Maude Cooper Given Award

Mrs. Maude Cooper, custodian for the Plymouth Historical Society for many years, was presented with a Community Service Award by the Plymouth Rotary club last Friday noon. The award is given to persons who have devoted much to the service of their community.

As the widow of the late Dr. Robert Cooper, Mrs. Cooper has compiled much of the history and many pictures of the city during its early years. She expects to move to California before the first of the year.

Dr. Cooper, a charter member of the Plymouth Rotary club, was killed in an auto accident in 1929. He was the doctor for hundreds of Plymouthites during his many years of general practice and his loss was felt heavily by the community.

A standing ovation was given Mrs. Cooper as Perry Richwine, chairman of the Rotary Community Service committee, presented the award to her.

Boy, 5, Injured Month Ago, Dies

Injuries he sustained last August 30 in a two-car collision on Ann Arbor road near Ridge have taken the life of James Kampainen, 5, of 13572 Faust, Detroit.

James was thrown from a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Ella Kampainen, who was driving west on Ann Arbor road. State Police reported that an unidentified car was making a left turn onto Ridge road off Ann Arbor road when Mrs. Kampainen came over a small hill behind the turning vehicle.

She applied the brakes and swerved into the eastbound lane and crashed into a car driven by Charles Burleigh, 2002 Shadford road, Ann Arbor. Both Mrs. Kampainen and Burleigh escaped without serious injury. The youth, however, was thrown from the car and sustained serious head injuries and a fractured leg. He succumbed last Saturday at Wayne County General hospital. Burleigh was exonerated.

Cite Example of Handicapped Efficiency

This is the week set aside each year to alert employers as to the value of hiring the handicapped people and local employers might look to Donald Slee, 700 Sunset, as an example.

Slee has served as a substitute clerk-carrier for the Plymouth post office since last November and he has been as able as the next man in handling his job, even though his right hand has only a thumb and no fingers.

National Employment of the Physically Handicapped Week, which starts Sunday, and ends Saturday, is being given special attention by both the national and state governments. The only way to successfully meet the social problem of handicapped people, officials declare, is to give them an opportunity to get a job.

Donald Slee lost his fingers in a shop accident in 1936. Before his employment by Postmaster George Timpona, he efficiently

Community Fund Sets Record Goal

Plymouth's 1955 Community Fund will have a record-breaking goal to meet when it opens next month—$27,500. The amount is $3,000 higher than last year's goal.

The Community Fund campaign will open on Tuesday, October 18 and will close on Thursday, November 10, it was announced by Marvin Criger, president of the Community Fund board.

Heading this year's drive will be co-chairmen Mrs. L. B. Rice, 963 Harding, and George Witkowski, 1117 Palmer. Witkowski was general chairman of the 1954 drive which exceeded the goal of $24,500.

Final plans for the campaign are expected to be announced next week.

At least three large industries are adopting the payroll deduction plan for their employees this year. Barnes-Gibson-Raymond, Evans Products and Whitman and Barnes have each agreed to allow employees to withhold Community Fund payments from their checks if they desire. The Plymouth Fund will also again cooperate with the United Torch Drive in Detroit in transferring donations of people who work in the two areas.

Three people have been named to fill vacancies on the Community Fund board. Appointed were Mrs. Carl Caplin, who will serve as treasurer, Robert Maurer of the Michigan Bell Telephone company; and Mrs. Ralph J. Lorenz, 402 Evergreen.

757 Children Receive Second Salk Polio Shots

A total of 757 children received their second Salk polio shots last Wednesday and Thursday in the Plymouth public and parochial school systems.

Mrs. Mary Carless, the public school health nurse, stated that parents of 11 children refused to give permission for the shots. This is a very low number. Mrs. Carless stated, considering the bad publicity received last spring when the inoculations were called off.

All of last year's first and second grade children who received their first shots were given shots last week. Mrs. Carless said that it is possible that these same children may get a booster shot in six months.

Examine Railroad Crossing Problem

It has been over a year ago that a petition signed by 522 citizens was presented to the city commission asking that flashers be installed at the Farmer street railroad crossing, but City Manager Albert Glassford indicated this week that the petition hasn't been forgotten.

Six men representing the C & O railroad, a Michigan Public Service Commission representative and three city officials met in the rain at the crossing last Friday and surveyed the situation. The solution, they concluded, doesn't look too easy. City commissioners will hear a report on the meeting this coming Monday night.

City officials were told that law requires that if multiple crossings are to be protected at all, they must have gates and flashers and not flashers alone. There are three sets of tracks at the Farmer street grade crossing. The city had set aside $4,700 in its budget this year to pay its share of flashers costing $9,700. Gates and flashers would cost about $18,000. It has not been determined what the shares of the railroad and city would be.

Use of just flashers where there are multiple tracks, the city was told, leads to a greater number of accidents. It was also pointed out that this crossing would need a great deal of signal actuating mechanism, due to the crossing of east-west and north-south tracks only a few hundred feet away.

City officials Glassford, S.L. Besse and Chief of Police Kenneth Fisher were told that there are an average of 16 trains a day moving in each direction over the crossing, plus about 50 movements for local switching, making a total of 82. To point up the difficulties, the 82 trains might average five minutes each over the crossing, or almost seven hours.

Donald Hughes, representative of the Michigan Public Service Commission, recommended that as a "stop-gap" measure, the city make more use of visible markings. He recommends the painting of two sets of bars on the roadway in front of the crossing; painting of a huge railroad sign on the roadway; new reflective signs at the crossing and before getting to the crossing; and better lighting to cast light on the tracks.

It was also recommended that a traffic cone be made. There are an estimated 7,000 cars a day using the crossing.

Chasing of Girl Results in Arrest

A 15-year-old Plymouth township girl who was pursued down Plymouth's Main street last Saturday afternoon by two strangers, has identified one of the men, Plymouth police reported Monday.

Arrested was Lloyd Eason, 22, of 905 Sutherland. He has been released on $75 bond pending his appearance in court. Eason has refused to disclose the name of his companion, police said.

The girl related that one of the men leaning on a parking meter said something to her as she walked past Dodge Drugs. Later, as she came out of Terry's Bakery, the two men were in a car which started following her down the street.

As she walked south on Main street, one of them invited her to "go for a ride," she told police. Being refused, Eason's companion jumped out of the car and started chasing her down the street. She ran through the alley beside the Mayflower hotel. When she slowed down, he slowed down, the girl continued. Finally, she entered Kroger's, where her mother was shopping.

The girl gave a description of the car to police and the car was later found and Eason arrested. Chief of Police Kenneth Fisher said that Eason will be brought into court this week under the disorderly persons ordinance.

The chief issued a warning only two weeks ago to children and their parents concerning several attempts of strangers to pick-up young girls. Youngsters are advised to secure the license number of cars if at all possible.

Township firemen were called to the Evans Products company parking lot at midnight Tuesday to extinguish a fire in a car. The front seat of the car was burned, causing estimated damage of $20

Seek Help to Find Possibly Mad Dog

Citizens are asked to participate in the search for a dog, perhaps rabid, which bit a 14-year-old boy Sunday and then disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Doss Peer, 1534 Brookline, said that their son was playing in the street Sunday when a neighborhood dog bit him on the right leg. The youth was taken to a clinic where a physician found that he is violently allergic to rabies shots.

The dog belongs to Wayne Burpo, Elmhurst street, it was reported. The family states, however, that the dog has disappeared. It carried no license and had not been inoculated. Here is description of the dog:

It is a red and white speckled hound, unusually long ears and answers to the name of Ears.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of this dog are asked to telephone the Peers 2195-R12. A physician stated that it will be possible to wait only until Friday to find and test the dog before a series of shots is given the boy.

School District Gets New Name

Members of the Wayne County Board of Education voted Monday to change the name of the Plymouth Township School District to the "Plymouth Community School District, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties." The new name goes into effect immediately.

Charles E. Brake of Plymouth, superintendent of the Wayne County schools, said that each school district must add the name of the county in which it is located to the name of the district. Since the Plymouth district extends into Washtenaw county, "Wayne and Washtenaw Counties" must be added to the name. The Plymouth board of education voted on September 12 to change the name. They stated that the district no longer covered just Plymouth city and township, but also parts of Canton township, Northville township and Superior township.

All fourth class school districts were required by a new state act to list their official names with the county boards by September 21 or else be assigned a name and number. Although the local board could have selected the same name, they decided to change the name in order to conform with the nature of the district.

The board said that it will make no effort to bring a rapid change. All present supplies bearing the old name will be used and only new school buses will bear the new name.

2 Families Still Seeking Homes

Senior Major H. J. Nicholls of the Salvation Army renewed his plea this week for the public to come to the aid of two families who lost their home and belongings in an early morning fire last September 17.

The Salvation Army was able to obtain some bedding through a request printed last week in The Mail. More bedding and some clothing are still needed.

But for the Ralph Willis family with seven children and the John Thario family with four children, finding a place to live is the most difficult. The Tharios are living in the basement of the Salvation Army Citadel while the Willis family is residing with relatives.

Both families find it difficult to find a place to rent because of the number of children. Major Nicholls said that he hoped that some home owners' sympathy would find it within their hearts to rent to the families. "They have to have a place to live," he declared.

The two families lived in a large farm home at 1437 Sheldon road. Nearly everything was lost either in the fire or due to smoke and water.

Anyone having a rental unit, clothing or bedding is being urged to contact Major Nicholls by calling the Salvation Army.

Elect Henry To State Post

Ernest Henry

Plymouth Kiwanian Ernest Henry became lieutenant governor for the third division of the Michigan district of Kiwanis International this week at the district convention in Lansing. He is one of 15 Kiwanians in the state to be elected to this office.

Henry, a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis club for 19 years, is Superintendent of Mail at the post office. Currently a member of the city commission, he is a past president of the local businessmen's club and now serves as its secretary.

In his new capacity, Lieutenant Governor Henry will have 10 clubs in the third division to direct and guide in club activities. His duties will include frequent visits to the district organizations.

Only three other Plymouth Kiwanis club members have held the office of lieutenant governor. Ernest Allison, Robert Jolliffe, and Edwin Schrader have previously served in that capacity.

As lieutenant governor, Henry will serve on the district board of directors of Kiwanis, the state's governing body.

Doctors to be Briefed On Plans for Hospital

An open meeting for physicians interested in the St. Mary Hospital will be held at the Felician Sisters Convent at 7:30 p.m. on October 6, 1955.

Invitations to the meeting have been mailed to doctors of Livonia, Plymouth, Farmington, Northville and Redford Township.

The objective of the meeting is to brief the doctors on what has been done to date and what they can do, in their strategic position, to promote the building of St. Mary Hospital in the near future.

Dr. Joseph Gaebow of Farmington, upon the invitation of Sister Mary Columbine, the administrator, will act as temporary chairman of the meeting.

Drivers Injured In Area Mishaps

Two drivers were injured in separate accidents a few hundred feet from each other and 15 minutes apart last Thursday morning. Injured were Mrs. William C. Schoof, 1007 Roosevelt, and Jack Chester, Walled Lake.

Chester's accident happened at 8 a.m. on Phoenix road, 750 feet west of Edward Hines drive. He told sheriff's officers that "something went wrong with the steering gear" and he lost control. The 1955 car rolled over and was heavily damaged. Chester suffered a lacerated right shoulder and was taken to Sessions hospital.

Sheriff's officers said that Mrs. Schoof suffered a back injury when her car was struck by another driven by Howard Kieth, 41215 Ann Arbor road. Mrs. Schoof, driving east on Phoenix road at 8:15 a.m., said that she stopped at Edward Hines drive, saw nothing coming and started across the intersection. Kieth said he could not stop his car in time to avoid hitting the Schoof car which was rolled over.

Time Running Out on Getting Building Started for Next Fall

Because of the failure to get a sewer project underway which can service the proposed elementary school on Sheldon road, it now is likely that some children in the public schools will be forced to attend on half-day sessions next fall.

Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister stated that only if the school board can take bids on the proposed school by the middle of October, can it be possible to complete

Episcopalians Name Building Fund Committee

Appointment of an advisory committee for the building campaign of St. John's Episcopal church was announced this week by Frank Henderson, chairman of the campaign, and the Reverend David T. Davies, rector of the church.

Serving on the committee are J.W. Cheetham, Harry J. Christensen, Lewis H. Goddard, Dr. John F. Vos and Robert D. Wiloughby. Reverend Davies is an ex-officio member of the committee.

Henderson's appointment was announced two weeks ago after the congregation voted to proceed with the building fund. The chairman is also a senior warden of the parish.

This committee has already held three meetings within the past 10 days. They are planning for a series of neighborhood gatherings in the homes of members, which are intended as educational sessions so that all in the parish may know of the building campaign plans. The actual canvassing for gifts will be made on Sunday, October 23.

The committee intends to ask each person in the church to make a weekly pledge to run for three years, in support of the building fund.

In commenting on the work of the committee, Henderson said: "Our great effort is to point out to all our people the deep spiritual significance of this campaign. What we do is done for God. What we give reflects our feeling as to the importance of God's work; the importance of our Sunday school for the children, the importance of adequate space in which to worship on Sunday, the importance of proper facilities for all normal parish life.

"At our 9:30 service last Sunday we could barely get all the people into the church by setting up extra chairs in the aisles. There were 177 people attending. Yet this is, essentially, still part of the vacation season. How we are going to permit everyone to worship at 9:30 on Sunday when the church year is at its height, we do not quite know at this time — until we get our new building built. We do still have room enough at the 8 and 11 o'clock services and are currently organizing a second session of the Sunday school to be held at 11 o'clock.

"At the present time we have to conduct one of our Sunday school classes in the kitchen of the church and this room is crowded with some 24 children. One other class has to meet in a room which also serves as the only means of reaching still another class which studies in the second floor work room.

"Confusion and interruptions which result from this situation are not conducive to the best Christian education nor to the fullest utilization of the all too brief period of time when we have the children in classes. We anticipate that a successful building fund campaign will make possible the establishment of our teaching according to the latest and best standards."

She wore a Juliet cap adorned with seedpearls and rhinestones which held in place her fingertip length veil of illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of roses, stephanotis and ivy.

All attendants wore identical street length gowns of aqua marine crystalene in princess style. A wide band of the pleated material outlined the off shoulder necklines and extended in two deep panels down the back of the skirts to the hemlines. They wore tiny matching caps with face veils and carried baskets of yellow baby mums. Leola Haines was the maid of honor. Willfred Lewis of 11409 Gold Arbor was feted Saturday night at a surprise party given by his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lewis, in celebration of his retirement after 35 years employment with the Detroit office of American Railway Express company.

Mr. Lewis, age 75, officially retired from his job as painter of the Express company's trucks on September 15. He received a plaque and gold watch from the firm and its employees Friday night.

A program was planned for the local celebration with "This Is Your Life" as its theme. Friends and relatives from Plymouth, Detroit and Windsor presented the resident with many gifts and wished him bon voyage on his forth-coming trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will leave Sunday, October 2, for a six-month's vacation through Canada and western United States, including California. They will return to Plymouth in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kaiser and two children left for Fort Meyers, Florida, where they will visit with Mrs. Kaiser's parents.

Mrs. Velma Mack

Velma Mack, a resident of 46480 West Five Mile road, Plymouth for the past 11 years, succumbed early Monday morning, September 26, at University hospital in Ann Arbor. She was 53 years of age.

The deceased, who was born June 16, 1902 in Redford, Michigan to William and Agnes Hobbins, is survived by her husband Earl; one son, Dewey of Redford; three daughters, Mrs. Leonard Jones and Mrs. DeWitt Ellsworth, both of Plymouth; and Mrs. Daniel Bratby of Wayne. Also 11 grandchildren. Other survivors are four brothers, Irwin Hobbins of Livonia, Clyde Hobbins of Farmington, Elmer Hobbins of Lapeer and Tom Hobbins of Walled Lake; two sisters, Mrs. Cora Shackleton of Garden City and Mrs. Alta Kelly of Red Lodge, Montana.

Services were held at 2 p.m. yesterday in the Casterline Funeral home, Northville. The Reverend J. P. Coulton of Christ Episcopal church, Livonia, was officiating minister. Interment was in Riverside cemetery.

FIRST PRESENTATION OF a number of books to be given periodically by the Passage-Gayde Post 391 of the American Legion to Plymouth public and parochial schools and the Wayne County Library was made last week. Above (at left) Legion President Al Holcombe and Mrs. Melva Gardner, president of the Legion Auxiliary, present the books to Mrs. Anna MacLinnis of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Mrs. Agnes Pauline of the Library, and Russell Isbister, superintendent of Plymouth schools. Each organization may choose the books they wish to receive.

Adult Education Registration Time Extended to End of This Week

Registration for classes in the Plymouth adult education program will remain open a week longer than originally scheduled, it was announced recently.

Thus persons interested in taking any of the classes offered, still have today and tomorrow during which to sign up for courses in the program.

The announcement extending the registration period was made recently by the adult education and recreation commission at its first fall meeting Wednesday evening, September 21. The meeting was held in conjunction with the advisory council which represents the various Plymouth service clubs.

The decision to lengthen the registration time for classes in the adult education program was brought about through the feeling that there had been some confusion on the part of hopeful registrants as to the exact time for registration. It was remarked that popular demand indicated it would be wise to leave the registration open an additional length of time. It was extended through the end of this week.

Herb Woolweaver, adult education director, followed this news with the fact that the adult education program has found many new classes added to the long list of original courses offered. The most recent additions are entitled "Hobbying at the Piano" and "Hobbying at the Electric Organ."

These classes, sponsored by Grinnell's of Ypsilanti, will consist of instruction in piano and organ fundamentals. Teaching the classes will be Louis Ribar.

Other business on the agenda at the adult education and recreation commission meeting included reports on the summer recreation playground program, summer swimming program and several other summer recreation activities.

Also included among the evening's business was a report on the progress of the new tennis courts, which will substitute as an ice rink during the winter. Located just north of the old courts behind the high school, these new and modern courts are nearing completion.

The land has been leveled and a base foundation laid down. The final black-top covering for the courts is nearly ready to be spread.

Plans for football recreation among the grade school and older boys this fall were also reported. The grade schools will have their regular touch football league again this season, while the older boys have organized and entered a Plymouth touch team in the Wayne touch football loop.

First Pep Meeting

Plymouth high school's first pep meeting of the year, sponsored by the cheerleaders was held Friday, September 23, in the high school gymnasium.

This year's cheerleaders are junior varsity, Joan Johnson, Cynthia Balfour, Cathy Thompson, Shug Watson, Janet Spigarelli, and Captain Jeanette Forman.

Varsity squad consists of Gerry Minhart, Joan Basset, Pat Calkins, Janice Depki, Carole Partidge, and Captain Carol Clark.

Council Readies

Arrangements for the Homecoming Game to be played with Trenton on October 7 are in top place on the Student Council agenda for the next few weeks.

Shug Watson and Janet Spigarelli, co-chairmen for the Homecoming, have planned the usual activities as publicity, refreshments before the game for parents of the players, ushers, and dance.

A section will be reserved for the mothers, and the fathers wearing their sons' numbers will be seated on a bench along side the field.

The Student Council sponsored the Council Kickoff, the first dance of the year, on September 9, from 8-11 p.m. in the gym. A local dance band played for the occasion. These are only a few of the activities that will be coming up this year.

A NEW CITIZEN at work is Moynra McNeill teaching at Plymouth high school. Moynra, who teaches French and English at Plymouth, hails from Bonnie Scotland and became an American citizen this month.

New Plymouth Teacher Becomes Citizen of U. S.

It's a long trek for a Bonnie Scottish lass from her home town in Scotland across the ocean to the United States and American citizenship.

But a young woman teacher at Plymouth high school can tell you how pleasing it is once the many steps from Scotland to her final goal of U.S. citizenship have been covered.

Pretty Moynra McNeill, a brand new French and English teacher at Plymouth, only recently received her final citizenship papers from Governor Williams at an official recognition ceremony in Muskegon. She was one of 29 added to the list of new citizens at the recognition.

Thus Moynra, who also just turned 21, realized her longed-for goal since coming to this country with her parents in 1948.

In that year, the McNeill family, with Moynra in tow, left their home in Edinburgh, Scotland (where Moynra was born) and journeyed to Muskegon, Michigan. Her parents began the proceedings to become citizens immediately but Moynra had to wait until she turned 21. Her parents became citizens last year.

In the meantime she graduated from Muskegon high school in 1951 and went on to Western Michigan college in Kalamazoo where she received her teaching degree this year.

Although she had wanted to be a citizen as soon as she could anyway, Moynra learned that to hold a job as a teacher she would have to become a U.S. citizen, too.

So last Spring she took examinations for the papers, which she received from the Governor in September 12.

"It's something that I consider a very great privilege," said Moynra recently, "because citizenship here means so much to me. Besides, as a United States citizen, I can hold this job."

Moynra, who lost her Scottish burr somewhere along the line of her travel to American citizenship, lives in Detroit.

Drapery Firm to Move To New Location

Presently located at 1313 West Ann Arbor road, Cadillac Drapery will move to a new location at 217 North Main on November 1, at which time the firm will celebrate with a grand opening.

The new location for Cadillac Drapery was formerly the site of the Sonderegger funeral home. Cadillac Drapery intends to use the first floor of its new home for the shop proper. Mrs. Verne Steele, owner, explained that she plans to have the first floor interior remodeled, leaving the outside as it is in order to stay in keeping with the colonial theme in the city.

Most recent addition to the staff of Cadillac Drapery is Mrs. Lila Humphries, who started with the firm this week. Other employees include Mrs. Wilfred Wilson, Mrs. Lee Pride and Mrs. John Henderson.

Start Registration Monday for Adult Classes in Livonia

A minimum of 10 persons is required for each class. Courses offered will include:

Most classes will meet for two hours on Monday and Wednesday evenings for a period of 10 weeks. A recent addition to the adult education courses is the dog obedience training class, offered by the Livonia Kennel club. This class will meet from 7 to 9 Thursday evenings at Jefferson Elementary school gym.

All classes will start during the week of October 10. Fees will be collected at the time of registration. If 10 or more persons are interested in a course not offered, a class will be set up.

Seek Medical Supply Purchase

An attempt is being made by area Civil Defense units to purchase $1,800 worth of hospital supplies for use in time of disaster, according to Leo F. Flowers, director of the Plymouth township CD unit.

Flowers states that he is attempting to have Plymouth township, city and Canton township CD units each contribute $300 toward a hospital package. The $900 would be matched by the Federal Civil Defense office. He states that the city and Canton township are giving the proposal consideration, while Plymouth township has already approved its share.

The package of medicine would be placed at St. John's Seminary, one of three disaster stations in the area. The supplies would be under supervision of doctors of the area.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Effective Oct. 14, 1955 Accident Reports Required Under Financial Responsibility Law

Every owner or operator of a motor vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury or death, or damage in excess of $100 to the property of any one person, must make a report immediately to the Secretary of State. This report is in addition to any accident or police report required under the Michigan Vehicle Code.

Previously, only in accidents where there was bodily injury or death was it necessary to file a report.

Failure to report within ten days shall constitute a misdemeanor and sufficient ground for the suspension of a person's license and registration.

The Secretary of State cannot require an uninsured motorist to post cash or a bond as security for a claim made unless information as to the injuries or damage is submitted. If such information is not included with this report it must be furnished to the Secretary of State's office within 30 days from the date of the accident, and must include in addition to other pertinent information, the name and address of the driver and the date and place of the accident.

The new law also provides for the increase of minimum limits for automobile liability insurance from the present $5,000/$10,000 bodily injury and $1,000 property damage to $10,000/$20,000 bodily injury and $5,000 property damage.

Directors Tour Area Facilities Of Consumers

Plans for the continued expansion of natural gas service facilities in Oakland and Macomb counties and the western part of Wayne county were reviewed by the directors of Consumers Power Company last Thursday during a bus tour of the area.

The directors gathered at the Hotel Mayflower here Thursday morning and heard Division Manager David H. Gerhard and Wayne District Manager W. L. Whitfield of Plymouth describe the rapid growth of industrial and residential communities close to Detroit.

The group then boarded a chartered bus for an inspection trip through Wayne, Livonia, Royal Oak, Ferndale, Mt. Clemens, East Detroit and neighboring communities. They were luncheon guests at the General Motors Technical Center at Twelve Mile and Mound roads, then continued to Pontiac, where the monthly meeting of the board of directors was held at the company's division office. The group then returned to Plymouth and disbanded.

Justin R. Whiting, chairman of the board, said Consumers is spending more than $10,000,000 this year on expansion of facilities in the tri-county area, including the strengthening of electric service facilities in Pontiac. Consumers supplies natural gas service to about 400,000 customers, of whom about a third are in Oakland, Macomb and western Wayne counties.

It recently was authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission to add 30,000 additional space-heating customers, which will bring the total of such customers to more than 200,000. This is the seventh consecutive year in which the company has petitioned successfully for permission to expand its gas heating service. About 18,000 of the additional space heating customers will be in the Oakland, Macomb, Wayne area.

The company also serves 782,000 electric customers in 61 Michigan counties.

Salem Couple Feted On 25th Anniversary

More than 100 relatives, neighbors and friends were present to congratulate the couple on the special occasion. The guest list included those from Dearborn, Centerline, Milford, Plymouth and San Bernardino, California.

The party was planned by the couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kranz of Gilbert street, together with Sylvester, Jr., and Arnold Kranz of the Gottfredson road address.

The occasion also commemorated the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kranz who were married on the feted couple's anniversary three years ago.

Half-Day School

lem. He pointed out in his ruling that too often school boards build schools with the promise that a sewer system is going to be laid, but it is then postponed indefinitely. Many homes are usually built in the school area, making the underground condition unhealthy, he added. It has also been found that the ground around the Sheldon road site is not pervious enough for use of a septic tank.

Judging from what we hear, more people with coughs go to theatres than to doctors.

COULD HE RENDER A JUDGMENT WITHOUT ALL THE FACTS? . . .

Judges, generally speaking, are competent men but even they must have all the facts to render a sound judgment. And you must have all the facts to make the judgments of life which affect the well-being of your family, your home and your own security.

This is particularly true of insurance. Because insurance is so complicated and takes so many forms, we need to get the facts about it from people who know.

The best possible source of professional advice on insurance is the qualified, independent insurance agent . . . a man whose life is spent in the study of his field . . . and who represents many companies with many policies from which to choose the right coverage at the right price.

We are independent, professional agents and our advice is yours . . . always without obligation . . . advice that can save you thousands of dollars when misfortune strikes. We will be most happy to furnish you the FACTS as they apply to YOUR insurance safety.

Rosedale Gardens

Mrs. Joseph R. Talbot, Jr. Garfield 1-5847

We were happy to hear that Jimmie Berutti is recovering from an appendectomy operation at Mt. Carmel hospital and is expected to be home sometime this week. Jimmie had his first attack last Sunday and was operated on Monday morning. No doubt he would appreciate a card from his friends.

There was a meeting of the Mothers of Brownie Troop 1089 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Talbot, 9901 Berwick, last Thursday evening. Among the mothers present were: Lou Ritter, Alice Olmsted, Genevieve Reeves, Marie Enot, Hilda Wallo, and Amelia Berutti. Plans were made for the various activities the group will endeavor to have during the year. The first meeting of the Brownies will take place on Saturday, October 1. The girls will all meet at the home of Betty Talbot and from there will go over to Middle Rouge park for a wienie roast. Each girl is to bring her own dogs and rolls and the leaders will take care of the rest of the refreshments. Amelia Berutti anticipates full attendance because from all reports the girls are anxious to have their meetings start.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Huesden, 9623 Shadyside, are the proud parents of a new son. The new arrival will be called Craig Thomas. Congratulations.

St. Michael's Cub Scouts held their monthly meeting on Friday, September 23, in the school. The pack has grown by leaps and bounds and there are now 10 dens. After a short business meeting conducted by Chuck Gamber, each Den had to present an Indian dance. The costumes were very original and the dances, although not very authentic, were unique. After much deliberation, the prize went to Den 8. The prize is a small silver cup and is presented to the Den that the judges vote as the best in whatever project the Pack is scheduled to present at its meeting. If a Den is fortunate enough to win for three months in a row, they are allowed to keep the cup. To date the only Den that has even come close is Den 2 when they won for two months last year. Everyone enjoys competition and it is amazing what a small cup will do to keep the boys interested in their projects.

We were very sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Robert English and their three small sons are leaving Rosedale Gardens. Mr. English is being transferred to New Jersey by his company. Although they will be missed by their friends and neighbors, we wish them all the luck in the world in their new home.

St. Michael's gridders opened their 1955 season on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. when they played host to St. Monica's eleven at Farmington road, south of Six Mile road. After a hard fought game St. Michaels came out on the losing end. Hope you do better next week, boys, against Epiphany.

Spends Adventurous Six Weeks in Europe

Audrey Hepburn, Hollywood actress of "Roman Holiday" fame, has nothing on one Nancy Brannan of Plymouth when it comes to riding motorcycles through busy European streets!

Nancy, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Brannan of 42639 Five Mile road, got back Wednesday, September 14, to her job at the Dunning library after spending six eventful weeks in Europe. Joining 14 others on a group tour, Nancy set sail August 2 on the Queen Elizabeth for a first visit to England, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France.

Along with viewing the main tourist attractions of these countries, the group was given a certain amount of free time to spend as they wished. It was on one such occasion in Florence, Italy that Nancy and the girl assigned to her as roommate on the tour had a chance to take a turn on one of Europe's most popular modes of transportation, the motor scooter.

So impressed were the two with their initial ride that they decided to put their skill to the test at the next stopping place on the tour, Cannes, France. After renting a scooter, they set their sights on the high residential area above the city as the best vantage spot for an all-over view of the Riviera.

Mounting, their mechanical steed with some difficulty, Nancy at the helm and her roommate astride the rear seat, the two started the ascent, zig-zagging their way up the winding, curving road which led to the summit. Arriving safely, they paused at the top for the magnificent view of the beach, harbor and blue Mediterranean stretching out to the horizon's edge, took their snapshots, then started down the hill again on the return route.

They were no sooner a quarter of the way down when the scooter's motor started to sputter, and after a few final gasps, gave out. Without the motor to break its speed, the contraption gained momentum quickly, the two girls were off on a wild ride, speeding around the hairpin curves at a terrifying rate. Finally, they reached one too sharp to navigate. The motor scooter careened to the side of the road, crashed into a wooden fence, leaving two slightly scratched, disheveled, but otherwise unharmed girls.

After this frightening experience, both concluded the safest way to reach the bottom of the hill in one piece was to escort the scooter, rather than ride it down. This they did, one at each side of the contraption, guiding it by the handlebars.

As they approached the foot of the slope leading into the town's main traffic artery, they noticed a man waving and shouting something to them in French. Unable to comprehend what all the furor was about, they ignored him, continued on their way, pushing the scooter ahead of them.

They crossed into the main thoroughfare, another man came up, chattered away in French. Finally he made it clear to them that they had been not only walking their scooter, but had taken a whirlwind ride down a one-way street! Without further adieu, they jumped back on the motor-scooter and, as the only choice left open to them, joined the heavy traffic headed for downtown Cannes. After some weaving in and out and narrow squeaks with other autos, they managed to safely maneuver the device back to its rental shop.

Reviewing the adventure later, they realized their mistake was due to the fact that they hadn't taken into account the international system of road signs in effect throughout Europe. Few streets are marked, and being unfamiliar with the symbols, they had by-passed the one indicating the street they had chosen was one-way.

After a first-hand glimpse of traffic in Paris, where horns are illegal and autos travel at fantastic speeds, they decided it was safer to do their sightseeing via the Metro or subway. At night, they discovered Parisians drive with only parking lights on their cars, flickering them at crossroads as a warning to other drivers approaching the intersection since stop signs in the French capital are practically nonexistent.

While taking the Metro one evening, Nancy ran into Plymouthite Ronald Witt, who was granted a Fulbright scholarship for studies in France last year. One other encounter with a Plymouthite was had in London, where Nancy met a sorority sister, Barbara Kilburn Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kilburn of Bassett drive.

Other highlights of the European tour, no less enjoyable but infinitely safer than the Cannes adventure, included visits to the Flower Festival at the Hague, the night water festival in Venice, a performance of the opera, "Aida," in the outdoor amphitheatre at the Baths of Caracalla, ruins of an ancient Roman bathing site, and the library at the U.S. Information center in Rome.

In Interlochen, Switzerland, Nancy witnessed an unusual yodeling exhibition by 25 Swiss, musical renditions on an alpine horn as well as other entertainment acts. While passing through the Alps by bus, the tour included a short trip inside of the Rhone glacier.

On the boat trip down the Rhine on August 15, the group was joined by what appeared to be an entire German village. The villagers, complete with the town's uniformed band, were returning from an outing in celebration of the holy day observance, the Assumption of the Virgin Mary.

During her six weeks of travel, the Dunning librarian was impressed by the remarkable comeback Europe has made since the war. Many new buildings are in evidence, particularly in Rome where there is large-scale construction of new, modern apartment buildings. On the whole, the Plymouthite found Americans well received. Although Communist headquarters could be seen in the various countries, at no time did they encounter any anti-American feeling among the inhabitants.

Now that she's had a taste of European travel, Nancy is enthusiastic about taking another trip to the Continent. On the next visit, however, she would like to spend considerable time in one country to enable her to learn the language and customs of the people.

SPORTING A "RIVIERA" tan, Miss Nancy Brannan of 42639 Five Mile road, unpacks tartan plaids, wool flannel and other items picked up on her six-weeks tour of Europe. The local librarian left August 2 on the Queen Elizabeth, returning by the same ship on September 13.

To Keep Junior Out of Mischief, Try Buying Piano

Juvenile authorities are concluding that if you want to keep your youngsters out of mischief, try buying him a piano.

Even something a little smaller like a piccolo will do just as well, just so it has something to do with music. Practicing will not only keep the youngster out of trouble during his spare hours, it will give him an added interest and perhaps be a key to popularity.

Plymouth's Junior Symphony program is one of the organizations which makes it possible for musically-inclined youngsters to share an interest. A child interested in music and given the opportunity to pursue it has a better chance of staying out of trouble, authorities say.

Some youngsters under the program are actually learning to play stringed instruments. Others are being exposed to symphony music by being taken to hear the Detroit Symphony at special-children's programs.

Lois Higgins, director of the Crime Prevention Bureau in Chicago, claims that the child who knows that his parents love and value him rarely gets into serious trouble. "One way for him to receive family approval is by musical accomplishment," she believes. "While he learns to play, he learns lessons in living that will help him through life."

Many children get into trouble because they have no other way to show their talents or be recognized. A youngster who can play the piano, beat the drums or strum a bass gains prestige among other boys and girls and needs not resort to daring exploits to receive recognition.

A Detroit Youth Bureau official pointed out that too many parents expect the church, school, Scouts or some other outside outfit to give their children the fellowship and companionship they need. As good as these organizations are, they don't always work, he added.

"If piano playing or drumming will make for good family relations, it's worth a try," the official declared. "Some we can't help, they've gone too far. Most of them need to be kept busy and happy at home."

That's where music comes in.

Girl Scout News

Plans for Senior Girl Scout Round-up to be held at Highland State park in June of 1956 are being made by the local council. Plymouth may send two girls as its quota to this national camp-out. Girls attending will be judged on the basis of personality, camp-craft skills and interest in Scouting. Application forms will be distributed to Senior Scouts very soon. Plymouth will be a member of Michigan Patrol 30 together with Ypsilanti, Milan and Flat Rock. The girls will be selected in December and start patrol training in January. Girls eligible to apply are any registered Senior Scouts in the Plymouth council.

Among the many troops beginning their fall programs are the Seniors of Troop 1, under the leadership of Mrs. Sheldon Baker. At their meeting they made plans for a hay-ride, a cam-out and a service project. Carol North is the newly-elected president.

Sixteen members of Troop 21 held an over-night meeting at the Kiwanis Girl Scout lodge last Friday. The time was spent working on requirements for a Camp Craft badge. The girls were accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Wayne Rubey and Mrs. Lloyd England.

At the meeting of Brownie Troop No. 17, on Friday, September 23, the following officers were elected: Chairman, Sara Hershberger; secretary, Judy Eley; treasurer, Susan Robinson; publicity, Noraleen Renauer; sunshine, Susan Williams; first aid, Susan Cooper; flag bearers, Sandra Fielder and Marcia Knipschild; color guards, Nadine Criger and Bess Hedrick.

Leaders are Mrs. Luelfing and Mrs. Lightstone.

Favorite Recipes From Plymouth's Kitchens

Crumbies Vote Fruit Cookies Favorite Treat

For an afternoon snack or dessert accompaniment there's nothing better than a plateful of "Grandma Crumbie's Fruit Cookies" — and served outside at the picnic table they taste even better, according to Mrs. Goodwin B. Crumbie's youngsters, Bruce and Martha Ann.

The fruit cookies, which have been a favorite in the Crumbie household for a number of years, are not only delicious in flavor but have the advantageous quality of staying fresh for quite some time.

Following is the recipe which yields 5½ dozen of the cookie treats:

Grandma Crumbie's Fruit Cookies
1¼ cups of shortening
1/3 cup of shortening
3 eggs
½ teaspoon of salt
1 cup of raisins, chopped
- teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg
1 heaping teaspoon of soda, dissolved in ¼ cup of boiling water
4 cups of flour sifted before measuring

Soak the raisins one-half hour or longer. Drain and put through food chopper. Cream the sugar and shortening and beat in the eggs until well blended. Add the salt, raisins and spices until well mixed, adding the soda and water last. The flour should be added one cupful at a time and mixed well. This makes a rather stiff dough which can be rolled immediately, but it is better to chill the dough a few hours or overnight.

Roll about a third of the dough at a time. Cut, sprinkle tops with sugar and bake from 10-12 minutes at 350 degrees.

Getting ready to enjoy a mid-afternoon snack at the picnic table outside their home, 295 Arthur, are Bruce 4, and two-year-old Martha Ann Crumbie. Mrs. Crumbie is serving a favorite treat, cookies made from grandma's recipe.

Yup, Newspapers Must Admit They're Human Too

Aviators during World War II had "gremlins" that caused all sorts of trouble mechanically, and sometimes did some good to high-flying planes.

Operators of machines of all kinds, particularly automobiles, have noticed that certain types of "bugs" develop in the mechanisms.

Sometimes plumbers complain of getting a left-handed monkey wrench by accident. Some ball players act as if they don't know the difference between a left-handed and a right-handed bat.

Newspapermen and printers are no exception to the rule. For centuries they have been bothered by those pesky little things called "type lice" that move or drop out letters in a word and generally change the meaning of what the man intended to say.

You will know what we mean if you have ever read a story that said: "Mrs. Brown was the featured singer at the church dinner." Of course, it should have been "singer" but those type lice did it again.

In the trade we call them "typos," for short.

For example, when the little devil made one word out of two and said: "Mrs. Robinson will direct the choir. Mrs. Brown will beat the piano."

Another time a West Coast headline declared: "Strange Tail of Missing Pair Solved."

And an ad, for which someone had paid good money, said: "Modern Home, Reasonable Rates."

Sometimes, newspapermen themselves give lice considerable help in their nefarious business by writing things that can be read two ways. Such as the man who wrote this headline: "Grove-land man is high in egg laying contest." Or the one who wrote: "Christmas sale of Methodist women to be held Tuesday."

The man who wrote "St. Paul women are best sewers" meant well and was reasonably accurate but he had to leave town in a hurry.

And there was a mob scene downtown in a Middle Western city when the local populace read: "Girls are wearing nothing but cotton stockings for the duration."

Classified advertising is a great field for this type of borer in newspapers. For some reason, someone always has a "room for rent to unmarried girl with hot and cold running water."

One of the rarities was: "For sale, man's large desk, secretary with drawers."

This one provided an air of mystery: "Girl who persuaded boy to take bridle bull is known. Answers to name of Buster and is black with white chest."

This had an air of futurity, but left no doubt as to what he meant: "For sale—Baker's business; good trade, large oven; present owner has been in it for seven years; good reasons for leaving."

One of the all-time classics appeared in an obituary column, of all places, and said of the deceased: "Noted for his witty remarks, he once offered this marriage advice: 'First find the girl with whom you can live in perfect harmony and good will. Second, let her do as she pleases.' His widow and nine daughters survive."

So you see, between those little unseemly bugs that plague composing machines (those intricate gadgets that convert a reporter's copy into slugs of metal containing the words) and the adeptness of some newspapermen to say two things when they meant to say only one, there is never a dull moment in the newspaper business.

Just remember, if you should be the innocent victim of one of these slip-ups, it wasn't done on purpose.

Pack 4 Meeting Slated for Friday

Deer Hunting Book Soon Available

The 1955 Deer Hunting Information sheet will soon be available from Conservation Department district and headquarters offices throughout the state.

Every year, the little four-page sheet gains in popularity. This year, 75,000 were printed as aids to hunters.

Included are statistics and tables that tell the story of last year's season and on the back page is a slimmed-down summary of this year's regulations.

The sheets are also distributed at sportsmen's clubs, on Straits of Mackinac ferries and from the Department's home office in Lansing.

The tailor was selling his best friend a new suit. He was raving about the garment.

"I'm telling you, Harry," he said "that even your best friend won't recognize you in that suit. Just take a walk outside for a minute and get the feel of the garment."

Harry went out and returned a moment later. The proprietor rushed up to him with a happy smile.

"Good morning, stranger," he beamed, "What can I do for you?"

Boy, 9, Wins Opening Grid Quiz

Plymouth's football expert of this week is one gridiron fan who places little weight on years.

Only nine seasons old, Jimmy Esch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Esch, 11645 Brownell, hauled down the first place prize of ten dollars in The Mail's opening 1955 weekly "Pick-the-Winners" football contest. Jimmy turned the trick by picking 13 winners out of 15 contests played last weekend.

Jimmy did all right by himself when he copped first place in the big grid quiz, but he was trailed hotly by two other people.

Missing only three winners on the list were Doris Singleton of Wayne and Alfred Spigarelli, 1237 Beck. The Mail's judges figured that each were equally adept at grid prognosticating for this week because both missed the same number of games and both failed to foresee the Green Bay Packers' surprise upset of the Detroit Lions.

So Doris and Al split the second and third place prizes which totaled ten dollars. They each received five bucks for their accuracy.

As first place winner, youthful Jimmy was well pleased and equally surprised. When his mom told him last Monday afternoon that he was a winner, all he could say was: "Ah, Mummy, I don't believe you." But he did when he got the tenner!

A fourth grader at Allen school, Jimmy plans to use his winnings toward a new Sunday school suit. It was the first time he had won any sort of contest. Last year, in the same football quiz, he and his father (who helped a little on this one) entered many times but the best they could do was come "real close once."

As far as the contest itself went, it was a sparkling success for this year's opener. At least from the number of entries in the bulging box at The Mail's office. But the many contestants had it a little tough when Green Bay nipped the Lions and Maryland stunned UCLA. The poorest anyone did was miss seven battles.

But onward to the one for this week. It's on these sports pages so why not grab up a pencil right now and jot down who you think is bound to win?

Remember, though, that entries must be at The Mail office not later than Friday at 5 p.m. or be post-marked no later than that time. Climb aboard the grid quiz express and maybe you'll whistle on down to ten fat dollars toward your own new Sunday suit like Jimmy did.

Here's a tip, too, showing The Mail's sportsmanship for its hopefuls. State's a cinch over U of M. Shhhh!

Mills' TD Plunge in Fourth Period Earns Plymouth Squeaky 6-0 Win

Rousing out of a scoring lethargy in the fading moments of the fourth quarter last Friday evening, Plymouth's varsity football squad managed to push over one much-needed touchdown that enabled the rickety Rocks to turn back a battling Belleville grid team, 6-0.

This squeaky nod over the Tigers shaped Plymouth's first 6-B league win of the '55 campaign and also was its second victory of the infant grid season.

Despite the score's closeness, game statistics showed that it was a near replica of the Rock squad that powered and decided its way to an easy 37-0 plow over neighboring Northville in the season opener two weeks ago.

Against Belleville Friday, the Plymouth unit reeled off enough yardage via land and air to offset a striking difference between the locals and the tame Tigers. But the Rocks suffered greatly when their direly desired scoring punch deserted them.

Prior to Captain Lindy Mills' game-winning line buck at 8:10 of the fourth period, the locals five times marched deep within Belleville territory only to come up lacking in that added push needed to shove the pigskin across.

In the second quarter the Rocks drove down to golden scoring opportunities, once to the Belleville one-yard line and again to the 17-yard stripe, only to have their attack stall.

In the third stanza, the Rocks sent Kenzie Calhoun over from the 15 only to watch the TD called back because of an off-side penalty. Again in the third, Mills fumbled away another chance on the Tigers' seven.

Then in the fourth, the Plymouth eleven slammed all the way to their opponents' one-yard line again, to turn the ball over on downs.

But finally, with less than four minutes to the final whistle, the Rocks capped a 53-yard approach when Mills crashed in from one yard out.

Work-horses in Plymouth's victory drive were the hard-plunging Mills and scampering Kenzie Calhoun, who between themselves ticked off 47 of the 53 yards that the final march covered.

The Rocks took possession of the ball on their own 47 by virtue of a Belleville punt with seven minutes remaining. Quarterback Jackie Carter started the wheels in motion when he stabbed upfield for six after his pass try was bottled and he was forced to run instead.

Then Calhoun and Mills took over and with unerring precision ate up vital yardage striving for the Tigers' end-zone. Striking swiftly and surely, these two paced their team-mates to Plymouth's second consecutive victory of the current season.

It was Calhoun over right tackle to the Belleville 39 and a first down. Mills, on three straight line bucks, forced his way to the 33, where Calhoun ripped off eight more yards good for another first down.

Mills did away with seven yards and Calhoun slanted over the right tackle slot for another first down on the nine. Then Calhoun drove to the five. Mills went to the two.

Finally the Belleville linebackers and linemen got to Calhoun stopping him on the one-yard line for his shortest gain of the evening.

At this point the scene reverted to the second quarter when a Plymouth attack stalled out on the one-yard stripe. The picture flashed back to moments earlier in the fourth period when the Rocks got as far as the one before being halted with no score. With exactly four minutes to go, it was fourth down for the Rocks and one yard for a TD.

Hurling himself into the Belleville line on a hand-off from Carter, Mills was the center of a mass conversion of Belleville linemen intent on staving off yet another assault on their goal.

But the referee, after two undecided movements of his arms, finally threw his hands high in the air signifying the touchdown and giving Plymouth its hard-pressed victory.

This score came on the heels of Belleville's only flashy offensive maneuvering of the entire evening. Fired up by their goal-line stand, the Tigers reeled out one 40-yard pass play that stood the Belleville partisans on their toes.

But the Rocks' sturdy defense went to work and held for three downs, forcing the visitors to kick.

As the Rocks took over on their own 47, Plymouth rooters were aware that any victory hung in the balance. The locals were faced with one glaring move: any sort of score in the next seven minutes. Carter marshalled his forces and the Plymouth team arose to the occasion riding on the shoulders of Calhoun and Mills.

Following the touchdown, that had "game" emblazoned all over it, Plymouth's defense buckled down and stopped the Tigers cold. A sudden and questionable kick by the Belleville offense gave the Rocks final possession of the pigskin with only a minute and six seconds remaining.

Carter, staying on the ground and in close to the line of scrimmage, stalled out the seconds ending as against Northville, the Rock defense turned the tide. The Tigers were held to a slim total of 67 yards total rushing, 32 yards on the ground and 35 via the air lanes. Belleville tallied only two first downs over the course, both coming in the second half.

Plymouth's offensive blocking, which could have led to several more touchdowns had it been sharper, was poor throughout most of the game, and especially when the chips were down with the Rocks in good scoring position.

Coach John Hoben explained Plymouth's obvious lethargy as over-confidence. Said Hoben, "We made Belleville a good ball club with our poor showing. They never penetrated past the Plymouth 35, though, so our defense was up all the time. We lacked a scoring punch when we were down close."

Aside from Mills and Calhoun, who carried the brunt of the attack during the victory march, Hoben singled out for fine play Jim Jones at offensive tackle; Carter at quarterback, who called a good game; and George Pine, who did a stand-out job at defensive end.

Plymouth gained a total of 244 yards, 42 in the air, with two-thirds of its total rushing yardage coming in the second half. It was estimated that the locals controlled the ball during three-quarters of the time over the course of the second half.

Individual ground gaining honors went to Calhoun, who racked up 61 yards in 13 carries, while Mills listed 46 more yards in 15 tries. Other yardage makers were Fullback Dick Davidson with 32, Carter with 11 and Pine with six.

The locals suffered no serious injuries and should be at full strength for the crucial battle with Bentley high school tomorrow evening. This game pits the Rocks against last year's prime contenders for the 6-B league crown which Plymouth nabbed when it whipped up a narrow 13-12 win over the Livonia squad.

Game time for the tilt is 8:00 p.m. under the lights on the grid-iron behind the high school.

Statistics of the Plymouth-Bellelille battle are as follows:

Plymouth		Bellelille
Yds. rushing	202	32
Yds. passing	42	35
Total ydage	244	67
First downs	14	2
Passes attempted	11	9

Touch Gridders Win With Ease In Two Contests

Beginger Oldsmobile touch football squad, the Plymouth entry in the Wayne recreation touch football league, has copped two quick wins in loop action since play got underway two weeks ago.

Managed by Carl Pursell, the locals whipped Wayne, 28-8, in the season curtain-raiser, Sunday, September 18. Then last Sunday the Plymouth club white-washed Dearborn, 29-0, to continue their unbeaten string.

Facing Wayne, Plymouth relied on the accurate passing of Phil Jacobus, who knifed TD strikes to Pursell twice and once more to Mac Pierce. Al Waltz streaked 60 yards untouched for the fourth score as Jim Bloomhuff, Ken Kisabeth and Dave Reitzel caught the extra point passes. The locals also scored a safety.

Then against Dearborn, the Oldsmen shellacked their opponents with Waltz figuring in all the local scoring. He tossed two touchdowns, one to Reitzel and another to Pierce, and ran for two more touchdowns. Hunter scored the safety.

The Oldsmobile club will travel to Wayne high school this Sunday where it will face Belleville in the third game of the infant season. Game time will be 11:00 a.m. The next home tilt for the Oldsmen is October 16 at 1:00 p.m. on the field behind Plymouth high school.

Rocks Face Bentley Next

Tomorrow night's obstacle along the trail of Plymouth's quest for another 6-B league football title is the powerful Livonia-Bentley grid squad, which last Friday was forced to settle for a tie with Allen Park, 13-13.

As Bentley and AP were battling to a final deadlock, the Rocks squeaked past their initial loop opponent, Belleville, to the tune of 6-0 on Lindy Mills' one-yard touchdown plunge in the fourth quarter.

This current Bentley eleven romped to a 32-0 win over Garden City in the Livonia grid opener two Friday's ago.

Livonia last year was Plymouth's prime contender in the race for the 1954 6-B league football championship. Bentley's only loss on an otherwise perfect card was its 13-12 defeat at the hands of the Rocks, who then went on to cop the loop crown.

Coach Jack Hudnut was reported to have a "quite green team" in his 1955 edition at Bentley. Six lettermen return from the '54 campaign, when the Bulldogs put together a seven win and one loss overall card.

Of the returnees, Dave Phipps (center) and Dick Clark (left-half) will carry the brunt of the work. These two are Bentley's 1955 co-captains. Hudnut is in his fifth year as head coach at the Bulldog camp and will be assisted by Bob Bentley.

Other action last Friday, beside Bentley's tie with AP and Plymouth's win over Belleville, was Trenton's severe trouncing of Redford Union, 31-0. The standings in the 6-B league to date are as follows:

TEAM	W	L	T
Plymouth	1	--	--
Trenton	1	--	--
Allen Park	--	--	1
Bentley	--	--	1
Redford U	--	1	--
Bellelille	--	1	--

The Plymouth vs. Bentley football game tomorrow night will be fielded on the grid-iron behind Plymouth high school. Game time is 8:00 p.m.

Chips from the ROCK

We have the Hotel World-Review and Mayflower Manager Ralph Lorenz to thank for the following article. It was brought to our attention by Lorenz after it had appeared in the national weekly hotel newspaper. Because we felt it might have wide local interest, we are reprinting it as our "Chips" column of the week.

The assertion by itself—that parking is a public problem—wants for lack of dramatic punch. A more appropriate effect would be created if the mere words could be read to the background of a thundering roar of protest over the existing parking mess. But, the trouble is that too few business men have cut to the core of the parking problem and seen that its solution is deeply centered in the fundamental relationship between driving cars and parking them. One act cannot be accomplished without the other—eventually the car must stop and its driver proceed on foot.

The driving function is highly organized. A driver has a driver's license, roads, bridges, tunnels, traffic lights, policemen, penalties for failure to observe rules—and so on. Note, please, that everything about driving is in the jurisdiction of the government. Even if one wanted to, he could not build his own roads to his destination or place the stop lights where they suited his greatest convenience.

Why, then, is the driving function so public and the parking function so private? One cannot be done without the other. Does it make sense to literally herd a driver when he is en route and then cast him into a sea of confusion when he reaches any destination but his own home? Is there any logic for a city to say to 1,000 typical drivers: "We will supervise every move you make when you are driving but we will provide only 15 spaces for all 1,000 of you when you reach your common destination."

One sees in the papers one day that all new hotels in X city must provide a parking space for every room. Next day, the Y City council rules that there can be 2 spaces for every 3 cars. Z city, on the other hand, is going to require every new office building to provide its own offstreet parking. The Wm. Penn hotel in Pittsburgh has an underground public parking lot at its doorstep but typical hotel in Anytown has to spend thousands of dollars to buy a few spaces far beyond its hotel location.

By what conceivable right does a city pass the buck to private investment for matters which are the responsibility of a community? Why, indeed, should a 1955 investor have to buy twice as much land as he needs in order to furnish the parking that the city should provide?

Parking is a public problem and it is time for hotel men and their fellow business men to get together and force city administrators to take action to this end. A business man should no more have to provide his own parking than he should have to buy fights of way and pave them to his place of business. If John Jones must buy his own parking spaces to do business, then let's follow the next logical step and have him buy two traffic lights and pay the traffic cop's salary for a week each year.

Parking is a public problem and cities will have to act soon on the matter—otherwise they will see commercial interests scattered to a series of suburban centers.

Parking is a problem—but it isn't your problem or mine. It is the sole responsibility of a municipal government.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question:

"Do you think that high school boys are as gentlemanly or courteous as they should be?"

JUDY ELLIOTT, Mayflower Hotel: "They could improve by helping a girl into a car. The should also hold a chair for a girl when they sit down. That's about all I can think of now—any other time I could think of 1,000 things."

MARGIE QUIMET, 11648 Haggerty: "Sometimes at a dance they don't have the right kind of manners. I've seen some of them yell at other fellows across the dance floor. One thing I don't like is when one guy takes another into the corner and starts whispering something behind your back I just hate that."

DONNA GUIDEAU, 43375 Judson: "Some fellows are courteous, others aren't. Sometimes when a girl is about to enter a classroom a fellow will slam the door in your face rather than hold it open."

THERESA WILKINS, 41901 Schoolcraft: "Yes, they should be more courteous. I don't think they are as courteous as when my father was young. Many times when a girl walks down the hall a bunch of boys coming from the other direction will run right into you instead of stepping aside."

We Should be Proud of Symphony Now in 10th Season

Not everyone likes symphony music—and conversely, not everyone likes to "shake, rattle and roll." So far be it from these editorial columns to tell folks what kind of music they should enjoy. But we would like to take this opportunity to point out that whether you like symphony or not, Plymouthites can be proud of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra which is entering its 10th season.

It is sometimes difficult for new residents of the area to believe that Plymouth is able to support a symphony of 85 pieces. Others sometimes assume that a small-town orchestra can produce nothing but small-town results. Attendance at one of the concerts sets them straight.

There are about 30 symphony orchestras in the state of Michigan. It has been said by many outsiders that next to the Detroit Symphony which is fully a professional organization, the Plymouth Symphony ranks next in quality. It is also larger than all but one or two others in Michigan. Plymouth is fortunate in being centrally located in a pool of talent. With metropolitan Detroit on our east and the University of Michigan on the west, it makes our position enviable.

Plymouth Symphony players come from 20 communities. The audiences it attracts also draws from many of these neighboring areas, an indication that many people have made our community a part of their cultural lives. The musicians come from all walks of life. Concertmaster Josef Lazaroff, once with the Detroit Symphony, heads civilian personnel of the Army Engineers in Detroit; Violinist Maka Johnson has her home in Cooperstown, N. Y. but lives in Ann Arbor during the winter so that she can play in the symphony (she was said to be the first woman air mail pilot); and Violinist Nathalie Dale was once a prisoner of war in Austria.

The symphony also has musicians who have jobs as school teachers, college professors, accountants, a violin maker, auto salesman, a dietitian, a doctor, engineer, librarian, housewives and many other professions. In other words, the symphony not only provides enjoyable listening for others, but provides an outlet for the everyday citizen to express his musical talents. It must be pointed

Same Tune with New Words

Politicians are swapping soapboxes in Michigan as both parties stack their ammunition for 1956 campaigns.

Republicans, with a story for the working man, are going after the labor vote.

Democrats, prosperous with a full state of incumbents in the capitol, are wooing the farmer.

The switch in emphasis will have an effect on the 1956 election, both sides claim. The new areas of campaigning are expected to make Michigan one of the hottest states in the drive for votes.

"We are going to show the laboring man that he has benefited from a Republican legislature," said Republican State Chairman John Feikens.

Democratic State Chairman Neil Steabler said the party is whipping together a "state farm program" to show normally Republican farmers that they would do well to vote the other way.

"The Republicans are driving the family off the farm with their agricultural policies," he said. "Corporations are buying the land as business enterprises."

Both parties conducted spirited voter registration campaigns in September.

Democrats aimed a major campaign gun at the 80 per cent farm parity, claiming President Eisenhower promised 100 per cent.

Laboring folks in Detroit will be bombarded with the idea that Republicans in the legislature have increased workmen's and unemployment compensation benefits.

All this, while the guessing game reaches new peaks over who will be the candidates.

Feikens insists that Gov. Williams will go for a fifth consecutive term and President Eisenhower will try for his second four-year stay in the White House.

The governor, who has been mentioned as a Democratic presidential candidate, is silent on the thought but has done little to indicate which way he might go.

Democrats are patient, but some top party leaders figure it will be for a fifth term in Lansing.

Here's how they analyze it: Potential candidates at Chicago next Aug. 13—except Gov. Williams—will be able to go into the convention, campaign for the nomination, and still hold a spot open back home.

Williams will have to make his decision before going to Chicago and it will have to be public, because the deadline for withdrawing from the gubernatorial race expires before Aug. 13.

Conceivably, Gov. Williams could be nominated for the presidency by Democrats and still be the candidate for governor in Michigan.

What would happen in that case is an interesting project for any attorney that happens to be in the mood for a night of contemplation.

Whatever is accomplished in the special session of the legislature will also have an influence on 1956.

The governor has called the legislature into special session to consider highway safety, care for mentally retarded children and a $200 a year pay increase for 80,000 school teachers.

Republicans are wary because the problems have been with legislators for years.

Juvenile Judge Nathan Kaufman, of Detroit, said children have been waiting 25 years for a space in mental hospitals. People have died on the highways ever since cars were invented.

"We're going to be criticized whatever happens," said one Republican lawmaker.

He said Gov. Williams can claim the credit for recognizing the "emergencies" and calling the session. The governor can also attack Republicans for not solving problems of the past 26 years in four days of the session.

Democrats sought to tie the proposed $200 a year salary increase for teachers to their $4,000 minimum wage plank.

Some teachers are working for relatively low wages in Michigan schools and poorer districts are hiring uncertified teachers regularly.

Party support for the tieup of the two issues died in a State Central Committee meeting.

Rep. John Penczak (D-Detroit) said he and others plumped for the $4,000 annual wage floor in the last session of the legislature. He said:

"We took an awful beating. If you want the $4,000 a year guarantee, you're going to have to send us more Democrats."

but that the organization has a few professional musicians from the Detroit Symphony.

No one is denied the privilege of hearing the Plymouth Symphony. Although operating a symphony is a costly job, all concerts here are free. A small amount of money is gained through free-will offerings but its main financial support comes from memberships. So expensive is symphony music that much of it is rented.

Besides those who lend financial support, the symphony has flourished through the assistance of the board of education which has allowed use of its facilities. The Adult Education and Recreation program has also taken the symphony under its wing.

We wish the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra conducted by Wayne Dunlap a happy birthday on this 10th anniversary. We have faith that the public will always support its activities in order to give it a continuing prominent place in our community life.

School Needs In Limelight

Babson Park, Mass., The first White House Conference on Education has been called by President Eisenhower to meet in Washington, November 28, through December 1. Why will this be such an important meeting? Why a White House Conference?

The first reason is because there is an acute shortage of teachers. Hence, we must find a way to attract many more good people into the teaching profession. There is a shocking inadequacy of school housing. Cities and towns already overburdened by heavy tax loads must also find a way to build many more school buildings much more cheaply than they have in the past.

Just 24 months ago our population totaled 160,000,000. Today it has passed 165,000,000, and is increasing at a rate of about 2,700,000 a year. This means that for every 100 students now in the classrooms, there will be 121 by 1960, and 136 by 1965. There will be 476,000 new classrooms needed by 1960, plus the teachers to fill them. It has been estimated that our schools will need $10 billion more annually to operate in 1965 than they do today. It is to cope with this crisis that the White House Conference has been called.

Local Preparations Needed
At least forty state school board associations have already had regional planning meetings. Local citizens' meetings by the thousands will get into full swing this month. At a National School Boards Association meeting scheduled for September 29 to October 1 in Kansas City, Mo., the question will be discussed as to how business, industry, and the professions can contribute techniques and ideas that will be useful in the field of education. May I urge readers to get into these discussions at the grass roots.

How many school children must Plymouth accommodate during the next decade? How much of the problem can be solved by remodeling old buildings and how much new building will be needed? Is Plymouth paying high enough salaries to keep its good teachers and to attract new teachers? How much will the annual operating budget have to be increased by 1965? How will we get the most judicious use of school dollars? These are questions to which, as an intelligent citizen, you should have objective unprejudiced answers. I hope the White House Conference will move in this direction.

Solution to the Teacher Shortage
One of my readers, Mr. William C. Wooten of Greensboro, N. C., has come up with a suggestion for relieving the teacher shortage. I hope my readers will give this idea some consideration. He proposes a free college education with a bachelor's degree for all qualified students of State Universities who will agree to become teachers for a certain number of years in our public schools upon graduation from such a State University. He says that since most states now have publicly operated universities, it would be a relatively simple matter to arrange for a paid up education.

I believe that we have scores of intelligent persons of excellent character not entirely financially able to attend college, who would accept such an arrangement. This plan offers a way to attract and hold within the teaching profession a number of bright young people. Furthermore, it offers to these prospective teachers a post-college training in human nature and executive experience such as an intern has at a hospital before getting his M. D. Any such teacher after successfully completing such additional years of teaching should perhaps be awarded an M. A. degree. If any teacher should desire thereafter to change from teaching into some other work, these years of post-training would help in getting a good position, or—in case of an unmarried woman—a good husband! Of course, some details would have to be worked out for men becoming eligible for military service. I hope the White House Conference will not allow itself to get bogged down in educational gobbledegook, but will discuss the above serious problems with dispatch, and in a democratic and realistic manner.

String Instrument Group Was Nucleus of Symphony

It was in the spring of 1945 that 10 Plymouth musicians met in a home to organize a string orchestra from which has sprung the 85-piece Plymouth Symphony Orchestra of today.

The tenth anniversary being celebrated this season finds the symphony more entrenched in the community than ever before. But at times there have been difficulties — mostly financial — which have been considered as a crisis.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Groschke, 1051 North Mill, were the hosts at the first meeting of the string orchestra. Playing with them were Roy Pursell, Fred Beitner, Ardis Curtiss Long, Jens Pedersen, Arthur Baker, Daisy Barnes, Leo Kowalcik and William Bate-man.

The string group played for church groups, ice cream socials and in the words of the players, "for anyone who would listen." Mrs. Groschke, who professionally goes by the name of Evelyn Woods, conducted from the piano. They met wherever they could, including a barn, and refreshments were served after each rehearsal such as they are now.

A man by the name of Paul Wagner came to Plymouth in 1946 and it was under his guidance that the symphony "got off the ground." As director of the high school band and supervisor of music in the schools, Wagner had previous experience in organizing and conducting a symphony orchestra in Medina, Ohio. Being interested in establishing a civic symphony here, he took the stringed group under his direction.

Under the name of Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, it grew to 35 members and gave its first public performance on Sunday, April 20, 1947.

Evelyn Woods was soloist for this first performance. The audience attending the program were surprised and pleased to discover that Plymouth was becoming music-minded in a big way.

The 1947-48 season saw an improved and enlarged orchestra. There were now 50 members and four concerts were given instead of one, three in Plymouth and one in Redford township. A symphony board was formed for the purpose of handling the many details in connection with the orchestra and to also insure its continuation. The Plymouth Symphony Society held its first meeting on February 17, 1948. Twelve people were elected to the board of directors.

In 1948, the Plymouth orchestra was asked to participate in the Michigan Massed Orchestra Festival in Ann Arbor, although the local group was only in its second year. It was also during this year that Wagner persuaded Josef Lazaroff of Detroit to become concert master, a position he still holds.

Two additional concerts were held during the 1948-49 season, including one in Belleville. This was also the year when the popular Symphony Ball made its first appearance on the social scene. A Junior Symphony Society was formed this same year for the purpose of arousing interest of young people in the orchestra. Money was also allotted for a scholarship to be given to a Plymouth high school graduate who planned to continue the study of music in college and needed financial assistance.

One of the highlights of the fourth season was the orchestra's presentation of an original composition by Albert Hoels of Ann Arbor. Professor Hoels conducted the world premiere of his "Grand Festival Overture" at the concert on March 26, 1950 and the performance was repeated a week later in a Redford Township concert.

As the fifth season began, the orchestra numbered about 60 and there were over 250 members in the Plymouth Society. On March 28, 1951, Valter Poole, assistant director of the Detroit Symphony, was guest speaker at the Symphony Society dinner and annual voters' meeting. His timely address was enjoyed by the large group of guests which completely filled the Mayflower hotel dining room. The 1950-51 season was Wagner's last with the orchestra.

ing this year and are now considered an indispensable yearly event.

Several unusual features of the 1952-53 season was the move into the high school gymnasium because the orchestra had become too large for the auditorium. As an innovation, a canvas tent was placed over the orchestra to improve the acoustical effect. It proved unsatisfactory. A one-act opera, "The Telephone," by Gancarlo Menotti was presented. The last concert of the seventh season became a part of the first creative arts festival which was sponsored by the Adult Education Department of the schools.

The orchestra was well on the way to professional proportions in 1953 when 75 musicians turned out for rehearsal. Concerts were again being held in the auditorium but the stage had to be enlarged for every program. Capacity audiences were the rule. A Women's Symphony association was under discussion and a beginner's string class was inaugurated by the society.

Conductor Dunlap attended a class for orchestra conductors under George Szell in Cleveland. The last concert of the season was an all-Beethoven program, an achievement for both the conductor and orchestra.

At the end of the seventh concert season, Dunlap was granted a year's leave of absence to study in Vienna on a Fulbright scholarship. In September 1954, he and his family left for Austria.

Plymouth was again fortunate in being able to find a person able to carry on the work of directing the orchestra. Emil Raab, a member of the internationally famous Stanley String Quartette, became guest conductor.

The Women's Symphony Association became organized last year. A piano concert by Jean Goldkette was sponsored by the Plymouth Rotary club last year for the purpose of raising additional funds for the society.

It was last season that the largest audiences in the symphony's history attended the family concert in which the Junior Symphony string class made its first appearance.

Twelve Directors Handle Business of Orchestra

It takes a lot of "behind the scenes" work to make a symphony orchestra click! This chore falls upon the volunteer members of the Symphony Board of Directors.

Aside from Conductor Wayne Dunlap and the orchestra players themselves, the board of directors must be given the biggest share of credit for the success of the symphony.

Composed of twelve elected members, the board meets each month with Conductor Dunlap and a representative of the women's auxiliary to conduct the business of the orchestra. They plan the budget, approve expenditures, schedule membership drives, outline publicity and direct the thousand and one details that go along with any organization of the size of the symphony.

Each member serves for three years, without remuneration. Presently the board is headed by President Gerald Fischer, serving his second term in that capacity. Other board members are: Mrs. Thomas Adams, Miss Hildur Oleson, J. W. Cheetham, Mrs. William Congdon, Mrs. William Ellis, Dr. Gerald Fitch, Mrs. M. J. Herber, William Sliger, Harper Stephens, Dr. A. E. Van Ornum and Robert Wesley.

Board President Gerald Fischer

As all concerts are open to the public without charge, finances are always a foremost concern. To the credit of the present board can be said that for the first time in the history of the orchestra they finished the past season in the "black." Keeping the treasurer's reports in this hue is again the major problem of the new board.

160 Youngsters Reap Benefits Of Junior Symphony Program

WHEREAS, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is beginning its 10th concert season on Sunday, October 16;

AND WHEREAS, the Symphony is a leading source of culture in our community by providing musical enjoyment for young and old and affords an opportunity for its citizens to express their music abilities;

AND WHEREAS, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has become recognized as one of the leading small city symphonies in the nation and has achieved their reputation over the span of only 10 years through the efforts of its conductors and performers and the loyalty of many citizens;

THEREFORE, I, Russell M. Daane, mayor of the City of Plymouth, do proclaim the week of October 2 through 8 as Plymouth Symphony Orchestra Week and ask that the public make itself aware of this cultural influence in our midst, to support it whenever possible and to take advantage of all opportunities to attend its concerts throughout the seasons.

Russell M. Daane
Mayor, City of Plymouth

Approximately 160 Plymouth youngsters will be given an opportunity to attend the young people's concerts given by the Detroit Symphony orchestra this year in connection with a program sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony society.

In an effort to further interest in symphonic music among Plymouth youngsters and to foster the development of potential musicians for the community's symphony orchestra, the Plymouth Symphony Society initiated for the first time last year its Junior Symphony program.

Under the program, which rotates among Plymouth's public and two parochial schools, busloads of 25 to 30 fifth and sixth-grade youngsters are taken to each of the four young people's concerts presented by the Detroit orchestra. Buses are furnished by the Plymouth Recreation department and the group is chaperoned by members of the society's Junior Symphony committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William J. Ellis.

Junior high school band and chorus members, as well as youngsters from the string instrument classes at the high school, are in-

Symphony Women Start Fall Activities

A comparatively new group of the Plymouth Symphony Society, the Women's committee, will begin its second year of activity this fall.

Headed by Mrs. Harold W. Keliogg, temporary chairman, the group is composed of approximately 60 members who serve as a fund-raising organization for the Society and work with the Symphony orchestra.

Along with their regular job of serving refreshments to orchestra members after each Monday night rehearsal, the Women's committee has sponsored such Symphony projects as the Christmas and Spring balls, the fashion show and annual dinner for members of the orchestra.

The group has charge of plans for tonight's potluck dinner which will officially "kick off" the 1955-56 membership drive for the Plymouth Symphony Society. The event has been scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium and is open to the public.

The Women's committee is open to all women interested in the work of the community symphony. There are no dues required of members belonging to this organization. The group's next meeting will be held in October, date for which will be announced later. A permanent chairman and committee heads will be elected at that time.

Representatives from the various Women's auxiliaries associated with Michigan's 30 civic orchestras are scheduled to meet in Flint next month for the purpose of setting up a state organization.

5 Charter Players

Five people who played in the original string orchestra formed 10 years ago are still members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

They are Evelyn Woods Groschke, piano; Carl Groschke, bass; Daisy Barnes, viola; Ardis Curtiss Long, violin; and Fred Beitner, violin.

These five and five others met in the Groschke home to organize the string orchestra in the spring of 1945. From this group came the present symphony.

Mixing of New, Old Furniture Becomes Style in Home Decor

There is a popular tendency among homemakers today to mix furniture of different periods. This mixing of traditional and contemporary furnishings is said by some decorators to forecast a new style in home decoration.

This blending of periods is certainly a practical idea. Almost everyone of us has an old desk, sofa or chest that belonged to our Grandmother for which we feel a great deal of affection.

However, a great many people prefer modern or contemporary furniture, for the most part in their homes. This new trend probably stems from their desire to enjoy the new and the old.

A large number of modern pieces are being produced in medium rather than pale colors, while traditional furniture is being made in many of the lighter woods. The corresponding color tones makes it possible to use tables, chairs and such in the same room even though they are not related in styling.

Modern hardwood veneer furniture not only brings out the full beauty of the wood grain, but it is much more durable when of a good quality, than many solid pieces. Curved shapes are possible with the new plywoods and hardwood veneers. Also, veneer matching has been perfected to the point where almost any desired effect in wood pattern can be had.

All this permits unlimited selection in design, color and pattern, thus making it simple to find pieces of different periods which look well together.

One well known decorator stated that he has always preferred mixing periods because it gives a variety to rooms that can be gotten in no other way.

If you have cut glass on windows or tableware, clean with a solution of vinegar and water brushed on with a toothbrush.

Home Agent Tells Best Way To Cook Eggs

Hard cooked eggs keep for hours without refrigeration. Thanks to the protection of both the shell and the paper-like lining underneath, you can just cook and chill them, explains a Wayne County Home Demonstration agent. But, she cautions, hard-cooked eggs out of the shell, stuffed or in salad or sandwiches, needs to be kept cold to be safe against spoilage. It just takes a couple of hours in a warm spot for deviled eggs or egg mixtures to become spoilage hazards.

To buy eggs for hard-cooking those of top quality (grades AA or A) are usually best for eating out of the hand. They have a more delicate flavor and are more likely to have well centered yolks. But for cutting up for salad or chopping for sandwich filling, Grade B eggs fill the bill and cost less, too.

Even though it takes longer to simmer than to boil eggs, most people prefer the firm, tender white of hard-cooked eggs to the tough leathery hard-boiled eggs. To hard cook eggs, wash them and put in a pan so they are completely covered with cold water. Bring the water to simmering and let it simmer 25 to 30 minutes. After cooking put the eggs at once in cold water.

Cold water halts the cooking and helps prevent the dark ring from forming on the outside of the yolk, explains the specialist. She also suggests you speed the job by shelling the hard-cooked eggs under running water. This helps carry off all the bits of shell.

When Two-Thirds Less Means Two-Thirds More

If you can transform yourself into working triplets for Fall housecleaning you're lucky... but if you can't here are a few suggestions that can take a third of your work-load during a serious housecleaning session.

Make a weekly habit of stripping your beds, airing the covers and mattresses and removing lint by using a vacuum attachment... then when the big housecleaning time comes around you'll only have to add vacuuming the mattresses and springs.

If you'll concentrate daily on keeping all your walls and floors clean, they will never be a major problem! Part of the secret is discovering how well the original controlled suds detergent for automatic washing machines works as a general housecleaning detergent.

For instance, one teaspoon of controlled suds detergent in a gallon of warm water makes wall washing a pleasure... use either a damp sponge or cloth, wash in small sections, beginning at the top of the wall and washing down. If in doubt as to the washability of your walls just make a small patch test in a hidden area, and if no color comes off, your walls are washable. Then use this same mixture to wash your cupboards, moldings and window sills—it's a gentle and easy method.

When it comes to floors, controlled suds cleaning affords you the professional touch at home. If your floor is asphalt tile, rubber tile, vinyl tile or linoleum use the same measured solution; if your floor is painted, the same solution applies, just wash and rinse, and mop dry; and finally, if your floor is concrete, ceramic tile or terrazzo, use a solution of controlled suds and HOT water, mop and rinse. You'll find that a controlled suds detergent solution will not leave a soapy film to mar the beauty or make walking a sticky task. And, as a caution: never allow water to stand on your floor, no matter what the material.

Experts Give Banana Tips

Have you ever looked carefully at a banana? Not to admire its lovely, crescent shape nor even its golden color, but to learn how to slice a banana in the most efficient way possible. You know, experts slice the banana right in the peel, and it's a joy to watch their skill.

If you look at a banana now, you'll see that its peel has slight ridges running up and down, and that some ridges are wide apart and some narrower. Take the banana in one hand, and your sharp paring knife in the other. With the knife, cut off the pointed, bud end of the banana. Then find one of the wide strips of peel. Rip it off the banana with a quick, decisive motion. It will pull the "strings" of the banana right off with the peel. With the fingers, loosen the banana in its peel.

Now take the knife, and slice the banana right in its peel in your hand. It's all so quick, and neat and clean. Whichever way you are going to use the banana slices, whether in a salad, a dessert, a bowl of cereal, when you've finished slicing the banana, just slide the whole thing from the peel right into the dish you're making. Isn't that a good technique?

When you want to fill small mouthed containers or bottles, use a teapot with a small spout.

Vary Breakfast Menu To Perk Up Appetites

Your children and your husband need good breakfasts to start them off to school and to work each morning. They might have more incentive to eat a good substantial meal if they had something different to look forward to each day. If they aren't eating good breakfasts now, they may be just plain bored. Adults as well as children like surprises and will be anxious to come to the breakfast table if you provide them with something new and different occasionally.

The expert suggests planning breakfasts just as you would any other meal. Of course, it is wise to include fruit, cereal, milk, butter, meat or eggs often, but each of these foods can vary greatly from day to day. For example, fruits, when not in season, are usually available canned as a juice, sauce or whole fruit. Just take a look at the juice shelf in the grocery store next time you shop: there are enough there to have a different taste treat every day in the week.

Starting breakfast preparations the evening before may help the homemaker who is a "slow starter" in the morning. The table could be set—remember, a cheery cloth or centerpiece helps remove morning doldrums. Dry ingredients for muffins can be mixed and pans prepared so that it takes a very few minutes in the morning to mix and pop them into the oven.

The benefits of a good breakfast are three—more energy so you can do more work; faster reaction, so you can think and act more quickly; and less tremor, so you are steadier with less muscular fatigue.

The authority concludes by suggesting that you not only eat a sound breakfast each day, but vary your morning meal from day to day. Planning is the secret. Pep up breakfasts and perk up your family's spirit!

Creative Work Helps Person Convalesce

Handiwork and crafts are good answers to the problem of how to occupy the time of someone who is experiencing a long convalescence.

Most invalids, according to nursing education specialists like to make things for other people or for the home.

Family mending can be done and hand-knit articles made for gifts. Weaving has also become popular recently, the experts add. Invalids can use a simple, homemade loom or a more elaborate set-up. Some of these pastimes can develop into hobbies after convalescence.

Other crafts that patients enjoy are weaving and braiding jewelry and belts of gimp; soap carving; and block printing with wood, linoleum or art gum blocks. Do-it-yourself kits are other possibilities.

Children can use their imaginations, point out the specialists, crayons and paper bags to create paper-bag puppets and masks.

Tells How to Minimize Weekend "K.P. Duty"

Be ready for the week-end! By making use of your freezer, no matter how little space you have, you can avoid long hours in your kitchen and have the time to spend with your family.

You might prepare meat balls, suggests a meat expert. Use your favorite meat ball mixture recipe and shape it into small balls. Cook them slowly in a small amount (2 to 3 tablespoons) lard or drippings, until done, then for easy storage and to prevent crushing, place them in a single layer on aluminum foil pie plates. Pour the sauce over them, then wrap with freezer paper and freeze.

When ready to use on the weekend, unwrap and loosen from plates by dipping the bottom of the plates in warm water. Then place the meat balls and sauce in a frying-pan and cover. Cook slowly until the meat balls are heated through and sauce is hot. This takes only about 25 to 30 minutes. They are ready to serve over spaghetti, which you can cook while heating the meat balls.

Also, you can be ready for muffins and other pans which have rusted can be cleaned with a rust remover. Use steel wool on them periodically to prevent rust from forming.

There is no waste in milk and dairy products. They come prepared for immediate consumption without need for peeling, scraping or cooking.

Helpful Hints Concerning Building, Remodeling, Repairing & Redecorating

REMODEL

BEAUTIFUL VIEW through the expansive picture window in her home's living room is enjoyed by Mrs. Jack Gage, 42501 Clemons. The window cornice was made by Mr. Gage in his spare time out of birch wood in order to match the other woodwork throughout the house. Other features of the modern residence include all brick wall with fireplace partitioning the living room from the dining-L.

Remodeling Old House Need Not Be Expensive If Major Structural Changes Are Avoided

One of the reasons for the trend to "do-it-yourself" is the personal satisfaction that comes from the accomplishment of a job done by one's own effort and skills.

Last year more than 10 million home-owners themselves, made some improvements and alterations to their homes. More than another million made structural changes and additions to existing houses by use of their own skills plus the help of professionals. More than three million older homes were bought — and, each of these represent additional home repair jobs.

Renovation costs of an older house may be kept low through the use of inexpensive new products, and by the use of familiar old ones used in new ways.

Remodeling ideas can be planned in simple, step-by-step stages, paying as you go along.

One of the newer treatments in modern construction is the feeling of spaciousness through "open planning." In remodeling older houses, this may be achieved by eliminating unsightly partitions, heavy woodwork and bric-a-brac trim. Windows can be "stretched" . . . closets relocated, and together with cheerful color and texture gain better lighting, more room.

Suggested remodeling ideas wherever possible call for "face lifting" without basic structural changes. For example — a dark brick exterior can be faced with bright stucco; a front porch eliminated to extend the living room out to the new, open eaves.

Planned modernization can help unify the downstairs living dining and kitchen areas by removing the separating partitions. Color and texture now are used to bring the newly-achieved areas all into close harmony.

Other important changes that may be made at low cost — are floor-to-ceiling windows, rippled translucent glass partitions, multi-purpose built-ins to provide both storage space and work surfaces.

Easy-to-clean linoleums, asphalt tile, counter tops, plastic-finished wall-board paneling and special acoustical wallboards and ceiling tile can be used efficiently and economically throughout the entire remodeling plan.

No drastic changes need be effected anywhere . . . the house can remain structurally the same. And there is not likely to be any difficulty in arranging for financing a remodeling job of this kind. If you have been in your family home for many years, perhaps you own it free and clear and care to arrange for a small first mortgage to cover such a plan.

If you are considering buying an older house, you can include the remodeling cost in the total price for mortgage purposes under F.H.A. regulations.

Since many remodeling ideas lend themselves so well to easy stage handling, perhaps your choice will be to do the job step-by-step, pay-as-you-go.

To help homeowners with their remodeling and modernization jobs, the Armstrong Cork Company has prepared a plan book of descriptive "before and after" illustrations showing how an outdated 1920's home might be modernized at low cost.

Model for the plan was an old house, built in 1923. The house was well-constructed but clearly out-moded for modern living.

Whatever your remodeling problems may be — you may wish to see this handsome booklet explaining the Armstrong remodeling plan.

The booklet, "Modern Ideas for an Older Home" is available to you free of charge. WRITE TO: The Building Editor, The Plymouth Mail.

DESIGN B-335. For the fortunate owner whose lot overlooks a beautiful view to the rear, this spacious, ranch-style house is arranged to take advantage of it. The entrance and the drive are in the front, and the living room is in the rear, with a large picture window occupying most of the rear wall, for an unobstructed view. The balance of the floor plan for this house includes two bedrooms, a bath, a large combination kitchen-dinette, seven closets, a full basement and an attached garage. The attractive exterior is finished in a combination of face brick, vertical and wide bevel siding and asphalt shingles. ### Small Repairs

Even if you do not have a workshop, or do much putting about your home, on do-it-yourself jobs, there are certain small chores about the house you can do quickly and efficiently with a minimum of tools.

Here are the basics for every home:

A claw hammer is the backbone of any tool kit; a tack hammer, a worthy mate. Choose a cross-cut saw for cutting across the grain of wood, a rip-saw for with-the-grain cuts; a coping saw is a versatile tool for minor, fine work.

A good tool kit should contain screwdrivers of various sizes. A ratchet screwdriver with interchangeable blades is an excellent timesaver and good investment. Choose a firm chisel for both light and heavy work; it can be used for making vertical cuts, splitting wood and other chores.

A brace and bit comes in handy for all wood-boring jobs; bits come in a wide variety of sizes. Equally useful is a hand-drill for making holes in either wood or metal, depending upon the drill point used.

A jack plane is a handy tool for smoothing sticky doors and other minor jobs.

Other handy small tools for use about the house are a wood and metal file; a folding rule, straight edge and steel measuring tape; all make themselves mighty useful. A pair of pliers, a pair of adjustable pliers, a Stilson and monkey wrench — these too, should be in every home tool kit.

Paint scrapers, putty knives, nail sets and draw knives are handy additions.

Keep a supply of sandpaper in both fine and coarse abrasives; steel wool is handy where scratching is to be avoided; pumice stone is fine for polishing jobs.

Don't forget the plumber's friends — the long-handled, rubber-cupped plunger for clearing stopped-up drains and a steel, springed auger or "snake" for clogged-up pipes. These will help you handle the most common plumbing troubles.

You wouldn't call a surgeon to remove a splinter from your finger, so why call a specialist to take care of some of the chores you can learn to do yourself. And, the best way to tackle the little repair jobs as they occur is to be prepared with the right tools to do the job.

Sales of cast iron boilers in the first quarter of 1955 were 43.6 per cent ahead of sales in the first quarter of 1954, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Don't Forget Roomy Attic Area Remodeling In Attempting to Gain Added Living Space

If you are using the attic area in your home for storing hand-me-downs, discarded clothing and can't-be-parted-with items, then there may be at least 3,000 cubic feet or more, going to waste in your own home.

This space can be converted to a bedroom, den, workshop or perhaps an income-adding apartment.

The biggest job in attic remodeling is to complete the sheathing of walls and ceilings. New wallboards of wood fibers, or other composition materials give an inexpensive solution to this problem.

There are panels, planks and large-sized boards available in these wallboards to make the job handsome and professional-looking.

The advantages to these modern wallboard installations is that they can be nailed or stapled to the exposed studs and ceiling beams, or they may be cemented in place over existing cracked, chipped or broken plaster walls. Some of the newest wallboards need no painting or other finishing.

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE A HUTCH TABLE-BENCH

An old-fashioned hutch is a useful and unique piece of furniture.

The entire hutch may be made of 1-inch finished lumber. Edge-glue boards to make the large panels. The table top may be of hardwood plywood. Cut out the parts as shown.

Notch the end pieces to the actual width of the side pieces. Do not cut the seat base, the lid or the hinge board behind it until after partial assembly of the other bench parts. These pieces may then be fitted more exactly.

Use glue at all joints and No. 5 wood screws, 1 1/4 inches long, or 6-penny finishing nails. Counter bore for the screws, and fill the holes with glued dowel plugs. Assemble by fastening one side board to the ends, add the bottom of the hutch, and then the other side piece. Attach the lid jamba to the under sides of the seat borders, allowing a 1/2-inch extension to support the lid before setting the borders in place. Then add the hinge board. Attach the lid to the hinge board with butt hinges. Center the top braces beneath the table top. Sand the hutch, rounding all sharp edges. Stain and varnish, or paint, as desired.

Canvas Protects Air Conditioner

A cotton canvas cover for window air conditioning units will give valuable protection through the winter. Awning dealers can make up the water-repellent covers to fit any size air conditioner. Use of the canvas cover saves homeowners the expense of taking down the air conditioning unit to protect it from winter weather and the additional cost of replacing it next summer.

The noise caused by water hammering in plumbing pipe lines can be eliminated by the use of a special shock absorbing device, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Have you ever noticed that the good things in life are most often inexpensive things?

Which house heating fuel is least expensive? Here's a chart arranged to give a quick and accurate answer for any home. With a pencil, mark the prevailing price of each available fuel on the appropriate horizontal line. The mark that then lies farthest to the left indicates the cheapest fuel per unit of heat, the one that will give lowest operating cost. The Coleman Company, Wichita, Kan., the manufacturer who supplied the chart, calls attention to the necessity of using the local utility company's special "heating rate" for gas, not the small-quantity price.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Question: My basement floor is cement, and very rough. It dusts off terribly, and there are many small holes and a few larger ones, which — when you walk on the edges of them — the concrete breaks. I've heard you can't put down another cement floor on top of an old one. Would it be possible to put down a wood floor over this?

Answer: You can put a new concrete floor over the old one. Or a cement floor. Concrete should be about 2 inches thick, or cement about 1 inch. Wet the old floor thoroughly, then pour on half the new mixture and spread trowel wire over it for reinforcing, then add the second half of the mixture and smooth it off. You can also put down a wood floor, but since you need 2-inch sleepers under it, which have to be anchored to the old concrete floor, you may have some trouble finding a firm anchorage if the floor is in such poor shape. Also, the floor would first have to be leveled off under the sleepers to avoid an uneven wood floor. The concrete or cement floor would be quicker, cheaper, and less trouble.

Question: I'm finishing my attic which has a sub-floor laid at right angles to the joists. How should my finish floor be laid — at right angles to the subfloor or in the same direction? I get conflicting information on this. J.T., Cleveland, Ohio.

Answer: Lay your finish floor at right angles to the sub-floor. When the sub-floor is laid diagonally, you can lay the finish floor either way. In your case, if the sub-floor boards, which are wider, warp, it would result in similar wavy characteristics in the finish floor. Laying the finish floor across the sub-floor boards avoids this possibility.

Question: My tankless hot water heater, three years old, has recently reduced in volume the output of hot water. I find it must be due to a deposit of lime in the cooper pipes. We live in an area where the water gives good lather but the water is hard and lime deposits are not unusual. My dealer states he has tried reverse flushing, even acids to eat them out but to no avail and predicts I will eventually have to have a new unit. I hope you can suggest some less expensive solution to this problem.

Answer: Since you develop good lather, obviously you have a mixture of limestone with other minerals which do not respond to the acid-removal technique. Your dealer's gloomy prediction is correct. Lime deposits alone can be removed with acids in about 30 minutes to several hours — if the pipe is in good shape. You can prevent a recurrence of the trouble by adding a filtering device to your water system near the intake point which will (1) filter out all chemical elements or (2) coat the pipe with a thin film which prevents the formation of these mineral deposits. Neither is expensive, and quickly pay for themselves in better water and a reduction of plumbing bills to the vanishing point.

Commissioner Adopts 1917 Fire Truck

An American-LaFrance fire engine, veteran of 38 years of fire-fighting in Ann Arbor, is now in the possession of Harold Guenther, 1142 North Holbrook, one of Plymouth's city commissioners.

While some people are old-time car enthusiasts, Guenther decided that a fire truck would be something of a change. He too had worked on antique cars but had sold them.

Ann Arbor used the fire truck right up until it was replaced by a new one several months ago. Guenther purchased it in competitive bidding for $500.

It takes a knack to start and steer a fire engine and Guenther admits that he still hasn't driven his new purchase. His friend, Fire Chief Robert McAllister drove it to Plymouth from Ann Arbor. When Plymouth firemen saw it, they immediately took it to the nearest lake and tried out its pumps. The truck can still pump 800 gallons of water a minute, which is as much as most modern-day pumps. Before Guenther starts work in renewing the 1917 truck, he has given Chief McAllister permission to use it in training firemen for Civil Defense purposes. After that, Guenther will build a permanent home for the truck and attempt to make it shine like it did on the day it was made — 38 years ago.

Readers are asked to include their full name and address so that the Northwest Social Security office can answer any letters that are not published.

The following questions are typical of the many inquiries about Social Security that we have received in the past:

1. My husband died a year ago. At that time I received a lump-sum payment from Social Security. I recently heard that I shouldn't have taken this lump-sum because now I won't be able to get my monthly payments when I'm 65. Is this true?

Answer: No. You will still be able to receive monthly payments at age 65. A lump-sum is paid at the time a worker dies, but this does not prevent future payments.

2. I am 67, have been paying Social Security taxes for many years, and expect to retire soon. Is it correct that if I own my home I cannot get Social Security payments?

Answer: No. A retired worker may qualify for benefits without regard to any property, savings or any other type of income he may have.

3. I am a farmer and expect to farm as long as I can. I have gotten along without Social Security. Must I start paying these extra taxes now?

Answer: Beginning with 1955, a self-employed farmer is under the Social Security law if his net-earnings from self-employment are $400 or more in a year. This coverage is compulsory. The first report for the farmers is due with his 1955 income tax return.

4. Why was my husband told he could earn only $1,200 a year and still get his Social Security checks while another man we know has a full-time job and gets his Social Security checks each month?

Answer: If your friend is age 72 or over he is entitled to his Social Security checks regardless of the amount he earns.

Social Security questions from our readers are welcome and may be sent to the Plymouth Mail. Only the writer's initials will be used to identify their letters in the paper. However, the full name and address should be shown in the letter.

Sometimes the fellow who says he's satisfied with married life really means that he's had all he wants of it.

Series of Radio Broadcasts Depict Michigan's Function in Civil War

A special series of radio broadcasts about the important part Michigan regiments played in the Civil War is planned for presentation to Michigan audiences this fall and winter.

"To Make Men Free," created by The University of Michigan Broadcasting Service, is a series of quarter-hour radio programs dramatizing the role played by Michigan troops in the key battles of the war between North and South.

Seven programs were given as a pilot series on station WUOM, Ann Arbor, during July and August. The success of these trial broadcasts, according to Professor Waldo Abbot, U-M director of broadcasting, "encouraged us to expand the series and offer it to radio stations throughout the state."

Michigan troops took part in more than 800 separate engagements of the Civil War, and fought the war through from start to finish. Four Michigan infantry regiments fought in the First Battle of Bull Run, and a Michigan cavalry regiment had the distinction of capturing the Confederate President Jeff Davis at the close of hostilities.

Throughout the war, Michigan distinguished themselves many times over. At Shiloh, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Gettysburg and many other battles, Michigan regiments played roles that meant the difference between victory and defeat for the Federal Army. The radio series will highlight such instances.

Special consultant for the programs is Civil War Scholar Edward E. Barthell of Ludington, Mich.

Research materials in the University's general library, Clements Library and Michigan Historical Collections are being combed for background material and specific instances that will lend themselves to radio-telling.

The central character in the series is a fictional newspaper correspondent who receives "assignments" from various 19th century Michigan newspapers to get the story of the impending battles. Except for this reporter, all major characters are drawn right from the pages of regimental histories.

Among those to be featured on different programs are: Major Benjamin G. Bennett of Burr Oak, killed at Chattanooga; Gen. George A. Custer, of Monroe also destined to be killed by Indians, will be heard in action at Gettysburg; Alagan's Col. Benjamin D. Pritchard who captured Jeff Davis and Gen. Orlando B. Willcox of Detroit, who commanded the 1st Michigan at Bull Run, will appear on the opening program of the series.

Others include: Capt. Russell M. Weston, of Niles; Col. John G. Parkhurst; Capt. Charles Lanphere and Sgt. Elliot Burdick all of Coldwater; Lt. William H. Wheeler, of Adrian; Lt. John K. Truax of Grand Rapids; and Sgt. James King, of Lansing.

October is Month Of Many Moons

October will be a month of moons, two of them full — one Harvest, one Hunter's.

And the full moon of October 1 will be the year's Harvest Moon, which is defined as the full moon occurring nearest the time of the autumnal equinox in mid-September.

The second full moon, seasonably called a Hunter's Moon, might this year be called a Halo-ween Moon — it occurs on October 31. Due to the Moon's path being nearly parallel to the horizon at these times, thus supplying harvest and hunter evenings with full moonlight for several nights in a row.

And while farmers are making hay while the moon shines, city folk who catch the 8 o'clock bus will be getting up in the dark. The length of the days will decrease noticeably in October and by the end there'll only be about 10 hours of daylight.

This leaves plenty of time for observing planets, constellations and meteor showers during the 14 evening hours. There are two of the showers scheduled, one around October 9 and the other around the 22nd.

Among the constellations, Auriga, the Charioteer, will be prominent as a pentagon-shaped figure with Capella, third brightest star visible from northern latitudes, at one of its corners. Capella rises in the northeast at sunset and was used by early Arabs for a guide star.

Capella is much like our Sun in temperature and color but if it were at a similar distance from us it would be more than one-hundred times as bright as our Sun.

Another star group in the autumn sky will be the Pleiades, coming up in the east about an hour after Capella. Six of these stars are quite clearly visible to the unaided eye and there are more if you want to test your eyesight — if you can see them without binoculars, throw away your glasses.

And pick up your umbrella in any case, because both the Pleiades and Capella have been associated with the rainy season from time immemorial.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The
MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Michigan may have a San Juan rabbit problem on its hands, and then again it may not.

The San Juan rabbits come from the San Juan Islands in Washington's Puget Sound and are noted for their burrow-digging, erosion-starting abilities. They reproduced like fury on their island home and at one point numbered about 1000 per square mile.

Because of the San Juan's destructive habits, various conservation groups have resolved against him, including the national Wildlife Society, and the International Association of Fish and Game Commissioners.

Recently, Conservation Department field workers found numbers of the rabbits have been released in Michigan for dog field trial work. Releases have been made in several southern Michigan areas.

But state workers doubt that releases made so far have been enough to establish the San Juan here. He stems from a domestic breed of bunny that in the San Juan Islands turned wild, but here his situation is similar in many ways to that facing any freed domestic animal. He will have to adapt to Michigan conditions and he may do that but right now it appears doubtful.

The main concern is for the future. Being both wild and domestic, the San Juan's legal status is in doubt. No law clearly controls releases or importations of these rabbits and later releases might include enough hardy, adaptable individuals to trigger a full-scale agricultural problem.

Representatives from state conservation and agricultural agencies met in Lansing recently to study solutions to the problem. Methods of identification and proposed importation and release controls were discussed.

Further talks have been planned. In the meantime, state field workers have been alerted to the problem.

A taste for potatoes has deer in trouble near both Hawks and Johannesburg, but "cherry bombs" — big firecrackers — are solving the problem temporarily. Potato growers near the two northern lower peninsula towns have lost a total of several acres of crops in recent weeks.

The bombs are strung out in a line through a field and go off at timed intervals through the night to scare the deer.

A few shooting permits were issued, but Conservation Department field workers prefer the bombs wherever possible.

If frost comes soon, farmers can harvest their crops and end the trouble. Otherwise, shooting permits may be the only answer, state workers say. Firecrackers, used in the past, only work for awhile. Deer grow accustomed to the noise after a time and pay it little attention.

Twenty-three thousand pounds of carp were removed from the Raisin River at Tecumseh recently.

The rough fish had grubbed out vegetation and rolled about 1 1/2 miles of the river so game fish had little chance to grow. A poison, applied by trained Conservation Department personnel, killed only a small number of under-sized bass, pike and panfish.

Fisheries workers ran similar experiments recently on waters near Flint and Saginaw. The hope is that the poisoning will give game fish a headstart to control the rough fish problem in the future.

The poison loses its effect after a few days and in this case, a dam kept it from spreading down river.

Twenty-seven fires burned 99 acres of state and private forests and grasslands last week, hiking the year's total loss to 6891 acres. The total does not include land administered by the federal government.

Southern Michigan farm operators desiring free trees and shrubs under the state's farm game habitat program can apply now by dropping a card to the Conservation Department's game division at Lansing, 26.

About 1,333,000 trees and shrubs will be shipped in late October to farmers who asked for the plantings earlier this year.

Hunters pay for the stock to provide more food and cover for small game in southern Michigan.

The money comes from taxes on hunting equipment distributed under the Pittman-Robertson program.

Farmers gain by getting trees for field windbreaks, multiflora rose for "living fences," and other erosion-stopping plantings. After planting, farmers are not obligated to let hunters use their lands.

To date, more than 4500 southern Michigan farms have made use of the programs.

Farmers do their own planting under the program, but state workers help with plans and planting advice wherever desired.

The program is limited to farms in general below the Bay City-Muskegon line.

Fawns will have lost their spots and velvet will be gone from the antlers of bucks by the time archers take the field October 1.

Recent Conservation Department field reports indicate the herd is taking on winter garb with bucks shining antlers and pawing ground while waiting for fall mating battles.

Field workers count deer at night by "shining" with spotlights and have chance to examine the animals.

1. We'd like to show you some of the things that make the Ford one of America's finest cars . . . though it's one of the lowest-priced. Let's start with these long, low lines. Looks like it hates to stand still, doesn't it?

Let's take a walk around the NEW '56 FORD!

It's the fine car at half the fine car price!

3. Here's what you ride on. This frame has five cross-members including a special K-bar member up front. It can really take it! By the way, the control arms of Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension are angle-mounted to cushion out the head-on as well as the up-down shock of bumps.

2. Here, on your left, is the inspiration for the styling of the '56 Ford—the famous Ford Thunderbird. Look at those broad, flat hoods, for example. Here is styling that will stay in style.

4. The new 202-h.p. Thunderbird Y-8 will give you a new lease on driving enjoyment. It's available in Fordomatic Fairlane and Station Wagon models. You can have the "GO"-packed 176-h.p. Y-8 in Fordomatic Mainline and Customline models, or Ford's new 137-h.p. Six is available in any model.

6. This Lifeguard cushioning for instrument panel and sun visors is optional. It gives you extra protection when thrown forward in an accident. You may also have optional seat belts to help keep occupants securely in seats.

5. Note the deep-center design of this new Lifeguard steering wheel. The wheel rim is over three inches above the post to help cushion the driver in case of an accident. It's a feature of new Lifeguard Design which Ford spent over two years developing . . . to give you added protection in case of an accident.

7. Here's Ford's new Lifeguard door latch. It is another member of Ford's new Lifeguard family. A double-grip locking engagement reduces the chance of doors springing open under unusual strain of impact. Chances of serious injury in accidents are less when passengers remain in the car.

Well, that covers the important points. But there's a lot more. So we'd like to invite you to come in and see the new '56 Ford for yourself. Then you'll see the colorful new exteriors and interiors, the quality workmanship that is evident everywhere. Then you'll learn the full story. When you do, you'll know that Ford is the fine car at half the fine car price.
