Local Elks Pose as Threat in State

Six of seven bowling teams from BPO Elks Lodge 1780, who Sunday journeyed to Grand Rapids to participate in the Elks Bowling tournament, returned as contest threats while the contests continue for the next three weeks. The seventh team, however, was eliminated in early rounds of the tourney.

There are out to top their averages and net top prize money as top winners. The premium for this feat was set by Lodge 1780 three years ago when they came away top winners.

The 35 bowlers went en masse to Grand Rapids, many of them with their wives, on a C & O motor, returning to Plymouth Sunday night after an overnight stay in Grand Rapids. The group shared an entire coach on the Grand Rapids trip.

$2,274 in Premium Insures City For Nearly $300,000

Commissioners moved quickly Monday to protect nearly $300,000 worth of city property by The Travelers Fire Insurance company.

For this single premium the city gets fire and extended coverage insurance on $243,040 worth of city-owned property for one year. It also gets $14,000 worth of protection for 10 voting machines and $43,070 coverage on contractor's equipment. The two latter "floater" policies insure for three years.

For the three policies, broken down, here are the individual premiums: Fire and extended coverage, $1,274; voting machine premiums, $175; contractor's equipment premiums, $699.

Buying the three-year level policies saved the city some $175.

American Legion Begins 2nd Drive For Members

The second membership drive of the Passage-Gayde Post 391, of the American Legion of Plymouth, will begin next Wednesday, February 25, and last through March 18.

Through the contributions of time and hard work by the officers and members of the local post, they have made a most worthy record in membership by surpassing the 1952 total and also the 1953 quota as set by the Department of Michigan.

There are many reasons why all veterans should be interested in an organization as fine as the American Legion. There are many noteworthy programs that are being followed this year and have been followed throughout the history of the American Legion. It is a fine thing for each veteran to give peace time service.

Rehabilitation for veterans and their dependents is one of the goals of the American Legion. National Security, legislation, comradeship, junior education, and the sponsorship of such activities as junior baseball, Boys' State, Boy Scouts, and oratorical contests are all an important part of the Legion's program.

First and foremost is Americanism. By being a member of such a fine organization a veteran gives full support to the principles of Americanism. He supports patriotic education and makes his community a better place in which to live.

All veterans are urged to join now. Any information regarding membership in this organization can be obtained by contacting either Robert Wilson or William Langmaid.

The next regular meeting of the Passage-Gayde Post 391, American Legion of Plymouth, will be Wednesday evening, February 25 at the Veterans' Memorial home. The 17th District meeting will be held Friday evening, March 6, at the Veterans' Memorial home in Plymouth, at which time Lyle Alexander, Department Adjutant, will be present.

Local Presbyterian Minister to Visit Europe

After several years of planning the Reverend Henry J. Walch and his wife will travel to Europe and the Holy Land this spring. Reverend Walch is celebrating his tenth year as minister of the First Presbyterian church, and his 24th year as an ordained minister.

Reverend Walch will combine business and pleasure in this trip. Besides viewing all the historic places he wishes to see, he will represent the 223rd district of Rotary club at the meeting of Rotary International at Paris this spring. The 223rd district is made up of Detroit, southeastern Michigan, Windsor and southwestern Ontario.

"Palestine was my first objective in planning the trip," Reverend Walch said, but when he heard that Rotary was meeting in Paris this year he included it in his itinerary. As a representative he will sit on the legislative council. In this smaller group he will get to know more men from throughout the world, he said, and thus be closer to world opinion.

Reverend Walch has planned his trip carefully in order to include all the sites of historic and geographic interest possible in his two-month trip. The church has given him a leave of absence for that time in order to make this trip necessary.

The Walches plan to leave the week of May 10 and fly by T. W. A. to England via Newfoundland. They hope to arrive in England on Wednesday of that week. There they will rent a car and circle north to Edinburgh and back.

After spending some time in England they plan to cross to France. Renting another car in Paris, they will travel to Karlsruhe, and then along the Rhine river to Cologne, Belgium and Holland. "I shall be interested to see how much repair is being done on the damage caused by the flood," Reverend Walch said.

The Walches will return to Paris in time for the meeting of Rotary International on May 24 to 28. With that business completed, they will drive south through Switzerland, Geneva and Grenchon.

ble, to Nice, Monte Carlo, Rapallo which is the Italian Riviera, and then to Rome.

They will leave their car in Rome, Reverend Walch said, and fly from there to Cairo, Egypt. They only recently decided to go into Egypt, but they chose it over Bierut because in Cairo they would be nearer to the pyramids.

After spending one and one-half days in Cairo, they will fly to Jerusalem-Jordan. Since this area has been divided between the Arabs and the Jews it is difficult to pass between Israel and Jordan. Actually a separate visa is needed, Reverend Walch said. While in the Holy Land the Walches will see the many historic sights of old Jerusalem. Most of these are on the Jordanic side, he added.

"This whole area for me is honey-combed with history," Reverend Walch said, in commenting on his trip in the Holy Land. This land has been fought over 14 times, and the fertile crescent is always held by the strongest. What we are seeing now, he said, seems to be a repetition of history.

From Jerusalem-Jordan they will cross into Israel. They will take a quick trip north to Samaria, also trying to see the other historic sites of the region.

At Tel Aviv the minister and his wife will fly to Athens for about a one day visit. From Athens they will go to Rome to pick up their car, and then motor north to Naples, Florence, Venice, through Switzerland by way of Lugano, Luzerne, and Zurich, and thence up the Rhine to Paris.

They will take a train to Le Havre, and then board either the Queen Elizabeth or Queen Mary to come home. They expect to reach the United States some time the first week in July.

Reverend Walch expects to have the opportunity of exercising his French and German

PROCLAMATION

Acting in response to the appeal made by Governor G. Mennen Williams of the State of Michigan in calling upon all Mayors of the several Cities in the State of Michigan, this proclamation is issued.

As Mayor of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, I am calling upon all of the citizens of our City to respond to the urgent appeal for funds to aid the people of The Netherlands in this hour of distress.

THEREFORE, I, Russell M. Daane, Mayor of the City of Plymouth, do hereby proclaim the period of February 20 through February 28 as NETHERLANDS EMERGENCY RELIEF DAYS and ask all of our people to join in this effort to alleviate the hardship and suffering which are now afflicting our friends in The Netherlands.

Signed this 17th day of February, 1953.
Russell M. Daane, Mayor

when he is in those countries. He says that his English will have to carry him through the Orient, for although he knows Hebrew, that is not the language of the Jews. The trip is really a chance in a life-time, Reverend Walch added, and we expect to see as many things possible while we are over there.

6 Plead Guilty to Gambling in Local Factory

Six persons paid fines totaling $300 Friday night after pleading guilty in a municipal court hearing to gambling charges.

The men, three of them workers at Champion Corrugated Container corp., were arrested in a quietly executed gambling raid that caught the gamblers red-handed as they tossed the dice for a pot of $146. Police said they confiscated the dice and the jackpot money, later returned to individual owners.

Two night patrol officers, Patrolmen William Guldner and Howard Williams, made the arrests without incident.

All were hauled before Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo within an hour of their arrests.

1st Assessment Payment Due on Five Projects

Five special assessment projects received hearings before city commissioners Monday and were ordered placed on collectable assessment rolls.

Persons sharing in the special assessments may make full payments of their share of the improvement projects within a 30-day period without being charged interest rates. Annual payments due on most of the projects extend from a three to 10-year period.

Homeowners whose property abuts the improvements and who finance their property through FHA may have their assessment costs included in their escrow payments by just notifying the financing authority.

The assessments in varying amounts have been levied, effective Monday, on these improvements:

Sheldon road, between Penniman and West Ann Arbor trail, concrete pavement; Sheldon road, between Sheridan and Penniman, asphalt sidewalk; North Holbrook, between Union and Plymouth road, storm sewer; Palmer avenue, north side between South Harvey and Lincoln, sidewalk; and Sunset avenue, between Farmer and Junction, curb and gutter.

Stores to Plan Fashion Show

The Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' committee is planning a Fashion Show to be held to show new Easter styles. A meeting will be held at the Davis & Lent store at 6:45 tonight to discuss the possibility and advisability of holding such a show in March.

The show will be held on either March 12 or 19. A Gerald Pease, chairman of the committee, announced. Decision as to the date and location of the show will be made at this meeting, he said. The High school and the theatre are suggested places to hold the show.

Ladies' and men's clothing, jewelry and shoes will be featured in the show. All establishments falling under these classifications are invited to attend the meeting.

Boy Scouts Plan Third Jamboree

Plans are being laid for the Boy Scouts of America Third National Jamboree to be held this summer. The jamboree is part of the Scouts' three year program known as "Forward on Liberty's Team."

Representatives from Scout troops in Plymouth usually attend the annual session. Those who will attend this year's jamboree have not yet been decided, but leaders hope that Plymouth will be represented. Two boys in the local troop sponsored by the Rotary club are making plans to attend.

This year the 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers and Scout leaders from all over the United States will live in a democratic tent city on a ranch near the Pacific Ocean.

The owners of the Irvine Ranch, about 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles, have loaned a 3,000-acre site to the Boy Scouts. Here will be placed a city of 30,000 tents. The tent city will have its own water supply, electricity, telephone system, sanitation, food supply, doctors and fire protection. In fact, it will be a city complete with all the essentials of a community of this size.

Boys of all races and creeds will live together, including 200 Scouts from foreign countries. In meeting each other they will exchange skills, hometown products and learn about the customs and traditions of many sections of the nation.

The program will consist of pageants and ceremonies, campfires and music, demonstrations of campcraft, and opportunities of making friends with other Scouts throughout the world.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Boy Scout executive, calls the jamboree a "top experience in the life of a boy."

Elevator Man: "Billy your face is dirty!"
Billy: "Wat's it to yuh? You're not my pa."
Elevator Man: "No, but I am bringing you up."

His Wife: (in a crowd) "James, I feel faint. I-I can't take a long breath."
The Brute: "Take two short ones."

Predict $5,137
Deficit in Parking Fund Account

An anticipated deficit of $5,137 in the parking account is feared this week by City Manager Albert F. Glassford, who notes in a financial report that commitments to the account are expected to outrun revenues in the last half of the 1952-1953 fiscal year. Total parking fund obligations total $21,100 with just $16,962 in income expected up to June 30, leaving a debit balance of $5,137.

The financial tally shows that parking revenues on February 6 totaled $8,972 with an added estimated income of $7,000 expected during the remainder of this fiscal year.

Rapid parking lot expansion is seen as the crux of the predicted deficit. Parking lot construction, the purchase of new meters and acquisition of parking sites that the city has been committed to alone total $15,736. Salary, rent and maintenance expenses account for the remainder of the $21,100 parking expense.

Should the deficit be realized as now predicted, it is anticipated that surplus funds, from the contingency fund amounting to some $20,000, will be transferred by commission action to cover "over and above" costs.

School Paper Awarded Certificate of Merit

The Plymouth High school newspaper "Pilgrim Prints" has been judged "outstanding" in its coverage of the tuberculosis problem by the Michigan Tuberculosis association.

In a school press project sponsored in Wayne county by the Tuberculosis and Health society "Pilgrim Prints" was one of three county entries to receive state certificates of merit. A total of 93 schools in the state entered the contest.

In addition, the local paper has been sent to New York for judging in the national competition which is sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press association and the National Tuberculosis association.

The judging for the state was done by A. A. Applegate of the Michigan State college Department of Journalism. Jacqueline Langmaid, is editor of "Pilgrim Prints."

The program is a part of the health education program of the Tuberculosis and Health society, which is supported through the purchase of double-bar cross Christian seals.

History of Albion College Reviewed

Members of the Plymouth Historical society heard two reviews from the State Historical Magazine at the February meeting held at the Veteran's Memorial center. Mrs. Roy R. Pursell was program chairman.

A review of the history of Albion college as published in the State Historical Quarterly was given by Roy R. Purcell.

Miss Edna M. Allen reviewed the history of the Detroit House of Correction from 1861, pointing out that for six years, 1868-74, the superintendent put on the first reform program in the United States for women prisoners.

Miss Allen also reported that Mrs. Katherine Wilcox Thompson of Penfield, New York, a former Plymouth resident, has for the past year been writing a weekly series of articles on the history of the little town of Penfield.

Mrs. Maude Cooper, curator of the society, reported on the archives she had in her possession. These includes concert and commencement programs, photographs and a very factual and interesting letter written by Markham Briggs, one of Plymouth's former citizens.

Miss Joanne Purcell sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. Edna O'Connor.

Refreshments were served to the group by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Earl De La Verne and Mr. and Mrs. Pursell.

See Activities of Day Camp

Day camp activities of the crippled children at the Kiwanis Girl Scout cabin were shown via color pictures and narrated by Mrs. Herma Taylor at the weekly meeting of the Plymouth Kiwanis club Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Taylor is executive secretary of the Wayne county chapter of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The day camp was conducted last summer for handicapped children throughout this area under the supervision of the crippled children society and with volunteer help. Entertainment was provided daily by police, fireman and professional performers. Also with the help of volunteers, Mrs. Taylor pointed out that trips were taken periodically to further entertain the children.

The popularity of the camp with the children was emphasized by Mrs. Taylor who said that many letters had been received from parents stating that their children were already looking forward to another summer at the camp.

Program chairman Les Taylor handled the projector and introduced Mrs. Taylor, his wife, to the group.

At least three million self-employed persons will soon have new insurance protection. Tax filing time means that business earnings for 1952 will soon be added to their social security records, Harry Baltuck, manager of the Detroit social security office stated this week.
"This protection was earned by the self-employed who reported a net-profit of at least $400 from their business or trade in 1951 and 1952," Baltuck said.
If the self-employed person becomes 65 before July 1955 and retires, he may receive social security payments. In case he dies his family may receive payments.
Businessmen who reported self-employed earnings for 1951 and 1952 are protected through June 1955. If they reach age 65 and retire before July 1955, they will receive monthly retirement

PUBLIC LETTER BOX

Mr. Sterling Eaton
Editor, Plymouth Mail
Dear Sterling,
In your column, "Chips from the Rock" of last week you wrote a paragraph about me. I know that you did not realize how it would sound to me, or you would have made a different choice of words.
You, among many should certainly know that I had many, many pleasant memories from my almost 27 years of practice in Plymouth.
I feel that a great deal of me went into many Plymouth families. Every week when I read the Plymouth Mail I have occasion to remember many very pleasant associations and incidents when I see various names appear. Likewise, a feeling of sadness comes over me when I read of a misfortune that had overtaken one of my flock. They are all still a part of me.
When young couples get married, I say "He or she was one of my babies"—and feel proud of the association and pleasant memories. When we were on the school board together, you will remember how I would scan the lists of graduates and mark the names of my babies.
Not an older patient expires or a new life comes into the family of my former patients, but I feel vitally affected.

It is perhaps hard for one to understand how a Family Doctor feels about his patients.
As to my years of private practice having been "lucrative", the contrary is so. This true I made a good living but I still pride myself that I was never guilty of over charging.
And who knows that better than you?
As I said in the beginning, I feel sure you did not realize that you had put the wrong words in my mouth.
I do like my new work but it does not begin to have the opportunities for pleasant memories that my years as Family Doctor held for me.
My new work is an honor on me—that was the reason for giving up my private practice as Family Physician.
Will you please publish this letter?
Very sincerely yours,
H. J. Brinsford, M.D.
Mr. Sterling Eaton
The Plymouth Mail
Dear Mr. Eaton:
You have earned the gratitude of all polo patients who will directly benefit by your generous and unselfish support of the 1953 March of Dimes.
May this public service to the people of Wayne County be reflected in the continued successful operation of your valuable publication.
The officers and members of the Board of Trustees of the Wayne County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, who have the privilege and responsibility of administering the funds raised by the annual March of Dimes, join with me in conveying congratulations and thanks for your splendid contribution to the welfare of the community.
Sincerely,

Dear Sterling:
Congratulations on The Mail's fine showing in the general excellence contest! You've sure got a dandy paper; no one can second-guess the judges when you win a contest!
I'm doing a book on typography. If you think of it, will you please send me a copy of The Mail? I'd like to cite it as an example. My home address is 313 Cowley, East Lansing, if you'd send it there.

Alvin Bentley Speaks at Banquet

Congressman Alvin M. Bentley, youngest member of the Foreign Relations committee, spoke to the University of Michigan club annual All College banquet February 11.
Congressman Bentley chose the topic, "The New Congress Looks at Foreign Policy for his speech."
He compared the policy of containment to a football game in which one team could not cross the 50 yard line.
Congressman Bentley said that he was currently preparing a bill to revoke the Yalta agreement, as a part of the government's plan to abolish secret agreements.
"We must trade with rather than aid European countries," he stressed. "If we expect these countries to build up their dollar reserves, and support themselves, we must help by being willing to trade with them."
"The question in Korea now is not how, or why, but where do we go from here?" emphasized Congressman Bentley. "It is my opinion that we should add more Republic of Korea troops to the front lines. Even now, these troops cover a large percentage of the battle zone."
There are, according to the Congressman, three possible solutions to the problem of Korea.
The first of these is all out war, the second, give Russia what it wants, and the third see that the Russian government "goes down the drain."
"The world is not big enough for both capitalism and communism. We must see that the Russian government falls, not by all out war, which would mean disaster to both sides, nor by giving in to them which would mean our downfall, but by taking the psychological advantage which we now have and by causing the Russian government to fall," he emphasized.
"This psychological advantage comes from the fact that for the first time we have the Russians guessing what we will do next, instead of our wondering what they will do next," he said. "Let us take advantage of this, and defeat the Russians, because we can not do business with the current government in Moscow."

Glassford Calls for New Source To Help Plymouth Water Supply

While the city and its surrounding area is assured of practically an unlimited water supply, officials here moved swiftly to head off a water-table drop of one foot in its five main wells. Commissioners appointed Harry McNamee & Porter, civil engineers from Ann Arbor, to act as consultants in laying galleries that would boost the water table back to last year's level. Galleries horizontal are crock-pipe lines laid out like the spokes of a wheel with the central pivot being the well itself. The drains into the pipe lines then back into the main water supply.

It is not drilling and digging galleries would actually boost the water table.

It is pointed out that the water table here is partly composed of gravel in pockets similar to that left by glacial formations. Run into an excavation and bed it means the water could not be laid, thus preventing recuperation of the water table.

Heavy droughts last year and industrial use of city water has put a heavy drain on the water table, precluding normal recuperation or what ordinarily are the water levels.

City Manager Albert F. Glassford told commissioners that to safeguard the city water supply for the future, the city could (1) install water mains hooking up with the Detroit water supply (2) or double water production facilities by buying more land and sinking additional wells.

The third plan, to go ahead with pre-testing the Beck well field for additional water sources, then sinking galleries that would "lap" up the water, was chosen by commissioners.

Glassford expressed some concern over maintenance required on automatic pumps at the wells, two of which have recently been put out of service with burned out bearings, but since repaired. He said he was informed that sand had worked into the bearings causing excessive wear, stating that he suspected long, laborious pumping on each of the wells had caused the water to become turbid and mixed with abrasive sand particles.

As briefly explained by City Engineer Stanford Besse, water pumps at each of the five wells automatically go into operation, alternating periodically between each of the well sites.

The city has two shallow and three deep wells, the latter containing more parts of hardness than the 20-foot shallow wells. It is the shallow wells that are being used more consistently, inasmuch as the softer water is preferred for household and industrial uses. It is these well sites at which the bearing defects in the pumps developed.

(As a matter of interest, the "hardness" of water here is set at about 240 parts to a million. That is, there are 240 parts of calcium carbonate, a form of lime, to every million parts of water. By all standards, Besse said, the water here is termed "hard". Cities equipped with water softener plants "soften" their water down on an average to 40 parts per million.)

Commissioners barely discussed the planning involved in acquisition of additional land for more well sites that would be located adjacent to the present well field.

The water supply here in the foreseeable future has been termed more than adequate. A standby well not being used is being held in reserve. It was the total water source for Plymouth in earlier years. In addition the city has a 2,000,000 gallon standby reservoir. It could, without any other source, last users here up to a week.

The one alarming note in the total discussion was Glassford's statement that water supply levels at Burroughs Adding Machine company had dropped a total of 18 feet. Inasmuch as water seeks an approximate level with all other sources, beforehand knowledge of the underground strata, depth of well and its level with other nearby sources are faces that must be known.

The city some two years ago, for these reasons, viewed with alarm a gravel company's attempt to start digging operations close to the city that might reduce water table levels. A temporary injunction was won by the city at a circuit court hearing at that time restraining the company from starting gravel removal operations. The temporary injunction is still pending. The city seeks to make it a permanent restraining order.

Says Manpower Shortage Hastened Fall of Rome

A manpower shortage was one of the factors contributing to the fall of the ancient Roman Empire according to a University historian.

Prof. Arthur E. R. Boak, delivering the first of five Jerome Lectures, indicated that the Roman Empire suffered from a "deficiency in personnel necessary to maintain the economic and political structure in the Western Roman Empire, particularly in the face of outside pressures to which it was subjected."

The Roman population was never excessive and began to show a decline in the second century, after which time there never was a real increase, Prof. Boak said.

TV Trouble May be Caused by Faulty "Gadget" Within Home

Now Plymouth viewers don't be too quick to reach for a sledge hammer or blame the neighbors if unwanted sights and sounds make your TV set picture fuzzle up or your speaker howl in varying crescendos.

It may be a faulty electrical gadget in your own home.

First stop a minute, count ten then get in touch with the local Television Interference (TVI) committee, the nearest one here would be Detroit. Most dealers, TV stations or amateur radio clubs can tell you how to do this.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reported such committees are functioning in close to 200 communities in a cooperative effort to keep TV reception good. The idea started in Dallas, Texas, and has spread to some 177 other communities.

With more than 19,000,000 sets in use, FCC said the interference problem is a growing one, since some receivers can give out as well as get interference. Inexpensive "shields" frequently correct the trouble.

FCC's announcement related the story of a family who reported getting a terrible squealing noise on Friday nights during wrestling matches.

The local TVI committee was called in. It discovered an elderly uncle of the family always dropped in on Fridays for the wrestling. A set of weak batteries in his hearing aid caused the interference.

Red-Throated Loon is Peculiar Bird That "Talks Things Over"

The fact that a bird has a wide range for its species does not mean necessarily that it is correspondingly well known. The red-throated loon ranges during the year from the Aleutians to Greenland and south to Florida and lower California and yet most people go through their lives without ever seeing or hearing one of these birds.

The red-throated loon, with a length of 27 inches overall, is some five inches shorter than a full grown common loon. It lacks the conspicuous black head and neck band of the common loon though it is white beneath and has the breast striped with black and white. The throat of the red-throated loon has a conspicuous chestnut triangle at its lower edge. In winter the bird is dusky above. The sexes are colored alike.

Breeding of the red-throated loon takes place from northern Alaska and the western Aleutians south to northern British Columbia and east to Greenland, Newfoundland and Quebec. It also breeds in Europe and Asia. Our winter range of the species extends south to Florida and the region of lower California nearest to the United States, for the most part.

The red-throated loon has been suspected of feeding on fish eggs and it is known to make a large part of its diet of fish which it catches by diving and pursuit underwater. Because of these habits it has been considered as undesirable but what would a summer be in the wilds of Canada or northern United States without the opportunity of listening to some loons "talk things over" over on the other side of the lake in the middle of the night?

During migration the birds have a remarkably strong direct flight. If through accident or otherwise they happen to come to earth in migration, they probeggs, each about 3 inches long, highly variable in color and either spotted with gray brown or plain.

Both sexes take part in the four-week incubation period and the downy chicks are dark gray above and drab. The young take to the water soon after they are hatched but they are guarded jealously by the parents who become greatly excited when any sign of danger is to be found. In spite of the noisy behavior of loons at some times, they may vanish from sight quickly when they wish to do so.

The National Wildlife Federation and similar conservation organizations are greatly interested in careful observations of all forms of wildlife about whose genuine value there may be any question. The red-throated loon would come up in this heading unquestionably.

Letter to Family Tells of Korea

"When we got up this morning it was eight below zero." That is what Corporal Roger Corey wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Corey of West Ann Arbor road, about the weather in the Korean. Roger is serving with the 1st Marine division in the western sector of Korea.

Roger described his day at the front in this letter to his parents, the owners of the Perfection Laundry here. He said that even with both stoves working frost formed on the inside walls of the tent. "There is very little snow over here now," he continued, "but it really gets cool during the night. In the morning we have to eat fast or our chow gets cold before we can get it out of our mess gear."

Roger has few complaints about the food, however. He tells that the night before they had steak and eggs for dinner, "which helps to keep everyone in good spirits."

Roger's artillery battery has been seeing a lot of action lately. He tells how that day his battery had supplied supporting fire for the infantry which was probing a couple hills. "By noon," he said, "the infantry had pulled back to our lines after destroying the Chinese and their bunkers on both hills."

Flu does not seem to be a serious problem in the western sector. Roger had just received his flu shot, and he said, "If our artillery battery is any indicator of the flu situation in Korea there isn't much of it here."

Roger closed his letter by assuring his family that he is feeling fine and that "everything is going along well."

Girl Scout News

Four girls from Girl Scout Troop 1 visited Iris Cody, Saturday. The troop sent a box of candy and a doll collection to her and some of the girls also sent gifts. Every girl in the troop will have an opportunity to visit her as we have set up committees of four to visit and plan what they will do for her each month.

The girls who visited her this month were Christine Baker, Elizabeth Callahan, Judy Bondie and Jeanne Russell. They found that Iris was interested in many things that they enjoy. She knits, weaves, reads a great deal, loves television and is a baseball fan. She has a lovely voice and sang a song for the girls.

Iris is confined to her bed and at times is in great pain but she manages to stay cheerful and smiling. We who met Iris Saturday, fell in love with her and are grateful to Mrs. Norma Taylor, who works with the Wayne County Chapter Children, for making it possible for us to meet and know her.

The first meeting of the committee on Girl Scout Day Camp for 1953 was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Lyons on February 5. Plans for the two week session, which will be July 27 — 31 and August 3 through 7, are well underway.

Plymouth Girl Scouts have an opportunity to participate in two camping programs. Area Camp and Day Camp. Area Camp is at Cedar Lake near Chelsea while Day Camp is held at the Girl Scout Cabin in Plymouth.

Plymouth Council feels it is fortunate in having as its Day Camp Director, Mrs. Sheldon Baker who has been trained by the National Girl Scout Organization. Mrs. Baker was sent by the council to Camp Lone Tree at Three Rivers, Michigan last year where she received her training. She is also a Troop Leader and is president of the local council.

The Day Camp program will include many phases of Scouting and will especially emphasize out-door living and out-door cooking. One week will be devoted to Brownie activities for intermediate and Senior Scouts.

A poster contest will be underway soon and a prize for the best poster made by a Brownie, also for the best one made by a Scout.

The committee to change this year include: general chairman, from the Council, Mrs. J. W. Lyons; director, Mrs. Sheldon Baker; transportation, Mrs. George Bowler; cabin, Mrs. Norman Atkinson; publicity, Mrs. George Baker; handicraft, Mrs. Hugo Russell and Mrs. Wayne Rubey; food, Mrs. David Johnson and Mrs. Clifford Wilken; and program, Mrs. Clifford Manning and Mrs. Fredrick Berry.

The next meeting of the committee will be held March 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. J. W. Lyons.

The members of Troop 14 had a Valentine party at the last regular meeting. The party was part of the homecoming requirement toward the Scout class badge. Each girl invited a friend and the main event of the afternoon was the judging of costumes. Linda Leet was voted winner for the funniest costume, Jackie Potter, the most original and Susan Hulsing, the prettiest. Mrs. Hosier and Miss Spence are the leaders.

Troop 4, led by Mrs. Warren Worth and Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, are pleased to participate in the solicitation of contributions for the National Relief Fund on Saturday, February 21.

Mrs. Harold Shiley, swimming instructor, reports that Patricia Cover and Kay Seile have passed their Red Cross Beginners test. Marianna Jensen received her Girl Scout swimmers badge on Saturday, February 14.

Robert Jolliffes Enjoy Vacation in Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jolliffe report that they are having a grand time while vacationing in Winter Haven, Florida.

The Jolliffes haven't seen all the celebrities they hoped to, but they caught a glimpse of movie star Esther Williams who is in Cypress Gardens making a picture.

Evered and Grace Jolliffe spent 10 days with them in Winter Haven. Two weeks ago they all drove down to Bradenton and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Soth. They also drove to Sarasota and called upon Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, who have recently purchased a home there.

Plymouth girls may regret that Burbank didn't live long enough to develop a slow-growing weed.

Planning Commission Solicits Help of All In Compiling Latest Thing in Zoning Laws

Planning commissioners, at work for over a year recodifying and literally making a new city zoning ordinance, are holding a standing "open house" invitation to all persons seeking to make constructive suggestions.

The scholarly approach to iron out controversial aspects of the ordinance and make it a leader in modern municipal "jurisprudence" is in itself helping set a new pace in joint resident-city government cooperation.

Proving that this positive approach really works, city planners "took the bull by the horns" nearly a month ago and invited a dissenting group to air its views on an alleged unconstitutional aspect of the proposed ordinance.

The issue revolved around the legality of prohibiting the erection of billboards or poster panels or outdoor advertising signs that shall not be permitted in any district, provided this shall not prohibit those specific signs as hereinafter designated.

While the so called billboard interests sought refuge in the unconstitutionality of the law, the city attorney surveyed concurring and dissenting legal opinions from billboard law suits, concluding that "if a test case is brought, much would depend upon the facts involved and presentation of the case."

The counsel went on to suggest that the ordinance in dispute could be sustained with proper modification and "by reason of the modern trend in zoning." He indicated that addition of the phrase "the city could by ordinance eliminate existing marquees extending over public streets," was one way to make the ruling valid.

Whether or not planners accept or reject the counsel's opinion will not be known until a later date.

But at this time, this much is known: City planners are holding out the welcome mat to any homeowner or special interest group seeking audience with both dissenting opinions and constructive suggestions.

As part of the democratic process in action, commissioners want to hear minority groups. Involved in assembling the zoning ordinance is the future economic and social health of the community. There is the ever recurring question of proper exercise of police power, protection of the public peace, health and safety.

This, then, poses the meeting ground on which planners seek to mould the future of the city, by studiously examining the issues, making judicious, moral decisions along side constitutional freedoms.

"We are interested in turning out a zoning ordinance that meets present day needs of this rapidly growing community," Lamont C. BeGole, secretary of planning commission said. "And at the same time," BeGole declared, "we want an ordinance that insures that the city's future and interests of its residents are protected."

He noted that the "earnest effort of the nine commissioners to invite the public to participate in its group hearings may slowly give rise to a whole new feeling that municipal government after all does live outside the province or preclude community cooperation."

BeGole, an advocate of broad community cooperation in city law-making since coming here last April, speaks briefly of the proposed ordinance, currently being studied jointly by city planners and city commissioners.

"It is an affirmative approach to zoning within the city, stating what may be done, not what is prohibited," he said, noting that the ordinance follows the general pattern and nomenclature of similar laws elsewhere. This, he said, is called recodifying.

Of more direct interest is the overall ordinance itself that gives over slightly more area to industrial-business uses.

It takes cognizance of the fact that there are few — especially few — residential lots remaining within city boundaries for construction of new homes. Some persons here estimate the number of building lots at less than 200 over those already committed for house building. Bearing this out, Nat Sibbold, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said "lots available for homebuilders within the city limits are very few."

The proposed ordinance provides for expansion of the downtown area as persons leave Main street residences, providing perhaps for doctor and dentist offices in this zone.

Another drastic deviation in the proposed ordinance is the establishment of residential "A" areas that do not permit two-family dwellings. For such multi-housing units, a separate area, R-2, is being set up.

In R-2, under the new ordinance, apartment buildings are no longer permitted. From the time the ordinance takes effect all apartment buildings will have to be constructed in designated business areas.

With residential "A" establishing a professional one-family house area and R-2 restricted to multi-dwelling units, homeowners will find less infringement on their property values.

Also new in the ordinance is the establishment of R-1A, a combination commercial - two-family zoning area.

Industrially, the city has designated "slightly more area, not very much," says City Manager Albert F. Glassford, who stated that sound and vibration limitations have been incorporated into the prospective zoning law.

It should be pointed out here that to survive economically, and progress as a modern city industry to a set degree is needed. An example of what happens when an industry moves from the city is this story: When Allen Industries moved its operations to Detroit, the city lost over $300,000 in assessed evaluation. At this point, interjected City Assessor Kenneth E. Way, the city lost thousands of dollars that may very well not be made up by the time summer taxes are collected. If this is true, for the city it means a reduced budget in the face of increased operating expenses and a crying need for higher salaries. Industry pays up to 50 per cent of all school taxes — the single largest contributor to the $235,000 annually turned over. When Allen Industries moved out the schools lost nearly $10,000.

The proposed zoning ordinance will be reported out of the planning committee sometime this spring, it is anticipated. Before that happens, however, pre-set public hearings will be held at a date yet to be mentioned.

After being reported out, the zoning ordinance receives three readings before city commissioners. It is made in law by a simple majority vote of the quorum present.

Under charter law, the public is permitted to petition and have the zoning ordinance passed or rejected by a majority popular vote of the qualified electorate here.

In the making for a year, the ordinance has been the "nurtured baby" of nine planning commissioners who serve on the board without recompense of any kind. In the words of Secretary BeGole, "they are public spirited citizens who have devoted generously and with scholarly leadership, the hundreds of individual hours to make the ordinance a successful and an outstanding achievement."

The commissioners are Chairman Sidney D. Strong, Ezra Rotnour, Mrs. Frieda M. Reh, Mrs. Dorothy Swope, Duane Parkes, Lee Gaeke, Walter Rensel, Carrol Porter and E. J. Readman.

PLENTY OF LAUGHS seem to be in store for Plymouth playgoers as Theatre Guild members discuss a scene from the forthcoming play "January Thaw." Getting a few tips from Director William Merrell (r.) of "Will-O-Way" are cast members Dana Hatcher, Ruth Barney and Carl Hartwick (standing). Sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis club for the Girl Scout Cabin Fund, the play will be given March 10, 11 and 12 at the High school auditorium.

THE PLYMOUTH MAIL'S NEW ENGRAVING MACHINE is now in action and the pictures used throughout this issue of The Mail were produced on the machine pictured above. It marks the first time in the history of Plymouth that this sort of process has ever been performed in the city. Pictured with Mail superintendent Walter Jendrycka are, left, Elizabeth McDonald, journalism instructor at Plymouth High school and Margaret Dunning, proprietor of Dunning's Department store. To Miss Dunning, superintendent Jendrycka is pointing out the fact, that in the future she will now be able to show exact pictures of merchandise displayed in her store in her advertising copy. The engraving process will enable merchants to show their own merchandise as displayed in the store and the cost will be so low that it will prove a valuable asset in their merchandising programs. Miss McDonald is particularly interested in the machine because it will provide engravings for Plymouth High School's Pilgrim Prints also at a greatly reduced cost over those they previously used. Advantageous to The Plymouth Mail will be the fact that in slightly over an hour from the time a picture is taken it can be ready for reproduction in the paper.

Plymouth shoppers will find values galore at the two giant Dollar Day Sales Friday and Saturday. Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Dollar Days is an annual event created to bring the biggest savings to the shoppers on those two days.

Merchants have secured special items for the event. These will be offered to Plymouth shoppers at bargain prices just for these two days, in order to make this year's Dollar Days the greatest.

limit. City officers will patrol the streets as usual.

Since such crowds are expected to patronize the Dollar Days, Pease has urged store owners to caution their employees about using the free-parking spaces. "We want every visitor in Plymouth to be aware immediately that we are celebrating a city-wide event and we feel the covered meter will help greatly," Pease said.

Gaily colored streamers and banners will decorate each store participating in the event. This year store owners are going all out to give bargain-hunting shoppers even greater values than they found last year, says Pease.

Evans Ships First Plywood - Oregon

The first earload of plywood produced at the Evans Products company's newly-acquired plant at Roseburg, Oregon, was shipped this week. The plant, valued at $1,500,000 and purchased from the Mar-Linn Timber corporation, Eugene, Oregon, has an annual capacity of about 48,000,000 feet of exterior and interior plywood surfaces.

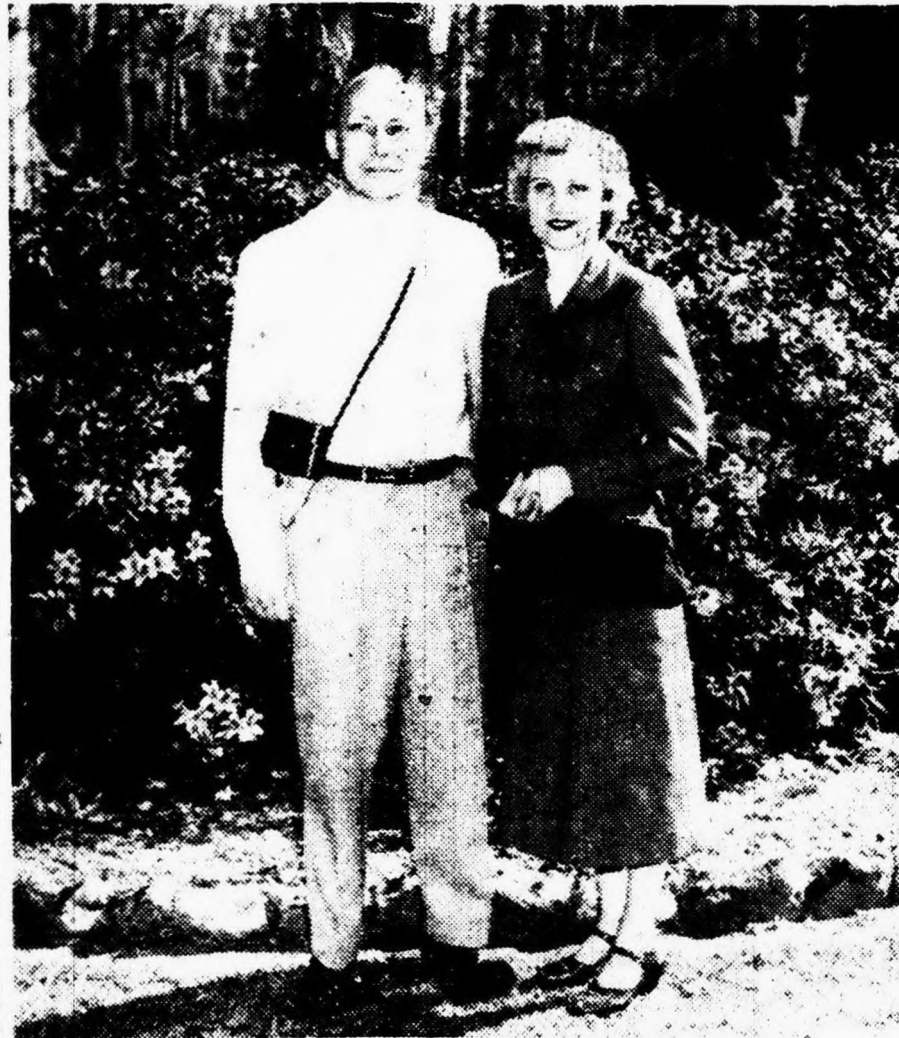

The Roseburg plant is believed to be one of the most modern plywood plants in the Pacific Northwest. Plant buildings, located on a 160-acre tract on the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad, are of aluminum and concrete construction rather than wood. The plant site is only 30 miles from a 400,000,000 board feet tract of Douglas fir the Evans company owns on the Umpqua river.

Gone Mobley is resident manager of the new plant which employs 150 persons. H. B. Garrison, vice president of the company's West Coast Division, Coos Bay, Oregon, is in charge of the new plant's operations.

With the addition of the Roseburg plant's productive output, the company's plywood capacity will be increased to nearly 100,000,000 feet annually. The Evans Products company of Plymouth, also operates plywood and lumber plants at Coos Bay, Oregon, and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Hints for Plymouth Homemakers

Try This Unusual Birthday Cake With A Candle For Each Guest

Take a deep breath and—blow out the candles! Parties come and parties go, but birthday parties are the happiest of all.

The cake and cake hold the center of the stage—and here is a birthday cake that is touched with inspiration. On fluffy white frosting, sparkling gumdrops circle the candle like jewels. And under that icing is a light-as-air cream made even more luscious by a layer of lemon filling.

The traditional candles are here, but with a difference. Not one for each year, but one for the guest. The answer to the question of how many candles to use. To emphasize this theory, go to the millinery counter of your favorite store and gather artificial flowers and grapes, feathers, baby's breath, some greenery and a roll of millinery ribbon. The veriest butterfingers will put them together so that there is a tiny boutonniere for each guest, offered at the end of shining ribbons attached to the candles. What nicer way to say, "Thank you for coming?"

All that's left to do is ring the beribboned cake with steaming coffee, served in your prettiest cups, and strike up with "Happy Birthday To You." You have made sure, of course, that there are plenty of seconds in the coffee pot. A cake such as this will be eaten to the last crumb, and it is going to take a lot of coffee to "go with".

Birthday Cake
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 2 cups very fine sugar
 4 eggs, separated
 2 1/2 cups sifted, enriched flour
 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
 Few grains salt
 1 cup milk
 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract

Cream butter or margarine to consistency of mayonnaise. Add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately with milk to first mixture. Add lemon extract. Beat whites stiff but not dry and fold in. Bake in two greased nine-inch layer cake pans in moderate oven, 375 F., 25 to 30 minutes. Cool.

Prepare lemon filling, using 1 package lemon pudding or pie filling and following directions on package. Spread between layers. Frost with your favorite fluffy white frosting. Decorate with tiny, jewel-colored gumdrops, with one candle for each guest. Attach boutonnieres of tiny artificial fruit to candles with narrow, pastel-colored ribbons.

Alter Length Of Curtains to Change Decor

In dead of winter a homemaker's thoughts often turn to spring cleaning and refurbishing. Curtains can help give the right feeling to a particular room. If your living room, for example, is a formal one, then you need to treat your windows in a very different way from the woman who has casual, informal decor.

Curtain or drapery length is one of the most important factors. There are three possible choices to help carry out the feeling of your room.

The first choice is to have the curtains end just at the window sill or perhaps a quarter of an inch past. This length has some disadvantages for the city home where dirt collects on sills. But this short length will give the right expression to an informal room.

Another length for curtains is to the lower edge of the woodwork that surrounds the window. This, too, will be good in a casual living room. This longer curtain does not collect dirt or blow in and out of the window easily.

A third choice is the curtain that ends just above the floor. Such a long curtain or drapery will give a decidedly formal touch to a room.

Cottage Cheese Supplies Heavy, Retail Prices Low

Cottage cheese is a bargain because of its high food value, but right now it is a double bargain because supplies are heavy and retail prices are reasonable.

Besides the adequate protein and minerals it supplies, cottage cheese has found favor with homemakers because of its mild flavor and the variety it adds to the menu. Cottage cheese combines well with vegetable, fruit or egg dishes to make a substantial meal.

Good quality cottage cheese is firm, with a rather creamy consistency. The color should be white to creamy white.

Cottage cheese will probably stay moist longer if refrigerated in a tightly covered dish. If left at room temperature for a long period it will develop off flavors and odors. It is best to use cottage cheese soon after purchasing for best appearance and flavor.

Actually it is best to use cottage cheese within two or three days after buying to be assured of the best quality in texture and flavor.

Plymouthites are eating more cottage cheese than ever before. In 1920 the average was a little over half a pound per person in this country; now it is over three pounds per person—a tribute to its goodness.

Homemakers with an eye to economy, good nutrition and eating enjoyment will be adding cottage cheese to their shopping lists.

TASTY SMOKED PORK SHOULDER BUTT MAKES THRIFTY MEALS

by Marie Gifford

High on the list of meat favorites but low in the budget scale is delicately flavored, sugar cured smoked pork shoulder butt. Fine quality pork is in good supply right now, and smoked pork shoulder butt is always a good buy, for there's no waste. Made from the boneless portion of the pork shoulder, these thrifty little butts are carefully trimmed, juicy, tender, and ham-like in flavor. They range in weight from 1 1/2 to about 4 pounds, and the size makes them ideal for small families.

It's a good idea to choose one of the larger smoked pork shoulder butts and plan to make a couple of meals from it. You'll find it easy to cook and easy to carve.

To cook a smoked pork shoulder butt, just cover it with water and simmer over low heat until tender, allowing about 45 minutes per pound. If a glaze is desired, remove the pork butt from the water and place it in an uncovered baking pan for the last half hour of cooking time. Cover it with a mixture of 1/2 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, and 1/2 teaspoon mustard. Bake in 325° F. oven 30 minutes or until glazed.

The water in which the pork butt is simmered can be used to add flavor to cooked vegetables such as carrots, green or navy beans, potatoes, and cabbage wedges. You'll like noodles cooked in the broth too. Serve the pork shoulder butt on a platter surrounded by noodles and soft bread crumbs that have been browned in a little butter in a frying pan. These are flavor partners that really enhance each other.

Leftover smoked pork shoulder butt may be sliced and heated in your favorite barbecue sauce or served cold in tasty sandwiches. Plan to treat your family to this flavorful meat soon. It's a little meat star that will delight the entire family.

Do Not Broil Pork or Veal

Steaks and chops are perhaps the meat cuts most frequently considered for broiling. However, there are many more cuts you may prepare by this method. Broiling is an excellent way of cooking a quantity of bacon, or Canadian-style bacon, as well as beef and lamb patties, to name a few.

Two meats are not broiled—fresh pork and veal. This is because pork is always cooked to the well-done stage. And in broiling it may become brown on the outside without being cooked well done throughout. Veal is not broiled because it lacks sufficient fat covering.

For this cookery method, first set your oven regulator to "broil". Then place the meat on the broiler rack and adjust the pan so that the top of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Meat cut 1 inch thick should be 2 inches from the heat, 2 inches thick, 3 inches from the heat. For best results in cooking steaks have them cut at least 1 inch thick, chops 3/4 inch thick.

Broil the meat until brown. This is an indication that the meat is cooked half way through. Then season with salt and pepper. Always season broiled meat after it is browned. Then turn the meat and broil on the second side. For a test as to the doneness, cut a gash in the meat next to the bone and note the color. Follow a reliable timetable for broiling to the desired degree of doneness.

An adequate breakfast has a basic pattern that includes fruit, cereal, milk, toast or muffins and butter or margarine. Add a cup of hot coffee, if you wish, and substitute an egg once or twice a week for the cereal. One-fourth of each days food energy should come from a hearty breakfast.

Blue Chapter to Visit Y.W.C.A.

A trip to the Y.W.C.A. in Detroit has been planned by the Y-Teens blue chapter. The club will leave school at 2:30 on Thursday, March 5, by bus. After touring the "Y", the girls will eat their dinner there. Invitations have been extended to the council members and the white chapter.

Betty and Jim Arnold tied with Beatrice Robertson and Tom Dudley for first place in the jitterbug contest during the Y-Teens' white chapter dance—"Y-Teens of the Valentines" held on February 6. The floor show featured Elaine Rich yodeling with guitar accompaniment, a dance by Marian Miller, Donald Wallace playing the harmonica and guitar at the same time, and a song by Mary Lou Hartwick.

Census Finds Increase in Waterfowl on Lakes

A 200 per cent increase in the number of ducks and swans on the important concentration waters of Lake St. Clair, the Detroit river and Lake Erie has been reported in the conservation department's annual mid-winter aerial census of waterfowl.

They estimated that 111,000 ducks and 300 swans are now on the lakes. That is more than three times the number counted in 1952, and more than twice the number counted in any previous year. They believe that ice-free feeding grounds are the chief reason why many ducks have not migrated southward this year.

Observers counted 57,500 ducks and 96 swans on Lake St. Clair and 47,900 ducks and 80 swans on the Detroit river. The remainder were on Lake Erie.

Suggests Sewing Seeds In Flats

Flats come "knock-down" and are put together with a few nails

Among numerous meanings which the word "flat" has acquired, ranging from an apartment to a piece of stage scenery, it signifies to the gardener a shallow box in which seed is sown, usually for growing in the house, in a cold-frame or hot-bed.

This simple device has been used for more than a century without anyone being able to improve it. The modern form comes knock-down and is easily put together with a few nails. It is a standard item in the garden trade.

Anyone planning to start seed in a seed-box cannot go wrong if he uses a standard "flat". It is a serious mistake to use substitutes which are too small, too fragile, or otherwise unfitted for the job of holding enough moist soil to nourish a vigorously growing plant from the time the seed is sown until it is safe to transplant in the garden.

A flat should be large enough for the plants, and not too large, or heavy for the planter to handle. Standard sizes range from 14x21 1/2 inches, 2 inches, to 15x24 inches, 3 3/4 inches deep. The important dimension is depth, two inches being the minimum required to allow unchecked development of the roots of a seedling plant. When spaced, as usually practiced, two inches apart each way, each plant has eight cubic inches of soil in which to grow.

Knock-down flats are made of half-inch cypress or pine, both resistant to dampness. Between the boards on the bottom, narrow cracks are left to allow excess water to drain away. When filled with soil, a flat provides a seed-bed adequate for the plants, yet easily moved around indoors and out to locations which provide favorable conditions for growth.

They are easily placed on a table or bench to eliminate bending over when sowing seed, thinning out or transplanting seedlings to pots or other flats. They can be moved from sun-shine to shade outdoors and kept in a place convenient for watering. When it is safe to set out plants in the open, the flat can be carried to the garden and transplanting done with a minimum of shock to the plant and disturbance to the roots.

A single flat of minimum size has room to develop 60 seedling plants to transplanting size without check if the seeds are sown in rows two inches apart and thinned out to stand two inches apart in the row. The excess plants can be moved to other flats if desired, and thus all seedlings saved, for transplanting to exactly the place desired in the garden.

Plants started in the home, or in the cold frame before the weather is warm enough for outdoor operations, get a head start which results in an earlier harvest of flowers or vegetables in spite of the brief set-back which they may receive when transplanted.

Flowers which should be started early, if possible, include petunias, snapdragons, and lasters, all of which germinate and grow slowly. Most of the annual flowers can be started early, enabling them to start blooming as much as a month earlier than when sown direct in the garden. Vegetables which need an early start include egg plant, peppers, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower.

Have your curtains either short or long—not in between. The in-between length that ends halfway between floor and sill looks like you ran out of material.

LIFE'S THAT WAY... A paint job... half done

1. PAINT'S OUT FOR THE DAY, SO I'LL SURPRISE HER AND PAINT THE KITCHEN NEARBY. OH, OH THERE GOES THE TELEPHONE!

2. I GUESS JIM JUST STEPPED OUT. I'LL CALL AGAIN, LATER.

3. HELLO HELLO! THEY'VE HUNG UP. OH, WELL, BACK TO WORK!

4. THAT'S FUNNY, JIM DOESN'T ANSWER, AND I'M SURE HE'S AT HOME. GUESS I'D BETTER GO AND SEE WHAT'S THE TROUBLE.

5. NOT AGAIN! THIS MAKES THE SIXTH TIME I'VE COME DOWN FROM THAT LADDER TO FIND NOBODY ON THE LINE!

6. HI, DARLING! I TRIED TO CALL YOU ALL AFTERNOON, BUT I COULDN'T GET YOU. SAY, WHAT HAPPENED TO THE KITCHEN? YOU'RE NOT GOING TO LEAVE IT LIKE THAT, ARE YOU?

PS. TO AVOID LOST CALLS, GIVE THE PERSON YOU'RE CALLING TIME TO ANSWER THE TELEPHONE. WORKS SWELL THE OTHER WAY, TOO. ALWAYS BE QUICK TO ANSWER.

These Events Were News

Failing to see a freight train which had stopped at the Pere Marquette crossing on the 12-mile road, early Tuesday evening, Archie Woodworth of Howell, drove his automobile into it. At a result he and his wife, Mary, were taken to the Atchinson hospital in Northville, both injured seriously.

Succumbing to an illness of seven weeks, Dr. Frank B. Adams

73 years old, a graduate of the University of Michigan school of Medicine, in 1884 and widely known among Michigan medical men of the older generation, died Saturday morning at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Detroit.

Dee Trimble, graduate of the Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti, is the latest addition to the staff of the Muskegon Y.M.C.A. He has been appointed assistant to G. W. Somers, physical director of the local association.

A large barn of the Thomas Newton estate about a half a mile west of Cherry Hill, on the Cherry Hill road, was destroyed by fire last Saturday night. Members of the Samuel Stump family, who have been renting the farm, and who are to give up the possession early in March, were not at home when the blaze started. The first warning to neighbors was through a mysterious telephone call. State Fire Marshall Peter R. Karns, and state police of Wayne, are investigating.

Harold Rossow was given a farewell surprise party at his home last Friday evening, by his teacher, Mrs. Ada Watson, and the 7th and 8th graders of the Briggs school. Games and music were enjoyed, with prizes being given with the games. Sandwiches, pickles, cocoa, cake and jello with whipped cream were served. Harold was presented with a lovely book and a box of Gilbert's chocolates.

Through the invitation of George A. Smith, superintendent of Plymouth schools and a member of the board of the State Public School at Coldwater, the editor of The Mail was privileged to visit that institution last Saturday, and was shown through the cottages, hospital and school buildings by Mr. Smith and superintendent Ramsey of the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cochran of Homer, Michigan, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bakewell, and other relatives here last week.

Earl Bridge is building a new brick veneer house in Maplecroft subdivision. Roy Streng has the contract.

Herman Bakhaus, owner of the Cloverdale Farms dairy, was elected president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the board of directors this week. Rolfe Smith, manager of the Plymouth branch of the Consumers Power company, was elected vice president, and Jack Taylor, cashier of the First National bank was named secretary.

Miss Marilyn Martin, Plymouth's first police woman has joined the W.A.A.G.S. and is expected to be called into service within the next two weeks. Her rank in the Plymouth police force is that of a sergeant.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin J. Hadley, 601 Evergreen, have received a telegram from the United States Merchant Marines informing them that their son, Charles Hadley, is missing in action. The telegram did not say where the action took place but presumably it was in the Atlantic where he was believed to have been serving.

Robert Kisabeth, now a sergeant in Uncle Sam's Army "somewhere in Africa" found time enough on January 20 to write The Plymouth Mail that his home-town newspaper had followed him from Ireland to Africa without missing a single issue.

Mike Kleinschmidt told of Navy life and answered questions inquisitive Plymouth High school band members asked while on leave last week. It seems no matter where Mike goes he organizes an orchestra. At Great Lakes his orchestra is very popular. He has a saxophonist from Charley Spivak's band and a drummer from Gene Kruppa's.

From somewhere up where there must be snowbanks, comes the first letter from Walter Jendrycka that has been received in many months by The Plymouth Mail. Walter, as many of his friends knew, was one of the employees of The Mail's composing room before he took up Army life. The letter further stated that he was some where near the Arctic circle.

Superintendent Attends Meeting

Russell Isbister, superintendent of Plymouth public schools, traveled to Atlantic City this week to attend a convention of the American Association of School Superintendents. The meeting continued through the week of February 16-20.

On Thursday, February 19, Mr. Isbister led a group discussion. A discussion carried on in an informal manner was led by Dr. Howard A. Lane, professor of education at New York University. The discussion emphasized the problem of education to young children.

Dr. Paul J. Misner, Superintendent of Schools, Glencoe, Illinois, led a panel discussion also.

Suggested topics for the discussion were:

1. Why should immature children always be associated with other immature children?
2. When we place so much emphasis on the value of diversity in a democracy, why do we insist on seeking to place all children who are alike together?
3. Are we attaching too much emphasis to guidance as a specialized activity at the primary school level?
4. Are we assuming responsibilities that belong properly to the home?
5. Do our guidance programs tend to invade some of the child's right to be a person?
6. When there is such great need for cooperation throughout the world, why do we continue to emphasize so much individualism in our schools?

5. Do we depend too much on statistical measures in evaluating the growth of young children?
