Reject House Trailer Park In Township

A proposal to construct a 100-unit trailer park in Plymouth township brought a flood of protests from property owners during a public hearing before the township board last Thursday night. The hearing resulted in the rejection of the plan.

Nearly 150 persons crowded into township hall to hear the attorney of Clyde Smith, president of Smith Motor Sales, Inc., tell about the proposal to build a modern trailer court along Ridge road, between Territorial and Five Mile roads. It would cost an estimated $60,000.

After listening to 72 citizens object to the trailer park and to one citizen supporting it, the township board went into session and announced that it was rejecting Smith's petition to allow the camp. Among the reasons given by the board were these:

"The trailers would be in opposition with the minimum building code; the board is fearful of inequality of taxes; there would be a school attendance burden; there would be a lack of police protection in that particular side of the township; the camp does not comply with zoning laws and there is no provision in the zoning ordinance for allowing trailer courts in agricultural zoned areas."

Smith told The Mail this week that he would rather not state what action he plans to take next.

Both the Wayne county and state departments of health have given the petitioner their approval. The trailer court would have water and sanitary facilities for the trailers. Smith's attorney also argued that the "character of the neighborhood" could not be worsened by the camp. He pointed to the Detroit House of Correction which has its hog farm adjoining the proposed trailer court.

A 25-acre site would be used on which to establish the trailer court, Smith said. Ten acres would be for actual trailer parking and the remaining 15 acres for a recreational area. Five acres of the recreational park is in woods and would be cleared for picnic grounds, Smith added.

Streets in the court would be blacktopped. Each trailer parking lot would be 40 by 60 feet with a concrete drive for the trailer, a concrete patio and a crushed stone drive so that all cars would be off the streets. Smith added that the latest sewage filter system would be used.

Fifty-seven trailer lots nearest Ridge road would be for couples without children, Smith explained, while 43 lots farthest from the road and beside the children's recreation area would be for couples with children. Between the two areas would be a "green belt". The entrance to the trailer park would be landscaped to conceal the park entirely from the road, according to plans.

"We would have more to offer than any trailer camp in the state," Smith claimed. "Statistics show that the average trailer dweller spends about $50 a week in stores. With 100 trailers in the camp, this area would be passing up $26,000 worth of business a year if the court is not built," Smith asserted.

Theatre Change

Announcement was made this week by Edward Hohler and Ralph Ruben of Farmington and Detroit respectively, of their leasing of the two Penniman Allen theatres. They will continue operation of the P & A in Plymouth and reopen the P & A in Northville after November 1.

There will be no change in the operation of the Penn Theatre on Penniman avenue in Plymouth which will remain under the direction and operation of Harry Lush.

Symphony To Open 9th Season

The Plymouth Symphony orchestra will open its ninth season this Sunday under the baton of a new conductor and with the largest number of musicians in the orchestra's history. The size of the orchestra will make it necessary to present this year's concerts in the gymnasium of the high school instead of the smaller auditorium.

Emil Raab, assistant professor of violin and chamber music at the University of Michigan, has taken over the direction of the orchestra during Wayne Dunlap's year's leave of absence to study in Vienna, Austria. Raab stated this week that the personnel of the orchestra now totals 85, a number he considers too large to present concerts in the auditorium.

The first of the six-concert season presents Norma Heyde, soprano, as soloist. She will sing "Exultate Jubilate" by Mozart and "Knoxville, Summer of 1915" by Barber.

Selections to be offered by the orchestra are: "Semiramide Overture," by Rossini; "Elegie and Waltz from Serenade for Strings" by Tchaikovsky; and "Don Juan" by Strauss.

As in the past, all Plymouth Symphony orchestra concerts will be held at 4:00 p.m. and are open to the public without charge.

H. R. Penhale

Long Controversy Ends With Unanimous Vote

A wider and smoother Main street — the dream of many people for many years — will become a reality next year due to the unanimous vote given the proposal last Monday night by city commissioners.

It was a revision of the original $162,000 plan which seemingly broke down the resistance of some of the opponents to the project. About $23,000 worth of work and material was sliced off the original plan, bringing the cost down to $139,000.

The revised plan also meant the saving of more trees along the Main street route from Penniman avenue to Mill street and a narrowing of the original sidewalk plan.

Formerly planned with a 44-foot wide pavement and eight-foot sidewalks, the revised plan narrows the pavement to 40 feet from a point 120 feet east of Church street to Mill street. From Penniman to Church street, sidewalks will vary in width, depending upon their present width. From Church street to Starkweather avenue, the sidewalk will be five feet wide.

Approval of the Main street improvement project will probably gain a niche in Plymouth's history. A bond issue calling for the improvement of Main street along with other streets had once been turned down by voters.

Village councils and city commissioners have talked of the project for years. In 1948, a group of property owners along the north side of the street east of the school donated property 12 feet deep along the street in hopes of pushing the project along.

On Monday night, commissioners first gave their approval to City Manager Albert Glassford's report on the revised plan. Mayor Russell Daane then asked if the commission was ready to vote on the question that night. "I see no reason to postpone it any longer," Commissioner Marvin Terry declared. He offered the resolution and it was seconded by Commissioner Ernest Henry. The vote was unanimous.

It took at least five of the seven members to approve the project since the majority of affected property owners had signed a petition opposing the widening. When there is no majority opposition from affected property owners, it takes the "yes" vote of only four commissioners for approval.

Only one property owner spoke Monday night. He was Claude Buzzard, 233 South Main, a former city attorney. He asked City Attorney Harry Deyo if he had advised the city commission about the legality of the method of assessment. Property owners on each side of the street will each pay a third of the project while the city pays the remaining third.

Deyo told Buzzard that the "front footage" type of assessment is perfectly legal and he has so advised the commission. Buzzard said that the commission had to declare the project a benefit to the community, but that he could see no benefit coming from a project which will route cars through the city faster than ever. City Manager Glassford said to

Burglary Rash Hits Plymouth

Five night-time burglaries, four of them in one night, have kept Plymouth police busy with investigations this week. Total loss due to the larcenies was $185.

Largest of the losses was at Kelsey's Service station, Main street and Starkweather avenue, where thieves took about $127 early last Saturday.

The four enterings in one night took place Monday. Rocks were thrown through door windows to gain entrance to each establishment. Business places entered were the Forest avenue Laundromat, a $40 to $50 loss, Bentley Clinic, a $2 loss, Harold Stevens Heating, $6 loss, and West Bros. Nash, Inc., no loss.

Traces of blood were found at the Laundromat caused when breaking the window. The injured intruder then apparently went to Bentley Clinic where band-aids were found missing along with the $2 in petty cash.

Another case of missing money is also being investigated. A money bag containing some $200 disappeared during business hours at Terry's Bakery last Friday.

Chief of Police Carl Greenlee also reports that there have been frequent cases of destruction to automobiles during the past week. Several car windows and antennas have been reported smashed.

Plymouthite Hurt In Train Collision

A train collision on the Wabash railroad near St. Louis Monday night injured 40 persons, including Mrs. Karl Starkweather, 711 Starkweather avenue.

Mrs. Starkweather was on her way to St. Louis with a cousin, Mrs. Robert Leckron of Detroit, when the Wabash Cannonball rammed into the caboose of a slow-moving freight train as they both traveled on a bridge crossing the Mississippi river.

In a telephone call to Mr. Starkweather from Mrs. Leckron, it was learned that the Plymouth woman suffered a gash on her head, a black eye and broken glasses. None of the cars on the passenger train were derailed. The train went on into St. Louis where 44 passengers were hospitalized. Mrs. Starkweather was treated without hospitalization.

Mrs. Starkweather was on her way to St. Louis to visit a daughter, Mrs. Dennis Sabo, and family.

Community Fund Opens with Donations of $2,547

AND AWAY WE GO! Community Fund workers got their final pep talks at the kick-off breakfast as the campaign opened Tuesday morning. These seven young ladies also received a word of thanks from campaign officers before they distributed posters to all business Plymouth's "give once for all" campaign—the 1954 Community Fund—opened Tuesday morning and within a few hours had a $2,547 start toward its $24,500 goal.

The National Bank of Detroit gave the Fund a rousing send-off when it was host Tuesday morning at a kick-off breakfast for some 40 volunteer workers and then announced that it was giving $1,250 toward the campaign.

A few hours later, pledges for $532 were received from employees of the bank's two offices here.

Also among the first checks received was one from W. C. Taggart, a Big Rapids oilman who was the first to discover oil in nearby Salem township. Another oil man, Cliff Collin of Mt. Pleasant, announced that he was taking it upon himself to seek donations from about 25 other oilmen who are frequent Plymouth visitors.

But it will be Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen whom the Community Fund will be relying upon for the greatest support, according to Chairman George Witkowski. Nearly every home in the Plymouth area has received a letter telling of the Community Fund needs this year. Enclosed are addressed and stamped envelopes and pledge cards which citizens can easily return with their pledges or donations.

This year's $24,500 goal is the highest in Plymouth Community Fund history.

Besides the residential solicitations, teams are also working in industry, business, schools and professional circles. Small red feathers are given each donor, no matter how small the contribution is.

Each chairman and Community Fund officer was introduced at the kick-off breakfast held at the Hotel Mayflower. Seven young women were also guests. Immediately after the breakfast, they delivered posters to every business firm in Plymouth.

Window Painting to Start Off Halloween Activities

Windows of 65 stores will get their annual Halloween paint treatment next Wednesday as the opening activity planned by a dozen organizations to keep Plymouth youngsters out of trouble during the witch and goblin season.

Schools will be closed Thursday and Friday next week to allow teachers to attend sessions in Detroit of the Michigan Education association. Halloween parades and the window painting are therefore being scheduled for Wednesday. A big Saturday night dance party is also being planned (see story elsewhere.)

Merchants cooperating with the window painting program are members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. Thirty blue ribbons will be given out to winning paint jobs. Categories are the most gruesome, most comic, best Halloween atmosphere, best design and most original.

Also featured in the Halloween festivities will be parades and parties at the various schools. Parading children in costume behind Plymouth high band members will be seen Wednesday afternoon between 12 and two at the schools. Following school parades the youngsters will be served ice cream and cookies by the various room mothers. The Plymouth Woman's Club has undertaken the buying and distributing of the refreshments in cooperation with the community's Recreation department.

Starting times for grade school parades are: Bird, 12:30; Starkweather, 12:45; Smith, 1:30; and Allen, 1:30. Parades are not scheduled at Our Lady of Good Counsel, Lutheran school, Bartlett or Hough schools, but youngsters are scheduled for a full share of Halloween parties.

Plymouthite Gets American Legion State appointment

During a recent three-day meeting of the Michigan American Legion's statewide executive committee, state commander Kent T. Lundgren, Menominee, appointed William H. Langmaid of 7655 Koppernick road, as a member of the Service and Rehabilitation committee.

In choosing Langmaid, one of 98 Michigan Legionnaires similarly honored, to fill a key position on his team, commander Lundgren stated his choice was based primarily on Langmaid's "outstanding contributions to the community of Plymouth to which he has dedicated his interests toward sustaining liberty and assuring continuance of the American Way of Life."

The Michigan Legion is aiming for 100,000 members this year and campaigning to elect its candidate for national commander, J. Addington Wagner of Battle Creek, at the Legion meeting in Miami, Florida next October.

Nearly 10,000 Attend Seminary Open House

Students at St. John's Provincial seminary on Phoenix road greeted some 8,000 to 10,000 persons who attended the open house on Sunday. The event gave the public a chance to see the new student chapel, which was completed this fall, after a year in building, and provided guided tours of the local seminary. A special benediction service was held at 4 p.m. for the visitors.

In use since school opened this fall, the new chapel has many outstanding features. Light in shades of purple, blue and green is provided by some 95 stained glass windows depicting the 12 Apostles, powers of the orders, and other events of religious significance. Seating for 300 persons is provided by the white oak choir stalls, with the addition of a small visitor's gallery. Carved from Swiss lindenwood are the 14 Stations of the Cross which adorn the side wall of the new chapel. In the side chapel two priests prominent in the history of the Church in Michigan are represented, and a small altar there provides additional space for religious worship.

Founded at M.S.N.C. in 1912, the organization voted this fall to become affiliated with the national sorority, Alpha Xi Delta. Formal initiation into this sorority will take place on December 11.

Mrs. Alios Owens has been critically ill at her home on Northville road with a severe case of bronchial pneumonia.

Seminary officials have announced that a formal dedication service for the new chapel will take place in the spring.

Professor of Botany Explains Colorful Beauty of Autumn Leaves

How do the leaves of maple, aspen, birch and oak get the rich autumn hues that enhance the pageantry of fall? This is a question which has puzzled botanists for generations and has not as yet been entirely satisfactorily answered. However, in the main, we have the answer, says Felix G. Gustafson, professor of botany at the University of Michigan.

He explains that in normal green leaves there are at least three pigment substances: green chlorophyll, yellow carotene, and xanthophyll, and some times also the yellow flavone. Chlorophyll is easily destroyed by light. In the fall, with the brilliant sunshine of the Indian summer, it is broken down faster than it is being formed. Hence, the yellow color which was there all the time but was masked by the brighter green, shows up and we get the yellow of the poplar, for instance. The mottling effect is due to the uneven destruction of the chlorophyll.

Professor Gustafson states that the reds and purples are due to a substance which the biochemist calls anthocyanin. The browns are caused by a partial breakdown of various substances in the leaves and the green is chlorophyll, which is active in the food manufacture.

The botanist admits that scientists are somewhat in the dark as to the reason these substances should be formed. "We know that there must be an abundance of sugar present in the leaves. Bright light is also necessary and a low temperature plays a part. It seems that as the fall advances there are cellular changes taking place in the leaf petiole which block the leaves off from the stem. The sugar that may be in the leaf can not get out and the sugar content increases, bringing about chemical changes which result in the formation of anthocyanins.

Not all parts of the country are equally rich in these beautiful colors, he points out. "New England is famous for its riot of colors in the fall as are the northern parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and South Ontario. Regions where it gets cold suddenly are much more likely to have brilliant colors than those where the temperature decreases gradually. Low temperature with bright sunshine is favorable, as it produces conditions in the plant which allow these chemical changes to take place."

Discussing the color differences in various species of trees, Professor Gustafson said that most of the conifers do not show any color changes, though red cedars may show some red and brown during the winter. On the other hand, trees like the swamp or red maple may become completely red. The staghorn sumac takes on a very brilliant red. Poplars and birches are usually yellow. Ash trees are usually greenish purple. Catalpa, mulberry, and many others shed their leaves while they are still green.

Fall-Planted Bulbs Supply 2 Months of Spring Flowers

For two months in the spring, fall planted bulbs supply most of the color in garden borders, with the least care of any flowers, because they blossom before weeds grow, or insects prey, or drought injures garden plants.

A flowering bulb is a package deal. It contains, like seed, an embryo plant, plus food enough to nourish it until it produces a flower. The first flower will bloom with very little help from the soil it grows in, though feeding gives a larger flower. After blooming it requires extra food to develop a vigorous new bulb, for the next year's flower. If the soil is well drained and fertile, or plant food is supplied to make it so, tulips and daffodils will live for many years, giving a harvest of spring beauty every year.

The way the flowers are arranged, and the careful selection of varieties which give a succession of bloom over two months, are more important to a good display than planting large numbers of bulbs. In the early spring a small number of snowdrops, scillas, and crocuses, will make a big impression upon your family and friends because they bloom when there are no other flowers to compete for admiration. Two dozen bulbs of each planted in groups will produce more conversation than many times that quantity of summer flowers. Snowdrops bloom as soon as the ground thaws out, and scillas, bluer than violets, then the blue and yellow crocuses, follow in succession.

Daffodils are the first major flowers of the spring. They are also the longest-lived in the average garden. In well drained locations bulbs will usually multiply, and need not be lifted until they crowd.

All the spring bulbs look much better when planted in informal groups rather than in rows, blocks, or masses. Five bulbs of one variety of tulips, or daffodils is the equivalent of a herbaceous perennial plant. Such groups may be planted in the border, in company with other flowers, or grown alone at accent points with other flowers as background. The earliest tulips to bloom come before the daffodils have finished. The variety Red Emperor is earliest. This is a species, or botanical tulip, which means that it is a wild form, not a hybrid.

The most highly bred class of tulips blooms next. These are the early single and double tulips which were bred to grow in "carpets" beds, formerly popular in this country and still grown in Europe. The early tulips have bright primary colors, and grow uniformly on short upright stems, tailor-made to use as pigments in a pattern of colors, often resembling carpet designs. They bloom almost two weeks earlier than the tall, late flowering Darwins, and groups of them properly placed will help keep the display of garden color continuous.

The original tulips were grown in European gardens were tall, late flowering varieties of the group now known as Breeders, or Mother bulbs. From these all other garden varieties are believed to have been bred, including the Darwins, and the Cottage clans. Breeder, Cottage and Darwin tulips are catalogued separately in the catalogues, but confused in the popular mind, all being termed Darwins as a rule.

There is no reason to separate them in the garden, since all bloom together and their colors can be grouped in attractive harmonies.

Chamber Register Magazine Sellers

Have a complaint against a magazine salesman? The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will be your place to call. Chamber Secretary Nat Sibbold announced that a plan called the "Central Registry" is being adopted by his office in which salesmen will register before canvassing the city.

Nearly every magazine publishing and distributing firm in the country belongs to the Magazine Publishers Association, Inc., sponsors of Central Registry. Here is the way it works: "All companies belonging to the association require its salesmen to register with the Chamber office here before working from house-to-house. If a citizen believes a salesman is guilty of undue pressure or unethical tactics, the citizen registers the complaint with the Chamber. The Chamber then sends the complaint to the Central Registry which filters the complaints to the home companies.

Complaints can also be filed through the Chamber office against book publishers and distributors. There is also a complaint sheet available for those not receiving a magazine ordered from a Central Registry member or if a subscriber receives the wrong magazine, Sibbold said.

Over 100,000 Have Payments Waiting for Them

"Over 100,000 persons have social security benefits awaiting them", said Harry Baltuck, manager of the Detroit-Northwest Social Security office. "Many widows, minor children and dependent parents of workers who died uninsured after 1939 and before September, 1950 will now be eligible for monthly social security payments. This includes persons who had inquired at the time the worker died and were told there could be no payments."

The new social security law has a special provision for these survivors, who did not qualify for payments under the old law. The amendments provide for payment if the deceased worker had at least 1 1/2 years (6 quarters) of work covered by social security. Monthly benefits can be paid to these families beginning September 1954. An application must be filed. These benefits are not paid automatically. This change applies only to monthly benefits. No lump-sum death payments can be made. Persons who believe they are eligible should contact the local social security office.

Boxelder Bugs, Other Insects Look for Homes

The champ "gate crashers" of insectdom are busy bedding down as uninited house guests across the country. They are the leaf-chewing beetles invading homes, barns, garages and tool sheds for warmth and comfort during the winter hibernation.

No need to worry about their indoors destruction, for they won't bother rugs, furniture or the premises itself. And they are easily controlled by common household fly sprays.

Among the insects that normally thrive on home owners' unintentional hospitality are the elm leaf and willow leaf beetles, locust leaf miner and the boxelder bug. The wildest of these in snagging snug quarters is the locust leaf miner. He's also one of the biggest malefactors outdoors since he feeds not only on black locust, but on birch, elm, dogwood, white oak, wild cherry and apple, as well.

If infestations are found indoors, it is best to collect and burn the beetles, in addition to spraying wall surfaces and crevices. The most important spraying will come next spring, however. Best protection for your trees is to spray them with DDT just before the leaves fully unfold.

A goodly portion of the beetle population is likely to survive the winter in comfortable man-made shelters. When leaves unfold, they'll come swooping out to eating and breeding places on nearby trees.

The leaf-eating beetles are fairly common throughout the United States and are most severe in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio.

BUILDING ROOM

The great vigor of the construction industry has added tremendous confidence to the nation's economy. The industry may be headed for a record year in 1954. But if it has meant a lot to business, just think of what it means to you: better and bigger housing than ever before. Quality materials such as clay tile surfacing for kitchens and bathrooms, the best of modern design, a host of built-in conveniences, extra bedrooms and storage space, attic expansion—all these items make today's house tops!

Experience shows you will save time, trouble, and money by having plumbing fixtures installed by a qualified plumber, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau. Dependence of the family on the household plumbing system for convenience and health is substantial.

Military Display Gives Citizenry Look at Weapons

Hundreds of wide-eyed kiddies and interested citizens got a look at some of the Army's latest weapons last weekend when the armed forces and local veterans organizations sponsored an "Information Day" on Main street.

The military display resulted in the recruiting of seven young men for the Army and prospective recruits for the Marine Corps, National Guard and veterans groups. A large number of blood donation pledges were also received by recruiters.

Sergeant LeRoy Sipes, Army recruiter in the Plymouth area and chairman of the display, declared that the program was very successful. "We believe it showed young men and women eligible for armed forces and their parents what we have to offer. I hope that an even greater percentage of Plymouth youths will take advantage of the educational program which the Army and other services offer."

Sergeant Sipes said that the Army had announced this week that its Recruiting Service is now accepting two-year enlistments. Enlistments in recent years have been for a minimum of three years.

A light tank and an armored personnel carrier drew the most attention of pedestrians. A target airplane was also on display outside. In the window of the D & C store appeared many smaller weapons. The display was brought to Plymouth by the Michigan National Guard.

WEAPONS ON DISPLAY

in downtown Plymouth last Friday and Saturday drew the attention of most citizens. There was also a training device, the robot target airplane, pictured above. It is the only one in Michigan. Recruiting personnel shown with the plane are, from left: WAC Sergeant Beatrice Burnham of Detroit; Marine Sergeant Thomas Murphy of Pontiac Recruiting office; Corporal Gerald Wills, of the 8 Mile Road National Guard Armory; and Sergeant LeRoy Sipes, of the Army Recruiting office in Ann Arbor. At side are two youngsters trying out the Walker Bulldog tank for size. Inside is Ronald Hesse, 10670 Warren road, while on top is Dick Alsbro, 990 Penniman, and Sergeant Robert Kelly, Michigan National Guard.

200 Seminarians Attend Consecration

Almost 200 seminarians and choir members of St. John's Provincial seminary, Phoenix road, will attend the consecration of two auxiliary bishops of Detroit at 10:30 Tuesday morning in the Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, Detroit. Bishops to be consecrated are the Most Reverend John A. Donovan and the Most Reverend Henry E. Donnelly. Both made their spiritual retreats at St. John's seminary.

The seminary choir, under the direction of Father Castelot, will participate with the Sacred Heart choir and the choir of St. Mary's, Orchard Lake, during the program.

Cardinal Mooney will be consecrator, while Bishops Allen J. Babcock and Alexander Zaleski of Grand Rapids will serve as co-consecrators. The sermon will be preached by Bishop Ready of Columbus, Ohio.

Detroit News Publishes Article on Local Resident

An article and photograph of former Plymouth librarian Mrs. Ada Murray appeared in last Thursday's Detroit News. The article concerned Detroit's national button show, pointing out that the 72-year-old Plymouth resident has been an avid button collector since 1938.

Starting this interesting hobby shortly before her retirement two years ago, Mrs. Murray now has thousands of rare and unusual buttons. She hasn't exhibited any as yet, mostly because "there are just too many to carry around and set up at the various shows." But she makes it a point to take in all the button shows and attended the national Detroit show.

Mrs. Murray retired in 1952 after serving residents for 24 1/2 years at the Dunning library. She now resides at 643 North Mill street.

Necessary Item

"Now," said the man who was paying the bills, "can you tell me what this pantry room is for?"

"That will be a chart room, not a pantry," explained the architect.

"As long as your wife wants the complete electric kitchen we have to put a chart room next to it, so she can refer to it when wanting to push the right lever or turn the right switch for roasting, toasting, defrosting, grilling, canning, boiling, doing dishes and so on."

"Why are you fidgeting about, Oscar?" asked the teacher sternly. Oscar didn't answer, but the class tattle-tale did. "He's got a pin teacher," he cried.

"Take it away from him and bring it here," commanded the teacher.

A little later Oscar was called on to read. He remained sitting. "Stand up," said the teacher sharply.

Oscar got red, but didn't budge. "I can't teacher," he gulped.

"I've had enough of this foolishness," exclaimed the teacher. "Why can't you stand up?"

Oscar fidgeted some more and blurted out—"Because that pin you took away from me held my pants up!"

Farm Operators Come Under Social Security Law for First Time

Farm operators are among the millions brought under the social security law for the first time starting January 1, 1955. All self-employed farmers who have at least $400 profit a year will have old-age and survivors insurance protection.

Farm earnings will soon count toward social security benefits. This means payments both to farmers who retire at age 65 or older and monthly payments to families of farmers who die. The newly-covered farmer thus will earn the same insurance rights as other self-employed persons.

Farm operators with earnings of $400 or more in 1955 will make a social security report of these earnings in 1956. This report is part of the income tax return. It must show the person's name and social security number to make sure that the proper credit towards benefits is recorded.

Farm operators should get a social security card unless they already have one. Farmers with low incomes who do not keep detailed records can use a simplified method of reporting.

The social security tax for self-employed farmers is three per cent of the yearly earnings. This is the same rate of tax paid by other self-employed persons. The tax will be paid only on earnings up to $4200 a year.

The Social Security office can give farmers information concerning their rights and duties under old-age and survivors insurance. Free informational booklets are available. For information or booklets call, write, or visit the Social Security office, The Detroit-Northwest office, 14600 Grand River, Detroit 27, serves the community of Plymouth. The telephone number is Broadway 3-1717.

IN KEEPING WITH Plymouth's trend to colonialize its architecture is this new exterior of Ellen's Hair Shoppe, 363 North Main. Remodeling was done by Carleton Lewis, local contractor, from plans drawn up by Charles Sawyer. Owner Mrs. Rockwell Smith has also remodeled the interior of the beauty shop along modern lines and has expanded her facilities to include another operator. Unique is Mrs. Smith's practice of serving free coffee to all her customers.

Raise $800 to Aid Club's Youth Activities

Local bargain hunters had a field day last week at the Kiwanis club's Rummage and Bake sale, emptying family piggy banks to the tune of $800.60. Dr. Fred Foust, chairman of the event, said $755.50 resulted from the rummage sale while some $45.10 worth of baked goods were sold. Proceeds from the event went to further the organization's youth activities.

The sale was held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the former Michigan Liquor Control Commission building, site of the new "King Furniture" store due to open sometime during the first two weeks of November. The new store, Foust said, had delayed re-decoration plans for the building to permit Kiwanians to hold their sale.

The Adirondack was in the Mediterranean sea as flagship for the NATO amphibious exercise "Keystone." During this operation she was command headquarters for a simulated assault staged by naval and ground forces from the U.S. Sixth Fleet and from several other NATO nations.

Upon completion of the eight-week infantry training cycle at Fort Leonard Wood with the famed "Super Sixth," they will receive a leave before beginning eight weeks of advance basic training, either at Fort Leonard Wood or another training installation.

Divided Congress Control Seen in Babson's Report

Washington, D. C.: Latest tabulations in the nationwide Babsonpoll indicate a strong possibility that the next Congress may be divided politically—with a Republican Senate and a Democratic House.

The national survey, conducted by Babson's Washington Service, is designed to measure the percentage of voters who plan this year to shift their party allegiance.

In the current Babsonpoll, voting preferences for the coming election are compared with voters' actual choices in the presidential and congressional races of 1952.

In both cases, a trend away from the GOP has been noted in ballots tabulated thus far. Although this indicates that the Democrats are ahead right now in the race for control of the House of Representatives, several factors improve the Republican outlook for a majority in the upper chamber.

Voting intentions in the senatorial races are contrasted, for statistical purposes, with the vote for President in 1952. In all states, ballot tabulation indicate that GOP senatorial candidates will attract considerably less support than Mr. Eisenhower received two years ago.

Right now, the defection ranges from 3.9% to 15.8% of the Republican presidential vote in 1952. In many states, such a switch in voting preferences still would not be enough to elect Democratic candidates—because the Eisenhower majorities were so large in 1952.

Since the death of Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), the make-up of the Senate has changed to 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats, and one Independent. This means that the Democrats must take a net gain of at least two seats in order to organize the Senate, assuming that the Independent, Senator Morse, would vote with the Democrats.

Early Babsonpoll returns indicate that such a gain is most unlikely. Here's why:

Of the 18 senatorial contests in which the outcome appears in even the slightest doubt, four may now be rated as probably safe for incumbent Democrats. These races are in Rhode Island, Delaware, Illinois, and New Mexico. On the other hand, Oregon, Idaho, California, Oregon, and possibly Wyoming, show sufficient Republican strength in current Babsonpoll figures to reelect GOP senators.

In one state, Kentucky, the Democratic candidate appears to be the probable victor over the Republican incumbent; while in Iowa and Colorado, Republicans seem likely to win seats from the Democrats.

Five states now show close contests, with the Republicans getting the nod for seats now held by Democrats in Ohio, Minnesota, and Montana, and with the Democrats showing possibilities of overturning GOP seats in Massachusetts and New Jersey. As this report was written, it was uncertain whether the seat of the late Senator McCarran of Nevada would be filled by election in November. If so, the contest would be rated a toss-up, with a very slight edge for the Democrats.

Recapitulation of the above trends shows little chance for the Democrats to make the net gain of two seats required for a majority, unless they are aided by a further last-minute swing in voter sentiment away from the Republicans.

In 10 of the 18 states covered, the percentage of voters reporting as "undecided" could influence the outcome by moving strongly in one direction or the other. For statistical purposes, this group has been divided evenly between the major parties in Babsonpoll tabulations.

LETTER BOX

Dear Sir:

In view of the fact we have always received courteous and accurate publicity in your paper, I truly hesitate to voice my displeasure at your recent inaccurate article about Miss Emma Arnold whose friendship we have valued for the past 21 years.

Your story says "the destruction of this old home brought unpleasant memories to many people." May I say, Mr. Editor, that this wanton destruction which has followed a summer of vandalism such as I never thought could exist in a civilized community makes heartsick her friends who remember this well educated family who settled in that house almost a century ago and remember that house which was a show place in the area. Miss Priscilla Arnold died in 1916 leaving Miss Emma to live lonely and many times in fear for the past 38 years. In 1940 the brother, Dr. Schuyler Arnold, died in the West and with him went Miss Arnold's main source of income with which she could have maintained her property. Miss Arnold continued to live with her memories and her very dear possessions until that day when vandals, in spite of her protests over the destruction of her property, caused her to wound one. She was taken to jail which was a legitimate procedure, but the intrusion of her home by press photographers and many other the vile publicity of her manner of living - the looting of her home of lovely blankets and other articles would never have been permitted if she had had wealth or prestige. In January of this year someone had her taken forcibly and to her heartsick horror to what to her is the County House - to you and I the Wayne Co. General. May I emphasize she was not taken there because she was mentally ill. Miss Arnold with her keen mind and excellent memory has forgotten more than some who criticize her ever knew. Not long after she was taken away a light blue pickup was seen at her home and the thievery which has never stopped began. Probably in that load went her mother's silver tea set with its golden lining, a fine 3 piece carving set, with inlaid bone handles - a rare old clock - some milk glasses - a white wicker rocker and a very antique "Masters Voice" victrola. Those people apparently used a key to enter, but since then every window and door was broken-every article of value removed - what wasn't stolen was slashed and destroyed.

We had the pleasure of taking Miss Arnold out of Wayne Co. General and of having her in our home nine weeks. She is now living at the Livonia Convalescent Hospital where she defrays her own expenses, is not considered eccentric - mentally difficult-uncouth or anything but what she is - a gentle, well bred woman who for the past few years has had more outrages perpetrated against her than anyone I have ever known.

Sincerely yours,

Gladys L. Kidston, R.N.

The Basic Idea Behind the All-New 1955 PONTIAC

On Display October 29 and 30

ABOUT 30 years ago General Motors Corporation presented to America a new car called Pontiac. This new car was the direct result of a very specific idea.

The idea was this: to create a car which took its style, its engineering principles and its features from the very best and most expensive in America—and to build these into a car priced just above the very lowest!

Naturally, such an idea produced a wonderful and highly popular car—a car which millions of satisfied owners have driven with outstanding pride and pleasure.

Now, nearly three decades later, an entirely new Pontiac has been created for 1955—a car completely new from the ground up!

One thing, however, about the 1955 Pontiac remains unchanged—its basic idea—to offer the American public the very finest car that can possibly be built to sell at a price within easy reach of any new-car buyer.

When you see the new Pontiac on Friday or Saturday—Oct. 29 or 30—you will be immediately impressed by its remarkable new styling. No other car in the world looks like this new Pontiac!

When you drive it you will be astonished at its performance. For the 1955 Pontiac introduces the powerful new Strato-Streak V-8, an all-new engine that has already been proved in more than 3 million test miles!

When you price the new Pontiac you will come face to face with the basic Pontiac idea—you will be agreeably surprised that so much car, so much sparkling newness, so much luxury, so much downright goodness can be priced so near the very lowest.

We cordially invite you to come in on Friday or Saturday and see for yourself what a superb all-new General Motors masterpiece has been created to carry the wonderful name "Pontiac" for 1955.

Phone Message Recorder Makes Debut in Plymouth

"She may not be as nice as a female secretary, but she sure costs less."

That was the general comment made by the three Plymouth possessors of "Amanda the Electronic Secretary," an automatic recording device which takes telephone messages while no one is around to answer the phone.

The new device has gone into three Plymouth offices and in a few offices in surrounding communities, according to Hal Young of the Michigan Bell Telephone company office here. One of the users of the new service is Clifford Manwaring, local attorney. By telephoning his office when he isn't there, you hear something like this:

"This is 1863, the Manwaring Law Office. Your call is being answered by an automatic answering device. Please leave your name, phone number and message. This machine will record it and I will call you when I return. Please start talking at the second tone. You will have 28 seconds to deliver your message."

There are then two "beeps" and you start talking—unless you are astonished into silence like many callers are during their first experience with the contraption. Manwaring reports that many of his play-backs of the recordings are full of mutterings, stutters or almost complete silence.

"Amanda the Electronic Secretary" was seen for the first time by many people at the Michigan state fair last month. It is not too large a box which sits some place near the telephone. Quite simple to operate, it appeals to small businessmen or professional people who don't employ a full-time secretary. It can be left on duty 24 hours a day.

There are two cylinders inside, one on which the person possessing the machine records his message to the caller. The other cylinder records the caller's message. Twenty messages can be recorded on one cylinder and the cylinders used indefinitely.

The recording devices are not bought but are rented on a monthly basis like a telephone. Cost per month for rental is $12.50. "Not like having a real-live secretary, but at that price, you can't have everything," claim users of Amanda the Electronic Secretary.

LISTENING TO MESSAGES of telephone callers while he was out of the office is Clifford Manwaring, local attorney. He is one of the three local professional men renting the automatic telephone recording device nicknamed, "Amanda the Electronic Secretary."

Bid on Paving Gets Approval

City commissioners approved a bid of $14,874 at a special meeting last Thursday night to pave the recently-acquired alleyway behind Forest avenue stores and of Pearl street from Starkweather to Mill street.

The bid of William J. Kloote, Inc., of Grand Rapids was approved. Three other bids were received ranging up to $16,496.

The alley to be paved with concrete is located behind the Forest avenue stores on the east side of the street. Several years of work was involved in acquiring the land necessary to construct the alley. Condemnation proceedings were also necessary. The alley is being built in order to accommodate trucks which now have a difficult maneuvering beside or behind the stores.

Kloote has placed a completion time of 210 days on the projects.

day that there will be a lot of time-consuming work before actual construction can get underway. Plans and specifications must first be approved by the State Highway Department and the Municipal Finance Commission. Some property must be acquired from private owners, the bond issue must be advertised and sold and bids then taken for the work itself.

There will be no bond issue vote, Glassford said. Instead, bonds can be sold by pledging state highway gasoline and weight taxes toward the project.

Players Need Early Century Clothing

While most folks claim to have too many old clothes hanging in their closets, there is one group in Plymouth wishing that people would hang on to their clothes a little longer.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild is seeking costumes of 1910 vintage for its cast in the forthcoming play, "My Three Angels." Needed are blouses and skirts or full dresses and hats for three women and suit for four men typical of that era. A plea is being made to citizens who might own this dated attire to loan the guild a costume for the November 6 and 7 performances.

Anyone having a costume to offer can call Mrs. Dean Saxton at 1466-R or Mrs. Adele Miller at 1098-M.

Grapes grown in California account for 85 to 90 per cent of all American-made wines. The State boasts some of the largest vineyards in the world.

Bank Building Start Planned

Construction is scheduled to start in 60 days of the new office of the National Bank of Detroit to be built at Ann Arbor Road and Harvey street.

The new bank building will be of contemporary design, one story in height, will contain 2,400 square feet of floor space and will have fully landscaped grounds.

The announcement from the Detroit main office said that the new bank will have two drive-in windows to enable customers to do routine banking quickly without leaving their cars.

It will be completely modern and will have the latest in banking facilities, including air-conditioning and fluorescent lighting. There will be seven teller windows, a night depository and a large adjacent parking lot.

Safe deposit facilities, with boxes of various sizes, will be provided by the Safe Deposit company of Detroit. Manager and assistant manager for the new office will be announced at a later date.

Warns of Buying Cheap Uranium Mining Stock

Speculation in low priced uranium mining stock is reaching boom proportions, Nat Sibbold, secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, reported today, and small investors are being bombarded with mail solicitations, long distance telephone calls and stock salesmen calling door-to-door to buy in on promotions, most of which appear to have little chance of success.

Sibbold stated that a favorite device of promoters is to parade before prospective stock purchasers relatively big names of people who have been interested in the uranium boom. He pointed out, however, that these are people who can well afford to gamble and lose. Prominent industrialists and other experienced investors who participate in speculative uranium financing do so with full knowledge of the fact that any company organized to locate and produce ore may fail regardless of how capable and honest its management may be.

discussion, a vote took place with five votes opposing the re-zoning and two favoring.

Sidney Strong, chairman of the planning commission, then took the floor and declared that he was very disappointed in the commission's decision, especially after all of the work that planners had put into the project. He then pointed out that the alley and greenbelt provisions had nothing to do with the changing of the zoning map.

Further discussions brought a motion to reconsider the voted down motion. It passed. Then came another motion to approve the re-zoning. It also passed with Commissioner Bauer still dissenting.

Covered galvanized steel cans, like those used for ashes and other refuse, are also handy for storing gardening leftovers—fertilizers, seeds and bulbs. The cans protect the materials from attacks by insects, moisture and rodents.

Chamber Honors Dr. Luther Peck

The medical profession will take the spotlight when the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce holds its annual meeting on Wednesday, November 3.

With Dr. A. C. Furstenberg, dean of the University of Michigan Medical school, as the principal speaker, the Chamber will also honor Dr. Luther Peck, local doctor who has been practicing medicine for a half century.

Scene of the annual meeting will be the high school auditorium. The Plymouth high school band, choir and Miss Evelyn Woods will provide musical entertainment.

Chamber Secretary Nat Sibbold said that attendance will be limited to 250 people because of the limited facilities. Other dignitaries are expected to attend the meeting, Sibbold said.

DOUBLE FEATURE DAYS proved to be a whopping success for Plymouth merchants and customers alike, according to figures released this week by the Chamber of Commerce. The city-wide event was held last Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and offered shoppers a serving cart as a gift with Double Feature Days' sales slips totaling $50. Final totals compiled by the Chamber show that more than 300 carts were given away. Above Mrs. Harry Bartel (left) receives a cart from Mrs. Verne Steele at Cadillac Drapery, while below (at left) Clara Goodwin examines the cup and saucer sets on sale at Papes' House of Gifts. ### GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Approximately 125 Brownies' parents and friends attended the Brownie investiture service Sunday, October 17, at the Girl Scout lodge. Brownies receiving their membership pins are members of Troop 9, sponsored by the Plymouth Lions club and Troop 18, sponsored by Bird P.T.A.

Mrs. Richard Wernette told the Brownie story to the 34 new Brownies, followed by a friendship candle-lighting ceremony.

Special recognitions were given Troop 9 committee members. They are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Blunk, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Garhardt Von Hofe, William Fehlig and William Lyons.

Leaders of Troop 9 are Mrs. William Lyons, Mrs. William Fehlig, Mrs. John Sandmann and Mrs. Charles Ketterer. Leaders of Troop 18 are Mrs. Earl Luelling and Mrs. James Gretzinger.

Plymouth Kiwanis-Girl Scout Lodge was the scene of the Area Camp Council October 12. Summer camping sessions at Camp Cedar Lake, are under the supervision of this group.

Representatives were present from Brighton, Milan, Lincoln, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Wayne, Belleville and Plymouth. Guests were the Girl Scout commissioners of the participating communities.

A most successful camping session has just been concluded. A total 349 girls attended, 25 from the Plymouth council.

Mrs. Donald Potter of Plymouth is the newly-elected president of the Area Camp Council, Mrs. B. Horton Booth was re-elected treasurer.

"A Brownie Holiday" was the theme of an overnight camping trip at the Girl Scout lodge held by Troop 24 of Wayne on October 15. Fifteen Brownies and their mothers were present. Mrs. Jean Opplander is the troop leader.

Members of Girl Scout Troop 15 spent Saturday night at the Girl Scout Lodge. They were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. William Langmaid.

Girl Scout Troop 3, under the leadership of Mrs. William Edgar and Mrs. E. P. Light, voted to use the patrol system this year. Patrol leaders elected at the last regular meeting are Mary Hulsing and Greta Jensen who are assisted by Pamela Phillips and Carol Thorpe. Jeanie Light was elected scribe and Helen Otwell, treasurer.

Mrs. William Edgar, leader's president, announces that future meetings of the Leaders' club will be on the fourth Monday of each month. The next meeting will be October 25.

Senior Troop 5 is sending 4 of its members to visit Troop 6. The girls, Kay Fisher, Ann Cooper, Marjorie Reddeman and Diane Beaver, will teach knot-tying and demonstrate the flag ceremony.

The entire troop membership will usher at the Symphony concert Sunday, October 24.

Mrs. H. D. Jensen is the leader. Church-going is one of the hallmarks of a proper community spirit, among other things.

PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of the City of Plymouth, I do hereby proclaim the period from October 20, 1954 to November 11, 1954 as AMERICAN LEGION WEEK—or "AL WEEKS."

During that time I ask all citizens in this community to note well the record of accomplishment established over the years by The American Legion through its local, state and national organization.

The American Legion has performed valiantly in the fields of Community Service, Rehabilitation, National Security, Child Welfare and Americanism. It has earned its spurs as a proven friend of the veteran, the community, state and nation.

It is fitting and proper that the City of Plymouth salute The American Legion on this occasion and help this great veterans' organization celebrate "AL WEEKS" October 20th to November 11th.

I ask all members of this community, in addition to our civic and service groups, to help in the observance of "AL WEEKS." I join with The American Legion in extending an invitation to all eligible veterans to become Legionnaires during this American Legion Weeks enrollment for 1955.

Russell Daane, Mayor

Livonia Guild Holds Baby Clinic

The Livonia Health Guild is sponsoring a "Well Baby Conference" on November 3 at the First Federal Savings and Loan office, Sheldon Center. Following this first meeting, the conferences will be held the first Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. Ned Lingemann, president of the Livonia Health Guild, states the following requirements for attendance: 1. Well children whose families cannot afford routine medical supervision; 2. Well children with a written referral from a private physician.

The conference will give each well child of 3 months to five years of age a physical examination at regular intervals. In addition, protection against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough will be offered each well child. Although the conference will not offer treatment, mothers may discuss diet, behavior or general care of children with the doctor.

Some auto accidents are the result of the pedestrian trusting the motorist and the motorist trusting the pedestrian.—The Mobile (Ala.) Register.

New FORD THUNDERBIRD

A personal car of distinction
...with Trigger-Torque performance

No matter what you have come to expect in a car, you'll be delighted at the wealth of conveniences the Thunderbird offers. Two tops are available: a disappearing fabric top . . . and an easy-to-lift-on hard top. The extra-wide vinyl upholstered seat is foam-rubber-cushioned . . . power-operated 4 ways. Windows roll up . . . by power, if you like. There is a tachometer . . . and a clock with a sweep second hand. There is a telescoping steering wheel. The baggage compartment is ample. And you can have power steering and power brakes.

Something totally fresh is here—a bewitching new all-steel beauty that sets the styling keynote for other Ford cars to come.

But, styling gives the merest hint of what the Thunderbird has to offer. For here is a car you can drive with assurance and pleasure . . . for business or for recreation.

In traffic and on the open road the Thunderbird's Trigger-Torque performance is literally a revelation. Here is hair-trigger response . . . fleet, liquid agility . . . backed by a reserve of swift, sure power to meet safety's every demand.

Trigger-Torque performance stems from Ford's new Thunderbird Special V-8—a high-torque engine with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, wide-opening valves and Ford's famous low-friction design. And to enhance the performance characteristics of this brilliant V-8 engine, the Thunderbird provides special rear axle ratios to match the transmission of your choice—Conventional, Overdrive, or new Speed-Trigger Fordomatic.

Then, in the ride department, Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension really works wonders. It not only velvet-cushions your ride, it also allows the Thunderbird to handle with utmost ease—to corner with greatest stability. And when it comes to stopping, brakes are big and powerful.

But, more important is the way the Thunderbird is engineered, designed . . . and built! For it is the product of the same advanced engineering . . . the same manufacturing skills that have made Ford products so dependable, so value-full and so desirable to so many.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE
From CONGRESSMAN OAKMAN
 To the People of the 17th District
 During my first term in Congress, I have had the unique experience of serving on two very important Committees of the House of Representatives—Banking and Currency and Public Works.
 The House Public Works Subcommittee on Roads drafts the legislation dealing with all phases of the federal highway program. In view of the President's 'grand plan' for a $100 billion highway building program during the next ten years, this assignment now looms as one of the most important jobs in the 83rd Congress, (the Congress YOU will elect on November 2nd). The legislation when enacted will provide five million Americans with jobs for ten years.
 Also, as a Member of the House Public Works Subcommittee on Rivers and Harbors, I hope to be able to assist in getting favorable action on the legislation to provide for the deepening of the connecting channels of the Great Lakes in the Detroit River, Lake St. Clair, St. Clair River and the St. Mary's River. This legislation is necessary if we are going to get the larger ships that will use the new Waterway, which the 83rd Congress authorized, from Montreal to the mouth of the Detroit River.
 In my first term in the Congress, the St. Lawrence Seaway became a reality. In my second term, I hope and believe we can get the legislation to provide for these vitally needed connecting channels.
 Regardless of the results of the general election to be held in every one of the 48 states this November 2, President Eisenhower's Administration will continue in office for another two years. The President would have little chance of carrying forward his program—which is the program of the people who elected him—without a Republican majority in both the House and the Senate.
 With confidence in your judgment, with pride in the accomplishments of our President and the 83rd Congress, and with great faith in even greater strides forward in the future, I seek your endorsement at the polls on Tuesday, November 2nd.
 Sincerely,
Charles G. Oakman

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERS in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's current production of "My Three Angels" rehearse a crucial part in the play. Jeannine Tidwell is reading a letter which tells her that her lover is going to marry someone else. The "Angels," (left to right) Warren Worth, Lee Mahoney and C. Veach Sparks, look on with avid interest.

Theatre Guild's "My Three Angels" Promises Audience Evening of Laughs

The cast of characters for the Plymouth Theatre Guild's presentation of "My Three Angels" has been selected and rehearsals are under way, it was announced by Mrs. Adele Miller, President of the Guild.

The play, which will be the fifth Plymouth Guild production directed by William W. Merrill of Will-O-Way Playhouse, will be presented in Plymouth high school auditorium November 6th and 7th.

"My Three Angels is undoubtedly the funniest play we've yet produced," Mrs. Miller stated. "It played to record crowds at Will-O-Way this summer, was a big Broadway success, and is currently being produced by literally hundreds of theatre groups throughout the country."

Plot of "My Three Angels" centers around the Robin-Hood-like connivings of three lovable convicts in a French penal colony who come to the aid of a family in financial trouble. When things look the blackest for the family the three "Angels" bring the real villains to grim justice, but only after many suspenseful and hilarious situations.

C. Veach Sparks, who is well known to Plymouthites for his outstanding performances in six Plymouth Guild productions and at the Will-O-Way Playhouse, plays the part of the shrewd, but kindly "Angel" with a knack for juggling books.

Warren Worth, a former President of the Plymouth Kiwanis club, plays the 2nd "Angel" who is cunning and ruthless, but years for serene home life like that of the family he and his two convict pals are trying to help. Mr. Worth has appeared in three other Guild productions — Two Blind Mice, Lo and Behold, and Mr. Barry's Etchings.

Lee Mahoney, who is a student at Will-O-Way and appeared as the gangster in the Plymouth Guild production of Lo and Behold, plays the 3rd "Angel," a young man who still dreams of love although he is a convict.

Dorothy Smith, a newcomer to the Guild, is cast as the level-headed, efficient and kind mother of the family in trouble.

Russ Creel, also a new member of the Guild, is cast as the level-headed, glib father who tries to appear as an astute businessman, but who in reality is a poor one, responsible for the family's financial plight.

Jeannine Tidwell plays the sweet, lovely daughter of the family, who is in love with Paul, a rich and unworthy upstart who is more interested in wealth and position than in love. Miss Tidwell is a recent Plymouth high school graduate, and is presently a Patricia Stevens modeling student.

The part of the insufferable Paul is played by John Lodge. This is his third appearance in Guild presentations.

Russ Wallace plays the hateful villain of the play, whose ruthless grasping for wealth is permanently stopped by the convicts.

Jack Wilcox, who has appeared in four Guild productions—I Like it Here, Two Blind Mice, January Thaw and Mr. Barry's Etchings—plays a dashing Army Lieutenant, to whom Jeannine transfers her affections.

Daisy Hornback plays the role of the scatterbrained wife of a French Customs official who never pays her bills, but is forcibly transformed by the three "Angels."

A desire to resist oppression is implanted in the nature of man.—Tacitus.

Local Junior Achievers Place Stock On Detroit Stock Exchange Boards

A brand new stock issue will be placed on the boards of the Detroit Stock Exchange in Detroit's Penobscot building at 4 p.m. this Friday. Offered will be some of the finest stocks ever available when 160 Junior Achievement firms, including six owned and operated by Plymouth teen-agers, place 14,000 shares of stock valued at $7,000 on sale to the general public.

Junior Achievement stock, always sold for 50 cents a share, and non-transferrable, is sold by the boys and girls of JA to raise capital for their own manufacturing corporations which they founded and operate under the program sponsored by business and industry to help them "Learn by Doing".

Six of Plymouth's seven JA firms will have part of their stock on sale at the Exchange. They are: Typsa-Tra company, sponsored by Burroughs corporation, manufacturers of wooden trays; Bell-Prod company, sponsored by Michigan Bell Telephone company; makers of a telephone lamp; Home Products company, sponsored by Evans Products, makers of utility baskets; Phy-Hy Products, sponsored by Daisy Manufacturing company, makers of a hamburger press for kitchen use; Wudco Specialties, sponsored by Barnes-Gibson-Raymond; and JA Novel-Ites, Inc., sponsored by Burroughs corporation, manufacturers of TV snack tables.

In all, the Plymouth JA firms will have 500 shares of stock for sale on the Exchange, which can be purchased directly through any Detroit stock broker or by visiting the Exchange on the 23rd floor of Penobscot building.

Representatives of each JA firm involved in the sale will take the floor of the Exchange at 4 p.m. after the close of the regular day's trading and handle all functions of the sale, including dealing with the brokerage firms, recording sales, selling stock on the floor, etc., just as is done in regular trading.

Any way you look at it!

At first glance, this may seem to be a strange point of view. But it is true that sometimes you can save a lot of money by spending just a little. When illness strikes, don't "economize" with home remedies. Call on your Doctor promptly. Let him get you back on the Road to Recovery. And, of course, bring his prescriptions here for careful compounding by an experienced, competent pharmacist.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

10:30 Sunday morning service.
10:30 Sunday school.
Classes for pupils up to 20 years of age.
The fact that purification of thought and action removes the obstacles to individual growth, progress, and salvation, will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday.
Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" is the Golden Text from James (1:12): "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

Among the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary
Baker Eddy will be the following:
(492:7-12):

"Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character.
Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light."

From the Bible the following selections will be read (Philip-pans 3: 13,14):

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

A Layman Says...

He sent from above, he took me... he delivered me from my strong enemy. Psalm 18:16,17.
"Thanks to God that He took care of me in the midst of danger, the day we went to hunt animals. A buffalo tossed me and gored my thigh. I fell to the ground. I wanted to turn and get out of his way, but everywhere I turned, the buffalo was after me. What danger! My companions had climbed trees. There was none to help. But one came down! And he speared the head of the buffalo and saved me!"
We were like that man, wounded by sin, facing death on every hand, unable to save ourselves, and with none to help. But one came down, even our Lord Jesus, down from heaven's glory to this world of sin. He put away sin at the cross, defeated Satan in order to save us (Heb. 2:14, 15). Friend, have you trusted the One who died to save you? C.J.
Down from the splendor of His everlasting home, Came the Lord of glory for my sins to atone; Son of God eternal, He for sinners surely stood, Paid the sinners' ransom with His precious blood.

Salvation Army Carries On Large Program With Community Fund Help

(This is another in a series of articles explaining the needs of local organizations which are sharing in the Plymouth Community Fund.)
Though its spiritual purpose is still paramount, the Salvation Army is best known for its humanitarian work-work which requires the financial aid of fellow citizens.

The Community Fund board of directors has set aside $5,000 of the $24,500 goal so that the Plymouth corps of the Salvation Army can carry on its work for another year.

During the past year, 194 individuals received material aid in the form of food, clothing, shoes, fuel, etc. from the Army. There were 657 hours spent in pastoral visitations by Senior Major and Mrs. H. J. Nicholls. There were 203 public meetings held with an attendance of 5,812.

Sixty-seven visits were made to the Detroit House of Correction with 62 gospel meetings held for the inmates of both the ladies and men's divisions with an attendance of 3,914. Converts numbered 370 and many hundreds raised their hands during these gospel meetings signifying their wish for special prayers and spiritual aid.

The work at DeHoCo was especially heavy during the Christmas season when all inmates were given candy and fruit. There were also 2,785 War Crys, a weekly religious news magazine, distributed to inmates.

Candy and fruit was also given to all inmates of the Northville State hospital.
The Salvation Army was founded to bring religious enlightenment to those who could not, or would not seek it in other churches. Major Nicholls points out that the Salvation Army is not just a charity. "It is an expression of Christian spirit and helpfulness. It has but one purpose-the salvaging of souls."

Consistent and successful attacks are made by the Salvation Army on the juvenile delinquency problem from a preventative standpoint. It presents opportunities to youth in many fields, namely, religious education, character building programs, vocal and instrumental instruction, handicraft classes, etc.
For the past 26 years the Plymouth Salvation Army Corps has carried on its humanitarian work and has been the means of helping and blessing hundreds of people of all ages, regardless of nationality or creed.

Alert at all times to give emergency aid, Major Nicholls said that the Citadel building would be open for an emergency shelter in the event of a disaster.
Prominent citizens are elected to the advisory board each year. Present board members are:

chairman, Frank Henderson; vice-chairman, Mrs. J. H. Todd; secretary, Mrs. William Forney; treasurer, Mrs. D. S. Mills; Mrs. R. D. Willoughby, Charles Brake, Mrs. Nell Curry, Mrs. Russell Roe, Loren Goodale, Walter Clark, Edward Gardiner, Reverend Robert Richards, Mrs. Robert Richards, and Mrs. Helen Arnold, adjutant.

Well Well—

The difference between "just so" and "just so-so" seems to be almost a unique case where a doubling of the word tends to make it weaker. It is the general order, especially in pidgin English, that repetition is resorted to for emphasis.—Chicago Daily Tribune.

"You're the coach—
Put in the
whole team!"

Spirit, know-how and teamwork are what it takes to make a winning team; a team that knows its job, that carries the ball—and scores!

That's the kind of team you can field in Lansing and in Washington on November 2.

Top to bottom, you'll agree here's a lineup that will give Michigan the type of government to make you proud.

But—remember—you need the whole team. You need Donald S. Leonard as Governor to coordinate the effort, to provide the inspired leadership. You need the powerful voice of Senator Homer Ferguson in Washington to continue the fullest cooperation with President Eisenhower's Administration. And you need the full roster of capable, experienced, energetic Republican state officers working together to get things done for a greater Michigan.

Don Leonard has pledged his administration to action—on highway improvements—better school facilities—augmented retirement funds for teachers—broader agricultural representation at policy-making levels—a preventive mental health program—a strong youth guidance program—additional industry for Michigan to increase employment—care for the aged in their own communities—removal of politics from prison administration—sound, non-political conservation policies and increased promotion of Michigan's famed tourist attractions.

These are a few of the team's objectives. They cannot be had without teamwork. The team cannot function without leadership. For too long your needs have been thwarted by bickering and confusion in the Governor's office.

Now is the time for action!

Give the team your "go ahead" on November 2—Vote Straight Republican . . . for progress . . . for a greater Michigan!

Think straight—vote straight

A PROUD MOMENT for two youngsters took place Monday when they were each given checks for $7 for winning The Mail's football poll. From left are: Al Hubbs, Co-owner of Hubbs & Gilles, John Thomas and Jamie Eder, contest winners, and Jack Selle, local Buick dealer. Not present was the other member of the three-way tie, Ed Reeves of Inkster.

Weekly Football Poll Results in Three-Way Tie for First Place; One Winner 8 Years Old

An almost-impossible situation developed in The Plymouth Mail's football poll contest last week when there was a three-way tie for first place. Jamie Eder of 254 Blunk, Ed Reeves of Inkster and John Thomas of 9445 Elmhurst, shared the prize money Monday when it was announced that they had tied for first place. Each of them mis-called three games and each had an equal spread when they predicted the score of the Detroit Lions-Baltimore Colts game. Combining the first three prizes of $10, $7 and $3, The Mail handed each a check for $7, just to put it in round figures. (The total would have been $20 but who can divide 20 by 3?) One of the winners also claims the title for being the youngest winner yet. He is Jamie Eder, eight year-old student at Bird school. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eder, say that Jamie filled out the poll all by himself. Jamie is a great football fan, his parents added. He watches all the games he can on television and although he isn't old enough to read all the words on the sports pages, he scans the scores every Sunday. Jamie says he has a good use for the $7. It will go, of course, to buy a football helmet. Another youngster among the winners was John Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas. John is a Plymouth high school sophomore. Although he isn't a football player himself, he follows the Plymouth squad and watches a lot of football on TV. He has entered The Mail's football contests every time both this year and last year. This is his first time as a winner. The other winner, Ed Reeves, lives at 29723 Grandview, Inkster. Everyone missed on the Plymouth-Allen Park prediction. That game resulted in a 6-6 tie.

Rocks Battle Allen Park To 6-6 Grid Standstill

A high-flying Plymouth Rock football eleven was slowed down to a stand-still last Friday afternoon at Allen Park as the determined Cougars held Coach Charles Ketterer's charges to a 6 to 6 tie. Allen Park, who has not been beaten in 6-B league play this year, and is now a class A school, scored the first time the boys got their hands on the ball. On the second play from scrimmage, a 52-yard pass play clicked to Joe Angelotti for a touchdown, but the try for the extra point was unsuccessful, so the home-town-ers sported a 6 to 0 lead after a few minutes. Allen Park never seriously threatened again, but did get the ball inside the 10-yard line of their opponents once in the second half, but the Rocks held them for downs. Plymouth played a very inept game with poor blocking in both line and backfield, and tackling was definitely off, and the spirit and fire were missing. The Rocks were down in the Cougars' territory several times with first down, but ran out of gas. As time was running out in the first half, the Rocks scored the tying touchdown on a break. Allen Park attempted to punt from deep in its own territory, and the kick was blocked with Plymouth recovering on the Allen Park 30-yard line. Several plays took the ball to the one-yard line from where Captain Lee Juve bulled his way over the goal line. Dick Davidson tried the extra point that would have meant a one point margin, but the kick was off line, and the score remained 6 to 6. This score came three seconds before the end of the half, and the Rocks just had time to kick off to Allen Park as time ran out. The coaches were disappointed in the caliber of the offensive play, and much work is in store for the boys this week, particularly in blocking. Tomorrow Plymouth journeys to Belleville to close out the 6-B league season. The Rocks must win this one to stay in contention for the league championship. After this contest Plymouth has two more games left, one each with Garden City and Walled Lake.

It's Spring Again! Softball Sunday

The Inter-county league baseball championship, still has not been decided. There are four teams still playing in the upper bracket playoffs for teams of .500 percent or more. Auto Club is undefeated while the other three have each lost one contest in this two-game loss knockout. The past two Sundays all games were rained out, and Secretary Earl Gray says that another attempt will be made this Sunday. Wyandotte will play Northville at 12 p.m. in Cass Benton Park, while River Rouge will play Auto Club at 12 p.m. on the diamond in Riverside Park. The winner at Cass Benton will play Auto Club at 3 p.m. at Riverside Park. If Auto Club wins both its games Sunday, the team will be champions, but if they lose both they will be eliminated, and, if they split, another game will be necessary next week.

Harriers Drop Two Contests

Plymouth harriers dropped the last two cross country meets by identical scores. A week ago last Friday the Rocks were taken by Bentley. High 24 to 33, while Trenton duplicated that score last Friday. In the Bentley meet, Bob Danol came in first in a record time of 10:39 for the new Bentley course this year. Pieter Schipper was fourth, Tom Ferguson seventh, Russell Mecklenburg tenth and Wayne Smith eleventh. In the Trenton loss, Danol came in second to Joe Ohr of Trenton. Ohr's time was 11:10 for the longer Trenton course with Danol being about 30 yards back. Pieter Schipper came in fourth, Tom Ferguson, sixth, Earl Fulton ninth and Jim Sorenson twelfth. Tomorrow the 6-B league meet will be held at Allen Park at 3:30 p.m. The race this year is wide open with any one of four teams capable of taking the championship. The following week the Class A and B regional will be held at Trenton with the Rocks competing in Class A.

Starkweather Wins Two

In grade school football last Thursday Starkweather ran up a 20 to 0 score over Smith school. Fielding a greatly improved eleven, the northside team's touchdowns were scored by Dennis Smith, Gary Clement and John Hadwin. On Monday evening this week, Starkweather continued its winning ways by downing Our Lady of Good Counsel by a score of 12 to 0.

Sport Glances

by "Professor" Ed Brown

Michigan State came back to play a whale of a game against Notre Dame and with a little luck would have downed the Fighting Irish. Instead the Spartans lost a one-point decision. Some spectacular football was played on a muddy gridiron and it would have been a thriller on television for all to see.

MSC still a football power in spite of heavy losses in the line from last year, has lost three games this season by a total of 11 points. Playing some of the toughest teams in the country that is not a bad record. I admire a team that will take on all comers, whether in high school or college, and not run in a lot of pushovers for people to pay money to see snowed under by a lopsided score.

A new magazine for sports fans has made its debut. The magazine "Sports Illustrated" does justice to the all-around sports lover with plenty of pictures and articles on all types of events.

Most magazines deal with one sport, but this one covers the whole territory fairly well. Many of us in town take it, and a copy is also available at the high school library.

Athletic Alumni Secure Umpire For First Meeting

The first meeting of the Plymouth Athletic Alumni Association promises to be a good one for the group has obtained the services of a most notable personality of baseball's yesterday. Publicity Chairman Bill Lyons reports that Nicholas "Red" Jones, one of baseball's most colorful umpires, has been secured for the meeting as guest speaker. This first meeting will be held in the high school at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, October 25.

Umpire Jones retired from the American League after serving 14 years as an arbitrator to join the Pfeiffer Brewing company of Detroit. He is a native of Charlotte, North Carolina, and began his umpiring career in the South Atlantic League in 1936. In 1944 "Red" joined the American League staff and remained until 1948 when he resigned to accept his present position.

Jones will talk on baseball and other sports.

Anyone interested in athletics is cordially invited to attend. Tickets may be secured at the door.

Marching Band Plays at Belleville

"Darktown Strutters Ball" will be the featured song to which the Plymouth high school marching band will do a dance routine at half time at the Belleville game played away on October 22, 1954.

Before the dance the band will make three formations: first, a treble clef sign to which they will play "Music In the Air;" second, they will make a flat sign and play "Dragnet;" followed by a sharp sign in which they will play "Gillette Theme." To conclude the program the group will form a high hat in which formation the members will dance to their theme music.

Among the band's many activities are Ypsilanti Homecoming which the band will attend on October 30. Other activities the band is planning are the December 3 Band Show and the December 7 Band Members' Party.

The band attended the annual Michigan band day along with 110 other bands in Ann Arbor on October 9 when they played between the 9 halves of the game.

"There has never been as big a massed band, in the whole world," said Dr. Goldman, a great composer, who directed the bands. Together the bands played three of Dr. Goldman's famous marches, "Parade March No. 1," "Shennandoah," and "On the Mall," to which the bands and audience sang and whistled the trio.

Chips from the ROCK

One of the things about attending a national convention is the fact that you have an opportunity to exchange ideas with people from all over the country who many times have answers to your own problems. Another good thing is the fact that out of the scheduled speeches and panels you almost always hear one presentation that is particularly outstanding.

Last weekend at the National Editorial Association convention in Chicago it was Dr. R. C. S. Young, professor at the University of Georgia in Atlanta who stole the show. Speakers at NEA conventions are confronted with an audience that can and does go home and mangle their words and thoughts for presentation to their readers in any way they desire. So when they accept an invitation to appear before that particular group they are well aware of what might happen a few days later to their remarks.

However Dr. Young's speech was so thought-provoking and so well received many of the publishers in attendance, including myself, agreed to return to their home communities and pass on to their readers the major content of the talk which was entitled, "Why I am an American."

For followers of this column we urge them to read it and perhaps call it to the attention of their children. It will be five minutes very well spent for all concerned.

"Why I am an American," is the story of Dr. Young's coming to the USA from his native country of Scotland. Given in narrative style, the address points out the American way of life as seen through the eyes and mind of an immigrant.

In relating the events which led to his decision to seek a new life in the States, Dr. Young tells of the romantic element, the influence of the two songs; "Dixie" and "Everything is Peaches Down in Georgia." However, the more fundamental desire came from the urge to seek his own fortune rather than accept free passage to one of the colonies. (An opportunity extended to young men who had served in the First World War.)

His first job, as a worker in an auto factory, brings forcibly to mind the basic principle in all work—the necessity of work. Not only did he get a job, but he was promised a better one at the same time. The promotion to be gained lay in doing the first job well. Here again is a basic principle in the American system, namely, a promotion as the reward for services well done. At this point in the address, Dr. Young describes the European system of horizontal promotion as strangling ambition, whereas the vertical promotion in America has dignified work as no nation on earth has ever done.

The worker in the USA is not in a class. He is not in a strata; his work is but a temporary economic condition from which he can raise himself by hard work, perseverance, and the will to go ahead. As the speaker tells his experience in the saw mill, one sees the true status of the American worker. It is the struggle to rise, which makes each day another opportunity in America.

The greatest tragedy that could strike the American scene would be a class stratification based on occupation: an economic system in which the children would move around in the class of their parents, based on no other concept of life than the accident of birth. Our system represents vertical promotion, a fluid society. The worker of today is the owner of tomorrow.

The opportunity to vote was another point of particular interest, wherein the speaker contrasts the European who votes to "get" something from his government, whereas the American votes to "give" all the powers his government exercises. "Care must be taken," said Dr. Young, "lest we give so much away that a new generation may have to vote to get back that which a thoughtless generation of their elders gave away. Namely, their inalienable right to govern themselves in matters pertaining to business and social status."

The chance for an education is illustrated by Dr. Young in his own experience. Working at sundry jobs while gaining his college degree reveals the many and varied opportunities the immigrant recognizes: so frequently overlooked by the native born. Our children tend to accept the familiar pattern of their everyday life and overlook its uniqueness. In every state opportunities for higher education are being offered American youth. Knowing, as the speaker indicated, that an enlightened citizenry is the only real bulwark against the threat of socialism and communism. "In the old lands a very small percentage of the population ever reached the college level. This is not due to a lack of brains but lack of the money with which to purchase a commodity reserved for a certain class.

Not so in America! Here the goal of education is not to make it a luxury item but to make it a service; available to all who wish to acquire it. The limitation is not imposed by a caste or class system in America. The sole limitation is that the boy or girl may lack the mental ability to complete a college degree program. Money is no obstacle as Dr. Young relates the story; finishing with a cash balance without having to spend any of his personal savings.

While a student in a Georgia college, Dr. Young began to learn the true American way of life. Going to the various communities on visits with his college friends, he found the heart-beat of this great country. Kindly and gracious, these people taught the young immigrant the inherent beauty of simple home life.

In these homes the speaker learned to eat the many delicacies he had been denied throughout life. Food in abundance; food going to waste. "Truly," Dr. Young says, "God has entrusted great material resources to our care." We must husband these wisely and carefully. Learn to conserve lest our extravagancies lead us to more stringent standards of living.

Dr. Young tells the touching incident of his Georgia Peach and her long struggle with a crippling malady. After sixteen years she gains recovery which is nothing short of miraculous. Simply because, as the speaker says, "An American physician responded to the call of the suffering of so many thousands. Working through the years he finally found one of the answers. It has brought relief and restored this loved one to a measure of useful living. Costly, yes, but with no loss in freedom!"

The speaker emphasized especially the vast difference between the youth of America and those across the seas in the matter of war. There is no hate in the mind structure of American youth. They are not taught to hate and fear other nationalities as is so true in Europe.

On the contrary, the youth of America hold the secret of the United Nations in their grasp. They demonstrate everyday on the playground and in their classrooms that people of all nationalities can live together when the basis is one of mutual respect and understanding. American soldiers have fought in World Wars One and Two. They have fought in Korea. The marvelous tribute to the American temperament is the fact that these same boys who fought with such gallantry were ready to adopt the orphans from among their former enemies.

Our economic system with its emphasis on private initiative and individual advancement, holds out to the teeming masses of the world today the one remaining light of human dignity.

Our way of life, which is so often taken for granted by the native born, remains for Dr. Young the great challenge to live out the dream he had as a youth when his thoughts were first directed to, "Georgia" and "peaches".

A JOB WELL DONE

By Sterling Eaton

Mayor Russell Daane and members of the city commission are to be commended on the considerate action they approved Monday night regarding the widening and black-topping of Main street.

There is no question but what improvement of the city's main thoroughfare will benefit all of the residents of the community and the final form in which they approved the project will work no financial hardship on any of the property owners along the street.

In the face of objections from some of the property owners the commission approved the widening from Mill to the school on a forty foot basis and from the school to Penniman, where Church, Dodge and Fralick enter Main street it will be widened to forty-four feet.

Though the action only starts paper work on the project actual completion is not too far distant if a few of the property owners on the street are cooperative in releasing some of their street frontage. It might also be well to remember that five or six years ago several property owners on the west side of the street did make available to the city some twelve feet of their property which probably did much to bring the present plan about.

If unforeseen stumbling blocks are not encountered it is possible that actual work on curbs and widening will get underway next summer. The Main street improvement will mark one of the major accomplishments any commission has provided for the city in recent years.

One Good Term Deserves Another

Congressman Charles G. Oakman, the only Republican Representative in Washington from Wayne County, deserves another term. He has proven to his constituents in this district that he is an effective legislator and he has perhaps a better insight to the problems of this area than any other of the Wayne County Congressmen.

In addition to being immediately alert to problems of his constituents he has given freely of his time to residents of Plymouth in helping to solve their own particular problems. He is a tireless worker and has done an excellent job for this district in addition to having gained for himself one of the best records of support for the Eisenhower administration of any member in Congress.

He is pledged to continue that support and can be relied upon to give it. We think he deserves your unqualified assistance.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

"The Plymouth township board was asked last week to permit construction of a trailer court in the township. Its zoning laws and those in Plymouth forbid trailer living. Do you think trailer courts should be outlawed?"

MRS. PERCY GOTTS, 1105 Ridge road: "I think those who own trailers need to have some place to put them. Most trailer camps are kept up decently. It would be up to the township supervisor and board to see to it that the camp is kept clean."

JOHN BLICKENSTAFF, 968 Penniman: "I think a certain place should be set aside in the area for a trailer camp, somewhere on the edge of town would be okay. Trailers help a lot of people out who need homes in a hurry."

MRS. TERRY TALLMADGE, 437 Canton Center road: "If it is an attractive camp, such as some with playgrounds for children, there should be no complaints. Some of them resemble little communities. Trailer camps are necessary wherever there is a housing shortage."

RAY CRUMB, 1135 Starkweather: "I moved to Plymouth three and a half years ago from Detroit and I lived near some trailer camps there. Some were a credit to the community, others were not. If they are allowed, they should be supervised closely. If they are not kept up, of course they should not be allowed. I don't think most trailer camps are necessary."

Roger Babson Says:

BABSON DISCUSSES FLORIDA'S FUTURE

Babson Park, Massachusetts. Almost everyone — including boosters for California, Arizona, and New Mexico — will agree that the Florida winter climate cannot be beat. Up to the present time, however, readers have heard no praise of Florida's industrial possibilities.

REASONS WHY FLORIDA LACKS INDUSTRIES

Any state which lacks industries usually lacks available jobs. This means that before moving to Florida you had better arrange to have a check from a pension fund or from invested funds sent to you from the North each month. Don't go to Florida now without either money or a promised job. This may apply also to other states; but I know Florida, having spent thirty winters there.

The main reason Florida has lacked jobs is because it has lacked heavy industries. The main reason it has not held its own industrially is because of its lack of natural gas—absolutely essential for industries which require a large amount of heat. Only four of our forty-eight states are operating with this handicap.

WHY FLORIDA LACKS NATURAL GAS

The first answer to this question is because natural gas has not been found as yet in Florida. It will be found some day; but when, no one knows. The second answer is that the constantly increasing demand for natural gas by the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, and other states lessens Florida's chance for supply by pipelines.

The situation has become worse since the big pipelines have been extended to the industrial East. This discourages the building of big pipelines into and through Florida to take natural gas into the state from states bordering Florida on the north.

FLORIDA MAY HAVE AN INDUSTRIAL BOOM

Through work being done by Willard L. Morrison, a famous engineer of Lake Forest, Illinois, supplemented by the work of the Florida Research Group, at Babson Park, Florida, I believe Florida will get a great supply of natural gas from Venezuela. This gas will be compressed at Venezuela—on the basis of 600 cubic feet of gas being made from one cubic foot of liquid gas.

GAS WILL BE SHIPPED BY WATER

This liquefied gas will be shipped in barges. They will be towed singly or in pairs from Venezuela to Tampa. The barges will be used for storage of the gas while it is being vaporized. Remember, one cubic foot of liquid gas will make 600 cubic feet of natural gas. Florida may well have the cheapest natural gas of any state.

Already Mr. Morrison is making contracts for sale of this liquefied gas to the Stock Yards of Chicago, after towing it from New Orleans up the Mississippi River. Yet, Florida is 2,000 miles nearer Venezuela than is Chicago. Yes, Florida is headed for a great industrial development.

THE VALUE OF REFRIGERATION

When the condensed liquid turns into gas, a tremendous amount of cold is produced. Mr. Morrison has selected the Chicago Yards as his first customer instead of many other nearer cities because of the Stock Yards' demand for refrigeration.

But, certainly, Florida needs refrigeration as well as natural gas! It is needed not only to freeze citrus juices and to preserve other products, but to "cool the entire state in summer." If natural gas is discovered in Florida, or piped in, such gas will give the needed heat, but not the needed refrigeration. Liquefied gas, however, will provide both warmth in winter and coolness in summer, together with the terrific heat needed for industry throughout the year. For further details contact any Florida Gas Company.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Gene Alleman Secy. Mich. Press Ass'n.

MICHIGAN'S INSURANCE department has been the unwilling target of what Democrats call politics and Republicans label "a desire to protect the industry and policy-holders."

For weeks, Auditor General John B. Martin and Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Navarre have been in a tussle, the result of which is still in doubt.

It all started when Martin, a Republican, said Navarre, a Democrat, was permitting unlicensed firms from other states to sell high risk and mail order policies in Michigan.

Navarre decided to be patient, objective and courteous about the whole thing. First he agreed with Martin that unlicensed firms operate in Michigan—but are permitted to do so by state laws.

He said high risk policies—like a policy paying off if it doesn't rain tomorrow—are seldom written by Michigan firms. Lloyds of London, among others, sell them anywhere, including Michigan.

The only requirement is that no out-of-state company can operate here until Navarre's department has an affidavit that the policies cannot be placed with Michigan firms.

"Navarre has made no real effort to get the affidavits," said Martin.

"We can't keep track of every agent," said Navarre.

Martin switched to the other foot and claimed that Missouri firms were flooding the state with mail order insurance policy applications and it was costing Michigan between $50,000 and $500,000 in taxes every year.

He said Michigan cannot control the Missouri insurance department, and if people want to take a chance on collecting a claim in another state, it's their money.

Martin said he figures federal legislation will be necessary.

Navarre said he guessed so, too. But until Nov. 2, Republicans will still be after the Democratic Navarre and Democrats will be yelling "politics."

MONEY LEFT OVER after all the bills have been paid is usually diverted into a pet project of the state agency involved.

Legend has it that one department, finding itself with $3,000 in the kitty at the end of the year, carpeted the floor of a storeroom rather than admit it couldn't spend all its money.

That's why it was refreshing when The Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority turned back $24,057 from funds it received to pay for plans and specifications for the span between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

HIGHWAY SAFETY begins behind the wheel, a new point of attack in Michigan.

Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary is dedicated to the idea and his new Driver License Services Division is weeding out bad drivers by the thousands.

First offenders go through the normal court process, pay a fine and get back on the highway—but it all goes into the precise records kept by Cleary's new division.

The second time, the offender gets a stiff warning and a letter from Cleary—a last chance letter.

With Cleary, it's three times and out.

Third offenders get a hearing before an examiner and the license is suspended or revoked, depending on the seriousness of the case.

"Ultimately, we'll either have fewer or better drivers, but in either case, we'll have safer highways," he said.

MICHIGAN'S COLLEGES and universities are having growing pains with an enrollment boom expected to overflow every four-year institution in the state by 1960.

Faced with the democratic belief of an education for everyone who wants one, they're looking for a way out.

Favorite Recipes From Plymouth's Kitchens

PREPARATION OF Aunt Laura's rolls seems to be a family affair at the David Johnsons, 489 Blunk. Helping mother are, left, David, Meg, and Matthew Johnson.

Serve Aunt Laura's Delicious Rolls

Aunt Laura's Rolls are a favorite with the David Johnson family of 489 Blunk. According to Mrs. Johnson, the recipe was one that belonged to her husband's Aunt Laura. Mrs. Johnson vouches for their tasty goodness and points out that in her busy household she especially likes the fact that even though they're made with yeast, you don't have to knead them. A real time-saver. Here's how she goes about making them.

Aunt Laura's Rolls

- 1/2 c. shortening (melted)
- 1/3 c. sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 c. scalded milk
- 1 cake yeast plus 2 T. sugar dissolved in 1/4 c. water
- 1 slightly beaten egg
- 3 1/2 c. all-purpose flour measured before sifting.

Add shortening, sugar, salt, and egg to milk. Dissolved yeast may be added when the milk mixture is cooled to 80 degrees Fahrenheit. Add flour with electric mixer until it gets too stiff. Then add remainder of flour with spoon, stirring as much as possible. Let rise in bowl until double in bulk. Then punch down. Roll thoroughly walnut-size pieces of dough into balls and place three in a section of well-greased muffin tins. Then let the rolls rise again until they reach the top of the muffin tins. Put in pre-heated oven at 375 degrees and bake for 18 minutes.

Mrs. Johnson points out that thorough stirring of the batter dough when adding the flour, and extra rolling when forming the little balls avoids the process of kneading.

New Books at Dunning Library

This week's new books at Dunning library cover a variety of subjects so there's just about something for every reader. Among the group are "Pensions and Profit Sharing" put out by the Bureau of National Affairs in Washington, D.C., Alexander Walordy's "How to Buy a Used Car," and "Living and Learning in Nursery School" by Rudolph.

Others include Jim Conroy's "Destination Revenge," "Vengeance Street" by Robert Bloomfield, Matthews' "Guide to Community Action" and one by Withers and Benet called "The American Riddle Book."

Those who like westerns will find several among the new books. They are "Delta Deputy" by L. P. Homes, Ermine's "The Iron Bronc," "Montana Maverick" by Peter Field and Arthur H. Gooden's "The Long Trail."

Also on the "new book" shelf are "Industrial Wastes" by Rudolph, Ruth Chatterton's "The Pride of the Peacock," Tompkins' "Gold on the Hoof" and L. P. Hartley's best seller, "The Go-Between."

American Government, Seventh Edition."

This latest shipment also brought the following publications: "Your Deafness Is Not You," by G. Murphy, Reiley's "Group Fun" and "Human Geography" by White and Renner.

Six murder mysteries also came in the shipment and include Marie Blizard's "The Watch Sinister," "The Case of the Runaway Corpse" by Erle Stanley Gardner, Margaret Millar's "Do Evil in Return," Philip MacDonald's "Something to Hide," Genevieve Holden's "Killer Loose!" and "Sinister Stones" by Arthur W. ## Social Aider Visits City Each Month

A representative of the Wayne County Bureau of Social Aid is a monthly visitor in Plymouth, citizens were reminded this week.

Mrs. Dorothy Tallon, the bureau's representative here, pointed out that she is in Plymouth the second Tuesday of each month at 1 p.m. to meet with persons having questions about social aid.

The office handles old age assistance, aid to the blind, aid to dependent children and aid to the disabled cases.

Mrs. Tallon has her Plymouth visiting place in the city commission chambers. In case of an emergency, Mrs. Tallon can be reached at 636 Beaubien street, Detroit, or telephoned at Woodward 3-1345.

Because the November visit will fall on Armistice Day, the representative will not be here until December 9 for her next visit.

Color Gives Bath a Lift

Why not glamorize your bath with a fresh, bright color scheme? Start with your favorite color and let it set the tone for the whole room.

Lavender might be your choice for window curtains and matching shower curtain. Lavender and white wall tiles, arranged in checkerboard pattern, would carry the scheme along. Then seek out a harmonizing wall covering, perhaps a pastel blue with white and bright blue pattern. A handsome terry towel could pick up the bright blue touch from the wall, and a white cotton carpet or bath mat would complete the scheme.

Pink and red, with accents of black, set the pattern for another striking and distinctive bathroom.

There are scores of other possibilities, depending on your own color taste. You can use just about any basic color as a starting point and mix and match as you please.

These days, cotton towels, wash cloths, curtains, mats and carpets are seen in such a profusion of colors and patterns that there is virtually no limit to your choice of combinations. Many come in ensembles, with towels and shower curtains matched for color and design. You'll find a variety of both traditional and contemporary designs.

Perhaps the color of your clothes hamper, or the tile or colored fixtures will suggest a decorating scheme. Maybe the wall covering or even a painting will be your starting point. Whatever starts your thinking about more color in the bathroom, carry the scheme right through to the end, until you have achieved complete color harmony.

Beltsville turkeys, the small white breed of birds, get plump and meaty while they are still young. These birds are practically free from pinfeathers, too.

Delight Guests With These Tasty Desserts

Looking for an extra-special dessert, one that promises praise galore from your guests? Then choose from these luscious sweets—each a creation to delight the most particular taste.

Plan a Party for Halloween

HOW about letting the kiddies celebrate Halloween with a "hang-up" costume party? It isn't much trouble and can be more fun than a barrel of monkeys.

For the location... an old barn, vacant garage, or corner of the cellar would be fine. A few orange crates can be the chairs. Jack-o-lanterns and corn shocks will supply atmosphere.

For entertainment... it's great fun to guess identities before unmasking. And who doesn't like to bob for apples? Other suggestions... a corn kernel hunt, dropping clothespins into a milk bottle, and pinning the tail on the donkey.

Food is a big attraction at a party. Follow the theme of Halloween by serving decorated cupcakes. Make these as orange as the holiday by using a recipe that calls for condensed tomato soup. They'll be spicy and delicious! Decorate with white icing and fruits or Halloween candies. Cloves or chocolate chips could also be used.

Hot cider and salted popcorn taste good with cupcakes. And treat each guest to a favor of corn candy in a black cat paper cup to take home.

Here's the cupcake recipe to guarantee success at the party.

Halloween Cupcakes

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
  - 3 teaspoons baking powder
  - ½ teaspoon soda
  - ½ teaspoon powdered cloves
  - ½ teaspoon cinnamon or mace
  - ½ teaspoon nutmeg
  - 1 cup seedless raisins
  - ½ cup shortening
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 2 eggs, well beaten
  - 1 can (1½ cups) condensed tomato soup
- Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and spices. Wash and chop raisins; dust with a small amount of flour mixture. Cream shortening and sugar; add eggs and mix thoroughly. Add flour mixture alternately with soup; stir until smooth. Fold in raisins. Pour into cupcake papers, placed in muffin tins. Fill ¾ full. Bake at 375° F. about 20 minutes or until done. 1 dozen cupcakes. FNS

Eat Apple for Taste, Nutrition

It wouldn't be a Halloween party without ducking for apples, and you'd be missing a lot if you didn't eat the apple you were artful enough to catch.

Eat it because it tastes so good, with its creamy color, juicy texture and shiny, snapping peel. Eat it for its health values. The principal food value of apples is in their content of carbohydrates. Apples have been recognized by the American Medical Association's Council of Foods as a useful therapeutic agent in the dietary management of diarrhea. The therapeutic value has been attributed to the pectin content of apples.

Nature's Toothbrush Is An Apple

Eat the apple for the health of your teeth. It is true, according to dentists, that apples are good for our teeth. They call apples "Nature's toothbrush," and value them for their detergent action.

When we eat succulent apples, they cleanse the teeth as we chew, and this, dentists say, helps to keep our teeth in good condition after our meals, or between meals. In view of the number of foods dentists wish we would not eat, for the sake of our teeth, it is good to know one they can heartily recommend.

October 21-30 is National Apple week, so be sure to have plenty of apples in the fruit bowl, and in pies, cakes, dumplings and fritters to celebrate this oldest of fruits.

Meat Supply Plentiful; Time to Buy, Freeze

An excellent "meat season" for all consumers, but especially home freezer owners, is at hand.

Record supplies of beef and large supplies of pork are reaching the market in increasing volume with the onset of the fall and winter months, the customary season for peak slaughtering.

Generally when the supply is highest, prices are lowest and quality best. Such times present freezer owners opportunities to buy meat in quantity advantageously, stocking up for future needs.

Beef prices already have dipped, because of the record 1954 production, well in advance of the usual peak supply months of January and February. Therefore, industry sources say there may not be as sharp a seasonal drop ahead as might be expected normally; though it could increase somewhat, a meat buying advantage is present now.

Pork is expected to be most plentiful, and most economical, in October and November this year, in line with the usual seasonal pattern.

The freezer owner can find special buys in meat at times other than traditional peak-supply seasons. And there are also factors of convenience that make a frozen meat inventory desirable any time.

Freeze only meats of best quality and be sure to wrap them well, experts advise. All possible air must be taken out of the package and kept out. This means using good grades of wrapping materials like foil and ployfilm or polyethylene, wrapping snugly, sealing tightly and perhaps adding stockinette overwrap to prevent puncturing.

To lengthen meat's frozen storage life and intensify its flavor, deepfreeze home economists recommend sprinkling it with monosodium glutamate. For pork with a fatty side and a lean side, they suggest sprinkling ascorbic acid powder over the fat and monosodium glutamate over the lean, to prolong storage life.

Recommended maximum frozen storage periods for meats include: beef and lamb, one year; veal, six to eight months; fresh pork, four to six months.

When canning by the hot-water method, start counting time as soon as the water is boiling briskly. Keep it boiling briskly as long as the timetable recommends for the particular food you are canning.

Offers Ideas for Fixing That Problem Window

Here are some ideas for fixing up the "problem" window that all too often creates a home decorating difficulty.

Let's take the corner window. Unless curtained correctly, it will merely be a bank expanse of glass. Give it a graceful, fluid line with full-length tailored curtains of cotton marquisette, dotted or plain, or crisp, sheer organdy.

You might use a series of full-length, tailored cotton marquisettes on a traverse rod. You can open them easily for full sunlight and air. However, even when closed, they will admit some sunlight and air because of their open weave.

Another way of treating the corner window is with tiered organdy curtains. They provide a nice informal note. Cotton tiers, when hung on long rods, can form all sorts of combinations for example, they can be opened at the top for sunlight and kept closed at the bottom for privacy. Be sure the tiers overlap for a graceful fall of the sheer material.

Here's a suggestion for the tall picture window: use graceful, ruffled criss-cross curtains of cotton marquisette or organdy. This style is not at all complicated to hang, since it is actually one pair of curtains hung on two rods—one behind the other—or on one double rod. It carries its own ruffled valance.

The graceful Priscilla curtain is another approach to the problem window. This style is similar to the criss-cross, but the ruffles meet in the center to form a graceful arch. Hung on one rod, this style, too, carries its own crisp, ruffled valance. It is adaptable to large or small dots woven right into the cotton.

To avoid ice crystals in frozen sandwiches, store them away from the sides and bottom of freezer.

Snack Bar Arrangements Highlight 'Living Kitchen', Center of Activities

Today's kitchen has become the center of family activities and entertainment, the place to enjoy the meals as well as to prepare them. It's what designers term the "living kitchen."

And one of the most popular features of the living kitchen, in new homes as well as in modernization of old kitchens, is the snack bar where the family can eat breakfast and lunch and, if the bar is long enough, even dinner.

Snack bars have gained popularity because they require less space, in most cases, than a table and chairs. They have become particularly widespread in steel kitchens because it's easy to plan them from a wide variety of special purpose units available in today's steel kitchen cabinets.

Simply by selecting the standard steel cabinet units that fit your kitchen's styling, you can give the room an original appearance with a snack bar area that reflects your own personality and living habits. The surprising thing, too, is that there's little additional expense involved to incorporate a distinctive built-in dining counter in your steel kitchen.

You can fashion a snack bar, for instance, by extending a counter top at right angles from a row of steel base cabinets along the wall, forming a peninsula that projects into the room. The extended counter can be supported by an open-shelf and cabinet equipped with chrome-trimmed glass shelves or steel shelves which add to your kitchen's decor—and which also are ideal for your toaster, plants, telephone, and knick-knacks.

The counter extension also can be supported by round-door steel end cabinets which give a semi-circular design with cabinet shelves enclosed. Or you can simply use a chrome leg support to hold up the counter.

The length of your snack bar will depend, of course, upon the space available in your kitchen and upon the size of your family. If room space won't permit a peninsula styling for the snack bar, you still can fashion one parallel with the wall simply by leaving an opening the width you desire in a row of steel base cabinets. Then extend the counter as a continuous piece from the top of the base cabinets across the opening.

The hard-surfaced plastic or linoleum counter tops available with steel cabinets provide a snack bar surface that's easy to clean just by wiping with a cloth. And the steel cabinets themselves are easily kept in gleaming condition by the same method. They'll last a house-time, too, for the steel in the cabinets and counters never will warp, crack, or otherwise be affected by changing atmospheric conditions of the kitchen.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-309

DESIGN C-309. For a limited budget and a narrow lot, this plan has much to offer. There are three bedrooms, bath, living room and a kitchen-dinette, which can be opened into the living room by means of a folding partition. There is a full basement down from the grade entry. The central hall assures privacy for all rooms and excellent circulation through the house. Cabinets occupy opposite walls of the kitchen with refrigerator and stove in the cabinets on the inside wall. Exterior finish consists of shingle and vertical siding, planting area, and pitch and gravel roofing on a flat roof constructed to carry necessary snow loads. Floor area is 936 sq. ft. and cubage is 15,912 cu. ft. For further information about DESIGN C-309, write the Building Editor, The Plymouth Mail.

Keeping Tools Clean

The application of a light coat of household wax will keep the top of a circular saw table free of rust and dirt which often mars wood being worked. Delta power tool experts point out. Also, the wax will permit easy sliding of wood stock being cut.

Browsing with BARBARA

Yesterday I decided to take a stroll down Penniman avenue and stopped in at Blunk's, where Mr. Lantz met me and pointed out the changes in the store. They're really as busy as bees in there finishing up with renovations in the carpet department and they've completely changed their main floor display.

The biggest change you'll see at Blunk's is the breaking up of the floor area in that big main room into individual room settings, each set off by means of plastic rope dividers set on wooden frames. Now you can see just how a room in your home might look in colonial, French provincial, eighteenth century or modern styling.

Blunk's have sample living rooms, bedrooms and dining rooms all set up in the various periods of furniture, complete even to the pictures on the wall. Believe me, you'll see plenty of things you'd like to buy, and those attractive room settings really show them off to perfection. You'll find everyone at Blunk's most helpful in assisting you with the selection of period furniture you like best out of the many lovely new fall and winter items.

Then Mr. Lantz took me into the room where they have all the carpets and tile. It was just about finished when I was there, and I'm sure you homeowners are really going to have the time of your life picking out flooring materials for your house.

Blunk's have set the department up along the lines of self-service, so you folks can just step in and actually handle the carpeting and tile on display there, making it easier for you to select your own materials. You can take all the time you want in picking and choosing and Blunk's will be happy if you just want to come in to browse and take a peek at their new set-up.

All Season Door Increases Comfort

One modern door can take the place of two older types. Appropriately called the "combination door," it makes use of interchangeable inserts to perform the functions of separate storm and screen doors.

The wooden or metal "door blank"—the side, top, and bottom pieces, the heaviest part of the door—need never be taken off its hinges. The blank serves as a frame for lightweight panels, which are changed according to the season.

When a screen insert is used during warm weather, the door is a screen door. When a glass insert is used during the winter, it's a storm door. Inserts can be changed with ordinary household tools or no tools at all.

Convenience is one big advantage of a combination door. Changing inserts is an easy task. Little storage space is needed for the insert not in use.

Economy is another factor in the combination door's appeal. Roughly equivalent to a door-and-a-half in material and labor needed for manufacture, it costs less than two complete doors.

When a combination door is used as a storm door, the dead air space between it and the regular door serves as insulation, keeping warm air in and cold air out. This eliminates drafts and reduces fuel consumption. In a house fully equipped with storm doors and window storm sash, heating costs usually are reduced 15 to 30 percent.

Combination doors are made in a variety of designs and materials to suit any architectural style and in sizes to fit any doorway. Some types have decorative grilles or lower panels. In one variation of the combination door, the screen always stays in place; in winter, the storm insert covers the screen on the outside.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Question: I have refinished a table top and placed the glass top on it. Now the glass sticks to the finish, although it was perfectly dry, and appears to have a sweaty look. The finish then blisters. What type of finish is required for the table top? I used both shellac and varnish with the same results.

Answer: The glass should not be placed directly on the table top. It should rest on felt or cork supports along the edges, or in "button" form at each corner. With the air between glass and finished table top the sweating and blistering will stop.

Question: I want to cut an opening in a glazed tile wall without damaging any of the other tiles. The hole must be the size of a conduit box. How do I cut this tile?

Answer: It would be best to remove one entire tile, then cut and replace it. When cutting, score the glaze with a sharp chisel or glass cutter, then score the back on the same line, and finally snap the tile across a straight edge block or table edge. To replace, take out some of the cement behind the tile, smooth it off, and put the tile back in place with adhesives—one of the waterproof black ones holds best—then fill the joints with white tile pointing mastic.

Question: Recently, I purchased a brick and wood shingle home, about 25 years old, and the wood shingles are in need of stain. They are dark brown, and I would like to change the color to green. Several people have advised me to retain the shingles but I would prefer paint. What is your recommendation?

Answer: Those dark stains for wood shingles often have a creosote base which bleeds through paint. How much stain remains on your shingles can best be determined by a sample shingle test with the paint you select. If there is enough stain remaining to bleed through the paint or blister it off, you'd better retain the shingles.

Before the mass production of plate glass in America mirrors were treasures to be passed down as heirlooms from generation to generation.

Smoothing A Job

Delta power tool experts say that a buffing wheel will give smooth, polished finish to scroll-sawn and molded or shaped edges of curved wood parts. To prepare the buffer use a tight woven wheel and moisten its working surface uniformly with silicate of soda, commonly known as liquid glass, then sprinkle with abrasive grain. When thoroughly dry, the buffer is ready for use.

Use of Mirror Helps Small Room

Where space is at a premium, a mirrored wall, such as in this model apartment, creates the feeling of roominess. By deciding on a mirror here, the decorator literally turned the wall into the focal point of the room. Note how the fireplace on the opposite side is reflected in the mirror, seemingly doubling the room's width. Interior designers everywhere like such artful tricks with mirrors, particularly where they have a problem of dimension or want to put extra sparkle into a room.

William Wasmund, one of the Detroit football players lost a gold watch and fob last Friday evening as he was going to the train. The boys started a foot race and in running the watch was shaken from his pocket.

Lee Nowland, while picking apples the other day, fell from the tree and struck heavily on his back on the ground, the fall stunning him, and causing injuries which have since confined him to his bed. Luckily no bones were broken.

The pumps at the power house refused to work Friday night and the fires had to be taken from under the empty boilers, otherwise a serious explosion might have happened. Saturday the electric wires were grounded, stopping the running of the cars.

Many Plymouthites are having their homes electrically lighted. The business houses, however, are not falling into line very rapidly.

Mrs. Carrie Markham left for Ann Arbor Wednesday to undergo an operation for a cancerous infection near the eye. It is expected the eye will have to be removed to afford the needed relief.

Ed Gayde and Robert Walker expect to leave Saturday for a week's stay at the World's Fair in St. Louis.

Grow Flowers for Christmas By Planting Bulbs in Bowls

Jumbo hyacinth bulbs will flower in hyacinth glasses, filled with water.

Growing flowers for Christmas in a living room is not easy, but it can be done if Paper White Narcissus bulbs are started Nov. 1, and grown in carefully regulated temperatures. Without such care the flowers are likely to be inferior, and the stems weak, because the bulbs have not matured to the degree most favorable for "forcing."

"Forcing" is the florist's word for making a plant flower out of season; and the formula for accomplishing this is much the same with all bulbs. Bulbs develop, even in storage; and take time to reach the stage where they are ready to grow. When planted, they first must produce roots, since top growth without good roots is weak, and seldom flowers.

Paper White narcissi, planted in bowls filled with gravel or pearl chips and water, should be kept in a temperature below 60 degrees for four weeks; preferably in dim light. When root growth is sufficient, top growth will begin, and then they should have all the light possible. Best flowers will result when the temperature never exceeds 70 degrees; keep them away from radiators and steam pipes, and out of overheated living rooms.

Instead of gravel, bowls may be filled with bulb fibre, or potting soil. Containers should be deep enough to allow two inches of gravel, fibre or soil below them. Set the bulbs close together but do not let them touch; and only the necks should emerge from the soil.

Yellow Paper Whites (soliel d'or) and Narcissus Early Perfection can also be grown by these methods; but they take longer to make flowers. The best time to start all these is Dec. 1, or later when the bulbs have fully developed.

Large bulbs of hyacinths can be grown in water in special glasses. The glasses support the bulbs just above the water, into which their roots drop. It takes 10 to 12 weeks for the roots to develop, in a dark place, in cool temperature. When roots fill the glass and top growth begins, accustom the plant gradually to light, and grow slowly in a temperature below 65 degrees. The water should not be changed, but merely replenished.

When top growth begins, these bulbs must have all the light you can give them. They should be kept near windows, in a sun-parlor or room where ventilation can be given and temperatures kept down. By arranging shelves in front of a window on which the plants can stand, an attractive display is made.

Lily of the Valley pips can be flowered in bowls of sphagnum moss which is kept moist. Give them the same treatment given Paper White Narcissus.

Health and Beauty

Fale, dull skin can be caused by a number of things, but it always indicates a below-par physical condition. This is a common complaint even among teen-age groups. The best step is to have your doctor give you a complete physical examination.

In addition to a complete physical, get plenty of fresh air, outdoor exercise, sleep and rest. Choose your food with care and include items rich in iron. Several good sources of iron are: liver, shellfish, leafy greens, whole grain cereal and dried fruits.

While you are building up your health, there is no law against using a powder base with a rosy glow and artfully applied rouge.

If you bruise easily, it could be you lack the proper amount of vitamin C. You must make sure you eat lots of citrus fruits and leafy green vegetables.

There is a possibility that the cause may be glandular. If so—it is a matter for your doctor to deal with.

There are a number of blemish-covering creams to match any skin tone which will cover the damage very nicely. Some are water-repellent.

It has been established that cold sores are caused by a virus. It is not the same virus which causes colds, but it is very close. The best treatment seems to be hot compresses applied to the sores. Then dab them gently with camphor. Cover the sores with one per cent yellow oxide of mercury.

Recurrent cold sores are now being treated with small pox vaccinations.

Hunter's Moon, Meteor Showers Slated for October

The Hunter's moon, bright competition for the sun, the Milky Way and meteor showers, thus goes the billing of October's astronomical attractions.

A great boon for hunters because of its plentiful light, the moon reached its full phase on October 11. Popularly called the Hunter's Moon, it strongly resembles September's Harvest Moon.

The sun's competition comes from the star Capella, third brightest one visible from the northern latitudes. If the Earth were placed between Capella and the Sun, the former would send us more than 100 times as much light as the Sun.

Capella was known to the early Arabs as "the Driver," referring to its bright appearance in the evening twilight before the other stars, apparently guiding and guarding them in their nightly journeys.

The star, called "The Goat," rises in the northeast at sunset and is followed by the rest of the constellation Auriga, a five-sided figure with Capella at one of its corners. Close and to the right of the Goat is a small triangle of three fainter stars, represented on old star maps as the "kids" carried in the goatherd's lap, while the "Goat" is on his shoulder.

The Milky Way will be an attraction across the sky from the northeast to southwest, with the Northern Cross almost directly overhead.

A meteor shower is scheduled for October, Orionids around October 22. It will be a scanty shower with just a few stragglers visible here and there. Among other astronomical attractions will be the Pleiades, coming up in the east an hour after Capella. Six of these stars appear in the form of a tiny dipper, and they should be readily seen with an unaided eye. Tradition has it that one of the earlier naked-eye stars has been lost or grown dim, hence the references to the lost Pleiad.

The Pleiades are found in the constellation Taurus, she continues, in which there is also another well known figure, the Hyades, arranged in the form of a rather large letter "V". Rising on its side, this constellation has the bright orange star, Aldebaran, at the lower end of the "V", called the "Eye of Taurus."

Other appearances in the October skies will include Mercury, rising in the southwest around evening twilight.

Venus also will be in the southwestern sky but several degrees to the left of these two planets. It reached its greatest brilliancy on October 11. The planet Mars continues in the southwest sky, and Jupiter will begin to rise in the northeast.

Official School Board Proceedings

The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Plymouth Township Schools, Wayne County, was held at the business office on December 14, 1953.

Present: Mr. Booth, Mr. Caplin, Mr. Gallimore and Mr. Smith.
Absent: Mrs. Willoughby.

Also present: Mr. Foppes, Mr. Kowalcik, Mr. Fluckey, Mr. Grey and Mr. Isbister.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and the intervening special meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Foppes appeared before the Board to express the feelings of parents in his neighborhood about the safety of children who board the buses along Ford Road. He suggested that the school bus make an extra run in his neighborhood to avoid the hazard of the highway.

The Board explained that the added bus service was not available but Superintendent Isbister was instructed to employ and attendant to watch the crossing.

Mr. Grey of Mills Mutual Insurance Agency presented a cost comparison of the $2,450,735, general form extended coverage fire insurance now in effect in the Plymouth School Building.

Mr. Fluckey, speaking in behalf of the local insurance agents, indicated that the premium for that amount of insurance would be $469.85.

It was pointed out the rates are set by the Michigan Inspection Bureau and therefore, avoiding errors in computation, the premiums should be the same.

It was moved by Mr. Smith and seconded by Mr. Caplin that insurance contract in the amount of $407,147 expiring on December 1, 1953 be awarded to the local agents and placed in Mutual Companies; and the contract of the Allen Elementary School be awarded to Mills Mutual Agency of Lansing. The insurance values of the Allen Elementary School will be based on the recommendations of the Eberle M. Smith Associates.

A letter from Mr. Booth, Mr. Caplin, Mr. Gallimore and Mr. Smith.

It was moved by Mr. Booth and seconded by Mr. Caplin that the payrolls of November 13, 25 and December 11 in the amount of $99,581.97 and the unpaid bills with vouchers numbering 4517 to 4616, inclusive, in the amount of $14,419.58 be paid from the Operating Account.

It was moved by Mr. Booth and seconded by Mr. Caplin that the following bills be approved: Paid bills, including payrolls $117,446.26. Unpaid operating bills $68,208.30 and Building and Site Fund bills-$15,165.59.

It was moved by Mr. Booth, Mr. Caplin, Mr. Gallimore, Mr. Smith and Mrs. Willoughby.

It was moved by Mr. Caplin, seconded by Mrs. Willoughby, to invest $140,000 from the Debt Retirement Fund in Certificates of Deposit issued by the Michigan National Bank of Flint and bearing interest at the rate of 2 1/2% per annum.

The question of salaries for Maintenance personnel was discussed. Action was deferred until a later meeting.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Plymouth Township Schools, Wayne County, was held at the business office on January 14, 1954.

Present: Mr. Booth, Mr. Caplin, Mr. Gallimore, Mrs. Willoughby and Superintendent Isbister.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved as read.

Senior students, Dean Palmer and Jeanne Walker, appeared before the Board to discuss the production of the school newspaper. They gave a very favorable report on the progress made this year.

A letter from former Superintendent of Schools, W. N. Isbell, who served the Plymouth Schools in 1906 was read. Mr. Isbell urged the Board to grant a diploma to Mrs. Lulu Beckman Wesley, a student in the Plymouth High School during his tenure as Superintendent. He pointed out that the fire in 1917 destroyed all the school records and no substantiating data was available regarding Mrs. Wesley's record of attendance. He noted that she had completed the work.

It was moved by Mrs. Willoughby, seconded by Mr. Caplin, that Mr. Isbell's request by grant and diploma be issued to Mrs. Belknap Wesley and to any others where it is clearly established that their high school work was completed prior to 1917 and the records were lost in the fire.

It was moved by Mr. Booth, Mr. Caplin, Mr. Gallimore and Mrs. Willoughby.

It was moved by Mr. Caplin and seconded by Mrs. Willoughby that the policy affecting non-resident students be amended to permit a student who is in his senior year when his parents moved from the district, to continue in school on a tuition basis for the remainder of the school year.

How To Lure Birds in Winter

Birds are among the few souvenirs of summer that can be persuaded to linger throughout winter.

Food is the lure. Many varieties of birds mind the cold scarcely at all, but are forced to migrate to warmer climes in search of the insects, seed plants and berries which make up their diets.

Householders who provide the proper foods consistently from October until spring can expect a constant parade of common and rare species, some left from the summer season and others arriving from their more northern haunts.

Foods placed at feeding stations need not be expensive or of great variety. Ordinary baby-chick scratch feed, mixed with small sunflower seed in a ration of ten to one, is a good basic food.

Suet is a bird favorite, though they are happy to get peanut butter, raisins, various fresh fruits, waste lettuce, breadcrumbs and raw, unsalted peanuts.

While simple shelves placed at a window are satisfactory lunch counters for birds if kept free of snow, more elaborate roofed feeding stations can be bought at local supply stores, or easily made.

Some persons provide water which many birds drink in preference to eating snow. The water can be kept warm in freezing weather by placing a light bulb below the container.

It is urged, however, that once a feeding station is started, it should be kept stocked until warm weather, since birds grow to depend on it and may perish when food is not available elsewhere.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Fishing has been as popular a sport in Michigan this year as it was last year—and almost to the decimal point.

A recent conservation department summary of fishing license sales showed that 759,069 resident fishing licenses were reported sold to October 1 this year while 759,011 were sold to the same date last year.

Also, 244,843 temporary and annual nonresident licenses were reported sold this year as against 243,434 to the same date last year.

Trout stamp sales totaled 164,744 to October 1 this year and 164,996 to that date last year.

Hunters are urged to check limitations placed on game that can be imported into the United States from Canada and Mexico before hunting in those countries this fall.

Ten ducks, five geese, eight woodcock and eight jacksnipe are included on the list of birds that may be imported by any one person during one calendar week.

Other regulations should be checked at international boundaries before hunting.

An estimated 2000-2500 Canada geese have been counted in the Allegan-Fennville area.

The big honkers arrived late last week and 324 hunters bagged 40 at the Swan Creek High Banks during the weekend.

At Fennville, during the weekend, 37 were taken.

Until mid-week, only a handful of geese were seen in the area. Then large flights arrived on four successive days to get the 1954 season well under way.

Elsewhere during the first full week of the small game and waterfowl seasons hunting continued generally only so-so. Weather was clear and cold over much of the upper peninsula in the late days of the week, but hunting activity was only moderate.

In the northern lower peninsula, foliage was still heavy and troubled grouse hunters. Weather and field conditions were generally poor for hunting.

At the Pointe Mouillee marshes in southeastern Michigan, waterfowl hunting activity was light. The maximum number of hunting permits was issued during the weekend, but the kill was below that of a year ago. Flights from the north have not arrived as yet and the ducks taken were local native nesters.

Seven top speakers in the field of fisheries research and natural resources are lecturing in a University of Michigan extension course at Washington high school in Pontiac this fall.

Dr. S. W. Allen, professor emeritus of the school of natural resources, leads the group, which includes speakers from the conservation department's Institute for Fisheries Research, the University's School of Natural Resources, and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The course is being presented for high school biology teachers on Tuesday nights through mid-December.

It has been a long hard spring, summer and fall for Smokey Bear and it seems the only rest he gets is in the hospital.

Poor Smokey! The five-foot mechanical bear wears himself out nearly every year in the cause of forest fires prevention. At present, he is recuperating in the conservation department's forest fire experiment station at Roscommon. All appointments to meet with school children and other groups have been cancelled until Smokey returns to normal.

This year, however, Smokey can afford to relax a little. To date, only about 3600 of Michigan lands have been damaged by fires. Previous record low for a single year was in 1951 when 4491 acres were damaged.

Conservation workers say Smokey should be back on his paws and chipper as a bear in a few weeks.

Record-making allowance in October

One look at the national sales figures tells you this: Buick is outselling every other car in America—regardless of price class—except two of the "low-priced three." And just to keep sales soaring—we're willing to give a whole of an allowance this month—to keep success rolling in high. So come in—get a car and a deal that are too good to miss.

Higher resale value

Year after year, Buicks have always carried a high resale value. But the 1954 Buick has an even bigger edge in its year-ahead styling. It will still be fresh and new-looking when other '55 models come out. So the new Buick you buy today will keep you plenty of dollars ahead when you trade it in.

Tomorrow's styling today

You can see it on every new Buick on the road—glamorous new-day styling keynoted by that broad panoramic windshield that most other cars won't have till 1955 or later. And with this advanced styling, you get Buick's record-high V8 power, luxurious room and comfort, that famed Million Dollar Ride—and all for prices that start just a few dollars above those of the so-called "low-price three." Result: Buick is now outselling all other cars in America except two of these "low-price three!"
