wishes," said Mr. Clancy. Well, I guess I have properly delivered his message to a mighty fine citizen of Plymouth.

Came down to Key West before starting back north to do a little checking on some Fair Deal activities, seeing that President Harry Truman of Missouri has been down here for a few weeks before things got so hot in Washington. Natives do declare that barracudas did chase Harry and his swimming companions right out of the sea one day when they went bathing. It seems that these serious-minded big fish of the sea don't like New Dealers or Fair Dealers any better than a lot of folks do. One Native told me that a Republican could go swimming in the same spot and that the barracudas would hold an open house reception for him, but they just instinctively don't like Fair Dealers. I might add that I didn't try the same swimming hole.

It looks very much as though more Michigan and other northern state tax dollars will soon be spent to increase the water supply of Key West. Since the big navy development here and Harry Truman's frequent visits, both the navy personnel and the tourist trade has jumped by leaps and bounds. As a result, the water supply, which is carried for 130 miles through a pipe line from some springs up near Homestead, is not sufficient to care for the demands of the community.

If one happens to live on a second floor, he is quite out of luck most of the time when it comes to water. Frequently if one resides on the ground floor, at times there is no water supply. Local residents are warned not to waste a drop of water and do not sprinkle lawns or wash automobiles any more than absolutely necessary.

Housewives are asked to do their washings during periods of the day when the water supply is most plentiful. Members of Congress from this state are already planning to get Congressional approval for another pipe line.

Previous to the building of the present pipe line, Key West got its drinking water out of rain barrels. Every householder used to maintain several rain barrels to store a supply during rainy periods. You see no water can be pumped out of the ground down here. They get only salt water from pumps. Test wells have been driven down as far as 1800 feet in an effort to strike a fresh water stream, but all they ever got was salt water.

Sam Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence of Northville, who is well known to many of the younger people in Plymouth, now manages for Mrs. Vera Marks, one of the most beautiful tourist motels in the entire southlands. Mrs. Marks, a sister of Leo Lawrence, and her late husband, some 17 or 18 years ago purchased a brush covered piece of land facing the Atlantic ocean on the north side of Key West.

They cleared it off and within a few years had built a most attractive home and landscaped the entire half dozen acres or more into an estate with trimmed hedges and palms that is now one of the tourist sights of all Florida.

Following the death of Mr. Marks, she had her nephew come down from Northville to remain with her and look after the beautiful Marks estate. Some five or six years ago, the young Northville lad suggested to Mrs. Marks that the building of seven or eight modern motels along one of the main drives through the landscaped area would be of benefit to Key West and provide some income which would help in the upkeep of the beautiful place.

She consented to the idea and within a few months the place known throughout Florida as Casa Roma, became one of the most desirable motels in the south. For the convenience of the patrons, there is a large swimming pool available to all of the visitors to Casa Roma. There is a shore line of nearly 2,000 feet along the ocean side of the property—and the conveniences cannot be excelled anywhere.

"Sam", as he is best known to his host of friends in Key West was recently elected president of the Key West Kiwanis club, one of the most energetic Kiwanis clubs in Florida. In addition to his club work, he takes an active interest in any movement which is for the benefit of Key West.

This is indeed a strange, unique island. While there are some beautiful flowers and trees grown here, there is not a crop of any kind produced in or around Key West. No vegetables, no fruits, no grains, no livestock, no poultry—nothing, absolutely nothing—except fish and shrimp out of the sea, are produced in or around Key West. One will see a lawn here and there, a lawn made out of sod transplanted from somewhere up around Miami.

The city rests on a great coral rock formation, similar to that of most of the Keys between here and the mainland of Florida. There was a time when Key West produced a very large portion of the cigars smoked in the United States. But not so any more. The navy and tourists provide essentially all the funds local residents live on, except, of course the revenue produced by a fleet of shrimp boats and some commercial fishing crafts.

In a period of less than five years the population of Key West has almost doubled, if not more than doubled. Local business leaders are endeavoring to do the almost impossible task of caring for this sudden influx of residents. There are some tremendous housing projects, big apartments being built on man-made islands created by digging coral rock from the sea. There is some odd comment about the government financing of these places, but not possessed of actual facts, it is not advisable to comment about it at this time. Most of them are of two story construction. The thought has come to mind, what will happen to these many hundreds of new housing units being built, if Key West does not get more fresh water and get it soon.

Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman need not think they are the whole show down here because the city government named one end of a street after Mr. Truman and the other end of the same street after Mr. Roosevelt. There is an Eaton street here in Key West that hasn't had one end of it cut off in order to name a part of it in honor of some one else. In fact Eaton street is one of the nice streets of the city. Take that you Fair Dealers and New Dealers!

At a Rotary club meeting here the other day it was my privilege to sit next to Oscar R. Morales, the Cuban consul located in this city. Apparently he has been located here for a number of years, as he is a member of the Key West Rotary club. During our brief visit I became convinced that here was a high type, progressive and honorable public official who honors his country by the courteous way he represents its affairs in a foreign land. He was quick and anxious to give one all of the information desired about the interesting republic that he so well represents in these United States. That he is highly respected in Key West was evident by the attitude of the members of the Key West Rotary club towards him.

Years ago I visited Cuba on a brief visit for three or four days. At that time I found a most uniform courtesy on the part of all the residents of Cuba I contacted. Another Michigan newspaper editor, Phil Rich of the Midland News, who was seeking information about life in the rural sections of Havana was with me. An interpreter and an automobile driver took us out to some sugar plantations and one of the great sugar mills and to some of the smaller communities around Havana.

If one can find anywhere in this world a more kindly and courteous people than we contacted at that time, I would like to know where they can be found. My hat has been off to Cuba ever since that visit. And again I am glad of an opportunity to express my sentiment towards the people of this young Republic, a loyal friend of these United States of ours.

When our national government moves into a community in the way it has in Key West, taking over hundreds of acres for additional airport and harbor expansion, and throwing upon the local residents a burden ten times too great for them to carry, there is no question but what government aid should be given in helping to solve some of the local municipal questions.

Up to a few years ago Key West was a quiet, interesting, historic spot, with a small naval base and a citizenship pretty well satisfied with the way things were going.

But now government trucks, government cars, automobiles of the families of naval and government personnel, fill the streets—and the government as far as I can find out hasn't done one thing to help remedy the traffic problems of troubled Key West. Its transportation problem is more serious than in the average city of this size because its streets were laid out centuries ago. They are narrow, with houses and business blocks built up to or near the sidewalks, leaving little room for widening. During my visit here I haven't located a single thing of Uncle Sam has done to help out the local city government. The government officials know, too, about the water problem that was bound to develop, but not a single step has been taken (except talk) to remedy an exceedingly serious situation.

As we see it, there isn't much use in talking about it until there is a change of administration in Washington—and from comment one hears here, there and everywhere, it looks very much as though it is on the way. And for the sake of Key West as well as the rest of the nation, lets hope so. But the odd thing to me about the Key West situation lies in the fact that President Truman has been running down here for years enjoying the delights of this area and as far as I can find out, he hasn't done one blessed thing to help Key West. Maybe there was a reason why the city government cut out of its budget a $500 item for the entertainment of Mr. Truman on his visit to Key West.

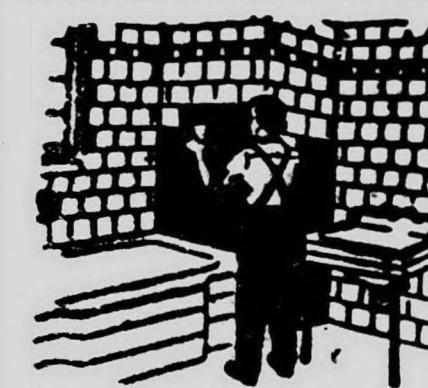

You can avoid mistakes by planning your farm construction and improvements well in advance.

A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers came up with the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loafing along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world.

As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" smoothly come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—which means that you keep on getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

You have the satisfaction of knowing that you get this power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

That's the story of Airpower carburetion in factory facts and figures.

Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Bow Hunters Set
All-Time Record

Incomplete 1951 license agent returns already show a record-size bow hunting force and indicate the almost certainty that Michigan had an all-time high number of resident fishermen for the year.

The conservation department says reports to January 1 reveal 18,619 big game archers, breaking the 1950 record high of 15,753 licensed bowmen. Resident fishing permits issued total 818,134 as compared to the record 819,702 in 1949, but final agent reports are expected to jump the 1951 tally to a new yearly high.

Nearly 136,000 annual nonresident and over 133,000 temporary nonresident fishing permits have been counted so far.

As compared to license agent returns last year at this time, resident deer hunting permits number 315,182, over four percent fewer. However small game license sales are nearly the same, 566,263, as against 567,238 tallied through the same period last year.

Latest returns also show 11,863 trapper permits, 66 percent more, but no record.

Museum Fabrics Now on Market

A new source for authentic fabrics, wallpaper and rug reproductions for home decoration is now available through an exclusive contract with F. Schumacher & Company, New York Fabric House, announced here today by A. K. Mills, Executive Director of the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

Under the contract Schumacher, which already makes the Colonial Williamsburg restoration fabrics, will also have exclusive rights to make commemorative fabrics and wallpaper patterns using objects from the celebrated multi-million dollar Ford collection as motifs. The material will be distributed to the public through interior decorators and the decorating departments of leading stores. All will carry the Henry Ford Museum Hallmark.

"There has been a noticeably increased public demand for replicas from the Museum," Mr. Mills said. "This arrangement with F. Schumacher and Company marks the first time in the Museum's 23 year history that objects in its collection have been made available through such media as fabrics, wallpaper and rugs."

Mr. Mills is now working with Rene Carrillo, Schumacher Design Director, in the preparation of the first of a continuing series of authentic reproductions, adaptations and commemorations. One print on fine cotton now in production uses some of the interesting harness buttons in the Ford collection as its pattern. Another printed fabric is being designed around the famous Ford collection of hard blown bottles.

The Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village principally cover the period extending from 1800 to the present time. The collection represents one of the finest in the country on Early American Folk Art, fabric and wallpaper documents.

The real importance of the collection contained in the Henry Ford Museum is the fact that the American public may see in Dearborn, Michigan complete displays of the history of the Industrial Revolution in this country as shown in all its phases from locomotives to sewing machines. Particularly interesting is the collection of early carriages and automobiles, the largest in the country.

Roger Babson Says---

Babson Discusses Airplane Accidents

Babson Park, Florida, Jan. 31. Last week you read that 85 people have been killed in airplane accidents during the preceding 38 days in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and yet nothing is being done about it. I believe it is a crime against the American people for the airplane companies not to do more to prevent such accidents. It is true that they can insure their planes so as to get a new one when a plane is destroyed, but no insurance can replace lives which they destroy. In my humble judgment, their attitude is all wrong.

Cause of Accidents

A few airplane accidents occur from running into mountains during fog or storm. These are being eliminated by the latest modern altitude instruments and by radar. With good working instruments and bright-eyed pilots these accidents should no longer occur.

The major cause of airplane accidents is their engine trouble or wing failure or some other breakdown which causes the airplane to drop to the ground and the gas tanks to explode. This throws the gasoline all over the occupants. Some electric spark starts the fire and the passengers are all smothered or burned to death. In short, "Old Man Gravity" is responsible.

Your Home May Be Destroyed Tonight

This means that these fatal accidents will continue and increase in number and severity as more planes fly and the size of the planes increases. When the airplane companies advertise they have the biggest planes, they do not tell you that the bigger the plane the more dangerous it will be for all concerned when it falls. Moreover, many believe that the bigger planes are more liable to fall.

It is not only those who travel in planes who are running the increasing risk as bigger planes are built. Every reader of this column, including those who never use air travel, is likewise subject to great danger, as was evidenced in Elizabeth, New Jersey. An airplane going over your house tonight may fall on your house and cover it with gasoline, causing your entire family to be burned up.

Enlisted personnel and officers from Armed Forces installations throughout the world come to this school for technical and professional training in military medical service.

Completion of this course qualifies graduates for duty assignment as technicians in military hospitals and medical units.

William E. Burger, machinist's mate fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Burger of 4097 1/2 East Ann Arbor Trail, graduated from the Naval Machinist's Mate school, service school command, U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois on January 25.

Burger entered the Naval service in June, 1951. Before entering the Navy, he attended Plymouth High school.

The Needed Remedy

There is only one means of preventing these accidents. This is to discover some partial insulator of Gravity, although helicopters may also help in solving the problem. Insulators exist for light, noise, fire, air, heat, cold, magnetism, electricity and even atomic energy. The work of the Gravity Research Foundation at New Boston, New Hampshire, is helping to discover a partial insulator for Gravity. This Foundation believes that the airplane companies could discover an alloy which would partially insulate Gravity if they would only combine and spend the money to do so. When a partial insulator is discovered the exterior of all planes would be covered with this alloy. The weight of the plane would then be so reduced that a fall need not cause a fatal disaster. Besides, the plane and contents would be so much lighter it would be much less liable to engine and other difficulties and hence less liable to fall.

How Airplane Companies Reply
The airplane companies claim that scientists say it is impossible to discover a partial insulator for Gravity. My answer is that when I was a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology I was taught that it would be impossible to use commercially heavier-than-air machines. Professors taught us that only balloons and dirigibles would be practical.

Scientists have discouraged many great inventions in use today, claiming that they were impossible. The Babson Institute has the third largest collection in the world of Sir Isaac Newton's writings and we believe that if he were here today, he would agree that Gravity could be partially overcome. I ask every reader to take an interest in this problem because some airplane may fall on your house tonight and burn up you and your family.
