

Baptists Dedicate Enlarged Church

An enlarged and modernized sanctuary will be dedicated and the 125th anniversary of the congregation celebrated at services this Sunday at First Baptist church.

Dedication and anniversary services will take place at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The public is being invited to attend an open house from 4 to 6 p.m. First Baptist church is located at Mill and Spring streets.

Work on the church's new addition was started last March. The rear wall of the main building was torn out and a 24-foot extension constructed. This extension enlarged the sanctuary to allow about one-third greater seating capacity. The addition also provided more Sunday school classrooms, an office, choir room and new baptistry.

The program also included a completely redecorated main auditorium and basement rooms.

Need for the enlarged facilities stems from the rapid growth of the membership. The Reverend David Rieder states that the membership of the church and Sunday school has doubled in three years. Cost of the entire project will be between $35,000 and $40,000.

Speaking at the 11 a.m. service will be Dr. Ralph Taylor Andem, executive secretary of the Michigan Baptist convention. The evening service will also have a guest speaker, Dr. Ralph Karney, director of town and country churches for the Michigan Baptist convention. Dr. Karney's son, Dan Karney, will be the soloist. Because the congregation was formed in 1830, celebration of the 125th anniversary of the church is also taking place Sunday.

Fifteen persons met at the home of S. Sly on March 6, 1830 to organize a Baptist society, according to church history. Elder Caleb Lamb was named moderator and Lyman Terrell, clerk. The

Lay Wreath for Pearl Harbor Day Observance

Next Wednesday is December 7 — the infamous day in American history we know as Pearl Harbor day. There will be no observance here with the exception of a wreath to be placed on the veterans monument in Kellogg park.

The wreath is being placed by Mrs. Virginia Bartel, chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

Over 100 Japanese planes attacked the Pacific fleet at anchor in Pearl Harbor that Sunday morning in Hawaii. The casualties: Navy, 2,117 officers and men killed, 960 missing, 876 wounded; Army, 226 officers and men killed, 396 wounded.

society was officially recognized as a church on June 9 of that year.

Services were held in a number of places. In December, 1834, Elder Carpenter began preaching in the old cooper shop at Cooper's Corners. A church building was started in 1837 at Shutt's Corners and was completed three years later at a cost of $500.

The Plymouth Village Baptist Society was organized on February 23, 1846 in North Village. This society and the Baptist Society were united on April 8, 1848 under the leadership of William B. Grow. Shortly afterward they moved to Plymouth village and the first meeting was held in the school on February 15, 1849.

The old frame Presbyterian church building was purchased for $110 and moved to a half-acre lot donated by George Starkweather. The building was remodeled for $300 and was sold to the Lutherans when it was outgrown. Meanwhile, the building at Shutt's Corners was dismantled and the material used in the construction of a new building. (Continued on Page 8)

Welsher Elected Authority Head

John Welsher has been elected chairman of the three-man Townships of Plymouth and Canton Water and Sewer Authority, it was announced this week following the first meeting of the new group.

Also elected were Albert Schrader as vice-chairman and Clark Finley as secretary. Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, treasurer of Plymouth township, was appointed treasurer for the authority.

Welsher and Finley are Plymouth township appointees and Schrader is from Canton township. The three were appointed early last week by the two township boards and their first meeting was held Friday night. The authority's headquarters are in the Plymouth township hall.

Besides selecting their officers, the three men spent the evening orienting themselves with sewer and water plans which are being made by Herald Hamill, consulting engineer. They also discussed financial problems of the authority with Walter A. Markin, financial consultant.

Hamill is expected to soon have sewer estimates so that voters in both Canton and Plymouth townships can go to the polls to vote on "faith and credit" bonds. Bonds are expected to be paid off on a revenue basis but bond buying firms demand that the townships pledge township assets for collateral in case of default.

EVERYONE IS AN officer on the Townships of Plymouth and Canton Water and Sewer Authority. These three men comprise the board of trustees and were elected to offices Friday night. From left are John Welsher, chairman; Clark Finley, secretary; and Albert Schrader, vice-chairman. The three are studying maps of Plymouth and Canton townships where they expect to supply sewer and water services.

School Board Divides State's $34,825 Among All Employees as Extra Pay

All full and part-time administrators and employees of the Plymouth Community School system will receive supplemental salaries as a result of the $13,500,000 pie sliced last month by the Michigan legislature.

The Plymouth system received $34,825 as its share. The board of education, in action taken at a special meeting Monday night, voted to give all full time certified administrators, teachers and others under contract a supplemental $200 during the current school year.

Full time teachers not under contract and permanent substitutes will receive $100; full-time non-teachers (secretaries, custodians), $150; part-time teachers, $50; and part-time non-teaching (bus drivers, etc.), $50.

The salary adjustments will be made in two payments, according to Superintendent Russell Isbister. One half will be paid in January and the other half in June. Employees who work less than a year will receive a proportionately less amount. It was pointed out that this money is not a part of the salary schedules. The state appropriation covers only the current school year.

Plymouth's $34,825 was figured at $9 per membership child. There are 3,861 students in the system. The $13,500,000 appropriated by the legislature was a result of surplus tax collections. Law requires that two-thirds of these funds go to schools. As part of the recent special legislative session, the question of how surplus was to be divided proved to be a political issue. Governor Williams wanted the money specifically earmarked for $200 raises for each teacher. Republicans wanted non-teaching employees included and believed that local boards should figure out how the money should be divided for salaries. The GOP won the battle.

End Porchlight Drive Tomorrow For Dystrophy

City firemen will conclude their house-to-house campaign Friday night to obtain funds for the Muscular Dystrophy drive. About one-fifth of the city still has not been canvassed. Donations to date total $878.31.

In Plymouth township where firemen spent Thanksgiving eve canvassing just the more heavily-populated areas, a total of $245.63 has been given. Firemen manned one of their trucks to travel through the subdivisions.

Firemen in Salem township also conducted a drive and were able to secure donations of $218 from Salem residents.

City firemen were aided by off-duty policemen, mailmen, VFW and American Legion members but still were unable to complete the entire job Wednesday night. Envelopes in which residents can make contributions were left at homes where nobody answered the door. Lovell Fulton, city campaign chairman said that it is doubtful that this year's contributions will measure up to the $1,300 received a year ago.

City residents whose neighborhoods were missed last Wednesday are asked to again light their porchlights between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Friday.

Elks Paying Honor To Deceased Members

A memorial service for three of their members who passed away during the year will be held Sunday by the B.P.O. Elks lodge here.

The service will start at 2 p.m. at the Elks home on Ann Arbor road. The Reverend Henry Walch D.D., pastor of First Presbyterian church, will be the speaker. Nat Sibbold of Plymouth will be soloist accompanied by Mrs. J. Rusling Cutler.

Members in whose memory the service will be held were Russell Warren, Dale Renwick and Joseph Vroman.

City Gets First Details of Big Sewer Project

City commissioners spent two hours at a special meeting Monday night discussing a proposed eight-mile-long sewer system for the south end of the city and getting their first look at its route. The project did not go beyond the discussion stage.

Herald Hamill, consulting engineer for the project, was for the first time able to show maps indicating where trunk lines and lateral mains would be laid. He was able to estimate that the project would cost about $600,000, or even a little less. But he did not have enough figures at hand to determine what it would cost each affected property owner.

The job would be the largest single sewer project undertaken in the city. It would start at Ann Arbor trail and Mill street. An 18-inch trunk line would run south on Mill to the junior high school site, westward just north of Ann Arbor road to the Birch Estates subdivision where a pumping station would be installed. A 30-inch trunk would then be laid westward along the proposed Byron street to a point south of Smith elementary school.

A 24-inch trunk would go north on Harvey street to near Ann Arbor trail. A 24-inch branch would go northwest along the Tonquish creek to Sheldon road and north on Sheldon to the Western Electric plant site.

Among the streets that would be served would be Beech, Carol, Sutherland, Palmer, Hartsough, Ross, Simpson, Burroughs, Dewey, South Main, Roosevelt, Harding, Coolidge, Byron, Mill, Lincoln, Ann Arbor road and part of Sheldon. It would also accommodate

Work Continues On Parking Lot

Despite below-freezing temperatures which have frozen the ground several inches deep, work is still continuing on the East Central lot so that it can be used yet this winter.

All curb and gutter has now been poured and storm sewers laid. A bulldozer, power shovel and trucks are now hurriedly digging out and hauling away dirt to bring the ground level several inches below the gutter, according to City Manager Albert Glassford.

After the grade has been established, crushed stone will then be laid so that cars can utilize the enlarged parking lot through the winter months. Glassford said that blacktopping will then take place next spring.

The East Central Parking lot is located behind the Penn Theatre and has been extended as far north as Dodge street.

5 Prizes Await Yule Decorating Contest Winners

A home decorating contest is expected to be one of the outstanding features of Plymouth's Yuletide program which officially opens next Thursday when decorations are turned on and stores begin their evening opening hours.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the "Show Santa Your House Contest" which will have savings bonds and Plymouth Community Trading stamps as prizes.

Prizes will be awarded to winners of five categories. All prizes are being furnished by the automobile dealers of Plymouth. The five categories are: 1. Religious; 2. humorous; 3. artistry; 4. originality; and 5. mechanical action.

All five prizes will be of equal value. Four of them will be $50 U.S. Savings bonds (purchase price of $37.50) and the fifth will be 15,000 Plymouth Community stamps having a trade-in value of $37.50.

Auto dealers furnishing the prizes are Forest Motor Sales, Beglinger Oldsmobile-Cadillac, West Bros. Nash, Berry & Atchinson Pontiac, Jack Sells Buick, Ernest J. Allison Chevrolet, R & H Mercury and Paul J. Wiedman, Ford dealer.

Judging will be in charge of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, assisted by the Plymouth Garden club. The Jaycees will also select one of the five winners to enter in a national Jaycee decorating contest.

Any home in the city or township of Plymouth is eligible for entry. The deadline for entry is Monday, December 19. Judging will take place on December 21 and 22.

There are three methods by which entry can be made in the contest. The householder may call the Chamber of Commerce and give their name, address and category; entry blanks can be secured at the National Bank of Detroit, Mayflower hotel or Kresge's; or an entry blank to be printed next week in The Mail (Continued on Page 8)

Invite Public Use Of Police Phones

Police call boxes, located in four spots in the city, are being turned over for public emergency use starting this week, it was announced by Police Chief Kenneth Fisher.

Signs indicating that the call boxes are for emergency use by the public are being erected on the utility poles on which the phones are located.

Citizens shouldn't go to the call box and expect to call up friends or relatives, the chief hastily pointed out. The four phones are connected directly to the police department switchboard and any conversation which goes on will be only between the caller and someone in the police department. Locations of the four boxes are: Central Parking lot at the corner of Main street at Penniman avenue, Main street at the C & O railroad and Starkweather at Liberty street.

The call boxes were installed in the days before two-way radio was used by police departments. Because all patrol cars now have radio communications, the call boxes are seldom used by police. Rather than have them go unused, police are placing them at public disposal in hopes that they may be of emergency value.

"We urge the public to use the telephones for any type of emergency," the police chief said. They may be used not only for reporting a need for police, but also to report a fire.

Rule to Curb Young Motorists Unless Need for Car Shown

Driving restrictions which will allow only certain qualified students to drive cars to and from school and prohibiting any to drive their cars over the noon hour will go into effect next Wednesday, according to action taken by the board of education at a special meeting Monday night.

Fined on Charge Of Contributing To Delinquency

Pleading guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors, James Duty, 17, of 1344 Sheldon road, was fined $75 before Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo last week.

Duty admitted driving a car in which eight juveniles rode around and consumed intoxicants. The incident happened following a high school football game here last October 28.

Besides Duty were four boys, three of them 16 and one 14, and four girls, three of them 13 and one 11 years of age. The youngest girl refused to drink.

Police said that Duty and one of the 16-year-old boys approached the girls at a downtown snack shop and asked if they wanted to go for a ride. The girls agreed, police said, and the boys said they would return after getting some whiskey.

After inviting more boys, the nine drove around for several hours. Some of the girls complained about feeling sick and the party stopped for coffee at the D & C Drive-In on Plymouth road in Livonia. While there, the group caused a disturbance and Livonia police were called. Parents were called to Livonia to pick up those who were intoxicated while others were returned to Plymouth police for questioning.

All the youths and their parents were asked to make statements before police. Duty, no longer considered a juvenile, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors upon recommendation of an assistant county prosecutor.

Names of the other eight are being withheld because of their ages.

Another juvenile case was scheduled for last week but was postponed. It concerned a 15-year-old boy who allegedly beat up a 13-year-old in the Cloverdale dairy parking lot on November 18. Police said that the hearing was postponed because the boy's parents failed to appear. The youth knocked unconscious was Phillip Rowe, 13, of 822 North Mill.

North Pole Resident To Visit Local Kiddies

Saturday, December 17 will be a big day in Plymouth for hundreds of children in the area. A very important person, favorite of all kiddies the world over, will take time out from his busy schedule to visit Plymouth and bring special favors to his young admirers.

The North Pole's most famous citizen, Santa Claus, will arrive via airplane at Mettetal airport at 1:30 p.m. Representatives from BPO-Elks Lodge 1780 will then escort him to Kellogg Park where he will interview youngsters.

Arrangements for Santa's visit are annually made by the Elks and this year's committee is headed by Jack Stephenson.

City Developing 3 Playgrounds

THREE PLAYGROUNDS are currently being developed in Plymouth with one of them being given the financial assistance of Walter Beglinger, left. He is providing the bulldozer work for the playground at the eastern end of Burroughs avenue which soon will be ready with an ice skating pond and sled run. Beglinger is shown talking over the project with Joe Hitt, the bulldozer operator.

Three new playgrounds which this winter will contain ice skating ponds and sled runs are being developed by the city's parks and forestry department headed by Hugh McAuley.

One of the city-owned playground lots is located at the eastern end of Burroughs avenue, another is at Hamilton and Joy avenues and the third is at Auburn and Junction. Four others may be developed at a later date, McAuley said.

Money seems to be the main drawback in fully outfitting the play areas immediately. Walter Beglinger, local Oldsmobile dealer, has personally furnished finances for bulldozing the Burroughs avenue playground, for the simple reason that "I want to see the kids have a place to play."

Both the Burroughs and Hamilton playgrounds will also have ball diamonds, slides, sandboxes and other equipment when completed, McAuley said. Each of these two developments will cost about $3,500. Right now, the young department foreman is trying to interest local organizations in helping to finance the projects.

The playground at Auburn and Junction is quite a bit smaller and will not have as much equipment as the other two. Fill dirt is being hauled to the playground sites from excavations in the East Central Parking lot.

It may be several weeks before ice skating will be a reality on the ponds. Fire plugs need to be located near two of them as a supply of water. Frost is only two inches deep now, McAuley said, still not deep enough to permit complete freezing.

Tuesday morning. Statements of opposition and bitterness were displayed by many of the students during and following the assembly. "Some of those who first opposed the restrictions have since told me that something had to be done," Principal Bentley told The Mail yesterday, "and that the regulation is a step in the right direction."

Letters were received by parents from the administration Wednesday which explained the action.

There are at least three types of students who may qualify for a permit, Principal Bentley explained. Consideration must be given those who live beyond the bus routes, those who participate in activities after school which will not allow him or her to take the bus home and those who work during or after school hours.

Those who qualify for a permit will be issued a window sticker which must be displayed on the car. Even if a permit is given, the car may not be driven any time during the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on school days, except for the express purpose of getting to school, returning home or to go to work.

The new regulation is directed mainly at those students who go "joy riding" or "cruising" over the nonhour or after school. It has been these drivers who have been receiving criticism from the public, according to school officials.

A student with a car permit must also park his vehicle in an area designated as the student parking lot and not on streets near the school. No loitering or smoking in the cars is permitted.

In addition, the regulation prohibits any student from entering a motor vehicle during school hours and while attending school, unless accompanied by his or her parents or legal guardian. This means that even the student with a permit cannot transport other students.

"The aim of this regulation," according to the letter sent to parents, "is to protect our students against hazards arising from the unsupervised congregating of boys and girls in motor vehicles during school hours. All special cases will be carefully considered and permits will be issued by the high school principal where undue hardship would result from the lack of a motor vehicle."

Applications for permits are available starting Monday. It requires the signature of the parent or guardian and the statement must be notarized.

Any high school student issued a driving permit who disobeys the conditions of the permit, will be immediately suspended from school, the regulation states.

The School Community Planning Group has several times talked about such restrictions. The police department, school officials and the municipal court recently met to discuss the regulation and it was pointed out by Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo that authority for such a regulation is given in the Michigan School Code. Both Plymouth township and Plymouth city officials have pledged their support.

On the application for a student permit, the student is told that "unnecessary horns-blowing, loud exhausts, noisy starts, 'peeling' of tires all are examples of poor driving. Under the conditions of the driving permit, if issued, these actions are not allowed."

Principal Bentley said that it has been estimated that there are 60 students who daily drive to school. He added that it is impossible to determine now how many of these will be qualified for a permit. It has been pointed out by school officials that a number (Continued on Page 8)

Parents of the bride and groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carson of Main street, Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Runberg of Dean street, Bay City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon net and chantilly lace over ivory satin. The skirt of net had four accordion-pleated lace inserts, while the jacket was styled with a rounded neckline, applied in satin and pointed at the wrist.

Livonia Woman Dies of Burns

Mrs. Edna Catherine Burken, 60, of Livonia died at Wayne County General hospital at 4:10 p.m. Thanksgiving Day, from 3rd degree burns received the night before in a kitchen accident.

Mrs. Burken was found unconscious on the kitchen floor of her home at 11400 Auburndale, at 10 p.m. Wednesday night by her husband, William. Her clothing was burned off and burns covered three-fourths of her body. She held a grill from the stove in her hand.

From the evidence present, police officers concluded that Mrs. Burken had accidentally pushed over a pan of bacon frying on a front burner of the stove, when she reached to take a pot of coffee off a back burner. She probably grabbed the stove grill while attempting to keep the frying pan from falling.

Mrs. Burken was knocked unconscious when she fell back and hit her head against the wall. The burning grease had apparently set her clothing on fire. Police figured she had been unconscious for about two hours.

Mr. Burken was treated for shock at Wayne County General hospital.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1894, Mrs. Burken came to Livonia from Cleveland in 1925. She is also survived by a brother, Mr. Henry Dornbrook, of Parma, Ohio.

Funeral services were held Saturday, November 26, at the Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth. The Rev. M. I. Johnson, D.D., officiated.

Services were also held in North Royalton, Ohio, Sunday, November 27. Interment was at North Royalton.

MAKING PREPARATIONS for the St. Peter's Lutheran church International Christmas Fete, a smorgasbord dinner to be held this Sunday afternoon from 4 to 7 at the church, is this group of six women, dressed in the costumes of various nationalities. From left are: Angeline and Diane Ribar (Hungarian costume); Mrs. Charles Vickstrom (Swedish); Mrs. Mae Juve (Norwegian); Mrs. Burt Van Loo (Dutch); and Hildur Carlson (Swedish). Seven nationality groups will be represented at the dinner, the three others being Danish, English and German. The purpose of the International Fete, according to Reverend Edgar Hoenecke, pastor, is to preserve and share the traditional native customs of the nationality groups represented in the church's congregation.

Doors to "Yuletide Giftarama" Open Wednesday of Next Week

A chance to do some early Christmas shopping will be given residents of this area at the "Yuletide Giftarama," sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service, of the Methodist church on Wednesday, December 7.

Doors will open at 1 p.m. and visitors may "knock off" items on their Christmas list up to the closing hour of 8 p.m. As an added advantage to those attending the "Giftarama," a complete dinner will be served in the dining room of the church at 5 and 6 p.m. Tickets must be obtained in advance for either the first or second setting and are available from Mrs. Harry Mumby, committee chairman. General chairmen of the event are Mrs. W. C. Gemperline and Mrs. Harry Roberts.

Among the many booth attractions will be an apron display, supervised by Mrs. Lloyd Fillmore and Mrs. Carl Shear. In another spot, Mrs. Wendell Lent and Mrs. Harold Guenther will assist visitors with their wares of jewelry and the handkerchief tree.

Homemakers can add to their household decor with items from the plant center, which will be under the direction of Mrs. Fred Thomas and Mrs. William Phalen. New ideas for festive table decorations and attractive holiday novelties will be available at the booth run by Mrs. Lauren Gould and Mrs. Thomas Roberts.

In the Tiny Tots Shoppe, directed by Mrs. Arthur Spang and Mrs. Stanley Wilt, will be found crocheted, knitted and handmade articles as well as dolls, doll clothing and toys. Mrs. Wilbur Hill and Mrs. Albert Horvath will assist visitors in the purchase of pillowcases from an attractive display in another booth.

Troublesome small-fry can be kept out of mischief at the fish pond where Mrs. John Birkelbaw and Mrs. Ernest Elzerman will assist the young anglers. For those who want a moment of relaxation and chance to chat with friends there will be the Christmas tea table, open between 2 and 4 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Lloyd England and Mrs. Bernard Curtis.

At the Central Bake Shop fresh pies, cookies, cakes, bread and rolls will be available throughout the afternoon. Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Richard Jones are in charge of this enterprise.

No single item at the Giftarama will exceed a dollar and a half. This policy is also in effect for dinner tickets, excluding those for children who will be admitted to the dining room for somewhat less.

Time is our most valuable asset, use it carefully.

Past President Of AAUW Named To Federal Post

Word was received by Mrs. Ray Collins, president of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women, of the appointment of Dr. Susan B. Riley of Nashville, Tennessee, immediate past president of the AAUW, to the bipartisan commission which will review the Federal security program for government employees.

Dr. Riley was the only woman named to this post. The 12 members of this U.S. Commission on Government Security were appointed by President Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon and House Speaker Rayburn.

Mrs. Collins added that the AAUW, through its local branches, offers a wide variety of program planning and an opportunity to meet the challenges of current problems in the fields of the arts, education, international relations, legislation, radio and television, social studies and status of women.

All qualified women in this area who wish to join the AAUW may contact Mrs. William Clark, membership chairman. Membership is not invitational. The AAUW accepts as members all women who hold approved degrees from a list of over 300 colleges and universities. To be on this list a college must have a high academic rating, provide a basic foundation of general or liberal arts education, make adequate provision for women students, give significant recognition to women on its faculty and administration and maintain academic freedom in its administration and teaching bodies.

The Plymouth branch of the AAUW meets the third Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be December 15 at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. E. E. Crosby, 15335 Lakeside drive.

The world is still turning over in spite of the fact that those pretty young things thought Central High, or Consolidated, just "had to win" that certain football game.

DAR Names "Good Citizen" Candidates

The names of Miss Marilyn Paul, Plymouth high school senior, and Miss Janice Owens, senior at Northville high school, have been selected for the Daughters of the American Revolution "Good Citizen" award, it was announced this week by Mrs. Claude Crusoe, regent of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, DAR.

Each year the DAR sponsors a "Good Citizen" contest among various high schools in this area. Three candidates are chosen by the senior girls in each of the participating schools. Basis for selection is outstanding qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Determination of the winning candidate from each school is based on decision of faculty members.

The DAR announced that "Good Citizen" candidates from South Lyon, Bentley and Garden City high schools would be chosen within the next few weeks.

At the February meeting of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, the "Good Citizens" will be entertained and presented with their award pins. They will also be honored at the DAR state conference luncheon, to be held in March at the Hotel Hayes in Jackson.

In the meantime, "Good Citizen" candidates throughout Michigan will complete questionnaires forwarded to their high schools by the DAR. On the basis of answers given, judges will select the state "Good Citizen" who will be awarded a $100 U.S. savings bond.

Miss Joanne Pursell, a junior at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, spent the Thanksgiving week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pursell of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Fisher of Forest avenue are leaving Monday morning for Pico, California where they will spend the next six months. They will drive through and spend some time with James Fisher.

ber of the young drivers at noon and after school are not students, but are boys who are graduated or have quit school but come each day to pick up girlfriends or boy friends.
Only two questions were asked by students at Tuesday's assembly. One youth thought that the Student Council should have been consulted about the regulation. Another questioned if more buses would be provided to accommodate additional riders.
After the assembly and over the noon hour, there was some widespread reaction, the principal said. "Like adults, they felt that their liberty and privileges had been taken away." The principal said that later some students came to him to apologize—"realizing that this was a step in the right direction."

City Gets First

date any new subdivisions in the south section of the city.
When completed, there should be no home, business or industry in the city without sanitary sewer facilities. It will be mandatory for buildings not now connected to connect with the new sewer within a year after it is laid.
Although commissioners were in agreement that the sewer should become a reality, they were unable to decide what method of financing would be best. Commissioner Marvin Terry said that financing must be reduced down to a point where a property owner can be told what his payment would be. It must also be determined if other property owners in the city already having sewers should pay anything toward the proposed sewer—perhaps 10 cents a month on their water bills—because of indirect benefits they may receive due to a relief of present sewer burdens.
The city has a choice of issuing revenue bonds which only the revenues from the system pays off the bonds; general obligation special assessment bonds which would be paid off from revenue and special assessments; and general obligation bonds which would be paid off from revenue but would require a four-fifth vote of the electorate.
About 46,320 lineal feet of sewer pipe would be needed for the project, according to engineering estimates. This figures up to nearly eight miles.
Commissioners also spent several minutes Monday night talking about replacements for the planning commission. No decisions were made.

cers, so there should be a large turnout.

Speaking of pot-lucks, don't forget the Rosedale Gardens Women's club pot-luck at the clubhouse on Thursday, December 8. Co-chairmen for the supper are Caroline Campbell and Joanna Roble. Those interested in attending may call their street chairman to find out what they should bring.

All members of the club are urged to exhibit their ideas and may contact Mrs. Robert Bruce, chairman, regarding entries. Mrs. John Riggs, president of the organization, has announced that a board meeting will be held at the church the same day (December 6) at 12 noon.

Assisting Mrs. Bruce on plans for the event are Mrs. Judson Jarvis, Mrs. Tony Mepyns, Mrs. B. E. McCane, Mrs. J. O. Burkhardt, Mrs. W. H. Rolan and Mrs. Earl M. O'Harra.

On Saturday, December 3, the general bazaar will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a large carousel loaded with toys, a country store, needle work booth, movies, games photo shop, sugar plum trees, bakery, candy shop, apron park, and a snack bar. St. Nick will again be on hand to greet the youngsters, who can have their pictures taken with him in an old-fashioned sleigh at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

All proceeds from the event will go towards the church building fund.

Letters, Notes Now May Be Mailed Inside Packages and Publications

A letter or message can now be mailed inside a package or publication for the first time in United States postal history. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said recently in announcing a new "combination" mail service.

Effective last Monday, all the mailer needs to do now is indicate the presence of the letter or message inside the package and pay the appropriate postage on it plus postage for the package itself.

Under the new "combination" mail service, letters or other single pieces of either First or Third-Class mail may be placed inside Fourth-Class parcels or inside copies of publications mailed under Second-Class mail entry. Letters or other single pieces of First-Class mail may also be placed inside Third-Class packages.

The postage for each letter, and for each single enclosure at the appropriate First or Single-piece Third-Class rate must be affixed to the outside of the parcel.

A statement reading "First-Class Mail Enclosed" or "Third-Class Mail Enclosed" must be placed on each parcel below the postage and above the address. This endorsement may be hand-stamped, handwritten, typewritten, printed, or put on by any other method.

The enclosures inside the package should preferably be placed on top of the other items in the package.

Under the old regulation, mailers who found it impractical to use combination containers were forced to use two separate pieces of mail instead of one, the Postmaster General explained.

Among the postal patrons needing to send two classes of mail together are business firms sending substitute product and wanting to explain why that was done; magazine publishers sending gift certificates naming the donor with first copies of their publications to new subscribers; manufacturers sending operational, maintenance and repair instructions with household appliances; and companies including sales letters with samples of merchandise.

The new "combination" mail service is on a 60-day trial basis. During this period, the comments of the public will be welcomed.

Area Servicemen Engaged in Huge Military Exercise

The names of four Plymouth-area servicemen were released this week as participants in Exercise Sage Brush in Louisiana, largest joint Army-Air Force maneuver since World War II. They are Cpl. George J. Gottschalk, 560 Kellogg street; PFC John L. Monteith, 442 Adams, both of Plymouth; and Livonia residents, Hamilton C. Klapp, 15770 Sunbury; and Pvt. James E. Bonar, 30611 Wentworth.

The latest concepts of atomic, bacteriological, chemical and electronic warfare are being tested by some 110,000 Army troops in the maneuver which ends December 15.

Corporal Gottschalk, a squad leader in Company A of the Fourth Armored division's 51st Armored Infantry battalion, is regularly stationed at Fort Hood, Texas. He entered the Army in February 1954.

Monteith's unit, the 1st Armored Division's 634th Armored Infantry battalion, will be regularly stationed at Fort Polk, La., after the close of the maneuver. A driver in the battalion's Company C. Monteith was last stationed at Fort Hood, Texas. He is a 1953 graduate of Plymouth high school.

Klapp, whose home base is at Fort Benning, Georgia, is a rifleman in Company A of the Third Infantry division's 6th Infantry battalion. A former employee of Emmert Chevrolet company, Detroit, he entered the Army in December 1954 and received basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Private Bonar's unit, Headquarters Battery of the 1st Armored Division's 68th Field Artillery battalion, will be regularly stationed at Fort Polk, La., after the maneuver ends. The 18-year-old soldier was graduated in 1954 from Northville high school.

Christmas Program

The Vivians will hold their Christmas meeting at 8 this evening, December 1, in the Elks temple on Ann Arbor road.

In addition to the Christmas music which will be featured on the program, there will be a demonstration of cake decorating by Mrs. Evelyn Knapp. Members have been asked to bring a 50-cent item for the gift exchange as well as cash donation for Maybury sanatorium.

Refreshment chairman for the evening is Mrs. Marie Anderson.

Who's New in Plymouth

FORMER DETROITERS Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bovee enjoy relaxing in the livingroom of their new home, 13300 Ridge road, which affords a sweeping view of the Plymouth countryside from the large picture window. Both gardening enthusiasts, the Bovees found that suburban living offered them a greater chance to pursue their hobby. They moved into the local residence last month. Bovee formerly maintained a dealership for Standard Oil products in Detroit.

Tip to Male from Mail

Reporter Shops Stores For "Her" Christmas

Almost traditionally the household male — husband, son, father or boyfriend — has had his problems when it comes time to make Christmas purchases for the sparks in his life — the wife, daughter, mother or girlfriend. He doesn't recall the size, can't decide which to select out of the many items displayed, or else he completely forgets what she had suggested earlier. In general, Christmas buying for the man about home is somewhat of a chore.

And there's another item, of slight worry to a few but a big factor in the purchases of many — that of economy. The trick to giving inexpensive, yet still appreciated and useful gifts, is an art in itself.

So The Mail, with a pure stroke of genius in recognizing these difficulties, attempted to shoulder the problems of the man when he treks out in quest of Christmas presents for a woman.

We toured a number of local stores with one eye on appropriate possible gifts for the weaker sex and the other eye on the ol' wallet. Allowing no more than five dollars per purchase, The Mail uncovered some helpful hints that could perhaps ease the Yule-tide purchasing problems encountered by Plymouth's male contingent.

It was not surprising to The Mail's touring pseudo-customer to find the innumerable items that could be bought for five dollars. Unlike the penny, which seems to have lost itself in individual purchasing power, the fiver is sufficient to parlay a mountain of articles into prime presents.

Initiating the EAGP plan (Economic and Appropriate Gift Purchasing plan) at Fisher's Shoe store, we sighted an attractive display of women's house slippers, while secretively approving a new pair of dress oxfords.

The house slippers, at $3.95, were attractive moccasin-type furry things that came in five assorted colors. They were studded with glittering beads, had a soft flexible sole and obviously would be ideal to stick cold feet into early in the morning. We discarded our desire to buy the dress oxfords and sauntered down the street to Norma Cassady's women's shop.

Flimsy, filmy and flighty items offered greetings as we delved into the problem. Sorting through the articles at the jewel case, a watch fob styled compact took precedent. A $3.95 price accompanied the tag that described the hand-vanity as gold overlay on miracle mesh. Disregarding this code, we realized how handy the compact would be. It could be carried easily in a purse or pocketbook or could be held singly in hand at a dance or dinner. It wouldn't open by accident in its carrying case and couldn't chip or get scratched.

Around the corner at Bob's Handy Hardware, while purchasing a hammer for the tool case, it occurred to us that this was just the place to pick up another item. For $2.98 a colonial style, wrought iron electric trivet offered possibilities. Commonly known as a food warmer, this little gadget, would save the head of the house much trouble when eating in the dining room, twenty steps from the kitchen.

Instead of having to get up and run into the kitchen for a second round of coffee, the little woman could put the food warmer on the table, load it with the silex and have hot coffee at an arm's length. This trivet also could substitute as an ideal hand warmer at football games providing you use a long extension cord.

For the musically-inclined girlfriend, Melody House record shop offered for $3.98 an assortment of record albums. Uppermost was a series of nine such albums to pick from, each of which would project the lassie, via authentic music, to various far-away lands. Named The Holiday Albums, these records were recorded by the actual orchestras of the individual countries. Warning: Must have a record player before these albums may be properly enjoyed!

Across the street at Seyfried Jewelers a small electric clock for $4.38 would insure getting up in time on Christmas morning to beat the small fry to the presents — if that's possible. This timepiece could also be handy on the kitchen stove or in the living room on the TV set. Built in a sturdy case with a lengthy electric cord the clock provides hours of noise-free time.

No woman is complete after Christmas unless she has been amply supplied with perfume. At Community Pharmacy, for $5.00, Prince Matchabelli provides the little woman with a sweetening agent that comes in an attractive gold jewel box. Complete with a two-ounce bottle of princely perfume and a smaller purse dispenser of the same, this item would please the nose of any male.

At the Kresge store, amid a multitude of sales ladies and frantic female shoppers, we laid eyes on a smart dresser set consisting of mirror, brush and comb for $2.98. Lastingly made, the articles were trimmed in gold, handy and light in weight. Just the thing when you're busy shaving at the wall mirror and she's in a hurry to "put on her face."

The trail led onward to the George Kemnitz candy store, where a bag of cashews put off the thought of dinner and directed us to a present that would appease Milady's sweet-tooth. At $4.35, a three-pound box of assorted candies was first noted, but for those happy husbands that wish to preserve their wives' size 12 dress measurements, a one-pound package of chocolate coated fruit and nuts at $1.75 looked appetizing. In addition, the same would come in tasty while viewing the fights on TV.

Still with an eye on eating, your reporter-customer spied a five-pound canned ham at Stop and Shop super market which was priced at $4.95 and assured good sandwiches in the lunch-bucket for some time to come. All popular brands of premium hams were displayed.

Then, almost forgetting about clothes for daughter, we scamped into Dunning's women's store, browsed over the blouses and slips and reached finally for a short-sleeved pull-over sweater at $3.95. Of orlon or acrilon material, the sweater was hand-washable and would dry quickly. Various colors in several sizes were studied, while learning that the sweaters could be worn with either skirts or suits and in place of blouses.

Nearing the end of the tour, we plodded patiently to King Furniture, welcoming the cup of coffee offered patrons there. Nimbly dodging the price tags on bedroom suites and resting hastily in easy chairs, we halted in front of a hand-decorated salad set for $4.95.

Made up of a large china bowl on a wrought iron base with accompanying and matching china spoon and fork utensils, the set would easily serve to dispense the craziest salad that the wife could toss together.

So the probable purchasing trip was ended. The Mail, in an effort to aid the down-trodden husband, son, father or boyfriend, has put together a total of 11 presents for a cash outlay of about $45. The presents, all aimed at satisfying some female member of the family, were supposedly varied, while at the same time appropriate, attractive, useful, and, last but not least, economical.

Next week The Mail will balance the ledger when a tour of the stores will be made in an effort to help the woman make sound purchases for her spouse. In the meantime, with a week's advance notice, the men can trot out onto the streets and seek gifts for the women. Remember, only 21 shopping days 'til Christmas. Got your tree up yet?

Library Offers "Gift-Making" Ideas Galore

Parents who would like to make toys, dolls and other playthings for their children as Christmas gifts can find numerous books on this subject at the Dunning library.

Especially helpful is "Toy-making," by Palestrant with its plans and ideas for more than 200 playthings, toys and playground equipment.

A number of other books on toy-making will be a boon to young fathers who can use a hammer and jig saw to good advantage. They include "Toys You Can Make," "How to Build Games and Toys," and many others. "Make It and Ride It," by C. J. Maginley, gives directions for making a variety of mobile toys which boys will use and enjoy.

"What to Make," an annual volume of workshop projects published by Popular Mechanics Press, contains many ideas for things to please children.

Instructions for making a variety of dolls can also be found in books at the library. Rosemary Brinley's "Dolls and Stuffed Toy Making," shows in photographs and clear diagrams steps to be followed in making rag dolls and animals for the youngest members of the family. Other books on doll-making include "How to Make Your Own Dolls for Pleasure and Profit," "Making Dolls and Doll Clothes," and "Doll Making and Collecting."

In addition to material on toy and doll-making the library has numerous other books which give ideas for gifts you can make for other members of the family.

Thanksgiving day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Rudick of Simpson street were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rudick and daughter, Joyce; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rudick and Mr. and Mrs. Al Rudick of Detroit.

CHRISTIAN BUSINESS

Christmas business, already beginning to be felt, will be the heaviest on record this year — which reminds us there is too much business in Christmas.
Recent development of a small, automatic machine for store packaging of produce in cellophane is resulting in less waste, easier shopping, cleaner fresh produce, and other advantages in self-service markets.

Christian Science Lecturer to Speak At Detroit Temple

The five thousand seat main auditorium of Detroit's Masonic Temple will be the scene of a Christian Science lecture, to be given on Saturday evening, December 10, by Walter S. Symonds of San Antonio, Texas.

Time will be 8 o'clock, and the lecturer, who is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will be sponsored by Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist, Detroit, and a number of other Christian Science churches in the metropolitan area, including First Church, Plymouth.

Symonds' subject is "Christian Science: God's Promises Fulfilled." The lecture is free to the public and open to all. Symonds was formerly general manager and owner of a group of insurance companies in San Antonio. He left a varied and successful business career to give his full time to the practice of Christian Science healing. From 1945 to 1950 he also served as Christian Science Committee on Publication for Texas.

Auxiliary Condemns Suggestive Lyrics

Curbing the use of popular songs with suggestive lyrics will be one of the endeavors of the American Legion auxiliary during the coming year, according to Mrs. Virginia Fann, music chairman of the Passage Gayde unit of the Auxiliary. The action follows the adoption of a resolution condemning such songs by the Auxiliary's recent national convention in Miami Beach, Florida.

"In our resolution, we pointed out that many of the modern song lyrics tend to glamorize sex, and appeal to basic instincts by offering indecent and suggestive features," Mrs. Fann said. "We believe that such lyrics tend to corrupt youthful minds; that they can and do influence the decency and thinking of our boys and girls."

"Therefore, we plan to make vigorous appeal to song writers and publishers not to produce this type of song, and to singers, record makers, disc jockeys and juke box operators not to offer our young people this unwholesome musical fare."

Simple things and simple people are often the great among us.

Although only two new books made their debut this week before patrons of the Dunning library, a number of circuit editions became available to the reading public as a result of the latest shipment.

On the new book list are "McCarthy and His Enemies" by William Buckley, Jr. and L. Brent Bozell; and the Home Craftsman publication, "How to Build Your Own Workshop Equipment."

The circuit books, loaned to the library for the next three months, are Halford L. Hoskins' "The Middle East: Problem Area in World Politics," Hobart Ryland's translation of Marquis de Sade's "Adelade of Brunswick," Lali Horstmann's report of the Russians as conquerors "We Chose to Stay," "The Hill of Devi," E. M. Forster's travels in India.

Others in this category include Zsolt Arad's "Shrines to Our Lady Around the World," illustrated edition covering the Marian shrines from early Christianity to the apparitions of Our Lady in the 20th century.

Among the recent circuit-books arrivals are "Horace Greeley 19th century crusader" by Glynndon G. Van Deussen; Lowry Nelson's study of U.S. changes in U.S. rural living, "American Farm Life"; "Public Education under Criticism" by C. Winfield Scott and Clyde M. Hill, Rockwell

Writer Claims United Nations is Interim World Government

To the Editor
Plymouth Mail
Plymouth, Michigan

Please accept my appreciation for your publication of the series of letters by Mr. Roy Pursell, pointing up the evils of UN, and the defense of UN by Professor Slosson.

Too few people today understand the United Nations — past, present and future. It is well, therefore, that these two men have taken the time to present two diametrically opposed viewpoints on the question.

Far from "spreading confusion" as charged by the professor, Mr. Pursell's letters clearly pointed up only a few of the many dangers which lurk in the United Nations Charter. One of the most treacherous of these is the power bestowed upon the United Nations to interfere with existing State laws, thus taking the right of self government out of the hands of the people, out of the hands of their State, and out of the hands of the Congress of the United States. As Mr. Pursell pointed out, this is not mere prognostication — IT HAS HAPPENED.

In 1945 we heard much about the "right of self-government for small nations." Today small nations exist only as satellites moving chiefly in the Soviet orbit. And in our own United States, State Rights are rapidly going down the drain. Vital issues mentioned by Mr. Pursell have been decided by the U.S. Supreme Court on the basis of the UN Charter.

If the learned professor would read the Genocide Pact he would not charge Mr. Pursell with "either, sheer ignorance of the law or a deliberate desire to mislead others." The provision that Mr. Pursell objected to reads "Persons charged with Genocide . . . shall be tried by a competent tribunal in the state in the territory in which the act was committed, OR by such international penal tribunal as may have jurisdiction."

The little word "OR" is the trick that escapes the professor and permits the very thing he says cannot be done.

Regarding the NATO Status of Forces Treaty, Mr. Pursell points up the abandoning, through this Treaty, of American soldiers stationed in foreign lands by citing an example. The professor misses the point of the story and gets side-tracked pursuing the thought that "stealing an automobile is an extremely serious crime, by the way." He dodges the issue of surrendering American soldiers to a French court. The American GIs get five years in solitary confinement for taking a joy ride in a taxi. A Frenchman gets five years, NOT in solitary confinement, for shooting an American GI. The professor sees nothing wrong in this?

Professor Slosson agrees with Mr. Pursell that the courts put treaty provisions ABOVE the Constitution. In this the professor says the courts take "proper cognizance" and seems to condone this undermining of the Constitution. Millions of Americans — including the American Bar Association — are demanding that NO TREATIES be considered by the courts as the law of the land UNTIL they are legally adopted, by U.S. Senate ratification. Not by mere Presidential Agreement or by secret executive order. They seek to prevent a recurrence of the ratifying of a treaty by ONE senator.

Also, last but not least, in view of the fact that Professor Slosson is a self-avowed one world government advocate, whatever he might say in favor of the United Nations must be taken with a grain of salt, since the United Nations was designed to be, and was meant to be an interim world government.

117-Year-Old Letter Reveals View Of Michigan White Settler to Indian

What did Michigan's white settler of over a hundred years ago think of the Indian as he drove him from the land the red man occupied since long before the dawn of history?

That question is answered, in part, by a letter now in the possession of the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

"I can't but sympathize with them. They are a doomed race and Providence will dispose of them as seemeth fit," writes G.M. Barker in a letter written from Port Sheldon, Michigan to a Mr. Kingsley on April 30, 1838.

"They are generally despised and hated by the whites here who become superficially acquainted with them and they quickly imbibed all the vices of the whites without their virtues. But beneath all this, traces of their native virtues are still to be seen. The most prominent are an open frankness, honesty with a perfect confidence in all men and an unbounded hospitality to strangers and friends. They have seen their zenith. They have long been on the wane and time has brought them to the verge of oblivion. One step more and they are forgotten."

Yet another and we follow them."

Barker continues, "I have a great desire to visit that part of the Ottawa nation settled 600 miles west of the Mississippi. We shall be old friends. I have been all winter studying their language and character. I have an extensive vocabulary and can converse on any familiar subject. The remaining part of the tribe are opposed to a removal. They say they will never cross the Mississippi but will retire to the north as the white man treads on their heels until they reach the land of the Saganosh. There they have friends and there they will make their last stand for life and liberty or for the last grave of the Ottawa."

Historian F. Clever Bald, assistant director of the U-M collections, says the letter appears to have been written to the Salmon Kingsley who lived near or at Nankin, Michigan, and who died at Livonia, October 8, 1838. It was sent by Barker's great-niece, Lucia Brown, of St. Paul in 1940 to Mrs. James K. Pollock who passed it on to the University collection.

We Congratulate the First Baptist Church of Plymouth on its 125th Anniversary and the Dedication of its remodeled Sanctuary

THIS VIEW OF THE CHURCH shows the new 24-foot brick addition at the rear of the building (lower right corner in picture). This extension allows almost one-third greater seating capacity in the sanctuary and will provide space for additional educational facilities — more Sunday school classrooms, the pastor's study, a choir room and a new baptistry.

THIS INTERIOR VIEW shows the completely remodeled and redecorated sanctuary. Every room in the church, including all basement rooms, was completely renovated. Modern, efficient lighting, new carpet and drapes, and a pleasant color scheme have been provided in the sanctuary as shown here.

Former Resident Writes Poem About Plymouth in New Book of Poems

A poem entitled "Plymouth, Michigan" has made its appearance this month in a book called "Belmont Park and Other Poems." The author is Alda Madison Wade, whose family were old-time residents of Plymouth before the turn of the century.

Although The Mail has been unable to locate any present resident who can recall the Wade family, the poem about Plymouth recalls Plymouth as it was years ago. It points out that his father was a baker.

The poems were written during the decade between 1932 and 1942. During this time, the Christopher Publishing House declares that Wade was a "practical businessman who built up a paper fortune during the early Florida real estate boom and bust, as well as in the life insurance field."

One section of the book is devoted to life insurance poems and another to the Townsend movement which evidently was one of the author's interests during the depression. Cost of the book is $2.50.

Here is the poem dedicated to Plymouth:

Long years in infancy,
I romped beneath your trees;
I listened to the singing birds
And humming of your bees;
Breathed the fragrance of your flowers,
While playing upon your street,
Or skipping o'er the nearby lawn
On childhood's bounding feet.
Ah! Friends, I yet remember
Where stood my father's cot;
It was across the city park
Beside the bakery lot.
My father was the baker
Who kneaded at the trough,
As tasty, one-pound loaves of bread
He formed from Fleishman's dough.
'Twas here we dwelt for 4 years
long,
Sisters and brothers all
With Mother and Dad, how gleefully
We answered to their call!

Social Security Question Column

Questions on Social Security will be answered in this column. Readers are invited to write directly to The Plymouth Mail. Only initials will be used although full name and address should be included in the letter. Letters not answered here will be answered directly by the Detroit-Northwest Social Security Office at 14600 Grand River, Detroit 27, Michigan.

1. I have a friend who is 77 and has no one to help her. She lives alone and needs things for the winter. Is there any way she can get Social Security? E.K.G.

Answer: Social Security payments are not based upon a person's need. If she has worked long enough under Social Security to be insured or is the widow of an insured worker that died she may be entitled to Social Security benefits. If there has been no work under the Social Security law you should contact the Wayne County Bureau of Social Aid for Old Age Assistance.

2. I understand the teachers may soon come under Social Security. I hope to retire when I'm 60 and have been told I won't get anything out of this if I don't teach until I'm 65. I'm 48 now. Is this correct? A.D.S.

Answer: If your coverage under Social Security starts with 1955 and we assume that your earnings are at least $4,200 a year, you will receive about $85 a month even though you stop teaching at age 60.

3. I expect to work part time in a store for the Christmas season. I was told to get a Social Security number. Do I need one as I don't plan to work steadily? H.S.J.

Answer: Yes, you should get a Social Security number for any employment under Social Security whether it is on a full time or part time basis. You may apply at the Social Security office or your post office has the application forms.

July 4th Vocalist Sings On Godfrey Talent Show

Miss Maureen Bailey, the vocalist heard by several thousand Plymouthites at the Independence Day program this year, was one of the contestants appearing last week on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scout program.

The singer's mother made the introductions and told Godfrey and the audience that Maureen had done much nightclub work and appeared at Plymouth's July Fourth celebration.

She did not win.

The greatest concentration of cherry trees in America is on Old Mission Peninsula near Traverse City, where the trees grow 20,000 to the square mile.

The national debt, which was such a fearsome threat when it was nearing fifty billion dollars, doesn't worry many people today, at 270 billion.

Mother was an angel,
So brothers and sister say;
I yet too young to remember
The sentiments of that day.
There came a day of sadness,
Just fifty years ago,
For a better place I know.
I still see her in her casket,
So pale and cold and still,
And then the long procession
Through snow to Newberg's Hill.
Then there came the family
breakup.
And we parted, one and all;
A sister went out west to live,
Responding to an uncle's call.
The other soon was wedded,
Going to her home to dwell,
With the boys took separate
courses;
That much I remember well.
Hand in hand with lonely father,
I wandered from your town.
I've never yet forsaken you,
Nor ever turned you down.
I've seen you many times since then
In traveling the good state o'er.
As student back in Ypsi days,
I rang off at your front door.

Since that fair time I've seen your growth
From village to a city bright;
You've shed your infant's swaddling clothes
In an aura of brilliant light.
No longer now the muddy roads
That bogged the farmer's cart,
Driven from nearby growing fields
With products for your mart.
Today, your wide paved avenues
Extend to all the state.
Beauteous groves and nearby
parks
Bring millions to your gate.
Great institutions have grown up
Anear your border's side
Which offer promises to extend
Again your limits wide.
Then, All Hail now, your City,
Fair!
Long live your lovely town!
May every hope be realized —
Great honor and renown!
The time may come again some day,
And that bright day ere long,
When, again, we'll join in your play
And sing with you your song.

Inspectors Watch Christmas Tree Transportation

Estimated to be a $5 million business in the state, sale and movement of Christmas trees and evergreen boughs will be closely watched by representatives of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, whose bureau of plant industry is responsible for enforcement of the state's Christmas tree law.

Cutting of trees for the yule trade is already in progress, and inspectors have been assigned to producing regions. As the sales season develops, other inspectors will check sales lots and places where Christmas trees are offered for sale.

The Christmas tree law requires that anyone cutting, moving or transporting evergreen trees or boughs must have in possession a bill of sale from the owner of the land where trees were cut. This bill of sale must be made on a form provided free by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. They are available at State Police posts, sheriffs' offices, Conservation Department district offices or County Agricultural extension offices.

An exception occurs when a person buys trees or boughs from someone who is not the original land owner. In such cases the person transporting the trees or boughs must have in possession a simple bill of sale showing name and address of the person from whom they were bought and the number and kind.

When a property owner himself transports trees from his own land he does not need a bill of sale, but rather should carry the deed or tax receipt to prove ownership of property where trees were cut.

No one is permitted to transport trees with roots attached unless they were inspected on the property where growing and found to be free of diseases or insect pests.

Violation of Michigan's Christmas tree law is punishable by imprisonment up to 90 days, or a fine of $25 to $100 or both.

SEEMINGLY SUSPENDED from the ceiling, Diver Artur Losse, a member of the Plymouth high school swimming squad, pauses at the peak of his jack-knife dive in a recent practice session. Pre-season tank drills cease tomorrow when Coach John McFall and Co. journey to Lincoln Park to open the current dual-meet campaign. The locals have been engaging in warm-up exercises for the past three weeks in preparation for the coming 12-meet schedule. A total of 43 hopefuls are listed on the swimming roster, headed by Team Captain Bill Brandell.

It's a long, long way from the college stadium to the professional gridiron. Before a player arrives with the pros, he undergoes quite a processing.

First of all, the collegians are scouted thoroughly long before they graduate. The Lions, for instance, have two or three scouts in every college conference in the United States.

These scouts, some of them college or high school coaches, others Lion "alumni," follow the same teams Saturday after Saturday and are in constant contact with Bob Nussbaumer, the Lions' chief talent hunter.

If they are convinced a player possesses professional potential, they call or write Bob. Some of them are paid for their efforts, others are volunteers.

Precious List

On the basis of these reports, plus reams of publicity that get a thorough scanning, Coach Buddy Parker and his staff make up a list of positions they want bolstered and the players they desire to bolster them.

Armed with this valuable list, over which many careful hours are spent, General Manager Nick Kerbaway and other Lions brass attend the annual draft meeting.

Until now this has been conducted in the winter, after the season is over, but because the Canadian leagues draft earlier and get a jump on the National Football League, it will be moved up to late November.

Since the Lions were on top for three years, the draft proves to be something of a "leveler," as it eventually becomes to all teams on top for any length of time.

Last Goes First

This occurs because, while the teams select players in rotation, the last team gets first pick. Thus, while the Lions may have had their eye on a hard-driving fullback, he may have been picked up by somebody else earlier. So Parker must consult his list to see who's his next choice for the post and then determine if even he's still available.

Such a procedure helps the "have-nots" immeasurably, as witness the Baltimore Colts, who acquired George Shaw, Allan Ameche and L. G. Dupre all at one draft. One of them was a "bonus" pick, a device whereby each year a different team is entitled to acquire one player in advance of the regular draft.

Once a player is drafted, he cannot dicker with any other NFL club. He is the property of the drafting club until he is either sold, traded or released.

The club pays his travel expenses to training camp, as well as his room and board. Some clubs, the Lions included, likewise give a $25 weekly expense allowance.

Rocks Open Cage Wars Friday

No "Do not open until Christmas" labels are tacked to the basketball package that capable Cage Coach Charlie Ketterer has wrapped in the past three weeks at Plymouth high school.

In fact, Ketterer awaits impatiently only until tomorrow evening to shuck the wrappings

Tankers Face Lincoln Park In First Meet

Plymouth's swimming squad dives into its 1955-56 tank schedule tomorrow, when Coach John McFall carts his team of hopefuls to Lincoln Park for the initial encounter of the new year.

The locals will engage in an even dozen tank battles in a schedule that carries the Rocks to a final dual meet with Ypsilanti on March 1.

Supported by 12 veterans returning from last year's outstanding squad, which compiled nine dual meet victories, three losses and two ties, the Rocks can expect another prosperous year from all pre-season indications.

Aiding the 12 returnees, who will be captained by Bill Brandell, are 31 fledglings giving ample depth support to McFall's gathering. The swimming schedule:

Date	Opponent	Place
Dec. 2	Lincoln Park	Away

15	Birmingham	Away
Jan. 6	Trenton	Here
12	Ypsilanti	Away

from his gift—the Rocks' 1955-56 basketball machine.

At that time he will unveil the current cage unit at the Rocks' camp in the opening battle of the infant season. The locals will square off against neighboring Northville in the initial encounter of the year for both teams.

After the non-conference tilt with the Mustangs, the Plymouth squad delves into its defense of the Suburban Six league crown, shared presently from last year with Trenton. The locals journey to Belleville on Friday, December 9, to kick off the league action with a contest there.

Following in quick succession, the Rocks will engage in home-and-away games with the other league member teams, in a conference schedule that extends to February 24. Then they take on non-league Walled Lake and Wayne to wind up the basketball campaign March 9.

The Northville game this Friday, first for the Rocks under the tutelage of Ketterer, shapes the competitive beginning of a reconstruction program at Plymouth.

Reconstruction at the local camp is a prime necessity for the diminutive Ketterer, who steps in where John Sandmann left off hurt by the June graduation of 10 of the 14 members of the versatile quintet that levered Plymouth to the second round of district play here last winter.

Returning to the Plymouth fold from last year's championship team are four players, Jack Carter, Lindy Mills, Tom Ferguson and Dick Davidson, who are being used as the foundation for Ketterer's rebuilding.

The re-assembly operation, which takes definite form tomorrow, hinges further on the development of nine members of the 1954-55 junior varsity squad plus two inexperienced hopefuls.

The Rocks had opportunity last Friday to test their wares when Highland Park furnished the locals with sharp opposition in a lengthy and semi-informal scrimmage. Ketterer sprinkled his line-up with juniors, including Bob Jenkins, Jerry King and Ken Calhoun, who showed definite promise.

But the Rocks, hindered by a lack of height, were plundered by the Highland Park five, which ran up a commanding lead in 45 minutes of play.

In the Northville contest, which will follow the junior varsity game at 7:00 p.m., the Rocks carry several advantages. Performing before a home crowd will aid them in their opening cage assignment, while the Northville quintet, which reportedly lists only two returning lettermen as starters, has seldom enjoyed victory over the Rocks in recent years.

Last year in the cage opener, Northville bowed low to Plymouth as the Rocks erupted in the second half to notch a 65-37 win. The 1955-56 basketball schedule:

Says Farm Areas Need Own Schools

The problems of rural education are not solved by consolidation with in-town schools in the opinion of a University of Michigan educator.

"At one time," says Robert S. Fox, associate professor of education and director of the U-M University School, "we naively assumed that by consolidating and bringing children into schools that would be comparable to city schools we would no longer have a problem of rural education."

"For several reasons, that just hasn't been true," he continues. "For one thing, we'll always have some small schools since there are so many sparsely settled areas."

"And for another thing, many rural sociologists hold that the school should be organized around the sociological community — that is, around the group of people who normally work, shop and enjoy activities in common."

a community would be composed of many school districts not really large enough to support all the activities which the urban school can support — such as adequate provision for guidance services, curriculum materials, library books and audio-visual materials, and special resource people in art and music.

"It looks as though some form of intermediate district is the best answer," he notes. Whether this is the county or some other combination of smaller districts depends on the background of particular states. In Michigan he suggests the county.

Professor Fox recently concluded a five-year term as chairman of the Committee on Publications and Constructive Studies of the Department of Rural Education of the National Education Association. The committee recently released its 1955 Yearbook, "Rural Education — A Forward Look."

Make EVERY day SAFE DRIVING DAY

If you are having trouble getting into the Christmas spirit we recommend a trip over to the Ford Rounda. We were guests of the Ford Motor Company last Friday at a press preview of the Christmas Fantasy and found it most delightful for adults as well as children. Favorite characters from famous children's stories come to life in a beautiful, sparkling Fairyland world. You'll see Santa's workshop where Snow White and the seven dwarfs make toys on a miniature assembly line, Humpty-Dumpty, Robin Hood, Puss-in-Boots and many other nursery rhyme characters. Two favorites of the kiddies at the party were the real live reindeer, and the North Pole Castle where Santa was on hand to greet them all.

A chance glance at Plymouth Mail files revealed the fact that trading stamps are nothing new to the city. J. R. Rauch and his son Chauncey were advertising fifty years ago, "Double Stamp Day, on all our merchandise except flour, sugar and footwear." The same ad featured American Eagle, Royal Tiger, Mocha and Java as a fine line of coffees at 15, 18, 20, and 30 cents a pound.

Mrs. Lisle Alexander was heard ordering a chuck roast in a local market the other day. After selecting the one she wanted she had it ground. She commented her father had always said a chuck roast was more moist and made better hamburger. She should know because in the same issue of the paper with the Rauch ad was one from her father's meat market, then known as William Gayde's Meat Market of North Village. Gayde's Market featured at that time, good steak at 10c per pound, pork chops 12 1/2c per pound, nice spring chickens 13c per pound and a five pound pail of lard for 50 cents.

I'm still chuckling about Jay Rucker's confidence. I have admired his ability and knowledge in business, in the stock market, with blooded horses and law but this one tops them all. His new heir, recently home from the hospital, was heralded for a whole week previous to his birth by his dad generously passing out cigars appropriately wrapped in a wrapper announcing, "It's a Boy."

Walter Rensel says Larry Lyons probably had the most unhappy experience of any hunter in the north woods this year. Hunting at McMillan, Michigan, Lyons and Rensel and William Taylor came into camp weary and tired after a full day's hunt. Before going to bed Lyons, an avid newspaper contest puzzle fan, walked several blocks around the town to purchase the last copy of the Free Press that could be found. With his puzzle paper tucked safely under his arm he returned to put on his pajamas, relax and work the last puzzle in a series he had followed since it started. Rensel says words do not properly describe the explosion which followed when Lyons opened his paper to find his treasured puzzle had already been clipped by someone else who had placed the paper back on the rack for sale.

Christmas for our family this year will be a trip to the Rose Bowl but I certainly cannot recommend it for others. Never have we been involved in such a series of indefinite quantities as have arisen since we facetiously told our family if MSC should go to Pasadena this year we would make it a holiday trip. In the first place who thought they would go? In the second place no one knows when and if we'll get game tickets or how many we'll end up with. Hotel accommodations were finally arranged through the generosity of the Mayflower's Ralph G. Lorenz, so at least we have rooms. Rail ticket confusion is at its height and after agreeing to take any day out and any day home we hope to board the Sante Fe right after Christmas and we hope to know the dates some time this week. Seats for the parade . . . well, we wrote the Tournament of Roses headquarters and received notice they didn't sell seats or spaces but they did give us a list of some hundred residents in Pasadena that do. Now we can take our choice and write any of them to find out if they still might have accommodations available. For our money its the best example of confusion unlimited we have ever encountered and, just think, we could stay home and see the whole thing over television. Moral . . . don't ever bet on what any football team will do in any season . . . look at Notre Dame last Saturday.

This is still the land of opportunity and it was brought vividly home to us last Saturday evening at a dinner party in Birmingham where a group of my former school chums from Kalamazoo had gathered. Not more than twelve or fifteen years ago Tim Meulenberg and Bob Redmond were a couple of hard working young men with vision, energy, and determination, and no money. They pooled their assets and started a small rubber fabricating plant in an old garage off Woodward avenue. Today they boast four huge factories, three in Michigan, one in Texas and a new one under way in Pittsburgh and, in addition, control a spring manufacturing plant, a steel fabricating plant and heaven knows what else. It didn't take money to get them where they are today . . . it was work, sweat and toil and I wish more of our youngsters could get this in their heads today.

One of the best pieces of reporting I have seen in a long time was done by Keith Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller of Ann Arbor Trail in the State

ATTENTION, PLEASE---

News at East Lansing. It was his coverage of the Ohio defeat of Michigan. His lead line read thusly, "This giant coliseum was transformed into a football mausoleum Saturday before 97,000 fans who came to cheer but stayed to mourn." His closing paragraph was this, "The band which customarily marches off the field, just faded into the crowd. Who would want to hear, 'Hail to The Victors' played at a wake?"

I'm glad this isn't the "Illustrated Press" portrayed so disgustingly over TV on Sunday nights. If you witnessed the farce last Sunday you probably wondered why Hackett didn't die with the plague like all of the people he contaminated. You probably wondered further why "girl reporter", Lorelei, was given the advantage of major surgery to save her life while the rest of the victims died like flies . . . Trash if I've ever seen it and more reason than not that the budding young journalists, just out of college, think they are Steve Wilsons and the like. There certainly is no place in the journalistic field today for the kind of characters so portrayed.

For many years we have annually entertained a group of friends at a guinea hen dinner. The fowl have always been secured locally from either the Bartz family, the Houks, or other well known farmers. Last week I started calling my usual sources, and others as well, and had no luck locating anyone who had any guineas. In the course of the calling I learned Colburn Dennis had a flock, so I called him to see if I might buy some birds for our dinner. He said he would be glad to sell me the birds but that hunters had killed his entire flock and his grandchildren had even seen the poachers carrying them off from the farm to their cars. No wonder there are no longer any guinea hens being raised here and no wonder local farmers have so little love for the hunters who shoot their animals and cut their fences.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "Thinking out loud" on the question:

"As you know, the legislature has enacted a bill placing the speed limit at 65 in the daytime and 55 at night. What do you think about this limit?"

DON McRANNOLDS, 38751 West Warren: "I think we've needed a law like that. People don't need to drive any faster than 65. The new speed limit probably will cut down accidents. I think speed has been the cause of many of these accidents."

WILLIAM HENDERLONG, 14320 Haggerty: "I would say that it is according to where one lives. Where there is heavy population, the speed limit is good but out in the sticks they will have a hard time enforcing it unless there is always someone on their tails. Even on Telegraph road, people are going places and it will be hard to slow them down."

GEORGE LLOYD, 156 Holbrook: "I think it's a good one. It will be no good, however, unless it can be enforced. People will not follow the speed limit unless there are enough patrolmen. Speed is a big factor in most accidents. Then too, there are too many people who don't belong behind the wheel."

CLYDE DOYLE, Whitmore Lake: "It's good. Sixty-five is fast enough for anyone. If they want to go faster, they should take a plane. The speed limit probably will reduce accidents and may slow down some of these hot rodders."

Christmas Business Ruled by Feelings

Babson Park, Mass., There are several reasons why we all — buyers, clerks, storekeepers, and manufacturers—should be greatly interested in Christmas buying. Christmas buying is a good barometer of the nation's feelings. When I was younger, I thought that the nation's business was ruled by statistics — certainly statistic on the wages and credit available. Now I am older I have learned that it is ruled not alone by figures, but by feelings. I am happy to report that an impartial study of the outlook for Christmas business shows our people are feeling good.

May I comment further on the above. I have just read the annual report for 1955 of my great friend — Dr. Edward B. Hinkleley, president of the Babson Institute. In this report, he speaks of two kinds of income which he must give to his professors. One of these, of course, is cash money with which they can pay their bills and lay up some savings. The other income which they must get he calls "psychic income." This is largely a matter of feeling secure, happy, and contented. I think every reader of this column, from the humblest worker to the highest-paid executive, might ask himself: "What is my psychic income?"

you start a most important business cycle. First, you cause a gift to go to a friend or relative or best of all — to someone in need. Second, you give help to the retailer, providing him with pay for his very important work of distribution. But remember that he gets his small portion, two or three cents from your dollar, only after he has paid for the goods, paid the wages of his clerks, paid his rent, advertising and other bills.

Then there is a third part to the Christmas cycle. In paying for the goods, the storekeeper enables the manufacturer to employ people. These people bring most of their wages back to the store and buy more goods — thus completing the cycle. When the cycle works as described above, the nation enjoys prosperity. When the cycle is broken at any point, employment and business (they always go up and down together) fall off. Then — unless the break is repaired — the nation suffers a depression.

The Business Outlook for 1956 Christmas buying thus far indicates a good 1956; but something could happen during the next few weeks to change the 1956 outlook. Readers of this column will get my detailed "Outlook for 1956" in this paper the last week of December. It will treat of business, inflation, retail trade, wages, employment, politics and the stock market. From what I see now, this forecast should give you a Merry Christmas.

Of course, all sections of the country will not be equally happy this Christmas. The thousands of families in New England, Pennsylvania, and other areas which have had their homes washed away by floods cannot forget their losses. On the other hand, states which for three years have suffered from droughts are rejoicing over the good 1955 rains. In fact, the weather for the balance of 1955 could be a factor in this year's Christmas buying. We are all inclined to give too little thought to weather, epidemics, threat of war, and even to possible earthquakes. What President Eisenhower's heart attack did to the markets in September could be repeated for the same or other reasons.

What Would Jesus Say? What Jesus would say to the present-day celebration of His Birthday, I do not know. It seems to me that He would be unhappy about the way it is being commercialized. Jesus, however, was liberal, as is shown by the lesson He gave during His walk through the corn field. On the other hand, anything can be overdone; everything can be either used or abused.

Let us so use Christmas that there will never be an unfavorable reaction. Let us make gifts to those who need them. Let us keep in mind what good we can do for others — rather than what profit the gifts may bring to us. To help keep me on the right road I have put up a holiday sign near the Great Babson Globe (the largest revolving globe in the world) with these words thereon: "FOR WHAT IS A MAN PROFITED, IF HE SHALL GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?"

More than 22,000 vessel passages are recorded at the Soo locks each year, averaging one every 19 minutes.

Spud Farmers Get Federal Aid

Farmers in 20 counties will get Federal loans to help carry them through the shock of a drought last summer.

Oldtimers said it was the worst summer for potatoes in 25 years and others were worried how they would feed their livestock through the winter.

Farm Home Administration came to their aid in cases where they couldn't get local bank credit.

"These men needing help now are good farmers and we want to help them get back on their feet after severe losses," said G. Ellwood Bonine, state FHA director.

He said that some farmers had already disposed of some of their livestock because pasturelands were parched and baked in the summer heat and rainless days.

Others, finding pastures worthless during the summer, dipped into the winter feed already stored as much as three months early. They will use the loans to replenish the livestock feed.

The FHA plan makes loans at 3 per cent interest after farm areas have been designated "emergency loan disaster" areas. Most loans will be for $5,000, Bonine said.

The money can be used for operations, replenishing equipment, but may not be diverted to pay off existing loans.

Provisions for repaying the government for the loans are based on the farmer's income and ability to pay. Most loans will run from one to five years.

For one 21-day period during July, temperatures averaged high in the 80's and the rainfall was less than a half-inch all over the state.

"I created a real emergency and we are happy we can help," Bonine said.

Farmers first must apply for loans to a county agent who refers the request to a three-member county committee of farmers, men who know the local situation best.

The approved applications are then funneled through Bonine's office in East Lansing, then to the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Bonine said the entire process takes 10 days to two weeks.

Applications also are expected from southwestern Michigan fruit farmers, livestock producers and from the rich potato areas in the northern lower peninsula.

Legislators have started a year-long study of ways to find more for another 100,000 college students by 1970.

Business, labor and industry have been asked to help determine how the enrollment boom can best be handled — whether to expand four-year colleges or set up an "educational production line."

Senator Don Vander Werp (R-Fremont), chairman of the Senate committee on education, figures two-year colleges, private and church-connected schools could take some of the load. He calls his plan, "Decentralized education."

He said he already has the promise of a large private foundation to help finance the study, which will include the problem of duplication of courses.

Vander Werp said the problem exists, for example, in the field of forestry. Three colleges in Michigan now offer the same course. Vander Werp said it might be handled at one school.

Easy Coins A Quick Profit

Hear about Easy Roberts last Friday? I helped him count his money—both before and after—so believe me, the story's true.

Easy was on the way to the bank to deposit his "cookie jar" savings—exactly $24.95 in nickels, dimes and quarters. He had them in a paper bag and as we crossed Main Street the bottom fell out.

Money went flying. Passers-by pitched in to help recover the coins. Later on when Easy counted up, he had $25.05. The "search party" had turned up all of Easy's money plus ten cents someone else had lost!

From where I sit, I wouldn't want to try this "Easy" way to make money. Usually, it takes time for a bank roll to grow . . . just as it takes time for a friendship to grow. But by respecting a neighbor's rights—including his right to drink coffee, tea, beer or buttermilk, whichever and whenever he chooses—it's wonderful the solid friendship you can build. You can "bank" on that.

Favorite Recipes From Plymouth's Kitchens

Combining oatmeal with other ingredients for her favorite cookie recipe is Mrs. Thomas Keefe of 1238 Penniman.

Here's Delicious Snack to Serve Yuletide Guests

With the Christmas holidays coming up most homemakers are going to want plenty of snacks on hand for those friends and neighbors who'll be stopping by both afternoons and evenings. A nice suggestion along this line comes from Mrs. Thomas Keefe of 1238 Penniman avenue, who recommends an oatmeal cookie which is truly delicious.

The recipe's a boon to the busy homemaker since it can be whipped up in a jiffy and yields about five dozen of the tasty treats. Brown sugar and shortening, combined with the oatmeal gives the cookies their scrumptious flavor.

Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 cup of shortening
- 1 cup of brown sugar
- 1 cup of granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon of vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups of sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon of salt
- 1 teaspoon of soda
- 3 cups of quick-cooking oats

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add eggs and vanilla and beat well. Sift together flour, salt and soda and add to creamed mixture. Blend well. Add oats.

Form dough into small balls or drop from a teaspoon onto an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 30 degrees about 8 to 10 minutes or until a light brown. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Truesdell Teenagers To Meet Saturday

Plans are under way for the third meeting of the Truesdell district Teen club on Saturday evening, December 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Hubert White, 40141 Palmer, Wayne.

Beverly Harrison, Judy Smith, Jimmy and Jason White are on the entertainment committee for the meeting. A revision of plans has been made concerning refreshments. Members of the entertainment committee will furnish the potato chips instead of having the girls bring them. The boys will continue to furnish the pop.

Five teenagers joined the club at the second meeting on November 19. As a surprise, Mrs. Alice Hearn, mother of one of the members, furnished chiliburgers for the lunch.

Initiate Yule Season

The Advent Wreath custom, an annual Sodality tradition at Madonna College, has marked the beginning of Christmas preparations on campus. The ceremony commemorates the four weeks of Advent as a preparation for the coming of Christ.

The symbolic wreath, representing God's eternity and the unceasing flow of time, has been placed in the student's dining room. On November 28, the Monday following the first Sunday of Advent, Mary Ann Barczak, Sodality Prefect, lighted the first of the four candles which symbolize the 4,000 years the world waited for the Savior. She also led the students in the recitation of the prescribed short prayer and the collect from the preceding Sunday's Mass. This observance will be carried on throughout the Advent season.

The celebration of the Advent wreath was an ancient European custom revived recently in America. It was first observed by the College Sodality in 1951.

The materials used in the composition of the wreath are symbolic. The evergreens themselves symbolize the everlasting gift brought by Christ. The purple ribbon is a reminder of sin and an encouragement in performing penance in preparation for the coming of Christ.

Through this Sodality project, the students obtain a deeper meaning of the penitential season of Advent.

Get away from your work regularly — and come back regularly.

Christmas Star Mystery Returns Each December

The mystery of the Christmas star brings popular interest in astronomy to a peak in December, says University of Michigan associate professor Hazel M. Losh. And it's a mystery astronomers haven't solved yet.

"The narrative about the star is too incomplete, the date of the appearance of the star too uncertain, the early calendar too unreliable to lead us to any definite conclusions," she states. One explanation advanced is that the "star" reported to have guided the shepherds may have been a conjunction of bright planets.

The Sun will reach its southernmost point this month, the winter solstice, as it is called, and will then swing in its shortest daily arc across the southern hemisphere sky. We will have our shortest day and longest night, about nine and fifteen hours, respectively, Professor Losh points out.

At this time of the year the Earth is closer to the Sun than during our summer which tends to make our winter a little milder and the southern summer a little hotter. In spite of the fact that we are closer to the Sun than we are in the summer the Sun's rays now hit us obliquely which lessens their force, the astronomy professor explains.

Venus, after its long appearance during the summer and early fall as an evening planet, is now the "morning star." And Mars will be the bright orange object in the southwestern sky.

During December evenings some of the most beautiful and colorful stars in all the heavens light up the eastern horizon, Professor Losh says, citing Orion, the giant huntsman, as an example. He moves across the southern sky during the course of the night.

And turning to the northwestern horizon at Christmas time, the Northern Cross, Cygnus, stands in an upright position with the bright star Deneb marking the top, a fitting symbol for the season, she concludes.

Follow Home Agent's Tips For Successful Cookie Baking

The minute minder on your range may tell you that that batch of cookies is done baking, but there are other ways to tell, says a Wayne County Home Agent.

Crisp cut-out and refrigerator cookies are done when they are a delicate brown. Drop and bar cookies are done when the top springs back after you touch them lightly with your finger tip.

Remember to remove cookies from the sheet while they are still hot and soft to avoid breaking them. Transfer to a wire rack or a clean dish towel, with a spatula or pancake turner and let them cool.

Do not pack cookies for storing until they are cool. Bar cookies should be cut while they are hot and left in the pan to cool.

Crisp cookies should be stored in a tightly covered container; soft cookies in a cookie jar. This means the two kinds should not be kept together, because the crisp cookies absorb moisture from soft ones and become limp.

If crisp cookies do become soft, place in a moderate oven for a few minutes.

If soft cookies start to dry, adding a slice of apple, orange or bread or taping a piece of moistened cotton to the inside of the cover will add needed moisture. She adds that your cookies will brown more evenly when baked on a cookie sheet. Baking sheets should be smaller than the oven to allow circulation of the heat. If you do not have one, use any low-sided pan, such as a shallow roasting pan. If you do not have a low-sided pan, turn

Milk Prices Expected To be Steady in 1956

Dairy prices have held the gain they made earlier this year and farm economists at Michigan State University see no reason for a down-turn. June 15 base milk prices on the Detroit market should be around $4.15 per hundredweight.

Supplies of milk will increase in 1956. Plenty of feed on hand now and a better price for milk in 1955 over 1954 may cause dairymen to add cows to their herds. Production per cow will be higher again next year, too. Total production will be a little more than in 1955.

If present trends continue, each person will use the equivalent of 700 pounds of milk or more next year. This consumption plus the population increase will help milk prices hold their own in spite of the expected production increase.

Look for milk prices to hold steady in 1956.

it over and bake cookies on top of an inverted baking dish. Shiny metal pans absorb heat less rapidly than drill metal, thus cookies will be a more delicate brown on the bottom.

MSU Bulletin Helps Answer Food Queries

Do you ever wonder if vegetable fats are any easier to digest than animal fats or if one has more calories than the other?

In healthy persons, all fats are thoroughly digested, explains an extension foods specialist at Michigan State University. Whether fat comes from animal or vegetable sources, both have the same calorie value.

She points out that fats, in general, are more slowly digested than other nutrients. There might be a slight difference in the speed of digestion of various fats. But, she says, there probably is a greater difference in the functioning of digestive systems of two individuals than between the speed of the digestion of two fats.

In an MSU bulletin, the specialist clears up this question of fat digestion as well as other misconceptions about food. The publication, "Fact, Fad and Fraud About Food," gives factual answers to 40 questions such as: "Is it harmful to cook foods in aluminum utensils?" and "Is aspirin a good food preservative in canning?"

The expert explains that following food fads may be very dangerous. This is especially true if peculiar diets take the place of proper medical treatment. Most food fads are expensive. And she declares, downright food frauds are even more costly.

The bulletin can be obtained from the office of your county home demonstration agent or from the MSU bulletin office, Room 10, Agriculture Hall, MSU, East Lansing. Ask for bulletin number F-207, "Fact, Fad and Fraud About Food."

Play And Learn Toys Win Favor Of Young

Pride in achievement rewards this youngster making her own doll's clothes on a "portable" sewing machine made of hi-test styrene plastic.

Playthings that encourage children to share their parents' activities get top preference for Christmas this season. Small fry have graduated from miniatures to junior sized models in colorful do-it-yourself toys.

Distinct realism keynotes the child-conditioned, durable, styrene plastic toys created for this demand. A youngster shares the magic of achievement when she makes her doll's clothes while mother sews a dress for her. It's extra fun for the wee miss who gets her first lesson in housework using a vacuum cleaner with a motor operated by flashlight batteries.

Famous brands from food mixes to sewing machines supply practically everything a little girl needs to make her mother's little helper, the painless way. Now she's not "in the way" when she catches the excitement of family party preparations and wants to help. She has a holiday in the kitchen whipping up a dessert from her own kit for young friends.

Doctor, lawyer, Indian Chief—it makes no difference. Playwise Junior can follow his Dad's footsteps even if he is a pilot. A boy learns about aviation from a plastic pilot trainer that does practically everything a plane does except leave the ground. The young and young-at-heart can share countless hours in hobbies such as model car, ship and airplane building.

Stores Find Business Brisk In "After-Five" Fashions

The one big fashion note destined for success at the social gatherings from Thanksgiving through the New Year is the gleaming and sparkling dress. The style setters state that it is not going to be a casual holiday picture.

A check of the sales across the counter show that women want to dress up and the buyers are certainly in that vein for after-five wear. The brocade or satin shirtwaist-type dinner or cocktail dress is new this year and becoming to all ages. Shoes to match are almost a must unless you prefer a pair of the new clear plastic evening shoes. Plastic heels decorated with rhinestones and other jewels are being used on the plastic shoes and shoes of leather, satin, and other fabrics.

Evening jewelry is coming in for a lot of attention — as it always does this time of year. Crystal and rhinestone seem to be about the newest looking. Earrings are again big and showy as possible. . . bracelets are often three or four inches wide and cost a pretty penny. Jeweled combs for my lady's hair are a fashion note, reflecting the new longer hair styles being worn.

Spices, Fruit Give Short Ribs Tasty Flavor

During the winter months, it's difficult to find new and unusual main dishes liked by both Dad and the children.

For conformity, some home-makers find themselves preparing similar cuts of meat the same way week after week.

Spiced short ribs, according to meat experts, have unique flavor, which results from braising the meat with spices and fruit. Just try them — you'll probably have helpers in the kitchen next time you prepare this new winter dish.

Spiced Short Ribs

- 3 pounds beef short ribs
- 1/4 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons lard
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup prunes
- 1 cup dried apricots
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 3 tablespoons vinegar

Dredge meat with flour and brown in lard. Pour off drippings. Season and add water. Cover and simmer for one hour.

Add prunes, apricots, and mixture of sugar, spices and vinegar. Continue simmering one hour or until tender. 6 servings.

Unique Flavor

Next time you broil a ham slice, try an apricot glaze to produce a delightful, and different flavor. Place meat on broiler rack, sprinkle with spices, and cook until browned, basting occasionally with apricot juice. Continue same procedure for the second side. About 5 minutes before the end of the broiling time, place apricot halves on top to heat through and brown slightly.

TINY TOTER—Here's a neat little bag that goes everywhere with ease. For daytime or evening, it holds all a woman's necessities compactly and prettily. The convenient clutch is crocheted of cotton blended with metallic yarn to add glamour to any outfit. A girl or woman on your gift list would appreciate this sparkling accessory, and so will you because it's so easy to make. If you would like the directions for making a CARRY ALL CASE, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Dept. of this paper and ask for Leaflet No. 114.2.

Unique Flavor

Nuts, a favorite holiday food, keep better in the shell than out of the shell and unsalted nuts keep better than salted. All nuts keep better at a cold temperature than in a warm place. Food specialists say you can keep shelled nuts for a year in tight containers in home freezers.

Provide Spot in Home For Family Relaxation

Every home should have one room that is rough and tough, warm and cozy where the entire family can relax and play together. It can be a room for your children to entertain their friends in and where your friends will feel instantly at home.

The room need not be large. The main requirements are that it be comfortable and decorated so that you need not worry about damage to rugs, floors or furniture.

It is a good idea for the whole family to have a hand in choosing the colors and furnishings of the room. They can really indulge their taste for strong colors and unusual touches. Teenagers will be delighted with a juke box and, if there is room, include a soft drink bar with gay bar stools.

These rooms usually carry out a particular theme. It may be tropical, Western or oriental. A basement or attic can be converted into a charming family room.

If you still have the problem of what to do with the television set, this room will solve it. Instead of dominating the living room, put it in the family room where the small fry can gallop about, accompanying the cowboys, to their heart's content without damaging your best furniture.

The attractiveness and coziness of a family room is enhanced by a fireplace. Be sure to include an extra wide one for indoor cooking.

BREAKFAST NOOK in the kitchen of the recently-completed Melvin Blunk residence, 377 Eastwood, suggests cozy hospitality as pictured above. Extend Valuable Living Space Up to the Roof of Your Home

A home owner should not overlook the potential for expansion of home living space as the needs of his family grow. An attic large enough to be finished is money in his pocket, for much of the construction already is done, and he can complete most of the balance by his own leisure time work.

The attic offers many possibilities. It can be made into a study and hobby room for youngsters and adults, a playroom for small children, additional bedrooms, or a studio room which will double as a guest room. The Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information, suggests these steps for remodeling:

Extension of utilities to the attic is the first step in its conversion to living space. Many houses have been built so utilities can be brought from the floor below with little difficulty.

To make the attic livable, a layer of insulating material should be put between the wall studs of all outside walls and between the ceiling joists. Next, a subflooring of plywood is nailed directly to the floor joists.

If you plan to divide your attic space into more than one room, nail 2x4 partition studs upright, fastening at the top to the roof rafters and at the bottom to the floor. These should be spaced 24 inches center to center, and allowance made for required doorways. The studs can extend to the point where the roof slope is five feet above the floor.

Unpainted chests of drawers or cabinets can be built into the low sides of the walls, with depth extending back under the roof out of the room.

For the interior finishing of walls and ceiling there are a variety of low cost building materials available, including plastic faced plywood, plaster-board and textured decorative panels. Economically priced doors are available in a wide selection.

To finish the floor the entire range of resilient floor tiles is available, including asphalt, rubber and vinyl, such as Kentile. All are easy and simple to install, as they are laid a tile at a time in the colors and pattern desired. They require a minimum of easy care.

Last comes the trim around the doors, windows, baseboards, and any built-in furniture, the finishing touch essential to a professional looking job.

Walls and ceiling then can be painted or stained in one or more of a wide range of colors, even beyond the conventional tones usually associated with home interiors, giving a dramatic flair to the new living space.

At Christmas time each year, thousands of families like to dress up their home exteriors and interiors with yuletide figures, like the Santa Claus and reindeer shown in the illustration.

Because Masonite Tempered Presdwood is weather-resistant and can be used year after year, more and more craftsmen are fashioning their Christmas figures of this material. Available at most lumber yards, it should be obtained in either 3/16" or 1/4" thickness.

This splinter-free material takes a beautiful finish of paint or enamel, or ready-painted paper cutouts may be applied with water-proof glue.

A selection of gay patterns, including the one shown, may be obtained free by writing the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting the folder of Christmas plans. Directions for using them are included.

Today, use of color on floors is limited to one or two for any single floor. For work areas such as the kitchen floor where ceramic tile is used, large tile units are most often preferred. Smaller units, the ceramic mosaics, are found most frequently in bathrooms, showers and washrooms.

House Must Look Good To Sell Easily

If you are planning to sell your house, help it put its best foot forward.

You may be satisfied with its present appearance, but how will it look to prospective buyers is the important thing. It must make a good impression on them, and quickly, too, or they'll be off to look at other homes.

Here are five things that you can do to make your home more salable and to sell it faster and for a better price:

1. Modernize the bathroom. Replace dated plumbing fixtures and wall and floor surfacings. Make it waterproof with ceramic tile wainscots and floors will also enhance its appearance and add quality. Money spent on the bath will pay dividends, in a higher selling price and a quicker sale.
2. Check your decorating. If a room is dark, refinish it in light, cheerful colors. Strong clear colors will sell a house faster than drab ones. Disguise dark woodwork by painting it the same shade as the rest of the room.

3. Look over the closets carefully. If they are jammed with garments and boxes, now is the time for a good house cleaning. Remember that prospects will judge the rooms and living spaces as they see them.
4. Check the condition of your furniture. A shabby chair or sofa can detract greatly from the appearance of a room. Under-furnished rooms look spacious, so get rid of extra pieces before putting your house on the market.
5. Make needed changes in the kitchen, or be prepared to show how they can be made. For instance, a refrigerator in a hall or pantry is a real drawback to a house. Worn drainboards and counter tops can be replaced with a permanent material such as ceramic tile. Fresh paint will make the room more attractive.

New improved adhesives are a boon to the owner of the modest-priced house. Without the economical, waterproof adhesives he might not put ceramic tile in bath or kitchen because of the relatively high cost of installing tile with cement. Some manufacturers claim the adhesive method has reduced costs as much as 30 per cent. This has meant that practically every new home now has real tile, which in itself is a terrific long-range economy because it never fades, wears out or needs remodeling.

When a forced circulation hot water heating system is zoned, it provides the last word in temperature control, comfort, and fuel economy, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Make Closets Bigger Without Moving A Wall

If closets had rubber walls, most would look like inflated balloons. Closet walls aren't made of rubber and they can't be pushed back easily. The only practical way to make the average closet do a bigger job is to avoid wasting the storage space it now contains.

A check of the average closet usually reveals that it contains much wasted space near the ceiling and floor areas. This closet probably contains one hanger bar, for clothes and a couple of hooks for hats. No special places are provided for shoes, hats, ties and similar articles.

More often than not, the single shelf in the closet is merely a collection point for empty hat boxes and the thousands and one other useless items which seem to clutter up what should be valuable storage space.

The trick, then, is to decide what a closet is to be used for, and equip it accordingly. Oftentimes, it is practical to install two hanger bars, one placed above the other. This doubles the hanging space for coats, trousers, folded over hangers, ladies' blouses and skirts.

If the closet is lined with aromatic cedar closet lining, it can serve as a year-round storage place for garments and blankets. Cedar closet lining is nature's own moth-repellent. The wood's fragrance appeals to people but it stops moths from laying the eggs which eventually cause moth holes.

Cedar has a place in any efficient closet. Not only does it provide moth-repellency, but it provides a sturdy base for attaching closet conveniences, such as tie and shoe racks. Also the beauty of the wood is a bonus feature that adds a touch of elegance to any closet.

Fortunately for do-it-yourselfers, aromatic red cedar closet lining can now be purchased ready to use from almost all lumber dealers. The wood is prepackaged in bundles containing enough tongued and grooved pieces to cover at least 32 square feet of wall area. Any man who can handle a hammer and saw can line a closet with aromatic cedar in just a few hours of spare time.

When lining a closet with cedar, don't forget to do the inside of the closet door. The added cedar improves the closet's moth-repellency and at the same time, provides a handsome background for hooks and racks which hold hats, ties and the like.

Many closed conveniences are now on the market. Investigate all of them before drawing up a plan to improve a closet's efficiency. Select those that save the most space and then include them in the plan.

Most people find it is far cheaper and much more satisfying to improve the closets they already have than to build new closets or expand present ones by moving one or more walls. Planning and ingenuity often are the best closet stretchers.

Fine new homes may differ one from the other in size, structure and layout, but they all have one distinction in common: an appearance, inside and out, that's fresh, natural and simple. The creative use of nature's own materials is one big reason for this. Most popular example is the increased use of ceramic tile throughout the home. Frank, honest and clean, eminently practical, tile plays a lead role in modern building.

The powder room has become so fixed in American thinking that a home without one or more is looked upon as somewhat primitive, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

After hearing about these Carpet Squares as the latest do-it-yourself project I decided to investigate the matter and get all the dope on them myself.

Sure enough, they're just as advertised, 18-inch squares of cotton carpeting that come in 12 luscious shades. You can mix them up so that the kids can play checkers on the floor of the nursery, place them solidly for the living room or create your own designs if you have an artistic bent.

Nicest part of the whole deal is that with practically no effort and no waste in material you can completely carpet any room — including those that are too wide, narrow or angular for standard-width carpeting. All you need are string, carpenter's chalk and sharp scissors to do your own professional carpeting job.

To get the project underway, all you have to do is remove the paper covering the adhesive back, place the square where you want it, pat it down and there you are.

Then I got to wondering, when you get around to spring house-cleaning, would the squares come flying up and stick to the vacuum attachment? Nope, they don't. You can go over the whole business with a carpet sweeper, broom or suction vacuum with perfect safety. They'll stay put.

These squares are economical, too. Just for instance, say a bottle of ink gets accidentally spilled on the flooring. You'd fool around with that spot for hours and then have to live with it for years with conventional carpeting. But in this case, you can just remove the soiled square and replace it with a brand-new one.

At Christmas time each year, thousands of families like to dress up their home exteriors and interiors with yuletide figures, like the Santa Claus and reindeer shown in the illustration.

Because Masonite Tempered Presdwood is weather-resistant and can be used year after year, more and more craftsmen are fashioning their Christmas figures of this material. Available at most lumber yards, it should be obtained in either 3/16" or 1/4" thickness.

This splinter-free material takes a beautiful finish of paint or enamel, or ready-painted paper cutouts may be applied with water-proof glue.

A selection of gay patterns, including the one shown, may be obtained free by writing the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting the folder of Christmas plans. Directions for using them are included.

Today, use of color on floors is limited to one or two for any single floor. For work areas such as the kitchen floor where ceramic tile is used, large tile units are most often preferred. Smaller units, the ceramic mosaics, are found most frequently in bathrooms, showers and washrooms.

New improved adhesives are a boon to the owner of the modest-priced house. Without the economical, waterproof adhesives he might not put ceramic tile in bath or kitchen because of the relatively high cost of installing tile with cement. Some manufacturers claim the adhesive method has reduced costs as much as 30 per cent. This has meant that practically every new home now has real tile, which in itself is a terrific long-range economy because it never fades, wears out or needs remodeling.

When a forced circulation hot water heating system is zoned, it provides the last word in temperature control, comfort, and fuel economy, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

HERE'S HOW . . . MAKE PLANT BOXES

A reproduction of the old-fashioned kitchen match box, made of 1/2-inch lumber, is an attractive plant box.

Cut out the pieces, as shown in the drawing, to help layout the curved parts. An easy way to make the curve patterns is to lay them out on the wood. Use a folded sheet of paper to make a symmetrical pattern for the back.

Drill a 3/4-inch hole in the back, for hanging. Square all mating surfaces with a plane before assembly. Use glue and 5-penny finishing nails at all joints.

Assemble the sides and back first, by nailing through the back. Nail through the sides to install the front. Nail through the bottom to fasten it to the other pieces.

Set all nail heads and fill the holes with wood filler. Sand the box smooth, then others to provide a worn, antique effect.

Stain and wax or varnish, or paint the box. Make a mesh on top to fit the well, or insert small potted plants. The box may be hung on the wall or set on a table or window sill.

Mills said the new facility, designed to accommodate the increasing demand for Lincoln automobiles, will have an annual capacity of 90,000 cars on a normal operating basis.

The combined assembly plant and office building, covering 1,500,000 square feet, is scheduled for completion by mid-1957.

Remove Diseased Elms Promptly

You can't lick the dreaded Dutch Elm Disease just by spraying your trees, says a University of Michigan professor of forest pathology and botany.

Dow V. Baxter, who has been studying this serious conservation problem for almost 30 years, cites the chief hazard as "the dying, or recently-killed elm which serves as suitable wood for breeding bark beetles, the vector for the fungus."

"The prompt removal and destruction of such wood is of prime importance," he states. "And, when used to supplement a sanitation program involving both, spraying with an application of DDT is helpful," he amplifies.

A current outbreak of the disease among Michigan's elms has focused public attention on ways of lessening its ravages.

"There's a double expense involved in the problem," Professor Baxter points out, "since you'll want to plant trees to replace those you've had to destroy in checking the disease."

Still further expense will be entailed if the sick trees are part of a formally planned landscaping program this expert declares, since their destruction will throw future plans out of kilter in addition to wiping out the value of all previous work. "You're just inviting trouble if you street-plant elms formally," he maintains.

Dutch Elm Disease was first diagnosed in the U.S. in 1930 when it appeared in Ohio. Since it is an introduced fungus from abroad it centered in ports of entry, veneer plants and railroad distributing yards.

The fungus is transmitted from elm to elm by the activities of a beetle which feeds on the trees, leaving wounds which are excellent places for the fungus infection to grow.

Professor Baxter lists the external symptoms of Dutch Elm Disease as: curling leaves which show wilting, yellowing or browning, bark which dries out and dies, and discoloration of the outer annual rings. If the bark is peeled away larvae of the elm bark beetles may be found — though they are only carriers, not causers, of the disease.

"One thing is clear," Professor Baxter says, "The beetles prefer unhealthy trees, so keep your elms healthy by watering and fertilization."

We strongly endorse the idea of united charity drives and elimination of all unnecessary civic organizations, of which there are too many.

We know of no job as trying and tiring as that faced by a minister, both from the physical and mental viewpoints, if the job is properly done.

There will be no admission charge for the show which is open to the public. Starting time is 8 p.m. in the Coliseum.

The fast-talking salesman takes advantage of the average person's greed to put over his "something for nothing" deal.

Ground will be broken on Friday for the new Lincoln Division national headquarters near Novi, Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor company vice president and division general manager, announced today.

A brief ceremony will be held at 11:30 a.m., on the 325-acre site on Wixom road, a quarter mile north of Grand River avenue.

Mills said the new facility, designed to accommodate the increasing demand for Lincoln automobiles, will have an annual capacity of 90,000 cars on a normal operating basis.

The combined assembly plant and office building, covering 1,500,000 square feet, is scheduled for completion by mid-1957.

Remove Diseased Elms Promptly

You can't lick the dreaded Dutch Elm Disease just by spraying your trees, says a University of Michigan professor of forest pathology and botany.

Dow V. Baxter, who has been studying this serious conservation problem for almost 30 years, cites the chief hazard as "the dying, or recently-killed elm which serves as suitable wood for breeding bark beetles, the vector for the fungus."

"The prompt removal and destruction of such wood is of prime importance," he states. "And, when used to supplement a sanitation program involving both spraying with an application of DDT is helpful," he amplifies.

A current outbreak of the disease among Michigan's elms has focused public attention on ways of lessening its ravages. "There's a double expense involved in the problem," Professor Baxter points out, "since you'll want to plant trees to replace those you've had to destroy in checking the disease."

Still further expense will be entailed if the sick trees are part of a formally planned landscaping program this expert declares, since their destruction will throw future plans out of kilter in addition to wiping out the value of all previous work. "You're just inviting trouble if you street-plant elms formally," he maintains.

Dutch Elm Disease was first diagnosed in the U.S. in 1930 when it appeared in Ohio. Since it is an introduced fungus from abroad it centered in ports of entry, veneer plants and railroad distributing yards.

The fungus is transmitted from elm to elm by the activities of a beetle which feeds on the trees, leaving wounds which are excellent places for the fungus infection to grow.

Professor Baxter lists the external symptoms of Dutch Elm Disease as: curling leaves which show wilting, yellowing or browning, bark which dries out and dies, and discoloration of the outer annual rings. If the bark is peeled away larvae of the elm bark beetles may be found — though they are only carriers, not causers, of the disease.

"One thing is clear," Professor Baxter says, "The beetles prefer unhealthy trees, so keep your elms healthy by watering and fertilization."

We strongly endorse the idea of united charity drives and elimination of all unnecessary civic organizations, of which there are too many.

We know of no job as trying and tiring as that faced by a minister, both from the physical and mental viewpoints, if the job is properly done.

Serviceman Relates Trip to Rome, Venice

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Almon McAlister, 467 Roe street, from their son, Garth, who is presently stationed with the United States Army in Frankfurt, Germany.

Garth, a 1950 graduate of Plymouth high and a 1954 graduate of Michigan State Normal college, relates his impressions of Rome and Venice on a recent leave that he spent in those places.

Dear Folks,

Back on the job again, my two weeks freedom having come to an end yesterday. Actually Saturday was my last day of leave but, of course, I didn't get back here in the office until yesterday. Started off with a bang, too, because we had our monthly alert about 6:00 a.m. Monday. Had quite a time — started off at one in the morning of the 4th and got back about six on 17th. The train took approximately 20 hours getting to Rome which is where we started from. Had a hotel room right around the corner from St. Peter's which is really an impressive building. Spent about five days in Rome wandering around the old Roman Forum, the Colosseum, Vatican City (the Pope even came out one day and waved to the assembled throngs), churches and more churches — tradition says every Pope must build a new church and there have been about 140 popes, so there's a slew of churches. Also got down in the catacombs one afternoon. The most impressive thing — according to my opinion — was the Forums, of which not too much remain except various pillars and the remains of Emperor Caligula's palace. It's also the location of what is thought to be the grave of Romulus (Romulus and Remus being, according to tradition, the original founders of the city) but even in its present state the place somehow gave the feeling and sense of the power and grandeur that was the Roman at the time it existed intact.

The Colosseum is right next door to the Forum and it looks just like it does in all the post-cards. St. Peter's was impressive too, first because of its ornateness (a little too much so, for my taste) and secondly because of its immensity which because of its proportion is not really evident until a few statistics are mentioned, as the length of the nave being 614 feet, the letters on the dome, which appear from the floor to be possibly ten or twelve inches in height, and are actually 6 feet, then you realize how tremendous the place really is. The whole city practically reeks with history — an obelisk in the square marks the spot where Peter was supposed to have been killed, a purple circle near the entrance of the church is the place where Charlemagne knelt to be crowned, and so on and so forth. Saw a changing of the Swiss guard — the guys in the yellow, red and blue striped pantaloons and who carry spears — sort of a Vatican City honor guard.

The museums of the Vatican City are good too, especially the Sistine Chapel where Michaelangelo painted the ceilings laying on his back for years. He also painted the Judgement Day scene on one wall, and when some cardinal criticized his work he painted the face of the cardinal on one of the bodies condemned to hell. The cardinal protested to the Pope, but the Pope said he was sorry but that hell was a place of eternal torment and there was nothing he could do to get the cardinal out, so he's still there — in the painting, anyway.

Florence is the real city of art though. The Uffizi Museum, which at one time was the private property of the DeMedici's is one of the greatest collections of art in the world, even if I don't know anything about art, I'm impressed by names, and it seemed like every room had two or three paintings by people of whom even I had heard. The most impressive single piece of art I saw though was in another museum, and was Michaelangelo's statue of David. Mike was quite a boy — one of his statues in Rome (of Moses) is marred slightly from where Michaelangelo struck it for not speaking when he completed it. For just plain relaxing though, nothing could touch Venice. After you have seen St. Mark's you've about covered the sights, and there is nothing to do but relax and what better place than sitting in St. Mark's Square listening to one of three competing string bands and watching the pigeons. Or window shopping at the stores which display Venice's blown glass goods, or for a real topper floating down the grand canal in a gondola. The train down, although tiring, was thru Switzerland, and there I was eating what passes for breakfast in Europe — coffee and rolls, and peering out the window at Swiss type mountains. Like I say breakfast isn't much here but I've got no kicks on the rest of the food Italian style. Start a meal with either spaghetti, ravioli, cannelloni, or pizza (American import); then soup; then main course of fish or meat with vegetables and a salad; then a slice of cheese; then some sort of sweet, usually fruit or ice cream; and then espresso style coffee for a finisher; pretty fair eating habits although from economy my comrades and I were occasionally forced to eliminate a few courses. That just about covers the trip so I'll close for now.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, foremost of the living explorers, was first to fly both the North and South Poles.

A British explorer, Captain James Cook, was first to sight the ice mass surrounding Antarctica, during a circumnavigating trip in 1770.

FIRST DEER reported shot by a Plymouth hunter was this eight-point buck downed by Louis Westfall, who displays his fortune happily. Westfall, 840 Irvin, bagged the deer early on the first day of the season near Atlanta. It was his third deer in five trips.

Tells Franchise Swindle Methods

Because of the marked increase in franchise offerings during recent months, Ed Hart, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, today cautioned citizens of this area to make a careful study of all factors involved before entering into such propositions. Hart stated that franchise offers for hot dog and sandwich warming machines, greeting card racks, and toy racks and similar display racks, are now particularly active. The text of Hart's statement follows:

"Operating a franchise has great appeal to those who wish to run their own business. Under favorable conditions, this type of activity can be highly lucrative. But, where conditions are adverse, a person who seeks a livelihood in a franchise proposition can lose everything he puts into it."

"The great majority of franchise offerings no-doubt are honestly presented to prospective investors. But, as in most other fields, there is a minority group of unscrupulous franchise promoters which has deceived many persons and swindled them out of their life savings. Such promoters lead gullible investors to believe that persons with little business experience and capital will make large sums of money with a minimum expenditure of time and effort. Many inexperienced investors have entered into franchise agreements as a result of such 'get rich quick' appeals without adequate preliminary investigation into the factors and problems involved with consequent dire results."

Citing a bulletin published by the National Better Business Bureau which the local Chamber is affiliated, Hart urged prospective investors to examine into such factors as the reputation of the company and the individuals behind it, the quality and salability of the product, the availability of the franchise fee, the terms of the franchise, and the significance of how the franchise is offered.

Typical American names found in Antarctica include Mobiloil Bay, Wallgreen Coast, Edsel Ford Range, Rockefeller Mountains, Cape Washington, and of course, Little America.

"Radiation Processed" Foods to Effect Drastic Change in Nation's Eating, Buying Habits

The time may come in the not-too-distant future when Mama will be able to plan and shop for Christmas dinner in July.

What's the secret?

It's simply a watered-down version of the much-publicized atomic radiation sterilization of foods. Total sterilization, with its dreams of "fresh" foods stored at room temperatures for years, is still far in the future despite wonderful strides by science and industry. It will be possibly another 10 years or more before the "kinks" are ironed out sufficiently to allow the science-fiction writers' dreams to come true.

"Radiation processing" (partial dosage of atomic energy's miracle-working-by-product, Gamma rays, or man-made high velocity electrons called beta rays) could be a wonderful boon to the homemaker. And that Christmas dinner might be a possibility as soon as 1957 or 1958.

Applying techniques learned in the Atomic Age, scientists are giving food a "light" dose of radiation to lengthen its life and dispose of many familiar household headaches.

A piece of meat, for instance, can be treated with a light exposure to radioactive Cobalt 60 without changing its taste or appearance. But the homemaker will be able to keep it in her refrigerator for 30 to 60 days, from five to ten times as long as she now can.

Or take flour. What homemaker hasn't at least once had the wasteful feeling of having to throw away half a box of flour or griddle cake mix because of weevils? Or been irritated by sprouting potatoes and onions? But if the flour, potatoes and onions had been radiation-treated, no such problems would exist. Fresh fruits and vegetables would keep many times longer, could be vine-ripened, be less subject to spoilage. Imagine cloth that is almost "wear-proof" and tires that will outlast three or four cars. And how about adding a lovely bouquet of roses to that table—as fresh as the instant they were snipped last summer? The possibilities are endless.

Research and development, of course, take time. However, at least 40 organizations in the U.S. are now working on radiation sterilization and processing of foods. These include universities, laboratories and foundations, encouraged by money grants from private sources and from the government.

Actually, the idea of treating objects with radioactive substances is not particularly new. Scientists have been experimenting with killing of bacteria with radiation ever since roentgen rays were discovered in 1895.

Only recently, however, with the knowledge brought by atomic research, have they begun to make encouraging progress. They feel now that they are on the threshold of the greatest innovation in food processing since the discovery of fire.

The whole technique is relatively simple. It's merely a matter of using beta rays, or gamma rays from Cobalt 60, radioactive by-product of atomic reactors, to kill food-spoiling bacteria and enzymes. In no case at present is food being exposed directly to atomic reactors.

It's in effect the same principle as our present method of canning and preservation by heat, but involves no head and requires only an air-tight wrapping for protection. There are still quite a few technical difficulties, of course. Before gamma-treated foods become generally available, they must be tested and tasted by many generations of laboratory animals. Results so far have been encouraging, and testing on human volunteers began a few months ago. So you may be sure that they will be absolutely safe for your family by the time they reach you.

The impact of frozen foods on the food field has been amazing. The entrance of radiation-processed or sterilized foods should have an even more sensational effect on our food eating and buying habits.

Gulf No-Nox Gasoline burns clean
Here's proof: Note the black deposit on plate at left, caused by the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the part Gulf refines out in making New Super-Refined NO-NOX. But see how clean new NO-NOX leaves the plate at right. Now—in your own new 1956 car—see how clean-burning NO-NOX can give you more miles per gallon in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

Gulfpride Select Oil works clean
Here's why: Most conventional oils are refined only to the stage shown in A. But New Gulfpride Select is further refined by the Alchor Process—removing up to 15% more of the carbon-formers, in B . . . C contains the new super-refined oil that gives you more miles per quart because it has natural viscosity (body)—contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

Door-to-Door Wool, Lace Sellers Cheating Americans by Thousands

A warning against the notorious "Williamson Gang" of itinerant wool and lace vendors was sounded this week by Ed Hart, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

According to a recent expose of this gang in PARADE Magazine, members of this remarkable clan of swindlers have been cheating Americans out of staggering sums for years. The text of Hart's statement follows:

"The size of the gang is estimated at anywhere from a couple of hundred to a couple of thousand. Members of the gang, under such names as Williamson, McMillan, Stewart, McGavin, Johnston, Keith and Carroll, usually spend the winter in the Southern states. They travel throughout the U.S. in expensive Buicks and Cadillacs, selling such items as fake 'wool' fabrics and fake 'Irish lace' to thousands of victims.

"The members of the clan are excellent actors, and are masters at faking dialects. In a typical 'sales pitch,' a clan member will tell a local housewife that he is a salesman from Scotland, touring this country to display wool at fashion shows. He's now on his way home, and rather than take the wool with him, he would be glad to sell it for a small fraction of its value. In his 'Highland accent,' he confesses that he is 'a wee bit short of cash.'

"The sale of fake 'Irish lace' is usually entrusted to the female members of the gang, who dress shabbily and take along one or more shabbily dressed children. In a thick Irish brogue, the woman tells her tale of distress — her husband is sick, they have no food, etc. The woman states that, in her extremity, she is willing to part with pieces of Irish lace 'made by me mither when she was just a lass in County Cork.' The purchaser later discovers that the 'heirloom lace' is modern cotton of a very cheap grade.

"Imported wool' fabrics sold by the Williamsons are usually cheap bolts made of acetate, rayon and nylon with little or no wool present.

"By way of showing their versatility, members of the Williamson gang have recently branched out into the fields of home painting, roofing and the installation of lightning rods. In one case, the 'paint' they applied to a home turned out to be crankcase oil mixed with green and red pigment. In another case, their 'special plastic' coating was found to be asphalt and aluminum mixed with gasoline, which washed off during rains, and disintegrated asphalt paper roofing. Lightning rods installed by some of the Williamsons have been put up so sloppily as to constitute a danger rather than a safety device for the home."

Hart pointed out that his warning against the Williamsons was not intended to damage the good name of the overwhelming majority of the reputable door-to-door selling industry, in which thousands of honest Americans make honest livelihoods, or as any reflection against the decent Americans bearing the names Williamson, Stewart, McMillan, or any other name used by this gang.

In suggesting methods whereby local residents may protect themselves against the activities of the unscrupulous minority of dishonest peddlers such as the Williamsons, Hart cited the advice of the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local Chamber is affiliated. The BBBB recommends that vendors should be avoided who: (1) give unusual personal reasons for bargains; (2) have a low price because goods are illicit; (3) offer "secret hurry-up" deals; and 4) sell mainly by sympathy appeals.

Speaking of friends, the truest is a seeing-eye dog.

Fawn Production Study Revealed

Fawn production, the key to the success or failure of a deer herd, is determined largely by winter food conditions, a four-year Conservation Department study reveals.

Does in the northern lower peninsula produce fewer fawns than their healthier sisters in the southern half of the lower peninsula where food supplies are abundant.

Information for the study was obtained from autopsies of several hundred does between December and June — the fawn-carrying months. Almost all of the does examined were killed by cars or trucks while trying to cross highways.

A regional analysis of the information showed that 10 does in the poorer winter range areas of the northern lower peninsula produce 13 to 15 fawns. Ten does in the good winter range of the southern lower peninsula produce 18 fawns per year.

When does do not get enough natural food, they can't produce normally. Instead of twin fawns most of the time, they usually produce only a single fawn or twins occasionally.

Severe winter conditions and a surplus number of deer in the northern lower peninsula bring about food shortages and a resulting decline in fawn production the study revealed.

Savings Bond Sales Go Up in Wayne County

Purchases of Series E and H United States savings bonds by residents of Wayne county totaled $15,827,193, an increase of over $3,000,000 over the same month last year.

The county total for the first 10 months of this year was $158,055,491, which compares with $146,059,464 bought during the same period a year ago.

Series H bonds, which provide current income in the form of semi-annual treasury interest checks, have been increasingly popular during recent months. Most E bonds are purchased at the buyers' places of employment through the payroll savings plan.

School Band, Chorus To Entertain PTSA

The Junior High School band and chorus will provide the program for the Parent Teacher Student association on Tuesday, December 6, at 7:30 in the high school gymnasium.

The program is under the direction of Laurence Livingston, band instructor, and Urey Arnold, who instructs the chorus. It promises to be one of the highlights of the year. This opportunity gives parents an added chance to see the junior high band and chorus in action.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

The United States takes more than three-fifths of Malaya's tin exports.

Michigan Fawn Production

A four-year Conservation Department study shows that fawn production is higher in areas where winter food supplies are more abundant. Does in the Mio and Baldwin areas, where winter range is poor, have a below average fawn production.

Don't Admit Fault In Auto Accident

Politeness pays, but don't be too polite when you're involved in an automobile accident or it may cost you money and trouble.

Prof. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan Law School points out that a person who says "I'm sorry, it was all my fault" after an accident usually is in no position or frame of mind to accurately determine fault.

And he warns that such an admission may be used against you in court, and there may be a clause in your insurance policy that voids that insurance if you admit liability, moreover the other party may have been guilty of contributory negligence.

The safest thing to do, once you have an accident, is to get the names and addresses of the other persons involved, the names of their insurance companies, their car's license number and the names and address of any witnesses. Then notify your own insurance company immediately. If the accident is in Michigan and someone is killed or injured, you must inform the police and make a written report to the Secretary of State on his forms. The police also must be told if the car has been disabled so it cannot be moved in the usual manner.

Smelt catches in Michigan often reach unbelievable sizes. In one case 15 tons of the small fish were hand-dipped from a Michigan stream in 10 minutes.

ALL-STEEL BEAUTY at a steal of a price

The 1956 Buick SPECIAL 4-Door, 6-Passenger Estate Wagon

In no uncertain terms, this one makes your travel hours prideful as well as practical.

It's all Buick, you see—all 1956 Buick.

Which means a new lift to anyone's spirit — from the new sweep-ahead look of it — the new might of its 322-cubic-inch V8 engine raised to lofty new power highs — the new sizzle of its advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo* — the true sweetness of its great new ride.

But it's a lot more than that.

It's Buick's highly versatile Estate Wagon — now substantially lowered in price for 1956 — and how much more practical can you get than that?

For with this one, and for an easy-to-reach figure — you have a car with all the suavity of a smart sedan plus the all-duty handiness of a suburban vehicle. You have a car completely steel-bodied, so its exterior upkeep stays simple and inexpensive — and a roomy car to carry six, plus gear.

You have a covered platform that's plain wonderful. It can take an inflated air mattress for sleeping. It can freight a small rowboat and camp equipment. It can hold luggage, or golf clubs and such — or the results of a mad shopping spree, even if you go in for antique furniture.

You can even have the rear seat come, at your option, in a handy split-section that lets you carry both rear-seat passengers and extra-long loads like skis, or fishing rods, or young trees, or two-by-fours.

So what more can we say, except come see it.

The Estate Wagon is available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series — the budget-tagged SPECIAL, and the high-powered CENTURY. And, we repeat, both newly lowered in price for 1956.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Long Loads are a breeze!
Fold down either or both sections of the rear seat and you have a covered platform 83 inches long with the tail gate closed — 99.6 inches, with it open.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

Some important dates to remember: December 4: Joint Post and Auxiliary regular business meeting at the Post hall at 2 p.m. President Loretta Young would like the attendance of all her officers at this meeting.

December 11: Fourth District rally to be held at a River Rouge Post hall. Any chairmen or officers desiring to attend this regular District rally, please call President Loretta Young. We would like to have our auxiliary represented at this rally!

December 18: Second annual Children's Christmas party at the Post hall — visit from Santa Claus, Christmas tree and all the extra festivities!

December 20: Auxiliary Christmas meeting and initiation of new members. Girls are requested to bring a $1 gift to be exchanged after the regular business meeting. Special refreshments are planned. Hope to see every girl there!

December 31: Deadline for 1955 dues! You still have an opportunity to pay your "1956" yearly dues to remain a member in good standing! There are many reasons why we should be proud to be a member of our Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. We are proud of our humanitarian work, which is second to none; we are proud that we can forget pettiness and each may regard the other as a sister, and we are dedicated to the preservation of our American way of life. If each member would sign up just one new member, then our number would be doubled, for it is through our membership we are able to accomplish our objectives.

Please contact Membership Chairman Helen Bowring or Treasurer Marion Dickie for further information on membership requirements and dues deadline! Youth Activities Chairman Jean Olson has requests from the Girl Scout troop for old jewelry, earrings, bracelets, etc. They need these items for Christmas gifts they are making. Auxiliary girls are asked to bring them to the joint meeting on December 4 or make sure that Jean Olson gets them.

Hospital Chairman Beverly Brown wishes to remind the girls again of the Christmas hospital trip on Sunday, December 18, which is the trip when we present the veterans with their Christmas gifts. We are asking Post and Auxiliary members to contact Beverly if they are able to make this trip! Let's not forget to display our flags on Pearl Harbor Day on December 7! Chaplain Virginia Bartel will place a wreath in Kellogg Park.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The
MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Michigan's deer kill during the first six days of the 1955 season appears to be up about 12 per cent from last year, at least in the northern lower peninsula.

Hunting activity, meanwhile, appears to be about the same as last year.

Conservation Department workers counted deer on cars moving down north-south highways in the northern lower peninsula and at the Straits of Mackinac. The statistical studies showed a seven per cent increase on US-27, US-23, US-10 and M-30. A 28 per cent increase from last year showed up on US-131, US-51, M-66, M-37 and M-82. Statistically, these totals leveled off to a 12 per cent increase.

A computed total of 17,684 deer were counted during the period compared to 15,772 last year. For each year, the opening period included a full weekend.

At the Straits, 5311 deer came south on ferries compared to 6394 through the first Sunday of last year. The upper peninsula picture this year was confused by a severe blizzard the second day of the season. Twenty inches of snow fell in the west end, a number of hunters were lost and are presumed dead and a large number of hunting camps broke up and pulled out to avoid being completely snowbound. State workers are not yet sure how much the storm has affected the over-all hunting picture.

As yet the Department has no figures on hunter numbers in the woods, but early season predictions of "little change from last year" appear to be holding up.

"I doubt that there are significantly more or fewer hunters in the woods this year compared to last season," Ilo H. Bartlett, Department deer authority, said after an extensive trip through the northern lower peninsula. Before the season, Department officials said they expected 425,000 hunters this year compared to 430,000 last year.

Muskrat trapping in the southern lower peninsula is expected to be somewhat improved over last year, but no great change in pelt prices is anticipated.

The season opens December 1 in the south and closes January 15, except in the Erie marshes where trapping extends until the end of January.

Game workers will make no rigid predictions for the season because weather ups and downs, water levels and other factors represent big question marks in trapping operations.

Dry fall weather has left many inland water holes relatively dry. Low water levels drive muskrats from small, drying marshes to the large, permanent swamps.

About 75 per cent of the state's muskrat harvest is taken in the southern lower peninsula. Trappers took about 194,000 in the region last season, compared with 327,000 in 1953.

A Michigan hunter must have set some sort of record for determination in bagging his deer last week.

The unidentified hunter had a strange tale to relate when he showed up with a buck at the Conservation Department biological checking station at Brohman.

It seems the hunter was in the woods with only two shells when he spotted a whitetail. His first shot dropped the deer, but the animal got up and staggered away. The hunter fired again and this time, the deer turned and charged. Out of ammunition, the terrified hunter swung his rifle and splintered the stock over the deer's skull. The groggy buck dropped to the ground again.

Before the deer fully regained his senses, the resourceful hunter tied him to a tree and scrambled to safety until the buck died of gunshot wounds.

Michigan established its third-best record in forest fire prevention and suppression during 1955, despite extremely hazardous conditions caused by hot, dry weather during the summer and fall months.

Early snowfalls throughout the state have reduced the likelihood of more fires during the remainder of the year.

Some 1,151 fires damaged 7,204 acres of state and private grasslands and forests during the year. The damage total is the third-lowest in state history, bettered only by 1954's record mark of 3,884 acres and 1951 figure of 4,491 acres.

Fire losses during the past several years have averaged around 7,500 acres per year, a far cry from early years of the century when fires often devastated hundreds of thousands of acres annually.

Credit for Michigan's progress in fire prevention and suppression belongs to "a more fire-conscious public" and improved techniques of fire fighting, according to M. M. Bergman, in charge of the Conservation Department's fire suppression work.

Modern fire fighting methods make use of a variety of implements, including airplanes, fire towers and mechanized equipment. Much of this equipment is perfected and produced at the Department's forest fire experiment station, the only installation of its type in the nation.

"An informed public is a major factor in fire prevention," Bergman said. "Our record is a reflection of that public cooperation."

In addition to the importance of safety, fire suppression also is important in timber profits and wildlife habitat.

Sales of timber from public and private forests are increasing annually, bringing a profit to the entire state.

Forests also provide food and a home for wildlife, maintaining a plentiful supply for the state's hunters.

Electronic Brain Working for CD

The Federal Civil Defense Administration has revealed that tests made during Operation Alert — the recent nationwide civil defense exercise — proved "electronic brain" computers may be a quick way to summarize America's losses after nuclear attack.

The exercise tests, along with previous computer trial runs, are now evaluated by FCDA's Planning Staff as "the probable source of the first systematic and meaningful assessment of losses of life and resource in the nation, immediately after attack."

For Operation Alert, a computer rapidly performed a staggering job — figured the number of fatally injured, surviving injured, dwelling units damaged, and different kinds of medical personnel lost and hospital damage, for the more than 50 "target cities" in the country. By ordinary methods the same job would take several days.

"Electronics may be the answer to the need for immediate assessment of the nation's industrial resources after attack — what is gone and what is left," pointed out Dean Pohlentz, FCDA's deputy assistant administrator for planning. "Hand figuring can be dangerously slow. The sooner we know how hard we've been hit, the faster we can begin to recover."

A high-speed damage assessment system using computers is being designed and developed for FCDA by Stanford Research Institute. Work began in the summer of 1954, and is continuing under a recently extended contract.

There is too much blah-blah and hush-hush in this world.
