Appeals For Blood

Sgt. Benjamin F. Griswold, 761 S. Harvey, 21-year-old Plymouth veteran of Korean fighting who returned home recently, knows how precious a pint of blood can be in a life and death struggle.

Back home after 14-months in Korea, Griswold said today that "There is a desperate need for blood at the front."

"When you've seen a man, fighting for his life, saved by a transfusion on the battlefield as I have, you realize the importance of blood donations at home," he said.

Sgt. Griswold declared that all those taking part in the Elks "Blood For Korea" drive are "helping my buddies in Korea in the best way possible."

The local Elks drive ends on December 11 and 12, when the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit visits the Masonic Temple. The hours on Thursday, December 11 are from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., and on Friday, December 12 from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. Those desiring to pledge a pint of blood are asked by Joseph Elliott, chairman of the recruitment committee, to phone 1274 for an appointment.

PORK SAUSAGE AND APPLES STARS OF "KING-SIZE" BREAKFAST

A good day starts with a good breakfast. Just serve this "king-size" breakfast to your family, and they'll treat you like the queen you deserve to be. Juicy sizzling fresh pork sausage links are teamed with delicious rosy baked apples to make a breakfast that's ample, easy, and pepped with energy. What's more, the sausages and baked apples provide an unbeatable flavor combination. A choice of ready-to-eat cereals or hot biscuits adds a pleasing touch to a breakfast everybody will like.

Because the body has been without food for many hours, breakfast is the most important meal of the day. It should supply one-third of the daily food needs of a well-balanced diet. A complete protein dish for breakfast is a "must," for it is protein we need to build, maintain, and repair body tissues. The succulent flavor of fresh pork sausage makes it one of the most popular breakfast meats.

We're lucky that sausage is so popular, for pork is one of our best sources of thiamine—the vitamin so essential for steady nerves, good appetites, and all around well being. Begin the day with fresh pork sausage, and you begin the day right.

Don't let the time element prevent you from giving your family the good start they need for the day's activities. The sausage will cook thoroughly while you're making the coffee and setting the table. Start the sausage in an unheated pan over low heat and cook slowly, turning sausages once or twice and pouring off fat as it accumulates. Cook 12-15 minutes. Be sure to save the drippings for later use in hot syrups, griddle cakes, white sauces, and for frying eggs. Bake the apples the night before while you're preparing dinner.

Mrs. William Brown of Patterson, New Jersey called on her son, Conrad Olson of Brownell street recently and remained overnight.

Pleads Guilty to Driving Charges

Two men pleaded guilty when arraigned in municipal court this week, one to a drunk driving charge, the other to a drunk and disorderly charge.

Murphy Dean, 33, of 216 Union street, received a $100 fine, $50 costs, two-years' probation and had his license revoked for one year following a guilty plea last Tuesday to drunk driving.

Dean was arrested Monday at Penniman and Union street after his car jumped the curb and rammed into a fire hydrant.

Police said Dean narrowly missed City Commissioner Eleanor Hammond, pedestrian at the time, when his vehicle jumped the curb.

Following a guilty plea Monday, L. W. Bridge, of 334 Blunk street, receive a $25 fine on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Bridge was arrested last Thursday. Police said he required medical attention following a fall in which he received an eye injury.

Pick Jury Panel of 100 to Hear Municipal Court Cases in 1953

The city's Jury Commission met for the first time last Friday to set up machinery for picking a jury panel to hear municipal court cases during 1953. They authorized establishment of a pool of 100 jurors.

Picked from the master registration file, the Commission chose every twentieth voter to fill its quota of 100.

Those chosen may or may not be picked for actual jury duty, says one of its commissioners, Lamont C. BeGole, also city clerk here.

BeGole notes that the clerk of the court actually picks the jurors from among the jury panel authorized by the Commission. Each juror will not hear more than one jury trial case during the coming year, BeGole says, noting that those who do serve are "paid a nominal sum by the court."

He points out that if members of the new jury panel are unable to serve they should contact the Jury Commission meeting at the city hall December 12, at 4:45 p.m., for its second round of meetings.

Those chosen for jury duty are: Ward L. Aldrich, Frank R. Allison, George A. Anderson, Chester J. Anteau, Stephen M. Armbruster, William A. Arcscott, Beatrice I. M. Also chosen were: Jane S. Clarke, Alvin Collins, Marjorie J. Conover, Helen D. Cooper, Bentley A. Crane, Marline W. Crouch, Nellie T. Crane, Elizabeth S. Cutler, Denise Daoust, George David, Harry DeBar.

The roster also includes: Esther I. Denhoff, Henrietta Dobbs, John P. Donohue, Jr., Lawrence D. Drake, William L. Duggan, Opal J. Duty, Leonard C. Eckberg, Joe K. Fann, Margaret A. Files, Alice F. Fisher, Melvin G. Fitch, Betty

The list concludes with: Charles J. Kuhn, Levi P. LaVergne, Harvey C. Leininger, Ernestine M. Lewis, Florence Little, Phyllis J. Loomis, Earl D. Lucas, Lawrence E. Lyons, John Maier, Wilva I. Markham, William A. Martin, Virginia A. Daas, Fred K. Henry, Ethel L. Clement and Raymond Daniel.

Piping hot home-made rolls and plenty of butter, a dish of your own strawberry preserves—is there anything better?

These days it's really no trick at all to have this good yeast bread, even if you've never tried your hand at "raised rolls".

Here's an old-time recipe with a new twist—new inasmuch as it uses nonfat dry milk solids or "dry milk" as most of us call it. It makes a delicious loaf of bread as well as rolls of your own designing. We've made half of the dough into Parker House Rolls, the other into a golden brown butter-crust loaf.

BUTTERCRUST DOUGH

- 1 cake yeast
- 1/4 cup lukewarm water
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 cups lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 3 cups flour
- 3/4 cup nonfat dry milk solids
- 3 cups flour (for dough)

Add yeast and sugar to lukewarm water. Let stand 5 minutes. Add butter, sugar and salt to water. Sift 3 cups flour and nonfat dry milk solids. Add to first mixture and beat well.

Using from the extra 3 cups flour add enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on board dredged with part of remaining flour. Knead until smooth and elastic.

turning dough from bottom up in toward center, and adding additional flour gradually but before dough becomes too sticky to handle. Continue the kneading until dough is light and elastic, with a surface satiny and full of blisters, and which springs back when pressed with fingers.

Place dough in buttered bowl; turn over immediately so that buttered side is on top. Cover with clean cloth and let rise in a warm place (about 85°) until doubled in bulk. Punch down and let rise a second time.

Cut dough into halves, round into balls, cover and let stand 10 minutes. Shape into loaves and place in buttered bread pans. Brush tops with melted butter, cover with a cloth and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 400° for about 40 minutes. Makes 2 one-pound loaves.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS: If desired, one loaf of bread may be made and the remaining dough made into rolls as follows: Roll dough 1/4 inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Brush with melted butter. Make crease across each, using handle of a table knife. Fold so top half slightly overlaps. Press edges together at crease. Place on buttered cookie sheet or in buttered shallow pan, fairly close together. Brush with melted butter. Allow to rise until double in bulk. Bake at 425° (a hot oven) for about 12 minutes. Brush with butter and serve piping hot.

First Reports Made on 500 Men Participating in Cancer Drive

Volunteers of the American Cancer Society in the Plymouth area have begun their first follow-up reports on some 500 local men who are participating in the national survey which will eventually determine whether there is a relationship between smoking and lung cancer.

The survey began a year ago when 50 volunteer researchers obtained the smoking histories of some 500 men between the ages of 50 and 69 in Plymouth. These case histories are included in the 210,000 men in New York, Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Iowa and California who voluntarily contributed information about smoking or non-smoking habits to the ACS. In all, 27,000 volunteer researchers conducted the survey.

Chairman of the survey in Plymouth is Mrs. Austin Stecker, 45455 North Territorial road. Mrs. Walter Wilkie of Canton Township is also leading a group in her community who have interviewed 50 men there.

"This major study was undertaken by the ACS," Mrs. Stecker said, "because of the alarming increase in lung cancer in recent years. The death rate from it has tripled in the last 20 years. Lung cancer is now the second highest cause of death from cancer in men."

The follow-up report by the volunteer researchers who conducted the original poll of facts will show whether the person under study has died since submitting his smoking history for study. If so, it will give the place and date of death.

"This will enable statisticians studying the case histories at the national ACS office in New York to determine the cause of death from death certificates and other medical records," Mrs. Stecker said. "Then they will sift the data to determine whether death rates from cancer are any greater among smokers than among non-smokers."

These follow-up reports will be made annually for a period of from three to five years, or until sufficient evidence has been accumulated to know whether smoking does or does not have any relation to lung cancer.

"Already," Mrs. Stecker reported, "the survey has revealed interesting facts about smoking habits. Of those polled, 18 per cent have never smoked—except possibly for a few experimental puffs. Six per cent have never smoked more than occasionally. The remaining 76 per cent are or have been regular smokers."

"Older men in the study have smoked less than younger men. Only 16 per cent of the 50-54 age group have never smoked, while 23 per cent of the 65-69 haven't smoked. Also the older men have shown a much greater tendency to quit smoking than the younger men."

"Study of the first follow-up reports should also reveal new and important facts. The 210,000 men under study are dying at the rate of about 13 a day, it is estimated."

In Baltimore, Hester Haring, 59, who was arrested for taking number bets, paid her $762 fine with 6,000 pennies, 1,100 nickels, 200 dimes, 680 quarters, 482 half dollars, $216 in folding money.

Urge Petitions as DPW Deadline is Set by City

that property owners disavowing public improvements sought by some of their neighbors may request the shelving of public works projects. Objections must be in written form and signed by 50 per cent or more of the real property owners in the immediate abutting area of the public improvement.

Hearing on public works projects to get underway here in April, 1953, will be held either sometime in January or February. Objections will also be heard by City Commissioners at this time. Lists of the proposed projects will be posted in the city hall and bulletin boards placed strategically throughout the city.

Projects to be undertaken will be special assessment improvements, with property directly taxed under a present plan of payment.

"Assessment depends on the size of the project contemplated," Glassford informed. "Generally, we try to keep payments down to $50 or less each year, with most assessments running for a three-year period," he said.

Lauding the city's new charter that went into effect in November, 1951, city officials point out that public improvements are being advanced with limitations of the old charter completely removed.

Those limitations hampering public works projects here, under the "old constitution" by limiting assessable rates to 25 per cent of evaluation of the land adjacent to a contemplated improvement.

Now, however, the city charter permits the city to borrow money through selling bond issues, pledging special assessments against to pay for the loan, back up by "full faith and credit of the city."

Proof of the outstanding planning that is rapidly cutting down the era of potholes in the streets filled with unhealthy stagnant water, is this year's road-building program.

Since last April an estimated $67,600 has been spent for street paving, storm sewers, graveling, curbing and road oiling, only part of an extensive summer building program.

Here is part of that record: Over 7,725 feet of curbs and gutters were laid at a cost of $15,000; 920 feet of sanitary sewers were laid, costing $3,600; over 13,000 yards of bituminous retread running for nearly a mile was laid, with 7,850 feet of double-seal black-topping added to varying city streets costing some $20,000. Road oil that cost the city $3,500 this year will be doubled in the next fiscal year's budget, says City Manager Glassford, who notes that some $400 was also spent this year for graveling as was $15,000 for storm sewers.

peek at THE STARS
By LYN CONNELLY
NBC MAY HAVE to find someone to pinchhit for Eddie Cantor for a while . . . It's doubtful that Eddie can do his next few TV stints, even though his heart attack after the last one was termed a "mild one" . . . Television is rigorous for the healthiest, youngest person and it is undoubtedly just short of suicide for a man in his sixties, even though he has done the same work all his life . . . Here's a switch: A movie company is combining several of the "Wild Bill Hickok" video films into feature-length movies to be shown in theatres where the folks don't yet have television.

Mitzi Green is slated to become the new "Baby Snooks," once the former Fanny Brice vehicle hits the airwaves . . . This is an unenviable job as Miss Brice was so much "Baby Snooks" that it will be difficult for anyone to fill in, much less some one so unlikely as young, bouncy Mitzi . . . Radio reminds one of Mark Twain's quip that "reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated."

PLATTER CHATTER
COLUMBIA—An excellent long-playing album featuring the songs from "Brigadoon," featured in "Ice Capades of 1953," has been released by this company and it's well worth investigating . . . It was recorded by the Ice Capades orchestra and choir under the musical direction of Jeri Mayhall and featuring soloists Lee Sullivan and Sally Sweetland . . . Songs include, "I'll Go Home with Bonnie Jean," "The Heather on the Hill," "From This Day On," "Brigadoon," "Almost Like Being in Love" and "Come to Me, Bend to Me."

In singles, don't miss Sinatra's recording of "Birds of the Blues," a honey.

Revealing part of an increased public works program for next year is City Manager Glassford who said today that "plans are currently being studied to widen and pave Main street from Penniman north to Church street." This short block is becoming an acute area of congestion during the height of the 5 p.m. business hour, with traffic at times locked bumper to bumper overlapping the stop light at the city hall.

Hilda Sessions Dies at 54 After Lingering Illness

A former Plymouth woman, Mrs. Hilda A. Sessions, died in Tujunga, California on November 24 following a lingering illness.

A life-long resident here until she moved to California five years ago, Mrs. Sessions was 54 at the time of her death.

She was born in March, 1898, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olds, both of whom preceded Mrs. Sessions in death.

Funeral services were held last Saturday in Tujunga, with burial there.

Survivors are her husband James, a son, John, a stepson, Robert, and a daughter Virginia, as well as an uncle, George Hillmer.

Witkowski Seeks Candidacy for Commission Post

Witkowski figured prominently in the Chamber's Christmas Lighting Program.

A native of Detroit, Witkowski lived in Detroit and received his high school training there before establishing residence in Plymouth three years ago. An air force veteran, he was discharged in 1945 and entered the Williams Schools of Prosthetics in Pennsylvania, receiving a two-year training there.

In 1946, Witkowski established the Plymouth Dental Laboratory at 274 South Main street. As a dental technician, he works closely with numerous dentists throughout the Plymouth area.

Witkowski is a member of the Plymouth Republican Club.

Preceding Witkowski's announcement was a statement before city commissioners made last week by Mrs. Eleanor Hammond saying she did not desire to seek reelection as city representative to the Wayne county Board of Supervisors.

"I do not choose to run again as I don't have time to be home-maker, county supervisor and city commissioner," she said. "I feel the office should be made available to someone else."

Mrs. Hammond was appointed to the county supervisor post in 1950 by Mayor Russell M. Daane. She currently holds one of three city commission posts, the terms for which do not expire until 1955.

South Lyon to Sell Two Schools

Two outlying school buildings of the South Lyon township school district are being offered this week for public bid.

The rural schools were closed following a consolidation of school districts and construction of new buildings, resulting in the decision of the Board of Education there to abandon the buildings.

The two buildings for which bids are now being asked are the Wood, near Nine Mile road and Pentrite trail, and the Bullard, near Eleven Mile road and Pentrite trail.

A variety of building equipment for which the Board no longer has any use is also up for public bids. This includes four stoves, a hot air furnace, complete with controls, and a shallow well pump and storage tank.

By Carl Peterson

If you're not happy with the state of this world, just stick around for a while. Recently a top civilian rocket expert told a group of business "brass" from 100 of the nation's biggest corporations that the time has come to build a space station. And he convinced the businessmen that the idea is as practical as safety pins.

All that's needed is 4 billion bucks and 10 years building time to establish a floating island in space . . . a Grand Central Station for tours out of this world. The rocketeer said, "The nation that controls outer space can achieve world peace." Buck Rogers, here we come!

Do your Christmas shopping all in one place. We have dolls, toys, cosmetics, pipes, everything for men, women and children.

One of our local philosophers says, "Don't question your wife's judgment . . . look at the fellow she married." How's that for a verbal curve ball? There's never any question about a prescription prepared at PETERSON DRUG . . . where accuracy and purity are top requirements . . . and a registered pharmacist is always in attendance to give you immediate service. So be sure to bring your prescriptions to PETERSON DRUG, 840 W. Ann Arbor Trail. Phone: 2080.

Doctor Discusses Trip to Greece

The impressions of post-war Greece gathered by a Detroit doctor attending the World Medical Association meeting were revealed recently to Mrs. Carl Finney of Plymouth. In an interview with Mrs. Finney, Dr. Ronald E. Clark disclosed many interesting facts concerning this country which has received so much United States aid.

"As members of the World Medical Association, we were very royally treated by the doctors and by the government of Greece," said Clark. "Our meetings were held in the Parliament Building—guarded by the Greek sentries. We had several impressive reviews of the army, navy, and cavalry staged for us during the week."

He said that in the hospital nurses and doctors were busy with the great overflow of people requiring medical care. One floor of the maternity hospital has been requisitioned by the Nazi army—and remains in Greek Army hands despite the great medical needs of this private institution.

Clark noted that the children were very grateful for the help which they continue to receive from the United States. "We continually were shown stores of food and hospital supplies which were being used to rehabilitate these desperate Greeks," he said. "Communism has been completely eradicated from the areas of Greece which we visited. The guerrillas are gone from the hills and Yugoslavia is a friend of the Greeks." Clark concluded by noting that art is playing a major role in rebuilding the friendships of the Balkan people.

After six months of "saying nothing but sawing wood," Henry Ford today announced the specifications of the new Ford car which succeeds his famous Model T. A bare listing of those specifications presents a picture of an automobile that in performance, appearance and mechanical features has heretofore been associated with a considerably higher price class. The local dealer is preparing for a public reception Friday, when models of the new line will be shown in photographs and charts.

Blunk Brothers have added another department to their already very complete department store. A special department has been arranged at the rear of the store where a complete line of ladies' dresses is being displayed. New display cases have been installed, together with pretty furnishings which makes this department very attractive.

Beginning Thursday, a new bus line service between Walled Lake and Wayne, connecting Novi, Northville and Plymouth with service every hour and a half, was inaugurated. This service is being operated by the U. & I. Transit company, with headquarters in Northville, in the Northville hotel building.

here in Plymouth a week from next Monday night, with some of the funniest stories you ever heard, with some gripping stories of athletics from his own personal experiences, and when you come away you will feel that everybody in Plymouth missed something if they weren't there to hear him. That's Dimmie Upton, former coach of the Grand Rapids Central High football team.

Born, November 20, to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Francis of Palmer avenue, a nine-pound daughter.

Miss Leona Beyer entertained a party of 16 friends in honor of her birthday, Wednesday evening of this week.

A miscellaneous shower was given last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bakewell, in honor of the former's sister, Miss Beatrice Bakewell, who was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts. A dainty luncheon was served to the many guests, and all were pleasantly entertained.

To the credit of Mrs. Katherine Henderson and her 78 assistants, Plymouth applicants for B and C gasoline rationing cards have not been required to wait for days or even hours as applicants have in many places about the state, to secure their necessary allotment of additional gasoline. The women have been working 12, or more, hours a day.

Horn "tootin'" mothers came in for a little chiding yesterday from Chief of Police Charles Thumme, when he issued a warning that there should be less automobile horn tooting around the school building. It seems that some mothers who have been driving their cars to the schools to pick up their children have made it a practice to toot the horns of their cars to attract their attention.

All arrangements for the use of the "Swap the Ride" survey cards have been completed and they are now available to the public. Anyone who is not now riding with some other driver or who is driving his own car, can secure riders or rides by consulting these cards which are available at the city hall.

In this prosperous little city of some 6,000 people there is but one welfare case at the present time which requires public support, according to a report filed this week at the city hall.

Plymouth housewives, who have not failed in doing their part in the war effort, are now being impressed with the necessity of saving every bit of fat they can for use in the making of army munitions. Mrs. Walter Harms, chairman of the drive, has stated that not much has been done up to the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Leonard Jr. announce the birth of an eight-pound son, Frank III, in Dearborn hospital, Monday.

Members of the Plymouth Kiwanis club at its meeting Tuesday evening presented Edwin Schrader, long an active member of that organization who soon leaves for naval service, a pen and pencil set. The presentation was made by Robert Jolliffe, veteran secretary of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Horton announce the birth of a son, Hugh Brewster, on Sunday, in Sessions hospital, Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reeves have moved from Sheridan avenue to Schoolcraft road.

Determined Wife Puts Newspaperman on Blood Donor Table

Fearful Reporter Gives Pint of Blood in Story of Weak Excuses

B.P.O. Elks Lodge here is currently sponsoring a "Blood for Korea" drive, accepting registrations for blood to be donated December 11 and 12 at the Masonic Lodge. Persons willing to donate a pint of blood are urged to register by telephoning 1274, from 4 p.m. to 12 midnight. Blood will be donated December 11, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., and on December 12 from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Don't get me wrong. I'm no flag waver. As a matter of fact I flunked semaphores signaling four times when I was a Boy Scout. But I do think that it's the duty of every red-blooded citizen to give blood to the armed forces.

I'm a red-blooded citizen and the Red Cross has a bottle to prove it. Okay, so you're surprised. So was the nurse. "You could've fooled me," she said when the staff came through the tube.

My wife saw my duty and I did it. Let me tell you about my operation at the Red Cross.

It started one night last month. I was gainfully employed in a game of solitaire. My wife was eating a loud apple and reading The Blade.

"It says here," she announced between chews, "that blood plasma has saved the lives of thousands of wounded soldiers in Korea."

"Wonderful thing—blood," I grunted. "Wouldn't be caught dead without it."

"It says that there's a shortage of the stuff and that hospitals don't have enough to meet their requirements."

"Tragic," I commented. "People walking around the streets with more blood than they know what to do with."

"Down at the bottom it says that the American Red Cross has made a new appeal for the armed forces."

"Good. I'm in favor of that. Armed Forces needs lots of blood, new blood. Too many old timers in the organization."

"It ALSO SAYS that tomorrow you are going to give a pint of blood at the Red Cross armed forces donor center."

"Good fine, splendid—WHAT? Blood? Me? What are you talking about?" I spluttered, throwing my cards down.

"Tomorrow you are going to give a pint of blood at the Red

Next thing I knew Mae had pushed all the cards off the table and was sitting on my lap.

"Darling," she was saying softly. "As parents lucky enough not to have our son in Korea, don't you think we owe it to our friends whose sons are there to help out with a tiny bit of blood?"

Well, it's all I can do to win an argument with my wife when she's wrong. What chance did I have now that she was right?

"Tell you what I'll do," I offered expansively. "I'll arrange with my doctor for a complete physical. If he okays me, the Red Cross will be welcome to my blood. It will only take me a couple of weeks to get my affairs in order."

"Good," said the wife jumping from my lap. "The only affairs you have to get in order is to pick up those cards. Then you'd better get to bed. You have to be up early. Your appointment at the Red Cross is for eight. I made it this afternoon."

"What?" I shrieked. "How about my physical?"

"Better not take it," she advised. "Would it embarrass you if they couldn't find any guts?"

"I've got as much courage as the next man," I orated from the top of the stairs. "We Rothmans know how to die. For the boys in Korea. For my country. Tomorrow morning at eight."

"Don't look so noble," laughed the wife. "You're not a collic." I went to bed, but couldn't sleep. About 2 a.m. the wife woke.

"You'll have to stop tossing and turning like that," she complained. "The Red Cross doesn't like its blood all shook up."

"I can't help it. I'm the nervous type."

"There's nothing wrong with you that a little courage couldn't cure," she said, rolling over.

So I went down to the recreation room for a shot of courage. Then I dozed off.

Morning came and the wife climbed out of bed much too bright and much too early.

"Hello," she sang. "Today's the day."

"Look doll," I begged. "I haven't had enough shut-eye to make up a respectable blink. I'm in no condition to give blood. Call up and cancel the appointment."

"On sure," sneered the helpmate gaily. "We'll just cancel the whole Korean War until you get a good night's sleep. I'll fix you a cup of coffee."

Downstairs the coffee smelled awfully good, but my appetite had left—a rat deserting a sinking ship.

"What would you like with our coffee?" asked my wife, the patriot.

"Corpuscles. Is my bag packed yet?"

"What bag? Why do you need a bag?"

"My pajamas, toothpaste and stuff."

"Look, Captain Blood, the whole thing doesn't take a half hour. You go in. You give blood. You rest for a while. You come home. It's easy as falling off a log."

"I fell off a log once. Didn't enjoy it one bit."

"Eat your breakfast," ordered the wife. "It's later than you think."

I shuddered.

At the donor center, I was greeted by a corps of women. One took my coat, another took my name, another took my temperature, another took my life history. Then they were ready.

I sat down at a desk and a nice looking young nurse took my hand. After a brief struggle she was able to isolate my typing finger from the other digits, and dabbed it with a disinfectant. She then took up a small, sharp knife.

Just then another nurse looked in from the other room.

"That man will have to stop shaking," she announced to my nurse. "He's rattling the bottles."

"You are quite nervous," observed the nurse. "Would you like to take something?"

"Yes'm," I suggested. "A long walk."

She chuckled. She wasn't the one who was going to get stabbed.

"Now you wouldn't walk out after coming this far, would you?" she smiled.

"Lady, I'd crawl out on my belly like a snake, if I thought I could live it down."

"Just hold still," she warned, "while I draw some blood off this cut."

To my surprise she already had opened a tiny incision with her knife. I hadn't even felt it.

With a small eye-dropper affair she caught some blood, squeezed a drop into a graduate of blue liquid and studied it as the blood formed a ring and dropped slowly to the bottom. Then she put a piece of cotton over the cut.

"You mean that's all there is to it?" I asked in considerable surprise, breathing a sigh of relief.

"Don't be foolish," she smiled. "That's just the beginning. Sit over there."

I thought over the worries of the past 12 hours and ordered Pablum.

When I returned home I was greeted by my family like a conquering hero. They fed me liver and onions, admired the puncture in my arm, and tiptoed past the bedroom where I was resting.

Bobby took the "donor pin" the Red Cross had given me all around the neighborhood, and the guy next door invited me in for a drink and remarked that it's too bad they don't have a blubber bank.

His wife told him if he had the courage of a worm he'd give some blood too, and he said he had the courage of a worm and he would give some when he got good and ready.

Meanwhile the wife and I sneaked out so they could argue better and we could hear just as good.

Parents Plan Sports Banquet

Topping off the "winningest" season in Plymouth High's football history, the parents of the boys on the varsity, junior varsity, and freshman teams, plus those of the cross-country boys, are sponsoring a banquet on December 15.

The banquet, which will be held in the Smith school gym at 6:30 p.m., is under the general chairmanship of Warren Worth. The food committee, headed by Warren Tillotson and Rodney Hubbell, have collected money to purchase turkeys, potatoes, vegetables, and other dishes for the dinner. Charles Huebler is in charge of decorating the gym and setting up tables.

Al Wistert, former U. of M. tackle and captain, will serve as master of ceremonies and he will introduce, as guest speaker Bill Orwig, U. of M. end coach.

This banquet is believed to be the first in which all the teams will take part, to be held in Plymouth in many years.

Chips from the ROCK

The fairer sex seem to take predominance in this column this week. Mainly we suppose due to the fact that the male population of the city was in the woods hunting for members of the deer population over the weekend when these items are collected. Main topic of conversation among the wives of the city was, which is the best way to use up the turkey carcass, I've just got to get busy on my Christmas shopping and I'll be so glad when the holidays are over.

Mrs. Floyd Kehrl, wife of Plymouth's well known banker made her first visit to local stores on Saturday, since early last July when she had the misfortune to break her left ankle on the golf course. She was thankful to be able to get into town again and start her Christmas shopping she said.

Thanksgiving was an unusually happy event at the Austin Stecker household in view of the fact that doctors lessened Mrs. Steckers hospitalization and surprised her by sending her home two weeks early so she could enjoy that holiday with her family. She has been suffering from a broken hip received in a fall on her driveway several weeks ago.

Home in time for Thanksgiving too, was Mrs. Lewis Goddard who journeyed to Biloxi, Mississippi with her husband in search of aid for a chronic asthmatic condition. A doctor of national fame in that city not only gave her encouragement but relief as well.

Probably two of the busiest ladies in the community over the weekend were Mrs. Frank Arlen and Mrs. Walter Sumner. Each spent most of their time getting ready for two big events which they are steering to completion this week. Mrs. Sumner was making plans for the annual bazaar at St. John's Church and Mrs. Arlen was getting things set for the Rotary Ann Christmas Crippled Children's sale.

After Notre Dame defeated Southern California Saturday, Mary Ann Witwer wrote State's coach Biggie Munn a nice long letter congratulating him and told him his Spartans did much to help keep her in spending money while she was a patient at the U of M hospital by garnering dime and quarter bets from doctors who were always ready to back up States opponents.

Most harassed housewife on Sunday was Mrs. Carl Hartwick of Northville road who had to throw away her complete Sunday dinner consisting of roast beef and baked potatoes because she forgot to check her oven setting. Burned to a crisp (both the roast and Mrs. Hartwick) cold ham saved the day.

A local housewife was heard to complain of the impatience of motorists who give pedestrians little time when they are crossing Plymouth's busy streets. Perhaps a little more courtesy would be in order during the busy shopping days ahead and certainly busy mothers deserve any extra attention they can be given.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

The cold dank wind of debt is fluttering up the bed clothes of Michigan schools.

It's an uncomfortable bed the schools have made for themselves but, as they saying goes, they'll have to sleep in it.

In 1946 the sales tax diversion amendment was pushed through by the school lobby. Every teacher became a one-man pressure group, flooding the mails with beseechings to vote for the amendment and "save our schools."

The amendment was passed.

Now John B. Martin, Jr., auditor general, predicts that Michigan schools will have to close in the next six months unless they can borrow money to stay open.

What has happened?

There just isn't enough cash in the general fund to make this mandatory quarterly payment to the schools—$25,000,000 too little cash.

Before the sales tax amendment was passed the legislature appropriated money for the schools in accordance with the amount expected to be on hand. Now it is bound by law to appropriate from the general fund an amount equal to 44 percent of the total sales tax collection of the previous year. This year it must come up with $94,000,000.

It is bound by the constitution to do this—but the general fund of the state is as empty as a copy boy's pocket.

Four years ago the general fund boasted a $34,000,000 surplus. Now it is $65,000,000 in the red.

Sponsors of the sales tax diversion amendment, of course, had no way of knowing such a situation would prevail. But it does.

In addition to the general fund appropriation, the state also kicks back one-half cent of the three-cent sales tax to the schools. This, of course, will be done—the state acts only as a collection agent for the schools in this.

One-half cent also is returned to the villages, townships and cities on a per-capita basis. Townships have very small operating expenses. Thus in many cases the small units of government have more money than they know what to do with while the state general fund is strapped.

Attempts to divert some of the township money into the general fund by renaming the earmarked funds have been stymied by Gov. Williams' veto.

The state deficit is old hat in Michigan these days. Mr. Martin resignedly suggests that the schools be authorized to borrow money to keep open until such a time as the state's long-range program can be effected.

Long-range program? That boils down to: The state can save and save and cut operating expenses and/or the state can collect more taxes.

This could mean the corporation profits tax, nuisance taxes on soft drinks, tourist accommodations, etc. There even are whispers of a state income tax.

Why not a constitutional convention to revise the state's taxing setup? The legislature in 1952 approved such a convention; Governor Williams vetoed the bill.

Practical result: A stalemate at Lansing.

"We have reached a point where the deficit can't go on increasing," the scholarly auditor general says. "I have scoured and gathered up every nickel I can find. We've cut down on capital outlay—everything. We are right down now where we can't find any more."

Some of our lawmakers were surprised recently when they learned they had passed a law ordering the corrections commissioner to establish a psychiatric clinic at Jackson prison. They neglected to put any money for it. When the omission was brought to their attention, several were surprised to find such a law on the books.

Half-dozen or so schoolmen are casting eyes at the chair of the superintendent of public instruction, now seating Dr. Lee M. Thurston. Dr. Thurston leaves office June 30.

The University of Michigan is encouraging students from small cities and rural areas to enroll in its medical school on the theory that those reared in small communities are likely to return to their own or similar areas to practice after graduation and that is where the state is shortest of physicians.

ROGER BABSON SAYS:

BABSON DISCUSSES POST-ELECTION EMPLOYMENT OUTLOOK

Babson Park, Mass., December 4. During my last trip through the Central West, I have systematically inquired about the employment situation. Most employers admit that good workers are now scarce and this situation will continue as long as the Government's military expenditures hold up. Furthermore, many employers feel that the Military Armaments Industry will remain, to a limited extent, a new industry for many years to come, and certainly will not be stopped all at once.

These people, however, further tell me that the armament program is now being carried on in a very wasteful manner due to the haste. When this rush is over, expenses can be materially cut. Therefore, barring World War III, many workers now directly, or indirectly, engaged in armament production will be discharged.

The above explains why many labor unions have been able to get raises. In the end, employment is subject to the old Law of Supply and Demand. Unions can temporarily take advantage of this Law and push up wages, but ultimately wages come down or else unemployment occurs.

HIGH TAXES AND LABOR SAVING MACHINERY MAY CAUSE UNEMPLOYMENT

Thus far, employers have taken no radical action to offset the Government's taking from 52 percent to 80 percent of the profits. Their attitude has been to wait until December 31, and then review the entire situation, after which many corporations will radically cut expenses.

The tight employment situation, with high wages, has forced
