

Holidays Aren't Days of Rest for Everyone

WHILE MOST OF US sit home or go visiting on holidays, there are always a few who must perform public services by being on the job. Last Monday, for instance, while we enjoyed football on television, Clifford Regan of Northville was on duty as watchman at the C & O railroad crossing at Starkweather avenue.

Crime and accidents never take a holiday, so it was no surprise to see Plymouth police on the job as usual Monday. Patrolman Kenneth Voss, left, and Henry Berghoff are shown looking over reports as William Guldner mans the switchboard.

FIRES TAKE NO HOLIDAY either so Paul Albrit of the Plymouth township fire department joins fellow fire fighters in every community who must remain on duty during a holiday. We could also mention those who run the various modes of transportation.

on radio and TV, operate theatres, and the women who serve as telephone operators. From left, are Mrs. Lillian Kinghorn, Mrs. Lida Hartman and Mrs. Grace Hanson, service assistant.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was performed at 3:30 p.m. by Reverend Forsythe of Bushnell Congregational church in Detroit. Baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and roses adorned the altar. Mrs. M. Lawrence sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon tulle gown with embroidered bodice featuring a scalloped neckline. The full skirt fell in graceful tiers to ballerina length. A pearl and rhinestone tiara held the finger-tip veil in place. She carried a bouquet of white lilies-of-the-valley center d with white camellias and cascading gardenias.

The maid of honor, Joan Garon of Bloomfield Hills, wore a medium blue, tulle gown with headpiece to match. She carried pink rosebuds.

Ray Adham of Detroit was best man while Charles Suchne and Daniel Garon, both of Bloomfield Hills, served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a rose red taffeta gown with white accessories while Mrs. Dicks selected steel-blue taffeta with white accessories. Both wore pink camellia corsages.

Auxiliary Seeks Increased Aid For Older Vets

Liberalization of veterans' pension provisions to give increased aid to aged war veterans, widows and orphans will be urged by the American Legion Auxiliary during the coming session of Congress, Mrs. Mildred Hewer, Rehabilitation Chairman of Passage-Gayde Auxiliary unit, has announced.

"The Auxiliary will support the American Legion in a request for three changes in the present provisions," she said. "We will ask that when a veteran reaches the age of 65 he shall by that very fact be deemed to be unable to follow a substantially gainful occupation and shall be held to be totally and permanently disabled, and therefore be eligible for a pension provided his income does not exceed the income limitation fixed by law.

"We will ask, too, that these income limitations be raised from the present $1,400 for single persons and $2,700 for married veterans and veterans or widows with minor children, to $1,800 and $3,000. And we will ask for at least a 10 per cent increase in all monthly disability and death compensation and pensions payable under existing veterans' laws.

"We of the Auxiliary believe that those who in their youth and strength defended the nation are entitled to the nation's protection, should they become feeble, ill and in need. We are especially concerned over the situation of the older veterans who, because of age or physical condition, are unable to obtain employment and who are without resources to support themselves. The three million surviving veterans of World War I now average well above 60 years of age, and an increasing number of them are becoming dependent upon their families or some agency for support. We think that those who are in need deserve the help of the nation served and sacrificed to defend.

"We are not asking for a general pension for aged veterans and are requesting nothing for the veteran who has means adequate for his support, no matter how old he is, or whether or not he has employment."

Couple Plans Relocation Of Grocery Business

Making plans to relocate their store late this month are Mr. and Mrs. Loren Goodale, who own and operate Goodale's Delicatessen at 744 Starkweather. According to the couple, they will move to the site of the ex-Gamble store, 620 Starkweather, which they have leased.

A grand opening of the new store will be held about February 1, explained Mrs. Goodale. The two will continue to specialize in meats, baking and a catering service.

Mr. Goodale has been in the grocery business in Plymouth for 32 years, since 1923, in one capacity or another. He began as clerk in William Pettingill's grocery store on Penniman avenue in that year. In 1941 Goodale bought the store outright. The couple started their present grocery store with its accompanying catering and baking, in 1953.

The engagement of Dorothy Keen to William Petraszewsky was announced at a Christmas dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jendrycka of Livonia. Advantages of City plan set forth by Village manager A. J. Koenig. 1. Only one assessment would be required annually for all taxing purposes. 2. Poor relief should cost the city no more than it now does the village. There would be a board of Mayor, manager and three citizens, all serving without extra pay. 3. The public school nurse activities is supported by the township to the extent of $1,200.00 per year of which $900.00 was paid by the village. There would be no change as the city would still carry on its fair share of the expense. 4. One other service at present carried by the township would be taken over by the city, that of conducting fall and primary and general elections.

It looks high priced

...but it's the '56 Chevrolet!

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

Who wouldn't mistake this handsome new Chevrolet for a high-priced car!

It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motoramic styling... its longer, lower hood... its proud new full-width grille.

Even the details would do credit to an expensive car... like the sleek, high-fashion taillights (the left one conceals the gas cap!).

But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money.

You'll see what we mean when you take one out on the highway. You'll feel the added security of Chevrolet's nailed-down stability. You'll thrill at the way it wheels around tight turns—as footsure as a cat on a carpet!

When you need a quick sprint for safer passing — you've got it! V8 horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205. All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Besides, you get safety door latches in all models. You can also have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you to have fun with! So come on in and highway-test it.

Employment Hits New Peak in State During November

More men and women were at work last November in Michigan's factories and business concerns than at any previous time in the state's history, the Michigan Employment Security Commission revealed today.

Non-agricultural employment rose to 2,616,000, topping by 8,000 jobs the previous peak set in June, 1953. Max M. Horton, Michigan Employment Security Commission director, said.

He added that the employment gain of 154,000 between November, 1954, and November, 1955, was slightly more than the entire labor force in the Flint area, the state's second largest labor market.

Manufacturing made the greatest contribution to this new Michigan employment plateau. Horton said, adding 100,000 wage and salary workers to their payrolls.

The automotive industry proved itself once more the backbone of Michigan's economy, leading the employment advance with a gain of 55,000.

Producers of metal and metal products added 31,000 men and women to their payrolls and machinery manufacturers boosted employment by 19,000 jobs. Textiles and apparel manufacturers added 3,000 workers during the 12-month period and the state's vital chemical industry increased employment by 2,000 jobs, Horton said.

The only manufacturing employment losses for the year were registered by the makers of miscellaneous durable products, down 6,000, and the paper industry, down 1,000.

Non-manufacturing industries added 53,000 workers in 1955, led by retail trade which accounted for 23,000 more jobs between November, 1954, and November, 1955, the Michigan Employment Security Commission Director said.

The service industries — hotels, restaurants, laundries, business services, recreation and entertainment, added 19,000 jobs during the year, public transportation and public utilities added 7,000 and construction increased 8,000. The employment peak for construction was reached in September and October with 116,060.

AERIAL VIEW of the Evans Products company points out the locations of the proposed engine house, paint building, ramp and car level loading dock. New railroad trackage is shown in broken lines. There will be two and a quarter miles of track on the property when the project is completed.

Evans Products to Enlarge Boxcar Handling Facilities

Construction of an engine house, paint building, loading dock and 60 per cent more railroad trackage is taking place at Evans Products company.

The new facilities are being added to meet the demands of railroads for whom the company equips freight cars with Evans DF Loaders, Auto Loaders and special purpose loading equipment.

A General Electric switch engine is being purchased to handle the increasing number of boxcars being handled by the company. The engine house, to be constructed of brick, will house the 25-ton diesel-electric locomotive.

Cars coming onto the property from the C & O railroad north of the plant will be moved south and then back north again through the new paint building. Cranes, materials, deckboards and other equipment will be placed in the cars on the way out as they pass the new loading dock.

American Legion News

On Tuesday, December 20, 1955, the American Legion, Post 174, held its annual Christmas party at the Michigan State University. The party was held in the gymnasium and was attended by 30 veterans of World War I and 200 veterans of World War II.

The regular business meeting of the post was held last night at the Veterans Community center. Starting this month, the post will hold two meetings each month, the first and third Wednesdays.

The Auxiliary will hold their next regular business meeting on Thursday, January 12 at 8 o'clock. Come on, girls, let's have a good time on our first business meeting of the new year. We have a good program and prizes for all. Let's get out there this evening.

The new year's first 17th day meeting will be on Friday, January 13, at 8:00 p.m. at the Redford-Detroit Post home.

Remember, girls, we are having a March of Dimes Card Party on Thursday evening, January 19, at 8 o'clock in the Community Center. This is open to the public. All proceeds will go to the P.M.D. drive.

Glad to have Doris Kei home again. Miss Barney Kei is home too, now and on the road. A speedy recovery to both of you.

EVEN THE WEATHER was against young Jerry Fischer, victim of an unwise bet on the Michigan State-UCLA Rose Bowl game. Jerry, shown above with shovel, wagered smiling Jim Warren that the Uclans would trounce the Spartans in the New Year's Day classic. The loser had to shovel the other's walk. Not only did the Michigan State gridders win in the closing seconds, but Mother Nature also struck a blow bringing the winter's heaviest snowfall to Plymouth. Warren lives at 520 Pacific (on a big corner lot—with clean walks), while Jerry lives at 396 Arthur.

ONE HUNDRED and eighty-three students from Wayne county are among the 2,986 enrolled at Central Michigan college at Mt. Pleasant this semester. Only Plymouthite is Loanne Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Jensen of 1462 Penniman. Loanne is a freshman.

NEWLY ELECTED president of the National Heating & Air conditioning, Wholesalers, is Gail C. Mason, who heads the Warm Air Heating Supply company of Dearborn and Ann Arbor road in Plymouth. Mason was elected at the national convention recently completed in New York City.

AT THE DETROIT Institute of Arts on January 7 some 135 prints by 59 contemporary Italian artists will go on exhibition, continuing through February 26. The exhibit is on an exchange basis and was organized by the Boston Public Library. It marks the first time a complete exhibition of Italian prints has crossed the Atlantic for presentation to the American public.

Mrs. Lila Humphries, instructor of the Adult Education department's sewing class for the past 15 years, has received letters of "thanks" from former pupils who now live all around the world. Her latest letter comes from Mrs. Donald Mielbeck, formerly of Plymouth, who now lives in Buenos Aires where her husband is with Kaiser Motors. Mrs. Mielbeck took the sewing course last year and writes that her new skill has proven beneficial in that country. Similar reports have come from former pupils who live in Hong Kong, Manila, London, Munich, Paris, Naples and practically every state. Mrs. Humphries reports that nearly all of the former residents mentioned their fondness for Plymouth with its colonial atmosphere and such activities as the symphony.

A THOUGHT FOR THIS WEEK: A good intention clothes itself with power.—Emerson.

Social Security Question Column

Readers are invited to send their Social Security questions to the Plymouth Mail. The full name and address should be included, although only initials will be used for those answered in this column.

Letters are answered through the cooperation of the Mail and the Social Security district office at 14600 Grand River, Detroit 27, Michigan. All letters will be treated confidentially.

1. We are planning on having relatives coming to live with us. She is 74 and blind. He is 72, has a bad heart and out of work. They are from another county and their Social Security is $57 a month. Are they entitled to any old age assistance and to whom would they go? M.A.F.

Answer: Contact the Wayne County Bureau of Social Aid, 4707 Riverside, Detroit 7, Michigan or its representative who is at the Plymouth City Hall on the second Thursday of the month at 2:00 p.m. for information concerning old age assistance.

2. How does a minister pay his Social Security and how does he sign up for it? D.H.C.

Answer: The Social Security tax is paid at the time the minister files his income tax return. He may elect to have coverage under Social Security by filing out Form 2031, Waiver Certificate for use by ministers, and filing this form with the District Director of Internal Revenue. It should be filed on or before April 15, 1956.

3. I expect to go to Florida for a couple of months this winter. Can I get Social Security for the time I'm away even though I will make more than $1,200 in the year? B.D.E.

Answer: Regardless of your annual earnings, benefits are payable for any month in which you earn $80 or less in wages.

Develop Wartime Crib for Babies

A portable shelter designed to protect babies against some of the elements of modern warfare has been developed by the Army Chemical Corps, and is being modified for civilian use with financial aid from the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

The "Infant Protector," a plastic and metal crib resembling a small pup tent, has a new, chemically-treated filter paper "ventilator." This self-contained unit allows air to pass in and out for breathing, but filters out poison gas, bacteria and radioactive particles.

The crib differs from a World War II model which required continual operation of a bellows to keep the baby supplied with air.

FCDA has allocated $20,000 for development of a less expensive and lighter version of the "Protector" than the experimental model now in existence. The aim is to build a crib capable of being produced and marketed in mass quantities for less than $25.

FCDA officials emphasize that the "Protector" will not guard a baby from blast or the gamma ray radiation of fallout dust collecting on the outside skin of the plastic shelter. This still would have to be washed, dusted or blown off.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Groundwork was laid early this week for cooperative action among midwestern states in the use and conservation of Great Lakes water resources.

Michigan officials met in Chicago with representatives of Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin at an organizational meeting of the Great Lakes Basin Compact. Representatives of Canada attended as observers.

The Compact, ratified by Michigan's 1955 legislature, is designed to promote orderly, integrated and comprehensive use and conservation of the water resources of the Great Lakes basin. These waters include all of the Great Lakes and their tributaries.

State Attorney General Thomas M. Kavanagh was elected chairman of the Compact commission and Gerald E. Eddy, director of the Conservation Department, was chosen as a member of the executive committee at the organizational meeting.

Michigan is taking more steps to reestablish pine martens in northern forests.

Arrangements have been made with Ontario to obtain more of the little tree-lying fisher for release in the upper peninsula.

Conservation game workers released eight of the animals earlier this year in Porcupine Mountains state park in an attempt to bring the species back to Michigan. Martens once were common in the state, but disappeared when heavily-wooded areas were reduced by timber operations.

Game workers believe the martens—close relatives of the Russian sables—can thrive in the remote northern forests.

The eight martens already released also were obtained from Canada.

Delrad, an organic chemical compound derived from rosin, has been found effective in the control of green algae in ponds.

Conservation Department fish specialists sprayed 10 ponds experimentally during 1954-55 and found Delrad "highly effective" against algae in hard water when used at a concentration of .66 parts per million.

Below 1.0 parts per million, the chemical did not appear to harm fish or fish food organisms.

Delrad is more convenient to use against algae than the more common copper sulfate, but its high cost prohibits use in large-scale treatments.

It looks as though Alpena Power Company is losing a battle with nature and company officials are considering a strategic retreat.

Several months ago, a goose from the Alpena Wildlife Sanctuary flew into high voltage wires connecting the company's generating units and disrupted electrical service in Alpena.

Last weekend, a swan from the Sanctuary caused another power failure by flying into the same 34,500 volt wires.

Power company officials, faced with an ever-present blacked-out threat, are considering reconstruction of the electrical lines to move them out of the path of waterfowl taking off from sanctuary waters.

Michigan small game hunting license sales to both residents and nonresidents during the first 11 months of 1955 showed sharp increases over the same period in 1954.

Some 505,000 resident licenses were reported through November 30—a five per cent increase over the 481,000 reported in the same period in 1954. Remittances for nonresident licenses jumped 18 per cent from 4150 to 4922 for the 11-month period.

Deer of the same age class showed little significant change in weight and antler size this year from last year.

In the upper peninsula deer weighed at locker plants averaged 197.3 pounds this year; last year the average was 192.9 pounds. Antlers averaged 2.6 points last year and 2.9 this year.

Where better winter range foods are available in the northern lower peninsula, deer averaged 104.6 pounds, slightly better than the 101.2 pound average of last year. Antlers averaged 3.4 points this year and 3.6 last year.

However, in Rosemanor, Oscoda and Crawford counties—the area where winter foods are in short supply—the average deer weight dropped from 99.6 pounds last year to 99 pounds average this year. Antler racks remained nearly the same; 2.8 points average last year and 2.9 this year.

In Lake county, another food problem area, Conservation Department biologists did not have enough locker plant information to make a weight comparison. Antlers measured at roadside checking stations, however, showed some increase, from 3.3 points average last year to 3.7 this year.

A possible explanation of the rather numerous field reports of bigger and better bucks this year is that there were noticed a more older bucks in the kill this year in some areas.

Mac Frimodig, manager of Fort Wilkins state park in Michigan's Keweenaw peninsula, reports that there are only 120 days left to the opening of rainbow season.

Frimodig, who doesn't care any more about trout fishing than he does his right arm, marvels that winter has come and gone so fast. Gone? Well, not quite; Fort Wilkins, along with Gogebic, McLean, Porcupine Mountains and Baraga state parks, is currently blanketed under more than three feet of snow.

Michigan's public received almost $600,000 from sales of timber on state lands during the 1954-55 fiscal year—another increase from previous years. Forest fire losses during 1955 were the third lowest in history, with damage of only 7204 acres. The record was even more significant in view of the hot, dry summer. Public cooperation and modern fire-fighting techniques were cited for their contributions.

Enforcement of conservation laws received a boost with plans for a 40-man increase in conservation officer ranks. Recruits to be trained during 1956 will bring the total force to 200 men.

In education, Conservation Department film loans to schools, sportsmen's groups and others almost doubled 1954 loans. More than 2400 Michigan teachers received conservation instruction at the Department's Higgins Lake training school—a 15 per cent increase from last year's enrollment. The theme for the Department magazine was "land use" and articles on the subject will be collected in book form for use in schools of the state.

State land purchases and sales consolidated public holdings while keeping the total of state-administered lands nearly constant at about 4,200,000 acres.

Conservation Department geologists opened cooperative work with the U. S. Geological Survey in a long-range study of ground water reserves in the upper peninsula, a valuable survey for the economic and residential development of the north country.

Other geology projects included a study of off-shore oil and gas drillings in Lake St. Clair and a study which led to conversion of many wells in the Northville oil field to natural gas production.

Conservation Department Summarizes Year Work

Recreation, always a key factor in conservation policies, took on even more importance during 1955 as the people of Michigan worked toward greater signing of the state's natural resources.

Expanding populations increased demands on public parks, fishing sites, hunting areas and other recreational facilities.

The number of visitors and campers at state parks and recreation areas skyrocketed to an all-time record of more than 17,000,000. Michigan was again expected to be tops in the nation in combined sales of hunting and fishing licenses. Countless tourists, hikers, bathers, boaters and others swelled the total seeking outdoor activity during the year.

Some park progress was made with a legislative appropriation of $900,000 for capital outlay in the 1955-56 fiscal year. About $350,000 of this amount was earmarked for development of Sterling state park near Monroe.

Some $50,000 was slated for land acquisition and the remaining $450,000 for park improvements. Fishing conditions and opportunities also were improved during 1955 as legions of Michigan anglers tested their skill in the state's rivers, streams and lakes. Water frontage acquisitions during the year boosted the total number of fishing sites to 642. Lake and stream improvement projects were increased throughout the state.

Fish research programs were stepped-up, including the conversion of the state hatchery at Hastings to warm-water fish research. Some 1,300,000 trout were planted in streams and the first experimental plantings of muskies were made.

In game work, wildlife areas were increased by completion of the Martiny Lake flooding project—creating 1420 acres of marshland for waterfowl and fur-bearing—and establishment of the Shiawassee Flats wildlife area, a 31-square mile forest marsh and river-bottom project.

Favorite Recipes From Plymouth's Kitchens

Mrs. Roy Leemon gets underway with preparations for a family favorite, "Cracker Pudding," at her home on 10490 West Ann Arbor road.

Here's Quickie Dessert That's Tried 'n True!

Here's a tried-and-true recipe that's been handed down over the generations. It's cracker pudding, roughly dated 1900, which Mrs. Roy Leemon of 10490 West Ann Arbor road says is truly delicious and easy to make.

She recalls it was a favorite in her family and a regular standby on busy days. In fact, the youngsters could always "pull the kind of a day their mother had" by whether or not they found cracker pudding on the table that night.

Now one of her own favorites, Mrs. Leemon finds it comes in handy when she's looking for a quick dessert since it can be cooking in the oven while she's preparing the rest of the dinner. The sauce, she adds, is the "making" of the dish.

Here's the way it goes:

Cracker Pudding
Pudding:
15 square soda crackers (crumbed to oatmeal texture)
1 pint of milk
2 eggs
Beat eggs and milk. Stir in crumbs. Bake in medium oven about 30 minutes or when done to silver knife custard test.
Sauce (uncooked):
1 egg
1/2 cup of sugar
1/2 cup of butter
vanilla to taste
Combine above-set in over or over low heat. Stir frequently to melt butter and dissolve sugar until clear like honey.
Pudding should be served hot.

In spite of the millions of dollars spent by the U.S. in exploring the Antarctic continent, no move has ever been made to claim any portion of Antarctica.

There's No Trick to Brewing Delicious Coffee for Crowd

So you've been asked to be the "coffee captain" at the next women's club meeting, hm? Well, of all the assignments you could have drawn, this is probably the nicest. Coffee takes most amiably to being prepared in quantity, provided that you follow a few simple rules. Once you know them, you can certainly turn out as good a brew as ever came out of your coffee-pot at home.

To help make things go smoothly for you, and for all who have occasion to make coffee in quantity, we're going to give instructions for making coffee for 40 people, counting one average serving apiece. Some simple arithmetic will enable you to adapt the recipe to a larger or smaller gathering, or to allow for as many second helpings as you think will be needed.

If you are going to have a coffee urn available for your brewing activities, your job will be simple. All you'll have to do is follow the suggested coffee-to-water proportions and then proceed to the brewing according to the instructions given by the manufacturer of the urn. If there is no urn available, however, the coffee will have to be steeped in a kettle. You can rest assured that excellent coffee can be made in this manner.

First, measure two gallons of freshly drawn water from the cold-water faucet into the kettle and let it heat to boiling point. In the meantime, measure one pound of regular-grind coffee into a large cloth sugar sack, or a sack you have made from clean sheeting or double-thick cheesecloth. (It must be large enough so that it is not more than half full when the ground coffee is placed in it, to allow for expansion of the coffee when it comes into contact with the water.) Tie the top of the sack tightly with a clean, strong white cord, leaving ends long enough to faster to the handle of the kettle, to help you to remove the sack after the coffee is brewed.

As soon as the water comes to a full, rolling boil, remove the kettle from direct heat and drop the coffee sack into it immediately. With a clean stick or a long-handled wooden spoon, push the sack up and down so that water is forced through the ground coffee. Then cover the kettle and allow the coffee to brew over low heat for 2 to 15 minutes. Do not let the coffee boil. Frequently remove the cover and move the sack vigorously up and down during the brewing time. Then remove the sack, permitting it first to drain thoroughly. Transfer the coffee to the best-looking large serving jug you can find — and there you are!

Of course, it is best to serve the coffee just as soon as possible after it has been brewed. However, if it is necessary to postpone the serving, maintain a uniform temperature somewhat below the boiling point, whether the coffee is in the kettle or the server. Do not allow the brew to boil under any circumstances, as this destroys the flavor.

Frozen cranberry-orange relish makes an interesting salad. Chop 4 cups fresh cranberries and 2 oranges. Add 2 cups sugar and mix well. Freeze in ice trays; cut in squares and serve on salad greens.

New Topping For Apple Pie

How can so much goodness be packed in one pie? The answer is two-fold... canned apple slices make a top quality filling, and the gingersnap crumbs add zestful flavor. Try the crumb topping on other fruit pies, too. On those made of canned sliced peaches and apricot halves, you'll find it especially enticing. And, a new version of pumpkin pie is one with the ginger crumb topping added during the last 15 minutes of baking.

Ginger Crumb Apple Pie

1/2 cup granulated sugar	1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon	1/2 cup gingersnap crumbs
1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) sliced apples	3 tablespoons butter, or margarine

Pastry

Mix granulated sugar and cinnamon with apples and put in an unbaked 8-inch pastry lined pan. Combine brown sugar and crumbs; add butter, using a fork to blend until the mixture resembles cornmeal. Sprinkle over apples. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) about 30 minutes. Makes one 8-inch pie.

New Cotton Makes Debut

A new fashion fabric made its debut recently in a group of dresses displayed in designers' circles. The fabric is Supima, the newest American-grown extra long staple cotton.

Supima is a lustrous, silky cotton which American growers are counting on to challenge Egyptian varieties for the fine cotton supremacy of the world. It was recently developed after years of research by geneticists of the Department of Agriculture's Arizona Experiment Station in Tucson. The variety is a botanical descendant of the famous Sea Island cotton which once flourished along the Georgia coast before the boll weevil made it uneconomical to grow.

With the botanical name of Pima S-1, Supima cotton has been grown experimentally for the past two years in the American Southwest. This year some 40,000 bales of the fiber are being harvested in Arizona, New Mexico, and the El Paso area of Texas — virtually the entire acreage allotted by the Department of Agriculture to extra long staple varieties.

The sheer Supima cotton cocktail and evening dresses are now being shown in cruises-and-resort season fashions.

For cereal topping at the family breakfast table, offer a choice of cinnamon-sugar mixture, brown sugar, corn or maple sirup, jam or preserves. They are equally good on hot or cold cereals, declare food specialists.

Ripe banana will keep their good flavor several days if stored in the refrigerator. However, green or greenish bananas will not ripen at cool temperatures, but will turn black and not develop a full flavor.

Expert Gives Pointers On Child Guidance

One of the most important functions of a home is to turn out happy, well-adjusted children, who will in turn make a home of their own. Any parent who wants to prepare a son or daughter for success in the world and success as a husband or wife might well concentrate on these measures:

1. Set a good example for your children to follow. Let them see the happy behavior of their own father and mother.
2. Let the children take an active and important part in the work of their own home, from early childhood onward. A young child will take a great deal of pride in doing even the simplest chore. It will give him a feeling of importance and help him develop a sense of responsibility. Do not expect too much of your children for this will make them nervous.
3. Make sure you are giving your children a sound and accurate attitude toward sex from infancy onward.
4. As they grow into adolescence, make every effort to see that they have friends of both sexes and plenty of opportunity to meet with these friends informally, to work together as well as play together. Let them feel free to invite their friends into their home.
5. Have some form of entertainment that all members of the family can join in. Music is a perfect topic of mutual enjoyment. Always include the children in on vacations. A family vacation to the beach or mountains once a year will add to the enjoyment of all.
6. Be understanding. Be fair and always consistent. Children understand this type of treatment. When it is necessary to punish them, make sure they understand that the punishment is fair.

PIZZA PENNIES

(Makes 48)

8-ounce can tomato sauce
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano flakes
48 thin rounds of toast or round crackers.
3 tablespoons softened butter
2 cups cottage cheese
1/2 pound Mozzarella or Muenster cheese

Mix together tomato sauce, garlic and oregano. Toast bread or crackers lightly and spread with butter. Spread each with cottage cheese and top with 1 teaspoon tomato mixture. Dot each with a small cube of cheese. Broil 2 to 3 minutes until cheese melts and pizza is heated through.

Christmas cookies or sweet buns may be glazed before or after baking. Simply brush the cookies with a thin layer of one of the following:

Before baking: one egg white diluted with 1 tablespoon water; one egg yolk mixed with 1 tablespoon water; or milk or cream.

After baking: Mix and spread on cookies, 3/4 cup confectioners sugar and 1 tablespoon hot liquid; for a chocolate glaze, add 1 square of chocolate. When not using chocolate, you may want to tint it different colors by using vegetable coloring.

Because of the plentiful supply of fish, crustaceans and plankton in the waters surrounding Antarctica, these waters abound in whales and seals.

Every family who calls us in time of need is assured of receiving understanding attention and efficient service. We can make this claim because we have a trained and experienced staff; men and women who have the knowledge and experience in their chosen profession to serve well all those who specify Schrader service.

Looking Back Over Plymouth's 1955 Holiday Season

ABOUT 300 YOUNGSTERS, the children of Pease Paint customers, attended Owner Gerald Pease's fifth annual Christmas party held Thursday evening December 22 at the local store. The youngsters were greeted by Santa Claus, who passed out gifts to all the tots. Pictured above with Santa, Owner Pease and Salesman Howard Green are Janet Burley, 3, and her sister Nancy, 9, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Burley, 1051 Brush.

PLYMOUTH FIREMEN'S annual Christmas dinner Thursday evening December 22 at the Northside fire station consisted of ham with pineapple rings and rolls. Attending were 35 men including regular firemen, the civil defense firemen, city commissioners and the mayor. Checking the rolls in the oven are from left Donald Moore, Charlie Groth and Fire Chief Robert McAllister. In the background George Schoeneman is cutting the ham.

PLYMOUTH'S SOCIAL SET, both young and old, turned out in full force to enjoy the annual Symphony Ball held Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium from 9:30 to 1:00. Couples are pictured above dancing to the music provided by the Herbie Ross orchestra. Below, pausing for an intermission chat, are from left Mrs. Harry Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lorenz and Mr. Larsen.

CHRISTMAS CAME to the rear window of Dr. S. N. Thams' car during the holiday season. The unique display, shown above by Dr. Thams, was illuminated by a lighting system hooked-up to the cigarette lighter. The display undoubtedly attracted a great deal of attention as the Thams journeyed to Ft. Benning, Georgia to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Capt. & Mrs. R. W. Thams and family.

Plymouth's Accomplishments During 1955 Evaluated by City Manager

A year-end report listing some of the accomplishments of the city during 1955 has been written by City Manager Albert Glassford for presentation to the city commission. Although most people would list the Main street reconstruction as the biggest project of the year, there are many other things which have gone unnoticed.

- Here are some of the accomplishments as noted by the city manager:
1. The department heads, foremen and crew leaders completed 16 hours of instruction in leadership techniques. Herbert Woolweaver arranged through the adult education program to obtain four instructors to handle the course. They were Russell Isbister, Fred Linsell, Melvin Blunk and Thomas Kent. "An immediate result of the training was a better performance obtained through proper handling of employees' problems and a closer relationship between departments," Glassford said.
 2. One of the outstanding accomplishments of the Department of Public Works was the acquisition of a sanitary land fill site in Salem township and the acquisition of a second packer type truck and installation of a new refuse collection system. A survey shows that one-third of the refuse collection costs is being saved, meaning about $12,000 a year.
 3. The street cleaning program has been stepped up, the manager said. The city has obtained a Michigan State graduate to take over the Parks and Cemetery divisions. He has instituted a Dutch elm disease spraying program and improved playgrounds.
 4. An intensive in-service training program has been carried on. A safety education program has been instituted. Every member of the fire department has attended some kind of a fire school. By spreading supervision and by obtaining better coordination of operations by employees and supervisors, it was not necessary to replace six D.P.W. employees who quit during the year.
 5. In the police department, Attorney Dunbar Davis, without charge, conducted a course in the legal aspects of police work. One of the sergeants attended a command officer's training course at Michigan State university. The police department also developed the Junior Police Organization and interested almost 200 youngsters in participating in rifle shooting, archery, boxing and recreational activities. Radios have been installed on all motorcycles, in addition to the cars. The police department is cooperating with school authorities in regulating student driving at noon.
 6. The city manager and director of public works completed a course sponsored by the International City Managers Association in public works administration. The manager is acting as instructor for an inter-city conference on municipal finance administration.
 7. An able accountant is simplifying the bookkeeping procedures and has completed a course in machine operations at Burroughs. The city assessor has completed a course in accounting at Walsh Institute.
 8. There have been many gestures and contributions to improve the community from private citizens. The Plymouth Association of Insurance Agents donated over $500 for the purchase of equipment for the rescue car. The Merryweather Nursery donated tulip bulbs for cemetery mausoleum landscaping. Edward Hough has supplied funds to blacktop some cemetery drives.
 9. The city commission has also solved many pressing problems. The water supply of the city has been increased 130 per cent by completing a new well capable of pumping 4,000,000 gallons a day. The last parcels of land were purchased for expansion of the East Central Parking lot and work is progressing on this. Businessmen and concerns donated $2,900 towards the acquisition of the property. The commission has also provided a water main and water for the proposed Sheldon road school located south of Plymouth. And of course, Main street was widened and paved. The city manager also noted that 85 acres of land were annexed to the city on which Western Electric will build a plant consisting of 10 acres under cover. The commission also has moved forward to provide sewers for the south end of the city. The sewer plans are about complete and the remaining work will be of a financial nature and actual installation.

The United States government is officially represented in more than sixty international organizations.

BUILDING AND REMODELING NEWS FOR FARM & HOME

Extra Fixtures, Compartmentizing To Dominate Bathroom Plans in '56

Responding to a growing public demand, speculative builders from coast-to-coast, who put up close to 80 per cent of the nation's housing, will include the convenience of extra bathrooms in plans drawn for new homebuilding in 1956. American Builder predicts in the November issue.

In addition, the publication points out, more baths than ever before will be compartmentized, assuring privacy with simultaneous use of the fixtures.

This, of course, speeds the flow of traffic through the bath during rush periods, an important point with young and growing families.

No part of the home deserves more careful planning than the bathrooms, American Builder emphasizes, because of the effect on sales.

To help builders design the kind of bathrooms home buyers want, the publication devoted six pages of illustrations and text to practical ideas on bathroom planning, based on suggestions by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Listed among features bearing the stamp of irresistible buyer-appeal were the following: Fixtures in color; the half-bath, or powder room, in addition to the master bath; multiple fixtures (an additional lavatory in the main bathroom, so two can wash at the same time); a dental lavatory, reserved exclusively for brushing the teeth.

Also, space-saving corner lavatories, for bath and bedroom alike; countertop dressing-table lavatories for bedroom and bath; a glass-enclosed bathtub-shower combination; a shower stall in the first-floor powder room; more built-in storage space; and a separate bath for the children, with junior-sized fixtures, replaceable at some later date with regulation-sized fixtures.

Moderately Priced Houses Now Offer Deluxe Features

Even comparatively moderately priced homes can have custom-built features. This is demonstrated in new housing developments in the Western Wayne county area.

Many will be air-conditioned. Lower levels of the split-level houses will have a spacious living room, dining room and modern kitchen. On the upper level there will be three large bedrooms and a ceramic tile bath.

The accent, according to the local builders, will be on "comfort and gracious living." The price — in the neighborhood of $15,000. The exteriors are a very attractive combination of brick and asbestos-cement siding shingles. A typical home is finished with brick walls on the single level unit and on the lower portion of the two-level unit. The upper part of the two-level section has an attractive exterior finish of asbestos siding in smart new colors and designs.

Kitchens feature a built-in, eye-level oven and burner unit with a table-top range. Giving the kitchens a warm, natural look are cabinets of birch, trimmed with antique copper. The heating system is gas-fired forced air. To provide summer and winter air conditioning, units of two-ton capacity are supplied. Both air conditioning and heating are automatically controlled for fluctuating weather conditions. There is hardwood flooring throughout the home except in kitchen and bath.

Included near the various housing developments will be shopping facilities, churches and schools to fully compliment the theme of comfortable living.

Misted Window Warns Humidity is Too High

Don't blame the windows for collecting condensation in the winter. They are danger signals warning you the humidity in your home is too high, says Gordon W. Orbesen, heating and air conditioning specialist for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

"A humidity of 40 per cent is generally accepted as the optimum for comfort," Mr. Orbesen said. "In older houses it is often difficult to maintain this much moisture in the air, but in modern homes, tightly insulated to reduce drafts and conserve fuel, excessive humidity is the villain."

And it's a villain which can cause hundreds of dollars worth of damage to your home, the heating specialist said. The gallons of water which normal living... cooking, bathing, washing clothes and even breathing... contribute to the air have no way to escape to the drier air outside.

When the indoor air becomes saturated, the water vapor starts to collect on the window panes because glass is a vapor barrier, and in the case of single-glazed windows, the air next to the glass is considerably cooler and, therefore, has less moisture bearing capacity than the rest of the air in the room.

As the water vapor is forced toward the drier air outdoors, Mr. Orbesen said, it may pass right into the walls and condense under the exterior paint causing it to blister, or it may condense on the studs and siding, causing rot.

"If your home is equipped with storm windows or glazed with Thermopane double-paneled insulating glass and the windows collect condensation, the danger signal is flying with a vengeance, since double-glazed or windows equipped with storm sash collect condensation far less readily than single-pane windows," Mr. Orbesen said.

What can you do to keep the indoor humidity within reasonable limits?

1. Vent clothes driers to the outdoors.
 2. Open a window for a few minutes after a shower or bath.
 3. If windows start to fog, open the front door for a few minutes. The resulting heat loss will be small, and the excessive moisture will pass quickly to the outdoors.
 4. Open a kitchen window a half inch or so at the top when cooking or washing dishes. If you hang clothes in the basement to dry, leave one of the windows open a little.

If excessive humidity persists after these precautions:

1. Check the roof, flashing and gutters for leaks.
 2. Install a vent fan in the kitchen and bathroom.
 3. Insulate the crawl space under your home with a vapor barrier backed insulating material, the vapor barrier toward the ground.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Question: I am setting a lamp post in my lawn, using 3-inch aluminum tube as a post set in concrete. What cement do I use, how deep, and how big should the cement block be? What is the best type of cable to use?

Answer: Set the post 18 inches in the ground in a 12-inch square block, making this concrete of 1 part Portland cement, 2½ parts sand, 4 parts gravel. Use "Highway" cable or signal corps wire, both of which are protected with waterproof insulation. Run this through the post before setting it, then through a trench about 1 foot deep — to avoid digging it up while gardening work is in progress — to the house foundation, then up and through the house wall to a switch box.

Luxury Feature Can Make House Worth Having

A luxury feature or two makes a house worth having.

A fireplace, for instance, today it certainly qualifies as a luxury, because it's expensive to build and to operate. Yet, without a "hearthside" something of the magic in the word "home" seems missing to many families.

If you have set your heart on a fireplace for your new house, by all means have one. But the experts have a word of caution: plan it well!

A fireplace is an architectural feature, and should not be stuck into a room as an afterthought. If it is on an exterior wall, it should be planned to enhance both the exterior appearance of the home and of the room in which it is built.

If you want a very formal home, you might locate the fireplace in the center of a wall. But an off-center location is more exciting and gives you more opportunity in planning the decor of the room.

Material for the fireplace should be selected with care. One of the most satisfactory is quarry tile, for it has pleasant color and texture. Furthermore it meets the very practical qualification of being fireproof.

Decide whether you want the fireplace to give a vertical or a horizontal effect. When quarry tile is used for its facing, a vertical effect can be achieved by running it from floor to ceiling. For a horizontal feeling, architects keep the fireplace low and run the quarry tile facing the length of the entire wall.

Mantels at this point are out of fashion, and for the very good reason that they too often collect a hodgepodge of knick-knacks. If you want a mantel, by all means have one but first decide how to use it well, and then do so.

Hide Unsightly Crawl Spaces

Many houses have open crawl spaces under them, particularly under porches and stoops. Besides being inviting to rodents and providing a gathering place for debris, they can be dangerous to children and pets. A good material to use to close off these open areas is asbestos-cement board, an attractive, moderately priced material that is fire-safe and rodent-resistant. The board can be cut into panels and strips as needed. The lower portion of the board can be set into a trench dug in the ground and the upper portion nailed to the structure.

Table Topper

Now that the family picnic table has just about done its duty for another year, it's likely to spend a lonely winter exposed to the elements. Unless it is the folding kind, or can be taken apart, a picnic table is usually too big and cumbersome for indoor storage.

If it must stand outdoors, here is a tip that will help prolong its life: Just cover the top with a panel cut from a sheet of asbestos board. Asbestos board is not damaged by rain or snow. It has a smooth, attractive surface, too, and it is easy to clean.

"It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money—that is all. When you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot. It can't be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run. And if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better." — John Ruskin.

For the Home

In modernizing an attic, don't forget the advantages of a built-in desk, like the one shown in the illustration. Construction is simple, but the framing should be installed before covering the rafters with panels.

Actually, this is a desk plus two storage shelves. The door may be made the same height as the space between the shelves or it may extend above the top shelf in the latter case, you'll protect the contents of the shelf and have a larger writing surface.

DESIGN C-329. The floor plan for this house shows three bedrooms grouped in one end of the house, a bathroom, comfortable living room, and combination kitchen-dinette. There is an attached garage and a full basement, except under the garage. Folding doors connect the living and dining rooms, which can be combined into one large room. There is a liberal amount of closet space provided in the numerous bedroom and hall closets. The exterior finish of the house includes wide bevel and vertical siding, plywood gable end, asphalt shingles. The ground area is 1194 square feet and cubage is 23,522 cubic feet, not including the garage. For further information about DESIGN C-329, write the Building Editor, The Plymouth Mail.

Chips from the ROCK

Thanks to Ann McCall, director of public relations and publicity of the beautiful Beverly-Hilton hotel in Beverly Hills here in California. I am comfortably seated in the Hilton's press room writing these few notes about our trip to the coast.

This is the first time I have made this trip by train in over thirty years and there certainly have been changes made during that time. We boarded the Super-Chief in Chicago on Tuesday night at seven o'clock and arrived in Los Angeles Thursday morning at eight thirty a.m. The train surprised me with its speed, excellent service, food and accommodations . . . it is a far cry from the usual entanglement one gets into with antiquated ticket issuing methods, dilapidated stations and grouchy people in general that we all deal with on most railroads.

It is an excellent trip because you sleep through the uninteresting states of Iowa and Kansas and awake in the early morning in the Colorado foothills. The day is most interesting from the train windows of the vista-dome as you pass through Colorado and New Mexico arriving in Albuquerque at dusk. There were at least fifty Michigan couples on the train all making the trip with the same purpose in view . . . the Rose Bowl game on New Year's day.

Thanks to Ralph Lorenz, we are enjoying the luxury of the finest hotel in the world, the Beverly-Hilton . . . that's what their publicity says and from what we have seen it certainly must be true. A picture of this imposing structure appears at the bottom of this column.

As beautiful and luxurious as the hotel is, prices are no higher here than in comparable hotels throughout the country. For those who can afford it, however, it does offer such lush items as a French dining room, called L'escoffier, where minimum orders per person start at $10.00. How high they go we can't say because we only looked in the door. Howard Hughes has one of the eight penthouses on the roof which we are told rent for $5,000 per month.

The hotel occupies 8 1/2 acres of land and was built at a cost of $16,000,000. It opened last August and has 450 rooms. Each are individually air-conditioned, equipped with remote control radio and television sets and refrigerators. Every room is an outside room and the baths are all Italian marble with glass-enclosed showers and baths.

All of the furnishings, including many custom built pieces, have been manufactured expressly for the Hilton and cannot be duplicated for sale or for other hotels for at least two years. The hotel's kitchens cover an area of two acres. As breath-taking as it is we are still pretty proud of our old Mayflower back in Plymouth. Connie Hilton should see it.

It is interesting to note the many things which are done in Los Angeles and surrounding city hotels to accommodate the thousands here for the New Year's celebration. All hotel kitchens open at five a.m. on New Year's Monday to serve their guests an early breakfast before the parade. All also have special lunch boxes which they pack for their guests for a nominal sum to carry with them to the parade. Cars and trucks were parked by their owners two days ago on vantage points on the parade route so their owners would have seats for the big event.

Los Angeles and Hollywood are swarming with State students who aren't missing a thing while on the coast. Each wears a big MSU identification badge and local people seemingly go out of their way to make them happy. We learned this morning that practically all of the Michigan students were given seats on the fifty yard line which is slightly different from the way they are treated in their own schools back home.

Last Saturday afternoon we held a little eggnog party for the forty subscribers to The Plymouth Mail in California. Not all could come, but some of those that couldn't make it sent us notes and pictures which we will tell you about in future columns from sunny California. Of course, those that were on hand were photographed by our ever-faithful camera and you know we'll print those too.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question:

"There has always been a controversy on immigration. Opinions range from those who believe we should shut off all immigration to those who think bars should be lowered to all immigrants. What is your opinion?"

WILLIAM MEDLYN, 42681 Five Mile road; "There are many ramifications to immigration and I don't believe I am qualified to give an answer. I know that if they had a closed policy 100 years ago that many of us would not be here today. Certainly the McCarran Immigration Act needs looking into. It is too strict."

H. L. BLAKE, 11413 Auburndale, Livonia; "It is my personal opinion that for the welfare of the country and people, we should continue to be restrictive. Not that aliens are undesirable, but that too many would have a tendency to flood the labor market and cause an economic change."

Medlyn Blake Mrs. Harteg Mrs. Gates

MRS. PARTICIA HARTEG, 99001 Warren road; "There has to be some kind of restriction. This is a great country for opportunity and I don't think it's right to keep others out entirely. They should have a chance for the things that we take for granted. We should let some in but not all."

MRS. DAVID GATES, 13900 Ridgewood; "We need immigration laws to protect our country and its citizens. We should constantly try to improve our screening procedures in order to enable deserving immigrants to enter our country."

Quotes

JOHN FOSTER DULLES, Secretary of State: "The will of the world community may have operated to avert another war, the scope of which could not surely be limited."

LYNDON B. JOHNSON, Senate Democratic Leader: "Farm prices have been Benzonized to a point where about the only profitable crops consist of the mortgages held by the money lenders."

AUDIE MURPHY, screen actor, confessing he fears meeting new people: "I'm not so much afraid that I won't like them as I'm afraid that they won't like me."

ESTES KEFAUVER, U. S. Senator from Tennessee: "The Republicans have had three years to work on the farm problems of this nation and each year they have become worse."

EDWARD MARTIN, U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania: "The world has got to devote more energy to producing food, and less to production of the sinews of war."

SINCLAIR WEEKS, Secretary, Commerce Department: "For the first six months at least I am confident we'll move to a higher plane — for the balance of the year I'm optimistic."

HENRY G. RITER 3RD, president, National Association of Manufacturers: "If there is one fundamental American principle which must be maintained so people may prosper, it is the principle of equal application of laws to all citizens."

DR. PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, heart specialist: "Idleness breeds unhappiness and is bad for the health."

OWEN LATTIMORE, Johns Hopkins University professor: "We have the weakest foreign service of any great country dealing with the problems of Asia, and especially in China."

Michigan Taxpayers Can Hail '56 State Legislature

Taxpayers can take a breather in 1956 if only because they are not primary targets of state government. "We don't anticipate any major tax bills this session," said Senator Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo).

Under the old system, a percentage of the sales tax went to schools based on prior-year collections. A dip in collections would toss the payment system out of kilter.

Now the schools automatically get two of the three sales tax pennies on each dollar as soon after it is collected as possible. Payments are made quarterly.

2. The $35,000,000 business activities tax, which lawmakers claim will be impossible to pass on directly to consumers without damaging the market of individual firms.

1. The Conlin Plan which voters wrote into the state Constitution, placing the school aid formula in the sales tax on a current basis, eliminating the "time bomb" effect.

date on the tax was erased and it was engraved on the statute books for all time. "That was the important thing last year in taxation and hardly anybody noticed," Morris said.

There are other encouraging signs.

Morris and others say the business boom of the past three years — in the absence of war — has increased the "growth factor" of all taxes, increasing the take without increasing the rate.

If the need for more money arises in the near future, it will find lawmakers stymied, at least temporarily. Morris said he wouldn't know what to say next.

Motorists, however, may be asked to pay more for highways. They are trapped in the cross-fire between pro-turnpikes and pro-free roads supporters. The odds are the state will have better highways, but the process still is a major issue.

Both sides of the legislature figure that the fight will be the major battle of the 1956 legislative session.

George N. Higgins, chairman of the Michigan Turnpike Authority, and a former state Senator, is proposing authority for a toll road all the way to the Straits of Mackinac.

This comes in the face of reluctance on the part of New York financiers to invest bond money in anything they believe might not pay for itself. Traffic surveys have disclosed that a toll road in populous southern Michigan has a good chance of solvency.

As the road swings north, the prospects dim.

Complications multiply when experts like Glenn C. Richards of Detroit say that the $35,000,000 Mackinac Straits Bridge, to be completed in 1957, will need a super-highway to bring enough traffic to pay off the bond issue.

One observer quipped that the bond-financed turnpike could go broke carrying traffic to the bridge, which would go broke without it.

At the same time, Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler is insisting on free roads, opposing turnpikes "unless they are soundly financed."

Highways will be the major issues of the 1956 legislative session — and, most certainly, of the 1956 national and state election campaigns.

Farmers have a champion in the 1956 session as a marketing and promotion campaign gets attention.

Gov. Williams has assigned top agricultural experts to help devise a program which they estimate at the moment will cost $121,000.

The emphasis in the state agriculture department is concentrating on promotion and marketing. Two new commissions are particularly interested in this field. Edward C. Meade, former agricultural trouble shooter in Williams' office and Theo Fenon, both practicing farmers.

The idea of the agricultural commission is to create a new division in the department, increasing the number and effectiveness of farm crop inspectors before products reach the market.

They deny that this is another way to get Gov. Williams' proposed "Seal of Quality" idea into effect, but Meade admits that "it would be a logical corresponding move."

Details of the plan still have to be worked out, but all concerned promise it will be ready for the session.
