EYING THE TWO VACANT SEATS that exist on the Plymouth School Board are nine of the 10 candidates running for election on June 8. The large number of strong candidates has created a considerable amount of interest in the election which last year had but one candidate. Superintendent Russell Isbister predicts a record-making total of 1,000 votes in

Second in Week Injured When Struck by Car

A 14-year-old junior high school youth was the second within a week to suffer painful injuries after being struck down by an automobile here.

Suffering from a fractured wrist and bruises of the face and shoulder in the latest incident was Jack Hamlin of 704 West Ann Arbor road.

He was struck and flipped from his bicycle eight days ago by a vehicle driven by a 16-year-old Plymouth High school youth just as classes were being excused for the day. The accident occurred south of the Adams and Church street intersection.

Witnesses were said to have told police that the car was "going pretty fast." Force of the impact flung Hamlin on top of the car's hood. It was dented by the blow. The bicycle was bent in half and completely demolished.

Police said the youthful driver told them "I didn't see him until it happened." The driver, whose name is withheld due to his age, reportedly stopped at the intersection and was going south just as Hamlin rounded the Church street mall on his bicycle.

Hamlin was removed to Wayne County General hospital for treatment and released to his home.

Sec'y. of State is Plymouth Visitor

Secretary of State Owen Cleary was a visitor at The Mail office last Tuesday afternoon on a trip from Detroit. The Secretary decided he would drive out Plymouth road to take a look at the tremendous development going on in this area.

After exchanging a few greetings at The Mail he made a call at the Secretary of State branch office in the Plymouth Township Hall where he chatted briefly with branch manager Mrs. Alice Rambo and other township officials who were on hand. He praised highly the operation of the Plymouth license branch and stated he now had a dozen women throughout the state running such offices.

Captain Roberts Tells of Transfer

Captain William Roberts announced late last week he is being transferred to another Salvation Army citadel June 17 on order of Divisional Headquarters for Eastern Michigan in Detroit.

The Detroit headquarters will not disclose the new assignment until sometime next week.

Captain Roberts has headed the Salvation Army here since 1947. During that time he played an instrumental role in heading up the financing and construction of a $40,000 citadel completed in 1951.

To his impressive six-year tenure in Plymouth, Captain Roberts attaches a myriad of friendships. His division alone has expended more than $10,000 to befriend "several thousand" in need of social welfare aid. Besides this and regular services the citadel has carried its services to the Detroit House of Correction where activities, interviews and services have been conducted in both the men's and women's divisions.

Captain Roberts said he would conduct final Sunday morning services on June 14 with a farewell service conducted that night.

He came here after serving in Howell from 1945 to 1947. He graduated from the Salvation Army college in Chicago in 1943 and was assigned to the Harbor Light Corps in Detroit until 1945.

Captain Roberts has been a member of the Plymouth Rotary club for five and one-half years. He was to take over the presidency of the organization in July, having served during the current year as vice-president.

He is married and the father of four children, Billy, 7, Suzanne, 5, Linda, 3, and Betty Ann, six months.

Memorial Day Parade Climaxes Week's Activities

Climaxing the round of Memorial Day activities in Plymouth is the Memorial Day parade itself, slated for Saturday, May 30. Other commemorations included the church services last Sunday, the sale of Buddy poppies and the placing of flags on veterans' graves. The line of march will be from North Main and Mill streets to Kellogg park, with the parade starting at 10:15 a. m.

Grand Marshal this year is Ray Gardner, commander of the Passage Gayde post of the American Legion. He is assisted by Aide to the Grand Marshal Hal Young of the Mayflower Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The ceremonies will begin with a salute to the Navy dead at the Plymouth road bridge, prior to the march. Members of the Navy Mothers club will cast a wreath from the bridge in memory of Navy men who lost their lives in the wars.

Marchers in the parade will be led by the Plymouth High school band. Organizations who will march are: Passage-Gayde post of American Legion and auxiliary, Mayflower post of Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary, Ex-Servicemen's club and auxiliary, Spanish American War Widows, Daughters of the American Revolution, Children of the American Revolution, unaffiliated World War I veterans, unaffiliated World War II veterans, unaffiliated Korean veterans, Moms of America, Gold Star mothers, Elks and auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Navy Mothers, Red Cross and Salvation Army. Elderly persons who wish to participate in the parade will have transportation furnished them.

The main address will be delivered by Carl C. Matheny, Detroit lawyer. He was state commander of the American Legion in 1946, secretary of the Boys State committee for two years and president of the committee for six years. Matheny is also very active in the Kiwanis club.

Mayor Russell Daane will serve as master-of-ceremonies for the Memorial Day event.

The program for the park ceremonies appears elsewhere on this page.

N. Markham Purple, general manager of Barnes, Gibson & Raymond plant here, was stricken on Wednesday noon while dining at the Hillside Inn. He was taken by ambulance to the Atchison Memorial Hospital at Northville where authorities said he was resting comfortably.

Says Supervisor's Condition Serious

Charles H. Rathburn, Jr., supervisor of Plymouth township, Wednesday was reported to be critically ill in Harper hospital in Detroit. His illness has been tentatively diagnosed as a "blood clot of the abdomen."

Hospital authorities yesterday reported his condition as critical. He was said to have rallied however since being removed to the hospital last Saturday. Only immediate members of his family are permitted to see him.

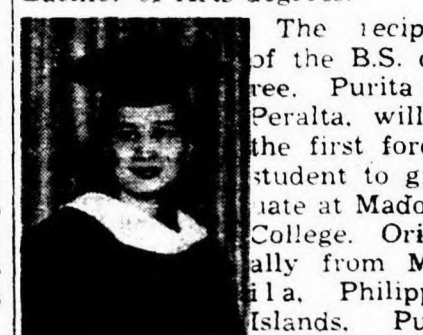

Rathburn, who has been supervisor of Plymouth township for some 27 years, has been a top Republican leader in local and county politics for over a quarter of a century.

Of the 28 graduating seniors, one will receive a Bachelor of Science degree and the others Bachelor of Arts degrees.

The recipient of the B.S. degree, Purita de Peralta, will be the first foreign student to graduate at Madonna College. Originally from Manila, Philippine Islands, Purita will return to her native country soon after graduation. She plans to work among her own people as an instructor and demonstrator of Home Economics, in which field she majored at the College.

Graduation exercises will mark the end of the scholastic year for Madonna students, who will then return to their homes for the summer vacation.

The Allen Extension group will meet at the home of Mrs. Alton Frederick, 45989 Ann Arbor trail on Thursday, tonight, May 28 at 7:30 p. m. The lesson will be "Uses of Dry Milk." Mrs. Harold Barnes will give the lesson.

Graduates Will Hear Educator

Educator, author, and lecturer, Dr. Judson W. Foust, vice president of Central Michigan College of Education, will be the principal speaker when high school graduation ceremonies are held here on June 18.

He will deliver a commencement address titled: "Values".

Dr. Foust has been a faculty member of Michigan Central since 1929, rising rapidly from instructor to assistant professor of mathematics by 1932. He gained a full professorship in that subject in 1943. Assistant to the president from 1946 to 1952, Dr. Foust was appointed vice president of the college last year.

He is the author of three textbooks on mathematics, "Business Mathematics" and "First Year College Mathematics" (both with C. C. Richtmeyer) and "Four-Scholarship Test of Functional Thinking in Mathematics" (with Raleigh Schorlig). He has also contributed to mathematical magazines and is a frequent speaker in the mathematics section of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Michigan Education Association and Michigan Schoolmasters club.

The 51-year-old educator was born in Ann Arbor. He received an A.B. degree from Albion college in 1923; M.A. degree, University of Michigan in 1927; and Ph.D. also from the U of M in 1938.

The last meeting for the season will be a potluck picnic in the garden of Mrs. Sterling Eaton's home.

Beauty Contest Interest High

Interest in Plymouth's Fourth of July beauty contest is running high, says Chairman Ralph Rostow. To back this up he points out that this year's entry should total at least 20.

"Representatives of industry, local merchants and Plymouth's famed eating places are being chosen to claim the title of Miss Plymouth," he said.

Revived after being dropped last year, the beauty contest promises to be one of the highlights of the holiday celebration. Rostow earlier announced that Olympic Swimmer Lucille Watson would judge the beauties and Governor G. Mennen Williams will crown the queen.

General Chairman Marshall Kirkpatrick revealed this week that a carnival had been signed for the 3-day event and that there would be at least one television personality on hand to entertain the crowd.

The Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Newburg Methodist church will meet on Tuesday, June 2, at the Newburg church hall. The potluck dinner will be at 12:30 p. m. If weather permits they will go to Riverside Park. Everyone is urged to attend as this will be the last meeting until September.

Leave of Absence For Kirkpatrick

Announcement was made this week by the S. S. Kresge company that Marshall Kirkpatrick, local store manager, had been granted a two months' leave of absence due to ill health.

Kirkpatrick has been very active in civic affairs and has been manager of the Plymouth store since it was erected nearly two years ago. He indicated that he would remain in Plymouth indefinitely and probably carry on as chairman of the annual Fourth of July event for the city.

The new store manager, who assumed his duties this week, is E. F. Faigle of Harrisburg, Illinois.

Symphony Drive Gets Underway

Setting its sights for a record year, the Plymouth Symphony Society began its eighth season membership drive this week.

Having ended the 1952-53 season "in the black," the group is hopeful of attracting the largest membership of its history. Society President Harry Draper stated that a concentrated drive by letter, telephone and in person would take place immediately with another drive to follow in September. Mrs. M. J. Huber is membership chairman for the Society.

Also revealed this week was the program to be presented by the orchestra. Director Wayne Dunlap said that "in bringing to Plymouth the finest in music it will also be our effort in 1953-54 to give as many local people as possible the opportunity of making music with the orchestra." He stated that the Civic Chorus, under the direction of Fred Nelson, will appear with the orchestra on both the Christmas and Festival Concerts.

Consisting of six concerts, the 1953-54 program is as follows:

- October 24, 1953 Opening Concert.
 - Fred Kendall, tenor: November 29, 1953
 - Douglas Marsh, cellist: December 13, 1953, Christmas Concert.
 - Civic Chorus, soloists and orchestra: January 24, 1954, Family Concert
 - Instrumental soloists to be announced: February 28, 1954
 - Emil Raab, violin and Robert Courte, viola: April 4, 1954, Festival Concert
 - Miss Evelyn Woods, piano and Plymouth Civic Chorus.
- According to Mrs. Huber, active memberships for this year are $5 while family and business memberships are $10. Sustaining memberships are $25 and patron $50. Anyone wishing to join the society may send their membership fee to Mrs. Huber in care of the Plymouth Symphony Society.

Theatre Prices Upped For Adults

Announcement is made this week by the management of the Penn and Penniman Allen theatres of a price increase effective May 31st due to the ever increasing cost of film and operation.

In keeping with his policy of bringing the best in pictures to the city, owner Harry Lush stated the increase is a necessity if he is to keep the quality of his pictures in line with the local theatre's policies.

Starting June first adults will pay 60 cents but there will be no increase in children's prices.

Cherchez la Femme

And that's what authorities are doing right now.

They're trying to find Mazel Ellsworth, 45 to 50, recently of Plymouth, to charge her with larceny by conversion.

That's the warrant for her arrest signed Monday by James Latture, Plymouth High school instructor and real estate salesman.

Latture said he lost $49 when he had an abstract of title executed in the name of his client for residential property on 882 Ross street.

The Ellsworth woman reportedly gave Latture a $1,000 check on a local bank which refused to honor it.

Latture would also like to find the woman for another reason. He said he lent her $53.

Jar of Locusts Makes the News

Newspaper offices are fairly notorious for the things which people bring in to them. Actually these various and sundry articles show that the people of the community have a nose for news too. Take for example the jar of 17-year locusts recently received from Mrs. Clifford Smith of 977 Dewey. She picked up the locusts while touring the Eastern states recently.

Now, not many people know much about the 17-year locust. In fact most Plymouth residents have never even seen one. As nymphs they are almost colorless and measure about 3/4 inch in length. In the flying cicada or locust stage they are a bit longer with large wings. Incidentally, when dead and entombed in a jar the insects are rather odorous.

These particular locusts were brought from Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Smith, who captured them, said that the tree trunks in Gettysburg were covered with the shells where these cicada crawled up from the ground and hatched. They make a mighty buzzing sound which is frightening to all but the natives of the area.

The reference of 17-years to this locust is the result of the fact that the nymph burrows into the ground where it remains for 17 years. After that period they come up again, hatch into winged insects, fly around for about one week and then drop dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph West of North Mill street will spend the Memorial Day weekend with Dr. and Mrs. N. L. Heller in Dunkirk, Indiana.

Package Senders Will be Happy To Read This!

Post Office patrons, especially housewives, will be delighted with a new regulation of the Post Office Department which now permits them to seal all their packages without using a printed label. "May be opened for Postal Inspection."

Seal them hereafter, and seal them as tightly as you wish Postmaster Timpona advises his patrons. All that is now necessary is to write "May be opened for postal inspection" above or below the sender's return address which must be written in the upper left hand corner on the address side of the parcel.

This new order by Postmaster General Summerfield has been greeted enthusiastically by the public and postal employees alike.

In the past it was necessary to have a printed permission sticker on sealed packages. Typewritten or handwritten instructions were not acceptable, and the packages were either rated up to first class rate or the sender often had to hunt up a printed label.

The old requirement was seldom understood by post office patrons, and it was the cause of much lost time at parcel post windows, particularly during the holiday rushes. Mailers would seal their packages with scotch tape or seals, only to discover with dismay that it was not permitted.

Of course, cautioned Postmaster Timpona the inscription should be eligible if it is handwritten. The Post Office still prefers the printed or typed form but is waiving the point as a convenience to its patrons.

Post Office patrons are warned not to place written messages or letters inside parcel post packages. It is suggested if patrons wish messages or letters to accompany parcels they place them in addressed stamped envelopes and paste them on the address side of the parcels.

Grange Gleanings

The Grange meeting of last week was very poorly attended. There should have been a large crowd there as the ceremony of draping the charter honoring the memory of our beloved sister Clara Huebler took place and was very lovely.

The High school girls triple trio came and sang several songs for us. They are very good.

The Sunday of June 7 has been chosen as our "Go to Church" Sunday, and we are invited to the Newburg Methodist church that day. Let us have a big turnout. The service is at 10 a. m.

Plans were tentatively formed for a Grange trip to the Battle Creek Kellogg and Post's food factories for July 22. Take a basket lunch as they have picnic tables there. More particulars will be given later.

The members will be very sorry to learn that Bert Kahl is in the hospital again and has had

Proper Planting of Roses Brings Best Results

Attention to a few suggestions on how to plant roses should make your garden yield a fine display of fragrant, colorful blooms, according to a University of Michigan professor of landscape architecture.

Roses like a soil of clay loam with large quantities of well rotted manure or decayed leaves and straw enriched with chemical fertilizer, says professor Harlow O. Whittemore.

The beds should be one and one-half to two feet deep and, if the soil is heavy clay, should have drainage at the bottom consisting of an additional six inches of coarse gravel or broken stone or bricks. Sod upside down on these will keep the soil from plugging up this drainage pit.

The layout of a rose bed, if properly done, makes the garden more attractive and more easily cared for. Rose beds for hybrid teas should be about four feet wide, containing two rows of plants accessible from paths. The distance apart, therefore, will be about two and one half feet on the diagonal, he indicates.

To plant the rose bush, dig a hole large enough to accommodate the width and depth of the root. Build up a cone of dirt in the center of the hole. This mound, under the base of the bush as you plant it, will help to spread the roots in proper position. Set the rose bush down on the cone of dirt and press in. Then fill the hole with good soil and press down by tramping on the soil. This will leave a basin which should be filled with a soil of water that is allowed to soak away before loose dry dirt is placed over the basin to act as a mulch.

When roses are planted, they should be pruned to balance the loss of roots. Cutting back to three eyes will give you three stems with large flowers for show or cutting. Roses also should be lightly trimmed to make the plant more bushy and shapely.

Fall-planted roses should be cut back to prevent winter freezing of stem ends. This should be followed by hilling dirt up around the plants to protect them from winter weather. In Michigan, where winters can be severe, the dirt should be mounded about eight inches high around the base of the plant.

If roses are not hardy, they should be planted in the spring. Hybrid teas, for instance, should be planted in late April or May, although some packaged roses may be planted almost any time. Hardy roses may be planted in the fall.

In using insecticides and fungicides, a mixed operation is the most labor saving. Instructions on the containers usually are good and based upon experience.

But guard against excessive use of insecticide or fungicide poisons. These have a bad effect on the soil in curtailing desirable bacterial and animal activity. Liquid fertilizer should be applied frequently during the growing season.

Women have a knack of picking up goods that will wash, but they usually get children that won't.

Commencement Week at Madonna Ends Activities for School Year

Commencement Week at Madonna college will be filled with a variety of colorful and impressive ceremonies and social activities that will make the end of this scholastic year a lasting memory.

The week will open with Baccalaureate ceremonies held in the campus chapel Sunday, May 31.

Right Reverend Monsignor Vincent Porkowicz, head of the Central Deanery and pastor of St. Stanislaus parish, Detroit, will celebrate the 10 a. m. Mass and distribute the academic hoods to the graduating seniors.

The sermon for the occasion will be preached by Right Reverend Monsignor Walter R. Hardy, head of the Western Deanery and pastor of St. Theresa's parish, Detroit.

Reception for the parents and guests of the seniors will follow church services.

At 3 p. m. that afternoon, students and guests will assemble in De Sales Auditorium for the annual Honors Convocation. Mrs. Amanda Janes, sociology instructor at the college, will be chairman.

Presentation of honors will first be made to the seniors who merited selection for the Who's Who, Kappa Gamma Pi, Scholastic Excellence or Services awards. The Dean will then announce Class Honors, naming those students who succeeded in attaining a 3.25 average (better than B) in the second semester of last year and the first semester of this year.

New officers of the Student Association and the Sodality will then be announced. In a symbolic ceremony Helen Yuschek, senior class president, will present the college torch to Delphine Pieczynski, junior class president.

Selection as this year's valedictorian is Alice Sturgeleski, graduating senior and president of the Student Association in the past year.

A special feature of the Convocations program will be a presentation in part of a piano and voice recital by Edna Rheault, music major, and Dorothy Lapczynski, voice minor.

Edna, a senior, will play three piano compositions: "Scherzo" by Mendelssohn, "May Night" by Pallingren and "Liebestraum" by Liszt. Dorothy, a junior, will render four vocal solos: "Ah, Love but a Day" by Protheroe, "O Mio Babbino" by Puccini, "Into the Night" by Edwards and "Deep in My Heart" by Romberg, a lyric from "Student Prince".

Anyone interested from the vicinity may attend the Honors

Convocation and recital which will begin at 3 p. m. Sunday in De Sales auditorium, beneath the campus chapel.

In the evening of Sunday, May 31, at 8 p. m. Madonna students will hold a candlelight procession to the statue of the Blessed Virgin in the court. Here Mary Ann Czerniakowski, prefect of the campus Sodality, will crown the beautiful statue of the Madonna.

Monday and Tuesday of Commencement week will witness a number of social activities as an expressive farewell to and from the departing seniors.

Monday, June 1, freshmen will pay tribute to the graduates in flag-raising ceremonies. In the evening they will serenade beneath the dormitory windows of the seniors' rooms and will receive small tokens of remembrance from the graduates.

The junior class had already previously honored the seniors in a prom held May 15; the sophomores treated them to a dinner and movie May 19.

Tuesday, June 2, will be Senior Day. It will begin with Holy Mass celebrated in the intention of the graduating class by Reverend James T. Shannon, head of the Philosophy and Theology departments at the college.

At 11:30 that afternoon, the seniors will hold the traditional garden party for the entire student body. At 2:30 seniors will hold their class program preceded by a Daisy Key Chain procession in colorful gowns. In the auditorium, the senior class will present a short program consisting of a class history, prophecy and will and the presentation of a memorial gift.

Warrant Charges Kentucky Man

A warrant charging a Roseville, Kentucky, jockey with larceny by conversion was issued last Monday by the Wayne county prosecutor's office.

The warrant charges Donald Martin, with failing to return a 1951-model car to Charles Taylor of Detroit, salesman for West Brothers, Inc., automotive dealers. The car was lent to Martin last Friday for a trial run, presumably before buying it from Taylor. The car was recovered last Sunday in Dearborn where it had been abandoned.

Taylor said a door lock on the vehicle was broken and a spare tire and wheel missing along with a sport coat.

The youth, who police said checked out of the Hotel Mayflower last Friday owing a phone bill, reportedly works at the Michigan Racing association in Livonia as a jockey.

Local Man Gets DeHoCo Sentence For Third Time

Billy Waldecker, 20, of 300 South Mill street, in and out of trouble with authorities here since 1950, last Monday started serving a third 90-day jail sentence, this time on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

When arraigned before Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo on Monday, Waldecker pleaded guilty to smashing in windows at 336 Pearl street with his fist. Police said Waldecker told them he broke the panes last Sunday night on a $5 "dare" bet made by a friend.

Police records show that Waldecker has already served a total of 180 days in the Detroit House of Correction. He has been arrested nine times.

In March, 1950, Waldecker was fined $100, placed on two years' probation and had his driver's license suspended for two years on a charge of reckless driving. That same month he was charged with violation of probation and given an additional six months of probation.

In October, 1950, Waldecker was given a 90-day DeHoCo sentence for drunk driving, fined $25 and had his license suspended for three years.

Three escapades in 1952 also mark Waldecker's police record. In August he was held by local authorities for the Wayne County Road Patrol on an open charge, for investigation. In November an assault and battery charge was levied against him. In December he was again sentenced to 90 days in DeHoCo on a drunk and disorderly charge.

The same day he returned from detention Waldecker was arrested for fighting in his home. After being remanded to the custody of his brother, Waldecker was ordered by the municipal court to "move out of town." Judge Perlongo also told him to join Alcoholics Anonymous. During detention at this time in the city jail Waldecker was ordered to make restitution for destroying plumbing there.

Marcia Penhale Albion Graduate

Miss Marcia Marjean Penhale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall R. Penhale, 416 Pacific, will receive her bachelor of arts degree at the Albion college commencement ceremonies Monday morning, June 8, at the Kresge gymnasium. Following the commencement address by Dr. LeRoy E. Kimball, vice chancellor of New York University, a graduate of Albion, bachelor of arts degrees will be awarded to 187 young men and women and the master of arts degree to two young men by President W. W. Whitehouse of Albion.

Announcement has also been made by Albion college that Miss Penhale will receive her state teacher's certificates from the State of Michigan on this occasion.

Deer Starvation Reported Lower

Extensive checking by Cusino wildlife station workers indicated deer starvation was relatively insignificant in the upper peninsula this year, the conservation department reports.

Aided by inmate labor from the Cusino prison camp, the workers sample-checked random strips of three important yarding areas and found only a few dead deer. The three areas checked were the Black River yard in the western UP and Blaney Park and McMillin yards farther east in the peninsula. The work was done the last week of April and the first two weeks of May.

The checks bore out earlier predictions that mild weather would help the herd get through the winter without serious loss.

Lower peninsula yards were checked throughout the winter and only a few starved deer were found.

10 Organizations Attend Services

Special Memorial Day services were held at the First Methodist church, Sunday morning, May 24. Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson, D. D., preached a special Memorial sermon for the solemn occasion.

Organizations who took part in the services were: Gold Star Mothers, Moms of America, Navy Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary, American Legion and auxiliary, Ex-servicemen's club and auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

"Have you any suggestions to make about our new house, dear?"
"Yes, I wish you'd have the keyholes made larger."

Parks to Open New Facilities

Many improvements in Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks will make them more enjoyable than ever for summer visitors. Bathhouses will open at Kensington Park and St. Clair Metropolitan Beach for Decoration Day week-end, though other facilities are already in operation and receiving heavy week-end use.

A new kindergarten and children's playground set-up at the Metropolitan Beach will be supervised by trained personnel and afford a variety of recreation for youngsters two and up. Sand boxes and much new play equipment have been added.

At Kensington Metropolitan Park, a new beach house incorporating bathhouse, food bar and other features is nearing completion on Martindale Beach and will be open at least in part by Decoration Day.

Enlarged since last year and now near 4,500 acres, the park has been remapped. Copies of the new map, giving information on various recreation features, are available free at park headquarters and the Huron-Clinton Detroit office. Names of the two overnight lodges have been changed, the former Walker Lodge is now Arrowhead Lodge, and the former Lane Lodge is Orchard Lodge, the new entrances and other roads are shown. Three labelled nature trails are indicated in the DeWitt Lake area.

Two staff naturalists are engaged in conducting nature hikes and giving illustrated lectures without charge for groups who apply a week in advance of the desired date at the Detroit office, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit 26. Among the most popular trips are three trails at Kensington Park and the new Paw Paw Trail along the Huron River at Lower Huron Park near Belleville.

Red bud groves, as colorful as Washington's cherry blossoms, are at their height of bloom in Lower Huron Park, Kensington's dogwood should be at its height next week.

For Big Crop of Vitamins
Grow Garden of Greens

Never Let Swiss Chard Leaves Grow Taller Than 10 Inches

Green, leafy foods rich in vitamin A are easily provided in abundance by the home garden. In fact, the gardener must be on guard against too great abundance, so efficient are they. Small plantings of several kinds are advisable, so that the family will not become "fed-up" with one kind served too often.

You can leave spinach out entirely, if the family insists, and still provide a tempting selection of various greens, most of which make welcome ingredients in bowl salad as well as tasty cooked dishes.

Mostly widely grown are Swiss chard and New Zealand spinach. Chard is an ancient vegetable, probably the first form of beet to be grown for food, while New Zealand spinach is relatively modern, having been discovered as a wild plant in New Zealand, where the natives did not eat it. It became popular in Britain long before its vitamin content was known. Its flavor resembles that of spinach.

It has large, hard seed, which some have difficulty growing; but grows well if sown in the early spring, as soon as the soil has been prepared. Seeds often live over winter and come up in the spring, and the plant is hardy in spite of a tropical origin. But it is easily overdone; since one plant fills a bushel basket, and when the tips of its leaves are rapidly, and the harvest continues until late in the fall.

Swiss chard should be used when the leaves are young, not over ten inches in height. Sown with the earliest crops, it will be ready to cut in a month, and new leaves will grow to replace those that are cut. Chard has a distinctive flavor which many prefer to spinach, and children usually like it better.

The mustard family provides several varieties of greens. One known as Tendergreen will produce edible leaves in 21 days from sowing, and if the roots are left undisturbed will produce eight or nine crops in the season. All the mustards are quick growing, and are much esteemed in the southern states.

Garden sorrel is a hardy perennial, which will live over winter and produce greens. It does best in light shade.

Kale is a fall and winter plant. Sown in June, the plants set out in rows two feet apart, they will produce leaves which stand freezing, and are improved in flavor by that experience. Collards are a member of the cabbage family which do not make heads, but leaves with cabbage flavor.

All these varieties of greens are rich in minerals and vitamins, and are valuable in the diet and produce a surprising quan-

LETTER BOX

Dear Sir:
We hear so much of criticism of some of the younger automobile drivers on our streets, that I feel some mention should be made of the good drivers.
I had a pleasant experience today following an automobile, bearing license CC-8889, just after the noon recess, through town and around the detour at the Rouge bridge, and driven by a young gentleman, whose name I was unable to get.
He made every right-hand turn at the curb; he made every left-hand turn at the center of the intersection; he gave proper warning of every stop and turn; he stopped for every sign; and he drove between 22 and 25 MPH, with a carload of young companions.
I feel proud of this young gentleman, especially after observing many older drivers making right turns to the left of the center, left turns from the left-hand curb, stopping, turning and swerving without any notice whatever, speeding and running stop signs.

Very truly Yours,
John L. Crandell

HEALTH FACTS

Persons with a hearing loss are crippled—not as evidently as a person who has lost an arm or leg—but in many ways much more seriously crippled—both physically and mentally.

Loss of hearing can crush a person's spirit—reduce his ability to get and keep a job—tend to make him suspicious, hard to get along with, unsociable, lonely.

One in every 10 adults has a hearing problem... 15,000,000 hearing problems in the U.S. Today hearing losses can often be stopped or cured—if discovered and treated early. To prevent and help solve hearing problems is the purpose of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing.

Help Your Flower Seeds To Avoid Garden Hazards

Mix Small Seeds With Sand to Broadcast Them Over Area You Wish to Cover

Anyone can make a flower garden by sowing seeds right where he wants the garden flowers to grow; but it is easy to fail if the sower is careless, or lacks knowledge of a few simple ways to protect the seeds from conditions which might prevent their growth.

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden; and there are a number which should be, because they are difficult to transplant. These include alyssum, California poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossis.

Much the same technique should be used as in sowing in a seed box, particularly as to shallow planting, and covering the seeds with porous soil. Identification of the seeds, and of their location, are also important, since with slow germinators it is easy to forget exactly where they were sown.

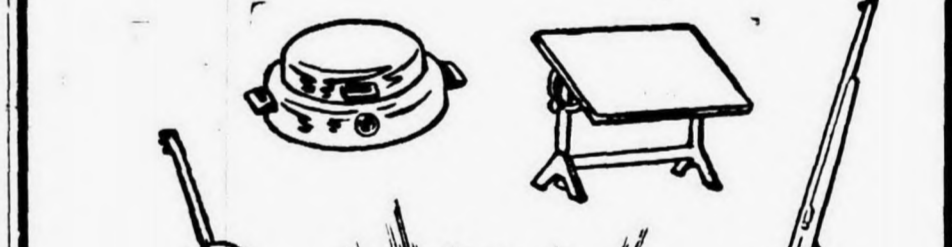

Seeds are subject to many hazards which human skill cannot wholly avoid, but the careful operator may count upon a high average of success.

Prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it 4 pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet. Then outline with a string the area to be covered with each variety. Mix the seed with sand to help scatter it over the space as evenly as possible. Then sift a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Now, until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil. You should know when to expect the seeds to sprout. The table above is upon experience in seed laboratories. In your garden the period may be more or less by a few days, but it will serve as a guide.

Fast Germinating Flower Seeds Five to Ten Days.

Warn Dog Law Violators Face Tickets, Penalty

Police Chief Carl Greenlee last Monday warned that dog owners here who fail to have their pets immunized and licensed by May 31 will face possible municipal court action.

Greenlee said his department will make a door-to-door check among all residents known to own dogs. He said persons who have not had their pets inoculated against rabies or licensed will be issued 10-day compliance tickets.

If the dog still is not inoculated or licensed after the warning period expires, the dog owner may be arraigned in municipal court, Greenlee warned. Under the dog ordinance that went into effect in 1952, violators may be fined $50 with $50 costs or remanded to jail for 60 days.

Greenlee estimated some 300 dog owners after May 31 face ticketing. That many dogs are seen as the number yet to be inoculated and licensed.

A similar number has already been treated at the city sponsored rabies clinic held on two separate days here. Last Saturday ended this clinical service when some 220 of dogdom's finest sat up and got their shot with or without a yelp or a muzzle.

Authorities said they were "highly pleased" with the large turnout that streamed to the clinic with pets no larger than a desk bookend to sizes varying up to a 180-pound Great Dane.

Skeleton crews at the city hall didn't get lunch hour relief until 3 p. m.

One city hall worker, as a side-light, said "the big dogs were sissies. They had to tie them down and muzzle them. The little ones—they just sat on a table and took the shot without so much as a yelp." She reflected, however, that they use "just the big, long needles" on larger mastiffs.

Marine Corps To Enlist Unit From State

The Marine Corps recruiting service in Michigan is planning to enlist a company of Marines from the state during June, it was announced today by the Non-Commissioned Officer in charge of the Marine Corps recruiting station in Dearborn, Michigan.

The unit, to number approximately 130 men, will be sworn in at Detroit in June and will depart in July, via special train, for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, California.

Named "The Michigan Marines," the unit will receive their recruit training as a single unit. They will carry the Michigan flag with them throughout their basic training.

Enlistments are being accepted for the Michigan Marines now at the Marine Corps Recruiting Station, located in the lobby of the Dearborn City Hall in Dearborn, Michigan. Interested young men between the ages of 17 and 28 may apply at the above address for complete information and possible enlistment.

Applicants who are enlisted will be transferred to Detroit where they will be feasted at a banquet before departing for San Diego.

Give Commercial Growers Spray Recommendation

(NOTE: The following recommendations are for use by commercial growers.)

APPLES: Red Branded Leaf Roller moths are active in large numbers in some orchards. To this date no eggs have been found. A few warm days, however, will encourage egg laying on smooth bark. Eggs hatch in six to eight days. Much depends upon a few warm days.

APPLE SCAB: Apple scab continues to be the No. 1 menace with the cool cloudy scattered shower type of weather we are experiencing.

WHAT TO USE: Wettable sulfur at 5 to 6 lbs.; Sulfur paste at 6 to 10 lbs.; Crag 341 at 1 quart; or Ferbam at 1½ lbs. or fungicide 406 (Captan) at 2 lbs. per 100 gallons will also give good apple scab protection when applied before infection takes place. There are several materials which can be used to eradicate apple scab for a limited time after infection takes place. These include liquid lime sulfur at 2 gallons per 100 on dry foliage, or one of the phenyl-mercury compounds at manufacturer's directions, or ½ lb. phylon. Combinations of Crag 341 and a mercury compound, or sulfur and a mercury compound, or sulfur and phylon may be used during periods of intermittent rain for both eradication and protection from future scab infection.

PETAL FALL SPRAYS ON APPLES: Three pounds arsenate of lead or ½ lb. of Parathion should give excellent control of Red Banded Leaf Roller worms, curculio and Codling moth. Where Red Banded Leaf Roller is a severe problem, it is recommended that growers use D.D.D. at manufacturer's recommendation when the worms are ½ grown. Include a suitable fungicide for scab.

PETAL FALL SPRAYS FOR PEACHES: Brown rot may be a serious problem this year because of weather favorable for its development (warm and wet). It is recommended that 6 to 10 lbs sulfur paste, OR 5 to 6 lbs. of wettable sulfur, OR ½ lbs. of Phylon and 4 lbs of wettable sulfur, be used in 100 gallons of spray.

For the shuck fall spray, use the above fungicide plus 1½ lbs. of 15% parathion in 100 gallons of spray.

PLUMS: Petal fall—use in 100 gallons of spray: 1½ lbs. of Ferbam, OR 6 to 10 lbs. sulfur paste OR 5 to 6 lbs. wettable sulfur, plus 1½ lbs. 15% parathion.

SWEET AND SOUR CHERRY: Petal fall—use 100 gallons of spray:

.75 lb. (actual copper) of a fixed copper, plus 3 lbs. fresh spray lime, plus

2 lbs. lead arsenate. Where Mineola moth is a pest, use parathion in the place of lead arsenate. In this case substitute another suitable fungicide in place of the copper and lime.

GRAPES: When shoots are 4 to 5 inches long, in 100 gallons of spray use:

1½ lbs. of Ferbam, OR 1½ lbs. of (actual copper) of fixed copper and 4 lbs. of spray lime, OR 6-6-100 Bordeaux, plus either 1½ lbs. of 50% wettable DDT with Ferbam, OR 2 lbs. of 50% wettable DDT with fixed copper or Bordeaux. STRAWBERRIES: The most effective time to control spittle bug is just as the first blossoms open.

Convertible is Oldsmobile Feature

Open air motoring in luxury and comfort is the keynote of Oldsmobile's Super '88' and Classic '98' convertible coupes, now being produced in volume for the spring and summer seasonal demand, according to J. F. Wolfram, general manager of Oldsmobile and vice president of GM. A colorful variety of body and top colors and upholstery options are available to the purchasers of these cars, Wolfram stated.

The durable fabric top is lowered or raised with ease through the hydraulic mechanism, located in the rear trunk. This is operated by a push-pull knob on the instrument panel. In the '88' convertible, the side windows also are raised or lowered hydraulically by controls on the door panels that operate at the touch of a finger. The front seat of the '98' convertible can be moved forward or back by hydraulic power. Sixteen body colors, ranging from black to lotus cream or royal marine, are available in the Oldsmobile convertibles. Four top colors—black, green, tan or blue—can be selected to harmonize with the body color.

Eight upholstery color options in genuine leather are available in either the Super '88' or '98' convertible. Two solid colors—red or black—are listed, along with six two-tone combinations. The latter are light and dark green, light or dark blue and four combinations with ivory—red, light green, light blue and black. Hand buffed top cowhide is used in the '98' convertible upholstery.

Machine-buffed cowhide chosen for fine graining and flexibility is employed in the Super '88' convertible.

Calls For More Street Lights in Downtown Area

A tentative street lighting program to improve night illumination on Main street, Ann Arbor trail and Pennington was outlined last week by City Manager Albert F. Glasford.

He will recommend to city commissioners that "in order to put out merchants in a position to better cope with the competition presented by other areas, we give our attention to the downtown area, particularly Main street Pennington and Ann Arbor trail."

The recommended street light additions would be placed on Main between Maple and Fradick; on Pennington from Ann Arbor trail to near Harvey; and on Ann Arbor trail between Pennington and Forest.

The proposed program will add about $750 to the city's annual lighting bill of some $9,800.

Glasford in his recommendations noted that the Birch Estates subdivision will require street lighting at a cost of some $250 per year. He indicated lighting would be placed there at some future date.

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will meet for their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, June 3 at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Chester Huming on East Ann Arbor trail, Livonia.

Poppy Sales Termed Success

Legionnaires here last week received contributions totaling almost $600 from poppy flower sales, it was announced Tuesday by Quentin E. Bolander, chairman of poppy sales of the American Legion, Passage Gayde post 381.

Contributions received are allocated to the Legion's service and welfare for emergency care of veterans or their families, Bolander said. The legion also provides wheelchairs and hospital beds for shut-in patients who are veterans.

Taxicab Manager Injured When Struck by Car

Hiram Clark, 62-year-old manager of the Plymouth Taxi Service, last Saturday suffered hip and shoulder injuries when struck by an automobile at Main and Pennington.

Clark, who lives at 42425 Hammill, was crossing west at the Main street intersection when he was knocked to the pavement by a vehicle driven by Mrs. Milla Livingston, 46, of 41767 Schoolcraft.

Mrs. Livingston was making a right hand turn onto Main from Pennington when she plowed into Clark. Police said Mrs. Livingston told them she didn't see Clark crossing the intersection. The signal light had turned green for both parties.

Clark was treated at a local physician's office for sprains and bruises of his left hip and left shoulder, then released to his home.

MORE ABOUT RACING

Last Week we brought the citizens of this community our first of a series of messages about the Racing situation in Michigan. We outlined the factors pointing to Union politics and an apparent conspiracy between one Wm. L. McPetridge, General President of the Building Service International, and the Teamsters Union to grab our membership, our contracts and our job rights.

We pointed out to the operators of the Race Tracks that they as EMPLOYERS would be acting more prudently, in their own behalf, if they would follow a course of high principle rather than submitting to short run expediency. It is our contention that the EMPLOYERS have assumed a responsibility, to the public, to maintain proper standards of business conduct, which include decent labor relations with their EMPLOYEES, if their business, born of a Legislative enabling act, is not to be impaired or its life endangered.

We tried to show how the social poison of bad labor relations, in the Racing Industry, in the past, had served an antidote by the formation and operation of our Union since 1949. We believe the RECORD of our UNION has been a credit to the Racing Industry and stands up well in the light of comparison thru out the country in this field.

We are presently apprehensive that the EMPLOYERS are gambling with the fundamental processes of Collective Bargaining with their EMPLOYEES. Pursuit of this attitude might well bring the Racing Industry to realize, BUT TOO LATE, that Racing in Michigan owes its existence to the fate of the slimmest legislative margin.

This week racing will start its season at the Michigan Racing Association in Livonia. A few weeks ago harness racing started at Hazel Park Harness Raceway. We were given assurances by the management that, pending court action currently before the Wayne County Circuit Court, EMPLOYEES with established seniority would be returned to their old jobs without discrimination. Within a matter of DAYS management sought to temporize with these assurances as first given us. We were told, BELATEDLY, that certain individuals would have to be weeded out for reasons of age and inefficiency. A school child could see thru this SCHEME and we will not dwell here upon the insincerity of any such position. Suffice to say that every EMPLOYER must understand the basic State and Federal Labor Laws. Certainly they must know that such duplicity will fool NO ONE.

EMPLOYERS in the Racing Industry of Michigan know that our Union is the legitimate and uncontested choice of the EMPLOYEES as their bargaining agency in this industry. The EMPLOYERS should know this is the right of their EMPLOYEES. Why then are the RACE TRACK OPERATORS resorting to the fiction that they must recognize any one else as the spokesman for these WORKERS? The EMPLOYERS have known for four years and they know now that NO OTHER UNION — International, Teamsters or anyone else — has ever bargained with or endorsed any contracts belonging to the members of our Union.

The answer is obvious. They are playing the game wherein it is hoped to create a state of suspended confusion where the EMPLOYERS will wind up dealing with NO UNION. Our members, as well as our leadership are aware of this and will NOT tolerate any such SCHEME. We realize that Racing is a source of considerable revenue to the State and consequently we will pursue our strategy with patience but with equal vigor and firmness. We remind our readers and our members that racing is effected with the public interest and a scrupulous vigilance must be maintained by the citizenry to the end that the RACE TRACK OPERATORS do not ignore the broad basic principles of public policy under which the Racing Industry must live.

This is true, whether the problem at hand relates to Labor Relations, Racing Revenue, Racing Dates, Pari-Mutuel Betting, Stock Ownership, Track Management or whatever it may be.

Our position is — that if moral decay can take hold in one segment of this industry it can, like the proverbial rotten apple, spread to all the other apples in the barrel. As both citizens and trade unionists we feel we have the moral right to ask our neighbors, the patrons of Racing and the general public to be on guard and to assist in the performance of our public duty.

We firmly state that our Union is the rightful representative of our members. If the EMPLOYERS have any doubt of this then they should seek a redetermination of this fact, and not effect any pretense of neutrality or attempt a false face of contract sanctity.

THE ANSWER IS AN ELECTION

Our peaceful and constructive suggestion is that the Racing Commissioner should conduct such an ELECTION, or see that one is conducted.

We ask you to write and urge the Racing Commissioner, James Inglis, Cadillac Square Building, Detroit, to do this.

Display Flag Correctly on Memorial Day

Flags will be displayed throughout Plymouth this week-end in observance of Memorial Day. Since the flag is displayed on all patriotic occasions it is important that citizens know the correct use of the Stars and Stripes.

Memorial Day, being a special day set aside to honor the country's war dead, requires special handling of the flag. Up until noon the flag is displayed at half-staff and from noon until sunset at full staff. The first period when the flag is half-mast is in commemoration of the servicemen who gave their lives. But since the flag is the symbol of a living nation the flag is later raised to its high position for the rest of the day.

In raising the flag to half-staff, however, it first must be raised completely to the top, and then lowered to the half-mast position. It should be raised briskly but lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

Flags flown from fixed staffs cannot be raised and lowered. Mourning is generally indicated by attaching two streamers of black crepe to the spear head. This, however, is done only by order of the President.

It is the universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flag staffs. When the weather is inclement the flag is not displayed at all.

Since flag staffs are not always available to those who wish to display their country's flag, the flag is displayed flat. When displayed either horizontally or vertically, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right. Thus it would be to the observer's left. It should be placed in the same way in a window—with the union to the left of the observer in the street.

The flag should not be draped over the hood, top, sides, or back of a vehicle. When the flag is displayed on a motorcar, the staff should be fixed firmly to the chassis.

The rules which govern the displaying of the American flag are so numerous that to state them all here is impossible. But the above simple rules should be kept in mind this Memorial Day when you place your flag before the public. The way you hang it indicates how much honor you place in your flag.

Money generally burns a hole in a man's pocket quicker than in a woman's stocking.

Grim Warning

Michigan State Police released a forecast Monday that if the present trend continues, the Memorial holiday week-end will mark the beginning of a three-month summer season during which every week-end will record an average of 25 persons killed on our highways.

This is an appalling calculation and one which should make each of us stop and think twice before we join the parade of vacationers on week-end jaunts. Unfortunately the police further point out the fact that holiday week-ends, which are bad enough, will be no worse than other week-ends for the same period. Memorial day week-ends in the past have usually set a pattern which follows throughout, in average, during the whole summer season. Last year the four-day holiday saw 25 deaths but this year as only a two-day holiday, on the basis of what has been happening, we can expect 25 deaths each three-day week-end, whether it's a holiday or not.

We urge our local residents to take every precaution in the holiday period ahead. Plan your trips in off-traffic hours. Leaving a little ahead or behind the heavy traffic hours makes traveling more pleasant. A delay in returning home or leaving ahead of your fellow travellers will also provide clearer highways.

Make sure your car is in perfect running condition before you leave. Let your local garage check your lights and brakes before you leave and above all if your tires are worn keep your speed down in case of a flat.

Let's all agree now that when the Monday morning lists of dead from week-end accidents are released that they won't include someone from our community. Drive slowly, drive safely, drive carefully and at all times give the other driver the benefit of the doubt.

Girl Scout News

As part of their "My Community" badge the members of Troop 1 assisted by Mrs. Edward Walton in raking and cleaning the yard at the Veterans' Memorial Center at their last regular meeting. This fulfilled the community service requirement of the badge.

On Saturday, May 23, Martha Davis, Sharon Cell, Judy Walsh and Elizabeth Calhoun visited Iris Cody, the troop's shut-in member. As her contribution to the overnight camping trip which the troop is planning Iris has worked out the menus for the two days.

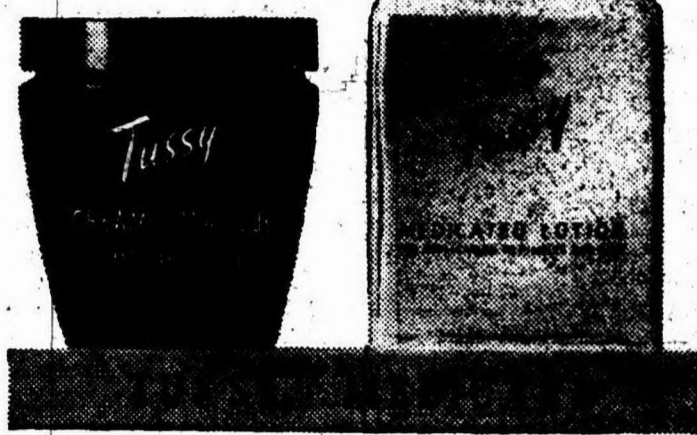

The Girl Scout cabin was the scene of much activity over the past week end. On Friday, May 22, Troop 4 with its leaders, Mrs. Warren Worth and Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, spent the night there. Twelve girls attending and reported having had a very fine time.

Mrs. George Loomis and Mrs. Thomas Argo, leaders of Troop II, brought 14 Brownies to the cabin on Saturday, May 23. They spent the night and returned to their homes late Sunday afternoon.

Maggie had fallen down and cut her knee. Her mother promptly rendered first aid, but as it was rather dark and she could not see the wound properly, she placed the bandage rather low. Oh mama," complained Maggie, "this bandage is not in the right place. I fell down higher up."

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST, Sunday Morning Services, 10:30 a. m. Sunday School, 10:30 a. m., for pupils up to 20 years of age. That hypnotism or mesmerism has no part in the healing method of Christian Science is clearly shown in the Lesson-Sermon entitled, "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias, Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday May 31.

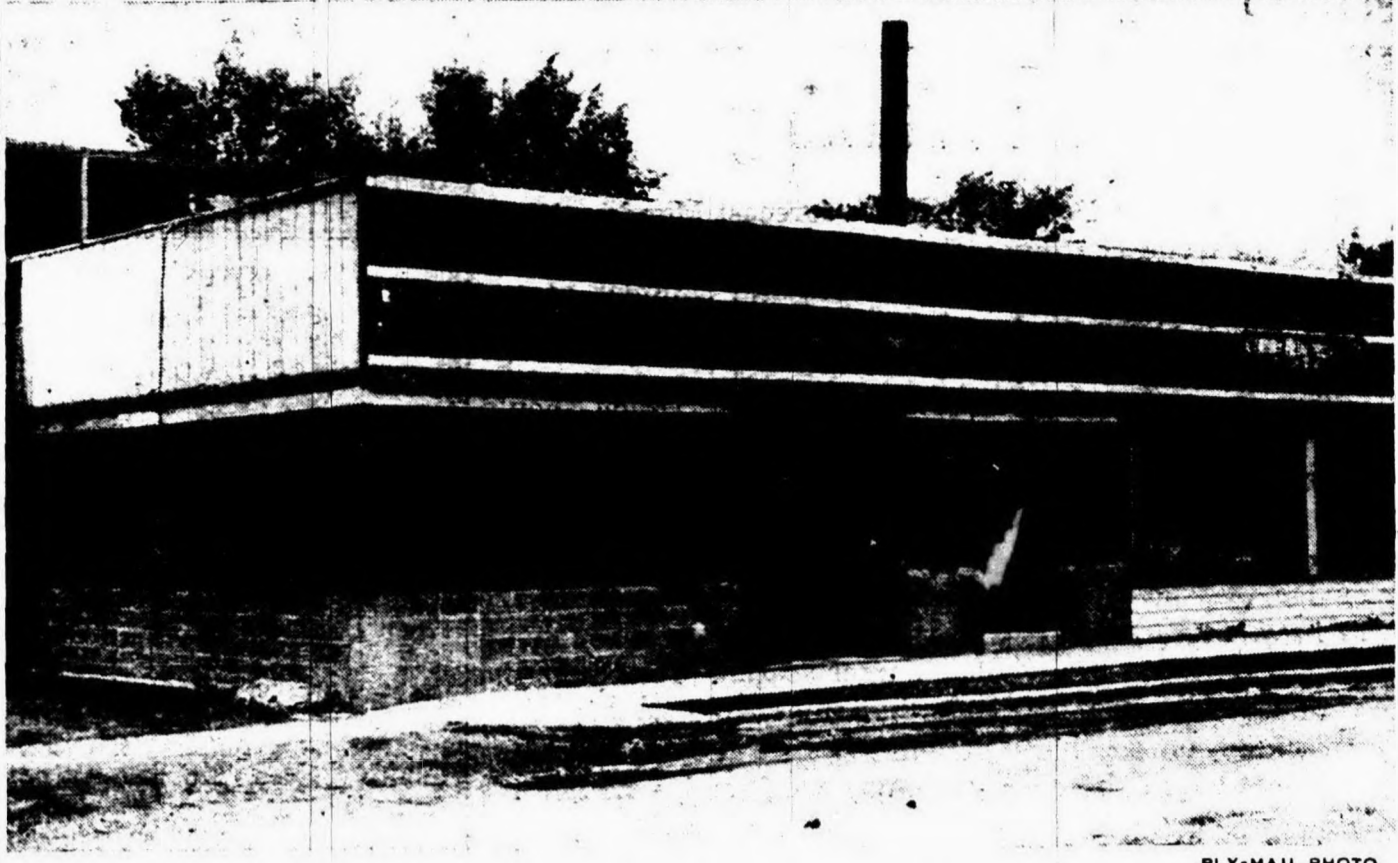

The Golden Text is from Jonah (2:8,9): "They that observe lying vanities forsake their own mercy. . . . Salvation is of the Lord."

Among the Bible citations is this passage, (Ps. 43:5): "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why are thou disquieted within me? hope in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "The Christian Scientist demonstrates that divine Mind heals, while the hypnotist dispossesses the patient of his individuality in order to control him. No person is benefited by yielding his mentality to any mental despotism or malpractice." (p. 375)

Reunion With Family Brings End To Johnny Billington Adventure

Beautiful Murals Relating Complete Story To Line Walls Of Mayflower's Pilgrim Room

By Elizabeth Coatsworth
Published with permission of The MacMillan Company,
New York, New York

They came upon a beaten trail, like the trails around Plymouth. They heard voices. Johnny was almost running.

They came to the edge of the woods, and there was a cornfield, and women working in it. But they weren't white women. They were Indian women, dressed in deerskins. One of them saw the newcomers and called out to the others, and they all hurried to meet them.

"Wild Indians!" thought Johnny, but he was too weak to run away.

One of the younger women picked him up and carried him into the village, with Trojan close at her heels. She fed him thick venison broth from a clam shell spoon, while all the village watched and exclaimed over him. Someone gave Trojan a bone, too, and kept off the Indian dogs while he gnawed it. Most of the people had never seen a white child before. They came and felt him and looked at his clothes and wondered at his brown hair and gray eyes. They were surprised to see how fair his skin was through the rents in his clothes.

At last the young woman who had fed him carried him into her house. It was made of saplings, their ends stuck into the ground in a circle, and their tops bent together so that the whole house was like a big basket upside down on the ground. Old mats, woven of rushes, covered the outside, and new mats covered the inside. There was a hole at the top for the smoke of the fire to go through, and several baskets and earthenware jars stood against one wall, with acorns and corn in them.

The young woman unrolled a deerskin and laid it on the ground and Johnny went to sleep on it right away. Trojan crept into the house and lay down beside him, growling a little when anyone came to the door.

THE SHALLOP

All day the Indians talked and talked about the lost child. When Johnny woke up in the late afternoon and the woman gave him more food, they were still talking.

Some pointed one way, and some another. They were very earnest. Probably some wanted to take him back to Plymouth, and some didn't. Some perhaps thought that if Captain Standish should come to the village with his musket, he would accuse them of stealing Johnny, and maybe make his musket go bang-bang among them.

The sachem must have decided that it would be safer to take Johnny further away, for on the second morning, when he and Trojan were rested and well fed again, the Indians led him down to the shore where a canoe was waiting with two men to paddle it. Johnny and Trojan were told to get into it. The young Indian woman looked very sad. She gave Johnny a soft deerskin, with colored ornaments on it, and a necklace of shells, and one of the children gave him a fish made out of clay. The whole village came to see him off, and the women sang him a song which must have meant "Good-by", and everyone pushed off the canoe and shouted as the paddles began to dip into the bright sea water.

Johnny waved and shouted, and Trojan barked excitedly. (His bark had come back.) This was wonderful! Johnny was no longer hungry and he did not need to walk. He had always wanted to go out on the bay, at Plymouth, but no one would ever take him. Only the men could go in the shallop, to explore, or trade with the Indians. They couldn't be bothered with little boys. But now Johnny had a boat all to himself, and Trojan for company, and two Indians to do the work.

He thought he was going to Plymouth, but he really didn't care very much. He was having too much fun. The sun was warm and there were lots of sea gulls flying about. The sea was bright and almost still. He could look deep down into the water. Sometimes he could see fish swimming past. Once a wet dark head appeared nearby, and a seal stared at them. Trojan barked at the seal, and the seal barked back and then disappeared from sight.

On their right there were sand dunes. The Indians paddled for a long time and then they all went ashore and ate something which they had brought with them. And they drank from a spring which the men knew about.

That evening they slept in a village they called Cummaquid, where there was a young sachem, and everyone was kind. Once more Johnny and Trojan felt very important. The Indians wanted to touch them and look at them, as though they were something wonderful. No one in Plymouth thought Johnny or Trojan wonderful. In fact Johnny, with his shouts and tousled hair, got more frowns than smiles there. But in the Indian villages it was different. If he made a face showing the hole where his teeth were out, the children laughed and giggled. If he pointed to his mouth, the women hurried to bring him food. If he spoke, the men tried to understand him. They all talked about him for hours.

It was quite a change for Johnny.

Next day the people of Cummaquid came down to the shore to see him off. There was a wind today, and it was a little cold sitting still in the bottom of the canoe, and sometimes they were all wet with spray. But it was fun to bounce up and down among the waves, and once they saw three porpoises playing Follow-the-Leader a little distance away, leaping in and out of the water, black and shiny.

Late that evening they came to a bend in the shore, with long low flats good for clamming, and beyond the flats there were small pine trees and a pond with a village beside it. The village was called Nauset, and the sachem was called Aspinet. Here the two Indians from Manomet, the first village, brought Johnny to live. Trojan and Johnny liked Nauset. They slept in another basket-shaped house and played games with the Indian children. The Indian women took off Johnny's torn clothes and tied his deerskin cloak about his shoulders. When their dogs wanted to fight with Trojan, they yelled and threw stones at them until they learned to let the English dog alone.

Johnny went hunting with the men and berry-picking with the women and played games with the children. And wherever Johnny went, Trojan went, too.

"Does Mother ever cry for me?" Johnny asked the spaniel, as they walked along the shore.

But Trojan only barked and swam out into the water after a stick. He was never homesick for a minute. Johnny was. For the time being this was fun. He liked it. But these weren't his people. This village wasn't his village. What was Francis doing? He wanted to tell his father of his adventures. And have his mother lean over the trundle bed to kiss him good-night. But he supposed he'd never see any of them again.

When Johnny had been at Nauset about a week there was a big thunderstorm one afternoon. Then the sun came out again just before it set. Johnny was sitting in front of his foster parents' house. Suddenly he heard a commotion, and looking up saw Squanto in his English clothes. Most of the Nauset Indians were gathered about him talking excitedly, but he saw Johnny and nodded to him.

Then Aspinet, the sachem, came up, and the two men talked. Johnny, his mouth wide open, listened. He heard Massasoit's name. Massasoit was the head sachem of all the Indians. Even Johnny knew that. It was to Massasoit that Master Winslow and Master Hopkins had gone in the spring, with the red horseman's clock trimmed with lace for a present. Perhaps it was Massasoit who had let the English know where Johnny was. And now Squanto was saying "Bang! Bang!" like a musket. That meant that Captain Standish would come and shoot them if they tried to keep Johnny.

But Aspinet was giving orders. The Indians crowded about Johnny, saying good-by and many of them hung their necklaces about his neck. He had strings of shells and of bears' claws and of wampum, and Aspinet's wife gave him a string of big striped beads which must have come from one of the trading ships. For the second time since he had been lost, Johnny cried. He cried because he was grateful. And his tears thanked them for all their kindness.

All together the Nausets walked down to the beach towards the sunset, which brightened the waters to orange and yellow. There must have been a hundred people. Squanto held Johnny by the hand. It was low tide, and the Plymouth shallop seemed very dark, grounded quite a distance out in the bay. Half of the people stayed on the beach, but Aspinet and 50 of his warriors, putting down their weapons, went out to the boat. Aspinet carried Johnny through the shallows and handed him, all hung with necklaces, to Master Winslow in the boat, and then lifted Trojan in, too. Trojan had been swimming and shook himself, but no one seemed to mind. There were about ten white people and three Indians from Cummaquid in the shallop.

"Welcome, Cocksparrow," said Master Winslow. "Your outing seems to have done you no harm. If it were not for the color of your eyes and hair, I should think that they had given us a little Indian."

Then he turned to thank Aspinet for the care he had taken of Johnny and gave him a knife, which was something the Indians always loved, having nothing but knives of stone or bone themselves. And then he gave another knife—not quite so good—to the older of the two Manomet men who had brought Johnny to Nauset.

"Tell Aspinet," he told Squanto, "to bring beaver skins with him and come with his people to Plymouth. We will trade with him. And we will pay him for the corn we found in a basket buried under the ground, when we first came here last fall as strangers on our way to Plymouth. That corn is what we have planted to feed us next winter, but we always meant to pay for it. And our men took some of the baskets from the houses they found empty here. We will pay for those, too. We meant to be honest with him and his people."

Aspinet smiled when Squanto explained what the white man had said.

"We will come," he answered. It was getting late now, and Master Hopkins' serving men hoisted the sail, dark against the last glow of light in the west over far-off Plymouth. Master Winslow pushed with an oar, and the shallop slowly moved out into the bay. All the Indians shouted, and the women on the shore began to dance and sing. Johnny could not see anyone clearly in the dusk, but he stood up in the boat and waved and shouted, "Good-by! Good-by!" When they came to Plymouth he would take them around and show them everything, and perhaps his father would fire his musket to astonish them.

Plymouth. Soon he would be home. Master Winslow had not been angry with him. Johnny overheard him say to Master Hopkins, "Were it not for the boy's being lost, this chance for trade would not have come. Governor Bradford wishes to question him as to the ways of these people. He is the only one of us who has lived with them."

Johnny sat for a little while in the bottom of the boat, with Trojan huddled close in his arms. The evening star hung large and yellow over the distant shore. There lay Plymouth. His father and mother would be waiting; perhaps with cuffs, but certainly with kisses, too. And what stories he would have to tell them! Francis would envy him his adventure. Even the other children would want to listen to him now.

And on this pleasing thought, Johnny went to sleep, and Trojan curled closer to him and went to sleep, also.

THE JOHNNY BILLINGTON STORY has a happy ending and eventually brings about friendly relations and trading between the Indians and early settlers. In the concluding murals shown above Johnny is taken to another Indian camp, then taken by settlers back to his parents in Plymouth.

Urge Harold Love to be Candidate

Republicans view with much satisfaction the emergence in politics, since President Eisenhower, of candidates and administration workers with solid college-trained backgrounds in professions and business. Friends of Detroit attorney Harold O. Love who are attempting to have him let them enter his name as a gubernatorial candidate next spring point him out as a classic example of the successful young men now welding a strong Republican party.

Love, 44 years old, heads the law firm of Love, Snyder & Lewis, as counsel specializing in the use of life insurance in the creation and conservation of estates. Love graduated Magna Cum Laude at Butler University, Indiana, where he took his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1933. Three years later, he graduated from the University of Michigan Law School with a degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence, and was admitted to the State Bar the same year.

Love has practiced law in Detroit since that time and has actively served both the Republican party and the City of Detroit, Wayne County and his residential city of Grosse Pointe Shores in many capacities. His Republican efforts include service as a precinct, county and state delegate, chairman and treasurer of 14th Congressional Committee, member of Wayne County Committee, Wayne County chairman for Fred M. Alger's recent campaign and as a member of Harry M. Kelly's campaign committee for governor.

Love was appointed to the Detroit City Planning Commission by Mayor Jeffries in 1940 and served as its president in 1941-42. He also served as a member of the Regional Planning Commission; member and president of the Woods Charter Committee. He was a member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors in 1940-42.

Love served as a lieutenant in the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics from 1943 through 1946 and represented the Army and Navy Air Force on War Production boards and War Manpower Committees in Washington, Philadelphia, Camden, N. J. and New York City.

He is a member of the Court Committee of the Detroit Bar Association; member of the insurance committee of the Michigan State Bar Association, and chairman of the Retirement and Security Section of the American Bar Association. He is also currently a lecturer on estates, taxes and trusts at the University of Michigan Extension School.

Detroit Woman Attacked in Riverside Park

A 23-year-old Detroit social worker was last week rescued without harm from her intended attacker described as a youth between 14 to 16 years of age.

Sheriff's deputies said the youth followed the woman into a comfort station at 13540 Edvard Hines drive in Plymouth Riverside Park.

A passerby, Robert M. B. Harnden, of Detroit, was attracted to the scene by the woman's screams. Police said Harnden told them he chased the alleged rapist but lost him in the nearby wooded area. The assault took place in mid-afternoon.

Harnden said the youth was white, five feet, five inches tall, blond hair, and wearing a blue shirt and blue trousers.

White Cane Drive Hits New High

The most successful White Cane Drive ever sponsored by the Plymouth Lions club was chalked up this year, announced Les Wilson, chairman of the campaign. With complete totals not yet tallied, Wilson said it looked as though the returns would go over the $1000 mark.

The White Cane drive was conducted in Plymouth as part of the national observance of White Cane Week, May 10 to 16. Members of the club solicited money on the streets for the aid of their sight conservation and prevention of blindness projects.

The money solicited by the sale of the miniature white canes will be used to help blind children and adults in the many possible ways, from operations to the distribution of white canes.

Students Hear Officials Explain Junior Achievement Program

"Learn by doing" is the motto of Junior Achievement, Inc. This unique organization, whose importance is fully realized by educational and business leaders, is designed to aid youth for the training and experience which will help them to take their places in the business world.

The program, briefly, is as follows: Groups of girls and boys, in age from 15 to 21, are set up in small "companies" which are operated by the young people themselves. Each company has a sponsor made up of a local committee of business leaders. Adult advisors also supervise the youths' activities.

Each company raises its own money by selling stock at 50 cents a share and produces a product or performs a service. Each company finances itself, manages itself, produces or services, and sells that product or service through its own effort and pays stockholders dividends on their share of stock.

Junior Achievement also offers 110 scholarships to any college or university in the country amounting to a total of $55,000.

One thousand firms in southeastern Michigan sponsor the Junior Achievement from September through May. Junior Achievement is already sponsored in the following cities: Detroit, Dearborn, Monroe, Pontiac, Wayne, Wyandotte, and Ypsilanti.

A movie was shown to the 10 and 11 grades on Monday, May 25, explaining Junior Achievement.

The various representatives in charge were: DeW.G. Walsh, Kenneth Pruss, Ed Broom, Harry Simanek, and Avrum Schulzinger.

$417,000 Operating Levy OK'd; Straits Bridge Practically Assured

LANSING—With only a gubernatorial signature necessary, it appears Michigan's $200,000,000 Straits of Mackinac bridge will become a reality after all.

The Senate approved Ellsworth bill last week was approved by the House by a vote of 77 to 24. It permits the State Highway Department to provide $417,000 a year to operate and maintain the structure for a 40-year period.

Bridge sponsors say to start the sale of bridge bonds, the $417,000 grant is necessary.

Now, with Governor Williams' signature, an immediate-effect clause in the measure permits bond selling to get underway immediately. Governor Williams is favorable to the bridge. It will span a water expanse between the Lower and Upper Peninsulas of some six miles.

"They say the bridge will cost $96,000,000. It will cost $200,000,000 before they're through and we all know it," charged Representative T. Jefferson Hoxie (R), one of the outspoken critics of the Straits bridge.

"We've been lobbied as never before," he said, recalling:

"Remember the RFC held its nose when the Bridge Authority tried to borrow some money. A year from today, they'll be back before the Legislature asking for more money, because the bonds won't be selling."

Representative Andrew Bolt (R), Grand Rapids, asked "Who's going to use this bridge? Why there won't be any traffic over it except during the tourist season."

Bolt failed in getting a rider attached to the measure that would bring it before the people in a popular referendum.

"Since there is so much money involved, the people should have their say," he declared.

State road revenues will be used to pay the annual $417,000 operational expenditure. The full faith and credit of the state will not be pledged.

Season Is Here When Speed Ups Annual Harvest

With the arrival of the summer months, speed, the No. 1 public enemy on the highways, is increasing its harvest and wise motorists anxious to save their lives will keep this in mind by driving with the utmost safety, according to Sergeant Henry P. Kozowicz, commanding officer of the Detroit post of the Michigan State Police.

"Figures just revealed show that last year 48 per cent of the traffic violations reported in fatal accidents were for driving too fast, the highest percentage in the history of the state," Sergeant Kozowicz said. "Driving too fast doesn't just mean getting everything out of the car that you can, but going too fast for conditions such as traffic, weather and visibility."

Police agencies throughout the state are now cooperating in a campaign to urge drivers to control speed, Sergeant Kozowicz reported.

"Safety appeals are not just idle talk," Sergeant Kozowicz stated. "The record shows just how foolish it is to drive faster than you should. During 1952, for example, there were 160,829 accidents as compared to 176,537 in 1951, a reduction of 15,758. But even with fewer accidents, more last year than during the year previously, or 50,837 casualties in 1952 and 50,058 in 1951. The answer was that cars were being driven too fast and hit with greater impact with more serious results."

"The law does not set a specific maximum speed limit, but it does require that cars be driven at a speed that is safe according to conditions. Sometimes this is higher and sometimes lower. But a driver who is anxious to save his life will not only drive cautiously, but watch out for the other fellow who isn't. And this is the season of the year for more accidents."

ROGER BABSON SAYS:

BABSON DISCUSSES YOUR FINANCES

How heavily, without danger, can you as an individual go into debt? How large a mortgage can you handle and at the same time make installment payments on a new car, TV, and a home freezer? These are good times, the best ever, we are told. Yet, in some sections six times as many persons are failing to meet their installment payments on time today as failed in normal times. How are you fixed?

ARE YOU ROLLING IN MONEY?

The U. S. Department of Commerce reported record personal earnings of $268.3 billions for 1952—a 5½% jump over 1951. The payroll of private industry accounted for much of the increase. Government pay rolls, which included the military, were up 13%. The report implies that almost everybody but the farmer should be rolling in money.

The all-time income high for farmers came in 1947 with a net of $16.7 billions. 1950 dropped about 25% from 1947. But Korea boosted output and prices, and the net for the farmer moved up again to a little better than $14 billions for 1951. 1952 dropped back slightly from 1951, and a further 5% drop in net income is expected for 1953. Perhaps the farmer is not rolling in money.

WAGeworkERS ARE PROSPEROUS

Are you one of those whose income has increased? Are you better off today than ever before? You're not! Let me tell you why. A short time ago I saw an analysis of figures on national income. Here's what I found. In 1950, the top 20% of our wage earners held 93% of our savings, leaving 80% of the population with only 7% of the national savings.

We are gleeful about our prosperity, and the wageworkers should be very thankful. The average earnings of the industrial worker in this multi-billion-income year of 1953 are $72 per week, which is about $10 per capita higher than in 1951. This sounds like almost everybody is well off. Yet to hear labor union officials talk you would think wage workers are not enjoying their share of the prosperity. Statistics show that these labor leaders are not telling the truth.

ARE YOU SPENDING TOO MUCH?

If you cannot meet all of your monthly bills on time, including your installment payments, you should make out a careful budget and follow it. You ought now to get yourself back on a pay-as-you-go basis in addition to building up your liquid assets—that is, savings accounts and Government bonds. We must avoid a too large national consumer debt, now $25.7 billions. Our installment credit accounts alone are now reaching $19.3 billions of this debt.

Our national economic problem at the moment is that our consumer debt has been rising faster than has the amount of money that people have available to spend. People cannot continue to go further into debt each year without either increasing their production and earnings or sooner or later experiencing real financial difficulties.

ARE YOU SAVING ENOUGH?
In these good times it's also shocking to discover that the median liquid asset holdings of all U. S. families (money readily available, savings accounts, stocks and bonds) have decreased 50%, from $470 in 1947 to $230 in 1952.

Many economists received quite a jolt a short time ago when the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced the results of the financial condition of some 12,000 families it studied in 1950. Its preliminary report read as if the average family was spending that year $200 more than it was taking in. This does not give the complete story; but the situation is serious and should be corrected either by spending less or by producing more.

LET US ALL PRODUCE MORE
Surely our standard of living has increased remarkably in the last decade; people have more refrigerators, appliances, automobiles and homes. We have, however, as a nation, lacked the moral stamina to work harder and longer to deserve these blessings and have reserves for an emergency. Now is the time to save more. Also, try to pay more down on anything which you do buy on installments or other forms of credit.

A PERPLEXED LOREN GOODALE wonders what his next move will be after learning of the sale of the Huston building which houses his grocery.

Urged to Move Elsewhere, Grocer Goodale Says He'll Remain Here

There will always be a place for the independent grocer. This was the statement last Friday of Grocer Loren Goodale, owner of an independent grocery at 843 Penniman.

Goodale, who might say, is a victim of economic progress in Plymouth who right now is uncertain where he'll be able to relocate his store after July first.

"We might have to close for a month, but we aren't going to give up the ship," Goodale said. Last week he was notified that the First Federal Savings & Loan association had purchased the Huston building in which he is now housed. First Federal will open a branch there, following remodeling, about October first.

Goodale, who has been a grocer since he was 13—for some 35 years now, speaks nostalgically of his business when he says "there will always be a place for the independent grocer."

"Customers always want quality merchandise, and they want individual and personalized service. Personality," he said, "is one of the greatest assets of the independent."

Already Goodale has been urged to move his grocery store to one of two other nearby cities. "But we still want to stay in Plymouth. We're shopping around," he said.

Goodale's store figures as one of the oldest in Plymouth since the turn of the 1900's.

He recalls he bought the store from William T. Pettigill for whom he worked for 19 years at its 844 Penniman address. Goodale moved the store to its present site in 1951.

Many of Goodale's customers are heavily dependent on his

Timber to be Sold As Cut by State

Timber cut from state land along the Lakehead Pipeline Company's 650 miles of right-of-way in Michigan will be sold as it's cut this summer, the conservation commission has ruled.

Meeting in its May session, the full commission authorized the immediate sales to prevent deterioration of pulp and timber that will be cut as construction of the long pipeline from western Canada progresses.

Both Richard H. Fletcher, Jr. of Bay City and Chairman Harold W. Glasse of Lansing took part in the May meeting. Terms of the two commissioners expired last month, but the Governor's new appointees—Ben East of Holly and Robert F. Brevitz of Battle Creek—had not been confirmed by the state senate at the time of the meeting. They attended but took no part in the May proceedings.

This Week—Ass't Postmaster BEATRICE SCHULTZ

Whenever you seek information about the history of the Plymouth Post Office or about its operations the person to contact is Mrs. Beatrice Schultz, assistant postmaster.

Mrs. Schultz recalls when in 1923, July 1, she began her career at the Plymouth office as a clerk. "Then there were three clerks employed, I being the third. Now we have ten serving in the same position," Mrs. Schultz worked as a clerk for her first ten years at the station.

While she held the job of clerk, the post office employed no other supervisors. At present, two are listed as overseers.

With a record of 25 years of experience behind her, it is easy to understand how Mrs. Schultz can state so confidently, "There have been many changes and additions made."

A business college in Indianapolis, Indiana, prepared Mrs. Schultz for the work in her present field.

Aside from the business life, Mrs. Schultz finds relaxation in traveling. She has made several trips to the east and south and found them "very informative." While on her excursions, Mrs. Schultz makes provisions for another side hobby. As she journeys from one state to another she collects antique glassware and china.

Previous to her moving to Plymouth in June of 1928, Mrs. Schultz made her home in Dearborn. She now resides at 1468 Sheridan avenue.

Assert Teaching Methods Outmoded; Say Students Restrained by Tests

The powerful National Congress of Parents and Teachers at its 57th annual convention in Oklahoma City last week heard speakers assert that the schools were:

- 1) Shackled and burdened with outmoded concepts;
- 2) Training, counseling students on too many things that are the responsibilities of parents themselves;
- 3) Failing to take an opposition stand against congressional probes on subversion provided no smear tactics are used.

The report of the Congress is rewritten from an Associated Press dispatch.

First to stir the 3,000 delegates attending was Albert Sydney Raubenheimer, educational vice-president of the University of Southern California, who declared that the public schools were still employing "obsolete teaching methods."

"Our methods of teaching," he said, "almost universally reflect an acceptance of the idea that a child is merely a blank tablet that has to be impressed and inscribed with facts and preconceived ideas."

Raubenheimer charged that all possible development of interest and imagination tends to be lost when just testing children alone on their ability to remember the contents of a book.

Teachers were defended by G. F. Bruce of Edmonton, Canada, president of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation. He scored against placing too much burden in directing phases of activity not directly connected with teaching.

"I ask you," he said, "is it fair for us to expect any teacher, who has, perhaps, not more than 11 years of schooling, plus as little as seven months of teaching training to train, teach, counsel and advise all the children he or she instructs?"

"We are asking them to do far too much if we want any part of the job to be done well," he contended.

Lawrence G. Derthick, superintendent of schools at Chattanooga, Tennessee, said that congressional probes of subversive activities "depends largely upon the manner in which the investigating committees function."

This came in answer at a press conference when it was asked if congressional probes among educators constitute a threat to local control of public education.

"They (probers) will render useful service if they report evidence of subversive activities," Derthick said. But he added that unsubstantiated charges would bring in its wake fear that could tear down or damage teaching methods.

Michigan's Julian W. Smith of Lansing, assistant superintendent of the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, urged educators in the closing hours of the convention to seriously consider outdoor education as a valid instructional "tool." He felt that nature's own classroom (out-of-doors) would afford a teaching medium that could be tagged to recreation and conservation of natural resources in the regular public school curriculum.

This same program was incorporated permanently into the Plymouth public schools just this year.

In another round of talks William G. Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Association, from Washington, D. C. defended the schools against "Godlessness" because they refuse to teach a definite religious creed.

Say Antibiotics-Sulfa Medications Slow Down Recovery From Colds

If the patient's got a cold he should be put to bed, kept warm and given plenty of fluids and aspirin if needed.

This the advice of Drs. Howard S. Trainsman and L. Martin Hard of Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago who reported at a meeting last week of the Illinois State Medical Society. Both experts warned not to give sulfa drugs or antibiotics unless or until complications develop.

Their report rewritten here from Science Service told that patients got well faster on this "standard" treatment than those fortified with antibiotics.

Some 159 child patients divided into four groups for tests formed the basis of the report. Three groups each got standard treatment plus either a sulfa drug or one of two antibiotics. The control group got just standard treatment. And all had the usual cold symptoms with fever of 101 degrees (F) for about two days.

In one week 56 per cent—more than half—were hale and hearty again. Another 34 per cent slid in on the normalcy scale in two weeks while the other 10 per cent lagged. Only 39 per cent of all the drug treated groups all together, however, recovered in one week, 48 per cent and 13 per cent taking longer than that.

In the standard treatment group 16.3 per cent developed complications while 12.3 per cent of the sulfa-antibiotics group suffered similarly. It was 65.5 per cent of the sulfa-antibiotics group, to the doctors surprise, that developed their complications after five days of the drug treatment. For 72.8 per cent of the standard treatment group, however, they developed complications within the five-day period.

With these facts the doctors hypothesized that administration of anti-cold drugs postpones the complications. They said the late development of complications was the reason for the longer average time it took the sulfa-antibiotics treated children to recover.

Detroit Board of Commerce Backs Water-Sewage Authority

A Metropolitan Water and Sewage Authority for outlying Detroit areas that presumably would include Plymouth is currently being backed by the Detroit Board of Commerce.

Its Water Study Committee, headed by Raymond J. Hodgson, is currently calling for a survey of all economic, legal, financial, engineering and administrative problems prior to setting up the authority. The study, costing some $500,000, would presumably be endorsed by metropolitan Chamber of Commerce groups.

The committee, through its secretary, John R. Stewart, called out-county water and sewage a "threat to the health and economy of the Detroit area."

"While the problem primarily concerns districts surrounding Detroit rather than the city itself," Stewart said, "we feel that all cities, towns and townships must work together for the common good if this area is to realize its maximum capacity for healthful and prosperous growth."

Stewart said that with the survey team as an advisory group, "we hope to have represented all major interests in all affected regions."

One of the major stumbling blocks to a water-sewage authority is current state constitutional law that prohibits the establishment of a water authority. An amendment would have to be authorized by the Michigan voters before such an authority could be set up.

Laurence G. Lenhardt, one of the committee members, said "a tremendous selling campaign based on facts gathered in an extensive survey, will be needed to secure approval of a constitutional amendment."

The committee said that water bought from the authority could cost less than current consumer prices in Detroit. Sewage disposal would remain the same.

The water and sewage systems would service an area of some 750 square miles in the metropolitan area. It is estimated it would cost upwards of $800 million.

Lenhardt said that the authority could sell self-liquidating bonds at a long term interest rate.

The problem of water supply, the committee agreed, has become severe in some metropolitan areas with accompanying "health problems".

Currently Detroit is selling its excess water to Wayne county which then resells it to outlying areas.

Nat Sibbold, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, said it was presumed his chapter would endorse a Metropolitan authority.

Postal Bill Nears $700 Millions

The postal deficit is breathing down the neck of the taxpayer again. Prospects are that it may reach $700,000,000 this year, according to some estimates.

There are many factors responsible for this overdose of postal red ink, according to Postmaster Timpona. Foremost is the fact that prices charged for postal service have not risen to match increased costs in recent years. The price of our chief commodity, the familiar three cent stamp for a letter, has not increased since 1932.

While it is true that the rates for parcel post and some other services in the post office have increased moderately, none compare with increases in commodities dealt with in other businesses.

The cost of rail and other transportation which the post office uses in the form of mail cars, busses and truck routes, has grown tremendously, but has not been matched by similar increases in postal rates.

The cost of labor in the post offices, which has necessarily kept pace with the increased cost of living, has added heavily to the overall cost of operating the yearly two billion dollar postal business.

Recent approval by Postmaster General Summerfield of a proposed 35 per cent raise in parcel post rates is a step in the direction of reducing the deficit. Even with this increase, however, the cost of sending a package parcel post will still be considerably less than by express.

It is probable concluded Postmaster Timpona that if postal rates were raised in exactly the same ratio that prices of other commodities and services have risen since the war, the postal deficit could be resolved very quickly.

Warn Fishermen To Check Boats

Anglers are not permitted to leave their boats unattended at public fishing sites, the conservation department warns.

"It is unlawful to anchor or leave boats unattended overnight at fishing sites unless the owner's name and address, in legible letters, is affixed to the boat," states the law.

Conservation officers have the authority to move such boats "to a part of the fishing site not usually used by the public."

Camping is permitted on all fishing sites north of state highway M-46, and often in the past anglers have come afool of this law.

Waterfowl Index Reported High

The final report of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service covering wintering waterfowl along the Mississippi flyway indicates a high breeding population of ducks and geese lived through last hunting season. Conservation department workers contributed to the annual count-estimate of the birds, as did workers in all other states along the central flyway. The aerial and ground survey was made in January. Over all, the waterfowl "index" is 14 per cent above the average level for the last five years, the Service reports. The index is based on total birds counted each year. The report emphasizes however, that birds were easy to count this year because of weather and other conditions, so a higher than average total was expected. Ducks were 20 per cent above the average for the last five years. Mallard, black, baldpate and redhead ducks and green-winged teal showed the greatest increases. Scaup, canvasback and wood ducks remained about the same as last year, while pintail, gadwall, ringneck and ruddy ducks showed decreases. Also, six per cent more geese were counted this year than the average count over the last five years. Blue geese showed some increase, Canadian geese remained about the same as last year and snow geese showed some decrease. The coot population, however, is "the lowest in several years," being 59 per cent below the average for the last five years. At present, the waterfowl situation across the continent appears good. Last year, breeding birds produced a good crop of young. Then poor hunting weather last year held the kill about normal. A good breeding population is returning to the nesting grounds and good weather could mean continued high duck populations this fall. Library Will Close Saturdays This Summer Mrs. Ada Murray, head librarian of the Plymouth branch of the Wayne County Library, has announced that the Dunning library will be closed each Saturday during the months of June, July and August, beginning June 6.

was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson who resided on the northwest corner of Main and Fralick streets. He was a prominent attorney in Washington at the time of his death several years ago. Mrs. Norton has been associated prominently in Michigan Republican circles serving at one time as director of the State Board of Cosmetology. Mrs. Schrader is the widow of Fred D. Schrader and mother of Edwin A. Schrader who now directs the Schrader Funeral home on Main street.

Pending Statute Abolishes Office of Wayne Coroner

Lansing—Wayne county may abolish the office of coroner and substitute medical examiners. The way was practically made clear for this action when the legislature last Thursday passed a bill which leaves it optional for any county to revert to the medical examiner plan.

Enabling legislation was yet to be signed by Governor Williams. It will give the Board of Supervisors authority to act, subject to endorsement by majority voter support.

The bill marks the final success of a campaign pursued vigorously by the Board of Supervisors and Board of County Auditors who control the office of medical examiner.

Continual friction between the auditor board and coroners, who submit their autopsy findings to them, was seen as one cause to head up the changeover.

Counties between 250,000 and 500,000 population, including Oakland, Genesee and Kent, have already switched to the medical examiner plan under a limited state statute.

The new bill leaves it optional with any other county to take the same action.

V.F.W. News

The Buddy Poppy Drive was successful in spite of the rainy weather, reports Eleanor Gust, Poppy chairman of the Auxiliary. She wishes to thank all the girls who sold poppies Friday and Saturday. Financial reports will be complete and read at the next meeting, which, the Post reports, will be held at the New Home. Dates of the meetings are June 2 and 3. Auxiliary and Post respectively.

Memorial services were held at the First Methodist church last Sunday with Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson, D. D. officiating. The sermon theme, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" was inspirational as well as educational. The total of 10 organizations worshipped at the services, among that number were the Gold Star Mothers and Moms club. The V. F. W. Post and Auxiliary were duly represented.

All Post and Auxiliary members! Don't forget the Memorial Day Parade instructions. The parade will assemble at the corners of Mill and Main streets at approximately 9:30 a. m. All veterans are asked to participate in the parade, wearing their service uniform, if possible. Commander Neale and President Danol fervently hope that their respective membership will turn out in full force for this parade. As a military organization, we should march. On Memorial Day silent thanks and prayers should be given to the past heroes of this country who fought and died so that we may enjoy our daily blessing, that we so often take for granted.

Special prayers were offered for recently deceased Laura Bredin at the Bredin home Friday evening. Virginia Bartel, Auxiliary Chaplain, gave the prayer. Bernice Kopski, President Gert Danol, Eleanor Gust, Norma Phillips, Gerry Olson, Marie Norman, Hilda Rorabacher, Alice Armstrong, Georgina Elliott, and Kay Coolman stood guard Friday night and before funeral rites. Pall bearers consisted of Post members. Mrs. Bredin was a charter member.

Anybody who has sports equipment, yard goods, books, leathercraft, record or piano rolls that they no longer want please phone Vi Garrison, 1673-M. Camp Norcom near Ann Arbor needs these items for the opening of the camping season on June 28. A trip will be made to the camp on Sunday, May 31, so please phone Vi Garrison as soon as possible.

Baby sitting services will be available to V.F.W. mothers who want to march in the Memorial Day parade.

Chamber Says "Not Enough" Being Done to Increase Parking Here

The Chamber of Commerce here talked out in the May Newsletter asking this question: "What realistic steps and plans are being taken to insure the future growth of our shopping area?"

"Not enough," the Off-Street Parking committee says, "the Newsletter asserted, "and it doesn't take an expert to see it either."

The Newsletter declared that in the opinion of Chairman Edwin Schrader and his Off-Street Parking committee, "a great deal more must be done to improve the present parking situation."

It warned that shoppers are looking for what the Newsletter called "convenient shopping centers that offer unlimited parking." And it added that "businesses are moving out of the congested areas of the city because of the lack of parking facilities."

"The committee feels that although last year's parking program bettered the situation, more should be done to eliminate the constant threat to the economic life of the city," the Newsletter declared.

The Chamber has showed growing concern over out-of-city shopping centers in Livonia that will offer from 9,000 to 14,000 parking stalls for motorist-shoppers. Some 2,000 stalls will be available when a major shopping center at Farmington and Plymouth roads opens late this year. Another 7,500 to 12,000 stalls will await shoppers when the Northland center now under construction opens sometime in 1954.

The Chamber was recently thwarted in getting city-sponsored commitments for added parking when commissioners gave package approval to its 1953-1954 budget without allocating capital funds.

Mayor Russell M. Daane said the city's action in expanding off-street parking in 1952 "was of such magnitude that it might have to suffice for the next year or two."

The city spent $25,009 in 1952 to bring the number of parking stalls up to 270. Businessmen here in 1952 gave the city $15,000 of the $25,009 shown in the budget as capital outlay.

There are more than 300 privately owned parking stalls from shoppers here as opposed to the 270 owned by the city.

"The new neighbor upstairs must be an old maid," remarked Mrs. Okey Wattled.

"She is," replied the landlord. "But how do you know?"

"Well, all the records she plays on her phonograph are of men's voices."

"THE BORROWERS"

Giant pansy blossoms came unexpectedly to Mrs. William Squires of the Canton Township Fire Hall, shown above. Mrs. Squires had pulled out all her formerly.

On this one plant Mrs. Squires had blossoms four inches across. When the plant first began to blossom it had 14 flowers. Throughout its blooming period it continued to have blossoms ranging in number from 14 to 18.

The healthy plant received no special care from Mrs. Squires. In fact she was careful not to disturb it at all, for fear of damaging it.

Beautiful plants are not all accidents with Mrs. Squires, however, for the rooms of her apartment are decorated with many lovely cacti. She has some 135 house plants, the majority of the cactus family.

One which is particularly interesting to plant enthusiasts is a monkey tail cactus which has many sprouts which hang down—thus resembling a monkey's tail.

The cactus are watered about twice a day, since Mrs. Squires' apartment is heated by a radiant heating system. However, in summer when the heat is turned off she waters them only once a week.

The front of the modernistic Fire Hall is extremely colorful, since Mrs. Squires planted 250 tulip bulbs there last fall. The Darwin Reds bloomed early this spring, forming a brilliant red border in the front of the building. Some of the tulips were twins, having two blossoms on each stem.

Because of her diligence and interest in plants, Mrs. Squires in the little more than two years she has lived at the Canton Township Fire Hall, has made it a lovely homey place while retaining the modern scheme.

"This is the time of year you enjoy a polar bear."
"Yes. He can wear white clothes constantly without running up a laundry bill."

Some top British scientists are blowing their tops over the way scientists are represented in American films, fiction and comic books. If these test tube maestros have their way, all this material will be tossed overboard before it gets to the British Isles. They're tired of scientists being shown as "madmen with an insane world."

They may have a point. It is quite possible that many scientists are not candidates for a padded cell. It's also possible that many of them don't spend much time peering with bloodshot eyes into retorts filled with new poison gas. After all, somebody did develop bubble gum, nail polish and chlorophyll toothpaste, and a lot of others are busy testing cigarettes. Let's be fair about it.

Cotton Plisse Leads Parade For Cool, No-Iron Lingerie

It's a cotton Spring as far as lingerie is concerned. Crisp, fresh and gay, as well as enormously practical and cool, the fashion for cotton has grown with the years to emerge as the biggest lingerie news of the season.

Cotton plisse leads the Spring parade, and shows itself to be enormously adaptable to the many new looks of lingerie fashion. Perhaps its best-known features are its no-iron and easy-care qualities, but this season it will star as high fashion too.

More opaque finishes make cotton plisse suitable for dress length gowns that may be worn as lounging robes and dusters as well. One style will be seen with its own removable cinch belt, looking equally smart for street-wear or sleepwear. Darker colors and print patterns look right for these new dual-purpose fashions.

Dress-length styling for the new season's gowns directs attention to the wide sweep skirt, very high or very low cut necklines, and fitted midriffs, which are either elasticized or nipped in at the waist by ribbon or self ties. Tiny puffed sleeves give an ingenuitous air to even the barest of gowns.

Cotton pajamas look new in plisse, cut in novelty styles with knee-length or calf-length trousers, or in shortie versions styled like tennis shorts or tailored sleepcoats. One pajama set features three pieces, with a tailored print top, and both long and short trousers for cool or warmer weather.

Broadcloth and printed nylon crepe show up in pajamas and gowns too, often in tailored pajama sets with matching robes and cuffs. Many are sold in kits, making compact traveling companions.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Pork Boston Butt.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. This is the upper half of the pork shoulder. It contains a portion of blade bone.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting. Place the shoulder fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Cook uncovered in a 350° F. oven for 45 to 50 minutes per pound. To determine exactly when the roast is cooked, insert a meat roast thermometer into the center of the largest muscle, but not on bone or in fat, before roasting. The thermometer will register 185° F. when the roast is well done.

Ginger Jellied Salads Are Tempting

Springtime is salad time. From now on, through the warm weather months, it will take light food, attractive in appearance, to tempt the appetites of your family.

Sparkling molded salads have eye-appeal, so stimulating to jaded appetites. When pale dry ginger ale is used as the liquid in which to dissolve the gelatin, salads have an extra sparkle and extremely refreshing flavor. These salads can be served often without becoming monotonous since there are many combinations of fruits and vegetables that may be used. Here is one, using tuna fish as its main ingredient, that is delicious. If apples are not available, you might substitute drained pineapple tid-bits, or celery.

Ginger Jellied Tuna Salad

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 cups hot pale dry ginger ale
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 7-oz. can tuna, drained and flaked
- 1/2 cup diced, peeled apples
- 1/2 cup broken walnut meats

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water. Dissolve in hot pale dry ginger ale. Add salt and lemon juice. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in tuna, apples and walnuts. Spoon into large mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until set. Unmold on chicory. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Use Michigan Beans As Meat Substitute

Beans are among the best of the "good buys." Although an economy leader in dry form, they are also good food values in canned or other processed forms.

Many Michigan families, like others throughout the country, have enjoyed beans as a meat alternate for generations. For many years our nutrition authorities have ranked beans high among the vegetable protein foods. In addition to protein, beans supply us with carbohydrates and such minerals as iron, calcium and phosphorus.

As further evidence of the sustained popularity of dry beans, records compiled by the department of agriculture show that we have used from 7 to 9 pounds per person annually for a generation—from 1925 to the present time. Only in three years since 1925 have we used more than 9 pounds per person in a year.

Michigan is the leading state in the production of the pea or navy beans and is among the leading states in the production of the cranberry and yelloweye varieties.

Most people buy dried beans in one, two and five pound packages at the grocery. The quality is always indicated in Michigan by the grade label on the package. The top grade is Michigan Choice Hand Picked. Other grades are the Michigan US No. 1 and Michigan US No. 2. Practically all beans marketed in the consumer-sized packages are the Michigan Choice Hand Picked quality.

Beef Termed One Of Best Market Buys

Good news for homemakers! Beef is plentiful. In fact, cuts of beef are among the best buys in many markets today. Here's a tempting way of preparing that popular beef cut, round steak. It's browned first, then slowly braised with a variety of seasonings.

- Devised Round Steak
- 1 1/2 pounds beef round steak
- Flour for dredging
- 3 tablespoons lard
- 3 tablespoons diced onion
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 cup canned tomatoes
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika

Cut steak into individual servings. Dredge with flour and brown on both sides in lard. Mix the 3 tablespoons flour and mustard and combine with remaining ingredients. Cover and cook slowly on top of range or in a slow oven (300° F.) for 1 1/2 hours or until tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Shop the easy way. Read our advertisements first, then you will know where to buy, at the price you want to pay.

Economize by Making Clothes for Children

While economists try to figure a way to control inflation, many mothers have already taken matters into their own hands to stretch the clothing dollar. With more than 18,000,000 pre-teenage children in the country, ranks of home seamstresses are increasing daily.

There's creative satisfaction in converting fabric into dainty or practical garments for work and play. There is, also, better fit, sturdier construction in clothes that mothers make.

If you haven't hopped on the sewing bandwagon yet, remember that in making children's garments for your first projects, you'll eliminate many of the fitting problems which arise when you sew adult clothing.

Small garments require little fabric and you'll often find these on a remnant counter. Many find that leftover yardage from other projects can be enough for a little blouse, skirt or pinafore.

In selecting patterns for children, local sewing center experts advise gauging the size to use by the child's chest measurement rather than by the child's age. Then, too, as when sewing for child or adult, the pattern is to be fitted to the figure and adjustments made before cutting the pattern from the material.

Most patterns for children need shoulder, waist and length adjustment, even though the pattern fits fairly well as to size.

Fabric allowance for "growing girls" is easily achieved by placing tucks on the inside of the dress just above the waistline and again at the hemline. Stitches for the tucks should be long and loose so they can be removed easily when the time comes.

Old hemlines of let-down frocks can be hidden with decorative trim such as rick-rack.

Choose Your Perfume To Go With Costumes

With the exciting variety in this Spring's fashions, perfumes become the fourth dimension of a woman's personality.

For the casual way of life, when sweaters and skirts, or tailored suits are worn most of the day, a casual type of perfume is best, with a choice of woody, spicy or fruity fragrances.

The woman who works likes a subtle, crisp, fresh scent to give the essential air of womanliness, important to every female in the business world. A navy suit with soft white touches calls for a floral scent. A light, airy scent is for the new pale beige.

For afternoon and informal evening occasions, the feminine touches or large puffy sleeves or draped effects invite the use of perfume in a sweetly floral scent, or a provocative note such as one of the crisp, wordly scents to accent a chic décolletage.

Helpful Hints Concerning Building, Remodeling, Repairing & Redecorating

Big If In New FHA, VA Terms: Buyer Must Find Liberal Lender

The government's new policy of permitting a longer payoff period on home mortgages it insures or guarantees may make it easier for this year's home buyers to pay their monthly carrying charges out of income.

Under the new policy, banks and other lenders may, at their discretion, allow a veteran as long as 30 years to pay off a GI home mortgage. Non-veterans whose loans are insured by the Federal Housing Administration may be allowed up to 25 years on most homes and up to 30 years on some low-cost housing.

Theoretically, those changes could reduce a buyer's monthly payments by as much as 21 per cent from the former payment schedules, which required repayment within 25 years on GI and FHA homes costing $12,000 or less and within 20 years on more expensive homes.

(The 20-year limit will remain under the new regulations in cases where the builder fails to get an FHA insurance commitment before he starts construction.)

The National Association of Home Builders cautions, however, that these theoretical monthly savings will be possible only if private mortgage lenders are willing to extend credit for the longer periods. At present, most lenders insist on repayment in even less time than required under the old FHA and Veterans' Administration rules.

If credit becomes available on the new long-term basis, here is what will happen to the monthly payment schedules of families who buy new or old homes under the FHA or VA programs:

With a 30-year mortgage, a veteran's monthly payment for principal and interest on a 4 per cent GI loan would be $4.77 for each $1,000 of the loan amount, compared with $5.28 per $1,000 on a 25-year loan and $6.06 a month if he were repaying the mortgage in 20 years.

For example, the monthly payments on a $13,000 home loan with a 20-year, 4 per cent mortgage would be $78.78, not including taxes and insurance. With a 30-year mortgage, they would be only $62.07.

A $10,000 home financed by a 4 per cent, 25-year GI mortgage would cost $52.79 a month for principal and interest, compared with $47.75 a month on a 30-year basis, providing such financing was available.

A non-veteran buying a low-cost home (generally $8,000 or less on a 4 1/2 per cent 30-year FHA loan would pay $5.22 a month for each $1,000 of the loan amount, compared with $5.07 a month under the old 25-year limit, which applied to housing costing $12,000 or less.

Thus, a non-veteran who bought an $8,000 three-bedroom home under the former regulations, with a 25-year, $7,600 mortgage ($8,000 less the required 5 per cent down payment), would have to make monthly payments of $43.33 for principal and interest. Under the new policy, a family buying the same home on a 30-year mortgage would pay only $39.65 a month—if it could find a lender to put up the money on those terms.

A $20,000 FHA home bought on a 20-year, $16,000 mortgage, ($20,000 less the $4,000 down payment required in that price bracket) would have to be paid off at the rate of $103.40 a month. Under the new regulations, monthly principal and interest payments on a 25-year mortgage would be $91.22.

The new government move to ease the monthly expense of home ownership coincides with a significant increase in the income of American wage earners. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that weekly earnings of factory workers in the United States rose 93 cents between February 15 and March 15 to a national average of $72.10. Hourly earnings of factory workers in mid-March averaged $1.75, an increase of one cent over the February 15 rate.

Family Handyman Questions And Answers

QUESTION: Is it possible to match existing mortar when repointing is necessary? I have seen the appearance of many houses impaired by mismatched patchwork repointing and I wish to avoid this if possible.

ANSWER: Mortar is prepared in many shades of gray and near-white and hoping to match old and weather stained mortar is almost hopeless. Perhaps the best way to improve the appearance would be painting old and new with a lining brush after the new cement has set.

Wall Of Red Brick And Carpet Match

An attractive modern dining room with a mellow air has one wall of rose-red brick and a carpet to match. The other three walls are painted a very pleasing gay blue which is repeated in the seats of the chairs and the tapes of the cream-toned venetian blinds.

The modern furniture has a satin-smooth blond finish. Deep green dishes add another color note to the room which is echoed by the luxuriant foliage of several decorative plants.

Level Stove Important . . .

Lots of dinners are spoiled because the kitchen range is uneven and fats or liquids in a pan gather at one end. Use thin wood shims or wedges and a large level to get the range sitting just right.

Booklet Offers Tips On Care Of Plumbing

"Plumbing Care and Repair" is the title of a helpful and practical booklet published by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago 1, Ill. The price of the booklet is 10 cents.

Helpful suggestions are offered on the care of drains, plumbing fittings, how to repair leaking faucets and valves, how to prolong the life of water heaters, thawing frozen pipes, what to do about noises in the plumbing system, how to drain the plumbing in a vacant house and other problems.

When applied over waterproofed masonry or concrete walls, Knotty Pine paneling can be additionally protected by blackpriming with WP-578 sealer.

Floor Is Prime Consideration When Remodeling Your Attic

Treatment of the floor is a major problem in the business of remodeling attic space.

You are undoubtedly faced with one of two existing conditions: either the attic has no floor and the joists are exposed, or it has a floor.

If there is a floor, you are ready to put down a covering. Inexpensive and very satisfactory floor-covering would be linoleum. Just make sure the sub-floor is smooth-surfaced so linoleum will lie flat.

Or you might use 3/8" plywood as a subfloor and then linoleum laid on felt paper. If you wish a more durable material than linoleum, use asphalt tile. This is the simplest floor covering for an amateur to put in place, since it is easy to handle and to apply the small squares. If you have plywood under-flooring, here again you should have a felt paper base.

But suppose the attic has no floor. Least expensive procedure would be to use a 3/4" x 4" and 6" (tongue and groove) wood of "D" grade nailed directly to the joists. Warning: This material is not as stable as plywood and you may get a slight "give" in the floor.

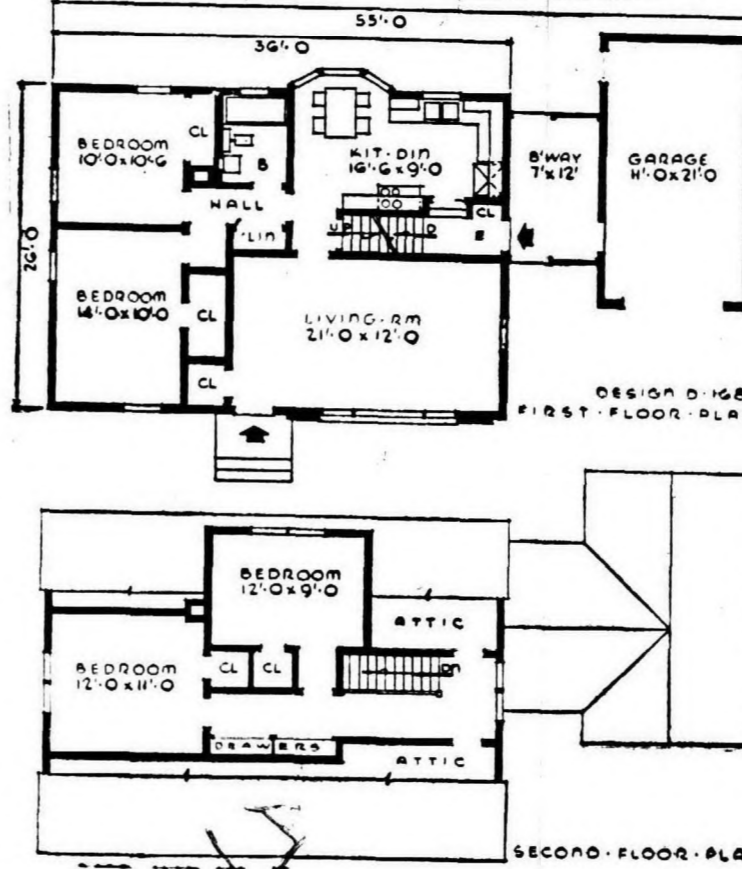

Other floor materials would be 5/8" plyscore, the surface of which can be either stained, varnished or painted; or 5/8" plywood, nailed over the joists. Plywood should be laid so that its graining runs at right angles to the direction of the joists. Linoleum or asphalt tile can be added later to any of the above mentioned sub-floors.

Joists ideally should be spaced not more than 16" apart. The ends of subfloor material should be cut so they can be nailed to the joists, as all board ends must rest on joists.

Undercoater is Used on Enamel Surfaces

Before painting over varnished or enamel surfaces, you can apply an undercoat which combines with the varnish and forms a better base for subsequent coats of paint or enamel.

If the woodwork is stained but not varnished—or if the varnish has been removed, exposing the stain—apply a coat of prepared stain sealer.

THE DARIEN has, in addition to the two bedrooms on the first floor, room on the second for two more bedrooms.

Besides these, there are the bath, combination kitchen-dinette and living room on the first floor. The garage is connected to the house with a breezeway which enters the grade entry and leads to the full basement and kitchen.

Cabinets occupy three walls of the kitchen, leaving space for the dinette with a small bay window. Storage space includes walk-in closets, attic storage on second floor, coat closets at entrances, walk-in in front bedroom, wardrobe in rear and linen closet.

Exterior is siding, except brick living room wall. Roofing is asphalt. Garage and front gables are finished with plywood.

Dimensions are 36 feet by 26. Total width is 55 feet. Area is 936 not including breezeway or garage. Cubage is 20,592.

The recipe for comfortable "al fresco" dining during the summer months should include a grouping such as the one shown. Light and cheerful, the table's plastic top and tubular metal frame will take a lot of abuse. The woven fibre of the seats and backs of the chairs are not harmed by driving rain or blistering sun.

Tables and chairs have self-leveling glides on the legs to compensate for the type of flooring found in terraces and patios.

Bright colors and smart designing give the right touch to modern outdoor living at moderate prices. You can furnish your outdoor living area as tastefully as the indoors.

This group includes occasional tables and lounge chairs. In good taste and extremely flexible, this furniture was designed to be used outdoors in the summer, and if you wish, in the recreation room during the winter months.

All Three State Qualifiers in Track Make Points; Two School Records

The three Plymouth High school track men who qualified for the state meet at East Lansing last weekend did all right for the Rocks. Each scored points and brought back a medal. A fourth place, two fifth places and a tie for fifth and sixth earned the Rocks 7 1/2 points to end up 16th in a 48 team field in the Class A state meet. The Rock team finished ahead of such large schools as Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids Catholic, Jackson, Grand Rapids Otawa Hills, Muskegon and Highland Park. Flint Northern won easily with 37 points with Pontiac second with 24 points.

Ron Nyhus broke the school record in the shot put with a mighty heave of 49 feet 8 1/2 inches to better the record by two inches. Ron placed fifth in this event for two points—the winner put the iron ball 51 feet 1 inch.

Jim Troutman, the third man entered from Plymouth, tied with three others for fifth and sixth places to get 3 1/2 of a point. Jim vaulted 11 feet 6 inches, the highest he has ever gone in a meet. In a coin toss for the medal, he won the fifth place medal.

The 6-B league meet is on the local track tomorrow beginning at one o'clock. The Rocks are highly-favored to take this league crown this year as they have decisively beaten all league teams in duel meets this season. Some league records are sure to be broken—Kelly has a good chance to smash the records in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, while Earl Glenn, of Belleville, is sure to crack the shot put record—last Saturday he broke the state Class B record with a heave of 54 feet 8 1/2 inches. All other records are thought to be relatively safe.

This will wind up a most successful season for Coach Keith Baughman, who is in his first year as track coach.

Rock Ball Team Dealt Big Blow; Drop Two Games

The Plymouth Rock baseball nine was dealt a severe blow to their title last week when they lost in overtime to Belleville on Tuesday 4 to 3, and then again 4 to 3 to Trenton in regulation innings on Friday. These defeats left Plymouth with a 6 win and 3 lost record. Trenton and Allen Park have each lost only 2 games, and Bentley has lost 3 games. Plymouth played Allen Park Tuesday and Bentley played Trenton—the 6-B league could end in a four-way tie for the crown.

In the Belleville game, all the scoring was done in the first inning during the regulation game, until Belleville scored the winning run in the ninth inning on an error. The Tigers opened the game by jumping on Finney, the Rock hurler, for 3 runs on 2 hits and an error. Two walks by Finney started it and then a single, triple and an error accounted for all the runs.

In the Plymouth half of the first inning the Rocks tied it up when Cavell led off with a single but was out at second, Gothard was safe on an error, Finney struck out, but Huebler connected for a triple scoring Gothard, Middleton followed with another triple scoring Huebler, Brown singled scoring Middleton and that was all the runs the Rocks were able to produce in the game.

Each hurler pitched scoreless ball for the next seven innings, only to see Belleville break through in the ninth for the winning marker. Born started the inning off with a single, Lehmann was safe on a costly error, but was thrown out at second, Finney struck out the next batter, and then another costly error on a double play meant defeat. With one out and a man on first and third, the batter hit a sharp grounder to the infield, Cavell made the out at second, but threw the ball wide trying to double the runner at first. The winning run scored on this play.

Bob Middleton opened the bottom of the 9th with a single and stole second, but was left stranded there when the next three batters flied out.

Finney, starting his first game on the mound, pitched a grand game after the first inning—he allowed 7 hits and struck out 6 and walked 8 men. Five Rock errors proved too much for him to overcome. Gary Gothard and Bob Middleton each had two hits, with Cavell, Ritter, Huebler and Brown each having one hit.

The Rocks lost the key Trenton game last Friday after enjoying a 3 to 0 lead—Trenton scored all their runs in a late inning to win by the 4 to 3 count. Kisabeth hurled for the losers.

There has been much talk lately about the acute parking situation in our city. Most people get in a car to go a block or two now

SPORTS CORNER

The Great Fight

A great fight is in progress among turf writers, horsemen and spectators. Thousands of those who witnessed the greatest horse race of them all, the Kentucky Derby, are convinced that Native Dancer is one of the great horses of all time, even if he did lose the race that would have made him immortal to the turf world. The ironic thing about the race was that Dark Star, the winner, was beaten by Money Broker, who finished eighth in the Derby, in the Florida Derby only five weeks before the run for the roses. Money Broker defeated Dark Star by 16 lengths. The Freakness and the Belmont stakes should settle the argument for once and all, but it is hot argument while it lasts. Those who saw the race (at Louisville) contend the bumping Native Dancer received on the first turn cost the colt four lengths. Be that as it may, the fact remains it was a fast Derby, only 2 1/2 of a second off the record. It takes a lot of horse to do that.

ROOKIE PITCHES NO-HITTER
Alva (Bobo) Holloman, 27, tells son Gary, 6, about no-hit game he pitched for St. Louis Browns against Philadelphia Athletics in first major league start, winning 6-0.

Sports Glances

by "Professor" Edgar Brown

The baseball race in the 6-B league has been a tight one all year. Four teams could end up in a four-way tie for the title. Trenton and Allen Park have each lost two games and Bentley and Plymouth have each lost three games.

I have never seen such a hotly contested race in this league as all the teams are more or less on a par with good pitching, good defensive play and fair hitting power. Our own team has lost three games by a total of only 4 runs—two by one-run margins and one by two runs. Plymouth has as good a team as any in the league and for a couple of breaks could very well be sporting a perfect season or at least not have lost more than one game.

Next Sunday many of the high school seniors will begin their senior trip to New York. Each year at about this time this trip begins a last-minute series of get-togethers for the group—ones that may bring them together for the last time as a unit.

There have been many good classes in the past, but this year's group is the best since I have been here, and is truly a fine group of young people. The class has many leaders with lots of initiative, cooperation, and the entire group worked together as a unit. You will hear about some of these young people in years to come.

The three Plymouth track lads that participated in the state track meet all came back with medals. They did well in Class A competition against the best large schools in the state. Jerry Kelly scored a total of 5 points in the dashes, and could bring home a first place medal next year as he is only a junior now.

Ron Nyhus broke the school record in the shot put by two inches when he put the iron ball out 49 feet 8 1/2 inches. The record was formerly held by Jack Kinsey who set it in 1936. I just found out his first name last week as I had it in this paper as D. Kinsey in the records printed a few weeks ago. You see one is supposed to have a first name in an article unless it is a running account of an athletic contest, and I couldn't find out his first name at that time so I attached the D. Anyway this lad was a bomber pilot in the last war and was shot down over Germany and killed. After setting the record at Plymouth, and the state record at that time he went on to the University of Michigan and made quite a name for himself before entering the service. Just to get the record straight his name is Jack.

There has been much talk lately about the acute parking situation in our city. Most people get in a car to go a block or two now days, and this habit develops rather young. Many students going to school have to drive a car even though some of them live within two blocks of the building—they like to drive their best girl, or friends, around at noon and after school. The most exercise some of these young people get is in a gym class or walking to and from classrooms. You would be surprised if you knew how many young people have a car now—days. Parents are as much to blame as anyone when they allow their offspring to buy an old jalopy at 16 years of age, or younger. It makes a hardship on parents who really try to raise their children in a sensible way when their Johnny says that most of the other lads have a car—they think you are "old hat."

Any child living within a radius of one mile should be made to walk except on bad weather days or emergencies. Most of the parents pamper their children too much and let them sleep until the last minute, jump in the old jalopy and race to school.

Another thing that might alleviate the parking situation is checking on the cars on Fralick street, and other nearby town streets—I know of several who work at plants outside the city who drive a few blocks, leave their cars there, and catch a ride to work with another car. That's not right!

Rocks Drop Two Matches in Week

The Plymouth High school tennis squad dropped two more matches on the court last week, and scored one point in the regional state tournament at Dearborn, but didn't qualify any men for the state meet in Class A.

A highly-regarded Ypsilanti Roosevelt team downed the locals 4 to 3—the winners are favored to finish high in the state Class C meet this weekend. Dick Root was the only Rock netter to win his singles match—Bob Nulty, Dick Zukosky and Brian Kidston all lost. In doubles play, Ed Rossow and Ron Wendland won their match as did Jerry Steele and Larry VanOrsdale; Bruce Green and Elmer Whipple lost their doubles match.

River Rouge won the second match over the Rocks by a 6 to 1 margin. Bob Nulty was the only one to win a match—he beat the Rouge lad in a singles encounter. In the State Regionals at Dearborn, Jim Zukosky won his first singles match on a forfeit from a Hamtramck player, but lost to a Ferndale boy in the second round—all other local players lost in the first round, these being Nulty and Kidston in the singles, and the doubles teams of Whipple and Green, and that of Rossow and Wendland.

The pupils in an Alabama school were asked to construct a sentence containing the word "amphibious". As quick as a flash a boy gave out the following: "Most fish stories are fibious."

Merchants Still Remain Unbeaten

The Plymouth Merchants entry in the Inter-County league again came out on top for the third straight time last Sunday as they downed the Wayne nine 6 to 5 in a well-played game at Riverside Park. Wally Dzurus hurled all the way for the Merchants, and got better as the game progressed. The local team has yet to lose a game in this fast league.

The Merchants had to come from behind to win this one as Wayne jumped on Dzurus for their five runs in the first four innings. Plymouth scored one in the first, one in the second, and four big runs in the seventh inning to go ahead to stay. In the seventh, Kabitsky led off with a walk, DeWulf singled, Harold Williams also singled, Swartz singled scoring DeWulf and Williams, Manager Warren Bassett then tripled scoring Swartz and that was the ball game.

Dzurus allowed 7 hits, walked 7 and struck out 5 batters. The Merchants pounded the Wayne hurler for 10 hits—3 by DeWulf, one a double; 2 by Bassett, one a triple; 2 by Williams, and 1 each by Kabitsky, Swartz and Dzurus.

Jr. Varsity Still Winning Games

The junior varsity won another game last week—this time from Belleville 8 to 2. The Rocks scored one run in the first inning on 3 hits, 7 more in the third on 4 hits, 3 walks and 2 errors.

In the first Danny Clifford singled, Wilhelmi also singled, Paul Cummings singled to score the run. In the big third, Clifford again singled, Wilhelmi walked, and after two were out, Wilkin walked, Wilczewski socked a two-bagger with the bases loaded, an error, a walk, Jack Carter's single and Clifford's second single of the inning provided the 7 runs.

Henry Bonga struck out 7 and walked 2 while allowing only 4 scattered hits.

Danny Clifford led his mates at bat by connecting for 4 hits in 4 times at bat. Wilhelmi and Cummings each had 2 hits, and Carter, Bonga and Wilczewski one each.

The Junior varsity has won all games played but an overtime tilt they lost in an early contest.

Chips from the ROCK

It wasn't the tornado that took the front off the Plymouth Mail building last Thursday. It was workmen who are getting ready to apply a colonial appearance to the building which joins Hillside Inn and the Mayflower Hotel in carrying out the colonial theme for Plymouth.

Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tiger pitcher, who lives at Franklin Village is another Detroit who has learned Plymouth Mail classified ads pay good dividends. In need of a housekeeper he used our columns to fill the job.

At Saturday night supper with Janet Blair, star of South Pacific, we learned it takes two permanents a week to keep her hair in shape due to the fact that she gives it a complete washing during each performance of the show. That's eight times a week for our money, twice Wednesday and Saturday and once Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

No more bee stories or pictures say Plymouth Mail feature writer Sue Kenitz and photographer Norma Schmeman. The girls had a bad time getting a picture of some hives. They were not only surrounded by two hives of bees but Sue managed to get one in her hair which left his trade mark to make the assignment complete.

Township zoning board member Carl Hartwick lost most of his sleep Thursday night trying to trap a bat which caused him no little trouble before finally flying out the bedroom window.

Captain Bill Roberts of the Salvation Army formed and laid 100 feet of sidewalk in front of his home last Thursday and Friday to save an expenditure of about $50.00. It was not only his first experience but also his last he says after paying the price by hardly being able to walk on the weekend. Most discouraging part of the deal he says was trying to be so meticulous about making each square five feet then checking other walks recently laid in town and finding the squares varied anywhere from four and one half to five and a half feet.

Russ Dawson, well known Detroit Ford dealer and industrialist says plans are in the making to again reopen Saddle Ridge club which is located seven miles west of Plymouth. The former club was opened by Harry Mack several years ago and has been closed during the past two years. Dawson says plans call for something far greater in that area than there ever was before.

Local haberdasher Carl Caplin pulled a new one on Joe Wickens of Specialty Feed Products when he tried to sell Wickens back $26.00 worth of oat seed he had purchased and couldn't plant because his farm has been too wet.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

A tax on Michigan business payrolls and earnings is the legislature's answer to the deepening state deficit at Lansing. The levy, first of its kind in any state, was steamrollered through the House of Representatives at 24-hours' notice last week.

Strategy of the Senate Taxation committee led by Senator George Higgins, was apparently to ditch the carefully drafted state income bill on both business and individuals and to spring at the 11th hour the business receipts measure. This bill was so new at the capital that a press conference was called Wednesday, May 13, to explain its provisions. Seven days later, including a two-day weekend, the bill had been rushed through the Senate and House.

A veteran Detroit newspaper correspondent observed: "It's so new, not a half dozen legislators understand it."

House Minority Leader Ed Carey (D-Detroit) insisted that official house records show the measure was "jammed through without adequate consideration or knowledge of the bill's content." A Republican move to delete his protest was not successful.

Pointing out that the bill had been written by a representative of the Ford Motor Company, a fact which was conceded openly by the Senate Taxation committee; Carey charged: "The bill is full of obscure language that can only be interpreted by courts."

In the language of the man of the streets, Governor G. Mennen Williams was handed a "hot potato." Without his signature or vote, the bill would become law in 10 days.

During the early part of the 1953 session the Senate waited for the House to initiate tax legislation. The answer of the House was to approve both the Nills corporate profits tax and also provisions of Senator Joseph P. Cloon's income tax bill on both business and individuals.

Representatives then waited to see what would happen. It did—and fast!

The Senate committee threw out the Cloon measure, carefully drafted by University of Michigan law experts. It sprung, as a substitute, the automobile company drafted tax bill on adjusted business receipts.

Automobile manufacturers who make parts in Michigan and then ship them to other states for assembly would benefit from the new tax. Protests were promptly registered at the governor's office from Kaiser-Frazer and Packard automobile companies who make, assemble and sell all cars in Michigan. They charged unfair discrimination.

How many "voters" would be affected? The total is estimated at Lansing to be 75,000.

From the Republicans' viewpoint this may be important at the 1954 state election, as the tax base is obviously limited.

A state income tax on both business and individuals would have been unpopular with more voters and hence more apt to expire on March 15, 1955—the date selected for the business receipts levy. Observers are of the opinion that the likelihood of voters' repeal of the sales tax diversion amendment was lessened by adoption of the new business tax. By the same token the chances have been enhanced that the legislature may be forced to continue the new tax beyond 1955. So-called "temporary" taxes have a habit of becoming permanent taxes. Crisis is perpetuated as pressure groups lobby for more state funds.

The legislature's solution to the deficit dilemma was really one of a possible two choices.

Quoting Treasurer D. "Ike" Brake, eight years a State Senator and 10 years a State administrative official:

"The permanent answer (to the deficit) must take one of two forms, or a combination of the two. A third, which one hears so frequently on the street as a solution, is not an answer. That third idea is that the elimination of waste, an increase in efficiency, will permit us to go on doing all the things that we are doing in the way of service and still balance the budget without new money."

"We must bear in mind that for the last four years our Legislature has been doing that job and they've got the excess water pretty well drained off. When you talk now of a continuance of all of our services at reduced cost, you are talking about a few thousand dollars that might be taken out somewhere. NOT ABOUT MILLIONS."

"The legislative answer must be either a discontinuance of major services or additional revenue. There seems to be no third answer at this time. . . . There remains but one answer—more money."

Agreeing with the state treasurer's logic, the legislature has turned to a tax on 75,000 business firms, while deploring the evils of the sales tax diversion amendment.

The Detroit sponsors of the business receipts bill hoped for a stalemate in the legislature whereby no tax bill of any kind would have been approved. They also contemplated, in a detailed

ROGER BABSON SAYS:

BABSON DISCUSSES THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Many of my readers fear that if rents are decontrolled in certain areas where they are still under control, rent prices, like the prices of coffee, will skyrocket. I don't believe this will happen today. Here's why.

RENTAL TRENDS

Ever since 1940, fewer and fewer rental units have been constructed. Fifty-five per cent of all housing units now in existence are owner occupied, compared with a 45% home ownership just before World War II. This trend has increased even more sharply in the last three years, so that in 1951-52 only 12% of the new housing starts were rental units!

Despite the fact that new rentals have decreased sharply, I believe the supply will be sufficient to satisfy demand and, therefore, keep rental prices down. My reasons for this belief come from the fact that the building market since 1946 has been an ownership market. The desire for ownership is inherent in democracy. It has been stimulated by such factors as (1) the high income levels of the war and post-war years, (2) the accelerated rate of marriages due to war, (3) the desire to "undo" and have a home of one's own after the war, and (4) the threat of atomic warfare and industrial decentralization, causing a shift to suburban living.

HOUSING DEMANDS AND THE BUSINESS CYCLE

Full employment and high wages go hand-in-hand with new housing starts. Barring war, we may have reached the peak of both the employment and the building boom. New household formations, due to marriages and setting up of independent family units, remained far ahead of the residential building rate from 1930 to 1950, with new housing study of state aid to local governments, the possibility of wooing Michigan voters to repeal the insidious sales tax amendment.

The Princeton tax study report, financed by these Detroit sponsors, declared that "all available data indicates that Michigan is now financing more of the costs of local government through state collected taxes than any other comparable state in the Nation."

"Among all the states, regardless of size or comparability, its total amount of state aid annually is exceeded only California and New York. . . . Experience everywhere has shown that this is wasteful of public funds and sooner or later leads beyond centralization of finance to the centralization of governmental operations."

Since 78 per cent of the state sales tax is now returned automatically to local home governments, the State of Michigan has become a super tax collector for schools, cities, villages and townships.

Will a business tax on 75,000 firms and individuals lead to repeal of the sales tax diversion amendment? That is an interesting question which arises from the legislature's eleventh hour decision.

The answer will be written, of course, by the voters. Time will tell.
