

$264,000 Check Cuts School Debt

Board of Education Secretary Carl Caplin and Treasurer Warren Smith signed a check Monday night for over a quarter of a million dollars...

to pay off holders of $259,000 worth of bonds which the school board is calling in. The 259 bonds (worth $1,000 each) which the board is recalling were not to expire until the 1960's.

An advertisement placed in a bond buyers' magazine asked holders of the bonds to turn them in to the Detroit Trust company for redemption.

To cover the bond redemption and premium payments, the board issued a check for $264,180 to the Detroit Trust. The bonds were part of an original issue of $1,359,000 which was used to construct two elementary buildings and the high school addition.

Two other bond issues are being paid off, one voted in 1950 and another in 1952.

Plymouth Fire Department Gets Public Inspection

A look into Plymouth's new North Side fire station and at the latest in fire trucks was the treat accepted by several hundred citizens Sunday afternoon...

Trucks from Plymouth township, Canton township and Livonia departments were also parked at the new station at Holbrook and Spring streets.

It was probably the youngsters who got the most thrill of climbing over the fire engines and seeing how a fireman lives. Unlike the fire stations of years past, the North Side station does not have a shiny brass pole down which the fireman slides to get to the truck.

Coffee and doughnuts were served to the grown-ups while the kiddies were served soft drinks.

A bit of excitement came during the open house at mid-afternoon. Captain Charles Groth answered the telephone which Plymouth firemen quickly detected as a fire call.

Canton township firemen, dressed in their uniforms reserved only for public show purposes, hopped on the truck and were escorted through Plymouth by the Plymouth department's emergency car.

The fire was at Haggerty road and Michigan avenue. A large brush fire was underway when firemen arrived and over 4,000 gallons of water was used to extinguish the blaze.

2 Youths Bound To Circuit Court

Two local youths have been bound over to circuit court and another released in an examination before Justice of the Peace George Wickland of Dearborn township.

Bound over to circuit court were Herman E. Parmenter, 21, of 675 Maple street, and Jack White, 22, of 15473 Park road.

The trio had been arrested the night of August 30 after allegedly taking a car from the Cavalade Inn on Northville road belonging to Timothy Coleman of Wayne.

The three youths were placed on $1,000 bond at the preliminary hearing. Ferguson posted the bond and was released after the examination, detectives said.

Plymouth's postmaster, Dr. George Timpona, has turned his talents in a new direction—toward the field of invention.

He has submitted a sketch to the department proposing an improvement on the parcel post meter machine which the local post office received last month.

The local postmaster's idea would alter the meter machine slightly so that it could be used for large envelopes.

Show Is Success

The Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of D.A.R. antique show which closes Thursday evening has been a success far beyond the expectations of members of the organization who launched the project as a first annual affair.

Drawing collectors from all over Michigan and Ohio the D.A.R. sponsored event in the Veteran's of Foreign Wars building on Lilly road created such interest that it was definitely determined to continue the effort in future years.

The doors will close on the three day event at 10 p.m. tomorrow.

Identify Body Near Toledo as Mrs. Jackson

A body found floating on Lake Erie near Toledo last Sunday was identified by relatives as Mrs. Bernice Jackson, 19-year-old Plymouth mother of two, who fell from a small cabin cruiser near the mouth of the Detroit river six days earlier.

Mrs. Jackson, who lived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Dickey, 44200 Shearer drive, was on a Labor day cruise with three friends when she fell from the boat while making her way from the bow to the cabin.

An immediate search by her companions and a later search by the Coast Guard failed to locate the body. It was discovered Sunday near Toledo by persons on a small private boat. Her father, a brother and a cousin went to Toledo Monday where they identified the body.

The body will be removed from the Walter Funeral home in Toledo to Balch, Arkansas where services and interment will take place. She was born in Decatur, Waldenburg, Arkansas on December 24, 1934. In Plymouth she was employed in the meat department of Stop & Shop.

Survivors are two children, James, 3, and Patricia Ann, 1; her parents; a sister, Miss Fayon Dickey; three brothers, Carl, Doyle and J. C. Dickey; and a grandmother, Mrs. Molly Tankley.

In a telephone call from Portland, Maine, site of "Edna's" furious assault, Michigan Bell Telephone News Manager Art

Claims Property Owning Majority Disfavor Project

"Down-right wastefulness," was what opponents to the widening of Main street called that project at a public hearing Monday when 31 affected property owners presented a letter and petition to city commissioners which called for their rejection of the controversial widening plan.

Over 60 citizens crowded into the commission chambers for the hearing, some of them voicing their opinion, others just listening.

5 Petitioners Oppose Amelia Street Paving

Fate of the $260,000 proposal will not be decided until the commission meeting of October 4, according to a decision of the commission Monday night.

The hearing preceded the public hearing on the Main street widening and paving project where another group of property owners filed their protests against that proposal.

Signing the petition opposing the Amelia street improvement were representatives of the Anchor Coupling company, McLaren company, Plymouth Plating Works, Allison garage and private property owners Nicholas and Grace Campbell.

As in the case of Main street where a majority of property owners are objecting to the project, five commissioners must vote for the Amelia street improvement instead of the usual four if the proposal is to pass.

It was only a week ago Monday that commissioners held a public hearing on a proposal to pave the south part of Amelia street, from Main to Mill streets.

Only one property owner voiced a protest to this project and the improvement was given the commission's okay. Now, should the Main to Farmer street portion not be approved, there is a chance that commissioners may decide to

"The addition of a fourth traffic lane to our present three on Main street will do little to make a smoother flow of traffic and probably do much to increase the number of speeders in a zone frequented by school children nine months of the year."

"It is our opinion that the expenditure of more than $160,000 for a project of questionable and controversial merit is down-right wastefulness—particularly when there is so much that really needs doing in Plymouth.

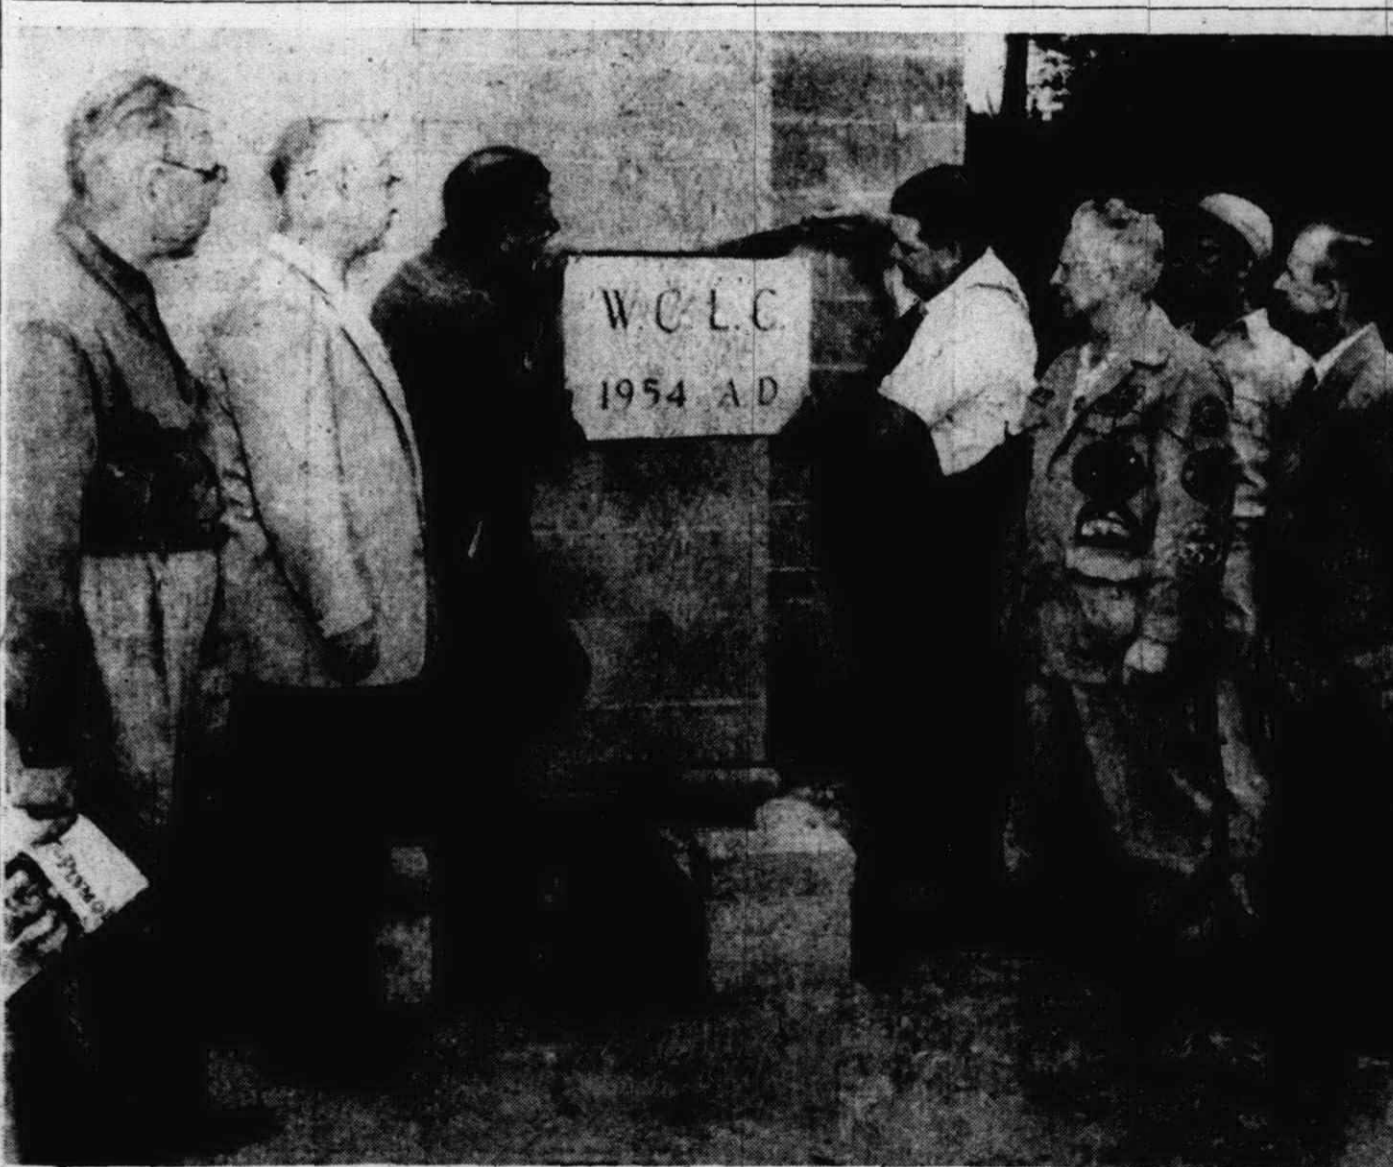

The ordinance does not specifically prohibit overnight parking, but forbids commercial vehicles to park on the streets for more than 30 minutes between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m.

To Ticket Trucks Parked Overnight

Truck owners who park their commercial vehicles overnight on Plymouth streets were given a 15-day warning notice yesterday by Police Chief Carl Greenlee that the practice must be discontinued.

The ordinance has actually been in effect for several years but city officials are now seeking a more strict enforcement of this part of the commercial vehicle law.

Starting October 1, Chief Greenlee said, all trucks will be ticketed if found in violation of the ordinance.

OFFICERS OF THE LOCAL CONSERVATION CLUB laid the cornerstone to their new club house on Joy road last Sunday morning. Participating in the ceremony from left to right were Roy Crites, Jack Taylor and George Lane, directors of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association and the Wayne County Land Company, title holder to the property for the Conservation Association.

SWAN SONG for this car was almost sung Wednesday of last week while its occupants were shopping in Plymouth Music Shop, 1175 Starkweather. Sally Ferrell of North Muskegon, a new teacher in the area, was shopping in the store with several other teachers when the car rolled down an incline beside the store. The driverless vehicle shot across the street, missed a utility pole by several inches and rolled down a steep hill toward Wilcox lake. The front wheels were in the lake when the car was halted by a sewer pipe sticking out of the ground. It took over an hour to return it to the road.

Symphony Society Strives to Swell its Ranks

With their sights set on a new record membership for the Plymouth Symphony Society, board members began an intense drive last week "by foot and by phone" to increase its numbers.

Under the direction of Robert O. Wesley and Mrs. M. J. Huber, the group began an all-out campaign to interest more people throughout the Plymouth area in symphony music, and the Plymouth Symphony orchestra in particular. Letters also preceded the calls urging former members to encourage friends to join the Symphony Society.

The orchestra will open its ninth season October 24 under the baton of Emil Raab of the University of Michigan, who is replacing Wayne Dunlap during the latter's one-year leave of absence to study in Vienna under a Fulbright scholarship.

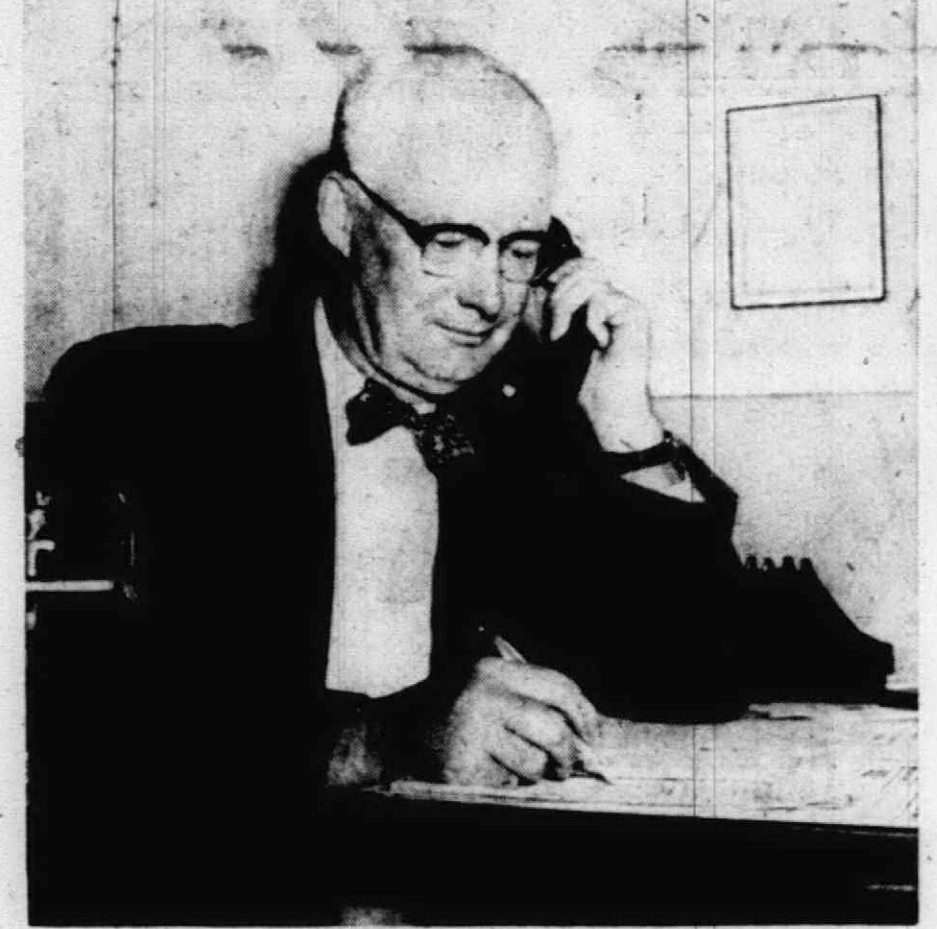

If you are even mildly interested in music, or wish to further the efforts of this organization, a call to any of the board members pictured here will bring a quick response.

ROBERT WESLEY saw to it last week that the newest member of the Symphony Board got right to work. Above Miss Hildur Carlson looks up prospects while Mr. Wesley does the calling.

Woolweaver Announces Changes In The Adult Education Program

Glancing at the total enrollment figure of 1248 persons in last year's adult education program, Herbert Woolweaver, director of the Plymouth Recreation department, expressed the hope that attendance at this year's program will top that record.

To this end the department has made every effort to provide an interesting and varied program for adults who wish to continue their education. Woolweaver announced that several new courses have been added this week to the many already listed in the adult education program.

The new courses are: driver training, two sections, meeting Tuesday and Thursday nights; commercial law, which will meet Tuesday nights; contract bridge, (Goren system) meeting Monday nights; and upholstery, scheduled for Thursday evenings. All classes start at 7 p.m.

Woolweaver also announced that the course in reading skills, previously listed to start September 28, will be postponed one week starting Tuesday, October 5. Professor Edgar DeForest, associate professor of communication skills at Michigan State college, will replace Dr. Van Roekel as instructor. DeForest has directed Michigan State's reading clinic, the Suffolk reading clinic of Boston university, and has served as a part-time member of the staff at Harvard University's Psychological Laboratory for reading research.

Registration for the classes, which begin the week of September 27, will take place September 20 to 24, with a special evening registration Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

Information with regard to classes or registration may be obtained by calling the high school, Plymouth 895.

Residents' Son Heads Program For Handicapped

Under the direction of Paul F. Thams, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. N. Thams, 475 Jener place, Plymouth, Oakland County put into operation on September 7 its new Special Education department for handicapped children.

Thams will head a three-member staff to set up a network of county-financed special education centers for all handicapped youngsters in that area. In addition to his staff, Thams will be assisted by some 100 other county employees and school officials.

Following a survey to determine the exact number of such children and their specific handicap, Thams then plans to set up a pattern of special education centers to serve geographical areas larger than the local school district. The unique program was approved in last spring's school elections and will receive financial support from the special half-mill tax which voters approved at that time.

A former assistant professor of education at Illinois State Normal University for the past three years, Thams holds a B. S. degree in psychology and an M. A. degree in special education from the University of Michigan. He has also taught at Wayne County Training school and has acted as assistant instructor at the University of Michigan, where he is completing his work on the doctorate at the present time.

Goes to DeHoCo For Three Months

A sentence of 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction was given last week by Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo to Ronald W. Quimet, 11646 Haggerty. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Quimet, 31, was arrested by Plymouth police two weeks ago on the drunk and disorderly charge and was placed on probation for two years, during which he was to refrain from drinking. It was also recommended that he join Alcoholics Anonymous.

Last week, Quimet went into the Judge's office in an intoxicated condition, police said, and told the judge that he (Quimet) might as well be sent to jail.

The judge obliged. A reckless driving case was also heard by the judge last week. The charge was filed against Waino J. Turala, 103 Amelia street. Police ticketed Turala for driving in a reckless manner on Main street near Church street. He was fined $35.

Theatre Guild To Meet Monday

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will hold its first meeting of the year on Monday, September 20, at 8 p.m. in the Veterans Memorial Building on Main street.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the organization's program for the year; and Carl Kranish, speech teacher at Plymouth high school, will give a talk on "drama and television." Kranish, who was awarded a Ford Foundation fellowship last year, studied television uses and techniques at the University of Michigan.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Recreation department, the Guild stages at least two full-length plays each year, and this meeting will be open to anyone interested in dramatics.

The heroes of mankind are the mountains, the highlands of the moral world.

To the Editor:

We do not believe that the hole that caused the accident to our tractor September 5 was dug deliberately to damage the tractor. However, there has been trouble with two boys who annoyed a neighbor girl's horse on August 26 until the horse almost kicked out of its shed. The girl is in the habit of riding the horse through the woods, which she did on August 27. On September 2 she again rode the horse through the woods. This time her horse got into the hole. Luckily, she did not get hurt. We discovered after the accident that the hole the tractor hit was the same one the horse stumbled in.

LETTER BOX

About a week before the accident which would put the day between the dates the horse was ridden through the woods, two boys were observed by a neighbor digging in the woods. All the holes dug in the woods are very similar. Not all are on our property.

We feel that the holes were dug for the horse, one resembled a trap, partially filled with leaves and sticks. Whoever dug the holes certainly had no business digging on someone else's property.

Several boys have been questioned but deny digging the particular holes in our driveway.

Damages to the tractor are not as high as was thought. About $200.00 will put it back in shape. Bruce's hand is healing fine and he is regaining feeling in the fingers. Evidently there was damage to some nerves in his hand and for 4 or 5 days he had no feeling in the last 3 fingers of his hand.

5 Petition

Frank Henderson, co-owner of Plymouth Plating Works and a former mayor, presented the petition Monday night in behalf of the five property owners. It reads:

"We the undersigned, owners of real property abutting upon Amelia street between Main street and Farmer street in the City of Plymouth, Michigan, hereby enter our objections to the proposed specially assessed local or public improvement of paving said Amelia street between said intersections and the further proposed construction of a sidewalk on one side of said street between said intersections, for the following reasons:

"There is no necessity for the proposed pavement. In former years, when Dunn Steel Products company was located on the south side of said street just west of the Main street intersection, it would have been possible for the city to make a comparatively strong showing of necessity, but, with the removal of the successor to Dunn Steel Products company to a different location, no necessity whatever exists for a pavement in the proposed location. In the opinion of your petitioners.

"Insofar as the proposed sidewalk construction is concerned as a part of this improvement, there is only one residence located on said street between said intersections, and such a sidewalk would have very little, if any, use, as there would be almost a total lack of use by pedestrians walking between Main and Farmer streets, or any intermediate points on said Amelia street.

Like the Main street proposal, commissioners plan to withhold a decision on the Amelia street project until its meeting of October 3. Cost of the concrete street and sidewalk is estimated at $27,088.

The club was honored to have Maxwell J. Smith, lieutenant governor of the southeast zone of district 17, as installing officer. Matthew Fortney, of Plymouth, was presented with his past president's pin, and announcement was also made of his official appointment as side to lieutenant governor Smith. The club voted to sponsor a series of dances for the young people of Plymouth high school during the current school year.

JAILED FOR HIS part in a hoax last week was John Doe, pictured here resting in his cell at city hall. John was reported to city police last Wednesday night when a driver told police that a man was hanging from a viaduct on Northville road. City Clerk Lamont BeGole went out to see the excitement and found John. Cut down from the viaduct, John spent the night in jail and was taken the next day to the dump where he was disposed of — clothes, straw and all. This is the second time this summer that the hoax has been played at the viaduct.

Burton E. Giles

Continued from Page 1 Michigan was another business venture launched by Mr. Giles and he became one of the first grocers to establish rural routes with a truck.

Journalism was another field which he entered. With his father, Mr. Giles purchased the Adrian Daily Times which was later sold to the present-day Adrian Telegram. He then went to work for the old Detroit Journal and later to the Detroit Times where he was associated with the circulation department.

Before coming to Plymouth, Mr. Giles went to Minneapolis where he was employed by the Minnesota Loan & Trust company. It was here that he devised a new, short-cut to compute interest rates which was adopted by the firm.

Survivors are his wife, Blanche, a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Jane Carmichael, Plymouth; a son, Allan N. Giles, Plymouth; one grandson, Tommy Carmichael; four sisters, Mrs. Edna Wilmoth of Plymouth, Miss Margaret Giles and Mrs. Etta Valentine of Adrian and Mrs. Jessie Mitz of Dundee. Two sisters preceded him in death.

Mr. Giles was a member of the Plymouth Rock Lodge, Masons, the Oddfellows and the Christian Science church. The family home is at 208 Blunk street.

widening, in our opinion, might better be spent in expanding and improving our woefully inadequate parking facilities. By improving and expanding our parking facilities far more good will result to a greater number of people who LIVE in Plymouth and who support the city, even though some occasional traveller may take an extra three minutes getting through our city.

"Much emphasis has always been placed on Plymouth's beauty. Much has happened in the past few years to mar this beauty and charm. Certainly the cutting down of all the trees along Main street removes the last bit of natural charm the city has, and in our opinion little is accomplished by so doing.

"After all, those of us who own property along the route of the proposed widening, and those who live and work along this route have much more at stake than do others, particularly the 'ray traveller. The imposing list of signatures attached—people opposed to the widening—evidences the fact that a very, very big majority of the property owner-and/or residents are heartily in favor of the repair and resurfacing, but definitely opposed to the widening. It is our opinion that the widening is NOT a matter of public necessity—it is purely and simply a matter of convenience. The City Commission is charged with the responsibility of spending our money wisely, and for matters of public necessity only. In our opinion, the widening itself is a very expensive luxury and must be rejected by the commission."

On the other side of the argument was James Houk, manager of Fisher Shoes, 290 South Main; Edwin Schrader of Schrader Funeral Home, 280 South Main; Attorney J. Rusling Cutler, 193 North Main; and Warren Smith, 794 South Main.

Houk, the first to speak, pointed out that a traffic survey taken by the American Automobile Association a year ago showed that routes through the city were inadequate to handle traffic. "It seems to me that if we are going to have progress in our community," Houk said, "and if business men in a community wish to keep business in a community and keep things going forward, we must go ahead with this project. If these property owners feel they may be burdened by the excess costs, there might be some consideration given to assess the property owners for resurfacing the highway as it is and that the widening be deemed necessary for the city-at-large and paid by the city-at-large."

Schrader pointed out that Plymouth's neighbor, Northville, has amply wide streets leading into and through its business section. "I would like to feel that Plymouth, a town half its neighbor's size, is just as progressive."

"I feel that the widening of Main street is inevitable, sooner or later," Schrader said. "I understand that the city has been given deeds to property necessary to widen the street and I think ultimately it will cost considerably more than it will cost now. As far as the trees are concerned, I have been told that the county moves these up to a foot or two in diameter. There are new trees on Main street which may come in that category which have a life ahead of them; there are many more which have only a year's life ahead of them. To halt this project on the basis of trees is indefensible."

Schrader added that his family is one of the major private property owners along the street and that it will cost them a great deal more than several others, but that he is willing to assume his share of the responsibility if it needs to be done "because I think the progress of Plymouth will be benefited. I have yet to see a city whose streets are too wide."

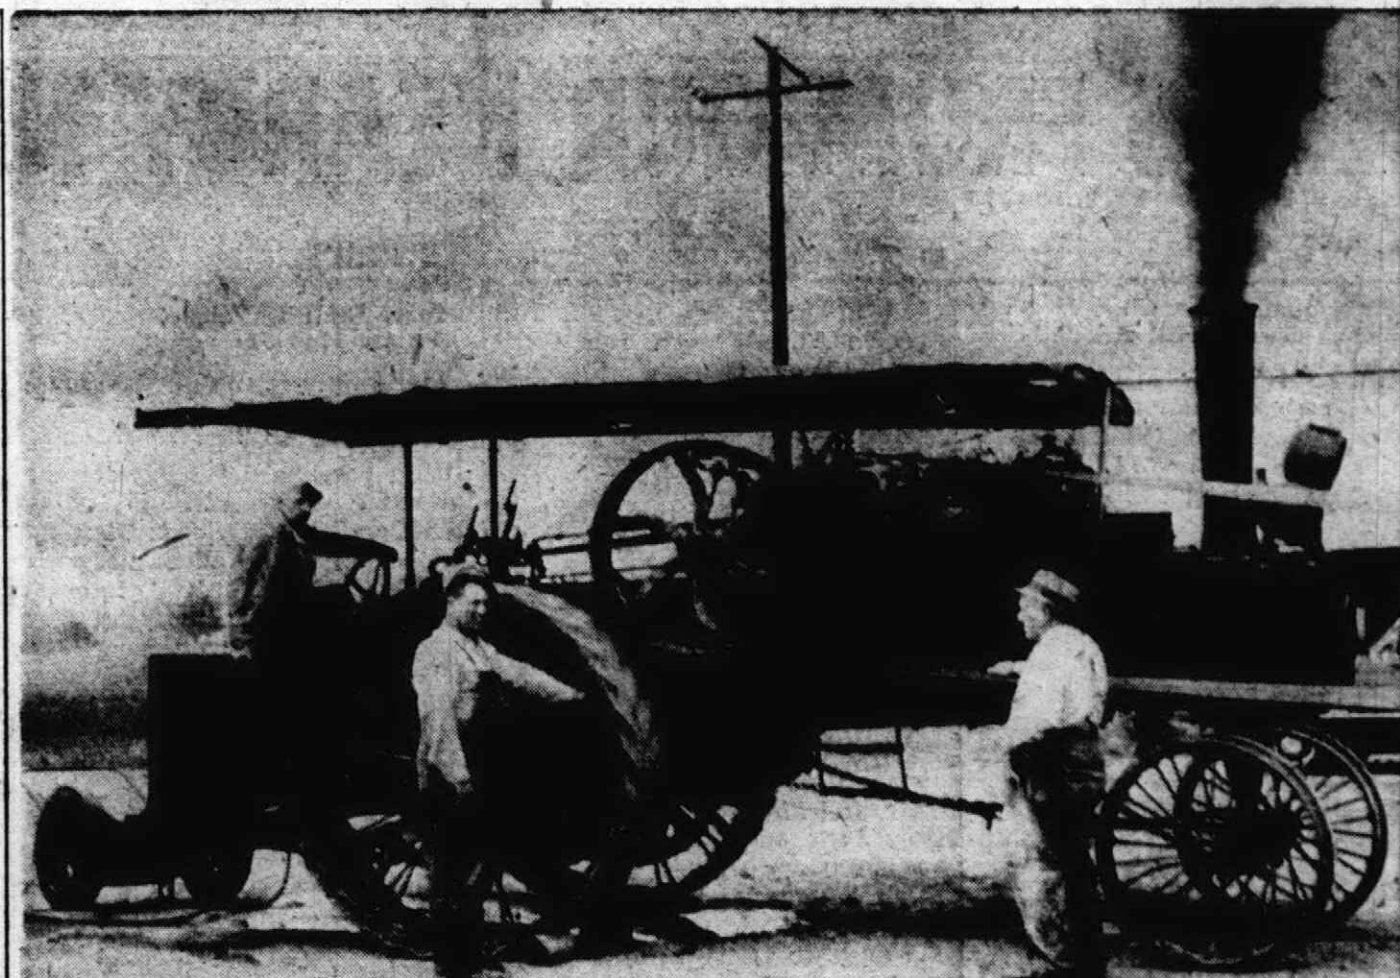

Hough was asked by commissioners if property owners who signed the petition would change their minds about widening if the city would assume a greater share of the cost.

Hough replied that in a meeting held last Wednesday night for property owners "not five minutes was spent during the whole meeting discussing the cost." Propriety and necessity of widening, he said, were the subjects discussed.

Attorney Cutler, who has 199 feet of street frontage, told how he and his neighbors gave 12 feet of their property to the city 10 years ago to widen the street. "We on Main street know we are no longer in a residential area," Cutler said. We have no special objections to traffic—it's the Main street, let the traffic go past there, but we feel traffic should be properly serviced.

"Everybody in this room knows that someday our main artery is going to have to be widened. Some years ago when this same thing was proposed, I believe it was to cost somewhere around $75,000 to $80,000. Today, the cost is better than $160,000. What will it be in another five or 10 years? The Plymouth attorney concluded by declaring, "I'm thinking of this town and its future, and while I've got a big bill staring me in the face, I want to see our Main street opened-up and made a MAIN street!"

Lawrence E. Lyons, 164 North Main, one of the petition signers, expressed his belief that the chief bottleneck in the street was not its width but the railroad and the traffic signal lights. He also said he doubted the accuracy of the AAA survey which reported that on Tuesday, April 28, 1953, there were 8,077 vehicles passing city hall on Main street between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.

SUNDAY WAS A BIG DAY at the John Bunyea farm on Joy road when neighbors and friends gathered to watch their early vintage steam traction engine fill one of the farm's big silos. According to Mr. Bunyea, the tractor was built in the early 1900's and still does a full day's work. Pictured are engineer Lee Gaeke seated at the wheel, Wilford Bunyea and John Bunyea. If the weather is right, the Bunyeas expect to run the engine again next Sunday and it provides children a sight well worth seeing.

Here is a breakdown on how the city plans to finance the $162,000 project. Property owners on each side of the street each pay for one third of the improvement in front of their premises and the city-at-large pays the remaining third. The city also pays $11,601 for intersections. The city's third of the project will cost $50,410.

In addition the eight-foot sidewalks will cost the city another $3,991. The city's own property along the street will cost another $10,170. The total city cost will be $76,174. Property owners along the street would pay the remaining $86,000.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

10:30 Sunday morning service.
10:30 Sunday school.
Classes for pupils up to 20 years of age.

How we may prove and experience man's God-given dominion over material bondage of all kinds—sin, disease, and limitation—will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Matter."

The spiritual heritage of freedom which belongs to man is set forth in the following selection from the Bible (Galatians 4:6,7): "And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ."

The following passage will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (223:3): "Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of soul, in matter instead of in Spirit."

11:00 a.m. Divine Worship
Sunday school will be held throughout the month of September at 9:45 a.m. but beginning with October 3 it will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue at that time until next summer.

There will be one service for worship during the month of September. Beginning with Sunday October 3 there will be "two Services for Worship." The first will be held at 9:30 a.m.—the same time as the Sunday school is in session—and the second Service at 11 a.m.
The attendance last Sunday filled both the sanctuary and side room to capacity. Such attendance makes it obvious that the 950 members of the First Methodist Church of Plymouth cannot find seating space at one Service. Please tell your friends about the time of our Services.
A well planned Junior Church will be held during the second service. It will be conducted in the basement and will have a choir, ushers etc. of its own. The children's sermon will be given at their service.
The annual Harvest Festival will be held NEXT SUNDAY at the 11 a.m. Service. Those who have seen the beautiful displays of fruit and vegetables about the altar in former years will need no further persuasion to attend.
An opportunity will be given for those who wish to receive the Sacrament of Baptism on Sunday, September 26, at the 11 a.m. service. Also, those wishing to join the Church either on Confession of Faith or by Transfer of Letter may do so then. Please contact the pastor if you have not already done so.
6:30 p.m. Sunday, September 19, our Senior M.Y.F. will hold their first meeting.

Adventists Take An Active Part In Detroit Fair

Seventh-day Adventists took another step forward in their projects at the State Fair which opened Friday, September 3, at Detroit.

The float in the parade which depicted the theme, "Christ the Hope of the World," was represented by a number of returned missionaries in costume from several mission fields. This same theme was carried out also in their booth in the Blue Pavilion at the fair grounds, where a large illuminated map showed the establishment and growth through the years of this work.

At various hours each day the different leading phases of the denominational work were illustrated in film and stereopticon, the youth movement, showing its parochial schools, academies and colleges, and summer recreation camps; the evangelistic program; health and temperance, and the Dorcas, welfare organization.

Each church in the greater Detroit area was represented by the pastor and his corps of church officers one day during the Fair.

Attention all color guards! Conductress Geraldine Olson is calling a floor practice on our ritual work at 7:30 just before our next meeting September 21! Please be on time and call Sister Olson if you won't be able to attend!

October is our regular delinquent month. Delinquent Chairman Carilyn Darnell reports that we have only 15 delinquent members on our list, and that she would like very much to have those members paid up by October 1! You can mail your dues to her or to our treasurer, Marion Dickie.

The date for our annual Smorgasbord dinner has been set for Sunday, November 7—Loretta Young has been named chairman of the event with Lucinda Archer and Betty Krumm as her co-chairmen. Any girl wishing to help with the plans for the dinner, please contact Sister Young at 71.

Plans for our annual Rummage Sale have been completed. The dates are Wednesday and Thursday, September 22 and 23, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day. We still need more rummage and every available girl to assist with the sale on either of those days.

A joint meeting of the Post and Auxiliary members is to be held on Sunday, September 19, at 2 p.m. at our V.F.W. Hall! Since this is the first joint meeting planned, Commander Edward Kopenski is asking that all Post and Auxiliary members be sure to attend!

Civilian Defense Chairman Alba Van Meter announces that plans for Home Protection Courses are underway. The definite dates will be announced in this column. She asks the cooperation of all V.F.W. members.

The Dedication plans on October 30 and 31 have been postponed. We will keep you informed as to the Post plans on this important celebration—the dedication of our completed V.F.W. Hall!

Social Security Checks Go Up

Over 90,000 people in Wayne County (including residents of Plymouth and Northville) who get social security payments will receive a higher rate early in October.

Harry Baltuck, manager of the Detroit-Northwest Social Security office at 14600 Grand River, Detroit 27, Michigan said the increased amount is due to the recent change in the Social Security Law. It is not necessary for persons now getting old-age and survivor's payments to call or come to the social security office. The benefit amounts are now being refigured and the checks in October will automatically include the increase. The change is effective September 1954. The September payment is received in early October.

Every retired worker will receive at least $5.00 more a month. Some may receive an increase up to $13.50. The amount of the increase depends upon the rate of the worker's original payment.

Increases for dependents and survivors will be less than those for retired workers. The payment to family groups will also be raised a minimum of $5.00 and a number of families may find their monthly payments will increase as much as $31.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pritchard of 963 Ross street were hosts at Sunday dinner to some thirty relatives and friends from Hillsdale, Farmington and Livonia on the occasion of the 74th birthday of Mrs. Pritchard's mother, Mrs. Emily Hayes. Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard are at the extreme left with Mrs. Hayes standing next to the latter.

Association of University Women Welcomes New Members Tonight

The first meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Miller L. Ross, 5000 West Ann Arbor road. Welcoming the new members will be Mrs. Ray Collins, president of the Plymouth Branch of the A.A.U.W., and Mrs. William Clark, membership chairman.

Other board members will also greet the new members at this meeting. They are Mrs. Arthur Gulick, first vice-president, Mrs. William Slinger, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Barnes, recording secretary.

The subject of physical therapy will be discussed at the meeting by Miss Alma Murphy and Miss Marie Hickey. Also, study groups will be formed and interim meetings will be planned to discuss informally international relations, education, social studies, arts, status of women, legislation, radio and television.

An invitation to all qualified women to join by the American Association of University Women was issued by Mrs. Ray Collins, president of the Plymouth Branch of A.A.U.W., and Mrs. William Clark, membership chairman.

The A.A.U.W. accepts as members all women holders of approved degrees from a list of over 300 colleges and universities. To be on this list a college must have a high academic rating, provide a basic foundation of general or liberal arts education, make adequate provision for women students, give significant recognition to women on its faculty and administration, and maintain academic freedom in its administration and teaching bodies.

Petz Bros. Add Packard Line

Wilbert J. Petz and William B. Petz, veteran Northville automobile executives, have been appointed Packard dealers for service and sales, Clare E. Briggs, vice president of Packard Motor Car company, announced. The new dealership, Petz Brothers, 200 Plymouth avenue, Northville, has been franchised as the pioneer auto firm's new program is broadened in this key market area.

Highlight of the activities planned for the open house celebration, Thursday and Friday, will be the showing of Packard's custom Caribbean convertible. Only 400 were made this year of the model which is a development coming from the company's prize-winning Pan American experimental convertible. At the same time, the new Packard dealer has invited the public to inspect his modern facilities for customer service.

The two brothers have been in the auto business for 17 years and have had the Studebaker dealership since 1939. They said that their company would operate on a dual franchise basis, adding that the addition of the medium priced Clippers and upper priced Packard cars to his present line of Studebakers would give his dealership wider market coverage with models in every price bracket.

"New in Shoes" Event Celebrated By Four Plymouth Merchants

What's the latest style in fall footwear? If you don't know it isn't difficult to find out because Plymouth's shoe dealers are "up to their ears" in fall fashion shoe news and being the alert merchants they are, they're taking part in the National Shoe Institute's "New in Shoes" event which began this week.

Davis & Lent, Fashion Shoes, Fisher's and Willoughby's are featuring Fall's newest styles in men's, women's and children's footwear. They believe that Plymouth's shoe stores have a selection and price range equal to any community and they're proud to be first to display the latest.

To answer your questions about what shoes are best for work, play, school and social occasions drop in to your favorite shoe dealer and fire away with your questions. He'll be glad to suggest a style best suited for you.

Library to Show Great Lakes Film

The first film will run about 22 minutes in length, while the last two are 11 minutes each in length.

Who's New In Plymouth

RAISING DOGS is a hobby of new resident, Wilmer Kneppreth of 7025 Napier road, who moved to Plymouth from Chicago about a year ago. Surrounded by three of the 11 dogs at their home are, left, Kneppreth, nephew Charles Bush of Cadillac, Mrs. Kneppreth and, in the foreground, granddaughter Deborah Lynn Mutschler. Bush is holding Joe Louis' former riding horse, which Kneppreth uses in judging field trials.

Plymouth Resident Makes A Hobby Of Raising Dogs, Judging Field Trials

When Wilmer Kneppreth of 7025 Napier road vowed as a boy that some day he'd have all the dogs he wanted, he really meant it. And today his home is literally surrounded by dogs—11 in all—plus two horses.

Kneppreth, who came to Plymouth from Chicago about a year ago, is owner of the Auto Truck Equipment company of Detroit which sold the City of Plymouth its Leach packer body for garbage disposal.

Starting his hobby of raising dogs in 1941, Kneppreth entered field dogs in trials for the first time in 1946. Five of his dogs are now training at Northville under the nationally famous field-dog trainer, Dave Pullen, and Kneppreth will be entering one of the dogs, Spunky Shoals, in the National Futurity championships at Carbondale, Illinois on November 1.

Also active for many years in judging field trials in this area and writing up trials for the American Field magazine, Kneppreth will be judging the Michigan Brittany trials at Pontiac Lake on October 15, 16 and 17, for which he received a trophy last fall. Often spending as many as three days on horseback judging dogs in the field on the basis of bird-finding ability, field work and handling, Kneppreth bought two Tennessee Walkers, a breed of horses known for its easy gait. One of these, Dan, formerly belonging to Joe Louis, is shown in the picture.

Dan was first bought from Louis by Judge Jolley, public relations director for General Motors. From Jolley's hands Dan went to those of a lawyer from Franklin Hills and was ultimately bought from the lawyer by Kneppreth.

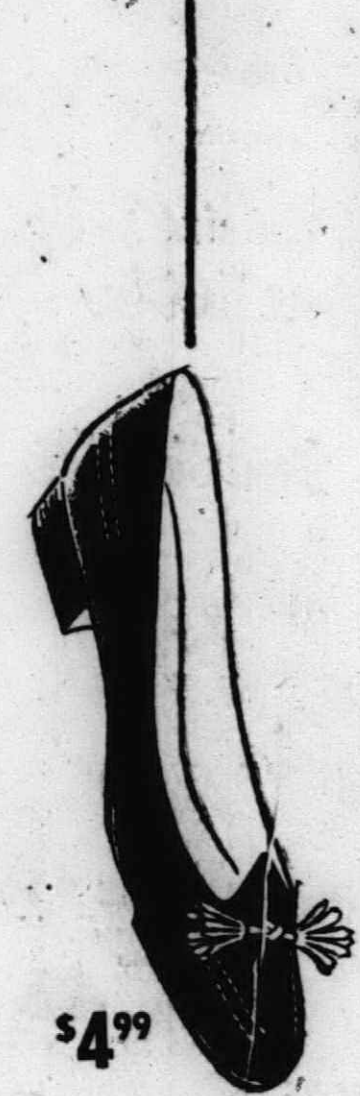

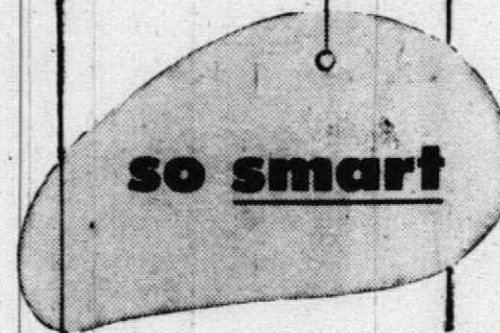

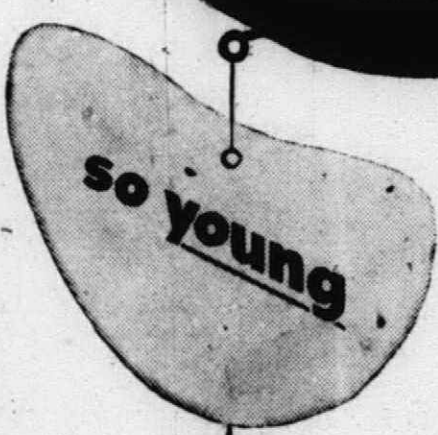

Residing with Mr. and Mrs. Kneppreth on Napier road are their daughter, Elizabeth, whose husband is in the Army; the Kneppreth's granddaughter, Deborah Lynn; a son, Herbert; Kneppreth's father and a nephew, Charles Bush, of Cadillac. The latter will spend the year with his aunt and uncle, attending school in this area.

New Grains For Men Have Touch of Softness

When they used to talk about boarded leathers, they meant just that. Leathers stiff as boards, coarse in grain, so uncomfortable that by the time they were broken in they were too far gone to wear.

Due to this, grained leathers got a black eye, and more or less disappeared from the men's shoe fashion picture.

But not any more. In the last few seasons tanners have worked miracles. They have produced grained leathers that are glove soft on the foot, beautiful to look at, wonderful to wear and suited to all but the most formal day-time occasion.

The new grains are much finer in texture. There is more life to their colors, whether in the medium or darker tones. Even the rough grains for casual wear have lost the stiff and clumsy look, fit and feel better.

Although softer, they have retained their wearing quality which has always been a factor in the acceptance of grains. With the flannels and tweeds which headline men's fall fashions there's nothing smarter than the new grains for town and country wear.

Among the popular types in which grains are featured are the two- and three-eyelet ties and slippers, the more casual slipper with raised moc seam, the plain toe or walled blucher, the slipper with gored instep strap and wing tip oxford with perforated meditation and stitched sole.

KITTED AND FRINGED, the Fall '54 moccasin rates high for leisure-wear. The hand-stitched vamp and one-piece construction assure the utmost in foot comfort.

GRAINED LEATHERS NOW CASHMERE SOFT, as in this two eyelet moccasin tie for wear with country tweeds, are destined for great popularity this season.

Suburban Footwear

A whole new family of footwear comes into being as the result of popular demand. It's referred to as "suburban footwear" and it includes shoes that are definitely on the "casual" or "informal" side. Loafers and moccasin types with light flexible soles, soft crepe soles and touches of color are popular here.

"After-School" Shoes Need Attention, Too

Certainly the "after-school" shoes should be fully as sturdy and as well fitted as the "school shoes". This is the season when mothers start planning their children's back-to-school wardrobes. They want to make a nice impression with new clothing and new shoes. But while they are concentrating on new shoes for school, they tend to overlook the fact that the average youngster spends only 35 hours in school but 55 hours in after-school and week-end play. Worn-out, outgrown, misshapen and run-over shoes are as harmful for "after-school" play as they are unsightly for school wear.

Plymouth Rocks Host Northville In Opener of 1954 Grid Season

The high school football team will open the lid on the 1954 season tomorrow night when the Northville Mustangs invade the local field to engage the Rocks in a contest beginning at eight o'clock. The local eleven will be out to avenge a humiliating 21 to 0 defeat suffered at the hands of Northville last year when an inexperienced Rock eleven couldn't get going over at Northville.

Coach Charles Ketterer isn't too optimistic about the outcome of this game as many of his key players have been out with illness and other troubles and some will miss this game. Northville lost many by graduation, but will present a much heavier line than the Rocks. Paul Hamlin, a former Plymouth player two seasons ago, is the captain of this year's Northville team.

The Rocks will present a light, but scrappy and first line, and a fast backfield. The first team is expected to hold its own, but lack of capable reserves seem to be Coach Ketterer's main problem right now. The boys have been practicing hard for two weeks for this opener, and the 6-B league games that will begin in another week.

Tickets for tomorrow night's contest may be secured at the gate. Students may purchase them at their respective schools at a reduced rate, but will have to pay the full price if bought at the gate.

The high school band will stage one of its outstanding programs during the halftime session, and it is probable that the Northville band will also be present to provide entertainment.

After the Northville encounter, Plymouth will meet Bentley here next week, and Trenton, Redford Union, Allen Park, Belleville, Garden City and Walled Lake on successive Fridays thereafter.

Concessions will be managed by the Freshman class.

Football Parents Meet Coaches At School Tonight

The annual parent-player-coaches get-together inaugurated by the present coaching staff a couple years ago will be held tonight in the high school auditorium. The three interested parties will meet to discuss all phases of football, and will be entertained by a film showing the highlights of Big Ten football last season.

The time is 7:30 this evening. High school coaches will enlighten parents and players on football training rules, insurance, and the fall program in general.

A question and answer period will follow the discussion, after which refreshments will be served.

These programs have proven highly successful the past two years, and have been well-attended by both parents and players. The entire program results in a better understanding of the football program. Anyone who has a genuine interest is invited to attend.

Request Bowlers To Submit Results

Want your bowling scores published in The Mail? So do we! It's an easy job. Many times involving only a phone call. Our number is 1600—that's not hard to remember! So come on, league secretaries. Bring, phone or send your weekly bowling results to The Mail. We must have the information not later than 9:00 a.m. each Tuesday for publication on the sports page that week.

Therefore leagues that bowl Thursday, Friday and Monday can have their standings up-to-date if the secretaries hustle the information to us, while the Tuesday, Wednesday leagues will be just one week behind in their standings.

Include in your information the team results, bowler of single high game, highest series and the bowler's name, and the highest team total.

Can Michigan State stop the strong Iowa gridders? How will Michigan do against the University of Washington? Can the Plymouth Rocks handle the Bentley Bulldogs?

If you think you know the answers to these football questions, then you're a cinch to win a cash prize in The Plymouth Mail's annual "Pick-the-Winners" Football Contest which begins on the sports pages of The Mail next week!

This popular contest drew hundreds of weekly replies last year, and strangely enough, had nearly as many women prognosticators as men. Three cash awards are made each week with the winning entry receiving $10 and second and third places receiving $7 and $3 respectively.

Contestants may find the going a little tougher this year as the contest master promises that there will be fewer "perfect entries than last year." In starting out he makes things more difficult by running a schedule of 15 games instead of the eight as used last year.

Contestants will have to pick the score of one contest, just in case there is a tie among entries. Then this score will be used to determine the winner. The rules are about the same. Anyone can enter, except employees of The Mail, contest sponsors, or their families. The contest form will appear each Thursday in The Mail and entries must be in The Mail office by 5:00 p.m. Friday evening or bear a postmark of not later than that time.

There's the schedule of games for the weekend of September 25, and be ready for next week's "Pick-the-Winners" contest. Sharpen your pencils, look over

Plymouthites Place 4th In Recreation Tourney

Plymouth Recreation department's golf team took fourth place in the Michigan Recreation Golf Tournament held last Saturday at Groesbeck Golf course in Lansing. With a team score of 401, the Plymouth squad followed Dearborn, 384; Pontiac, 388; and Lansing, 389.

Ty Caplin, a leading golfer on the Plymouth high school team until his graduation last June, placed fourth among the 40 golfers. His individual score was 76. The leading low score was shot by George Wakalsky of Lansing, a 71.

Scores of others on the Plymouth team were: Bill Benjamin, 78; George Kenyon, 85; Elton McAllister, 90; and Jim McAllister 82. Par on the course is 72.

Merchants Suffer Loss to Dietrich

The Plymouth Merchants were defeated for the first time in the consolation playoffs last Sunday as Wayne Dietrich handed the local nine a 5 to 2 setback. Dietrich, is now within one game of the "lower-bracket" title, while Plymouth will have to take two straight wins over Dietrich to emerge on top.

Next Sunday the same two teams play at the Wayne Junior High diamond in a game beginning at two o'clock.

Dietrich jumped off to a four-run lead in the third inning on three hits, a walk and an error. The Merchants came back for a run in the fourth and fifth innings to move within two of tying, but the winners cashed in on a final tally in the seventh to put the game away.

The Merchants started a rally in the last inning when Pappel, the Dietrich hurler, walked three men to load the sacks, but the locals could not muster that key bing and as a result did not score.

Ed Hock hurled for the Merchants and allowed 9 hits. Plymouth got 6 binges off Pappel with Williams, Moers, Collura, Schwartz, Dzurus and Hock each having one safety.

A defeat for Plymouth Sunday will eliminate them from the playoffs, while a victory will mean another game at Riverside Park the following Sunday.

Plymouth's Coach Konrad Moisio Led "High-Jumping" College Career

Resuming the articles begun last spring concerning the sports careers of Plymouth high school coaches, we present this week Konrad Moisio, popular cross-country and ex-track coach.

Another Easterner who has made quite a record as a local high school coach is likeable Konrad Moisio, the capable cross-country and assistant track coach. Coach Moisio began his athletic career in high school at Fitchburg, Massachusetts, where he participated in track and specialized in the high jump event. While in high school, he won the high jump at the Harvard Inter-Scholastic meet and established a state record of 6 feet, which was very good for that day.

After graduation in 1929, Konrad worked in a drafting room until the depression set in, and then came to Detroit to earn some more money so he could enroll at the University of Michigan in 1931. While in Detroit, he participated in the national junior indoor track meet at Olympia and came in third at 6 feet 1 1/2 inches. Michigan's Willis Ward and the future world champion, George Spitz, tied for first at one inch higher.

As a freshman, Coach Moisio established a "Frosh" record at Michigan, and went on to place in every Big Ten track meet for the next three years to become known as the "money jumper" because he seemed to do his best in big meets. His best collegiate jump was made against Illinois when he leaped 6 feet 3 inches. Konrad won the Big Ten indoor title in 1935 with a jump of 6 feet 2 inches. During his undergraduate days his Michigan team won 4 Big Ten track titles either indoors or out.

At the end of his junior year, he was picked to compete on the Finnish-American team to tour Finland in 1934.

Coach Moisio worked his way through college by taking jobs at gas stations, restaurants and fraternity houses. After graduation he accepted a job teaching drawing and shop to the crippled children at the University hospital.

Coach Konrad Moisio

Sport Glances

Coach Konrad Moisio is having his troubles trying to assemble a cross-country team. The squad has been hit by illness and injury. Two of the foremost performers are out at present—Tom Davis, the star miler in track, suffered a broken ankle last July and may not be out, and Bob Middleton is ill.

Plymouth has always been a contender for the title in this sport. The two lads may miss a few dual meets, which do not count in the title, but may be around when the league meet is run of.

The football contest, which became so popular last fall, will again be conducted by this paper and will begin next week. Top games in all sections will appear each week for your fans to try your skill on so get all the dope sheets you can, and start reading up on this year's top teams. As a rule someone will win who knows little about these outfits other than the name. Football is hard to figure out when it comes to picking a winner as so many things may enter into the outcome, such as the weather, home games, homecomings and injuries.

An aid for busy people in the home, office or factory has been developed. It's a telephone which automatically braces against either shoulder, leaving both hands free for writing, sewing, working, etc. It's made of black plastic with foam rubber padding on the shoulder piece and adjusts automatically to all shoulder widths and slopes, snaps onto re-beiter.

Sport Flashes

Smoky Burgess has been leading the National League, in hitting, but he's not the top man—officially. And if he keeps on hitting at his fast clip to the end of the season, he'll still not be top man—officially. That is, unless he can take advantage of a little insert in the rules governing crediting of batters.

To get down to simple fundamentals, a batter to be recognized as the champion must have been at bat officially 400 times. He may be hitting at 50 points more than his nearest rival, but he's not in the running for the batting title unless he can show 400 times at bat. But wait—that's where the tricky little insert in the rules comes in. Boiled down, it's this: If a player has fewer times at bat than required, but still tops the league if charged with 400 times at bat, then he can still win the title.

Let's simplify that with this example: Supposing Burgess, the Phillies' roly poly catcher, ended the season leading the hitters, but had only 390 times at bat. Well, he could charge himself with ten more times up. Then, if his average on that computation put him above other hitters, he would be the champion.

Unfortunately, there's not much hope for that happening to Burgess. Through September 1 he had been at bat officially only 299 times. "I can't even get in the list of the first ten hitters," Burgess complained. "They have me counted out of that, too." When he said it, he was leading the league with a mark of .361.

It would be quite an honor if Smoky could capture the crown. It doesn't go to catchers very often. Only two catchers of modern times have won it, Ernie Lombardi of the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves, and Eugene Hargrave of Cincinnati. Lombardi won it twice, in 1938 with the Reds and in 1942 with the Braves. Hargrave did it in 1926.

Catchers are somewhat at a disadvantage. Many players get hits through their speed in getting to first just an eyelash ahead of the throw. Catchers, however, take some of the speed out of their legs by their constant squatting, getting up, and squatting again. The late Jimmie Wilson of the Cardinals was an example of that. When he first got into baseball, he was extremely fast, but a few years of hopping up and down behind the plate took that extra speed away.

Burgess' high batting average is a great tribute to his own courage and his determination to lead his own life. He's roly poly, as we said before. Every manager or owner he has worked for has insisted that he take off weight. Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies, made him promise to go on a diet last winter and take off 20 pounds.

Smoky took off ten, and he said it hurt him. "One thing I love to do," he said, "is eat. Even the loss of ten pounds made me weak as a cat. I'm naturally round—not fat—and when I take off weight I take off muscle. The result of dieting away ten pounds was that when I reported for spring training I was so weak I couldn't hit my weight. I felt terrible. I called my doctor and he insisted that I get off the diet."

"So," Smoky went on, "I started eating. And when I started eating, I started hitting." He's right. One look at his current batting average will prove that.

Among the major countries producing railroad equipment, the United States ranks first in output of locomotives and freight cars while the United Kingdom leads in passenger car production.

The District of Columbia led all states in per capita income in 1950, followed by Delaware, Nevada and New York.

their winning trophies. League play was terminated two weeks ago. The matches were held Wednesday evenings at Hilltop with local merchants sponsoring the teams.

Chips from the ROCK

Members of the V.F.W. auxiliary had the swiss steak and potatoes already for 100 people they were serving a banquet to last Wednesday night when they were suddenly informed they were one week early with their preparations. Not willing to take a licking for their efforts they put on a hurried telephone campaign inviting all comers to enjoy the dinner, all they could eat for a dollar and a half, and when all the food was gone found they had served slightly over 100 people and added $53.00 in profit to their treasury.

Modesty may keep some people from wanting their heroic acts known, as in this case, but this columnist has a habit of publishing things the way he sees or hears them and we take our hat off to young Bob Willoughby for pulling a drowning attorney from Wayne out of a northern lake a few days back.

As unusual as it may seem a Plymouth Mail lost ad didn't recover the Jerry Pease electric waxer and polisher which was put in the wrong car by mistake a week or two ago. Through the mention in this column, however, Pontiac dealer Dutch Atchinson was relieved to find the rightful home for the strange waxer he found in the back seat of his sporty Pontiac which had been parked in front of the paint store when it was placed in the wrong automobile.

Lee Gatke was mighty proud of his effort in getting John and Wilford Bunyca's old fashioned steam engine in operation last Sunday but he spent more time during the day talking about the wonderful, old fashioned chicken and biscuit, farm dinner Mrs. Bunyca served to all who were on hand for the event.

Mrs. Edwin Scott, a good cook in her own right, says she has fun reading the menus presented each week by local housewives and tries many of them with good results in her own kitchen. However she takes The Mail's homemaker editor to task for a couple of slips in the last few weeks. In Mrs. Edwin Reber's date nut bread recipe we said beat the eggs but forgot to say how many. In Mrs. James Riley's banana nut bread recipe we forgot to tell what kind of flour and when to add the cup of nuts. For Mrs. Scott's information and other local housewives we might say our homemaker editor promises to try each recipe herself and if she finds anything missing in the future she guarantees to add it to the recipe in the paper.

Detroit papers made a big noise about the 200 Michigan Bell telephone trucks and 375 men sent to Boston where they would take off for Portland, Maine to help restore telephone lines downed by hurricane Edna, but they failed to mention the one press agent sent along to cover the job for the press and radio. Of local interest is the fact that the press agent was Arthur Meyers, one of Plymouth's newer residents who resides at 1115 Dewey street.

A few weeks ago Mayor Russell Daane took time off to explain why things always fall down rather than up to his four year old son Arthur and enlightened him on the subject of gravity. Last Friday morning as the mayor finished his dressing, the back of his Rotary pin fell to the floor in his bedroom and couldn't be found by himself nor his wife, and Arthur quietly announced as the search was given up that probably "gravity" had taken it.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal, is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question: "We would like to get some more opinions on a question we asked three months ago. In your opinion, what improvements do you think Plymouth needs most?"

RIP COLLINS, 546 Roe: "Main street, I would say, is our biggest needed improvement. People coming in from Detroit see Main street and get a bad impression of our city. Our parking situation could be improved upon too."

SIDNEY STRONG, 1251 Williams (Planning commission chairman): "Widening of Main street is our biggest need, but the city is already planning to do something about that. There are many things I could go into detail about. Expansion of our water facilities and sewer system are two important items."

MRS. NINA BLUNK, 272 Pacific: "I think we need to improve upon our streets. Plymouth's streets are in as poor a condition as you can find in any community and yet we try to pride ourselves for being an up and coming town. I also think we should have a city-wide water softening system. I have my own water softening system now."

JAMES GREENWOOD, postman: "I live in Livonia right now but I want to move here sometime. I can't see anything too wrong with the city, I like it here. This green crosswalk idea is a good one and I think they should have it at every busy intersection."

Roger Babson Says

BABSON DISCUSSES BUSINESS ETHICS

Babson Park, Massachusetts. I wonder how many of my readers have been misled lately by the rash of exaggerated claims and bait advertising on radio, television, and in certain magazines. Yes, and in mail-order advertising also.

EXAGGERATION MAGNIFIQUENT!

How glowing should the adjectives be that a company uses to describe its product? When do these superlatives trespass upon the bounds of good taste? How far can the truth be stretched and still resemble credibility? At what point does the customer lose his faith not just in some product, but in businessmen as a whole? All gasolines can't be the best! All tobaccos can't be the mildest! All cars can't give the greatest number of miles per gallon. All detergents can't wash the whitest. Or, is something happening to the English language—or to our ethics, maybe?

Take toothpaste, for example. First, it was ammoniated; then it was chlorophylled; tomorrow, it will be fluoridated! And, at this point the American Dental Association doesn't think it at all funny. The doctors have been carrying on their own research with the claims of various manufacturers. Their findings were keynoted at their 94th Annual Convention when they said that any inference that ammoniated or chlorophylled cleaners are effective against decay is pure speculation. Certain sales and advertising claims were branded as "ridiculous" and recommendations were made that they be considered by the Pure Food & Drug Administration.

CERTAIN AUTOMOBILE SALESMEN

Complaints about bait advertising are currently flooding Better Business Bureaus across the country. Only a short time ago our Secretary of the Interior made a blistering attack on the ethics of automobile salesmen in a declining market. Boldly dishonest and scarehead advertising has appeared in recent weeks from coast to coast.

Unfortunately, even a few large-city, thoroughly reliable newspapers have been used to promote questionable ethical practices. For instance, one electrical appliance was recently advertised for sale. Salesmen were instructed to use the "on sale" merely as bait. The sales technique was to upgrade the customer to a more expensive model. If the salesman failed to do this, and was forced to sell the "on sale" model to his customer, he was fined. This fine was placed in a kitty and was given to the salesman who sold the greatest number of the more expensive models. The sales manager who conceived this kind of sales gimmick either has a hole in his head, or ought, maybe, to have one put there!

There is nothing that will kill a customer's faith faster in a company or a product than that kind of misrepresentation.

ETHICS AND DISCOUNTS

"Bootlegging" is not always a fair term. What is illegal about an honest laissez-faire policy? Free trade has always been held to be both legal and beneficial, and the law of the land has heretofore protected this free enterprise. It strikes me that the kind of selling that some people are calling "bootlegging" or "discounting" may be more in keeping with American free enterprise than price-fixing and the legislation of profit margins. However, I may be wrong.

These are times to weigh advertising, to question certain salesmen, and to buy cautiously. A buyer's market does not mean the end of good business or of good business ethics. It does mean, apparently, that the boys in business will try the tricks of boys. The true businessmen will survive because they know that a fair deal, courteous service, and honesty today are bound to return in the form of loyal customers and better sales tomorrow.

Ninety per cent of the newspapers know this and are seeking to help such honest businessmen. These newspapers turn down all advertising which they feel will not benefit their readers. Yet, these newspapers like dollars as well as you do. I appeal to you to help support these local papers in every possible way.

Mail Readers May Participate in Babson Election Poll

Readers of The Plymouth Mail will never again be able to say, "Nobody has ever polled me in a national election survey." This common complaint will be eliminated by this paper's co-operation in the forthcoming Babsonpoll, conducted by Babson's Washington Service, a Washington newsletter founded over two decades ago by the noted economist, Roger W. Babson.

All of our readers are invited to participate in the poll by filling out the ballot printed on this page and sending it to Babson's Washington Service, Warner Building, Washington 4, D. C. Bi-weekly analyses of the results of this nationwide poll will be reported exclusively in your area in The Plymouth Mail starting two weeks from today.

The Babsonpoll was devised in early 1952 by the Babson Organization to eliminate the questionable features of ordinary straw balloting. Instead of giving primary importance to the total number of straw ballots for each candidate, the Babsonpoll uses a statistical method to compute the degree of switch-voting from the pattern established in the previous election.

This new method was spectacularly successful when it was first used in predicting the outcome of the Presidential election in November 1952. Prior to that election, the Babsonpoll flatly forecast an Eisenhower landslide—even naming the four states which the General would take in the South.

The Babsonpoll will apply the same statistical principles to the problem of predicting the results of this fall's congressional elections. Based on a long study of election trends in all of the nation's congressional districts, Babson analysts have come up with a list of 167 districts in which a political turnover appears to be at least a possibility.

The remaining 268 House seats are considered safe for the incumbent party. In this group, Babson predicts that not more than two or three seats will change hands as the results of surprising upsets.

While it is probable that only a small number of the 167 doubtful districts actually will change hands, comprehensive surveys will be made in each of these districts in an attempt to gauge the direction of the political wind.

Polled by the Babson Organization will also be widespread in 17 states having senatorial contests in which the outcome appears even remotely in doubt. These include a total of eight seats presently held by Republicans in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Michigan, Kentucky, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, and California, and nine seats which Democrats now hold in Rhode Island, Delaware, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Colorado, and New Mexico.

The first Babsonpoll report will be published in The Plymouth Mail on September 30—two weeks from today. Meanwhile, readers of voting age are urged to submit their ballots by mail, according to instructions at the bottom of the ballot. Each individual is asked to send in only one ballot between now and Election Day. The ballot form will be reprinted next week so that additional members of your family—who are of voting age—may also participate in the poll.

Relationship with federal government. If Don S. Leonard, Republican candidate, should be elected, it will help Michigan at the national level. He will be able to negotiate in a more "harmonious atmosphere" on behalf of the state. This is the argument of the GOP. If Gov. G. Mennen Williams is reelected to a fourth term, he can fight for Michigan's needs without concern for embarrassment to the national Republican administration.

Campaign finances. Democrats will be forced to admit that they have access to some $700,000 raised by CIO for electioneering. But they prefer to talk about the encouraging increased contributions of individuals, particularly in the rural areas. They will, of course, strongly deny a sell out to

MICHIGAN MIRROR

CAMPAIGN ISSUES are clearly defined for the November 2 election. Both Republicans and Democrats will be arguing about the same points; but from opposite sides.

Independent voters, or those who are "sitting on the fence" can weigh the logic of the politicians. Outcome of the election will probably depend on their decision. Listed below are some main issues.

Economic conditions. GOP will show that the Democrat "prophecies of doom" were wrong in predicting depression; produce reliable figures to show that this year represents a successful shift from a war to a peace time economy. Statistics will show that 1954 is second best in the nation's history. Democrats will pounce on "second best", claiming that every year must be a best. The Republican approach has lacked boldness, they will charge.

Harmony in government. Republicans will argue that the governor and the legislature should be of the same party for maximum efficiency. They will point the record of incumbent administrative officers and predict that even more could be accomplished if there were a Republican governor to work with, instead of hamper, the House, the Senate, lieutenant governor, the treasurer, auditor general, attorney general and secretary of state.

"Maybe so," Democrats will concede. But they'll be quick to point out that history doesn't verify this argument. Neither Sigler or Kelly, they claim was a strong popular leader when holding the top post with Republican governments.

Democrats will also question that there will be a Republican House after November 2. They have the idea voters will send so many of their candidates to the Capitol that there will be a Democratic majority.

Farm situation. Democrats will charge that Republican policies have resulted in hardship for the state's farmers, particularly the small farmer. Claiming that Michigan Farm Bureau and some other organizations represent only the large farmer, they will call for a reversal of present policies in agriculture.

Republicans will explain that change from the previous administration takes time; that their solution to the problem is the only sound one; that farmers are not suffering from their moves but from the aftermath of the Democratic regime.

GOP will define a "small" farmer as one who farms as a sideline but earns his living in a city; Democrats will say a "small" farmer is one who is unable to exist on the farm and must seek city work in order to supplement his "reduced" income.

unionized labor because of the CIO-PAC money. Republicans, on the other hand, will claim financial poverty. They are steadfast in their denial that "big" money is being advanced for party use.

Personalities. Republicans will make much of the "unknowns" on the Democratic ticket; charge that they are all riding the coattails of Gov. Williams. Democrats will argue that their candidates are all keen men who have successful backgrounds in business or professional life. They will say they are not "professional politicians who have been running for office for years."

Chocolate Cake Recipe

Everyone likes a really good chocolate cake recipe, and here's one that's really tops. It's a favorite with the Harry Christensen family, 382 Irvin, formerly belonging to Mrs. Christensen's sister-in-law of Twin Falls, Idaho. Mrs. Christensen says she especially likes the cake because it's a simple one to bake, and is always nice and moist.

Chocolate Cake

- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 2 cups flour
- 2 squares chocolate
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 teaspoon soda

Blend sugar and shortening. Add eggs. Blend vinegar with the milk and add to the batter. Blend in flour and chocolate. Add boiling water to which soda has been added. Bake 350° about 45 minutes.

Frosting

Melt one square chocolate and add three tablespoons of top cream and a good generous tablespoon of butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 pinch of salt, 1 1/4 cups of confectioner's sugar or a little more to make it of spreading consistency.

New Books at Dunning Library

Sixteen novels now grace the library's "new book" shelf, as a result of its latest shipment. Among these is an historical novel, "Don't Tread on Me" by Captain Walter Karig, U.S.N. This novel covers the exploits of Commodore John Paul Jones.

Other books with historical settings are, Suzanne Butler's "Vale of Tyranny," which takes place in the Welsh border country around the middle of the last century. Adventure awaits the reader of "A Caravan to Camul" by John Clou, with its story concerning the days of Jenghiz Khan in Asia.

Frontier village life of the 1850's in America is brought to life in Herbert Krause's "The Oxcart Trail," and Dexter Allen's "Jaguar and the Golden Stag" is a novel of the 15th century land of what is now Mexico. Logan Forster's "Proud Land" concerns the Apache Indian Wars.

The days of Robespierre's rule in France forms the setting for Willa Gibbs' "The Twelfth Physician," and "Brave Pursuit" by Marguerite Allis is a tale written against a backdrop of Ohio frontier days.

Also in the list of new fiction is a psychological novel by Shirley Jackson entitled, "The Bird's Nest." In this same vein is Thomas Mann's "Black Swan." Two short novels by the English writer, Enid Bagnold, are compiled in one volume, "The Girl's Journey." The days of early New Mexico set the scene for Harvey Ferguson's "The Conquest of Don Pedro."

Once again Albert Segal writes of South Africa in "Johannesburg Friday," a novel about the events which happen to a family of this city during one day. An adventure on Cape Cod is related in Sara Ware Bassett's new book, "Adrift."

Robert Tallant puts his humorous touch to his latest novel, "Mrs. Candy Strikes It Rich," and "The Old Baxter Place" by McElfresh is a mystery novel.

New Amendments In Social Security Affect Families

The sweeping new amendments to the Social Security Act, signed into law September 1 by President Eisenhower, will affect almost every family in the Livonia, Plymouth, and Northville area, according to Harry Baltuck, district manager of the Detroit-Northwest social security office.

The amendments contain the following major provisions:

1. Beginning January 1, 1955, Social Security coverage is extended to about 10 million more persons. New groups to be covered by social security include self-employed farm operators, accountants, architects, professional engineers and funeral directors. Many farm workers and household employees who did not meet requirements for coverage will now be included under the law. Other groups such as ministers, and state and local government employees under a retirement system may elect to come under old-age and survivors insurance.
2. Increased benefits are provided for the 6 1/2 million persons now receiving payments and for those who qualify in the future as retired workers age 65 and over or as survivors of deceased workers.
3. Beginning January 1, 1955, persons aged 72 and over may receive payments regardless of the amount of their earnings. Those under 72 may earn $1,200.00 a year without losing payments.
4. Starting January 1, 1955, persons who are or become disabled for 6 months or more can have their earnings record "frozen." Then the period of disability does not have to be counted in figuring their average earnings for social security payments. This means a higher benefit when the worker retires at 65 or later.
5. Future benefits may be figured by dropping out up to 4 or 5 years of low or no earnings under Social Security. This results in a higher average wage and a higher payment.
6. Covered earnings up to $4,200.00 a year will be subject to Social Security tax starting with 1955.

New Plymouth Teachers To Appear in Mail Series

Pictures of new teachers in the Plymouth Township School system are again appearing in The Mail this fall, the first of which is shown above.

Eighteen new teachers were hired by the Board of Education to fill vacancies for newly-created positions this fall. Of this number, four are in the high school and junior high and the remainder are in elementary schools.

For some of the 18, it was their first teaching experience. Others come here with experience gained elsewhere. A few returned to teaching after an absence of several years.

The Mail started last year to publish pictures of new teachers. A cameraman and camerawoman went again this year from school to school to picture the new teachers at out-of-class activities.

The three teaching positions created this year bring the school administration and faculty up to 131. This is the largest in local school history.

In today's picture, Mrs. Fenske, the new kindergarten teacher, is a graduate of Albion college. Shirley Krueger, third grade, graduated from the University of Michigan. Mrs. Hurtik, a resident of Plymouth and a former teacher at Starkweather, was hired to fill a last-minute second grade vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Lois Dorfman. The new speech correctionist, Edna Yantis, is also a U. of M. graduate.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

There are so many creams and lotions on the market today, with wondrous claims of what their regular use will do for your appearance, that one could quite easily be left bankrupt—if one believed even half of the glowing reports.

Anyone taking seriously the fact that youth and beauty can come from a bottle, is in for a sad let-down. Many of the new cosmetics can improve the complexion. The creams can prolong the youthful appearance of the skin.

However, the truth is that most of the descriptive passages are exaggerated. A good example of this is the reports of what the hormone creams were going to accomplish. Some cosmetic houses had women believing that, when used as directed, (this was quite often in conjunction with one or two of their other products) age lines and wrinkles would be greatly reduced or fade completely.

A short time ago, one of the outstanding testing laboratories in the country, with no axe to grind, came out in print with a different story. The report, a result of twelve years study, stated that hormone creams did help retard the aging of the skin. After six to twelve weeks of use, the results could clearly be seen under a microscope but not by the naked eye.

This may sound terribly discouraging to those women who had such high hopes for the costly hormone creams. However, the best way to look at the test results, is to be thankful you live in an age when even a slight retarding of the signs of age are possible.

The best advice in the world is to learn to grow old gracefully. Take sensible care of yourself but don't allow it to become an end in itself.

The ancient Egyptians so valued the beauty or rare woods, which they had to export at great expense, that they invented the art of veneering to make beautiful woods cover more surface.

This Cheese-Cake Deserves an Oscar!

The Greeks had a word for it! The Romans called it "tyropitina"! It's cheese-cake to us! Hollywood, of course, invented the pin-up variety—but the edible sweet of the same name is possibly the oldest formal dessert in the world—the recorded favorite of Socrates, Lucullus, Apicius, and gourmets from then 'til now.

One would think that with all this distinguished history behind it, every culinary secret involved with making cheese-cake would long since have been explored—and no more surprises left to it. But not!

As new as today's headlines, here's an entirely new and most exciting member of the aristocratic cheese cake family—the first of its kind—CHOCOLATE Cheese Cake. The recipe is the creation, after many years of research, of the Sealtest Kitchens, New York City.

Chocolate Cheese Cake
 1 five oz. pkg. vanilla wafers
 6 tbs. melted butter
 3 cups cottage cheese (sieved)
 3 eggs
 1/2 cup sugar
 3 tbs. heavy cream
 1/4 cup sifted flour
 1 tbs. salt
 1 tbs. vanilla
 1/4 cup cocoa

METHOD: Roll vanilla wafers into fine crumbs; mix with 3 tbs. of the melted butter. Press with back of spoon on sides and bottom of round 8" by 2" glass baking dish.

Sieve cottage cheese into large bowl. Add the remaining 3 tbs. melted butter; stir until blended.

Beat eggs (yolks and whites together) until thick and fluffy. Add sugar gradually, a tbs. at a time, beating to blend after each addition. Add this mixture, and flour, salt, vanilla, and cocoa to sieved cottage cheese. Fold in until well blended.

Four mixture into crust. Bake in slow oven, 300° F., 45 mins. Turn off heat. Leave cake in oven 30 minutes longer with door closed. Do not open oven door up to this point. Now open oven door just a crack. Leave it that way for one hour longer. This helps to prevent falling. Remove cake gently from oven. Continue to cool on a rack, then chill in refrigerator before serving.

Serve in the glass baking dish garnished with sweetened whipped cream sprinkled with slivers of milk or bitter chocolate.

Gives Pointers to Homemakers On "A-B-C's" of Freezing Foods

Early American settlers depended on freezers fashioned by nature to protect their foods. Circular storage cellars in Colonial homes were designed to insure uniform temperature during the winter months. The appearance of frost in the fall was the signal for foods to be placed in cellars for the winter.

Today's American homemakers, too, are freezer-conscious. But they don't have to depend on capricious Mother Nature. About a third of them are taking advantage of frozen foods—using home freezers, lockers, or refrigerator compartments—and the number is growing daily. A knowledge of the "A-B-C's" of home freezing can make the job easier and the results more satisfying.

In buying beef for the freezer keep in mind your family's size and eating habits. Many homemakers like to buy their meat in quarters or wholesale cuts, such as a whole round, rib, chuck or loin. Others prefer to take advantage of special prices on the individual cuts their families like best.

Either method will lessen the pressure on the family pocket-book while providing for good eating in the months to come.

Chuck and rolled rump roasts make particularly good use of freezer space because they have little or no bone.

Do buy roasts in the size suited to your family. Remember, though, that it is best to buy roasts weighing three pounds or more since there is less shrinkage in proportion to size during cooking.

Buy By Grade

Be fussy about the beef you buy for freezing. Freezing will protect the original quality, but it cannot improve it.

Government grading is your best guide to quality unless you are a meat expert, which most aren't! The grades are U.S. Prime, Choice, Good, Commercial, Utility, and Cutter and Canner. Most favored, of course, are Prime, Choice, and Good.

U.S. Prime, however, is seldom found in retail markets. It has a very high percentage of fat, and is produced in very small amounts, mostly for premium-price restaurants.

Watch for the outside covering of creamy white fat, the "marbling" of fat running through the lean part of the meat, deep red color, and fine grain. These are all signs of high quality beef.

The amount and quality of fat decreases along with the grade. In the lower grades, fat will be yellow in color and found on the outside of the cut only; there is little or no marbling of fat through the lean part of the meat.

Special Wrap

Special freezer wrapping material (moisture-vapor - proof) should be used to protect meats. Prepackaged meats from self-service meat departments may be kept in the freezer for a week or two in their original wrapping, but must be overwrapped in the special freezer covering if they are to be kept for longer periods.

Many food markets are now providing wrapping and labeling as a part of the store's service to customers. Take advantage of it if they do.

When wrapping, use a "drug-store" or double fold on the covering to insure a tight closing. Seal the end of the flaps with freezer locker tape.

China marking pencils may be used to label meat packages. You will want to know the kind, cut, and weight of roasts, and the number of chops or steaks in a package. Marking the date on each package of meat will help you to use it in the order it is frozen—first in, first out!

Beef, properly wrapped and held at a uniform, near-zero temperature, may be kept in the home freezer for six to eight months.

Season Before Freezing
 Because ground beef must be completely thawed before it can be seasoned for hamburgers, meat loaf, or meat balls, it's a good idea to add seasoning, except onion, before freezing. The onion flavor becomes too strong when not used immediately.

Mold into desired shape, package in family-size units, wrap, label, date and freeze. Cook from the frozen or partially-thawed stage—and do away with the worry about remembering to re-

 3/4 tablespoons brown sugar
 3 cups corn flakes

Cook sweetened condensed milk and brown sugar in top of double boiler over boiling water until thick. Remove from fire and add corn flakes, mixing thoroughly. Drop from spoon to greased cookie sheet, about one inch apart. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven 10 to 13 minutes.

Cafe, Tier Curtains Add Charm to Rooms in Home

Cafe and tier curtains are high style and popular today for use in all rooms of the home. They are easy to care for, can be gay and casual, trim and tailored, or truly elegant. They are smart over the lower half of wide windows where maximum light is desired, and are the best solution for a recessed window with broad sill. At any window, they are a beautiful foil for draperies. They come ready made in 30- or 36-inch length and are designed in a wide range of decorative fabrics in solid colors and prints.

Easy to Make

The home decorator will also find it easy to make her own, in fabric to suit the decor. Here are some helpful pointers from the stylists: prints should be in small or medium-small patterns. Glazed chintz in solid colors, candy-stripe stripes, or Tiffany gold stripes, make smart curtains for the living room. The new Charron cloth, a finely ribbed, color-fast chrom-spun fabric of elegance, is also handsome; birchback in an impressionistic Sticks and Stones design or an abstract Catalan print of small eccentric ovals is right for a modern room. Charming for a traditional bedroom is unglazed chintz in one of the lovely Early American Heritage prints, especially with matching bedspread. For the boy's room, cotton tweed is good looking and suitable. For kitchen, pantry and breakfast nook, there is 36-inch sandcrepe in whimsical patterns like Fruit Salad, Market Place, or Boston Ricker.

How to Hang Them

Cafe curtains are hung on the rods by rings, but tier curtains have a top casing and are finger-shirred on the rod. Cafe curtains can be used over the lower pane only, or over both panes. Tier curtains are hung two pairs to the window, to form tiers.

How to Make Them

For both types, make side hems narrow and bottom hems two or three inches deep. Tier curtains have a top hem divided by a row of stitching into a ruching (an inch or less) and a comfortable casing for the rod.

For cafe curtains, you have three choices. Make a hem and attach rings at 3- or 4-inch intervals, with a ring at each corner. Or buy cafe-curtain tape with loops already in; turn raw curtain edge down on right side; cover with tape; sew tape in place. For the conventional scalloped tops, make a paper pattern of 3- or 4-inch scallops and use it as a guide in cutting curtain scallops. For facing, use a fabric strip about one inch deeper than the scallops. Lay facing and curtain with right sides together, and scallop points touching edge of facing. Follow scallop outline and make 3/8 inch joining seam. Turn strip over; press scalloped seam; hem bottom of facing to curtain.

Forget weather! With an electric dryer you simply flip a switch for fluffy dry clothes.

The BEST REASON in the world to buy an Electric Clothes Dryer

Timely Tips
 It's a wise homemaker who knows the tricks of her trade. Here are a few to add to your collection and help make your chores easier for you.

Separating egg whites from yolks can be done in a jiffy. Just break the egg in a small funnel. The whites will go through... the yolks won't.

Before scalding milk, wipe the bottom and sides of the pan with butter. The milk won't scorch and the pan will be easier to clean.

A folded damp cloth placed under a mixing bowl keeps it from slipping and speeds mixing.

To soften butter quickly, heat an earthenware bowl by filling it with boiling water, then empty it and place it upside down over the butter.

Why let the weather tell you when to do the wash? An electric clothes dryer is ready any time, weather or not, to dry clothes softer than line drying ever did! And it provides heat as clean as the sun's.

It'll work for you. Then you'll never wash for or worry about drying weather again.

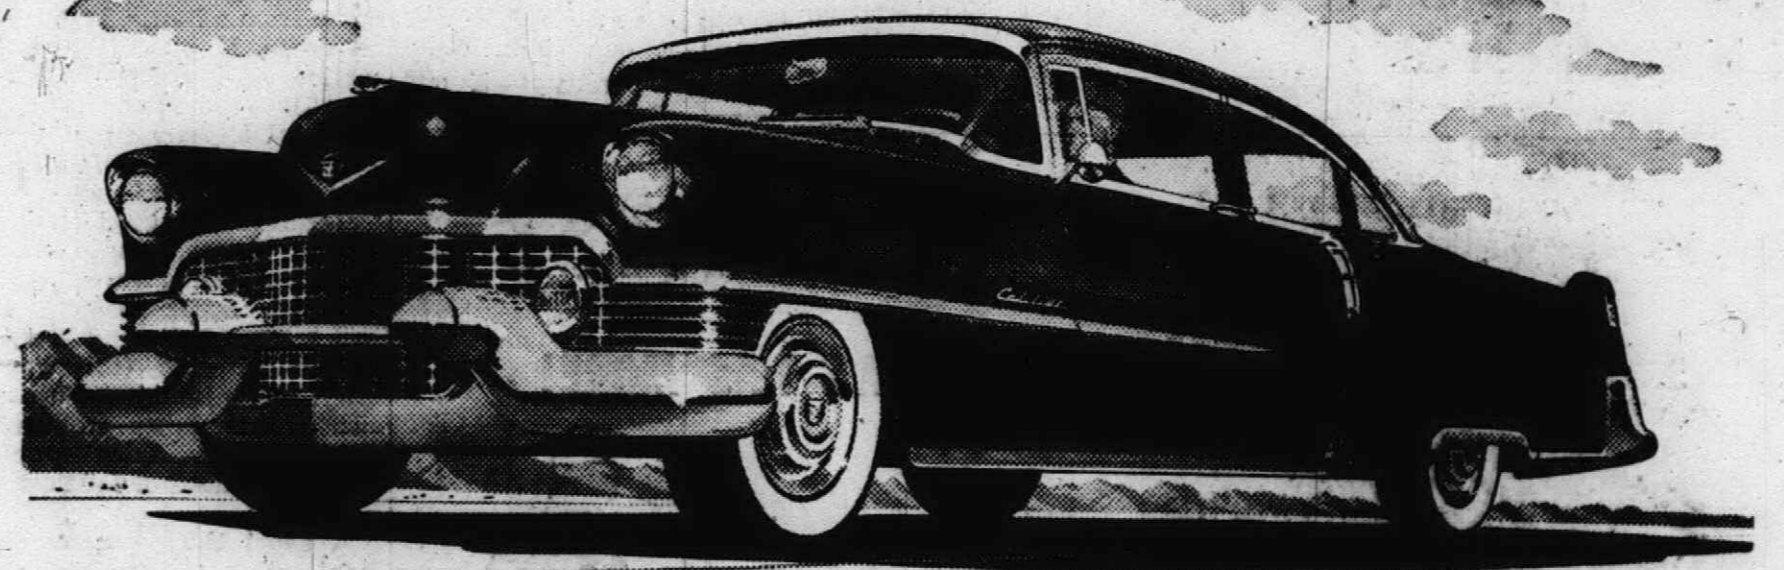

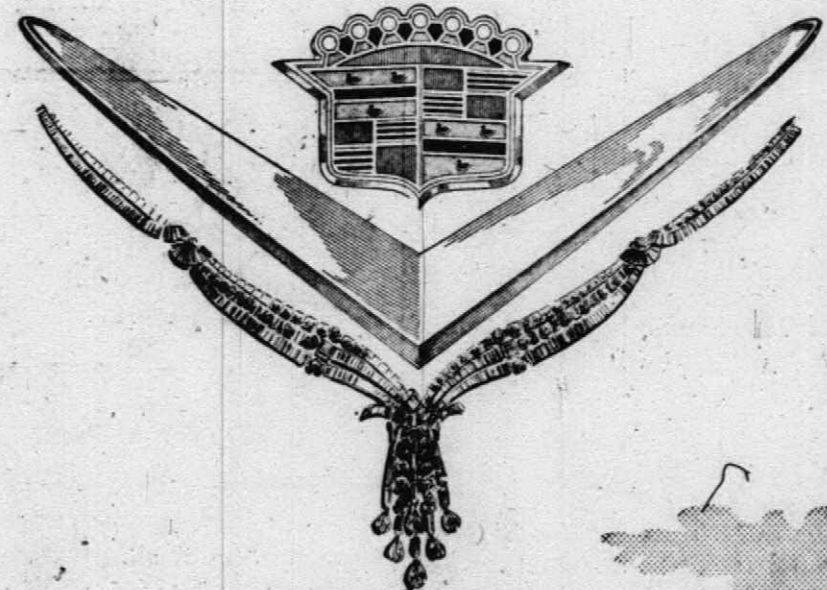

Put an electric clothes dryer (remember, it's the cleanest, most modern dryer there)

It's easy...

All you need do is slide behind the wheel of a new 1954 Cadillac—and head for the open highway.

That great Cadillac engine introduces you to a new measure of power and performance. It takes even the most challenging hills in easy stride—and sweeps you out of a difficult traffic situation with only the slightest pressure on the accelerator.

Cadillac's improved Hydra-Matic Drive is unbelievably responsive and silken and smooth—and takes you from a standing start to your desired rate of speed in one continuous flow of power.

You guide the car with only a feather-light touch on the wheel. It seems almost to follow the weight of your hand around the corners—and it takes you over the winding highway as if it were reading your mind.

Vision is so wide and clear that a single, sweeping glance acquaints you with traffic on every hand. Braking is unbelievably sure and easy. And you ride in such comfort and quiet that you seem to be resting in your favorite easy chair.

Yes, it's an education to take the wheel of a 1954 Cadillac—an education in all the good and wonderful things of motordom.

So stop in any time—slip into the driver's seat—and head for your favorite stretch of highway. You're in for the greatest surprise of your motoring life!

To the Editor:

Another Letter from "John Pilgrim"

Well folks I see where The Editor of this paper, after what I consider a little too much hemming and hawing, took the trial balloon I released into the literary stratosphere and ran it in last week's MAIL, kindly suggesting that I follow it up with more of the same.

I was a little surprised when The Editor cautioned you readers to take anything I said with a grain of salt, and that the publication would not be responsible for whatever trouble I might get into, just simply because he never heard of me and we were not listed in the telephone book yet nor known to the police department. If anybody wants to look us up I would have them know our name appears on the tax roll because we own our own home and it is all paid for, not to mention the improvements we have made since we came.

Shucks, I'll bet there's any number of real nice families here that use the neighbors' phones and have no police record whatsoever, and are not even on the subscription list of THE MAIL (because they buy it every week at Kroger's or the A & P or the S & S or somewhere) with whom The Editor is not acquainted with personally. Plymouth is too big for any one person, even an Editor, to know everybody. Furthermore, if we had been told you have to be listed in Plymouth's Who's Who in order to be privileged to express a few honest opinions in your own home-town paper we probably never would have moved here.

When we lived in Detroit I was always writing good suggestions to the papers there, and I can assure you that the mere fact that they usually weren't printed had little or nothing to do with our leaving and coming here where one would suppose up-to-date, metropolitan ideas would be eagerly accepted and unquestioned no matter who sent them in or how they were signed. But I am old enough to know how to roll with the punch, as the boxers say, and to make allowances. But I have no intentions of being influenced by the whims of any Editor, but will lay it right on the line as I see it, without fear or flavor, I always say.

Mother, of course, says The Editor is smarter than me or else he wouldn't be the owner of a big newspaper, which I am not. But my private opinion is that he is afflicted with a touch of professional jealousy because in addition to editing he writes some, too, and what writer would relish to play second fiddle to another writer right in his own paper? His warning to everyone to be sure to "count their change" after reading my observations might be his idea of a good joke on me, and if so, why ha ha, and I will have a joke on him sometime, you watch and see.

Well, enough of this spitting, as I am sure you would much rather read about some of our adventures as newcomers in a strange town; how its somewhat surprising peculiarities gradually grew to seem reasonable and fitting; how our shopping habits, at first the result of pure chance or simply haphazard, began to jell; how we have almost mastered the local geography, including the recently discovered short-cut into the park from Mill Street (or is it Lilley Road? Doggone if I know which name it goes by at the point of junction). And which direction Main Street runs, depending on where you are. We now know it travels under the assumed name of Plymouth Road the minute it gets out of town, like the way I understand some people register at hotels when their business is of a private nature and don't hanker to be identified. And we've finally learned to distinguish between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail. This was a puzzler.

The village siren still fools us every now and then, around the middle of the day. The author was originally a small town boy and never missed a fire, so naturally I hustled over to the fire hall the first few noons I heard the whistle blow, and got the horse laugh, till I got onto the way to tell a genuine fire from high noon. Now when she tunes up I wait a minute till the Volunteer Firemen that live farther out come high-balling past our house in their cars to get their hats and attend in a body and then I follow the hook and ladder at a respectful distance, unless I can see the blaze from our house in which case I get there first. But if it is only the daily dinner whistle, why then most of the same cars go past the house the other way, hitting her up even faster, Mother thinks. And that is how we found out what the siren means. They had no such thing in Detroit. When it blows there it's an air raid.

The noon edition of the whistle is generally right on the dot and Mother (that's my wife, incidentally) often corrects our clock by it. My turnip was seven minutes fast the other day and

I thought the sirengineer had slipped up. He blew it kind of soft and low as if he hoped nobody would hear it too good, and I said to myself that's just what I would do if I was in his place and miscalculated the time. Nobody makes much noise about his own mistakes. I have observed, and I figured maybe the valve stuck or something at 12 and it took him 7 minutes to get her working. But Mother convinced me it was right on the dot with the whistle she always sets it by, and she would be a hard one to convince that both her ticker and the Official Whistle of the City of Plymouth could both be wrong simultaneously. So I am having the accommodating jeweler in the Mayflower Block give it a good overhauling. My watch, I mean—not the whistle.

Speaking of Plymouth, we think one of the nicest things about the place is the fine class of people here. Back there in Detroit where we moved here from, a lady didn't hardly dare go out on the street for a walk after supper for fear she might be accosted or something. Here, Mother very often takes a late evening stroll downtown before we go to bed. She likes to window-shop wherever the lights are still lit. Incidentally, fellow husbands, that is the very safest time of day to take one's wife into the shopping district. I mean after the stores are closed. But seriously, one never sees any bums or suspicious characters hanging around dark corners here, day or night, and little kids are safe to send to the store alone, too. That is really something, thinks I.

What brought this to mind was a little squib in Jim Ransom's column. Possibly some of my readers do not take the Detroit paper too, and as I thought it might make us all a little bit more contented with Plymouth, I copied it down, as follows:

POLICE COULD HAVE a field day with the panhandlers operating on Lafayette between Wayne and Second.

Apparently they have branched out from usual "Skid Row" haunts, two blocks away, and are clogging streets and sidewalks along the stretch of Lafayette.

We love it in Plymouth, like I said, but there is one thing I think could be improved and that is what I will delicately describe as emergency comfort facilities in the heart of the city. Everybody knows there is no sign more instantly appealing to the human eye, at certain times, than one that says "Gentlemen," or I imagine "Ladies", if a person happens to be of the opposite sex. I and Mother have both commented on the absence of rest rooms here, and we think the City Fathers might well take under advisement the matter of providing one or more appropriately functional structures, designed, of course, in the early colonial architecture that is Plymouth's trade mark, but of course with interior arrangements that would be somewhat more on the modern order, if you know what I mean. The saloon trade has no place to go because the voters voted no, and the gas stations are quite a walk especially if you are I and Mother's age or a youngster who might be a mite impulsive or absent-minded.

Mr. Glassford, the city manager, could put a coin-operated turnstile at the door and a parking meter out in front and I'll bet you it would soon pay for itself, and even attract some out-of-town trade, and reduce taxes.

Speaking of parking, we drove out to Northland last week and while they have acres and acres of parking space, we forgot to take down the section letter and aisle number where we left Nellie (we call our car Nellie) and were half an hour finding her when we wanted to start back home. And as for rest rooms out there, why Plymouth is chuck full of them, by comparison. I finally got information as to where one was and it was so far from where I left Mother that by the time I went there and got back I'll be darned if I didn't have to turn right around and go back there again. Why, that tarnation place is bigger than the World's Fair grounds at Chicago, which we attended, and our feet hurt us about as bad as they did then. But it's really quite a sight and everybody ought to see it once before they pass on, like the Grand Canyon and Niagara, which, incidentally, we have seen.

Howsomever, we calculate that, all things considered, the handy Plymouth stores will suit us better, day in and day out. For my part I like to trade with the proprietor, like you can usually do here if it is important.

Well, I don't want to make the Editor have to add another whole section to the paper, because there's always another week and another chance to visit. Drive careful. The blood you give may be your own, I always say.
